

Census Figures Show Washtenaw County Growing Rapidly

What makes Washtenaw county tick? How do all the various characteristics of its residents mesh each other? Many questions and some projections to mind when reviewing statistics regarding 1970 racial, social, and economic characteristics of the population from General Social Economic Characteristics, S PC (1)-C24, and Census of Ann Arbor, Michigan, series PHC (1)-11.

The median family income in county rose dramatically during the 10-year period—from $10,000 in 1959 to $12,294 in 1969. It is slightly higher than the national family income for the state of Michigan ($11,032), and compares favorably with other counties in the southeast Michigan region. When the income of individual persons is included, the median income for Washtenaw county drops to $6,521.

Poverty Still Exists

Despite this seeming prosperity which a $12,294 median family income implies, there still remains 5 percent of the families in the county with incomes below the Census Bureau defined poverty level. These families had an average income of $1,588, and of these, 12 percent were receiving public assistance.

The variety that can be found in the income statistics leads one to consider the social implications of unbalanced income levels. The standard of living in the area may be gauged to the majority with a high median family income, thus doing further damage to those with less median family incomes in the various cities in the county did not vary greatly from one to another. Differences were quite marked between smaller divisions, however. The range in median income between census tracts in the Ann Arbor-Ypsilanti area was $5,619 to $30,072.

Employment statistics for the county indicate the importance of education and the emigration of women into the labor force.

General male employment rates showed remarkable similarity in 1960 and 1970, with approximately 70 percent of men over 16 in the labor force both years.

Drop-Outs Hit Hardest

Statistics on the employment status of male youth, 16 to 21, seem to indicate a significance of education. Of the 42 percent not enrolled in school, the unemployment rate in 1970 was 24 percent with those without high school diplomas the worst affected—58 percent being unemployed.

The proportion of women entering the labor force increased significantly from 1960 to 1970—49 percent of the women over 16 were in the labor force in 1970 compared to 40 percent of those over 14 in 1960.

Of the women who were married and living with their husbands, 46 percent were employed. The participation rates drop somewhat when the women have young children. Of the 16,340 women who had children under 6 in 1970, 38 percent were in the labor force. This brings to mind a lot of questions concerning the attitudes of the women that enter the working world, what influenced their decision, what were they looking for—money, satisfaction, who takes charge of the children, and the relation of the salaries they receive in relation to the work that they perform.

Professions Dominate

The breakdown of occupations may account for some of the high family median income levels in the county. Professional and technical level occupations account for the largest segment of the resident Washtenaw county labor force. The past decade showed a trend of even greater concentration in this area, from just over 23 percent in 1960 to 27 percent in 1970. The proportion of service workers, clerical, and kindred workers also showed an increase.

The breakdown of occupations is as follows: professional and technical, 27.3; other 27.1; clerical, 17.3; service, 14.8; and operatives, 13.5.

During the decade, educational services edged manufacturing out of the position of top employer of the residents. In 1970 24 percent of the labor force were employed in educational services, while manufacturing employed 23 percent. This was a change from the 21 percent for educational services, while the manufacturing remained the same. Of the manufacturing labor force, 84 percent were employed in the manufacture of durable goods in 1970.

Employees in the retail business remained the same, 13 percent.

The relationship of Washtenaw county to the remainder of the Southeast Michigan region was strengthened over the past decade, as the number of people living in the county and commuting to employment in surrounding counties roughly doubled during this period. This segment represents 12 percent of the resident Washtenaw county labor force. The figure does not tell readers if the population works outside of the county by choice or necessity. What are the limits that can be put on people to compensate for the distance they travel? What do they perceive to be getting in the end?

Auto Transportation Tops

The automobile is still the major source of transportation in Washtenaw county. The last 10 years showed an increase in the proportion of people using a car as their primary means of transportation to work (from 71 percent to 78 percent). These figures include drivers as well as those who are passengers.

Walking was the second most popular mode of getting to work, but it dropped from 14.06 percent in 1960 to 13.23 percent in 1970. Use of bus transportation increased, going from 1.66 percent in 1960 to 1.83 percent in 1970. The acceptability of a mass transit system, which may be called for in the near future, can be a long, hard process if that method of transportation is not approved or considered desirable by residents. The increasing use of cars also means that county planners must anticipate increased traffic, and a

Redford Man Drowns in Nordman Lake

Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department divers recovered the body of William B. McEvoy at 2 p.m. Monday afternoon from the bottom of Nordman Lake, located in Camp Woodbury on Steinbach Rd., about one-quarter mile from Dexter-Chelsea Rd.

The 51-year-old Redford township man drowned Sunday evening when he apparently fell from a canoe in which he was floating on the lake. The accident occurred about 7:20 p.m. and darkness that evening and tangled weeds in the murky depths of the lake hampered quick recovery of the body.

McEvoy had bought the former VFW campsite more than a year ago and had been doing work on the property.

Council OK's Brettschneider Annexation

The Village Council adopted a resolution petitioning the boundaries commission of Washtenaw county to alter the boundaries of the village of Chelsea by annexing 68 acres west of the present village limits and south of Sibley Rd., Tuesday, July 18. The property is owned by Mr. and Mrs. George Brettschneider.

The resolution followed the Planning Commission's recommendation that the council begin the necessary steps to annex the property.

HCMA Parks Have Record Attendance

A warm weather week-end and a couple of picnic gatherings added up to a record Sunday and a record week-end for the three HCMA parks along the Huron River.

Sunday, July 16, found the attendance soaring to 13,123 at the three recreation sites, and the week-end total was 18,770. One of the largest contributors to the record attendance was the S. Joseph Mercy Hospital staff-family picnic which brought out hundreds to Dexter Park for games, races and refreshments on Sunday. Chief Park Ranger Don Stewart reported that overflow parking had to be provided during the afternoon.

Square dancers from the Dexter, Chelsea and Ann Arbor areas gathered in the evening at Hudson Mills for dancing and at Delphi Park some 4,000 persons sought refuge from the heat by picnicking along the river.

The record attendance at the three parks surpasses the Memorial Day or Fourth holiday peaks and is the highest attendance for this year.

Greek Marriages Arranged For Couples By Parents

Editor's Note: Our second letter from Charlene Powers is dated July 7, and comes from Malona, Greece. It reads as follows:

Dear Readers:

How would you like to have your mate chosen for you in a secret meeting by your parents? That's how you would marry according to local custom in the villages of Greece.

Since boys and girls are not allowed to date, their parents decide for them whom they should marry. The future bridegroom is approached by the parents about his future marriage and if he agrees to marry the girl, the bargaining begins.

The bridegroom may ask the bride's parents for anything he wants as a dowry. If the bride's parents cannot meet his requirements, then the marriage is off.

The usual gifts include a house built for them by the bride's father, and some money or land.

Because of this marriage expense, fathers with girls in their families go away to another country — like Australia or America — to work in a factory. After a few years of making money they return to their families in Greece.

A small engagement ceremony takes place at the bride's home with relatives. Here the couple exchange rings. The engagement can last from five days to two years. During this period, the couple can never be alone. Someone of the family must always chaperone them until their marriage.

The entire village attends the wedding, which always takes place on Sunday. The church ceremony lasts about one hour. Afterwards, there is a reception with food and beer and a band to lead the dancing.

In the summer months, the reception is held outside in the streets. There is a town hall for winter weddings.

Honeymoons are rare among the villages of Greece. After the wedding festivities, the couple returns to their new home.

On Monday, the day after the ceremonies, they have another "extra" event. It is called the "second day after the marriage." The village people put the new husband on a donkey, while the wife walks behind. They travel through the village, getting a lot of jeering and joking and best wishes for a long future.

Lima Planners Hear Requests for Rezoning

The Thunderbird Gun Club appeared before the Lima township Planning Commission to ask for permission to build a skeet range on 130 acres off Jerusalem Rd., between Freer and Fletcher Rds., owned by Mr. and Mrs. George Frisinger.

The commission requested that the representatives of the club arrange a noise test with neighboring residents, to see how they will be affected by the five ranges that the club plans to construct.

The club would only use six acres of the land, and lease the rest out to farmers. This would help the land retain its classification as prime farmland.

The commission also heard a request from Robert Schaeffer of the Chelsea Industrial Council and Mr. Gage of the Gas Co. regarding the building of a wire drawing plant in either of two possible locations. One site is located near an area already industrial in nature, Dexter-Chelsea Rd. area near Fortune Industries. The other site is close to Dexter-Chelsea Rd. and Freer Rd.

The main operations of the company will remain in Detroit, but relocate part of the plant operations, namely the wire drawing process. The main environmental problem that can be foreseen by construction of the plant is the noise caused by the process, and the plant hopes to offset that by buying 20 or 30 acres of land and using a one-acre building site, with the remaining land acting as a buffer zone.

The commission made no final decision on the case, but informed the company that it was favorable to the industry settling near the other industrial sites.

The W. C. Weber Construction Co. was advised to submit a petition for expansion of a variance that permits the company to maintain offices in an area zoned for highway business, namely the intersection of I-94 and Fletcher Rd. The present variance only applies to one building, and expansion plans call for additional buildings.

Community Chest Helps Red Cross With Flood Relief

The board of directors of the Chelsea Community Chest approved the Budget Committee's recommendation for a $500 increase to be sent to the American Red Cross, to be used for relief work among the flood victims of Pennsylvania, South Dakota, and Florida. The money was sent immediately after approval at the Wednesday, July 12 meeting.

Washington Report by Congressman MARVIN L. ESCH

It's a rare week that goes by without a report of a new hijacking. A crime that has become a major problem for the airlines. It has also become a significant threat to the life of every air traveler.

Fortunately, there have been only a small number of lives lost during hijacking attempts. One pilot died; several passengers have been caught in the crossfire. But so far we have avoided a truly disastrous crash. However, the potential remains for a major tragedy with the deaths of millions of passengers and airline personnel.

To this point the major responsibility for stopping hijackers has been left with the airlines. The airlines follow through on investigations, procedures, check luggage, survey passengers, etc. The Department of Transportation loudly proclaimed its Sky Marshall Program two years ago, but it has proved to be largely useless and its budget has now been cut by more than half.

I have strongly urged the Congress to undertake a new series of hearings on the hijacking problem. It is obvious that the protection of lives of hundreds of passengers each year must be a governmental responsibility and not be left solely to the airlines.

There are numerous possibilities for improved protection. For instance, it was recently noted that at National and Dulles Airports in Washington, D. C. (the only two airports owned and operated by the Federal Government) there are only a handful of policemen on duty at any time. Clearly, such a meager force cannot be active in the surveillance of all the flights and all the passengers coming in and out of those busy terminals. This force ought to be substantially increased. Second, runway security should be improved. In one recent incident, a would-be hijacker entered an empty plane and yet not once was he challenged as to his right to be on the field or in the plane. Third, in this technological era, it should be possible to develop devices which can detect explosives and adequate research money should be devoted to that effort.

In a country which generates 22 million flights a year and carries 170 million passengers, there is not likely to be a foolproof defense against bomb threats and sky-jackings. There is, however, considerable room for improvement and I strongly feel the Congress should examine this subject carefully.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

The fellers at the country store Saturday night predicted a powerful stir in this country on account of people that ain't gitting born. Zeke Grubb said the folks we got is causing enuff trouble, but them we ain't gitting will raise a bigger fuss. The fellers discussed the situation up one side and down the other after Clem Webster come in with a report on the disappearing birth rate.

Clem said the rate is way down, and signs point to the drop keeping up til we reach what statistical fingerheads call zero growth. This piece Clem had saw went into some of the problems of the economy on account of the low birth rate. He said one baby food company that use to say "babies are our business, our only business" has knocked off the last part and gone into other business to stay in business. Mills that makes dippers is laying off people, and everybody that supplies the baby market is cutting back or gitting out.

Furthermore, Clem said, business folks know that if babies don't git born they don't grow up to watch television, eat cereal and buy ever new style of clothes that comes out. One outfit that makes jeans says they are aiming now for the older buyer and trying to get folks to wear jeans all their life. The thing is, went on Clem, the whole country is geared to having a market of new babies regular, and now we're going to have to wind down the economy to take up the slack.

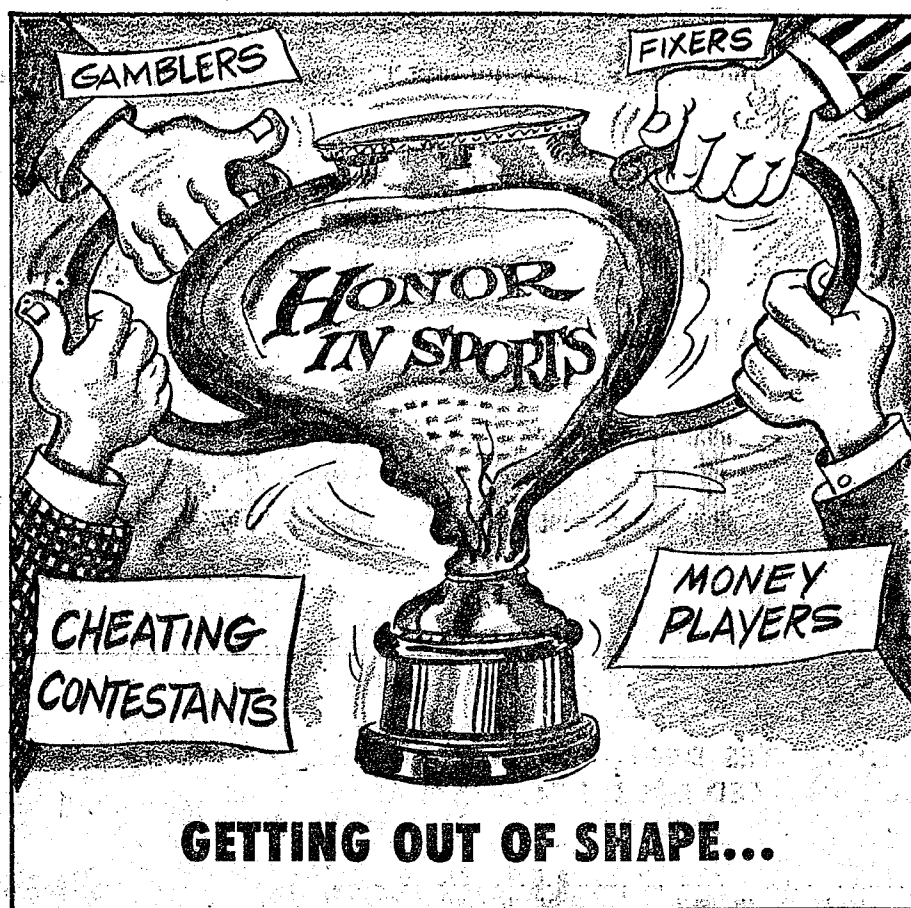

Actual, broke in Ed Doolittle, nobody knows what to make of the situation. Ed had saw where the Government was thinking of rewarding folks that don't have younguns, and putting more tax on them that has them. When Congress goes into the not-having-babies business, allowed Ed, it'll work about as good as the not-farming plan. With one hand, Uncle Sam tells us how to raise more on our land, and with the other hand he pays us fer not producing anything. Think of folks that make good money fer not farming that could up their income by signing up fer Government non-baby pay, was Ed's words.

Bug Hookum was of the mind we can do better without a bumper crop of babies than with em. Bug reported where some doctors are so busy they have served notice they ain't taking no new patients. That means, says Bug, if you ain't already born and got a established sick record with a doctor, you might as well forget it, cause if you git born and git sick you're out of luck. Cutting down on babies will give the doctors more time to keep us already here alive longer, Bug said, and the hole thing will even out if everybody wears jeans and starts watching the Saturday morning cartoons and living on cereal and peanut butter.

Personal, Mister Editor, none of the fellers have got to worry about the baby business unless they git in their second childhoods. We're happy ever day to report zero population drop.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

Legislature Produces

One of the marks of a modern, top quality state legislature is supposed to be the holding of long sessions every year.

Today, the theory goes, the states face such a mounting number of complex problems that it takes a full-time legislature to cope with them.

That is certainly true to some extent. The days when the legislature could come in once every two years, meet a few months, pass a few new laws and a tiny budget; then go home are long past.

But the lengthy all-year sessions may not be all they are cracked up to be.

The performance of the Michigan Legislature this year suggests more would be accomplished—and faster—if there were an election every year which forced the lawmakers to recess for periods of time.

Last year at this time the legislature had passed no budget bills, even though the new fiscal year had arrived. It hadn't even decided on the hike in the state income tax which everyone knew had to come eventually. This year, the budget is passed, a whole string of progressive legislation has been passed and the legislature is recessed.

The reason for the recess? They have a primary election Aug. 8. The reason it took so long last year? They weren't up against a deadline and had no overwhelming reason to reach agreement so they could leave.

In 1971, the legislature took a long recess in January and early February. This year there was no similar recess. Instead, the lawmakers went right to work.

It seems that the old principle of work expanding to fill the time available applies. When the legislature knows it has to get its work done by a certain date, it succeeds. When there is no real deadline hanging over the lawmakers, they stretch out the work.

For all of the time they spend in Lansing, it's an old rule that nearly all the work gets done in the last couple of weeks, whether those last weeks come in June or December.

A look at the record this year shows that lawmakers have been busy putting progressive legislation on the books.

The first move, of course, was establishment of a presidential primary back in January and February.

More recently, lawmakers completed work on the budget before the fiscal year started and succeeded in providing a very slim surplus for it. While doing that, they approved a whole package of environmental and economic expansion legislation; set up a state construction code; put a proposal for a Vietnam veterans bonus on the November ballot; extended and updated a law requiring compulsory arbitration for public employees such as firemen and policemen.

Lawmakers showed they can act fast when they want to, as well. Voters on May 16 approved the establishment of a lottery for the state. By the end of June, both houses had agreed on and sent to the Governor a bill setting up a state lottery for Michigan.

This was another case where necessity was the mother of invention—the $20 million the lottery is expected to raise by next June 30 is needed to balance this year's budget. So it was easy to reach agreement—they had to.

Autos Decline

Michigan is still known as the auto state, but some statistics which recently came to light show automobiles are not a Michigan monopoly.

The study for the Michigan House Economic Development Committee says Michigan produced 31 percent of all automobiles produced in the United States during 1971. That's the lowest in the 10-year period covered by the report beginning in 1962.

The high point year was 1965, when the state produced 35.5 percent of the autos produced in this country.

That's one of the reasons state economic officials are trying to attract other non-automotive connected industry into the state.

Better Labeling

Started on Hamburger

Jack Sprat and his wife will find shopping easier due to a change in hamburger labeling, a Michigan State University marketing specialist reports.

Some grocery stores are beginning to label and advertise their ground beef by fat content rather than by the poorly understood terms "hamburger" and "ground beef," says Sheila Morley. New labels read "hamburger, or more than 28 percent fat" or "hamburger, lean, no more than 24 percent fat" or "ground beef, or more than 20 percent fat" or "ground beef, lean, a maximum of 18 percent fat."

So that grocers can gauge consumer acceptance of the new labeling, the specialist suggests that you voice your opinion to your grocer.

CARD OF THANKS We wish to express our deep appreciation to the doctors, nurses, interns, aids and other personnel who treated and cared for Earl W. Schanz while he was a patient in the Community Hospi- tal here in Chelsea.

Mrs. Edna Schanz and family. Only police and soldiers are al- lowed to carry guns in Yemen. The weapons supposedly were banned in the Arabian country because movie patrons watching a West- ern became so aroused when the "good guy" was getting the worst of it, they jumped to their feet and shot up the screen.

Do you know any one who is completely free from worry, fear, self-doubt, self-torment, irritability, unexplained low spirits, nervousness, etc.? In the confusion, grief and terror of our times, these are common traits. It is a tragic fact of life that these traits in certain cases can cause mental disturbance.

Authorities claim at least one out of ten of us are in some degree mentally disturbed. They go further. They claim one out of ten of us will spend some time in a mental institution. Even if exaggerated, and only one out of twenty, thirty or fifty are doomed to such destiny, it is still far, far too many. Common sense should dictate that all of us must become aware of the urgent need to show more concern for the mentally retarded and mentally ill.

Human understanding of others, prayer for help to avoid individual moral disturbance, and financial help for mental illness programs are all badly needed. Without it, none of us can avert or minimize the tragic and always distressing consequences of mental illness. . . . BURGHARDT FUNERAL HOME, 214 East Middle St., Chelsea, Mich. Phone 475-4141.

Washtenaw County Growing

consider the limits of present roadways now in use.

The pattern of new residents moving into the county did not show any marked change during the decade. Approximately 80 percent of the residents both in 1960 and 1970 had moved within the previous five years. Of those in a different house in 1970, 37 percent had moved from a different residence within Washtenaw county, with the remainder moving from other areas of the U. S. and abroad.

What attracts newcomers to the county? Is the new influx balanced by an outward migration also? Do the same number leave the area as do enter it?

Fifty-six percent of the newcomers to the county are from other parts of the state of Michigan. Of those not from Michigan, 39 percent are from the north central geographic division of the U. S., 24 percent from the northeast, 24 percent from the south, 20 percent attending college in another state, and 13 percent from the west, and four percent in the armed forces.

Oriented to Education

Washtenaw county appears to be strongly oriented to education. Approximately 39 percent of the county's population was enrolled in school in 1970. The highest concentration was in the city of Ann Arbor, having 46 percent enrolled.

During the 1960 to 1970 period, the age distribution among the different levels of education changed, with the college level population increasing its numbers at a rapid rate. Whereas in 1960 the largest percentage of those enrolled were in elementary school (42 percent), in 1970 the total county figures indicate that the largest segment was the college enrollment (44 percent), while the elementary enrollment slipped to 35 percent of the total.

These statistics should be examined in light of the lowered birth rate in the area, and the fewer children being born per family. The future trends, and where schools of the future are to be built, must also consider these factors.

As would be expected with the location of the two universities and a community college in the county, college level enrollees are concentrated in Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti throughout the decade, while the area of the county outside these two municipalities had the majority of their students at the elementary level.

Education Level Increases

The general level of education in the county showed an increase during the last decade. The proportion of the population over 24 years of age having completed four years of high school rose from 23 percent in 1960 to 27 percent in 1970.

A more significant increase was shown in the proportion of those having completed four or more years of college. In 1960 this proportion was 20 percent, in 1970 it was 27 percent.

The educational standards of the county may be related to its high income level. Are the residents of the county completing more years of school, or are the incoming residents boosting the levels?

Of the 234,103 people in Washtenaw county in 1970, 35,758 (15 percent) were classified as "foreign stock," either foreign born or native born of foreign or mixed parentage.

Canadians and their children provided the largest portion of this group (21 percent), with Germans in second place (16 percent), those from the United Kingdom in third (11 percent), and Polish in fourth place (6 percent).

The highest concentration of persons of foreign origin is in the city of Ann Arbor, where a high proportion is actually foreign born (35 percent of Ann Arbor's foreign stock).

Foreign Percentage Declines

The last decade showed a slight decline in the proportion of foreign stock in the county population even though the absolute number has risen. The relative importance of the various countries with regard to the numbers they have contributed to Washtenaw county's population remained constant.

The black population in the county accounts for 8 percent of the total, an increase in relative share of one percent during the past decade. The cities of Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti account for 38 and 32 percent of this total, respectively, while the rest of the county contains the remaining 30 percent.

Spanish-speaking people in the county number 2,340 or one percent. Of this number, 54 percent are located in Ann Arbor, 9 percent in the city of Ypsilanti, and the rest in the remainder of the county.

The Washtenaw County Metropolitan Planning Commission has copies of these reports in addition to other printed information from the 1970 Census of Population and Housing. This information is also available from some of the larger libraries in the area. Readers desiring additional information from the census material should feel free to contact the County Planning Commission.

T. Haight Seeks Bid as Drain Commissioner

Thomas Leaman Haight, a resident of Ann Arbor since 1954, is seeking the Republican nomination for the office of Drain Commissioner, in the Aug. 8 primary.

Haight, whose field is science, says that if elected he will "continue his concern for the protection of our natural resources and environment."

He points out that "Public Acts of Michigan prohibit the Drain Drainage work. The Drain Commissioner acts on petitions of land owners or municipalities, to provide drainage necessary to the public health and well-being of the residents."

"I will retain professional engineers on a contractual basis, as is presently done, to lay out, establish, and construct drains. I will run the office as economically and efficiently as the drain office has been administered under the present Drain Commissioner and retain the present staff if they are willing to serve."

Haight, attended Washtenaw Community College and Eastern Michigan University, is married, and lives at 2460 Laurelwood Circle in Ann Arbor.

Two Chelsea Youths Attend Orientation Program at EMU

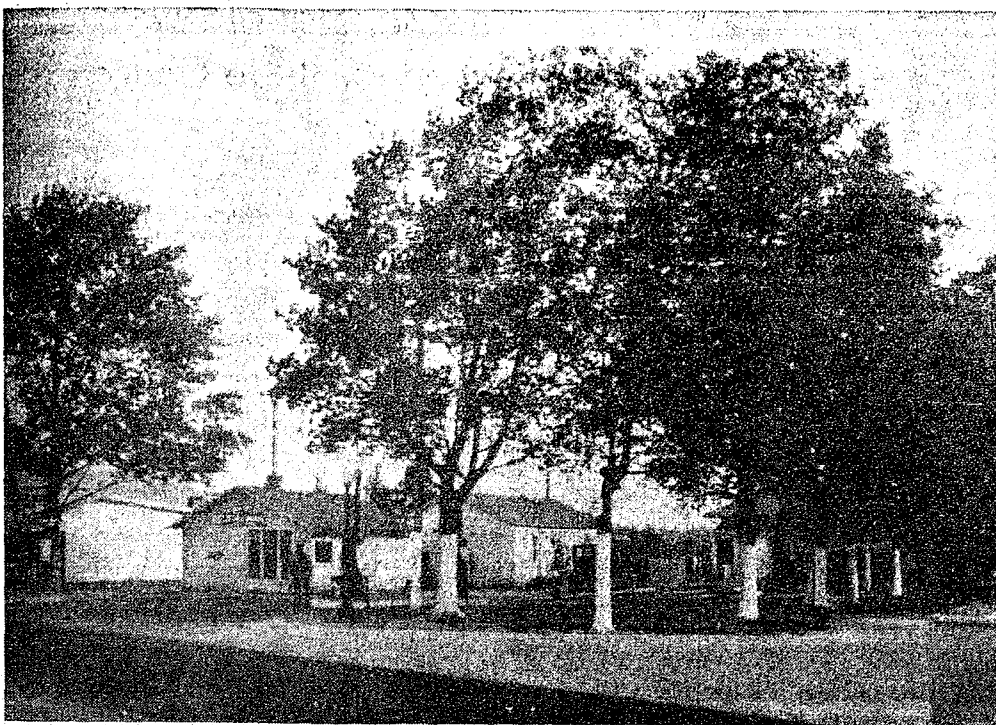

Two Chelsea residents have attended a summer orientation program at Eastern Michigan University. Garry Collins, 144 Dewey, and Bob Rutherford, 148 Van Buren, were among the groups of students spending 24 hours on the campus every weekday.

The program includes individual and small group counseling and registering for fall term classes. A campus tour, a chance to meet other freshmen in residence hall surroundings, and a full day to become acquainted with campus routines are designed to prepare the student for his or her return as a student.

Special parents' orientation programs are given twice daily. The parents hear talks by university personnel and may ask questions.

MOON'S PULL

The moon's gravitational pull affects more than the oceans. A full moon directly overhead may lift the North American continent six inches, and the Earth's atmosphere may bulge out a mile or more toward the moon. Even people respond to the moon's gravity, gaining and losing a fraction of an ounce with each rise and fall of the tides.

NEED A FILL-UP? The Staebler Oil Co., a Mobil oil dealer, at one time served 1920-vintage Chelsea residents on the southwest corner of M-52 and Old US-12. The third building from the left was made into a home that was owned by Carl and Nina Dredge, and Don and Virginia Siegmund. All the buildings have been torn down, and the corner now houses a new service station and a vacant lot facing the Wolverine Bar.

CHELSEA VILLAGE COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS

July 18, 1972
Council Room

Regular Session

This meeting was called to order by President Fulks at 8:00 P.M. Present: President Fulks, Clerk Harvey, Administrator Weber, Trustees: Borton, Gorton, Musbach, Boylan and Wood. Absent: Trustee Dmoch.

Others present for the meeting were Police Chief Meranuck, Elwyn Beach, Clarence Wood, Clark Bushnell and Mr. and Mrs. LaVerne Smith.

Further discussion was held with Mr. and Mrs. LaVerne Smith, 318 McKinley Street, regarding the easement along their property. It has been determined that the easement is a public right-of-way.

A discussion was held with Clarence Wood regarding the construction of apartment units off West Middle Street. The matter was referred to the Planning Commission for a recommendation.

Planning Commission recommendation RE: Bushnell Townhouse development: The site plan conforms to and meets zoning requirements of the current ordinance.

Motion by Wood, supported by Borton, to grant tentative approval for the issuance of a building permit for the proposed Bushnell Townhouse development, contingent upon the completion of construction of the proposed Sanitary Sewer Trunkline (West branch). Roll call: Yeas all. Motion carried.

Planning Commission recommendation RE: Brettschneider property and request for annexation: Planning Commission voted in favor of this request and recommends the Village Council begin necessary steps to annex property. ## Linda Brassow, J. Schierenbeck Wed at Salem Lutheran Church Newlyweds Mr. and Mrs. James Robert Schierenbeck will be making their home at 3958 S. 68th St. in Milwaukee, Wis., when they complete their honeymoon trip to Niagara Falls and Toronto. They will both be teaching at St. John Lutheran school in that city.

The couple was married Saturday evening in a candlelight ceremony at Salem Evangelical Lutheran church on Scio Church Rd., at which the bride's brother-in-law, the Rev. John P. Huebner, pastor of Faith Evangelical Lutheran church of Dexter, presided.

The bride is the former Linda Marie Brassow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond H. Brassow of N. Fletcher Rd. Her bridegroom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Schierenbeck of New London, Wis.

Wedding music for the nuptials was provided by soloist Miss Dorothy Bublitz of Hartford, Wis., along with trumpeter Rodney Bauer of Owosso, and organist Steve Westphal of Crete, Ill.

Bands of re-embroidered daisy lace outlined the pleated organza bodice of the bride's full-length gown and banded the sleeve's wrists and neckline. The daisy pattern was repeated on her skirt which ended in a lace-trimmed train. Matching daisy-patterned lace fashioned the pillbox headpiece that secured her tiered elbow length veil. She carried an arrangement of daisies to complete her ensemble.

A basket of pink-tinted daisies and white mums with ivy was carried by each of the bridesmaids and the flower girl to continue the theme. They wore long gowns of light pink organza accented with white lace boleros tied with satin. Lace trimmed their cuffs and wide-brimmed hats of pink swiss straw accented their outfits.

Mrs. John P. Huebner of Dexter was her sister's matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Marcia Krueger of Collins, Wis., and Miss Mary Hubbard of Kenosha, Wis., former classmates of the couple, and Mrs. Robert Poza of Flint. Miss Lisa Duham of Ann Arbor was flower girl.

Rings were carried by Steve Koepsell of Oshkosh, Wis., a cousin of the bridegroom, and James Hahn of Theresa, Wis., was best man. Guests were seated by Frederick Uttech of Watertown, Wis., a former classmate and Douglas Engelbert of Chelsea, a cousin of the bride. Groomsmen were Wayne Wagner of St. Paul, Minn., Dan Schmal of Fon Du Lac, Wis., and Paul Schierenbeck, brother of the bridegroom.

For the ceremony and the reception at the American Legion Memorial Home in Ann Arbor, the bride's mother chose a floor-length gown of mint green crepe with silver accessories and wore a corsage of yellow rose buds and white carnations. A similar corsage was worn by the elder Mrs. Schierenbeck, with her floor-length gown of light blue crepe and matching accessories.

Assisting at the reception were Miss Karen Fry, Miss Mary Strieker of Bay City, Miss Marlene Engelbert, the bride's cousin of Chelsea, Miss Shari Plamann of Hutchinson, Minn., and Mrs. Merle Brederhoef of Lake Leelanau, an aunt of the bride.

The new Mrs. Schierenbeck attended Dexter and Chelsea schools graduating from Michigan Lutheran Seminary in Saginaw and from Dr. Martin Luther College in New Ulm, Minn. Her husband attended Wisconsin Lutheran College in Milwaukee and graduated from Dr. Martin Luther College as well.

Adopt a patriotic theme for a child's birthday party that falls near a national holiday. Serve the kid's favorite—hot dogs, and top each filled bun with a small paper American flag. Decorate the cake, frosted white, to resemble a drum and crown with candles of red and blue.

Nine-Year-Old Katie Donkin Places in Detroit Horse Show

Miss Katie Donkin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Donkin, of Cavanaugh Lake, placed fourth and fifth in equitation over fences at the Detroit Horse Show June 24 and 25.

Miss Donkin, nine years old, rode her horse "Bittersweet" to a fourth in preliminary test 2 and fifth in preliminary test 1. The Detroit show, which featured dressage competition and all phases of hunting and jumping, was the largest in Michigan this year, and drew people from all over the country.

The Donkins also showed the horse in the dressage section of the show. Ridden by Miss Penny Bartlett, the horse also competed in first level test 2 and second level medal class. "Bittersweet" placed second in the first level category. In the latter, he was required to make such intricate movements as a pirouette, shoulder-in at trot, collected and extended trot, and extended canter, and placed seventh in this event.

The young horse has only this season begun to be shown in dressage, a form of riding which resembles ballet on horseback.

The Donkins will exhibit "Bittersweet" in a dressage clinic in Clinton on Aug. 10. The clinic for 4-H members is given by Mrs. Frances Hinchcliffe of Ann Arbor, one of the leading authorities on dressage in this area. The Donkins will demonstrate how to train a young horse in the preliminary levels of dressage.

Red Cross Offers Local Assistance

Chelsea Community Chest, whose fund drive begins in the fall, contributes to 12 member agencies: Salvation Army, Chelsea Social Service, Huron Valley Girl Scouts, Michigan United Fund, American Red Cross, Catholic Social Service, Chelsea Band, Boy Scouts, Chelsea Recreation, Washtenaw Retarded Children's Association, Huron Valley Child Guidance Center, and the Child and Family Service. This article is the first in a series explaining the functions and services to Chelsea of the member agencies.

The American Red Cross, Washtenaw county chapter, is located at 2729 Packard Rd., Ann Arbor. The Red Cross furnishes a Blood Clinic in Chelsea each year. In 1971 the clinic collected 90 pints of blood, while donating 186 pints of blood for Chelsea residents. The blood is available to anyone residing or working in Chelsea.

Although the next scheduled date for collecting blood is Friday, Oct. 20, the bloodmobile is scheduled many times each month around the county, and anyone may donate and credit the pint to Chelsea.

The Red Cross also supplies the Chelsea Safety Service, which consists of demonstrations and first aid classes. The program puts on demonstrations in the high school Home Ec classes on mother-baby care, and teaches standard first aid to 26 policemen and auxiliary policemen, and future babysitters.

Residents with family in military service are also aided by the Red Cross. Last year there were 36 cases of emergency aid for Chelsea servicemen or families, such as emergency leaves due to illness or death in the family, assistance in obtaining wife's travel papers, and cutting red tape in moving personal property.

There is also assistance in transportation or motor service. The Red Cross supplies many weekly trips, some monthly and some irregular, for Chelsea people to the speech and hearing clinic in Ann Arbor, St. Joseph Mercy Hospital O.B. clinic, doctor appointments in Ann Arbor, and St. Joseph Mercy Hospital outpatient clinic.

He was born in Lima township on Nov. 15, 1904, the son of Elizabeth and Otto Schanz. He attended school at the Bareis school then located on the corner of Fletcher and Trinkle Rds., which his father, who was born in a log cabin near there, also attended. After the family moved to 215 Adams St. in Chelsea in 1912, he attended Chelsea Public Schools. At 17 he began working for Palmer Motor Sales where he was employed for more than 40 years, retiring about 10 years ago because of ill health.

On July 25, 1925 he married Edna Schenk, the daughter of Karl and Amelia Schenk, and for 41 years has resided at 11951 Trinkle Rd.

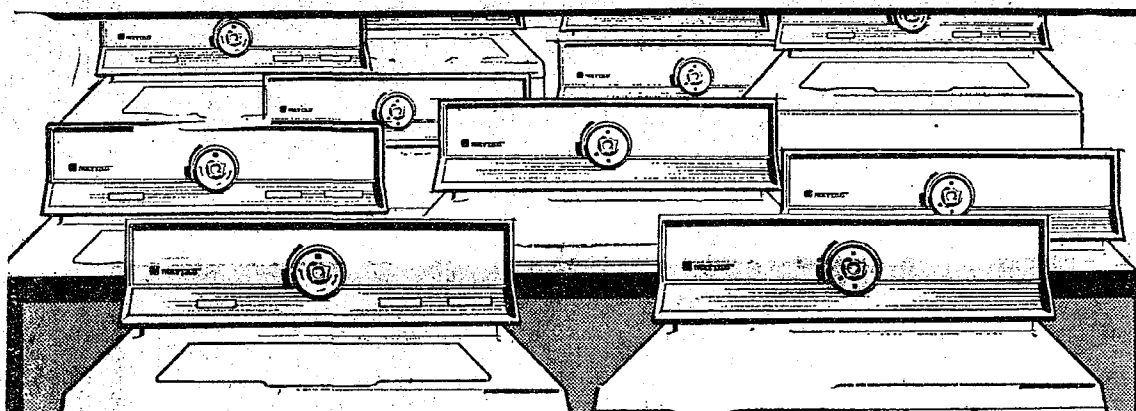

Surviving is his widow, Edna, two sons, Robert and Richard, nine grandchildren, one sister, Flora, all of Chelsea, and a niece, Mrs. DeLores Holmes, of Milan.

His mother preceded him in death in 1924, his father in 1961, and a brother, Herman, in 1966.

Funeral services were held at Staffan Funeral Home on Sunday, July 16, with the Rev. Warner H. Siebert officiating. Burial was at Oak Grove Cemetery.

AGRICULTURE IN ACTION

by Carl P. Kentner
MICHIGAN FARM BUREAU

★ Agriculture Is Growing Business

Agriculture is a growing business in America. The first totals released by the Census Bureau, which conducted a nation-wide farm census in 1969, show commercial agriculture making significant gains. A commercial farm is generally figured as having an annual gross sales of at least $2,500. The nation-wide count did show a drop in total farm numbers, but the decline is almost entirely among the part-time, part-retirement and other very small farms that sell less than $50 of farm products per week.

The number of small commercial farms dropped, too, but largely because 80,000 of them had grown into larger enterprises. Also, the number of farms across our land with gross sales of over $10,000 in a year increased by 79,000.

During the five years before the farm census, 1964-1969, the average farm size increased by 3.8 acres. The amount of irrigated land went up by two million acres. Also, the percentage of tenant farmers fell from 17 percent of the total to 13 percent and the percentage of full farm owners rose to 62 percent.

The market value of agricultural commodities sold by farmers during that five-year span increased over $10 billion to $45.5 billion.

Farmers have also become better customers for industry. At the time of the farm census, farmers owned 4.6 million big tractors; 2.9 million trucks; 2.6 million automobiles; 26,000 garden tractors; 708,000 pickup balers; 467,000 combines and thousands of pieces of miscellaneous equipment.

All this is evidence of a growing American agriculture. An agriculture which requires more land and a great deal more capital investment to stay in the business of feeding America.

Michigan Traffic Death Toll Up 5% In First Half of '72

Michigan counted 194 persons killed in traffic accidents in June, which was 18 or about eight percent less than 212 charged to that month a year ago, according to provisional figures of the State Police traffic division.

June was only the second month this year to show a decrease compared with corresponding months of 1971. March was the other reduction month, showing a decrease of three.

The average for June was 201 for the last five years, 1967-71. High for the month was 236 recorded in 1969 while the low was 57 in wartime 1944.

The June deaths brought to 1,008 the accumulated count for the first half this year, an increase of 49 or about five percent compared with 959 in the same period last year.

Toronto—Mrs. Rose Crawford, who lost her sight after a bout of measles at age 4, regained it recently after 50 years of blindness. Partial sight was restored to both eyes by surgery that reportedly could have been performed 20 years ago.

Most people are ready to spend someone else's money.

casserole items may be convenient, but you have to pay for the convenience. By preparing these items, you can save on your food bill.

Where possible, try to buy by using unit pricing and try to buy in bulk quantities. Both measures can help you save money at the grocery.

One of the most important things you can do to keep that grocery bill in line is to buy what you need, not what you want. Go shopping with a well thought out list and stick to it. Buying on impulse can ruin your budget.

Need New Ideas for Summer Cook-Outs?

Try broiling chuck roast on your charcoal grill this summer, suggests Sheila Morley, Michigan State University consumer marketing specialist.

Choose a low-cost roast well marbled with fat, then marinate it, the specialist says. Blend a little wine and a touch of garlic and tarragon into an acid base such as tomato sauce or french dressing. The marinade will tenderize the roast, suiting it to the outdoor grill. You may also want to use a commercial meat tenderizer.

Look also for specials on pork, turkey and chicken for the grill. Turkey parts and whole turkeys weighing 12 pounds or less are excellent for barbecues, says Mrs. Morley. Or buy a frozen turkey roll to roast on the spit.

Make three-decker hamburgers layered with crumbled blue cheese or seasoned minced vegetables. Or split hot dogs and stuff them with cheese, crumbled french fried onions or seasoned mashed potatoes.

East Lansing — The Devout Young, a new four-part series exploring the origin of the Jesus Movement sweeping the youth culture, begins at 12:30 p.m. Sunday, July 16, on WMSB (Channel 10), Michigan State University television.

The first program, "The Way In and the Way Out," opens with an historical look at the teachings of Martin Luther, the writings of Harvey Cox, the "flower children" of the '60s, the drug culture and a Billy Graham rally. The documentary examines the roots of the religious phenomena to understand why the devout young have rediscovered Christianity.

The other programs in the series visit religious communes, attend a "Jesus-People" church service, and examine the political confrontations of "Jesus Freaks" with other religious groups.

Other WMSB highlights include: MASTERPIECE THEATRE Masterpiece Theatre presents in a return engagement, "The Spoils of Poynton," a drama of greed and family pride, at 11:30 a.m. Sunday, July 16.

The television adaptation of the novel by Henry James follows the lives of a wealthy family in conflict over who is to inherit the family fortune of antiques.

In the first episode of the series, Mrs. Gereth, played by Pauline Jameson, takes an immediate dislike to her son's fiancée, Mona. Mona, played by Diane Fletcher, is determined to have the "spoils" by marriage. However, Mrs. Gereth refuses to relinquish her Poynton treasures and encourages her son to marry Fleda Vetch, portrayed by Gemma Jones. Caught in the middle is the weak, bungling son, Owen, played by Ian Ogilvy.

EVENING AT POPS

Arthur Fiedler conducts the Boston Pops Orchestra in a selection of hit tunes from "Carousel" and the title song from the Broadway show, "Cabaret" at 4:30 p.m. Sunday, July 16.

Thought For Food

Although bacon can keep under refrigeration for a longer period, for top quality it should be used within a week. When caught with an aging pound, provide a baked bacon treat. Simply separate the slices, arrange on a jelly roll pan and bake in a hot oven (400 degrees Fahrenheit) for ten minutes, carefully pour off drippings and return to oven for 2 to 5 minutes or to the stage of crispness desired. Served between toast (with or without lettuce, slices omelet and/or cheese spread) or with eggs, pancakes, waffles or cottage-fried potatoes.

Cubed beef steaks are especially appropriate for summer cooking because they take so little time to prepare. For an intriguing entrée, season the Italian way with oregano and basil and top each first-browned side with a slice of mozzarella or Romano cheese for added appeal.

Protein values of meat don't change during the ordinary cooking methods, but there may still be a small loss of some vitamins (primarily thiamine). That's another reason why it's so important to use the lower temperature cooking methods recommended in most recipes. It also gives greater juiciness as well as a better yield.
