Meat Boycott Begins To Fade

Meat boycotts don't end, they just fade away. The question is, how much kick is there left in the dying cause? Not sure of the answer, some consumers are cautious, while some suppliers are playing it safe. For others, meat is like it has been since February, expensive and irresistible.

While Polly's Market reports that sales are back to normal, Jiffy Market and Schneider's Grocery are witnessing the death throes of resistance. Their meat sales are slow though better than during last week's bleak lull.

"Cautious" is how Gene Shoemaker describes the consumer these days. Few are going whole hog so Shoemaker is keeping his orders to a conservative minimum. He says it's not only the customer that can't be depended upon, the suppliers are unpredictable as well.

"I had two orders for hams for banquets this week that I couldn't fill. I've got to order my Easter hams today if I want to be sure they'll be delivered," he says.

Reports are that the middlemen, the meat wholesalers who found themselves with lockers full of meat last week are as cautious as the consumers. A representative from Farmer Peet's said his company was considering withdrawing from big sales until the price ceilings are lifted. "If they stop slaughtering beef it will be the first time in the 27 years I've been with them," he said.

That same company is taking advantage of the ceiling on hams, according to a spokesman at Rick's Market. "The price of ham went down $0.3 a pound last week, but Farmer Peet's jacked it back up to the ceiling this week," he said.

The threat of a continuing boycott of meat on Tuesdays and Thursdays is easily laughed off by the staff at Polly's. They saw the beginning of the end, last week, come ridiculously close to the beginning of the beginning.

After two slow days at the meat counter, Wednesday brought the busiest day they've had in months. Substantial sales that day kept their over-all loss during the boycott at 15 percent. This week's sales are once again healthy and strong.

Sheriff's Dept. Seeks Tips on Hit-Run Driver

Duane West remains hospitalized this week with severe injuries sustained in a hit-and-run accident, March 30. He was removed from extensive care nearly a week ago but his recovery is painfully slow. He has not yet been capable of talking with sheriff's deputies.

Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department is looking for a purple van in connection with the crime. The description of the vehicle is based on testimony from the four teen-age companions who were with Duane when he was hit. The group was hitchhiking on Hadley Rd. around 1 a.m. after their car had broken down.

Sheriff's deputies surmise that the van is damaged on the right front side. Its right rear view mirror was also damaged at the time of the accident.

The department has been gratified at the amount of citizen help they have received in this case, but they still have not uncovered the culprit. A spokesman for the sheriff's department stresses that all tips are kept confidential. Informers need not leave their names.

Track Team Rolls Over Stockbridge

Chelsea's track team exploded into the 1973 dual meet outdoor season, April 4, with a smashing 97-25 win over non-conference foe, Stockbridge. The Chelsea trackmen won 13 out of 14 events in what can be considered a warm-up meet.

The first conference meet is today, Thursday, against chief rival Saline. This meet will take place on the Saline track at 4 p.m., weather permitting. Chelsea and Saline have been ranked as the top contenders for the track title, according to Bert Kruse, Chelsea's coach.

The Stockbridge meet, held on the Chelsea track, was run in cold and rainy weather. The times and distances were understandably hampered by the elements.

Big winners for Chelsea were Craig Coltre who won the long jump, high and low hurdles and ran with the winning mile relay team. Karl Gauss won the 100- and 220-yard dashes and was part of the winning 880-yard relay.

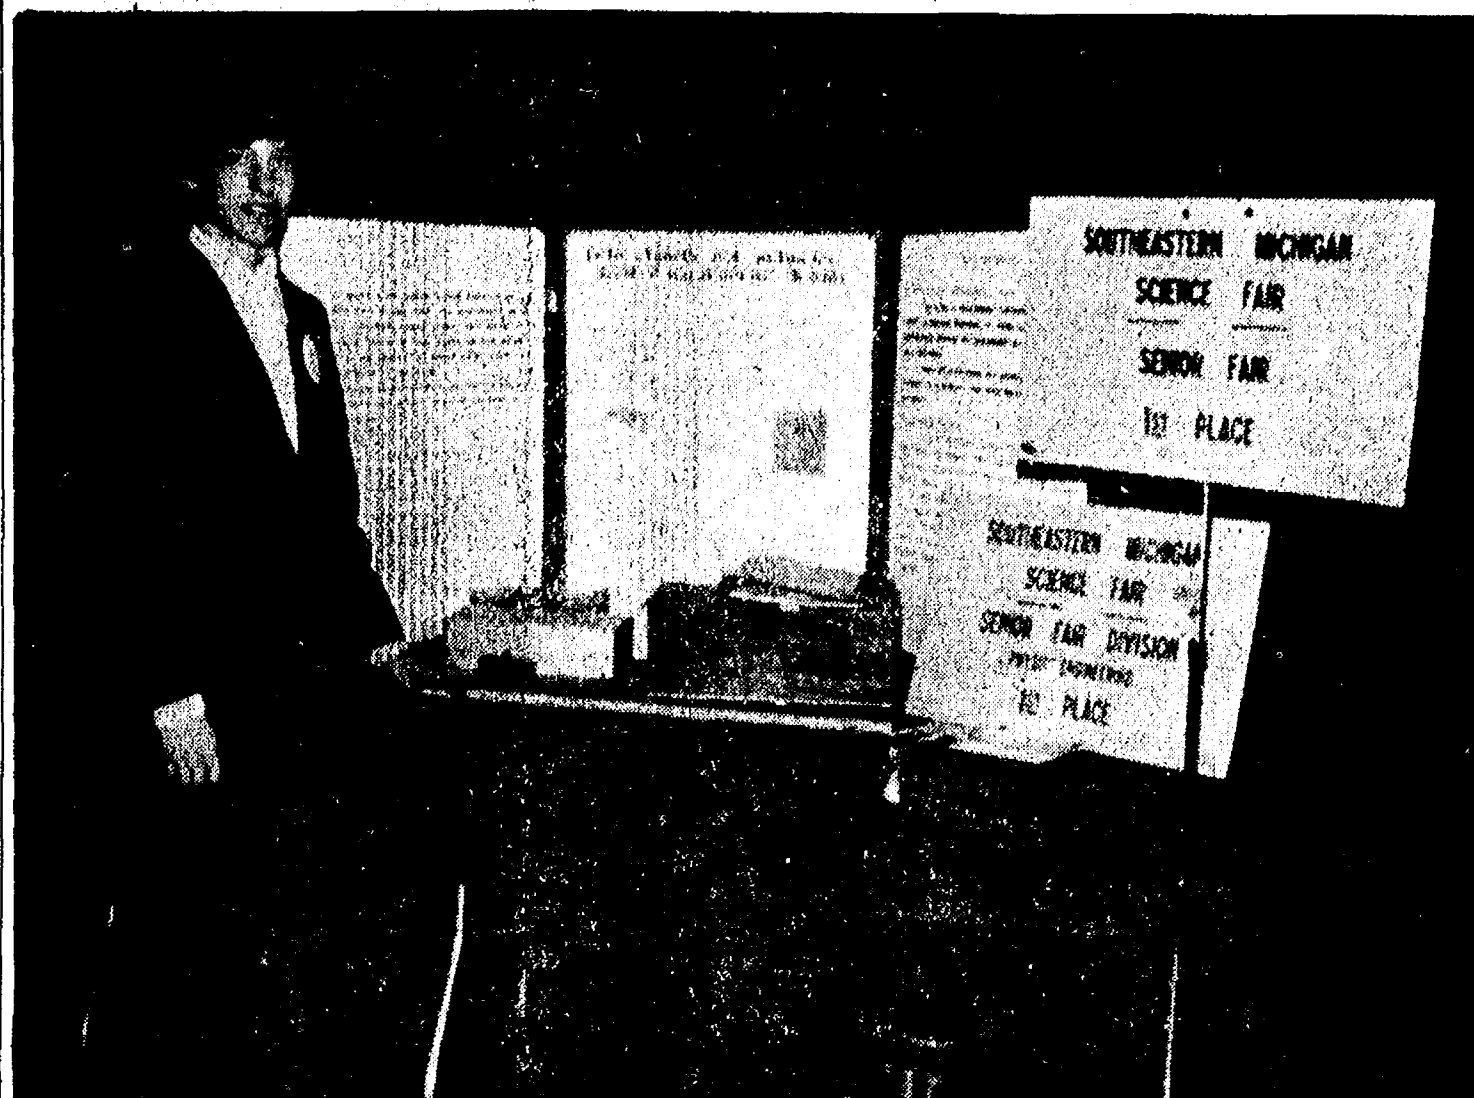

Ishmael Picklesimer surprised no one when he easily took first in the shot put event. His winning throw was 44 feet. First in the pole vault was Don Pierson who sailed over 9'6".

Chelsea placed in both the first and second slots in the high and long jump categories. Bill Tite soared over 5'6" and Rick Sweeney went over 5'4" to take the first two places in the high jump. Placing well in the long jump were Craig Coltre at 18'10" and in second place, Lee Ferguson, at 17'7".

Lee Ferguson was also seen in the 880 relay running with Howard Salyer, Bruce Guster and Karl Gauss. Jeff Marshall's times of 2:13.2 and 2:17.5 rated first and second place in the 880-yard run.

Craig Coltre was again first in the 120-yard high hurdles with a time of 17.4. He was followed, in second place, by another Chelsea man, Bill Tite, who made the course in 18.2.

CALIFORNIA BOUND: David Klemmer, a Senior Division first-place winner at last week-end's Southeastern Michigan Science Fair, will be off to the International Science Fair in San Diego, Calif., in May. He will take with him his award-winning exhibit, "Data Storage and Retrieval Using a Holographic Memory," shown here. The name and the three large panels of explanation may seem out of proportion in relation to the two simple-looking boxes, but appearances are deceiving. His display includes the sophisticated techniques of laser beams and holograms.

graphic Memory," shown here. The name and the three large panels of explanation may seem out of proportion in relation to the two simple-looking boxes, but appearances are deceiving. His display includes the sophisticated techniques of laser beams and holograms.

FASCINATED BY FOSSILS: Steve Bennett has a clear picture of the past. While prehistoric times may seem murky to many, Steve can reconstruct the look of early life as he did for his Southeastern Michigan Science Fair exhibit, "A Look at a Mid-Paleozoic Sea Floor." The Chelsea High school sophomore won first place in the Earth Science category of the Senior Division, Saturday.

David Klemmer Tops in District Science Fair

Steve Bennett, David Wetzel Also Are Winners in Other Categories

Even among a host of wizards assembled at the Southeastern Michigan Science Fair last Saturday, three Chelsea students stood out. The local stars are David Klemmer and Steve Bennett, who attend Chelsea High, and David Wetzel of Beach Middle school.

The most powerful "magic" was wielded by 16-year-old Klemmer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Klemmer. His exhibit, entitled "Data Storage and Retrieval Using a Holographic Memory," earned first place in the Senior Division, an honor he shares with Charles Antonelli, a senior at Ann Arbor's Huron High.

The top award carries with it an expense paid trip to the International Science Fair which will be held in San Diego, Calif., a week in May. There David will vie with other science fair winners from the U. S. and other countries for additional prizes.

David says that most of the students who make it to the international science fair "are doing things no one has done before," so he is not counting on stealing the show. He is, however, anxious to meet his fellow winners who share his interest in science.

The trip will include tours of the many scientific installations in the southern California area, a region of the country David has never seen.

The first prize also includes a $125 cash award, a first prize ribbon and a gold medal. David's exhibit also warranted the first prize award in the physics and engineering category, one of seven such classifications in the Senior Division.

Dave is no newcomer to either his subject or the fair. A year ago, as a sophomore, he earned the second-place award in "overall" competition for his project, "Laser Holography." Both the laser beam and holographic film are used in this year's work, a sophisticated outgrowth of the earlier project.

David first became interested in lasers as a youngster in Pennsylvania where his science teacher gave him the guidance to build his own laser apparatus. David constructed the power source that runs the manufactured laser tube.

The power supply presented an interesting engineering problem in that it must be capable of an initial jolt of 2,000 volts to "fire" the laser. The operating voltage then dips to 600.

David chose to use holographic film for his data storage not because of its ability to record a three dimensional image, but because it is less susceptible than photographic film to damage. Scratch a photographic plate and some of the information registered there is lost. A holographic plate, however, may be halved, or even torn to one fourth its original size, and it will still retain all the original information.

Rather than storing an image, Dave chose to record and store binary numbers, such as are used in computers. These digits are created on the hologram as impressions of four spots of laser light. An aperture mask allows Dave to determine which spots appear (indicating the digit 1) and which are blocked (indicating digit 0).

Thus, the laser light and the hologram can record and store information in much the same manner electric impulses and magnetic tape do.

Next year David plans to be back at the Ann Arbor fair with another laser project, but it will have a different focus. "I want to try to combine lasers with medicine," says David after reading how lasers are now being used in the treatment of cancer and glaucoma.

Sophomore Steve Bennett also did well at the show with his reconstruction of a mid-paleozoic sea floor. The model, created out of his fossil collection, plaster casts and pipe cleaners, rated a first place in the earth science category. Steve also ranked fourth in the entire Senior Division.

His first-place award netted him $10 while fourth place in the division is worth $50. Steve was also the recipient of a supplementary award from the Huron Hills Lapidary and Mineral Society. This honor includes a certificate and a book.

Steve's fossil collection, which earned a first place in the Junior Division's model and collections category three years ago,

Township Residents Entitled to Library Use

Residents of Dexter, Freedom, Lima, Sylvan, Waterloo, Lyndon and Sharon townships are now eligible for free library cards for use at McKune Memorial Library.

This change in policy has come about since the townships have budgeted money to support the library.

THE BEST AND THE BRIGHTEST: The top high school students in the country become National Merit Scholarship Finalists, but only a relative few proudly stride through the college years ahead as National Merit Scholars. Chelsea's Steve Worden is one of the fortunate few who will have the financial burden of a college education lightened with a four-year National Merit Scholarship. He is the first Chelsea student to receive this distinction. Steve is congratulated here by Charles Lane (left), principal of Chelsea High school, Charles F. Pfeiffer (second from right), president of Michigan Seamless Tube Co., the firm that is financing Steve's merit scholarship, and Len Fortune (right), president of Fortune Industries, a division of the sponsoring firm.

Steve Worden Awarded McHattie Merit Scholarship

Steve Worden, excellent student, athlete, and active community member, has become Chelsea's first National Merit Scholar. While Chelsea has had its share of National Merit Finalists, none before have won the coveted four-year stipend that will see Steve through four years at Michigan State University.

The specific title of Steve's scholarship is the William A. McHattie Merit scholarship, which is awarded annually to students of Michigan Seamless Tube Co. employees or to students in cities where the company operates a facility. Fortune Industries here in Chelsea is one of five operating divisions of the company whose headquarters are located in South Lyon.

National Merit Scholarships are underwritten by businesses, industrial corporations, foundations, unions, professional associations, trusts, or individuals. They are named for the organization or individual financing them.

Finalist winners receiving the standard four-year scholarships are selected from among the finalist without regard to allocation by state, but the candidates are subject to criteria established by the sponsor. In this case, residency played a part in Steve's selection. Other sponsors stipulate career objectives, field of study or filial relations as determinants.

The student who is awarded a merit scholarship is not necessarily "better" than the finalist who does not. They have merely met the additional criteria specified by the sponsoring group as well as achieving finalist standing.

Steve will receive money every year during his four years as a zoology major at Michigan State. The amount of each National Merit Scholarship varies from $100 a year to those students who do not require financial assistance, to $1,500.

Steve has not only proved himself as an excellent student with a grade point of 9.4, he has been active in school and community activities.

He has participated in varsity football, wrestling, and track, while editing the school newspaper and contributing to the school literary magazine as a staff member. He has also been a teen council chairman.

Outside of school, Steve, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Worden, is an assistant scoutmaster of Troop 478. He also attended the 1972 Summer Honors Program at St. Joseph's College.

Steve's honor is shared by approximately 1,100 other high school seniors chosen from the 14,000 qualified students who became Finalists in the 1973 Merit Program.

Carol Fairbrother, Chelsea's other National Merit Finalist, still has a chance to earn money for her fine showing in the National Merit Scholarship Test. On April 23, some 1,000 winners of $1,000 National Merit Scholarships will be (Continued on page three)

Author, Artist Gwen Frostic Speaking Here This Evening

"Each year at the end of each twig a new bud will form, that the limbs will be a little longer, and the tips of the branches will remain forever young. So with you, 'Each year you reach a little farther; each year you do something new. The tips of your mind will remain forever young, no matter how many years you count on your birthday.'"

These are the words of Gwen Frostic, author, illustrator and publisher of nine books which have tapped the love of nature in many around the world. She will be the guest speaker at this evening's Friends of the Library spring meeting.

The talk, held in the all-purpose room of Beach Middle school, will start at 8 p.m. It is open to the public.

In her "more than half a hundred years," Miss Frostic has been a devotee of Michigan wildlife and wilderness, an affection she acquires while a child wandering through the woods of the "wild island," Grosse Ile.

She fostered her eye for the beauties of nature while an art student at Western Michigan University.

She has incorporated her avocation and vocation into Presscraft Papers, a print shop on the edge of a frog pond in Benzonia. There the friendly conversation of Miss Frostic, the hum of 15 Heidelberg presses and the hoofprints of a lawn that wandered into the structure while the cement was still wet, merge in a cohesive montage.

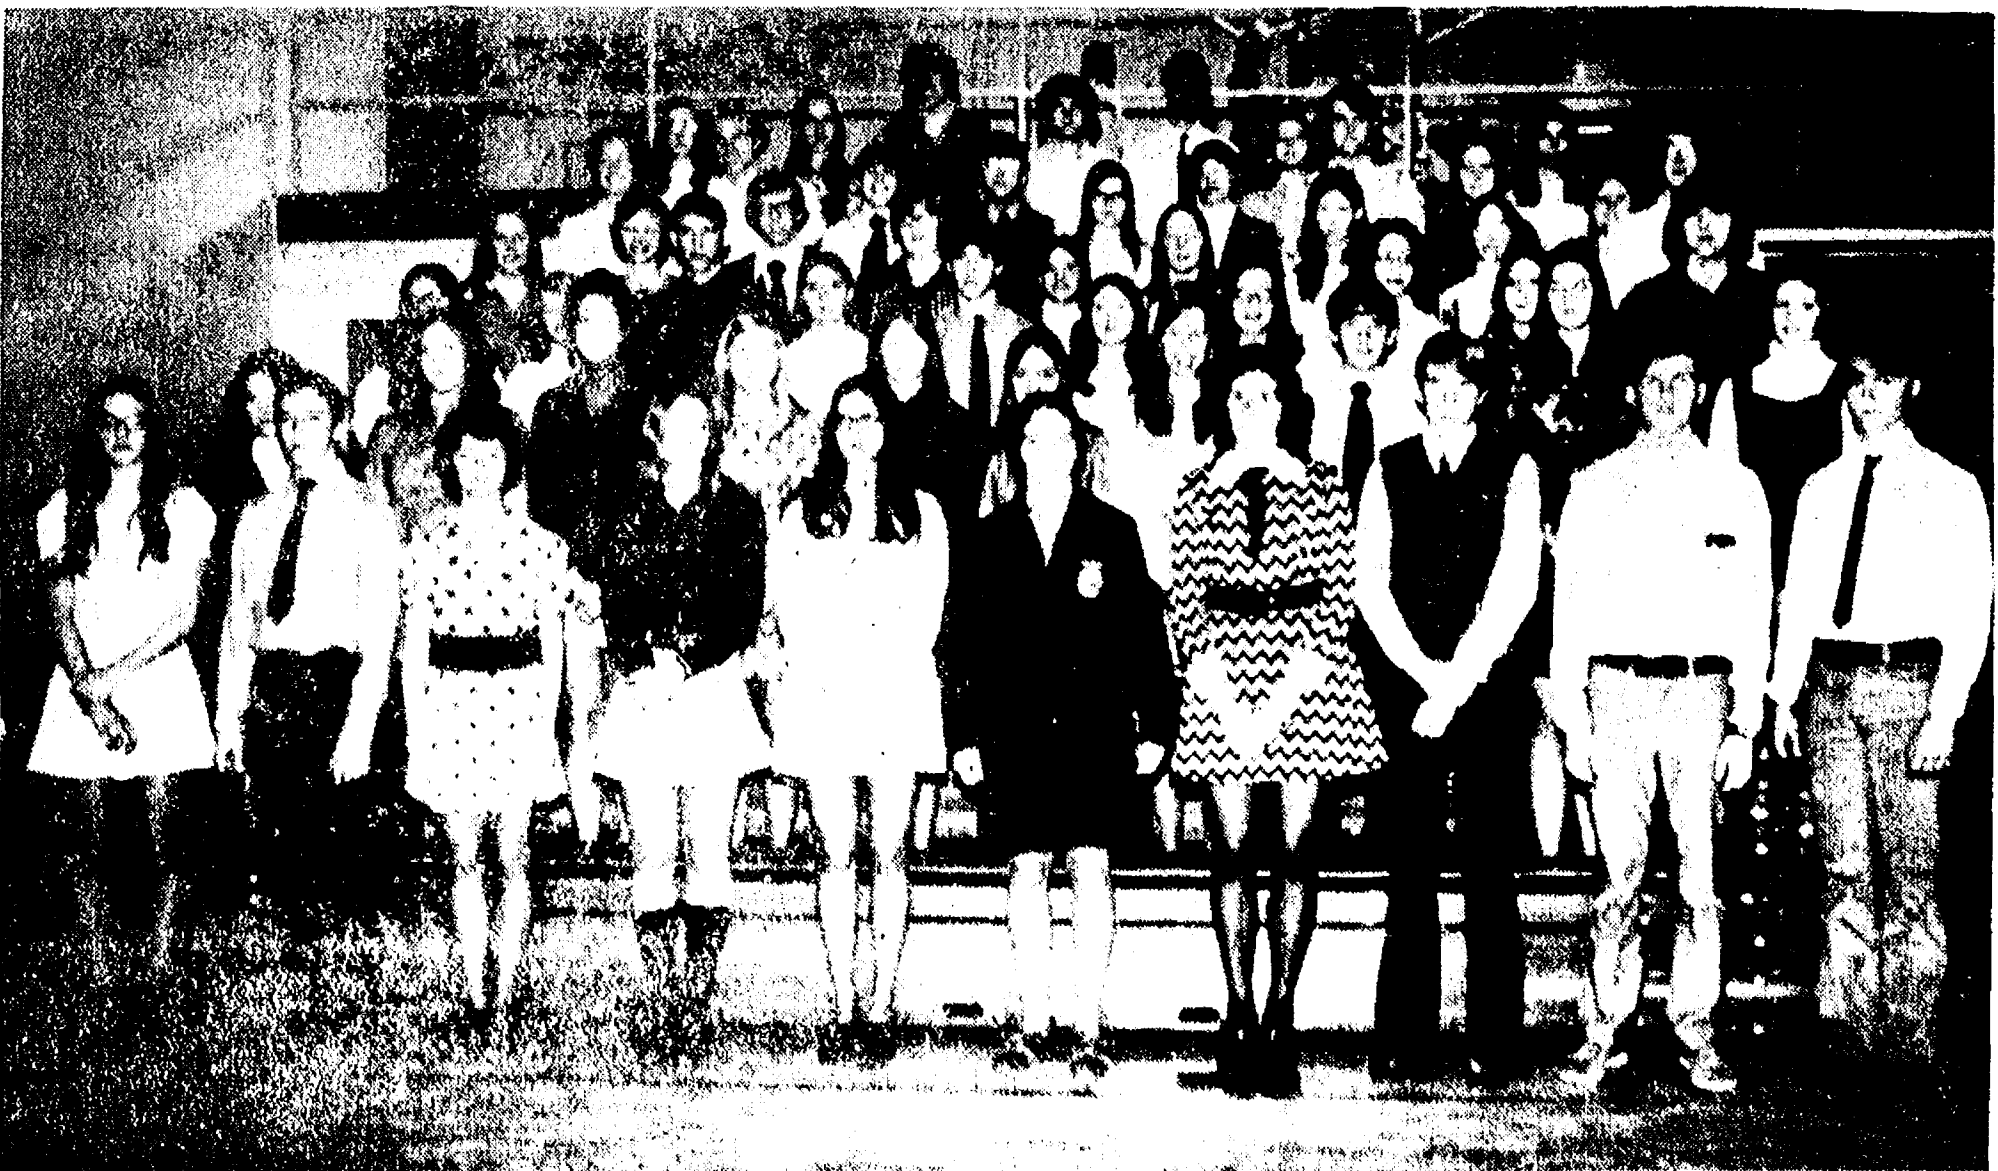

"My job," says Miss Frostic, "is not to educate but to help people feel the beauty of nature. I don't tell them of the destruction of Lake Erie because everyone knows that. I try to get them to feel the need for beauty and the need for everything to live, for us to live. This is more basic."

She continues, "Everyone in the creative field has the responsibility to do his part to prevent the destruction of nature. We must try to get people to think differently rather than do differently. The problem is deeper than going around picking up beer cans."

Miss Frostic pursues her goal by attempting to complete a new sketch of something in nature every day. From these works, whose subjects range from snails to chickadees, from marsh grass to orchids, she makes wood blocks, cut by hand. The woodcuts are then used on stationery or to illustrate her books.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

The fellow that runs the country store told the fellers Saturday night that he was living the life of Cinderella. If he didn't get his income tax stuff fixed and sent in, he allowed, his business would turn into a punkin and he could see his way out of trouble as good as them blind mice. He said he was convinced that the American income tax system is the world's most amazing way to support a Government. He said what was amazing was how anybody figured it out.

Paying income tax is a duty that ain't weighed heavy on none of the fellers for years, on account of they don't have no income. But they never pass up the chance to have their say on such matters. And Clem Webster was the first to take a shot.

The average working fellow in this country, said, Clem, works from January into May to make enough to pay his taxes. After that he's working to catch up some of his bills. Clem had saw this piece that said more than 97 percent of all income taxes is paid by folks that make a ordinary wage that you could live on if grocery prices went out of sight. Clem said the idea of solving the country's problems and paying off our debts by taxing the rich won't hold up cause they jest ain't enough rich. Actual, said Clem, the burden of keeping the country going falls on the average right down the line, in taxes or prices.

Bug Hookum was disagreed. He was of the mind they is plenty of rich people that's getting richer for the very reason they don't pay no taxes. If you can get rich enough to hire a expert in building shelters for you and your money to crawl under, you stand to keep getting richer, was Bug's words. And Government helps out by offering deals like bonds that ain't taxed as long as you got at least $10,000 to buy jest one.

Farthermore, went on Bug, what grinds at him the most is the way the Government spends the money. He sees by the papers where the Administration cuts back on a heap of the programs that was supposed to help pore folks but wasn't, and he was agreed with that. But now he reads where the grants to "the arts" is going to be doubled from $38 million this year to $80 million next. How can we cut out lunch money for school younguns and turn right around and give somebody $150,000 to put on three operies so the younguns that can't afford to eat can have culture, Bug wanted to know.

Personal, Mister Editor, I didn't git in the discussion. I don't know nothing about taxes and I git that mixed up, and I know less about art. The closest I ever came to art was this feller I knowed that worked on the railroad. I seen him split clear over a flatcar flatfooted.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

Milliken Running
Perhaps the most open political secret in Lansing these days involves the future of Gov. William G. Milliken.

He hasn't announced it yet, in fact he most surely won't make it official until sometime more than a year from now, but the governor is going to run for another term.

It's hard to know when he made a real commitment to the idea. In the 1970 election there were a lot of people who would have been willing to bet a lot of money that Milliken would serve out his current term, hand the nomination to Lt. Gov. James Brickley and go back to Traverse City.

But he has been dropping broad hints that he'd like another term since last summer when he was pulling every political lever he could find to pry his transportation package through the legislature.

There is probably a whole series of factors involved in his decision. He seems to have developed a real feel for the job so that he enjoys it fully. The legislature is doing his bidding more now than at first. The ghost of George Romney has long since been laid to rest. It's been a long time since someone asked him whether he had "leadership ability" or not.

Milliken has always wanted to be governor rather than to seek national office. He turned down an offer in 1966 to run for the U.S. Senate and opened the door for Robert Griffin in what proved to be a winning campaign. So if he wants to stay in politics he would most logically want to stay on as governor.

Then there is the national scene to consider as well. The Republicans are looking to hold a real battle for the party presidential nomination in 1976. If Milliken wants to have a say in whom the party picks, he'll need to be more than a successful store owner from Traverse City.

There is surely one other factor in his decision too—it looks like he can win another term. The polls show him holding up quite well and Democrats are talking privately about how tough it will be running someone against him in 1974. When you are on top, the temptation is much less to leave.

That leaves the question of what will happen to Lt. Gov. James Brickley. Brickley took a pay cut to run for lieutenant governor in 1970 and some people thought he'd get first crack at the governorship when Milliken quit.

But another four years of waiting might be an awful lot to ask of someone with ambition. He could, of course, run with Milliken again. Or he could run for attorney general, especially if Democrat Frank Kelley turns down another term to make money in private practice.

Or he could take a judgeship somewhere along the line. No matter what he decides, there's little danger he'll end up starving.

DST Coming

Something new will happen in Michigan at the end of April. We'll go on daylight saving time with most of the rest of the nation.

In case you've forgotten, Michigan voters made that decision last November when they voted to adopt daylight saving time. That reversed a decision they made by the narrowest of margins four years earlier.

Actually, the state did experience one summer of daylight saving time after Congress passed the Uniform Time Act and before we exempted ourselves from the act. The act says everybody will observe daylight saving time unless the state expressly exempts itself. And it specifies any state going on "fast time" will do it along with the rest of the country.

What this means is that Michigan can go through the minor confusion which hits people all over the country when the time comes to change the clocks.

The question is always "Which way do we move the clocks this time?"

It's easier if you remember the concept behind "fast time"—that is to provide more hours of daylight time in the evening after work while people can spend outside while the sun is still up. So clocks are moved one hour ahead in the spring when DST starts and then one hour back in the fall when DST ends.

If all else fails there is the old slogan to help remember what to do with the clock—"Spring Forward, Fall Back."

Charles Lancaster and Robert Taylor both indicated that they would not seek re-election to their school board positions. Their four-year terms expire June 30.

Approximately 350 Chelsea area children gathered at Chelsea High School Saturday for the Jaycees annual Easter Egg Hunt. The Easter bunny, clad in a blue, pink and yellow bunny outfit and paper mache head made by a high school art class was present to supervise the hunt.

Tuesday, 30 Chelsea High school seniors boarded a Northwest Orient airliner for Philadelphia, Pa., the first stop on their three and one-half day senior trip. The 31 members of the senior trip club taking the trip spent from 9 a.m. to 1:30 p.m., Tuesday, in Philadelphia at Independence Hall, the home of Betsy Ross, Colonial Village, and other historic sites.

Two escapees from Ionia State Prison were apprehended early Wednesday morning by Chelsea Patrolman, Bruce Sibert, after a high speed chase on M-52. Sibert became suspicious when two youths inside a 1962 Chevrolet convertible, parked across from the fire station, ducked to avoid being seen. When Sibert approached, the pair drove off at a high rate of speed. Chief Meranuck commended Sibert for his "unusual display of police work" in apprehending the two, who he believed would have committed a crime locally. He also commended Joseph M. Merkel, who saw that Sibert was alone and assisted him until the other units arrived.

Miss Sophia K. Schatz, who had been a patient at St. Joseph Mercy hospital for the past three weeks, died there Sunday morning. DYNAMIC TOMOGRAPHY: The title alone might scare off some, but not David Wetzel, a student at Beach Middle School. David not only understands this new x-ray technique, he can demonstrate it with a special viewer he built himself. He won fifth prize in the Junior Division at last week-end's Southeastern Michigan Science Fair in Ann Arbor.

grew out of an interest in rocks he has had ever since he was "old enough to walk." His parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Bennett, have planned family trips around his fossil hunting expeditions to such places as southern Ontario and Ohio.

Just as his interest in rocks evolved into fossil hunting, his knowledge of fossils is leading Steve toward a career in biology. He plans to enter the science fair next year with a project that "has something to do with photosynthesis."

Chelsea's youngest successful scientist is David Wetzel, who constructed an exhibit for the Junior Division that is so large that it must be transported in a van. His explanation of dynamic tomography, a method of x-ray, won fifth prize in the Junior Division, in the models and collections category.

David has constructed a viewer which allows one to observe a series of specially x-rayed plates as they are shifted around a pivot point. This allows the observer to see the photographed image, which in practice could be a tumor in a patient's brain, from various angles. This method discloses much more information than a simple "straight on" picture could.

David, who lives at 9597 Half-moon Lake, received $20 for his achievement.

Easter Egg Hunt Set For April 21

The Easter Bunny is expected to appear on schedule, April 21, to host the Jaycee's annual Easter Egg Hunt, an event which makes the end of Lent especially sweet for the younger Chelsea residents.

The master of ceremonies will arrive, as he has in the past, atop a Chelsea firetruck. Miraculously, his 100 dozen colored eggs will already be waiting in the grass of Chelsea's football field.

Again this year, all pre-school, kindergarten, first and second grade children are invited to the field to meet the huge bunny and participate in the search for colorful eggs. Two special eggs will be hidden for each of the four age groups. These eggs will be worth prizes for the child that finds them.

The event will begin at 11 a.m. run at the Stockbridge meet. A 5:15-mile was enough to bag first place for Chelsea's John Beeman. Second man in was Ken Duxton at 5:35.5.

Chelsea placed first and second in the 100-yard dash, too. Karl Gauss was first with :10.7 while Ishmael Picklesimer shadowed him :11.2. Lee Ferguson and Bruce Guster were even closer in the 440-yard dash. Lee cut the wire first with :55.5 while Guster clocked :56.9.

Versatile Coltre was first again in the 180 low hurdles, being followed by Bill Tite who did the course in an even 24 seconds. The winning time was :22.6.

Chelsea took the first three places in the two-mile run. Leading the pack was Tim Haas who crossed the finish line 11 minutes and 36 seconds after the gun. John Storey was next at 11:43, with Dan Heydlauff taking third place, just a hair over 12 minutes.

Karl Gauss at :24.9 and Howard Salyer at :26.3 took the 220-yard dash. Craig Coltre, Don Pierson, Jeff Marshall and Jeff Van Riper were the components of the winning mile relay team.

Mark won a first prize, and Dale took a second in the regional competition at Saline, March 31.

Sergeant Wins Marksmanship Trophy

Sergeant Lenard McDougal and Officer Roger Graves represented the Chelsea Police Department last Sunday in a marksmanship tournament at Wyandotte. They missed placing as a team by 10 points, but the sergeant placed fourth in an individual event. McDougal earned the fourth-place Sharp Shooter's Award with a score of 584 out of 600. Policemen from as far away as Chicago and Cleveland attended the three-state meet. More than 250 competitors were present. Chelsea marksmen will next compete in a tournament in Springfield, O., in May.

OEO Branches Considering Their Future

As the Office of Economic Opportunity in Washington, D. C., is being dismantled, the local branches of that agency hope to continue their work, even after November when the national fund runs dry.

A special meeting, Tuesday, April 17, has been called to discuss the situation. It will be convened in Perry school, Ypsilanti, at 7:30 p.m. The school is located at 663 Harriet St.

OEO workers will also take this opportunity to show slides of Chelsea's teen center, Equinox. Chelsea's OEO Advisory Board urges all Chelsea residents to attend.

Randy Doby who works with both the Man Power and the Neighborhood Youth Corps will be one speaker at the meeting. The other, Bill Holt, head of OEO training in Michigan, will talk about the possibility of continuing OEO programs in Michigan.

The Neighborhood Youth Corps is one program that has made its presence felt in Chelsea. As many as 12 youngsters have been employed by it during the summers here in the village.

Because many OEO workers are already paid with county funds, the chances are good at least some of OEO's projects may continue under county direction.

Father Charged with Assault on Children

Harold Lester Harrison was arrested April 4 for assaulting his two children, Alfretha and William, at their home at 1185 Chelsea-Manchester Rd. The children, aged 19 and 18, respectively, have filed charges that he struck them on the head and shoulders with a tack hammer.

Harrison was arraigned in 14th District Court the same day for assault with intent to do great bodily harm less than murder. He pled not guilty and his bond was set at $30,000, $15,000 for each offense.

During an examination, Wednesday, the judge determined that the case should be bound over to Circuit Court, May 11. The bond was continued.

NO PLACE LIKE HOME: This white frame farmhouse has been a home to all three of these ladies since it was built in 1860. Mrs. Bertha K. Riemschneider, now residing in the Chelsea United Methodist Home, lived there with her husband from 1914 until 1962. The Phil Hosier family has since taken over the farming, but the land remains in Mrs. Riemschneider's name. She is shown here with Juanita Hosier (right) and the Hosiers' younger daughter, who "seem like family" to Mrs. Riemschneider.

Another Centennial Farm

Another centennial farm plaque is soon to be raised on another farm in the area. This one, now owned by Mrs. Bertha K. Riemschneider, was originally purchased by her father-in-law from the government in 1849. The original house stands on the land at 1290 Notten Rd.

Mrs. Riemschneider recalls the house was built in 1860 with wood from the farm's 126 acres. Square headed nails secured the planks.

She lived in that house from 1914, when she was Theodore Riemschneider's bride, until his death in 1961. Her niece painted a picture of the farmhouse which brightens Mrs. Riemschneider's quarters at the Chelsea Methodist Home.

Mr. and Mrs. Phil Hosier now live at the farm and continue to farm it producing many of the same crops, alfalfa, wheat, corn, that it has produced for more than 100 years.

Season's Last Travelogue Features Tour of Washington

JAMES METCALF

After five international travelogues, the Kiwanis Travel and Adventure Series will conclude its season, Saturday, with a subject closer to home, the nation's capital.

James Metcalf, narrator and photographer, says that "Wings to Washington, the Magnificent Capital," is the only major travelogue ever produced on this most important city. More than an important seat of government, he says, Washington, D. C., is the shrine of every American's heritage.

During Metcalf's flying visit, he swings by the familiar Washington monuments and zooms in on such institutions as the FBI, the National Gallery of Art, the Smithsonian Institute, the National Archives and the National Geographic Society.

The tour will include other stops at historic Georgetown, its old Stone House, and a ride down the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal. Mt. Vernon and the Ford Theater, the house where Lincoln died and the two Jimma Memorial are other points of interest Metcalf could not omit.

Metcalf has been in the photographic profession for nearly 20 years. These years of experience coupled with a sound technical and artistic background, a sympathetic interest in peoples of all races, plus a pair of restless feet and a private pilot's license qualify him for his many lecture appearances.

Metcalf, a native of Michigan, was educated to be a chemist at the University of Michigan. He worked his way through school with his photography which eventually earned him a scholarship to the professional school of Photography in Winona, Ind.

During World War II, Metcalf traveled extensively for the Army Ordnance Corps, producing training films. After the war, he operated a commercial and portrait studio in Detroit.

While on a family vacation trip to Central America in 1953, he became interested in making travel films and has since produced a series of travelogues on various countries in the western hemisphere. He has also produced promotional films for several large companies.

Recently, Metcalf has started production of a series of films for Walt Disney Films. In collaboration with his wife, he has contributed numerous magazine articles and stories to a variety of publications. They have also illustrated travel and textbooks for various book publishers, including Rand McNally and Doubleday, Inc.

One of the ways Metcalf covers the ground he does is with his own aircraft. He and his family have flown not only the length and breadth of the United States, but also extensively in Canada, Mexico, the Bahamas, West Indies, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands.

HOME FURNISHINGS

Debra Sue Lyons, Bobby Craft Wed at Chelsea Baptist Church

Debra Sue Lyons and Bobby Gene Craft were pronounced man and wife by the Rev. James Stacey at the Chelsea Baptist church, March 24. After a honeymoon week-end in Indiana, they settled at 6757 Peckins Rd., Manchester.

The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. John Lyons, Jr., of 12170 Roepcke Rd., Gregory. The parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. James L. Craft. They reside at 17500 Garvey Rd., Chelsea.

The bride, a senior at Chelsea High school, was dressed in a long, A-line silhouette dress. The veil lace and appliques on her finger-ring veil matched the trim on the fitted bodice, high neck and long bishop sleeves. She carried a French bouquet of white daisies and miniature carnations.

She was attended by Miss Vicki Burnett of 109 Grant St. The maid of honor's dress was also floor-length, trimmed in white lace. The organza bodice was attached to a white skirt, complimented by the olive green streamers of her bouquet. The maid of honor and the bridesmaids wore matching picture hats.

Two sisters of the bride, Linda and Carolyn, were bridesmaids along with a friend of the bride, Miss Linda Walker of Roepcke Rd., Gregory. They wore organza and lace trimmed dresses similar to the maid of honor's, except with maize-colored skirts. Like the maid of honor, they carried yellow and white daisies.

The mother of the bride wore a sleeveless polyester gown. Its turquoise color was accented by miniature carnations and a gold brooch.

The bridegroom's brother, Jerry Craft, served as best man. The ushers were Mike Wiley, Mike Lyons, and Billy Haworth. Grooms-men were Richard D. Foster, Neil Cova and Tim Cova, all of Chelsea.

The 75 wedding guests gathered for a reception following the ceremony given by the bride's parents in the church. Mrs. Velma Wiley cut the cake while Mrs. Betty Keirl poured the coffee. Mrs. Norma Haworth and Mrs. Anne Gyde served the punch. Miss Margaret Haworth supervised the guest book.

The bride left for their week-end trip dressed in a peach polyester floor-length dress, fashioned with full puff sleeves and a small v-neck.

Her husband is a 1972 Chelsea High school graduate. He has attended American Automation Training Center in Kansas City, Mo., and is now employed at Hoover-NSK Bearing Division, Ann Arbor.

Refreshments were served by co-hostesses, Mrs. Fred Moore and Mrs. James Sprague. The next meeting will be held April 24, at the home of Mrs. Fritz Weber.

DAN GAUNT

Dan Gaunt Winning As U-M Debater

Dan Gaunt, who made a name for himself as a Chelsea varsity debater a year ago, has gone on to greater things this year as a freshman at the University of Michigan.

After 89 rounds as a collegiate novice this year, Dan sports a 56-33 team record, a commendable achievement for the first year of collegiate debate, according to Bill Collins, Chelsea High debate coach. The other half of Dan's winning team is Wayne Mills, a graduate of Southfield - Lathrop High, which was Class A state champion last year when Chelsea was Class B runner-up.

Together the two freshmen have collected five team trophies while traveling around the country attending national novice tournaments. They brought home finalist trophies from both the University of Toledo and Ohio State University tournaments. In the latter competition, Dan was awarded a third place personal trophy for his performance.

He earned another such personal trophy at the Wayne State Novice Nationals, in which he and his partner rated a quarter finalist trophy.

They were octa-finalists at Notre Dame and Bellarmine in Louisville, Ky., in Novice Nationals, which means they were among the top eight teams debating. They also competed in West Illinois and Chicago Novice Nationals. All these meets were open to contestants from colleges and universities all over the country.

Who pays for living expenses (elsewhere) while they repair your home?

Most policies provide the coverages you expect—fire, lightning, storms, riots, vandalism and the like. They cover the cost of repairs due to these losses. But have you thought about the cost of living elsewhere if your home has to be repaired or rebuilt? It could run into hundreds of dollars. Or, it could be covered in black and white in our Homeowners Policy, so we would pay those extra living expenses! Give us a call. We'll put your home insurance all together in one policy for convenience and saving's sake.

★ Price Ceilings Not the Answer

As a nation, we have become used to spending a very small portion of our average income for food. Americans, for the most part, have been spoiled by our agricultural productivity and the efficiency and innovativeness of the U. S. food processing and distribution industries.

Most people refuse to recognize that the general pressure of inflation which continues to increase the dollar cost of everything we buy has, of course, influenced food prices. In the case of some key food products, available supply is slightly short, while demand is strong. This situation nudges the already inflated price even higher.

For the past few months, as food prices creep upward, some people have been yelling that the only way food prices could be tamed is by rigid controls.

There is no way price ceilings can cure this situation. The cost of supplies needed by a farmer to produce meat is not under a ceiling, so will continue to rise. Ceilings will simply reduce the rate of return to farmers and make it harder to invest money to increase production.

Consider the matter of beef prices which have been much in the limelight. The demand for beef has almost doubled in 20 years, which is the major cause of increased pressure on prices. The price of feed, which accounts for 80 percent of the meat producer's costs, has gone up like an express elevator.

What it all boils down to is that the forces of inflation all along the line, combined with increasing demand for some food items, have finally hit America's grocery bill, just as they have everything else. So, the natural thing to do is yell for controls.

But controls on one segment of the economy will only depress production initiative. If controls are to be the answer, they will have to be imposed all along the line to be effective.

District Spelling Bee Won By Ann Arbor Student

A buzz of activity pervaded the corridors of Beach Middle school, March 29, as 17 students from Chelsea and the surrounding area, converged for a spelling bee.

Representing Chelsea at this district competition were Carol Linebaugh, an 8th grader from Beach, Drew Sprague from North school and Steve Kvarnberg from South school. Both boys are 5th graders.

Taking the district title was Mark Tader, a 7th grader from Lutheran Redeemer school in Ann Arbor. His winning word, "cadre," will take him all the way to state finals in Detroit. The runner-up was Laurie Ponti, who attends the 8th grade in a Milan school.

Students from the 5th through the 8th grades were eligible for the contest.

Michigan has more than 11,000 inland lakes and more than 36,000 miles of streams.

COVENANT: The First Congregational church and the Rev. Carl Schwarm (left), exchanged vows Sunday evening in an installation ceremony which formalized their relationship as congregation and pastor. In the ceremony, which was specially planned to include every facet of the church as a whole, James Schardin, moderator of the church (middle), and the Rev. Richard Behringer, a close friend of the pastor, took part.

Congregational Church Installs New Pastor

A covenant was established, Sunday evening, as the Rev. Carl Schwarm officially became the pastor of the First Congregational church of Chelsea. While he vowed to uphold his responsibilities as pastor of the church, the congregation vowed to accept him as their teacher and leader.

Every facet of the congregation took part in the worship service, which began at 7:30 p.m. The new pastor had stipulated it be that way in order to underscore the interdependence of pastor and laity.

Because Schwarm believes that the congregation and the minister share responsibility for the church's welfare, he was pleased that the installing officer from the Michigan Conference of the Church of Christ was a layman. Lloyd Ruesink, moderator of the Ann Arbor-Jackson Association, conducted the formal installation.

The guest speaker for the occasion was the Rev. Richard Behringer, associate minister of the New England Congregational church in Aurora, Ill. Behringer was a seminary classmate of Schwarm's and remains a close personal friend.

The remainder of the service, the call to worship, the scriptures and prayers, were offered by members of the congregation. Representatives from the Board of Deacons, the Board of Trustees, the Women's Fellowship, the Couples Club, and Junior and Senior High Pilgrim Fellowships played a part.

Participants in the ceremony representing the groups were Dan Robbins, Max Hepburn, Stanley Weir, Rick Sweeney and Gertrude Kern.

Paul Mann and Lionel Vickers organized adult members as ushers while the children of the congregation were represented at the altar by acolytes Scott Chapman and Rick Eder.

Tom Cawood, the church organist and choir director from the University of Michigan, prepared special music for the ceremony. Among his selections was "Are Ye Able? Said the Master," the Rev. Schwarm's confirmation hymn.

A reception, arranged by the Women's Fellowship followed the service.

Immanuel Bible Church Presents Program At Methodist Home

Immanuel Bible church presented a program Sunday afternoon, April 8, in the Chapel of Chelsea United Methodist Home.

The program consisted of solos, duets, a ladies trio and some "action songs" by a group of children from the Bible Sunday school. A solo was sung by 10-year-old Melanie Schneider.

Following the musical section of the program, Pastor LeRoy Johnson presented an Easter sermon, after which the program was concluded with another duet.

The program was heard by a large number of Home residents who sat in the Chapel or in the lounges.

THE PROFESSIONAL EYE: Looking very much like the golf pro that he is, Carl A. Hegenauer is pictured here in the Inverness Country Club Golf Shop, his wife's domain. He has replaced the popular Fritz McMullen as the course's pro and greens superintendent. After 48 years in the golf business, Hegenauer is looking forward to the time at Inverness which will allow him more time for golf than did the duties attached to an 18-hole course.

Members Welcome New Pro At Inverness Golf Course

Members of the Inverness Golf Course have bid a reluctant good bye to the popular Fritz McMullen, pro and greens superintendent for the last three years, and have welcomed, with more enthusiasm, their new manager, Carl A. Hegenauer.

Hegenauer, a 48-year veteran of the "golf business," replaces McMullen who is going to a prestigious position as greens superintendent at Forest Lake Country Club in Bloomfield Hills. An Inverness spokesman said, "We hated to lose him, but we're glad to see him get such a fine job."

It is evident that the country club is confident that it has found a worthy replacement. Hegenauer, who comes from three years with an 18-hole course at Bad Axe, is similarly satisfied with the state of affairs. This nine-hole course is just the right size for a man of his 55 years, he says.

Hegenauer's career began with caddyding even before his parents built their own golf course in Saginaw. His father started the Wolverine Country Club when Carl was 10, and that remained the center of the youth's work and play until he became 22 and married. After a period of time in industry, the "big war" led Hegenauer into the Air Force where he traded his irons for the controls of a fighter plane. He was a captain when he left the service.

By 1950 Hegenauer was home again on the fairways, and has remained there ever since.

In his prime, Hegenauer was Saginaw city champion, but he admits now his game has seen bet ter days. "For the last 24 seasons I've been nothing but a 'working pro.' When you play once every 10 days, your game is bound not to be too good," he says ruefully.

He does look forward to improving that situation now that he is at Inverness. The smaller course will afford him more time to practice his craft.

Also while at Inverness, Hegenauer plans to give golf lessons and develop a program for junior members of the club. He will also be traveling with Inverness teams to pro-am and pro-pro events.

Hegenauer's love for the sport and the work is strong enough to have influenced an off-spring.

His son, Carl Mike Hegenauer, owns and manages the Franklenth Golf and Country Club. The young Hegenauer is "already" a class A head pro. "He was one of the youngest when he got his class A card at 25," says the proud father.

Hegenauer is not alone in his work. His wife, Pauline, will be managing the pro shop. They are presently enjoying their temporary accommodations at a summer cottage on North Lake. They will eventually move into the McMullen's former residence which borders on the course.

Thank You Notes Are Still Arriving

Thank you notes continued to arrive last week, addressed to such inspecific destinations as "The Jaycees, Chelsea, Mich." and "The Citizens of Chelsea." Nevertheless, the message got through.

Letters came from Carlton, Lake Orion and even Ann Arbor, all expressing the same sentiment, thanks for the shelter during the blizzard, March 17. Even as far afield as Fort Wayne, Ind., and Scarborough, Ontario, people remembered and wrote.

Some, like David B. Parkes, chairman of the board of the Washtenaw County Chapter of the National Red Cross, wrote to give credit for a job well done. Gene Shoemaker, Jiffy Market owner, was the recipient of that note. Others, like Gordon Chevalier of Detroit, wrote to say, "If I ever want to move to a small town, Chelsea shall be my first choice."

A parent of a member of the North Farmington High School Gynastic Team sent $5 in appreciation of the food and shelter her son received while stranded here with his teammates. Another team, a bowling group from the Pontiac Lions Club, was also stranded here during the storm. They sent a check for $50 with the thought, "It was more pleasurable to spend this weekend in Chelsea than if we would have gone through to our bowling tournament."

The donations, which were sent to the Jaycees, will help defray the cost of the hospitality. The Red Cross has arranged to pay for the food, gas, and phone bills accumulated in the process of rescue work.

Others who had been the recipients of Chelsea's kindness offered their services in payment. Kathleen J. Williams of Lake Orion wrote, "I am a registered nurse and my fiancé is a special education teacher. If we can ever be of service to you or your community in any way, we would be honored to have you call on us."

An insight into the more terrifying potential of the storm was given by Mr. and Mrs. Royal A. Baske of Fort Smith, Ark., who wrote:

"Bless the citizens of Chelsea, Michigan! On Saturday, March 17, our son, Scott, was returning home to St. Joseph from Ann Arbor after having had surgery on both eyes. With him were his wife and brother-in-law. They were three of the hundreds who were stranded on the highway by the snowstorm."

"He began to feel desperate because he is a diabetic and needed his evening meal. Then they were picked up by a gentleman in a snowmobile who took them to the hospital where they were fed. The receptionist then found a home for them to stay in that night."

"The next morning another man in a snowmobile brought him his insulin and syringe from a understanding pharmacist. They were given their breakfast and noon meal by the wonderful couple in whose home they were staying.

"Others then checked and rechecked the weather, took them to their car and wished them well."

"We have so many of you to thank and don't know your names. We hope that somehow this message will reach you so that you will know how very grateful we are."

More 4-H Spring Achievement Show Winners Listed

The official list of Spring Achievement Show winners issued by the 4-H office in Ann Arbor this week reveals that The Standard inadvertently omitted a few deserving Chelsea competitors from last week's article.

Young Misses Denise Robbins and Cindy Freed shared the limelight as members of the Top 30 modeling group. Of all the communities represented, only Ann Arbor had as many girls in that group as Chelsea's eight.

Cindy Freed, in addition to Susan Heller and Alicia Noah, received an honor award in the Young Miss Clothing Construction division.

Mike Fisk earned a rating as tops in leathercraft while Scott Powers received an honor ribbon for woodworking.

SHERIFF FREDERICK POSTILL, was the guest of honor and speaker at the Kiwanis Club Monday evening meeting this week. Also invited to hear his talk were the Chelsea Police Department, the Auxiliary Police, the Fire Department, the Auxiliary Firemen, and village officials. During his

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

Hurrah for "The Wife of a Road Worker." We have a tendency to thank the people who do things for us individually and forget the rest. During that week-end and the following one, I had help from my neighbors, the police department, a repair man from the gas company, the electric light crew, the village work crew, a plumber, and the city administrator.

Not one of those people helped me because it was his duty or because he was paid for doing something extra in time of need. It was just good Christian helpfulness and consideration which we take for granted because we pay taxes and utility bills and because our neighbors are neighbors.

I thank all who helped me and am mighty glad I live in Chelsea. A Senior Citizen.

it was easy to sell a house yourself.

Back then, you knew everybody in town. You knew who was getting married, who had just had a new baby. You knew who was looking for a new house—and they knew that yours was for sale. Getting together with the right buyer was as simple as attending the Sunday social.

Not today. There are a lot more people around now, and they're moving more often—more people looking for houses and more houses for sale.

Your home is the house to some buyer, but how is he going to find you? Sure, you can advertise, but that means answering the phone night and day and holding a perpetual open house.

A Realtor is a professional at matching buyers with houses. When a Realtor brings someone to your home, he knows that your home meets their requirements and that they can meet your selling terms. And he'll bring them only at your convenience.

If you have a house to sell, see a Realtor... then go to the Sunday social. (Or whatever.)
