'Fiddler' Age Groups Blend Harmoniously

How can a community that is 90 percent Jewish do a play that is 100 percent Jewish? One need only go to Japan to find the answer.

There, a Japanese actor in the local production of "Fiddler on the Roof" was shocked to discover that the play wasn't a home-grown creation. "But it's so Japanese!" he argued.

DiAnn L'Roy, director of the community musical which will be staged Aug. 2, 3, and 4 at Chelsea High School, likes to relate that anecdote because of what it says about Fiddler's appeal.

While being a story about Russian Jewish peasants at the end of the last century, the play is limited by neither culture nor time. Miss L'Roy suggests Teyve is "Everyman fighting against change, trying to hold fast the traditions he values and even battles. It is a life and death battle, in one sense, because his identity depends on them about this a lot," she says. "The Catholics in the east, for example, can empathize the Teyve because they have seen their church change, too."

It is these thoughts that lead

Miss L'Roy to say, "Fiddler is not the typical Broadway musical with neon lights and girls hoofing it up."

Nevertheless, it is entertaining. Both young and old will enjoy it just as both young and old are enjoying being a part of the cast.

"We have a wide range of ages represented in the cast," says Miss L'Roy. "The majority are in the 18-30 bracket but there are others between 30 and 40 and still others between 40 and 55. A few are under 18, too." Of them, eight are members of the Robert Powers family.

The mix is an effective one. "The older people are conscientious and reliable and they inspire the younger people to be the same way," says Miss L'Roy. "The younger ones are enthusiastic and that helps the older people lose their inhibitions."

Miss L'Roy feels that the way the generations are working so well together is an accomplishment enough to make work on the play worthwhile.

Rehearsals are moving along on schedule, reports the director, but she admits, "I wouldn't want to

Zion Lutheran Ground-Breaking Scheduled Sunday

Another chapter in the history of the 106-year-old congregation of Zion Lutheran church will begin Sunday, July 22.

After worshipping continuously in the same church, erected in 1867, the congregation will take the first step toward more modern surroundings. They will take part in a ground-breaking ceremony, marking the start of construction of their new church, which should be completed in a year.

The new structure, which will embrace the existing parish hall on the corner of Fletcher and Waters Rds., will include a nave that seats 280 church-goers comfortably with ample overflow areas. Together the new building and the remodeled parish hall will offer 22 classrooms in the full basement and on the ground level. Offices and rooms for choir, sewing activities and church fellowship will also be included.

The appearance of the colonial parish hall will be allowed to that dern architecture of the new church.

Cost of the construction project is now set at approximately $363,000 and when completely finished, it may well approach $380,000. Construction will take about a year.

The firm of Hahn & Hayes, Architects and Engineers, of Toledo, O., have furnished the building plans and drawings and will oversee the construction.

Local companies, Bridgewater Lumber, the general contractor, Luckhardt Plumbing and Heating, Saline, and Heller Electric of Chelsea will do the work.

The ground-breaking ceremony is to be the conclusion of the morning worship service at 9:30 Sunday. The congregation and guests will assemble and proceed to the site where they will form the outline of the projected building. Together they will pull a plow to break the ground. The Rev. John R. Morris, pastor of Zion Evangelical Lutheran church

TEAM NO. 1 was victorious again Tuesday night but it remains just behind Babe Ruth Team No. 2 in the standings. Being second best will not daunt them as they travel to Manchester this evening to play Manchester's Team No. 1. The above photo shows teammates, in the front row, from the left, Jeff

Petitions Seek Auto License Bureau Here

Ever since it was announced that the Secretary of State's branch office in Chelsea was closing, there has been discussion of how to avoid the inconvenient trips to Ann Arbor or Jackson every time a local resident needs to renew his driver's license, buy license plates or register a change of title.

There is a movement afoot to petition the state to open a Civil Service branch office here that would not only offer the services formerly found at Wallace Wood's office, but would issue new operator's licenses as well. "Think of the advantage of having our youngsters take their driver's test here rather than in Ann Arbor's traffic," said one advocate.

New Higher Interest Rates Announced

Chelsea State Bank has announced new higher interest rates on time Certificates of Deposits effective immediately.

Paul E. Mann, president of the bank, said that the new rates were made possible by the recent regulation set by the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System.

The Board of Directors of the bank voted to increase the interest on time Certificates of Deposits as follows: 7 percent annual interest on a new 48-month certificate; 8 1/2 percent interest on a certificate with a maturity of 2 1/2

Wolverine Bar, Walt's Clippers Undefeated in Softball Leagues

Fast Pitch

The undefeated Wolverine Bar fast pitch softball team made a meal of Jiffy Mix, July 9. The Wolverines whipped Jiffy, 13-1, with B. Pidd at his usual post, the mound. Losing pitcher Slane gave up seven hits and 11 walks while Pidd kept his statistics to four hits and two men gaining bases on balls. Wolverine's D. Clark hit the one homer of the five-inning game.

That same evening, Zion Lutheran met M & M Gravel and came out on top, 10-8. E. Heller chalked up the victory even though he gave his opponents seven hits and five walks. R. Thomas, pitching for M & M Gravel, allowed 10 hits and three walks. Koenigster of Zion's team and K. Fox for M & M made the home runs.

Sweepsters and Chelsea Merchants ended their July 11 contest with a score that sounds more like baseball. Sweepsters won, 5-2. Their pitcher, D. Clark, gave up three hits and five walks while his counterpart saw eight hits and two batters get to base on balls.

St. Paul lorded it over Adair Printing, 23-4, during their July 11 game. Buckner and Klapper shared the loss while J. Marshall helped his team toward the second place they now hold in the National League. It was a five-inning game with 15 hits for St. Paul and seven hits for Adair Printing.

L. Hutchinson took over pitching duties for Wolverine Bar when it faced Chelsea Methodist Home Friday the 13th. After giving up nine hits and four walks, R. Nik

Slow Pitch

In Slow Pitch League action this week, Walt's Clippers and IPSCO kept the score to a respectable 2-1 in the Clippers' favor at a July 10 game. G. Cornish, the winning pitcher, let four hits slip by while Roberts, the loser, allowed only two, but he walked two men.

That same night Lanewood and Rockwell fought to a 13-8 victory for Lanewood. Another big tally was registered when Rulea Farms and Mark IV met, July 12. Rulea saw 23 men come home while Mark IV batted in 13. Vogel, the winning pitcher, gave up 16 hits and two walks. L. MacColman did similarly. He gave up 17 hits

L. Schneider Accepts Police Job in Georgia

It is not often that a vacation turns into a new job opportunity but it happened that way for Louie Schneider.

Schneider, who has been supervisor of Chelsea's 14th District Court since January 1972, came across an advertisement for a chief of police while vacationing in Georgia last week. "It just jumped out at me," he says, "and I figured that I had nothing to lose." He interviewed for the position before coming back to Michigan.

After returning to his Gregory home last Thursday, he received a telephone call notifying him that the position was his. He takes over duties, Aug. 6, of the 10-man police force in Villa Rica, Ga., a town of 4,000 located 40 miles west of Atlanta.

This sudden change of jobs might throw some households into a frenzy, but while they may not be perfectly organized at this moment, the Schneider family at least is used to the chaos of sudden moves. They followed the head of the house for 21 years while he made a career in the U. S. Marine Corps.

The moving stopped only temporarily when they returned in the late '60s to Michigan, Schneider's home state, after his retirement from the military life. He was a Chelsea policeman for three and a half years before taking the court Supervisors' position. He is also senior deputy clerk at the court.

Schneider says his family is excited about the move even though it means selling their home and snowmobiles and leaving friends. They will not be complete strangers in the south, however, since Mrs. Schneider is originally from there.

They will make their move next week. Schneider, whose last day at the court is July 27, is obviously delighted with his new prospects. "I'm looking forward to the challenge," he says.

Sewer Project To Start Soon After Delays

The sewer project conceived by the village in 1971 to relieve the overload on the present system has been mired in bureaucratic red tape and easement disputes. Soon progress will be visible.

Work on the trunkline that will reach west from the sewage treatment plant will start any day. The contractor, Mayo Construction of Novi, expects to be done with the task by November, but Village President A. E. (Mac) Fuks calls that a possible but improbable prediction. Nevertheless, for that segment of the sewer project, the end is in sight.

The only possible hitch in the completion of the west trunkline, says Fuks, is that a few landowners on the west end have not yet signed over easements that would allow the village to run the line across their land. If they refuse, it will only mean that they will be deprived of the benefits of the sewer line. Quibbling at that end will not affect 99 percent of the planned construction, according to Fuks.

An easement dispute, however, has been a major factor in the obstruction of the east trunkline, says Fuks.

Originally, the Village Council decided to tackle the west trunkline first, believing that the bonding issue, passed in September, 1970, could not support work on both the east and west sections. When the bids came back on the west trunkline, they were unexpectedly low, leaving enough money to attack the problem from the east, too.

Work never got underway on the eastern segment, however, because the village was unsuccessful in getting the go ahead to lay the trunk across the Merkel property at the intersection of Taylor Lane and Chelsea-Dexter Rd. If the continuing negotiations fail to produce a satisfactory agreement, the village must either re-route the trunkline or take the issue to court.

While the easement negotiations dragged on, the contractor's time (Continued on page six)

READY TO GO: Twenty-one years with the U. S. Marine Corps that included a tour in Vietnam taught Louie Schneider how to make decisions fast. That habit of mind has apparently carried over into civilian life. He will be leaving next week for Villa Rica, Ga., where he will become chief of police of the 10-man force. He interviewed for the position, with the attitude "I've got nothing to lose," while vacationing in Georgia last week. The Saline native, who has been living near Gregory while working in Chelsea since his retirement from the Marines, will put in his last day as 14th District Court supervisor next Thursday.

Area Students On Honors List at Central Michigan

Nine students from the Chelsea area have been named to the academic honors list at Central Michigan University for their performance during the winter semester of 1973. In addition, two area students have been honored by CMU for achieving straight "A" averages for the semester.

On the straight "A" list, which is based upon winter semester grades without regard to cumulative averages, the names of Catherine J. Clark of 28 Sycamore and Lawrence P. Porath of 10280 Hadley Rd., appeared. Catherine is a sophomore and Lawrence is a senior.

In the academic honors list from Chelsea are: Debra J. Barker, of 18619 Old US-12, a sophomore; Eileen R. Bristle, 19020 Old US-12, a junior; Catherine Clark; Terry Ann Kelly, 501 Maywood, a junior; and Jackie L. McClain, 6130 Stofer Rd., a junior.

Dexter students on the list, which requires a cumulative average of B or better, are Mary Ann Dettling, 7669 Forest, a senior; Dennis Dale Morgan, 12204 Trinkle Rd., a junior; and Margaret Thornton, 7735 Second St., a sophomore.

Phil Helmerdinger, a junior of 10945 Koebe Rd., Manchester, represented that village.

A pot-luck dinner followed the service and visiting and games were the afternoon diversions.

This Sunday's service will include Holy Communion and baptism. Anyone wishing to contact the pastor regarding this service may call 663-0100 or 764-8242.

A family night is being planned for July 25. It will be held at the church from 7 to 9 p.m. After an hour of games, William Hoppe, a former member of the church and the community who is now employed by the State Forestry Department, will be the guest speaker.

Light refreshments will be served. All area residents are to avail themselves of this opportunity to get together and have an enjoyable time.

EAR FOR NEWS?

Ben Franklin, pioneer American printer and journalist, not only had a nose for news, but also a musical ear for news. As a boy he peddled on the street printed copies of a ballad he wrote chronicling America's earliest lighthouse tragedy, the drowning of the keeper of the Boston light and five companions in 1718.

Fire Destroys Weinberg Barn Early Sunday

The peace of Sunday morning was shattered for the Chelsea Fire Department and Jay Weinberg, 70, when a passer-by reported a fire in the Weinberg barn at 2005 Old US-12.

Firemen rushed to the scene at 7:15 a.m. but were unable to contain the blaze before it destroyed the structure. Another shed close by, however, was saved in the hour and a half the firemen worked.

The barn was reportedly not in use. Only some hay and straw from last year's harvest and numerous milk bottles were stored inside. No estimate of the financial loss has been compiled.

The cause of the fire is not known.

Auto License Bureau Here?

According to reliable sources, the Civil Service is in the process of deciding where to open the new area branch office. Ann Arbor has been suggested as a site although a license bureau and a fee office already exist there. They would be combined in the new civil service facility.

Those who are in favor of establishing an office here argue that it would not only serve western Ann Arbor and eastern Jackson, but all the smaller communities. A possible location for the office is the Michigan Consolidated Gas office at 103 N. Main St., which is due to close Sept. 1.

Those wishing to express an opinion about the branch office in Chelsea should write to Richard Austin, Secretary of State in Lansing or to his chief assistant, Walter C. Elliott at 13119 W. Seven Mile Rd., Detroit. An enthusiastic response from local residents might influence their decision in Chelsea's favor.

Sylvan Planners Study Proposed New Zoning Map

The Sylvan Township Planning Commission presented the new plan map to the Sylvan Township Board at its meeting, July 10. The map has been drawn up in accordance with the new zoning ordinance that is nearing completion.

After a few corrections are made, both the zoning ordinance and the map will be ready for publication. According to township clerk, Dan Murphy, the public hearing on the new ordinance should be some time in August.

The monthly township board meeting was devoted entirely to consideration of the map.

EASE TRAFFIC?
Bicycle enthusiasts point out that 43 percent of all urban work trips by car in the United States are four miles or less. They say if these trips were made by bicycle, it would ease traffic problems.

CUTE POSTER
Among several hundred posters made by school children celebrating U.S. Postal Service Week was one that read, "Old Mailmen Never Die, They Just Lose Their Zip."

MIXED SUCCESS: Bob Kelly's No. 3 Babe Ruth team has been up and down in the standings so far this season. They were downed again by Team No. 1 Tuesday evening. The players hope to reverse that disappointment tonight when they meet Chelsea's No. 4 team. Kelly's boys are, in front from the left, Barry Czarnecki, Kevin Kelly, John Collins, Randy Sweeny, Dale Headrick, Larry Cross, Brian Kallshek, Todd Headrick, and in the back row, John Toon, Dale Schoenberg, Mike Sweeny, Mark Dalton, coach Bob Kelly, John Adams, coach Dennis Morgan, and Victor Verchereau. Team member Ron Fouty was not present for the photograph.

Fiddler Cast Putting It Together

put it on tomorrow." She has no doubts, however, that everything will "come together" in the next two weeks. The only thing the production is lacking is an actor who can play the role of the crotchety old man who reads music.

Miss L'Roy is especially gratified with Jeff Daniels' performance so far. "It is hard to single out one person when the entire cast is so strong, but Jeff is special because he had so many barriers to overcome to create his role."

"Here is this 18-year-old from a prosperous American community," she says, "who is asked to play a man of 50 years who has suffered, Jeff was always good at being funny and always good at the bombastic parts of Tevye, but now he's growing into the character, coming to terms with his depth, feelings and even his pain."

She continues, "He has even developed a way of speaking like an old man and a way of walking like an old man."

New Sewer Work Starting...

limit on the accepted bid ran out. New bids will now have to be solicited and there is no guarantee that the 1970 bonding issue will cover new, and perhaps higher, bids.

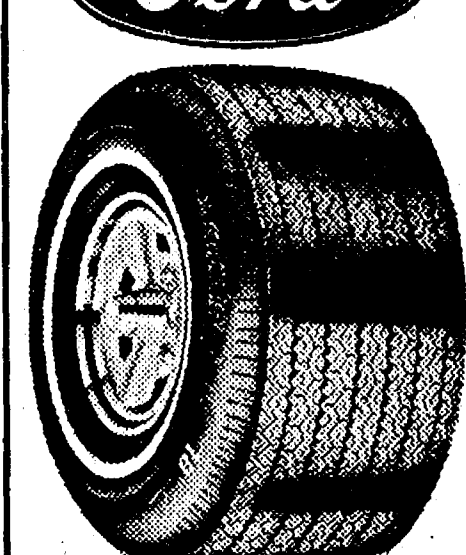

In the meantime, the Michigan Department of Health notified the village that it could not connect the eastern pipeline to the sewage treatment plant until the facility has been renovated. The state agency has granted the village's request to proceed with plans for the trunkline, but it cannot be used until the plant is updated.

Engineers are currently working on a renovation plan. Once finished, it will be submitted to the Health Department for approval. If approved, a cost estimate will be drawn up. It is expected in mid-August. Only then will the village be able to schedule the project and financing as its budget allows.

took the loss. While on the mound, Hutchinson gave up six hits and five walks. B. Pidd came in during the last inning and made two strike-outs.

Chelsea Merchants managed only one run against Westgate Auto, last Friday. The winners amassed 11 points. Westgate had the one homer of the game off P. Boham's bat.

Wolverine was given some competition by St. Paul July 15. They battled to a close 6-5 finish with B. Pidd of Wolverine Bar taking the win. The win came in spite of Wolverine's six errors. St. Paul had three errors and eight hits in contrast with Wolverine's three hits. Both teams had four walks. Wolverine's A. Ritt and G. Bush had the home runs that made the difference.

and two walks. Both home runs, by Scott and Altenberg, went to Rulea's credit.

Village Motor Sales blasted the Methodist church team, 17-5, July 12. R. Kiel for Village Motor Sales and C. Warren for the church assumed responsibility on the mound. Pasquantonio hit the home run for Village Motor Sales.

Mark IV was a man short when it met IPSCO, July 15. The result was a predictable win for IPSCO, 19-5. IPSCO's J. Hughes made two homers and Davis made one, all for the winners.

In the last of the slow pitch games this week, Walt's Clippers defeated Rulea Farms in a close 10-9 contest. Cornish and R. Myrals took the win while M. Ruhlrig lost. Clippers won in the bottom of the ninth.

Guest Speaker At St. Paul's For Sunday

St. Paul's United Church of Christ is opening its pulpit to an old acquaintance Sunday at the 9 a.m. service. Dr. Raymond Whitehead, who was an interim preacher at the church in 1959, will be speaking on "Christian in Today's China."

Whitehead, who is considered by some to be a leading expert on China, has lived in Hong Kong since 1961. He is a member of the overseas staff of the Board of World Ministries in addition to being a research consultant on Asia for the National Council of Churches. He teaches ethics at the Theology School of Hong Kong. Whitehead's visit to the area with his wife, Rhea, and their three children is occasioned by friends and relatives in the area. Mrs. Whitehead is the daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Theophil Menzel, former pastor of Bethel United Church of Christ of Manchester. Whitehead was a classmate of the Rev. Warner Siebert at Elmhurst College.

50 Sign for Aug. 16 Blood Donor Clinic

Bob Blank, a local scout in Troop 478 working toward the rank of Eagle Scout, has been making headway in his preparations for the Bloodmobile visit, Aug. 16.

Fifty volunteers have signed up to give blood that day.

The Red Cross has agreed to send the portable unit to Chelsea for the second time this year as a result of Bob's efforts. He will also be responsible for finding workers to help donors through the various stations as they give.

Donations logged that day will be added to the community's account so that if anyone in the community ever needs blood in an emergency, they may draw from the account without cost.

Bob chose a blood drive for his community project, a necessary requirement for achieving the prestigious rank of Eagle Scout, because he knows how badly blood is needed during the summer months.

He hopes to find 50 more donors. Without them he will never be able to meet his goal 100 to 125 pints.

Bob has placed sign-up sheets in Polly's, the Chelsea Card & Gift Shop and Chelsea Drug so area residents may sign up for an appointment at their convenience. He has also made arrangements at local industries in order to enlist participation there. The Bloodmobile will be parked at the fairgrounds building.

Bob is responsible for the project just this year. He hopes it will be taken on by someone else as an annual project.

St. Paul Drug Education Series Termed 'Success'

The six-session drug education program, offered last January at St. Paul's United Church of Christ, was an apparent success.

According to questionnaires filled out before and again after the course, those who participated not only absorbed valuable information about drugs but changed their attitude toward the drug situation.

The questionnaires reveal that people became much more aware of the specific qualities and potential dangers of both prescription and street drugs. They also learned about the effects of more common drugs, coffee, cigarettes and alcohol.

The mini-course, given by representatives from Washtenaw County Community Mental Health Center, also made participants better able to put the drug situation in today's culture in a new perspective, given what they learned about the sociological factors involved.

THE UNDERGROUND?

People in Montreal are going underground to patronize exclusive shops, restaurants, and theatres. A subterranean construction boom has carved a temperature-controlled city of more than 200 acres beneath the new skyscrapers and apartment buildings in the heart of Canada's largest city.

Area Building Activity Spurs

After a slowdown in the construction of new housing units in 1970 and a sudden spurt of activity in 1971, 1972 was rated a very good building year in southeast Michigan.

That was especially true to the northeast of us where Hamburg, Putnam and Unadilla townships busied with building activity.

Rural Hamburg had a gross total of 37 new housing units constructed. Twenty-two of those were new single family homes. Twelve were duplexes.

Putnam recorded an even greater increase in home building. Sixty-two new homes went up in addition to 30 duplexes and 18 multi-family units.

Similarly, Unadilla saw the construction of 35 new homes, eight new two-family units and 12 new multi-family complexes.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

On July 9th of this year, I went to the Chelsea School Board meeting to oppose the recommendation that will place the 5th grade students in the Beach school. The members of the Board graciously acknowledged my opinion and me and agreed to discuss the matter early in the evening, for our convenience, even though it was scheduled for much later.

I was given the floor to explain my reasons for opposing such a move. I was also given their polite attention. When I was through, the chairman of the Citizens' Advisory Committee, Ed Brown, reviewed many of the reasons why the committee decided on this particular manner to solve the schoolroom shortage. Other board members stated their views and Mr. Conklin and Mr. Benedict also explained some of the different aspects of the move.

While I did not and have not changed my opposition to the removal of elementary school children from elementary grounds, I want the people of Chelsea to know that they can be very proud of the men they have chosen to staff their School Board.

Even though I may not always agree with them, I am confident that I will always respect them. Mrs. Hal Pennington.

In Pinckney itself, five new homes and eight new apartment complexes blossomed.

Locally the pace was not so hectic, but growth was seen, nevertheless. In Chelsea alone, nine new homes were built in 1972, but that was the extent of the construction. No multi-family units materialized.

Dexter had fewer single family homes, only seven, but 13 multi-family units were erected. Signs of growth were seen in the townships, too. Twenty new homes sprang up in Sylvan along with 12 apartment units. In Scio township, 35 new homes were recorded. Forty-three new homes were built in Dexter township and 28 were seen in Lyndon township.

Although it is still too early to tell, one can see signs of building in Chelsea now that will change the profile for 1973. There are at least two apartment complexes planned within the city limits. That will be two more units than last year.

Church Women Seek Food For Michigan Migrant Workers

In response to an appeal from the Michigan Farm Worker Ministry (continuing the Michigan Migrant Ministry), Church Women United of Chelsea is in the process of collecting emergency food commodities for migrant workers within the state. The drive began on July 8 and will continue through July 22.

Last year Church Women United participated in a similar food collection drive and received more than 400 pounds of food and other needed items for this ministry. They are hoping to exceed this amount this year.

Approximately 60,000 seasonal farm workers are needed to harvest Michigan's fruit and vegetable crops this year. Nearly 45,000 will be migrant worker families who will travel northward from Texas, Florida, and other southern states.

Many times these workers and their families will arrive in Michigan without funds to purchase food. Food collected by Church Women United will be used to help them during this time and during periods of unemployment brought about by adverse weather conditions.

The following items are particularly needed: flour, rice, baking powder, oat meal, jelly, cooking oil, dry cereals, coffee, sugar, salt, canned milk, powdered milk, corn meal, dry pinto beans, peanut butter, canned meats, canned fruit juices, canned soups, and canned vegetables and fruits. (According to Department of Agriculture regulations, no home-canned foodstuffs or dented cans may be distributed.)

Other items very much needed are: blankets, detergents, bath soap, and toilet tissue. Please do not contribute perishable food or clothing.

Cash donations are also welcome. Checks may be made payable to Michigan Farm Worker Ministry.

Key Women of Church Women United assisting with this program and the churches they represent are: Mrs. LeRoy Buss, St. John's UCC; Mrs. Harold Davis, St. Paul UCC; Ms. Harold Eisenman, Zion Lutheran; Mrs. Judson Gottra, St. Barnabas Episcopal; Mrs. Howard Kern, First Congregational UCC; Mrs. Harold Rady, First United Methodist; Mrs. George L. Staffan, St. Mary's Catholic; and Mrs. Robert Thornton, Jr., North Lake United Methodist.

Boxes for the collection of these foodstuffs and other items are in each of the participating churches. The pick-up center will be the First United Methodist church on Park St., and contributions may be taken to the lobby of the Education Unit there if persons so desire.

HOCKEY GREAT GORDIE HOWE addressed 4-H Michigan 4-H'ers and leaders recently during the 4-H Livestock Judging Jamboree at the Calderone-Curran Ranches near Grass Lake. Howe, a member of the Michigan 4-H Foundation Advisory Council and owner of several head of cattle at the Calderone-Curran Ranches, told the 4-H'ers he was proud to be associated with them and that he would remain on the 4-H advisory council even after signing with the Houston Astros. The Jamboree, hosted annually by the C-C Ranches, included a training session in judging sheep, swine and beef; a tour of the home of the world's largest herd of registered polled Herefords; and a judging contest. Lansing—A five-year experiment to increase the membership from the out-county areas and to work more closely with the other local historical groups on meaningful projects.

Although Hazel Proctor, who is an assistant vice-president at Ann Arbor Federal Savings, is in charge of all public relations, advertising and marketing, she has had a varied background. After a brief career in teaching school and as art director for an advertising agency in California, she joined the staff of the Pasadena Independent-Star news as artist and feature writer. Later in Ann Arbor she worked with the Sam Fine Advertising Agency where she was account executive for Ann Arbor Federal Savings. In 1968 she moved to AAFS and her present position.

Mrs. Proctor's interest in history has led to a unique twist in the promotion of new Ann Arbor Federal Savings branch office openings. She has compiled old photographs and published historical pictorial books on the Village of Chelsea as gifts for the branch opening there. She is in the process of putting together similar books for Dexter, Ypsilanti, and another for Ann Arbor. Thus her personal interest in local history combined with her position in public relations has produced excellent pictorials of the early development of the villages of Washtenaw county.

Other officers for the Washtenaw County Historical Society are: David Pollock, vice-president and program chairman; Ethelyn S. Morton, secretary; and Ray Spokes, treasurer.

High Automobile Sales Establish New Title Records

Lansing—Booming motor vehicle sales in Michigan are shattering title records, according to figures released by Secretary of State Richard H. Austin.

As a matter of fact says Austin, "The records show that during 1973, each month since January has produced higher sales than the same month in any previous year."

He noted that the record for largest volume of titles received in his office in any single month has already been broken twice since the start of the year.

Austin reported "That record was topped first in March, 1973—when the total rose to 288,566. Then, this new record was immediately broken by the volume for the following month, April produced an all-time high of 318,342. The old record has been established in April of 1971—when the total was 281,375."

The title volume reflects sales of both new and previously owned vehicles, some of which actually may have been purchased for use in another state. The sale of Michigan license plates is also increasing along with the rapid upward surge of titles. Austin commented, "License plate sales have already exceeded last year's totals at this time, by almost a quarter of a million."

History of Michigan Fairs Dates Way Back to 1846

Fairs in Michigan can trace their ancestry of community importance back more than 300 years in history. The first fair to be staged on a regular day and date each year was held in New Netherlands in 1841. Michigan fairs, which had their beginning in 1846, today are a far cry from their historical predecessor with the fair visitor viewing hundreds of thousands of exhibits, with premiums amounting to more than $875,000.

The Michigan Department of Agriculture, which shares in the payment of the premiums, reported that in 1972, 102,137 persons exhibited at our fairs, while 5,090,374 patrons attended state and county fairs in Michigan. This attendance figure represents 57 percent of our state's population. B. Dale Ball, director of the Michigan Department of Agriculture stated: "Michigan's agricultural fairs have long been an inspiration for improvement of our great variety of agricultural products. Through the competition generated, fairs have contributed greatly to the development of Michigan's modern agri-business."

The annual fairs held in Michigan have built their outstanding reputations—both in the areas they serve and on a national scale—by consistently presenting something of interest for every family member. To merchants and manufacturers, Michigan's fairs have become an important marketplace. To the farmer, Michigan's fairs afford an annual opportunity for acquiring new ideas, a preview of modern agricultural products and farming methods. To the housewife, the fairs of Michigan have become an in-person contact with new and improved methods and ideas that embrace her entire daily world, to say nothing of the new products designed for her home. Michigan fairs present an opportunity for young people to participate in agriculture, hobbies and handicrafts and to compete for awards in their own categories.

There is nothing that can match the flavor, the color, the excitement, the crowds and the delightful uninhibited happiness that is always found at a fair, especially, a "Michigan Fair with a Flair."

"I REMEMBER" BY THE OLD TIMER

From Margaret H. Russell, Greenville, S. C.: Our rural mailman did much more than just deliver mail. The roads were mostly unpaved, and in the winter mud and snow he always made it through. We lived on one of these lonely country roads and the sound of his Model T. was almost the same as getting company. Regardless of what you were doing, you would pause to see if he stopped at your box. My grandparents lived about ten miles away near the post office. If we had an message to send he would gladly deliver it to them. Many times we rode with him for visits to our grandparents or other friends. If he had the time and if you were near the road, he would pass on news of neighbors along his route.

Sometimes we would wait for him if we had some important business to transact, such as buying one-cent postal cards or mailing a package. He would accept eggs as payment if hard cash was scarce. He took the package to the post office and left a note the next day telling you the cost of mailing. Computers and zips may speed the mail, but that personal touch seems to be missing today.

Mrs. William John Porter

Holly Powers, William J. Porter Wed Saturday in Chelsea Church

Harold Charles Powers gave his daughter Holly Anne in marriage, July 14, to William John Porter of Mass. R.D. Dexter.

Mr. and Mrs. Powers live on 540 Church Rd., Chelsea. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. William Ray Porter of Dexter.

Approximately 200 guests assembled at the First Congregational church in Chelsea to watch the evening ceremony that united the couple. The Rev. Carl Schwan and the Rev. Warner H. Siebert conducted the service.

The bride was dressed in her mother's wedding dress of ivory satin and white lace. A headpiece of lace and pearls held the shoulder-length veil. Her flowers were daisies and sweetheart roses.

The bride's sister, Charlene, was maid of honor. She wore a floor-length floral gown made of voile. Also attending the bride were Mrs. Thomas Taylor, Mrs. Melanie Lee, niece of the bridegroom and Bonnie Powers, the bride's sister. The latter was also the vocalist who sang while accompanying herself on the guitar.

The brother of the bride, Rod Powers, was best man. Richard Bollinger, Ron Bush, friends of the bridegroom, and Scott Powers, brother of the bride, were ushers. They are all of Chelsea.

The bride's cousin, Melinda McCulla of Dexter, dressed in a yellow dotted swiss dress, and Laura Lee, niece of the bridegroom, in a green dotted swiss dress, were flower girls.

SUNDAY'S SERMON

★ God and Children

Some of us are not fulfilling our obligation to God by not instilling in our children a love for God and the proper religious and spiritual values. Too many people feel that just an hour a week in Sunday School is enough religious education. They are so wrong.

God is not with us for just one hour of the week. He is with us always, every moment and every second. If we are not mindful of God and His works in our daily lives, how can we ever expect our children to learn this. One hour of religious education a week can easily be voided if we do not practice what we preach during the rest of the hours in a week. Sunday School and other religious training is meant to supplement what we, as parents, should be constantly trying to teach our children.

What should we try to teach them in our daily lives? The answer to this is: God loves us. He cares for us, we need Him. He is alive and well in today's world and in our hearts, and that God's glory, mercy and love never end—he is with us always. Are you fulfilling your obligation?

Cutting Board May Be Source of Food Poison Organisms

Your kitchen cutting board is a potential source of the tiny organisms that cause food poisoning. You can, however, reduce the danger of transferring bacteria from one food to another, says Ken Stevenson, assistant professor of food science and human nutrition at Michigan State University.

One way is to get rid of your porous wooden cutting board and buy one of the newer plastic cutting surfaces. The non-porous nature of the plastic provides no traps for micro-organisms and washes clean easily.

If you use a wooden cutting board, be sure to scrub it thoroughly after every use. Use hot water, plenty of detergent and a stiff brush.

Such cleanliness is very important, Dr. Stevenson explains, because micro-organisms are present in almost all foods and may be transferred from one to another. Raw chicken, for example, may be contaminated with the organism responsible for salmonella poisoning. These organisms are normally killed during cooking.

If you cut the chicken on the cutting board, you transfer some of the organisms to the board. If the board is not thoroughly scrubbed before you use it again, the organisms will be passed on to some other food. If transferred to foods which are not cooked, such as salad ingredients, they may cause food poisoning.

A primary factor in the marketing of livestock and meat is the consumers' desire for a minimum of fat on the meat they purchase. Thus, in addition to developing meat-type animals, the livestock and meat industry now markets livestock at lighter weights than was the case 20 years ago. Moreover, in most instances where there is excess fat it is trimmed by the meat packer and/or retailer.

The reception after the wedding was held at Chelsea Rod and Gun Club with Mrs. Lawrence Gaken, a friend of the bride managing the guest book. Mrs. Ronald Lee and Mrs. Ray Wilson cut the cake and Debbie and Susie Wilson poured the punch. The bridegroom's aunt, Mrs. Richard Elisele, served coffee.

Dressed in a yellow knit pant suit, the bride and her husband left for a wedding trip in Northern Michigan and Canada for a week and a half. They will return to Conell Court, Ypsilanti, where the bride is attending Eastern Michigan University. Her husband is employed by G & E Electric as an electrical apprentice. He attended Washtenaw Community College.

CRUTCHER - WINDELL: Mrs. B. W. Finnell of Holliday, Tex., has announced the engagement of her daughter, Brenda Lee Crutcher, to Edward G. Windell, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. She is a graduate of Wichita General Hospital school of nursing and is working as a registered nurse at Wichita General in the intensive and coronary care units. Her fiancé is a 1965 graduate of Chelsea High school. He served in the army for three years and is currently attending Midwestern University and working at Wichita General Hospital in the respiratory therapy department. Her fiancé, who was graduated from Dexter High school, is employed by IGA Walco Food Store in Dexter. The couple plans an Aug. 4 wedding.

Thought For Food

Leftover roast beef can be spruced up for second-day service by heating in a wine sauce. For Second-Day Beef Burgundy slice cooked roast and cut into strips. Stir into hot gravy to which burgundy wine has been added to taste. Add sliced fresh mushrooms cover and cook slowly until heated through. Serve over cooked noodles or rice.

Beef offers a variety of cuts for outdoor grill-top cookery. Tender steaks such as Porterhouse, T-bone, sirloin, club, rib and rib eye are ideal for broiling, but they're not the only choice. Marinated blade steaks, top round and cubed steaks are also appropriate selections. Tender cubes of beef for plain and fancy beefburgers are other good market choices for the grill.

SUNDAY'S SERMON

★ When To Worship

Worshipping God should take place in each of our lives longer than for one hour on a Sunday morning. God is all around us, every minute, every second of the day, no matter where we are—He is there.

God gives us the weeks and the months and the years. Shouldn't we give Him more than a few moments a week or a month? We should thank God for the simple and small things of life, the everyday events. We should praise Him for the beauty and bounty he has supplied for us. For God is great and we claim to be His people. We need God and we must admit that without him there are few things of any worth that we can do.

God asks so little of us, and yet He gives us so much. His love and mercy never ends and He never tires of us and our evil ways. Let us thank God more often and try to be mindful of His presence in every area of our lives.

It is estimated that about one-third of persons 65 years of age and older suffer from some type of hearing losses, according to hearing specialists. They point out that most of these losses are slowly progressive, ranging from hardly noticeable to possibly incapacitating.

Parasites Introduced in County To Control Alfalfa Weevil

525 Acres, Washenaw county, Michigan, is hoping to use parasites to control the alfalfa weevil and thereby diminish the use of insecticides in Washenaw county.

But Washenaw county is not alone. Other county extension agents from lower Michigan and Michigan State University are working at MSU's Gulf Lake Experiment Station in June in an effort to capture Microgaster, a natural parasite of the alfalfa weevil.

But then, the parasites, adult weevils back to Washenaw county where he released them in two fields which had been neither sprayed nor cut. If the program is successful, the parasites will manage to control the alfalfa weevil population and reduce the need for insecticides.

The alfalfa weevil infests about 500,000 acres in Michigan, costing farmers about $11 million per year in hay losses and control costs.

"The alfalfa weevil can destroy 20 percent or more of an alfalfa crop. On the average, this means about a half-a-ton per acre, which is a lot of feed."

The pest can be controlled by insecticide spraying, but this method is undesirable.

"Alfalfa is a low-value crop and pesticide spraying is relatively expensive. But by initiating biological control, the parasite will do the job with very little trouble or cost."

BEANS SAME AS GOLD

Beans were once considered to be worth their weight in gold—the jeweler's "carat" owes its origin to a pea-like bean on the East Coast of Africa.

BOARDING A BUS bound for one of several campus tour stops during County Commissioners' Day at Michigan State University are Washenaw county officials (left to right): County Extension Director Don Johnson; Geraldine Creeth, executive assistant to the Board of Commissioners; and Commissioner Kathleen Fojtik. Sponsored by MSU's Co-operative Extension Service, the biennial event gave some 200 county officials an opportunity to see current research projects at the university.

Attend County Commissioners Day on Michigan State Campus

Geraldine Creeth, executive assistant to the Board of Commissioners; and Commissioner Kathleen Fojtik of Washenaw county were among some 200 Michigan county commissioners who visited Michigan State University Thursday, June 21 as guests of the MSU Co-operative Extension Service.

Accompanied by Donald R. Johnson, Washenaw county extension director, they conferred with MSU extension officials who presented an overview of state-wide extension programs planned for 1973-74.

The commissioners also met with participants attending two major annual extension events—4-H Exploration Days and College Week for Women—which attracted more than 4,800 women and young people to the MSU campus during the week.

Another feature of this year's County Commissioners Day was a tour of 10 MSU research installations, including waste management projects at the swine research center and poultry science department; the dairy, beef and endocrine research units, the School of Packaging and the College of Human Medicine.

Lakes Area Septic Tank Survey Started

The Washenaw County Drain Commission announced today that it is undertaking a septic tank survey of the Portage-Baseline Lakes area. The survey is aimed at determining how much pollution, if any, is going into the lakes from the surrounding homes. The data collected will be used to help determine general water management policies for the area.

According to Drain Commissioner Jerome K. Fulton, "This study will give us some solid information on where the pollution is coming from. We will then be in a position to recommend positive action for upgrading the quality of these important recreational lakes." Results of the study will be reported in summary form to facilitate broad policy decisions rather than zeroing in on individual property owners.

"It is vital to have everyone's co-operation in this study if we are to get an accurate picture of what is happening on these lakes," stated David Calef who is directing the project for the Drain Commission. According to Calef, during the next two months two interviewers, Jody Miller and David Frank, will be talking to property owners on Portage, Little Portage, Baseline, and possibly Whitewood and Tamarack Lakes. They will be asking homeowners a series of questions about their septic tanks.

Information collected in the field will be co-ordinated with data on soil types to determine how well the soils around the lakes are filtering the effluent that is coming from the homes.

Several units of local government, in addition to the Portage-Baseline Lakes Property Owner's Association, will be working closely with the Washenaw County Drain Commission on this project. These include the Health Department of Washtenaw County, the Health Department of Livingston County and the Drain Commission of Livingston County.
