Cagers Down Lincoln, 69-50, For First Win

After two past season defeats at the hands of Baker and Kalamazoo, the Chelsea cagers recorded a well-named victory over Lincoln last Friday night, 69-50.

Coach Baisi's Bulldogs jumped to an early 19-16 lead at the end of the first quarter, then went wild with 30 points in the second. At the same time, the defense was stung by Railspitters' bucket attempts and held the opposition to but five points. The total score had a 19-point lead at half-time.

Continued "defensive" vigilance and some hot scoring enabled Chelsea to maintain that lead throughout. Coach Baisi's Bulldogs substituted freely in the final quarter, enabling all of his squad to participate in the winning effort.

Topping Bulldog scorers were Dave Alber with 25 points, followed by Tim Treado, 22; Ron Kiel, 12; Rick Sweeney, eight; and Randy Musbach, two.

In rebounds, co-captain Treado led the Bulldogs with 15, followed by Alber with 14 and Kiel with 10. Coach Baisi's Bulldogs ventured that the team "played really well—they really put it together. After two heart-breaking losses by two and three points, it was a good game."

Baisi mentioned the squad's teamwork and strong defensive efforts as "key factors in the win."

Praise in particular was directed to junior forward Alber, senior forward Treado, and junior center Kiel for their line play.

The victory moves Chelsea into a four-way tie for third place in the Southeastern Conference with Brighton, Dexter, and South Lyon in the usual early-season jam-up. Chelsea's over-all record stands at 1-3 and 1-2 in the conference.

This week-end the Bulldogs will meet Novi and Brighton in successive encounters Friday and Saturday nights. Wins over both teams would launch Chelsea into a less-congested tie for second place.

Winter Choral Concert Set For Sunday

Selections from the hit musical Godspell and an appearance of a familiar group with a new name will highlight the joint winter concert this Sunday in Chelsea High school auditorium.

Appearing in the presentation will be the Girls' Glee Club, the Concert Choir, and the Villagers, formerly the Madrigal Singers.

The Concert Choir will open the program with "Bouree for each" and then sing the seasonal favorite, "Hallelujah Amen." Enhancing the presentation of selections from Godspell will be the talents of Wyn Canton and Bruce Galbraith, with Pamela Wilson as regular accompanist.

The Concert Choir will close their portion of the evening with a festival arrangement of "Joy to the World," complete with brass and tympani.

The newly-renamed group called the Villagers, 17 voices strong, will perform five numbers in this, their first high school appearance of the year. Their offerings will include "The Declaration," based on the Declaration of Independence, "Carol of the Bells," "Color My World," a Chicago hit; "Green, Green," and as a finale, the "New Ahmolean Marching Society and Students Conservatory band."

The change in name for the group has been prompted by a simultaneous change in the group's image, says DiAnn L'Roy. In the past, the Madrigal Singers rehearsed in preparation for festivals and concerts. But in the

Wrestlers Win Over Lincoln, 2nd in Tourney

Far too little competition on one hand, and just a bit too much on the other was what Chelsea High's wrestlers encountered in their opening week of the season in a meet against Lincoln and tournament action at Dexter.

In the season opener last Thursday, the local grapplers piled up points all over Lincoln's Railspitters, 63-3, although Coach Richard Bareis ventured that Chelsea fans should hardly take this as indicative of the rest of the season.

"While it was a very impressive win," Coach Bareis reported cautiously, "Lincoln is very inexperienced. Chelsea will be facing a lot tougher competition in the near future."

Still, the names of triumphant Chelsea wrestlers have nice rings to them. The squad recorded nine falls, one decision, and one forfeit, while losing only at 185 pounds.

VFW Post Acquires Meeting Place

After 25 years of meeting in various places, including private homes, VFW Post No. 4078 has finally found a real home.

As of Dec. 1, post members have leased the former Tailfeather Boutique at 105-B N. Main St., and have scheduled this week's meeting there. Auxiliary members, who have been meeting in the Rebelah Hall for the past several years, will join the move in January.

Although small, post members report that the group has managed to keep up its monetary obligations to the widowed, orphans, Veteran's Hospital, and the Eaton Rapids National Home.

Former servicemen who have served overseas in time of war and those who have served in the occupational series are eligible for membership and should contact either Mac Packard or Frank White, commander, if interested in joining.

Mrs. Frank White is president of VFW Auxiliary and may be contacted by any mother, sister, wife or daughter of an overseas veteran interested in joining this organization.

Now the old substitution is more or less just a memory, with an old artist's representation of it standing next to the Federal Screw building (back when it was the Chelsea Screw Co.), complete with ancient items like streetcars on Main St., hung in the office at the plant.

The addition to the plant will provide 10,000 additional square feet of space to Federal Screw's present 85,000 square footage. Steger said that primarily the addition is expected to make the plant's operations "more orderly" in that it will provide more manufacturing space and allow the company to re-organize equipment and workers.

Federal Screw Works itself, apart from its association with the DUR station, has had quite a history in the Chelsea area, according to the 125th Anniversary edition of The Standard. Organized in 1913 by M. J. Dunkel, Conrad Lehman, and Pauline Girbach, the company and its 10 employees had their first business site at 203 Railroad St.

The specialty of the company, then as now, was special screw products. Rapid growth made it possible for the company to begin construction, in three years, of a new building on part of the present site, that provided more than 4,000 square feet of floor space.

At this point, the electric railway adjacent to the building was the principal carrier of Chelsea Screw Company's products. "But that, of course," notes Steger, "was soon taken over by trains."

THE OLD DUR STATION, which has stood vacant for a number of years, was demolished this past week to make way for a 10,000 square foot expansion of the Federal Screw Works plant. Built around the turn of the century, the building was a substation for the hustle and bustle of the old electric railway that ran between Detroit and Jackson, stopping at numerous village and rural points along the way. The new addition is expected to be completed in summer of 1974.

Federal Screw Works Starts Construction on Plant Addition

Try to remember when Chelsea was served by an electric railway that hustled passengers and freight from Detroit to Jackson.

Memory doesn't go back that far? That may be understandable, since the line was discontinued around 1929. For more than 40 years after service ended, however, the old DUR power station stood adjacent to Federal Screw Works on Main St., a slight historical nudge to those who recalled Chelsea's old days.

Last week however, the old once again made way for the new, when the old building, vacant for many years, was demolished to provide for a new expansion plan by Federal Screw Works.

L. J. Steger, vice-president and general manager of the Chelsea Division of Federal Screw, recalls the heyday of the electric railway, which began operations near the turn of the century. "It would stop every couple of miles in the rural areas," Steger recalls. "And there was also a stop at the Old People's Home and other places around. Usually all you had to do was go out and wave for it, and it would stop. The depot was where the Pure Oil station is now."

Now the old substitution is more or less just a memory, with an old artist's representation of it standing next to the Federal Screw building (back when it was the Chelsea Screw Co.), complete with ancient items like streetcars on Main St., hung in the office at the plant.

The addition to the plant will provide 10,000 additional square feet of space to Federal Screw's present 85,000 square footage. Steger said that primarily the addition is expected to make the plant's operations "more orderly" in that it will provide more manufacturing space and allow the company to re-organize equipment and workers.

Federal Screw Works itself, apart from its association with the DUR station, has had quite a history in the Chelsea area, according to the 125th Anniversary edition of The Standard. Organized in 1913 by M. J. Dunkel, Conrad Lehman, and Pauline Girbach, the company and its 10 employees had their first business site at 203 Railroad St.

The specialty of the company, then as now, was special screw products. Rapid growth made it possible for the company to begin construction, in three years, of a new building on part of the present site, that provided more than 4,000 square feet of floor space.

At this point, the electric railway adjacent to the building was the principal carrier of Chelsea Screw Company's products. "But that, of course," notes Steger, "was soon taken over by trains."

By 1919, another wing was added, which included the present Main St. office. Within a few years, the company had expanded outward to Congdon St., with a total square footage of 30,000.

Booming business and similar concern prompted the merger between Chelsea Screw Co. and Federal Screw Works in 1928, which had been founded but nine years before, and had flourished at a rate parallel to that of the Chelsea company.

The merger may have been what saved the Chelsea Division of Federal Screw. During Depression years, two of the Detroit-based operation's divisions, ones in Lansing and Cleveland, were forced to close, but the company hung onto its Chelsea Division.

After those lean years, the company experienced an incredible boom during World War II, when production was at such a level that the Chelsea Division alone boasted 650 employees and was forced to mushroom into every vacant factory building in town, including the clock tower of the then-Glazier Stove Works (now Central Fibre) and Glazier's Welfare Building, now The Standard office.

After the war, with a stated desire to make a reputation as the producer of "close tolerance, fine finish, and hard to make metal components," Federal Screw proceeded with a large expansion program that totaled 35,000 square feet, which brought it to its present size.

Steger expects the new addition to be finished in mid-summer of 1974. "Three walls are already up," he says, "so all that really has to be done is put up the front, the roof, and pour the floor, but we figure that we won't be able to get the steel until April."

With all the new space, he anticipates that some new employees will be added to Federal Screw's present 200-person force—"particularly if business continues as it has been. But of course we can't tell if it will, any more than anyone else can, with all this energy stuff going around."

For a place that survived the Depression and eventually thrived, it seems that things will work out.

Get-Together Arranged for CHS Grads

What happens after high school is a question of concern to any senior who intends to exist after June of 1974.

Whether that same senior will do anything effective about what happens after high school is another situation entirely.

To provide at least an indication of what has happened to other students who have left the hallowed halls of Chelsea High school, the National Honor Society invites seniors and any CHS graduate presently furthering his or her education to attend a get-together in the high school library next Friday afternoon, Dec. 21.

What seniors may expect once they enter the proverbial "outside world" away from this community, and what will happen that they don't expect, are hoped to be topics about which graduates will be able to provide insight.

The get-together is scheduled for 2:30 p.m.

Blood Bank Clinic Slated Saturday At Fair Building

In last week's issue of The Standard, it was incorrectly reported that the date for Chelsea's blood drive is Dec. 14. The correct date is Saturday, Dec. 15. Appointments to give blood may be obtained by calling 475-2593. The clinic is scheduled for 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Fair Service Center.

Holiday Art Show

Monday and Tuesday are the days for Chelsea High school art students to display their wares in a holiday art show—sale and ice cream social. The show will be located in the high school art room; time is Monday, Dec. 17, and Tuesday, Dec. 18, from 7 to 9:30 p.m., or during the school day Tuesday.

Voting Monday For Expansion Of All Schools

On Monday, voters of the Chelsea School District will decide whether or not they will provide a requested $4.8 million to finance additions and remodeling of the district's four schools.

That, in simple terms of the question, is what the election is about.

But more than that, the question is, according to the Chelsea Board of Education, administrators, teachers, and members of the citizens ad hoc advisory committee, whether Chelsea voters are willing to tax themselves more to improve their school system.

The question, more emotionally stated, might be, "Will Chelsea voters move fifth graders back into the elementary schools?" or "Will Chelsea voters assure continued North Central accreditation for the high school by lengthening classes from their present 43 minutes?" or possibly, "Will Chelsea voters improve the physical education offerings of the school district and the recreational facilities of the community by providing a swimming pool?"

These, as well as the request for $4.8 million, show the true nature of the proposition, one which has already endured considerable discussion, trimming, and revising as it now stands before public scrutiny.

Every school in the district has been affected by crowding situations, the citizens ad hoc advisory committee has reported, although those situations are oftentimes not readily visible on a casual look at the school.

At Chelsea High school, class size is presently somewhere between 28 and 30, which, although above levels recommended by the North Central accreditation agency, is still acceptable.

The problem in the high school, however, is the nine-period, 43-minute class hour, which is tolerated by North Central on only a temporary basis before a school loses its accreditation. "It was simply impossible to schedule 870 kids into this place in seven periods," Richard Lapanowski, assistant principal at the high school, said recently. "And although North Central is not pleased with 43-minute periods, it was all we could do."

Crowding in the high school has also made necessary the use of "specialty rooms" for regular classrooms occasionally, since the school is filled to "99 percent capacity at all times." Reported Lapanowski, "Usually the only rooms that aren't in use every hour are ones like the electricity or home economics rooms, which just don't lend themselves to other sorts of classes."

"But even some of these rooms we've had to use for classes other than the ones they were intended for," he continued.

In the high school's cafeteria, however, crowding is decidedly more visible. Three lunch periods per day, the first beginning at 10:42 and the final one running until 1 p.m., are necessary to provide lunch for all the students. And even then, Lapanowski explains, the hope is that "when they're finished they'll go out into the main building so everyone can have lunch."

Beach Middle school's primary crowding problem is due to the fact that it's also home for fifth graders, who were last year included at the elementary schools. The school is presently operating at near-capacity enrollment, with 900 youngsters, and can accommodate no further increases.

Says Principal Alan Conklin, "If there's any influx in the junior high population, no additional sections will be opened. We'll just have to stick them into the existing ones." But administrators say that increases have come only in high school and junior high levels, so the possibility of its population stabilizing seems unlikely.

Another problem pinpointed in the middle school is the inadequate physical education facility, the gymnasium in a word, which must accommodate 120 youngsters per hour under two different teachers. Further, locker facilities are provided for only 60, which necessitates the use of locker baskets.

Conditions in the elementary school have only been made bearable by the sending of fifth graders to Beach Middle school. Says Principal Sylvester Wojcik of South school, "We're probably three rooms short in the elementary schools to provide for 5th graders."

Robert Benedict of North school agrees, explaining, "Last year, we had kindergartners in another building; this year, when we brought the kindergartners into the elementary schools, somebody had to go. There just wasn't enough room."

Moving fifth graders back into the elementary schools would mean total elimination of a designated room for art, and music, for example. There class size regular classrooms, which would be needed if the fifth graders were to return. "We'd have to go to some sort of traveling teacher system," predicts Wojcik.

Further, in both elementary schools, the gymnasiums are used for two hours per day as lunch-rooms.

SHANNON FREDETTE seems more interested in the camera than any conversation he might have with Santa. Maybe he and Santa engaged in better talk when the subject turned to Christmas presents, which any child 2½ years old no doubt finds interesting. Shannon's mother, Mrs. Charles Fredette, looks on. Local businessmen who have been working overtime on his scheduled appearances to make certain all the children are able to tell their Christmas requests, which certainly must be trying in this, his busy season, Santa graciously has seemed never to mind waiting until speaking to the last youngster in line, or comforting crying little ones who don't really understand who's lap they're on.

Local Schools Need More Space

Students

The general consensus would be that the schools are overcrowded. The school board, which has the physical education program, is also overcrowded.

Further, an additional 10 classrooms are needed to house the students. The school board is also overcrowded.

There are what educators call "sit-ins" — kids just sitting in classrooms because their parents or the society say they have to graduate from high school. We want to provide something for these kids.

Also at the high school, the proposed building program would provide for expansion of the cafeteria into what is now the library, to eliminate the need for the current "eat and run" policy.

Then, a new library, or instructional material center, patterned after the center at Beach Middle School, will be constructed. The concept here, report board members, is decidedly "more than books on a shelf."

The proposed construction of a swimming pool at Beach to relieve physical education crowding has been viewed on some fronts as a needless extravagance.

Board member Daniels, however, has said that "the greatest thing we can do is build this swimming pool."

An addition to the present gymnasium, Daniels says, would be just that — more gymnasium. The swimming pool, however, has numerous community, as well as school, possibilities.

In Milan, community and recreation groups have wide access to the pool, in addition to its use for male and female varsity and A, B, and C level swimming clubs.

Similar use would be planned for the pool in Chelsea.

In the elementary schools, a total of six general classrooms in the two schools would be constructed, in addition to two kindergarten spaces at North Elementary and a special education space at each.

Further, "auxiliary spaces" in the form of specialty rooms would be added to the two present buildings to remove the need for specialty classes to be conducted in less-than-adequately furnished general classrooms.

A cafeteria with stage will replace the gymnasium as the center of lunchroom and assembly activity, and an instructional media center will be added at each of the two schools.

Funding

If the proposal is approved next Monday, funding will be provided by a three-mill tax levy, which will raise an estimated $300,000 per year to repay the bonds to be bought for $4.8 million. (The payback schedule for the bonds is for 29 years.)

Mills are an entity that most taxpayers would rather have put in dollars and cents, and that can be done this way: a mill is equal to $1 tax levied per $1,000 of assessed valuation of property.

Presently, the average for farm and village households in the Chelsea School District is a market value of $25,000; assessed valuation is then $12,500. Multiplying $1 per thousand of valuation therefore yields a total tax figure of $37.50 per year, or $3.12 per month, added to the average property owner's taxes if the bonding proposal is passed.

This amount added to the present three mills for debt retirement (buildings) would double the amount that the District's taxpayers provide, but would still keep the district in a middle position relative to other area districts in terms of cost per year to the average family for school buildings.

Chelsea's new total of an average of $75 per household, with passage of the bonding proposal, would still rate behind the $89 per taxpayer paid out in Whitmore Lake, and the $87.50 paid in Milan.

Lincoln, Mich. (UPI)—The Chelsea wrestling team, coached by Coach Barelis, won its second tournament in a row, defeating Lincoln, Mich., 10-5, in the final match of the Lincoln, Mich. tournament.

Coach Barelis reported that the team's performance was excellent, especially in the final match. He said the team was "very confident" and "very strong" in their victory over Lincoln.

The team's victory was a significant achievement, as it marked the first time the team had won a tournament in two years.

The tournament was a close one, with Chelsea leading 10-5 in the final match. The team's victory was a significant achievement, as it marked the first time the team had won a tournament in two years.

place 10 of 12 wrestlers, not one was able to put it together for a championship. However, the tournament itself acted as a fine indication of the possible balance in the Chelsea team, as shown by the large numbers of players placing.

In his first tournament encounter, Jim Stahl, at 90 lbs., won a second-place medal by capturing victories in two matches before losing in the finals. At 105 lbs., freshman Brian McGibney finished third by losing to the number one seeded wrestler, 6-5, in a good match, and then going on to win his other two matches.

At 112 lbs., Dale Schoenberg pulled in a fourth-place medal. In the 119-lb. class, John Beeman placed second. Mike Agopian, at 126 lbs., placed third. At 132 lbs., Dale Poertner received a very poor drawing and, after losing to the eventual champion, came back with two strong matches to take third place.

Doug Reed, wrestling at 138 lbs., came on strong, defeating the second-seeded wrestler and the third-seeded wrestler before losing to the champ, 1-0. At 155 lbs., Darryl West picked up two wins before losing in overtime to Lonnie Norris of Willow Run.

Dennis Bauer collected a second place with two strong wins before losing in the finals. At 185 lbs., Ken Keiser started showing his potential as he placed third by collecting three wins and losing to the eventual champ, 5-3.

Dave Tucker did not place at heavyweight, but wrestled well against the first-seeded wrestler and showed fine promise.

Coach Barelis was not discouraged by the tournament's outcome. "We had some big disappointments," he admitted, "but it's early. If the team develops the mental toughness, we'll be a threat."

A preview of how much of a threat Chelsea will be may be taken in tonight, when the Bulldog grapplers meet Brighton.

Santa's Mail Box

Erected for Notes From Children

Since it's doubtful that even the most preserving mailman would be inclined to weather the snow and stuff around Santa's North Pole residence, Chelsea Jaycees have installed a private mailbox for the old gentleman to take care of his Chelsea correspondence.

The all-red mailbox, adorned with a picture of Santa for youngsters still too young to read, is now gracing the front portals of Santa's Saturday hang-out at 116 N. Main, the site of the former Buick garage.

At press-time Tuesday, a member of the Jaycees reported that the only response to the mailbox thus far was a few candy wrappers tossed inside. He says that they expect more appropriate response, however.

Santa himself will be available again Saturday from 1 to 3 p.m. for a final pre-Christmas opportunity for local children to meet and discuss the holiday situation with him.

If you haven't noticed, there is a church nearby where you are welcome.

Even Season Record at 2-2

Two tight games in the past week and a half, one that turned up a win and the other a defeat, have moved Chelsea's Junior Bulldogs to a 2-2 season record.

Last Tuesday night, preceding the varsity game that saw Coach Ballistrere's men fall by two points to neighbor Stockbridge, the junior varsity was edged out by an even slimmer margin, 60-59.

Although the local squad recorded an impressive 26 points in the final quarter, it was not enough to overcome Stockbridge's substantial lead.

Leading the "ruthless Bulldog" attack for Coach Raul Terpstra was Randy Guenther, topping the squad in points, with 18, and rebounds, with 17. Randy Sweeney contributed 13 points and 11 rebounds while Loel Sprague and Jim Marshall added 12 and 8 points, respectively.

Last Friday night the Junior Bulldogs were on the happier side of a comeback attempt as they held off Lincoln's "Little Rainsplitters" final-quarter push, 58-54.

A hot start that gave the Chelsea team an 11-0 first quarter lead was maintained at the same level to yield a 25-5 lead at the half. Despite Lincoln's "furious comeback," Chelsea brought home the victory to once again even their season record.

Guenther once more led in scoring and rebounding with 19 points and 15 rebounds. Howard Salyer trailed him closely in points with 16.

This week-end the squad will meet Novi away Friday night and return to meet Brighton at home Saturday.

Social Service Plans Christmas for Needy

When Chelsea's Bureau of Social Services sets out to play Santa Claus every Christmas, the scenario is a bit different from your typical Santa meeting the kids at, say, Hudson's Toyland.

For one thing, people don't come in and sit on Mrs. Linda Ormsby's lap and whisper in her ear about what they want for Christmas.

Mrs. Ormsby, now director of Social Services, and her agency elves are quite aware of what it takes to make Christmas the real thing for people—things like enough food for a good meal and a couple of good toys for the children to make them realize it really is a holiday for giving . . . and receiving.

All they need is for people to whisper in their ear—or call them on the phone—or otherwise notify them—of needy families in the area who might not have a very merry Christmas without a little assistance from Social Services.

Right now Mrs. Ormsby reports that she is "up to her ears" in work in preparation for the toy and food distribution planned by the agency for Saturday, Dec. 22. "We're doing very well around here—I think . . ." she says, with a newcomer's emphasis on caution.

"We've received some really nice contributions from individuals and from groups," she reports enthusiastically.

A total of 86 children are presently expected to be on hand at the gift distribution to hem-and-haw and shuffle and finally decide exactly what present they want for their very own. Expected to be particularly winning choices are the four dolls donated to Social Services by Ann Arbor Federal Savings from their doll-dressing contest.

The other toys, however, remain to be chosen. Mrs. Ormsby plans a shopping trip later this week—and who would envy a job of fighting holiday shoppers for the length of time it will take to choose so many toys? Devotion, that's what it takes.

Community people may also contribute new or good used toys by dropping them off in the big box in the Chelsea Police Department office in the Municipal Building. Or, of course, they may be brought to the Social Service office.

Although time is running short before the planned distribution date, Mrs. Ormsby says that anyone with information about needy families who might otherwise not have an opportunity to truly celebrate Christmas should contact her at the Social Service office in the Municipal Building (475-1581) on Tuesday or Thursday or at her home.

ALVIN ESHELBAUGH'S EASTER LILIES were showing their Christmas spirit last week, when the apparently sturdy flowers burst forth with four blooms. Unseasonably warm weather within the past month had deluded the plants into a false sense of springtime, but 18-degree temperatures and snow this week should bring them back to reality.

Amateur Juvenile Crook Bungles Job

Crime in the Chelsea area these days has reached a point that would make Sherlock Holmes tear his hair out. Not from frustration mind you—rather from a sense of being cheated out of even a minimally challenging investigation.

Either the criminals are getting lax, or the police force is getting more vigilant—take your pick. But anyway, Chief of Police George Meranuck will be the first to admit it: "We've been awfully lucky the past couple of weeks."

A few weeks ago, the Chief was reporting consistently that things were quiet—except for dog calls: "What are you people trying to do down there at that newspaper, start a range war?"

The big item then was calls from homeowners reporting dogs of varying sizes and origins ranging through neighborhoods that have received considerable mention in the Letters to the Editor column. Later, however, normal despicable crime has returned, but with a slightly and strangely ridiculous edge to it.

It began two weeks ago with the breaking and entering of The Standard plant. A typical break-in? Money stolen? No, but the alleged burglar, who has since been sentenced to 90 days for entering without permission, did drop one's calling card. This was not one of Chelsea Police Department's more difficult cases, to be sure.

Then last Thursday, another crime that sounds major from the charge but turned out to be less than hot news, was a "grand larceny of property valued at less than $100" of some buses parked in the Chelsea High school parking lot.

Tell your dependents today about benefits they'd be entitled to in event of your death, VA advises.

Stolen were 12 convex mirrors, two radiator caps, two air cleaners, two side mirrors, and 12 gallons of gasoline, valued at a total of $171.30.

However, an observant bus driver reported that he had seen the proverbial "suspicious car" parked near the school. The car was taken down the vehicle's license number.

By the next day, the juvenile suspect who operated the car was in the police station with his father, admitting that he had stolen the bus equipment. It was all returned "except for three or four bolts," according to bus supervisor Ralph Brier. The youth charged in the incident also paid $4.80 for the missing 12 gallons of gas, and all was again well within the police department.

Sunday, a stolen car was retrieved and delivered to the owner within half an hour of the time of the reported theft. The alleged thief, a juvenile girl who has turned up at the station on the same charge at least once previously, admitted taking the vehicle but couldn't explain why she did it.

The owner of the car, Gerald H. Slusser of Ypsilanti, said he would press charges if the police thought doing so would help the matter. If not, he wouldn't. The police apparently didn't think pressing charges would help.

So much for a week of criminal activity in the village of Chelsea. Detroit no doubt would wish for such problems.

DEATHS

Lavern Mathias

Dies Friday Evening as Result of Auto Accident

Lavern Mathias, 71, of 8983 Dexter-Pinckney Rd., Dexter township, died as the result of an auto accident in front of his home on Friday evening, Dec. 7.

Born April 30, 1902 in Brooklyn, he was a son of Willis and Letta Palmer Mathias. He was married to Wilma Wineland on July 21, 1951. She survives.

Also surviving is a son, Edward Mathias of Jackson, two daughters Mrs. Donald (Joyce) Dielman of Jackson and Mrs. Eldin (Sandra) Putnam of Dexter, six grandchildren, two sisters, Mrs. Harold (Nina) Pickett and Mrs. Paul (Grace) Faulkner, both of Jackson, a brother, Howard Mathias of Southgate, several nieces and nephews. A step-mother, Mrs. Willis (Grace) Mathias, of Jackson also survives. He was preceded in death by a son, Arnold, in 1949.

Mr. Mathias had been a sanitary engineer and had delivered the Ann Arbor-News in the rural area of Pinckney until his retirement last July.

Funeral services for Mr. Mathias were held at 2 p.m. on Monday, Dec. 10 at the Burghardt Funeral Home with the Rev. Carl W. Schwarm officiating. Burial followed in Vermont Cemetery, Sylvan township.

Property Tax Relief Cannot Exceed $500

The following statement regarding tax relief was published in a direct mail piece sent out last week by the Chelsea School Progress Committee.

New State legislation signed by the governor in May provides as follows for senior citizens and veterans: If your property tax is greater than 3.5 percent of your income, the state will pay the difference. Senior Citizens need no longer feel compelled to resist school-tax proposals in order to survive on fixed incomes!

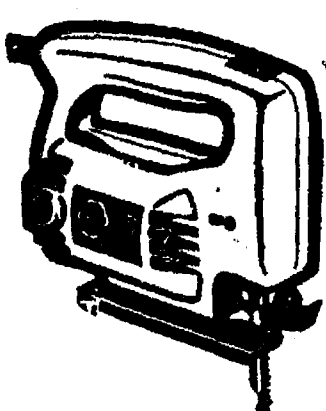

In addition, it should be noted that the property tax relief allowed to any claimant cannot exceed $500.

Mental strain exacts a more deadly toll than physical strain and in a more disguised manner.

TODAY'S THOUGHT
By LOUIS BURGHARDT

Did you ever read the poem written by Ella Wheeler Wilcox in the early 1900's - entitled, "Which Are You?"

"There are two kinds of people on earth today; just two kinds of people, no more, I say . . . Not the sinner and saint, for it's well understood - the good are half bad and the bad are half good . . . Not the rich and the poor, for to rate a man's wealth - you must first know the state of his conscience and health . . . Not the humble and proud, for in life's little span - who puts on vain airs, is not counted a man . . . Not the happy and sad, for the swift flying years - bring each man his laughter and each man his tears . . . No; the two kinds of people on earth, I mean - are the people who lift, and the people who lean . . . Wherever you go, you will find the earth's masses - are always divided in just these two classes . . . And, oddly enough, you will find too, I ween - there's only one lifter to twenty who lean . . . In which class are you? Are you easing the load - of overtaxed lifters, who toll down the road? . . . Or are you a leaner, who lets others share - your portion of labor, worry and care?"

Don't you agree the thought is just as true today as it was more than half a century ago? . . . BURGHARDT FUNERAL HOME 214 East Middle St., Chelsea, Mich. Phone 475-1551.

Approaches to Mail Boxes Must Be Clear—Postmaster Richard Schaeles wishes to enlist the co-operation of road authorities and customers in keeping roads passable and approaches to mail boxes cleared during the winter months.

Rural and star route carriers must make every reasonable effort to serve the greatest number of customers possible during severe weather, using alternate roads or routes when necessary. These carriers are not required, however, to provide service on foot when roads are impassable nor should they be required to attempt delivery by motor vehicle during periods of inclement weather of such severity that civil authorities, city mayors, State highway police officers, or State highway administrative authorities, consider road travel hazardous and inform the public via radio, TV, or other media not to travel public streets or highways.

Highway officials are responsible for keeping public roads passable and in good repair. In areas where service is provided over roads not maintained by road authorities, the owner of the road is responsible.

Customers are responsible for keeping approaches to boxes clear of snow, and all other obstructions, which may make delivery of mail difficult or at times impossible. If excessive and extended detours are necessary, customers are asked to temporarily relocate their boxes on the new line of travel, arrange to receive their mail through another customer's box, or make other suitable arrangements for handling their mail until travel on the blocked roads can be resumed.

Next year, 10 Veterans Administration hospitals in the Appalachian region will test a space satellite which will provide medical education and consultation via television and radio.

SEC WRAP-UP

Saline Dumps S. Lyon To Remain Unbeaten

Saline's Hornets routed South Lyon, 64-44, Friday night to retain their hold on a first place tie in the Southeastern Conference. Balance was cited as the key to the Hornet victory, as center Dan Scotten led the squad with 24 points, but when he cooled in the second half, captain Dennis King took over the scoring effort and hit for 14.

Saline's defense went to a zone with one man on South Lyon center Ed Segars at all times, effectively preventing any scoring by the leader of the Lion pack until 3:40 was left in the first half.

Meanwhile, defending champion Milan, the other half of the SEC's first place pair, was doing some touting of its own, belting previously undefeated Brighton with a 71-40 loss.

The game was close until the Big Reds went wild in the fourth period and outscored Brighton by a devastating 24-9 edge. Brighton dropped into the four-way shuffle for second place with Chelsea, Dexter, and South Lyon.

Across the way in Novi, Dexter came alive for the first time this season to savor their first victory, a 59-30 drubbing of the floundering Novi Wildcats.

The Dreadnaught victory, their first in five encounters, was a balanced attack that saw seven team members record between six and 11 points. Top scorer was guard Gary Winschester, closely followed by center Mark Ayers.

Chelsea, too, recorded its first victory of the young season, a 69-50 pounding of Lincoln. High point of the game for the Bulldogs was a 20-point burst in the second quarter that paved the way for the win.

VISIONS OF SUGARPLUMS may have danced in the heads of some children sometime, but visions of Santa are enough excitement for one evening for these two young ladies who attended the Kiwanis children's dinner, Jennifer Cattell, left, and her cousin, Anna Flintoft. Definitely of minor interest to the girls right now is their escort, Peter Flintoft, Anna's father. Darrin Fowler, grandson of Kiwanian Jack Fowler, watches with interest.

KIWANIS CLUB'S ANNUAL CHILDREN'S DINNER was another spot where Santa made an appearance this week, when children of members and underprivileged children in the area joined in their clamoring for the attentions of the jolly old red-suited elf. Above, Scott Frisinger, five years old, and Eric Frisinger, two years, greet Santa, while father Bud Frisinger takes a back seat in the action.

Linda Van Riper, Gary White Wed at Congregational Church

Linda Van Riper became the bride of Gary White on Friday, Nov. 23, in a candlelight ceremony at the First Congregational church. The Rev. John Morris of Zion Lutheran church officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Van Riper, 1137 Hiest Rd. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester White.

For the ceremony, the bride chose a floor-length, polyester gown with high neck and capelet sleeves. She also chose a floor-length veil to complete the outfit. She carried a traditional bouquet of baby's breath.

The maid of honor, Becky Van Riper, the bride's sister, appeared in a floor-length purple velvet gown and carried a white muff. The two bridesmaids, Cindy Van Riper, another sister, and Diana Hale, a friend of the bride, wore blue velvet gowns of similar style to that of the maid of honor. They also carried white muffs.

Acting as best man was Dennis White, the bridegroom's brother. Jeff Van Riper, brother of the bride, and Mickey White, another brother of the bridegroom, were ushers.

Michael Van Riper, brother of the bride, acted as ring-bearer. The couple greeted their guests after the ceremony at a reception at the Rod and Gun Club. Assisting in the activities there were Ron Sweeney and Jan Bauer, who were in charge of the guest book, and Gina and Billy Van Riper, who lit the candles. The bride's uncle, Frank Sweeney, also played an important role in the administration of the ceremony and the reception. The couple plan a honeymoon trip to the west in the future. They are presently living at 13585 Jerusalem Rd.

Cager of the Week

DAVE ALBER is a lanky 6'11" forward who has been leading the Chelsea varsity's attack since the season opened two weeks ago. A junior playing his premier year on the varsity squad, Alber began the season with top scoring honors (17 points) in a losing cause against Columbia Central, and has been leading point-getter in every contest thus far. His basketball experience goes back to junior high school days, however, and he expresses an interest in "all sports." He is present pondering the possibilities of going out for Chelsea baseball this spring. He is a member of the high school's Key Club; after high school, college is for sure, but courses and exactly what school are still vague. The son of Dolores and Don Alber, he has one brother, Danny, and three sisters, Chris, Joanna, and Donna.

SOUTH ELEMENTARY SCHOOL NOTES

THIRD GRADE—

Room 11
Teacher: Mrs. Richardson
Reporters: Mike Beuerle,
Vicky Stocum

We made the inside of the Mayflower. We hand-dipped candles, made butter the old fashioned way, and made bread. We all took turns. Jeanette Koch, Margaret Merkel, De Ann Colvia, Jon Bentley, and Amy Poljan are doing a Hawaii report together. We are doing a unit on the solar system. In music we found things in the room to make sounds.

November birthdays were: Jeanette, Jana, David Weber and Shawn.

FOURTH GRADE—

Room 24
Teacher: Mrs. Huebner
Reporters: Doug Henson,
Tim Whitesall, Ann Elisele,
Shelly Weber, and Kevin Tobin

Some people in Mrs. Huebner's class are in a series of books called Wildlife Adventure Series. These books are from the Washington Library and are very interesting and fun to read, because they are about animals like the otter, the alligator, the moose, and the dolphin.

The oil crisis is a part of our class discussion. We get the information from the newspapers and Mrs. Huebner explains it to us.
