Help Asked in Keeping Drains Free of Snow

Washtenaw County Drain Commissioner Jerome K. Fulton today urged local residents to keep catchbasins, curb boxes, and culvert openings near their homes clear of snow and ice during the heavy snow season. "Melting snow can cause just as severe a flood threat as a heavy rain," Fulton said.

"We have a fine drainage system in Washtenaw county, and with a little help from homeowners and municipal authorities we can avoid any danger of flooded homes during this winter season," he continued. "Everyone should avoid piling shoveled snow over their local drainage facility. Then, when the thaw comes, the water can be safely carried away by the drains without danger to the public."

Fulton joined other local officials who have requested that other public facilities such as fire hydrants be kept clear for emergency use. "Problems which cannot be handled by local citizen action in the neighborhood, should be brought to my attention at the county building," Fulton concluded.

The telephone number for drain maintenance emergencies is 663-7511, extension 252, during regular business hours. At other times, the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department may be notified.

"PERFECTED NEXT YEAR" is the prediction of Tom Balistrere, Recreation Council director, about the sledding hill at Beach Middle school built jointly by the Recreation Council and the Village of Chelsea. Although the hill is not thrillingly steep right now, Balistrere promises a steeper, icier hill next year, with large and small areas for older and younger children, and toboggan runs. The present one seems to be sufficient diversion for the moment for local youngsters, however.

Recreation Council's Winter Program Gets Underway Saturday

If hibernating is the only thing on tap for the rest of the winter, possibly a little checking into Chelsea Recreation Council's winter program might be advised before sacking up for the duration.

The program, divided into adult and children's sessions, will begin this Saturday, Jan. 6, and run until April 6.

Any Chelsea resident may register for the classes, as may any person employed in or affiliated with the village. Exceptions on registration must be cleared through the director, Tom Balistrere, who may be contacted at 475-8511.

In the adult division, three artsy-craftsy courses should stimulate the creativity of those aching for a new project—drapery making, cake decorating, and flower arranging.

Drapery making will be instructed by Gloria Greenleaf every Monday evening, 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. in the Chelsea High school home economics building. Fee for the course is $5.

Dorothy Hafner's cake decorating course, also with a $5 fee, will meet Thursdays from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. in the home economics building.

Flower arranging, taught by Mrs. Jeannette Otto at 53 Chestnut Dr., is scheduled for Thursday from 8 p.m. to 10 p.m. Fee for the course is $5.

Ladies Night Out, which is definitely not a card party at Mabel's, but rather an exercise session, will be conducted in the Chelsea High school gym on Mondays from 8 to 10 p.m. by Terrie Schreiner. The $5 fee applies here, too.

For those with half-dream travel plans, Dr. Hope Lowry will provide a chance to "learn a little or learn a lot" of conversational Spanish. The class will meet Tuesdays and Thursdays in the CHS home economics building from 7 to 8 p.m. Fee for the course is $5.

For the potential and semi-established Bobby Fischers in the area, Dave Evison will conduct a chess course for both beginners and advanced students. The class is scheduled for Tuesdays from 6 to 8 p.m., with a $5 fee.

The men's basketball league, for which 10 teams and their managers have already been organized, will play on Tuesdays and Thursdays, and is under the direction of Tom Neumeier.

In the children's program, boy's biddy basketball, for youngsters to 12 years and using smaller basketballs and scaled-down baskets, will begin this Saturday at the high school. The registration period is from 12 noon to 1 p.m., followed by an hour-long clinic on basketball fundamentals. Fee for the program is $1.

Directing the biddy basketball will be Tom Balistrere, Pat Wade, and Jon Schaffner. Anyone interested in acting as a coach for one of the teams should contact Balistrere at 475-8511.

A boys' biddy wrestling course will also be offered, but later in the spring, beginning March 2. Instructor Kerry Kargel will lead the basic course for 7th and 8th grade boys on Saturday afternoons, from 2 to 4 p.m. Fee for the course is $1.

Majorette training and baton will be taught by Jennifer Lane, beginning this Saturday at Beach Middle school, from 2 to 4 p.m. Fee for the course is $1.

Another course aimed at developing co-ordination, in addition to concentrating on a particular skill, will be the modern dance for girls course taught by Carlyn Paquin. The class will meet Saturdays, from 12 noon to 2 p.m., at Beach Middle school. Fee is $1.

The Recreation Council stresses that a minimum enrollment of eight people is necessary for each class to be offered. The Council assumes the right to cancel any class in which the total enrollment fee cannot cover the cost of the class.

Robert Halls Enjoy 2-Year Stint in Turkey

Two years ago when Diane Hall left this country for Turkey with her husband, Robert, and her two daughters, she figured she was as knowledgeable as anyone about her family's destination.

"I knew the things that everyone thinks they know," she recalls, "like the capital of Turkey is Istanbul, when of course the capital is actually Ankara."

Returned now from the two-year stint accompanying her husband's service in the U. S. Air Force Hospital Unit, the Halls are presently spending their job-hunting and waiting for-belongings time in the home of Mrs. Hall's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Holmes.

In those two years, however, the things that she learned about her "home" country are enough to make her disregard its possible inadequacies. The country's way of life, she says, is a fascinating one.

For starters, Turkey is a Moslem country, replete with the five prayers a day that the religion requires. Her own inexperience with the religion was obvious to her when she asked her maid "What on earth is wrong with you?" when meeting her in the hallway with forehead, hands and feet dripping wet one day.

"Going to pray," was the maid's devout reply. The washing of various parts of the body before each prayer time is a necessary ritual, she learned.

As in any country, some of the devout are more devout than others, but Moslem fervor remains widespread in Turkey "particularly in the poorer, rural areas," Mrs. Hall says, because there is so little else. What Turks do seem to have, Mrs. Hall says, is an ingrained sense of almost exaggerated courtesy. Unlike many European countries, where an American is likely to be taunted or ignored by an inability to speak each native tongue, Mrs. Hall reports that the Turkish people are more than willing to try to comprehend Americans' halting attempts at their language.

"In Turkey, not only are people willing to recognize your try at a phrase for 'what time is it?' they would walk six blocks to find a clock so they can help you out," Mrs. Hall recalls.

The country also has an abundance of available history, which edged strikingly close to the Air Force base in Adana, in the south near the Syrian border where the Halls were stationed. "I was never interested in archaeology before we went to Turkey," Mrs. Hall says, "but the ruins and castles that were just outside the base were fascinating. We could walk around in places—all alone, not surrounded by 500 people as in Athens—and pick up ancient coins and bits of colored glass. One woman led us around some tombs and ruins for about two miles, just so we could look around."

Her interest and concern for the country continues. "I'd like to return," she says, "Not to live again—we're glad to be home, of course, but it's an amazing place."

And, it seems, there's a lot more to the place than just Istanbul.

Cagers Meet South Lyon Friday Night

After more than two weeks of holiday rest and relaxation, but hopefully without relaxation of the team's hustle factor, Chelsea's Bulldogs will tangle with the South Lyon Lions Friday evening at South Lyon.

The Bulldogs, presently enmeshed in a tie with Milan for second in the Southeastern Conference, could boost their record to a fine 4-1 with a victory at South Lyon.

League-leader Saline, boasting a perfect 4-0 season thus far, is meeting "an easy team," according to Chelsea Coach Tom Balistrere, and should come out on top.

Reception Welcomes New Administrator At Methodist Home

A reception in honor of Paul Closson, new administrator of the Chelsea United Methodist Home, and his family, wife Annabelle, daughter Leah, and son Michael, took place Monday, Dec. 31, at the Home.

Residents, staff members, many wheelchair residents from the health center, volunteer workers, and residents of the garden apartments were on hand to welcome the new administrator. The Rev. Richard L. Clema's presented an address of welcome.

John Freysinger Named Pontiac Hospital President

John F. Freysinger of Belleville, a former professor of public health at the University of Michigan and Chelsea native, has been appointed president of Pontiac General Hospital by the hospital's board of trustees.

Freysinger will begin work at his new position this week. He will replace Dr. Roger B. Nelson, executive director, who is retiring.

Freysinger was graduated from Chelsea High school, and received his bachelor of arts, master of business administration and master of public health from the University of Michigan. Since May, 1970, he has been the director of Pontiac General Hospital.

Senior Citizen Calling May Help Relieve Loneliness

Mrs. Eva Carpenter realizes what it's like to be alone—even though she usually isn't.

"I was here one week-end when absolutely no one was around," she recalls, "And I asked myself, 'How can you live around so many people and be so alone?'"

It was a question, she decided, that probably applied a lot more sharply to other lonely people in the community than to herself. And, rather than just basking in the warmth of friends who keep her weeks busy, she began to make plans to do something about the ones not so fortunate.

Mrs. Carpenter's concern has led to a program that parallels the efforts of three members of the Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) in Dexter who operate a telephone reassurance system, calling senior citizens or the handicapped who live alone.

"There was one lady around here," Mrs. Carpenter says, "who had lived here for a number of years and never had any callers or visitors. It just isn't good for people to be alone like that."

Locating people in situations similar to that of her example is another matter, however. Mrs. Linda Ormsby, director of Chelsea Social Service, is presently attempting to gather some kind of list of people who may need a scheduled contact, either daily or weekly.

One novel idea was to contact the social security office for a list of local residents receiving social security payments, and work from there to narrow the list to people who lived alone or needed contact by outsiders.

It developed, however, that social security records are not public. Mrs. Carpenter did learn, however, that almost half of the population of Chelsea draws social security—a figure that says something for the potential need for this project.

With the social security route a dead end, Mrs. Ormsby and Mrs. Carpenter are trying different avenues to obtain their list of some who may be the most anonymous people in the area. Clergymen and hospital records are two certain sources of possible information; Mrs. Ormsby also hopes for co-operation from township clerks who, from their township's tax rolls, should be able to identify those who have applied for special senior citizen tax breaks.

And of course, community residents are asked to notify Mrs. Ormsby at the Social Services office in the Municipal Building (Tuesday and Thursday afternoons, 2-4 p.m., or 475-1581) or Mrs. Carpenter at her home if they know of people needing or possibly just wanting a concerned call every day.

It all may add up to very little. Mrs. Ormsby says, "I guess if we get four or five people to call, we'll say that the program is a success, because there may only be that many who need the telephone calls. But we have to make the effort to contact them."

As plans presently stand, the actual calling will be in Mrs. Carpenter's hands. "I'll call at a certain time every day. If I don't get an answer, I'll wait and call back in a while—then if I still don't get an answer, I'll notify the proper person—police, or a doctor, or a relative."

The calling should develop into a kind of referral service, Mrs. Ormsby says. "If we locate some people who need, say, home meal service, we'll see that they receive it. We may even be able to pay for it for some needy people on a temporary basis."

"Or, for those in more long-term need," she continues, "we should be able to refer the cases to the appropriate social agency."

For Mrs. Ormsby, the project is an attempt to extend her agency into a larger number of worthwhile community activities. "People don't realize," she notes, "that when they move out to one of the lakes, which are so scenic and secluded in the summer, they're also moving into a very lonely place in the winter."

For Mrs. Ormsby, it is a simple matter of caring about the problems of her peers. "I don't need help myself. I guess that makes me more conscious of the help other people need."

Cassidy Lake Lay Counseling Program Getting Good Results

"Everybody knows what convicts look like—we've all seen James Cagney movies—they have scars and shaved heads and carry knives," says Tom Mann, counselor at Cassidy Lake Training school.

"And on the other side of the coin, everybody knows what community leaders look like: they all sit around in the evening and drink beer and watch TV and talk about how great Nixon is," Mann continues.

Sound a little exaggerated? Mann certainly is aware that these are stereotypes, but they are stereotypes that he and Willie Cason, superintendent at Cassidy Lake, have had to deal with in their lay counseling program at the school.

The program, in which a pair of community men conduct a group counseling session with approximately 10 residents of the school, is described by Mann as "a two-way street of communication."

"The men here frequently are quiet hostile to what they would term the 'establishment'—leaders of the community who they feel have had 'the breaks'—breaks that they, of course, have lacked," Mann says.

"When community members come into the lay counseling sessions, men often ask them what, exactly, is in it for them," Mann continues. "When they realize that these men could be spending the evening at home instead of with them, they begin to get a feeling that these are just 'regular guys' who want nothing more than to talk to them."

The experience of discussing things with an older, responsible male, is for many a new one. As a community man involved in the counseling commented, "For many of them, raised in homes where the father was absent or incommunicable, it seems to be the first time a man has ever spoken to them in anything but jive street culture terms."

Mann agrees, noting that of ten a lay counselor becomes almost a father figure to some residents. "Community men who are 29 or so say that it's pretty strange to feel like a father to other men who are 21, but it happens. Men begin to stay after the counseling sessions, to talk about personal things to the counselors."

The lay counseling program for many residents becomes an initial step to other types of more institution-run counseling programs. Counselor Mann reports that it is not unusual for residents to refuse the institution's group counseling program—"probably because we, the Establishment of the institution, are running it"—but accept his suggestion to try the lay counseling program.

In lay counseling, Mann reports, the program is completely counselor-run, with the administration merely providing co-operation with requests of the counselors, but otherwise leaving it in their hands.

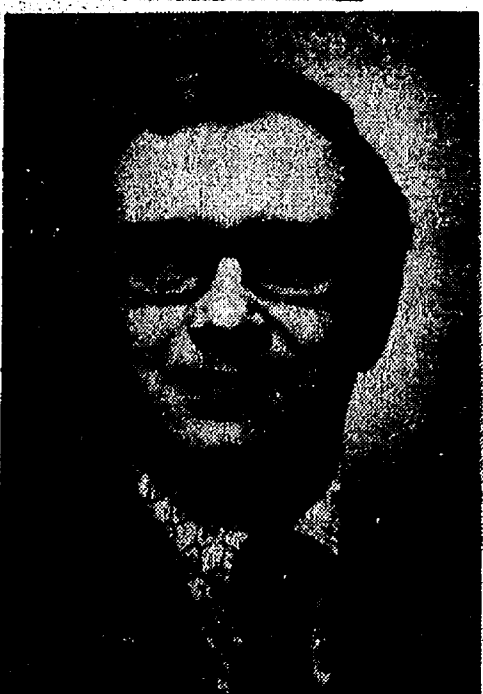

"The purpose of this institution," Mann says, "is to shield these men—all first offenders and primarily young—from the detrimental effects of incarceration with other 'hardened' criminals in Jackson Prison or other institutions."

"We try to let them know that society is not a closed clique that they are already excluded from. If the only way we can make the initial break in their understanding is through a program that doesn't directly involve the counseling of staff members—well, then, maybe that's the best way. Apparently the men have to realize that the staff here is not also part of an establishment that's apart from them."

It is not unusual, Mann says, for men to seek the institution's group counseling program after participating in the lay one. "Once the initial break has been made in communication, other steps seem to follow," he says.

With that break in communication comes a sense of understanding for other people's hardships. Always in the institutional system, Mann and Superintendent Cason agree, treatment people have been "good guys," while custodial men have been something akin to Elliot Ness, and treated as such by residents.

New Manager Named for Honeggers'

Fairbury, Ill.—R. Peter Vogeler has been named Operations Manager for Big H Feeds at the Chelsea, Mich. plant. The appointment was announced today by Max B. Lowcock, corporate Operations Manager for Honeggers' & Co., Inc., manufacturers of Big H Feed.

Vogeler will be responsible for production and distribution of livestock feeds manufactured or warehoused at Chelsea, as well as supervise grain operations at the Michigan location. He joins Honeggers' with an administrative background in manufacturing and holds a degree in Industrial Administration. (Continued on page six)

Earn WMU Degrees

Two Chelsea natives were among more than 1,200 graduating seniors awarded diplomas at commencement ceremonies held Dec. 19 at Western Michigan University.

Paul E. Prinzing received a bachelor of science degree, and Patricia D. Jacobs received a bachelor of arts degree.

SNOW SCULPTURE is certainly not an art limited to those under 10 years of age, as Mrs. Ralph Shadoan has apparently proved by providing this three-member snow family for the front yard of the James A. Shadoan family on Flanders St. Mrs. Shadoan and her husband, shown above with the winter creations, are visiting for the holiday from California. Before her Chelsea experience with the white stuff, she had only observed it from afar on mountain tops and such—quite a difference from the situation here.

MOVING RIGHT ON SCHEDULE—and maybe even a little ahead—is the word from Curt Farley, instructor of the building trades class at the high school, about the class' house on Flanders. Presently front brick is already on the structure, and the youths have begun putting up siding. Inside, heat is installed to make possible winter work, and the 29 class members are doing duct work and putting up dry wall. The house, a three-bedroom model with living room-dining room combination, family room, full basement, and "almost two baths," according to Farley, will be completed around the end of the school year and put up for sale. Any profit from the house will be used to finance another house project for next year.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

Clem Webster told the fellers at the country store Saturday night that besides the fact he ain't got many years left, he was sorter sorry to lose 1973 forever. In spite of all the tribulation we have saw during the year, Clem said, he felt like leaving 1973 for 1974 is jumping out of the frying pan into the fire.

Looking back on the year looks a heap better than looking ahead of it, allowed Clem. He said he recalled back in 1972 that folks was looking to the next year when the boys was coming home from Vietnam. And there was other high spots, like Elizabeth Taylor didn't get married onct, and she even went back to her old man in time for Christmas. The Republicans changed Cape Kennedy back to Cape Canaveral, but the Democrats got thru the whole year without dedicating Grand Coulee Dam again, which says somepin in favor of the two party system, Clem allowed.

General speaking, went on Clem.

Beef consumption in Japan is only 5 pounds per person annually, contrasted with 114 pounds eaten by the average American. Japan produces excellent beef from beefed, hand-massaged cattle, but it is prohibitively expensive.

★ MICHIGAN MIRROR ★

By Elmer E. White, Secretary, Michigan Press Association

Victim is the User
A report on victimless crime—alcohol and drug abuse in this case—finally comes to light after well over a year of preparation.

Most sweeping of the recommendations from the advisory task force on victimless crimes, for which the report was put together, is one dealing with marijuana. It says that possession for individual use, and use by an adult, of marijuana should be decriminalized.

That does NOT mean legalized. What it does mean, according to the summary of the report, is simply doing away with criminal sanctions against use of marijuana.

The report notes that decriminalization would require action on a federal level because of the supremacy clause in the Constitution. That makes it necessary for state legislation to yield if it is at variance with federal law.

But, the report continues, the state could effectively decriminalize marijuana use by making the offense "punishable by a small fine payable in the same manner as a parking ticket."

The proposal passed on a 10-3 vote, with one abstention. The chairman of the task force, State Court of Appeals Judge George Bashara, opposed it as did the three lawmakers on the panel, Republican Sen. Robert Richardson of Saginaw and Reps. J. Robert Traxler, D-Bay City, and Dale Walner, R-Easton Rapids. Gov. Milliken also opposes eliminating current penalties for marijuana possession, so it would appear the proposal won't go very far—at least for the time being.

The task force rejected another proposal that "possession and use of all psychoactive substances, including heroin, appropriate for personal use should be free of criminal sanction."

Task force members figure that is "too encompassing." There is not enough data available at this point to support such a position, says the summary of the victimless crime study.

"Until such information becomes available," the summary adds, "it is the position of the task force that individuals experimenting, abusing, addicted to or dependent upon substances should be diverted from incarceration for their substance-related behavior."

Instead of jail, the task force recommends treatment services for those persons, under the jurisdiction of the criminal judge.

Milliken, who appointed the task force in late 1971, hailed the emphasis on treatment particularly. He said the report might help move the state away from "the automatic reaction of jailing people who are victims needing help."

Try, Try again

"Pool it" is the project. Saving fuel is the aim.

The computer - matching, car-pool plan, put forth by Gov. Milliken, is geared to helping Lansing area state employees organize car pools to get to work. State employees will be asked to fill out questionnaires with their home addresses, work locations and working hours—as well as their interest in car pooling.

Sometime next month, all those interested in the program should receive a list of others in their neighborhoods who want to get involved. There will be get-together sessions and then: car pools. Let's hope this project fares better than the ill-starred shuttle bus from Lansing to Detroit and back. Milliken's people are, by the way, still pushing workers to take advantage of that bus ride.

What's No-Fault?

Still confused by no-fault car insurance? Some of your questions may be answered by a soon-to-be offered guide put out by the state.

The guide, prepared by the Insurance Bureau, includes sample comparisons of rates by major companies and, according to Gov. Milliken, "clearly explains what automobile coverage is required and what options and deductibles a person should consider when buying insurance."

It also tells what coverages are offered by the nearly 200 companies authorized to sell auto insurance in Michigan, and it provides a sample of some rates offered by Michigan's 24 largest auto insurers. Some 100,000 copies currently are in the works, and may be available within a month or so.

What's Cooking In Michigan

By Larrelaine Trimm
Michigan Dept. of Agriculture
Marketing Information Specialist

Start the new year right by riding yourself of an old myth. Take another look at the potato. Contrary to what you may believe, potatoes aren't fattening, but relatively low in calories, according to marketing officials of the Michigan Department of Agriculture.

Based on information from US DA Handbook No. 8, ounce for ounce, the potato is no more caloric than a typical apple. It is less caloric than equal weights of pears, avocados, rice or even bran flakes.

Potatoes are a big Michigan crop. During 1973, approximately 864 million pounds were grown on 40,000 acres of farmland. Chief potato growing counties are Bay, Monroe and Montcalm.

Economically and nutritionally, Michigan potatoes are an excellent buy. They're a good source of vitamins, iron, carbohydrate and vegetable protein. In fact, per dollar value, potatoes provide more thiamine than any other food and are second in vitamin C, niacin and iron per dollar. Low in sodium and virtually fat free, potatoes are easy to digest and can be adjusted to almost any diet.

To assist you in using potatoes as part of a reducing diet, write to the Michigan Department of Agriculture, Information and Education division, Lewis Cass Building, Lansing 48913 for a free copy of "The Potato Diet Lover's Cookbook."

Remember to store potatoes in a cool, dry, dark place that's well-ventilated. With temperatures between 45 and 50 degrees, potatoes will keep for several weeks.

Feb. 23—District Meet

The team may also compete in the Schoolcraft Tournament, scheduled for Jan. 11-12; however, this has not yet been confirmed.

The Department of Foreign Languages and Literature at Eastern Michigan University in Ypsilanti was among the first in the nation to establish a language laboratory.

Cassidy Lake Lay Counseling Program Getting Good Results

dial officers, designed to make them more involved with residents, both sides are learning that the other isn't so bad. Residents, says Mann, are beginning to realize that the officer, like the treatment worker, is also concerned with the "why" of their crimes—and not just with how long they'll be in. Once again, the emphasis is on broadened communication. The final step in the communication process is obviously the one that will allow the incarcerated man to return to society as a member instead of an alien. The stress here is on furthering education—which the men often verbally or otherwise pinpoint as the source of their "difference."

The program at Cassidy Lake includes a standard high school program, a GED program to obtain the equivalent of a high school diploma; welding, appliance and home laundry repair, auto services, and cooking and baking. The school also participates in a community college extension program from Washtenaw Community College that provides students with credits valid for Michigan colleges and universities.

One resident, Mann reports, left the institution with 22 college credits—a good part of a freshman college year. For others, it is not unusual to leave with 10 or 12 backing them up, acting as an incentive and qualification when they leave Cassidy Lake.

And finally, as a trial step to the outside world, the school offers a work pass program, under which residents leave the school for a full working period daily, for employment in the community.

This, Mann and Cason report, is probably a nearly final step in developing the men's self-confidence and identification with "the community," previously a foreign entity to many of them.

"They learn that the boss is usually just another guy, like them," Mann says, "primarily because around here the businesses are small, and more on a one-to-one basis. It gives them aspirations perhaps, and a feeling that 'I can do it, too.'"

The community, then, always a factor in the way a youth "turns out," can thus be a factor in the way Cassidy Lake men "turn out" on their second try. Before trying lay counseling, Mann says, "Many men say, 'But I don't know anything about psychology.' Psychology isn't necessary. What is needed is basic sincerity and interest in the men."

If the interest is there, Mann says, let him know. There's always the chance that someone at Cassidy Lake might want to talk to you.

Eastern Michigan University in Ypsilanti offers classes at 17 centers in 14 southeastern Michigan counties through the Division of Field Services. The extension program began in 1921.

Mary Wolter Elected to Office In People-to-People Program

Mary Wolter, 7421 Dexter-Pinckney Rd., has been elected treasurer and director for 1974 for People-to-People, the organization which organizes the Dexter-Oftringen, Germany, and other sister-city affiliations. Some 1974 meetings of People-to-People will be held at the Wolter home. The chapter serving the Washtenaw county area was started in 1964; the international organization was started in September 1956 at a White House Conference. President Eisenhower organized a number of citizen volunteer People-to-People programs, including sister-city and town of affiliations, the Project HOPE hospital ship which also trains medical and dental workers in the southwestern USA, sports, music, handicapped people, etc.

Last month, Saline Mayor Hubert Beach and People-to-People entertained the Mayor of Brecon, Wales, sister-city of Saline. Mayor and Mrs. Elson lived in the Beach home for more than a week.

During 1974, the Sesquicentennial year for the City of Ann Arbor, Mayors and other people from Tuebingen, Germany; Hikone City, Shiga Prefecture, Japan; and Belize City, Central America, will visit Ann Arbor. Shiga Prefecture, Belize, and the Dominican Republic are the three sister-states of Michigan, and People-to-People, 4-H clubs, and other organizations promote both sister-city and sister-state programs.

Harland, plans to soon join about seven other cities and towns in this state to have a sister-city in Belize, south of Mexico. Roy Cayetano, now in Ann Arbor, and other Belizean students are given scholarships by the Michigan Partners to attend universities here. The University of Michigan also has students from Tuebingen and Shiga Prefecture now. Harland has an annual art competition each March, and the winners will be sent to Oftringen, which is seven miles from Tuebingen, Belize City, and Shiga Prefecture, Japan.

For further information about the Dexter-Oftringen affiliation, contact Mary Wolter, 426-8188, Mrs. Charles Walters, 426-4822, or Jacob Lutz, 426-8549. Oftringen people are expected in Dexter, July 11-28.

Professor Dan Ling has just returned from Africa, and he will show color slides he took in Africa at the 7:30 p.m. meeting Tuesday, Jan. 8th, at the Michigan Consolidated Gas Co. in Ann Arbor. The meeting is open to the public without charge. Coffee is provided by the Gas Co.

Color slides and motion pictures of Washtenaw county sister-cities and Michigan's sister-states will be shown without charge to groups contacting Carl Zwinck, 665-6297, or Mrs. Bernice McCoy, 426-9734.

The Musical Youth International band and choir is the first youth chapter of People-to-People International. Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower is active as honorary chairman of MYI, which has been in all the foreign sister-cities of Washtenaw communities. MYI goes to Australia for the first time in July 1974, and returns to Japan in July 1975. MYI will return to Brecon, Wales, England, and Scotland in July 1976. Each year 50 boys and 50 girls from high schools in Michigan, Ohio, Indiana, and Ontario have a foreign summer tour. Saturday, Dec. 22, at 7:30 p.m. MYI alumni will give a concert at Saline Middle school.

People-to-People has already sent more than $500 to Belize for furniture at Curtis High school, a new school open to all races and religions and teaching music and other occupations not available at other Belizean schools.

Anyone wanting a free pen-pal address in a sister-state or sister-city may contact Carl Zwinck, 904 Packard, Ann Arbor, phone 665-6297. Zwinck has arranged free homestays for more than 300,000 people, mostly student musical groups, and organized about 10 percent of all the permanent sister-city programs in the USA.

Pen-pals, exchanges of students and teachers, and exchanges of student art are some of the programs People-to-People continues to sponsor. During 1974, People-to-People meetings will be held in Ann Arbor, Dexter, Saline, and Ypsilanti. Usually the meeting is on the second Tuesday of the month.

The December meeting provided Christmas music for senior citizens, as it does every year. In 1968, free trips to Belize were given to nine Michigan boy scouts. In 1974 two high school students from Belize will be given free trips to Europe.

Eastern Michigan University in Ypsilanti experienced a period of sustained growth from 1960 to 1970. The enrollment in the 10-year period went from 5,105 to 19,985.

★ Pattern for Living

Have you ever heard someone say something like this: "Very few people that I meet try to practice what they preach, or what others preach, so why should I?" They tell you times have changed and many of the things once thought of as wrong aren't considered wrong or evil by the people of the present age.

Unfortunately for some, morality and truth do not change from one generation to another. Many times we wish these rules and truths didn't exist, but the fact is they do and it is up to each of us to try to live by them. Just because "everyone" else is doing something that is wrong, doesn't make it right in God's eyes. And the day will come when we will all have to answer for the way we lived our lives.

God has given us a pattern and a way of living that brings us closer to Him. Many, however, turn from God and go their own separate ways doing whatever they feel like doing. But one of the great things about God is His love and mercy for us—no matter how badly we have messed up our lives. God is willing to take us back.

CONSUMERS' CORNER

EASIER MEAT IDENTIFICATION
Starting now, selecting and comparing cuts of meat may be easier for consumers. Many supermarkets and groceries will begin supporting a new, standardized nationwide meat labeling system.

The system was developed by the National Livestock and Meat Board in response to consumer complaints of confusion with present labeling methods. An industry-wide committee chose which name was best suited for each of the 314 possible cuts of meat.

Under the new system, each meat package will bear the name of the species—beef, veal, pork or lamb—the wholesale cut, such as chuck or loin, and a common retail name for the cut, standardized throughout the nation, such as "blade pot roast."

Also, a store may add its own name for the product, such as "economy roast" or "supreme beef." This name will allow a store or chain to maintain its system of identification without confusing customers.

The new program isn't required by law, so consumers should check with their local stores. If the system is not being used, they might want to suggest it.

Holiday Auto Trips to South Curtailed But Still Possible

Despite adequate gasoline supplies throughout most of the country, a record number of Michiganians will forego traditional holiday vacation trips and spend the Christmas-New Year's period close to home, according to Automobile Club of Michigan.

"Motorists, who generally are afraid to travel any distances this holiday because of the uncertainty of the gasoline situation, will drive 500 million miles over the 102-hour Christmas period," states Auto Club Touring Manager Joseph Ratke. "This is a 25 percent mileage decrease over last Christmas holiday."

The official Christmas holiday begins at 6 p.m. Friday (Dec. 21) and runs to midnight Tuesday (Dec. 25).

"Travel routings to such popular warm-weather holiday destinations as Florida are down 40 percent as compared to last December," says Ratke.

Ratke points out that while airline holiday reservations are up five to 10 percent over last year, this is normal for the Christmas-New Year's period. Airlines officials report no significant increases in business due to persons seeking to fly rather than drive.

"It is apparent that many persons who normally drive to Florida are canceling holiday trips rather than fly," he explains.

"Our downtown Detroit travel office is receiving between 200 and 300 calls daily from motorists worried about gasoline availability," Ratke states.

While Auto Club is asking that motorists reduce normal fuel consumption 25 percent, the organization points out that families still can take normal holiday vacation trips.

"Those persons taking long trips can help compensate for the fuel they use by voluntarily driving at a maximum 55 miles per hour and eliminating unnecessary driving while on vacation. Other driving before and after a vacation trip also can be reduced to make up for any extra fuel burned," explains Ratke.

"When traveling, motorists also should drive on the top half of the fuel tank, especially after 6 p.m. weekdays, and Saturday plus all day Sunday when most stations are closed."

An Auto Club "fuel gauge" survey of 150 Michigan gasoline stations plus selected stations in Ohio, Kentucky, Georgia, Tennessee and Florida shows adequate fuel supplies to meet motorists' needs throughout the Christmas-New Year's period.

"The biggest problem motorists will have is finding an open gas station on Christmas Day and New Year's Day in those states since between 70 and 95 percent of the stations will be closed," states Ratke. "Closures are due primarily to normal holiday observances and not the energy crisis, as gas stations traditionally have shut down both days."

Traveling on Sunday also will be a problem, both in Michigan and to Florida, with between 80 and 98 percent of the stations closed.

In Michigan, 80 percent of the stations surveyed will be closed Christmas Day with another 10 percent undecided. On New Year's Day, nearly 70 percent of Michigan stations will close while another 10 percent are undecided.

Auto Club points out that less than nine percent of the stations will be open after 9 p.m. Christmas and New Year's eves.

"The federal government's proposed five percent reduction in gasoline production by U.S. refineries beginning Dec. 27 should not affect travel over this Christmas and New Year's," says Ratke.

"Most gas stations have December allotments from distributors and the cutback should not be felt at the pumps until sometime in January."

The 514 Auto Club contract garages in Michigan all will provide 24-hour emergency road service during the entire holiday. Road service includes a gallon of gas to Triple-A members stranded with an empty fuel tank.

The energy crisis has not allowed domestic and foreign airlines to add the usual number of extra flights this holiday. Despite this, air travelers currently without reservations should be able to reach intended destinations, provided their schedules are flexible.

Airlines officials advise persons without reservations to avoid Dec. 21, 22, 23 and 26 plus Jan. 1, 2 and 3 since flights to popular holiday destinations are booked. However, airline space still is available at most other times provided passengers can adjust schedules by several hours or even one or two days.

It is also suggested that persons call for airline reservations in the evening since switchboards are usually jammed during the day. Passengers should not wrap carry-on Christmas presents since they may be asked to open them prior to boarding a plane as a security measure.

ask THE GOVERNOR

by William G. Milliken

Question: Property taxes are killing me! My assessments keep going up and up, and it seems like a never-ending battle just to have enough money to live. Why can't something be done?

Governor: Something is being done. Property tax relief is one of my administration's major program objectives. The tax relief program which I presented to the legislature this year and which was ultimately adopted was worth $79 million worth of relief to taxpayers during fiscal year 1973-74.

But I don't think that reform of our property tax system should stop there. I am currently working for the adoption of several pieces of legislation which would sharply upgrade the current system in addition to providing property tax relief to those citizens who need it. My program includes:

—The creation of a tax tribunal to handle tax appeals, eliminating the present situation in which the appeal agency rules on its own staff work;

—Providing for equalization by class of property, instead of across-the-board equalization now applied on a county-wide basis, which now results in many people's property being over-assessed;

—Allowing local units adequate time for analysis and review of county equalization action by increasing the time period for equalization appeals from 5 to 15 days;

—Legislation to promote uniform and equitable assessments at the local level;

—Legislation to require meaningful certification tests for all new assessors;

—Legislation to promote uniform and equitable assessments at the local level.

I intend to work hard for those goals during the coming months—goals which I believe are desirable and necessary changes in the current property tax system.

Question: High taxes are driving us farmers right out of business. We need tax relief if we're going to continue to produce food for our citizens.

Governor: Today—even while food shortages are growing in Michigan, the nation and the world—more and more farmers are under pressure to sell their land and get out. The value of their land is growing faster than their income. This is especially true near our large cities. As a result, many farmers find themselves saddled with ever higher property tax bills.

A farmer who can't afford those high taxes—and most cannot—has to sell to developers or speculators—and another 100 acres or so goes out of production to await the bulldozer.

My plan is to give farmers a break on their taxes in return for a pledge to keep their land in agriculture. A farmer who signed such a contract with the state would be eligible for a rebate of all property taxes paid in excess of 8 percent of his total household income.

I am urging the legislature to adopt my plan yet this fall—so that this land-saving tax program can go into effect the first of next year.

Question: I have heard two different stories about studded snow tires. One person told me they are banned, and someone else told me that they're not. What's the real story?

Governor: Critics of studded snow tires contend that metal tire studs are causing expensive damage to the state's highways, are also creating new hazards for motorists.

While legislation which would ban the use of studded tires has been pending in the legislature for the past two sessions, no such bills have been adopted. In other words, studded snow tires are still permitted in Michigan during the winter months. Legislation was adopted in 1967 which permits the use of studded tires between

Nov. 1 and May 1 of each year, and that law is still in effect today.

One bill now pending would shorten the time period during which snow tires can be used on cars from the present Nov. 1 to May 1 dates to a Dec. 1 through April 1 period.

However, even if that legislation were to become law, it would not affect citizens this winter. On Nov. 1, 1973, persons in Michigan may use studded snow tires on their automobiles.

Question: One of my hobbies is painting. A lot of people in my town, including my teachers and parents, say that I have real talent and may one day be an artist. I would like to visit the museum of art, but the nearest one to us is in a city 130 miles away. Do you know of any art programs that might be nearer to me?

Governor: Yes, the Michigan Arttrain Program, sponsored by the state's Arts Council, is an ongoing project which plans visits to 20 Michigan communities each year. It includes activities which are educational and helpful in developing art programs in local works of art by great masters, and local citizens.

It will be in the following cities from now until next spring: Bay City, Oct. 28 to Nov. 4; Bad Axe, Nov. 8-12; Algonac, Nov. 15-20; Roscommon, Nov. 25-29; Dearborn, Jan. 4-20; Charlotte, Jan. 23-27; Battle Creek, Jan. 30 to Feb. 9; Niles, Feb. 13-18; Jonesville, Feb. 22-26; Adrian, March 2-7; Livonia, Mar. 11-18.

CHIEF DIFFERENCE
The breadth of one's view is the chief difference between being "in the groove" and being "in a rut."

NEW YEAR RESOLUTIONS

The beginning of this new year provides a natural opportunity to consider THE JOHN BIRCH RESOLUTIONS which first appeared in the Dec. 1970 Bulletin of The Society. 10 of the 20 Resolutions are presented at this time with the remaining 10 to be offered next week. All twenty resolutions are available, with their respective explanations, in pamphlet form. Free copies are available for the asking.

In the John Birch Society we believe that both less government, and a greater sense of responsibility by all groups and individuals, will automatically help to produce a better world. But we also believe that each of us can accomplish most, towards making this a better world, through the example which he sets in his own life and actions. We further believe, therefore, that our actions and reactions in all circumstances should be determined by an honest answer to this basic question: "If everybody else on earth should think and act as I do, would this become in fact a better world?"

JOHN BIRCH RESOLUTIONS

1. I shall always do unto others as I would have them do unto me.
2. I shall always be truthful.
3. I will neither kill nor injure another human being, except in such circumstances that it is morally justifiable to do so.
4. I shall oppose, in every practicable way that I can, the widespread use or legalization of abortion, or of euthanasia.
5. I shall always support the concept and practice of monogamy.
6. I shall not steal, and I shall oppose stealing by others, whether they be individuals, groups, or governments.
7. I shall be tolerant of other people's views. Most especially I shall be tolerant of the religion of others, while faithful to the beliefs and principles of my own; with reverence always and blasphemy never as visible manifestations of my spiritual outlook.
8. I shall be a good patriot of my country.
9. I shall honor and cherish all of my family relationships and responsibilities.
10. I shall be self-reliant, to the full extent that is consistent with my age, my physical condition, my sex, and my family relationships and responsibilities.

Club and Social Activities

SENIOR CITIZENS

Regular business meeting of the senior citizens group was held at the Korner House on Friday, Dec. 28, before the evening's activities with 16 members present.

The group's president, Herschell O'Dell, was absent because of his recent release from the hospital.

The Lorenz Wenks are vacationing where the weather is warm. Due to the big snow storm in December, the Christmas and birthday pot-luck was cancelled.

Jan. 3 social committee will be Gertrude O'Dell and Dorothy Elsemann. There will be a combined December and January birthday party Jan. 17. Committee for that evening is Mr. and Mrs. Lorenz Wenk and Mary Woods.

BABY SHOWER

A baby shower honoring Mrs. William Pearsall of Bush Rd. was held Dec. 26 at the home of Mrs. Leroy Bristle, Mrs. Pearsall's aunt. Mrs. Bristle was assisted by her daughters, Eileen and Mrs. Elaine Falcone. Games were played and refreshments were served.

CORNER BEEF

Make any day an Irish Holiday by putting corned beef on the family table. Easy to prepare by cooking slowly in liquid until tender, corned beef is a universal food favorite. In making your purchase, allow enough for corned beef sandwiches or a tasty second-day hash.

HEAT AND EAT

"Fully-cooked" hams may be served unheated. Full flavor, however, is developed by heating the ham in a slow oven to 140 degrees F.

Do women try to throw out last year's dresses? No, they try very hard to get into them!

Rebekah Lodge Installation Set for Jan. 7 in Dexter

Chelsea Rebekah Lodge No. 130 will start the new year by going to Dexter, Harmony Rebekah Lodge on Jan. 7 at 8 p.m. A joint public installation of the two lodges will be conducted by the Earl Gray degree team, a ritual drill.

The newly-elected officers will be headed by Mrs. Nina Lehmann as noble grand; Mrs. Helen Sibley as vice-grand; Mrs. Eulabee Packard as secretary; Mrs. Donna Feldkamp as financial secretary; Mrs. Dorothy Keezer as treasurer; and Mrs. Jo Hochrein as three-year trustee.

Appointed officers filling the chairs are Mrs. Loyadell Keezer as chaplain; Mrs. Velma Wolfe as musician; Miss Nadine Packard as warden; Mrs. Marian Pickell as conductress; Mrs. Lillian Sander-Ann as inside guardian; Mrs. Mary Ann Coltre as right support to the noble grand (and lodge deputy); Mrs. Ida Nixon as left support to the noble grand; Mrs. Lucille Alfstaetter as right support to the vice-grand; and Mrs. Carrie Dunlap as left support to the vice-grand.

The three members of the financial committee will be appointed at the first meeting.

Immediate past noble grand Mrs. Helen Harris will be presented her past noble grand jewel for her year's service.

Incoming officers gave their secret work at the last meeting in December. Christmas cheer gifts were voted to be sent to the sick and shut-in members.

Mrs. Lehmann and Mrs. Wolfe attended a planning meeting in Jackson for lodge officers by Mrs. Leona Hall.

Lodge members brought gifts for the Chelsea Social Service agency instead of exchanging gifts.

New officers will be wearing formal for the installation, and Chelsea Lodge will furnish the loaf cakes for dessert.

Mrs. Ida Nixon will receive the decoration of chivalry in the fall. This is the highest honor a member may receive.

Due to Jan. 1 falling on the first meeting day of the year, the first regular meeting will be held on Jan. 15 at 7:30 p.m. at the hall, with new officers in command.

Mrs. Marian Pickell broke her foot and will be home from the hospital on Monday, and Mrs. Helen Harris is also home from the hospital.

Energy Saving Gift Ideas Popular

Christmas gifts should be bought with an eye on the present energy shortage urges Anne Field, extension family resource management specialist at Michigan State University.

A good gift for the entire family is a layer of insulation for the house, if it's needed. It will help keep your family warm for many years to come. Sweaters for Christmas will also add to your family's comfort despite lowered thermostats.

Or, how about a microwave oven. It represents a substantial energy savings over a conventional oven.

One of the most valuable gifts you can give to another is a good example.

PRINZING - McDONALD: Mr. and Mrs. George Prinzing, 421 Chandler, announce the engagement of their daughter, Laurel Ann, to Douglas Wayne McDonald, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold McDonald, 18621 Kilmer Rd. #### TOGETHER LOOK

This year's look in Women's fashions is called the "put-together" look. The new silhouette being shown for fall has a full, loose top with a slimmer base—fewer pleats and more A-line and straight-skirt styles.

The suit and two-piece dress are being shown. Cardigans are doubling as suit jackets and even as sweater dresses, while quilted jackets and toppers also add to the "put-together" look.

Dresses have folds and soft draping lines from the use of soft fabrics, especially matte jersey.

Designers are showing wrap coats in plaids and solids. Lots of fur trim is being used, but only in one place—the collar or cuffs—instead of both.

Fall fabrics bring hints of home-spun and heather. Softness is the key color. Not the baby pastels, but soft heather-blue, marmoon and natural oatmeal will be the pacesetters. Tweed is popular for its muted effect. Classic woven fabrics are coming back this fall in prints and solids that are neat, orderly and crisp. Seersucker is back again with a wintry look in heavier fabrics.

All Aliens Must Report Address During January

Armand J. Saturelli of the Detroit Immigration and Naturalization Service has again reminded all aliens to report their addresses during January.

Cards with which to make the reports are available at Post Offices and offices of the Immigration and Naturalization Service throughout the country. The reports should be filled in and signed, then a postage stamp placed on the reverse side and it dropped in any mail box.

Parents or guardians submit reports for alien children under 14 years of age.

Saturelli urges all aliens to report before the end of January, as willful failure to do so may lead to serious penalties.

Saturelli would like to caution all aliens, as well as employers, that the issuance of a Social Security Account Card to an alien is not evidence of permission to work in the United States. Only those aliens lawfully admitted to the United States for permanent residence (immigrants) and those aliens temporarily in the United States (non-immigrants) who have been authorized by the Service to take employment may work in this country.

Personal Notes

Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Brislite had their daughter and son-in-law, Lt. and Mrs. Ronald Falcone, of Fayetteville, N. C., visiting them for Christmas. The Falcones left from Metropolitan Airport Friday to spend New Year's Day with Lt. Falcone's parents in Steelton, Pa., before returning home.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Brightwell and their two children spent the holidays with his parents in Missouri.

Robert Freysinger has been transferred from five weeks at Chelsea Community Hospital to Rank's Green Meadows Convalescent Home in Stockbridge for the winter. Cards and visits from friends will be greatly appreciated.

Boy Scout Hike Scheduled Saturday

All Cub, Webelos and Boy Scouts are reminded of the 8th annual Potawatomi Winter Hike scheduled for Saturday, Jan. 5.

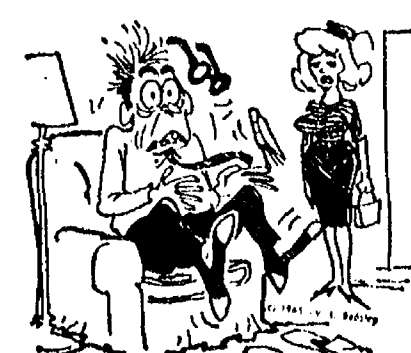

This special eight-mile hike is open to all troops in the council. All hikers meet at Camp Munh-a-eh, Bruin Lake, between 7 and 10 a.m. No hikers may begin after 10 a.m. Bring $1.25 per person to cover the cost of a handsome patch and hot chocolate which will be served.

Call the Boy Scout office in Ann Arbor, 663-8514, for reservations.

Press Clipping Services Combine

Michigan Press Reading Service, a newspaper clipping bureau located in Williamston, has purchased Michigan - Detroit Clipping Bureau, a Royal Oak competitor and the state's oldest clipping bureau. John Lavcock, MPRS manager, announced the agreement.

Established in 1904 as "Michigan Clipping Bureau," the Royal Oak firm originated with Henry Ford I, who decided his employees were spending too much time clipping company news from the papers. One employee took Ford's suggestion, started his own company, and offered clipping service to Ford Motor Co. and other industrial clients.

Purchased in 1936 by Mary and James Shirk, Michigan - Detroit Clipping Bureau specialized in coverage of newspapers in the seven-county S.E. Michigan area.

Michigan Press Reading Service evolved during WW II as a subsidiary of the Michigan Press Association, East Lansing. Under stewardship of MPA secretary Elmer White, the bureau grew to be Michigan's largest press research service, with a nation-wide clientele.

A division of the Ohio News Bureau Co. of Cleveland since 1969, the Williamston firm checks more than 700 editions of Michigan daily and weekly papers each week. During 1973, more than one million news stories and ads from Michigan newspapers were supplied to government agencies, industries, throughout the U.S.

STATE PARK

HOLLAND STATE PARK

HOLLAND STATE PARK IS ONE OF THE SMALLEST IN SIZE, YET AMONG THE MOST POPULAR PARKS BECAUSE OF ITS FINE BEACH AND ATTRACTIONS IN THE NEARBY AREA. IT IS SEVEN MILES WEST OF HOLLAND AND ONE USUALLY HAS TO ARRIVE IN THE MORNING TO CAMP THERE. BIGGEST APPEAL ARE THE TOWERING SAND DUNES AND A FINE BEACH.

ESPECIALLY GOOD FOR CHILDREN. THE CAMPGROUND IS DIVIDED INTO TWO SECTIONS. ALONG LAKE MICHIGAN ARE 144 SITES WHILE 179 ARE AT LAKE MACATAWA WHERE RED AND WHITE PINE TREES OFFER SHADE AND PRIVACY. ALL SWIMMERS MUST USE THE LAKE MICHIGAN BEACH.

ON ALL MICHIGAN WATERWAYS, INCLUDING INLAND LAKES AND RIVERS, STATE LAW REQUIRES BOATERS TO CARRY A U.S. COAST GUARD APPROVED PRESERVER OR CUSHION FOR EACH PERSON ABOARD. FOR SAFETY, ALL CHILDREN AND PERSONS WHO CANNOT SWIM SHOULD WEAR THE PRESERVER AT ALL TIMES ON THE WATER.

Bring 'em back ALIVE!

Holland State Park Among Popular Sites in L. Peninsula

Campers who like to combine a fine beach, sand dunes and unusual area attractions should try Holland State Park, according to Automobile Club of Michigan.

Located seven miles west of Holland, along Lake Michigan, the park is one of the state's most popular, attracting 1,102,018 campers last year, largest number in the southern half of the Lower Peninsula.

Despite its 342 sites, Holland fills rapidly in the summer and one usually has to arrive in the morning to camp there. Its 143 acres places it among the smaller parks in size.

Behind its appeal, perhaps, are its fine beach, especially good for children, and towering sand dunes. The beach, three-quarters of a mile long, and the dunes offer good sand hiking. Couple these features with the attractions at Holland and the combination is almost unbeatable as a camper magnet.

The campground is divided into two sections. Along Lake Michigan are 144 sites, while 179 are at nearby Lake Macatawa. At the latter, red and white pine growth offer shade and privacy. To swim, however, campers must walk nearly a mile to the beach on Lake Michigan.

Other features of the park include a store in the park, bathhouse, laundry, library and a dumping station.

Holland State Park isn't the best park for fishing, but perch can be caught from the pier and breakwater.

Near Holland State Park are a variety of attractions which are among the best in western Michigan. They include:

—Windmill Island, an unusual municipal park on a 36-acre island in downtown Holland. It has canals, a working drawbridge, a miniature Dutch village and extensive tulip gardens. They comprise an authentic setting for the park's chief feature, a 200-year-old operating windmill called "De Zwaan." The windmill was imported from the Netherlands.

—Wooden Shoe Factory, two miles southeast on US-31, where wooden shoes are made with European machinery and hand finish.

—Dutch Village on US-31, a mile north of the junction with State 21. Here are flowering gardens, picturesque buildings, Dutch folk dancing, and marketplace with imported Dutch goods.

—Baker Museum for Furniture Research, in downtown Holland, which displays a large collection of furniture designs from many countries.

—Netherlands Museum, also downtown, which shows replicas of old Dutch kitchens.

—Poll Museum, five miles north of Holland on US-31, which features antique and classic cars and steam engines.

—Just south of Holland, at Saugatuck, is one of the state's newest marine museums. It is housed aboard the retired Canadian Pacific passenger steamer, S.S. Kewatin.

If Holland State Park should be full, other state parks a short distance north are: Grand Haven, 171 sites; P. J. Hoffmaster, 288 sites, and Muskegon, 346 sites.

YOU & YOUR CAR

★ Auto Refinements Spur New Service Techniques

Today's automobile has evolved from a relatively simple machine to a highly complex vehicle. Advances in technology have produced automotive components that last longer and perform better but of necessity, are correspondingly more sophisticated.

For example, today's engines seldom require ring and valve jobs, not uncommon 25 years ago. Transmissions rarely cause trouble today with proper maintenance and normal driving, and usually perform well for the life of the car.

But, on the other hand, emission controls mandated by the government have required additional sophisticated devices to be added to the engine such as air injection reactors and exhaust gas recirculators.

While cars have been improving in dependability, manufacturers have also been building in added safety, comfort and convenience. Items such as windshields with built-in radio antennas, electrical heated rear window defrosters, disc brakes, and electronic fuel injection were either unavailable a few years ago, or offered as optional equipment. Many of these items are now standard equipment on some models because of consumer demand.

Today's car buyer, of course, has even more options to choose from, like special suspension components for maximum handling, automatic temperature control, and stereo sound systems. All this additional equipment results in a growing need for more highly trained technicians to service them. The average car, for example, contains some five miles of electrical wiring, not including the wiring required by the new 1974 seat belt interlock system. And while service information for one 1920 model car filled only 300 pages, the 1974 service manual has multiplied six times to some 1,800 pages.

The service equipment manufacturers have kept pace with this increased complexity by developing new and improved diagnostic equipment to help service technicians more easily identify the source of car problems.

One car manufacturer has developed a diagnostic testing system that plugs into its new model cars; another has installed onboard equipment that permits the car owner to monitor the condition of certain components and systems as he drives.

Leaflet Tells What To Do When Your Home Freezer Stops

If you own a freezer, you're probably taking advantage of it. If the color or odor of the thawed food is poor or questionable, get rid of it. It may have been contaminated by bacteria which can cause illness.

What To Do When Your Home Freezer Stops, a leaflet from the Department of Agriculture, outlines steps you should take to protect frozen foods. Copies of the six-page leaflet may be ordered for 20 cents from Consumer Product Information, Pueblo, Colo. 81009.

According to the booklet, if the freezer stops, first try to estimate how long it will be before it's working again:

—If power is off, try to find out how long it will be off.

—If there seems to be a mechanical problem, read the instruction book to determine if there is something you can do to put the freezer back into operation, or—Try to find out how long it will take a serviceman to repair the freezer.

Next, estimate how long your foods will stay frozen. With the freezer closed, food will usually stay frozen in a fully-loaded cabinet for two days; in a cabinet less than half full, not more than a day. How long the food will stay frozen also depends on:

—the kind of food. For example, a freezer full of meat will not warm up as fast as a freezer full of baked goods.

—the temperature of the food. The colder the food is the longer it will stay frozen.

—the freezer itself. A well-insulated freezer will keep food much longer than one with poor insulation.

—the size of the freezer. The larger the freezer, the longer the food will stay frozen.

If it looks as though the freezer will be stopped for some time, there are several steps you may take:

—Keep the freezer closed.

—If possible, move the food to a locker plant. It is good to make advance arrangements with a local locker plant to take care of food in an emergency. Then, if an emergency occurs:

1. Call the locker plant to see if it is operating and, if so, whether it has room for your food.

2. If space is available, wrap the food in newspapers and blankets or use insulated boxes to take the food to the plant as quickly as possible.

Another approach is to use dry ice to keep foods frozen. Twenty-five pounds of dry ice should hold the temperature of a half-full cubic foot cabinet below freezing for two or three days. Food in a fully loaded cabinet will stay frozen three to four days if you put dry ice in soon after the freezer goes off. Put heavy cardboard directly on the packages of frozen food and then put the dry ice on top of the cardboard.

If current failures are frequent and last long periods of time, you may wish to invest in a standby generator.

Occasionally, frozen foods are partially or completely thawed before you discover that the freezer is not operating. Partial thawing and refreezing does reduce the quality of foods, particularly fruits, vegetables, and prepared foods. Red meats are affected less than many other foods.

You may safely refreeze foods that have thawed if they still contain ice crystals or if they are cold—no more than 40 degrees F.—and have been held at this temperature no longer than one or two days after thawing.

Fruits usually ferment when they start to spoil. A little fermentation will not make fruits dangerous to eat, but it may spoil their flavor. You can refreeze thawed fruits if they still taste and smell good, or use them in cooking, baking, or making preserves, jams and jellies.

Meats and poultry become unsafe to eat when they start to spoil. Examine each package before you decide what to do with it. If the color or odor of the thawed food is poor or questionable, get rid of it. It may have been contaminated by bacteria which can cause illness.

Pamphlet Tells How To Wrap For Safe Mailing

The framed photograph of the children will be a marvelous Christmas present for their grandparents. But how do you pack it so that it will arrive safely?

The U.S. Postal Service suggests that you roll up sheets of newspaper and wrap two or three of them around the frame in each direction. Tape them in place. The rolls of paper should cushion the frame in the box and assure its arrival unbroken.

This is just one suggestion from the U.S. Postal Service in a booklet called How to Pack and Wrap. Single copies are available free from Consumer Information, Pueblo, Colo. 81009.

Of course, if you use a flimsy box to pack the frame and don't secure it well, no amount of padding will help.

Corrugated cardboard boxes are probably the best general containers for mailing parcels. They can be cut to fit the size of the article. And if you don't have a box with a top, two boxes fitted one over the other make a very strong package.

To hold the package together, one of the safest and strongest tapes available is self-sticking tape with fibers running along the length. Cloth pressure sensitive tape is also good. Gummed paper tape reinforced with fibers is excellent, but probably not too easy to obtain for home use. No matter what the you use, make sure you put enough on to hold the box from opening under pressure. Be particularly careful of the ends and corners.

For complete assurance, use strong cord and make one or two loops around both the length and width of the box with knots at each intersection.

Finally, on one side of the package clearly print the name and complete address of the recipient including his zip code, and your name and return address. Be sure to put these addresses inside the package also so that it may be delivered even if the address on the outside is damaged.

How to Pack and Wrap is a new publication listed in the Fall edition of the Consumer Information Index. Published quarterly by the General Services Administration's Consumer Product Information Center, the Index lists more than 200 Federal publications of consumer interest in such areas as Housing, Appliances, Food, Automobiles, Health, Landscaping, the Environment, and Consumer Protection. Copies of the Index are available free from Consumer Information, Pueblo, Colo. 81009, and from Federal Information Centers in 36 cities around the country.

From Mrs. Jack Lewis, Pearl, Miss: Being raised in rural Arkansas, my childhood consisted of the smell from the plowed fields, juicy blackberries, fishing in a creek, catching rainwater far washing our hair and the peddler.

The nearest store was several miles down a railroad track. Not owning a car, it was a full afternoon trip to the store. Since both parents were busy in the fields, we would purchase most of our items from the peddler's wagon. The morning when the peddler would come was the day I waited for the most. I could hear him first before I could see him from the jingles of the pots and pans hanging from the sides of his wagon. The excitement of getting my weekly candy bar and looking inside his wagon was almost more than I could stand. Inside this unique wagon was everything that kept the daily lives of my family and friends going. The peddler would let me look inside while my mother considered the best way to spend our money. The peddler is a memory that brings back lots of smiles.

Heating With Wood Conserves Valuable Source of Energy

A piece of dense or heavy wood will provide more heat than a lighter weight piece of wood. Soil Conservation Service Forester Jacques Pinkard considers oak, beech, maple, and hickory best. One lightweight wood, aspen, is a hazard in a fireplace, he says. It hisses and snaps and, flings embers all around the grate and into the room.

When a pound of dry hardwood is burned it will make about as much heat as one-half pound of coal, or one-third as much as a pound of fuel oil. Moisture held in wood cut from live trees will determine how much heat may be obtained from the wood. As much as 30 percent of the weight may be due to water when the wood is first cut.

Natural forests and tree plantings supply us with wood. Do we know how to use it for fuel? There is a market for cull wood from most any kind of tree. Woodlands may be improved by leaving the best trees to grow for wood products and taking off only the poorer trees for firewood. "Some of our best tree-covered areas are those from which poor trees have been systematically removed for firewood year after year while the better trees were left to grow," according to Arthur H. Cratty, State Conservationist, SCS in Michigan, and SCS District Conservationist Clark Eacker in Ann Arbor.

There are several potential sources of firewood:
—cull trees and poor trees in any woodland.
—tree tops and limbs too small to make into logs.
—wood scraps and logs not useable for other wood products.
—wood from land-clearing.
—yard trees removed in town or country.

There is also a fuel-saving measure which may be taken around the outside of a home. A windbreak of trees and shrubs may be planted. An ideal pattern is three rows of trees and shrubs on both sides. The entire planting should be along the windward sides and 100

Girl Scout Camp To Be Renovated

Facilities at Camp Crawford, the 10-acre campsite owned by the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council, will undergo renovations costing nearly $10,000 during the winter, it was announced today by Council President, Mrs. Louis Galan of Dexter.

Camp Crawford, located on Crane Rd., between Willis and Bemis Rds. in southeastern Washtenaw county, is used by area Girl Scouts primarily for primitive camping in tents pitched on the ground and daytime activities such as hiking, outdoor cooking, ecology projects and the like.

Among the improvements slated are fencing and posting camp boundaries, expanded lavatory facilities, repairing and painting two open shelters, and repairing the entrance road and parking lot. Money for the renovation will come from Girl Scout Cookie Sale profits.

A volunteer committee composed of Girl Scouts and Camp Crawford neighbors will do some of the repair work and watch over the property. A petition signed by 13 Camp Crawford neighbors asking that the Council retain its ownership of the land and volunteering to assist with its maintenance was received recently by the Council Board of Directors.

Camp Crawford is available for use by all Girl Scouts in the Huron Valley Council area which includes Washtenaw, Livingston, western Wayne and northern Monroe counties.

Other Huron Valley Council camps are the 400-acre Camp Linden in Livingston county near Linden which has 10 buildings and other facilities for resident camping, as well as primitive camping, and the 7-acre Camp Hilltop on North Main St., in Ann Arbor which has a single troop house and is used primarily for day camping.

Dogs Serve Useful Purpose In Modern Medical Research

By Ann Rauma
Ann Arbor—Dogs have been used for medical research for years, but the emotional controversy still continues.

Anti-vivisectionists, animal research's strongest opponents, feel that the dogs are tortured and abused.

Dr. Max Bree, of the University of Michigan's Lab Animal Facility, called these claims "unjustified." He pointed out that federal and state laws and University policy require that humane procedures be followed.

"The Animal Welfare Act 1970 sets minimum requirements regarding handling, housing, feeding, sanitation and adequate veterinary care," he explained. The dogs are anesthetized for operations, he assured.

Besides ethical and humane reasons for assuring a dog's comfort, it is in the researcher's interest to do so. The researcher's purpose is to duplicate the human condition. If the dog feels pain, the body signs indicate this. Heart beat, blood pressure increase and hormone levels change. This distorts the results of the experiment, according to researchers.

Dr. Bree stressed the importance of dogs in medical research. "The use of dogs runs the gamut of medical science," he stated. The uses range from transplant experimentation, to development of a new drug, to studying body processes.

Dogs are a particularly popular species, Bree explained. Besides being a manageable size and conveniently available, a dog's bodily responses are very similar to human responses. This increases the importance of the findings. Also, most past experimentation has used dogs. Therefore, there is a bulk of articles that provide background information for this species.

According to Bree, the type and condition of dog depends on the nature of the experiment. For example, a genetics experiment demands a healthy dog with a traceable history, such as a beagle. In contrast, a sick mongrel would suffice to demonstrate the heart's movement for an undergraduate zoology class. Researchers generally prefer manageable medium-sized dogs with short hair.

The University is particular about where they get their dogs. Sources include private donations, dog pounds, professional breeders and licensed dealers. However, it gets the majority of dogs from dealers and breeders. "This reduces the already remote possibility of using someone's pet," Bree said. "It also eliminates the market for dog thieves."

The Lab Animal Facility uses about 125 dogs a month, less than past years. This reduction is due to limited budget, rising animal costs and higher standards of care, according to Bree.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Sir:

The recent remonstrations of my friends Dr. Warren and Mr. Storey regarding the seeming plethora of "snow days" in the Chelsea Public Schools prompt my attempt at a reasonable reply.

The first consideration in any decisions made regarding our school system should be the welfare of the students. It is unfortunate enough that grave educational decisions are much tempered by factors such as availability of funding that monetary consideration should be cited as reason for holding school when roads are blocked with snow.

Who among us would want to make a decision to have buses run on roads unfit and have an accident result that would cost even one child's life or crippling injury? I hope that no one would put a price tag on that precious gift. Why then should we bring pressure to bear on the one who does make that decision? It is a difficult decision at best. No one wants to "lose" $10,000. Certainly no one wants to put the lives of school children in jeopardy.

The complaints regarding the non-requirement of teacher and staff attendance on "snow days" on the surface may seem to have merit. We all like to see our public employees working. However, teachers and staff persons have the same difficulties in traveling on "snow days" as buses and to require their attendance would result in hardship for many. The fact is—speaking as a former public school teacher—teachers wish to be treated as the professionals they try to be. I would not assume that Dr. Warren would lose any of his skill as a dentist should he for some reason not be able to meet his appointments on a given day. It is clear that the professional teacher will meet his/her responsibilities regardless of the circumstances. Requiring a teacher who is not conscientious in performing his/her duties to come to school would seem to serve only a cosmetic purpose. He/she can loaf at school as easily as at home if there are no students present.

As for any proposed plan in which buses would run on "main roads" or not at all, Business Manager Mills informs me that there would be an average 30 percent absentee rate should buses run on main roads and more if no buses ran. Upon examination such an absentee rate proves to be educationally intolerable.

What is the teacher to do if 30 percent of the students are absent? Does he/she go ahead with proposed lesson plans for the 70 percent and let the 30 percent catch up later? What if "later" is several days? It does not take a vivid imagination to realize that only chaos and/or much wasted time will be the result. Should the teacher conduct review sessions on snow days including possible enrichment activities? An excellent idea to be sure, but enrichment activities and worthwhile review require as much or more planning than a normal lesson plan. It is not possible for the teacher to make such preparations including assembling resource materials, writing review examinations, etc. between the time he/she hears that buses will run on "main roads" and the beginning of school. Teachers of specialty classes such as instrumental music, vocal music, or team sport coaches would be especially burdened by this policy. As a band director I would find it quite impossible to rehearse with 30 percent of the band absent. It would seem therefore, that if school were to be held with buses running on "main roads" that the name should be changed from "school" to "baby-sitting" because that is what it would be.

Respectfully,

Max Plank.

Dear Editor,

You have heard in recent weeks from two ex-School Board Presidents concerning "snow days." It would probably be good at this time to hear from a teacher.

I do not officially represent anyone but myself, but conversations with my colleagues makes me feel that most would agree with my sentiments.

Snow days interfere with plans in many ways. We may have an educational film or other materials planned for that day and can't use them because they must be returned the next morning to the supplier. Biologically oriented investigations may be ruined if left for more than the 24 hours planned. Certain sequences in any subject will lose continuity because of the interruptions. Field trips have had to be cancelled, if not re-scheduled. And parties at all levels have been cancelled.

True, there is always plenty to do at home, and I have made good use of my snow days, but I would rather be in class with my students.

I also wonder why, if families can't manage to get their children to school under these emergency conditions, how come enough of them always show up for basketball games or play rehearsals on those days?

Many of us thought and hoped when the Board of Education developed a "Main Roads Only" plan, that these problems would be eliminated.

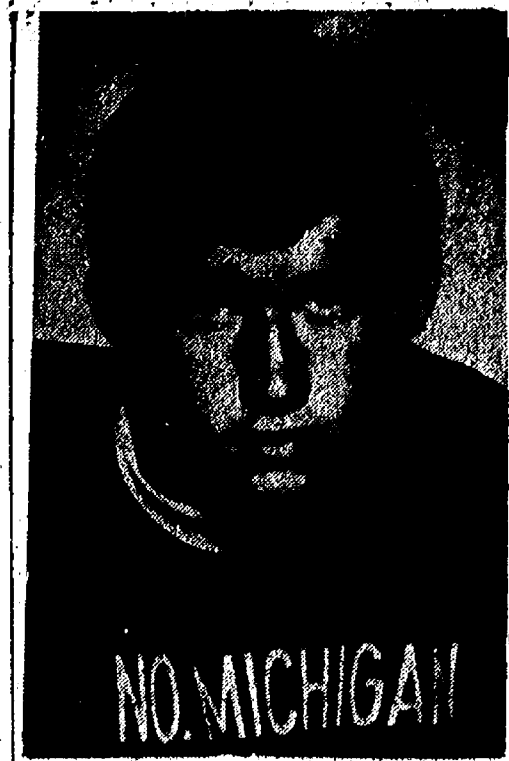

Hopefully, a Main Roads Only plan would not leave too many students home. If the same students missed too often, or if we operated schools for only 70 percent of the students, that would be as discouraging to the teachers as the interruptions cited above. But we don't know how it will work unless we give it a try.

Sincerely,

James Hoffmeyer

Many Signs Point

To Recession Coming

Many signs indicate that there may be a recession in the U.S. economy sometime next year, possibly in the second half, reports a Michigan State University economist.

Dr. Mordechai Kreinin, professor of economics and specialist in domestic and international monetary policy notes, "The softest spot in the economy will probably be in the consumer sector."

"Residential construction is on the decline, responding to the sharp rise in interest rates. With it will come a reduction in sales of consumer durables. Automobile sales are also expected to decline."

TRAFFIC ACCIDENT

Accidents are caused by those who drive in high with their brains in neutral!

news! We miss everybody up there but are glad to be down here where it is warmer and there isn't any snow and Ted's health seems to be improving.

Sincerely,
