Russell Beeman Finds Rewards In Central America 4-H Work

Belize is a tiny county (somewhere near the size of Massachusetts) with a population of approximately 150,000 which averages to five people per square mile, if people had chosen to distribute themselves that way.

Probably Belize is more easily recognizable by its colonial name, British Honduras, a name that is presently passing forever into history with the gaining of independence from Great Britain, scheduled for next year.

Belize is also what would be considered by United States Standards, a low income country—a "less-developed" area.

When Russell Beeman left this country last summer for a 14-month stay in Belize, he had in mind the ideals of the national 4-H organization that sponsored him through its Youth Development Program.

Beeman was to "develop programs" for youth, with emphasis on 4-H, where applicable.

Possibly that little qualifying phrase—"where applicable"—is to deviate from the original course of action he pursued while in Belize.

For the first segment of his stay in Belize, he attempted to progress as he thought the organization intended, trying to start 4-H groups, training 4-H people. He found, instead, that the "people of Belize were more interested in living."

During a vacation trip to Jamaica, which is a mere jump across the Caribbean, Beeman met with 4-H workers in that country to see what Jamaica, as a developing nation, had done with 4-H.

He returned from his visit, he says, with ideas—"ideas of 4-H in a productive role in the development of the country." With these ideas, he found it necessary, to some extent, to re-define, or at least modify his definition of the programming he was to be doing for 4-H.

He decided that a 4-H program might be one that dealt "either directly or indirectly with youth." Since virtually any positive project designed to improve a given condition in Belize would indirectly involve the country's youth, it would seem that he had re-defined to his—and the country's—best advantage.

To his surprise, the national 4-H organization backed him up in his endeavors. "They said I was starting great programs, doing good work," Beeman recalls. "I was amazed that they backed me up."

The projects that Beeman feared would be too radical for the national organization to swallow were also ones that he personally regarded as "much more realistic" in terms of dealing with what he calls his "philosophy of the poor."

"The poor are discouraged, mainly," he says. They want to get ahead, but know that they'll fail, so programs are stopped before they begin."

Dealing with such a negative attitude is no doubt in itself a barrier, but Beeman seems to have found the key to success

RUSSELL BEEMAN, Chelsea native who has spent the past 10 months in Belize, Central America, as part of the 4-H Youth Development Program, looks over maps and resource materials about the country with Connie Swintonowski, from Monroe county, who also worked in Belize.

David Klemer Earns Chrysler Corp. Fund Merit Scholarship

Chelsea High school senior David Klemer, who appears in The Standard almost as often as Polly's ads, has been awarded the Chrysler Corporation Fund Merit Scholarship.

The Chrysler Corporation Fund since 1962 has awarded scholarships to sons and daughters of employees of Chrysler Corp. who become finalists in the annual National Merit Scholarship competition.

David has been accepted to the College of Engineering of the University of Michigan, where he plans to study bio-engineering.

Presently he is serving as president of the Chelsea chapter of the National Honor Society.

For his work in holography (three-dimensional laser photography), he has received three International Science Fair awards and a first place in the Southeastern Michigan Science Fair. Recently the same exhibit placed him in the honors group of the Westinghouse Science Talent search.

A member of the marching, pep, and symphony bands, he earned a first division rating for his tympni performance at State Solo and Ensemble Festival at Ferndale High school on March 23.

He has also participated in debate and forensics. In Chelsea High school's sweep of the Brighton Invitational Tournament March 16, he earned a first-place individual trophy for his radio broadcast.

DAVID KLEMER

He has also been designated a Boys' State delegate, and was the recipient of the Kiwanis Club Citizenship Award and the American Legion and Freedom Foundation awards.

David is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Klemer of 634 Flanders.

The announcement of David's scholarship came as the first of a series of three announcements of scholarships awarded to National Merit Finalists. Other National Merit categories which remain to be awarded are those for the $1,000

GROUND WATER has become a problem in the construction of an extension of the existing sewer that runs some 700 ft. north of Mayer Dr., and serves residents along that route. At present, workers have returned to the project from other sewer tasks around the village to team up with this mammoth machine to dig a 30 ft. deep hole to enable them to pump out the excess water. Well cases can then be laid for the sewer extension.

CHELSEA RESIDENT KELLY CARPENTER, who works as a field service officer for the Marine Corps League in Detroit, acted as honorary chairman of the day at Vietnam Veterans Day observances in the state capital on March 29. Carpenter served in Vietnam in 1965 and has been active in veterans' service work for the past two and one-half years.

Kelly Carpenter Is Honorary Chairman of Vietnam Vets Day

Although March 29, the first anniversary of the return of the last of Americans serving in the Vietnam conflict, passed with relatively little public fanfare, one person who had a vital role in the observance of a group that did not forget was Kelly Carpenter.

Carpenter, a local Marine Corps veteran who served in Vietnam in 1965, was honorary chairman of the Vietnam Veterans Day program in Lansing on that date that is of dubious celebratory import to us all.

The program was sponsored by the Commander's Group of Congressionally-chartered veterans organizations.

Carpenter, naturally called his part in the observance, "quite an honor, considering the large number of veterans in the state" and in his address at the program told the audience: "I treasure the privilege of assisting you in your salute to our Vietnam veterans."

Carpenter, however, is daily involved in the task of assisting veterans, as he is employed as a field service officer of the Marine Corps League in Detroit.

He deals primarily in assisting veterans through appeals in attempts to gain benefits considered due them.

Prior to this position, he worked in the Veterans Affairs office in Ann Arbor and the Washtenaw County Department of Veterans Affairs.

At the Vietnam Veterans Day program, he reminded the audience to "be mindful of those who sacrificed their lives and those who are unaccounted for. Their devotion and dedication to duty are a legacy to the peace that we have today and the peace that will endure in the future."

Among guest speakers for the program were Sen. William S. Ballenger, III, member of the Senate Taxation and Veterans Affairs Committee, Rep. Edward E. Mahalak, chairman of the House Military and Veterans Affairs Committee, Rep. William A. Ryan, speaker of the House of Representatives, and speaker of the day, Lt. Gov. James H. Brickley.

In an executive declaration in observance of Vietnam Veterans Day, Gov. William Milliken said, "While the Vietnam War itself was clearly one of the most unpopular wars in our nation's history, those young men and women who answered the call of their country and served with distinction in Vietnam are deserving of the profound gratitude of all citizens of our nation."

Vietnam Veterans Day originated with House Joint Resolution 865, passed by Congress and signed by President Nixon on Dec. 8 of last year.

Survey Reveals Need For Transportation

When Mrs. Eva Carpenter takes on a task, you just sort of get a gut feeling that the job will be done. But she doesn't have that feeling about her latest concern.

Mrs. Carpenter is the dynamic little lady who is currently calling her way through the Chelsea telephone book in an attempt to find which local residents need the services of a telephone reassurance program of the sort begun in other cities through the efforts of Retired Senior Volunteers program (RSVP).

Presently she has managed to call approximately one-third of the numbers listed in Chelsea, and admits that the project is an arduous one. A remarkably common factor to at least half of the calls to people who need any help at all, she says, is the need for some sort of available transportation for those without cars or otherwise unable to drive.

"When I returned to Chelsea, in 1969," Mrs. Carpenter recalls, "I figured that I could take a taxi to Schneider's or Kusterer's and do my shopping. But then I found that a taxi no longer operated in the village, although a man made a living here from his taxi operation for 20 years or so."

The Chelsea United Methodist Home operates its familiar long green limousine-type vehicle for its own residents' transportation needs, she notes, and has recently opened the service on a limited basis to those outside the home, although one woman told Mrs. Carpenter that the ride cost her $1.25 from the home to a beauty salon in town, and $1.25 back to the home. Rates for the Yellow Cab Co., in Ann Arbor, comparably, are $1 for the first mile and 50 cents for each additional mile.

"I'm not talking about free transportation," Mrs. Carpenter emphasizes. "People should certainly have to pay for this service. But $1.25 does seem a little bit high to me."

A project planner from the Washtenaw County Council on Aging originally thought that some Chelsea transportation might be eligible for a grant from the council, which would

Baseball Team Staffed With 10 Veterans

With a new coach and more than half a squad of returning lettermen, Chelsea High school's baseball squad began its 1974 season last Thursday with a 10-0 defeat of Stockbridge and dropped a pair to a tough St. Clair Shores Lakeview squad Saturday.

In Thursday's action against Stockbridge, Paul Wood was good for a grand slam home run. Doug Reed and Ron Clark each collected two hits, while Jeff Sprague, Joel Sprague, Kevin Webb, and Tres MacCollum each had one.

Pitcher of record was Bill Clark, who pitched the middle three innings, giving up only one hit and striking out four.

Perry Johnson and Todd Orbring each pitched two innings in the win. Against Lakeview, however, the Bulldogs were limited to a meager three hits while Lakeview

Tennis Instruction Classes Start Tonight

First-meeting date for one Recreation Council course was reported incorrectly in last week's issue of The Standard. Terry Schreiner's beginning and intermediate tennis instruction will begin tonight, April 11, at Beach Middle school. Beginners will attend from 6:30 to 8 p.m.; intermediates will follow from 8 to 9 p.m.

Churches Plan Special Services For Holy Week

Good Friday's community worship service at the First Congregational church, under the auspices of the Chelsea Ministerial Association, will be based on the Seven Last Words and will consider the meaning of the Cross under three themes. The service is scheduled from 1 to 2:30 p.m.

Representatives from First Assembly of God, First Congregational, and First United Methodist churches will share in conducting the service. The three themes will be forgiveness-pardon, love-loneliness-human need, and triumph-reunion. Miss Truke Ameigh, representing St. Paul United Church of Christ, will serve as organist and Chelsea Kiwanis club will supply ushers.

In the first segment, forgiveness-pardon, hymns will be "When I Survey the Wondrous Cross,"

"Are Ye Able," said the Master," and "Wondrous Love," a southern folk-hymn sung by the chancel choir of the First United Methodist church. Soloist Beverly Slater will also sing, "Were You There?"

As reflection, the Rev. Clive Dickens of the First United Methodist church will speak on the topics, "Forgiveness at the Cross" and "Pardon at the Cross."

Reading for the second segment of love-loneliness-human need will be "Near the Cross," with scripture reading from John 19:25-27, John 19:28 Matthew 27:41-46, and Psalm 69:21.

Reflection with the subject "Turn Your Eyes Upon Jesus" will be offered by the Rev. Thode Thodeson, First Assembly of God church. Hymns for this section are "Rock of Ages," and "I Need Thee Every Hour."

The Rev. Carl Schwarm of the First Congregational church will address the community on "Triumph and Reunion." Grace Johnson, soloist, will sing "O Come and Mourn with Me Awhile." The final hymn of the service will be "Crown Him with Many Crowns."

The offering taken during the service will be used to provide for a community need.

In addition, St. Thomas Lutheran church at Ellsworth and Haab Rds., will conduct a Good Friday Service at 1:30 p.m. Zion Lutheran church at Fletcher and Waters Rd., will conduct Holy Communion at 1:30 p.m.

Maudy Thursday services will be held at most churches, with communion, in the evening. (Continued on page eight)

Easter Egg Hunt Set For Saturday

Why a respectable mammal like the Easter Bunny would hang out at the Chelsea Fire Hall is anybody's guess, but someone there must have some pull with him.

At any rate, the most revered rabbit in the history of civilization as we know it will show up at Chelsea High school's Jerry Niehaus field this Saturday for the Jaycees' annual Easter egg hunt.

He will be transported by none other than one of Chelsea Fire Department's own red fire trucks. Arrival of the huge bunny is scheduled for 10:30 a.m.

By some miracle of the Easter season, all 150 dozen colored eggs (yes, that is 1,800 eggs) will be magically deposited on the grass of the field prior to the Great Bunny's appearance, awaiting the delighted scamperings of the egg hunters.

Attendance at the event has of necessity been limited to preschoolers (three years and older) kindergarten, and first and second graders, as older children have been known to be struck by rampant skepticism when confronted with the Bunny.

A pair of special eggs will be hidden for each of the four age groups, and will be worth prizes to whichever revellers find them.

Remember: the hunt begins at 10:30 a.m. Bags or baskets to gather eggs is strictly bring-your-own.

Kindergarten Visitation Set For April 17-18

Sessions to acquaint next year's kindergarteners with the school which they will be attending in September will be conducted at North and South Elementary schools on April 17 and 18, from 1 to 2:30 p.m.

The schools stress that these sessions are only visitation sessions. Information regarding registration and enrollment will be available in May.

Parents are asked that children with last names beginning with letters A-K attend on Wednesday, April 17, and those with last names beginning with letters L-Z come Thursday, April 18. Families with children attending North or South school should take their pre-kindergartener to that school.

Parents who are uncertain which school their child will attend may attend a session at either school.

Children who will enter kindergarten in September, 1974, must be five years old by Dec. 1, 1974.

Questions should be directed to North Elementary school at 475-2527, or South Elementary school at 475-2913.

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:
They say that discussion is light without heat and argument is heat without light, and I've heard it said that discussion is an exchange of ideas, while argument is an exchange of ignorance. Mister Editor, I ain't figured out complete what Saturday night's session at the country store was, unless it was an exchange of some well-lit ignorance.

Per instant, there was Bug Hookum recalling the days when skinny dipping was the only way to swim. Bug said he was born about two generations to soon. In their days, segregation was the rule and swimming was the reason. Now, naked running is co-ed, and the only reason Bug said he has heard is to be looked at. Bug said he was of a mind that the best reason for all this running around naked is to show that we don't have to have a reason for everything.

Zeke Grubb was quick to swap that piece of ignorance for a report he had saw about where the Environmental Protection Agency found that burping cows is polluting the air. The EPA said the cows in this country burp 50 million tons of hydrocarbons into the air every year, and that 10 cows burp enough gas every year to heat a small house. Now that's the kind of information we turn to Washington for, Zeke allowed. If you can figure out a reason for it, you're either a cow or you work for the Government, was Zeke's words.

Actual, Mister Editor, the tellers spent practical all the session coming up with reports that sounded a heap like swapping ignorance. It was like a question and answer program without the answers. Most of the talk was like them cows burping in the atmosphere. They was a lot of hot air and not much to do about it. Like when Josh Clodhopper said he had heard where a scientist has figured out how to tell what a chicken is saying when it cackles. Josh said he reckoned the best way would be to be another chicken, and he wondered along these lines if it takes a politician these days to figure what a politician is saying when he cackles. Josh said if the EPA could measure the cackles of a Congressman on a swing through his district this spring, they'd find he was burping enuff gas to run his car from town to town, special if he's a Republican trying to run on his record out of one side of his mouth and deny all association with the Nixon Administration out of the other.

Clem Webster broke in to say he was feeling out of sorts on account of this being the month, most folks have to send in the income tax. Clem said he keeps thinking of how much better President Nixon is at filling out his 1040 than he is at working a yo-yo at the Grand Old Opry like he saw him trying to do on TV during his swing around the country last year, trying to do on TV during a regular filler. Clem said Nixon's yo-yoing reminded him more of presidential statements on Watergate.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

Deadline on Tree Orders Set for April 15

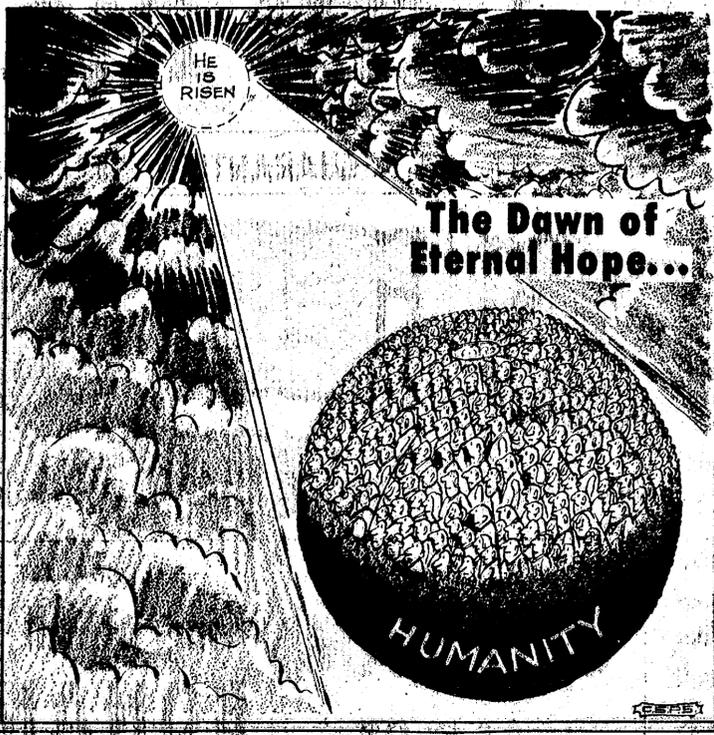

Deadline for ordering low-cost tree and shrub seedlings from the Washtenaw County Soil Conservation District is Monday, April 15. Many of the tree and shrub varieties are still available to all who desire to order them.

Evergreen seedlings still available include Red Pine, White Pine, Norway Spruce, White Spruce, Blue Spruce, Douglas Fir and a limited quantity of Scotch Pine. Hardwood species still available include the fast growing Tulip Poplar and White Ash. The Hackberry tree has berries in the fall and winter for birds. A small supply of Black Walnut seedlings are also available as well as Black Walnut seeds.

Also offered are wildlife shrubs such as Multiflora Rose, Autumn Olive, and Honeysuckle. These flowering bushes will have berries on them during the fall and winter for birds and wildlife. Wildlife Packets including a variety of shrubs is also available. Seedlings are intended for natural beauty, hedgerows, windbreaks, wildlife habitat improvement and reforestation. Up to 75 percent of the total cost of reforestation plantings can be reimbursed to eligible landowners. This government cost-sharing program is now available through the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service. Interested persons should contact the ASCS office at 662-3900 for details.

Seedlings will be distributed near the end of April. Postcards specifying the exact date and place of the Soil Conservation District's "Tree Disbursal Day" will be sent to all who order seedlings. Please contact the SCD at 6101 Jackson Rd., Ann Arbor or call 761-6721 for an order form.

Genetic counseling is becoming increasingly available in the United States, reports the March of Dimes. Scores of medical institutions now offer genetic services.

MICHIGAN MIRROR

How Energy Affects You

Alleged price gouging at gasoline stations, problems with the Michigan (tourist) industry and agriculture, unemployment. These topics will come in for investigation by a special House committee this year.

The committee, to be headed by House Majority Floor Leader Bob Crim, D-Davison, was named recently by Speaker William Ryan "to probe the human effects of the energy shortage."

The House resolution authorizing creation of the committee says there is "very little solid data on how and to what extent individual citizens' lives are affected by the energy shortage."

So the committee, made up of four Democrats and three opposition Republicans, will look into the situation and come up with legislative proposals to help Michigan citizens who have been harmed by the energy crisis.

Democratic leaders sought such an investigation as part of their legislative program to provide financial help for the numbers of Michigan workers put out of their jobs by the energy shortage.

Combating Alcoholism

Michigan wants to identify—and help—those state workers who have problems with drinking. To accomplish that end, the Civil Service Commission has authorized use of $50,000 for a one-year pilot program to help those employees with alcohol or drug problems.

Although the State Agriculture Department is not one of the pilot agencies involved in the program, a department publication offers help anyway.

In an article by Personnel Officer William Ward, the department says it "welcomes the opportunity to meet confidentially with any employee who suspects he may have a drinking problem."

"We are not equipped to provide professional counseling," Ward says, "but we can and will recommend agencies that can give concrete assistance."

Ward's article lists six questions for a person to ask himself: Do you lose time from work due to drinking? Is drinking making you home life unhappy? Have you gotten into financial difficulties as a result of drinking? Do you drink alone? Is drinking jeopardizing your job? Do you drink to build up your self-confidence? Do you want a drink the next morning?

The conclusion for Agriculture Department workers—and presumably anyone else who goes through the questions—is: "If the answer to any one of such questions is 'yes,' there is an indication of a problem."

Moving Michiganders

"Nothing is more vital to Michigan's future development," says Governor Milliken, "than figuring out the best way to move the people."

In line with that observation, the governor is asking the State Highways Commission to come up with a comprehensive plan covering all methods of transportation, including highway vehicle, air, rail and other forms of public transportation.

"The energy crisis has confirmed our judgment... that state government must give highest priority to the full range of transportation systems if we are to serve the needs of our people," Milliken told the commissioners.

Just one week after the governor's request to the commission, there came a related report from aeronautics experts.

The Michigan Aeronautics Commission says that 61 new airports will be needed in the state by 1980. It availed itself of a study that found that airline passengers in Michigan totaled some 4.5 million by 1970. That figure will be about 6 million this year and will continue zooming upwards—to 10 million in 1980, 14.5 million in 1985 and to 19 million in 1990.

The number of aircraft based in Michigan also is going higher and higher, from 6,000 in 1970 to a projected 14,500 in 1990.

The air traffic report, along with

Aeronautics Commission Proposals

for new airports, is being submitted to the Highways Commission for consideration in its comprehensive plan.

Milliken says the study "can provide the basis for the first blueprint that Michigan has had for meeting its air transportation needs as they fit into the state's over-all transportation planning."

"Transportation is one of the lifelines of our economy, and aviation is an increasingly important element of our efforts to accelerate economic development and provide more jobs."

Public Hearing Slated On Portage Lake Yacht Club Request for Races

An application for a seasonal regatta sanction on Portage Lake, Livingston and Washtenaw counties will be discussed at an April 11 public hearing at the Dexter Township Hall at 7 p.m.

Boating specialists from the Department of Natural Resources' Law Enforcement Division will hear comments on the application of the Huron Portage Yacht Club to hold races and regattas on Portage Lake during the coming 1974 boating season.

Persons are invited to present oral or written comments at the hearing.

Thursday, April 14, 1960—Patty Pastor, only Chelsea high school student who participated in the Southeastern Michigan Science Fair in Ann Arbor last week-end, tied for second place in the entire senior division and was awarded a prize of $50, a bronze medal and a ribbon for placing third in the biological division for her exhibit, "Ecological Aspects of Mill Creek."

James McLaughlin has been cited for his high academic attainment by being placed on the high scholarship list at Western Michigan University, Kalamazoo, for the fall semester.

Eight Chelsea High school students participated in the third annual state-wide mathematics prize competition sponsored by the colleges, universities, and professional and industrial organizations of Michigan. The group was led by Charles E. Koengeter, who placed highest, and included James Collins, Kathryn Kinde, George Wilson, Roger Herman, Robert Maynard, Marilyn Pajot, and Charles Cameron.

24 Years Ago...

Thursday, April 13, 1950—Peggy Schaible, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. G. Schaible, has been named valedictorian of the class of 1950 at Chelsea High school. Her scholastic average for high school is 3.96, and she has participated in GAA basketball, journaling, chorus, class plays, and athletic board.

Re-elected chairman of the Washtenaw County Board of Supervisors Tuesday was Leigh Beach of Lima township, who has been a supervisor since 1927. He is the senior member of the board at the present time.

The 1950 baseball season got off to a "home run" start last Friday morning in an assembly at the high school presented by the team members, with Arden Musbach acting as master of ceremonies. The six new baseball uniforms were modeled by Buddy Hankerd, Lynwood Noah, Billy Scott, Jerry Lesser, Jimmy Greenwood, and Donnie Umstead. The band, under the direction of Corky Dreyer, played a few marches honoring the boys. Cheers were led by Jerry Lesser and Billy Scott.

Work began Monday, April 1, on a new general shop building at Cassidy Lake, largest resident work project of the NYA in the state, to be completed early this summer. The addition means that greater facilities for providing youth with needed work experience will be available, State Administrator Orin W. Kaye said.

J. V. Burg has installed a Kelvinator bottled beverage cooler in his drug store. The unit, which has a capacity of 213 bottles, is located in the stock room at the rear of the store.

Elementary students report that a number of 7th graders went on short trips during vacation: Marjorie Wilson visited in Battle Creek; Norman Aberle, James Gaunt, and Robert Reed visited in Detroit; Phillip Tompkin visited Ann Arbor.

The district meeting for teachers of vocational agriculture and farm shop was held in the agriculture room of the Chelsea public schools last Thursday afternoon and evening, chaired by Thomas Bust, local teacher of vocational agriculture.

A welcome was presented by Superintendent A. C. Johnson, and discussion leader was Dr. Harold Byram of the Department of Education of Michigan State College.

Home from Central America...

Knowing that medical training and medical help were sorely lacking in Belize, Beeman taught classes in nursing psychology and clinical nursing (he had sufficient courses from Michigan State University for a licensed practical nurse, although he has not taken the state registration examination), and also instructed first aid in his home district of Orange Walk.

His year and a half experience as urban horticulturalist for County Co-operative Extension Service was also put to use, by gardening instruction to youth.

"The idea was to fit 4-H programs around projects to learn more about a given field," he explains.

Those who learned first aid through 4-H instruction are now working with Orange Walk's first ambulance service, Beeman reports, and "these women are really first class first aid volunteers."

"The ambulance service in itself was a major project, he says, 'We learned that 56 percent of the injured or ill in Belize didn't make it to hospitals in time to be effectively treated. The roads are very bad, and by the time people arrived at the hospital, by horse or by dory (boat), it was often too late to help them."

Another project begun during his stay in Belize is an association along the lines of an old people's home which presently cares for eight men in a home rented for that express purpose. A volunteer prepares meals for the residents, bathes them, and acts as nurse. Local doctors frequently check them for health problems. This idea began through an association with a local church.

"Catholic and interdenominational missionaries in Belize are continually educating and helping the people in Belize," Beeman says. "Churches are truly doing good work."

It is hardly difficult to see after Beeman's enthusiastic relating of his projects in Belize, why he says that he considers himself, after his 4-H stay, "not a citizen of Chelsea, or of the United States, but a truly world person."

The national 4-H organization which sponsored Beeman's Belize experience with the Youth Development program also sponsors a six-month program of International 4-H Youth Exchange in which youth act as ambassadors to a foreign country.

Applicants for the program are usually from 20 to 30 years of age, with a background as a 4-H member, leader, or member of the extension service. Through a series of both state-wide and national interviews, applications, and assorted recommendations, representatives are chosen to 55 different countries, two-thirds of which are in South America.

Funding for the program is entirely through donations, as the national 4-H organization is a non-profit group. The host country of the representative provides room and board, but other funds are contributed through organizations like the Kellogg Foundation, Ford Motor Co., and the Michigan Farm Bureau.

Beeman had to personally raise some $800 prior to leaving for Belize to cover the cost of supplies for teaching, to obtain film and processing materials to enable him to present slide and talk shows to interested groups upon his return, and to pay air fare.

Although he contacted a number of Chelsea organizations for assistance, he managed to raise only $300, the largest gift of which was $177 from St. Mary church.

The rest he put up from his own personal savings. "I put all my personal savings into this project," Beeman says, "to help people who really needed help."

His personal rewards? My success was measured in terms of seeing just one person who had learned enough to teach another person. That's really success."

'74 Transpo Map Ready for Distribution

Lansing—Distribution of the 1974 Official Transportation Map of Michigan is now underway, the State Highway Commission reports.

The "transportation" map replaces the traditional Official Highway Map, in line with new responsibilities of the Highway Commission to develop a "total transportation" system for Michigan.

The 1974 map includes the traditional highway map, with numerous revisions and up-datings, but also features a miniature outline map showing other major transportation facilities such as airports, water ports, AMTRAK rail lines and international rail interchange points.

The new map provides a broad range of useful facts and information on Michigan, including pictures of the state flag, state tree (White Pine), state stone (Pentostemum), state gem (Greenstone), state bird (Robin), state flower (Apple Blossom), state fish (Trout); notes on Michigan speed limits, historical markers, bridge and tunnel facilities and tolls, ferry lines, State Police Posts, District Offices of the Highways and Transportation Department, and an index to cities and villages with their population figures.

For the first time, the map shows townships with populations over 50,000, with two qualifying—Redford township in Wayne county, and Waterford township in Oakland county.

The Highway Commission authorized printing of two million maps, same amount as the last two years. The maps were printed by Michigan Lithographing Co., of Grand Rapids on its low bid of $136,172, or 6.75 cents a map, up from last year's 5.8 cents.

Maps are available at all District Offices of the Department of State Highways and Transportation and the Department of Natural Resources, State Police Posts, city governments, local chambers of commerce, regional tourist associations and most local radio, TV and newspaper offices.

Free maps also will be mailed directly by the Highways and Transportation Department to individuals, upon request. The Department receives more than 50,000 individual requests. For this reason, requests must be made on a post card with a return name and address, including zip code. Last year, hundreds of requests were received from persons who failed to provide their return address.

Post card requests should be mailed to: provide for a mini-bus facility including Dexter, Chelsea and Manchester. It was discovered later, however, that Chelsea and Manchester were too far from Ann Arbor to apply for this system.

Public Transportation Needed...

Mrs. Carpenter on her own then approached the manager of a local auto dealership, who, although receptive to the idea, told her that he had had sufficient trouble in his efforts to enable him to rent cars without getting into the taxi business.

A talk with a village administrator, on the possibility of a village subsidy, yielded only the advice to "go talk to the Jaycees; they're always looking for projects," Mrs. Carpenter reported. She has not yet followed up on the advice about the local service organization.

A doctor at Chelsea Community Hospital informed Mrs. Carpenter that a transportation system limited to patients of the Hospital and Clinic might be a possibility when the surgical unit is entirely finished.

At present, then, Mrs. Carpenter is at an impasse, with a number of possibilities already behind her. "There are a lot of people in this town who need this service, and I know there must be a way to do it," she says. "Maybe if people read about this, they'll come up with some ideas. I hope so."

A new law raising in-lieu-of-taxes payments on 3.5 million acres of state-owned land from 20 to 50 cents per acre has gone into effect. Among other things, the law changes the designation of these lands from "homestead and swamp lands" to "tax-reverted recreation and forest lands."

This golf lesson could save you thousands

You know, you can holler "Fore!" for dear life, but still be liable if you hit somebody on the links this weekend! In fact, any accident while hunting, boating, fishing, skiing, or any other sports, could put you in court and cost you thousands of dollars! You may not be able to avoid a golf accident... or a lawsuit... but you sure can avoid paying all that money in court. You can protect yourself and members of your family before the first tee with "altogether" personal liability coverage which is available in many Auto-Owners policies.

55 MILES PER HOUR speed limit signs have now been erected on major highways as Michigan joins the rest of the nation in lowering its highway speed limit as part of an energy-conserving campaign. State supervisor Jerry Skinner (left) describes the fabrication process to John P. Woodford, Director of State Highways and Transportation. Some 4,700 signs on state highways were converted to show the new speed limit.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

This is a reply to the letter last week (March 28) from Max Plank regarding the accident of March 18.

I think it was very poor timing to write such a letter for the sake of his parents and the rest of his relatives that read it. Don't you think they had enough grief?

Then to accuse him of being a drunk. He happened to be a very energetic young fellow. You have no right to do that even though you saw a beer can resting on his lap. One of my sons saw some (empty) cans on the floor of his car that afternoon that had been there for sometime. Does that qualify him for being a drunk?

There have been several accidents there on that corner a quarter of a mile from the intersection and it is badly in need of repair. Everyone that has run off the road there I'm sure weren't drunks.

A Mad Relative,
Mrs. Donald Beeman.

To the Editor:

I think it is about time for our Common Council to come up with some stiff laws on all dogs—loose or on a leash. Also to make sure these laws are strictly enforced! Those who walk their animals should have some respect for other people's property also.

Mrs. R. Wegner.

To the Editor:

We were among the rather sparse attendance at the special School Board meeting at the high school which was called for the purpose of advising district residents about the implications to school financing of the recently enacted "Bursley Bill." The net effect is to channel a certain portion of state aid, which the district would otherwise receive, to some other ("poorer" district(s)). The school Board could only point to the obvious fact that residents of the district will have to make up the difference if an educational program, comparable to last year, is to be maintained. The board pointed out, we think logically, that advancing costs of every item of expense, from textbooks to buses, makes significant cutbacks virtually impossible without substantially altering the educational program. And it's our understanding that much of the program is mandated by state or federal requirements.

It might be added here, parenthetically, that this inflation, which we seem to view as some mysterious and uncontrollable element in our national economic life, is the result of decades of deficit spending by the federal government for all kinds of "humanitarian" crusades including education; which brings us back to our subject.

The board tacitly supported the Robin Hood concept upon which the Bursley Bill is based, but had to admit to the unfortunate results it is having for Chelsea taxpayers; positions we tend to see as inconsistent with each other, since you can hardly have one without the other.

We see this apparent dilemma faced by the Chelsea School Board to be illustrative of the basic paradox in which the great majority of other well-meaning Americans find themselves. On the one hand, generations of conditioning by the media and the education lobby itself have caused responsible citizens to view the concept of "free public" education as the only route to a national Utopia where crime, poverty, and despair have been virtually eliminated. That such an educational system, based as it is upon the socialist keystone of taking from people based upon their wealth or ability to pay in order to provide for others on the basis of need was considered vital enough by Marx to be listed as one of the ten requirements in The Communist Manifesto, seems to have been left out of their education. So while still unflinchingly dedicated to such a widely proclaimed system of education, they are faced with facts which hardly seem consistent with their expectations or the promises of Horace Mann and John Dewey.

They see crime, poverty, and despair apparently on the constant rise with moral values and ambition declining among the public which has been educated in the public school system and the students now there. They see their school taxes spiraling ever upward as the average cost to educate each pupil doubles and redoubles over the years, while that elusive goal of "quality education" constantly remains one more millage increase out of grasp. They see schools turning out citizens thoroughly indoctrinated in the "good points" of socialism and communism as well as the "bad features" of our American free enterprise system. In short, they are caught in the paradox of being totally committed to a concept which seems to be falling increasingly short of grand expectations while costing them more and more.

To make matters worse, they find that one "progressive" step after another has eroded their control over their local school system and the things their children are taught. These steps have included consolidation of school districts, increased regulation via state "standards," increasing dependence upon state and federal financing and the controls which inevitably go with it. Now the Bursley Bill and the obvious trend toward eventual complete administration of schools from the state capitol. For frustrated members of local school boards trying hard to do a good job under these circumstances, the only "bright spot" may just be the prospect that soon they'll be as obsolete as the 1 percent income tax! But apparently under no circumstances do we ever question the system — that would be unthinkable. (Besides, we all know by now that the judgment of common folk like us cannot be trusted. Only those who've been suitably educated by our system, as evidenced by various advanced degrees, are capable of telling us how the system should work.)

Could it possibly be that the crisis we find ourselves in really goes back to the concept we bought years ago that it is OK to take from people on the basis of their wealth and ability to pay, without regard for their use of the system? Where did that idea come into our Judeo-Christian heritage which says "thou shalt not steal," or where is the collectivist principle as promoted by Marx found in our U.S. Constitution? Think about it a moment. If we really believe that government is of the people, that it is created by the "delegation of those right each of us received" from our creator, where does government receive the authority to confiscate the property of one individual for the primary benefit of someone else? We as individuals possess no such right, so how can we delegate that right to government? Isn't there a real danger in a government that can take part of what we have for its "enlightened" schemes; that if it can take part of what we have it can take all of what we have? In fact, isn't that what is happening to us, as first the state and then the federal government takes from us and decides how our children will be educated and what they'll be taught? That the wealth must be re-distributed by "wealthy" districts like Chelsea, subsidizing, in effect, the "poor" districts, is a natural development under prevailing philosophy.

Our grandfathers or great-grandfathers may have allowed themselves to be confused between voluntary responsibility to share with "others" and government mandated sharing with "others", but once that latter socialistic principle was allowed to prevail, who can argue effectively against its proceeding to the ultimate conclusion where only the government owns property and it decides how it will be distributed, regardless of who worked to produce it?

Traffic Death Toll for March Drops Sharply

Michigan traffic deaths for the first quarter this year numbered 318, which was 198 or nearly 39 percent less than the record quarter count of 516 charged to 1973, according to provisional figures of the State Police traffic division.

The first quarter deaths included 99 for March, which was 74 or about 42 percent below the 173 total for that month last year.

The March toll was the lowest for that month in Michigan in the last 15 years, going back to the count of 81 in 1959.

The average for March was 163 in the five years 1969-73. The high for the month was 170 charged to 1966 while the low was 78 registered in 1933 when the state began record keeping on traffic accident statistics.

March also had low tolls in the World War II period ranging from 79 to 89, due to wartime conditions. The same factors that caused a decrease in traffic deaths in recent months are attributed as influencing the continued drop in deaths in March. These factors include economic slow down, lowered speed limits, fuel conservation and fuel shortages.

Reports of delayed deaths are expected to increase slightly the death tolls for March and the first quarter.

DEATHS

Henry Engelhart

Had Worked 25 Years as Chemist for Highway Dept. Henry Engelhart, 10835 Dexter-Chelsea Rd., died Tuesday, April 10, at Whitmore Lake Convalescent Center at the age of 85.

Born Oct. 7, 1888 in Ann Arbor, he was the son of Henry and Flora Miller Engelhart. He was married Sept. 28, 1918, to Batic Klein, who survives.

He worked for the Michigan State Highway Department as a chemist for 25 years, retiring Nov. 1, 1958. He was a life member of Olive Lodge No. 108, F&AM of Chelsea, and belonged to Zal-Gaz Grotto No. 34 of Ann Arbor. He was also a member of St. Paul United Church of Christ.

He is survived by his widow; two nephews, Robert Wiedman of N. Hollywood, Calif., and John Tompkins of Shelby; and a cousin, Otto Lucht of Lima township.

Funeral services will be conducted Friday, April 12, at 10 a.m. at the Staffan Funeral Home. Burial will follow in Oak Grove Cemetery.

Masonic memorial services will be conducted Thursday evening at 3 p.m. at the Staffan Funeral Home by the Rev. John R. Morris. Memorial contributions may be made to St. Paul United Church of Christ.

George P. Waller

Methodist Home Resident Dies April 4 at Age 96

George P. Waller, 96, died Thursday, April 4, after a short illness at the Chelsea United Methodist Home where he had lived for 12 years.

Mr. Waller, born Nov. 7, 1877 near Mayville, was a long-time resident of Pontiac, and Palm Beach, Fla., before coming to Chelsea. In Pontiac he was secretary-treasurer of the Wilson Foundry & Machine Co., a trustee of Central United Methodist church, president of the YMCA and Pontiac Kiwanis, and a member of the Pontiac Board of Education. He was also a trustee of the Chelsea Home for several years before moving to Florida.

He was an ardent sports fan, a lover of poetry and scientific pursuits and within weeks prior to his death participated in activities at the Chelsea Home, where he was current chairman of the Men's Club.

He was preceded in death by his wife, Ada Farwell Waller.

He is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Carlos (Lorene) Nagel of Washington, D.C.

Funeral services will be held in the chapel of the United Methodist Home, Saturday, April 6, with interment at White Chapel Cemetery in Troy. Arrangements were by Staffan Funeral Home.

Easter Services Slated at Hospital Sunday Morning

Easter morning services will be conducted Sunday at Chelsea Community Hospital for patients and friends.

At 8:30 a.m., the Rev. William Keller and the congregation of Our Savior Lutheran church will conduct a service.

At 10 a.m., one of the father from St. Louis School will celebrate an Easter mass.

The public is invited. Telephone Your Club News To 475-1371

Mrs. Carl Swickerath

Long-Time Chelsea Resident Dies in Ypsilanti at Age 94

Mrs. Carl (Nance) C. Swickerath, 7879 Fourth St., Dexter, formerly of Chelsea, died Saturday, April 6, at Parkview Convalescent Center in Ypsilanti at the age of 94.

Born June 20, 1879, at Fall River, Mass., she was the daughter of Thomas and Elizabeth Lawson Noon. She married Carl Swickerath Jan. 7, 1913. He died June 4, 1948. They lived all of their married life in Chelsea.

She was a member of St. Mary Catholic church of Chelsea, the Altar Society of the church, and the VFW Auxiliary.

She is survived by two sons, Vincent of Ann Arbor and Carl H. of Rockville, Md.

Funeral services were conducted Tuesday, April 9, at 11 a.m. at St. Mary Catholic church by the Rev. Fr. Philip Dupuis. Burial followed in Mt. Olivet Cemetery. The rosary was recited Monday evening at 7 p.m. at Staffan Funeral Home.

Baseball Team Staffed With 10 Veterans

romped to a 16-0 win. Perry Johnson collected two of three Bulldog hits.

Chelsea was overwhelmed in the contest, as 14 Bulldogs struck out.

Chelsea pitchers gave up 12 hits and four bases-on-balls. Seven Bulldog errors aided in the rout.

In the second game of the double bill, the Bulldogs missed two fine chances to score, when they were unable to deliver the crucial hits. Both times the situation was men on first and second, with no outs, but neither scoring situation ever materialized. Final score was Lakeview 6, Chelsea, 2.

Todd Ortring and Dave Tuckett each provided two Bulldog hits in the defeat, Paul Wood was good for a double and Mike Nadeau chalked up a single.

Howard Haselschwardt pitched four strong innings, giving up only four hits and two earned runs. Perry Johnson also pitched three innings of good ball, striking out four Lakeview players.

If experience is a key to the projected performance of the Bulldog squad, Chelsea seems to have some pluses, as 10 men return from last year's squad, which finished with a 5-12 season.

Returning lettermen are Ron Clark, Howard Haselschwardt, John Houle, Perry Johnson, Dave Lauhon, Mike Nadeau, Doug Reed, Steve Schanz, Dave Tucker, and Kevin Webb.

Coach Phil Baries, in his premier year at the baseball helm, also has some fine talent coming up from the junior varsity, which went 14-4 last season. Seeing varsity action will be pitchers Bill Clark and Todd Ortring; infielders Randy Guenther and Doug Reed, and outfielder Tim Reed.

Coach Baries predicts that the Bulldogs will be solid in the infield, with Ron Clark, John Houle, Doug Reed, Randy Guenther, Joel Sprague, and Jeff Sprague performing the tasks around the diamond.

Doing the hurling for the Bulldogs will be Howard Haselschwardt, Perry Johnson, Todd Ortring and Bill Clark.

Tonight (Thursday) at 4 p.m., the Bulldogs will meet Lincoln in Willis.

WORLD-RULERS
Cats once ruled the world, according to a Chinese legend. But one day a council of the oldest and wisest cats concluded the world wasn't worth their effort. The fable relates that they turned the task over to the next highest form of animal life, man, and cats have been retired ever since.

Dexter Gear Takes Bowling Tourney Lead

Waterloo Garage fell from leadership in the second week-end of the City Tournament of the Ann Arbor Women's Bowling Association at Chelsea Lanes this week, as Dexter Gear & Spline rolled into first with a 2,228 actual, aided by 762-pin handicap, for a 2,990 total.

Waterloo Garage actually fell two places, as Lodge Lanes of Belleville moved into second place.

Pat Kubishke of Ypsilanti retains the tournament lead in all events and singles, while the doubles team of Marjory Maton and JoAnne Jeanette continues in the doubles lead. Norene Collins of Chelsea has the high actual game of the tourney with a 238.

James Liebeck Named To Budget Committee Of Michigan United Way

James P. Liebeck, 17332 W. Old US-12, was recently named to the budget committee of the United Way of Michigan (UWM).

As a member of the committee, he was assigned to review panels at UWM's annual budget conference, which will be held April 30 to May 1 at Michigan State University.

Liebeck was recently elected president of Chelsea United Way for the coming year. He also serves as secretary of the Sylvan Township Planning Commission and as treasurer of the Chelsea Area Regional Planning Committee.

Area Students Honored at EMU Convocation

Among more than 2,300 Eastern Michigan University undergraduates recognized April 3 at the school's 26th Honors Convocation were five local students.

To be so honored, students must achieve a cumulative grade point average of 3.0 or better on a 4.0 scale.

Honored students were Eugene Morley, 237 East North St., 3.75 GPA; Christine Alber, 707 1/2 Cross St., Ypsilanti, 3.87 GPA; Kevin Corazza, 8225 Dexter-Chelsea Rd., Dexter, 3.58 GPA; Catherine Van Aken, 2885 Baker Rd., Dexter, 3.88 GPA; and Mark Wilner, 7626 Forest, Dexter, 3.75 GPA.

Drainage Problems Caused By Power Line Will Be Discussed

Jerome K. Fulton, Washtenaw County Drain Commissioner, has announced that there will be a meeting to discuss drainage problems associated with the construction of the Monroe-Majestic High power transmission line by the Detroit Edison Co.

The meeting, which is open to the public, will be held at the Saline Middle school, 7265 Saline-Ann Arbor Rd., on April 18 at 3:30 p.m.

Any person knowing of problems connected with the construction of the power line should attend.

H. Ashleys Escape Injury In Auto Crash

A Gregory couple and passengers from Pinckney escaped uninjured Saturday evening when their vehicle was struck by a speeding car on North Territorial Rd., near Madden Rd.

Herman Ashley, 57, of 8835 Argonne, Gregory, his wife, Jean, 58, and their passengers, Fred Etzel, 68, and his wife, Harriet, 63, of Pinckney, were westbound on North Territorial when a vehicle operated by Harold J. Roe, 21, of Taylor, apparently was unable to negotiate a curve and struck their car.

After striking the Ashley vehicle, the speeding car spun around and skidded into a tree, veered across to the other side of the road, and overturned.

Suffering minor injuries in the crash were Roe's passengers, Kim Wallace, 18, of Romulus; Gary M. Locke, also 18, of Southgate; and Joseph J. Aigner, 21, of Westland.

Washtenaw County Sheriff's Deputies said that Roe was cited for speeding.

Gard of Thanks

THANK YOU We want to thank, from the bottom of our hearts, the Chelsea Fire Dept., and Dexter Fire Dept. for working so hard and quick at our recent fire, and especially for saving the remaining buildings. And thanks a million times over Don and Marge Plumb, for calling the Fire Dept. Also thanks a million times to all our relatives, friends and Sheriff's Dept. for all the help during the fire and rounding up all the cattle that had wandered all over the neighborhood. Thank you Erwin Haist and family for letting us put cattle in your barn yard. And many thanks also to all our relatives, friends and neighbors for all the help after the fire and all the foods sent in. We love you all and we'll never forget you. God bless you all. Most gratefully, Bill, Dot, Beck, Jeff, Cindy, Billy, Gina, Mike Van Ripper and Gary and Linda White.

THANK YOU I wish to thank all my friends, neighbors and relatives who sent me cards and flowers while I was at Chelsea Community Hospital and since my return home. Also a sincere thank you to the doctors and nurses at the hospital, especially Dr. Brownson and Dr. Smith. Olla Voelm.

CARD OF THANKS The family of Winfred Coffron wishes to thank all her friends who have sent her cards, flowers and words of encouragement while convalescing at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital. It has been greatly appreciated. Myrtle and Lyle Duncan. Carol and Arthur Weid.

from HISTORY'S SCRAPBOOK DATES AND EVENTS FROM YESTERYEARS The Civil War began on April 12, 1861, when Confederate forces fired on Fort Sumter. Thomas Jefferson, third President of the United States, was born on April 13, 1743. John Wilkes Booth shot President Abraham Lincoln on April 14, 1865. President Abraham Lincoln died on April 15, 1865. Shea Municipal Stadium was dedicated in New York City on April 16, 1964. April 17, 1958, was the opening date of the Brussels World Fair.

TODAY'S THOUGHT By LOUIS BURGHARDT Fact or fiction? Both men and beasts have a body. But beasts have no soul. Man has. The existence of a soul can not be proved by mathematical formula. It is not a scientific realism. The soul can only exist by faith in the belief of the Resurrection. Disbelief in the Resurrection is the same as saying an attested event in history is fiction and not a fact.

You have a choice to believe it fact or fiction that immortality is assured in resurrection. From mountain tops, hills and valleys all over the world, throngs of people celebrate Easter as a joyful day. They profess belief in life after death. They believe the Resurrection is the sole cause for the initial creation and continuance of the Christian church. If the significance of these facts are accepted by throngs in church attendance on Easter, should not these same facts be remembered with prayerful devotion by similar throngs on all other days, and especially by church worship on other Sundays as well? SUNDAY'S SERMON

Easter...
Another year has gone by and it is Easter again. Why not make Easter really something special in your life this year. This Easter change the direction of your life. Bring your soul back to God. Let Him be the light of your life.
How many times in the past have you thought "I'll come back to God," and then discovered yourself back on the road to destruction days (or maybe hours) after you "tried" to change. Well now is the time. There is no better moment.
Ask God for His help and you will receive it. Maybe the reason you've failed at trying to change was because you left God out of it. Maybe you just mumbled a few words and really didn't ask God to enter your life and to be your life's inspiration.
God is always ready to welcome you back. But you must ask for His help, because it is difficult to do it on your own. Come back to God this Easter. And reside with Him always.

BOY SCOUT NEWS

TROOP 465
Boy Scout Troop 465, sponsored by the Chelsea Rod and Gun Club, went on a week-end camp-out at Bruin Lake. We stayed in a cabin and worked on scout advancement projects. The boys who went were Scott Robertson, Brian Lewis, Chip Stafford, Jeff Rabbit, Kurt Steinaway, Kris Steinfar, Lewis Jankke, Mike Sweeney, Jim Brown, and Steve Hegadorn. Adult leaders who accompanied the group were Lloyd Hafner, Herb Hegadorn, and Art Steinfar.
The Scouts cooked Saturday dinner for their parents. Parents who attended were Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Steinfar, Mr. and Mrs. J. Jahnke, and Mr. and Mrs. H. Hegadorn. We all learned a lot and had fun.
Mike Sweeney, scribe.

TROOP 420
Boy Scout Troop 420 held a court of honor on March 31. Tenderfoot awards were presented to Peter Beaudoin, Jim Brezza, Chris Markle, and John Drieman. First class awards were presented to Frank Kornet and Greg Slocum. Pins were presented to mothers. Refreshments were served afterward.
At the meeting April 8, the troop received instruction in first aid procedures.
Get well wishes were sent to assistant scoutmaster Chris Marzee, who is in St. Joseph Mercy Hospital.
More than 300,000 people are carriers of Cooley's anemia (thalassemia) in the United States alone, says the March of Dimes. It occurs most often among people who trace their ancestry to the Mediterranean region.

Dansville Dairy Herd Infected With TB

Tuberculosis in cattle is so carefully controlled these days that some people wonder why state inspectors worry about it at all. But a case unfolding last week on a Dansville dairy farm will probably be recorded in future cattle disease textbooks. It is the most serious tuberculosis outbreak in a cattle herd ever encountered by Michigan Department of Agriculture veterinarians, even digging back into the history of the disease, when tuberculosis was so common that it spread to humans through drinking raw milk, and caused thousands of spinal infections resulting in human hunchbacks and other deformities.

Here's how the case unfolded: Grant Calguire is a Michigan Department of Agriculture meat inspector. His job is to protect Michigan consumers by inspecting each animal killed at Primeat Packing Co., near the Eastern Market in Detroit. Day after day, Calguire watches the beef that moves through Primeat. He checks each cow or steer before it's killed, looking for telltale signs of disease. During slaughter, he inspects the meat and organs. Lungs, kidneys, liver, glands—they're probed by Calguire's trained eyes. Before he puts the "Inspected and Passed" stamp if approval on the carcass in indelible ink, the animal must receive a clean bill of health. Last year, Calguire and other MDA meat inspectors condemned 4.8 million pounds of meat that didn't make it.

On the morning of Feb. 9, a Holstein cow, part of a truckload of cattle from a livestock sale in Manchester the day before, met her end at Primeat. Calguire didn't like what he saw. He routed the carcass and its organs into a holding area, for further inspection. And he called Dr. Antonio DeVera, an MDA veterinary meat inspector, who condemned the animal and shipped blood and tissue samples to the Michigan Department of Agriculture laboratory in East Lansing.

Seventy-two hours later, the MDA lab confirmed Calguire's suspicions: bovine tuberculosis.

The samples taken by Calguire and Dr. DeVera were swiftly traced to the Holstein's home, the Harry and Donald Daman farm in Dansville, a father and son partnership. Traceback was via a numbered tag, fastened to follow each animal from farm to slaughter, to assist in just such cases as this.

Then the work began for Dr. John Quinn's men. Quinn is chief of the MDA animal health division in Lansing, in charge of all state animal disease programs as well as meat inspection. Quinn's veterinary team, working with a federal animal health team headed by Dr.

Douglas Stauffer of USDA, began testing all of the 182 animals at the Daman farm.

Every animal in the herd except one newborn calf had a positive reaction to the tuberculin test.

Quinn immediately alerted Ken Van Patten, MDA's dairy chief. Van Patten ordered a stop on all the milk from the Daman farm on March 15. No more milk could go to market, even though pasteurization would remove the threat of TB affecting humans.

But another worry confronted Van Patten. Harry Daman and his family drank raw, unpasteurized milk from their dairy farm. They had drunk the milk for years. While there is a law requiring that milk for sale be pasteurized in Michigan, it does not prohibit a family drinking raw milk from its own cows.

Dr. Quinn, after discussing the implications with Daman, notified the Michigan Department of Public Health and that agency teamed with the Ingham County Health Department in immediate efforts to protect the Daman family.

The Damans' entire herd—181 animals—is being destroyed, slaughtered. There is state and federal indemnity provided for herd owners who encounter such conditions. Public funds are involved since the animals are destroyed to protect the public health and welfare. But the indemnity payments will not be enough to compensate for their loss.

State indemnity provides $100 per animal destroyed.

Federal indemnity provides up to $350 per animal, depending upon salvage value and/or appraisal.

Walkathon Scheduled April 28 To Benefit March of Dimes

"No experience is necessary to be a sponsor," says Mrs. Edward Salowitz, general chairman of the Washtenaw County Chapter of the National Foundation March of Dimes' second annual walkathon. The walkathon is scheduled for Sunday, April 28, starting and ending at Huron High school in Ann Arbor.

Those planning to participate in the walkathon are now actively getting people to sign a pre-determined pledge, starting at 10 cents a mile or up. Those sponsors may be parents, friends, relatives, neighbors, businessmen or even entire organizations.

All proceeds from the walkathon go to the Foundation's fight to prevent birth defects and to aid those already afflicted. More than 250,000 babies are born each year with crippling birth defects.

The walkathon course is 16 miles and is set up with checkpoints along the way. Each walker passes through these checkpoints and their route cards are stamped, certifying each mile they have walked. After the walkathon, these certified cards will be shown to each sponsor for payment as previously pledged.

Anyone may participate in the walkathon, but children under 12 must be accompanied by an adult. Those between 12 and 18 years of age must have signed permission from a parent or guardian.

Sponsor sheets are available in all communities at local banks, high schools and junior and middle schools.

Refreshments will be served along the patrolled route of the walkathon and prizes will be awarded to the top participants.

U-M football coach Bo Schembechler is honorary chairman of the walkathon.

The March of Dimes is encouraging the development of hospital-based and community-based programs designed to improve the outcome of pregnancy.

How Could It Happen?

The bovine tuberculosis outbreak on the Harry and Donald Daman farm, discovered through meat inspection in February, is the worst case in MDA records. And these records go way back into the days when bovine tuberculosis was so common that state and federal veterinarians were TB testing "down the road"—inspecting herd after herd, systematically throughout the state, in an attempt to cut TB incidence to a minimum.

How could an outbreak like this happen today? No one knows for sure, but there may be some clues in the following:

Prior to 1965, state and federal animal health veterinarians were engaged for many years in an effort to wipe out the TB threat by testing every herd of cattle in the state.

The effort was highly successful, and along with a similar effort in other states, bovine tuberculosis incidence dipped to near-zero. Dr. John Quinn of MDA reports, for example, that Michigan has had only one TB outbreak in cattle for six years prior to the recent Daman case.

By 1965, TB incidence was so low that the expensive testing of every herd was deemed no longer a good investment of state funds. But TB surveillance still went on: early in 1966, Michigan began full-time inspection of meat slaughtering plants, and MDA meat inspectors were trained to look for signs of TB in any animal slaughtered. Meat inspection proved to be extremely efficient in detection of tuberculosis.

A "backtag" system was developed for cattle, so that animals for slaughter were identified by a number that went with them from farm to meat packing plant. When an MDA inspector took a blood or tissue sample on the kill floor, the farm-identifying number was affixed to the sample that went to the MDA lab for testing.

That's how the Holstein at Primeat was so readily traced to the farm near Dansville.

Since herd-by-herd TB testing at state expense ceased, MDA veterinarians have advised farmers that as good insurance they should have their cattle tested for TB yearly.

But, even though TB tests are run on cattle at the farm, veterinarians have learned that through some quirk in the test, it is not impossible for an infected animal to slip through the testing without a positive reaction. Unlikely, yes... but possible. Thus, while the Daman herd at Dansville was tested for TB in 1971 and no reactors to the test were found, an infected animal may have slipped through the test. Also, Harry and Donald Daman have been buying and building their dairy herd, so an animal from outside may have brought the disease to the herd.

What the state inspectors do know is that some of the infected animals recently found in the Daman herd had severe infection in the head and lung areas. This means they could have spread the disease very readily to other animals via licking of salt blocks, feeding troughs, or at the water supply.

The Daman case is so unusual that it undoubtedly will make its way into textbooks of veterinary medicine.

Studded Tires Must Be Removed

Lansing — The Department of State Highways and Transportation reminds motorists that tires equipped with metal studs should have been removed by April 1.

State Police are ticketing motorists driving vehicles with studded tires.

State law restricts use of studded tires to the period from Dec. 1 to April 1. Present-type tungsten-carbide studs will be permanently banned after April 1, 1975.

Other traction devices designed for winter driving will be permitted if they do little or no damage to highways and meet standards Transportation Department. Several new devices are being developed and tested by private concerns, the Department said.

CAROLINA PARROTS
Vast flocks of yellow-headed Carolina parrots plagued early settlers by stripping their grain fields and orchards. The flocks were hunted to extinction, and the last wild parrot was sighted around 1905. The last in captivity died in a zoo in 1914.

CLERGYMEN ON CALL

Stanford, Calif.—Clergymen of several faiths are adding a personal touch to patient care at Stanford University Hospital. Catholic, Protestant and Jewish clergymen have volunteered to be available to hospital patients on a 24-hour basis.

Many birth defects do not affect the victim until he is in his twenties, thirties, or older, the March of Dimes reports. Huntington's Chorea and diabetes are examples.

Help Given For Victims of Tornadoes

A relatively small congregation of the Chelsea Church of Christ at 13661 Old US-12 has collected some $900 and a truck-full of food and clothing to aid victims of tornadoes that ripped through various states of the nation last week.

David Rushlow, minister of the church, reports the 60 members of his congregation contributed the $900, over and above their usual collection of $400 that went into the church treasury, after a plea from the Milan Church of Christ.

Rushlow says the funds and provisions are being transported to Louisville, Ky. for distribution. The aid originated with the Hazel Park Church of Christ, he said, which began telephoning other congregations the day after the tornadoes.

"I feel quite good to be able to say that such a small congregation responded so well," the minister said.

At present, he is uncertain whether further aid will be requested. Once the first contributions arrive in Louisville via the Ford trailer and U-Hauls provided by the Milan Church of Christ, he expects to know whether more help will be needed.

LOVED HIS COUNTRY

Washington—The Federal Government will soon receive more than $1 million from Robert Hunter McIntosh, of Winter Park, Fla., who said in his will that he wanted to show "my appreciation to my country."

You might as well laugh at yourself at times—everyone else does.

Simplicity Roticul Tillers at special spring-planting prices.

from

The effortless, efficient way to prepare soil. Choose the power you need: 3, 5 or 8 hp. With unique Touch-O-Matic drive for sure, safe control. Slow line speed won't throw things; lines penetrate deeply even in difficult soil. Father Nature says you need Roticul... because your yard is a lot more than a lawn.

Father Nature's right-hand man.

BB Gun Firing Prohibited in Village Limits

If thoughts of spring lead naturally in young minds to thoughts of popping off a few shots with a BB gun, those young minds should take heed of the advice of Sgt. Lenard McDougall of the Chelsea Police Department.

After the windshields of two cars in the Arthur St. driveway of the Charles Stoddard home were damaged on two successive days last week, Sgt. McDougall warned that "it's prohibited by village ordinances to shoot a BB gun, slingshot, firearm or bow and arrow within the village limits."

Damaged in the Stoddard incident were a 1969 Ford Custom and a 1970 Mercury, both of which had chip marks from BB guns in the windshields.

Although police have no suspects in the case, Stoddard told police that several youths in the area had BB guns.

Honored By U-M

The name of Susan Jean Dirlam, 13881 Sauer Dr., Gregory, was unintentionally omitted from the list of students honored at the University of Michigan's Honors Convocation which appeared in last week's issue of The Standard. Susan received class honors.

Band Meeting Slated April 18

A special open meeting to discuss the various Chelsea bands is scheduled for April 18 at 8 p.m. in the Chelsea High school band room.

Band directors Warren Mayer and Ronald Harris have requested the meeting to discuss the bands—how many, what kinds, what is right, and what is wrong. Parents are especially asked to come and express both likes and dislikes of the present music program, from testing in the 5th grade to the senior level in high school.

Have you ever met anyone who had nothing to complain about?

Workshop Slated on Landspacing for Family
