Dexter Sesqui Caravan Will Invade Chelsea

All the pomp and revelry and general foolery that accompanies town birthday celebrations will be in the air in Chelsea once again, only this time it will be those Dexterites from across the way who will be spreading the cheer.

Dexter's final caravan to neighboring villages in delighted anticipation of its sesquicentennial—that's 150 years—celebration will arrive in Chelsea this Saturday, June 15, at approximately 7 p.m.

Village President Hal Pennington and Mrs. Pennington, and Village Trustee Elton Gorton and Mrs. Gorton, along with Chelsea Police, will meet the caravan at the village limits and escort the celebrants into the village proper.

The caravan will enter the village via Dexter-Chelsea Rd., and continue along Railroad St. to McKinley, turning west onto Middle. It will continue down Middle, turning south onto East St., then heading west on Park St. to the Municipal Parking Lot, where the nucleus of the celebration is planned.

At the Municipal Parking Lot, President Pennington and Trustee Gorton will be presented with sesquicentennial ties and certificates with buttons, a spokesman for Dexter Sesquicentennial said Monday.

At previous caravans in nearby villages, from 200 to 800 enthusiastic Dexterites have arrived to publicize their village's birthday. Activities at some of those villages have included barrel-rolling contests, which feature fire department rolling barrels with water hoses, tugs of war, and sporadic enforcement proceedings by Dexter's kangaroo court. It was uncertain as of press-time exactly what activities are planned for Chelsea.

At the Municipal Parking Lot, Chelsea Jaycees will operate a beer tent for the undoubtedly thirsty revellers, and the Jaycee Auxiliary will supply a nearby stand for pop and pretzels.

Dexter's Vintage Car Club will display its choice collection of high-class old automobiles on Park St., across from the Municipal Parking Lot.

If it seems that exact plans for the evening are few and far between, once the parade and presentation of momentoes has passed, that's not far from wrong.

"We all know what we're going to do—we're all going to have a good time," said one local man.

Chelsea, a few years younger than Dexter, but nonetheless experienced at this sort of thing, can no doubt empathize with that kind of agenda.

Chelsea Players Will Present 'The Fantasticks'

Chelsea theater audiences, accustomed to the almost Ziegfeld-like extravaganzas familiar to the local stage, are in for a bit of diversity this month, when Chelsea Players Theatre Workshop presents "The Fantasticks," one of the most successful off-broadway shows ever.

For starters, the cast of "The Fantasticks" is designed for only eight players and the orchestra includes only piano, harp, bass, and percussion.

Sets are virtually non-existent, as all of the play's action occurs on and around a small platform on a small section of stage from which characters never completely exit. Costume changes and props are similarly at a minimum.

Girl and boy in love, with a dash of rather heavy problem-solving of disillusionment, is the highly-stylized theme of the play. Parents of the couple, the girl's father and the boy's mother, make the plot-determining decision that their children should fall in love with each other; they schemingly forbid the pair to meet, and go so far as to build a wall between their properties to keep them apart.

Aid to the plotting parents comes from the narrator and his assistants, who fake an abduction of the girl, which ends, of course, with the boy as the hero of the day as the one who saves her. All seems to be happy-ending until the two become disillusioned with each other—and disillusionment is a rare item indeed in happy endings. Apparently the touch of moonlight added to their rapture with each other; sunlight hardly works as well.

Despite this momentary set-back, all does turn out well, and in a more realistic way, too, as the pair return to each other with a better understanding of what is needed to sustain the sought-for "lasting relationship."

Workshop members are quick to point out, however, that despite the seemingly moralistic tone of the play, humor ranges lightly from amused chuckles to belly-laughs.

Performers featured in "The Fantasticks" are Jeff Daniels as the Narrator-El Gallo; Chris Alber as Luisa; Keith Pfeifle as Matt; Jan Koengeter as Mrs. Hucklebee; Tom Schill as Belfony; Ron Gauss as Henry; Joan Yocum as Mortimer; and Jan Hutzler as the Mute. Joan Yocum is the choreographer and Pamela Wilson, rehearsal pianist. DiAnn L'Roy will direct the show.

are Alton Horning, chairman of the building committee, David Roehm, of Roehm Brothers Associates, which has been responsible for masonry work; Ron Finkbeiner, general contractor from Bridgewater Lumber Co.; Melvin Wendt, representative of Hahn & Hayes, architects and engineers, of Toledo, designers of the building; and John Savage.

ROBERT F. PONTE

Joins Grohnert Law Firm

Robert F. Ponte is joining the law firm of Gerald D. Grohnert of Dexter and Chelsea, announces Attorney Grohnert. Ponte will handle the Chelsea office, he says. Currently a resident of Detroit, Attorney Ponte is married. His wife, Louise attends the University of Michigan Law School.

His father, Dr. Adam Ponte, a Detroit dentist, owns a farm at the intersection of Michigan Ave. and US-23 where he has farmed and raised horses for many years.

Bob received his B.A. with an economics major from the University of Michigan in 1970 and his J.D. from the University of Detroit Law School in 1973.

As a practicing attorney, he has worked in the state and federal court systems.

Tennis Courses

Recreation Council tennis courses are all closed to further enrollment, except the junior division, according to instructor Terry Schreiner.

The cornerstone that wasn't there turned up after all, and Zion Lutheran church celebrated the cornerstone laying for its new church building Sunday with a tangible remnant of its history in hand.

Members of Zion Lutheran were initially disappointed a few weeks ago when a search of the walls of the old church at Fletcher and Waters Rd., built in 1867, revealed no cornerstone. They had hoped to open that 107-year-old link to their past and add its contents to the cornerstone of the new church.

Further investigation yielded a cornerstone of sorts last week, however. Pastor John Morris reports that the cornerstone was actually a wooden box, set in a six-inch-square crevice cut into the stone itself.

Inside were several crumbling sheets of paper—"about the texture of dried leaves" was Pastor Morris' description—and two coins, an 1865 nickel and an 1867 three-cent piece.

The papers, Pastor Morris explained, were virtually indecipherable, but have been sent to a contact at the University of Michigan who may possibly be able to discover something worthwhile from them.

The old items from the first Zion Lutheran church cornerstone were thus joined in ceremony Sunday with the items to be included in the new cornerstone: a copy of the constitution of the church; a history of the congregation as contained in the 50th, 75th, and 100th anniversary booklets; a list of 1974 Zion members; a list of the building committee; a list of current officers of Church Council, Cemetery Board, and Sunday school staff; a Women of Zion program booklet; a copy of the June 9, 1974 bulletin from worship service and cornerstone laying; a copy of service book and hymnal; a 1973 annual report of the congregation; a photo of the 1974 Youth Confirmation Class; newspapers of the day, current 1974 minted coins, and samples of new issue U. S. postage stamps.

Designed by Hahn & Hayes, Architects and Engineers of Toledo O., the new building is scheduled for completion and dedication in mid-September. It will embrace the existing parish hall and will include a nave that seats 280, and will boast a good deal of overflow area.

To harmonize with the modern design of the new church, the parish hall has enjoyed something of a face-lift: its window lines have been changed, its exterior has been re-bricked, and its interior large room has been altered to provide for eight class rooms and some mechanical areas.

It will contain approximately 7,000 square feet of space, in addition to the existing rooms and areas of the former parish hall. When completed, the finished building will serve the numerous functions of the church including Sunday school, worship services, meetings, fellowship, and community center.

Cost of the completed building was estimated at from $363,000 to $390,000 when it was begun, and Pastor Morris said Tuesday that that figure remains fairly accurate.

General contractor for the new structure is Ronald Finkbeiner of Bridgewater Lumber Co., with Luckhardt Plumbing & Heating of Saline, and Heller Electric of Chelsea, doing their parts. Roehm Brothers Associates has been responsible for masonry work.

Building committee is headed by Alton Horning, chairman, John Savage, vice-chairman, and Barbara J. Wenk, secretary. Other members include Phil Bareis, Arlene Grau, Earl Heller, Steve Pawlowski, George Prinzing, Norman Wenk, and Don Schoenberg.

Still to be reckoned with, however, is the eventual fate of the 107-year-old church on the other side of Waters Rd., where the congregation has worshipped since 1867.

With its brick exterior, tall steeple, and arched windows and doors, it is certainly a picturesque reminder of its day, but its value to the congregation must be viewed mainly in historical terms. As a useful facility for the congregation, it is rather sorely lacking, since it cannot even boast running water.

Pastor Morris reports that the congregation is looking into the aspects of having the structure declared an historical marker, but nothing is actually certain.

That seems to be at least one part of Zion Lutheran church's past and present that must remain in the future.

School Millage Request Ok'd In Heavy Vote

Daniels, Hodgson, Tobin Elected to Board of Education

There was a lot of joy at Chelsea Board of Education's meeting Monday night, as the board's request for 13.5 operational mills for the next two years was approved by school district voters in a heavy turnout.

Final tally showed 1,069 yes, 892 no, with 23 spoiled ballots. That totals 1,964 cast, "probably the highest total ever," according to Board of Education President Howard Haselschwardt.

Although we have some 4,500 registered voters in this district and 1,964 represents only about 45 percent, that's still better than the 23 percent who turned out for the last time we put his request up."

The 13.5 mill request was rejected by Chelsea School District voters May 15, as was the board's original request for 14.78 mills, on March 26. The 13.5-mill figure has been termed "absolutely necessary" for maintenance of current educational programs by board members.

President Haselschwardt expressed the board's thanks to community members who worked for passage of the millage and, noting that 892 "no" votes are nothing to sneeze at, directed reassurance to those voters who opposed this operational millage figure: "We realize that the people who voted 'no' on this figure are concerned with inflation and the economy. We want to assure them that the board will make every effort to be as thrifty and conservative as possible."

This one mill additional tax is needed, the Board of Education has repeatedly assured district voters, to merely maintain the current quality of the district's educational programs, due to rising costs and the economic effects of the new State Aid Act.

In the annual election of school board members, a campaign almost entirely without issues as all candidates favored passage of the operational millage, incumbents Robert Daniels and Thomas Hodgson, who ran unopposed, were elected to the two four-year seats, while Martin Tobin defeated Eino Michelson in the quest for the single one-year board term. Tobin will serve the final year of two years left unexpired by Gerald Straub's resignation in July of 1973.

Top vote-getter was Daniels with 1,603, followed by Hodgson, 1,305; Tobin, 1,105; and Michelson 673.

Write-in votes for four-year terms were cast for John Eisenbeiser, James Schardein, Kathy Hanke, Norman Wenk, James Sprague, Curtis Farley, George E. Mayer, Keith Boylan, Thomas McGaw, Edwin Greenleaf, Gene Miller, Leroy Heller and Bob Heller.

Write-in votes for one-year terms were cast for Charles Slocum and Charles C. Lane.

New board members will be seated at the board meeting Monday, July 11. Officers for 1974-75 will also be elected at this meeting.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

Ed Doolittle has final figured out how we pay our taxes by one calendar and the Government spends out money by another. It is for the benefit of the planning staffs that make up the Government. Ed told the tellers Saturday night at the board of the Raleigh, North Carolina made it all perfectly clear.

One week last month, Ed reported 50 state budget experts had to get out of their offices and do their work at the beach 150 mile away. The hole Office of the State Budget spent four days at a ocean front motel slaving over the new budget. A official at the office said the change in working conditions cost the taxpayers $3,000, but it was a bargain cause being close to recreation facilities "helped make for a more effective planning and working relationship." Last year at the same time, the same crew slaved for a week on the budget in the cool mountains 230 miles from their Raleigh offices, Ed said.

Natural, Ed allowed, if state, local and federal budgets had to be ready the first of the calendar year they'd be a lot of times when the weather wouldn't be fit to work. It is cold at the beach and in the mountains they might as well stay in their offices, was Ed's words. Setting July as the start of the budget year means the planners can work more efficient and save the taxpayers' money in the long run, declared Ed. Clem Webster was quick to remind Republican Ed how he rejoiced two years ago when North Carolina elected her first Republican governor in this century. The new man came in swinging a new broom and leading a new cleanup crew, said Clem, and vowing to get state Government repaired, remodeled, and running again. Clem said it looks like Governor Holshouser is following the example of his father who art in Washington. It's costing more to get the bid bus fixed than it did to keep it on the road in its rundown Democrat condition.

Practical speaking, broke in Zeke Grubb, he is yet to see efficient Government at any level. Zeke said he has studied the situation up one side and down the other, and he is of a mind that all the shortages we're having is caused by Government messing with the price and supply of everything. And if we ever run short of paper clips, allowed Zeke, we'll have to close all the agencies from the courthouse to the White House. Paper clips is to Government what baling wire is to farmers and ranchers, they hold everything together.

Zeke had saw where Senator Thomas McIntyre figured out that the federal Government prints, sorts and files two billion new reports every year at a cost of $36 billion. That's enough paper, the Senator said, to fill Yankee Stadium from the playing field to the top of the stands 50 times.

Mister Editor, the Senator must of figured all that out on one of them beach working trips.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

FATHER'S DAY-JUNE 16

MICHIGAN MIRROR

By Elmer E. White, Secretary, Michigan Press Association

Combat Drinking Drivers

Alcohol kills on the highway. That's an undisputed fact, with indications that 40 to 50 percent of fatal highway crashes involve alcohol. What can Michigan do about the problem of the drunk driver? A Task Force on the Drinking Driver Problem recently released its report with recommendations to help answer that question.

Focus on the first offender, the task force generally agreed, then develop procedures toward preventing a second offense.

Toward that end, the task force urged support for pending legislation that would allow trial judges to hold a convicted drunk driver's license for up to 60 days. The judges could impose probationary driving restrictions if the driver could be referred to an agency for hearing or treatment.

The task force also proposed support for what it called a "citizens' probation authority" or voluntary probation procedure. Through such a plan, a first offender, at the discretion of the prosecutor, would be allowed to accept voluntary probation and undergo treatment. In that way, he or she could avoid a drunk driving record.

Among other recommendations were those to:

Make it conclusive proof of driving while under the influence of alcohol when a driver is found to have 0.10 percent alcohol in his blood. That percentage now is only presumptive evidence.

Provide a mandatory jail sentence for those drinking and driving while their licenses are suspended.

Increase efforts to identify drinking drivers. Included here is a proposal to provide regional schools to help teach police more about identification procedures.

Increase Public Awareness of the Problem

Former State Rep. James H. Helms, chairman of the governor's task force, included this comment in his summary of findings:

"Until the public changes its demand from that of 'prevent the drinking driver from killing and maiming' to 'prevent the drunk from driving,' until the drunk becomes as socially objectionable as the fellow strung out on other drugs; until each person understands that he is 'under the influence' of alcohol and dangerous long before he thinks he's drunk; until many of these attitudes are established, publicly, we can do only peripheral things about the drinking driver."

What Does It Mean?

It's official—former Democrat Zoltan Ferency will run for the governor's seat this year on the Human Rights Party ticket.

Ferency, now an assistant professor of criminal justice at Michigan State University, recently was nominated at the Human Rights Party convention in East Lansing. He hopes to come up with more votes than incumbent Republican Gov. Milliken and the Democratic candidate, possibly former State Sen. Sander Levin.

Few politician observers give Ferency a chance to do that. But there is a big question posed by Ferency's entry into the gubernatorial race: What will his candidacy do to the contest? Will it prove insignificant to the major party candidates?

Levin says he doesn't expect Ferency to offer a serious challenge to his party, and State Democratic Chairman Morley Winograd reportedly agrees.

Michigan GOP Chairman William McLaughlin, on the other hand, says the Ferency candidacy will help Milliken's chances. He figures Ferency will draw support away from the Democratic candidate and therefore, put Milliken in that much better position for another term in the governor's chair.

Ferency, who lost a gubernatorial bid to George Romney back in 1966, left the Democratic Party shortly thereafter. He'd gotten into hassles with other party folks over anti-war and anti-Lyndon Johnson stands.

A colorful figure, quick with a quip, Ferency says he'll campaign "as actively as we can, within limited financial means." The party treasury contains about $139.

More Fish Due

A $6 million fish hatchery, touted as "probably the most modern, best equipped fish-rearing facility in the world," is slated for official dedication later this month in northwest lower Michigan.

The Platte River Fish Hatchery, which took more than four years to build, will produce about 8 million coho, chinook and steelhead annually when it begins operating at full capacity, says the Department of Natural Resources. The hatchery is located about six miles east of Honor.

SPECIAL RICE

Beef Kabobs or pork chops deserve to be accompanied by a special rice. Just pop a cube of beef bouillon in the boiling water when cooking the rice or use diluted canned bouillon. The soup seasons the rice as well as giving it a gourmet appearance.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Memorial Day has come and gone. The lack of American flags flying on Main St. showed the mark of the times. June 14—197 years ago, the Continental Congress made the Stars and Stripes our nation's banner. Many a man has fought and died to preserve the rights of the living. And to show some Americanism for all the lives lost for us—flying our American flag is the least we can do. Why not surprise your neighbors and put your flag out—weather permitting—it sure needs a good airing! This is known as National Flag Week, also.

Because you don't like what's going on in Washington and governments isn't any reason to show disrespect for our honored service men and forefathers who believed and fought for our freedom.

Do something June 14. If you don't want to show your Americanism — pick up some litter, call a lonely person, say hello to an unhappy person, or help a needy person. It sure will make you feel better inside, and those you help, too.

Warren Spaulding Happy With Knowing His Home Is Being Used To Help Children

When the Spaulding home at 3880 Waltrous Rd. was built in 1872, it was bursting with the growing young family of Dennis Spaulding, his wife, Sarah, and their children, the number of which eventually grew to nine with the birth of their last-born, Warren Dennis Spaulding, in 1893.

Tomorrow, Warren Spaulding will celebrate his 81st birthday in the Chelsea United Methodist Home, where he has been confined for the past month and a half.

His home, however, is hardly alone in his absence—it bustles with the vitality of the organization it now serves—the Spaulding for Children adoption agency, once termed by supporters "the agency's agency."

Spaulding for Children—the name of which would probably have been "Hope Haven" had the choice been left to Warren Spaulding—is an agency which specializes in the difficult, the placing of "hard-to-place" children in adopted homes.

When the agency was established in 1968, Spaulding expressed his hopes for the agency as one to serve "children of all creeds and races," explaining that he had "always wanted to do something for children."

Upon his gift of the home to the agency, however, Spaulding expressed his personal feeling for the house best in a letter discovered recently in the agency's files. The letter, written to F. Richard Schneider, first executive director of the agency, states Spaulding's reluctance to be publicized as the "donor" of the home that he, as the last living child of Dennis Spaulding, then owned.

"The farm is now over 100 years old," Spaulding wrote, "so I cannot claim any responsibility for its origin, and the house was built in '72 and I was born in '93, so I am counted out there. Mother made most of the carpets and rugs with my sisters' help. I never bought a piece of the furniture in my life, so having my photo as the donor would make me feel like an imposter."

Whether he is an imposter is certainly questionable, but the fact of the home's history cannot be denied for even a moment.

It fairly teems with a sense of its 102 years. The carpets and rugs he mentions in his letter remain in the house, as does a document in a second-floor corridor signed by President Andrew Jackson, deeding the land to the Spaulding family.

An employee of the agency, Carol Schreen, who lives in the neighborhood, recalls her youth, when she and friends would come to explore the house, turning up treasures about which Warren would supply historical details.

Books in a second floor bureau belonged to one of his sisters, a school teacher, and her hand-written lesson plans in an impeccable script and Warren's own compositions, speak for an educational era typified by the three R's.

In another room are dolls with painted china faces ageless through years of neglect, piled in a chair, seemingly waiting for a bubbling young caress.

There are pictures, too, family

albums with names that beg for connecting to present-day residents, people frozen in the affected poses of the day forever waiting for someone to remember and wonder.

The house cries for the description of an era that has, indeed, passed. It is, simply, difficult to categorize the rooms by today's terminology; part of the Spaulding agency's offices on the first floor were no doubt "the parlor," but what constitutes a parlor?

The house, is, for the most part, quiet now. At Christmas, there are parties attended by children who are being placed by the agency. Children from the Congregational church, where Spaulding is a member, have enjoyed summer hayrides on the 140-acre farm.

"But now," a newspaper article quoted Spaulding when the agency was established, "maybe the home will have 'more meaning'—more meaning, presumably, than one man living with a houseful of heritage."

But the agency decided early in its organization that children needed "families, not an institution to live in."

But maybe the house needed something, too. In its youth it was the home of nine Spaulding children—Mantie, Edward, Emma, Della, Myrtle, Edith, Hattie, Bertha, and Warren—and its history was a fact of life for them.

Warren recalled in a news article several years ago that his grandmother, Abi Spaulding, related how she had been elevated on a board in front of a spinning wheel when only a child to raise her high enough to twist yarn.

He also recalled the tale of his grandparents' journey from Vermont to Michigan, a journey that took some two months via the Erie Canal and a sloop up the lakes to Detroit, then a plodding trip on a lumber wagon to Ann Arbor.

Those Spauldings, Warren and Abi and their four small children—the oldest, 7, and the youngest, 4 weeks—were not the first to make a journey, however, as the Spaulding history can be traced all the way back to an Edward S. Spaulding, who crossed the Atlantic with Sir George Yearley and arrived in the Virginia Colony in 1619—a year before the Mayflower.

Then followed others with the family name—John, another Edward, Josiah, Sampson, and another Warren, the brother of Ira Spaulding, one of the original settlers of Sylvan Township in 1834, and all their families.

There was Abi Spaulding, Warren's grandmother, who bought 40 acres of the land now part of the farm with $200 given her by her father, and then cleared it with her brother-in-law's oxen and the aid of her children.

And, of course, there was Dennis Spaulding, Abi's son, who built the rambling, white house on Waltrous Rd.

No doubt it was with this multitude of ancestors looking on that Warren Spaulding fretted that he would feel "an imposter" if called the donor of the house that bears his family's name.

"I'm glad that this farm will play an active part in seeing that homes are provided for children who need them," he said when the house became the home of Spaulding for Children. "And I am sure that the other members of my family would endorse this undertaking."

After all, the house was, in a sense, the combined donation of the entire family.

Lake Associations Join in Efforts To Preserve Waters

The lakes and streams of Washtenaw county are an extremely valuable natural resource. Eleven Lake associations have banded together in a unified effort to save Washtenaw county's valuable asset—her lakes and streams. These associations compose the Washtenaw County Lakes and Streams Association.

This organization was formed last fall through the efforts of the Washtenaw County Drain Commissioner, Jerome K. Fulton and Dave Calef. The purpose is to have an organization which would coordinate and aid efforts of lake associations, governmental agencies and individuals in dealing with problems found in the lake communities of Washtenaw county. The program includes such services as weed control, lake level control, engineering and surveying, pollution control, land use and water quality, etc. Not all lakes have the same problems. Their each particular problem will be handled on a case by case basis, but common problems are best dealt with in a more concerted way.

The association has held several meetings. Officers are: David Nowak, president; Faith Wheeler, vice-president; Cathy Roberts, secretary; and Conrad Juchartz, treasurer.

At the meetings problems are discussed and speakers present information of interest to the members.

On June 5 Dave Nowak appeared before the County Board of Commissioners to introduce the organization to the board. Dave explained the goals and purposes of the association saying, "The county advertises its lakes as a recreational feature, thus they must value them. The lakes are in trouble, they are highly eutrophic. The only way we are going to clean them up is through a unified effort between the Lake Associations and county government. The county has provided assistance through the drain office . . . now we need the help and support of the County Board of Commissioners."

The next meeting of the WCLSA will be Monday, June 18 at 7:30 a.m. in Room 117A of the County Building. Featured speaker will be Dr. Dennis Tierney of the Bureau of Water Management, Water Quality Appraisal, Section of DNR. He will speak on the Lakes Self-Help Program which is designed to help lakefront property owners determine the water quality or degree and rate of enrichment of their lakes. The Bureau of Water

GARDENING PROBLEM?

How do you grow trees with big trunks? Answer: You use elephant fertilizer.

Obsolete Culverts Will Be Replaced

During 1974, the Washtenaw County Road Commission crews plan to replace large obsolete drainage structures at 10 different locations throughout the county. This will be the first year of a five-year program covering 84 different locations. Upon completion of this five-year program, the Road Commission will have replaced less than 50 percent of these antiquated mini-bridges built 30 to 75 years ago and currently posing for one-way traffic as well as with load limits from three tons to eight ton gross load.

Earlier this year, the Road Commission purchased a 35-ton capacity mobile crane costing $32,000 which will be the main tool necessary to fabricate and install these large multi-plate structures. The material cost was $29,250 for the corrugated metal plates from which the 14 large culverts are assembled. It has taken a four-man crew 20 working days to assemble these culverts at their Zeeb Rd. Yard, with the task completed on May 30.

Beginning immediately, these culverts will be delivered by the road crews on their tractor-low boy trailer combination to each of the 10 replacement sites. All utility companies have been notified to temporarily remove their pipes and/or cables from the obsolete bridge structures. The 10 locations are as follows: 1) Lima Center Rd. crossing the Luick Drain in Section 22 of Lima township, 2) Lima Center Rd. crossing the Lima and Sylvan Drain in Section 22 of Lima township, 3) Textile Rd. crossing a tributary to the Saline River in Section 23 of Lodi township, 4) Huron River Dr. crossing the Park Lake Drain into the Huron River in Section 18 of Webster township, 5) Judd Rd. crossing Stony Creek Drain in Section 7 of Augusta township, 6) Ellsworth Rd. crossing a tributary to the Rouse Drain in Section 11 of Lodi township, 7) Five Mile Rd. crossing Horseshoe Lake Drain in Section 16 of Northfield township, 8) Five Mile Rd. crossing Catholic Church and Horseshoe Lake Drain in Section 17 of Northfield township, 9) Ellis Rd. crossing a tributary to the Chicking Ditch in Section 18 of Ypsilanti township, 10) Maple Rd. crossing York and Saline Drain in Section 31 of York township. At locations number 3, 5, 7 and 8, a double or two culvert installation is required, thus accounting for the 14 assembled culverts to be set in place.

According to Road Commission Managing Director Thomas J. Vailenqourt, P. E. it will be necessary to have the road closed at each of the 10 site locations for a period of two to four days each in order to allow working time to remove the antiquated obsolete structure and to set the culvert installation in place along with proper backfill, road gravel, sand bag rip rap on the ends and either delineators or steel beam guardrail at the shoulder-polit line for a completed full roadway width project. Each project will be completed, hopefully with a minimum of inconvenience to the traveling public.

However, due to the necessity of completing other types of projects, such as asphaltic work during the warm summer months, some of these mini-bridge replacements will be started and completed later during the year.

IN ECONOMY CARS, THE DODGE BOYS ARE RIGHT ON TARGET.

DART SPORT GOT 27.3 MILES PER GALLON

Our Darts feature USAC-proven economy.

Our big winner was the six-cylinder Dodge Dart Sport which got 27.3 mpg. That was better gas mileage than the Chevy Nova or Ford Maverick got in the USAC test. (All three cars were six-cylinder, manual shift models.)

In addition, our popular Dart Swinger hardtop with automatic transmission got 23.6 mpg—which was better than the Nova stick shift got. (Both Dart and Nova had six-cylinder engines.) For you V8 fans—the real topper was a Dodge Dart Sport with 318 V8. It got 21.7 mpg. Again, this was better than the Nova Six got. (Both the Nova Six and Dart V8 had manual shifts.)

The USAC "Miles-Per-Gallon Showdown" was a three phase test using nonprofessional drivers. Mileage figures appearing in this ad are from the open road phase of that test which covered a distance of 972 miles at an average speed of 53 mph. The Dart Sport six cylinder car had the new standard 2.76 rear axle. For complete results and more surprising facts, see your nearby Dodge Dealer.

Most policies provide the coverages you expect—fire, lightning, storms, riots, vandalism and the like. They cover the cost of repairs due to these losses. But have you thought about the cost of living elsewhere if your home has to be repaired or rebuilt? It could run into hundreds of dollars. Or, it could be covered in black and white in our Homeowners Policy, so we would pay those extra living expenses! Give us a call. CHARLES SPENCER, master craftsman behind the miniature Spencer Brothers circus to be displayed in Dexter's Wylie Middle school gymnasium for four days, June 26 through 29, as part of Sesquicentennial activities, here works painstakingly on a tiny feature of his circus. Behind him are several circus banners, also hand-created, extolling such performers as "Serpennella, the reptile queen," and "Sealo, prince of the frozen arctic."

VFW Auxiliary Hears Report on District Meeting

Regular business session of the Ladies Auxiliary to VFW Post No. 4076 was held Monday, June 10 with 14 members present.

Reports of sixth district meeting held in Mason on May 19 were given by the two delegates who attended, Mary Kniss and Eulalie Packard.

Members who will attend department convention in Grand Rapids June 20-23 will be Mary Kniss, Lucy Platt, Eulalie Packard, and Jeanene White.

Americanism chairman Eulalie Packard reported a flag was presented to Brownie Troop 676 May 23. She also reminded assembly that Flag Day is June 14, and to display the flag.

Poppy chairman Lucy Platt gave a report of Poppy Day Sales and thanked all who assisted.

Appointed to act on June 24 social meeting were Gertrude O'Dell, chairman, assisted by Carol Slusser, Clotil Frayer and Viola Slane.

Delegates elected to National Convention in Chicago for August are Mary Kniss, Eulalie Packard, with alternate delegates Jennie Smith and Lucy Platt.

Next business meeting will be July 8, 8 p.m., in the VFW Hall.

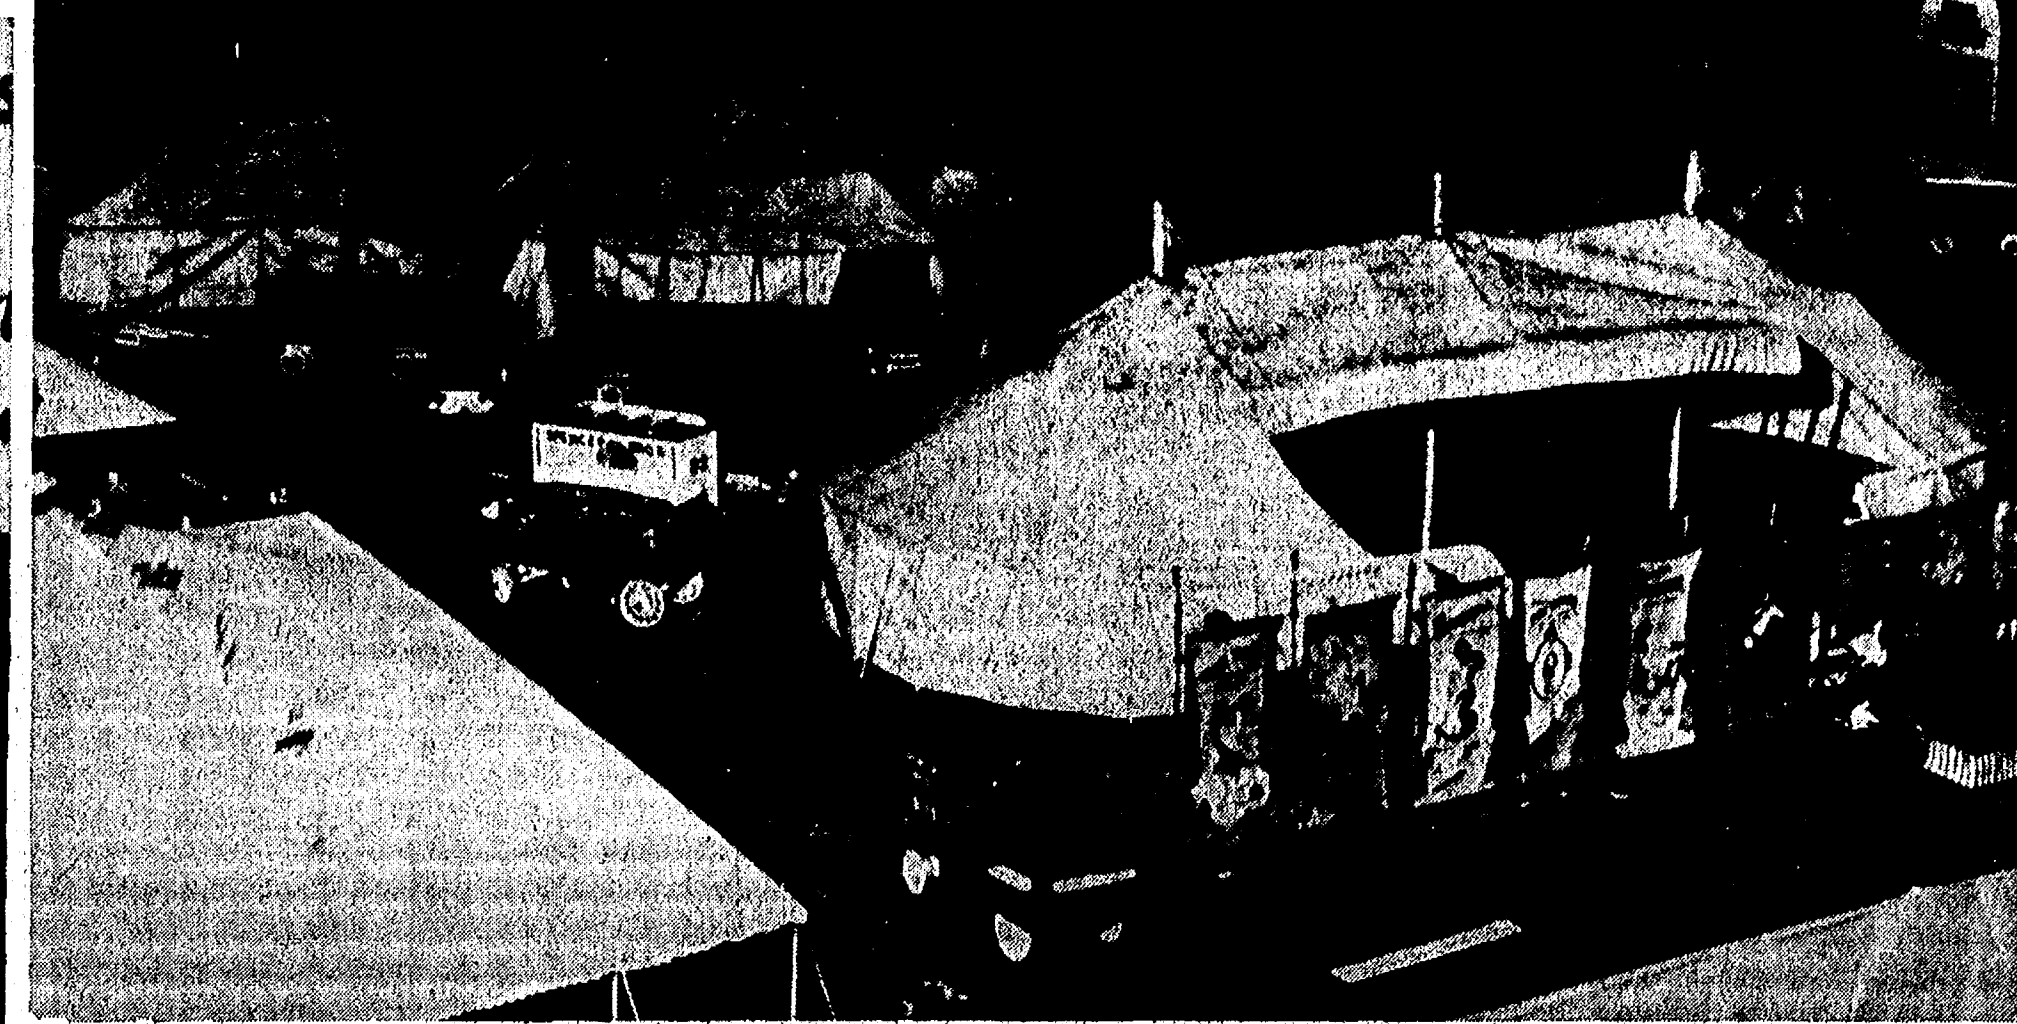

Legion Auxiliary Elects Officers at Dues Luncheon

American Legion Auxiliary annual Dues Luncheon was held at the Legion Home at Cavanaugh Lake on Tuesday, June 4, with 20 members present.

Regular meeting followed with various annual reports presented. The Sewing Committee reported that they had made 102 pair of scuffles for the VA Hospital in Ann Arbor. Workers are still needed and may call Mrs. Ruth Christwell if they can work.

SPENCER BROTHERS CIRCUS is coming to town again, with all the fanfare devoted to a real circus, which it is not. The circus, all hand-made by Chelsea resident Charles Spencer, is a highly-detailed miniature replica of circa-1900 circuses that has taken Spencer some 15 years to create. The 336 square-foot miniature will be displayed at Dexter's Wylie Middle school for four days during Sesquicentennial observances.

Spencer Brothers Miniature Circus On Exhibit at Dexter Sesquicentennial

Not many circuses are created in basements, but Charles Spencer's Spencer Brothers circus is one that was.

It won't come parading down Main St. to make its way into Dexter for its display during the Sesquicentennial celebration, but it will be available at Wylie Middle school's gym for public inspection.

Spencer Brothers Circus is not your run-of-the-mill collection of clowns and animals. For one thing, it's a miniature circus—in a scale of three-quarters of an inch to a foot.

Among its more than 8,000 pieces, all hand-made by Spencer in his basement workroom at 754

Flanders St., Chelsea, is a replica of one of the few calliope built in 1900. And the best part is—it really plays, under steam power. A 1895 Wuritzer band also plays.

Another eye-catcher at the display is sure to be Spencer Brothers Circus' replica of the original Gollmar Brothers Circus bandwagon, which was exhibited at the 1964 New York World's Fair.

Largest of the circus' many big top tents is a menagerie tent, which measures 12 ft. by 5 ft., and holds more than 150 animals and 12 cage wagons.

Integrity of detail is apparent in Spencer's rows of banners extolling the circus performers—one for Serpenella, the reptile queen, another for Sealo, the seal boy, prince of the frozen arctic. The entrance to the side show displays an exact replica of a 1920 Ringling Bros. banner.

Other details of the miniature include a cook house complete with miniature food and ranges; a wardrobe tent; 35 circus wagons; two flatcars loaded with wagons; and a stock car for circus horses. Railroad tracks and cars are also included in the display, to allow the circus to travel "like the real thing."

And it will travel, too because all parts—tents, menagerie, and equipment—all are designed to fit into wagons for transportation when dismantled, again just like a real circus.

Spencer's circus is the product of 15 years of careful carving, gluing, nailing, and painting together of scraps of lumber, metal and plastic. The display has been exhibited for a number of years at Palmer Motor Sales in Chelsea, in addition to the World's Fair exhibit.

Dexter residents will have an opportunity to view the miniature wonder during the Sesquicentennial celebration, daily from June 26 through 29, from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. at Wylie Middle school's gymnasium. Admission fee will be 25 cents.

South School Library Reports Busy Year

Librarian Mrs. Luella McMannis of South school reports that circulation from the library this year totaled approximately 19,500. Students from 2nd, 3rd, and 4th grades had a regular library period, with 1st graders taking books after the first of the year.

During the year, a number of new books, filmstrips, records, study prints, and circus posters were added to the South school library collection. Story hour was begun for kindergartners and 1st graders; stories were also read to 2nd and 3rd graders when time permitted at their regular library classes.

Mrs. McMannis extends her thanks to Miss Weber for the faithful room helpers, Tod Borton, David Harrison, and Jeff Lantis.

tee: Florence Fox, Roxie Maroney, and Alma Elsiele.

Next meeting will be on Sept. 3, at the Legion Home, Cavanaugh Lake, with installation of officers.

Rebekah Lodge Names Delegates To State Assembly

Chelsea Rebekah Lodge No. 130 met Tuesday, June 4 at the hall for a regular meeting.

Election of representatives and alternates to the Assembly of Michigan was held. Mrs. Elsie Hinz was elected two-year representative, and Mrs. Eulalie Packard the two-year alternate. Mrs. Mary Ann Coltre was elected lodge deputy for one year. The one-year representative is Mrs. Dorothy Keezer, and one-year alternate is Mrs. Lucile Altstaetter. Mrs. Ida Nixon will receive the Decoration of Chivalry, a meritorious award, for service rendered.

A pot-luck supper was planned for June 18 at 6 p.m. A donation will be taken and sent to the IOOF and Rebekah Home Charitable Fund in Jackson. Mrs. Donna Feldkamp, Helen Harris, and Lucille Altstaetter were appointed on the committee. Coffee will be furnished.

Members reported hospitalized were Mrs. Kathleen Bernath and Flossie Lake.

A birthday celebration was given Mrs. Edith White and Mrs. Lina Reule. Birthday cards were signed by all and sent to Mrs. Helen French and Mrs. Eva Barber for June 9. Next regular meeting will be held June 18.

Recess for the summer months will be held after the first meeting in July is ended.

Mrs. Velma Wolfe received her pin and certificate from the international president for obtaining new members last year.

Battery Stolen From Parked Car

A 1969 Oldsmobile parked in an alley behind 125 E. Summit St. was relieved of its battery sometime between 9 p.m. Friday, June 7, and 9 a.m. Saturday, June 8, Chelsea police say.

Mrs. Geneva Walkowe, 18353 Herman Rd., Manchester, told Sgt. Lenard McDougall that she went out to her car in the morning to find the hood slightly opened. Upon inspection, she discovered the theft of the battery.

The battery stolen was a 12-volt Exide brand. Police have no suspects in the incident.

JC Auxiliary Plans Next Year's Events

Chelsea Jaycee Auxiliary met Tuesday night for a family picnic, originally planned to be held at Pierce Park but moved to the Jaycee Hall due to rain.

Members later held a business meeting at the home of Anne Steinaway. Alberta Colby presided over the meeting for the first time as president. The new year's planned program and budget was reviewed and voted on.

A committee was formed to investigate and review the upcoming Fair Queen Pageant in an attempt to see what the community, fair board, and candidates would like in the way of a change. Anne Steinaway, 475-2923, and Judy Eubanks, 475-2382 are researching this; any community member with a suggestion should contact either of them.

The Auxiliary will be assisting at the Jaycee rummage sale June 29, and the Jaycee Youth Horse Show this Sunday.

Also, the Auxiliary will be assisting the Jaycees with a concession stand to welcome Dexter Sesquicentennial car caravan coming to Chelsea Saturday evening, and will hang a "Welcome Dexter" banner in town.

TORNADOES

Tornadoes are an American specialty, striking more often in this country than in any other. A rare twister ravaged a London suburb in 1950, and they have also hit Canada, Africa, Australia, New Zealand and Central Asia. Their primary severe storm belt known as "Tornado Alley" cuts through the American Midwest.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

By LOUIS BURGHARDT

Only a dad, with a tired face, coming home from the daily race... Bringing little of gold and fame - to show how well he has played the game... But glad in his heart that his own rejoice - to see him come and to hear his voice... Only a dad, of a brood of four, one of ten million men or more... Plodding along in the daily strife, bearing the whips and scorns of life... With never a whimper of pain or hate, for the sake of those who at home await... Only a dad, neither rich nor proud, merely one of the surging crowd... Toiling, striving, from day to day, facing whatever may come his way... Silent, whenever the harsh condemn, and bearing it all for the love of them... Only a dad, but he gives his all - to smooth the way for his children small... Doing, with courage stern and grim, the deeds that his father did for him... These are the lines that for him I pen—Only a dad, but the best of men... (Author unknown).

We publish that thought in a sincere hope it stirs sentiment and reawakens memories for families and fathers - everywhere - on Father's Day... BURGHARDT FUNERAL HOME, 214 East Middle St., Chelsea Mich. Phone 475-1551.

AS SELECTED BY AUTOMOBILE CLUB OF MICHIGAN

Straits Area Rich In Michigan History

History and engineering achievements usually don't mix as tourist attractions, but an exception is the Straits of Mackinac area, according to Automobile Club of Michigan.

The Mackinac Bridge, Mackinac Island and restored Fort Michilimackinac and its marine complex combine to offer three of Michigan's top tourist attractions.

The Mackinac Bridge is the most visible of all attractions in the area. Since 1957, the bridge has linked the state's two peninsulas, culminating a dream that began in Indian days. It is one of the world's top engineering achievements.

Construction of the five-mile-long structure, the world's longest suspension bridge between cable anchorages, took more than three years. The bridge may be seen for miles on a clear day, its main towers zooming 532 feet above the water.

A fleet of ferryboats operate from Mackinaw City and St. Ignace to historic Mackinac Island, just 45 minutes away. No trip to northern Michigan would be complete with a visit there.

There are no automobiles to disturb the island's serenity. Travel around the three-mile-long island is by horse-drawn carriage, rented bicycles or on foot.

High shoreline cliffs add to the natural beauty panorama of the island, which offers the visitor hours of sightseeing, including old churches and several choices of resort hotels topped by the famous Grand Hotel, the world's largest summer resort hotel.

The biggest attraction, Fort Mackinac, was built by the British in 1780-81 after abandoning Fort Michilimackinac at Mackinac City. It was not until 1796, 13 years after the Revolutionary War ended, that the British relinquished Fort Mackinac. But they recaptured it during the War of 1812.

A long ramp leading to the fort entrance offers a challenge which most visitors accept willingly. Those who go on to mount the high point at the southeast corner of the stone wall have a magnificent view of the fort's interior.

The fort itself includes three blockhouses, officers' quarters, parade ground and the soldiers' barracks, now a museum.

There also is history galore outside the fort. Old buildings include the Astor Warehouse, old Agency House of John Jacob Astor's American Fur Co., the Indian Dormitory, Benjamin Blacksmith Shop, Mission Church and the Biddle House, oldest residence on the island.

Mackinac Island's Lilac Festival, set this year for June 9-16, is one of Michigan's most colorful annual events.

Besides the fort and historic structures there are natural attractions such as Sugar Loaf Rock and Arch Rock.

Below the fort is beautiful Marquette Park, named for the Jesuit missionary who founded the St. Ignace mission in 1671 and helped bring Christianity to the Great Lakes.

At Mackinaw City, in the shadow of the Big Mac Bridge, is Fort Michilimackinac and its recently added Maritime Park.

While Fort Mackinac was built on high ground with stone and wood, the earlier fort on the south side of the Straits was built almost entirely of wood, amid shifting sand dunes which plagued both French and British commanders and also present-day excavations which began in 1939 and are continuing.

The buildings of Fort Michilimackinac are surrounded by a high stockade, all on the original site as disclosed by field excavations.

The biggest event in the fort's history occurred in 1793 during Chief Pontiac's widespread conspiracy when Chippewa and Sauk Indians captured the fort through a ruse. Playing lacrosse while British soldiers stood by as spectators, the Indians used a stray ball as an excuse to dash inside, first grabbing rifles and weapons hidden by squaws under blankets.

Each year some 200 costumed citizens and school children of Mackinaw City re-enact the fort's capture by the Indians in a pageant, which also includes the earlier surrender of the French garrison to the British.

The fort's entrance, now moved east, includes Maritime Park with its main attraction, Old Mackinac Point Lighthouse, built in 1892. The lighthouse, discontinued when the Big Mac Bridge was built, has been turned into a maritime museum and is well worth a visit.

Summer visitors to the fort also can watch the era of the American Revolution taking shape before their eyes. Reconstruction of the 1775 British sloop Welcome has progressed dramatically since the park closed last October.

Skilled shipbuilders have erected all the huge wooden ribs of the 55-foot-long vessel. This summer Welcome, which now dwarfs its human constructors, will be ready for hull planking with two-inch thick, specially cut cedar.

Dr. David Armour, assistant superintendent of the Mackinac Island State Park Commission, recently spent three weeks searching English archives for additional information on the Welcome. The project is funded by the American Revolution Bicentennial Commission.

When the Welcome is completed, visitors will be able to stroll the deck, examine the captain's quarters and descend into the hold to experience the bygone era of sailing vessels, when fuel supplies were no problem.

With America's Bicentennial only two years away, the Mackinac Island State Park Commission envisions the Welcome as a lasting memorial to Michigan's role in the American Revolution.

Rear View Mirror Torn from Auto

A Livonia man reported to Chelsea police Sunday night that the outside left-hand remote control mirror on his 1972 Ford had been pulled away from the door and was left hanging by the control cable.

Kevin Pollins told officers that the car had been parked on McKinley St., just south of Jackson St., for several hours while he was at a party. When he decided to leave at approximately midnight, he found the damage to the mirror, valued at about $12.

Police noted that other mirrors on cars in the area had been moved, but not damaged. They have no suspects and consider the incident the work of juvenile pranksters.

Bicycle Thefts Reported to Police

A pair of bicycles were stolen sometime last Thursday afternoon from 302 Lincoln St., Chelsea police report.

Officer Roger Graves reported that a black Raleigh 26-in. boys bike, minus front fender and valued at approximately $15, was discovered missing by Rodney Sheerin.

Beverly Wengren also reported a theft of a bicycle, a green Columbia five-speed boys 26-in. bike, with standard bars and seat. The bike also was equipped with a rear carrier rack. It is valued at $45.

Police have no suspects in either case. Neither bicycle was insured.

Man Charged With Theft From Station

A Westland man who initially complained to an attendant that he had been shortchanged has been charged with the theft of $135 from Cheker Oil Service Station at 930 S. Main.

Jon Earl Helton, 23, pled not guilty to larceny from a building Monday morning in 14th District Court, with examination on the charge set for June 17 at 9:30 a.m. Bond was set at $5,000.

Cheker attendant Larry Marshall, 654 W. Middle, told officers that Helton complained to him that he had been shortchanged by the station. Marshall informed him that he would have to return Monday to see the manager, as he is not allowed to return money.

Helton then allegedly entered the station and stuffed money into his pockets, Marshall said. Marshall then called Chelsea police.

Upon arriving at the station, officers saw a 1964 burgundy Pontiac leaving the station and turning southbound on M-52. Marshall indicated to the officers that the car belonged to the suspect, and officers followed, while Helton accelerated rapidly and went through a stop sign. Officers pursued the car and activated siren and lights, and the vehicle eventually came to a halt approximately three-quarters of a mile south of Old US-12, officers said.

Discovered in Helton's wallet and pockets was $38 in bills, which he allegedly stole from the station. Inspection of the car and the area has yielded none of the rest of the money missing from the station.

Helton has what Chelsea officers termed "an extensive record" and is currently on probation from Detroit Recorder's Court for simple larceny.

DON TURNER'S VIEW of Canada's Mt. Rundle, from Banff National Park Campground, in Alberta, shows "a lot of snow on the mountains here yet, and it's quite chilly," according to the Chelsea wanderer.

BOY SCOUT COMMISSIONER John Mitchell, one of the latest of Don Turner's acquaintances, stands proudly next to the sign heralding the St. James, Winnipeg Kiwanis project establishing an order of the Golden Arrow for Boy Scouts at Assiniboine Lodge, on the Assiniboine River. The lodge, formerly an old run-down private club established in the 1930s, was purchased by St. James Kiwanians as a meeting place for Boy Scouts.

A PAIR OF BABY RACCOONS that were discovered with their mother under the floor of the Assiniboine Lodge during Kiwanis refurbishing of the lodge are currently being reared on a bottle by Boy Scouts. Above, Counselor Hatch holds the tiny inhabitants of the lodge, which are so young that they have not yet opened their eyes.

REPORT FROM THE NORTHLANDS:

Turner Finds Lively Kiwanis Club in St. James, Manitoba

Editor's Note: Don Turner's first letter back to the home folks from his latest northern excursion is dated May 25, Banff, Alberta.

Dear Readers:

By now most of you know that I have left for the north country, and for the past week I have been eating up miles toward the Canadian northwest. I stopped a few places, such as a day at the Soo, Michigan, then went on to Wawa, Kekabeka Falls, and Winnipeg, in Manitoba.

I arrived in Winnipeg late in the day, and a big sign just outside the city boasted nine Kiwanis clubs in the Winnipeg area. Upon inquiring, I found the Kiwanis Club of St. James met that evening so I was in luck to make a meeting as well as a place to gain information about the area.

Winnipeg is quite a large city—between 200,000 and 300,000 population—and still growing. St. James is an area of Winnipeg out by the airport and St. James Kiwanis Club meets at the International Inn at the airport.

I sat with a jolly young group—one member was commissioner of Boy Scouts District of Strathcona Winnipeg Region, John Mitchell. He told me of the project the St. James Kiwanis had going some 20 miles west of the city at a place called Lido Plage. The Club had purchased an old run-down private club that was started in the '30s that has 15 acres of land along the Assiniboine River, mostly wooded. It had been quite a place in its day, and with a lot of hard work and money, they will have a swell place for Boy Scouts to meet, for private parties like wedding receptions, and in the future, a campground for tourists.

St. James Kiwanis has several members who are in the construction trades and they had put in two weeks work this spring trying to level up the old lodge and while doing so, they found an old mother raccoon and two baby raccoons under the floor. They are trying to rear them, although they are so small they don't have their eyes open yet.

John Mitchell led the way to the place that evening and we arrived after dark. He said I could park my camper on the grounds as long as I like, but there was one little favor he would like of me—would I stay one more day and give a talk to the local Boy Scout troop and show them some of my camera equipment? When he learned that I had a fishing film with me, it just seemed to be the order of the day.

After explaining my equipment, narrating the film, and finishing the question and answer period afterward, I was a little out of voice for two days, but I was glad to be of service to the group. I might add they are a live-wire troop.

John Mitchell has started a new thing in Canadian Boy Scouts—it's the order of the "Golden Arrow." According to Mitchell, the order of the arrow as scouts in the United States know it, does not apply to Canada. The scouts of Winnipeg were so impressed with the order when they attended the Jamboree in Texas last year, that he decided to try to get one started in Canada, and has submitted his idea to the National Council. With a leader like John Mitchell behind it, I am quite sure it will be approved.

When I awoke the morning after John Mitchell showed me the place, it was to the musical notes of a flock of whistling swans flying along the Assiniboine River on their way further north to their nesting grounds. Soon after, the trees around the place reverberated with the sound of many birds—robins, red-breasted grosbeaks, orioles, gnat catchers, warblers, and many others that were nesting in the area. An old big wood-chuck watched me from his den under one of the old buildings here. Several species of ducks paddled along the river bank. What a place to train a scout troop!—or for a quiet rest for the weary traveler.

I predict many a skinned shin, bruised thumb and much sweat will make St. James Kiwanis project at Lido Plage a howling success. I am most pleased to have met the St. James Kiwanians and the Boy Scout Troop.

I made a quick hop across the prairie provinces of Canada and put up at Banff National Park campground. I will be looking over this area before heading on north to the Yukon. More later.

Your wandering reporter,
Don Turner.

DRIVING HER CRAZY?

She thinks her husband is driving her crazy. It seems he can never remember her birthday, but he always knows her age.

"A LIVE-WIRE TROOP!" is the way Don Turner describes these Boy Scouts of the Assiniboine Lodge, which has been established by St. James, Winnipeg, Kiwanis club from an old private club in Lido Plage, Chelsea's photographer-naturalist Turner spoke to this group during his stay in St. James, displayed his camera equipment, and generally enjoyed himself with the scouts and their sponsor, the St. James Kiwanis Club.
