

Townships May Face State-Ordered Property Valuation Hikes

According to figures released last week by State Tax Commission field representatives, 18 local governmental units, including Lima, Dexter, Lyndon, and Sylvan townships, may face state-ordered property valuation increases.

The findings were presented three Washtenaw county governmental units appealing their 1973 valuations—Ypsilanti and Pittsfield townships, and the City of Saline—and county officials at a meeting last Wednesday, June 26, with STC workers.

These projected valuation increases, which are still preliminary and subject to review and change by STC officials in Lansing, according to district STC director Jack Lynch in a statement quoted in the Ann Arbor News, reveal that all but six local units, two of which were among the appealing units, may incur increased valuations if the report is eventually accepted by the STC.

Dexter township, which according to county figures over-assessed its taxpayers with a factor of .99, is by the STC findings hit with a factor of 1.16, which means an added 17 percent in valuation.

Lima township, which the county lists as having a factor of 1.03, was found by the STC field representatives to need a factor of 1.20 to bring it to the accepted level of state equalized valuation, which means another 17 percent increase for Lima township.

Lyndon township, which was considered by the county to be assessing at the state-required assessment level of 50 percent of true cash value (in other words, a factor of 1.0) has been found by the state to need a 1.13 level to bring it up to par, or a 13 percent increase.

Sylvan township, which was also at 1.0, will incur only a 4 percent increase (a factor of 1.04) if the STC representatives' findings are accepted.

Other nearby townships that may suffer the pangs of increased valuation factors are Sharon and Freedom townships, both of which have projected factors of more than 1.17.

Dexter township supervisor and Township of Washtenaw County chairman John Tandy, however, indignantly declares that "The whole thing (this latest survey) is based upon the idiosyncracies and discrepancies in the methods that were used by the State Tax Commission in their survey for 1972."

Tandy contends that because the 1972 survey was incorrect, and because STC field workers use that survey as a basis, the current survey can only be in error.

County Equalization Director George Kotishak, in an incident also cited in the Ann Arbor News last week, challenged Director Lynch's statement that workers used 1972 state-determined valuations as the basis for 1973 figures, and asked who set such a policy. Lynch, replying that he didn't "see that that makes any difference," refused to answer.

Tandy's contention, as well as that of the rest of the members of Townships of Washtenaw County, is that it does, indeed, make a difference. He presents examples:

"Say that there are four lots, all owned by different people—this has happened, I'm not making it up—that all happen to be too small to build on, so they're only worth about $300. Totally they're worth $1,200.

"Another person buys all four of them, puts them together, and has a marketable piece of property. He sells the new larger parcel for, say $8,000. Then when the state comes in to do this survey, they see only that this piece of property has been sold for $8,000, but has been assessed for taxes much lower than that.

"This is ridiculous, as you can see. I can't project what will happen in the future—I can only assess the property as it is then," Tandy states emphatically.

Tandy is adamant in his contention that not only is the county inaccurate, it is less than through. "One woman was asked how much she wanted for her property; she replied rather blithely that she'd like $1,900 an acre. Not that she could get it, but that she'd like it. Property around her wasn't selling, and it was priced at $1,500 an acre, so it was just a wish.

"So, guess what her property was assessed at? You bet. As if the sale price was $1,900 an acre. Somehow they have equated the value of land with what the owners would like to get for it."

Lyndon township supervisor Thomas Lewis, unlike Tandy, has not seen STC workers' figures "other than what I read in the papers." The prospect of facing an increase in valuation is not one that enralls him, either.

"How can you possibly go back and spread those taxes again?" Lewis laments. "People have been sold something; they believe they have clear title, and then they're hit with more taxes? How do you do that?"

Lewis says that he does not know how the percentages that STC workers have found townships lacking could possibly be collected. "I just don't know... I have no idea."

Tandy, however, has definite ideas about this. "These are just figures, until someone tries to collect," he says pointedly. "After it was determined that the 1972 valuation level had been incorrect, the State Board of Education tried to get school districts to return state aid money that had been given them on the basis of those valuations. We have, however, delayed this action until next April, but if this isn't settled by then, well... I don't know exactly what we'll do."

Currently an appeal of the 1972 decisions is before the state Supreme Court. Tandy predicts, "We're quite confident that we're going to beat them on this. State Tax Commission is just an administrative branch of the government—it must abide by the constitution of the state. I don't think that its lack of consistency in decisions will hold up under the scrutiny of a court of law."

He continued, "As supervisors, we're more concerned with making sure that the townships are treated fairly and equitably because we have to administer these things. People aren't upset about things yet—no one's put a hand in their pocket. That's why we're doing this now. We don't want anybody's hands in our pockets."

Babe Ruth Action Now at Season Peak

Babe Ruth action is at its season peak this week with no team out of the race yet. With nine games left in the season, it could be anyone's ball-game.

Two of this year's teams are under "new" management: Ralph Machesky, and George Sweeney are coaching these boys this year while Dave Lukasiak and Dick Lapanowski are the seasoned veterans of last year.

The Babe Ruth season this year was organized by a "draft" by which each coach would have five 13-year-olds, five 14-year-olds and five 15-year-olds on his team. The teams, however, did not end up this way. Next year hopefully Babe Ruth baseball will become a well-organized part of the boys life in the summer.

The four teams this year are fairly well balanced with talent. George Sweeney (5-3) holds the talents of pitchers, John Adams and Mike Sweeney, while the big bats include Pete Feeney, Tim McAllister and Joe Verwey. George's team has its ups and downs depending heavily on the pitching.

Dick Lapanowski boasts players like pitchers John Daniels and Don Morrison, while Ernie Hadley (2 HRs) and Don Nadeau supply the power.

Ralph Machesky's team is the youngest team of the field but they have defeated everyone in the league. This team includes pitching by Jeff Eder, Mike Machesky and now Gerald Benjamin. Ralph's team claims a no excess power but they are a balanced team. Machesky's boys are known as the "spoilers".

They defeat the best and should be great next year.

Dave Lukasiak boasts a fairly young team with pitchers Jeff Powell and Kurt Owings, and Anthony Houle (2 HRs), Scott Owings and Jeff Sweet as the big bats. Lukasiak (6-3) claims a good infield and good speed. Jeff Powell is 4-2 for the season and carries a 1.25 ERA. He has 50 strike-outs to his credit. Lukasiak's team carries a two-error a game average.

Carol Fairbrother Posts All-A Record

Carol Fairbrother is on the Dean's list for the second time at the University of Michigan in the Engineering college getting a 4.0 average.

250 STRONG, Earn, Learn and Play members gather at South school for a mass photo prior to the start of Gold Rush Day. The program, which began last Monday, employs participants in community clean-up and maintenance jobs one hour daily for a weekly pay of $1.25. The program, under the direction of Tom Ballistrere, has won awards as a top recreation program when instituted in other cities.

New Pastor Starting at Salem Grove

The Rev. Richard C. Stoddard will assume the duties of pastor of Salem Grove United Methodist church on Notten Rd., this Sunday July 7, at the 10:30 a.m. service.

The Rev. Stoddard, has served the United Methodist church at Somerset Center for the past eight years, during which time the attendance grew from fewer than 30 to more than 140 at worship services.

Prior to his ordination, he completed six years of study with the Board of Higher Education of the United Methodist Church. He holds degrees from Eastern Michigan University in the fields of sociology, psychology, and religion. (Continued on page three)

Watermelon Day Slated Friday in Rec. Program

This week's Recreation Council Earn, Learn, and Play week will be capped by a special "Watermelon Day" Friday afternoon, when watermelon will be provided for all participants, in addition to games, prizes, and candy.

Recreation Director Tom Ballistrere reports more than enthusiastic response to this, his newest Recreation Council program. Some 265 youngsters, Ballistrere says, registered for the Earn, Learn, and Play program, June 24, and have been busy planting flowers at South school, maintaining ball fields, picking up trash, and painting since then.

Sharon Church Plans Old Fashioned Day

North Sharon Bible church plans to once again roll back the clock for its fourth annual Old Fashioned Day, this Sunday, July 7.

With old-time clothes not all that rare in these parts, what with Dextertites intermittently cavorting in ancient duds for the past few weeks, the church's request that participants "don olde tyme clothes" for the day seems only natural.

Beginning the day will be an Old Fashioned Sunday School Hour at 10 a.m., followed by Old Fashioned Singing and Preaching and special music by the Gospel Echoes at 11 a.m.

Pastor Bill Enslin of North Sharon notes that "Everyone is welcome, but the ticket for the afternoon's fun is an hour in church."

Afternoon activities will include an appearance by Cornball the Clown. Games for all ages are planned, ranging from a greased pig chase, rope the goat contest, pie and watermelon eating contests, and a tug-of-war between the bus and the drive-in crowd, to more "normal" activities like horse shoes, badminton, volleyball, and sack and three-legged races.

A special feature of the afternoon will be the availability of Pastor Enslin, Assistant Pastor Gerald Proctor, and bus director Lawrence McAtee for dunking in a horse tank—but only for those participants who bring five or more visitors, or one deaf visitor, to Old Fashioned Day.

Antique displays will also be on the grounds, and a brief history of Sharon township, written by Donald Irwin, will be distributed. (Continued on page three)

Waterloo Church Marks 100th Year

United Methodist church of Waterloo may have gone through three names since its founding, but it remains the same basic church and will begin celebration of its 100th birthday this Sunday.

The church, formerly known as the United Brethren in Christ and the Evangelical United Brethren church, was initiated Dec. 10, 1872 when members of the Waterloo community met to formulate plans for the building of a village church. This enterprise eventually costs them some $4,000, a much more substantial sum than now.

The celebration will stretch from July 7 through July 14. On Sunday, July 7, beginning at 10:30 a.m., special music will be provided by the sons and daughters of the Rev. and Mrs. G. Edgar Schade of Mt. Pleasant, as the opening of "Old Times Day." The Rev. Schade served the Waterloo church from 1941 to 1945.

The service will also include special music by the choir, with Mrs. Stanley Stork in charge of the service.

A pot-luck dinner at the church school will follow the worship service, for which congregation and visitors should bring their own table service and a dish to pass, according to the number in their families.

A time of "old-fashioned fellowship" is planned for the afternoon. Planners of the celebration urge those who are unable to attend the worship service and dinner to come later "just to see old friends and familiar faces."

Celebration will continue the following Saturday, July 13, when the church's Youth Fellowship has

New Gas Main Being Laid Along South Main

Michigan Consolidated Gas Co. is currently replacing a gas main that runs along S. Main St., which accounts for construction at that end of the village.

The area to be replaced stretches from Lincoln St. south to Old US-12. Village Administrator Frederick Weber said Tuesday that the company should be finished laying the main next week, with more time necessary for re-sodding and other replacement after that.

Fireworks, Social Set For July 4

Once again the evening skies will be bright and village tummies will be full for 4th of July festivities, thanks to Herbert J. McKune American Legion Post No. 31.

Holiday festivities will begin at 5 p.m. Thursday at Chelsea Fair Services Center where, under head chefs Pat Merkel and Bill Coltre, Legionnaires will be serving up hot dogs, barbecues, beans, and home-made cake and ice cream. Chelsea Community Fair Board has donated the Fair Service Center to the Legion for this community activity.

Following the afternoon social will be the traditional fireworks—$1,200 worth of them this year, contributed by the Legion, Chelsea Kiwanis Club and Chelsea Fire Department. In charge of fireworks is Village Clerk Loren Keezer.

Headstart Offers New Program for Pre-Schoolers

A pilot program for pre-school youngsters eligible for Project Headstart will begin this September to continue the length of the school year.

Mrs. Katy Harat, director of Chelsea's Office of Economic Opportunity, notes that this program differs from other previous Headstart programs in that it is a school-year program, instead of one stretching only through the summer months.

Mrs. Harat urges parents who (Continued on page three)

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

The fellers were talking about Independence Day during the session at the country store Saturday night, and it was general agreement that the Fourth is a better name for the holiday. Independence gives the idea of doing something on your own, said Ed Doolittle and they're precious little of that going on in this country these days.

Clem Webster was for calling it the Fourth for a different reason. He said Independence Day makes a feller think of the country's start, and of hard times she went through in them early years. Nobody likes to think of sacrifice and suffering, Clem declared, cause that takes away from the holiday spirit. We can call it the Fourth and celebrate without taking any mind to what we are celebrating, was Clem's words.

Actual, Mister Editor, ever single one of the fellers is a old timey flag waver that gets choked up when he sees Old Glory run up a pole. They carry on during the sessions about what's wrong with their country, but they don't want anybody else picking on her. And they still can see a heap that's right with America. Like everybody else, they get discouraged sometime with the way Americans treat America, but to them the Fourth of July is a time for rejoicing and serious thought about this land of the not so free and the not so brave. Like ever American, they're worried about their country.

Bug Hookum is worried about mom's apple pie. He said he won't be surprised to find out it has chemicals in it that is hazerdous to yore health, cause there don't seem to be anything that ain't been tampered with. Bug had saw last month where the Boy Scouts was lying about their membership to get more federal money for their programs. When they got the Boy Scouts lying, the hot dogs made of cereal and wedded motherhood of the exception stand of the rule, the airt much hope fer mom's apple pie in the American way of life, was Bug's words.

Fathermore, with everybody on the take, allowed Bug, the wonder is that anybody was surprised to hear about the scout leaders counting boys that ain't there. It looks like all good old Yankee know-how means these days is git it any way you can. We got towns incorporating to get revenue sharing, and we got corporations that keeps one set of books for the Government and another set fer stockholders. They borrow money to pay stock dividends so they can charge the interest off as a loss and raise the price of what they sell so they can maintain a reasonable profit. And if they slip a $100,000 or so to their favorite politician, it's all fer the greatest good of the greatest number.

Mister Editor, Bug's speech jest shows the problems you git into with a "informed electorate." I say where somebody said the Watergate mess is the voters' fault fer electing weak people. That's another way of saying America has met her enemy, and he is us.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

Of Dents and Danger

If you've ever opened a can of something good, then dropped it quick because the contents smell so bad, you know about the potential problems of canned foods.

But do you know what to do about them?

Let the Michigan Agriculture Department's food inspection division know what's happened.

"We like to be notified anytime something is not normal," says food technologist Al Hafner. "We have about 55 food inspectors out in the field, but there's no way they can check each of the almost 9,000 retail grocery stores monthly.

So, if you do have a problem with any canned goods, contact one of the department offices—Flint, Grand Rapids, Detroit, Benton Harbor, Lansing and Escanaba—or write the food inspection division in Lansing and give them all the pertinent information.

They'd like to know the code letters and numbers on the can, the product and brand name, and where you bought it.

With that information, the division will assign an inspector to check out the remaining similar products at the store.

If the inspector finds evidence in that lot, he'll order the entire batch—those cans with the same codes—temporarily off the shelves until the contents can be laboratory tested.

"We've had a lot of complaints about dented cans," Hafner says. "Anytime the top, side or bottom is dented in some proportion, don't use the contents," he suggests, "because there can be organisms growing inside."

Hafner explains that seams on cans are like rubber gaskets. "If the seam is broken, air can get in and cause spoilage," he says.

A rule of thumb: Even though dented cans sometimes are put on special at the store, it might be better to pay the extra few cents and be more certain that the contents are safe.

The proposal "would not even make a minor dent in the amount of illegal handguns in the possession of the criminal element of our society," says Carl Coats, president of the 1,300-member association.

Meanwhile, it appears the petition drive to put the gun ban question on the November ballot may be running into trouble.

As of mid-June, proponents reported that they'd collected some 125,000 signatures, far short of the 200,000 needed for a popular vote. And the deadline for submitting those signatures is July 7.

The chairman of the group collecting names, however, expresses confidence that the Citizens United to Save Lives will succeed.

The drive, begun earlier this year, has the strong support of Detroit Police Commissioner Philip G. Tannian.

"We are acting now to save the lives of state residents in years to come," Tannian said when he announced plans for the drive. "It may be 5-10 years before this amendment will dramatically cut the homicide rate in Michigan. But for the lives we will save and for the well-being of our children, it will be our greatest contribution to the future of our state and our people."

Drive chairman Dwight Walker says petition circulators seem to be running into opposition in at least two areas, "sportsmen's groups who think we are infringing on their rights, and some private citizens who don't want to give up their right to own handguns."

WHAT'S THE DIFFERENCE?

How do you tell the flowers from the weeds? The only sure way is to pull anything that's doubtful. If they come up again, they're weeds!

The smallest package you'll ever see is a man all wrapped up in himself.

R. B. Dexter has installed two new Fogel refrigeration units in his meat market during the past week. Two compressors are located in the basement, one for refrigeration in the display counter, the other for the two large walk-in refrigerators. The new equipment gives Dexter the very latest in refrigeration and is a fine addition to his market.

Paul Eisen, son of Theophile Eisen, former Chelsea resident, was ordained Sunday night at St. Joseph's Evangelical church in Niles, where he is substituting for his uncle, the Rev. A. A. Schoen of Dexter, during the latter's illness.

Although out-hit, 7 to 4, by a well-coached Ann Arbor nine, Chelsea NYA baseball team came through victorious, bunching their four hits to account for four runs, getting two in both the first and third innings. Another fine bit of pitching was turned in by the ace of the mound, Gene Rossbach, as he struck out six and issued only one walk. Final score was Chelsea 4, Ann Arbor, 2. The victory keeps Chelsea in first place with a 4-0 record.

Bacon packages on retail meat counters have a new look since the USDA regulation on bacon packaging became effective. It requires that all bacon packages have a transparent area at least 1 1/2 inches wide revealing a minimum of 70 percent of the length of a representative slice. Marketing officials of the Michigan Department of Agriculture report.

By getting a clearer look at the bacon, you can better choose the kind you like. MDA Marketing officials say bacon differs primarily in its amount of lean, distribution of lean and thickness of slice. These factors may vary considerably within a given brand.

Palatability of bacon is affected by its distribution of lean. If you prefer crisp fried slices, select bacon with several strips of lean throughout the slice. If you like it chewy, choose bacon with the same amount of lean concentrated in fewer but larger sections. The thicker the slice of bacon, the chewier, unless cooked longer.

Very thinly sliced bacon and vacuum-packed bacon are often hard to separate when cold. Allowing the bacon to set a few minutes after removing from the refrigerator, or warming it slightly, helps.

Generally a one-pound package of thinly-sliced bacon contains about 20 to 22 slices. Thick-sliced bacon contains about 12 slices per package. Bacon sold in one-pound packages is most common. Two-pound packages and 12-ounce or half-pound packages are also available. A shopping hint: When comparing prices, check the weight of the package to determine the better value.

OLIVE HISTORY

In ancient times, the olive was cultivated for its oil. The ancients used the oil for medicine, for food, and for anointing their bodies.

Sensible Fellow

Gov. Milliken's choice for his lieutenant governor running-mate this year, Republican Rep. James Damman of Troy, brings kudos from many quarters.

"An outstanding public servant who will serve well as Michigan's lieutenant governor," says State GOP Chairman William McLaughlin.

"Well - blessed with common sense," adds Rep. Harry Gast, R-St. Joseph, who shares an apartment with Damman when both are at work in the House of Representatives.

Only one slam followed closely on the heels of Milliken's announcement about Damman.

Senate Taxation Chairman Harry DeMaso, R-Battle Creek, who is not infrequently at odds with the governor, says he considers the choice of a Detroit area lieutenant governor candidate a slur to southwest Michigan.

DeMaso says he figures it's about time a more rural candidate sat atop the Republican state ticket with Milliken.

"Unrealistic, unfair and unenforceable." That's what the Michigan State Police Troopers Association thinks of a proposed constitutional ban on private ownership of handguns.

Letters to the Editor

An Open Letter to Parents:
After the rain turned to sprinkles, then went south to spoil the evening in Manchester, the sun came out. The fields were damp, but not the spirits as four T-ball teams moved out to play.

The enthusiasm and excitement could almost be felt, and would be hard to find elsewhere.

It was with sadness then, that I heard a man yell to the fielders "Easy Out!" The batter was a seven- or eight-year-old boy. It is one thing to hear rival team members make this type of comment, it is quite another to hear an adult say it to a child.

These youngsters need your encouragement and support. Cheer your team and the opponents. If you can't cheer the opponents, then don't put them down.

Muriel Boyd.

State Capitol Building in Lansing Offers Visitor Glimpse of History

If yearly attendance is the yardstick, Michigan's State Capitol building doesn't belong among the state's top tourist attractions, according to Automobile Club of Michigan.

Yet perhaps few attractions are as well-known as the venerable structure at Lansing which has been at least seen by most of the state's residents.

As the hub of a freeway network, Lansing is within a few hours' drive of all but the northern part of the Lower and Upper Peninsulas, making it readily accessible to the bulk of the state's population out for a day's drive.

Besides the Capitol, there are other attractions in the Lansing area, including plant tours at the Oldsmobile Division of General Motors and several things for the visitor to see at Michigan State University in East Lansing.

The "grand old lady" of state government has a distinct and favorable character all her own, which can be discerned easily with a stroll through its broad, echoing hallways.

Massive, wooden doors greet the visitor who enters the Capitol and walks towards the rotunda. Towering pillars and pilasters rise into the endless ceiling in every direction.

Every metal stairway, every office recalls a bygone era.

Seven years under construction at a cost of $1.5 million, the Capitol made its first hit as a tourist attraction nearly six years before its dedication.

The occasion was the cornerstone laying Oct. 2, 1873, involving Masonic rites, parades and the usual paraphernalia of a carnival day. Newspaper accounts report an estimated 40,000 persons, most of them traveling by special trains, arrived in the city of 7,000 persons for the event.

Of late Classic Renaissance design, the white sandstone structure is four stories high with a cruciform ground plan. The architect was Elijah E. Myers, of Springfield, Ill., whose design was accepted among 20 submitted. The Capitol is 420 feet long, 273 feet deep and 287 feet high.

Examples of contrast between the old building and the modern appointments stand out, such as the intricate state seal chandeliers in the high-valued hallways and the indirect fluorescent lighting of the offices.

Battle flags recalling engagements of Michigan units as far back as the Civil War ring the first-floor rotunda. In the center is a display of the state's successive constitutions.

The present Capitol replaced a frame building erected nearby in 1847 when the Capitol was moved to Lansing from Detroit. The ground occupied by Michigan's first Capitol in Detroit is now a downtown park.

The Capitol's lofty dome once dominated the Lansing skyline but it was topped, years ago by a bank building. It still is easily seen from all directions.

The Capitol now stands in sharp contrast to the massive, modern white buildings of the state's new $35 million office complex directly to the west.

The legislature has chased out all other state offices—except for the governor and his staff—and taken over all Capitol space for its own offices and meeting rooms. Even the venerable Supreme Court room has been turned into a meeting room.

The Capitol—which someday may be replaced by a new structure—continues as a popular tourist attraction, especially for the spring outings for many schools throughout the state.

Tours are offered 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays, and 11 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays. Besides the Capitol, several

TREAT STAINS SOON

Your favorite soap or detergent could well be the best stain remover in your household. It's always on hand, inexpensive and safe to use.

Next time you find a problem stain on a washable fabric, try one of the following methods:

For blood or meat juices: soak soiled area in cold water about 30 minutes. If stain remains, work soap or detergent into the stain, rinse and launder as usual.

For chocolate, gravy or lipstick stains: work paste of soap or detergent into stain. Launder as usual. If grease remains, sponge with cleaning fluid.

To remove milk, egg or ice cream stains, soak fabric in cold water, rub paste of soap or detergent into stain. Launder as usual.

The longer stains are left on fabrics, the more difficult they are to remove. In some instances, spots will remain regardless of the procedure used.

July Milestone . . .

Here's a July milestone in America's history. "The Lights of New York"—the first all talking motion picture—was previewed at the Strand Theater in New York City in July of 1928. Starring Cullen Landis and Helene Costello and produced by Warner Brothers, the film was a follow-up to the studio's introduction of sound in the "Jazz Singer" a year earlier. It was instrumental in creating the huge public demand for sound movies that led to the demise of the silent film by 1930. In the Henry Ford Museum in Dearborn, you and your family can see motion picture equipment from this period.

other attractions in the Lansing area merit tourist attention.

The Michigan Historical Museum, at 505 N. Washington Ave., offers a changing display of Michigan artifacts. Hours are Mondays through Fridays 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Saturdays and Sundays noon to 4 p.m.

Conducted tours of the Oldsmobile plant are available Mondays through Fridays, starting at 12:45 p.m., with reservations required for groups larger than 10. There also are tours through the Fisher Body plant, Mondays through Fridays at 1 p.m.

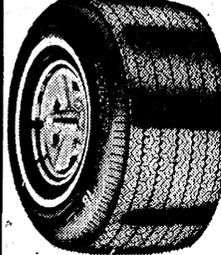

The Carl G. Fenner Arboretum, 2020 East Mt. Hope Ave., Lansing, has nature trails within the arboretum which also contains an exhibit of prairie animals and a science building.

Michigan State University at East Lansing also has several places of interest. The Abrams Planetarium give visitors a space traveler's view of the stars and planets. Beaumont Tower has a 47-bell carillon which is played at scheduled intervals with tours following the concerts. A museum contains exhibits on Michigan history.

Other interesting features are the experimental farms, the horticultural gardens and cattle barns and Beal-Garfield Botanic Gardens, in continuous use since their founding in 1873.

July Is Festival Month in Michigan

Warm weather, friendly folks, and plenty to see and do—this is Michigan in July. Communities large and small have the welcome mat out for visitors. And they are prepared to greet their guests with exciting, fun-filled activities, according to the Michigan Tourist Council.
 Early July features some festivals which began in June. Continuing during the first week of the month are the National Soaring and Hang Gliding Festival at Frankfort-Elberta and Vassar's Pioneer Days Festival, which run through July 6, while the Seaway Festival in Muskegon goes through July 8. The Old Time Summer Festival at Greenfield Village, Dearborn, continues through the month, complete with strolling minstrels, a Medicine Show and a re-enactment of the famous Lincoln-Douglas debates. Independence Day celebrations, highlighted by traditional fireworks displays, are scheduled in numerous communities throughout the state.
 Strawberry fanciers can feast on this luscious red fruit and join in the merriment during the National Strawberry Festival in Manistee, July 3-7, or the Chassell Strawberry Festival, July 5-6. Both events feature a strawberry auction, parade, dances and a variety of races.
 If you lean toward arts and crafts, July is your month. Many communities stage art fairs and arts and crafts festivals such as the Wyandotte Street Art Fair, July 25-27, Art on the Rocks in Marquette, July 27-28, a Senior Citizens Art Show in Jones, July 28, and the Dancing Hippopotamus Arts and Crafts Festival, July 5-13, near Huron Beach. This latter festival culminates the efforts of a group of retired persons in the Oqueoc area who utilize their free time and the winter months to pursue their favorite handiwork. Hand woven articles, braided rugs, needlework, water colors and oil paintings and the ancient art of quilting are among the crafts you'll find demonstrated and for sale. The show is held at Bearinger Township Hall, about five miles inland from Huron Beach on County Road 646.
 July also features the Blue Water Festival in Port Huron, 6-14, National Cherry Festival in Traverse City, 8-13, the Sebewaing Sugar Festival, 12-14, National Blueberry Festival in South Haven, 25-29, and every weekend a different ethnic group stages a festival on the Detroit riverfront.

 Michigan proudly boasts two old fashion riverboat shows complete with headline entertainment, chorus line, choir and endmen. The Chesaning Showboat will dock July 8-13 and the Lowell Showboat will be in port two week-ends with performances July 18-20 and July 25-27.
 Sports enthusiasts will find excitement everywhere in Michigan either as a participant or a spectator. The fun begins with the Algonac Pickeral Tournament, July 2-7, followed by the International Frisbee Tournament July 6-7 at Pequaming in the Upper Peninsula. Baldwin's Trout-A-Rama Celebration is set for July 25-28 while St. Helen will hold its Blue Gill Festival July 26-28. The rugged World Championship Au Sable River Canoe Marathon Race will be run from Grayling to Oscoda July 26-27.
 For spectators, Wyoming offers a Championship Rodeo, July 11-13, with nationally ranked cowboys from throughout the country performing in Fort Wyoming arena. And the Point O' Woods Country Club in Benton Harbor will host the Western Amateur Golf Tournament, the largest amateur golf tournament in the world, July 24-28.

Walt's Barbers Still Undefeated In Slow-Pitch Softball League

Independents upset the Eagles, 9-8, in last Monday's surprise game of the week, to remove the Eagles from the list of undefeated slow-pitch teams.

The deciding runs came in the top of the seventh, when the Independents came from behind to score a pair of runs to take the lead.

In other Monday games, Walt's Barber Shop continued undefeated, the only such slow-pitch squad, by shutting out the Methodist church, 9-0. Rulea Farms also trounced Village Motor Sales, 17-8, while IPSCO stayed one game behind Walt's by pounding Wolverine Bar, 19-10.

Tuesday another surprise was in store for the Eagles, as this time it was IPSCO who edged them out, 11-10, to shove the Eagles into third place.

Other Tuesday contests saw Wolverine Bar down Chrysler, 14-4; Walt's Barber Shop ravage McCalla Feeds, 12-1; and Mark IV Lounge defeat Fortune Industries, 6-4.

Thursday's games saw no surprises as McCalla Feeds defeated Mark IV Lounge, 8-4; Rulea Farms demolished the Methodist church, 11-3; Independents edged Fortune Industries, 5-2; and Village Motor Sales made it another defeat for witless Chrysler, 16-3.

OBITUARY CORRECTION
 In last week's issue of The Standard, the names of two survivors of Alton L. Parsons were omitted from the obituary. Also surviving are Mrs. Phillip (Karen) Miller of Clinton and Sharon, at home, children of the late M.R. Parsons.

KELPS
 Kelps, forms of seaweed, and the world's largest algae, once were a major source of iodine and potassium; now mineral deposits yield those chemicals.

Food Poisoning
Preventive Advice
In Fact Sheet

The memory of many a happy, sociable meal has been dimmed by the upset and distress of food poisoning.

A new fact sheet, developed by the U. S. Department of Agriculture and the Food and Drug Administration, tells how to protect yourself and your family from this illness. Single free copies of FOOD SAFETY are available from Consumer Information, Pub-lico, Colo. 81009.

There are four, simple onecelled bacteria that are responsible for most cases of food poisoning. These bacteria—Salmonella, Clostridium perfringens, Staphylococcus and Clostridium botulinum are everywhere in the environment, including in all the foods we eat. But, fortunately, with care, these bacteria can be kept from multiplying and causing illness.

Here is some USDA-FDA advice to help you make sure the food you serve is wholesome.

—Don't buy any food in broken, bent, bulged, leaky, or outdated cans or packages.

—Buy chilled and frozen meat, poultry and other foods last so they won't warm up in the cart while you shop.

—Refrigerate or freeze meat, poultry, and frozen foods as soon as possible after purchasing.

—Thaw frozen foods in the refrigerator, or if you must thaw foods fast, in a water-tight plastic bag submerged in cold water.
Never thaw these foods uncovered at room temperature.

—Wash knives, cutting boards, and your hands in hot soapy water after cutting up raw poultry or meat.

—Always wash your hands before preparing food. Use rubber gloves if you have cuts or sores on your hands.

AGRICULTURE IN ACTION
MICHIGAN FARM BUREAU

Where's the 7c Loaf of Bread?

Remember the threats earlier this year by the baking industry that bread would go to $1 a loaf if export controls were not imposed on wheat? No hamburger buns, no rolls for hot dogs at ball games, no birthday cakes, no pizzas," were their warnings.

Despite the scare stories issued by an industry unwilling to compete in the world market for its needed products, there were no export controls. There is still sufficient wheat for hot dog buns, birthday cakes and pizzas—and bread is not $1 a loaf. If it were, it wouldn't be because of wheat prices, which have dropped by nearly half since February.

Congressman Findley, in a recent letter to the American Bakers Association, summed it up well when he wrote:

"On Jan. 9, you forecast that without export control, wheat prices would skyrocket to $9, $10, or $12 per bushel by spring—and this would push bread to $1 a loaf. Spring is here and no controls have been imposed on exports. But instead of doubling, as you forecast, wheat is down more than 40 percent. The cash price f.o.b. Kansas City on May 7, 1974, was $3.46, a decline of 40.3 percent from the Jan. 8 price of $5.80 to which you alluded in your statement."

"Now that wheat is down, consumers are eagerly awaiting your forecast that bread prices will be declining sharply in the near future. USDA reports that the retail price of a one-pound loaf of white bread was about 32 cents in January. As wheat prices have fallen by more than two-fifths, I must draw a corollary to your reasoning and assume that a one-pound loaf will soon cost about 20 cents. Or, because you implied that a two-fold increase in wheat prices would precipitate a three-fold increase in bread prices, are we to expect that a 40 percent wheat decline will cause an 80 percent decline in bread prices?"

"You will surely make millions of consumers very happy with the dough-saving announcement of a seven-cent loaf of bread. Big news, not matter how thin you slice it."

"Knead I say more? 'Maybe I sound a bit crusty, but who wouldn't be when bread prices stay up despite a big drop in wheat prices?'"

EARLIEST IGLOOS

When deciding how much the family should budget for home-making, thought must be given to the purchasing of supplies, purchasing and maintenance of equipment and tools, adequate work and storage space, hired services, and emergency spending for repairs on materials, furniture and equipment. Not getting a good return for money invested could be caused by unwise selection or poor use and care of what you have.

Wholesome feelings toward homemaking includes the acceptance of housework as a part of family living and good co-operation from other members of the family.

In addition to a positive attitude, skill or know-how is a must. Understanding what to do and how to do it is essential to any job.

To conserve energy, correct posture, comfortable clothes and short rest periods at frequent intervals are helpful. Using time wisely is important. It calls for good planning, efficient methods and equipment, and sound, effective work habits. The reward: more time for other things.

"I REMEMBER" BY THE OLD TIMER

From Raymond Dodge, Chester, Vt.: I remember Vermont in the winter of the late 20's and 30's... standing around a wood-burning chunk stove. Facing it at first, rubbing hands over it to get warm, then turning to warm backsides before going upstairs to bed. (No heat up there, except what came through a round 12" hole cut in the floor.)

I also remember the "freestone," a soapstone brick heated and wrapped in a towel or flannel cloth and placed in the feather bed before retiring. Also the corn husk mattress, under the feather tick.

At that time, my uncle had many sheep and my aunt made sheep tallow candles. This is what we kids used to go upstairs to bed.

Boy, were those feather beds cold when you first crawled in! But, once they warmed up from body heat, they were warm as toast. Of course, we had two or three heavy handmade quilts and that helped a lot.

On especially cold nights, we took our clothes to bed with us. We were not too concerned with wellwaxed or pressed clothing in those days-on-the-farm.

We had plenty to do for recreation. We had skis made of barrel staves and jack-jumpers, and for up to three of us at a time, a double ripper sled. We did have some rides on these.

When I was 17, I had my first car—a Model A Ford coupe. In those days they didn't plan the roads—farm roads, that is. As I lived on a hill, many times I would have to leave my car on the flats and do a lot of shoveling to get out. Some sections of the road would be covered with wind-driven snow up to three or four feet—but it packed hard, and the old Ford would ride right over the drifts.

Senators Bursley, Griffin Both Watching Park Plans Closely

State Senator Gilbert E. Bursley has provided The Standard with copies of letters exchanged between himself and Senator Robert Griffin within the past two months, both of which should warm the hearts of opponents to Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority's plans for a Mill Creek metropark.

Senator Bursley expresses concern that the land is needed for agriculture and that the area cannot adequately provide the services needed for a park, particularly with removal of a portion of the current tax base.

Bursley also finds something lacking in the Federal Bureau of Outdoor Recreation's less than a speedy action on providing an environmental impact statement regarding the proposal.

Senator Griffin replies that the BOR's environmental impact statement is expected to be ready by the end of June and pledges to "follow this issue closely."

John D. Cherry, regional director of the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation office in Ann Arbor, announced last week a public information meeting, scheduled for Tuesday, July 23, at Beach Middle school, to provide the public with an opportunity to comment on the content of the preliminary draft environmental impact statement of the park. Copies of the statement are available for inspection at a number of county locations.

The letters between the two officials follow: Senator Robert P. Griffin, 363 Old Senate Office Building, Washington, D.C. 20510 Dear Bob:

I appreciate your taking an interest in the proposed Mill Creek Park. At the request of Virginia Denham, of Lima township, Washtenaw county, I am enclosing copies of some of the materials pertaining to the proposed park. I have an extensive file on the subject and you are welcome to any further materials you may need.

I have been less than satisfied with the reluctance of the State Department of Natural Resources to take a hard look at the social, agricultural, and environmental impacts of the proposed park. I also feel the site is not suitable for use by the majority of people in the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority service area, since the location is on the western boundary and would require an hour's drive for most potential users.

I fully endorse the acquisition of park sites. However, I feel this particular area is very much needed for agriculture and, further, there is no assurance that adjacent farmland would not be jeopardized nor that the community is equipped to provide the necessary services while being deprived of this portion of the present tax base.

The proposal was sent to the Federal Bureau of Outdoor Recreation a year ago. To the best of my knowledge, no action has been taken to date. It seems reasonable to assume the BOR is inclined to weigh the park value without giving adequate consideration to the other important factors in site selection. Your efforts on behalf of a fair and objective assessment will be greatly appreciated. Sincerely, Gilbert E. Bursley, State Senator

The Honorable Gilbert E. Bursley, The State Capitol, Lansing, Michigan 48902 Dear Gil:

Thanks for your recent letter and the enclosed material on the proposed Mill Creek Park.

COOKING CROSS CUT SHANKS
Beef cross cut shanks are made by cutting the fore shank perpendicular to the bone. The cross cuts, varying in thickness from 1 to 2 1/2 inches, contain considerable connective tissue as well as a round bone. Because they are a less tender cut, long and slow moist heat cookery is recommended. Cross cuts make a meaty soup. Brown 3 to 4 pounds of cross cuts in lard or drippings. Pour off drippings, add 2 quarts water and seasoning, cover and cook over low heat for 2 hours. Add vegetables such as potatoes, carrots, celery, rutabaga or turnips and simmer, covered, about 30 minutes or until the meat and vegetables are tender.

COOKED TONGUE
Cooked tongue is an "ace" in the refrigerator for meat platters or for combining with salads for a cold meal. It's easy to cook and chill a fresh or smoked beef tongue, which is convenient for future use. Just cover with water, cover the pot tightly, add a simmer until tender, 2 1/2 to 3 1/2 hours. Plunge tongue in cold water. Remove skin and chill. Slice as desired.

Free Produce Guide Available to Housewife

Fresh mushrooms are "in season" year-round, but you have to watch the calendar to buy fresh sweet cherries, strawberries, garden-grown tomatoes and the rest of Michigan's native fruits and vegetables. Michigan State University's consumer marketing specialists now offer a buyer's guide for fruits and vegetables commonly grown in Michigan.

"Post the availability chart and you'll know when Michigan crops are first coming to market, when they're in heaviest supply and when they're nearing the end of the season—all for better food money management," says Mrs. Helen Fairman, Washtenaw County Extension Home Economist.

Obtain a free single copy of "Michigan-Grown Fruits and Vegetables Availability Guide" at your county extension office or write: MSU Bulletin Office, P.O. Box 231, East Lansing, 48824.

MARGARINE
Margarine is one of the products for which the U.S. government has published a standard of identity, and this standard requires that margarine must contain at least 80 percent fat. Diet margarines contain only about half this amount of fat and must be labeled "imitation" margarines.

★ Getting Back

It is said that a journey of a thousand miles begins with the first step. But for most of us, that first step is the hardest to take. Perhaps you've been thinking about getting back to God. And you've thought about it and thought about it—but what is the result? The result is you're still thinking about it.

Now is the time and this is the place to take that first step back toward God. But you must take that first step yourself—no one can force you to. But after you have taken that first step back to God, you'll notice how easily the other steps come to you. You'll wonder why you didn't come back earlier and you'll remember you kept putting it off—you kept saying you'll worry about it tomorrow.

All you really need to do is make a commitment now—right this moment—not in another five minutes, or another hour or tomorrow—but now. Won't you take that first step now? You'll be glad you did. Remember, God is always ready to take you back, any moment day or night. Are you ready?

WATSON LAKE, BRITISH COLUMBIA was one of Don Turner's latest stops on his current trek through the north country. Above, Turner, friends Bill Eroy, Larry Schnig, and John McCannell lounge at the sign heralding "the famous Watson Lake signposts" where tourists annually post signs commemorating their home towns. Turner, himself mentioned the need to "re-paint the sign I put up some years ago at Watson Lake."

SMOKED TROUT is a gourmet delight in the Yukon. Don Turner says, and the crisp air there only sharpens the appetite. These three trout just filled Larry Schnig's smoke house, Turner reports. A NEW COAT OF PAINT was being added to the sign post in Dawson Creek, British Columbia, at the start of the Alaska Highway, which was begun in 1942 by the U. S. Army. Turner notes that "tourists wear paint off the base of the milepost each summer, standing there while having their pictures taken before heading up the highway."

Completes Course in Small Arms Repair

Aberdeen Proving Ground, Md.—Marine Corps Sergeant James A. Fish, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis J. Fish, 3451 Waltrous Rd., Chelsea, Mich., completed an eight-week small arms repair course at the U.S. Army Ordnance Center and School, Aberdeen Proving Ground, Md. During his training, he learned to repair pistols, rifles, machine guns, mortars, grenade launchers and other weapons. His wife, Shelley, lives at 21404 N. 23rd Ave., Phoenix, Ariz.

USE THE COALS

Use the coals, not fire, to cook meat on an outdoor grill. Broiling at low to moderate temperature makes for juicier and more tender meat. It also means more meat to serve and enjoy since high temperatures increase cooking losses.

NORTHLAND REPORT:

Turner Finds Alaskan River Too Tough for Human Travel

Editor's Note: Don Turner's second letter back to the home folks is dated June 15, Watson Lake, Yukon.

I am sorry I have neglected in reporting my activities. Since my last report I have been so busy visiting old friends here in the Yukon and northern British Columbia that I couldn't find time to send a note to the Chelsea Standard.

Since my report at Winnipeg, Manitoba, I took the long route and visited Banff and Jasper National Park in the Canadian Rockies. The snow lay heavy on the mountains of the area, and it sure was beautiful, although a heavy snowfall between Banff and Jasper stopped me for a while, as the road was quite slippery for a few miles in the higher elevations.

Quite a number of tourists were visiting the parks—it was the week-end of May 25, when Canada celebrates Queen Victoria's birthday, which is the same week-end we celebrate Memorial Day—which accounted for the greater number of visitors in the park.

I left the national parks and drove to Edmonton, Alberta, where I met with two of the city's Kiwanis Clubs and renewed old acquaintances at the Oil Capital Club and South Edmonton Kiwanis Club. Edmonton is known as the oil capital of Canada, and has a population of more than 450,000. I see new growth every time I visit the area. I am glad to see Canada has no oil and gas shortages, although prices have gone up considerably—89.9 cents per gallon for premium, but that's an imperial gallon (a five-quart gallon) which makes traveling quite expensive. It's $26 for an oil and grease job, so wages are high here the same as everywhere.

From Edmonton, I drove to Dawson Creek, British Columbia. Dawson Creek is considered the start of the Alaska Highway. I was here in 1942 when the American army started building the highway north and in the center of the city stands the mile post monument "0".

Dawson Creek was a settlement of only 300 when the Alaska Highway was started, but today has a population of 17,000 and is in the center of Canada's large gas field, although the Peace River valley is noted for farming and ranching. About 93 miles north of the Dawson Creek area, the highway is paved. Another 10 miles was paved last year—maybe some day this famous road will be paved all the way to the Alaskan border.

I found the highway in the best condition I have ever seen in my five trips over it—very smooth and not too dusty. I was in a hurry to reach Watson Lake, as I have a number of friends here. Watson Lake is at mile 635, but the lake itself I have never fished. It's the Too Bally Lake, some 90 miles southeast of Watson Lake, that has had such a grip on me over the years.

Too Bally can be reached only by float plane or on foot, as the old trail, cut by the army in 1942, has all grown in and the old log bridges have been gone for some time, leaving it a wilderness paradise. My friend, Larry Schnig, has built a new lodge on the lake, making it a real comfort, and he has boats and motors to travel the nine miles up the lake to different fishing holes. Too Bally Lake is known for its large lake trout, northern pike, white fish, and arctic Grayling. Trumpeter swans nest on the lake, moose may be seen nearly every day feeding in the lake, and the cry of the loons in the evening fills one's soul with peace. If you are a lover of the wilds and want solitude,

I highly recommend Too Bally Lake.

How was the fishing? I think the pictures will tell the story. A 16-pound trout caught the evening before we came out was the largest, but we caught and released several eight to 10 pounders and caught none small than four pounds.

We were at Too Bally Lake 10 days, but fishing was not all that we did. You see, there are two Too Bally Lakes, the upper Lake and the lower Lake; both lakes are nine miles long, but no one has fished the upper lake, so this was a challenge to see if we could reach the upper lake by the seven miles of river between the two lakes.

The river is the Smith River, and full of log jams. On our way into the lower lake, we have the bush pilot land, and we left an aluminum boat on the upper lake, thinking we would hike five miles over an old trappers' trail to the boat and try fishing, but we also had the pilot fly low over the river between the two lakes. It was then we discovered most of the log jams were near the lower lake.

Larry came up with the idea if I would run the motor, he would be able to cut a channel through the log jams with a small chain saw he had at camp. Well, we gave it a try, and what a wild, hair-raising experience this proved to be. Things went quite well for the first mile, and we had to cut through several large spruce logs and scot around one log jam that was several hundred feet long, cutting a channel just big enough to let the boat through. The section of log Larry cut went under the boat, as the current was really swift, and in a couple of places the log nearly tore the motor off the boat. We stayed with it until, after about a mile, the current in the river was so strong the four-horsepower motor just couldn't buck the current.

At full throttle we were swept backward and into the log jams. One had the impression of being flushed down the drain, and I think we both said a prayer when we got the boat back down through the last log jam.

We didn't realize how hard it was to try to steer a boat going downstream at maybe 15 to 20 knots, and try to remember all the channels we had come through.

We hit with such force at times we were nearly knocked out of the boat, and had we been we would no doubt have been swept under the log jams and that would have been the end.

Larry wanted to try it the next day with the larger motor, but I talked him out of it. The going up would be okay, but I had had enough of the going down. So our expedition to upper Too Bally was a failure, but Larry says someday he will conquer the river and build a camp on the upper lake. I wish him luck.

I want to re-paint the sign I put up some years ago here at Watson Lake and then I will be running along to more adventure. Your roving reporter, Don Turner.

DON TURNER'S 16-lb. trout is displayed by friend Larry Schnig at Too Bally Lake, the source of the big catch, Too Bally Lake, which can be reached only by float plane or on foot, is the lake that "has had such a grip on me over the years," says Turner.

THE SOLITUDE OF THE NORTH is what Don Turner has found at Too Bally Lake, an area which boasts trumpeter swans, moose, loons, lake trout, northern pike, white fish, and many more delights. Here Turner displays another of the catches hauled in at the lake.

Fred Petsch Wins Dexter Horseshoe Pitching Championship

Chelsea resident Fred Petsch took the time to participate in Dexter's Sesquicentennial celebration last week, and came away with a trophy for his efforts.

Petsch, of 135 W. Summit St., earned the first-place trophy from among nine finalists in the horseshoe pitching contest Saturday night. Elimination in the competition had been conducted during the week-long Sesquicentennial activities to narrow the field from the original total of 100 competitors.
