

Seven Girls Seeking Title of Chelsea Fair Queen

For a few days during Fair Week, one girl in Chelsea gets to perform some fairly hot-shot tasks, gets her picture taken a lot, and is introduced to fairgoers jammed into the grandstands as "Chelsea Fair Queen."

After that, things return to relative normalcy — last year's Fair Queen, Jodi Daniels, even managed to play a colossal pregnant Agnes Gooch in "Mame" without major tarnish to her queenly reputation.

Now that it's August and fair time again, Jodi Daniels, like other fair queens before her, will perform her last official duty Tuesday with the ceremonial snipping of the opening ribbon to the fair—and then will hand over her title for someone else to hold onto for a year.

This year's fair queen contest started too slowly for comfort for Jaycee Auxiliary co-chairwomen Judy Eubanks and Ann Steinway, and was nearly in danger of cancellation several weeks ago when it seemed only three entrants would vie for the title.

Seven contestants, however, are now in the running for Fair Queen, one of whom will be crowned Tuesday evening in a ceremony following the ribbon cutting.

Unlike previous years, queen candidates will not display an individual talent, but will rather perform as a group for the judges—and the crowd.

Joan Yocum, Eastern Michigan University dance major and Chelsea High school graduate, has choreographed a "Charleston-type" routine for the contestants to perform, done to the rollicking strains of "Ain't She Sweet?"

"The routine will expose the girls to the judges," Joan explains. "So they can see their poise and co-ordination. And they don't have to be nervous—they can feel safer—because they are all up there together."

"Safety in numbers, you know," she adds.

Nervous or not, the seven nominees will be up there on stage—Charlestoning their ways into the judges hearts—for eight minutes.

Nominated are Beth Clark, representing Chelsea High school's junior class; Suzanne Morrison, Frisinger Realty; Susan Palmer, Kiwanis Club; Debbie Rossbach, senior class; Wendy Smith, sophomore class; Shelley Warren, freshman class; and Kim Young, Mac Tools.

Fairs won't be all that new to Beth Clark, 16, who has won blue ribbons in them for three years for her sewing endeavors as a 4-H member. Naturally, sewing rates highly on her list of favorite things to do; she also engages in few more vigorous activities, including cheerleading for Chelsea High school, karate, and swimming.

Suzanne Morrison, 16, rates highly at Frisinger Realty, her sponsoring organization, where she works as a receptionist. This summer she also worked for Recreation Council's Earn, Learn and Play program.

Her activities include a whirl of varied interests: sewing music, reading, sports, and baton twirling, for which she has won awards at camp. At Chelsea High school, she serves as secretary of the Student Council, and is a majorette and cheerleader. She has also been active in Senior Methodist Youth Fellowship, and was chairman of her class' fair float committee.

Future plans for Suzanne waver, between becoming a legal secretary, interior decorator, or a fashion designer.

Kiwanis Club's nominee for Fair Queen is Susan Palmer, 15, who hopes to become a psychologist or school counselor with teenagers, after attending the University of Miami or University of Southern California.

An employee of Palmer Ford, Susan enjoys water sports, needlepoint, hiking and camping. She considers her special talents displayed in her weekly Sunday work with youngsters three to six years old.

Debbie Rossbach, 17, senior class nominee, considers her favorite pastimes music and sports, particularly tennis, although she also enjoys painting and drawing.

Debbie, secretary of Chelsea chapter of the National Honor Society, plans to attend Michigan State University next year but has made no definite plans for her field of study.

She is employed as a once-a-week housekeeper and babysits often.

joys swimming, water skiing, and snowmobiling.

Wendy, who works as a babysitter, hopes eventually to become a physical therapist, because she "likes to help people."

Shelley Warren, freshman class nominee, is 13, and has spent a musical summer this year as a participant in the Young Actors and Actresses Academy and by earning a part as one of the "78 Trombone" dancers in "The Music Man."

Other hobbies include swimming, canoeing, camping, tennis, and outdoor activities in general.

Shelley is also active in church activities, and is a member of her Youth Choir, in which she sings for worship services.

Mac Tools' nominee for queen, Kim Young, 16, has 11 years of study in ballet and jazz to back up her claim that dance is her hobby. She hopes eventually to teach ballet.

Rating highly on her personal list of favorites are all school sports and cheerleading. She is a member of the Ski Club, French Club, year book staff, and wrestlettes.

In an age when queen contests have often become passe, Ann Steinway, a Jaycee Auxiliary member and co-chairwoman of the event, describes the benefits to participants: The young ladies chosen to represent their classes or organizations gain new friendships and interests in others; they develop an inner poise and confidence by working together to establish the program.

"These young ladies gain much more than the community would ever suspect," she concludes.

Kiddies Parade Opens Fair Tuesday Night

again when the 1974 Chelsea Community Fair moves toward its official opening Tuesday night in the annual Kiwanis Clubs sponsored children's parade down Main St. to the fairgrounds.

Stepping proudly as participants in this year's parade will be members of the Chelsea Police Department and Chelsea Fire Department; those musical prodigies, Beach Middle school's 7th and 8th grade bands; reigning Fair Queen Jodi Daniels; and the 1974 fair queen candidates, one of whom only moments after the finale of this parade will be crowned 1974 Fair Queen.

Judging of the children's entries will begin at 6 p.m. in the Municipal Parking Lot. Youngsters' entries will be judged in categories of ages 3 through 5; 6 through 8; 9 through 12; and a miscellaneous group. First, second, and third prizes will be awarded in each group.

Kiwanis Club chairman of the event Paul Schaible notes that horses, pets, and two-wheel motor vehicles will not be allowed in the parade, and that all powered vehicles in the parade must be operated by an adult.

Kiwanis members are also reminded that they should be on

Jiffy Mixes Seeking State Title

Rampaging Jiffy Mixes pushed a step closer to a state fast-pitch softball title last Wednesday by downing Dragonetti's Lounge of Jackson, 3-1, in regional competition at Chelsea High school's field. Tom Voelker earned the win for Jiffy, going all the way, although he ran into trouble in the opening two innings. Dragonetti's only run came in the first.

Jiffy tied the tally at 1-1 in the third inning, when Bill Harvey doubled to drive home a run. The local team took the lead for good in the fifth, when Duke Weiss drove in Matt Murphy, then later scored himself to make it 3-1.

With no further play until the tournament begins Aug. 30, the local fast-pitch champs have more than adequate opportunity to rest up before encountering other tournament teams.

State tournament will be an eight-team, double elimination tournament, scheduled for Friday, Aug. 30, to Monday, Sept. 2, in Cadillac.

Five Big Days Have Activities For Everyone

From the crowning of the queen to The Chelsea Players' performance, from livestock judging to awarding free bikes, and viewing a parade of floats, the 1974 Chelsea Community Fair promises to be a day-in and day-out affair for anybody who expects to see "the whole thing."

Tuesday and every day through Saturday, all exhibits will be open to the public from 12 noon to 10 p.m., except during judging. Other daily events will include Chelsea Players Theatre Workshop members performing from their truck "stage" nightly at 7:30 and 9 p.m.; an Army Rock band from Fort Hood, Tex., that will play from the Fair Service Center porch from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. and from 7 to 9 p.m.; and Mac Packard pro- afternoon from town to the fairgrounds.

Through it all WPAG will broadcast live from the fairgrounds, while merchants will exhibit their wares and the restaurant in the Fair Service Center will provide nourishment for hungry fairgoers.

At the fair restaurant this year, meals or short orders will be available daily between the hours of 7 a.m. and 11 p.m., with cooking in the able hands of Margaret Hatt, and Ethel, Richard, and Bonnie Haist.

For the early crowd, breakfast of sweet rolls, donuts, toast, coffee, milk, and juice will be served from 7 a.m. to 10:30 a.m. Tuesday through Friday. A special Saturday breakfast of pancakes, french toast, and sausage will be available on the final day of the fair. Short orders, available until 11 p.m. daily, will include hot dogs, hamburgers, cheeseburgers, french fries, potato salad, baked beans, cole slaw, barbecue beef and pork sandwiches, cottage cheese, homemade pies, ice cream, coffee, ice tea, milk, and orange and lemonade.

For the big appetites, entire meals will be available at the restaurant daily from 11:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. Hot beef and pork sandwiches will be served every day, while daily specials will include roast beef and pork, macaroni and cheese, sauerkraut and knifflies, fried fish, southern fried chicken and baked ham.

Fruit pies and vegetables, donated by community people, also remain on the "still needed" list from the kitchen. Cashiers and dining room assistants also are still in demand, particularly for Saturday when volunteers only will serve.

Tracing the scheduled events for the five-day fair begins with Children's Day, Tuesday, when rides and concessions, provided by Ingalls Amusement Co., will open in the afternoon as a prelude to the official opening of the fair that night at the ribbon cutting ceremony.

All children's rides will charge reduced fees Tuesday from 3 to 5 p.m., and again Wednesday through Saturday from 1 to 4 p.m. Children's Day Tuesday will appropriately be highlighted by the

Girl Scout Troop Testing New Camp Idea

A newly-designed "troop camp with a core staff" is being investigated this week by 15 members of Junior Girl Scout Troop 82 of Chelsea.

The girls and their leaders, Mrs. Sandra Schmunk of Chelsea and Mrs. David Schneider of Tecumseh, left Monday for Camp Linden, the local camp owned by Huron Valley Girl Scout Council and used frequently by area scouts.

This encampment differs from general Girl Scout camping activities, according to Mrs. Schmunk, in that it is much less structured in its activities. Scouts spent the entire month of July working on camping activities to include in their six days at camp, discussing problems and responsibilities while at camp, and reviewing badge requirements that might be completed while at camp.

Although basics like food and swimming instruction will be available for the girls, Mrs. Schmunk says, they will generally be working on programs that they themselves have originated.

JCs Conducting Red Ball Fire Safety Drive

Chelsea Jaycees will be conducting another phase of Operation Red Ball, which began last year, in co-operation with Chelsea Fire Department, at next week's Chelsea Community Fair.

Operation Red Ball is a procedure by which round red ball stickers are placed on doors of participating homes, and in windows of children, invalids or anyone who might need help in a fire.

The fire department retains a list of participating families and thus, when going to a fire, is aware before arrival that they should look for the red ball stickers.

Jaycees and Fire Department members will man a booth at the fair in the Merchants Building, where interested families may sign up for the program and receive their stickers.

Jaycees will also be assisting the National Burn Institute in its drive for funds to equip burn centers by showing a film at the fair designed to inform local people of the need for such centers.

Scouts in Charge of Parking

Chelsea Boy Scouts will once again offer the convenient Good Faith tokens to this year's fair for those who wish to lunch at the Fair Kitchen without paying the admission price.

Scouts at the main gate on the east side of the fairgrounds will be selling the Good Faith tokens, small tags that allow entry to the restaurant between 11 a.m. and 1 p.m., Tuesday through Friday. Tokens cost 75 cents, but the sum will be refunded if the token is redeemed immediately after lunch as the patron leaves.

Scout leaders point out that the tokens will only be sold for lunches Tuesday through Friday—none will be sold Saturday, and no tokens will be sold for any dinners. (Continued on page five)

QUOTE

"There's bound to be tragedy in the life of the man who won't recognize his limitations."

—William Feather.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR: The heat of summer ain't a good time to hold group studies on the general state of the human race, Mister Editor, and the fellers proved this agin Saturday night at the country store. The feller that runs the store air conditions his place with one of them overhead fans he's allus sticking his broom handle in when he's dusting the shelves, so the condition of his conference room helps heated discussion, and it sells more soda pop to boot.

Ed Doolittle lit in about a notice of a warehouse sale that had come in the mail. He allowed it said now was a good time to start Christmas shopping and pick up them little items you allus are scrounging around for at the last minute. Ed said his old lady allowed she would like to go except that her "intuition" told her everthing would be picked over. The way folks has got the calendar messed up these days, declared Ed, we might as well depend on wimmen's intuition as anything else. Ed said intuition is to wimmen what hindsight, foresight and insight is to men, and that it was invented by wimmen when they figured out they couldn't git the truth out of their menfolk by asking questions.

Anyhow, Mister Editor, Ed said we might as well do our Christmas shopping in August, cause we're still paying last year's bills, and getting ready to borrow on wages we'll make three years from now to go in debt for next year's car that comes out in September. Half the folks in this country probable ain't even got a calendar in the house, was Ed's words.

It was Clem Webster that reported where he saw this magazine piece that said they is 25 million fishermen in this country and the next day he read a report on a speech by some feller running fer office that claimed they is 25 million chronic liars in this country. Clem was of the mind that the two figgers come out to perfect to be an accident, and all the folks in office, running fer office and thinking about running fer office would add another million to the liars column. Clem said it's powerful hard to git the truth out of anybody that's been closet to a fishing pole or a bill to spend public money.

General speaking, the fellers was agreed with Clem on his report where this column writer said the only policy working in politics right now is never say anything to the voters that makes sense. Clem said the President and his tapes has shed all kind of new light on this policy. Nixon can stand up in front of 30 foreign ministers and talk for a solid hour about the world energy crisis, Clem allowed, and never miss a lick. But he can sit in his White House office and talk for 200 hours and all we git on the tapes is mumbles and nods of the head, Clem said.

Personal, I try to separate the facts and figgers. You see a woman in a girdle, that's a figger. You have to see her without the girdle to git the facts.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

MICHIGAN MIRROR

Life or Death
Consider this: In 1971, reported deaths in Michigan from all causes totaled 76,321. Applying the nationally estimated salvage rate of 3 percent, it's figured that 2,290 of those deaths could have been averted with adequate emergency care.

Consider this: Reported accidental deaths in Michigan that same year totaled 4,428, and the cost of those deaths—including wage loss, medical expenses, administrative claim settlements, property damage and loss, and other related costs—comes to some $1.2 billion annually.

Applying the nationally estimated salvage rate of 15 percent for accidental deaths, it's figured that 664 of those who died accidentally in Michigan in 1971 could have been saved with better rescue and resuscitation techniques.

The statistics dramatize the need for a state-wide emergency medical service system in Michigan.

Such is the report contained in a "public policy statement" on emergency medical services in Michigan, prepared by the Office of Health and Medical Affairs in conjunction with the Michigan Emergency Health Service Council and the Department of Public Health.

The statement, which includes several recommendations for improvements in what Michigan offers those needing emergency health care, notes that there is already an emphasis on providing emergency vehicles.

"However," the policy statement says, "improving ambulance design and providing better equipment is not enough to significantly decrease the death and injury rate."

"What is needed is a state-wide emergency medical service system," it concludes.

"Such a system, staffed by emergency medical technicians with the appropriate training and with communication to an emergency department physician, has the potential to save a minimum of 3,000 Michigan lives; improve service to 475,000 time-critical cases and improve emergency patient care to three times as many patients requiring service."

Under the policy statement proposal, the Public Health Department would have sole responsibility for development and operation of such a system.

In addition, the statement recommends:

- Setting up a statewide emergency medical service communication system as a sort of "glue" to hold the service system together. A communication network would, among other things, allow ambulance workers to seek advice from physicians, and make it easy for them to alert hospital personnel of what to expect in accident or disaster situations.
- Adoption of a standard basic training course for all emergency medical service and ambulance personnel. "Adequately trained personnel can mean the difference between a patient's life or death," the statement says, adding that "current legislative requirements for ambulance and emergency medical personnel are substantially lower than those required of beauticians and barbers."

Gov. William Milliken endorsed the proposal for an emergency medical service system earlier this month, saying the state has "made great progress in the past two years in both the planning and delivery of emergency medical services."

The recommendations, which Milliken called "a highlight of that effort," were endorsed as state health policy.

Another Step for Womankind
Any woman who's ever been denied credit because she's a woman can thank the Michigan legislature for doing something about the situation.

A new law prohibits discrimination based on, among other things, sex and marital status, in extending credit, granting a loan or rating a person's credit worthiness.

The legislation, which carries provisions for a fine of up to $1,000 for those who violate it "extends to women full rights in

County Atlas Reproduction Now Available

A new hard bound reproduction of the 100-year-old Washtenaw County Illustrated Atlas by Everts & Stewart, plus the 1915 Atlas, is a project of the Ypsilanti Historical Society. It is a project of interest to the entire Washtenaw county with the idea of preserving these fast disappearing books rather than any great profit.

Now and then a person will say: "I have the 1874 Atlas, but some of the pages are missing and several pictures have been cut out." The yellowed pages of the old existing books are fragile and most bindings broken.

The new book includes every page from the old printings; the engravings of the handsome farms, business places, pictures of the early settlers as well as those who came later. An interesting book to own or as a gift to relatives or friends.

Added to this handsome 11" x 14" 268-page volume, are the fascinating birdseye views of Ann Arbor, Chelsea, Manchester, Saline and Ypsilanti.

The books sell for $17.50 and check with order should be sent before Aug. 30 to the Ypsilanti Historical Society, 220 N. Huron St., Ypsilanti, 48197. After publication date, reruns will be $20.

FFA Officer Attends State Conference

Dave Frame represented the Chelsea FFA Chapter at the Chapter President's Conference on the Michigan State University Campus Aug. 19-20.

More than 100 local, regional, and state FFA officers participated in the conference, designed to prepare chapter officers for their leadership roles during the coming year.

The conference, sponsored by the Michigan Association of FFA, a 9,200 member organization of vocational education students preparing for agricultural careers, focused on providing opportunities for involving all local chapter members in chapter, state and national activities.

Dave, the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Frame, will serve as president of the local FFA chapter during the 1974-75 school year.

Horse Division Has Precision Drill Team

Washtenaw Star Riders, a precision drill team, will be a special feature of this year's Chelsea Community Fair Horse Division, which will naturally also include the basics like horse shows and various demonstrations.

Washtenaw Star Riders, a new group under the sponsorship of the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Mounted Division, perform intricate patterns on horseback. Participants are boys and girls ranging in age from nine years to late teens.

The group, organized this spring, is an outgrowth of last year's Chelsea Fair, where some of the exhibitors in the horse barn prepared a precision performance for the Saturday Horse Show. Members of the Sheriff's Mounted Division were in the audience that day and later offered to sponsor the group as a continuing organization.

Members of Washtenaw Star Riders are Mary Kay Haar, Dawn Kilpatrick, Denise Kilpatrick, Debbie Green, Karen Neimi, Angie Snyder, Linda Carlson, Patty Carlson, Bob Fisher, Paulene Kiebler, Julie Botsford, Sharon Kropf, Mike Kropf, Debbie Harrison, Jenny Bott, Beverly Bott, Dee Tomshany, Susan Ford, Steve Botsford, and Chris Ford.

In addition to this hot new act on the horse horizon, local horse fanciers should be satiated by the line-up scheduled for Fair Week: on Wednesday, Aug. 28, at 1 p.m., horses and ponies will be exhibited for judging and state premium money, Grand and Reserve Champion Horse and Pony Trophies, and the Everett Van Riper Sportsmanship Trophy. Saturday will feature an all-day public entry horse show, beginning at 9 a.m., which will include, in addition to various halter and horsemanship events, contests such as barrel racing, speed and action, pole bending, and flag racing; Wednesday morning, English jumping demonstrations will be on tap. Thursday morning, a dressage class is scheduled, with games and contests later in the afternoon; and Friday is the day for miscellaneous demonstrations.

Band Booster Calendar Ready for Distribution

First prize winner in the picture contest for Chelsea Band Boosters' calendar is Kathy Schmitke, who earned $25 for her efforts.

Robert Weir received $10 for his second place entry and David Cooley received third prize of $5 for his picture.

Calendars are now available at the home of Phil Hume, 12 Hickory Dr. Sellers are asked to pick them up soon.

Even an intelligent man sometimes makes a fool of himself about some things.

Rabbitt. Not present for photo was Mike Fouty, winner in the 15 and older division, who is attending a two-week golf school at Plymouth, Ind. Other winners in the various categories were, 11- and 12-year-olds, Bill Spaulding, with Charlie Bridges as runner-up; 13- and 14-year-olds, Jeff Policht, with Bruce Rabbitt as runner-up; and 15 and older, Mike Fouty, with Dan Shirilla as runner-up.

Horse Barn Prepared for Fair Opening

A turnout substantially larger than ever before took part last Thursday in the annual barn-raking prelude to the Chelsea Community Fair, sponsored by the Horse Division of the Fair.

Some 35 exhibitors and their parents did their share of raking, cleaning, repairing, and general improvement of the horse barn area at the fairgrounds. Schneider's Grocery provided pop and potato chips for the parched and hungry crew following their labors.

Among those present were: Robin Knepper, Ray Geer, Julie Botsford, Chris Ford, Debbie Harrison, Susan Schultz, Patty Carlson, Brenda Halley, Craig Kalishak, Mark Foster, Sinjoo Kim, Tanja Shields, Ann O'Hagan, Cindy Wolter, Bobby Wolter, Bobby Fatur, Denise Kilpatrick, Jim Botsford, Bill Tite, Rita Drouare, Laura Geer, Nancy Ford, David Harrison, Linda Carlson, Tina Carlson, Dawn Kilpatrick, Bryan Kalishak, Bill Bennett, Bobby Poisson, Alison Hovater, Susan Ford, Emily Bonus, Steve Botsford, Ruth Shields, Mary Kay Harr, and Julie Tite.

Fairs Always Adapt to Changing Times

The fair industry has always broadened the traditional happy atmosphere provided by the flavor, color, the excitement and the uninhibited fun that is generated by a fair. Especially a "Michigan Fair with a Flair!" Life's hardest task: living each day by the admonition of the Golden Rule.

Early Michigan Fairs Were Strictly Local

The early fairs held in Michigan more than 100 years ago, were basically cut from the same mold. True, as it is today, they all worked hard to improve agriculture and its related fields; but their range of interest was extremely localized to the immediate community. Today's advanced technology in both agriculture and industry has changed all that, with a modern Michigan fair offering opportunities to participate in the home arts, dairy animals, horticulture, hobbies, or the fine arts, as well as providing recreational and entertainment activities that are keyed to the interests of everyone.

The prescription for most of the ills that beset the world is just plain, everyday honesty.

Fainting Spell, Fall Results in Call for Ambulance Service

Chelsea Police officer Robert Browning responded to a call Saturday morning from Mrs. Florence O'Hara, who said that her son had passed out on the kitchen floor and was now bleeding from his face. Officer Browning proceeded to the home, where he awaited the arrival of an ambulance from Chelsea Community Hospital's emergency center with Mrs. O'Hara and her son. A later report revealed that the man had apparently fainted and struck his head in the fall, which caused the bleeding.

Three Bicycles Stolen Last Sunday Night

Three bicycles were stolen from two separate neighborhoods sometime during the night of Sunday, Aug. 11, Chelsea police reports say. One of the bikes was later recovered. Still missing from the Marzec residence at 1137 Freer Rd., is a boy's Batavus 10-speed bicycle, white in color, with serial number 25311219. The 26-in. bike, which sports a chrome luggage rack and no fenders, has Chelsea license number 0237 and Lansing license UNK. It is valued at $135. This bike and a girl's five-speed which was recovered Friday east of the Marzec residence, were on the porch at the time of the theft, police reports say. The bikes apparently disappeared during the night, although the theft was not reported until later in the day, due to some confusion among members of the family as to their whereabouts. Another boy's 10-speed was also stolen during the night of Aug. 11 from 1215 Meadow Lane. The bike, a Regina Sport, ruby red in color, possesses serial number 40306. It does not have a Chelsea license. The bike, which belongs to William Bennett, 14, was parked at the home of a neighbor at the time of the theft. Bennett said that he followed the tracks of the bike as far as Old Manchester Rd., but was unable to trace them further. The bike is almost a year old and has some chipped areas where it has been painted over. It is valued at $130. Police have no suspects in either of the two open cases.

School Board Briefs

Present at the Chelsea Board of Education meeting Monday, Aug. 19, were President Haselschwardt, Trustees Stirling, Tobin, Hodgson, Daniels, Irwin, and Schafer, Superintendent Cameron, Business Manager Mills, and Principals Benedict and Wojcicki. The meeting was called to order at 8 p.m. by President Haselschwardt. Minutes of the Aug. 5 meeting were accepted as presented. Special board meetings were set for Aug. 29, Sept. 5, and Sept. 19 at 8 p.m. in the board room of Chelsea High school.

The board accepted the bid of McDonald Dairy Co. for 8.35 cents for one half pint of white milk, and 8.85 cents for one half-pint of chocolate milk, subject to the fluctuation of the price of Class 1 milk.

Contracts were signed for Eric Smith and Mrs. Marie Adams for 1974-75.

The bid of Chelsea State Bank for six percent interest to be paid on notes for operating funds until taxes are collected was accepted by the board.

The State guidelines for free and reduced price lunches were accepted. The board set the price of hot lunches for 1974-75 at 45 cents.

The board certified the 1974 tax mills; 1956 debt retirement fund, .48 mills; 1974 debt retirement fund, 3.60 mills; total to be levied, 28.80 mills.

Robert Schafer and Donald Irwin were appointed delegates to the Michigan Association of School Board convention, with Martin Tobins and James Stirling as alternates.

The board adopted salary and benefit schedules for all non-certified personnel.

A proposal to redesign the east addition to South Elementary school was defeated.

The board accepted the land sales agreement of Aug. 9, between Lionel and Mary Vickers and the Chelsea School District for a 2-plus acre plot on Freer Rd.

Meeting adjourned at 12:30 a.m.

Turner Forced to Ferry Boat When Highway Is Washed Out

Editor's Note: Don Turner's latest report from the "North Country" is dated July 25, 1974.

Dear Readers: I have been moving along since my last report that included Dawson City.

I have been plagued with rain since my last report, and have worked in that rain and caught a bad cold. Tonight it's more of the same rain. But I hope I have made some photographic material that is of interest to you readers. Perhaps the news media covered the fact that the Alaska Highway was washed out at Mile 418 between Fort Nelson and Munché Lake and hundreds of tourists were stranded. The Stewart Highway that runs through the Cassiar Mountains of northern British Columbia was also washed out. The Stewart Highway is new, and I had plans to travel over it on my way back home.

So I altered my plans and came down through southeast Alaska by the Marine Highway or the ferry system that runs from Prince Rupert, B.C. to Skagway, Alaska, a distance of nearly 500 miles.

Of course, the Alaska Highway being closed for 10 days put a tremendous pressure on the ferry system, and what a hassle it became, trying to get aboard without a reservation, but it was quite an experience. The ferry system personnel did a tremendous job in coping with the over-crowding.

I had been wanting to go back through southeast Alaska for some time, as I like to study the history of Alaska, and it's here at Sitka that the ceremonies took place during the purchase of Alaska from Russia in 1867. The pictures accompanying this article have to do with Sitka before the purchase—in part that is.

Sitka was the capital of Alaska while under Russian rule, and was the capital under the Americans until 1906, when the capital was moved to Juneau. But Sitka still holds the old Russian flavor more than any place I know in Alaska, except maybe the Pribilof Islands on the Bering Sea. It was here at Sitka in 1867 that the ceremonies took place, when the Russian flag was lowered and the American flag unfurled for the first time over what was then known as "Russian America."

Sitka has many interesting places to explore. Her National Historical Site, Sheldon Jackson College and museum, and the new Centennial Building with museum, where senior citizens of Sitka conduct excellent narrative tours for the many people on tour of Sitka. Evelyn Curran and Max Dorman are very informative and delightful to chat with. So to anyone visiting Sitka, don't miss the conducted museum tours, and the many excellent activities at the Centennial Building.

The 60-foot Tlingit War Canoe carved from a solid yellow cedar log is quite an attraction, but there is much more to see inside the new building. Sitka's Pioneer Home is another point of interest. Another landmark in downtown Sitka, one of the oldest and best known, is St. Michael's Cathedral, of the Russian Orthodox Catholic faith. The first church was built in 1844 and 1848 under the direction of the first Russian Orthodox Bishop in American, Innocent Veniaminov. The original cathedral was destroyed by fire in 1966. Its many precious treasures and icons were saved from the fire and are on display today in the basement of the new church that is nearing completion.

The new cathedral is built of reinforced concrete and is more fireproof than the old one. The wood covering being applied to the exterior of the structure gives it the same appearance as the old one, and plans of the old church were used to build the new one, so when completed, it will look exactly as it did prior to the fire. There are many more exciting places around Sitka, such as the Japanese pulp mill, known as the Alaska Lumber and Pulp, where 500 local residents are employed. A like number are employed in harvesting the logs for the mill. Guided tours may be arranged for groups at the mill. Most of the pulp is shipped to Japan to be used there in the textile industry.

Sitka has a national cemetery. It was the first national cemetery west of the Mississippi River and the first to be buried there in 1867. Mt. Edgecomb, the dormant volcano that resembles Japan's Mt. Fuji, may be seen from many points around the city. I didn't get a look at it this trip, as rain and fog hid it most of the time.

I left Sitka on the new ferry Columbia just put into service this season, a much larger and more plush ship than the first three ferries that were built and put into service in 1963, the Taku, Malispena, and Matinusk.

While traveling from Sitka on the new ferry, the Ketchikan Alaska, I gave one of my Alaska travel lectures called "Arctic Safari," showing Ralph Guenther and me hunting in the Brooks Range of Alaska in 1966. To further the story of how I came to give a lecture on a ferry boat, it goes like this: The Tongo National Forest Service of southeast Alaska has a naturalist aboard each ferry who gives talks and shows and motion picture programs to entertain the passengers on the ferry. The programs are intended to educate people to preserve our great natural resources.

The naturalist aboard the Columbia was a very charming young lady, Miss Karen Moore. She was having trouble with the film she was showing on the bald eagles of America—seemed the splices in the film would she readily took me up on my offer, I am the first speaker to appear in person with a film on Alaska on the new ferry.

The program was shown in the reclining lounge of the ferry that seats 115 people and we had a full house and nearly as many standing. Miss Moore complimented me on my photography and my delivery, although I hadn't narrated the film for a number of years. Many of the passengers gathered around after the show and asked me many questions concerning the Brooks Ranges, as well as other parts of Alaska. So I am sure they were impressed.

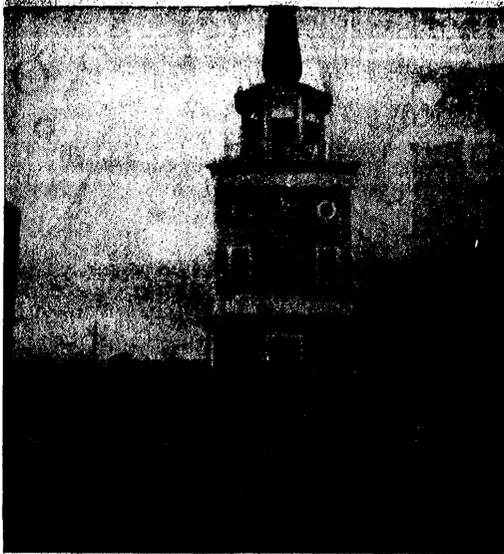

The camp life shown in the film showing Ralph and me baking pies and bread probably were the most impressive scenes in the film for the women in the audiences, as I had two proposals of marriage right after the show, and gave every one a wrong address as well as for those who asked for Ralph's. So getting off the ferry I am breathing a little easier, but maybe it's because my cold has gotten better. I hope you can digest this malarkey with a grain of salt, as I must be running along. I think the fish are biting in a lake I know up the line.

Until then, I will be thinking up some more adventure to tell about.

Your wandering reporter,
Don Turner.

34 Years Ago...

(Continued from page two) won in canning judging. Winners in Lansing will participate in judging contests at the State Fair. Attending the state convention of the American Legion last Saturday and Sunday in Bay City were Mr. and Mrs. Merle S. Barr, Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Maroney, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Fox, Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Chriswell, Mr. and Mrs. Julius Eisele, Mr. and Mrs. Howard C. Baker, Mr. and Mrs. John Bird, Carl C. Chandler and Henry Swickerath.

PRECIOUS TREASURES saved from the fire that swept through St. Michael's Cathedral in Sitka, Alaska in 1966 are now on display in the basement of this new church that is nearing completion. The new church, built of reinforced concrete to be more fireproof than the old wooden one, is being constructed to look exactly like the former church.

BACK VIEW of the new St. Michael's Cathedral in Sitka reveals much the same style of architecture and construction as the original church, built in 1844 and 1848 under the direction of the first Russian Orthodox Bishop in America, Innocent Veniaminov.

THIS 60-FT. DUGOUT CANOE stands in front of Sitka's Centennial Building and was carved by a local resident from a solid yellow cedar log. Tlingit Indians used these large canoes to travel along the northwestern part of North America on raiding war parties with other tribes; the dugout canoe thus became known as a war canoe.

Chelsea Players Will Present Comedy Skits at Fairgrounds

Chelsea Players Theatre Workshop is on the schedule at the Chelsea Community Fair this year—in fact, it's on twice—but there's not a concrete name for what they'll be presenting yet, and there may not be one by the time of the performance.

In fact, "performance" itself might be a misnomer. "It's sort of a cross between 'Laugh-In' and 'Hee-Haw'—sort of," says DiAnn L'Roy, who is performing in, and not directing, this particular venture, she emphasizes. "One of the names that came up for it was 'Chelsea Players Theatre Workshop Comedy Half-Hour' so I suppose you can call it that. We just hope it doesn't turn into a hee-haw ho-hum."

Theatre Workshop staff (Jan Koenigter, Chris Alber, Jeff Daniels, Joan Yocum, Keith Pfeifle) will be joined by DiAnn L'Roy and Ron Gauss in presenting a fast moving conglomeration of "mostly original material" that will include songs, skits, and dancing designed primarily to entertain.

"We've tried to appeal to everyone in this," Miss L'Roy says, "with the idea that if you don't like something, wait a couple minutes and there will be something you like."

As a tiny preview, she says that some parts of the review will be based on frustrating experiences familiar to everyone—something like standing in the wrong line for half an hour. A certain highlight will be an interview with animals discussing their personal views on the fair.

"The stuff is kind of corny," Miss L'Roy admits unashamedly. "But we designed it to be not too heavy, but done well—short enough not to be tied up in, but definitely worth watching...amusing and entertaining, but not silly."

The inclination to become a Ted Mack amateur hour set-up has been entirely skirted, she says. The Workshop comedy half-hour will possess continuity but sections will exist sufficiently as individual entities to allow fair audiences to come and go at random, without feeling they've missed the climax of a performance.

Workshop members have been involved in the planning of their revue since the close of "The Music Man," Miss L'Roy said. This project for the fair is the final one of the three segments originally outlined for the Chelsea Players Theatre Workshop program, which is funded jointly by a grant from the Michigan Council for the Arts and the village. First two segments of the workshop were the presentation of "The Fantastics," and the operation of a three-week academy for young actors and actresses of the community.

Daily Fair Activities for All...

At 8:30 p.m., the 1974 Fair Queen and her Court will be introduced at the grandstand, followed at 8:45 p.m. by the resumption of tractor pulls, this time the heavy-weight classes. Masters of Ceremonies for the tractor pull will be Fred Mills and county extension agents Don Johnson and Bill Ames.

Festivities will come to a grand finale Saturday, designated "Queen's Day." The morning will begin with the Horse Show, directed by Jean Botsford and Andy Ford. In addition to various halter and horsemanship events, there will be number of contest events, including barrel racing, speed and action, pole bending, and flag racing.

At 1 p.m., the Chelsea Fire Department-sponsored parade will begin winding its way through town, enhanced by floats contributed by schools, youth organizations, civic organizations, and manufacturers. Entries will be competing for prizes of $35, $25, and $20.

After the parade reaches the fairgrounds, the 1974 Fair Queen will award two lucky fair-goers bicycles, which are donated by Ingalls Amusement Co. and the Chelsea Fair Board. The bicycles are currently displayed at Dancer's and Foster's Men's Wear.

Horse Show activities will resume in the afternoon at 2:15, with the compact tractor pulling contest, sponsored by Tri-State Mini-Tractor Pullers Association, winding up scheduled fair activities.

No admission fee will be charged for the workshop performances, which are scheduled nightly at 7:30 and 9 p.m. at the Fair, off the back of a flat bed truck donated by Chrysler Corp. "Performers of course, perform for applause, but our creditors don't really buy that," Miss L'Roy notes. "So we'll sort of pass the hat around in the tradition of minstrel shows. There's no admission charge but we hope that people will feel free to donate something to show what they think we're worth."

Scout Troops Will Supervise Fair Parking

The four scout troops—465, 425, 420, and 476—will take turns manning the parking lots once again, during the first four days of the fair, and they will share the work Saturday. Each troop will receive 10 percent of the money taken in while selling admission tickets as they park cars.

In the past, most troops have earned approximately $150 in this way, which aids funding of troop projects. Troop 425 is general chairman of the project this year. Season tickets to the fair also will be available at the main gate for $3.50.

COLLAUSIBLE? A certain gentleman was overheard saying he thought there was a lot more truthfulness in advertising these days. It seems he purchased one of those collapsible swimming pools for his children. This morning it did.

Mrs. Rodney M. Salyer

Ann L. Merkel, Rodney Salyer Wed Friday at St. Mary Church

Ann Louise Merkel became the bride of Rodney M. Salyer Friday in a ceremony at St. Mary Catholic church, conducted by the Rev. Robert Balsar.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. George A. Merkel and Mrs. Roma Salyer, all of Chelsea.

Linda Merkel, a sister of the bride, sang "Annie's Song," while Brenda Salyer, a sister of the bridegroom, played flute. Howard Salyer, a brother of the bridegroom, also sang.

The bride appeared in a white organza floor-length gown, adorned with pearls and embroidery, that she designed and sewed. She carried a bouquet of white roses, stephanotis, and trailing ivy.

Honor attendants were the bride's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Montgomery of Manchester.

Acting as bridesmaids were Mrs. John Hall and Miss Beth Merkel, both sisters of the bride, and Miss Brenda Salyer, a sister of the bridegroom. They appeared in pink gingham gowns and carried white daisies and pink starflowers.

Ushers were Donald Koengeter, a brother-in-law of the bridegroom, Howard Salyer, a brother of the bridegroom, and Daniel Schulze. All the male attendants wore light blue tuxedos.

Margaret and Theresa Merkel, sisters of the bride, attended as flower girls.

Following the ceremony, the couple received approximately 200 guests at a reception at Chelsea's UAW Hall.

Following a wedding trip to northern Michigan, they will reside on Summit St.

Workers Busy Preparing Sharon School for Fall

Preparations for the Sept. 3 opening of North Sharon Christian school are currently busying many members of the congregation.

Walt Schrader and Dick Rudd are constructing student "offices," the individual carets at which students will work; Jack Young has constructed bookcases and helped with other carpentry work; and librarians Carol Sundberg, Lorena Rouster, Gladys Johnson, Ruth Fletcher, Mildred Fish, and Richard Howard are processing three sets of encyclopedias and quantities of reference books and required reading books donated by individuals in the congregation.

Pastor Bill Ensen, who is acting superintendent of the school, has ordered curriculum materials from Accelerated Christian Education and hired teachers and an assistant. He is presently interviewing student applicants.

Teachers and administrators are also undergoing intensive training in Accelerated Christian Education goals and methods.

For information about admissions, call the church at 428-7222 on Monday, Wednesday, or Friday morning. Literature, prepared by Mrs. Jackie Terns and Mrs. Joyce Harris, will be mailed by them upon request.

Former Chelsea resident Tom Tomson, currently manager and pro at The Racquet Club in Lake Bluff, Ill., recently won both singles and doubles events in the Lake Forest, Ill., tennis tournament.

RISNER - BROWN: Mr. and Mrs. Ott Risner of Park St. have announced the engagement of their daughter, Pamela Ann to Robert J. Brown, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Brown of W. Middle St. The bride-elect is a 1974 graduate of Chelsea High school; her fiancé is currently employed at Federal Screw Works. A fall wedding is planned.

JC Auxiliary Needs Helping Hands Homes

Jaycee Auxiliary met Tuesday evening at the home of Ann Steinhaw.

Members decided to update the "Helping Hands" program, and decided that more families are needed for the program. Those interested in becoming "Helping Hands" families should contact Maureen Lapanowski at 475-7104.

Special guest at this meeting was Diana Walters of Dexter, the Auxiliary's district vice-president. Jaycee Auxiliary members will be assisting the Jaycees at the Chelsea Community Fair with Operation Red Ball, which is connected with burns awareness.

Maureen Lapanowski, chairman of the library on wheels, now has a booklet available with the book; the Auxiliary possesses catalogued for a copy of the book, contact Maureen. An Auxiliary member will bring books requested to the participant's house and later pick them up as part of this program.

Ann Steinhaw reported that seven candidates are in the running for the Auxiliary-sponsored fair queen pageant.

The Auxiliary's taco stand at the sidewalk sale was reported to be successful.

The Auxiliary is participating in Muscular Dystrophy Association of America (MDAA). For this project they are collecting 7-Up bottle caps. As part of the program, dessert served at the Tuesday meeting included 7-Up in the recipe, and the beverage served was 7-Up.

Girl of the month for both June and July was Maureen Lapanowski; she also received the 90-day wonder award.

The Chelsea Jaycee Auxiliary is saving 7-Up caps, both screw off and pry off, for the National Muscular Dystrophy and 7-Up program. Between now and Oct. 1, 7-Up Co. will donate 25 cents to Muscular Dystrophy Associations of America for every four 7-Up cap liners sent to them.

Chelsea Jaycee Auxiliary is promoting this project in this area on behalf of MDAA by providing drop-off centers for caps at Polly's, Life Market and Rick's Market.

Muscular Dystrophy Associations of America, Inc., is an independent volunteer health agency that provides; totally free of charge to its patients, clinical services and orthopedic appliances without means tests, as well as massive research programs.

Muscular Dystrophy itself is a neuromuscular disorder affecting voluntary muscles turning them into useless fatty tissue until there aren't even enough muscles left to cough, causing suffocation from even the cough of a simple cold.

The Auxiliary urges residents to help them to help these hundreds of thousands of children and adults stricken with Muscular Dystrophy by saving 7-Up caps. For more information call chairman Maureen Lapanowski, 475-7104.

Earl Heims Enjoy Alaskan Tour

Don Turner isn't the only Chelsea cavorting around Alaska; Mr. and Mrs. Earl Heim were here last week, too.

The couple were among 35 farm couples who participated in an "Agricultural Tour of Alaska" last week, sponsored by Farm Wife News magazine.

The tour started in Seattle, Wash., with a luncheon atop the Space Needle, then continued northward with stops at several northwest Washington farms where the couples chatted with the farmers, and compared crops and weather.

One of the highlights of the trip was a three-day cruise from Vancouver, British Columbia, to Umanu, Alaska, sailing through the Strait of Georgia and Johnstone Strait, where they viewed towering granite walls, glaciers, and 1000-ft. waterfalls.

After reaching Alaska, the couples took special sidetrips to Alaskan farms near Anchorage, with a tour into the Matanuska Valley, Alaska's main farming area. Tour leaders arranged a snack in an Alaskan farm home, and arranged for an ex-Minnesota farm couple, who are now operating a hog farm near Fairbanks, Alaska, to meet with the group and discuss their experiences.

The group also made a stop at the University of Alaska Experiment Farm, then later visited the Eklutna Indian Village and burial grounds, learning about the background of these Alaskan Indians.

According to the Heims, the weather was crisp and clear throughout the week; something they found very refreshing. With 19 hours of daylight in "The Land of the Midnight Sun," there was plenty of time for sightseeing each day.

The John W. Carpenters at 1214 Meadow Lane, have been busy the past two weeks entertaining overnight guests. Mr. Carpenter's two sisters, Mrs. Mary Coy and Mrs. Alice Replogle of Byron, Or., were the first to arrive, then Mr. and Mrs. Randy MacFarlane and son, Johnnie, of Strayker, O., spent some time here before going on to the Soo Locks, stopping again on their way home.

The Rev. and Mrs. Marvin Dunn, missionaries from Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia, spent sometime at the Carpenters' before going to Canada where they will be retiring.

Miss Joan Dittmar and her poodie, Mitzie, from Wayne spent some time here before going on to Cavanaugh Lake to spend some time with her father, William Dittmar.

Joan's twin sister, Judy Fidd, and children, Debbie, Steven and Eric, are visiting with her mother-in-law near Oscoda.

Mrs. Katie Carpenter celebrated her 75th birthday Aug. 20. Part of the day was spent at Cavanaugh Lake swimming and fishing.

School Tax Set At .4 Mill Less Than Expected

Chelsea's Board of Education Monday night approved a .40 mill reduction in the certified tax levy for 1974 for the Chelsea School District.

Certified for 1974 were levies of 24.72 mills for the general fund, which includes the 11.22 mills levied by Washtenaw county and the new operational millage figure, approved in June, of 13.50 mills; .48 mills levied for the 1956 debt retirement fund; and 3.60 mills levied for the 1974 debt retirement fund, which is the $4.8 million building program soon to be in the bidding stages for the district. Total levy will be 28.80 mills.

District Business Manager Fred Mills said that the reduction was made possible by increased valuations in the school district and interest rates that allow us to meet our obligations by levying .40 mills less.

Prior to the June election, the Board of Education approved reduction of the debt retirement levy by 1.52 mills, which put the projected levy for 1974 at 29.20.

Is Your Home Protected From the Energy Robber?

by John C. Sawhill
Federal Energy Administrator

Chances are that your home is being robbed of the energy you pay for. The thief is faulty insulation. The loss to you is cooling in the summer, heating in the winter, and higher utility bills all year round.

Now is a good time to catch the energy robber in his lair. What can you do to catch him? —Caulk and weatherstrip doors and windows. It won't cost you much and will keep in your furnace's heat and your air conditioner's cool. One Sunday's work at this chore could save you 10 percent or more on your fuel costs.

—Install storm windows and doors for fuel savings up to 15 percent in winter and air conditioning savings in summer. For year-round use, you might look into buying combination screen and storm windows. These may cost about $30 for windows, $75 for doors. Ask your bank or utility company if they finance improved home insulation. That may make paying a bit easier. Or, try a little creative economy by taping plastic sheets tightly to your window frames. You'll get as much insulation as from a storm window. And the cost? How does $10 sound for the whole house?

—Insulate your attic. The summer sun that beats down on your roof can heat your attic up to 40 degrees hotter than the temperature of the outside air. Six inches of mineral wool, glass fiber, or cellulose insulation will keep that heat out of your living area and up in the attic where no one suffers from it. Attic insulation will also keep you warmer this winter and save you up to 20 percent on fuel costs. Chances are you'll recover the cost of attic insulation the first year you install it!

Why all this concern over your home's insulation? Well, there's the obvious savings to you, but there's also the need for energy savings if his nation is going to achieve the energy self-reliance called for in Project Independence.

Government can make policy in Washington to promote increased energy production, but greater production is only one side of the double-edged sword we need to carve out Project Independence.

The other side is a reduction of energy demand by the American people. Americans today use more than one-third the world's energy, but we waste an estimated 30 percent of what we use—some of it escaping through poorly insulated doors, windows, and attics.

Sure, there are more obvious wastes of energy than what may be lost through the insulation on your home. But multiply your own loss by the millions of homes throughout the nation and you'll see that we are wasting a large quantity of energy which a few simple steps on everyone's part could save.

So, catch an energy robber! Improve the insulation on your home. You'll not only be saving money, but helping insulate America from another energy crisis.

"LIL DIPPER" is the name for Don Wiltzie's bubble-top submarine, which he has spent the past three years designing and building. Wiltzie's craft, with its space-craft, is built of fiberglass and submerges by taking water into the inside.

Sharon School Staff Getting Instruction

New staff members of the North Sharon Christian school at Sylvan and Washburne Rds., which will open this fall, are currently attending a week of intensive instruction in classroom and supervisory training in Fowlerville. The training is sponsored by Accelerated Christian Education.

Named to the teaching staff by Pastor Bill Enslin are Mrs. Marie McVay of Tipton, a graduate magna cum laude of Eastern Michigan University, who taught at Pleasant Lake Elementary school last year and will be instructing kindergarten and first grades and Philip Ozinga, formerly of Grand Rapids, who graduated from the University of Michigan and did student teaching at Grace Bible

Christian Academy in Ann Arbor. He will instruct elementary and junior high grades.

Penn Central Collects Another Ticket

A west-bound freight train made an unexpectedly long stay in Chelsea last Friday morning, when it halted on the railroad tracks in mid-village, blocking the Main, East, and McKinley St. crossings for a half-hour.

Chelsea police once again issued a violation to Penn Central and delivered a copy of it to Penn Central foreman Sam Oeery for blocking a crossing longer than five minutes.

Assisting at the school will be Mrs. Vivian Craft of Grass Lake. Pastor Enslin will be acting superintendent.

Pastor Enslin reports that admission remains open for approximately 10 more students, for the fall term. Interested parents may call 428-7222 Monday, Wednesday, or Friday mornings for an information-admissions packet.

Home-Made Hobby Submarine Resembles Outer Space Vehicle

The cosmic-looking white creation with a bubble top that rests unprotected in the yard at 7751 Clark Lake Rd., is not the first wave of Martian troops searching for our leaders, or anything else quite so foreign.

The fact is that the thing is a submarine, and it belongs to and is the creation of Don Wiltzie.

Wiltzie, who built his own home at Clark Lake Rd., and then turned immediately to endeavors more aquatic three years ago, says that his submarine is, he believes, the only one of its kind in the state.

"I heard about another one, but it's not the same kind—the water doesn't come inside, like in this one," Wiltzie says. "That is the difference between a $1,200 sub, like this one, and the $100,000 units."

Wiltzie's submarine submerges in a matter of seconds by a process that might be termed terrifying by the weak at heart, although he says he's in complete control. A curved pipe at the side of the bubble top regulates exactly how high the water level will reach, Wiltzie points out.

Pass engers, meanwhile (there is space for two) are seated in the craft, clad in wet suits. The water level of the submerged craft will reach to somewhere around the passengers' waists, while the bubble top, free of water, provides a space for the essentials like breathing, plus extra added activities like talking and viewing the underwater depths. Just for security, he says, a pair of scuba tanks are always taken along on any voyage.

The body of Wiltzie's submarine was fashioned around a mold of his own design from fiberglass. The plexiglass bubble top was formed in a process by which the plexiglass is fitted around a form of its base, then heated and allowed to bubble up to the desired size.

Fin-shaped appendages on either side, sporting small propellers, are regulated from within the craft and allow it to give up or down. A box-like base addition to the basic craft was designed to slow the submerging process, Wiltzie says. An extra-added on the base are lights.

For the faint-hearted, Wiltzie has assurances: "I take my wife down in this thing!"—but then adds, "Of course, she doesn't know all the things that can go wrong."

FCIC Pays Out $135,000 in Area Wheat Crop Loss

This year the Federal Crop Insurance Corp. (a USDA agency), paid out approximately $135,000 to wheat farmers in this area according to Leo Crawford, Indianapolis Sales Center director.

Although excessive moisture and freeze were the primary causes of loss on this year's crop, it is believed that insects and disease contributed to the over-all damage by reducing the quality of the crop considerably.

Present indications are that similar conditions could cause considerable losses to be paid on this year's corn and soybeans that are already insured. A combination of heavy spring rains and current droughty conditions only increase the possibility of poor crops.

Area farmers who have not had the opportunity to apply for this protection in the past are reminded that the final date for taking applications for winter wheat is Sept. 30, unless continued adverse conditions make it necessary to close sales earlier.

To learn more about this program, farmers should contact the representative-in-charge of the FCI office at R. 5, W. Chicago Rd., Coldwater (ph:517-278-2068). She can explain how a farmer can protect his crops against hazards.

Regardless of the things that might go wrong—and that "disregard seems to be the Wiltzie's" state of mind anyway—the craft certainly provides some interesting and unique pastimes.

Wiltzie and his wife, Diane, and fellow adventurers Doug and Bev Detling and Rich Sande made an excursion two weekends ago to Lake Superior "where the water is really clear—not black like it is here."

While at Lake Superior, the Wiltzies and friends, in addition to viewing the depths of the lake at 30 feet below water level, did some scuba diving around a long-submerged ship, where they came up with an ancient—but empty—whiskey barrel. Wood from sunken ships abounds around the Clark Lake Rd., residence, too, which Wiltzie says he intends, eventually, to make into a table.

The submarine, however, is the project currently in vogue. Wiltzie plans at present to increase the power in the motor, he says, "and do some technical stuff that not too many people would understand, anyway."

An excursion is planned at Portage Lake "later on, when there aren't so many boats and people around," he says, to give a neighbor friend a taste of the unique ride. Is Portage Lake ready for the sight of the tiny sub bobbing in its waters? Only time and Portage Lake on-lookers will tell.

This meeting was called to order at 7:30 p.m. by President Pennington. Present: President Pennington, Deputy Clerk Weber. Trustees Present: Borton, Johnson, Gorton, Dmoch, Galbraith, and Wood.

Others Present: Police Chief Meranuck, Planning Commission Members - Brown, Bushnell, and Belsler; Velma Hatt, Harley Hatt, Art Schiller, Katherine Wagner, Catherine Kern, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Christensen, Paul Erickson, Jerry Waldyke, and Bob Daniels.

The minutes of the August 6, 1974 meeting were read and approved.

Public hearings were held to consider amendments to Ordinance No. 79 (Zoning Ordinance).

Motion by Johnson, supported by Gorton, to deny the request of the Washtenaw Association for Retarded Children to amend the zoning Ordinance which would allow Foster Care Homes in the Residential Zoned Districts of the Village. Roll Call: Yeas—Borton, Johnson, Gorton, Galbraith and Wood. Nays—Dmoch. Motion carried.

Motion by Galbraith, supported by Wood, to deny the request of Ole Johnson to rezone a lot on Chandler Street from "RS-2 Single Family" to "RS-3 Two Family." Roll call: Yeas all. Motion carried.

Motion by Gorton, supported by Johnson, to deny the request of Chelsea Lanes, Inc., to rezone their property at 1180 South Main Street from "C-4 Commercial" to "C-3 Commercial." Roll call: Yeas all. Motion carried.

Motion by Wood, supported by Dmoch, to delay action on the request of Palmer Motor Sales, Inc., to rezone two (2) parcels at the intersection of M-52 and Old Manchester Road from "C-4 Commercial" to "C-3 Commercial" until a recommendation is received from the Planning Commission. Roll call: Yeas all. Motion carried.

Action on the request of Alfred Machnik to rezone three (3) parcels on Gene Drive from "AG-1 Agricultural" to "Residential" and on the petition to rezone two (2) parcels located north of the old DUR right-of-way and west of Wilkinson Street from "AG-1 Agricultural" to "RM-2 Multiple Family" will be taken at the next meeting.

Motion by Dmoch, supported by Galbraith, to instruct the Village Planning Consultant to investigate the legality of the definition of "Family" in the Zoning Ordinance. Roll call: Yeas all. Motion carried.

Motion by Johnson, supported by Borton, to grant the Washtenaw County Chapter of the Disabled American Veterans permission to hold their Annual Forget-me-not Sale in the Village of Chelsea on

JOHN A. SHANER, JR.

Made Government Affairs Director For Dana Corp.

John A. Shaner, Jr., has been named manager of government affairs for Dana Corp. Announcement of his appointment was made by Martin Strobel, general counsel and assistant secretary.

Shaner has been with Dana Corp. since 1963, serving as a foreman and customer service director at the Pottstown, Pa., facility and later as employment manager and personnel director in Chelsea. In 1968, he was moved to Toledo as personnel administrator in the corporate personnel and government relations department and in 1969, became administrator of industrial relations.

The Council, acting as the Board of Appeals, convened briefly to set a date for a public hearing to hear objections to the request for a variance from Section 5.3 of Ordinance No. 79 (Zoning Ordinance) of Federal Screw Works.

Motion by Gorton, supported by Johnson, to conduct the public hearing on September 17, 1974 at 7:30 p.m. in the Village Council Chambers. Roll call: Yeas all. Motion carried.

Motion by Johnson, supported by Borton, to adjourn. Roll call: Yeas all. Motion carried. Board of Appeals meeting adjourned.
Frederick A. Weber,
Deputy Clerk.

FEAR ITSELF?
Did you read about the little elderly lady who said she felt more secure and safer in 1933? She says back then all she had to fear was fear itself.

Youths Arrested On Drunk Charge, Curfew Violation

Midnight may or may not be the witching hour, but it became a rather unlucky time for Mark Watton and a 15-year-old male companion last Friday night.

Chelsea police reports say that officers Browning and Detling observed the pair at 11:45 p.m. and instructed Watton to make certain his young companion was home by his midnight curfew.

An hour later, however, the pair remained out and around, as they were spotted behind Seltz's Tavern "hanging out" according to the police report.

The pair were then arrested, Watton for contributing to the delinquency of a minor, and the juvenile for drunk and disorderly and curfew violation.

Watton appeared in 14th District Court Monday morning and pled guilty to the offense. The juvenile was released to the custody of his parents pending juvenile court proceedings.

Camp MIDICHA Accepts Only Those Children With Diabetes

"Most kids can't go to our camp," the brochure from Camp Midicha reads, framing the picture of a cute little blond girl, "You gotta have diabetes."

And so you do. Camp Midicha—the name is an acronym for the sponsoring group, the Michigan Diabetic Children's Association, a member of the United Way of Michigan—is open annually for two one-week summer programs at Mill Lake Outdoor Center that each accommodate 100 young diabetics from ages eight through 16. Final session for the summer at Camp Midicha ended two weeks ago.

MDA members like to talk about the "philosophy" of Camp Midicha, the only facility of its kind in Michigan. Dick Frankel, assistant director of development in public relations, lists the camp's "important, and unusual" factors:

"It promotes an understanding among children with diabetes that they are not alone with the disease; the campers gain new ideas about living more comfortably with diabetes by sharing experiences with others; and many of the campers have never drawn and injected their own insulin prior to coming to camp and learn to do so under medical supervision."

Among the camp staff are doctors, nurses, and a nutritionist who together administer the daily program of insulin needs, balanced with recreational activities and meals planned to the requirements of each Midicha camper; and a regular staff that includes a camp director and a corps of counselors who live in the campers' cabins, which are separated by age groups. Counselors, who attend a four-day in-service training session prior to beginning their stints at the camp, are former campers themselves.

"In a nutshell," Frankel says, "the name of the game is independence. The campers gain a degree of independence which would be difficult to gain under any other circumstance."

Mary Haas, an eighth grader at Beach Middle school who attended the most recent session of the camp, says that in many ways Midicha is "just another camp." Available at the camp are swimming, boating, arts and crafts programs, boat races, and both land and water games, as well as other activities.

"Some of the kids think there is almost too much to do," Mary says, nodding her head in agreement with her own words. "Every night there's something—a cookout, or a pow wow, or some other big activity. And during the day there are things scheduled almost every hour."

She displays a few examples of her own personal handiwork from arts and crafts, a wicker-type basket and a pair of intriguing looking specimens made from pop cans.

The camp also publishes a newspaper, which, Mary reports, "most of the older kids work on." Inside are the dismal complaints heard around any camp anywhere from civilized kids who have known more conveniences. Editorial comment in this particular issue, ranged from the quality of water "hot water not fit for a dog to drink"—to some dissension about the bathrooms not having doors.

CAMP MIDICHA'S LEARNING EXPERIENCE is more than a typical camp's swimming or riding or arts and crafts instruction. Camp Midicha, which is an annual camp for diabetic children conducted twice each summer at Mill Lake Outdoor Center, includes instruction in the daily distribution and injection of insulin to campers who have never performed the necessary function on their own.

Mary herself, who has had diabetes only for the past six months, notes that "there are a few kids who feel sorry for themselves—one girl ran away—eight miles—so she could call her mother to come and get her. But she was just feeling sorry for herself. She was getting the same things, the same diet as all the rest of us."

Mary, interestingly, does not seem particularly to "feel sorry for herself."

"The hardest thing about it is having to give yourself a shot for the first time," she says, apparently recalling that first time. "I sat looking at the insulin for an hour before I could do it. But now I just do it."

That first self-injection of insulin is part of the medical program at Camp Midicha for many young campers, since the medical staff includes instruction for those youngsters whose parents request it.

RANCH EXPRESSIONS

Many ranch expressions came from the Spanish. The word "dally" is a form of the Spanish "dar la vuelta"—to give a turn; "la reata"—rope—became lariat; "vaquero" turned into buckaroo; a "chaparreras" was shortened to chaps.

COLORFUL LANGUAGE

"The lion that kills is not the one that roars," say Kru tribesmen in West Africa to mock anyone who is boastful. Africa's 800 or more languages abound in colorful expressions. Tanzanians scorn corrupt officials who ride in big cars as "webenzi," combining the word "we," meaning people, with Benz from the German automobile.

Plants Destroyed At Sabo Home Last Thursday

Several plants, both in pots and in flowerbeds, were ripped from the ground and a rear license plate was bent at the home of Ray Sabo, 165 E. Madison, last Thursday evening, Chelsea police reports say.

Sabo told police that his son was taking a bath at approximately 10 p.m. when he heard noises outside. Upon investigation, the two discovered the damage.

Four juvenile suspects were observed at the scene, but police have no witnesses to link them to the damage.

The lion and the lamb may lie down together some day but Democrats and Republicans are forever different.

ALL ABOUT FOOD

F. A. KENNEDY

Do movies influence eating habits? Before you say no, read on.

In foreign films you don't see many cowboys. But you do see lots of shepherders. And in several foreign countries, lamb and mutton are the most popular meats.

Here in America we have lots of shepherders. We have to have. Right now there are some twenty-two million sheep and fifteen million lambs somewhere out there in Malboro country.

But shepherders somehow aren't colorful enough for Hollywood. They don't wear six-shooters. They don't ride horses. And they don't have a bowlegged strut. So you almost never see a shepherd in a movie, and if you do his sheep are probably blocking a road or something.

And — you guessed it — we Americans eat less lamb and mutton than almost any other people on earth. Actually only about four pounds per person per year.

Yet, to many a gourmet, spring hasn't really arrived until that first dish of spring lamb, mint sauce, and peas. During the rest of the year, of course, that same gourmet will enjoy mutton served in many different and delicious ways.

One such gourmet was the great Shakespearean actor Edmond Kean, who always tried to suit his diet to his role. If he was to play the part of a hero, he would dine on beef. If he was to be a villain, he ate pork. And if he was to be romantic, he called for fresh lamb. For lamb, he said, belongs to love, just as it belongs to spring.

Well, I certainly don't claim to be an expert on actors, but I can promise you that all of us at Polly's will always give you a good performance.
