CHS Symphony Band Going to State Festival

Some 2,000 young musicians from over 200 Michigan high schools will converge on 13 locations throughout the state, Saturday, May 1 for the annual state Band and Orchestra Festival.

Sixty-nine members of the Chelsea High School Symphony Band, conducted by Myles A. Mazur, will perform at Fenton High school in Fenton, beginning at 8:30 a.m. The group is entering Class B competition.

The festival is sponsored each year by the Michigan School Band and Orchestra Association, a statewide school instrumental music organization. Teachers and parents from all over the state will also be donating their time and efforts to these young musicians serving as chaperones, chairperson announcers, timekeepers, conductors, operating concessions, and, of course, attending as part of the audience. The public is invited to attend the festival at no charge.

These young musicians are vying for top honors in the state as they all have received first division ratings at the district festivals earlier in the year. A first division rating at the State Festival is a much coveted honor since it is the top award of the year.

At the State Festival, bands do not compete against each other, but instead against a set of standard of performance. Over-all ratings are awarded ranging from a superior I to V.

The Chelsea Band and all others participating will perform three selections which will be rated in all aspects of musical performance by a panel of three adjudicators. The band will also be required to perform two compositions they have never seen for sight reading ratings.

Following the State Festival, the Symphony Band will begin preparing for two concerts to be performed later in the month.

WORKING INDIVIDUALLY: Children in the multi-age classroom at the South school spend their afternoons working on individual projects. Clockwise from left, 3rd grader Phil Sweet, report on Florida; 2nd grader Sladjana Janicevic, spelling; Mrs. Diana Richardson; 4th grader Jane Wood, math; 3rd grader Kelly Murphy, story folder; 2nd grader Sonja Steele, handwriting; 4th grader Gretchen Vogel, math; 3rd grader Bill Moller, math; 3rd grader Paul Woods, reading skills and Miss Suzanne DeVries.

A LIBRARY ALL THEIR OWN: Children in the multi-age classroom of teachers Miss Suzanne DeVries and Mrs. Diana Richardson at the South school have a private library all their own. Whether it be used for group projects, private reading, music class or research, the children seem well adapted to the casual atmosphere for learning the library provides. Here, Mrs. Richardson and some of her students go over especially difficult grammar skills.

Multi-Age Classroom at South School Proving Very Successful

Comfortable, is probably the best adjective to describe South school's multi-age classroom, now entering the final months of its first year in operation.

There are no desks lined up in perfect rows, the room lacks a central focal point, nor are eyes directed toward the teacher and a chalkboard filled with explanations and assignments. Instead when one enters the classroom one is greeted by an arrangement of small tables and chairs in groups, a side room for messy activities, and sometimes a most necessary hide-away, a library for small group skill work, private reading or research, counters which line the rooms displaying different and ever changing interest centers, vast wall space and cupboard doors decorated with only the children's work. "The appearance and arrangement of our classroom," says one of the teachers, Mrs. Diana Richardson, "is geared specifically to the children's needs. Everything here represents the children's interests."

The multi-age classroom is the brainstem of its two teachers, Suzanne DeVries and Diana Richardson. Not an original idea, it was something the pair were introduced to while completing studies for master's degrees in education and something each of them had experimented with in their own more structured classrooms.

Last spring, the two young women approached the Chelsea Board of Education with their thoughts on a multi-age classroom for South school.

Typed proposal in hand, they were well received as each outlined specifics of the program, stressing that students in the multi-age classroom will learn the basic skills in small groups according to their individual capabilities and achievements. Adding that the students, through the sharing of projects with others in class, will become teachers through interaction between themselves. The stipulation was that the curriculum remain the same only it would be broadened to encompass a wider scope of learning and that the children be placed in the classroom by parental request.

Last fall Miss DeVries and Mrs.

Richardson welcomed 54 second, third and fourth graders to their classroom. Now, seven months later, most everyone seems comfortable. "It hasn't been easy," said Miss DeVries. "We had and have a lot of learning to do and we can't wait for next year. Our program is sure to be much better."

The two teachers agree that the initial adjustment was difficult for everyone, including the parents. Getting the program in motion was slow because of problems related to construction. However, by December when the teachers polled the parents to determine where their feelings toward the classroom, their own child's development and the teachers were, the positive responses were most encouraging not only to the teachers, but to the Board of Education. Some of them:

"This multi-age grouping allows children to work with others progressing at the same rate or level regardless of each child's age. I'm especially pleased to see how rapidly the children have learned to determine which work is to be done individually. This is a self-discipline that will help them throughout their lives."

"My son loves the class and the teachers... I want my child learning in a happy environment. I have the highest respect for these teachers..."

"I feel that (name omitted) is benefitting from this experience in developing a sense of responsibility for his actions and work schedule."

"This program is absolutely great!" "I do feel the personality of the teachers helps make this successful. I'm not sure that anyone could do it."

"We sincerely hope the program can be continued and perhaps expanded."

"Our son is already asking if he can be in this class next year."

Bicentennial Street Dance Slated Friday

Chelsea area residents are invited to participate in ceremonies leading up to and following a ribbon cutting ceremony for the dedication of what will soon be widely known here as Bicentennial Blvd., this Friday evening, April 30.

According to all reports, the evening will kick-off at 7:30 p.m. with a Belles and Brigade promenade from the Municipal parking lot to the corner of Main St. and E. Middle.

Bicentennial Blvd., more commonly known as E. Middle St., will be dedicated with a ribbon cutting ceremony at approximately 8 p.m. Village President Don Wood will share the snipping honors with Bicentennial general chairman Dick Harvey. A small street sign will be erected which will designate E. Middle as Bicentennial Blvd. for the '76 celebration.

A chicken plucking challenge between the Royal Rural Roosters and their Rooters and the Waterloo Sodbusters and Lilies will follow in the Municipal parking lot where the public is invited to come and "watch the feathers fly."

Royal Rural Roosters Rooters will then challenge other Belles groups to a chick race.

At 9 p.m. until 11 p.m. Bicentennial Blvd. will be blocked off so that all area residents can freely kick their feet and shake a leg during the two-hour long street dance. Live music will be provided and those planning to attend are encouraged to dress in Bicentennial costumes and reminded not to forget their button which designates the Belles or Brigade.

Residents are also reminded of the May 1 deadline to sign-up for a group. Persons may not participate in official group contests unless they are members of a chartered group. All Belle and Brigades kits must also be turned in to the appropriate persons at this time.

Varsity Track Team 4th in Albion Relays

Chelsea's varsity track team competed in the Albion Relays last Saturday, finishing fourth in a nine-team field that composed Section III. Jackson Lumen Christi ran away with the first spot, scoring 70 points. Marysville followed with 43; Michigan Center, 33 1/2; Chelsea, 32; Royal Oak Shrine, 28; Jackson County Western, 23; Saline, 13, and Columbia Central and Coloma less than 10 points each.

Strong winds and cool temperatures hampered a number of performances Saturday. The final three events were run in a down-pour.

However, despite foul weather and strong competition, the Bulldogs gave some good performances and brought home 20 medals. Howard Salyer had a good afternoon, according to Bulldog coach Bert Kruse. Salyer won the 180-yard low hurdles with a time of 21.3 seconds and took third in the 100-yard dash, finishing that event in 10.4 seconds. He was also on the winning 440-yard relay team of Greg Reed, John Collins and Matt Fisher. The time was a slow 1:48.4 which Kruse attributed to the rain and water-covered track.

"This was a real good effort, considering the conditions and the fact that the meet had long since been decided," he said.

Randy Sweeney took a second in the pole vault with a 12'3" effort; Sweeney also took a fourth with his jump of 5'10" in the high jump.

Placing third in the pole vault was Mark Burnett with 12'3"; because of more misses during competition Mark's performance was ranked third.

The mile relay team of Russ Weiner, Mark Burnett, David Dawson and Pat Stevenson placed third.

The 880 relay team of Dennis Bauer, Matt Fisher, Greg Reed and Russ Weiner placed fourth. Rick Haller ran 4:49.7 in the mile, placing fifth, and Phil Frame placed fifth in the two-mile run with a time of 10:54.

The Bulldogs will be back in league competition today (Thursday), with a meet against Brighton beginning at 4:30 p.m. on the home track. Coach Kruse noted that the remainder of league dual meets will begin at 4:30 p.m., rather than 4 p.m. as posted.

Brighton is expected to bring some outstanding distance runners plus some good relay teams to Chelsea and the meet is forecast to be well contested and close.

Saturday, the Bulldogs will travel to Lake Orion to take part in the Lake Orion Relays. Eighteen Class A and B teams will participate. Field event relays will start at noon; the running events will begin at 5 p.m.

Next week Novi's Wildcats will be on the home track, Tuesday, May 4. On Thursday, May 6, the Chelsea team will meet defending SEC league champion South Lyon at South Lyon.

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

I was late getting to the country store Saturday night on account of my old lady's almanac. She had read where the signs were right for beans and wrong for vines, so natural she had me out there digging. That woman depends more on that book printed a year ago than she does on the weather reports give over the air every hour on the hour. And it usual works out for her. Last year, for instance, she warned me to wait to plant potatoes till the sign got in the foot. I planted em anyhow and I could of put in my hat the potatoes we got. But if we had baled the vines we could of fed the stock through the winter.

So, usual, Mister Editor, I pay attention to her and her signs. Like the old preacher said, it can't hurt and it might help. He was talking about listening to the word from the Good Book, and when my old lady reads from her almanac it amounts to the same kind of reliable source, as them column writers say. In both cases, I've learned not to argue with success.

When I got to the store late, Ed Doolittle must of gone through most of the agender. International and national items had been handled and state and local government had been left to shift for themselves. The discussion had worked down to wimmen's feet, and Clem Webster had the floor. Clem reported that he had saw this piece where wimmen have bigger feet now. He said the feller that wrote the item claimed it was on account of all the open toed and open heeled shoes they wear, but the fellers was general disagreed. Zeke Grubb allowed that he could believe the average size shoe for wimmen had gone from six to seven in the past 10 year, but that don't mean their feet is bigger. All it means is they're buying bigger shoes.

General speaking, declared Zeke, that's a good sign. Wimmen are waking up to the idea that being comfortable over the long haul is better than being in fashion for a couple of months. Fer to long, went on Zeke, one woman would buy the shoes every one was buying, and they'd all buy em two sizes to small. Now that all of em is wearing pants where no body pays much attention to their feet, they have took to buying what feels good, was Zeke's opinion. He said this was the first move he has seen in styles that has practical value to it, but fer his money, he'd go back to skirts and cramped feet. When wimmen get practical they git ornery, was Clem's words, cause they want to shape up their men in the deal.

The fellers was agreed with Clem that a practical woman can be as aggravating as a reformed drunk when it comes to spoiling everybody's fun, but Clem said we need both like we do a spring tonic. Fer instant, Clem said his old lady says she likes to carry around just enuff problems to keep her happy. She claims the right kind of worrying keeps her waiting to do better, and her small burdens makes her thankful she ain't loaded down with big ones.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

Doctors Leaving
The prognosis isn't in yet, nor, of course, is the cure in sight. But consider these points:

—Michigan needs an estimated 1,776 additional doctors in more than 100 communities across the state.

—Michigan lost a total of 154 office-based medical doctors and 14 osteopaths last year, marking the first time since World War II that the number of physicians in office-based private practice dropped from the total of the year before.

At least part of the problem appears to be centered in Lansing. The new single business tax and the new laws requiring 50 hours of graduate medical education for physicians in Michigan were cited as two of the reasons for this drop in practicing physicians.

Those two developments plus the high cost of medical liability insurance and numerous other reasons accounted for the drop, according to John A. Doherty, executive vice president of the Michigan Health Council in East Lansing.

Some other numbers could be used by those who would dispute the doctor problem in Michigan. It's reported that the number of medical doctors licensed in the state increased last year from 11,312 to 11,549.

But numbers without explanation are meaningless. The higher statistic is attributable to a "substantial increase of interns and residents taking their medical education in Michigan."

Perhaps it's up to the legislature, admittedly mixed in other problems at this point, to rethink priorities and spend some timeworking toward a healthier Michigan.

Red for Ice Cream

Ice cream men may be equipped with flashing red lights outside their trucks as well as poppies inside if legislation being sponsored by a Democratic state representative is approved by his colleagues.

Rep. Raymond Hood of Detroit says his bill would permit red flashing lights on all ice cream vending vehicles, when required by local ordinance. Current state law limits the use of such lights—and ice cream vending trucks are not included.

"A significant number of accidents occur when children are rushing to and from these vehicles," Hood explains. "Many of the accidents occur when the child is leaving the truck and concentrating on the ice cream and not on the traffic."

Since many of the accidents in-

Warning Issued

Farmers: Don't get caught short.

That's the warning from the Michigan Agriculture Department, which reports a shortage of rail cars and trucks for moving farm equipment and supplies.

Forrest Strang, chief of the department's marketing division, urges farmers to plan ahead for their requirements and to keep in touch with their transportation firms and truck brokers to make certain supplies and equipment get there when they're needed.

On the Hoof

More than half a 1,000-pound market steer doesn't end up on dinner tables. Only approximately 432 pounds of that steer yield beef, according to the Michigan Beef Industry Commission.

What happens to the rest of the beast?

Nearly all the remaining steer is turned into edible and inedible by-products. The edibles include such items as oleo stock, gelatin, marshmallows and natural sausage casings. Inedible by-products include leather, soap, photographic film, sandpaper and violin strings.

Check the medicine cabinet too. "Cattle are walking storehouses for a variety of life-saving, life-improving drugs," the Commission says.

"More than 100 individual pharmaceuticals, currently known and in use, perform such vital functions as helping to make childbirth safer settling an upset stomach, preventing blood clots in the vessels of the heart; spurring a sluggish thyroid, controlling anemia, and helping babies digest milk."

In all events Elaine Miller holds a 1,941 total score while Jackie Elliott boasts a 1,909 score.

In the high doubles actual, Chelsea team Ruth Dills and Cindy Bradbury rolled a 1,053, while high series handicap Elaine Miller rolled for 571-150-721.

Readers of Boston newspapers on April 29, 1878, were amused by an advertisement for the latest fad: "A Telephone. Complete $3.00. Guaranteed to Work 1 Mile. One guaranteed to work 5 miles, $5.00" In the communications section of Henry Ford Museum in Dearborn, visitors can see examples of early telephones, including a replica of phone and early switchboards.

YFU Needs Homes for Four Exchange Students

Dexter and Chelsea residents are again asked to open their homes to four visitors from other countries in the annual Youth for Understanding program.

Mrs. Barbara Parker, area chairman, says that two boys and two girls are presently in need of American homes for the coming school year.

Two 17-year-old young men, one from Finland and one from Switzerland, a 16-year-old girl from Germany, and a 17-year-old girl from Sweden who is allergic to dogs and horses will be arriving about the first of August to spend a year in American homes under the YFU program.

There are no special qualifications to become an American parent to these young people, says Mrs. Parker, just an interest in sharing their home and an extra amount of love. The youngster should have his or her own bed, she adds, but not necessarily his own bedroom. They will attend Chelsea or Dexter High school.

"The main purpose of this program is for both the American family and the exchange student to share everyday patterns and learn from each other," says Mrs. Parker. She adds that when there are other youngsters in the home it is a more valuable experience for everyone.

Anyone interested in sharing a home with an exchange student should call Mrs. Parker immediately at 426-4839.

Multi-Age Classroom...

"As parents who were very apprehensive at the start of this program we are pleased to report that our child is progressing well, is very happy in school and doing excellent work."

In their December report to the Board, Miss DeVries and Mrs. Richardson wrote, "We feel strongly that the multi-age classroom is a success for all involved. The 54 students and two teachers are happily situated in the old South school library and reading room."

They also told that the major concern of those not directly involved with the classroom was that the basic skills are not being taught and that the control of 54 students in one classroom cannot be achieved.

Astonishing perhaps to some, the two go hand in hand. The basic skills are evidenced by the structure each child lays out for himself each week with guidance by teachers. The control has been achieved by the student himself with structure and encouragement from the teachers.

According to Mrs. Richardson, children move freely in the classroom, "but with a purpose." She said that children who have trouble achieving good work habits are given an assigned seat; a time schedule and special help in budgeting their time.

Mrs. Richardson and Miss DeVries stress that control and self-discipline have been achieved because the emphasis put on developing an awareness of the student's responsibilities with himself and on helping the students develop skills in budgeting time so they can fulfill these responsibilities.

A weekly calendar for each child helps both student and teacher keep track of daily and weekly "routines." Each week's calendar lists the days vertically and the months such as reading, story folder, handwriting, spelling, math, science, social studies, grammar, free time and projects horizontally. In each box the children and teachers schedule what must be accomplished under each category and for each day. A check list posted at each center allows the child to see what activities he has completed.

"We have very little busy work in this classroom," says Miss DeVries. "We try to challenge the child at all times... which was an adjustment in itself for the children." She stressed that as teachers their responsibility is to provide the basics and then give a little extra.

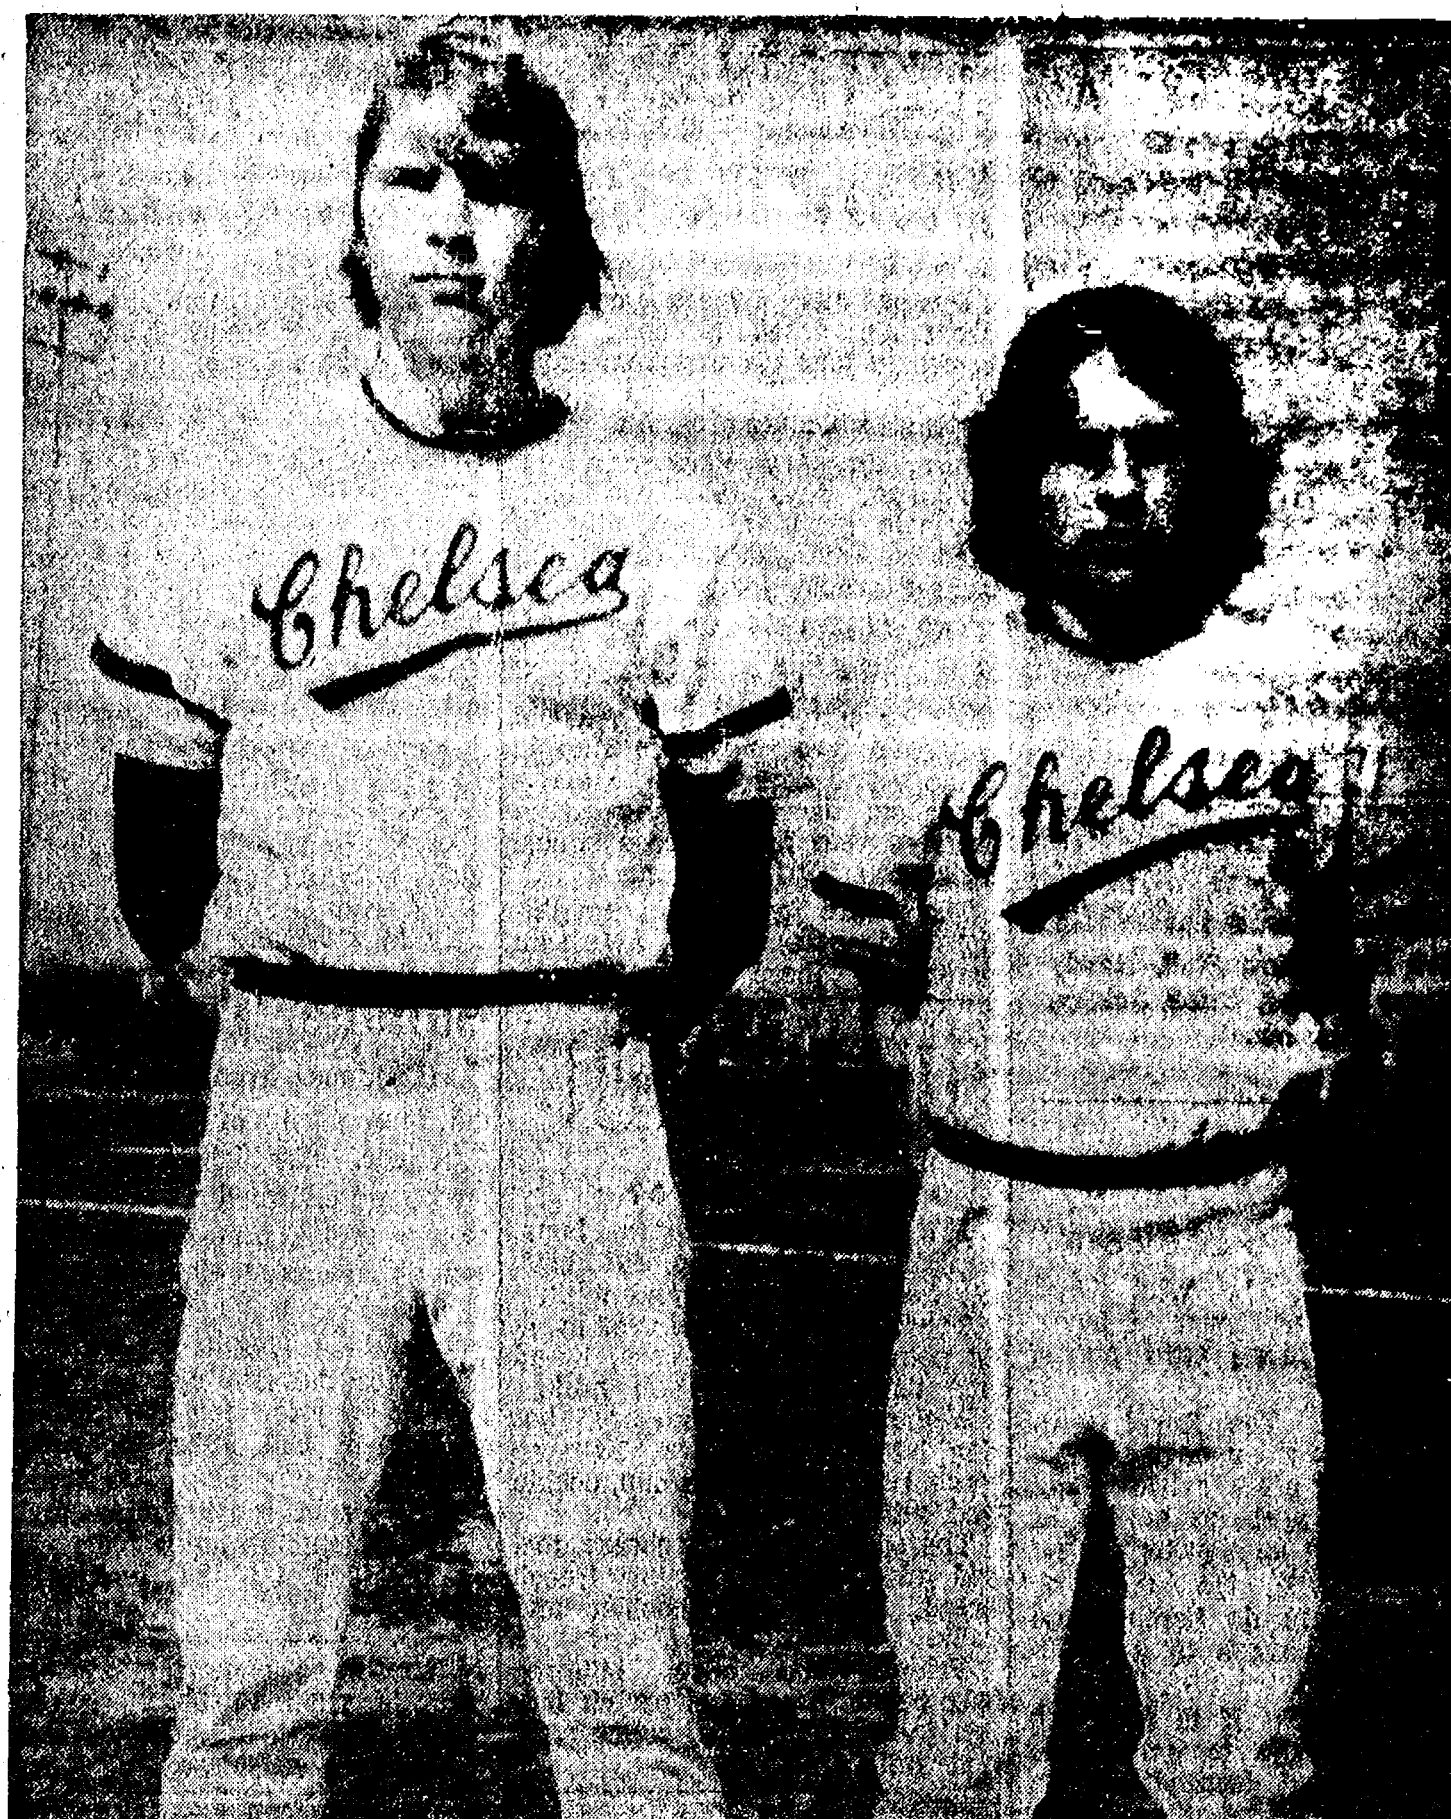

Both teachers see most of their students as being deeply involved with their work. "When there is deep involvement and good materials at hand, lots of them, teachers don't have to worry so much about maintaining order, silence and control. We believe that children can learn through conversation," commented Mrs. Richardson.

The typical morning in the multi-age classroom begins with independent reading and study, followed by a class morning assembly which includes the Pledge of Allegiance, discussion of rules and any special announcements. From 9:10 a.m. until 10:50 the children complete daily assignments, working individually or in small groups. The 30 minutes prior to lunch are scheduled for "specials" such as art, music and gym. Lunch is followed by a time schedule and the reading of the student's own stories and the teacher's stories. A half-hour break for recess, the morning work is continued, and then concentrated work in social studies and science. Worked into the daily schedule, says Miss DeVries, is the "introduction, explaining, re-emphasizing and testing of skills, center work, small group or individual tutoring with help from mothers and special events."

Neither teacher sees the multi-age classroom as the only way. They stress instead, that it is an alternative, comfortable for some, but not for others. "Some teachers would not feel comfortable teaching this way," says Mrs. Richardson. "For some children this program is ideal," says Miss DeVries, adding that for some teachers and students this "progressive classroom" can be a more productive environment.

An alternative, a choice, for parents, their children and teachers. Comfortable for some, but not for others, but always the choice should be there.

Rush-hour expressway drivers should be concerned not only with traffic safety, but also should take measures to protect their hearing ability, say hearing specialists, who point out that the noise level of crowded expressways can frequently reach the hazardous level.

DON NADEAU: Varsity catcher Don Nadeau has an enthusiasm for baseball that is catching. "I love it," he says of the sport. "But as a catcher," he queried, "how can you see anything from behind that mask?" Don insisted that the catcher gets the most action, "I'm involved in everything that happens on the field." Don told that the varsity ball club seems to be working better as a team this year. And despite the branding of the pitchers as "young and inexperienced" Don had nothing but good words for them. "Our pitchers are doing a really good job," he emphasized. "Since I work closely with them, I can say that." Don, who played football with the Bulldogs in the fall, conveys the team spirit so important to most sports. With a teammate like him, the Bulldogs most certainly should "do well." Don is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fabius Nadeau of 19940 Old US-12.

JOHN TOON: "We will win the conference title if we can get by Saline and Brighton," so says junior centerfielder John Toon, predicting the outcome of the '76 season for Chelsea High school's varsity baseball team. John, who played right field last year with the varsity sluggers, says he prefers his centerfield position because "there is more action in centerfield." He is also among the few Bulldog players who will reveal his batting average... which is nothing to hide, .300. John, who plays football at Chelsea High, says he enjoys both sports "the same." The son of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Toon of 135 E. Middle St., John has his summer cut out for him with a job at the Associated Spring plant.

Course in Dressage Offered MSU Students

Dressage, or the art of riding with harmony and balance between horse and rider, is a special class offered to Michigan State University students.

Holly Benvenuti of Grass Lake, and Bill Tite of Chelsea, are participating in the dressage class.

Miss Benvenuti, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Benvenuti, 3230 Portage Rd., is a 1971 graduate of Redford High School. She is a senior majoring in resource development.

Tite, the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Tite, 17980 Watreloo Rd., is a 1973 graduate of Chelsea High School. He is a junior majoring in animal husbandry.

Dressage has been in existence since 400 B.C., but is relatively new in the United States. At MSU, the class is taught at the Rowe Riding Stables in Okemos.

Two beginners classes and one intermediate class are offered to university students. The class includes methods of grooming, show preparation, and basic dressage movements.

"Any horse can be trained to do dressage," said Paula Serras, a graduate assistant in the class. "If you train a horse correctly, he'll respond."

"It takes relaxation, and an awareness of what a horse is going to do. Total control of the horse is the object of dressage, and it's something you can work on forever."

If You Would Be Kind Leave Wild Animals Alone

The lady camper was overcome with pity as she considered the fawn at her feet. She couldn't resist its soft bleating and those big, brown, trusting eyes, so she knelt and cradled it in her arms. Thus, the kind lady became the fawn's executioner.

As soon as the baby deer was cuddled in those sympathetic arms, it was covered with the "scent of death"—the human scent which spells DANGER to keen animal noses.

Animals seldom, if ever, abandon their offspring without good reason. The mother of this seemingly deserted fawn was just out of sight, feeding on some leaves before returning to care for her young one.

When she came back, her sensitive nostrils picked up a hostile odor. Her baby was tainted. Mother instinct was replaced with fear and a strong desire for self-preservation. She would no longer nurse this sudden liability but leave it by the trail to die.

On another occasion, a Conservation Officer, who was patrolling a northern river, looked toward the shore and saw two hunters; nothing unusual here, except one was holding a moose calf while the other photographed it.

The officer immediately beached his canoe and gave the young men a one-minute lesson in conservation, but it was too late; the small moose died when its mother did not return.

Then there was the case of a family who, while driving along a wooded country road, almost hit a bewildered fawn. It looked so frightened and forlorn they took pity on it, and thinking it would make an interesting pet, put it in the car and headed for home.

However, they found that no formula agreed with the young deer which died of starvation; some perished from dysentery. Besides the harm done to young animals through human contact in the wilds, there is also the danger of contracting rabies from the animal. The animal may appear "friendly" and approach unhesitatingly, while in reality it is suffering from this disease, fatal to animals and to humans as well if medical treatment is not begun immediately.

If captured young animals are lucky enough to live until adulthood, they can become a general nuisance and even dangerous. There have been a number of cases of so-called "tame" deer striking out viciously with sharp front hooves if agitated.

Kindness to young wildlife may unwittingly cause a quickened death; indeed, many young animals have had their death warrants signed by pitying campers or hikers.

It is contrary to regulations to keep wild animals unless a special permit is obtained from the appropriate wildlife agency. A wise policy is "leave and let live," as human contact could make an animal one of nature's untouchables.

Assistance Asked of All in Village Clean-Up Days

Wanda Schiller, activities chairperson for the Bicentennial celebration, invites all Chelsea persons to participate in Village Clean-up Days, Friday, April 30 and Saturday, May 1. Volunteers are asked to bring their own collection bags, push brooms and even a sack lunch and meet at 10 a.m. both mornings in the Municipal Parking Lot. The committee hopes to cover as many of the village streets, between Van Buren and the railroad tracks, as time permits. This effort will supplement the excellent job done by the village in keeping the streets clean, by getting into corners that the village workers are not able to cover.

Brigades members have offered to pick-up the filled bags from various collection points and transport them to the landfill. Wanda's activities committee consisting of Red Balough, Bev Bergman, Martha Caswell, Sandy Downey, Brenda Hatley, and Mary Paul, will join Belles chairperson Loydell Keezer and ladies participation chairperson Ann Steinaway in pushing a broom for the betterment and beautification of Chelsea.

This will be a chance for each of us to contribute a little time and effort in preparation for the Ribbon-Cutting ceremonies Friday evening.

Area Realtors Showing Film on Origin of Our 'Uncle Sam' Legend

"Uncle Sam, the Man and the Legend" is a film now being offered for showing through-out Washtenaw county by the Ann Arbor Board of Realtors. The film is being made available to all schools, civic groups and service clubs as part of the Board's 1976 Bicentennial Private Property Week underway this week.

It was produced as a special Bicentennial promotion by the National Association of Realtors, and is narrated by actor E. G. Marshall. The 23-minute, 16-mm. color documentary tells the true story behind the Uncle Sam symbol and the man who inspired it, Samuel P. Wilson. The Realtors of America produced the film because Sam Wilson and his legend have almost been lost.

Arrangements for showing the film to community groups may be made by calling the Ann Arbor Board of Realtors office at 761-7340.

Girl Scout Summer Event Being Planned

"If I Were a Girl Scout in 1776" is the theme of a 12-week summer program designed for Chelsea area Girl Scouts and their mothers.

An organizational meeting for mothers and the girls will be held Thursday, May 6 at 7:30 p.m. at the First United Methodist church, 124 Park St., in the large group instruction room. Mrs. Charles Schumm and Mrs. William Eisenbeiser will work with the scouts to co-ordinate the program.

Hand arts, history, foods, music, way of life discussions, parades, field trips, and suggestions from the scouts will be among the activities featured in the 12-week program for the Bicentennial year. Girls will also be encouraged to make special Girl Scout Bicentennial uniforms and may use the program to work on badges. Because of the scope of the projects involved, the girls are asked to have a parent or adult friend participate with them.

A $2 registration fee, which includes program books, will be charged to participants in the program.

All interested mothers of scouts and Girl Scouts are encouraged to attend this first meeting.

Methodist Home Staff Recognizes 80 Volunteers

The Chelsea United Methodist Home honored its 80 in-house volunteers Wednesday, April 21 with a Recognition Service held in the chapel of the home.

According to Kathy Glynn, recreation director of the Home, it is these volunteers who by their acts of kindness make the residence a "home" in the true sense of the word.

Volunteers spend time assisting the staff, working in the office, putting up bulletin board displays, visiting the sick and the lonely, gardening and serving as tour guides, giving the visitor an inside look at life as it is in the Chelsea Methodist Home.

Wednesday, each of the volunteers received a certificate of appreciation from the Home's Administrator, Irving A. Crisman, a daisy and a heartfelt thanks from Miss Glynn who represented the entire staff and the residents for whom life is made easier and better because of their help.

In communicating with a hard-of-hearing friend, speaking distinctly can be as helpful—or more beneficial—than speaking loudly, according to hearing specialists.

Girls Track Team Wins Tuesday Meet

Chelsea girls track team took the victory seat in a triangular meet Tuesday evening, topping teams from Pinckney and Stockbridge. The Chelsea girls totaled 72 points for the win while Pinckney and Stockbridge had 42½ and 16½ points, respectively.

According to CHS coach DiAnn L'Roy, cold weather and a wet track prevented any of the girls from marking up some outstanding times in the meet. One event, in fact, the long jump, was deleted from the meet because of muddy conditions.

Scoring the most points for Chelsea was senior Kathy Treado who placed first in the high jump with a jump of 4'8"; first in the 110-yard hurdles with a time of 17.2, and was a member of the winning 400 relay team.

Chelsea winners in the meet are as follows:

Shot Put: 3rd, Annette Gaken, 28'.
Discus: 3rd, Shelley Warren, 83'4".
High Jump: 1st, Treado, 4'8"; 2nd, Warren, 4'6".
880 Relay: Chelsea, 1:53.4, team

Schardein, Collins, Merkel and Frisbee.

880 Run: 1st, Warren, 2:42.6; 2nd, Collinsworth, 2:46.6.

110-Yard Hurdles: 1st, Treado, 17.2; 2nd, Gaken, 17.3.

1-Mile Run: 1st, Judy Powers, 6:31.

100-Yard Dash: 1st, Marie Fahrner, 11.9; 2nd, Sue Frisbee, 11.9; 3rd, Connie Pearson, 12.5.

440-Yard Dash: 1st, Merkel, 64; 2nd, Schardein, 68.3.

Two-Mile Run: 4th, Donna Bauer, 15.29.

200-Yard Dash: 1st, Frisbee, 28.4; 2nd, Collins, 29.1; 4th, Gaken, 30.5.

1-Mile Relay: Chelsea, 4:32.9.

440-Yard Relay: Chelsea, 54.0.

Coach L'Roy commented that her girls did very well in the sprints but not so well in long distance events. She also remarked on the good discus throw of Shelly Warren, commenting the Pinckney team fielded an outstanding discus thrower who did better than some of the boys with her 105'10".

Life can be very simple for those people smart enough to go in for the simple, uncluttered life.

Sodbusters Gals Practice Their Chicken Plucking

The meeting of the Waterloo Sodbusters and Lilies last Friday evening was broken up by a visit by the Royal Rural Roosters with a gift of two live chickens, which they presented to Floyd Reithmiller and John Klink for plucking practice prior to the contest between the two groups April 30. Feathers were passed around to the 55 people present to tickle their fancies.

Before this feathered intrusion, a tentative schedule was worked on for the July 9, 10, and 11 celebration. On Friday evening there will be a ball game and some contests. Starting Saturday morning, another ball game and more contests will take place. Then at 2 p.m. the parade will start. In the evening will be a street dance, with Gary Klink's band. Booths for food and beverages will be set up for most of the above.

On Sunday, after church, a community picnic is planned with everyone bringing a dish to pass. Lacking the courage of their forefathers, the box social was voted down by those present.

The Sodbusters and Lilies invite area residents to join in the fun of their celebration with them.

The next meeting of the Waterloo Sodbusters and Lilies will be on Friday, May 7, at 9 p.m. at the Waterloo Town Hall.

Cancer of the oral cavity strikes about 23,000 Americans every year, and kills about 8,000. Yet, precancerous conditions of the mouth area can be easily observed by your dentist. The American Cancer Society says that early detection means a better chance for survival.

Survey Shows Satisfaction With Most Funeral Directors

A nation-wide study shows that nine out of ten persons who have arranged a funeral in recent years were very satisfied with the way funeral directors served them.

That was the underlying conclusion in the survey's findings released today in Milwaukee, Wis., by Central Surveys, Inc., who conducted the opinion study during the last two months on the public's attitudes toward funeral directors. The survey also found that:

—95 percent felt the funeral director did a good job of explaining the charges for services, facilities and merchandise available.
—Most people feel that funeral directors' charges are "in line" rather than "high" or "low."
—97 percent said the funeral director and his staff were helpful and considerate in all ways.

—Most people would call the same funeral director again.
—Only a very small minority had any unfavorable comments. Respondents also agreed that funeral directors gave an adequate explanation of the services, facilities and merchandise they had available and 94 percent said the funeral director did not attempt to pressure them into undesired or unnecessary expense, services, facilities or merchandise.

The survey results substantiate what funeral directors and funeral director associations, both state and national, have been saying since the Federal Trade Commission started its inquiry into funeral practices, that the vast majority of Americans are well satisfied, both with their funeral directors and the services they offer.

Most respondents indicated that they selected their funeral director on the basis of the firm's reputation; secondly, because of personal acquaintance; and thirdly, because of convenience. Hardly anybody selected a funeral director because of his prices or advertising, according to the study.

Officials of the National Funeral Directors Association declared that this bears out their contention that the funeral is not just another commercial transaction as some federal government officials would have you believe, but that it is an experience of real value to the bereaved in which personal service and attention are extremely important.

The survey further reported that most people do not favor increased government regulation of funeral practices. And by the overwhelming margin of 12 to 1, respondents preferred state and local regulation of funeral practices rather than that of the federal government.

In this regard NFDA has maintained that complaints against funeral directors and funeral practices are not widespread and those relatively few that do exist can best be handled at the local and state levels where the consumer has maximum, convenient recourse.

The survey report is based on a nation-wide total of 1,005 personal interviews with adults who have made arrangements for a funeral service within the past 10 years.

All interviews were conducted by WATS line telephone from Central Surveys' general office in Shandoah, Ia., under centralized control and supervision. A nation-wide cross section sample of residential telephone numbers was provided by the Marketing Information Center of the Reuben H. Donnelley Corp.

On Sunday, May 16, the Ecology Center of Ann Arbor will hold its sixth annual Bike-A-Thon. The fun-filled, energy-efficient event is the primary fund-raiser for the Ecology Center and co-sponsor, the Ann Arbor Bicycle League.

All ages are welcome to participate. If you would like to ride, pick up a Bike-A-thon brochure containing sponsor sheets and routes at the Ecology Center, Ann Arbor City Hall, the Ann Arbor Public Library, or at bicycle shops in Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti.

Riders are expected to obtain sponsors, who will pledge a certain amount of money per mile, "usually between 25 cents and $1 per mile," suggests Tom Blessing, over-all co-ordinator of the Bike-A-thon.

On May 16, riders will meet at noon to cycle on either of two routes. The 1976 routes include an 11-mile city route and a county route of 28 miles. Both routes begin and end at the Farmer's Market.

The routes will be designated with signs and all bicycle laws will be in effect. Safety will be strictly enforced by volunteers patrolling on bicycles and also by the Ann Arbor Citizen Band Emergency Radio group, who will provide two-way radio communications throughout the day.

The Bike-A-thon is not a race. It is a fund-raising event which promotes bicycling as an alternative means of local transportation. Last year, 350 riders raised $7,000 for the Ecology Center. Anyone may participate this year, either as a rider or a sponsor.

Money raised by the event benefits projects such as the recycling station, the Ecology Center library and environmental education program, the community organic garden and downtown park, and the center's monthly newsletter.

For more information, stop by the Ecology Center at 417 Detroit St. (open noon to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday, and 9:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Saturday) or call 761-3186.

Spring gardens will soon begin to stir the hearts of mankind after a long, dreary winter.

High Point PSO Plans Benefit Dance

High Point PSO (Parent Staff Organization) is sponsoring a Spring Benefit Dance Friday, April 30 from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. at the Washtenaw Country Club, 2955 Packard Rd., Ypsilanti. Music will be by the Shades of Blue. There will be a cash bar and a drawing for door prizes will be held at intermission. Tickets are $5 per person, and may be purchased from Carol Schell (769-6522) at High Point, 1819 S. Wagner Rd., Ann Arbor.

Proceeds from the dance will be used to create two playground areas using recycled materials: tires, cable spools, railroad ties, etc., rather than traditional playground equipment. The individual playgrounds will be designed to suit the ages, interests and abilities of the students. The playgrounds will be built with volunteer help during a week-end work-a-thon in late spring.

High Point is the recently completed service center for handicapped persons from infants to age 25 in Washtenaw county.

Individuals, firms or organizations who wish to contribute to the playground project may send checks payable to "High Point PSO Playground Fund" to High Point, 1819 S. Wagner Rd., Ann Arbor 48106.

Justice Lindemer Will Speak at Law Day Dinner

"Two Hundred Years of Liberty and Law," is the theme of the Saturday, May 1 Law Day, sponsored by the Washtenaw County Bar Association and Lawyers Wives of Washtenaw county. The reception, dinner and presentation of the Liberty Bell Award will all be held at the Campus Inn in Ann Arbor.

Law Day U.S.A. is set aside on May first of each year by a joint resolution of Congress and Presidential proclamation as a "special day for celebration by the American people in appreciation of their liberties" and as an occasion for rededication to the ideals of equality justice under law.

Special guest speaker will be Supreme Court Justice of Michigan, Lawrence B. Lindemer.

Justice Lindemer has, in his career, participated in all three branches of government; as a member of the State Legislature in the early 1950's, as a staff member of the Hoover Commission on the reorganization of the Executive Branch of the Federal Government in the mid-1950's and presently as a Justice of the Michigan Supreme Court.

He has been active as a lawyer in the work of the State Bar of Michigan having served for approximately eight years as a Bar Commissioner. Until his appointment as Justice of the Supreme Court, he served as co-chairman of the State Bar Committee on the evaluation of candidates for appointment to judicial vacancies since the inception of the work of that committee in the late 1960's.

Justice Lindemer practiced law for 26 years before being appointed to the bench and went to the Supreme Court of Michigan from the position as senior shareholder in a major Lansing law firm.

Law Day co-chairpersons are Richard W. Pierce and Mrs. Robert Foster.

'Glowing Lanternes' Has Promoted Poetry Form Devised By Rev. Merrell

"Forty years ago my husband, the Rev. Lloyd Frank Merrell was searching for a medium of expression for a mood; the form evolved that he described as a '1-2-3-4-1' cinquain.

"Dr. Neff of 'Verse Craft' wrote him: 'This form is very interesting and appears effective for a compact idea.

"Professor Burkland, of the University of Michigan English department, said to my husband: 'they are subtler and neater. I think that form of yours is worth some intensive cultivation.

"My husband responded—'Take it fellow craftsmen, for the enrichment of an art that can be most effectively used in building the brotherhood of man.' The form emerged as the Lanternes."

And so goes the introduction written by Lillie Merrell on the occasion of the final publication of "Glowing Lanternes," a paperback dedicated to the work of her husband, the Rev. Lloyd Frank Merrell. Two hundred lanternes fill this final issue published in the Bicentennial year of our country, many but not all of them are by the creator himself.

Lillie Merrell sits in her room at the Chelsea United Methodist Home, where she and her husband lived together until his death Oct. 30, 1971. Volumes of memories of her husband and his work sit on her lap. She has painstakingly read letters, gone through his papers and corresponded with poets and lovers of the lanternes to paste together scrapbooks from his earliest poems to his last.

Standard readers may remember the story which appeared in the Oct. 18, 1973 issue of The Standard just as Mrs. Merrell was preparing an exhibition of her husband's work for the Heritage Room of the Methodist Home.

And in an attempt to keep her husband's work alive and to pass the lanternes form of poetry throughout the world, Mrs. Merrell has worked closely with Gloria Martin who with her husband publishes the volumes of "Glowing Lanternes" so that "the Rev. Merrell's work will not be forgotten."

Mrs. Merrell, who has never met or spoken with the Martins, talks as if they were old friends.

Their friendship stemmed from a letter Mrs. Merrell found written to her husband by Gloria Martin. As her husband was ill and unable to reply, Lillie Merrell did. Gloria, she tells, wrote her saying, "I do not want this lovely new form, the lanternes, to die down."

The women began corresponding with Lillie Merrell drawing the important answers to Gloria Martin's questions by devising questions her husband could answer with a simple "yes" or "no." Between the two of them, they were able to come up with a complete explanation of just what a lanternes is and is not.

What is a lanternes? "A medium of expression for a mood," is the way the late Rev. Merrell defined it. However, for the layman, as described by Gloria Martin a lanternes is an unbroken thought that consists of five lines, with 1,2,3,4,1 syllables, respectively. A clear example of one of the Rev. Merrell's lanternes,

The Rev. and Mrs. Frank Lloyd Merrell

Streams
that meet jagged stones break forth in glad song.

Promoting the lanternes has been the life work of Mrs. Merrell since her husband's death. Helping her prevent the lanternes from "dying out" has been Gloria Martin. Lillie Merrell's introduction to Glowing Lanternes continues, "I wish to pay tribute to Gloria Martin—who has done much the last seven years to promote the cultivation of the 'Lanternes.' And as I read the "Glowing Lanternes" I notice that poets in almost every state in the union are represented and writing good lanternes."

Today Mrs. Merrell says school children in this country, Canada and France are becoming acquainted with the lanternes form of poetry. Hundreds of adults write lanternes, as evidenced by the lanternes poetry contest sponsored by the Martins. Even Lillie Merrell who "never wrote a poem in my life until my husband's death" has tried her hand at a number of lanternes since October 1971. This one, perhaps written soon after the death of her husband expresses the joy her husband felt in living and her loss in his death.

beauty of the leaves comforts my sad heart.

"His work must be carried on," she says as she sits with a thousand memories of a minister and a poet flooding her room at the Chelsea Methodist Home.

DEMONSTRATING SKILLS: Gerrie Lundberg demonstrates one of the many skills new settlers to Michigan needed in order to survive. Mrs. Lundberg will describe in detail the dangers and hardships pioneers went through traveling and settling westward Wednesday evening, May 5, 7:30 p.m. in the Stockbridge Village Square. The educational meeting, based on a hypothetical journey from New York state to Waterloo, is sponsored by the Waterloo Historical Society.

Westward Trip to Michigan Frontier Will Be Described

How would you like to make the trip from New York State to Waterloo in the new state of Michigan? For those interested there will be a meeting at the township hall in Wednesday May 5 at 7:30 p.m. At this meeting Gerrie Lundberg will describe in detail the dangers and hardships in making the trip so you might know better what to expect. Only the strong and stout of heart should plan to make this journey, though all men, women, and children are invited to learn about this new western territory.

Mrs. Lundberg will also be demonstrating the various skills needed to survive in this new land, for there will be no stores from which to purchase supplies as is your custom. Various equipment will be on hand that you may see what is necessary to take along. There will be books, articles, and pamphlets which may be examined if you are still undecided about whether or not to make the trip.

We encourage all who are dissatisfied with their present life and those with even the slightest curiosity to come and hear what awaits them in this great new land of Michigan.

This educational meeting is sponsored by the Waterloo Historical Society.
