

Senior Citizens, Handicapped Shuttle Bus Finally Arrives

Following a two-year series of postponements and delays, Chelsea's well-timed shuttle bus for senior citizens and handicapped adults finally became a reality on Tuesday, Sept. 28. Arrival of the vehicle was announced by CATS (Chelsea Area Transportation System) spokesman Sam Johnson. Service will begin Monday, Oct. 1.

The initial grant request for the bus was filed Dec. 12, 1974, with the Michigan Department of State Highways and Transportation.

The newly arrived 1976 Dodge van features a hydraulic wheelchair lift and seats a total of eight passengers, two of whom may board in wheelchairs. Cost of the vehicle was $15,000.

Funding for the project came from a pool of state and federal reserves which subsidize special transportation for the elderly and handicapped under the regulations of federal Act 16-B-2. The community is responsible for providing operating expenses for two years.

Financial support for the special service has been pledged by seven community organizations, the Jaycees, Kiwanis Club, Village of Chelsea, Sylvan Township Board, Chelsea United Methodist Home, and the Chelsea Suburbanettes.

The shuttle service will operate on a 24-hour reserve call basis, similar to Ann Arbor's Dial-A-Ride, under the authority of CATS, Inc., a non-profit organization established by the Chelsea Kiwanis Club and legalized by the state. The CATS

Board of Directors consists of six representatives from the various groups pledging financial support to the venture.

Dispatching hours have been scheduled between 9 and 11 a.m. and 1 and 3 p.m. daily, Monday through Friday, from the Methodist Home. The dispatch number is 475-9494. Service hours are Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday, from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Half-day service is available on Thursdays, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. The shuttle service is limited to residents 62 years of age and older, and to handicapped adults, 18 years of age and older. Bus fare is 25 cents per ride.

To initiate the service, CATS has announced there will be no charge for rides during the balance of October. Plans are also underway to expand the service should public response demand it.

The vehicle's 54-square-mile area of operation will extend north to the northern-most boundary of Sylvan township, south to Scio Church Rd., east to Lima Center Rd., and west to Loveland Rd. This area includes almost all of Sylvan township, and a large portion of Lima township, or what is generally defined as the Chelsea School District.

Service will be daily, during operating hours, within the Chelsea village limits. Travel to rural areas has been scheduled for Monday and Wednesday in those township portions east of M-52, and Tuesday and Friday in those township portions west of M-52.

Thursday afternoons have been reserved for special trips and maintenance on the bus. The Village of Chelsea will supervise the maintenance and storage of the vehicle.

Marvin Schiller, experienced and trained by the Ann Arbor Transportation Authority, will drive the bus. His training has specifically included instruction on lending assistance to the handicapped, and he will command the radio communications apparatus installed inside the vehicle in case of emergency.

Volunteers are still needed to man dispatching phones in the Methodist Home. The Home donated office space to centralize the service. Interested persons are asked to call Louis Burghardt, 475-1874, Sam Johnson, 475-7472 and 475-7586, or Betty Koch, 475-8582. No experience is necessary.

Public displays of the new shuttle bus have been planned during the next two weeks to introduce and promote the new service.

Bulldog Grid Team Wins Over Portland

Chelsea executed two stunning plays in the second quarter to score the pivotal touchdowns which retired Portland to defeat in the Bulldog's non-conference, home field debut, Friday, Sept. 24.

Although Portland scrambled for a touchdown on a Chelsea fumble in the third quarter, Chelsea's varsity gridgers held their lead to finish the game, 14-6.

Halfback John Toon received the opening kickoff for Chelsea, returning the ball to the Chelsea 40-yard line. The Bulldog defense held for three plays. Chelsea moved to the Portland three-yard line in the next series, only to fumble. Portland followed with a fumble of their own, which was recovered by Mike Check on the line. Chelsea still could not score, being the ball on downs at the three-yard line to end the first quarter.

Entering the decisive second quarter, Portland punted to Chelsea at their 45-yard line. Chelsea responded with a drive behind the running of Tony Robards to move to the 18-yard line. From there, John Toon took a third down hand-off from Tony Houle and stitched a perfect pass to tight-end Don Nadeau for the first touchdown of the game. John Toon kicked the extra point and Chelsea was on the scoreboard, 7-0.

The ensuing kickoff hit Portland's linemen and the Bulldogs recovered. Two offside penalties, plus an 11-yard pass from Houle to split-end Scott Owings put the ball on the seven-yard line, where it was Chelsea's turn to be called. With 18 seconds left in the second quarter, and the ball on Portland's 12-yard line, Chelsea set up a field goal, faked it, and climaxed with Houle's touchdown pass to tight-end Don Nadeau. Toon successfully completed the extra point kick, and the teams broke for half time.

Portland returned in the third quarter to score from the three-yard line after Chelsea fumbled on their own five-yard line.

In other action during the second half, Portland struggled to break for the lead, forcing Chelsea to play defense. In the battle, Mike Check intercepted a pass, George Menge struck for a tackle on a draw play, and Bruce Stubbs delivered a crucial tackle on Portland's last offensive play.

Chelsea tightened up for a drive to Portland's three-yard line in the fourth quarter, only to have a holding penalty called against them. Ruffled, the Bulldogs fumbled, and lost their chance to score.

Statistically, Chelsea dominated the game, making 13 first downs to Portland's 7. The Bulldogs (Continued on page five)

Tapestry Stolen from Hospital Wall

A $500 reward has been offered for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the person or persons responsible for stealing a 59"x39" handwoven tapestry from inside the Surgical Building of Chelsea Community Hospital.

The theft occurred sometime between Saturday evening, Sept. 25, and Sunday morning, Sept. 26.

The missing tapestry has a natural colored background with multicolored figures in a camel scene. All information pertaining to the incident or leading to the recovery of the stolen article will be treated confidentially.

Anyone having any knowledge of the theft is asked to call 475-1311, Ext. 365.

SAM FINALLY GETS HIS BUS! Sam Johnson, Kiwanian and CATS representative, displays a toy bus, meant to humorously depict Chelsea's new senior citizens shuttle van which arrived in Chelsea Tuesday, Sept. 28. Accompanying the gift was a letter of pretense from friends claiming to be from the Federal Transportation Department, apologizing for the two-year delay and explaining that due to the inflationary spiral since the order was first approved, the shipment was somewhat scaled down from original size.

R. Thornton Named Realtor of the Year

Robert H. Thornton, Jr. of North Lake, received the highest honor awarded by the Ann Arbor Board of Realtors when he was named 1976 Realtor of the Year. The official announcement came at the group's membership meeting Thursday morning, Sept. 23, at the Moose Lodge, Ann Arbor.

Thornton is currently president of the Realtor Board. His accomplishments in organized real estate, together with business and community involvement, formed the criteria upon which his selection was based.

During his year as board president, Thornton's leadership abilities were recognized by the Michigan Association of Realtors, which placed him in nomination for a district vice-presidency next year. He is a member of the State Association's Public Relations Committee, and is a trustee of the Michigan Realtors Political Affairs Committee.

Thornton's community activities include past chairmanship of the Chelsea Community Chest, three years on the Dexter Township Board of Review, and membership on two ad-hoc committees for the Chelsea School Board. He presently serves on the Real Estate Committee for Ann Arbor District Board of Missions and Church Extension of the United Methodist Church.

Thornton first entered the real estate business in 1967. He opened his own office in Chelsea in 1970, and now also operates a branch office in Stockbridge.

Married, and the father of seven children, Thornton is a graduate of Indiana University, holding both a BS and MBA degree.

Postill-Minick Debate Slated At JC Meeting

Democratic incumbent Sheriff Frederick J. Postill will face Republican challenger Thomas Minick in an open issue debate, 7:30 p.m., Tuesday, Oct. 5. The event will be staged at Chelsea Lanes during a regular membership meeting of the Chelsea Jaycees. The public is invited.

Format of the debate will be identical to that used during the current presidential debates. Jaycee president Bill Tudor will act as moderator.

Residents are invited to submit questions to the Jaycees prior to Oct. 5. A cross-section of some of the best queries will be selected for presentation to the candidates. Questions should be called in to Bruce Messing, 475-7026.

Controversial issues expected to surface during the evening include Postill's accusations of Teamster involvement in the highly-publicized wedding brawl in Chelsea this past July.

JC Barbecue, Color Tour Set for Oct. 10

Chicken and leaves? Although the combination sounds none too appetizing, the fact remains that Chelsea Jaycees have been combining the two in their fall chicken barbecue and color tours for 20 years, and this year's edition, scheduled for Sunday, Oct. 10, projectedly will again prove the success of their recipe.

Without a colonel in sight, a total of 1,500 finger-lickin' good chicken dinners will be served up by master chefs Hank Orthling and Jim Gaken at the barbecue site, corner of M-52 and Old US-12.

Dinners, priced at $2.75 each, will include dinner rolls, potato chips, cole slaw, and table service and will be served boxed, to enable potential color-tourers to take their food along while tree-gazing.

Battle Lines Drawn In Sylvan Township Re-Zoning Request

"I would accuse the Sylvan Township Planning Commission of being divinely arrogant," Dale Fisher, a Sylvan township resident charged. Township officials work under a cloud of public apathy. They have poor public relations, and they purpose do not communicate. They work within the law, but seem to work against the wishes of the majority.

Fisher's angry words came following a second confrontation between members of the planning commission and residents of an area currently under petition for a zoning change, during the Sept. 7 meeting of the Sylvan Township Board.

The planning commission recommended approval of the re-zoning proposal to the Township Board, against the advice of the Washtenaw County Metro Planning Commission and the interest of a majority of residents who will be commonly affected by the change. Resident opposition was voiced at a public hearing on the motion Aug. 23.

The zoning petition seeks to re-litigate a portion of Sylvan township presently designated recreation-conservation to agricultural. The land in question is commonly referred to as the Miller-Coltrane properties. Petitioners for the change are Alice S. Miller, John C. Pierson, and Robert V. Riemen-schneider, all property owners within that area.

Several possible conflicts of interest were pointed out by Fisher with regard to those holding decision making powers on the proposal. Planning board member Joe Merkel has a relative, Pat Merkel, who works for Pierson and Riemen-schneider, while township treasurer Fred Pearsall, authorized to vote on the matter, reportedly has a son interested in purchasing one of the parcels under consideration for re-zoning.

If reclassification is approved by the Sylvan Township Board, the newly zoned properties would allow for an increase in land development. To build on a property zoned recreation-conservation, 10 acres are required, while property zoned agricultural requires only a two-acre minimum.

"I am not against the logical development of the township," Fisher contends, "I'm against changing zones for the benefit of a few."

"A residential population increase would generate higher taxes, a need for additional police protection, create sewage disposal problems, and interfere with agriculture in the area," he stated.

The reply from Dan Murphy, Sylvan Township Board clerk, was "census reports show a steady decrease of residents in the area," implying some growth is desirable. He further maintained the number of land parcels to be affected by the zoning change were negligible in terms of generating a residential population explosion in the area.

However, he admitted, "the approval of this petition could set a precedent" for piecemeal reclassification of land within Sylvan township, causing complete redistricting of the area eventually. "But," he said, "I'm not worried about the township becoming a suburbia. It didn't happen when land was open to developers prior to the last two years, and local restrictions and subdivision ordinances would certainly prevent it in the future."

Murphy contends the area under petition is unsuitable for use as recreation-conservation property.

Township officials who feel the recreation-conservation classification unwarranted take issue with county planning experts who designed the area's zoning map in 1974. The objective at that time, was to develop a guide for future land use which would take growth and environmental patterns into consideration. In effect, zoning changes, it is alleged by some, dismiss the foresight of these planning experts.

To induce a reconsideration of the zoning change pending approval by the Township Board, Fisher has announced plans to hold a public meeting with county planning commission representatives present, to clarify their reasons for recommending disapproval of the proposal. If that action proves insufficient, residents opposing the zoning change plan to attempt to force the matter into a referendum vote.

The residents have formed a community organization, combining members from the Sylvan Taxpayers Association, the Crooked Lake Property Owners Association, and the Lehmann Lake Area Citizens Association, to fight the proposed change.

The Sylvan Township Board is expected to act on the petition at their next meeting, Oct. 12, in Sylvan Township Hall.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

You never can figure what kind of education you're libel to get reading the newspapers, and special from looking at the pictures. For instance, I found out just the other day that the one thing women don't need for belly dancing is a belly. There was this story and pictures about this group of women that had got together to learn belly dancing to reduce and tone up their muscles. My feeling was if they was going to get their pictures took they had ought to tone up their muscles and then take up belly dancing.

Actual, Mister Editor, from all I know about belly dancing there's a heap more interesting thing going on in other places. It's like them Hawaiian dancers where you're supposed to watch the hands. The hands may be talking, but they ain't what you listen to. But it all goes to show we've gone a long way in some direction. When I was a young fellow all we knew about belly dancing was that it was some mysterious devilment no Christian people would have anything to do with, and now we've got belly dancing reducing classes being took by Sunday school classes.

Back then, you didn't see a woman smoke a cigarette, either, and now I see where women smokers are increasing faster than men smokers, and we even got pool halls in town where men and women shoot together. Not to many years back I recall a judge in Florida that turned a bunch of women loose that was charged with playing poker for money. The judge said that it ought not to be a crime for women to gamble at poker, cause from what he'd seen, women couldn't play poker in the first place.

Another item I picked up in the paper was where this nutritionist said they is more food value in the worm in the apple than in the apple. He said the worm is rich in protein, and if you really want to keep the doctor away, eat the worm and throw away the apple. Personal, Mister Editor, I can give that advice to my head but it won't send it down to my stomach. After the discussion the feller had at the country store about Jimmy Carter's worm farm, this medical opinion could be another Democratic dirty trick to sell worms. I could report on the feller at North Carolina State University that is doing research on the protein value of flies, but I figger recipes for worm pudding and horsefly pie is to strong for a straight meat and potatoes man.

The best deal I've read about lately is in West Germany, where this woman rents out her sheep as lawnmowers. She gets $8 a summer to let somebody feed one of her sheep. That's like eating your cake and having it to.

Incidental, at the country store Saturday night, Ed Doolittle come up with this claim that the number of fishermen and the number of dedicated liars in this country work out exactly the same, 24 million. Ed said he couldn't prove they were the same people, but the coincidence was fishy.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

MICHIGAN MIRROR

By Warren M. Hoyt, Secretary, Michigan Press Association

Devastation

Blackened spikes poking skyward from a dry-brown hillside. Once a lush green forest stood here.

Such is the devastation of a forest fire, and anyone who's seen haphazard results may feel a chill of apprehension when the fire season strikes.

Fire weather in Michigan usually occurs during spring and fall, and involves drought, heat and wind, according to a forest fire control specialist with the Department of Natural Resources.

Lack of rainfall produced fire conditions in Michigan during the past summer, however, and one week in mid-August, the DNR reported there were some 75 ground fires.

Ground fires are "not as spectacular" as are fast-moving surface fires, notes DNR expert, Greg Lusk. But they burn deeply, and do greater permanent damage to the forest. In fact, they may leave nothing but bare rocks with a skin of mineral soil, he says.

How do ground fires get out of control? Once started, Lusk says, they're very persistent, and can travel underground in dead roots, especially in large partially decayed lateral roots extending from snags.

There's another problem too. If the fires are started by careless people, they're likely to be near the road—and relatively accessible to firefighters.

But if they're started by lightning—as was the one last month in the Seney National Wildlife Refuge—the firefighters must carry all their equipment and supplies to the fire on their backs.

Be careful next time you're in or near forest land.

Helping with Health

Better health care for Michigan Indians could result if more Indian youngsters are pointed toward careers in medical care, says a doctor who is involved with the problem.

Dr. Roy Gerard, chairman of Michigan State University's Department of Family Practice, says he "Native American is light years behind Chicanos and Blacks" in obtaining the health services available in today's society. That's partly because they have a basic distrust of white society and they want to take care of themselves, he says.

Tell Indian children about health services and careers and point them to community colleges and other ways of getting into health fields, Dr. Gerard urges.

"When we can begin to interest Indian children in nursing, health and medical careers, we will be on the road to adequate health care for our Native American population."

Dr. Gerard is helping teach state-funded community health representatives who in turn seek out Indians to help them learn about health services.

Happy to Him

Will Carleton's birthday is right around the corner.

Will whose what?

Michigan's poet laureate's birthday—celebrated with little fanfare in the state's schools every Oct. 21, despite state law calling on teachers to observe the day.

The law requires reading of Carleton's poetry or "such other proper and fitting observance of such Carleton Day as they (teachers) may desire."

No penalties await teachers who fail to mark the occasion, however.

A former newspaperman, Carleton worked in Chicago, was editor and part owner of the Hillsdale Standard and later editor of the Detroit Tribune. He also founded a magazine called "Every-

Where."

But, according to the Department of Education, he's "remembered for the homespun poems that he crafted over the decades."

Here's an example:

"Over the hill to the poorhouse I'm trudgin' my weary way—

"I, a woman of seventy, and only a trifle gray ..."

And there's more ...

Try a local trivia stumper at your next tea or cocktail party.

What's the "average" Michigan teacher like? The Department of Education came up with this description: female, 38 years of age, holder of a bachelor's degree, and veteran of 10 years on the job.

One more tidbit: Michigan public schools employed 101,539 teachers last year.

On Friday, June 7, Richard Henry Lee of Virginia introduced resolutions into the Continental Congress for independence, foreign alliances and a confederation. Congress debated the resolutions on Saturday, then adopted the following on Monday, June 10:

"Resolved: That these United Colonies are, and of right ought to be, free and independent states; that they are absolved from all allegiance to the British Crown; and that all political connection between them and the State of Great Britain is and ought to be totally dissolved."

Then followed the appointment of committees to prepare a Declaration, a plan for a confederation and treaties with foreign nations. On the committee for the Declaration of Independence were Thomas Jefferson of Virginia, Benjamin Franklin of Pennsylvania, John Adams of Massachusetts, Roger Sherman of Connecticut and Robert R. Livingston of New York.

Reconciliationists were able to postpone final consideration of the Declaration for three weeks, but all signs pointed to the inevitability of a final break. News that Britain had hired 20,000 German mercenaries to subdue Americans only added fuel to the fire. New Hampshire, New Jersey, Virginia and South Carolina all broke the tie by adopting constitutions that did not acknowledge British authority.

A Tory plot in New York to assassinate General Washington and his officers did little to aid the British cause, especially when Governor Tryon and the Tory mayor of New York were implicated in the plot. Public sentiment, as well as it could be tested, strongly favored a break. Massachusetts towns voted heavily in favor, while four battalions of soldiers in Philadelphia, comprising about 2,000 officers and men, registered only four officers and twenty-five men opposed to independence. And one by one, colonies that had not instructed their delegates to support independence changed their instructions.

Late in June, General Sir Henry Clinton and Admiral Sir Peter Parker, having abandoned North Carolina after the defeat of Scottish Loyalists at Moore's Creek Bridge in February, attempted without success to take Charleston, South Carolina. In this contest, Clinton's army was practically useless, Parker's fleet was badly mauled by American batteries, and Admiral Parker was chastened by having part of his pants shot off and was wounded in the hip and knee.

The Charleston defeat brought the following account from an English correspondent: "My wife is quite an American, and every conquest the Americans make, every battle they win, and every one of our ships they take, she says Providence is on their side, and it is only fighting against the wind to continue the contest. I am on the opposite side, and we have many interesting broils, or civil wars about it."

His wife taunted him on every occasion, and even contrived situations that antagonized him, so that he referred to her as "my enemy." After one such contrivance, he declared in disgust, "I well knew the design of this burlesque, so I threw down my pipe with a vengeance, and secured a retreat, being fully sensible I could not, like the brave Sir Peter Parker, silence her battery."

Thus the British-American conflict not only fostered American liberation, but also demonstrated the need for men's liberation.

The recruitment tea will enable interested persons of this community to meet the volunteers and learn of their programs, goals and the Chelsea Community Hospital. ## Chrysler Enlarging Scio Plant Facility

Chrysler Corporation's Introl Division has announced plans to expand its Scio township manufacturing plant by 100,000 square feet. The expansion will increase the plant's floor space to 440,000 square feet. The Scio facility is east of Dexter on Zeeb Rd.

George W. Munger, general manager of the Introl Division, said the construction contract for the addition to the east side of the one-and-a-half story plant will be awarded in the near future. The expansion should be completed in the fall of 1977.

"We plan to use the additional floor space to accommodate the greater variety and larger sizes of new instruments and emission control components we are producing for Chrysler and other customers," he said.

Munger estimated that the expansion will ultimately create about 250 new jobs over the next few years. The hiring, he said, will be done gradually. The Scio plant currently has 1,200 employees.

Division headquarters, engineering, and the manufacturing of emission control components and diesel engine governors are in a five-story, 127,000 square foot facility in Ann Arbor. All other manufacturing operations are carried out at the Scio township plant.

Employment at both plants totals 1,500, giving Introl the largest payroll of any manufacturer in the Ann Arbor area. During 1976, wages, salaries, and fringe benefits will exceed $35,000,000 for the first time.

Introl Division is one of the automotive industry's major producers of gauges, speedometers, odometers, instrument panel clusters and other precision components. It produces more than 165,000 instruments, gauges, engine governors, and emission control components each day.

Part of Chrysler's U. S. Automotive Manufacturing Group, Introl supplies a wide range of components for all lines of Chrysler passenger cars and trucks. Introl also functions as an autonomous operating division of Chrysler with separate engineering, marketing, manufacturing, and administrative responsibilities for selling products to other firms.

Currently, Chrysler Corp. accounts for 76 percent of Introl Division's total sales. The remaining 25 percent goes to other manufacturers.

The largest single item manufactured at Scio is the automotive instrument gauge. During a typical day, the plant makes 28,000 gauges in as many as 485 variations. Other high volume daily items: 12,000 odometers of 67 types; 19,000 pressure switches of 33 types; 12,000 voltage limiters of 52 types; 12,000 speedometers of 287 types; 10,500 ammeters of 135 types; 11,000 instrument clusters of 103 types; 13,000 fuel level units of 26 types; and 15,000 pressure units of 30 types.

Art Association Opens Painting Rental Section

A new opportunity for art lovers in the Ann Arbor area took shape this week with the opening of the rental section of the Ann Arbor Art Association's Gallery Shop on the first floor of their building at 117 W. Liberty. In addition to selling a wide variety of arts and crafts, the shop now offers original paintings for rent to individuals or businesses for very modest fees.

Fifty-five local artists responded to the Art Association's invitation to submit their work to be juried for the shop, and the paintings vary greatly in style, size, and price. With the value of the paintings ranging from $50 to $1,000, the rental fees for a two-month period are only $10 to $25.

Gallery Shop chairman, Pat Due and Jean Lau, hope that local businesses and individuals will see this as an opportunity to have original art in their homes and offices at a small cost. They also feel that often people are afraid to trust their own judgment in choosing paintings and this will give them a chance to "live with" a painting before deciding to buy. If a renter does decide to buy, the rental fee will apply toward the purchase price of the painting.

Gallery hours are 10 to 4, Monday through Friday and 10 to 1 on Saturday.

4-H, the informal youth education program of the Co-operative Extension Service, emphasizes "learn by doing" projects and activities that build character and develop leadership-citizenship skill.

Ford LTD.

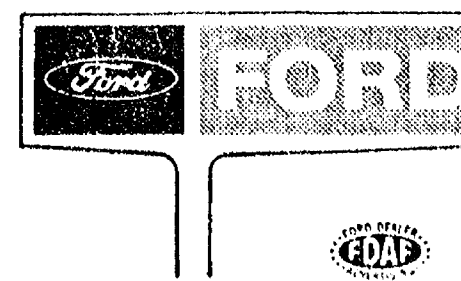

This year some car makers are making their full-size cars shorter and narrower. Ford believes that people who want a full-size car should have that choice. So the '77 Ford LTD hasn't been reduced by a single inch! Ford LTD has a longer wheelbase than the down-sized Olds 98, Buick Electra, and Chevrolet Caprice and Impala (which have shrunk to the length of the mid-size Chevelle). And LTD still gives you its smooth, quiet ride, interior space, deep-well trunk and 3½-ton towing capacity (with optional Trailer Towing Package).

Gridders of the Week

GARY PACKARD (19), is a CHS junior who has been playing football for Chelsea since 7th grade when he was a member of the intramural team. The 5'7", 139-lb. guard is also cast as a defensive halfback for the 1976 football season. A well-rounded player, Gary was defensive end for Chelsea during his first three years on Chelsea football teams. A highlight of his career came while playing on the freshman squad. In one of the games, he recovered an on-side kick. When asked to give a team prediction for the current season, Gary replied, "We could take the conference championship if we don't get over-confident, and if we keep our spirits up." Thus far, he believes neither of these things have happened. He plays football because he enjoys the team aspect of the sport and the game's inherent contact. His brother, John, a 6th grader at Beach Middle school, would like to follow in his brother's footsteps by playing football next year. Gary also has a sister, Debbie, who graduated from CHS in 1976. His future plans revolve around aviation. He intends to become a member of an aviation club currently being organized at CHS, and to enroll in the U. S. Air Force Academy upon graduation. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Packard of North Territorial Rd.

DAVID CLASSON (75), a CHS senior, missed only one year of football since he first began the sport in 9th grade. The 6'4", 233-lb. tackle poses a threat to any of his opponents when he takes to the field. David demonstrated his skill in the sport his beginning year when he recovered a fumble and intercepted a pass within three plays of one another. Although he lists engineering as his interest, he gave a negative response to the question, "Do you engineer plays?" David enjoys playing tackle, stating, "It's the best position for a big guy." He agrees with Gary's assessment of the team's chances this season, believing that a league championship is possible. "We've shown our unbalanced line, and have gone back in balance, ironed out the problems, and are getting it back in gear," he claimed. David has two younger sisters, Brenda is a 9th grader attending CHS, and Jennifer is a 7th grader at Beach Middle school. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. David C. Classon of Hay Rake Hollow Rd.

Shortest State Highway Runs for Only 0.4 Mile

It's only a half-mile long, the second shortest highway on Michigan's state highway system, but for those who travel it one way, M-147 is the longest road in the world.

It is the highway that leads from M-106 north of Jackson to the gates of Southern Michigan Prison, the world's largest walled prison.

A much more pleasant road to travel, the shortest on the 9,390-mile state highway system, is M-309 in Leelanau county. It runs for four-tenths of a mile from M-109 to Glen Haven, near the Sleeping Bear Dune on Lake Michigan, the world's largest shifting sand dune.

The longest highway in the state is Michigan's 335-mile segment of Interstate 75 Freeway. It begins at the Ohio border near Toledo, passes through Detroit and cities of the Saginaw Valley and then moves north to the Straits of Mackinac and the Canadian border at Sault Ste. Marie.

Completed in 1973, I-75 replaced US-2 as Michigan's longest state highway. US-2 extends for 373 miles across the full length of the Upper Peninsula, including a 15-mile "portage" through Wisconsin west of Iron Mountain.

This longest highway on the state system is US-23, running for 365 miles from the Ohio border near Toledo north along Lake Huron to the south approach to the Mackinac Bridge. It is a mere three-tenths of a mile longer than US-31, which extends from Indiana south of Niles to the Mackinac Bridge.

Other highways in the top 10 are M-28, running across the central and northern Upper Peninsula for 288.2 miles; US-41, connecting Menominee with Fort Wilkins at the tip of the Keweenaw Peninsula, 279.5 miles; I-94, extending from the Indiana border near New Buffalo east and north to Port Huron, 276.9 miles; M-86, running from Indiana south of Three Rivers north to Petoskey, 270 miles; and US-10, running from Ludington east and south to Detroit, where it is known as the John Lodge Freeway, 249.8 miles.

Not among the 10 shortest state highways, but certainly the most unusual, is M-185, a 7.5-mile blacktopped road which encircles Mackinac Island, a popular resort island in the Straits of Mackinac. Except for emergency vehicles—fire truck, ambulance or police car—travel on M-185 is restricted to pedestrians, bicyclists and horses or other means of locomotion that don't require a motor.

Jaycees Barbecue, Color Tour Scheduled Sunday, Oct. 10

Jaycees will distribute maps and poster routes of the Pinckney Recreation Areas that highlight local autumn colors. Chairman of the event, Dale Messing, notes that the maps may be saved until the colors are at their peak.

This barbecue is the local Jaycee's largest money-making event, and supports many of the community service projects that the chapter conducts.

In the event of leftover chickens, the Jaycees will donate them to St. Louis school, as they have in the past.

America's future.
Dairy Farmers want to be a part of it..
and we hope the feeling is mutual.

Mutual effort is what makes Michigan Milk Producers Association work. For the dairy farmers who make up MMPA. For you, the consumer.

For sixty years, we have been a cooperative owned and controlled by dairy farmers we serve. We are still working together to keep our farms efficient and productive.

So, even though there are now only about half as many Michigan dairy farmers as there were in 1964, our cooperative efforts continue to assure you an adequate supply of milk and other dairy products. And we at MMPA want to be able to continue serving you. Because we believe the dairy farmer is important to America's future, just as you are important to the future of the dairy farmer. But preserving the American dairy farming industry requires a mutual, united effort. That's why the dairy farmers of MMPA keep working together, and keep working to stay together.

THE OLD AND THE NEW: Parked next to Dexter's new lime green, 1000 gallon pumper, the old Model T pumper looks almost inadequate. The Model T was restored for Dexter's Sesquicentennial in 1974 and has been part of local parades since then. The traditional red with gold striping on the 1925 fire engine contrasts to the bright green of the 1976 version which, authorities say, can be seen much better, especially at night.

ask THE GOVERNOR

by William G. Millikan

Question: How come the fire at the Seney National Wildlife Refuge site wasn't put out when it first started? Is the state so wealthy that it can allow valuable trees and marshlands to burn?

Governor: The Seney National Wildlife Refuge is a federally owned and controlled wilderness area, and therefore is covered under the congressionally established wilderness policy which allows naturally set fires to burn themselves out.

Wildlife habitat often benefits from such fires: accumulated undergrowth is cleared out; nutrients are released into the soil; a forest "starts over again" and the new growth provides food for many animals who were not able to reach the branches of the trees in the mature forest.

When the Michigan Department of Natural Resources spotted the fire, it was reported to the federal officials at the Seney Refuge. The decision was then made by federal officials to watch the fire, but to let it continue to burn. The Department of Natural Resources urged that an exception be made to the federal "let-burn" policy in this instance due to the unusually dry conditions in the area. The fear of the state officials was that the fire could get out-of-hand and burn state and privately owned lands, as it ultimately did.

Since the time when joint suppression efforts were begun, state-federal co-operation has been excellent. However, had the recommendations of the DNR officials been heeded, suppression efforts would have been initiated much earlier.

Now that the fire is contained, we are working out an agreement with the federal government for payment of the costs of fighting the fire.

Question: Although I live in the southwest side of the state, I'm convinced that unless the Detroit crime situation is controlled, that all of the state is going to suffer. What is being done to protect the citizens of Detroit and the visitors to the area?

Governor: I believe Detroit's crime problem does affect all of us, either directly or indirectly. The Federal Highway Administration has indicated that it will approve my proposal for a motorist aid voice call box system on the portion of I-94 which runs through the City of Detroit. The boxes will be placed at half-mile intervals on the freeway.

In addition, the City of Detroit and the Department of State Highways and Transportation are working on a proposal that would place additional city police on city buses. This proposal would provide an ongoing security force. These plans, in conjunction with the use of State Police patrols on Detroit freeways, should help protect both residents of Detroit and visitors to the area.

Question: I am confused about when we in Michigan are going back on Eastern Standard Time and for how long. Would you please help clear up my confusion?

Governor: At 2 a.m. Sunday, Oct. 31, Michigan residents will return to Eastern Standard Time by turning their clocks back one hour. We will be on Daylight Savings Time until then.

In 1972, a majority of Michigan voters decided that Michigan should have six months of DST each year (from the last Sunday in April to the last Sunday in October) and six months of standard time. Then the energy crisis struck, and in an attempt to save energy, Congress implemented the Emergency Time Act, which required year-around DST for all states. Opposition to year-around DST developed because parents feared that the dangers to children and risks in traffic had increased. A majority of the members of the Michigan Legislature felt that their constituents opposed this extended period of DST and passed a bill to exempt Michigan from the federal law. The federal government has since found that the energy savings were minor, and allowed the Emergency Time Act to expire. Recent attempts to revive extended DST have failed in Congress, and so it appears that both Michigan and the nation will be back on a regular schedule this year.

Farmers Determine Wildlife Welfare By Land Use Policies

Wildlife in the United States is largely a product of agricultural lands. Like other products retaining a cultivated area, its welfare and production rests mainly in the hands of the farmers and rural landowners. More than half of our land is in farms, producing not only food, fiber, and wood products but more of the wildlife that we hunt, observe, or otherwise enjoy.

In the process of wooing nature or his own livelihood the farmer directly influences the lives of his wildlife tenants. Many farmers appreciate wildlife enough to encourage it; some ignore it. The kind of farming a man does will largely determine whether wildlife will thrive or just get by on his acres.

Many cropping practices of normal farming operations are favorable to wild plant and animal populations, others are not. Among the most frequent land abuses are plowing of steep slopes, overgrazing, frequent burning of swales and fence-rows, drainage of wetlands, and grazed streambanks. So-called "clean farming" is harmful to wildlife and often to the soil itself.

Modern wildlife management and conservation farming go hand in hand. Soil and water conservation practices tend to improve the habitat for wildlife and satisfy the basic needs of food, cover, water, and living space. And, for each wild species, it is how well its own particular needs are met that determines its abundance.

Specific practices must be incorporated into land use programs to develop and maintain favorable living conditions, the key to the existence of wildlife resources. These practices can be designed so that they do not "detract" or interfere with agricultural objectives. Actually many land use practices have multiple values. Those essential to wildlife production will also improve farm operations by contributing toward good soil and water conservation.

What can the farmer do, then, to make his acreage more attractive to wildlife? Various relatively simple practices can many times provide the missing elements needed to make habitat favorable for many wildlife species on the average farm. Planting of additional trees and fruit-bearing shrubs, fencing of woodlots, constructing brushpiles, and leaving a few rows of corn unpecked or strips of small grain near good cover all help develop a good food and cover pattern which is of special importance during the winter.

Protection from fire and grazing are very important to farm woodland management. Underplanting open woodlots with evergreens and adding a border of low-growing shrubs are beneficial to wildlife. When a woodlot is selectively improved by cutting, some hollow trees should be left to provide dens for squirrels and other tree nesting species. Scattered nut trees in the woodlot and elsewhere on the farm are desirable additions for both the farmer and wildlife.

Managed fence-rows can provide a linear type of corridor of shrubby growth that enables wildlife to get from one type of cover to another. Hedgerow plantings of multiflora rose, bush honeysuckle, autumn olive and gray dogwood provide both food and cover. Evergreen trees serve as good windbreaks around open fields, not only as protection against wind erosion but as winter cover, travel lanes and nesting sites. Wetter sites such as stream and ditch banks and pond and lake borders become attractive spots for wildlife when planted to fruit bearing shrubs such as highbush cranberry and silky dogwood. Odd areas or corners when unburned, ungrazed and unmowed, provide excellent nesting cover for birds.

and rabbits. Marshes planted to reed canarygrass provide excellent late summer pasture for livestock as well as roosting sites and winter cover for birds.

Habitat management through soil and water conservation promises wildlife its best chances of a permanent and better place in which to live.

More than half a million adult, junior and teen volunteers lead 131,720 local 4-H clubs in some 3,000 U. S. counties.

Two Juvenile Car Thieves Apprehended

Two escapees from the Washtenaw County Juvenile Home in Salem township were apprehended by Chelsea Patrolmen David Peebles and John Detling following a five-mile chase through Chelsea in a stolen automobile Friday, Sept. 24.

The two adolescents were part of a 23-member mass escape from the corrections facility on Sunday, Sept. 19. When captured, both were in possession of a 1969 Pontiac, which had been reported missing from Salem Airport by the vehicle's owner Thursday, Sept. 23. Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department officials received the report Thursday evening, according to police records.

The arrest of the duo came following a series of incidents which began when the two Chelsea officers noticed a vehicle behaving suspiciously, driving up and down Main St., shortly before noon on Friday.

After running a warrant check on the car's license number and learning it had been reported stolen, the patrolmen pulled behind the vehicle as it turned east onto Van Buren St. off Main St. and attempted to force a stop.

According to police reports, the driver of the car accelerated in what appeared to be an attempt to flee or escape apprehension. The officers gave chase, as the vehicle they were pursuing ran stop signs and continued traveling along the road at speeds ranging between 45 to 60 mph.

Police headquarters was notified of the chase in progress by Patrolmen Peebles and Detling and road blocks were set up to intercept the fleeing juveniles on Waterloo Rd. west of McKinley Rd. and at the Island Lake Rd. intersection. The roadblocks were manned by deputies dispatched from the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department.

When the youths turned right onto Island Lake Rd., they ran into one of the road blocks, realized further passage down the road was impossible, and surrendered to police.

The two escapees were taken into custody and charged with possession of stolen property valued over $100.

Chelsea Youths Win State Judging Honors

Two Chelsea area youngsters were members of the winning junior 4-H livestock judging team, while three more from Chelsea were members of the senior judging team which placed third in state competition at Michigan State University, East Lansing, recently.

The Chelsea junior team members are Mark Lesser, son of Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Lesser, Jr., of Old US-12, and Beth Heller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Heller of Guenther Rd. Other members of the winning team are David Skjaerlund of Dexter and Tom Hammond of Saline. Nine teams competed.

Lesser, a freshman at Chelsea High school, was also first in individual beef judging. He is a member of the Rogers Corners 4-H Herdsmen group locally. Miss Heller belongs to the same 4-H club. Members of the junior team are under 14 years of age.

Third-place senior judging team members from Chelsea are Doug Welshans, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Welshans of North Territorial Rd., Keith Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alton Horning of Pleasant Lake Rd., and Sue Heller, a second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Heller of Guenther Rd. The fourth member of the senior team is Brian Graham of Saline.

Welshans finished fifth individual over-all, and Johnson was 10th individual over-all. Twelve teams competed.

All Chelsea senior team members belong to the Rogers Corners 4-H group also.

Bill Lutz was coach for the two teams in the state competition, assisted by Sharon Dibble. The winners will be honored during the county's 4-H Recognition Night on Oct. 18 at Saline High school.

D. Holzhausen Wins Kentucky Fishing Contest

Donald J. (Bill) Holzhausen, a resident of Clear Lake Shores, captured second place in the white bass category of the Kentucky Lake Fall Fishing Derby, contest officials reported Tuesday, Sept. 21.

For his efforts, Holzhausen received a jacket and fishing cap, both emblazoned with the winner's patch, and a certificate of recognition from Kentucky Lake Vacationland, sponsors of the Derby.

During his week-long stay at Kentucky's Shawnee Bay Resort, he and his co-fishermen made many fine catches of crappie and catfish, in addition to the prize-winning white bass.

The Kentucky Lake Fall Fishing Derby is the oldest continuous fishing competition in the United States, entering its 18th consecutive season. Those eligible to compete are registered guests at a participating motel, resort, rental houseboat, or campground. Prizes are awarded weekly to the top five winners in each of the following categories, black bass, crappie, white bass, pike, catfish, and blue gill.

SOCIAL SECURITY CHECKS TO BE DELIVERED FRIDAY

Social Security checks, which are normally delivered on the third of the month, will be delivered Friday, Oct. 1 since the third is on a Sunday, Robert A. Kehoe, Social Security district manager in Ann Arbor, has announced.

The Friday check delivery is a new policy, Kehoe said. Social Security checks will be delivered on a Friday whenever the third falls on a Saturday or Sunday.

Cheerleaders Ready With New Routines

The 1976 CHS varsity football cheerleading squad is tried and true, and ready to lead home town football fans into chants and cheers designed to spell out victory for this year's Bulldog gridders.

Headlining the squad is captain Judy Powers, a CHS senior and four-year veteran cheerleader. Her experienced teammates include senior Kathy Treado, four years; senior Sue Leach, four years; senior Sue Frisbie, three years; junior Laurie Campbell, three years; junior Diane Luick, two years; and sophomore Carrie Lane, two years.

The girls have been preparing for football season since July, when they attended cheerleading camp in Midland, according to cheerleading coach Helen Bareis.

At camp, they studied new techniques and verses meant to rouse the idle spirits of spectators. As a result, they have added five new cheers and sidelines to their repertoire this fall.

The cheerleaders' new formations and chants may be witnessed at any of Chelsea's upcoming football games.

James Robards Named Lima Zoning Inspector

James Robards of Luick Dr. was appointed to the post of zoning inspector, effective July, 1976, officials of Lima Township Board announced Tuesday, Sept. 28.

All future zoning permits must be obtained from Robards prior to the authorization of a building permit if the property in question lies within the boundaries of Lima township, the board stated.

Harriers Open League Season With Victory

The CHS varsity cross country team ran ahead of Saline Thursday, Sept. 23, to win their South-eastern Conference opener, 25-30. The Bulldogs' season record now stands 3-1 over-all, and 1-0 in their league.

First to cross the finish was Chelsea's Rick Haller, clocked at 16:26. Other Chelsea placers were Phil Frame, third, 16:30; Dave Dawson, fourth, 16:37; Dean Thompson, seventh, 16:54; and Chris Minick, tenth, 17:22.

Although Chelsea's JV harriers were not scheduled to compete Thursday, they ran with the varsity squad for experience, showing good times, according to Coach Pat Clarke.

Leading JV runner for Chelsea was Mike Beedenbender, who completed the three-mile course in 18:39. Behind him were Steve Kvarnberg, 18:40, and Brian Herick, 19:00.

On Saturday, Sept. 25, both teams traveled to Jackson for the Jackson Invitational. Chelsea's varsity came in fifth out of a field of 12.

Scoring for the Bulldogs were Rick Haller, 18th, 16:27; Dave Dawson, 22nd, 16:35; Phil Frame, 27th, 16:41; Dean Thompson, 33rd, 16:53; and Morris Johnson, 48th, 17:27.

In the JV invitational, all classes ran together. Chelsea's Steve Kvarnberg placed 85th, finishing with a time of 18:48, and Mike Beedenbender was 96th, timed at 19:00.

Both the varsity and JV squads relaxed their training schedules during the past week to compete in four meets within the seven-day period. The harriers will resume heavy training this week as they prepare to better their times in upcoming races, Coach Clarke announced. Workouts will involve 10 to 12 miles of distance running daily.

The Bulldogs are scheduled to take on Dexter Thursday (today), Sept. 30. Dexter was described by Clarke as "equal with Saline on paper, and one of the tougher teams in the league."

On Tuesday, Oct. 5, Chelsea will run against Willow Run and Dearborn Raubichaud. The meet was a recent addition to the Bulldogs' 1976 cross country schedule.

Fourth Grader Has Joke-Riddle Published

Rodney Satterthwaite, 9, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald V. Satterthwaite of 10505 Scio Church Rd. submitted an original joke-riddle to The Electric Company magazine which was consequently published in their October, 1976 issue.

His joke was, "Q. What did one eye say to the other eye? A. Between me and you, there is something that smells." A graphic design which appeared with the joke for purposes of illustration, was the work of the magazine staff.

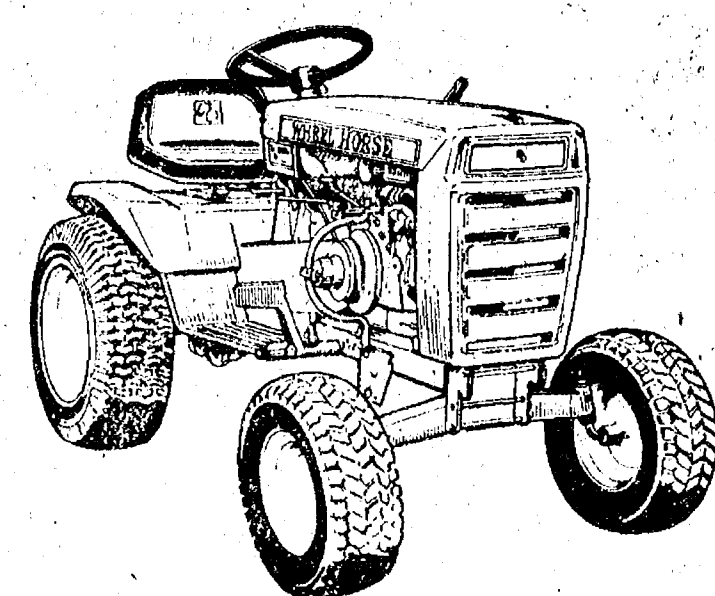

Rodney is a fourth grader in Mr. Ticknor's class at South school.

P. Papsdorf's Report from Soviet Union

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Papsdorf of Chelsea recently left the area for a tour of several Iron Curtain countries.

Papsdorf, who operates the local Papsdorf Manufacturing Co., recorded the following observations while in the Soviet Union. "We are experiencing many new customs... the country is a mixture of races as we have seen nowhere else... homes are built of logs or wood, adorned with a variety of individual shapes."

The message was sent from Irkutsk, located along the southern most reaches of the USSR, near the northern border of Mongolia. With regard to community habits of the Soviets, Papsdorf writes, "these people do not yet know how to litter, so it is very refreshing to walk the clean streets... streets are safe at any hour."

Temperatures have been slightly above freezing in early September, according to Papsdorf. However, his only complaint has been with the Soviet alphabet, which he decreed, "something else."

The Papsdorfs are scheduled to return to Chelsea in October.

JV Gridders Lose, 0-20, To Portland

Chelsea's JV gridders succumbed to Portland, 0-20, in an away game Friday, Sept. 24, as Portland took control of the ball in the second quarter and scored on a 20-yard pass to begin their evening of domination.

Portland cleared the way for an additional two points, then ran the field for 15 yards and another touchdown in the third quarter. Chelsea's defense held up as their opponent's attempt for extra points failed, but withered again when Portland tossed out a 60-yard pass for another trip across the goal line in the fourth quarter, to win the game.

Defensive leaders for Chelsea were Scott Powers with 16 tackles; Lucas Lovely, 7; Chuck Young, 7; Don Gerstler, 5; and Alan Augustine, 4.

Mike Young, Jessie Coburn, and Bob Ball each contributed an interception as they attempted to thwart the bulldozing power of the Portland team.

According to Chelsea's coach, Jon Schaffner, "the big play has been destroying us this season. We aren't making it, and the other teams are. With a lot of work this week, we hope to get untracked as we face Novi here, Sept. 30." The game is scheduled for 7 p.m. Novi will enter into the challenge with a 2-0 record.

Diving Lessons Now Available

Freshman Gridders Lose Opening Game

The Bulldog freshmen played a strong game last Wednesday, but were defeated by Hartland, 22-14. Chelsea moved the ball well but couldn't cope with Hartland's excellent outside running attack.

The Eagles opened the scoring with 4:40 left in the first period on a 20-yard run. They scored again in the second period on a short run set up by a pass interception, one of the two they had during the evening.

Chelsea came right back to score on a pass from John Dunn to Mike Killelea for a 18-yard TD. Mike Wood caught a pass from Dunn for the conversion. At the half, the score was 14-8.

The Bulldogs struck first in the second half when Wally Soltysiak gathered in a Dunn pass and scampered for a 33-yard TD to tie the score. The conversion attempt was not good.

Hartland capitalized on a fumbled punt to move for the winning points which came on a four-yard sweep pass. A run netted the conversion.

The Bulldogs had several opportunities to score, the best coming with a fourth and one at Hartland's three-yard line. How-
