Businessman Robert Barlow Dies Suddenly

Robert G. Barlow, a prominent figure in Chelsea's business community and former president of the Chelsea Chamber of Commerce, died Sunday, Jan. 2, at Chelsea Community Hospital. He was 49.

Mr. Barlow operated the A. D. Mayer Insurance Agency in Chelsea since 1961. His career in the insurance business began in the mid-50s when he assumed a position in the North British Mercantile Insurance Co. and later, in the Commercial Union Insurance Co. Prior to purchasing the Mayer Agency, he was employed as a field agent for Hanover Insurance Co., in Detroit, Indianapolis, Ind., and Grand Rapids.

Mr. Barlow, who had lived in Grand Rapids for several years before moving to Chelsea, became a highly visible member of the community after living here only a short while. He was an active member of the Chelsea Rod and Gun Club and the Inverness Country Club. He continued to maintain membership in the Grand Rapids Masonic Order, York Lodge No. 10, F&AM.

On July 28, 1966, Mr. Barlow married Margot Mason. She survives. Other survivors include his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Barlow of Windsor, Ont., Canada; and a daughter, Suzanne, who lives at the family home on South St. A brother, Derek Barlow, preceded him in death in 1973.

Funeral services were held Wednesday, Jan. 5, 11 a.m. at Staffan Funeral Home. Burial followed in Victory Memorial Cemetery, Windsor, Ont., Canada.

OWNERSHIP CHANGE: The past and present kings of Schumm's Restaurant on Chelsea-Manchester Rd., appear delighted with the present state of affairs. James M. Szamecki (left) is the new owner of Chelsea's landmark restaurant, having purchased the establishment from Frederick Schumm (right) and Mrs. Schumm early this year. Schumm's officially changed hands on Monday, Jan. 3. Among the many changes Szamecki has implemented since taking over is an expanded menu. In the photo, he has nearly finished one of Schumm's new culinary delights, chicken cordon bleu. Across the table, Schumm presents proof that the bar is still in operation.

New Owner Takes Over At Schumm's

A Chelsea landmark, Schumm's Restaurant, at 1620 Chelsea-Manchester Rd., officially changed hands Monday, Jan. 3, as former Schumm's restaurant manager and computer salesman, James M. Szamecki, purchased the 2,800 sq. ft. establishment from Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Schumm, operators of restaurants in Chelsea for the past 26 years. Schumm's has an estimated 140-person seating capacity.

"Public reception to the change has been phenomenally good," Szamecki reported Tuesday. "Everyone has delivered a warm welcome. I've received eight, nine, ten flower baskets and ferns from well-wishers."

Enthusiasm for the new owner is not a reflection on the restaurant's previous owners, Szamecki assured. "The Schumms are the nicest people in the world, they just tired of the restaurant business, and believe things are better off in the hands of someone new."

Szamecki stated the name of the restaurant will remain the same, and Schumm will be working as a part-time bartender during transitional stages. Regular patrons can expect some changes as Szamecki begins work on his "six-month plan."

January will kick-off what the new owner terms his "new-look" theme. Waitresses will be wearing new uniforms, service hours have been increased, and the restaurant menu has been expanded. "We're adding hours for the sake of convenience, and fresh seafood to attract a larger crowd," Szamecki proclaimed.

Schumm's will now be open seven days a week, until midnight Monday through Saturday, and from 12 noon to 9 p.m. on Sunday. New on the dinner menu will be red snapper almondine, Alaskan king crab legs, chicken cordon bleu, and a choice between two fresh fish of the day selections. "Our new items will be priced below prices asked by our competitors, and the old menu will still exist," Szamecki confirmed.

To insure the quality of his seafood, Szamecki has arranged for three weekly seafood deliveries. Szamecki's adjustments in the restaurant luncheon menu entailed "spending six months on the floor, trying to find out what people want." From his observations, he developed a menu geared towards three basic luncheon types.

"For the in-and-out-in-an-hour for under $2 set, I've designed a soup and sandwich luncheon special," he described. "Then, for the businessman, we offer things like London Broil and fresh fish of the day. The third category, which I simply call 'other clientele,' expects a few good, hearty sandwiches on the menu. I added three."

Szamecki has also installed three more seats at the bar, rounded it off, and eventually expects to close the bar off entirely from the dining room. Currently, the two areas are interconnected. Other remodeling changes have included all-new kitchen equipment.

In February, Szamecki hopes to introduce "some good house drinks and hors-d'oeuvres," while in March, he plans to open up for breakfast. By April, he will evaluate his new menu, and if necessary, create yet another. However, one of Schumm's traditions which will remain untouched will be the relish table. "I don't intend to remove anything we presently offer on the relish table, although it's possible I may add a few things," Szamecki said.

Helping to implement Szamecki's many changes with optimum efficiency are a new cook, who comes from The Whiffletree in Ann Arbor, and several new waitresses. Altogether, some 29 people now staff the restaurant. That figure is on the rise as Szamecki is presently considering hiring some part-time bar help.

The story behind Szamecki's appearance in Chelsea began when he was introduced to Schumm by a mutual friend in Jackson. Shortly thereafter, Szamecki came to work at Schumm's, and began toying with the idea of purchasing the establishment. "I had been trying to get into the restaurant business for the past two years, devoting a great deal of time, studying and investigating its possibilities," he revealed. "I enjoy people, and derive great satisfaction from making sure they enjoy themselves."

Prior to working at Schumm's, Szamecki was employed as the Chicago-Detroit district sales manager by a computer firm. He is a 1968 graduate of Western Michigan University with a degree in mathematics, and a minor in business administration. Originally from South Bend, Ind., Szamecki presently resides in Ann Arbor.

Cagers Lose Despite Strong Closing Rally

Chelsea High's varsity cagers traveled to Milan on Tuesday, Jan. 4, to reactivate their season following a brief holiday respite. Although the Bulldogs returned to the court in full health for the first time since early in the season, they failed to counter Milan's heavy press and were crushed, 47-61.

The Bulldogs started an all senior line-up which included Captain Pete Feeney and Dean Thompson at guard, Randy Sweeney at center, and Tony Robards and Captain Don Morrison in forward positions. "In the first quarter, we had many good opportunities to move ahead, but failed to capitalize on them," said Coach Tom Balistrere. Poor shooting and numerous turnovers caused by Milan's press hurt the Bulldogs, he added. During that period, Chelsea shot only 1 for 8 from the foul line and managed only two field goals out of 15 attempts.

"We just couldn't put the ball in the basket, and our mistakes were costly," Coach Balistrere explained. Morrison, Feeney, and Robards got in early foul trouble and had to temper their play. Milan finished the first quarter with a 21-5 lead.

Returning in the second quarter, the Bulldog bench was employed to challenge Milan, but also failed to solve Milan's press as the poor shooting and turnovers continued. Jerry Benjamin replaced Robards who got into early foul trouble, Marc Feeney replaced Pete Feeney, and Rod Sweeney replaced Don Morrison. Dave Schrottenboer relieved Randy Sweeney, while Anthony Houle and Chris Smith also saw some action in the second quarter.

By the end of the period, statistics showed the Bulldogs only 1 for 6 from the foul line and 3 of 8 from the floor. Milan had jumped ahead to a virtually impregnable 38-12 half-time lead.

However, Chelsea never quit fighting and hustling, according to Coach Balistrere. He re-entered his starting line-up the second half and they played Milan to an even 12-12 (Continued on page four)

Quiet New Year's Reported By Police

New Year's Eve revelers in Chelsea were a fairly sedate group this year, according to the Chelsea Police Department. Police records show there were no arrests for drunk or disorderly conduct during the 12-hour period which began 8 p.m. Friday evening, Dec. 31.

Commenting on the well-publicized policy of the Detroit Police Department, which stated Detroit police would not arrest the inebriated on New Year's Eve, but would instead call taxis to transport them home, Chelsea Police Chief George Meranuck said, "We do that all the time, providing the person is co-operative."

Chief Meranuck continued, "We don't use taxis, but drive drunk New Year's Eve celebrators home in a patrol car. That's if they live in close-by areas. Sometimes a drunk person will even call us for assistance. We park their car for them and transport them home." Chelsea's well-behaved New Year's Eve caps a month-long low in area crime. In December, only seven larcenies were reported, two cars were stolen and recovered, and only two complaints of malicious destruction of property were received. Normally, there are 8 to 10 vandalism complaints filed monthly.

"December has been an exceptionally good month for us," Chief Meranuck said, adding, "probably the zero-weather we've been having had a lot to do with it."

Three Young People Die in Auto Crash

What began as a routine automobile trip to shop and run errands for three Chelsea youths, Mark Dalton, 18, Melissa Turner, 21, and John Collins, 18, ended tragically Wednesday afternoon, Dec. 29, with the death of the three close friends in a perplexing two-car collision at the intersection of Mast Rd. and North Territorial Rd. in Webster township.

According to Washtenaw County Sheriff's Patrol Officer Lawrence J. Thayer, at approximately 1:24 p.m., some 20 minutes after leaving Hamburg in Dalton's Pinto station wagon, the three approached the North Territorial Rd. intersection from the southbound lane of Mast Rd.

Dalton, who lived with his parents, William and Jessica Dalton, at 17996 North Territorial, had driven the road "hundreds of times" Thayer speculated after talking to friends and relatives. But, apparently he had forgotten about the stop sign on Mast Rd. where it joins heavily-traveled North Territorial.

Dalton rolled through the stop sign without slowing, traveling between 30 and 35 miles an hour, a witness driving behind the Dalton auto stated. Within seconds, a full-size 1976 Mercury sedan, eastbound on North Territorial and driven by George A. Cottom, 22, of Pinckney, slammed into the passenger side of Dalton's compact wagon.

Dalton and Miss Turner were pronounced dead at the scene of the accident by Dr. Wallace R. Kemp of Dexter, who had been summoned almost immediately. Collins died enroute to University Hospital, Ann Arbor. All three had been riding together in the front seat of Dalton's car.

Cottom was rushed to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Ann Arbor, where he was treated for injuries and released.

Both Dalton and Collins were 1976 graduates of Chelsea High school. In high school, Dalton had lettered in football, as did Collins, who also had won letters in track. Collins was the son of John and Norene Collins of 315 W. Middle St.

Miss Turner, who had attended Chelsea High school, lived with her mother and step-father, Audra and Charles Bongo of 409 W. Middle St.

Addition Started at Methodist Home

John Stevens Associates, Inc., architects, engineers and planners, headquartered in Detroit, announced last week that ground was broken recently for a new $500,000 dining room and kitchen expansion to the Chelsea United Methodist Home.

The project, which represents 8,700 square feet of new construction and additional interior building modernization, will update current facilities to serve 250 to 300 people. Representing the first phase of an over-all master plan to modernize, expand and improve the senior facility, it is expected to be completed in June, 1977.

John Stevens, president of the Stevens' firm said "the new two-floor addition and related interior renovation work will provide a complete and modern air-conditioned food preparation and dining facility."

North Construction, Inc., of Jackson, has been retained as general contractor.

The Chelsea United Methodist Home is a complex of nursing care, apartments and senior residential facilities which serves the entire eastern half of lower Michigan and the upper peninsula. Elmer Benson is administrator. The Rev. Bert Hosking is executive director of the United Methodist Retirement Homes, Inc. of Michigan.

Band Boosters Sell $5,000 in Fruit Cakes

More than $5,000 worth of fruit cakes have been sold by the Chelsea Band and Orchestra Boosters to date, according to project chairman Mrs. Edward Shippy. Proceeds from the annual sale benefit some 343 Chelsea school band members.

The two-week sale which ended shortly before Christmas, generates funds for cleaning band uniforms, financing band trips, and making possible the occasional purchase of sheet music or band instruments.

The fruit cakes, baked by Texas Manor, came in an assortment of sizes, ranging from those with (Continued on page five)

Hockey Team Slaps Down Adrian, 11-2

Chelsea's Bulldog hockey team completely dominated the play in their Sunday game against Adrian.

Chelsea got on the scoreboard early in the first period. At 1:30 Harold Vandervoort scored first for Chelsea when he tipped in a shot by Bob Fischer. Then at 8:05 Greg Hastings backhanded in his first goal of the night with Dave Dawson getting an assist.

Adrian got on the scoreboard on a powerplay goal at 13:15 of the period by Joe Horvath. Then Joe Marentette took a beautiful pass from Bob Fischer and put the puck into the goal for Chelsea's third goal of the game.

In the second period Chelsea got started early again. At 1:36 of the period Bob Fischer picked up the rebound and scored the fourth goal for Chelsea, with Harold Vandervoort and Greg Hastings getting assists.

Then at 2:44 of the period Greg Hastings got a rebound and shot his second goal of the game into the net. Harold Vandervoort and Kevin Houle received assists on that goal. But Chelsea wasn't even half through with their onslaught. Mike Shanz took the puck in alone and beat the Adrian goalie for his goal. At 8:59 Steve Huston took a pass from Steve Check and slapped a shot up in the top of the Adrian net. Then team captain Greg Hastings scored his third goal of the game at 10:57 of the period. This was Greg's second hat trick in as many weeks. Bob Fischer and Harold Vandervoort got assists on that goal.

The third period started with the score Chelsea 8, Adrian 1. But it didn't stay that way long as Harold Vandervoort got an unassisted goal at 5:16 of the period. This goal was called by the referee as the puck actually just got into the goal hit the upright and bounced out in front.

Chelsea scored again when Bob Fischer picked up the puck and moved in all alone to score his second goal of the game. Then just 38 seconds later, Harold Vandervoort set up Bob Fischer again. Bob wasted no time as he put the puck into the net for his hat trick. Adrian ended the scoring at 10:45 when Joe Horvath scored his second goal of the game.

Dave Baldwin was put into the net for Chelsea in the third period to give Mike Check a well deserved rest.

Chelsea's statistics were outstanding in this game. Harold Vandervoort had 7 points in the game, 2 goals and 5 assists. Bob Fischer had 6 points, 3 goals (hat trick) and 3 assists. Greg Hastings had 4 points, 3 goals (hat trick) and 1 assist, and the rest of the team put together a good team effort.

Next week Chelsea will play Hanover-Horton at 6 p.m. This will be an important game for both teams.

PAST PRESIDENTS HONORED: Some 52 past presidents of the Chelsea Kiwanis Club were honored by the service group during Past President's Night Monday evening, Jan. 3. The local Kiwanis Club chapter was chartered in 1924. A special citation was bestowed upon M. W. "Mac" McClure, the only remaining charter member of the club, and the only president to have served two terms, although he was unable to attend the meeting Monday. His first term of office was from 1930-31, followed by a second term from 1933-34. Another long-standing Kiwanian and past president, Edwin W. "Bing" Eaton, shared in the celebration although he was unable to attend because of poor health. Eaton, who was president in 1935, sent a letter of congratulations to the Monday night gathering, which was subsequently delivered orally to those in attendance. Among the 52 Kiwanis Club past presidents, 18 are deceased. Of the remaining 34, 18 were present at Past President's Night. Posing for the camera, in the front row, from left are Paul E. Mann, 1959 Kiwanis Club president; Charles "Charlie" Cameron, 1955; Lloyd Heydlauff, 1943; and Albert C. Johnson, 1938. ## Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

Clem Webster told the fellers at the country store Saturday night that he was proud to be around in this old feast and famine world. When somebody ask him what he meant, he pulled out this report where this research outfit says the way things are going it won't be long before as many folks will be dying from too much eating as from not enuff eating. Clem said from all he put away during the Christmas he is ready to believe the time is now.

According to Clem, that usual is a reliable source, as the column writers say, except on political matters, the World-watch Institute has found out that the rich food and to much of it that Americans eat can be called the No. 1 killer in this country cause it figgers in six of our 10 leading causes of death. Farthermore, went on Clem, the study showed that folks in Europe, Russia and Japan are getting able to eat theselves to death. It is a case of over-nutrition killing more people in the world than undernutrition, was Clem's words.

The fellers kicked around Clem's report, and it was general agreed that nature and economics together have a good way to even things out when the world starts to git out of kilter. Fer example, declared Zeke Grubb, the way the cost of groceries keep going up, we're bound to reach a point where we can't buy enuff to over-eat. And if that don't stop us all we need is a few more long dry spells like we had this summer in some places to see how quick we can go from too much to too little, Zeke went on.

Actual, broke in Ed Doolittle, it has been his experience that folks everywhere allus has been hurt more by what they have than what they didn't have, so this overeating fear was nothing new. Nobody wants to go back to the days of bad health and bad medicine when not enuff folks lived past 50 to make senior citizen a dirty word. Ed explained, and who will trade having to walk everywhere fer riding in cars and airplanes that git about as many of us as old age and the few diseases left that the doctors ain't learned how to cure. Ed was of a mind that having enuff to eat is a heap better than not having enuff, and when his times comes he wants to go on a full stomach. Ed didn't git no argument on that score.

But Clem said the fellers was missing the point of the research. He said people are abusing the blessing of food, and they are paying for their rich diets in poor health. The point is, declared Clem, we ought to pay closer attention to what and how much we eat. We got to learn to deal with our diets like we have cleaning up air and water that all our progress messed up, and like we're paying more attention to old folks like all us fellers that modern medicine has kept around longer.

Personal, Mister Editor, I got it

Coming Unstuck?

Snow-clogged highways cause stuck vehicles. And those stuck vehicles in turn make it nigh on to impossible to clear the roads. Vicious circle it seems.

But the Department of State Highways and Transportation and the Michigan State Police are working on alleviating that problem. Under a new plan to be implemented this winter, roadblocks will be set up to close freeways whenever a storm makes driving extremely hazardous or impossible.

The roadblocks will be established at places determined to be outside the edges of the storm.

Thus, while those vehicles already on the highway may still be stuck there, there's less chance of other vehicles adding to the "clutter."

A communications system—aimed at aiding stranded motorists, helping in snow-clearing operations and advising drivers well in advance if a freeway is closed—is also part of the plan.

The primary purpose of this plan is to reduce the number of persons and vehicles stranded by a snowstorm, and to rescue those already stranded," says Co. George L. Halverson, director of the State Police.

For Women . . .

A couple of recent U.S. Supreme Court opinions seem to have set back women's rights, according to feminist groups who particularly objected to one ruling dealing with pregnancy leaves from work.

But the Michigan Attorney General's office has gone in the other direction—ruling that a woman may not be refused credit for a loan simply because of her marital status.

The formal opinion said: "The credit worthiness of a married woman is not affected by state property laws. A married woman is responsible for her own obligations regardless of whether they are incurred by purchase of a luxury or a necessity."

"... a married woman with her own assets cannot be treated as a second-class citizen in the area of credit," explained Atty. Gen. Frank J. Kelley.

If a woman uses her own property as collateral, her right to borrow money or buy goods on credit is not affected by her marital status, he added. "If a woman applies for credit, and she has the individual credit worthiness to be granted that amount, what her husband does, or what his credit worthiness is, should be of no concern to the creditor."

Michigan's Married Women's Property Acts, which began in 1885, gave married women the right to own and control property. More than a century later, in 1971, the state Supreme Court held that a married woman was liable for merchandise she purchased on her individual credit.

Getting Darker

Note from the Michigan Traffic Safety Report:

The American Optometric Association says the average 60-year-old needs seven times as much light as the average 20-year-old to perform the same tasks.

The eye doctors said this is nothing to be overly concerned about, but it does require some change in habits and attitudes.

Help's There

"Hot lines" can help cut red tape and get quick answers to problems. That's why several of Michigan's state government agencies operate such telephone services.

The toll-free numbers include:

—Public Service Commission, which helps citizens with utility problems or questions about utilities other than city-owned electric companies. Call 800-292-9555.

—Travel Bureau, which offers information on road conditions, upcoming events and weather forecasts. Call 800-292-2521 (in Michigan).

—Natural Resources Law Enforcement which helps state officials enforce conservation laws. Call 800-292-7800.

—Department of State Automotive Regulation, which receives complaints against auto dealers, mechanics and repair shops. Call 800-292-4204, or, in Detroit only, 800-357-5109.

There's plenty of outdoor fun at Kensington Metropark near Milford this winter. Facilities include ice fishing and ice skating on Kent Lake, hills for sledding, special runs for toboggans, cross-country ski trails and cross-country ski rental service. For information, phone 685-1561 (Milford).

In line with the National Rubber Conservation Program, Sheriff John L. Osborn has announced that driver's license tests will be held in various towns throughout Washtenaw county once a month. The first test in Chelsea will be this afternoon.

Chelseaites were cautioned by the Office of Censorship recently in a statement which asked individuals to refrain from presenting the enemy with information of military value. Residents were asked not to tell the names of ships upon which sailors serve, or the troop units in which soldiers overseas serve.

The Kiwanis Club meeting on Monday night was devoted to an open discussion on world problems with questions being moderated by Lowell Davisson, the program chairman.

While area farmers will be facing a real test in production, E. L. Anthony, dean of agriculture for Michigan State College, criticized a recent statement predicting a forthcoming food shortage. Anthony called it "an historic understatement of fact."

AGRICULTURE IN ACTION

MICHIGAN FARM BUREAU

* Congratulations, George!

It didn't make the front-page headlines, but on Oct. 11, 1976, Congress took some noteworthy action.

Members of the House and Senate authorized and requested the President "to appoint George Washington posthumously to the grade of General of the Armies of the United States, such appointment to take effect on July 4, 1976." They did this because it was "fitting and proper" that no officer of the United States Army should outrank Lieutenant General George Washington on the Army list.

Farmers wish that government would act with this same "speed" when it comes to instituting new regulations that are economically unfeasible and sometimes downright ridiculous. And farmers, it seems, are not alone in their running battle against government over-regulation.

At a recent American Management Association forum on "Government, Business and the Public Interest," held in Washington, D.C. last month, farmers discovered that other businesses share their frustrations. For example, the construction industry came up with a situation which rivals agriculture's portable potty hassle in its absurdity. OSHA mandates a back-up alarm on vehicles at construction sites, yet simultaneously—because of its broad regulations covering noise pollution—it requires employees at the sites to wear earplugs to protect them against the noise. Obviously, the alarm becomes difficult to hear when you're wearing earplugs.

The paperwork involved in complying with government regulations is also costly to businesses. Last year, General Motors employed 25,000 people whose sole occupation was to deal with the paperwork required by the government. This cost the company 1.3 billion dollars! You don't have to be in business to feel the effects of government over-regulation. The high cost of complying with these regulations shows up in the higher cost of certain agricultural commodities just as it shows up in the higher cost of 1977 automobiles. In fact, it costs each full-time working person in the United States $1,400 for the government to implement its myriad of regulations.

If these working persons don't want to pay more this year, it's up to them to let their Congressmen know that perhaps they ought to think about a new regulation for 200 years before they pass it.

"What's cooking" in Michigan

by Carl B. Olson
Michigan Dept. of Agriculture

If a rose by any other name would smell as sweet, does a baked scrambled egg pie taste like Quiche Lorraine? Probably not. But don't let the fancy name make you nervous. Go ahead and try it anyway and don't even say Quiche Lorraine until you're done.

If you haven't made one before, practice on a Sunday morning and serve it to the family for brunch. Then you'll be ready for the "big time" and prepare it for guests, making sure you impress them properly by using the words Quiche Lorraine often.

In this recipe I've added onion which, according to Irma Rombauer, makes it a Quiche Alsacienne, but, let's face it, that's even more impressive.

9-inch partially baked pie shell
6 slices bacon, sautéed 'till medium crisp and crumbled
1/4 lb. Swiss cheese, thinly sliced or grated

1/4 cup finely chopped onion
3 or 4 large eggs
1 1/2 cups light cream or half and half

1/4 teaspoon salt
dash of pepper
dash of nutmeg

Line the pie shell with bacon and top the bacon with cheese and onion. Beat eggs with cream and seasonings until well mixed. Pour this over the ingredients in the pie shell. Bake at 375 degrees until a knife inserted in the center comes out clean. This should take 40 to 45 minutes. The Quiche will be puffed and golden. Cut into wedges and serve.

Any of Michigan's 5.6 million hens that laid the eggs you used would have to look upon this dish with admiration. If that number boggles the mind, just consider that each chicken laid an average of 232 eggs a year and Michigan marketed 1.3 billion last year.

Let's see, that would make 325 million Quiches or 400 for every resident of Michigan. Along this line, paraphrasing Mark Twain, there is something fascinating about mathematics. One gets, he said, such wholesale returns of conjecture out of such a trifling investment of fact.

DEREK ROE (left), internationally famed hairdresser, puts the finishing touches on a free-moving, loosely coiled style adorning the head of model Trish Schaut of Saline (right). Roe, who has styled the hair of cover girls in New York and abroad, was in Ann Arbor recently to administer his talents to the heads of men and women throughout Washtenaw county. Designated as a guest-artist-in-residence, Roe was headquartered at Charisma, Inc. of Ann Arbor for a two-week period which began Dec. 6.

Internationally Famous Hairdresser Makes Brief Appearance in Area

With the Christmas countdown into its final stretch and the heading rush to complete holiday preparations at its crest, Chelseaites may have missed the recent guest-artist-in-residence appearance of internationally famed hairdresser, Derek Roe. Roe was headquartered at Charisma, Inc., in Ann Arbor, for a two-week period which began Dec. 6. There, he reawakened and redesigned the lackluster hair of countless men and women country-wide.

Roe, 38, has traveled the world for the past 20 years, developing the hairdressing career he first began in Toronto, Canada, in 1956. Recently, he abandoned a lucrative three-salon conglomerate in London's West End where he fashioned the hair of all the top models in England. Working in that capacity, he was directly associated with Vogue England. When asked why he chose to become a hairdresser, Roe, who wraps a highly assertive character in a mantle of casual sophistication replied, "Because I like traveling, making money, and pretty girls."

Through his experience and travels, Roe acknowledged he has the advantage of being able to say what is happening in hair-styling trends world-wide. Yet, contrary to commonly held impressions of fashion related industries, Roe explained hairdressers do not select a certain look for hair and then popularize the image.

Rather, "trends and lines develop," he stated. "Hairdressers wait until a demand for a particular style comes, and then proceed to manufacture what the public wants." "There is no such thing as a current style," he elaborated. "What's new is all the hairdressers asking what's new."

According to Roe, hair went through an untidy stage until last year. "However, it's starting to clean up," he continued, "good taste in style survives by endurance. Hair styles inevitably return to basic clean and classic looks."

Roe has witnessed the most renowned artists in his field at work, but denied being influenced by any single one. He expressed respect for the work of Toronto's Michael Victor, and that of Vidal Sassoon, though of Sassoon Roe said, "I don't like his way of designing hair at all. As opposed to the dramatic bush style, I prefer a more feminine hair arrangement."

After listening to Roe relate his experiences among his professional peers, one draws the distinct conclusion that most of the top names in the hairdressing business belong to men. Roe's explanation was unmistakably chauvinistic. "Men are at the top because they make hairdressing a career," he stated. "Women practice three to four years, then get married and raise children. If you drop out even for a while, you get way behind."

"There is nothing wrong in the difference between sexes, I am against discrimination in labor," he said in an attempt to qualify his previous statement, "but men are generally more ambitious than women. Men are basically more business oriented and they react logically by nature, whereas women are emotional."

And, while hairdressing demands a good share of artistic talent, "it is basically a hard-headed business, especially in North America," according to Roe. In North America, society is transitory, people are constantly changing directions," he continued. A successful hairdresser recognizes that fact through his business sense and artistically adapts himself to it.

Often the outcome is an adherence to rigid patterns in styling. "Members of a transitory society keep their identity by what they wear, how they look, leading to a security complex in an insecure society," Roe philosophized. "The impact of this on hairdressers is, 'It puts a challenge on you. You are constantly judged by what you do.'"

Roe receives most of his clients through recommendations. He begins his cutting and styling procedures by conversing with each client for 15 minutes before he does their hair. The purpose of the conversation is to determine what style would best reflect a client's personality and styling needs. He then proffers his suggestions. "Our tastes must jibe," he stated. "If the client doesn't like the suggestion, I don't do their hair." As a professional hairdresser, Roe feels his suggestions are superior to those of his customers. "Most don't know hair and are too self-critical," he explained. Roe rates his time at $50 per hour.

His formula for success is "You have to believe what you're doing is better than anyone else's, if you don't you fail." Roe objects to haircutting as simply a way of removing length. Instead, he uses a cut to flatter the features of those patronizing his salon. He can cure dull, limp hair, recondition problem hair, and use color to dramatize nondescript hair.

The success of his methods has received recognition from all the major figures in his business. Currently, Roe is writing a book for Redken, one of the hair industry's leading innovators, and also appears as a platform artist for Redken during promotional campaigns. Upon his return from a hairdressing stint in Hawaii early next year, Roe will assume duties as a research director in hair and nail care products at Redken Laboratories in Grand Rapids.

TODAY'S INVESTOR

By Thomas E. O'Hara
Chairman, Board of Trustees
National Association of Investment Clubs and Editor, Better Investing Magazine

Q. I bought some shares of Dow Chemical Company five or six weeks before the dividend was due. Before the dividend was due on October 29th, I did not receive a check. I waited a couple of days and then called my broker. He said not to worry that I would get the check in a few days. I did receive the money, but the check was from the broker instead of the company. Did the broker not really purchase my shares for me? He did send me an invoice.

A. I see that your brokerage firm is one of the nation's largest and is a member of the national exchanges. I would not worry and would suggest you wait and see if the next check doesn't come to you on time and directly from Dow's Dividend Disbursing Agent. You made your purchase pretty close to September 30th which was the "date of record" for the payment of the dividend. It would appear that the record of your purchase did not reach the corporation in time for you to receive the check directly, but your broker did see that the dividend was directed to you.

Since you have your broker's statement and his check for your dividend, it would seem like he has the proper record of your transaction and the paper work should be in order shortly.

Q. We have just been married and are deciding how we should set up our budget. What advice would you give us on how much and how to invest?

A. "Give 10 percent, save 10 percent and spend the rest, lest you become a miser," said Arkad, the richest man in Babylon.

The way you save, or invest, the 10 percent makes all the difference in the world. Since you seem to be young, I'd suggest you buy stocks of companies that are growing faster than their competitors, but at the same time, you should seek a balance between the moderately growing and the rapidly growing stocks.

I suggest that you put 25 percent of your money into major companies of the larger industries, limiting yourself to those with a 5 to 7 percent or better sales and earnings growth per year.

Another 25 percent should go into quite small companies growing at the rate of 12 to 15 percent per year.

The remaining 50 percent should go into companies that range from small up to the giants where your rate of growth is 7 to 12 percent per year.

You should aim for an average growth rate of 8 to 10 percent for your total portfolio, and the division outlined here should do it.

GROUND SCHOOL OFFERED: Anne Estes, 20, proudly stands beside the Cessna 172 she used to complete her first solo flight. Miss Estes will be the instructor for an aviation Ground School to be offered by the Chelsea Recreation Department in Chelsea High school beginning Jan. 18. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Estes of Butternut Ct., Chelsea.

Aviation Ground School Course Offered at Chelsea High School

An aviation Ground School course, to be taught by Anne Estes of Chelsea, will be offered for prospective pilots beginning Jan. 18, 7 p.m. in Chelsea High school through the Chelsea Recreation Department. The 30-hour course is designed to provide the necessary knowledge and skills required to pass the Private Pilot written examination given by the Federal Aviation Administration.

According to Miss Estes, Ground School is a start toward pursuing a flying hobby, or a career in aviation. To keep course costs reasonable, a minimum of five students is needed to fill the course. A maximum class limit of 15 has been set because some individual attention is required.

The Ground School will cover 17 major areas of aviation, including aerodynamics, navigation, aviation weather, and Federal Aviation rules.

The price of the course per student is dependent upon the number enrolled. The fee includes the cost of instruction, all books, aeronautical charts, and navigation equipment. Rate breaks are $66 third quarter despite continued poor shooting from the line. The Bulldogs were unable to convert and were 0-6. Concluding the third quarter, Chelsea stood 24-50.

As the fourth quarter got underway, it was evident the game suddenly belonged to the Bulldogs. A tremendous comeback, wrought by determination on the part of Robards, Randy Sweeney, Pete Feeney, Morrison, and Thompson, forced Milan into numerous turnovers and errors. Chelsea outscored Milan, 22-11. In that quarter, Jeff Sweet replaced Dean Thompson, and Randy Harris replaced Pete Feeney in the latter stages of the game.

In the final period, the Bulldogs shot extremely well. Coach Balistrere said, as they sank 5 out of 6 from the line, and 9 of 15 from the floor. Late in coming, the Bulldog rally served only to narrow their margin of defeat. At the close of the contest, it was Milan 61, and Chelsea, 47.

"I was disappointed with our early play," stated Coach Balistrere.

Also scoring were Dave Schrotenboer, 3; and Jerry Benjamin and Marc Feeney, 2 each. Leading rebounders were Randy Sweeney with 8, and Don Morrison, 6.

Post-game statistical tabulations showed Chelsea with a total of 36 rebounds, 30 turnovers, 15 steals, and 6 assists. The Bulldogs were 8 of 26 from the foul line for a 30 percent average, and 19 of 51 from the floor for a 37 percent average.

GEORGE MENGE (64), a second-year veteran of Chelsea's varsity squad, was one of the few juniors to start in Chelsea games last season. Again this year, the 5'10", 170-lb. griddier proved to be a powerful asset on the Bulldog defensive unit. Against Saline, Menge led the field in tackles, downing a total of 11 rival players. The CHS senior, who has been playing guard for most of his football career, was also cited for outstanding performance in Chelsea's game against Portland early this fall. In that game, Menge struck for a tackle on a draw play to aid in the Chelsea victory. Both his freshman and sophomore years, Menge was voted Most Valuable Player by his football coaches. He missed the award this season "because he was tired out this year." An active sportsman, Menge enjoys hunting, and wrestles for Chelsea High. He has one sister and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Menge of Railroad St.

LEON BROWN (52) played varsity football for a second consecutive season this year although he is only a CHS junior. In describing his experiences on the 1975 varsity squad, Brown who was still a sophomore at the time, stated, "The guys around me made me look good because they were all so good; they made me work hard just to keep up." During that same season, Brown was selected as SEC All-Conference defensive tackle. He has played either defensive or offensive tackle positions since he first began football in 8th grade, and admits to liking those positions best "because I get more action." However, between offense and defense, Brown prefers the latter because "you can get in there and tear somebody up; on offense you just move them out of the way." Calling all the games "just about the same," the 6'3", 230-lb. griddier was basically reserved about Chelsea's performance this year. But he did elaborate on the two games the Bulldogs won, "Against Portland and South Lyon we were really outstanding," Brown said, "the players all knew they were doing well." Next year, he predicts, "we'll have a great team, especially our backfield." In addition to playing football, Brown wrestles for Chelsea High. He took top heavyweight honors in the recent Dexter Invitational by pinning all three of his heavier opponents. Brown has four brothers, three sisters, and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Andy Brown of Winters Rd.

DALE HEADRICK (54) has been both a guard and tackle for Chelsea football teams since he first began playing in the 7th grade. Comparing the two positions, the 6'0", 170-lb. griddier stated, "As a guard, you get to run around a little more so I prefer playing that position; centers and tackles pretty much remain in the same place." A second-year varsity player, Headrick tied for Most Valuable Lineman his sophomore year, and was voted Most Improved Lineman his junior year. The CHS senior displayed highly perceptive insight into the team's performance this season when he cited Chelsea's game with Novi as the team's best. "Even though Novi defeated us, we kept the score down and did really well against them. As semi-finalists in state competition, they proved to be a tough team. You can't just say we did well in a game because we won," he explained. Headrick is already predicting a conference championship for Chelsea next year. "Next year Chelsea will have a good nucleus of guys, and the team will reflect this year's experience," he said. Headrick has four sisters, three brothers, and is the son of Robert Headrick and Mrs. Don Proctor.

IMPROVEMENT CAN BE COSTLY

You can make a million mistakes trying to sell your own home. And one of them is making the wrong improvements. Many times, an expensive addition or repair can be the kind of thing that'll cost you far more than you get back.

True, the house should present a favorable appearance—mowed lawn, trimmed shrubs, and no obvious indications of neglect; but it's rare when a large financial undertaking will bring more than its cost in the final selling price.

There is always the financial risk of miscalculation too. Home repair costs frequently end up a lot higher than originally anticipated. You may end up with a faster sale and less inconvenience if you lower the selling price an equivalent amount. Instead of guessing as to how much, if any, repair work to undertake, see a Realtor. He can tell you what to do to make your home more salable. And what not to do so you won't lose money.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at FRISINGER REALTY CO., 935 S. Main St., Chelsea. Phone: 475-8681; evenings 475-2621. We're here to help!

Hockey Team Stopped in Tourney Play

The Chelsea Bulldogs hockey team won their first game in the Lansing Christmas Tournament against Harry Hill 2-1. In this game Bob Fischer scored at 6:35 of the first period with an assist by Harold Vandervoort.

The second period saw Bob Fischer score for Chelsea again, this time Greg Hastings and Kevin Houle assisted on the goal. Dave Sprey scored Harry Hill's only goal in that period also. There was no further scoring in the game and the score ended Chelsea 2, Harry Hill 1.

The second game of the tourney was played two days later against the Jackson Vikings. Jackson jumped ahead in the first period when Tom Ganton scored twice for the Vikings. Jackson added a third goal in the second period by Jeff Andrews before Chelsea could get on-track. Then Joe Marentette put Chelsea on the scoreboard when he scored a goal assisted by Pete Huston. In the third period Harold Vandervoort scored a goal for Chelsea with assists from Bob Fischer and Greg Hastings. But Chelsea couldn't get another shot in the net and the score ended Jackson 3 Chelsea 2. The shots on goal shows that goalie Mike Check played a fine game for Chelsea as he turned back all but 3 of 34 shots on goal by Jackson.

Jackson Vikings went on to play in the finals against Parkside. Parkside won the tournament, beating Jackson 3-1 in that final game.

Educational Assessment Test Results

Results of the 1976 Michigan Educational Assessment Test for fourth- and seventh-graders have been received by the Chelsea School District, testing co-ordinator Susan Harding announced Monday, Jan. 3.

Parents of children taking the exam may obtain their child's score by contacting the school where the youngster is enrolled. Fourth grade parents must contact the child's fourth grade teacher and seventh grade parents are asked to contact their child's English or mathematics teacher.

Any questions concerning the test itself should be directed to Miss Harding.

A report on the Chelsea School District's general performance on this test, compared to other school districts, will be published in the latter half of January.

JV Cagers Lose By One-Point Margin

Chelsea High's JV cagers left their fans with a feeling of deja vu as they returned from Christmas vacation to play Milan Tuesday evening. Once again the Bulldogs allowed their opponents to edge ahead to victory with only a one-point separation in the final score. Chelsea dropped the game, 45-46.

"We've now lost a couple like that," said Coach Paul Terpstra. To avoid yet another recurrence, he plans to intensify workouts geared to cut down ball control errors.

The final score was misleading in Tuesday's contest as the game was anything but close at the end of the second period. "We were down 14-23 at half-time," Coach Terpstra explained. "We fought back really well in the second even though it's pretty easy to quit when you're that far behind in an away game. Our major problem was we couldn't get baskets at the right time."

Leading scorers for the Bulldogs were Gary Dils with 16, and Jesse Coburn with 12. They were followed by Al Augustine, 6; Mike Eisele, 4; Don Schrotenboer, 4; and Charlie Bridges, 3. Headlining the rebounding action was Bridges with 10. Also recovering rebounds were Augustine, 9, and Schrotenboer, 7.

Chelsea's JV record is now 2-5 as they prepare to host Dexter this Friday, Jan. 7. The game will be played in the CHS gymnasium.

The Federal Energy Administration recommends that you turn your home thermostat back to 60 degrees at night during the winter heating season. For every degree you dial down, you'll save at least one percent in heating fuel costs.

To be eligible for selection, the students had to earn a 3.4 grade point average out of a possible 4.0, and be either a junior or senior enrolled in the WMU College of Education.

In addition to academic excellence, each new honor society member was selected on the basis of having demonstrated potential leadership in the field of education, according to Dr. Carol Payne Smith, chapter advisor and WMU associate professor of teacher education.

Cards of Thanks

CARD OF THANKS
The Chelsea Jaycees extend their gratitude to the following merchants for their generosity in the donation of items necessary for a successful blood drive: Jiffy Mart, Kusterer's, North Lake Store, Polly's Market, Rick's Market, and Schneider's. Thanks also goes to Harold Salyers for providing use of the UAW Hall. Finally, the blood drive could not have taken place without all of you who so generously donated your blood so others less fortunate may benefit. To you, thank you seems inadequate.

CARD OF THANKS
I wish to thank all of the kind friends, neighbors, relatives, Chelsea Community Hospital, Dr. Papo and other doctors and nurses, Rebekah Lodge, and the Eastern Star Lodge for their care, plants, cards and Christmas goodies given me while I was in the hospital and since my return home. Thank you for being so thoughtful and may God bless you all.
Lulu Sweeney.

THANK YOU
The family of George Steele wishes to thank the many friends and neighbors, the Staffan Funeral Home, Father Dupuis, and the staff at Cedar Knoll Rest Home, for the many, many flowers, masses and acts of kindness shown to us in the recent loss of our dear father. Thanks to all who donated to the St. Mary's Building fund in his name. A special thanks to St. Mary's Altar Society for their help and thoughtfulness. Your many acts of kindness will always be remembered.

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Lesser.

Letters to the Editor

To the Sylvan Township Board and to the Zoning Commission: Before you make your decision this month concerning the rezoning of the north half of the Miller farm to agricultural this taxpayer would like to be heard.

Logically agricultural zoning must have been created so that the individual farmer could sell off a few small parcels to relatives or for the purpose of helping himself financially for taxes, etc. This is only fair!

The zoning was not meant for the benefit of real estate speculators. This should be taken into consideration when the board is asked to rezone a property to Agricultural, otherwise we will eventually lose more and more of our dwindling farms to land developers.

The Miller and Coltre farms are somewhat unique in that they border on and have contained within them wilderness areas and lakes that need to be protected. There are sandhill crane nesting sites, and many wild waterfowl and deer make their homes there.

Washtenaw county has spent much time and money on a study to determine which lands should be allocated for conservation purposes. The Miller and Coltre farms fall into this zoning category. It is our responsibility as thinking people to preserve space in our ever-shrinking wildlife areas from overdevelopment by civilization.

If the township board has the authority to rezone only half the Miller farm as they are at present proposing to do, why can't they rezone just the 10 acres plus on the corner of Mushbach and Cavanaugh Lake Rds., where the real estate company wants to sell three small parcels. If that company is sincere, and I believe that it is, in saying it only wants a few small parcels then such a partial rezoning should satisfy them.

It should also satisfy the surrounding community that their taxes won't be escalated too much in the future from overbuilding of homes; and another problem would be very unlikely.

The rest of the land could be left in Recreation-Conservation to be sold in 10-acre or more lots and we environmentalists would be reassured that when 10 years are up the farms won't be broken into small parcels. We all know that land values are appreciating at unprecedented speeds and that the cost of inserting a few additional roads for frontage requirements would not be prohibitive.

If this land is rezoned agricultural and sold to investors or held by the real estate company the board will have lost control of its use in the future and a settlement of many houses could very well materialize. The impact on the wetlands and wildlife will be just one more small link gone forever from our ecological chain.

Virginia Blanchard,
181 Shoreview Dr.

ZONING BOARD OF APPEALS MINUTES

December 21, 1976

This meeting was called to order at 7:30 p.m. by Chairman Wood for the purpose of a hearing on the petition filed by Leonard Centofanti for a variance from the provision of Section 5.2-E3 of Ord. No. 79 (Zoning Ord.) for the purpose of adding a 4'x8' internally illuminated rear door sign to the existing free standing sign pole located at the A&W Restaurant, 1555 M-52.

The minutes from the December 7 and November 2 meetings were read and approved.

A letter from the Chelsea Planning Commission was read regarding the following reasons: 1) The present sign is non-conforming. 2) Other signs on the property are also non-conforming.

Discussion with Mr. Centofanti followed. It was felt that more study of this problem was required.

Michigan's Florida-Bound Vacationers Have Choice of Four Highway Routes

"Every year hundreds of thousands of Michiganders flee the snow and blustery winds of the North to visit Florida between December and April, and this year should be no different, according to Automobile Club of Michigan Touring Manager Joseph Ratke.

"Surveys show Michigan ranked third behind New York and Ohio as a state of origin for motorists entering the Sunshine State during the first quarter of 1976," Ratke said. "In 1975's first quarter, Michigan was only fifth," he said.

Ratke noted that 90 percent of Florida-bound vacationers from Michigan make the trip south behind the wheel of the family car.

Those Michiganders who make the trip this year will find sparkling new entertainment attractions, luxurious new hotel and motel accommodations, improved highways and plentiful gasoline along major routes.

Disney World, one of the big reasons for central Florida's booming success, recently opened its new "River Country" next to Fort Wilderness Campground. The six-acre water recreation area features an "old swimming hole," waterfalls, raft rides and picnic areas.

Also new is the $2-million, 5,000-seat Atlantis Theater at Orlando's Sea World. It is perched on the edge of a 17-acre lagoon and is designed for aquatic shows, televised water sports and theatrical productions.

The expanded Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey's Circus World near Haines City, about 12 miles west of Disney World, boasts "Participation Circus" for anyone who ever dreamed of performing under the Big Top. Guests can walk the high wire, fly on the trapeze or have their faces painted like clowns.

At West Palm Beach, there is the new Lion Country Safari Amusement Park with 15 wild rides that was scheduled to open Dec. 15. Another wild attraction will be Hurricane World, about two miles east of Orlando. The $5-million, 20-acre complex is scheduled to open early next year. Highlights include a storm testing facility, a mini-theater for hurricane films and what is billed as the scariest ride yet designed by man — an aerial hurricane ride called the "Eye."

Motorists pulling trailers or just pitching tents will find state campgrounds under heavy pressure through mid-January, according to Florida Natural Resources spokesmen. The state has about 2,000 campsites with about half set aside for the "drive-in trade."

Hotel and motel pressure always is heavy in winter but this year Florida has several new hotels and motels and more are scheduled to open next year. Miami's Omni International, set to open in the spring, is a 20-story, 556-room hotel that is part of a $76-million complex featuring an enclosed mall with 140 shops on several levels. It is Miami's first new major hotel in 11 years.

Michigan motorists who spend winter on Florida's sun-drenched beaches will find the Sunshine State's Interstate highway system is about 77 percent complete, with the bulk of the uncompleted mileage the 275 miles of I-75 in south-west Florida.

The I-75 bridge over the Caloosahatchee River, which was started two years ago, is expected to be completed in February. In Southeast Florida, the 78-mile stretch of I-95 between Miami and PGA is under way.

Real Christmas trees are just as much a crop to Michigan farmers as corn, cabbage or cucumbers. In fact, Michigan is the country's leading producer of plantation-grown Christmas trees and our trees are shipped coast to coast.

This year, why not make selecting the tree a family outing by going to one of the many Christmas tree plantations which allow you to choose and cut your own.

If you get the tree out in the field, you'll know it's fresh and will last in the house 'til after the holidays. What you do to the tree once you get it home will have the biggest effect on how long it will last.

First, saw off about an inch of the butt to help the tree get necessary water. Keep water in the container or tree stand during its stay. Keep away from sources of heat — fireplaces, radiators, even television sets dry out the tree. Never use lighted candles and don't leave the house with the Christmas tree lights on.

I think it was Charlie Brown who said any tree is fine, if love is the main decoration.

Boulevard in West Palm Beach also is open.

Southern Michigan motorists should allow at least 2½ days of driving time to reach the Florida state line and 3½ days to go all the way to Miami. From the Kalamazoo area in West Michigan, the drive covers an average of 70 miles more and costs 25 cents more in tolls, but it includes about 71 miles more of four-lane highway.

Michigan motorists headed for Florida may choose from four principal highway routes. They are labeled A, B, C, and D on the accompanying map.

The most direct route for East Michigan tourists is Route A via I-75. Its 1,410 miles include 1,406 miles of four-lane highway and tolls for the entire trip to Miami cost $5.20. Route A goes through Cincinnati, Lexington, Knoxville and Chattanooga but skirts Atlanta via a bypass. There is semi-mountaintous terrain on only about 50 miles of the trip in Kentucky and Tennessee.

The most direct route for West Michigan motorists is Route B. From western and central Michigan, it is reached via Fort Wayne and Indianapolis. East Michigan travelers go by way of Toledo, Cincinnati and Louisville. All but six of the 1,465-mile length is four lane highway.

Alternate Route B-1, which includes Route B to Nashville, is 1,518 miles long and has less freeway than Route B. Its main advantage is as an alternate to Route B in case of bad weather around Chattanooga and Atlanta. Tolls for both Route B and B-1 are $5.20.

Although Route B is 55 miles longer than Route A from the Detroit area, driving time is about the same because there are practically no mountain roads.

Some 1,200 of Route C's 1,690 miles are four-lane highway but winter road conditions could cause problems in Ohio and Pennsylvania. Although not the fastest route to Florida, Route C offers a variety of scenic and historic valleys in Virginia's Shenandoah Valley and the central Carolinas. Tolls are $10.15.

Route D's 1,487-mile path to Florida should be avoided in winter because of the snow and ice conditions in mountainous West Virginia and North Carolina. However, from spring through fall, there are breathtaking views of mountain scenery, and four-lane highways comprise 1,258 miles of the route. Tolls total $6.80.

Auto Club is advising motorists planning a trip south that parts of Ohio and Kentucky and all of Maryland and Virginia are included on the list of states that strictly enforce motorist vehicle laws, particularly those pertaining to speed.

What's Cooking In Michigan

How can you help save America's petroleum resources during the Christmas holidays? Well, you can drive 55 when you're on the highway. You could keep the thermostat turned down several degrees. Also, Michigan Department of Agriculture officials say you can buy a real Christmas tree.

Buy a real tree? Definitely! Those artificial trees you see take petroleum for all the plastic needles, and they use metal supplies to make the trunk and limbs.

Real Christmas trees are just as much a crop to Michigan farmers as corn, cabbage or cucumbers. In fact, Michigan is the country's leading producer of plantation-grown Christmas trees and our trees are shipped coast to coast.

This year, why not make selecting the tree a family outing by going to one of the many Christmas tree plantations which allow you to choose and cut your own.

★ Government Spending Causes Inflation

If you feel like you're earning more, but enjoying it less — you're probably right. According to the U. S. Labor Department, an average worker in private industry, supporting a family of four, now pays 23.4 percent MORE to the federal government for income tax and social security than he did a year ago.

Despite the fact that taxes are the fastest-growing expense in the cost of living, it's often food prices that play the "heavy" in this everyday drama of trying to stretch the weekly paycheck. Compared to other increases in consumer prices, Food — up 2.4 percent — was low on the list. That's why farmers get a bit frustrated when they hear rumblings of government involvement in setting prices on food products. They think consumers ought to be more concerned about attacking the real cause of inflation — excessive government spending.

That's not an easy task. We can express shock when we hear congressional staff members have increased by 44 percent and staff salary appropriations have doubled since 1970. We can tell our Congressmen to stop the spending spree which has fueled the fires of inflation. The hard part comes when we have to admit our own responsibility in the nation's number one problem — and then do something about it.

Human greed, the desire to get "something for nothing," the continual demand for more government benefits than we are willing to pay for through taxes — this has caused inflation. We cannot demand, out of one side of our mouth, that Congress halt big spending and, out of the other side, demand more government programs. This "speaking with forked tongue" will not solve the problem.

Demand for more government involvement in our daily lives also leads to another danger, according to Paul Poltor, author of "The Pension Law." His words are worth pondering . . .

Extension Program Shows Ways To Stretch Budget

Convenience mixes . . . a time saver for the busy cook, but sometimes a strain on a tight food budget. On Jan. 6, at 1 p.m. in Extension's meeting room at the Washtenaw County Service Center, Helen Fairman, Extension Home Economist will show how you can enjoy the advantages of convenience mixes without an extra cost by making your own at home.

For a start, Mrs. Fairman has gathered together a collection of her own and other favorite $$$ stretch, home-made mixes to share. She hopes, too, that those who come to her free demonstration will bring their favorite recipe to share. If they wish they may bring a sample or a demonstration as well.

Participants will get to taste test some of the end products in addition to discussing the reason why they may choose to make their own mixer. Are they worth the effort? Will it really save $$$ and time? Are the end products as good or better than what they can buy?

Call 973-9510 to reserve a place for this free meeting. Which like all Co-operative Extension Service programs is available to all.

County Status

Of Women

Memberships

Washtenaw County Advisory Committee on the Status of Women is now accepting applications for membership.

Out-county women may obtain applications by calling 994-2400 and asking to have them mailed. Women wishing to be considered for appointment this winter should return their applications to the Board of Commissioners' Office in the County Building in Ann Arbor no later than Jan. 21.

The committee meets in the County Building two Monday evenings a month.

"The committee offers a means for women with various values and interests to work for the advancement of the status of women in the communities in which we live," according to Marilyn Kolton, PhD, committee chairwoman.

Its current major project is a women's directory which will list women professionals and organizations and agencies of particular interest to women. Dr. Kolton expects the directory to be finished by summer and hopes to have it published and ready for distribution by fall.

The committee also maintains an "action request" system through which county women may ask for its help.

A Job Fair, held at the Washtenaw Community College in October was the committee's most recent completed project. The seven-hour program included workshops on job seeking, discrimination, child care, money, and the psychological aspects of work. It was an offshoot of an employment hearing and an employment survey conducted earlier by the committee's Employment Task Force.

Also last fall, the committee's Health Task Force assisted the local chapter of the National Organization for Women and the Michigan Women's Commission in encouraging Washtenaw county women to add their personal and professional experiences with wife assault to a report which will be used as a basis for state legislation.

In 1975, the committee convened representatives from 20 county women's organizations and other interested individuals to form the International Women's Year Planning Council, which organized the IWY Festival held in October 1975 at the Community College.

In 1973, the committee co-sponsored a hearing on the Office of the Friend of the Court and was instrumental in publishing the testimony and report of that hearing. The committee is open to new directions. "Women who have ideas they'd like to implement can find ways to do that in the Advisory Committee," Dr. Kolton says. "The support is there. It's built right into the committee structure."

Ski Slopes Preparing for Record Season

Expanded facilities at half of Michigan's ski areas, introduction of hourly rates and more emphasis on families and groups are expected to draw the largest crowds in history to the slopes this winter, according to Automobile Club of Michigan.

Michigan's 1.2 million alpiners will be able to choose from 58 ski areas, one more than last year. Although one ski area operating last season — TimberLee, near Traverse City — will not open this winter, two others previously closed will reopen with new names and owners.

Operators state-wide are hoping that investment in new hills, equipment and buildings will lead to a 15 to 20 percent business expansion, the same as last season. A new lodge operators are projecting increases over 65 percent, Auto Club stated.

An improved economy, steadily increasing interest in the outdoors and more people looking for quick mid-winter, mini-vacations were cited most often by lodge managers for skiing's increasing popularity.

"This year, more resorts than ever are making it easy for anyone to learn to ski," stated Joseph Ratke, Auto Club touring manager. For example, 81 percent of all ski areas listed in Auto Club's 1977 guide offer rental equipment, with ski instructions available at 86 percent.

Skiers with children will find one-third of all facilities offering baby-sitting, with many sponsoring nursery ski schools for youngsters able to take to the slopes.

In addition, 42 areas offer cross-country skiing, up 27 percent from last season. One Upper Peninsula resort, Brule Mt. near Iron River, offers a Michigan first — lighted trails for night cross-country skiing.

Another innovative feature this year is skiing by the hour at Crystal Mt. near Thompsonville in northwest Lower Michigan.

"You can ski any portion of the day you want and pay only for that portion. It averages about a dollar an hour. There are reduced rates for night and mid-week skiing as well. If you plan to ski before 1 p.m. on Saturdays and Sundays, you must purchase a minimum blocks of nine and eight hours, respectively," Ratke said.

The largest pre-winter expansion in Lower Michigan was at Cannonburg ski area northeast of Grand Rapids, where a three-year, $600,000 project is about complete.

A new 1,800-foot hill with a 250-foot vertical drop, a four-place chair-lift and a new cafeteria and banquet room are expected to lure 20 percent more persons to the slopes than last year.

The two previously closed lodges reopening this winter are Winterski near Lakeview (formerly Brule's Hills) and Hanson Hills near Grayling (formerly Bear Mt.). The new owners of Winterski, with help from a new hill and larger lodge, hope to up business 50 percent over its last season in 1974-75. Hanson Hills — an on-and-off operation the past year — will be operated by the Grayling Recreation Authority.

A third resort, Brule Mt. in the UP, has undergone a $350,000 expansion. Its new owners hope to increase business by a whopping 67 percent over last season.

Skiers returning to 25 Michigan resorts will find daytime week-end lift fees unchanged from a year ago. Lift prices rose from 25 cents to $2 at 27 others. At three areas, including Hanson Hills, price information was unavailable. One area lowered daily fees and another new charges by lift fees of $10.

Daily week-end lift fees of $10 — the state's highest — are in effect at these resorts: Boyne Mt., Boyne Falls, Boyne Highlands, Harbor Springs, Sugar Loaf, Cedar, Schuss Mt., Manicouana, and Indianhead Mt., Wakefield. Fees at both Boyne resorts are unchanged from last year. Schuss Mt. and Indianhead Mt. raised fees $1.

"Services and facilities at resorts with the highest lift fees are among the most deluxe in Michigan, featuring four-place chair-lifts, lodging near the slopes, week-end entertainment, dining rooms, cocktail lounges and heated swimming pools," Ratke pointed out.

Three ski areas dropped lift fees for this winter. Snowsake at Harrison night fees went from $4 to $3.50, while Irish Hills near Onsted dropped night fees from $6 to $5. Traverse City Holiday near Traverse City lowered daily fees from $6 to $5.50.

Here is a brief look at what skiers may expect in state tourist regions this winter: Southeast Michigan—Detroit-area residents may ski days and any night at seven of eight areas operating this season. Lift fees vary from $3.50 to $8. Mt. Holly's year-old, 1,800-foot run is widened by 60 feet. Mt. Brighton expanded its lodge and increased its rental ski stock to 1,700 pairs. Mt. Gramplan, Oxford, increased snowmaking capacity 50 percent and added a powder snow maker. Alpine Valley, near Milford, improved its cable.

East Michigan — The region's 10 ski areas offer 112 runs, catering to economy-minded families. Only Sylvan Knob, Gaylord, and Skyline, Grayling, offer package rates at nearby motels or chalets. Lift tickets are from $5 to $7.50. Nine areas offer ski schools. Most West Michigan — Twenty of this region's 26 ski areas offer packages featuring lift tickets and lodging, while 11 offer rooms, chalets or condominiums near the slopes, making it the state's most popular ski-vacation area. Daily week-end lift fees range from $2.50 to $10. Boyne Mt., at Boyne Falls, plains four new indoor tennis courts. Winterski, near Lakeview, doubled its lodge capacity and boasts the state's best lighting for night skiing on a new 1,800-foot-long run. Swiss Valley, at Jones, has a new 500-foot beginner slope, Crystal Mt., near Thompsonville, has six miles of new cross-country trails, and Royal Valley, near Buchanan, has a new cocktail lounge and new 1,400-foot intermediate run and has added a rope tow.

Upper Peninsula — With runs more than a mile long and the highest vertical drops in the state, the UP's 14 ski areas are the closest some midwesterners get to mountain skiing. Six areas offer package rates and nine have chalets, condos or rooms near the slopes. Tickets cost from $1 to $10 daily. At Brule Mt., two miles of cross-country trails are lighted for night use, lift capacity has been increased 40 percent and 18 camping sites with electricity were added. Baby-sitting service also is new there. Big Powderhorn, near Bessemer, has added a 2,500-foot novice-intermediate run plus a double chairlift. A $300,000 chalet has been added to the state-owned Porcupine Mt. ski area near Ontonagon. Indianhead Mt., near Wakefield, installed a new double chairlift, and Vulcan, U.S.A., near Vulcan, redesigned its beginner hill and added snowmaking to all runs.

Cager of the Week

JERRY BENJAMIN (52) broke his leg in 7th grade, came back in 8th and 9th grade to play football, basketball, and baseball for Chelsea schools, and made the Bulldog varsity basketball team his sophomore year of high school. Since then, he has limited his well-rounded athletic abilities to basketball only, and has consequently produced a record which ranks him as one of Chelsea's leading scorers. The 6'3" junior forward modestly bypassed the opportunity to specify any of his many incidents of outstanding achievement on the courts, although he has consistently scored at least six or seven points for his team in each game this season. "It's all a team effort," Benjamin explained, "I don't look at any game from the standpoint of individual performance." Nevertheless, Benjamin's talents have been the subject of praise by Chelsea basketball coach Tom Balistrere who profiled the cager as "a strong defensive player, who is also strong around the basket." Expanding on this year's team performance, Benjamin acknowledged "South Lyon has been our best game this season. We won because we put it together and started playing team ball." During the last week of Christmas vacation, Chelsea's varsity basketball squad resumed practice in preparation for their away game with Milan last Tuesday, Jan. 4. Over-all, "we'll do better this portion of the season," Benjamin predicted following a practice session last Friday. "We had some hurt players before Christmas, but they have all returned now, so we expect to be playing better." Benjamin has two brothers and two sisters. He is the son of Mrs. Carl Benjamin of 535 McKinley St., and the late Mr. Benjamin.

Boosters Club Recommends New Athletic Admission Prices

The Dec. 13 meeting of the Chelsea Athletic Boosters Club was held at the home of Roger and Donna Schrottenbecker with 35 members in attendance.

Various priority projects under consideration by the group were discussed, and it was resolved that immediate action should be taken to adjust the price of tickets to Chelsea school athletic events.

Members agreed to submit the following price schedule to the Chelsea School Board for consideration.

High school events: adults, $1.50; high school students, with I.D., $1.25; high school students, without I.D., $1.00; junior high students, $1; elementary students (K-5), with parent, free; elementary students (K-5), without parent, $1. Junior High events: adults, $1; high school and junior high students, 50 cents; elementary students, free.

At their Dec. 20 meeting, the school board adopted the price schedule as submitted by the Boosters Club.

Psychology Award

Prior to beginning their Christmas holiday recess of classes, Chelsea High psychology students honored Don Aldrich as winner of the Psychology Student of the Month Award. Following his nomination by classmates, Aldrich was selected for the award by CHS psychology teacher Paul Terpstra.

Students of the third-hour psychology class based their nomination on Aldrich's participation and attentiveness in class. They also cited his ability to perform well academically in psychology. Aldrich has maintained an A-average in the class throughout the semester.

Particularly noteworthy is the fact that Aldrich is one of the few juniors enrolled in the class, and the first junior to win the award. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William S. Aldrich of Middle St.

DON ALDRICH

Ask Project COPE

Question: "My son will be three years old in two months. He hardly talks at all. Sometimes I don't think he hears too well, but our family doctor says he's ok. I have asked my doctor if he can't do some tests just to be sure. Todd gets colds and runny noses. Sometimes he cries and rubs his ears. It's when he has a bad cold that he doesn't seem to hear well."

I can't spend all day with him because I need to work on an afternoon shift at the plant. I leave him with an older lady down the road. He seems to like her. There just aren't any kids for him to play with out here where we live. I have talked to a couple of girls I work with and they think I should have him checked. What do you think? What can I do?

Answer: By all means insist that your doctor check your son's ears more thoroughly. What you describe could be symptoms of a number of problems, but your doctor needs to diagnose it. If your son isn't hearing well, then his speech and language may not develop well, since he may miss a lot of what normally would be good speech models for him to imitate. Your doctor may refer you to a specialist to check your son's hearing. Either doctor may then make recommendations for your son's hearing and, perhaps, his speech and language development. After you have seen the doctor and have heard the recommendations, contact the special education director in your school district. (In Chelsea, details phone 685-1561 (Milford).

Manchester, and Whitmore Lake, this individual is Dr. Henry DeYoung at 475-9131, extension 48.) The school speech pathologist, along with the director, can tell you whether or not your child is eligible for speech and language therapy (or other services); make suggestions for ways of helping your son; and possibly recommend a pre-school program or nursery school into which he would fit. The special education staff in your school district is ready to answer your questions and help you.

Answered by: Marie G. Trzcinski, Speech Pathologist, Chelsea School District.

(Project COPE is a federally funded program which is being operated during the current school year by Special Education Region V for Chelsea, Manchester, and Whitmore Lake School Districts. Its aim is to inform the community about the special problems and needs of pre-school children. Those who have questions, concerns, or wish to refer a child for diagnostic services may contact Ellen Eagan, Project COPE director, at 475-9131, extension 50 or Dr. DeYoung at extension 48.)

The nature trails at Kensington Metropark near Milford are open daily for self-guided hikes. Winter bird feeding stations, animal tracks and the Canada Geese are popular attractions in winter. For details phone 685-1561 (Milford).
