Pre-Christmas Band Concert Slated Dec. 15

Chelsea bands will ring in the season Thursday evening, Dec. 15, with a special Christmas Concert in the high school auditorium.

Warren Mayer, assisted by Glen DePine, will be conducting the 7th and 8th grade bands, while Steve Bergmann, also assisted by DePine, will direct the high school concert and symphony bands.

The program will open promptly at 8 p.m. with Beeler's arrangement of "Frostie the Snowman" played by the 7th graders. They will follow with "Hosanna," a Christmas chorale of baroque music by Praetorius, and close with "Tinsel and Holly," a Christmas medley by Balent.

The 8th graders will open their portion of the program with "American Christmas Festival," a composition of carols by Erickson. Other numbers to be performed by the group will include Nowak's arrangement of "Do You Hear What I Hear," and "The Budapest Carol," a Hungarian Christmas carol arranged by Forsblad.

Chelsea High's Concert Band will then take the stage with "Christmas Party" by Walters, followed by Hastings' "Christmas Curtain Raiser" and Cacavlis' arrangement of "Do You Hear What I Hear" and "Snow Bells."

Last to perform will be the high school Symphony Band. The group will debut with Owen Reed's "The Mass from La Fiesta Mexicana," and will also play the first and third movements of "The First Suite in E Flat" by Holst. Their final number, "Christmas Spirit" by Nestico, will be followed by a sing-along finale of selected Christmas carols.

The public is invited to attend the upcoming concert. No admission will be charged.

Salem Grove Church Plans Holiday Events

Members of Salem Grove United Methodist Church Women entertained 25 residents of the Chelsea United Methodist Home at a worship service Sunday, Dec. 4. A bountiful pot-luck dinner followed the worship service with 75 people in attendance.

The church will sponsor a Christmas hymn sing Sunday, Dec. 11, 7:30 p.m. at the church, with an annual Christmas program presentation and social hour scheduled the following Sunday, Dec. 18, at 7:30 p.m. The public is invited to both services.

There will also be a candle-light communion service at Salem Grove church on Christmas Eve, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Hoop 'n' Shoot Contest Held At High School

More than 40 Chelsea boys and girls, between the ages of 8 and 13, participated in the first annual Hoop 'n' Shoot Contest at Chelsea High school last week-end. The contest was sponsored by the Chelsea Jaycees.

First- and second-place winners in each category of the contest are now eligible to advance to the local finals to be held at Ann Arbor Pioneer High school, Saturday, Dec. 10, at 12 noon.

In the boys' 8- and 9-year-old division, first-place went to Matthew Koehn, while Matthew Kemp took runner-up honors. Karen Weber topped the field in the 8- and 9-year-old girls' division, while Sallie Wilson finished in second place.

Winning the 10- and 11-year-old boys' division title was Rickie Slater, while Charlie Koehn finished in second place. Dawn Zainer won the girls' division of the same age group, with Amy Wolfgang taking second.

In the boys' 12- and 13-year-old division, top honors went to David Wojcik. Bill Merkel was runner-up. Champion of the girls' 12- and 13-year-old division was Marie Stajish.

Following local finals Dec. 10, youngsters placing in the number one and two spots will have an opportunity to compete in district, state, and national finals. The national finals will take place in Kansas City, Mo., in March of next year.

Nationally, the annual Hoop 'n' Shoot Contest is sponsored by the Elks Lodge.

New Manager Named By Michigan Bell

Michigan Bell today announced the appointment of a new community relations manager for the Ann Arbor-Ypsilanti area.

Donald Roth, a supervisor in the company's business office staff in Livonia, will succeed Harry Kenworthy, the company's local manager since 1972, effective Dec. 19.

Kenworthy, who is transferring to Michigan Bell's personnel department in Southfield, is a board member of the Ann Arbor Chamber of Commerce.

Girls Basketball Team Loses in Tournament

Chelsea High's girls varsity basketball team finished its season last Thursday with a 57-32 loss to Tecumseh in the semi-finals of district tournament play.

Chelsea opened with excellent defense which it maintained for the remainder of the first half, but was unable to sink its own shots, giving Tecumseh a four-point half-time lead, Coach Cheryl Vogel reported.

"The first half was characterized by close competition," she added.

In the second half, the Bulldogs were unable to shake their shooting problem, and Tecumseh capitalized on Chelsea's predicament. Tecumseh also made 15 of 21 free throw attempts, while the Bulldogs were not awarded any free throws in the half.

High scorer for Chelsea were Nanette Push and Penny Collinsworth with 12 points each. Also scoring were Sue Heydlauff, Shelley Warren, Tracy Hawker and Mary Boylan.

Chelsea's leading rebounder was Shelley Warren with 14.

JV Bulldogs Upend Novi Friday Night

Chelsea's junior varsity cagers upended Novi Friday, 55-47, after outscoring the Wildcats in all but the third quarter.

Chelsea came away from the game with an excellent foul shooting percentage of 72, putting 13 of 18 attempts through the hoop, and out-rebounded Novi, 30 to 18.

Scoring 10 points in the first quarter and 14 in the second, compared to Novi's five points in the first quarter and 12 in the second, Chelsea posted a 24-17 half-time lead.

Novi narrowed the gap to three points behind Chelsea in the third period when the Bulldogs were outscored 16-12. However, in a fourth quarter comeback, Chelsea's JV squad netted 19 more points compared to Novi's 14, to come out on top of the 55-47 decision.

Scoring for the Bulldogs were Mike Killelea with 16 points, Don Schrotenboer with 15, Jeff Dils with 13, John Dunn with 7, and Dan Alber with 4.

Leading rebounders were Schrotenboer with 11 and Killelea with 9. Dils had five steals.

Chelsea's next encounter will be with Brighton Friday, to be played here beginning at 6:30 p.m. Then on Saturday, the junior Bulldogs will travel to South Lyon for their second game of the week.

Attempted Larceny Thwarted at Polly's

Chelsea police are still investigating a charge of attempted robbery following an incident at Polly's Market Sunday afternoon which has left a cloud of suspicion hanging over the head of a Detroit man.

According to police reports, Sgt. Lenard McDougall and Ptl. Jack Orr were dispatched to Polly's Market, 1101 M-52, at approximately 4:10 p.m. Sunday upon receiving a call that a robbery had just occurred.

Upon arriving at the scene of the reported theft, the officers were told by Willard Ziegler, Jr., of North St., that "several black males tried to steal some money in Polly's." The witness added that the suspects had fled in a brown Chrysler "300" bearing the license number KNN 847.

The vehicle description was given to the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department, and the investigating officers then went inside the local grocery to take statements from a cashier and other witnesses.

The cashier, Loraine Miller, allegedly the victim of the robbery attempt, informed police that she had gone to the safe at Polly's Market to remove some money for a bank deposit. After getting approximately $1,600 from the safe, she returned to her register to add some checks to the deposit.

She told police that although she observed the suspects watching her, she ignored them. However, while she was removing the checks from the register, she noticed a movement at her side, snatched the envelope of money down, and yelled several times to a fellow employee, Fred Hawley of Jackson, to come over to her.

At this point, Miller said the man who had been behind her walked out of the store with his friends after failing to purchase anything. Hawley followed and also wrote down the license number and description of the car transporting the suspect group.

At 4:20 p.m., Chelsea police were informed that a vehicle matching the description of the suspect's car had been stopped in Ypsilanti by Sheriff's deputies, and that the vehicle was impounded for improper registration.

Further investigation of the incident resulted in the following account. Three black males and one black female had entered Polly's Market Sunday afternoon and began loitering around the back of the market, according to the police report. One of the men, Marvin L. Wright, 18, of Detroit, was observed opening a cash register in the back of the store, but the register was empty. While he was opening the register, those

Christmas Festival Slated By Art Dept.

Pottery, macrame, basketry, batik and sculpture exhibits will be only a few of the items on display during the Chelsea High Art Department's annual Art Festival, Dec. 15.

The annual festival serves a dual purpose by providing high school art students with an opportunity to show their works (many of which have taken weeks to complete) and by allowing parents and community residents an opportunity to view the talent of young artists in the local area.

Several innovative projects will be showcased at the festival, including art works created from leather and plexi-glass by instructor Laurie LaZebnik's students.

A new addition to the art program at Chelsea High this year is the photography department under the direction of Cathy Opoka. Results of her instruction, coupled with the imagination of her students, will be on display in an exhibit of silk-screened photographs.

Skills in the development of black and white film, as well as the enlargement of photographs, will also be a featured part of the festival.

The Art Festival will coincide with the Christmas Concert by Chelsea school bands, to be held in the high school auditorium the evening of Dec. 15.

The Art Festival will be in the high school cafeteria, and will be open to the public from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. in the afternoon; and from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. in the evening. Crackers and cheese will be served at the opening.

Biddy Basketball Practice Sessions Start Saturday

All biddy basketball players should report to Beach Middle school Saturday, Dec. 10, for their first practice of the season. Practice sessions will be held at 7 p.m. (Continued on page eight)

Wrestlers Finish 4th in Dexter Invitational

Chelsea claimed three weight championships and placed a total of seven wrestlers in the finals of the Dexter Invitational Saturday to finish fourth in the eight-team competition with 107½ points. Willow Run took the tournament with 148½ points while Dexter was runner-up at 137. Other team scores were Saline 136, Arkley 97½, Brighton 73½, Hickney 39½, and Jackson North-32.

Winning championships for Chelsea were Chuck Young at 199 lbs., Mike Young at 132 lbs., and Dan Brown, heavyweight.

All three were very impressive, really were not tested too much. Coach Richard Bareis noted, "Chuck Young won in the finals with a 4-1 decision over Willow Run; his brother had a 13-0 win over Craig Willow Run in the finals; and Dan pinned Friel of Northville in 32 seconds."

Bulldog wrestlers who placed in the invitational were Bullock, 3rd at 126 lbs. with a 3-2 record, and a 1-2 record over Dexter following a 1-0 win over Friel.

Beginning Monday, Chelsea stores will remain open until 8:30 p.m.

Santa Returning

Chelsea Merchants Association has arranged with Santa for him to visit area children in the Longworth Plating Building on N. Main St. He will be there from 1 to 3 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 10, and again on Saturday, Dec. 17.

Beginning Monday, Chelsea stores will remain open until 8:30 p.m.

MUSIC PLANNING COMMITTEE: During the past month, Marjorie Beaumont, left, the Rev. Marvin McCallum, center, and June Warren, right, members of the Music Planning Committee for the Dec. 11 Festival of Lessons and Carols, have been busy selecting music and organizing rehearsals for those participating in the choral portion of the upcoming program. Performances by community-wide Senior and Youth choirs will highlight the festival, which was arranged by the Chelsea Ministerial Fellowship as a special Advent-Christmas program for Chelsea area residents. The event will take place Sunday at St. Paul United Church of Christ on Old US-12, beginning at 4 p.m.

Area Churches Join in Presenting Festival of Lessons, Carols

Churches throughout the Chelsea area will join together in a special tribute to Christmas this Sunday when the Chelsea Ministerial Fellowship presents its first Festival of Lessons and Carols, a community-wide Advent-Christmas program.

The event will take place at 4 p.m. at St. Paul United Church of Christ on Old US-12.

A Senior Choir under the direction of June Warren will perform "The Hallelujah Chorus" and "For Unto Us A Child Is Born" from Handel's "Messiah."

Following their performance, a community Youth Choir under the direction of Mary Olney will sing a number of carols appropriate to the season.

The Festival of Lessons and Carols was organized by the Rev. Marvin H. McCallum, the Rev. R. J. Ratliff and the Rev. Jerold F. Beaumont. Music Committee members for the program are the Rev. McCallum, Marjorie Beaumont and Mrs. Warren.

All area residents are invited to attend the event.

4 Years Ago...

Thursday, Dec. 10, 1973
 The old DLR station, which has stood vacant for a number of years, was demolished this past week to make way for a 10,000 square foot expansion of the Federal Screw Works plant. Built around the turn of the century, the building was a substation for the old electric railway between Detroit and Jackson.

After 22 years of meeting in various places, including private homes, the Post No. 4010 has finally found a real home. As of Dec. 1, Post members have leased the former Tallfather Building at 1015 N. Main St. What happens after high school is a question of concern to a senior who intends to exist after June of 1974. To provide at least an indication of what has happened to other students who have left Chelsea High school, the National Honor Society invites seniors and any other CHS graduates currently furthering his or her education to a get-together in the high school library next Friday.

Local businessmen who have sponsored Santa's visits to Chelsea note that Santa has been working on his scheduled appearances here this year to make sure all children are able to voice their Christmas requests in person.

MICHIGAN MIRROR

By Warren M. Hoyt, Secretary, Michigan Press Association

Loophole in Government Openness

The legislature took a giant step backwards last week upon approving a bill exempting a party caucus of county boards of commissioners from the open meeting act.

The paradox is that the exemption was placed in a bill designed to conform the meetings of the state's 80 county commissions with the omnibus open meetings act of 1976.

It also must be noted that a major exemption in the 1976 act—to open doors of government and bring discussions leading to a major policy decision before the public—was party caucuses of legislative bodies.

The major problem created by the bill, which is being prepared for presentation to the governor for signature, is that some 30 counties in Michigan are single party which could lead to closing meetings under the name of party caucus and removing the public from any or all deliberations.

The legislature has made a grave mistake in once again slapping the door in the face of the public. Credibility and accountability of all legislative bodies, both on the state and local levels, again must be questioned.

Governor William G. Milliken must correct the legislature's mistake with a veto.

Following that, the legislature must look to itself and remove its self-imposed exemption of its caucuses if there is ever any hope of letting the sun shine into crusty caucus meetings.

Fuel Subsidy Program

Partisan politics may again spell doom to a people program—this time in the form of a home heating subsidy.

A dispute is brewing between the executive and legislative branch over the amount of the subsidy and the simple fact of a dispute may delay the proposed program just enough to prohibit implementation this winter.

A proposal submitted by Republican Governor Milliken carries a price tag of $30 million while the Democratic-controlled legislature's alternate proposal would cost around $47.5 million.

House Republicans, when the legislature returns following the Thanksgiving recess, will attempt to amend the Democratic bill (HB 4371) to bring it in line with Milliken's thinking.

Milliken's plan would similarly be tied to income and family size but would also have a key conservation factor. Under the plan, a credit would be tied to consumption, so the less a qualifying family consumes, the less they would have to pay.

The Milliken plan would be paid entirely by a $32 million settlement the state has reached with the federal Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

Clem Webster came to the county store Saturday night with a report that confirmed the father's worst fears. Clem said a recent study shows that Congressmen are so busy they don't have time to consider what they're doing. He said a survey by the House Commission on Administrative Review found that the average Congressman puts in 11 hours a day when the House is in session, and he only has 11 minutes to think.

With just 11 minutes to fidget the best course of action, the study shows that a House member spends four and a half hours of his working day talking action. If that ain't jumping in the saddle and riding off in all directions, Clem said he didn't know what is. To make matters worse, Clem said the number of committees Mr. Average Congressman is a member of, and the length of the sessions of Congress had doubled in the past 20 years.

What this means, Clem allowed, is that Average Congressman has more and more time to do something he knows less and less about. Rep. David Obey of Wisconsin said the report makes clear that "rarely do members have sufficient time free from the frantic pace of the Washington treadmill." Of that 11-hour day, Clem said, Average Congressman puts in nearly a hour meeting with his staff, and it must be a guess what they talk about since the Congressman don't have time to think about it. He spends 48 minutes answering mail, but only three minutes conferring with House leadership. If it ain't bad enough that he won't think, declared Clem, he won't have time to get advice from anybody else.

Clem's report reminded Bug Hookum of the time Yogi Berra was told he had to outthink the pitcher at the plate. Yogi wanted to know how a ball player can be expected to think and hit at the same time. Bug said he's not surprised in the least to learn that Congressmen can't pass laws, give away money, keep the folks back home happy, run for another term and try to squeeze any thinking in. The best example of how thinking don't fitter into legislation is the kind of work the House and the Senate is doing on the Administration's energy plans, Clem declared.

Ed Doolittle was agreed that the study jibes with the facts. He said he recollected the poor devil in court with one lawyer trying to come to alimony terms with his wife and her two lawyers. He final figured out why everything was going agin him. He said when one of his wife's lawyers was standing and talking the other was sitting and thinking. When his lawyer was standing and talking nobody was thinking. What we need, Ed allowed, is twice as many Congressmen so one can sit home and think. With one spending and none thinking, it's no wonder we give away $20 billion a year more than we take in, was Ed's words.

There is a positive side, Mister Editor, that the fellows missed. The sessions are longer, true, but the Congressmen are taking more and longer recesses. From Clem's report, I'd say the more rest they take the better off we'd be. Like the man said, nobody's safe when they're in session.

Yours truly,
 Uncle Lew.

The legislative plan would use those funds plus another $13.5 million from the state's general fund.

The governor's plan would effect only the months of February, March and April. It was originally scheduled to include January but Milliken aides indicate it is now impossible to implement anything before February. The legislative bill is slated to go into effect in mid-January.

Transportation Plan Revived

It has often been said that nothing in life is certain but taxes and death, but another good bet is revitalization of a legislative issue even after it has been pronounced dead.

Earlier a state-wide transportation plan was so pronounced, but the $18.3 million transportation package received a new lease on life upon gaining support of the Wayne County Road Commission after shelling an additional $3.8 million from public transportation to bridges and roads.

Various highway and road interest groups brought the package to a sudden halt upon refusing to support a package increasing both gasoline and weight taxes with much of the increased revenue designated for public transit systems as opposed to increased construction of highways.

The new agreement cuts funds for comprehensive transportation (urban systems, intercity rail and bus and water) by $3 million and cuts funds to state highways by $3.5 million. Those funds would be reallocated to increase the critical bridge program to $5 million and increase funds to county and municipal road agencies to $7.5 million.

Rep. William Ryan (D-Detroit), prime legislative proponent for the package, said even though comprehensive transportation suffers in comparison to earlier plans, it still would get a net boost in funds of $7.5 million. Those additional funds would keep such programs moving forward. Without any such plans, estimates indicated that public transportation programs in medium sized cities could be cut as much as one-third.

Labor-Saving Farm Equipment Saves Time

Larger tractors, nearly twice as powerful as those used two decades ago, as well as other labor-saving equipment, have boosted the output per hour of work by 275 percent. For example, the man-hours required to produce 100 bushels of corn declined from 40 in 1950 to six in 1974; wheat declined from 28 to 9. Farm output per unit of input has shot up 44 percent.

Residential Building Shows Rapid Growth

Permits issued for new housing in Southeast Michigan for the first half of 1977 increased 47.2 percent over the same period last year, according to a report released last week by the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG).

The report further reveals that half of the current housing activity is taking place in three major pockets of the seven-county area, with Oakland county showing the greatest number of new units authorized and five of its communities in the top 10 of the entire seven-county region.

The report shows the greatest concentration of housing activity to be taking place in adjacent Troy and Sterling Heights.

In a county breakdown, Oakland leads the seven counties with permits issued for 5,068 units. Wayne county is second with 2,935 units followed by Macomb with 2,893 units. Fourth is Washtenaw with authorization for 850 units. Livingston is fifth with 734. Monroe is sixth with 545, and St. Clair seventh with 445.

Within Washtenaw county, the report shows Ann Arbor at the top of the list in permits for the construction of new detached single family units with a total of 102 issued in the first half of 1977.

However, permits issued for new detached single family units in Chelsea and six surrounding townships areas also reflect a sizeable increase in residential housing during the first half of 1977. The figures are Chelsea, 7; Dexter township, 32; Freedom township, 4; Lima township, 28; Lyon township, 6; Sharon township, 7; and Sylvan township, 17.

Although fifth on the county breakdown list, housing permits issued for new detached single family units in certain areas of Livingston county indicate a building boom in progress there, too. Brighton township, leads the county, with 104 permits issued, followed by Hamburg township with 95, Green Oak township with 67, and Howell township with 27. Pinckney is near the bottom with 4.

SEMCOG is a voluntary council of governmental units performing long-range planning for transportation, housing, land use, recreation and open space, public safety and environment. Membership in the Council represents Livingston, Macomb, Monroe, Oakland, St. Clair, Washtenaw and Wayne counties.

Chelsea Co-Op Nursery Children Study Thanksgiving

Chelsea Co-Op Nursery children are very busy this month learning about Pilgrims and Indians and playing in their tepee.

On Wednesday, Nov. 16, the 4-year-olds class members, after hearing the book, "Green Eggs and Ham," invited their parents to join them in a breakfast of— you guessed it— green eggs and ham. It was green and yummy.

On Tuesday, Nov. 22, the 3-year-olds class members have invited their parents to come to a musical and then to share in a mini-feast of fruit which the children helped to prepare.

On Saturday, a Little Bears Thanksgiving workshop for 3- to 5-year-olds will be held at the nursery school from 9:15 to 11:15 a.m. Fee is $2.

They still have a few openings and those who are interested may phone Dottie Schaff, 426-8863, or Catherine Bradbury, 475-8316.

Fun Activities 'Merry' Month of Christmas

Like the trimming on the tree, December in Michigan sparkles with excitement and enchantment. Indoors and out-of-doors, on stage, on snow-carpeted slopes and trails, Michigan defies you to be bored. 'Tis, indeed, the season to be jolly, according to the Travel Bureau, Michigan Department of Commerce.

Nothing could "jolly" your spirits much more than a visit to "Fantasyland" at Kennedy Memorial Center, Lincoln Park, through Dec. 24. All kids, regardless of age, are delighted by the streets of toy shops and candy stores, the mouse factory, nursery rhymes come to life, Santa's elves busy filling orders for Christmas Day and, of course, Santa himself presides over all.

More festive fascination comes with the Christmas Carnival, Dec. 10-22, CoBo Hall, Detroit. This holiday favorite also features "make-believe come true," animated exhibits including Frosty the Snowman, a moon house and a giant Santa.

Shoppers looking for original, or out-of-the-ordinary type gifts might try the Holiday Antique and Collectible Show-Sale, Dec. 7-11, Light Guard Armory, Detroit. On a nostalgic note, Christmas Henry Ford Museum, Dec. 5-31, and "The Crafts at Christmas," Henry Ford Museum, Dec. 5-31, in Dearborn recall the joys of Christmases past. In the Village, buildings are decorated in keeping with their period in history, sleigh bells ring, the aromas of Christmas "goodies" and the voices of carolers fill the air. In the museum, craftsmen demonstrate the creative skills of our forebears. Christmas ala the 1800's is recorded with the Pioneer Christmas at Delano Homestead, Kalamazoo Nature Center, Kalamazoo, Dec. 10-11, 17-18, and 24. Sounds of the season will be heard throughout the month. Some of the musical highlights include: the Detroit Symphony Christmas Festival, Dec. 3-31, Ford Auditorium, Detroit; Oscar Peterson in concert, Dec. 10, Hill Auditorium, Ann Arbor; the "Many Moods of Christmas," Center for the Arts, Midland, Dec. 10-11; Christmas Pops (Rochester Symphony Choir), Dec. 16 and 18, Ford Auditorium, Detroit; and a Christmas Festi-

Cross-Country Ski Clinics Scheduled

Registration is now open for the Washtenaw County Parks Commission's 5th Annual Cross-Country Ski Program. Beginning Jan. 10 the program will be offered every Tuesday and Wednesday evening through January and February, snow permitting.

This popular program has provided hundreds of Washtenaw county residents the opportunity to try cross-country skiing for a nominal fee. As in the past, this year's program consists of a 1 1/2 hour instruction session and equipment provided at the site for $5 per skier.

Fuller Recreation Area in Ann Arbor, West Middle school and JYRO Park in Ypsilanti are the instruction sites for this year's program. Instruction clinics are offered at 6:30 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. each evening. Interested skiers register for one evening, and designate either the early or late session.

The program is designed for those who are beginning or intermediate skiers. Because the clinic groups are small, each skier receives special attention and instruction. Those skiers with their own equipment may also participate in the program.

Advance registration is required. Forms may be picked up at the County Building, City Hall, the Ann Arbor Public Library and at the WCPAR office at 2355 W. Stadium in Ann Arbor.

Clinics fill quickly, so interested skiers are urged to register as soon as possible. Any questions will be answered by calling the WCPAR office at 994-2575.

Let Nature Help in Your Landscaping

"Natural ingredients" are everywhere today: in food, cosmetics, clothing, home furnishings—you name it.

Natural ingredients—trees and other plants, wood, rocks, water, soil, etc.—are a natural part of home landscaping too. But sometimes we use them in some most unnatural ways, observes Bobbi Lawrence, county horticultural agent.

Take rocks, for instance. In nature, you'll seldom find a rock sitting high and dry on a bed of white marble chips. You're more likely to find it snuggled into the soil, with moss or grass lap-ping up against its sides and possibly some other rocks around it for company. This is why Lawrence advises "planting" rocks—set them into soil instead of on top of it so that they look as if they grew there.

The same is true of the large pieces of driftwood that people like to display in their yards. Driftwood is not likely to occur naturally at any distance from a large body of water, Lawrence observes. This doesn't mean that it is forbidden as a landscape accessory—but it does suggest that you might work a little at harmonizing it into, instead of sticking it onto your landscape plan.

The plan is probably going to include some plants. Though plants are a natural part of most landscapes, they are sometimes used in unnatural and artificial ways.

Look at grass, for instance. As anyone knows who has ignored his lawn for awhile, it is not natural for a lawn to look like either a green carpet or pool table top. It takes a lot of time, effort, energy and money to create and maintain this weed-free manicured effect.

Lawrence is not suggesting that everyone let his lawn go back to milkweed and thistles. But she does suggest that under some circumstances—around the cabin up north or the rustic home set in the woods—nature be left to provide her own ground cover.

"Too often we see a wooded site with good drainage, fertile soil and a cover of native plants bulldozed away to create just another subdivision lot with two skinny maple trees and a blanket of sod," Lawrence says. "To my mind, it would not only be easier to leave it much more like we found it, but it would also be more pleasant, less costly and easier to maintain."

It would definitely reduce the amount of upkeep that would be necessary, she points out. And that would mean a savings in energy, time and money. It would represent another kind of savings, too, she says. Open spaces, fertile soil, green plants, and clean air and water are already scarce in some parts of Michigan. By planning today's homes and communities with an eye toward protecting the environment, we can do our part to guarantee that tomorrow's citizens will be able to enjoy them, too.

"Man is unique in his ability to apply logic to his use of the environment," Lawrence points out, "but only if he works with nature instead of against her."

Farmer Efficiency

Today's farmer is more efficient than his 1950's cousin, increasing crop production by more than 60 percent per acre. Improved varieties of crops and livestock and better use of chemicals, fertilizers, and pesticides have all helped. But the main reason for his improved production record has been the shift to mechanization. Since 1950, manual labor has decreased by 40 percent, whereas the use of mechanical power and machinery has increased by 30 percent.

Representative highlights of all periods of children's literature in England and American are included in the collection.

Strikes Deer, Rolls Auto Over

Leonard Alan Dexter, a former Washtenaw County Sheriff's deputy, was injured slightly Thursday morning, Nov. 29, when his vehicle struck a deer on Walsh Rd. and rolled over, according to the Sheriff's Department.

The report stated that Dexter, 44, of 8160 Walsh Rd., was westbound on Walsh at 9:19 a.m. when a deer heading south ran out in front of him and was struck.

Upon impact, deputies said, the vehicle traveled up an embankment along the road and rolled over onto its top. Dexter told deputies he would seek his own first aid.

Atlas of Michigan Becomes Best Seller

The title, "Atlas of Michigan," isn't very sexy, and the list price, $27.50, isn't trifling for most people.

Nevertheless, the new book from Michigan State University—the first complete atlas of the state in more than 100 years—is a best seller in Michigan, reports Lyle Blair, director of the MSU press.

It has been only 10 weeks since it went on sale and already the first printing of 12,500 copies has been sold by the MSU Press and the commercial distributor, Erdmann Publishing Co. of Grand Rapids.

There are still some atlases left in book stores, and the Michigan Department of Natural Resources—which is offering them through its magazine—has a rapidly dwindling supply.

But when these are gone, there will be no more until the second printing becomes available the week of Dec. 19, just in time for last-minute Christmas gift buying.

Dr. Lawrence M. Sommers, chairman of the Department of Geography and editor of the atlas, says he thinks the success indicates that MSU's effort to make the atlas interesting and attractive as well as comprehensive and factual has paid off.

Printed in full color throughout its 256 pages, the atlas graphically portrays expert knowledge contributed by nearly 100 faculty and students from throughout the MSU campus. Several state agencies also contributed.

The atlas contains 400 maps, 85 graphs, 160 photographs and 75 original line drawings as well as 50,000 words of text.

"We wanted to produce a book that would invite the general reader to take it home and would also be used by professionals in their offices," said Dr. Sommers. "I think we succeeded."

Review Slated on HCMA Park Plans

The activities and plans of the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority (HCMA) concerning parks on the Huron River system will be the topic of an open public meeting to be held Thursday, Dec. 8.

Sponsored by the Huron River Watershed Council, the session is scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Council Chambers of Ann Arbor City Hall, Huron St. and Fifth Ave., Ann Arbor.

According to Council Executive Secretary Owen Jansson, the major purpose of the meeting is to provide Watershed Council delegates, governmental officials, and the general public an updated report on proposed metroparks for the Huron River system. Jansson noted that the activities and plans of the Huron-Clinton Authority should be of interest to all inhabitants of the region, since HCMA is the second largest landowner in the watershed and the Authority's operations are financed largely through a direct property tax levy on property owners in the five-county area served. HCMA was established by legislative act in 1940 for the purpose of providing outdoor recreational opportunities in the Huron and Clinton river basins.

Speakers for the program will include Robert Ryan, Secretary and Development Manager of HCMA. Bryan will review locations and development plans for parks, such as Indian Springs, Green Oaks, and Lake Erie, and will also touch on some of the new developments at existing facilities such as Hudson Mills.

For further information on the meeting, or on the Council and its activities, contact Owen Jansson, executive secretary, at 685-0414 in Ann Arbor.

34 Years Ago ...

decorations and interiors and exteriors of commercial establishments dispense with decorations this year insofar as lighting is concerned to save fuels and materials necessary to produce and consume electricity.

An error by the War Department, which seems almost inexcusable, caused a home in Chelsea to be blanketed in sorrow for more than a day last week, until a message was received to correct the error. In a telegram the family of a local boy serving overseas was informed he had been killed in action, when in fact he had only been injured in the hand.

MSU Names

Interim President

Dr. Edgar L. Harden, former president of Northern Michigan University and now president of Story, Inc., of Lansing, was named acting president of Michigan State University by the MSU Board of Trustees.

The former MSU dean of continuing education will become MSU's top administrative officer when MSU President Clifton R. Wharton, Jr., assumes his new duties at the State University of New York.

Fewer Farmers Producing More

Thanks to advanced technologies, more and more production is accomplished by fewer and fewer farmers. In 1950 there were 2½ times as many farmers as there are today. Yet, in 1974, agricultural output was twice what it was 20 years ago.

Michigan State University computer science and linguistics specialists are experimentally extending the use of the "talking computer" to aid visually impaired staff members and interviewees in the U.S. Civil Service Commission.

Bulletin Offers Toy Safety Tips

Although you may not be thinking much about Christmas yet, chances are your kids are starting their wish lists. Toy stores are getting set for big business already. This year, your kids will have more than 150,000 types of toys to ask for. But you can't assume that all toys they want are safe.

A free factsheet from the Consumer Product Safety Commission gives suggestions on what to look for when shopping for toys. For your copy of Safe Toy Tips send a postcard to the Consumer Information Center, Dept. 841F, Pueblo, Colo. 81009.

Shop carefully to prevent these toy-related injuries from happening to your kids.

Cuts and puncture wounds—Check toys for sharp points and edges and rigid wires or small parts that a child is able to remove.

Choking Suffocation—For young children, avoid toys with removable small parts the child might swallow or even inhale.

Burns—Check and abide by age recommendations on electrically operated toys.

Hearing Damage—For the sake of your child's ears, avoid extremely loud toys.

And, be sure to keep the child's skills and abilities in mind when selecting toys. A toy that is safe in the hands of an eight-year-old may be a serious hazard when a toddler plays with it in his or her way.

When Christmas morning arrives, explain and show the kids how to use their new toys safely. Tell them to let you know when a toy needs repair. And, always try to supervise young children while they play.

Although these reminders may seem just plain common sense, each holiday season thousands of children are seriously injured playing with their new toys. Don't let your child's Christmas end this way.

Safe Toy Tips (free) is one of over 200 selected federal consumer publications listed in the Consumer Information Catalog. The Catalog is published quarterly by the Consumer Information Center of the General Services Administration. You can get a free copy by sending a postcard to the Consumer Information Center, Pueblo, Colo. 81009.

Wrestlers Lose to Balanced Novi Power

Chelsea High's wrestling squad failed to keep up with Novi last week and was consequently overpowered, 36-23.

"Lack of experience was a major factor in the loss, in addition to some rather poor wrestling," Coach Richard Barels said following the contest.

Bob Beeman opened for Chelsea at 98 lbs., and lost by a pin. He was followed by Tony Wisniewski at 105 lbs. According to Coach Barels, although Wisniewski wrestled well, he lost the match, 14-12, on a poor call by the official.

In another close contest, Scott Dalton, wrestling at 112 lbs., fell to his Novi opponent on a 6-7 decision.

Finally, at 119 lbs., Chuck Young put Chelsea on the scoreboard with a superior 10-1 decision. In the 126-lb. class, John Bullick lost by a pin to a very tough Novi wrestler, but was followed by Mike Young at 132 lbs., who scored a 10-0 shut-out win.

Bart Bauer at 138 lbs., and Chris Umstead at 145 lbs., both lost by pins, while at 155 lbs., Terry Thompson came out on the short end of a 6-3 decision.

In the heavier weight classes, Brian Van Reesema scored a pin win at 165 lbs., and Todd Headrick took an 11-4 decision at 178 lbs. Rick Risner wrestled well, but lost a close 9-6 match.

Heavyweight Leon Brown then appeared on the mats and took only 33 seconds to pin his Novi counterpart.

"In all, we simply were too inexperienced to compete with Novi's balanced team," Coach Barels said of the meet. "However, we are hoping for a comeback later on in the season."

PREPAYMENT PENALTIES

You've sold your home. Your buyer obtained new financing with a new mortgage. Therefore, your old mortgage was, undoubtedly, paid in full with part of your proceeds from the sale. Paying off a mortgage in advance of its original loan length is known in the trade as "prepayment."

Many lenders today require a prepayment penalty if a mortgage is paid off prior to its original due date, and you'll find this can amount to several hundred dollars.

If you paid this penalty, don't forget that the Internal Revenue Service treats the prepayment penalty the same as interest—which can be a valuable deduction from your income tax.

But, in spite of the tax break, always try to bargain for the smallest prepayment penalty or no penalty at all. In fact, in many states, consumer-oriented laws have been passed which prohibit any prepayment penalties after the home loan has been in effect from three to five years.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at FRISINGER REALTY CO., 935 S. Main St., Chelsea. Phone: 475-8681; evenings 475-2621. We're here to help!

Anchor Inn Pleads Guilty at LCC Hearing

If the state Liquor Control Commission takes the hard line on a guilty plea to 14 violations stemming from a July automobile collision which killed six youths and injured a seventh, that collision may succeed in doing what city groups and officials have failed to do in several years of legal wrangling—close the Anchor Inn.

On Tuesday, Nov. 29, Livingston county's controversial nightspot surprised almost everyone by entering a guilty plea to all of the violations lodged against it by the LCC following the early-morning deaths of six Plymouth youths on Dexter-Pinckney Rd. shortly after they had allegedly been seen drinking in the bar.

Carl Ranno, the attorney representing owner Robert Welch of Birmingham, told officials that the decision was based on a wish not to cause the dead youths' families further anguish.

Welch closed the topless bar early in October pending the outcome of investigation by both the LCC and the Livingston County Prosecutor's office, drawing to a close the on-again, off-again history of the Anchor Inn, nemesis of McGregor Rd. residents who objected to the loud music, overflowing it's truss-and-aluminum construction and the nature of its entertainment. Attempts to close it through alleged violations of the noise and zoning ordinances resulted in temporary shut-downs, but each time the inn emerged victorious.

Following the July deaths, however, both the Livingston and Washtenaw County Sheriff's Departments stepped up their week-end patrols on their respective sides of the county line, ticketing some motorists and arresting others for driving under the influence of liquor. Charges of harassment lodged by the bar's managers were without result.

The 14 violations were split between selling alcoholic beverages to minors and allowing them to consume alcoholic beverages on the premises. State Liquor Control Commissioner Edward Weist, who presided over the hearing at which the Anchor Inn pleaded guilty, has announced that a decision regarding whether the bar's liquor license would be suspended would be forthcoming soon. Maximum penalty would be a fine of $300 for each of the 14 counts and suspension of the license.

Katz Book Details Settling of Waterloo

Soon to be available in bookstores throughout the greater Waterloo area, as well as at Ulrich's Books, Ann Arbor, is Donald L. Katz's latest publication, "The Settling of Waterloo, Michigan — The Schnackenberg-Katz Families."

The 528-page, 8 1/2 x 11 hard-bound volume records the early history and country life of Waterloo, and was written "to convey to our grandchildren what life was like for our pioneer forefathers," according to Katz.

"They converted the virgin woodland of Waterloo into a thriving agricultural community for their families during the middle of the 19th century, 1835-1874," Katz explained. "Their accomplishments in carrying out this conversion within a 40-year period is an inspiring story of the dedication to the task of providing a home for their families in America."

In writing the book, Katz lists the descendants of pioneer Waterloo families with fuller documentation for the Schnackenberg, Bender and Katz families; tells how Waterloo was settled and the resulting rural lifestyle prior to the automobile age; provides a capsule history of Michigan and relates the time period of Waterloo's birth to national and local events; and attempts to inspire families to prepare their family records and pass on a heritage to the on-coming generations.

Highlights of the book include a chapter on the history of the churches, grist mills, cemeteries, the band, and the Waterloo Farm Museum, serving the Waterloo community; a portrayal of one-room country schools which served early residents; photographs of Waterloo, Strobel, Mt. Hope and the Dewey School Museum; a map of the Waterloo area identifying 20 sites of interest to Waterloo residents and pioneer families; and a time-scale diagram which relates the time Waterloo was settled to historical events in the nation, the completion of the Detroit-Chicago railroad, and the creation of towns. Sketches of some homes from the 1874 Atlas are given, and there are blank family record sheets at the back of the book so that owners may record their family tree to pass to their children.

Katz was born and raised on the Schnackenberg family farm in Waterloo. He served on the faculty of the Department of Chemical Engineering at the University of Michigan for 41 years, and is currently a consulting engineer. He has some 275 publications, including 15 books, this being the third on the tracing of ancestry from Europe.

List price for "The Settling of Waterloo, Michigan" is $15.

Plans Finalized for Community Festival of Lessons, Carols

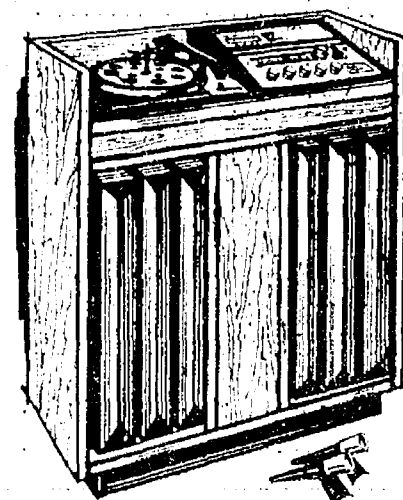

The Rev. Marvin McCallum, chairman of the committee of the Chelsea Ministerial Fellowship, announced that all the plans for the Festival of Lessons and Carols scheduled for Sunday, Dec. 11, at 4 p.m. in St. Paul church have been concluded.

It is the hope of the Ministerial Fellowship to make this Community Program an annual event in Chelsea. A spokesman for the group said "We look forward to a time when other accommodations might be required, perhaps the high school, to handle the number wishing to participate."

A majority of the churches in the Chelsea area are taking an active part in the Festival. In addition to their direct participation, many churches and other groups are joining together to form a community choir.

Readings will be taken from both the Old and New Testaments, while the carols will be sung by the people attending and various vocal groups made up of choirs, both junior and senior, trios, duets, and soloists.

Michigan-Ohio 'War' Raged 141 Years Ago

It seems that Michiganians and Ohioans have been "fussing" and "fighting" with each other for a long time. These days the dispute usually involves football, but the 141st anniversary of the Frost-Bitten Convention recalls another controversy... the boundary between the two states, involving that area known as the Toledo strip.

As is so often the case these days, the enticement of federal monies and appointments were the deciding factors in accepting a compromise boundary proposal at the "Frost-Bitten Convention" held in Ann Arbor on Dec. 14, 1836.

According to Frank C. Wilhelm, director of the Historical Society of Michigan, this was the turning point in Michigan's three-year quest for statehood.

Elected delegates first met at a convention in Ann Arbor in September of 1836 to decide whether to give the Toledo strip to Ohio in exchange for the western three-quarters of the Upper Peninsula. At the time, most people did not consider the Upper Peninsula of Michigan to be an equal exchange for much of anything. People thought of it as "sterile... a wilderness... a region of perpetual snows." Suffice it to say that the delegates to the convention voted not to accept the compromise resolution.

Upon learning of the convention's decision, one of the most disappointed persons was Stephen T. Mason, acting governor of the Michigan Territory. He had pursued statehood for Michigan from every angle, finally even leading the territorial militia to counter aggressive moves by Ohio's Governor Robert Lucas.

It is surprising that no one was killed in the clashes between the two sides. The only casualty turned out to be a Michigan sheriff stabbed with a jackknife in a tavern scuffle by "Two" Stickney, the second son of an ardent Buckeye.

Hardly had the convention adjourned than second thoughts shed some doubt on the wisdom of the decision. After all, what was to be gained by rejecting the Congressional deal? Ohio, which had now complete control of the disputed territory, would never give it up. If Michigan were a state, it would receive five percent of the proceeds from the sales of public lands in Michigan and it would be in line to share in the distribution of the surplus from U. S. treasury money.

In addition, state Democrats began to cast an eye to the lucrative federal appointments that might be available to party members in Michigan following the victory of the Democratic party in the presidential election.

Governor Mason refused to call a second convention, but said the people "in their original capacity" had the right to reverse the decision if it was found to be "prejudicial to their interests."

Wayne county Democrats, followed by those from Washtenaw county, met and decided in favor of a second "convention of assent." A committee of the people was formed calling for delegates to meet in Ann Arbor, Dec. 14, 1836.

The Whigs refused to participate on the grounds that the whole proceeding was illegal. In the end, representatives from 18 counties took two days to draw up and pass a resolution accepting the compromise boundary proposal. All but 10 of the 72 delegates who attended signed the resolution. Its opponents dubbed the meeting the "Frost-Bitten Convention."

When the resolution of assent reached President Jackson, he sent it to Congress and a bill to admit Michigan into the Union was prepared. Senators debated over the property of the Frost-Bitten Convention for several days, but the bill was finally passed. On Jan. 26, 1837, President Jackson signed the bill that made Michigan the 26th state in the federal union.

Farm Size Increases

Although there are half as many operating farms now as there were in 1950, the amount of farmland has stayed about the same. More than 55 percent of recent farmland sold was bought by farmers to enlarge their own operations. Farmers increased the size of their farms to make better use of the costly new machinery and to reduce the cost of per unit of production. In 1950 the average farm was 213 acres. Today it's 385.

Women Students Increase at MSU

The enrollment of women students at Michigan State University continues to climb in nearly every category, with marked increases in business, engineering and graduate study, according to an analysis of fall enrollment figures.
MSU Provost Clarence Winder said women students now number 20,865, or 47.2 percent of the total. This is an increase of 536 over the 20,329, or 46.5 percent, last year, he said.
Significant gains continue to be made in the areas where women have long been under-represented. Women now account for 33.1 percent of the College of Business' enrollment and 14.7 percent in the College of Engineering.

Protect Young Fruit Trees from Rodents, Sunscald

Help your fruit trees get through the winter in good condition by protecting them against winter injury now.

Bobbi Lawrence, county horticultural agent, points out that fruit trees, especially young ones, often suffer from sunscald and rodent damage in winter.

Sunscald occurs when bright winter sun warms the bark on one side of the tree. The winter sun warms the bark on the shaded side of the tree remains cold, however, and resists expansion. The bark tends to split at the point where the expanding warm bark meets the cold section.

A good way to prevent this uneven heating of the tree trunk is to paint it with white latex paint, Lawrence suggests. The paint reflects sunlight so the sunny side of the tree trunk doesn't get a great deal warmer than the shady side, she explains.

"Be sure the paint is water-based rather than oil-based," she says. "Oil-based paint will injure the tree."

Rodents may damage or even kill a tree by gnawing the bark off the trunk. Rabbits were an especially bad problem last year.

To prevent rodent damage, surround the tree trunk with a cylinder of one-fourth-inch mesh hardware cloth, a piece of plastic or clay tiling split lengthwise, or some other protective material. Select or construct it so that there are at least two or three inches between the trunk and the guard. If you provide the tree plenty of room to grow, you can leave the guard on all year around for several years. Be sure to replace it with a large one before it constricts the tree or you'll kill the tree yourself by girdling it, Lawrence cautions.

A rodent guard should extend from ground level to at least 18 inches. If the bottom branches on your tree are farther than that from the ground, the guard can go higher.

"Trees that are gnawed on but not completely girdled can sometimes be saved by grafting bark over the injuries," Lawrence notes. "But it's a lot easier and much better for the tree to prevent that kind of damage in the first place."

Minimum Wage

The recently signed law raising the federal minimum wage a total of $1.05 per hour in four annual steps leaves the special Agriculture exemption intact: Farmers who do not use more than 500 man-days of farm labor in any calendar quarter of the preceding year are exempt from the provisions of the law. The new law, however, will adversely affect all farmers through increased cost of goods and services purchased by farmers.

license was suspended for six months on charges of driving under the influence of liquor.

Robert L. Stein pled guilty to reduced charges of impaired driving. Fines and costs, $200.

Daniel G. Wheeler was found guilty on charges of assault and battery. Fines and costs, $25.

Agate K. Atko was found guilty on charges of speeding. Fines and costs, $65.

Robert Lafave pled guilty to charges of speeding. Fines and costs, $50.

Steven M. Schaner was sentenced to pay fines and costs of $150 and to 10 days on the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department work program on charges of possession of marijuana.

Cager of the Week

MIKE MACHESKY (40), forward for Chelsea High's varsity basketball squad, is a newcomer to the team this season. As a forward, the 6'3", 155-lb. junior said the thrust of his assignment is "getting the offense started and rebounding." Machesky was selected by Coach Robin Raymond as the most outstanding player on the varsity squad this past week, primarily because of his performance against Novi Friday. The cager confirmed the game was his best thus far because he collected six points in the encounter and Chelsea won. Machesky also called the contest his team's best to date, defending that contention with the following words: "We started out slow, then got it together, played good defense and beat them." He predicts Chelsea "will come out over 500" by season's end, which in layman's terms means the Bulldogs should win more games than they lose. Contributing to Chelsea's power this season, according to Machesky, is "over-all good size." He added that although the varsity cagers are playing with a new strategy this year, it hasn't hampered the team's efforts and he prefers the new approach. In comparing it to last year's game, Machesky said, "we were slowing everything down last year; now, we're running." In addition to basketball, Machesky plays baseball for Chelsea High. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Machesky of 17291 Grass Lake Rd.

★ Helpful Information
From Outer Space

Among the hardware orbiting the earth is a satellite that is being used to help U.S. farmers keep on top of crop production.

The LANDSAT II satellite measures energy reflected from the earth's surface. Each crop reflects different amounts of energy reflected from the earth's surface. Each crop reflects different amounts of energy to the satellite so that once the information is fed to a computer, the picture that's read shows what is planted on U. S. farmlands.

But there's a catch. The satellite is pretty good at telling the difference between planted soybeans and corn. However, it sometimes gets corn and trees mixed up since they happen to reflect about the same amount of energy during certain periods of the growing season.

Enter the good old human being. Researchers check the computer picture with what they know is planted. Where do they get that information? From the ground work done by USDA's Crop Reporting Board. The Crop Reporting Board gathers information from interviews with farmers, on-site inspections and from answers to survey questions mailed in by farmers. The information covers 1/2 of one percent of the total acreage in the United States. The satellite people take this small sample, the computer picture, and then project acreage for the entire country.

They are not able to beat the Crop Reporting Board people in timeliness yet, but in the future both sets of information may play a large part in former decisions such as whether to graze wheat or harvest it for grain.

It may come from outer space, but information that helps the farmer get an edge on the market will be well used here on earth.

MSU Prof
Predicts Ban
On Saccharin

Saccharin will eventually be banned in spite of a current congressional moratorium on the issue, predicts a Michigan State University nutrition professor.

Dr. Gilbert Leveille, a special advisor to the Congressional Office of Technology Assessment on the benefits and risks of the sweetener, also predicts that in coming years "all known cancer-causing agents will be removed from the environment."

Saccharin has been shown to cause bladder tumors in laboratory rats.

The nationally-known MSU nutritionist says that science is developing a number of saccharin alternatives, but noted that "it takes three to five years and $1 million of testing before the Food and Drug Administration approves any given compound."

Dr. Leveille also notes that "there is no real evidence that artificial sweeteners help people lose weight. Origins of 'sweetness' are often misunderstood—in cake, for example, the sweetness comes from fat, not from sugar."

Brazil, Japan Sign Ag Development Agreement

Brazil and Japan have signed an agricultural development agreement under which each country will invest the equivalent of about $30 million in production of soybeans, corn, and wheat. The Japanese Federation of Agricultural Co-operatives has supplied Brazil with a draft accord under which the federation would purchase agricultural products from a group of Brazilian co-operatives. The accord, if signed would become effective this year and initial purchases would be soybeans or soybean meal and corn.
