New Shopping Center Seeks Sewer Service For Proposed Location

A planned Chelsea shopping center, which had been slated for future development behind the Chelsea State Bank Branch on Old US-12, is now being planned for 25 acres behind Schumm's on M-52 and Brown Dr.

The announcement was made at the Village Council meeting Tuesday night, when one of the landowners, A. Clark Pardon of Sylvan township, requested sewer hook-up information on the new parcel.

Pardon said that before the people involved in the venture, to be known as Fairview Shopping center, move beyond more than basic plans, they would like to be sure that the village will permit hook-up to the village sewer lines. All of the involved property is within village limits.

Council members and Village President Charles Ritter quizzed Pardon on the possible water load that might be involved and requested that he come up with a ballpark figure for the council.

A decision was made to review the moratorium on village sewer hook-ups at the next council meeting, since some council members disagreed as to whether it would prevent sewer service to such a shopping center.

Before the village Planning Commission reviews the request, it was decided that council must make a decision on the sewer question. If the answer is unfavorable, it is likely that development of the shopping center would be dropped before more detailed plans can be made.

According to plans Pardon showed council members Tuesday, the shopping center will probably include a major grocery store, a drug store and hardware store in phase one of its construction, covering approximately 75,000 square feet. Phase two might include a restaurant, an office building and a possible two-story structure.

Pardon said later that three major grocery chains have expressed an interest in the center, but he declined to name them. He also said that both independent and chain drug stores have approached the developers.

He said there is no exact timetable for the center, but added that if all aspects of the plans are approved by the village, construction might begin this winter and continue through the spring.

Pardon said after his presentation to the council that the zoning of the parcel, C-3, is ideal for the type of center the local group has in mind. C-3 is intended to cluster development in a planned fashion to avoid sprawling development all along M-52.

He said feasibility studies have been done and that planning is being done carefully in an effort to complement the Chelsea Central Business District.

In other areas, the Village Council granted tax relief to BookCrafters, Inc. on a proposed $450,000 warehouse to be built within the village. The application must now be acted on by the state tax commission.

Council also agreed in principle to grant the village cablevision franchise to Clear Color Television, Inc., a wholly-owned subsidiary of Capital City Communications, the owners of radio station WJR, a number of newspapers and other radio stations.

President Ritter reported that Clear Color Television had agreed to a number of village requirements, including paying 3 percent of all they collect within the village and 3 percent on all collections if they extend their services outside the village into the township.

The exact language of the agreement must be brought into compliance with the village's cablevision ordinance before council will take a binding vote on whether to grant the franchise to Clear Color Television, Inc.

Contributions Finance Softball Team Trip To National Tourney

In spite of tough economic times in Chelsea, residents dug down deep enough in their pockets last week to send the softball team on its way to the national championships in Sioux Falls, S.D.

According to those involved in the six days of fundraising, some $3,500 was collected from Chelsea businesses and individuals. About $450 of that sum was collected during the recent Sidewalk Sale. The money will be used to cover meals and hotel expenses for the team members.

Team members and their parents left Tuesday morning on the 19-hour drive to Sioux Falls. Transportation expenses are being borne by team families and will not come out of the donations.

Coach Bill Wescott said Monday evening that the tournament draw will not take place until Thursday morning. Chelsea and 31 other teams from all over the country will be participating.

All teams are expected to arrive by Wednesday afternoon. A mixer will be held at poolside in the hotel for all team members on Wednesday evening.

Official tournament ceremonies will begin Thursday evening when all the teams march onto the playing fields bearing flags. Chelsea will carry the state of Michigan flag for the ceremony.

Following the ceremonies, the first contests will be played. Wescott said Chelsea has a good chance to be participating in one of the opening games.

"It's a great accomplishment to get there," Wescott commented the evening before his team's departure. "Every team there is top caliber. We've been (Continued on page five)

Few Surprises In Primary Vote

A number of area township primary races were run in yesterday's election, but the vast majority of candidates were unopposed in their parties.

In Sylvan township, it was George Sweeney beating out Carl Heldt for the Republican supervisor nomination, 116 votes to 80.

Other Sylvan candidates getting the nod from the voters were these unopposed Republicans: Mary Harris, clerk; Fred Pear-sall, 188; and Jim Carruthers and Reuben A. Lesser, Jr., for two vacant trustee positions.

Lyndon township featured a predictable outcome. Unopposed Republicans nominated were

Girl Cagers Start Practice Next Monday

Sounds of thumping feet and bouncing balls will once again be heard in the Chelsea High school gym beginning Monday, Aug. 11, when all high school girls interested in basketball should report for an 8:30 a.m. meeting.

This is the eighth year of interscholastic competition for the Chelsea female cagers. Graduated from last year's team were Mary Bort, Patti Hume, Nanette Push and Kim Wood.

This year, the leadership role (Continued on page four)

Rains Practically Ruin Wheat Crop

Last Saturday's rain may have helped the area corn crop along, but it also virtually wiped out the local wheat harvest.

That is the word this week from Jerry Heydlauff of Honeggers grain elevator, who said that rain at harvest time caused the local wheat to sprout, making it unusable for anything but livestock feed.

Heydlauff said that about one-third of the local wheat is still in the fields and that only a few farmers managed to harvest their grain before the ruinous rain last week-end.

He said that yields on that early grain looked good.

"It's a bad year for the farmers," he concluded, "and a bad year for Honeggers."

Wheat arrived by the truckload at Chelsea Milling yesterday, and trucks were backed up along Main St. and in the parking lot for most of the day.

Heydlauff said that most of Chelsea Milling's wheat is bought from elevators. In any case, he's pretty certain it's not from fields in this area.

BARN DANCE PROCEEDS: Chelsea Special Education, Dexter Special Education and High Point Center each were presented checks for $475 last week, as the proceeds from the Old Fashioned Trinkle Barn Dance were presented to the intended benefactors, Special Olympics programs. Taking part in the presentation ceremonies were, front from left, Jerald Flinn, Arlene Schreiber, Amy Trinkle, Rita Trinkle, Mark Stapish, Nancy Cooper, Wally Fualier, Doug Cooper; second row, Pat Flinn, Jeanne Trinkle, Debbie Stapish holding Melissa, Pat Trinkle, Bene Fustlier, Bill Marshall, Audrey Marshall and Ron Herrst. Involved in the planning of the dance were the following: Mark and Debbie Stapish, tickets; Bill and Audrey Marshall, popcorn; Mary Janet and Mike Koble, soft-drinks; Dick and Shariene Dettling, food; Ron and Wanda Koch, tables; Dennis and Jeanne Trinkle, publicity; Jerald and Pat Flinn, posters; Pat and Charles Trinkle, co-chairmen; Bene and Wally Fustlier, chairmen; Bonnie Basso and Robbie Sortor, refreshments; Don and Dennis Trinkle, sanitation engineers; Tim and Marilyn Elise, paper supplies; Luke Schaible Band provided music for the occasion. Other officers of the Old Fashioned Barn Dance Committee are: Bonnie Basso, secretary, and Charlene Dettling, treasurer.

THE WHEEL OF FORTUNE, like everything else these days, is now computerized. Luther Kusterer displays the brand new Michigan Daily Lottery machine that was delivered to his store this Tuesday for immediate service. Taking his chances with a bet is Holsum delivery man Jim Hesselgrave from Parma.

FIRST IN THE AREA: Michigan Daily Lottery Machine Now at Kusterer's

It's small and orange and boxy and looks sort of like a colorful cash register, but the twist is that it gives money instead of taking it.

The "it" is Chelsea's first Michigan Daily Lottery machine, firmly ensconced on the front counter at Kusterer's Market early Tuesday afternoon this week.

According to owner Luther Kusterer, he has been waiting for the machine for some time, because the State Lottery Commission limits the number in use at any one time. He became one of approximately 1,100 merchants around the state to feature the daily lottery option as well as the more familiar instant and weekly tickets.

For those Chelseaites with gambling instincts, the new game works like this:

The customer chooses a three-digit number and plays it for either 50 cents or $1. If that number hits, he wins $250 for the smaller bet or $500 for the $1 bet. Numbers are announced every evening at 7:36 p.m. on TV Channel 4.

A more complicated version of the game is playing the box. In that game, the customer specifies that he wants his three digit number to be played in all possible combinations of the three numbers. Bets may be placed ranging from 50 cents to $6 and the pay-off is somewhat less than that for playing the straight three-digit game.

A complete list of the bets and play-offs is available at Kusterer's.

For those lucky enough to win, the pay-off is immediate and can be collected the following day at the market. Anyone winning more than $500 in the box game, however, must file a claim to receive payment. The win is then reported to the state for tax purposes.

No reports are made for pay-offs under $500.

Voters To Decide Among Three Tax Proposals
 Michigan voters will have the task this fall of sorting through three property tax proposals and balance their own best interests against that of the state and services the state provides.

All three proposals will be complex and voters will have to educate themselves properly to make the best choice on the November general election ballot.

Currently, only one plan—the so-called legislative/executive tax shift plan—is guaranteed a spot on the ballot as the legislature adopted a joint resolution proposing an amendment to the state constitution to be decided by the voters.

The two other proposals—the Tisch tax cut plan and the Smith-Bullard shift plan—have gone the petition route and are likely to be certified in the near future by the State Board of Canvassers to win their places on the ballot.

How the various plans would affect each voter will depend upon individual circumstances of income, number of dependents, property values and local millages currently being levied.

Generally, Tisch would provide the individual taxpayer the most direct relief, the legislative/executive coalition plan would provide less relief and a shift and the Smith-Bullard plan is the closest to a total shift.

The Tisch plan—named after Shilawassee County Drain Commissioner Robert Tisch—would cut property tax assessments from 50 percent to 25 percent of 1978 market values. This would lead to about a 60 percent reduction in property taxes for operating purposes.

The plan would cut state revenues in the neighborhood of $2 billion which would devastate an already strained state budget.

Tisch would all but eliminate the current "circuit breaker" concept in the present income tax structure which gives taxpayers a break when their property taxes reach a certain percentage of their income.

Further, reduced state property taxes would also reduce the amount of deduction Michigan taxpayers would get on their federal income tax forms if they itemize deductions.

The coalition plan, developed by the legislature and the executive office as an alternative to Tisch, would maintain the "circuit breaker" concept and provide additional property tax relief by exempting the first $7,100 of state equalized valuation of homes from property taxes, except for those property taxes levied to retire bonded debt.

To offset the loss of revenues, the proposal carries a 1.5 percent increase in the state sales and use taxes.

Michigan residents would gain from this shift as about 20 percent of the increased sales and use tax would be paid by businesses and outstate residents visiting or vacationing in the state.

The coalition plan also calls for phasing out the sales tax on utilities and for "indexing" the exemption on the state equalized value and the state's personal exemption to reflect inflation.

The Smith-Bullard plan—named after its sponsors, Representatives Roy Smith (D-Ypsilanti) and Perry Bullard (D-Ann Arbor)—is designed to eliminate most of the school operating taxes and replacing them with another form of revenue, presumably a 1.5 percent increase in the state income tax.

The plan would establish a 24.5 mill tax limit for homes and farms and would set a limit of 55 mills for commercial and industrial property. The plan would wipe out the circuit breaker and property tax gains would be offset to a varying degree by an increase in the income tax rate.

Michigan voters will be bombarded during the next few months in an attempt to woo votes. Voters must take it upon themselves to be prepared for the slick ads and further prepared to cast an intelligent vote in November on the tax proposals.

Fire Destroys Heydlauff's 10 Years Ago

It was exactly 10 years ago, Friday, Aug. 7, that all of Chelsea turned out to see the disastrous midnight fire that destroyed the Heydlauff building on Main St. and threatened to take a good part of the downtown area with it.

Firemen from Pittsfield township, Dexter and Manchester helped Chelsea firefighters battle the huge blaze for almost 12 hours before declaring it under control.

Also destroyed was the Village Beauty Salon building, next door to Heydlauff's Frigid Products building.

Heydlauff's was a total loss, but building began soon after to replace the charred structure.

Besides being the 10th anniversary of a fire, the day calls to mind a time when all Chelsea pulled together in the face of the potential destruction of the downtown area.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

Clem Webster got the floor at the opening of the Saturday night session at the country store, and he announced as how this lull between the dulls of national conventions was a good time to take stock of the state of the world beyond Detroit and New York City.

Clem was of a mind that for all their hoopla, both parties' TV shows were ever bit as exciting as watching corn grow, and no less predictable. He said he even took to watching soap operas last month instead of Republicans, and the Democrats are shaping up as not much more than a rerun of the Jimmy and Walter Show.

Fer starters, Clem declared, he liked First Brother Billy better as a drunk than a crook. The trouble is, nobody had any idea how drunk Billy was til he sobered up, and now he has turned out to be a real trapdoor in the President's platform. It was bad enough, Democrat Clem allowed, that Billy was lobbying fer Libya without saying he was, and working out a deal fer kickbacks on ever barrel of oil, but the stinger is that it looks like he had some help high up. Fer sure, the Libyans thought they were buying White House sympathy with the money they paid Billy, and Clem said he'd have to admit that strong smells lead to the Justice and State departments, if not actual to the top.

When Billy got dried out and greedy, Clem said, he went from a bad joke to a real and present danger to Jimmy's political future. You can rest assured the Republicans will squeeze ever drop of mileage out of Billygate.

The fellers swung into the spirit of the occasion. Republican Ed Doolittle was of a mind that the Democrats have got to be in as bad a fix as he thought if even Clem is badmouthing em. Ed was no more than half serious when he told Clem to look fer the silver lining of this dark cloud like he done in the heat wave. One thing we ain't seen out in the hot sun, Ed said, is nuclear power protesters. Fer sure they're somewhere trying to stay alive under air conditioners and fans run by that nuclear power they say is going to be the ruination of the world. And everthing can't be going to the dogs when we got a dog with love so strong he found his way from Colorado back home to Rhode Island, was Ed's words. Ed said the piece he saw last month allowed the dog was 28 months on the road, which showed the kind of loyalty we could use more of in this world.

Zeke Grubb said Americans that are objecting to draft registration could take another lesson from that 12-year-old boy in Chicago that said he'd rather never see his parents again than have to go back to Russia with them. If a child is willing to pay that price fer freedom we take for granted, Zeke allowed, our young people ought to give more thought to why they don't want to tell their country they're willing to help out if they're needed.

Personal, Mister Editor, I'm fer more silver linings. Fer instant, the mall may be slow, but when it's 35 year late and still means a Congressional Medal of Honor like it done fer that feller in Holland, Mich. the other day, it's easier to be glad than wonder what took the nominating letter so long.

Yours truly,
 Uncle Lew.

Others who assisted the bride at the reception were Cindy Case, a sister of the bridegroom, who poured the punch, and Mrs. Debbie Schantz who served the cake. The bride's honor attendants assisted during the reception at the gift table and by passing the guest book.

The bride is a 1980 graduate of Chelsea High school and her husband attended Stockbridge High school. Both are employed at the Big Boy restaurant in Chelsea.

The trip was a birthday present from them.

Mr. Ramp is a graduate of Chelsea High school and Western Michigan University, where he earned his master's degree in clinical psychology. He received his Ph.D. in developmental and child psychology from the University of Kansas. He is on the faculty, is an administrator and also is director of behavior analysis at the university.

Following a reception at the Lawrence Country Club, the couple left for a honeymoon in the Virgin Islands. They will reside in Lawrence, Kan.

Personal Notes

Mr. and Mrs. N. H. Miles have sold their Centennial Home with two acres which is located on Scio Church Rd., to Andrew Sacks and Sheri Thompson of Ann Arbor. The Mileses are keeping the balance of the farm to enjoy while living at the farm and their Ann Arbor home. They have purchased the Lee and Helen Weiss home on Pratt Rd. ### Christine Nygaard Receiving Degree in Medical Technology

A local student will be among those participating in summer commencement exercises at Northern Michigan University, Marquette, at 10 a.m. Saturday, Aug. 9.

Christine E. Nygaard, 11105 Boyce Rd., will be the recipient of a BS degree in medical technology.

University President John X. Jamrich will confer four educational specialist degrees, 115 master's, 184 bachelor's and 25 associate degrees at the ceremonies.

About 7,500 varieties of apples are grown in the world today, reports the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

DNR Will Pay Landowners To Permit Public Hunting

Southern Michigan landowners who are willing to allow hunting on their property can receive from 50 cents to $6 per acre for taking part in the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) public access land leasing program.

Anyone with 40 acres or more that lies south of a line extending from Muskegon to Bay City can sign up. The fee paid per acre will depend on the quality of the wildlife and the proximity to urban centers.

The deadline for sign-up is Aug. 20.

Glenn Dudderar, Extension wildlife specialist at Michigan State University, says the big advantage of taking part in the program is that it gives landowners a great deal of control over who uses their land.

To get the list of landowners who are willing to permit public access to their land, hunters should inquire at the local DNR or Cooperative Extension Service office. Then they have to get the landowner's OK to use his land.

The DNR land leasing program is now in its third year. Hunters finance it through the hunting stamp program.

The number of landowners and even the number of sportsmen participating have not been as high as they could be. Repeat participation has been good, but new participation has lagged somewhat. Anyone interested should call the local DNR, Extension or Farm Bureau office or the local conservation officer. You should get a personal visit from a DNR representative within a few days.

Sign-up will end Aug. 20 to give the DNR time to prepare and distribute the list before the opening of any of the fall hunting seasons.

Swine Pseudorabies Test Required Before Exhibiting

Keith Gafner, superintendent of swine exhibiting at the upcoming Chelsea Fair, reminds potential exhibitors that they must have their animals tested for pseudorabies before the fair.

Public Act No. 203, which regulates the movement of swine within the state, will be enforced beginning Aug. 21. Producers must get identification equipment for their animals, since the responsibility for identification rests with the producer.

Until regulations can be promulgated concerning identification procedures, the use of any tag, tattoo or band is acceptable. Ear notching is not acceptable.

Regulations are as follows:

All swine six months or older must be negative for pseudorabies within 30 days, or be from a qualified negative herd.

All swine sold or moved to associate with another owner must be individually identified — including feeder pigs.

Swine for exhibition must be negative within 30 days or be from a qualified negative herd. Only suckling pigs on a negative sow are exempt from this requirement.

For further information, contact Keith Gafner, 475-7558, or Lane Animal Hospital, 475-8696.

JUDSON COLLINS' GRAVE stands in this neglected family graveyard off Roepke Rd. near Unadilla, marked by a metal sign which identifies it as a Methodist Historical site. The stone reads simply: "Rev. Judson D. Collins, Feb. 12, 1823, May 15, 1852." His accomplishments as an early graduate of the University of Michigan and first Methodist missionary to China have not been forgotten, however. Recent research efforts of the Rev. Ralph D. Harper led to the grave being recognized as historic by the Methodist Church.

Unadilla's Most Famous Son Buried in Obscure Cemetery

Graduate of the first class of the University of Michigan. First Methodist missionary to China. Teacher at Albion College. Self-revealing diarist.

All of those distinctions belonged to one man, Judson Dwight Collins, who was born and died in Unadilla in the mid-1800's and lived a full, vigorous and unusual life in between.

Only a worn gravestone and a marker pointing the way to the grave are left here to remind present-day residents of Collins' passing. Happily, however, Collins kept a diary from the day he graduated the U-M in 1845 until his death in 1852.

His insights into the Washtenaw county of his time, coupled with descriptions of China and two sea voyages make his journal a telling document of Michigan's past. The Rev. Ralph D. Harper of Chelsea used this diary and other information to have Collins' grave declared one of the few Methodist historical sites in Michigan.

The original diary, written mainly in the 1840's, is housed in the Michigan Historical Collection, Bentley Historical Library at the University of Michigan. From the diary, F. Clever Bald wrote a comprehensive study of Collins' life for the Michigan Alumnus Quarterly Review several years ago.

It quickly becomes clear that Judson Collins lived a life far different from most of his Unadilla contemporaries, who traveled little if at all.

According to Bald's research, Collins was born in New York in 1823 and brought to Michigan as a child when his parents settled on a Lyndon township farm. Strongly religious people, his parents raised eight sons, four of whom became ministers. It is recorded that Judson made a public profession of faith at a Methodist church revival in Ann Arbor when he was 14.

The University of Michigan arrived in Ann Arbor in 1841 with two professors, both of whom were ministers. Collins enrolled that year and graduated in the first four-year class in 1845 with 19 other men. The university was nonsectarian, but a strong religious feeling prevailed. Students were required to attend chapel daily and worship in a local church on Sundays.

Of the 11 bachelor of arts recipients, Collins was the only one to enter the ministry. He began to keep his diary on Aug. 7, 1845, the day after U-M commencement exercises. He notes that a few days afterward, he attended a Methodist camp meeting at Salem and another at Dexter.

"I saddled Old Jane," he wrote, "and trotted off to Salem to camp meeting traveling through Lyndon, Dexter, Webster, Northfield into Salem — through a country after leaving the short hills very level, consisting of oak and pines interrupted by glades of lumber land."

Bald notes that while an undergraduate, Collins became fired with a desire to learn about China and serve as a missionary there. His parents were probably supportive, having named him after Adoniram Judson, a pioneer missionary to Burma.

He notes in his diary: "Enjoyed the visit to think with my parents about going to China. Father is, I think, willing that I should go and mother will not keep me if I think it is my duty. I want to be little and unknown behind the cross. I want not to be my own but Christ's."

The Methodists had no mission in China, however, so Collins looked elsewhere for employment. He took a position as a teacher at Wesleyan seminary, now Albion College. His journey was interrupted with a brief stay at the home of Judge Samuel Dexter in the town the judge had laid out.

Collins undertook a rigorous schedule at Albion, teaching chemistry, botany, rhetoric, Latin and Greek, besides studying anatomy and Hebrew. In addition, he taught Sunday school, preached and conducted prayer meetings.

At this point, his diary begins to indicate the health problems that would plague Collins all his life and eventually lead to his death at the age of 29. He complained of indigestion and therefore ate little, further weakening his condition and sapping his strength.

He stepped up his schedule, vowing to devote two hours daily to reading scripture, praying and meditating, as well as keeping his journal up to date.

In spite of these rigors, Collins took himself to task repeatedly for his weaknesses and failings. "Another week gone into eternity and what a report it carries," he reproved himself in his diary. "A dreadful account of misspent time and abused privileges. I have overate and overslept and indulged in lagging this week and have not journalized — in all these respects I mean to reform this week, by the help of God."

He heard in 1848 that the Methodist Church intended to send two missionaries to China and early in 1847 received the call to report for that work. He sailed from New York on April 15 of that year and endured a miserable six days aboard ship before becoming accustomed to the movement of the ship.

The remaining four months of the voyage were enjoyable, but he again took himself to task for idleness in the study of Hebrew and Chinese. He and his companions, the Rev. Dr. Moses White and Mrs. White, landed on the China coast in August 1847 and then proceeded up the Min River to Foochow, an ancient city surrounded by a wall 30 feet high and 12 feet thick.

On the right bank of the river was a newer town, Nantai, where foreigners were permitted to live. This is where the missionaries settled.

Although he had difficulties with the Chinese language and was troubled by Chinese who would have preferred that he leave their town, Collins also found sights of beauty in the land he had so longed to see.

He included an illumination of a temple in his diary with the notation, "the most magnificent I have seen in Foo Chow. Many lamps, chandeliers and candles burning incense in a censer smoking before the idol. A fine display of artificial flowers. The officiating priest politely showed me around to view the show."

Never forgetting his mission, however, Collins added: "I spoke to him of the folly of idol worship and gave him a tract . . ."

On Feb. 28, 1848, Collins opened a school for boys. It first accommodated eight boys taught by a Chinese who received six dollars per month. Judson noted that the boys were prompt and correct in answering questions and that they were also mischievous.

Later he opened a second, in Nantai, writing: "It seems a great curiosity to the boys there. They have thronged the front room most of the day. A large number of boys offer for pupils, 17 I believe. I notice here a boy who came and stood by the door and whistled through his lips very shrilly, just as a Michigan bad boy might do."

Other missionaries were serving in Foochow along with White and Collins, and together they worked on a Chinese translation of the Bible, aided by communications from missionaries in Shanghai and Canton.

Conditions were not always receptive for the foreigners and Collins says that he was called a foreign dog and warned that the missionaries should leave or they would be killed. Other Chinese, however, listened to him politely as he preached and handed out tracts.

Ill health struck Collins again and he was stricken with a fever of long duration in 1849. A sea voyage was prescribed for his recovery and he sailed north to Ningpo and Shanghai on a Chinese ship.

More trials came when Collins decided to build his own house. He recounts difficulties in the building and includes an incident in which robbers stole a lock, a copper kettle and a boiler from his new home. Thinking of home perhaps, Collins planted roses and corn in his garden.

In May 1850, he was appointed superintendent of the Foochow mission. His health, however, failed again and he left again for a sea voyage, stopping in Amoy, Hong Kong, Whampoa and Canton. The voyage did no good this time and the physician and other missionaries urged him to leave for America, which he was finally persuaded to do in April 1851.

Bald notes in his Quarterly Review article on Collins that the young man must have felt like a failure when pondering his four years on the way back to America. Not one convert was made while he was there and none would be made for five more years.

Collins arrived in Detroit in September 1851 while the Michigan Annual Conference of the Methodist Church was in session. Word of his presence spread and he was hailed by the assembly as a hero.

Collins' health continued to decline and he died at his Lyndon township home on May 15, 1852. The funeral services were held at the Methodist church in Unadilla and he was buried in a small graveyard with other family members.

A plaque was placed on a boulder near the church in memory of Collins. Today that boulder points the way to the small, uncared for graveyard that houses the remains of Unadilla's most remarkable son, Judson Collins.

Proving Grounds Lay-Off Hits 200

Hard times got harder in auto industry-dependent Chelsea last week with the lay-off of 200 more employees at the Chrysler Proving Grounds on M-52.

According to Proving Grounds Director B. J. Ludwig, the reductions were across the board, affecting engineers, technicians, maintenance people and driver-mechanics. The 200 idled workers join the almost 200 proving grounds employees who were laid off in late April.

Chelsea is not the only Chrysler facility to be hit with staff reductions this week. Estimates have ranged from 5,000 to 7,000 as to the total number of the automaker's employees affected by the latest announcement.

Doug Nicholl at the Chrysler news division in Highland Park said the corporation was aware of the reports but would not confirm or deny the actual numbers. He said Chrysler has no plans to confirm the estimated numbers or percentages in the future.

Nicholl said the layoffs are a part of Chrysler's continuing cost-cutting program. The company reported record losses of $536 million dollars for the second quarter of 1980. That figure brought auto industry-wide losses in the April-June quarter to a disastrous $1.5 billion, an all-time high.

Ludwig said that despite the loss of 200 employees, the local proving grounds should continue to operate at an efficient level.

"We can do it with what we've got now," he said. "The level we're working at can be handled by the number of people we have."

Ludwig went on to explain that for the last year and one-half, the Proving Grounds has done extensive testing on prototypes for the "K" car, Chrysler's hope for financial solvency in the future. Now that the "K" is in production, Ludwig said, the proving grounds is doing testing on actual models, but not to the same extent as before.

"Our workload is less than a year or a year and a half ago because the 'K' car body is in production."

He added that the ups and downs of the auto industry in the present tense really have no effect on the operations of proving grounds, "because a lot of our work is associated with future projects, three or four years ahead."

The present lay-offs, he explained, came partially because cut-backs are being spread over the whole organization, but mainly because the intensive "K" car testing period is over.

Like those pink-slipped in April, the recently laid-off workers are eligible for TRA (Trade Readjustment Act) pay, given to those who lose their jobs because of foreign imports.

They join the ranks of the Chelsea jobless already inflated with workers from Central Fibre Products, Dana Corporation and Rockwell International.

there two years before and I've never seen a weak team."

He admitted that it will be extremely difficult to win more than one game, but pointed out that just going to the tournament this year is a large accomplishment for the team — in more ways than one.

"The kids appreciate the trip more this year," he explained,

"because they know the economic troubles this town is in. A number of them have fathers with businesses, and they know what kind of problems there are. They truly understand what a wonderful thing this is."

Scout Troop Enjoys Week of Camping

Eighteen Scouts from Troop 425 and Scoutmaster Richard Cook returned Saturday from summer camp at the Land-O-Lake Council Big Wolf Lake Camp Teetankah.

Sixty-six merit badges and numerous skill awards were earned by the Scouts. Some of the merit badges earned included forestry, swimming, canoeing, lifesaving, first aid, environmental science, cooking, fish and wildlife management, and camping.

Highlight of the week was Wednesday night when the Scouts participated in the Scout Craft Olympics, using the Scout skills and teamwork by patrols. Some of the events included knot tying, blanket stretcher carry and tent pitching.

Each patrol earned Scout-bucks for these events. After the Olympics, a chicken barbecue was held at which Scout parents enjoyed supper with the boys. After dinner, an auction was held and the Scouts bid for items with their Scout bucks.

Following the auction, an ice cream social was held, followed by an Order of the Arrow campfire.

The week of camping was an experience enjoyed by all the boys, especially those camping for the first time. Those attending the week-long camp out were Tom Bennett, Allen Cole, Jim Cook, Ricky Cook, Joe Eassa, Mark Freitas, Doug Jankuski, Kevin Gross, Matt Lorenz, Rick Niethammer, Philip Patterson, Dennis Parisho, Robert Polens, Mark Parath, Eric Stofflet, Kurt Roberts, John Stephenson and Tim Weir.

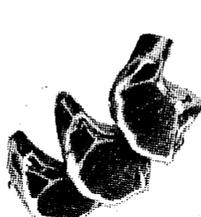

For information about Boy Scout Troop 425, call Scoutmaster Richard Cook, 475-7747.

CYCLOBALL is the name of the sport these Belgian athletes play, but no one here is quite sure exactly what they do with the bikes or the nets. Local residents will have a chance to find out when the players, guests of a number of Chelsea families next week, give exhibition of the sport on Sunday and Monday in Ann Arbor and Saline.

Touring Belgian Athletes To Present Cycloball Exhibitions

A number of Belgian athletes, practitioners of the mysterious sport of cycloball, will be the guests of three local families for a few days this week.

Twenty-two of the athletes and their chaperones, known as the Wielercub Arnold Standaert from Wondelgem, Belgium, will stay at the homes of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Heller, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard McCalla and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Goderis for their four-day stay here.

The Belgians will be here as part of an International Exchange Program conducted by Blue Lake Fine Arts Camp, and, frankly, their arrival left the Blue Lake staff almost speechless.

An American jazz group toured Belgium two years ago, and Blue Lake was eagerly awaiting the reciprocating visit from a Belgian group. The staff was more than a little surprised when they realized that a group of athletes rather than artists would be arriving.

Puzzled as to the proper arrangements, Blue Lake turned the whole matter over to the 4-H state Bicycle Committee, in which the local Goderis family is active.

That committee created an itinerary for the athletes and scheduled four days in the Ann Arbor area immediately before they are to return to Belgium.

The touring Europeans arrived in Michigan from Belgium on July 22. They have given exhibitions and enjoyed the sights in Portland, East Lansing, Grand Rapids, Blue Lake Camp, Muskegon, South Bend, Ind., and Michigan City, Ind. Their Chelsea stay winds up the fast-paced tour.

They will arrive at Briarwood on Saturday, Aug. 9, and spend all day Sunday enjoying leisure time with their host families.

Exhibitions of cycloball by the group will be presented free to the public at Huron High school on Sunday, Aug. 10, at 3 p.m. and again on Monday, Aug. 11, 7 p.m. at the Saline Fairgrounds.

Now, as to what cycloball is... well, no one in this area seems to have the slightest hint. Those stumped by the question include the University of Michigan

A BALL, BICYCLES and a small indoor court add up to a sport called Cycloball, played by these Belgian athletes. Part of an international exchange program, the athletes will be staying with three Chelsea families next week and presenting exhibitions of their sport in Ann Arbor and Saline. They'll also tour a number of local attractions, including Chelsea Milling.

athletic department, the Ann Arbor News sports department, and the U-M International Center.

A reference librarian at the Ann Arbor public library could come up with nothing closer than "cyclocross," which is some kind of cycling race taking place in the winter. Clearly, not close enough. From photographs, it appears to be an indoor game involving players on bicycles, a small, soccer-like ball, and nets on either end of a court that measures seven by 20 meters.

Barbara Goderis said she couldn't tell whether or not the players constituted teams or just how many bikes could fit on such a small court at one time.

While local curiosity on that point continues, the Belgian players will be entertained by some of the Chelsea sights. They will tour the Heller dairy farm, the McCalla hog operation and Chelsea Milling.

Mrs. Goderis also said that players were interested in selling their bicycles before leaving for home on Aug. 12 to avoid having to ship them back. Anyone interested in one of the bikes, the features of which are a mystery, may see them in action at Huron High or the Saline fairgrounds.

The Board of Education authorized the administration to enter into a food service management program with the Chelsea Community Hospital. The program will consist of a full-time food service supervisor, 100 hours of director of dietary services/registered dietician, and 50 hours of food production manager/chef.

Administration also interviewed four individuals and two food service companies.

Elsie Weiss, who has directed the district's food service program for 20 years, has asked to be relieved of some of the administrative duties. Elsie will continue employment with the district.

The Board awarded roofing bids to Gundrum Roofing Company of Ann Arbor for roof repairs to portions of South school and the Administration Building. Three roof parcels will total $29,380. $30,000 from maintenance millage has been appropriated for roof repairs for the 1980-81 school year.

Superintendent Van Meer apprised the board that the Chelsea School District had been selected to participate in a cardiovascular fitness program for students in grades 2, 5 and 7. This will be a three-year program in which students and parents become involved in a fitness program.

Alice Rawson addressed the board with the concern that there are at least 45 girls participating in volleyball, which is too large a number for one coach to adequately handle.

Next regular board meeting will be Tuesday, Sept. 2.

Good Things Growing In Michigan

Add that "fresh from the garden taste" to all your summer meals with the many good things growing in Michigan—including green beans and broccoli.

If you're planning to stock your freezer with these delicious vegetables for winter use, both crops are being harvested now. Major producing areas are Allegan, St. Clair and Macomb counties for broccoli; Van Buren, Mason, Grand Traverse and Sanilac counties for green beans. Michigan is fourth in the nation with a green bean crop of 72 million pounds harvested for processing last summer, according to the Michigan Department of Agriculture. Beans sold through fresh market outlets totaled 8.1 million pounds, ninth largest production among bean-producing states. Total value of this 20,000 acre crop was more than $7.9 million.

Two crops of broccoli can be grown here, one planted in early spring as soon as the danger of hard frost has passed and the soil is dry enough to plant; a second crop can be seeded in early summer for fall harvest.

Broccoli is one of the most perishable commodities grown for commercial market and consumers should only buy the amount they're able to properly refrigerate or freeze. Look for a firm, compact cluster of small flower buds, with none opened enough to show the bright yellow flower. Bud clusters should be dark or sage green, or even green with a decidedly purplish cast. Stems should not be thick or tough.

Antique/Classic Cars Parade Historic Walk Scheduled in Manchester

HOWARD MILLER'S Model-T, circa 1912, was one of the most venerable of the 60 cars that participated in an Antique Auto Parade in Chelsea last Friday. A total of 63 cars from the teens through the early '60's hummed down Main St. to the oohs and aahs of the admiring Sidewalk Sale crowds.

An Historic Walk is scheduled in Manchester on Saturday Aug. 9 by the Manchester Area Historical Society and Manchester Association for Talented Students, from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. The 19th century flavor of this village whose roots go back to 1826 when Major John Gilbert of the U. S. Army was granted 400 acres of land along the Raisin River, has been preserved in buildings and atmosphere. Unfortunately, some buildings have been razed and others altered beyond recognition as so-called progress took its toll. However, in general, the village exudes a feeling of antiquity which is obvious to the most casual visitor. The Society wishes visitors to know why they are attracted to the village and The Walk of six or seven blocks with a ticket-brochure will give them this information. Hostesses at each "open" structure will elaborate on the history for those who wish to know. The Society is also conducting a Collectible Sale on the Park in front of the Library as a fund raising event for the new building fund.

A brief schedule of the Walk is:

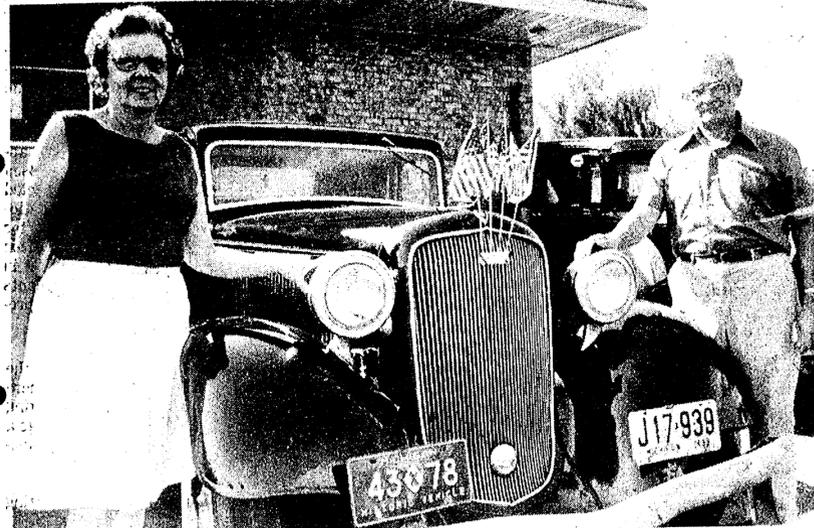

1. Fountain-Haeussler House, 101 W. Main. Open. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Walton, owners.
2. Van Duyn-Watkins House, 112 W. Main. Not open. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Marshall owners.
3. The Old Methodist Church, 122 W. Main. Open.

4. The Park, both sides of W. Main 200 block. Wurster Park.
5. Manchester Township Library, 202 W. Main. Open.
6. St. Mary's Catholic church, 210 W. Main. Open.
7. Emanuel United Church of Christ, 324 W. Main. Open.
8. Case-Armstrong House, 106 S. Washington. Not open. Mr. and Mrs. David Cooper, owners.
9. Fargo House, 121 W. Main (corner Washington and Main). Not open. Mr. and Mrs. Charles King, owners.
10. Waters House, 201 W. Duncan, Not open. Arthur Cathey, owner.
11. Blosser House, 203 S. Washington. Open. Mr. and Mrs. Rolland Grossman, owners.

12. Manchester Town Hall, 120 S. Clinton. Not open.
13. Exchange Place, 104 E. Main. Open. Don E. Limpert, owner.
14. Mann's Feed Mill, 201 E. Main. Open. Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Mann, owners.

Fresh Grid Practice Starts Next Wednesday

Freshman football practice commences next week Wednesday, Aug. 13, at 9 a.m. A team meeting and equipment hand out will be held Tuesday, Aug. 12 at 10 a.m. All players are requested to have physicals by Tuesday, Aug. 12.

A SPRAY OF AMERICAN FLAGS adorns the hood ornament of this 1933 Plymouth, flanked by owners Mr. and Mrs. Austin Vadine of Clear Lake. The Plymouth took its place among T-Birds and Model T's in the Antique and Classic Car parade that wound through Chelsea Friday as part of the annual Art Fair and Sidewalk Sale.

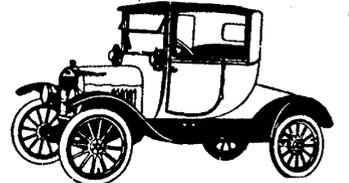

A CLASSIC T-BIRD, one of the many late '50's Thunderbirds on hand, paraded down Main St. Friday with some 60 other classic and antique cars owned by people in the Chelsea area. The unique parade was part of Sidewalk Sale festivities downtown over the week-end.

RICHARD GRIFFIN of Adrian poses proudly beside his 1953 Packard Mayfair, which he brought to Chelsea for last Friday afternoon's antique car parade. More than 60 classic autos from the teens to the '50's entertained Sidewalk Sale crowds as they paraded through town.

St. Mary's parish has planned its annual picnic for Sunday, Aug. 10, at the St. Louis school grounds, according to Mary Beth Dettling, chairperson of parish affairs.

The picnic will begin at 12 noon and continue until 7 p.m. Both regular and summer parishioners are invited to attend.

This year's affair, organized by both Parish Affairs and the Knights of Columbus, contains activities for all ages. Planned large game activities include swimming, canoe races, sack races, a continuous baseball game and volleyball. Bingo, cards, chess and others will be available for those who would rather sit than run.

Along with the fun and games, a day-long corn-on-the-cob boil is planned. Ice cream and soft drinks will be provided.

For those who would like to relieve their frustrations in a constructive way, the Chelsea Lions Club has donated the use of its dunk tank. Targets will be available.

Those with young children will welcome the news that a child care area will be available throughout the day.

Disaster Services Volunteers Needed By Red Cross

Because of the recent windstorms and power outages experienced in the Washtenaw county area, the Washtenaw County Chapter of the American Red Cross became aware of the need for more trained volunteers to respond in times of local disaster.

The Red Cross will be offering a "Family Disaster Assistance" training session on Wednesday, Aug. 20, from 7 to 10 p.m. Persons trained in "Family Disaster Assistance" would help the Red Cross aid families who are victims of disasters such as fires, tornadoes or snowstorms. Interested persons should contact Richard Smoot at the Washtenaw County Chapter, American Red Cross during regular business at 971-5300, no later than Aug. 13.

If you are interested in other Disaster Services, such as transportation, shelter care, food service or other areas, you may contact Pat Klinger or Carroll Thomson at 971-5300, or you may come to the Disaster Services meetings held the first Monday of each month at 7:30 p.m.

Your Health Options

By Beverly Chethik
Director of Health Education, Washtenaw County Health Dept.

My daughter had the hard measles when she was 3. Does she still need a measles shot before she starts school?

To help you answer this question, we suggest you ask your physician to check your child's records for the following information (1) Did a physician diagnose your daughter's rash as measles or (2) did a physician give your child the measles vaccine—perhaps combined with mumps and rubella—when she was 15 months of age or older?

There are many rashes that look like measles, so a parent cannot accurately diagnose whether or not the rash is a "look-a-like" or the real thing. If your child's rash was not diagnosed by a physician, or if the physician's records indicate that your child did not receive the measles vaccine, your daughter should be vaccinated.

Before a child enters school in Michigan, either as a kindergartener or as a transfer from another school district, the child must have proof that he/she was properly vaccinated for measles or had the disease itself. Other diseases for which proof of immunization is required are mumps, rubella (German measles), diphtheria, whooping cough, tetanus and polio.

It's important that all susceptible children be properly immunized because measles is a serious disease. Before the measles vaccine became available in 1963, more than 400,000 measles cases were reported annually in the United States. The disease often was complicated by middle ear infection or bronchopneumonia. Encephalitis occurred in approximately 1 of every 1,000 cases, and often resulted in mental retardation.

Since the introduction of the vaccine, there has been a 90% reduction in the number of cases reported. However, in Michigan in 1978, we experienced a serious measles epidemic. In fact, 30% of all cases reported in the United States came from Michigan and the only death in Michigan came from Washtenaw county.

To prevent a similar outbreak it is very important that any person who is thought to be susceptible be vaccinated as soon as she/he is identified.

YOUR HEALTH OPTIONS appears in this paper the last week of each month. If you have a health related question, please write to this paper, Attention: YOUR HEALTH OPTIONS or directly to the Washtenaw County Health Department, Health Education Office, Box 8645, Ann Arbor 48107.

Bicycle Problems Becoming Serious

It has been a bad summer in Chelsea for bicycle owners. As of this week, Chelsea police still have nine unsolved cases of bicycle theft on record. In most cases, the bikes had no licenses, which makes them doubly hard to locate.

As Chief Robert Aello points out, a bicycle license serves a valuable function. Even if the thief scrapes the sticker off of a stolen bike, police have a record of the serial number of the bike. It can then be entered as stolen on the police network and then identified, even if it shows up in another town.

A bicycle can still be entered in the network if it had no license, but chances are good that the owner never recorded the serial number.

In addition, a village ordinance requires bicycles operated on village streets or sidewalks to be registered and licensed.

Currently, Chelsea police are using two recovered bicycles that have never been claimed: a girl's Schwinn and a 10-speed. If owners can give positive identification to police, they may claim their bikes.

Aello indicated that he thought the bicycle theft problem was becoming serious enough to warrant checking bicycles on the streets. "We won't be stopping kids on bicycles at random," he said, "but we will begin to advise bicyclists to get licenses at the police station."

Another bicycle problem noted lately, Aello added, is the violation of the village's bicycle ordinance. Specifically, riders are prohibited from riding on sidewalks in the business district. Riders may either ride in the street or walk their bikes through the downtown area.

Also, it is unlawful to ride two abreast down any road in the village. Riders should go single file.

Police are also empowered to impound unlicensed bicycles being ridden in a public place, although they haven't enforced this provision strictly in the past. An impounded bike may be reclaimed by paying $3. If not claimed in one month, it may be sold at public auction with the money going to the village general fund.

Heart Attack Victims Sought In Medical Study

Volunteers are urgently needed to help combat America's number one killer, atherosclerosis. This disease is primarily responsible for heart attacks, strokes and related fatal diseases that account annually for some one million deaths or 53% of all deaths in the United States.

The National Heart, Lung and Blood Institute is conducting a program at three participating medical institutions, including the University of Minnesota, to determine whether lowering blood cholesterol levels will reduce the risk of heart attacks.

The University is seeking persons 28 through 64 years of age, who have had only one heart attack in the past 5 years. All such persons are asked to call the University of Minnesota Hyperlipidemia Study collect at 612-376-4494 for more information.

Manchester Street Fair Is Saturday

This Saturday, Aug. 9, is the day when Manchester's Main St. will be filled with fun for all area residents. Beginning at 10 a.m., Manchester's third annual Street Fair will offer an assortment of things to tickle the fancy.

Merchants will offer better than usual bargains and arts and crafts booths will display a wide range of quality fine arts, such as watercolors, oils, photographs. Also for sale will be heritage crafts such as pottery, weaving, woodworking, baskets and more.

Manchester's history may be explored by taking a historical walking tour. Tracing the village's roots back to 1828 through homes, churches and businesses will be the aim of the tours, which will be offered from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. They are sponsored by the Manchester Area Historical Society and Manchester Association for Talented Students.

Street entertainers will mingle with the crowds and displays of blacksmithing, weaving, spinning and soap making will be on hand.

A drawing will also be held at 7 p.m. at fair's end.

PIONEER SPIRIT: Tim Adams and Julie Soulliere fit right into the atmosphere of this old log house in their roles as guides at the Waterloo Farm Museum. The pair has spent the last two summers guiding summer visitors back through history into the past lives of Waterloo area settlers. The log house represents a typical dwelling of residents in the 1820's through 1850's.

Waterloo Farm Museum Presents True Pioneer Life

A unique arrangement between the Waterloo Historical Society and Chelsea Community Education is allowing village residents to experience the flow of history in this area through the facilities of the Waterloo Farm Museum.

Lying about four miles west of the village of Waterloo, the museum is a local treasure that Chelsea residents may not have been aware of. Through a listing of class offerings in the Community Education brochure, however, Chelsea residents are becoming more and more familiar with the historical labor of love in Waterloo.

As an extension of its labors to be of service to the community, the Waterloo Historical Society offers courses in many old crafts and arts that were not a pastime but a way of life in the 19th century.

Past workshops and classes have included forge work or blacksmithing, basketweaving, spinning, vegetable dyeing, soap-making and apple-head doll making.

According to Pat Russell, a Historical Society volunteer at the museum, fall offerings will include candle dipping, Christmas potpourri of herbs, Christmas needlepoint, crazy quilting, Early American wall stenciling, wheat weaving and early bandboxes.

Much more than "enrichment" courses offered in a sterile classroom setting, the Waterloo society's offerings are intended to offer real insight into how our ancestors lived from the period 1855-1895. According to Russell, it's a labor of love originated and sustained by a sparkplug named Hattie Beckwith.

The museum's buildings now sit serenely on well-cropped and maintained grounds. Such was not the case in the late 1950's, when all the buildings of the Realy farm on Waterloo-Munith Rd. were slated for demolition to become part of the surrounding conservation land.

Hattie Beckwith, "a true historian" as Russell calls her, started to interest the local residents in the local gem about to be snatched from their midst. With an awakened realization of the farm's worth, the Waterloo Historical Society mounted a successful campaign to preserve the buildings and part of their own heritage.

History of the farm itself goes back to before 1844, but little is known of it before that year, in which Johannes Siebold came to the area from Germany with his wife and her two children from a previous marriage, who kept the surname Rheule, Anglicized to Realy.

Siebold's son, Jacob, married and had seven children, five sons and two daughters. In a pattern strange for both that day and this, only one child, a daughter, married and left the family farm. For this reason, there were no heirs when the last of the Realy brothers died in the late 1950's.

The two old men living in the farm home were invalids and had become wards of the state. When they died, the property reverted to the state, which proceeded to auction off all the furnishings of the house and anything else that could be carried away.

Plans were being made to raze the buildings when Hattie Beckwith stepped in and helped the community to save the farm. Unfortunately, all of the barns had already been torn down.

Undaunted, however, the Waterloo Historical Society began to marshal its volunteer labor force for the restoration project. A number of items that had been auctioned off were donated back to the farm house. Area families offered antique furnishings, all of which were checked for authenticity of period and location before being placed in the home.

As Roland Stofer, president of the historical society, puts it, "Hattie Beckwith has a feeling and insight into making things work. She is a great historian. She has great insight into pioneer ways."

Together with the farm house, other pieces began to fall into place. In addition to the original windmill, milk house and bake house, the society added period-correct buildings from other locations, including a barn, blacksmith forge and outhouse.

The newest structure at the museum is a log house, somewhat earlier in period, which represents a typical dwelling of the 1820-1850 era. It offers a glimpse at the very earliest settlers of the area and makes the old farmhouse look palatial in comparison.

A rather rude building, but yet different from a log cabin, the log home is a large, rectangular box with two doors, two windows and a large stone fireplace at one end. According to Tim Adams, who together with Julie Soulliere is a Western's home game opponents for the upcoming season include Eastern Michigan University, Bowling Green, Toledo, Ohio University and Central Michigan University.

Knickerbocker is planning to major in political science as a pre-law program at WMU.

TAX FREE EXCHANGE
You can sell your present investment property at a profit, pay the capital gains tax, and re-invest what you have left into a larger property. This could be an unnecessary loss of cash. There is another way to accomplish the same result without paying the tax on the profit. It is called a "tax-free exchange." It could be of special importance if your present property has already seen much tax depreciation over the years.
The most significant advantage of a tax-free exchange is that it enables you to obtain the property you want by using the inflated current value of your present property without having to pay the tax on the profit because it is, in effect, an exchange not a sale. But if you are in this position, by all means, have a professional handle the details. It's no arena for amateurs.
To qualify for a tax-free exchange, both properties must be held for "productive use in business or for investment" and must be of a "like kind," but most real property held for business or investment would be considered so.
If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at FRISINGER REALTY CO., 935 S. Main St., Chelsea. Phone: 475-8681; evenings 475-2621. We're here to help!

The Bible-The Light from Heaven
Speaks about the patience of God. Anyone who has studied the Bible knows God is like a patient father waiting and longing for each of us to repent and return to Him. (Luke 15:11-32). God has always showed patience by waiting for repentance before bringing judgment upon sinners. God waited for the wicked to change before He destroyed the world with water in the days of Noah. In I Peter 3:20 is written, "Which sometimes were disobedient, when once the long-suffering of God waited in the days of Noah, while the ark was a preparing, wherein few, that is, eight souls were saved by water." God was patient and loving with the people. He waited for them to repent but because they continued to do evil His patience ended. He destroyed every living soul from the face of the earth except the eight who found favor in His sight. God gave the Amorites time to repent before allowing Israel to take their land. In Genesis 15:6 God says to Abraham, "But in the fourth generation they shall come hither again: for the iniquity of the Amorites is not yet full." He waited several hundred years before bringing judgment upon them. God was patient with Israel warning them through the prophets. After hundreds of warnings and centuries of waiting God brought destruction upon them in A. D. 70. His patience and waiting is going to come to an end with us. In I Thessalonians 1:7, 8 is written, "And to you who are troubled rest with us, when the Lord Jesus shall be revealed from heaven with His mighty angels, in flaming fire taking vengeance on them that know not God, and obey not the gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ." Now is the time to repent and obey the gospel of Christ. (2 Peter 3:9).

Gamblers Rally To Take Junior Miss Tournament Title

The Gamblers, who finished last in the regular season, did a complete reversal last week by winning the Junior Miss softball tournament.

On Saturday, the Gamblers defeated the Red Devils, 21-12, and completed the day by beating the league-leading Bandits, 16-15, in the bottom of the sixth inning. Monday night, the Blue Demons took the measure of the Gamblers, 18-12. The following night, the Gamblers added to their wins by again overcoming the Bandits.

In the final games, the Gamblers turned back the undefeated Blue Demons twice with scores of 23-15 and 21-10 to take the tournament crown. The Gamblers were led in the tournament, as they were all season long, by Cathy Basso, Chris Kvamberg and Karen Wilson.

Basso and Wilson led the team as the pitching-catching combination. Among Basso's many hits was a long home run against the Bandits. Wilson drove in six runs in the final game, three of which came on a clutch three-run double. Kvamberg hit over .500 for the entire tournament, including driving in the winning run the first time the Bandits were beaten.

In the final game, Cathy Basso was injured in the second inning and could not continue. Deanna Slusher finished the game as catcher while Kim Collins came in to throw for Basso. Both did a masterful job as the battery, allowing the Demons only five runs in the last three innings.

Sara Comeau and Jennifer Colvin made run-saving catches in the last inning to allow Collins the win. Kelly Murphy's outstanding catch of a hard line drive for the final out sealed the victory.

The outfield hustle of Jill Schaffner, Melissa Bare, Laura Scriven and Melinda Polzin kept the other teams from taking extra bases and preventing easy scores.

The infield of Kim Collins, Jennifer Colvin, Sara Comeau and Cindy Kvamberg made a number of outstanding fielding plays under pressure.

After the game, the girls presented coaches Joanne Alber and Kellie McGinn with a softball autographed by the entire team.

T-Ball play ended in Chelsea last week with the Tigers sitting on top of the league as champions despite losing to the Blue Jays by an eight-run margin.

Finishing just two points out of first were the Mariners, followed by the Orioles and the Blue Jays.

Mariners 42, Orioles 22—The Mariners got home runs from Wendy Bell, Duane Penhallegon and Todd Dewolf, plus a sparkling unassisted triple play by Brian Zangara to whip the Orioles by 20 runs.

The Orioles got great hustle from Chris Mohl, Carol Hanke, Butch Schanner and Mike Peterson.

Blue Jays 39, Tigers 31—Shawn McDaniels slugged three home runs and got super defense from Chris Wilson and Lance Satterthwaite to fire up the Blue Jays and hand the Tigers their only loss of the season.

Mariners 35, Rangers 33—The Mariners got four big hits from Adam Tillman and picture-perfect defense from Randy Seitz and Scott Centilli to hold on to a two-run margin for victory.

Phillies 41, Blue Jays 38—Phillies chalked up their first win of the season last week against the Blue Jays.

Joey Huetteman stroked a home run and a triple and Ricky Wescott and Jason Adams showed fine defense.

Everybody hit the ball well with Matt Fewless and Colleen Sharporn ripping the cover off the horsehide repeatedly.

Reds Win 2 from Dodgers for Pony League Tourney Title

In a stunning finale to the Pony League season, the Reds took the tournament from the expected winners, the Dodgers. Moving through the losers' bracket, the Reds beat the Dodgers in two straight games on Friday to sew up the tournament crown.

The Reds scored three runs on hits by Steve Wingrove, John Popovich, Doug Otto and Jeff Larson. The pitching victory was divided between John Popovich and Mike Ball.

Reds 7, Dodgers 3—The tournament then came down to the championship series, with the Reds needing to take two games from the tough Dodgers of Coach Bentley.

Mike Ball of the Reds was ready and he carried his team to a four-run victory by hurling a two-hitter.

Ball also knocked in two runs with a bases-loaded single. The Reds scored three more runs in the third inning and coasted to the win.

Coach Larson's squad played superb defense with several timely fielding plays. For the Dodgers, Brett Knickerbocker and Brent Bauer had the two hits.

Reds 8, Dodgers 5—After a 15-minute breather, the Reds and Dodgers locked horns again in the championship game.

The Reds opened the scoring on a Dan Pennington single, John Popovich double and three-run homer by Steve Wingrove. In the third, the Reds got three more on a Rob Beckwith single, a double by Kevin Vandegrift, Tim Weir's single and Biff Buntens' double.

The Dodgers scored three runs of their own on Rick Boham's single, Brent Knickerbocker's single and Mark Bentley's two-run triple.

Two more runs were picked up by the Reds in the fifth on a hit

Orioles 4, Twins 1—In losers' bracket play last Tuesday, the Orioles of Coach Petsch bested Coach Connor's Twins, 4-1.

The Orioles picked up seven hits, four of them in the last two innings as they broke loose from a 1-1 tie in the fifth. For the Orioles, Brad Carter and Dan Bellus combined to post the win.

The defensive play of the game was made by Jason Pierson in the final inning as he hauled in a long drive to save the game for the Orioles.

For the Twins, Matt Smith stroked a solo home run and Rich Connor pitched five good innings.

Yankees 7, Giants 4—The Yankees of Coach Marshall advanced in the losers' bracket with a sound 7-4 victory over the Giants of Coach Bareis that same day.

Yankee hitters exploded for six runs in the first and second innings and held on for the win. They got excellent pitching from Brian Farley, Kevin Waltz and Jeff Salyer. The Giants scored three runs in the sixth, but Salyer put out the fire.

Heavy hitters for the Yankees were Don Skiff with three hits and Chuck Downer with two.

For the Giants, Phil Sweet had two of the team's three hits. Matt Grau went the distance on the mound for the losing team.

Orioles 7, Yankees 3—In Wednesday evening tournament play, the Orioles eliminated the Yankees from further competition with a decisive 7-3 win.

The Orioles got five innings of scoreless pitching from Dan Bellus and a strong defensive effort from the whole squad to take home the victory.

A game-ending double play with the bases loaded killed a late Yankee rally.

Dodgers 7, Reds 6—The Dodgers' heavy hitting came through Wednesday to defeat the Reds, 7-6.

The Reds had a 5-2 lead going into the fourth inning, but the Dodgers loaded the bases and took the contest on a grand slam home run by Scott Jones.

For the Dodgers, Eric Green picked up the victory.

Coach Larson's Reds never gave up and had the bases loaded in the sixth inning before the Dodger defense shut them down. Hitting solidly for the Reds were Chris Tarasow with a triple and a single, and Mike Ball, Doug Otto, Biff Buntens and Steve Wingrove, all with singles.

Reds 4, Orioles 3—Tournament play continued Thursday with the Reds taking the Orioles out of play in a 4-3 squeaker.

The Reds jumped out to a 1-0 lead on the strength of a Mark Porath single and a Steve Wingrove triple. The Orioles roared back with three in the fourth on hits by Charlie Koenn, Brad Carter and Al Fromm.

In the bottom of the fifth, the Oriole defense went to sleep and

Little League Tournament Rained Out

Rain felled the final tournament contest of the Little League on Saturday, leaving the proceedings suspended until the championship game on Saturday, Aug. 16, between the Tigers and the Royals.

In Wednesday's play, the following results were recorded:

Reds 7, Dodgers 4—The Reds of Coach Ahrens stayed alive in the tournament by besting the Dodgers, 7-4. For the winning Reds, Matt Kemp went the distance in a strong performance.

Credit is due the Red defense, which made key plays to stop the Dodger scoring threat. Other Reds getting hits were Brian Robeson, Matt Kemp, Greg Haist, Brian Kidd and Mark Ahrens.

For the Dodgers, Craig Maynard pitched a strong game in relief and pitched in with a double.

Royals 7, Pirates 6—The Royals moved into the tournament finals with this close win over the Pirates Saturday.

For the Pirates, Chris Zangara led the hitting and fielding, while Matt Monroe and Gregg Boughton contributed key defensive plays.

RELOCATION PLAN
Albany, N. Y. — Governor Carey presented a detailed plan for permanent resettlement of 710 families living in the chemically contaminated Love Canal area of Niagara Falls and asked the Federal Government to pay $20 million of the estimated $25 million cost.

Farm League action wound up this week with the end of regular season play and a tournament that saw the Athletics emerge on top of the standings.

The Orioles took the regular season crown.

Royals 11, Yankees 1—The Royals got super hitting from Tony Byers, Brian Feldman, Matt Hubel and Brett Paddock coupled with superb fielding by Chad Starkey, Matt Herter, Jeff Smith and Brett Wales to whip the Yankees.

Tournament Play—In the final tournament game, it was the Yankees against the Athletics. The two teams were tied at five runs at the end of five innings to send the game into overtime.

In the bottom of the seventh, Athletic team member Ted Wheaton slammed a double and Robbi Thorne stroked a two-run homer to seal the victory and give the Athletics the tournament championship.

paid guide at the museum during the summer, often more than one family would occupy the long, single room.

Households emigrating from Europe would stay with their already-established relations in such homes until they could manage a home of their own.

Amidst the sparse furnishings, a huge black cooking pot in the fireplace and a formidable spinning wheel dominate the home. Local residents have also donated family antiques to furnish this home, which is still being completed.

Contrasting sharply with this simple log and mud mortar dwelling is the farm house, consisting of an early brick structure and a later wooden addition, built in the 1880's.

It brings to mind structures at Greenfield Village, but here there are fewer ropes and barriers and more of a chance to experience the building, attic and all.

What comes through in Tim Adams' commentary on the house is a sense of people involved in toil that never ended. Stores, were not plentiful and their wares were too expensive anyway. Pioneer families spent the bulk of their time in spinning, repairing, cooking, cleaning and creating the necessities of life day after day.

A graphic example is watching Tim Adams spin a bit of sheep's wool into yarn using the huge living room spinning wheel. After shearing the sheep, women (and sometimes men, too) would first repeatedly wash the wool to remove seeds, straw and dirt.

Then, to ensure that the wool is truly clean, the family would pick it apart, fibre by fibre, to try and remove the knots and debris. After that, the wool would be carded on two combs that resemble stiff hairbrushes with metal bristles. Repeatedly, the wool would be combed back and forth from card to card to further reduce the knots that would leave flaws in the yarn.

Following careful carding, women would roll the wool on the curved wooden backs of the cards, creating a long roll. The roll was then fed slowly into the bobbin while the large wheel spun, winding the fibres into a crude yarn.

Often vegetable dyes were used to color the yarn and then it was sent to the local weaver, who made cloth from it. The fabric was then returned to the family, who made clothing from it.

This arduous process makes clear why there are no closets in such old homes — clothing was too time consuming a thing for family members to own very much of it.

When not involved in this tedious process, family members were likely to be in other out-buildings, carrying out other never-ending chores.

Farmers crafted their own tools in the family forge. The ice box was kept supplied all summer by ice that was cut from the pond in winter and insulated by straw in the ice house during warm weather.

Buried half beneath the ground is the family's milk building, where milk was kept from spoiling in the cool, damp air. Butter was a large cash crop in those days, and farmers would take their milk to the train stop in Munith and sell it to a creamery in Jackson.

The bake house is testimony to the fact that no convenience foods existed for the pioneer families. A large room dominated by an oven was built outdoors in an effort to keep the house cool in summer.

Life was hard, the museum seems to say, but it wasn't desolate. A number of antique shadowboxes that adorn the walls of the farmhouse are testimony to that fact.

Although bereft of more typical decorative items, the pioneer woman was creative in attempts to dress up her home. Unconventional items such as seeds, wheat and even human hair are utilized in designs and wreaths in the shadowboxes.

Rugs were only strips of rags woven together, but give the house a colorful atmosphere. Paradoxically, the most ornate room in the home — the formal parlor — is also the most forbidding, with its stiff, black horsehair sofa and rigid chairs.

Learning to spin wool or forge metal on an anvil doesn't instantly place a 20th century Chelseite into the mysterious footsteps of his or her ancestors, but the careful, loving atmosphere at the Waterloo Farm Museum can help the pioneer spirit shine forth again.

Aug. 9 is the date set for third annual Manchester Street Fair. Manchester's Main Street will be used to display, demonstrate, and sell the works of 50 selected artists and craftsmen.

Last year's fair was a huge success and this year's show looks like it will be just as delightful. The merchants will have a sidewalk sale, The Black Sheep Theatre will give short presentations throughout the day, plus there will be music, mime, food and beverages, plenty of free parking, and horse-drawn wagons will be on hand to shuttle people around town.

This year's fair is sponsored by the Manchester Art Guild and the Manchester merchants and they are encouraging artists, craftsmen, and community groups from all over to participate in the fair. The Street Fair is juried and all artists and craftsmen are asked to submit three slides of their work for consideration. The sponsors are also very interested in artists who will also demonstrate their work. Fees for the one day fair are $25 with a fee of $15 for Manchester Art Guild members and residents. Booths are 8 ft. by 8 ft. and all artists are responsible for their own set-ups, rain protection, and clean-up of their area. Deadline for jurying is July 1.

For more information and an application, phone (313)428-7874 Monday-Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Good Things Growing in Michigan

Sweet Michigan corn-on-the-cob, roasted on an open fire, and covered with creamy Michigan butter, is available now for summer meals, and picnics.

About three million acres of all kinds of corn, nearly 40 percent of our planted acreage, line Michigan roads and highways, as a constant summer reminder of the "good things growing" here and our state's second largest industry — agriculture.

Corn is Michigan's leading crop in harvested acreage and production value worth more than three times its closest competitor. Total crop value for all corns — sweet, grain, silage, and popcorn — was an estimated $625,000,000, according to the Michigan Department of Agriculture.

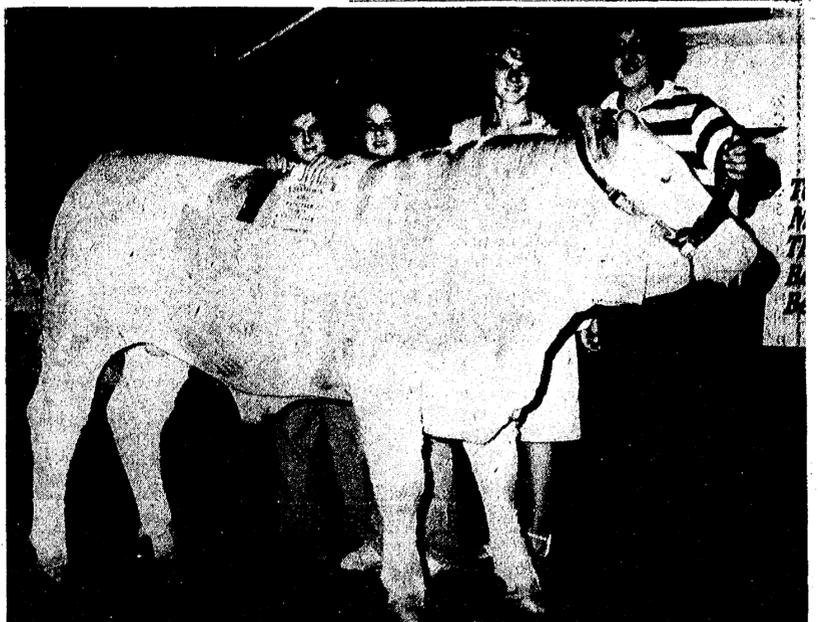

Sweet corn accounts for about 11,700 acres of this total. About eight million dozen ears of corn are harvested each year, to rank our state fifth in the nation for sweet corn production.

Sweet corn, as we know it, was cultivated in the early 1800's and is one of the few vegetables native to America, dating back to the Indians of Guatemala. When early settlers first came to this country, they saw corn, then called maize, flourish while their former staple crop, wheat, failed. Johnny cakes, hush puppies, corn muffins, and corn pone, all made from corn meal, are 100 percent American.

Fresh sweet corn's good flavor is quickly lost after it's picked because its high sugar content turns to starch as ears mature. To help keep the flavor, leave husks on and refrigerate until it's to be cooked.

For a listing of where you can stock up on sweet corn from pick-your-own farms and roadside markets, write MDA for a free brochure, "Country Carousel," P. O. Box 30017, Lansing 48909.
