INFLATED AND READY TO GO, this unusual airship greeted bemused Chelseaites early Monday morning. Recently returned from the National Hot Air Balloon Championships in Iowa (as spectators), the four Swedes who own the balloon and another like it stopped off in Chelsea to relax and give local hot air enthusiasts a ride in the unique craft.

PRE-FLIGHT CHECK: Two visitors from Sweden prepare to ascend in this uncommon, blimp-shaped hot air balloon that startled a number of local residents as it flew near the Chrysler Proving Grounds early Monday. The complex network of metal rods and cables attaches this small gondola to an envelope 130 feet long and 65 feet high. A number of local balloon enthusiasts took rides in the small gondola — one at a time.

Hot Air Balloon Startles Area Residents Monday

"I thought we were being invaded by Mars," quipped Reuben Lesser early Monday morning. What startled him and turned the heads of quite a few other residents near the Chrysler Proving Grounds did indeed bear the name "Hammars" but turned out to be a unique kind of hot air balloon piloted solely by Earthlings. According to local hot air balloonist Darlene Provencher, the balloon is the wholly-unique creation of four Swedes who happened to be visiting the area and stopped by with their airship. Provencher said the quartet is "just recreating here in Chelsea" between last week's hot air balloon National Championships and a trip to Spain. The Swedes stopped here to visit and take some local balloonists, used to more traditional craft, for a ride in the airship. Measuring 130 feet by 65 feet, the craft resembles nothing so much as the familiar Goodyear blimp, although a bit smaller. While the blimp is filled with Helium, however, the Swedish craft is lifted solely with hot air — some 140,000 cubic feet of it. Because the tail fins inflate along with the body of the air bag, the airship looks something like a giant, blow-up beach toy that has flown away from its owner. It was a baffled local population, then, that witnessed the inflation and rising of the giant airship on Monday morning. The balloon made several passes, since the passenger gondola holds only two people. Provencher said that the airbag is large enough to support more, but a great deal of weight is added by a Volkswagen engine that turns a propeller 5½ feet in diameter. The gondola itself is a small, metal contraption on wheels, attached to the airbag by lines and a metal framework. Provencher said it can land almost anywhere, but added that a soft, grassy field is the preferred choice. The Swedish quartet — Wilhelm Klingberg, Christian Amundson, Janne Balkedal and Hasse Akerstedt — did not compete in the hot air balloon nationals last week in Indianola, Iowa last week, but "came over to be part of the festivities." While here, they were instructing Bob Kinsinger of Battle Creek in the operation of their airship. Aware of the local curiosity, Provencher hastened to add that the ship is not exactly a common sight in Sweden either. "There are only two in all of Sweden and these four own them both," she said. Airships are uncommon everywhere, she said, and therefore they have no organized competitions such as the one for traditional hot air balloons. They do, however, vie to record the best speed timings on voyages. Co-hosting the Swedes is Provencher's husband David Schaffer, who finished 31st in last week's national competition. Because of his strong second-place finish in last year's contest, however, Schaffer has qualified to compete in the bi-annual World Championships, to be held in Battle Creek next June.

Chelsea sports fans desirous of enjoying an afternoon of cycloball last week-end were disappointed when a visiting Belgian team decided not to end its tour in the Ann Arbor area. A group of 22 Belgians were scheduled to arrive here Saturday, stay with three Chelsea-area families, and present two exhibitions of their sport of cycloball in Ann Arbor and Saline. Unfortunately, two players were injured playing on an unfamiliar surface in Muskegon and decided to remain there until their return flight to Belgium. Barbara Goderis, involved in 4-H bicycle safety locally, was

Cycloball Team Cancels Area Visit

U.S. Softball Title Hopes Evaporate With Two Defeats

The luck of the draw went against Chelsea's champion softballers last week-end in South Dakota, pitting them against two of the strongest teams in the nation for two consecutive defeats. Chelsea, attending the national championships as regional champs from this area, met up with last year's national title winners, the Oklahoma City Jets, for a 10-2 loss. Moving into the loser's bracket they narrowly missed playing the 1978 national champs, but fell to the Salt Lake City Gulls, 8-3. Playing in a field of exceptional teams, some of which had no weak spots, Chelsea's team members gave it their all, but committed 12 errors over the course of the two contests, almost more than they had made all season long. Coach Bill Wescott summed up the week-end's problems. "It was a combination of things. This year the kids really did want to win a game, especially the four seniors going out. They really felt terrible when we lost." Comparing the Chelsea squad to the top teams at the tournament, Wescott said frankly, "Our team was pretty inadequate athletically. But we got tough draws this year. In the past (two national championships) we got teams close to our caliber, but this year the draw went against us. "It's hard to understand it here. In the west, softball is a really big thing. You run track during the year, and then when school lets out in May, you go out and play softball all summer." A team like Chelsea's, where all the players are from one town, is a rarity, Wescott said. "A lot of the players are recruited," he explained. "You ask where the players are from, and they tell you, 'Well, these two are from the same town.'" "I don't think these are ex-uses. We played poorly. But when it became clear that we weren't going to win a game, things kind of caved in on us." Chelsea played its first game immediately after Thursday night's opening ceremonies. Oklahoma City's Jets, defending their national title, jumped off to a 3-0 lead in the fourth inning on two hits and a Chelsea error. The Bulldogs were still in the game at this point, but the Jets broke loose in the fifth inning to take advantage of four Chelsea errors for six big runs. Oklahoma City ended its scoring in the sixth with a run on a triple by Karen Huckaboly, the designated hitter. Chelsea picked up only one hit in the game, but it accounted for one of the Bulldogs' two runs. Shelly Weber led off the seventh inning with a walk. Kim Schmid, hitting for Kelly Hense, singled, followed by Angie Inglis' sacrifice that scored Weber. Cathy Wade then hit the ball squarely to the shortstop, who overthrew the first base, allowing Schmid to come home with the second run. Nanette Push threw the entire game and struck out four. "Oklahoma was very well coached, very strong and very fast," summed up Wescott. "There wasn't a weakness there. You could see most of the kids had conditioned all year long, either in softball or running track. They were good, but we might have played them even up if we could have eliminated our errors." Chelsea's next opponent was decided by a game between the 1978 champions, the Rock Island Rookies and the Utah Salt Lake City Gulls. In a contest running nine innings, the Rookies took the game and sent the Gulls to meet Chelsea in the losers' bracket. The Gulls' coach also heads the Utah State University softball team and featured several college players on his squad. Wescott kept the Push and Powell Road Show intact by starting Anita Powell on the mound for the contest. Powell struck out two, walked only one and gave up eight hits for a good performance. Unfortunately, the Chelsea defense committed five more errors to negate the effective pitching. The Gulls scored three in the first, one in the second, three in the fourth and one in the sixth to take an 8-3 decision and knock Chelsea out of the tournament. The Bulldogs drew blood in the fourth inning when Kim Wood singled, followed by an error by the Gull second baseman that saw Nanette Push safe at first. Jennifer Ringe sacrificed to move both runners up. Kelly Hense was technically a strike-out victim, but the catcher dropped the ball and then threw it away into right field as Hense scampered to first, allowing Wood and Push to score. The Bulldogs' big blow and the highlight of the trip for Chelsea came in the sixth inning, when Ann Eisele belted "an honest-to-goodness triple," in Wescott's words. Jennifer Ringe followed up with a single to score Eisele with Chelsea's final run of the game. Aside from softball, Chelsea players spent their three days shopping in Sioux Falls, attending a barbecue for all the competing teams and participating in opening ceremonies by bearing (Continued on page seven)

Fair Board Needs Old Utility Poles

A special meeting of the fair board was used for a work bee at the Chelsea Fairgrounds last week. Twenty-five people came to work on communications wiring, testing arena lights, cleaning up cut grass, and moving partitions in the basement so families of superintendents and board members can meet. President Grau called the meeting to order at 9:30 p.m. Discussions were presented in regard to the steer and swine clubs. Rules are in the fair catalog. The fair is short of old telephone poles for the Demolition Derby and would appreciate the donation of some. Call anyone on the fair board to make a donation. One vehicle per booth will be allowed at the Merchant's Building. The next meeting will be Thursday, Aug. 14, at 8 p.m. It will be for superintendents, so all are asked to attend. Plans for the 1980 Fair are progressing and the fair people will be ready to welcome all comers Aug. 26-30. John Anderson Gains 30% of Washtenaw Vote Results of township races in last Tuesday's primary election were reported in last week's Standard. Other races affecting the Chelsea area were decided as follows: In voting for the 23rd District State House seat, incumbent Mary Keith Ballantine handily beat her Republican opponent, Lee Doser of Dexter, pulling 5,540 votes to his 1,325. Dan McCarthy, unopposed in the Democratic side for that office, pulled in 1,290 and will face Ballantine in November. U.S. Representative Bob Carr, seeking his fourth term in the House, rolled over his Democratic opponent in the primary, Russell Severance, 10,613 votes to 1,934. James Dunn captured the Republican nomination for that office with 21,594 votes to Aubrey Radcliffe's 4,959. Voting for candidates was light in the county, possibly because of the election rules regarding party qualification voting. In a surprising outcome, independent presidential candidate John B. Anderson captured 30 percent of the total Washtenaw county vote and easily qualified to appear on the November ballot as a candidate. Election rules disqualified those who chose Anderson from voting in Democratic or Republican races. Over-all, in Washtenaw county, Anderson's candidacy received 6,390 votes out of a total of 21,464 cast. In the race for Washtenaw county sheriff, Lushin Salyer of Manchester took the Democratic nomination with 1,867 votes to William Crispin's 1,705. Salyer will face incumbent Republican Tom Minick in November. Lyndon township resident Doris Case took the Democratic nomination for county treasurer with 2,466 votes to 1,471 cast for Thomas E. Kaas of Augusta township. Rose Marie Melton won the Democratic bid for county clerk with 1,856 votes. Her opponent, Richard Doyle, received 1,550 votes. She will oppose Republican incumbent Robert Harrison in November. In the county drain commissioner race, James Murray of Ypsilanti won 2,440 votes to take the nomination from Chester Pankowski, who had 1,347. Murray will run in November against GOP candidate Margaret Yorks. Angie Veigel of Ypsilanti took 1,937 votes to capture the Democratic nomination for register of deeds. Her opponent, Sheila Mulroy Robertson, received 1,668. Veigel will run against Republican incumbent Patricia Newkirk Hardy, who has held the office since 1955.

After six months of haggling, Congressional conferees agreed on a multibillion-dollar program to develop synthetic fuels. The short-range aim of the new bill would be the use of a variety of financial and legal devices to aid in the construction by 1987 of 10 synthetic fuel plants, capable of producing 50,000 barrels a day each, at a total cost of $25 billion.

HOW POISONOUS ARE HOUSEPLANT INSECTICIDES?

Question: I have an insect problem on some houseplants. One of my references suggests that I can use either malathion or rotenone. Is one safer than the other? Which will do a better job?

Answer: There are several factors to consider when selecting a pesticide for a particular purpose. You must know the name of the plant on which you plan to use the product and the name of the pest you wish to control. Both the plant and the pest must be listed on the pesticide label. If they are not, you cannot legally or safely use that product.

Once you have established that both products are "registered" for a given purpose, I suggest comparing the toxicity of the two products. Both oral and dermal toxicity levels are given in numbers called the LD-50. These numbers, derived from laboratory data, give the number of milligrams of product per kilogram of body weight necessary to kill 50% of a population. The lower the LD-50, the more toxic the product!

In comparing malathion and rotenone, we find the oral LD-50 is 50 to 75 for rotenone and 1000 to 1375 for malathion. The dermal toxicity for rotenone is over 940, whereas that for malathion is over 4,444. So either orally or by skin contact, rotenone is several times more toxic than malathion.

In some cases, you would also want to look at the possible persistence of the product in the environment. In the case of malathion and rotenone, rotenone breaks down in less than a day in the presence of sunlight and moisture. Malathion could be expected to last from 4 to 7 days.

Inmates Learn Dental Appliance Business in Camp Waterloo Lab

Every man is in his work station and concentrating on some delicate job involving plastic teeth, plaster, wheels and sanders, bits of chrome, plastic strips, drills, Bunsen burners, picks and wax. There is the pungent smell of chemicals. The only sounds are those of whirring and grindings and hummings. Heads are bowed; above them lettered on the wall: "Our goal is excellence!"

Here at the dental laboratory at Camp Waterloo in eastern Jackson County off Clear Lake Rd., about 15 to 24 prisoners work at the laboratory making about 250 dentures and partial dentures every month for prisoners and the institutionalized mentally ill throughout Michigan.

The work requires so much skill that it takes five years to earn a certificate in it, but here in Michigan's prison system, a man can learn enough about the work to go on to a professional "free-world" laboratory and get a job after working here for about 10 months.

The men are normally working on about 400 to 500 dental appliances of various kinds at one time or about three times that of a commercial laboratory. And the boss—Arthur H. Ackerman—says the prisoners are able to make appliances "that equal and very often surpass those of many of the best commercial laboratories."

Ackerman, one of the first dental technicians to be employed in training prisoners and producing dental appliances for the department, has run the dental lab at this minimum-security camp since it opened in 1968. The laboratory's reputation for first-rate products is something that Ackerman has dedicated his life to achieving.

"We don't have any deadwood in here. Everyone produces or they leave. When they are finished, they can get a job in the community with the skills we have taught them. If they have the guts to get the job and make it, they have the skills to keep the job," he said.

Every finished product is personally inspected by Ackerman before it is returned to the prescribing dentist at a prison or mental health facility. Everything about the clean, well ordered laboratory and the appearance of the workers and their supervisors tells you that the inspection will be thorough.

It's tough to get into the program. Besides the right security level and length of sentence, the inmate has to have the right attitude and have passed a manual dexterity test in which he had to duplicate a tooth by carving a hunk of plaster. Many carvers fail.

"I'm no pushover, no slouch. The man has to have excellent potential to get in here and he has to work hard to stay in here," he said.

Once they have been accepted, the training is rigorous, because production cannot slump to accommodate a new employee. "We're a production laboratory. We produce," he said.

Ackerman likes to point out that the men have saved the state $3 million to $4 million since the operation began here. Besides the skills the prisoners receive in the business, they can earn up to $1.36 a day in wages.

In the business of making dental appliances for the past 30 years, Ackerman has two assistant dental technicians: Bernard L. Chase and Charles H. Moore. All are certified by the National Board for Certification of Dental Technicians.

Most prisoners spend about eight to 10 months in the program before going on to parole or a halfway house. Many find employment with private laboratories. Ackerman thinks about 30 percent of all his graduates get jobs in the field. If they stay six months they take with them a certificate that lists the skills in which they have become proficient and a list of laboratories in the state in which to seek jobs.

Without training, prisoners used to make false teeth for one another inside the walls of the State Prison of Southern Michigan near Jackson in the 1950's, Ackerman said. In 1960 Camp Waterloo hired its first dentist and a small program was started involving Ackerman. In 1968 seven inmates, Ackerman and two dentists moved into a new building at the camp designed for their special work.

The training of inmates in this field continues to grow under the inspired hand of the department's top dentist—William Byland, a private dentist who in 1975 joined the department to co-ordinate and improve dental services for state inmates.

Since then every prison in the system has had significant improvements in this area.

Besides supporting and encouraging the work of Ackerman's laboratory at Waterloo, Byland started an associate degree program in dental technology at the Northside Unit of the State Prison of Southern Michigan in 1976. The program, which follows the academic requirements of the American Dental Association, is working on its fourth group of graduates. Each class contains about 20 to 30 students and two classes are always running—one more advanced than the other. The instructor is Jerry Trzybinski, a certified dental technician.

The 18-month program is taught in the Northside school and is restricted to students who already have 22 college credits. There are provisions for those who have only 12 hours if they can earn the other 10 while attending the dental school. These students also must be eligible for Camp Waterloo for the on-the-job portion of the training which Waterloo offers.

The associate's degree, which is awarded from Jackson Community College, is giving prisoners better qualifications and more job opportunities, Byland says.

Ackerman believes that generally those trained academically at the Northside Unit before coming to Waterloo are able to get into the production atmosphere of the lab faster than those who come to the lab without that background.

When a new infirmary for the Jackson complex is completed in a few years, Byland expects the entire production and training program to be carried on there.

A new dental laboratory began operation in September of 1979 in the Trusty Division of the Marquette Branch Prison in the Upper Peninsula. It is run by Robert T. Anthony who is a certified dental laboratory technician who owned a dental laboratory in Marquette for 25 years before joining the department in 1977. There are currently two inmates working with Anthony and two more are to be added soon. As is the case at Jackson, the inmates must have a minimum of 18 months left before they can be paroled to qualify for the program.

The laboratory at Marquette makes dental appliances for the Kinross Correctional Facility near Sault Ste. Marie, the northern camps and the Marquette prison. It is in a double trailer with the prison's dental clinic and medical unit. Besides making full and partial dentures, the students repair appliances.

"We've certainly come a long way since the days when inmates pulled each other's teeth and taught themselves dentistry by reading books," Ackerman said.

ON SOCIAL SECURITY

Most American workers under age 55 are afraid the Social Security system will not have the funds to pay benefits when it comes their turn to retire, a nation-wide survey released recently indicated.

VANDALS STRUCK in the Wilkinson-Arthur Sts. neighborhood last week-end, spraying cars, houses, and sidewalks with glossy black spray paint. This is a milder example of the graffiti, most of which ran to obscenities. The four involved, all neighborhood juveniles, will appear in juvenile court on the charges.

Four Juveniles Arrested for Spray-Painted Obscenities

Residents of Wellington and Arthur Sts. awoke Sunday morning to discover their houses, cars, streets, sidewalks, fences and traffic signs covered with black, spray-painted obscenities.

Chelsea Police Officer Rick Walter apprehended four neighborhood juveniles, two boys and two girls, who admitted doing the damage on a lark.

Police took nine separate complaints from subdivision residents Sunday, reporting several hundred dollars worth of damage to property. Owners are still obtaining estimates of the damage, so the total amount is not yet known.

Chief Robert Aeillo said that the quartet of vandals was identified through investigation of the complaints. Interrogated in the presence of their parents, the four admitted spray-painting the neighborhood.

One said he had a standing feud with a neighbor and that the spray-painting was originally to be directed at only one house. After painting that property, however, he said the group got carried away.

Chief Aeillo said the four will be petitioned into juvenile court and that restitution will be requested. Under Michigan law, parents of juveniles can be held responsible for up to $1,500 per child.

NO PROSECUTION

The Justice Department said recently it will not ask a federal grand jury to indict Sen. Herman E. Talmadge, D-Ga., on charges of financial wrongdoing resulting from a year-long Senate Ethics Committee investigation.

Phone Lines Being Buried Underground

Work crews that have been tolling along Old US-12 for the past several weeks are Michigan Bell employees burying local telephone lines underground.

According to a Michigan Bell engineer involved in the Chelsea area, it is company policy to bury the cables whenever some type of change is being made to the wires.

In the case of Old US-12, service had to be reinforced to accommodate increased population in the Jackson Rd. area. While updating the cables, the crews will also put them underground. At this point in the process, workers are splicing the cables.

A number of poles should disappear, said the engineer, but others which are necessary for hook-ups to houses will remain.

He said similar work may be done inside the village of Chelsea sometime during 1982, but hastened to add that plans are subject to change.

Chelsea probably won't lose many poles in that future operation, since most in the village are used jointly between Michigan Bell and Consumers Power.

Soccer Program Scheduled For Fall

This fall, Chelsea Recreation Department will sponsor a soccer program for boys aged 12 through 15. The program will be in cooperation with the Great Lakes Soccer League.

All games will be played on Sunday afternoons. For information, call Dennis Petsch, 475-8494, or Bill Ackley, 475-7160.

ON EMPLOYMENT

High school graduates looking for permanent employment this summer are finding the most job openings in office-related work, according to a new government employment survey. The Labor Department said that demand is greatest for clerk-typists, clerks, secretaries and administrative clerks, in that order.

INTERNATIONAL VISIT: Ritsuko Saito of Hikone in Japan checks out the world globe with Mary Bort of Chelsea. Ritsuko is spending this week with the Robert Bort family at North Lake on an exchange program administered by Person to Person. The Borts and their visitor have discussed world geography despite some communications problems, and have found a common denominator in some American television programs. This week will culminate in a banquet for 150 Japanese guests and their host families Sunday in Lansing.

Japanese Student Visiting Borts on Exchange Program

An international exchange program known as People to People has brought a 17-year-old Japanese student, Ritsuko Saito, to stay with the Robert Bort family at North Lake this week.

Ritsuko, is one of 150 residents of the Japanese province of Shiga to spend this week in Michigan as part of the exchange. Shiga and Michigan are sister states.

Ritsuko is staying with the Borts because Ann Arbor and her home city of Hikone (pop. 100,000) are sister cities. Ritsuko is used to living on the water, but North Lake is tiny compared to the huge Lake Biwa which is about 20 miles across and 75 miles long.

The Borts say that they and Ritsuko are getting along well, despite the fact that she speaks very little English and they know no Japanese at all. An indispensable aid is a dictionary with Japanese words and American translations.

Often when sign language and English fail to convey a meaning, a short trip to the dictionary clears up all the confusion, Mrs. Bort said.

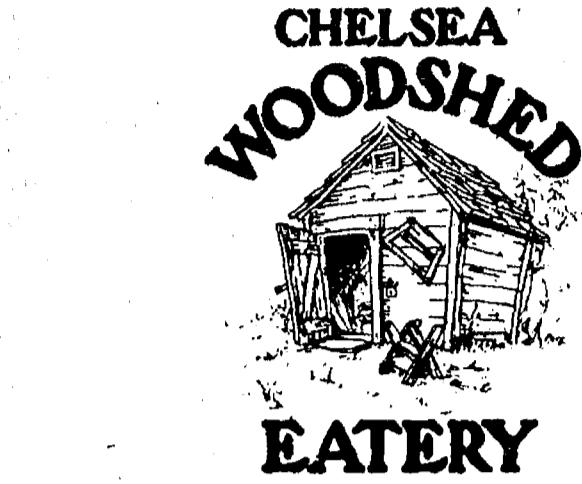

Ritsuko brought along a number of maps to show the Borts more about her country, and the family has been consulting a globe to discuss American and Japanese geography. She has one more year to go in the Japanese equivalent of high school and then would like to attend college and become a high school art teacher.

People to People structures the exchange visits so that a foreign visitor leaves with a true impression of American family life, rather than an endless parade of sightseeing visits.

To give Ritsuko some idea of the area, the Borts plan to take

Four Nabbed for Two Separate B&E Cases

Two recent, unrelated break-ins and entries within the village were solved by Chelsea Police this week.

Two local 17-year-olds admitted breaking into Thompson's Pizza last Thursday, Aug. 7, and stealing some $85 worth of quarters from the juke box and cigarette machine.

Then on Tuesday, Aug. 12, police took a confession from a local juvenile related to the theft of a number of large items from a home on Congdon St.

Police withheld the names of those involved pending the receipt of arrest warrants.

In the earlier incident, Police Chief Robert Aello said two local men confessed to breaking into Thompson's Pizza through a broken 12"x14" door window sometime after 11 p.m. last Wednesday.

The pair told police they pried open the two machines and took all the change inside. Police said that hamburger meat and a carton of pop was found near the door, indicating that the two probably would have stolen those items if the door hadn't contained a dead-bolt lock that required a key to open inside and out.

They fled through the same opening.

Aello said no physical evidence was found at the scene. He proceeded to telephone local banks and asked them to check on anyone bringing in large amounts of change.

Soon thereafter, a bank reported two boys asking for a large description of quarter rolls and provided a description of the two. Chief Aello located them at East and Van Buren Sts. and confiscated the money after they told him they had found it on Old US-12.

found a stereo and a stereo cabinet speaker.

The juvenile was interrogated in the presence of his parents and confessed to entering a house on Congdon St. on two separate occasions and removing property.

Police believe two others to be involved in the thefts, which included the above items, another cabinet speaker and a microwave oven. Some of the property has not yet been recovered.

Police were waiting for arrest warrants on the two adults, both local residents, on charges of breaking and entering. The juvenile will be petitioned into juvenile court.

The American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees gained the first largest membership increase of any union between 1968 and 1978. Total membership in this public employee union rose 180.2 percent to 1,020,000 over the decade, reports the Bureau of Labor Statistics, U. S. Department of Labor.

The Bible-The Light from Heaven

Speaks about the blessings of Christians. The apostle Paul wrote a letter to the church of Christ at Ephesus. In the first chapter and the third verse he made this statement: "Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, who hath blessed us with all spiritual blessings in Christ." From this passage it is plain to see that Christians have special blessings bestowed upon them which are not available to those outside of Christ. Let us examine some blessings in the New Testament. The forgiveness of past sins, that allows us to have eternal life, is by far the most important blessing which Christians possess. Our sins, no matter whether we think them bad or not, cause spiritual death (Romans 6:23). They are the very thing that keeps us out of heaven (Galatians 5:19-21). However, those who obey the commands of Christ will receive forgiveness of sins and salvation in heaven (Hebrews 5:9). These commands are to believe in Jesus as the Son of God (John 8:24); repent of your sins (Luke 13:3); confess your faith in Christ (Romans 10:10); be baptized in the name of Christ for the remission of your sins (Acts 2:38); and remain faithful unto death in serving Christ (Revelation 2:10). Another blessing of the Christian is having all things work together for good in this life (Romans 8:28). God has promised to bless the child of God in his life on earth and even in the hour of death (Psalms 23).

HOW MUCH PROFIT?

When you sell your home for a profit, Uncle Sam will expect a capital gains tax on the profit unless you buy another home costing more. But you can make this profit tax basis as small as feasible by adding legitimate expenses to the original cost and deducting expenses from the sale price.

You can add any buying costs, such as: title search, title insurance, lawyer's fee, appraisal fee, recording fees, property survey, credit report, bank lawyer's fee, processing charges and any "points" you may have had to pay. If you made any capital improvements — finished attic or basement, new kitchen, added porch, patio or swimming pool you can add the cost of these to the original price.

You can deduct your selling cost from the price you received. Realtor's commission, lawyer's fees, advertising costs and fix-up expenses if they were made within 90 days prior to the sale. Now you deduct the lower selling price from the higher original cost figures and you arrive at the taxable profit.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at FRISINGER REALTY CO., 935 S. Main St., Chelsea. Phone: 475-8681; evenings 475-2621. We're here to help!

AGRICULTURE IN ACTION

MICHIGAN FARM BUREAU

★And Now . . . The 'Superfund'

Have you heard about "Superfund"?

The superfund is the heart of a movement in Congress to tax producers and users of chemicals and petroleum products to cover environmental cleanup and costs of supposed "health damage." Several bills have been introduced to do this. One would involve a $600 million superfund; another goes for $700 million.

In all cases, the idea would be to tax chemical producers and users to clean up abandoned waste disposal facilities and to provide medical expenses for persons assumed to have been injured by exposure.

Anyone producing or handling hazardous substances, anywhere along the line from origination to disposal (and this includes farmers) would be held equally liable. This would include liability for real or imagined health problems blamed on chemical exposure.

The assumed liability is of special concern to farmers who are big users of chemicals and of petroleum products.

It is not at all hard to imagine individuals or groups of citizens attempting to recover damages for real, or imagined, health problems, everything from tummy trouble to falling hair, blamed on supposed exposure to fertilizer or to bug spray.

Even if a farmer won a case, defense costs would be a severe burden. You can bet that food production would go down, and that food costs would go up.

The "Superfund" is a tax trap. It is another proposed tax burden involving hundreds of millions of dollars annually, which all chemical users, all taxpayers, would pay . . . and pay.

4-H members from across the state will travel to Michigan State University to compete in the Michigan 4-H Dairy Goat Show, Aug. 18-19.

Classes will range from showmanship and breed type classes to dairy goat driving contests. "Education clinics are also scheduled during the two-day event," says Gale Baumgardner, Michigan 4-H dairy specialist.

The show will begin at 10 a.m., Aug. 18 with type classes followed by showmanship. The Dairy Goat Judging Contest is scheduled for 8 a.m., Aug. 19. Both events take place in the Spartan Stadium.

The 4-H Dairy Goat Show is open to the public free of charge and is one of several livestock-related events scheduled during 4-H Animal Science Week at MSU, Aug. 18 to 21.

Pinckney Trio Charged In Marijuana Plots

A trio of Pinckney residents were charged with manufacturing marijuana after Livingston county sheriff's deputies raided two fields containing three acres of cultivated pot.

Charged on Friday, Aug. 1, before 53rd District Court Judge David Gee were Robert Urbant, Charles Selix and Gary Pratt, all listing their address as Pinckney.

The fields were found west of Pinckney and 12 miles northeast of Howell. Police called them the best-tended marijuana farms they had ever encountered, and said the crop had been cultivated with sophisticated irrigation techniques.

The marijuana plants in both locations were put to the torch by police soon after the arrests.

Also reportedly seized by police at the home of the three were stolen auto parts and several suspected stolen cars, a carbine with an infra-red sniper scope

Know Nothing Party Or Is That Redundant?

The first national convention of the Know Nothing Party was held June 5, 1855 in Philadelphia, Pa. Originally a secret society, the party, also called The American Party, nominated former President Millard Fillmore as its candidate for office in the 1856 election at a convention earlier that year. Fillmore garnered only eight electoral votes. Examples of the Know Nothing Party material and Fillmore campaign memorabilia are part of the special "Politics U.S.A." exhibit continuing through Labor Day at Henry Ford Museum, Dearborn.

Michigan State University's rapidly growing library collections included more than 2.5 million volumes in 1978.

Gas Tax Revenues Decline By 11%

Gas tax revenues for work on highways, roads and streets, and other transportation programs fell by 11 percent in the second quarter of 1980 compared with the same period a year earlier, the Michigan Department of Transportation has announced. Diesel fuel tax revenues were off 26 percent.

The decline continued a trend from the previous quarter when gas tax revenues decreased 12 percent and diesel fuel sales 14.8 percent, the steepest drop since World War II.

In Washtenaw county, distribution amounts received from the total state revenues dropped from $1,215,621 in the second quarter of 1979, to $1,148,230 in 1980, a 9.4 percent decline.

Chelsea's revenues from the second quarter of this year were $17,901, down 9.33 percent from the $19,183 figure recorded in 1979. Dexter's revenues dropped 9.35 percent, from $9,409 in the 1979 quarter to $8,799 in 1980.

Statewide, the gas tax yield for the April-June period fell from $121,659,162 last year to $108,250,362, a drop of $13,408,800. Gasoline taxed fell by 11 million gallons to 983 million gallons.

Diesel revenues declined from $8,300,498 to $6,145,488. The decrease was the result of a drop in gallonage from 92,400,000 to 72,900,000 and the first effects of a reduction in the diesel fuel tax on trucks from nine to five cents a gallon. It was enacted this spring.

Partially making up for the loss was $1,943,989 collected in diesel carrier license fees included in the same tax legislation. Michigan truckers now pay a $92 fee and out-of-state truckers, $12, entitling them to the reduced fuel tax.

Revenues from weight taxes (license plate fees) went up 13.4

percent in the second quarter, going from $38,478,136 in 1979 to $43,627,065 this year, an increase of $5,148,929. A new method of collecting the fees, extending the license period to coincide with the birthday of the owner of the vehicle, accounted for most of the increase.

All the tax revenues went into the Michigan Transportation Fund, together with interest earnings totaling $3,958,794 and miscellaneous revenues of $2,546,662.

From gross receipts totalling $166,580,632, a decrease of 4.7 percent, $17,476,229 was deducted for collection costs and various grants, an increase of 15.7 percent.

The remaining $149,104,411, down 6.6 percent from 1979, is being distributed to the state, the counties, municipalities and the Comprehensive Transportation Fund, which supports bus, rail and port development programs.

The State Trunkline Fund for construction and maintenance of the state highway system will receive $56,678,699 as its 38.4 percent share of the fund. State-financed public transportation and rail programs will receive $12,257,040 as their 8.3 percent portion.

The 83 county road commissions will collect $51,587,373 as their 34.3 percent share and the 531 incorporated cities and villages will receive $28,581,284 as their 19 percent share.

Together, the state, counties and municipalities maintain nearly 117,000 miles of highways, roads and streets.

Abrams Planetarium at Michigan State University is one of the few places in the world where students receive training in Planetarium Education.

Broccoli has been gaining in its claim to fame in Michigan and the United States in the last 30 years, although used as a vegetable since ancient times. This member of the cabbage clan has not become a major crop in our state, however, because of time and costs involved in harvesting broccoli by hand. Most broccoli in Michigan is grown for sale at roadside or retail farmers' markets.

UP, UP AND AWAY: All by itself, this tiny car looks like an experimental model of a new kind of airplane. Attached to all the lines and cables, however, is a huge envelope containing 140,000 cubic feet of hot air. A Volkswagen engine turns the 5 1/2 foot propeller in the rear, which maneuvers the craft and provides a little bit of lift. Pilot and passenger are half of the Swedish team that brought the airship to Chelsea early this week.

PACKING UP: Looking like a huge blue and yellow whale looming over the tiny humans below, the unfamiliar airship that visited Chelsea Monday is slowly deflated. Looking like a blimp, but filled with hot air instead of helium, the craft is owned by four Swedes who stopped in Chelsea to recreate and take a number of local balloon fans for a ride.

The Borts are disappointed that her visit coincides with the Democratic convention, which will preempt regular television fare. Mary Bort admitted to being amazed, however, when Ritsuko pointed out Jacquelyn Smith in a television movie this week. Asked how she knew the name, Ritsuko replied simply, "Charlie's Angels."
This week's visit will end Sunday night with a dinner for all 150 visitors and their hosts in Lansing with Gov. William Milliken in attendance.
People to People, which sponsors the visit, is a volunteer effort of private citizens to advance the cause of international friendship.
