Futurist To Address Teachers

Harold Pluimer, a noted futurist, utilizing an array of unique communication techniques, traces the nostalgia of the past to the tempo of our time to the shock of the future, will address the Chelsea and Dexter teaching and administrative staff on Tuesday, Sept. 2, in the Chelsea High School Auditorium.

Pluimer, a graduate of St. Cloude State College in Minnesota and the University of Minnesota, for the past 12 years has been self-employed as a writer, speaker and consultant. He is the author of a book "The Frontiers of Our Time" (Vantage Press, 1968). He was involved with World War II and the Korean Conflict. He spent one and one-half years with Oakridge Institute of Nuclear Studies. He was with the U.S. State Department in 1958.

Pluimer did the color commentary for NBC-TV at the U.S. Pavilion in the International Hall of Science. He presented a series of 13 programs entitled "The Atom Story" and eight TV programs on "The Exploration of Space." He has been employed as a senior lecturer for NASA and in 1961 was retained as an educational consultant.

Pluimer states "the most dominant characteristic of our time is incredibly rapid change. The changes now upon us are so fundamental and sweeping that everyone must be made aware of what is happening. This sweep of change with its awesome implications has no parallel in all of time and represents a factor in history. The failure to recognize the significance of our time causes us to worry about the wrong thing."

A RADIANT NANCY HELLER poses just after being named 1980 Chelsea Community Fair Queen. Nancy, the Terrific Tailors 4-H Club candidate, was chosen from a field of 11 nominees. Performing official duties at the Fair, Nancy's reign will continue through Saturday.

Nancy Heller Chosen Chelsea Fair Queen

Nancy Heller, candidate of the Terrific Tailors 4-H Club was selected Tuesday evening from a field of 11 candidates, as the 1980 Chelsea Community Fair Queen.

Nancy was chosen on the basis of an interview with the three judges, a talent competition in which she played guitar and sang, and her response to a randomly chosen impromptu question which she answered in front of the pageant's audience.

Nancy is a 17-year-old Chelsea High school senior who, this year, will serve as secretary of the senior class and vice-president of the student council. She is also a varsity football cheerleader, a member of the track team and a junior member of the National Honor Society.

She sings with the Chelsea High school Contemporaries and works part-time at Chelsea Pharmacy. Last year, she served as president of the Luther League at Zion Lutheran church and is currently the president of the Terrific Tailors 4-H Club. She lives on a local dairy farm and raises animals to show at both the 4-H and Chelsea fairs.

First runner-up in the competition was Cathy Boomus, junior class candidate for queen. Cathy was also voted "Miss Congeniality" by her fellow candidates. Second runner-up was Holly McCutcheon, the ABWA representative. The three other finalists were Kathy Honbaum, Inverness Snowmobile Club; Marcia Warren, Veterans of Foreign Wars; and, Katie Lewis, senior class.

The contest began with a presentation of all 11 candidates being escorted by their fathers. Each candidate then introduced herself and presented her talent. Amy Ziegler, Kiwanis Club candidate, played the clarinet, followed by senior Katie Lewis and an oratory speech on American illiteracy.

Junior Cathy Boomus played two selections on the piano, a selection by Bach and an original composition entitled "The Illusions." Amy Unterbrink, Rogers Corners Herdsmen 4-H Club, recited an amusing poem entitled "The Fair Through the Eyes of a Child."

State's Revenue Shortfall Affecting Employee's Paychecks

Facing state revenues less than the current fiscal year, the state's 71,000 civil servants are being asked to take voluntary time off to aid the problem and to stop any proposed layoffs.

Governor William G. Milliken also has recalled a proposed 7 percent pay increase for top state officials which will save the state an estimated $363,000 per year.

The pay freeze will affect 135 state officials, ranging from heads of major departments to part-time commission members.

The freeze also covers eight of the governor's key staff members.

The 135 jobs are unclassified and their pay and longevity are exempt from civil service regulation and control. Most positions are filled by gubernatorial appointment with Senate confirmation and the pay is set by legislative approval.

The governor said there would be very few exceptions to the freeze and these would occur only in cases where adjustments might be needed to correct inequities or to compensate for expanded responsibilities.

Previously, the governor urged state employees (those covered by civil service) to voluntarily take a cut in their income by taking days off without pay in an effort to minimize the need for state government layoffs through the next year.

The plan was proposed by the governor through a letter with paychecks to state employees. He offered three options for employees to take time off and save the state some personnel expenses.

Under the plan employees will be allowed to take up to one day off every two weeks, or reduce their compensation by up to eight hours every two weeks and in return, receive an equal number of hours of annual leave.

In neither case would fringe benefits or rights be affected. Milliken also announced a liberalized policy of unpaid leaves of absence for periods of

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

Zeke Grubb's preacher has got to have a sense of humor to put up with the likes of Zeke, and he showed the fellers at the country store Saturday night that he can dish it out as good as he can take it. The preacher stopped by for a few minutes on his way home from an ice cream social, and he showed a letter one of his deacons had given him at the outing. He said it was a preacher chain letter.

What you do, the preacher said, is you send your preacher to the last church on the list, then you add your church and send out six copies to other churches. In three weeks, the preacher said, you'll get 1,200 new preachers, and out of that many with any luck at all you can pick one that suits everybody in the church. The deacon said he didn't have no choice but to follow instructions, cause he heard of one feller that broke the chain and got his own preacher back.

The preacher told the fellers it looked like a pritty good system, but he was of a mind that the odds of getting one perfect preacher out of 1,200 wasn't all that good. He went on to say, though, that if chain letters work for churches, think what it could do for Congress. A few weeks of sifting through politicians might come up with one or two that would actual do what they promise. He said he had allus been in favor of six month terms for Congressmen so we can keep rotating them til we git results, but this instant-turnover plan is even better. When we got Congressmen like Ike Andrews of North Carolina that is so used to dealing in the billions he flat fergits about cashing $3,000 worth of campaign contribution checks for his own personal use, it's time we rotated em back to giving instead of gitting, was the preacher's words.

The fellers were suprised to hear the preacher fire off what Zeke calls one of his Bad News Fer Modern Man sermons, but they was full agreed with him. Bug Hookam said for a fact Congress is as set in its ways as the church. Bug went on that he never had understood why it is that onct somepun is done a certain way, right or wrong, it's like it was carved in stone. You got to do it that way forever, or the devil's to pay. Bug said he hadn't checked lately, but the last he heard the U. S. Navy Academy still had its own dairy herd. The cows were brought to Annapolis in 1911 during a tifoid fever scare so the students could be sure of getting good milk. The danger passed in eight month, Bug declared, but the General Accounting Office must still be trying to figger what to do with them cows that cost taxpayers $200.00 more a year than the milk they give would cost from local dairies.

Practical speaking, Mister Editor, I figger this is the kind of thinking that keeps all the wheels oiled and turning. Fer instant, when it got so clear the even Congress could see the Department of Health, Education and Welfare was to fat to function, the problem was solved by leaving the H and the W as fat as HEW ever was, and setting the E off by itself bigger than all three ought to be.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

ENJOY A SPECIAL SCHULER'S WELCOME IN ANN ARBOR!

Chef Donna Louie, Manager Dwight Newell and Win Schuler

Like every Win Schuler's, our restaurant in Ann Arbor has some individual and unusual touches of its own — and we think you're truly going to like them.

For example, here in Ann Arbor, we offer complimentary barbecued meatballs and Win Schuler's famous Bar-Scheez and Bar-Schips with your dinner. And, of course, you can also find the entrees Win Schuler himself has selected.

But thanks to Chef Donna Louis and her staff, you can also select from a menu that includes specials every day. For instance: Wednesday, there's savory Chicken Wellington and Friday night it's the Fisherman's Plate, a variety of treats from the seas.

As well as special desserts like the flaming Bananas Foster and the luscious Pecan Pie.

And don't be surprised if Win Schuler himself visits your table. Visiting all nine Schuler's restaurants is one way he makes sure they're what you expect them to be.

You see, our Win Schuler's in Ann Arbor has a flavor all its own — and we're sure you're going to enjoy it. Call us soon for your reservation!

Bibliophilia—A Disease, Not Vice

By Loren D. Estleman

My name is Loren D. Estleman, and I'm a bibliophile. Not long ago, I wouldn't have had the nerve to admit it, even to myself. But facing the fact that one is ill is the first step toward a complete cure. The affliction is especially hard to bear during these closing days of summer, when temptation is everywhere in the form of rummage and used book sales.

Nor am I alone, judging by the sharp increase in book sales over recent years. How has this come about?

It starts innocently enough. Just to be sociable, you stop off at the library with some friends on the way home from work. What harm can there possibly be in a little Wodehouse, just to unwind after a long day? None, provided you stop after one story. Too many of us don't.

The next thing you know, you're spending more and more time at the library, reading Steinbeck and Hemingway and Mailer and—horror of horrors—William Faulkner, neglecting your family, your daily newspaper, and eventually even television in your insatiable desire for words. Your work begins to suffer; before long there will be little to distinguish you from those tragic individuals who queue up in front of the corner bookstore early in the morning, waiting for it to open.

Perhaps you realize your problem early and announce to all and sundry that you are giving up reading. For a while you're successful—renewing old acquaintances, fattening your bank account with savings previously squandered in the stalls, impressing your employer with your assiduous work habits. You begin to think you've licked the demon, and to prove it you drop into the local library branch to knock off a Browning stanza. Soon you're worse off than you were, hiding books all over the house for a quick read when no one's looking.

Where does it lead? Straight to the gutter, and a pathetic figure shuffling along in a tattered overcoat, clutching something second-hand by Mickey Spillane in a brown paper sack.

It's a tragic fate, but you can avoid it by learning to recognize the danger signals and act upon them before a reading problem becomes problem reading. Consider these questions: 1. Are you defensive about your reading? In other words, when asked if you've been reading, do you deny it, or lie about how many words you've read? 2. Do you read before noon? 3. Does more than a third of your income go into buying books? 4. Are you still reading after the librarian has locked the doors and turned out the lights? 5. Does more than one bookstore proprietor have standing instructions to say you're not there when your spouse calls?

If the answer to any of the above is yes, you're a bibliophile. For that matter, if you've read this far, you've got a good start toward becoming one. My advice is to take up drinking.

Lucery College Institutes New Curricula

Lucery College has instituted two new curricula, Medical Assistant and Fashion Merchandising, starting with the fall term this year.

The Medical Assistant program, a 90-hour, two-year associate degree curricula, will gear toward the training of a certified medical assistant who could help in any medical situation. Majors are offered in both administrative and clinical programs.

A new laboratory is currently being installed at the college to implement the clinical courses required in the curriculum. The college expects certification of the program from the American Association of Medical Assistants in October. Only four certified training programs for medical assistants exist in Michigan now; none are in this area. With certification of the program, Lucery students will be able to sit for the CMA examination upon completion of the two-year program, waiving the required year of experience in an outside medical situation.

The Lucery College Medical Assistant program was established with assistance from area health professionals at Catherine B. McCauley Regional Health Center and the University of Michigan Medical School and Hospital. These health professionals form the permanent medical advisory committee for the school.

The Fashion Merchandising curricula, also a two-year associate degree program, will provide the student with the background necessary to become a buyer for fashion merchandise in a retail outlet or a designer of clothing. The first two courses required for the Fashion Merchandising curricula will be offered during the coming fall quarter. These introductory courses are "Fashion Merchandising" and "Color, Line and Design." Other courses designed to complete the curriculum will be offered in succeeding terms.

Little League

For the Tigers, Tim Klink picked up the victory with relief help from Rob England. Over-all, the Tigers were league co-champs and tournament champs.

The Royals finished second in both league play and tournament play.

CHARTER MEMBERS: Six charter members of the Hospital Auxiliary were honored in a special luncheon held Aug. 20. They are, left to right, Ann Wood, Ella Aldrich, Loretta Doll and Mary Turcott. Two-Charter members, Marjorie Beaumont and Agnes Guinan were absent. Dorothy Miller (seated in front) was given special recognition at the luncheon.

Hospital Volunteer Auxiliary Members Cited at Luncheon

On Wednesday, Aug. 20, the Chelsea Community Hospital Auxiliary held an honorary luncheon for the Volunteer Auxiliary members and gave special recognition to Dorothy Miller, the founder of the volunteer program. Too, she had served on the governing board of the Chelsea hospital.

In appreciation of her dedication and service, the Hospital Auxiliary presented Mrs. Miller with a Hitchcock chair embossed in back with the Hospital's logo.

The luncheon took place at 2 p.m. in the Hospital's Dining Room and was held in conjunction with the 10th anniversary of the Hospital Auxiliary and the beginning of dedication plans for the new wing, which will be formally dedicated some time this October.

Also honored at the lunch were six charter members of the Auxiliary. Four were present: Ann Wood, Ella Aldrich, Loretta Doll and Mary Turcott. Absent from the luncheon were charter members Marjorie Beaumont and Agnes Guinan.

Healthful Snacks Easy To Prepare

Anyone can develop a knack with a snack. Even a full-fledged amateur can make wholesome snacks that change the meaning of the term "fast food." Our nutritionists at the State Health Department gave us some good ideas, which I'll pass on to you.

They tell me that if you alternate frankfurters and cheese chunks on pretzel sticks you have pretzel shish kebabs. And if you spread a lettuce leaf with peanut butter, place a carrot or celery stick in the middle, and wrap it taco-style, you have a walking salad. As long as the peanut butter is out, they suggest spooning it on apple slices, or stuffing some dates with it and soft cheese.

If you should crave a sweet, they mentioned a good one called ice cream cone cakes. You whip up a cupcake batter and pour about a quarter-cup of it into flat-bottomed waffle ice cream cones, and bake them at 400 degrees for 15 to 18 minutes. This sounds like a hot item, so let them cool, and stand back for the grand rush to the cone cakes.

None of these snacks can compete with cream puffs for adding weight, which means they help us to stay within calorie limits that we need each day. They're inexpensive, since they're made with many foods that are common stock in most kitchens, and they're nutritious, which get our vote.

The nutritionists also mentioned beverages to go with the snacks. Some of the fruit juices combined make a good drink. Start with orange juice and add either grapefruit or pineapple juice, or pear nectar. If your base is grapefruit juice, they suggest orange or pineapple juice or apricot nectar.

We seem to be a society of snackers. A few hours at the beach or pool, watching television, driving in the car, or gathering with our friends all seem to require sustenance. If you select snack foods with the same consideration given to your meals, they will do more good than harm. If you disapprove of snacks between meals, but your family insists, don't blame the snackers; blame the snacks.

Boosters Club; Kathy Hombaum, Inverness Snowmobile Club; sophomore Sandy Sundling; and, Kiwanis Club nominee, Amy Ziegler.

Good Things Growing In Michigan

When you're hungry for a delicious dessert or snack this summer, try fresh, juicy Michigan fruits. Our state's growers harvest more than 1,100 million pounds of fruit each year, valued at an estimated $168,883,000 last season, according to the Michigan Department of Agriculture. Now that's a lot of good things growing in Michigan!

Growers, located primarily in Lake Michigan coastline counties, produce apples, cherries, cantaloupe, grapes, prune plums, pears, raspberries, peaches, blueberries, strawberries and rhubarb. Different varieties of each fruit are available to suit varied tastes when making luscious sundaes, pies, tarts, fruit crisps or for eating-out-of-hand.

Michigan peaches and cantaloupe are the next fruits to watch for at local markets and stores.

More than 865,000 peach trees in our state produce 50 million pounds of peaches each year (if Michigan's weather isn't too temperamental the previous winter and spring), to rank sixth among peach-producing states.

About 85 percent of these peaches are freestone types. Freestone peaches have stones that can be removed easily from the peach flesh. Clingstone pits tend to cling to the flesh, as the name suggests. Redhaven, Redskin and Glohaven are our state's leading varieties of peaches.

Most of our state's peaches are picked at the "firm-ripe" state when they have full color and flavor. Because of this, they're very perishable and require special handling.

When buying cantaloupe, let your nose be your guide! A delicious aroma is given off when it is ripe. Cantaloupe, commonly called muskmelon, and watermelon are the two main varieties of melon grown in our state. Casaba, crenshaw and honeydew are grown on a limited scale for special markets.

Growers produce 16 million pounds each year to rank sixth in the nation in cantaloupe production.

New Soil Conservationist Assigned to Washtenaw

Newly assigned by the USDA Soil Conservation Service to the Ann Arbor Field Office is Soil Conservationist Ron Struss. The addition of Ron's technical assistance to Washtenaw county will help meet the demands of the Saline Valley Rural Clean Water Project.

Washtenaw county is Ron's second location in his two years with the Soil Conservation Service. Previously, he served in Otawara county. At that location, Ron gained experience with land use planning and the design and installation of waterways, water control structures and subsurface drains. His work on the Southeast Ottawa County Clean Water Project has given him valuable exposure to the problems and solutions of animal waste handling in Michigan's winter climate.

Ron received his bachelor's degree in agronomy from Iowa State University and his master's degree from the University of Nebraska where he studied the management of forage grasses under irrigation.

An act of Congress in 1920 established the Women's Bureau in the Department of Labor, according to "Important Events In American Labor History," a U.S. Department of Labor publication.

Candidate D. McCarthy Plans to Swim 3 Lakes

Dan McCarthy, Dexter attorney and a Democratic nominee for the Michigan 23rd District House of Representatives seat, today announced his intention to swim three lakes in a fund-raising effort.

McCarthy has scheduled this laborious triple task for the Labor Day week-end. He plans to take the plunge into Clark Lake on Saturday, Aug. 30, then go on to Half Moon Lake on Sunday, Aug. 31, and finish up at Pleasant Lake (in Jackson county) on Labor Day, Sept. 1. Each swim will begin at 2 p.m. unless delayed by lightning or a tornado.

McCarthy battled adverse weather and choppy water in swimming the length of Clark Lake on July 1, 1978 while campaigning for the state senate. He now seeks to repeat that feat, hoping for sunny skies.

"I've been training all summer, logging about five miles a week in local lakes," said McCarthy.

"It's hard work, but I can't think of a better way to observe Labor Day than to exert myself physically in honor of those who earn their living by the sweat of the brow."

In addition, he has disclosed plans to sponsor a 1,980-rod (six-mile) run.

Naming the event the "Dan McCarthy 1980 political race," McCarthy said the start would take place at 9 a.m. on Saturday, Sept. 6. Runners will assemble at the Washtenaw County park at the south end of Cavanaugh Lake on Cavanaugh Lake Rd. just west of Kalmbach Rd. one mile north of the latter's intersection with I-94.

The race course circles through the Waterloo recreation area before returning for a finish at the county park. Its distance in rods matches the year, with the competition being known as the "McCarthy 1980" in short.

OUT OF ACTION at the end of the first heat in Tuesday evening's Demolition Derby, this driver and friends sadly survey the remains of his vehicle while awaiting the wrecker crews to drag the remains from the arena. Always a popular event in each of the previous two years, the Demolition Derby has been extended for a second evening to accommodate the many drivers wanting to enter this year.

Joie Chitwood Thrill Show Performing at Chelsea Fair

The Joie Chitwood Thrill Show will be performing next week at the Chelsea Community Fair, Thursday, Aug. 28, at 8:30 p.m.

This show will be one of 200 performed during the 37th annual Chitwood tour, running from May 30 to Oct. 15. The two traveling units will each log more than 20,000 miles and perform in 40 states. This grass roots scheduling allows the Chitwoods exposure to nearly two million spectators each summer.

With gasoline prices and operating expenses skyrocketing, traveling shows are looking for other avenues of exposure. The Chitwoods have always found these avenues in movie and television appearances.

New Owners Improving Local Dairy Queen

Sam and Linda Lyndon are the new owners of the "Dairy Queen/Brazier" store in Chelsea. The Lyndons replaced the former owner, Robert Niehaus, on June 1.

The Lyndons, who live in Dexter, are in the process of making several improvements to the store and its property. The improvements include painting the interior of the store and laying new blacktop on the parking lot.

Sam was previously self-employed as a photographer and still owns Arbor Portraits in Dexter. The Lyndons have a son, Ronald, five, and a daughter, Angela, born Aug. 12.

Sam attended the two week "Dairy Queen" Training School at International Dairy Queen, Inc., in Minneapolis in May. Linda is planning to attend sometime in the near future.

This year has been no exception, with the Joie Chitwood Thrill Show featured on NBC Sports World from the Houston Astrodome, and the action series CHiPs." Joie Chitwood, Jr., performed the high-speed action and crash sequences in five episodes of this top-rated show.

One special episode, entitled "Thrill Show," featured guest appearances of Tom and Joie Chitwood, Jr. The story line was built around the Chitwood Thrill Show performing at the Ascot Speedway in Los Angeles. The stunt budget for this episode was $30,000, the largest in the show's three-year run.

Hollywood stars work closely with their stunt doubles and have the highest respect for these men and women. Erik Estrada, one of the "CHiPs" stars, had a definite reaction to what he saw of the Chitwood Thrill Show: "They're the greatest, but those guys are crazy."

Crazy or not, more than 15 million viewers saw the Chitwood show in that one hour period.

Joie Chitwood, Jr., sees a natural tie-in between movie and TV work and the annual Chitwood tour of the U.S. "The more exposure we receive in movies and on television," he explained, "the more fans want to see us when we bring our show to town. We perform many of the same stunts and crash sequences at their local speedway, state or county fair. And, because of our grass roots operation, producers and directors continue to contact us. They know we take our show to the people so the association is good for their show or movie also."

By taking the show to the people, the Chitwoods give them a chance to experience the thrill show on a real personal level. The total experience is heightened by the closeness, allowing spectators to see high speed action and crashes before their very eyes.

The Chitwoods can, in turn, reach out, touch their fans and be reinforced by the interaction — something that can never be realized by a movie or TV camera.

ABWA Awards Scholarships to Four

Chelsea Charter Chapter of the American Businesswomen's Association held its monthly meeting on Tuesday, Aug. 19, at St. Mary's School Hall with a planned pot-luck dinner. Eighteen members and guests Cindy Bradbury, Margo Koenn, Suzanne Morrison, queen candidate Holly McCutcheon and Beverly Coleman of the Arbor Charter Chapter of Ann Arbor, were in attendance.

Final plans were made for the group's participation in the Chelsea Fair. Float chairman Sharon Roberts announced the time and place to work on the Fair Float, the theme of which is "A Turn of the Century Flower Garden." Linda Ormsby and Geraldine Sullivan, the Fair Booth chairmen, explained and discussed health standards for serving food. Proceeds for the ABWA Fair booth will be used for scholarships awarded to four local college students.

Chosen May 27, the 1980-1981 ABWA Scholarship recipients are: Diane Luick, Carol Hubbard, Debbie DeSmythers and Kate Quackenbush. All four girls are Chelsea High school graduates.

Diane Luick is in her junior year at Michigan State University. There, she is majoring in travel communications.

Carol Hubbard is a 1980 graduate from the University of Michigan. This fall, she will begin her graduate studies at MSU, majoring in communications and telecommunications.

A sophomore at Eastern Michigan University, Debbie DeSmythers is pursuing studies in accounting, business administration and international studies.

Kate Quackenbush will begin her studies in graphic arts this fall. She will attend Ferris State College.

This year, more women have applied for the scholarships than in years past. Each of the four recipients will be awarded a check for $150. These checks, to be received this fall, will be made payable directly to the college or university to be used solely on the recipient's behalf.

At the August meeting, vocational speaker Maxine Kushmaul told Chapter members and guests of her work in the office of Washtenaw Crop Service-Smith Douglass Chemical Co. (a division of Borden Co.). Washtenaw Crop Service is owned and operated by the Kushmauls. After a discussion of chemical and fertilizer sales and handling, she concluded that "there is never a dull moment."

Membership chairman, Genevieve Quackenbush, announced that the membership enrollment event will take place at the Sept. 23 meeting.

Too, Cindy Bradbury and Margo Koenn, two former Chelsea Fair Queens, presented a humorous skit, "What Happens to You When You Are A Chelsea Fair Queen."

On the following night, Wednesday, Aug. 20, Patricia Baldwin, Jean Hubbard and Kathleen Chapman attended an ABWA Friendship Night in Jackson. The event was sponsored by all the Jackson chapters and ABWA National President, Barbara Kiracofe, addressed the group.

S. Morseaus Win in Indian Dance Pow Wow

On Aug. 16 and 17, the 10th annual Peshawbes Town Pow Wow was held in Peshawbes Town, Mich.; located 10 miles north of Traverse City. Approximately 500 native American Indians from throughout the Midwest were at the event which featured regional cooking, arts and crafts, intricate beadwork and dancing competitions.

The Stanley Morseau family, 12302 Roepeke Rd., were among the group taking part in the activities. Morseau, a Potawatomi Indian, won third place in the men's fancy dance competition out of a field of the participants.

Fancy dance, a type of competition dancing, also gave Morseau's son, Junior, 9, a second-place victory in the boy's fancy dance competition.

Junior's sister, Shannon, 14, was awarded first place in the Indian princess contest. In this event, Shannon competed with 15 other girls who were judged on the basis of their Indian and school activities, personality, dancing ability and costume.

According to Mrs. Morseau, her family follows a pow wow circuit each summer. In addition to Peshawbes Town, the family competes in a number of towns including Mendon and Ann Arbor, where Junior has been the first-place winner for eight years.

Q. You have a column in your magazine which is titled an "Under-Valued" stock. When I read that column it seems to be that sometimes the company you are recommending is falling apart. For instance you just had a column on Kuhlman Corp. It makes transformers and auto parts and you pointed out that both of those businesses are having a great deal of difficulty and that the company is losing money. I would think you would be more interested in telling your readers about a company that is making money.

A. When I write about an Undervalued Stock, I am almost by definition talking about a company that has had some kind of difficulty. The fact that it is undervalued usually is because it has had a problem that has caused its stock to be unpopular and it consequently has declined quite a bit in price.

The trick is recognizing when the company's return to prosperity is near at hand and to buy its stock before a lot of other buyers come to the same conclusion and start bidding up the price of the stock.

Kuhlman Corp. in my opinion is an excellent example. Its two main lines of business service the construction and automobile industries. Both of these industries are very cyclical with wide swings in demand for their products.

When the 1974 recession hit, Kuhlman's sales and earnings plummeted, but by 1977 and 1978 business had reached new highs and the company's stock hit a high of $19 3/8 and earnings a record $2.63 a share.

A year ago the company's transformer business ran into trouble mainly because of the decline in housing construction. The price of the stock began to fall. Then the second shoe fell. The auto depression hit hard. From its high of $19 3/8 the company's stock dropped to $7 3/8. At that point the company's dividend gave a yield of 10%.

Now when a company's business falls apart, you are quite correct in questioning if it's a good investment. However, in the case of this company these up and down movements are almost routine. The company's management has demonstrated ample ability to survive these periods and come back and move on to new highs.

In my opinion the company's business has gotten as bad as it is likely to get and from now on it should start getting better. It may be two to four years before the stock's price passes its old high, but when I can get close to 10% on my money while I am waiting, I don't mind the wait.

SCHOLARSHIPS AWARDED: Chelsea Community Hospital Auxiliary Scholarship Committee presented two local women with $500 checks Tuesday afternoon to help further their education in health related fields. Mrs. Paul Mann, left, chairman of the scholarship committee made the presentation to the 1980 scholarship recipients, Joan Kay Schaible of Manchester, center, and Joline Hibbs of Grass Lake.

Hospital Auxiliary Awards Two Scholarships in Health-Related Fields

In a presentation at 4:30 p.m. Tuesday at Chelsea Community Hospital, Chelsea Community Hospital Auxiliary Scholarship Committee Chairperson, Mrs. Paul Mann, awarded $500 scholarships to two local students. Both girls are enrolled in health career programs within the hospital's service area.

Based on academic achievement and sincere intent to further one's education in a health-oriented field, Joline Hibbs of Grass Lake and Joan Kay Schaible of Manchester, were the 1980 recipients of the scholarships.

State University but she has been accepted to the nursing program at Madonna College in Livonia. Beginning this fall, she will undertake a four-year program in order to attain her bachelor of science degree in nursing.

Joline Hibbs, in addition to receiving a 1980 scholarship, was also awarded a 1979 scholarship from the Hospital Auxiliary. She is a 1979 graduate of Grass Lake High school and is currently working toward an associate's degree in x-ray technology-radiology at Jackson Community College. Joline was chosen again this year on the basis of her excellent academic record and is a candidate for graduation in August 1981. Thereafter, she will be employed in a hospital as an x-ray technician.

Joan is working this summer as a nurse's aide in the Chelsea Community Hospital's recovery room. She is also a part of a group of young people who dress as clowns and visit the youngsters at Ann Arbor's Mott's Children's Hospital. Her great interest in nursing does not stop there. While she attended Manchester High school, Joan worked as a nurse's aide at Saline Hospital.

Joan Kay Schaible, like Joline, has an excellent academic average and is a 1979 graduate of Manchester High school. Last year, Joan attended Michigan

After an initial screening of applications, personal interviews were conducted for those deemed most highly qualified. Both Joline Hibbs and Joan Schaible possessed the strong desire to succeed and the outstanding qualifications necessary to receive these scholarships.

Hospital Child Care Center Preparing Children for School

Summer activities are in full swing at the Chelsea Community Hospital Child Care Center.

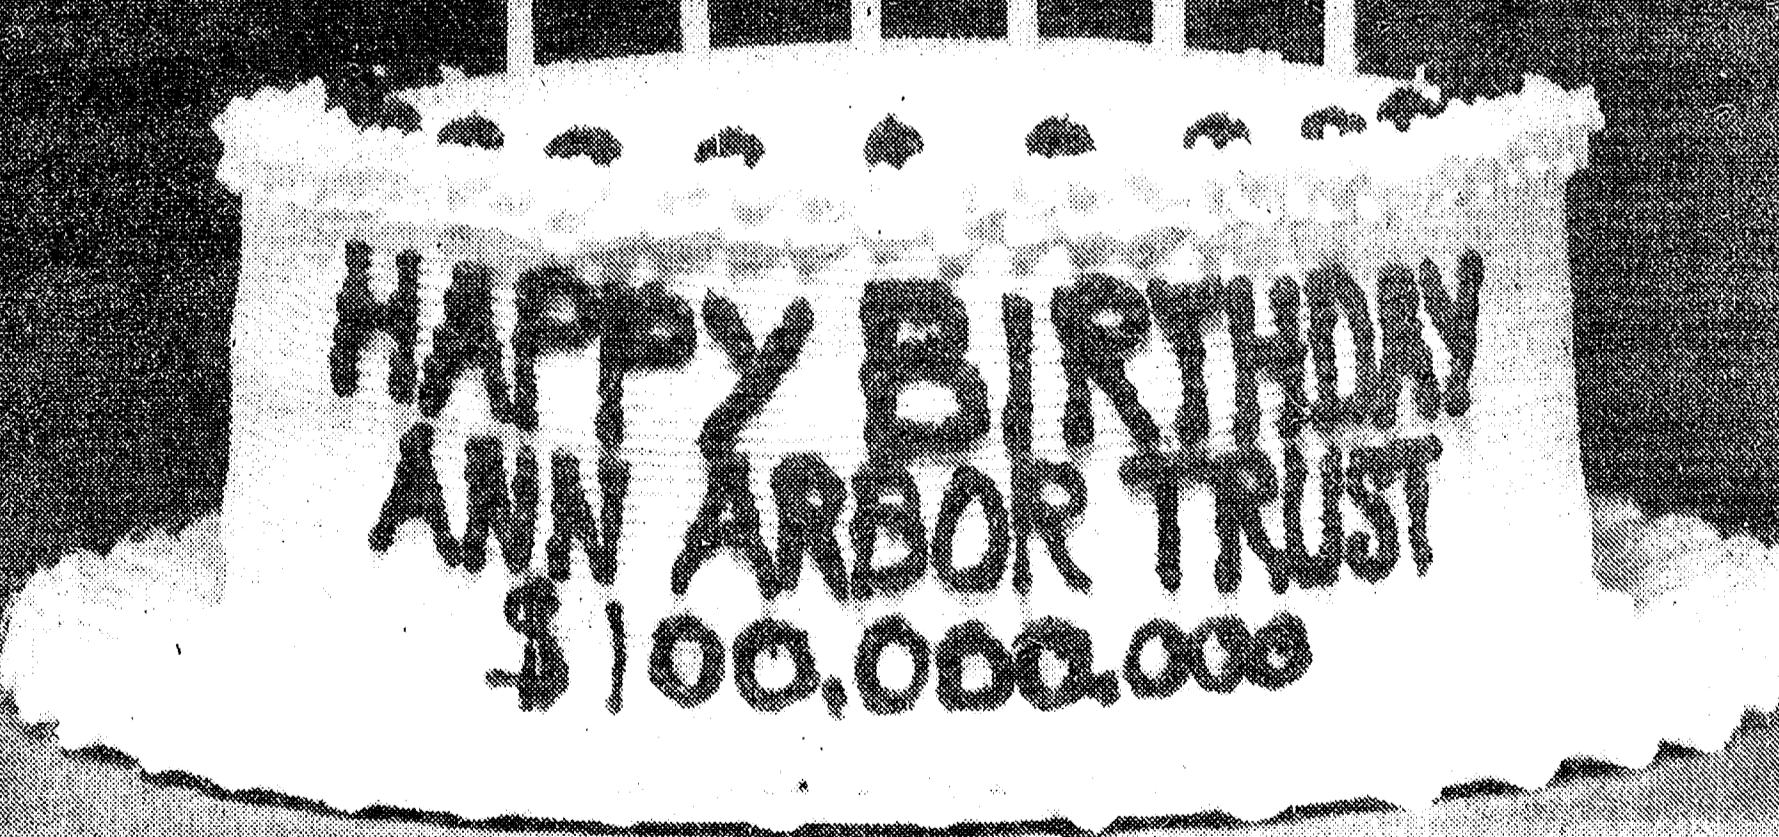

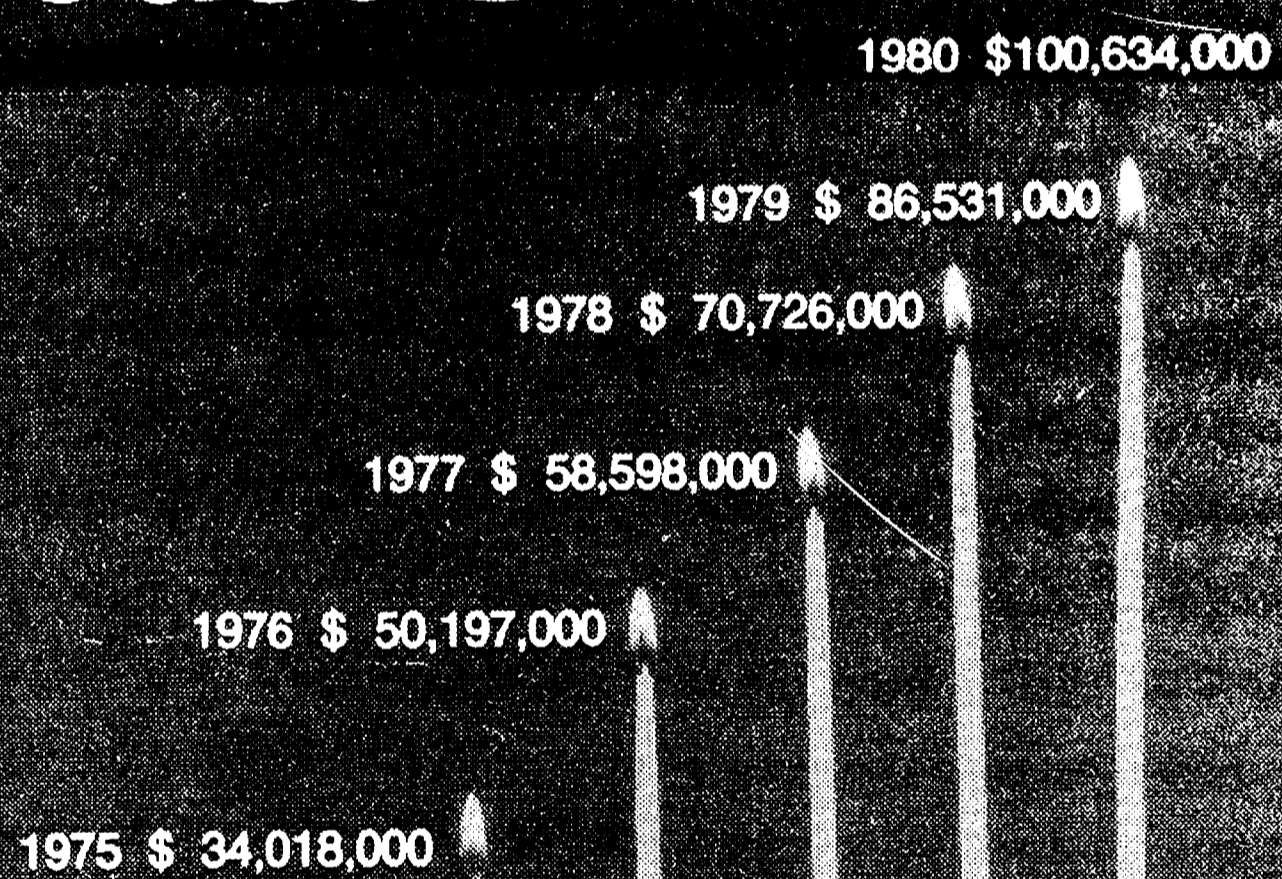

Math and Science were the main topic of discussion. The older children discovered several different uses of mathematics in their daily lives while the younger children became more familiar with the names and amounts of the first 10 numbers. Also, various scientific experiments were performed for and by the children.

The children are eagerly watching the development of tomatoes, pumpkins, popcorn, and sunflowers in their small garden. On the hottest days the sprinkler is going strong watering both the lawn and groups of excited children. Sand castles and miles of "roads" are built and rebuilt in the large sandbox. During the Month of August, the children will be studying various weekly themes. The Seasons and Weather was the topic for the week of Aug. 4-8.

The Senses was the theme for the week of Aug. 11-15. The children participated in activities involving their five senses. The following week, Aug. 18-22,

During the last week of August, the older children are focusing their attentions on Going to School. They are talking about classroom behavior, riding on the bus, and other challenges of going to school in the fall. At this same time, the younger children are discussing safety rules. They are learning the right way to walk across streets, to use (Continued on page 15)

ASK THE GOVERNOR

by William G. Milliam

Question: It seems to me that most of the cuts made in state government in order to balance the budget are coming from the field of education. Some of us in that field think education has been singled out as a budget-balancing tool.

Governor: Education is one of the two or three major funding obligations of the state—accounting for nearly 37 percent of the projected 1980-81 general fund budget. When we're talking about over-all cuts in the state's general fund, it is impossible to bring about those necessary over-all cuts without affecting education. The fact of the matter is that there's no easy way to reduce a budget that has already been painfully reduced. Every group I know of in the state is feeling the impact of the cuts, and every group feels that the cuts are being felt excessively within its own interest area.

A further hardship for the field of education lies in the fact that the state aid bill has not yet been adopted. Local school districts don't know what their expenditures can be until they know what the major contribution of the state will be. Regrettably, there is no way to make sound judgments at this point because the state's income picture is so very uncertain. We have had to delay final agreement on the budget until after the legislature returns in September, and I would suggest it may even be after the beginning of the next fiscal year on Oct. 1 before the final decisions are made. Unfortunately, with the fluctuating nature of the state's revenue, there's no way to deal with the problem. It's very important to have a better fix on where the economy is before we lock in the spending levels. I know it's difficult, but the whole situation is symbolic of the difficult times in which we find ourselves.

Question: What are the National Governors' Association Awards and how did Michigan receive two of them this year?

Governor: Of the 17 nationwide awards given in 1980 for "distinguished service to state government," two Michigan candidates were sufficiently outstanding to receive NGA awards.

Ruth Butler, an 89-year-old retired school teacher from Republic in the Upper Peninsula, would be a "winner" by anyone's standards.

A widow and mother of three daughters, Mrs. Butler has served on the Upper Peninsula State Fair board since 1964 and on Michigan's Commission for the Equality of Women. She was a delegate to the state's 1962 Constitutional Convention and to the White House Conference on Problems of Aging in 1971. A life-long activist in politics and in state and local cancer societies, Mrs. Butler is also past director of the Michigan Historical Society. Aside from her many accomplishments, she is, at 89, a tireless inspiration to all who know her.

John Dempsey, Michigan's other NGA award winner, is director of the Department of Social Services. He is a former professor of political science and radio-television news analyst. Dempsey has also been co-chairman of Michigan's Civil Rights Commission and special assistant for Urban Affairs. He has served the state in times of extremely serious economic downturns—times when the need for services increases dramatically, yet revenue falls

VA LOAN LIBERALIZED

Thanks to the latest Veteran's Housing Law, the GI loan has become an even more useful and versatile source of home financing. One of the biggest breaks is that veterans can now renew their guarantee entitlement—in other words, buy another home with the VA's aid if the veteran paid up his first GI home and sold his home or sells to another GI who takes over the loan using his own entitlement.

Other favorable terms are no minimum down payment at some banks, no top mortgage and the mortgage can run up to 30 years. For the vet, this adds up to low move-in cash and, thanks to the long pay-off, lower monthly payments.

Prior to 1975, the guarantee limit was either 60% of the loan or $12,500. This guarantee has now been raised to 60% of the veteran's loan or $25,000, whichever is less.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at FRISINGER REALTY CO., 935 S. Main St., Chelsea. Phone: 475-8681; evenings 475-2621. We're here to help!

The Bible - The Light from Heaven

Teaches about the different kinds of sin. The term "sin" is translated from a word which signified an archer missing the mark he was shooting at. In God's Word he has set a mark before us by telling us what he wants us to do and not to do. When we miss that mark we sin in the sight of God. There are sins of commission. The Bible especially implies, commands or by example shows that there are certain things that God doesn't want us to do. For example the Bible teaches plainly that we are not to kill, steal, commit adultery, etc. Whenever we do anything God's Word says not to do, that is classified as a sin of commission. There are also sins of omission. The Bible just as surely implies, commands or by examples shows there are certain things that God does want us to do. A few examples would be baptism for the remission of sins, partaking the Lord's supper on the first day of the week, giving as we have been prospered, praying regularly, and studying God's Word daily. We are to do good unto all men in our Christian living. Sins of omission are just as serious as sins of commission and will result in the same punishment. We can sin willfully or unwillingly. When we know God's Word and understand what he expects us to do and not to do, we are to be obedient to him. (Hebrews 5:8, 9; Luke 6:46; Matthew 7:21). Because of man's rebellious nature he sometimes just blatantly refuses to do God's will. This is willful sin. Others are guilty of unwilling sin. Some are guilty of sin because they do not know God's word. We can know what is right or wrong through careful study Psalms 1; 2 Timothy 2:15; John 5:39, 40). David wrote: "Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path." (Psalms 119:104). One can know what is right and what is wrong in this life if one will study God's word and make an application to one's life.

SUPER-THON CANCER BENEFIT: Among the participants in Tuesday's Children's Parade were children of the Chelsea Jaycees. Not only were they enjoying the ride but also, they were kicking off the publicity campaign for the upcoming 1980 Super-thon for Cancer. Above, Dawn Weatherwax, daughter of Doug Weatherwax of Taylor St. in Chelsea, does her bit for the Super-thon, sandwich board and all. Her father is one of the co-chairmen of the Super-thon. Proceeds from the event scheduled for Sunday, Sept. 28 and sponsored by Chelsea Area Jaycees and Auxillary, will benefit the Washtenaw Unit of the American Cancer Society. Further details and sponsor sheets may be obtained at the Jaycee Bingo tent at the fairgrounds this week.

STAR WAR CHARACTERS impersonation won a first prize in the miscellaneous, mixed category of the Children's Parade Tuesday evening. The futuristic trio included Duane, Dena and David Walker.

★ Is It Better To Take A Young Child's Temperature Orally or Rectally?

A child's temperature may be taken orally, rectally or in the armpit. Some children or parents prefer one method, others another. Each method provides a useful guide to a child's body temperature, but some physicians prefer rectal and oral methods.

The three methods do differ from each other in several ways. The reading: The reading with the rectal thermometer is highest because the thermometer is placed well inside the body, away from the air. The mouth reading is the lowest because the mouth is cooled by the air as the child breathes. There is usually less than one degree difference between the mouth and rectal temperature, and, if the thermometer is kept under the arm for 10 minutes, the underarm temperature falls between these two.

The length of time: When the temperature is taken orally or rectally, the thermometer is left in place for three minutes before it is removed and read. When the axillary temperature is taken, the thermometer is left in place under the child's arm for up to 10 minutes. According to a DHEW pamphlet, "For your child from one to six," a parent may reduce this time to two minutes and add two degrees to the reading for a rough estimate. Regardless of how long it takes for the temperature to be recorded on the thermometer, the parent should stay with the child. Thermometers are easily displaced and broken.

Thermometer styles: Two thermometers are available for rectal, oral and axillary readings. The thermometers are the same, except for the shape of the bulb. The bulb of the rectal thermometer is round so that it may be inserted more easily. The oral thermometer has a longer, more slender bulb so that the mercury may be warmed more quickly by mouth. Some people use a mouth thermometer rectally, but they are especially careful about inserting it gently into the rectum. Other people use a rectal thermometer under the arm or orally. Each combination is acceptable as long as the thermometer is thoroughly cleaned.

Regardless of which thermometer a parent uses, a reading of over 100 degrees is often worrisome to a parent. But fever is not necessarily harmful. It is the body's way of reacting to invading germs, and with some diseases there is often quite a bit of fever.

To be on the safe side, a parent may decide to call the doctor if the child's temperature goes above 100 degrees—especially if it is unusual for a specific individual to have a temperature over 100 degrees—or if the fever lasts more than 24 hours. In general, parents should consider how a child is acting as well as how high the temperature climbs. If a child is very sleepy, hard to waken, uninterested in what is going on, and doesn't want to be touched, a parent should take the child to a physician.

Some parents are intimidated by a thermometer. They may be afraid to use it and/or unsure how to read it. For additional information about using and reading a thermometer, please contact the Health Department for the pamphlet, "Taking your child's temperature."

Brighton Hospital Plans Picnic for Recovered Alumni

Former patients and friends of Brighton Hospital, one of the nation's first and foremost alcoholism treatment centers, will enjoy their second annual Brighton Picnic on the hospital grounds from 1 to 4 p.m. on Sunday, Sept. 14.

Jack Boland, well-known inspirational speaker and substance abuse counselor, will address the expected gathering of hundreds of Brighton's recovering alcoholic "alumni."

Cider, doughnuts and soft drinks will supplement picnic lunches brought by the former patients, their families and friends.

Following a $2 million expansion and renovation program, Brighton Hospital celebrated its 25th Anniversary in August, 1978 still at its original location.

DOROTHY MILLER, long-time Chelsea resident, relaxes in the Hitchcock chair given to her by the Chelsea Community Hospital Auxillary in appreciation of her many years of active service and her establishment of the Hospital Auxillary 10 years ago.

Even if it isn't from Auto-Owners

When you go to an insurance agent who represents only one company, he only has one company's policies to offer you. But an independent agent represents several companies. So if one company's insurance isn't right in price or coverage he'll tell you. He knows another one of his companies is. But the one-company agent? Do you think he'd tell you? So talk to your independent Auto-Owners agent. There's no telling how much he can help you.

LOST DOG HOME AGAIN: Granddaughter Nicole Fletcher and owner Kattie Kosinski keep a watchful eye on Jo-Jo. The dog was missing for 10 days, trapped between two heavy logs, in the woods behind his owner's home. With neither food nor drink, Jo-Jo's weight dropped from 30 to 10 lbs.

Jo-Jo Home Again After Being Trapped in the Woods 10 Days

Typically, Kattie Kosinski, 18601 M-52 N., let her dog Jo-Jo outside each morning. He stayed near the house, never venturing very far away. So, on Aug. 8, Kattie had no idea that when she put her 30-lb. six-year-old mixed poodle-beagle out in the morning, he would disappear.

For the first day Kattie wasn't worried. "I figured he must have found a girlfriend and that he'd be back in a couple of days," she said.

He didn't return and the next week and a half found Kattie and her family frantically searching for Jo-Jo. They hunted everywhere—they drove past people's houses, traipsed through the woods near their home and scanned the Green Lake campground fearing that a camper might have taken him. No luck.

Every night, Kattie thought that she could hear Jo-Jo whining in the woods. "My kids thought that I was crazy, that I was hearing things," she remarked.

By Monday, Aug. 18, the Kosinskis had given up; Jo-Jo had been gone for 10 days. But watching television, Kattie saw a true story about a lost dog that had traveled more than 1,000 miles to get home. "I began to cry, wishing that wherever he was, he'd try to get home the same way the dog did on that show."

Then came a knock on the door. Neighbor Vegelenda Salyer and her daughter stood holding an emaciated, haggard-looking mongrel. They had heard a dog whimpering in the woods and had gone out to locate it. When they did find him, he was lodged between two massive logs atop a hill. Freeing him from his trap, they took the dog to the Kosinski home.

"Did Kattie know who he belonged to?" they inquired. "No," she thought. But suddenly, the dog's ears perked up, his tail wagged slightly. It was Jo-Jo—20 lbs. lighter, filthy and shivering.

Kattie took him into the house, wrapped him in a blanket and put him in a playpen with some warm milk, water and dry dog food. Jo-Jo just lay there, occasionally lapping at the water.

Within three hours, he began to perk up and the Kosinskis removed him from his confines. He got up and crept around the room weakly. All night and into the next morning, Kattie sat up with Jo-Jo, encouraging him to take food and water.

Jo-Jo, managing to survive 10 days with neither food nor water, had mustered enough strength to whine and bring the Salyers to his rescue. "I just don't know how to thank them or to repay them for finding my Jo-Jo," Mrs. Kosinski commented. "Neither does Jo-Jo, he'll probably never go exploring into the woods again," she added.

One of the most tragic aspects of impaired hearing, according to hearing specialists, is that many hard of hearing individuals do not seek the help that is available. This is because hearing loss is incorrectly thought to be equivalent to old age or even senility.

Rabies Danger Always Present in Wild Animals

Recently, the Washtenaw County Health Department has received numerous calls regarding animal bites and rabies. Frequently asked questions include, "Which animals are most likely to carry rabies?" and "What should be done if someone is bitten by an animal suspected of having rabies?"

According to Barry Johnson, public health engineer, skunks and bats are creatures most likely to carry rabies; while rabbits and all rodents, including mice, rats, gerbils, hamsters, squirrels and chipmunks have not been found to be carriers. In 1979 there were 16 cases of rabies found in animals in Michigan. The affected animals were bats (11), cows (1), cats (2), horse (1), and skunk (1).

During the summer months when people, pets and other animals are outdoors more often, extra caution should be taken to avoid stray or wild animals if they are encountered. In the event that someone is bitten by an animal she/he should immediately contact his/her physician and the Health Department. If possible the animal should be captured alive. Domestic animals are held at least 10 days for observation. Wild animals should be held for observation when possible, excepting bats.

If the animal cannot be captured alive which is usually the case with wild animals, care should be exercised not to damage the brain. If an animal dies in quarantine or killed during attempts to capture, the head must be removed and brought to the Environmental Health Division, which will then send the animal to the State Health Department Laboratory for testing. To preserve the brain, the head must be refrigerated immediately, but not frozen.

Bats are processed somewhat differently from larger animals in that the head need not be removed nor is there any need to attempt live capture. In all cases, contact the Health Department prior to bringing a head in for lab analysis.

If the animal in question has rabies, the person who was bitten will require treatment. Fortunately, a new rabies vaccine has been developed and approved by the Food and Drug Administration which requires only five doses be given instead of 23 doses. The new vaccine also produces a greater and more reliable antibody response and fewer adverse reactions than the rabies vaccine previously used.

The Ann Arbor City Animal Control Ordinance requires that cats be vaccinated for rabies as well as dogs.

Tax Proposals—
What would Happen If . . .
Three property tax proposals will appear on the November ballot: 1) the Legislative proposal; 2) the Tisch proposal; and 3) the Smith-Bullard proposal. If adopted, any one of them would significantly change the property tax structure.

You can pull the lever for all of the proposals, if you wish.

If more than one passes, and they conflict, the one with the most votes would prevail. There is no track record as to how the courts would decide what constitutes a conflict or whether a conflict in one area would mean the proposals inherently conflict. However, the Legislative proposal was specifically written to conflict with the Tisch proposal; specifically if the allowed proportion of true cash value is reduced below 50%—as the Tisch amendment proposes—the exemption offered by the Legislative proposal would not take effect.

Here's a rundown on the three plans:

The Legislative Proposal:
This proposal would provide about $750 million in property tax relief in 1981 by offering a $7,100 state equalized valuation (SEV) exemption on homesteads except mills levied for debt services. The state would make up the lost revenue through an increase in the sales tax from 4% to 5%.

It would also:

- prevent the collection of sales or use taxes on residential purchases of energy sources after Jan. 1, 1985.
- allow homeowners to figure their property tax credits before subtracting the $7,100 SEV. Presently, under the state's "circuit breaker" program, homeowners are refunded 60% of their property taxes in excess of 3.5% of their household income.
- allow renters to receive $140 in lieu of direct property tax relief. On the average, the $140 will more than compensate renters who make less than $20,000 a year.
- specifically earmark any excess money collected through the increase in the sales tax for additional property tax relief; on the other hand, if revenue raised by the increased sales tax is not sufficient to cover the cost of the proposal, state and local government must share the loss proportionately.
- stipulate that the $7,100 SEV exemption will increase at the same rate as agricultural and residential property assessments state-wide.

Tisch Proposal:
The intent of the Tisch proposal is to cut property taxes in half state-wide based on 1978 levels, at a cost to the state of about $1.7 billion, nearly half of its operating budget.

The proposal also requires the legislature to reimburse local units with the same amount of money collected in local property taxes, except that amount collected to fund bond indebtedness.

Local units will automatically lose some revenue under the Tisch proposal because assessments will be based on 1978 levels; assessments have increased over 20% since 1978.

Other areas of the proposal intended to provide property tax relief include:

- prohibiting the legislature from imposing any new tax or increasing any tax after 1978 without 60% voter approval.
- limiting the state equalized value of property to 25% of its true cash value beginning December 31, 1980.
- further reducing property taxes another 50% for persons earning less than $10,500 a year.
- exempting persons over 62 years of age and renters from having to contribute to the schooling operating millage.
- allowing inflationary increases in the assessed value of property, except residential and agricultural beginning on the last day of 1981. Residential and agricultural property assessment increases cannot exceed more than 2% a year.

The Smith-Bullard Proposal:
This plan is designed to bring about property tax reform via fundamental changes in public school financing.

The proposal's aim is to bring about "equal opportunity of access to, and experience of, quality educational programs . . ."

The proposal sets specific millage limits for local units that add up to a maximum of 13 mills. However, with voter approval, these millage limits could be increased to 24½ mills, replacing the existing 50-mill limit.

Despite the 50-mill limit, the state average millage rate is 53.6 mills because many local units and taxes levied for bonded indebtedness are not included in the limitation.

Some other key provisions of the Smith-Bullard plan include:

- allowing the legislature to impose a uniform ad valorem tax of up to 30½ additional mills on all commercial and industrial property to support K-12 education.
- directing the legislature to establish a general taxation program and place it in the same fund as the 30½ additional mills. The legislature would distribute the money in the fund equally for each pupil in the state. Revenue from the school aid fund could also be transferred to this fund.
- requiring the legislature to provide for a local income tax option.
- providing for a millage rollback by class.
- exempting from taxation the first $25,000 (as annually adjusted for inflation) of the homestead of retired persons 65 years of age and older.

Children's Parade Opens Fair Fun

At 6 p.m. Tuesday, an enthusiastic group of several hundred children, all ages, shapes and sizes, set out on their parade from the Municipal Parking Lot to the Fairgrounds. Sponsored by the Chelsea Kiwanis Club, the parade was led by Police Chief Robert Aello, the Chelsea Beach Middle School Band, the 1979 Fair Queen, Melanie Schneider, and the 1980 Queen candidates. The costumed children, most of whom rode bicycles laden with streamers and brightly colored balloons, peddled from the parking lot, along E. Middle St. and down Main St. enroute to the Fairgrounds.

Prior to their departure, judging took place, awarding prizes to those children displaying the most originality in decorating both themselves and their modes of transportation.

small and rural communities throughout the state, Governor Milliken has appointed a special task force to investigate the new growth trend and report their findings to him.

Because the preliminary results of the 1980 census indicate that 65% of Michigan's population lives in communities under 50,000, the chief responsibilities of the task force are to identify the most serious needs these small and rural communities face, to list the top priorities and to recommend a plan of action.

As more and more people choose to live in the rural countryside surrounding small towns and villages, the demand for new housing cuts into farmland and rapid growth outstrips planning efforts by state and local officials.

The result of all this is often a serious drain on local resources which must suddenly increase their police, fire, road, water, and sewer services.

The task force will be instrumental in developing strategies and long range plans to protect our cities, villages and rural areas as we make room for the new influx. The task force will work closely with the Governor's Community Development Cabinet, chaired by Lt. Governor James Brickley.

One of the most pressing problems to be addressed is the reduction of farmland for development purposes without an organized scheme. It's important to remember that agriculture provides nearly $2 billion in income to the some 63,000 farms in the state, provides numerous jobs both on and off the farm, and is an essential ingredient in our state economy. Without enough farmland, Michigan would become dependent on other states for food.

The task force will meet at least once a month around the state and will make its recommendations to the Governor by the end of the year.

In the 3- to 5-year-old age group, first prize went to Batman, Tim Bauer, and his counterpart Robin, Danny Ingel. Big Bird, alias Benjamin O'Connor, landed second place, followed by lion, Jesse Hammett in third position.

The 6- to 8-year-old bracket found Lance Satterthwaite as the Chelsea Clock Tower and in first place. He was followed by Jenny Adler dressed as a clown and riding her bike. Third-place honors were received by Chris White, the bicycle-riding Snoopy.

The 9- to 12-year-olds had Curtis Satterthwaite, Steve Pauers, and Pat Houle sharing first place and dressed in a three-person Jiffy mix train. A political trio, Casey Anderson, Kelly Uchman and Crista Smith, stole second place and Alicia Doron, a hobo clown, was given the third-place ribbon.

In the miscellaneous, mixed age bracket, Duane, Dena, and David Walker took first place in their tribute to "Star Wars." Joey and Robin Hafner, a toothbrush and tooth paste cleaned up with the second-place ribbon and an Indian caravan consisting of Kerl Kentala and Karey Hickey were given third-place honors.

First place recipients received $5 for their endeavors; second place received $3 and third place, $2.

A Woman's Guide To Social Security Booklet Offered

A woman who works earns social security protection not only for herself, but also for her family. And even if she is single with no dependents, the social security credits she earns while she works count toward monthly benefits for the family she may have in the future. You can learn more by sending for A Woman's Guide to Social Security, an informative booklet from the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services. Order your free copy from the Consumer Information Center, Dept. 539H, Pueblo, Colo. 81009.

There's a lot a woman should know about social security. What happens if you change your name because of marriage, divorce, or other reasons? What happens if you interrupt your career to have children, or what benefits can you get if you are a remarried widow or you are divorced and not working?

First of all, it's up to you to make sure your social security record shows your correct name, since your employer reports your earnings under the name you give him or her. Should you choose to change your name, report the change on a special form you can get at any social security office. Otherwise, your earnings may not be properly recorded, and you may not get all the social security credit you're entitled to. If you choose to retain your maiden name after marriage, you don't have to report any changes.

If you interrupt your career, any social security credits you have already earned stay on your record. You can always go back to work later and earn enough credits to retire. But keep in mind that your years of no or low earnings may mean that your benefits will be lower than if you had worked continuously.

Remarried widows ordinarily lose their widows' benefits when they remarry. But, benefits to a widow (or widower) who remarries at 60 or older can continue without any reduction. If you are divorced, you can get benefits when your ex-husband starts collecting retirement or disability payments, if you are 62 years of age or older and were married to him at least 10 years. If your ex-husband dies, you may also get payments, provided you are 60 or older and were married 10 years or more, or you have young children entitled to benefits on his record.

Finally, while you are working, you have social security disability and survivors' insurance protection. This means that monthly payments would be payable if you become disabled or die after working long enough under social security. Your children, including stepchildren and legally adopted children, would get benefits too.

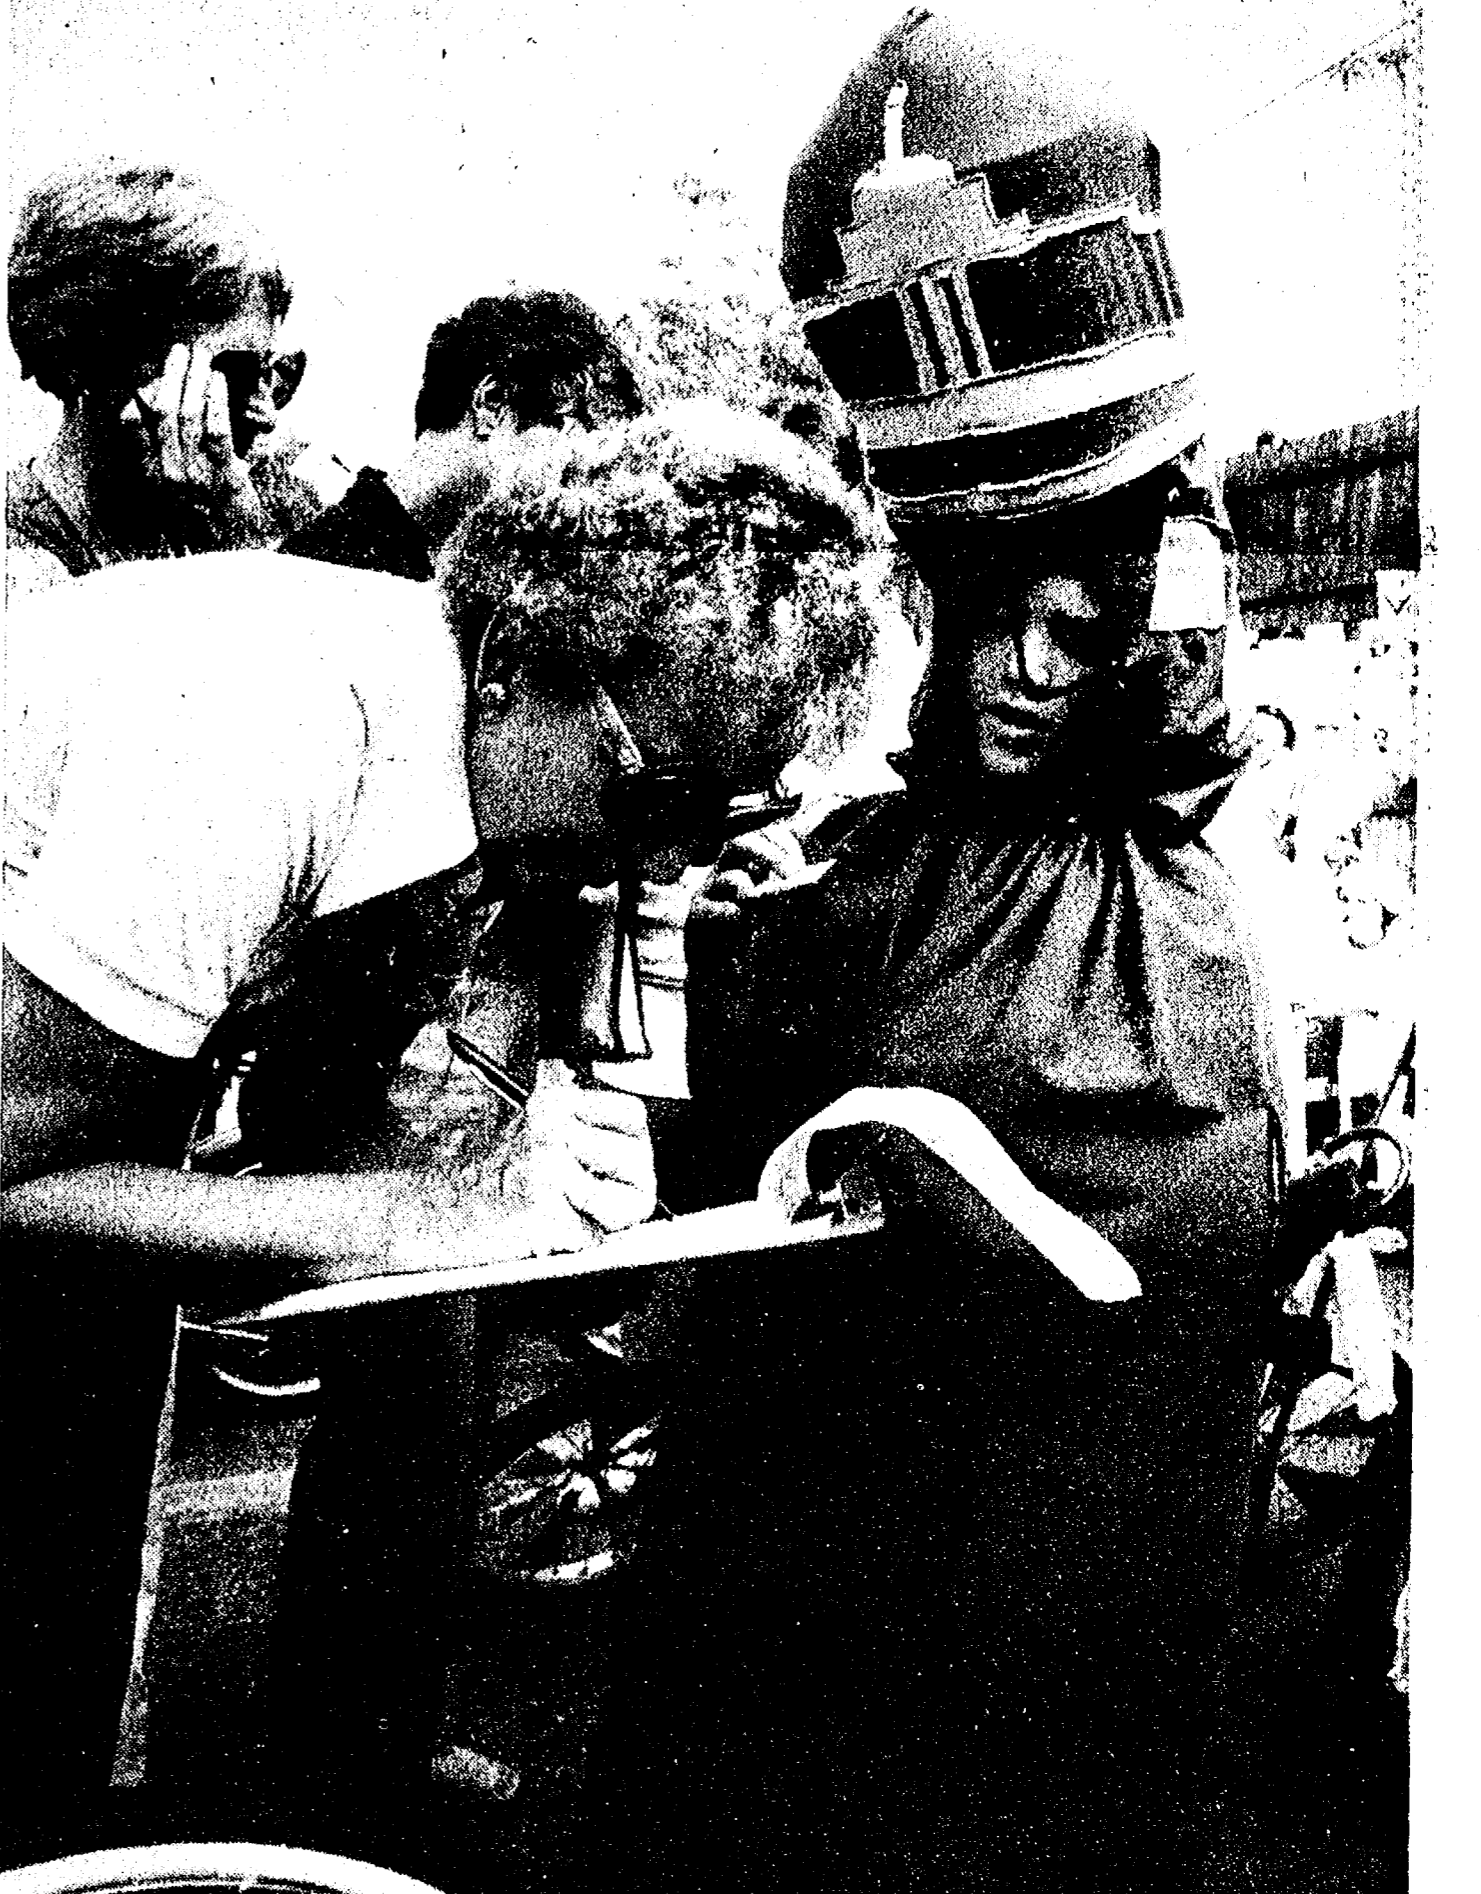

When you order a copy of A Woman's Guide to Social Security (free), you'll also receive a copy of the free Consumer Information Catalog. The Catalog, published quarterly by the Consumer Information Center of the General Services Administration, lists more than 200 free and low-cost consumer publications you can order.

A child as young as four months will normally turn toward the source of sounds such as normal speech, according to hearing specialists.

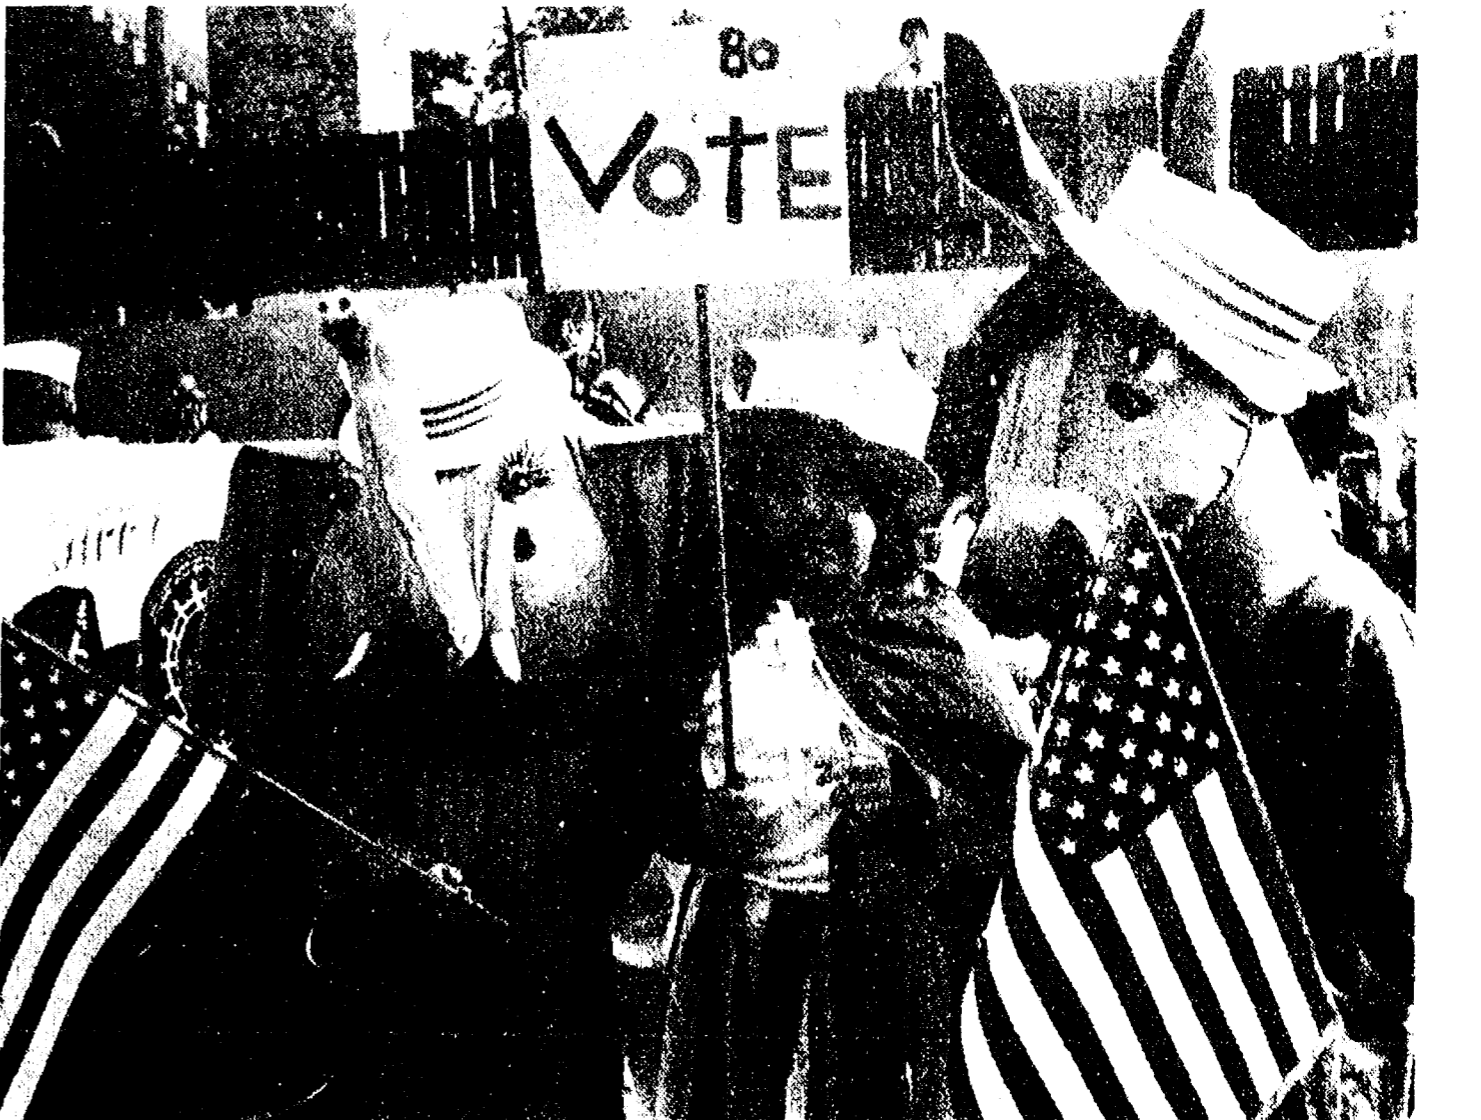

Children's Parade Tuesday Evening Opens Fair

BATMAN AND ROBIN, Tim Bauer and Danny Ingel, won first prize in the 3- to 5-year-old category at Tuesday's Children's Fair Parade. Jesse Hammett, front center, took third prize dressed as a lion.

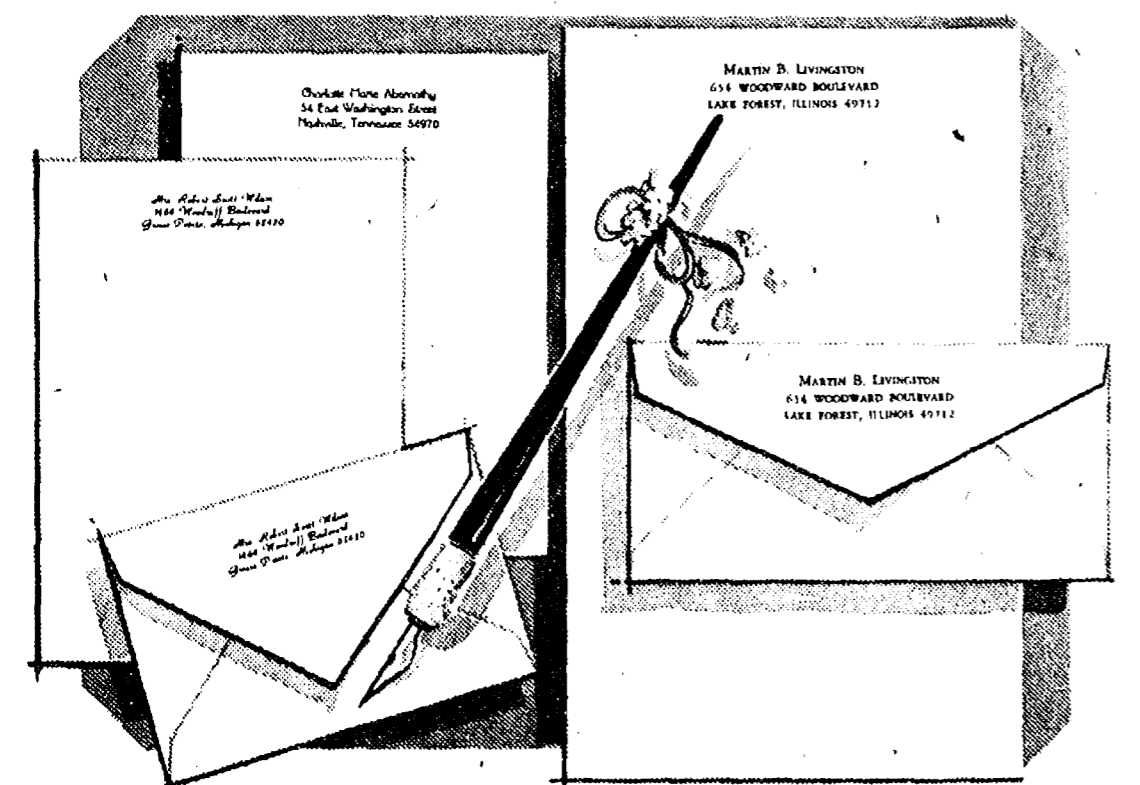

LANCE SATTERTHWAITE in a Chelsea Clock Tower costume, accepts a blue ribbon for first-place award in the 6- to 8-year-old group at the Children's Parade as a judge records his name in the record books.

SECOND PRIZE in the 9- to 12-year age group of the Children's Parade was awarded this political trio of Casey Anderson, Kelly Uchman and Christa Smith.

How to cope with the high cost of heating:

HANDLE WITH KERO-SUN!
If you're frustrated by the high cost of heating, a Kero-Sun portable kerosene heater gives you low cost heat for only pennies an hour. Heats with almost 100% efficiency for 30 hours on less than 2 gallons of clean-burning, safe kerosene. Every Kero-Sun is thoroughly safety-tested. Each has a battery-powered igniter, so you need no matches to light it and each has an automatic shut-off - in case of tip-over. There's no smoke, no odor, and you need no chimney installation. This may be the winter when a Kero-Sun portable heater is your only way to handle the high cost of heating.
