Grand Champion Lamb Brings $10.25 per lb. at Fair Livestock Auction

This year, the spirited livestock auction lasted for an unbelievable three hours last Thursday, with the stakes high and the turn-over great.

Once again, the lambs stole the show from the cattle. The 122-lb. Grand Champion was owned by Matt Koenn and was sold to the Wolverine Bar for the whopping price of $10.25 per pound. Lori Nixon's reserve Grand Champion wasn't slighted either. Her winner was purchased by Fred White of Eder Lime Spreading Co. at a cost of $7.75 per every one of its 110 pounds.

The Grand Champion lamb pen was owned by Lori Nixon as well. The pair, one of which was the reserve Grand Champion individual, weighed in at 100 lbs. each. The remaining lamb comprising the pen was auctioned off at $5 per pound and was purchased by Robert Bauer Construction.

The reserve Grand Champion pen was the matched pair of market lambs raised and shown by Ann Muncer. Her pair, weighing 104 and 105 lbs., respectively, was purchased by Loren and Earl Heller at a cost of $3 per pound.

Other market lambs were sold as well. The following is a listing of owners, lamb weights, price and buyers.

GRAND CHAMPION STEER: Lori Nixon was the proud owner of this magnificent creature. Weighing 1,185 lbs., the steer was judged as Grand Champion, Wednesday morning, Aug. 27. At the livestock auction, Lori's champion was sold to Mark Kennedy, buyer for Polly's Market, at a price of $2.10 per pound.

Grand Champion Steer Shown By Lori Nixon

Though the lambs reaped the highest prices, the cattle weren't actually neglected. This year, the Grand Champion Steer weighed in at a spectacular 1,185 lbs. and was owned by Lori Nixon. Her entry was sold to Polly's Market at a price of $2.10 per pound.

Joe Merkel's reserve Grand Champion was sold to the Chelsea Community Hospital for $1.55 per each of its 125 lbs.

Carl Heller Memorial Fund Started at Auction

The 1980 Chelsea Community Fair livestock auction which took place Thursday, Aug. 28 yielded an unexpected donation totalling $3,300 on behalf of the late Carl Heller. Proceeds from this segment of the auctioning will be used toward the construction of a new livestock show arena built to preserve Heller's memory.

During the hog sale, Fred White of the Eder Lime Spreading Co., purchased two animals owned by Pam Brassow at a cost of $1 per each of their 448 combined pounds. He then donated the hogs back to the fair for resale. They were then purchased by Michigan Livestock Co. at a price of 68¢ per pound, contributing $304.64 to the Carl Heller Memorial.

White also purchased Lori Nixon's 110-lb. Reserve Champion Individual lamb at $7.75 per pound. Here again, he donated the animal back to the fair so as to have it sold once more.

Little was White to realize that he'd set a trend that would continue throughout the evening. Lori Nixon's lamb would be sold nine more times.

The first buyer after White's donation was Farmer's Supply, purchasing the animal at $1.50 per pound. Next in line, Jiffy Market re-purchased the lamb at $1.60 per pound. The Kushmauls followed suit, buying the lamb at $1.25 per pound and contributing an additional $137.50 to the cause. Lori's lamb was given back again and sold another time at the same price to Jerry Heydlauff. Wolverine Bar also joined the band wagon, contributing $1 per each of the 110 pounds to the Heller Memorial. Five more times the lamb would be sold at $1 per pound; buyers were Klink Excavating, Jack Pascoe, Bill Nixon, Charles Trinkle and Jiffy Market.

In addition to the phenomenal sales of Lori's lamb, Anna Muncer's Reserve Champion lamb pen was initially purchased by Loren and Earl Heller. Donating them back, Polly's Market purchased the pair at $4 per pound, their combined weights being 209 lbs. Lisa Unterbrink's 92-lb. market lamb was donated back to the fair by Wacker Standard Oil Co. and Jiffy Market purchased the specimen at a new price of $4 per pound.

The 105-lb. lamb belonging to Roxanne Kushmaul was donated back to the fair by Fred White to be re-purchased at a cost of $1.70 per pound by Michigan Livestock. Beth Heller's lamb weighing 83 lbs. and owned by Howell Livestock Co. was no different. At a cost of $2.50 per pound, Reuben Lesser acquired the lamb; the proceeds went into the Carl Heller Memorial Fund.

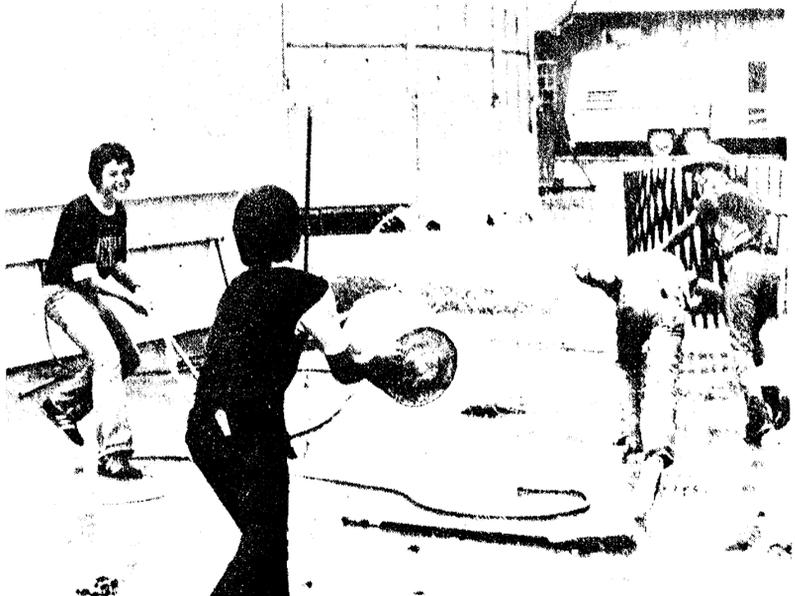

In addition to the livestock resale, monetary contributions were made on Heller's behalf. Contributing $100 were Harold Trinkle and sons, and to make the contributions reach an even $3,300, Earl Heller contributed the necessary $29.36.

Attendance Jumps at 1980 Fair

While attendance at other community fairs and the Michigan state fair has shown a steady decrease, the number of patrons visiting the 1980 Chelsea Community Fair was up an estimated 10 percent over last year. In excess of 30,000 patrons visited the Fair this year.

And, with large crowds, one expects to find an abundance of crime. But, not so in Chelsea; the Fair was very quiet.

Chelsea Police made three arrests for drunk and disorderly conduct, wrote eight citations of alcohol consumption on the Fairgrounds (a $25 offense), picked up a person who was wanted on a breaking and entering charge, and recovered a patron's $800 by closing down a flim-flam operation which was in direct violation of Michigan Gambling Laws. Despite these few incidents, the 1980 Chelsea Community Fair ran very smoothly.

A LITTLE HORSEPLAY helps these boys relieve the work of washing down their steers at the Fair. With the hot, humid weather Friday they were quick to find a cooling solution to their drudgery.

Disagreement between the two parties had focused on charges of alleged mismanagement and ordinance violations brought against Dawn Farms by local residents represented by the Taxpayer's Association.

Environmental Groups Propose Pigeon River Compromise

After more than 12 years of bickering and court battles, one of the leading groups opposing oil drilling and development in the Pigeon River Forest Area presented what they called a compromise they said could resolve the longest and most controversial environmental issues in Michigan history.

Ken Sikkema, executive director of the West Michigan Environmental Action Council, said the compromise could stop action on legislation (SB 1119) which, he said, could have an impact far beyond Pigeon River.

He said that bill, pending in the Senate Commerce Committee, would repeal all environmental laws that affect oil and natural gas exploration and development.

Webb Smith, a lawyer representing three oil companies, said he was not optimistic the so-called compromise would be acceptable to the oil companies.

Sikkema said the compromise was developed over several months and it consists of five points. He added that the group was not "wedded" to further details beyond the five points.

the points require sequential development of oil lands, beginning with the least sensitive areas; a specific time on oil activities; additional environmental controls, particularly limits on off-road vehicles; public involvement in all phases of development; and additional monitoring and enforcement efforts to ensure compliance with the development plan.

Sikkema said the proposal will end the decisive debate on the Pigeon River, provide good state policy and end litigation over the area and drilling rights thereon.

The area has been embroiled in controversy since 1968 when mineral leases were first sold in the area. In 1976 a consent order was issued allowing for drilling in the southern one-third of the forest.

That order was opposed by a number of different organizations besides the West Michigan group, including the Sierra Club, the Michigan Lakes and Streams Association, the Detroit Audubon Society and the East Michigan Environmental Action Council.

In 1979, the state Supreme Council prohibited drilling at 10 test sites.

If the compromise is accepted, "people interest in the comprehensive statute will take another look at SB 1119. To the extent that this is a reasonable alternative to the legislation, it seems only right to hold off on SB 1119," Sikkema said.

Smith, representing Shell Oil, Amoco Oil and the Northern Michigan Exploration Company, said even if the compromise were accepted, the companies would likely continue to support the pending legislation.

The compromise would not allow any drilling in the northern two-thirds of the forest and it would divide the southern third into three more sections. The southern most section, the least environmentally sensitive would be developed first with the other sections following, Sikkema explained.

Sikkema said the West Michigan group has not sought any endorsements for the plan but the group felt it could unite all the different factions.

Smith said, however, that while his clients were still studying the proposal, the oil companies felt the 1976 consent order provided enough protection.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

Clem Webster was of a mind at the country store Saturday night that there's to much talk about what we got and not enough lately about what we ain't got. Anybody that ain't been on the moon fer the past five years knows we got recession and inflation and crazier than usual politics, Clem said, and we had the hottest summer in memory that led him to thinking on what we ain't got.

What we don't here much about these days is surplus food, Clem declared. What if heat and dry in much of the country cut deep in our food crops as we go into a long, hard winter? That was the question Clem said had been bothering him. The way we sell off what we don't give away, he went on, one pore crop year could run us short. He said he already had saw where pastureland is hurt, and that's going to mean higher meat prices. Clem said he can't figger how come it is that news usual don't deal in how much there is, just in how much more it's going to cost. We are told that we got a glut of oil right now, on the other hand, but we ain't heard of the price coming down. The law of supply and demand has been repealed in this country, Clem declared, and we now operate under the law of survival of the greediest.

General speaking, Clem's question worried the fellers. Zeke Grubb said he'd vote with the farm block if he could find it, but we got to come up with somepun better than piling our wheat and corn in the streets to rot. We start out paying farmers and ranchers millions to cut back, more millions to store what they grow and then sell surplus fer millions less than it cost. Whoever got the idea that the way to make sure crime don't pay is to let the Government run it must've watched the Government run this country's agriculture fer the past 30 year, was Zeke's words.

Republican Ed Doolittle said the Democrats have run out of acts to follow, and that's why the party platform looks like it got caught in hurricane Allen. They tried giving away everthing, taking over everthing, and now they're blaming everthing on the Republicans, Ed declared. He perdicted Democrats won't so much lose control of Government this fall as Republicans will fall air to it.

New Dealer Clem rose to that bait, Mister Editor. He said ever working class American that's been around since Hoover knows where their bread is buttered cause they can recall when they didn't have bread to butter. Children of the early thirties now make up the middle class majority in the country, Clem declared, and they have come around to seeing Democrat social reform as their enemy. The trouble is, and Clem said it pained him to say it, his party just ain't woke up to the change.

Final, Bug Hookum said he had heard of a African country where a feller has to kill a lion to be judged fit fer public office. Here, he's got to shoot the bull, and if all the bull that will be shot before the November election was ground up in hamburger, Bug said our politicians could solve world hunger and wind up with a meat surplus.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

Grant Okayed To Develop Dana Field Recreation Area

NAVIN-RENKES: Mr. and Mrs. George Navin of Chelsea have announced the engagement of their daughter, Robbie Jean, to Thomas W. Renkes. Robbie is a graduate of Chelsea High school and has attended Washtenaw Community College. She is currently at Mercywood Neuro-Psychiatric Hospital. Thomas is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Renkes of Westland. He is attending Wayne State University's School of Nursing. He is employed at Lafayette Research Psychiatric Hospital in Detroit. A May 23 wedding is planned.

Dana Corp. has given the Village of Chelsea a gift of land on which recreational facilities will be developed. This plot of land, approximately 5 1/2 acres in all, will include a fence, comfort station and two softball fields.

Approval of a Federally subsidized grant to assist with this development came through on Aug. 19, less than two weeks after the federal assistance application was submitted to the United States Department of the Interior's Heritage Conservation and Recreation Service by O. J. Scherschligt, Deputy Director of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources.

Monies to be received from the federal government will total $39,284 and will be taken from the Land and Water Conservation Fund, which helps state and local governments purchase needed lands and develop facilities for outdoor recreation on them. The project sponsor matches the federal grant with funds from state or local sources.

The Chelsea Dana Field Recreation Area has matched the federal grant. The area has been appraised and thus, the Village of Chelsea's share is a portion of the value of the land—$39,000 in all. The remaining $284 necessary to match the Federal funding was paid by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources at the time the application for Federal assistance was made.

Total proposed funding for the Chelsea Dana Field Recreation Area is $78,588. The Chelsea grant is part of a Michigan consolidated grant package which contains approximately 40 similar projects state-wide; several of which are within Congressman Bob Carr's district.

A formal presentation of the land by Dana Corp. will take place soon; the official date has not yet been released.

VA Budget Cut Totals $322 Million

The Veteran's Administration's share of President Carter's multi-billion-dollar reduction in total government expenditures for fiscal year 1981 will be $322 million.

This was reported recently by Max Cleland, VA Administrator, who said VA's portion of the administration's anti-inflation reductions is less than 1.5 percent of the $21.7 billion budget requested by the President for the VA last January.

The $322 million cut is the result of weeks-long negotiations between VA officials and the Office of Management and Budget, that began with a tentative target of nearly $800 million in VA reductions.

"I believe the fact that the final reduction is less than half the initial figure is clear evidence of the essentiality of the nation's programs for veterans," Cleland said.

Largest among the VA reduction is a cut of approximately $184 million in the purchase of equipment, supplies and materials and a reduction in printing costs. Some $69 million will be saved through suspension of new direct home loans to all but handicapped veterans.

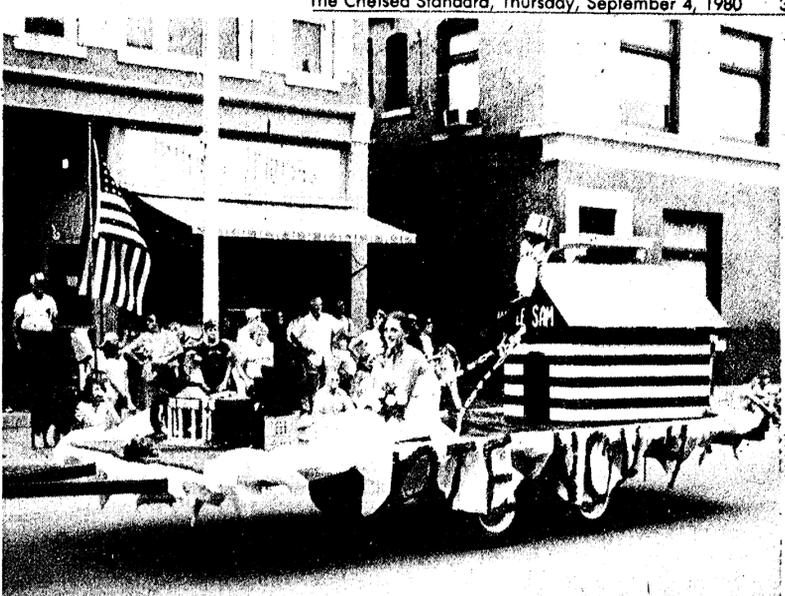

The direct loan program has been open to veterans in scattered areas of the country where conventional home financing is not generally available. Last year, VA made less than 1,500 direct home loans. Not affected is the agency's regular GI home loan program under which nearly 375,000 loans were guaranteed this year.

Other VA cuts for the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1 include elimination of VA outpatient care for retired military personnel not disabled in service ($10.6 million), delays in construction project awards ($26.9 million), and tightened beneficiary travel for non-service connected conditions ($15 million).

Cleland said the reduction plan calls for the loss of fewer than 350 employees below the budget submitted last January and that none of these will be in the VA medical program.

The VA Administrator also noted that none of the administration's legislative initiatives proposed in the January budget submission are impacted upon by the current budget revision.

Untouched in the budget are contemplated cost-of-living increases for the millions of veterans and dependents receiving VA compensation and pension payments.

THE VFW FLOAT sported a political theme during the Chelsea Fair Parade. Getting a ride with Uncle Sam is the VFW queen candidate Marla Warren. This entry was given the Firemen's Award, placing fourth in the adult classification.

Outhouse Race Won By Vandercook Lake

Immediately after the final participant in the parade turned from E. Middle St. to Main St. and cleared the block between E. Middle and Park Streets, the Lions Club outhouse race began as planned. Challenging the Chelsea Lions Club were the neighboring clubs of Munith and Vandercook Lake, each sporting a five-man team.

On the cue to start, one member from each team raced from his appointed starting place at the corner of Park St. to his waiting outhouse at the corner of E. Middle. Quickly, he positioned himself inside the "vehicle" as his teammates pulled it back to the Park St. corner.

The event was more difficult than it originally appeared. The home-made contraptions, speeding down the street, ran into some unexpected drawbacks. Doors flapping in the breeze, the trio of wheeled outhouses veered to the left and right, smashing into curbs thereby slowing the momentum gained in their initial start.

With Chelsea in the lead, laughing spectators cheered—that is until they watched their representative proceed in a sideways course toward the curb. At this point, the Chelsea Lions fell behind, to finish second in the field of three.

Results for this unusual addition to the fair were: first, Vandercook Lake, a team fortunate enough to have the center starting position; second, Chelsea, a direct result of their wobbly course; and third, Munith, a team lacking enough speed.

Children's Events Follow Parade

In addition to the Kiwanis Club's Children's Parade and the North Lake Co-op Nursery-sponsored Turtle Race, Children's Day Events continued on into the early evening Tuesday, the first day of the Chelsea Fair festivities. The Kiddie Games began in the old arena just after the completion of the Children's Parade.

Included in the activities was a penny toss, an egg toss, a three-legged race, three sack races, and prizes for the oldest and youngest participants.

The penny toss, for ages 3-to-5, saw first-place taken by Amy Brukner and pitching into second-place was Jesse Hammett. The egg toss for the 6-to-8-year-old age group found teammates Melony Cavadas and Kim McDaniels in first place, followed by the team of Tom and Lynn Lietz in second.

The three-legged race was comprised of 9-10- and 11-year-olds. Representing this sector of the community were, in first place, Rose and Ron Grifka. They were followed by second-place Marcie Kyte and Mindy Ryan.

The sack race was an activity in which children from each age group participated. Receiving first-place awards here was Jimmy Hasset; Christine Burg finished second. Doug Wingrove and Rachel Moffitt competed in the 8- and 9-year-old category and came in first and second, respectively. Ten- and 11-year-olds were represented by winners Ken Martin, first; and Brady Murphy, second.

The prize for youngest child in the festivities went to Tammara Przybyla; Betty Prappas received honors for being the oldest child at the events.

First-place prize winners each received two ride tickets on behalf of their endeavors while second-place victors were presented one ticket to enjoy at the Fair. Youngest and oldest participants were awarded one silver dollar each.

Farming Fatal Mishap Clarified

Survivors of Calvin Frey, a Lima township farmer who died in a farming accident Saturday, Aug. 16, have requested that early reports of the details of the mishap be clarified.

According to his daughter, Donna M. Frey, the farmer was fatally injured when his pick-up truck rolled backward while he was hooking up a wagon to the trailer hitch, trapping him. His son, Dale C. Frey, was with him at the time. The accident took place at the farm of N. H. Miles, 20735 Scio Church Rd., Chelsea, and not at his home as first reports indicated.

Archbishop V. Trifa Submits Naturalization Papers to U.S. Authorities

Valerian Trifa, 65, an archbishop of the Romanian Orthodox Episcopate, submitted his naturalization papers to U. S. Justice Department officials in Detroit, Monday Aug. 25. Accompanied by his documents was a short statement saying the archbishop's action was not an admission of guilt to government charges stemming from the five-year-old case against him.

Trifa was charged with illegal-gaining entrance to the United States in 1950 and fraudulently obtaining his citizenship in 1957 by lying about his alleged leadership of the violently anti-Semitic Romanian Iron Guard.

Trifa, who had been making his home near Grass Lake, has been out of Michigan for a few days on church business and will remain in the United States as a resident alien.

In the statement released with his papers, Trifa explained "the tremendous cost, the enormous amount of time, the heavy burden of many years of litigation and harassment have rendered me unable to effectively defend myself and give full measure to the parishioners of my far-flung episcopate."

Trifa, using first name Viorel during World War II, was the leader of the pro-Nazi Iron Guard student movement. In January 1941, the Iron Guard rebelled against the Romanian government, capturing and killing countless Romanian Jews. Trifa has denied he took part in the massacre.

Cavalcade of Cars

The first known parade of automobiles took place Sept. 7, 1899, at the fashionable spa of Newport, R. I. Nineteen cars took part, driven by society leaders from New York, Boston and Philadelphia. Mrs. Herman Gelrichs won a prize for her vehicle, which was draped in wisteria and featured a flock of white doves on the radiator "pulling" the car. Visitors to Greenfield Village, Dearborn, Sept. 6 and 7 this year will be able to see another parade of old-time cars as a record 358 vehicles made between 1896 and 1925 participate in the 30th annual Old Car Festival.

The first program is being offered in cooperation with the Russell Real Estate School of Southfield and is a continuing real estate training program for four weeks beginning Sept. 9 and Sept. 13. The class, which meets Tuesdays and Thursdays from 6:30 to 10:30 p.m. or in Saturday sessions from 9 a.m. until 6 p.m., will provide fundamental information for salespeople and broker candidates as a basic introduction to the profession.

Real estate law, rules, regulations, mortgaging, finance, construction, brokerage, math, title estates, appraising, landlord and tenant relationships, civil rights and other subjects required for preparations for license exam and basic real estate brokerage will be covered. The class will be offered in room 107 of the College's Student Center Building.

The Tuesday-Thursday sessions begin on Sept. 9; the Saturday class begins on Sept. 13. Four-week sessions of the class will start again on Oct. 7, Oct. 11, Nov. 11 and Nov. 15.

Good Things Growing in Michigan

In the "fruit belt," the southwestern part of the state, harvesting of many "good things growing in Michigan," including grapes, continues. This time of year, peaking in September and early October, tons of grapes are trucked from acres of vineyards to processing plants and Michigan wineries.

An estimated 117 million pounds of grapes, valued at $13.9 million, were harvested last fall from 6,100,000 vines growing on 12,200 acres, according to the Michigan Department of Agriculture. Our state produces the fourth largest grape crop in the nation.

More than 40 percent of this grape acreage is in Berrien and Van Buren counties, followed by Allegan, Kalamazoo and St. Joseph counties.

Concord grapes, Michigan's leading variety, account for about 90 percent of the harvest and are mainly used for making grape jams, jellies, preserves and grape juice.

It's said the best wine comes from the fruit of unhappy vines, those that have to struggle hard for survival—especially through long Michigan winters.

Fourteen wineries process an estimated three percent of the grape harvest into wine to maintain a sixth place rank in nationwide wine production.

Michigan's wine industry was developed at the close of Prohibition; however, native grapes weren't as suitable for wine production as Old World varieties. In 1954 our state's first hybrid plants combined native grapes' tolerance to winter with the flavor of European grapes.

Since the Baco Noir, a French-American hybrid, was introduced, many vineyards have been converted to hybrids and vinifera, varieties of European grapes.

When selecting a wine, look at the label for information on what you are buying. If the word "Michigan" appears on the label, a minimum of 75 percent of the grapes used are grown in our state.

Crop Insurance Makes Good Loan Collateral

In this summer's still tight money market, many farmers are finding that the first step toward coming up with more credit is to come up with more collateral. According to Harlan Stull, district director of USDA's Federal Crop Insurance Corp., the most overlooked and under-used source of collateral for crop loans is crop insurance.

Stull points out that farm lending practices have undergone a number of changes. Not too many years ago, lenders looked for collateral that could be converted to cash necessary to pay off a loan. Then the emphasis shifted to farming ability and creditworthiness as the best backstop for a farm loan. Today, lenders are looking for both.

Providing adequate collateral has become a problem for many farmers, Stull notes, citing several reasons: The greatly increased amount of credit needed to farm today; the slowdown (and in some cases even decline) in farm land values; and the fact that many assets such as machinery have already been pledged as collateral.

In the case of crop loans, Stull suggests that an all-risk crop insurance policy is ideal collateral from the viewpoint of lender and borrower alike. Its chief advantage is that it is in the form of cash. No sell-off of land or equipment is necessary.

"Even if a policy isn't used for collateral," says Stull, "it is still an indication to the lender that the farmer is employing sound financial management practices, the first of which is to protect investment and working capital against the possibility of unavoidable loss. This can often give the farmer an important advantage when it comes to competing for the lender's available capital."

Washtenaw county wheat growers may request information about insurance coverage, its benefits, its cost and its use as loan collateral by contacting FCIC, 1123 West Chicago Rd., Coldwater 49036; telephone (517) 279-8472.

JV Cagers Open Against Stockbridge

Chelsea Junior Varsity Girls basketball team has been hard at work preparing for the season opener Sept. 9 against Stockbridge. Conditioning and basketball fundamentals such as dribbling, shooting and passing have been the focus of pre-season workouts.

This year's team consists of eight sophomores and eight freshmen. Sophomore team members include Tracy Borton, Kim Boyd, Kathy Degener, Amy Hume, Mary Klink, Missy Lazarz, Dawn Murphy, and Amy Poljan. Their freshmen counterparts consist of Connie Bollinger, Laurie Heller, Mary Hellner, Mary O'Quinn, Karla Peterson, Carol Warren, Wendy Wolfgang and Jane Wood. Managing the team are Jennifer Borton and Laura Peterson.

The starting lineup has not yet been decided, but today's scrimmage against Manchester should give a good indication of both the best starting line and the strengths and weaknesses of the team. The scrimmage against Manchester begins at 4 p.m. in the Chelsea High school gym; the public is invited.

On the average, an American ate about one-half pound of chicken a year 40 years ago. Today he eats 37 pounds a year.

Howdy Holmes Escapes Injury

Howdy Holmes, son of Chelsea Milling Co. President Howard Holmes, escaped serious injury last Friday, Aug. 29, when his race car hit the wall and rolled during a practice run for the California 500 which was run last Sunday at Ontario Motor Speedway in Ontario, Calif.

Apparently, one of Holmes' tires blew before the accident. The car smashed into a wall, flipped over and slid into the infield.

Inverness Snowmobile Club, Sophomore Floats Are Tops

All was bright and clean Saturday for the final day of the Chelsea Community Fair and at 1 p.m., the Fair Parade kicked off the day's activities.

Police car in the lead, the parade marched down E. Middle St. to Main St. on its long hike to the fairgrounds. The American Legion color guard and the marching bands of Chelsea High and Beach Junior High schools set the pace and the mood for the lengthy and enthusiastic procession to follow.

The Ann Arbor Unit of the Zal Graz Grotto clowns, antique and collectors' cars, farm machinery, commercial vehicles, fire trucks, helicopters and livestock were joined by the floats carrying the Chelsea Fair Queen and her court.

Prior to the beginning of the parade, this year's float judges, Bill Bott, Judge Kenneth Bronson and Debbie Wild of Ann Arbor, selected the most ingeniously designed and decorated floats to share the honors of first through fourth prize in both the youth and adult categories. The decision appeared to be a difficult one but finding favor in the eyes of the judging trio this year were the following floats.

Adult first prize, judged as the parade's best, went to the Inverness Snowmobile Club's entry complete with queen candidate, Kathy Honbaum. Second prize was the float constructed by the Chelsea United Methodist Retirement Home which sported a number of smiling residents. Third prize was awarded to the ABWA's attractive, flower-laden float which carried queen candidate, Holly McCutcheon; and fourth prize, the Firemen's award, was bestowed upon the VFW's entry riding upon which was their representative for the 1980 Chelsea Fair Queen title, Marcia Warren.

In the youth category, the four awards were distributed in the following manner. First prize was awarded to the Chelsea High school class of 1983's float which

Legislative Update

A Weekly Report from
State Rep. Mary Keith Ballantine
State Capitol, Lansing 48909
Phone (517) 373-1775

Week of Sept. 2-8

BUDGET MEASURES — To cope with shrinking state revenues, Governor Milliken has recommended the legislature end welfare for single people under 45 and tax all capital gains. These will be acted on as the legislature returns to session this week.

AGING OPPOSITION — The state Commission on Services to the Aging has formally opposed the Tisch tax proposal which will be on the November ballot, saying it would lead to chaos in providing state and local services to older people.

SPENDING CUT — According to the state Personnel Director, the state will avoid spending $8.5 million which had been budgeted for state employees' health insurance costs due to a negotiated reduction in the rate of increase for insurance payments.

POLITICAL ACTIVITIES — The Civil Service Commission has changed its rules governing political activities by classified state employees to conform to a 1976 state law, following a court ruling. Thus state employees may now run for public office or hold office in a political party. They still may not take any political actions while on duty in state jobs.

ZONING RULING — The Court of Appeals has ruled that a court cannot compel city officials to answer questions concerning the reasons for denial of a request for rezoning. The court said rezoning is a legislative act and lacking any evidence of improper conduct, it would be constitutionally improper for a court to question that.

BALLOT ENDORSEMENTS — Both the Republican and the Democratic state conventions have now taken the same positions on this fall's ballot proposals: they support Proposals "B", "C" and "E" (19-year-old drinking age, Coalition tax reform plan, income-tax increase for prison construction), oppose "D" (Tisch tax plan), and do not support "A", the Smith-Bullard tax plan.

SUBSTANCE ABUSE — The Office of Substance Abuse Services has reported that one out of every five people admitted to state-funded substance abuse programs during 1980's first quarter was under age 20. This number of 4,204 included 283 children under age 13, many of whom were treated for problems resulting from another family member's substance abuse.

FARM WORKERS — The Agriculture Department has reported that employment on Michigan farms during mid-July was 2 percent higher than a year ago. Good weather prompted longer working days as both family members and hired workers put in more hours compared to last summer.

CHARTER BOATS — The DNR is cracking down on operators of unlicensed Great Lakes charter boats, all of which have not had an annual safety inspection and may have hazardous structural damage. The DNR has already arrested four operators and is investigating 100 more.

The Bible - The Light from Heaven

Speaks about the religious names we should wear. Think of every religious group that you can and try and find book, chapter, and verse from the Bible where each of these names are used. It will be a shock to many when they find out that a large percent of religious names that people wear today can't be found anywhere in God's Word. Centuries before Jesus Christ established his church Isaiah the prophet wrote, "... and thou shalt be called by a new name, which the mouth of the Lord shall name" (Isaiah 62:2). Since this inspired prophecy says that the new name which God's people would be called by would be named by the mouth of the Lord then it should be found some place in the Bible. Can the religious name which you wear be found in the Bible? Listen to the record of the fulfillment of this prophecy in Acts 11:26: "... And the disciples were called Christians first at Antioch." It is important to note that Christ's followers were called simply Christians and nothing else. When the apostle Paul attempted to convert people by preaching the gospel to them he only tried to persuade them to be Christians. Acts 26:28 says, "Then Agrippa said unto Paul, Almost thou persuadest me to be a Christian." One cannot say Christian without saying Christ. In I Peter 4:16 we read, "Yet if anyman suffer as a Christian, let him not be ashamed; but let him glorify God in this name." (ASV) Once again we see God's people being called by this unifying name which gives glory to the one who died for the sins of those who obey him. This name is above every name. (Philippians 2:9). Salvation is in this name. (Acts 4:12) Why not wear just the name Christian? Obey the gospel and become a new testament Christian.

Good Things Growing In Michigan

Take advantage of Michigan's usually beautiful fall weather to visit our state's "fruit belt." Good things growing in Michigan along the western part of the state include eight major fruit crops which earned farmers $158 million last year, according to the Michigan Department of Agriculture.

Because of the influence of Lake Michigan, especially in the southwestern counties, our state is one of the major fruit producing states in the nation.

Fall apples, third largest production in the nation; grapes and purple plums, fourth; pears, fifth; and peaches, seventh largest national production; are currently being harvested.

Apple growers picked 680 million pounds in 1979, primarily Jonathan, Red Delicious, McIntosh, and Northern Spy (these account for 77 percent of all apples produced in the state). Other major varieties are Golden Delicious, Rome Beauty, Cortland, R. I. Greening, Stayman and Winesap. This is prime time for sampling many varieties of all fruits and, of course, bringing some home to can, freeze, or eat out-of-hand.

An estimated 117 million pounds of grapes were harvested in 1979. Concord grapes are our state's leading variety, accounting for about 90 percent of the crop. Most of these grapes are used for making commercial juice and jellies.

Two major varieties of plums are grown in Michigan, the Stanley and Blufre, both purple Italian prune plums. Growers harvested 28 million pounds of plums last year.

Harvest of these fall fruits continues through October, leaving ample time to make travel arrangements and canning preparations. Food prices are usually less when you visit the farm or pick-your-own. NEW PARK: A worker readies the grounds for the customary late-summer influx of picnickers and bathers at Washtenaw county's newest park on Independence Lake. The 327-acre facility was recently opened to the public after two years of development.

New Independence Lake County Park Open to Public

Already famous for its recreational facilities, the Dexter area has acquired another in the form of Independence Lake County Park, located north of Jennings Rd.

The 327-acre plot was opened to the public Sunday, July 13 after two years of development, and will remain open through Labor Day. Two hundred of those acres are taken up by Independence Lake, with an additional 200 acres of that privately owned.

Although the park is primarily for the use of picnickers and bathers, the Washtenaw County Parks and Recreation Department is considering suggestions to open it up to boating and fishing. Admission is $2, with season passes available for $5. That price will rise to $7 next year to keep up with the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Park system.

"We've heard a lot of comments on how nice the place is," reports Parks and Recreation Director Roger Shedlock. "We're also considering suggestions to include an organized recreation area and play equipment for children."

In the future, park planners also hope to establish nature trails, and work to expand the beach area will begin after the season ends. "We're also thinking about developing part of the park for cross-country skiing," Shedlock added.

The park was built with monies obtained from local millage and matching federal funds. Ann Arbor landscape architect Peter Pollack was put to work transplanting trees and designing the winding scenic drives and 175-car parking lot.

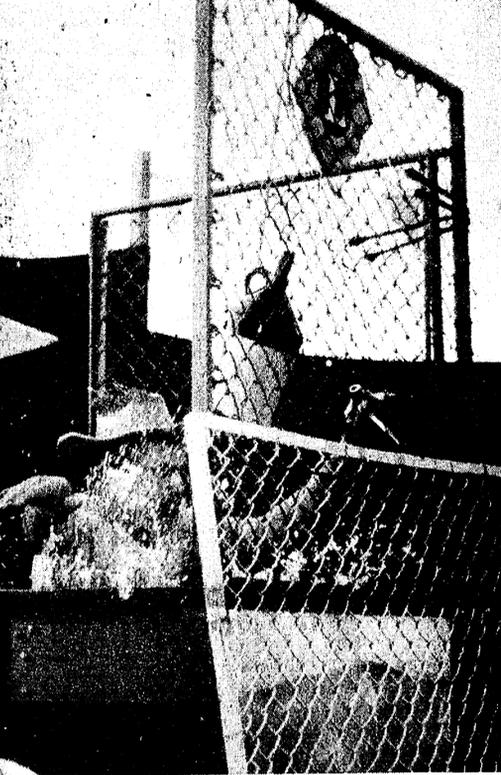

"We're a little concerned about the size of the parking area," Shedlock said. "This year we expect to accommodate 7-8,000 people by the end of the season, with many more expected next year, which may lead to overcrowding." Parking lot expansion plans are on the drawing board.

No animals are allowed in the park, as these may interfere with bathing and picnicking.

Perhaps the greatest compliment the project, which is reached by driving north on Jennings Rd. from North Territorial Rd., has received was a comment passed to Shedlock by one visitor, who said, "This is the way I want to see my tax dollars spent."

DAVID HARRISON'S GRAND CHAMPION PEN of hogs took $1.75 per each of its 220 lbs. The buyer was Jerald Heydlauff, manager of Honeggers. The second of the matched pair of hogs was David's 231-lb. Reserve Champion Individual.

FRANK SWEENEY grasps for support as he is unexpectedly knocked from his perch at the Chelsea Lion's Club dunk tank. With the weather so muggy during the Fair, could this have been a pleasant surprise?

One barrel of oil contains 42 gallons. Forty six percent of a barrel of crude goes for motor gasoline; 26 percent for light fuel for home heating and diesel oil; six percent for aviation jet fuel; 10 percent for residual fuel for utilities, industry, large apartment buildings, and office buildings; two percent for propane, and 10 percent for all other petroleum products.

TITLE INSURANCE

Title insurance spares the buyer from parting with his purchase money and then discovering a faulty condition of the title.

Public records that affect titles are not always completely accurate. For instance, there may be errors or omissions in recording deeds or mortgages, assessments and judgments. These, or other defects, can crop up affecting or even voiding the title. Title insurance allows the buyer to breathe easier. It assures him that he has clear title to the property.

Is issued. But by calling attention to them, it places the burden of their removal upon the seller, depending on the terms of the contract.

There is only a one-time premium — paid when the policy is issued. The coverage continues as long as you or your heirs hold title to the property.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at FRISINGER REALTY CO., 935 S. Main St., Chelsea. Phone: 475-8681; evenings 475-2621. We're here to help!

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:
 So many times a person melts into our Chelsea Community and we sort of take them for granted without really looking at the individual themselves. So we pause now to pay a very humble tribute to just such a person who, by his very vocation makes him special.

This man chose to give his life to the service of God under the pastorate of St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church. Let us together come to know and appreciate Father just a little more than we already do.

In December of 1972, Father Philip Dupuis came to St. Mary's and with him brought his particular background.

Born in Jackson, and reared in Iowa, he returned to graduate from a Jackson high school. Somewhere about this time, Father, chose his vocation of complete and unreserved dedication to become a priest and entered Sacred Heart Seminary in Detroit.

He completed his studies at North American College, Rome, Italy. He spent the years from 1948-52 there while acquiring S.T.L.—Licentiate in Theology degree, as well as mastering a number of different languages.

Father Dupuis was ordained a priest, Dec. 8, 1951. He returned to the United States in June 1952. Before being assigned to Chelsea, Father spent his entire priesthood in Genesee county.

Since 1972, June, we have shared the "growing pains" of change that went through the Catholic Church after Vatican II, with Father, just as every family does experience growth.

There are numerous duties that come with the priesthood, as well as not enough hours in a day to do them all. Father is a person with many achievements and talents, being able to reach out and touch all ages of people in joy and sorrow, good times and bad. Yet always above all else, he is a Holy Priest, with a love for his work, and God's people, and a great sense of humor to hold it all together. One does not mind sitting through Father's Homily, that is a compliment indeed!

For being so much Father, to all of us in this community of Chelsea, and your Parish Family, we thank you. Maybe we don't tell you as often as we should, but its always there.

This is a birthday tribute to you Father—have a happy day on Tuesday, Sept. 9... you earned it... and please take note, we omitted the year you were born in... that is your secret... keep 'em guessing!

Millie Warner,
 Acting Catholic Chaplain.

Hannah, Staebler Head Tax Reduction Coalition

A bi-partisan citizens group has been organized to work for passage of Proposal "C" on the Nov. 4 ballot.

The committee, to be known as The Coalition for Property Tax Reduction, will be headed by Dr. John Hannah of Dansville and Neil Staebler of Ann Arbor. Hannah was president of Michigan State University for nearly 30 years. Staebler has been known as Michigan's "Mr. Democrat" for more than a quarter of a century.

"Proposal C offers genuine property tax reduction while maintaining the state's ability to provide essential education and human services for its citizens," Hannah and Staebler said in a joint statement.

In addition to working for passage of Proposal C—which was placed on the ballot by Gov. William G. Milliken and the legislature—the Coalition will oppose Proposal D.

"We believe that if Proposal D (Tisch II) is adopted it will have an adverse effect on every governmental unit and service in every Michigan community," they said. "It will reduce the availability of state funds for needed programs in public education, health and welfare and reduce essential services provided by local government.

Hannah was president of MSU from 1941 to 1969 and served as Director of the Agency for International Development (AID) from 1969 to 1974. Staebler was State Democratic Party Chairman in the 1950's, Michigan's Congressman at-large in 1963-64 and the Democratic nominee for Governor in 1964.

Keith Molin of Ann Arbor, former Director of the State Departments of Labor and Commerce and now Associate Director of Development at the University of Michigan, will serve as the Coalition's full-time president. Former State Rep. James Farnsworth of Plainwell will be treasurer and Tom Farrell, Assistant Superintendent for Public Affairs for the Michigan State Board of Education, will be director of communications. Both Molin and Farrell have taken leave of absence to work for the Coalition.

Nearly 10,000 degrees were awarded by Michigan State University in the 1978-79 academic year.

TODD ROWE, a member of the Chelsea Prep Bowling League, shown here with Vicki Wurster, assistant manager and coach at the lanes, was the largest contributor in the muscular dystrophy "bowl-a-thon." He collected in excess of $150 for the cause through pledges by his sponsors.

Junior Bowlers Earn $1,000 for M-D Fund

Bowlers in the Peanut, Prep, Junior, and Major youth bowling leagues at Chelsea Lanes did their bit in the fight against muscular dystrophy. Ninety children out of the 150 in the leagues collected pledges and "bowed down" M. D. for Jerry's kids.
Collecting a per pin pledge from sponsors, Todd Rowe, 10, the son of Morgan and Nan Rowe of Cavanaugh Lake, bowled the highest score in the Bowl-a-thon and collected in excess of $150, more than any other participant.
On Monday, Todd and Vickie Wurster, the assistant manager of Chelsea Lanes, travelled to Jackson to present a check for $1,000 to the Muscular Dystrophy Association. In presenting their donation, the couple appeared on Channel 6, WJIM, telecast of the Labor Day Jerry Lewis Telethon.

Wedgwood Wanders In Ain't It Amazing

Josiah Wedgwood, noted English potter, was born 150 years ago July 12. On that day in 1730 his family of established potters gained a promising potter. By the age of 29 he went into business for himself and at 32 was appointed potter to the Queen. His work quickly became world famous. Among the many pieces of Wedgwood pottery exhibited in the Decorative Arts Gallery of Henry Ford Museum, Dearborn, are a pair of plaques nearly 25 inches long made c.1785. They are the largest Wedgwood plaques known.
It took Noah Webster 20 years to complete it, but on April 14, 1828, his masterful American Dictionary of the English Language was published. The massive volume showed a definite evolution in usage which separated American English from that of the mother country. For the last five years of this project, Webster worked in his home-study in New Haven, Conn. The grand house, with its original study desk, is one of the many historic homes which make up Greenfield Village, Dearborn, today.

Hospital Will Direct School Food Program

For the last 20 years, Elsie Weiss has been the director of the food program in the Chelsea Public School system. But last month, she resigned from her post, no longer wanting the total responsibility of food and food services in the school district.
In their search for a new director of dietary services, the Chelsea Public School System provided for various local organizations to bid on the contract. The Chelsea Community Hospital won the contract.
As a result, the Chelsea Community Hospital will provide a full-time food supervisor in the schools, in addition to providing 100 hours of direct dietary service. The hospital representative is Patricia Asp, R.D., and she has been given the title, Director of Dietary Services.
In addition to her work as director of dietary services at the hospital, Pat Asp will also head the dietary program throughout the Chelsea School District, beginning at the high school.
Supervisor Donna Schmidt will work at the high school and will be responsible for the day-to-day operation of the new program.
Elsie Weiss has not completely stepped down either. She will remain with the Chelsea schools as a cook. Too, she will work closely with the Chelsea Community Hospital's agent to assure that the transfer of responsibility is smooth.
During the first week of school, Pat Asp will undertake a cafeteria survey in an effort to respond to students' needs, likes and dislikes regarding menu choices, additions or omissions. Thereafter, these surveys will be conducted monthly.
Also, in an effort to establish a more efficient program, complete with student feedback, a student advisory committee will be formed to act as a go-between for the dietician and the student body.
The newly revamped food program will attempt to reduce saturated fats, salt and concentrated sugars in the students' diet this year, while still providing menus with acceptable, nutritious, appetizing variety.

Chelsea Site Sought for Mobile Homes Park

Tom Handyside, an engineer involved in the development of a proposed mobile home park in Chelsea, addressed the Chelsea Village Council during their meeting Tuesday, Sept. 2. The proposed mobile home park consists of approximately 25 acres to be located on the west side of the village, north of Cavanaugh Lake Rd.
Handyside's purpose in attending the meeting was to seek permission and approval of a modified waste disposal system to be utilized by his firm during the time of development and until the Chelsea village waste water disposal system could accommodate the additional 100 or more trailer sites. The mobile home park representative suggested the installation of a septic tank system to be operated as long as waste water treatment was a problem in the village.
But, according to an ordinance dated June 6, 1977, no cess pools, septic tanks, or any other private means of waste disposal would be allowable in the Village of Chelsea. All houses and other dwellings built in the village must be connected to a sewer.
Handyside countered the ordinance review by saying, "This is not a request for a permanent septic system, just the means to proceed with development until a sanitary waste system can accommodate us."
Nonetheless, a private septic system is against the ordinance. Village President Charles Ritter suggested that Handyside contact the Department of Natural Resources and the Environmental Protection Agency about his dilemma. But Handyside, seeking a positive indication that the Village approves of the mobile home development, has chosen to speak with the village's legal counsel to determine the position it takes. From there, he should be able to tell what action he will take in either proceeding with the development or developing elsewhere.

Don't Keep It Under Your Hat!

Spread the Word...
Want Ads Really Work!

HERE'S HOW TO MAKE A PRINTER'S HAT!

- Place a full-sized, folded newspaper on a table, open edge toward you. Turn down upper corners to meet at center.
- Fold lower edge of the top sheet up to base of the triangle.
- Now fold top sheet over again at base of the triangle. Leave the lower sheet unfolded.
- Turn the whole thing over and fold the sides in to the center, so that the edges meet.
- Fold up corners of the lower edge, forming small triangles.
- Fold lower flap up.
- Fold flap down and tuck it behind the "band."
- Turn paper over again and fold point down to bottom edge.
- Tuck point into band.
- Open the cap and bring lower corners of cap together at center, forming a flat square.
- Fold closed corners toward center, tucking them under band.
- Fold top and bottom corners to meet at center. Cap is now ready to be opened and worn.
