Severe Snow, Ice Storm Paralyzes Area Last Week

Schools were closed, events cancelled and workers sent home early last week as the worst storm of the year dumped between eight and 11 inches of cold, wet snow on the area. Considered the worst storm since Jan. 27, 1978, the snow began falling Tuesday morning during rush hour, blanketing the roads and making travel very slow and very hazardous.

Michigan was under a winter storm warning and traveler's advisories were posted. By early evening, temperatures were up and it began to sleet. Much of the new snow melted. Then, temperatures took a dive and the wet, slushy roads turned into virtual ice rinks. The rain and snow alternations lasted all night; it began to snow again Wednesday.

In the meantime, drivers skidded their ways to work, school or other activities, dodging drifting snow and battling wind gusts that rose upwards of 30 m.p.h. and made visibility virtually impossible. Late Tuesday morning, schools began sending students home, stores began closing by mid-afternoon and the entire area became nearly immobile. High school sports were cancelled, meetings rescheduled and special events postponed.

Chelsea, Dexter and other area schools would use up two and one-half of their 10 annually allotted snow days during the week.

Chelsea police answered countless motorist assists, pushing cars from snow banks and icy patches. Being good samaritans, they stopped issuing parking tickets when the snow began to pile up around expired parking meters and motorists were lucky to even get their cars across the snow barriers that prevailed after the snow plows headed through the village.

Washtenaw County Sheriffs and Chelsea Police reported no major accidents in either of their jurisdictions as traffic moved along at a snail's pace.

By Wednesday, hundreds of schools across the state were closed because of the frigid, snowy, slippery weather. Thousands of students had the opportunity to sleep in, postpone homework, build snowmen or sled. Temperatures began to drop as the storm began its second phase, sub-zero weather.

Road crews took to the highways almost immediately during the first snow fall, dumping tons of salt and pushing slush and snow to the road shoulder. More than 50 salt trucks and 90 employees worked over-time and snow removal cost estimates, as of early Wednesday, exceeded $50,000 and included operating costs, both regular and over-time wages, and materials. Long hours were spent making roads passable, though dangerous. That evening, the roads were finally cleared of most ice and snow but intermittent slippery spots prevailed. Arctic winds gusted across the area.

As of Thursday, Michigan seemed to be coming out of its temporary paralysis. Business as usual was commonplace, though many schools were still shut down. Drivers could travel without much apprehension, except with regard to exit and entrance ramps lining the expressways. Following a relatively mild winter thus far, Michigan got a cold, wet look at the nasty side of Mother Nature last week, a look that could make even Jack Frost sit down and count the days remaining until spring.

CLIMB EVERY MOUNTAIN, hike every trail: Chelsea's own Milly Smith, at the age of 78, took up the hobby of mountain climbing and backpacking a few years ago. Since that time, she has been the subject of a book published last year, has camped under the stars in the Rockies, climb-

Debaters 6th in State Tourney

Varsity debaters from Chelsea High school competed in the State Debate Tournament at the Southfield Hilton in Southfield, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Feb. 5, 6 and 7.

A total of 28 schools participated in the tournament and following the first eight preliminary rounds, Chelsea's debate team earned a 12-4 score and advanced to the quarter finals.

Competing against other Class B schools, Chelsea was eliminated in the quarter finals, ending the afternoon in sixth place in the state, according to Coach Albert Anderson. This was only the second time that Chelsea varsity debaters ended a season this well in recent years.

Awarded a trophy and several plaques for their efforts, Chelsea's competing debate team was made up of Brian Koepele and Sara Merkel on the affirmative and Theresa Merkel and Sara Merkel on the negative. Celeste Arbogast served as time keeper for the Chelsea team.

Rick's Market Awaits Swab Test Results

Wednesday evening, Feb. 11, swab tests were performed within Rick's Market by Swanson Testing Laboratories of Southfield, a firm hired by Orkin Exterminators. In the presence of state representatives of the Michigan Department of Agriculture and the Washtenaw County Health Board, tests for traces of contamination still lingering in various areas of the store were conducted.

Test results are expected later this week and if they are returned negative, Rick's Market could reopen within the next few weeks. Upon the scheduled re-opening of the store, the state will again conduct contamination tests to insure that no possibility of threat to public health could result.

New Village Party Names 2 Candidates

The Village Party Caucus was held Monday evening, Feb. 9 for the expressed purpose of giving interested persons the opportunity to run for Village office.

Fewer than 20 persons attended to witness the nominations of Ishmael Picklesimer as trustee and Evelyn Rosentreter as clerk. A total of seven Village office terms will expire this year but the Village Party offers candidates for only one of three available trustee seats and clerk. No nominations for the three soon to be vacated Library Board seats were made.

Former Village trustee Walter Brown was the chairman of the

Bulldog Cagers Defeat Saline In Slow-Down

In hopes of running time off the clock in order to work for a good shot, Saline's Hornets played a four corner offense Friday night when they took on the Chelsea Bulldogs at Saline. Though the tempo was opposite to the typical fast-paced Chelsea game, the Bulldogs defeated the lowly Hornets, 52-49.

Following three good fast breaks in the first quarter, Chelsea took a 14-9 lead at the end of the first quarter. By half-time, Saline outscored the opposition, 13-12. The Bulldogs were ahead 28-22 at intermission.

In the third quarter, Chris Tobin made five jumpers from 15 feet out to up the Bulldog score. He finished the night with 15 points and 13 rebounds.

The Bulldogs had their greatest lead, 11 points, as they headed into the fourth quarter with a 47-36 advantage. Saline was content to play a slow game and countered the Chelsea lead with four 20-foot jumpers from the outside.

With one minute left on the clock, Chelsea had a six-point advantage and began to slow the game down. The Hornets came back from a 49-43 deficit to hit a pair of shots, upping the score to 49-47 in Chelsea's favor. Trading baskets, the score was 51-49 and the Hornets were forced to foul.

Fouling Jeff Price, he made one of two baskets for the game's final score, 52-49. The Hornets missed a final attempt at the sound of the buzzer.

Statistically, the Bulldogs and Hornets had 29 and 28 rebounds, respectively. Chelsea committed 13 turnovers to Saline's 20 while the Bulldogs were good on six of 10 free throw attempts for 60 percent. The Hornets hit nine of 16 for 56 percent at the line.

Pacing the teams were Tobin with 13 and Dills and Wojcicki with 12 pieces for the victors while Jim Phelps had 23 and John Marx 17 for the losers.

Chelsea Coach Robin Raymond was pleased with the win, which put the Bulldogs in second place in the SEC. "We did a good job of playing their game; we hit the shots we needed to hit."

Clinching at least a second place tie in the conference, Chelsea holds a 7-4 league record behind an 11-0 Milan squad.

Milly Smith Continues To Challenge the World

At age 78, you really can't tell. Most people at that age are content to relax and knit a sweater, putter in the garden or read a Reader's Digest condensed book. But, not Chelseaite Milly Smith. No, she's not content unless she's swimming laps at the Cameron Pool three nights per week, bowling, playing bridge or climbing a mountain.

For the past few years, backpacking and mountain climbing with family and friends has been Milly's mainstay, an ever-present itch, a desire that is never quite sated.

All her life, the Chelsea United Methodist Retirement Home resident, has been fond of walking. She and her family used to walk a mile and a half to church on Sunday mornings when Milly was growing up in northern Indiana. She also took long walks along country roads.

Then, her lifestyle changed and Milly and her family moved to the Detroit-Ypsilanti area where she attended high school, became a teacher, married and raised a family. She got a teaching job in a one-room school with 40 students that ranged in age from kindergarten through the eighth grade and last December, at a birthday party for an 89-year-old friend, Milly was reunited with more than a dozen students from her first class in 1921.

Milly taught school for 31 years, raised four children and was forced to retire in 1968 when she turned 65. She returned to Indiana and cared for her father until his death. Then, she moved to Chelsea and into the Methodist Home where she was given her own room and her own time schedule and time to readjust to her new way of life.

She seemed like she feared becoming a member of the "rocking chair set," so Milly began to volunteer at South school, helping out in first grade reading. In her ninth year now, Milly has become friends with students, teachers and parents alike. She's doing what she does best, that is, when she's not galavanting around the countryside, hiking and climbing through the Grand Canyon or to the top of mountains.

Her travel saga began three or four years ago, after Milly met some backpackers on a trip to the Grand Canyon in 1976. It was fascinating to her, but at her age, she thought people would think her absolutely crazed. Nevertheless, upon her return to Chelsea, Milly ordered her first backpack by mail. When it arrived, she loaded it up with books and drove into the country. She hiked for a mile; it was exhilarating!

When she returned home, she telephoned her grandson and asked him if he'd like to join her on a hike. His answer was an obvious yes and off they went. That was 1976.

Later that year, Milly announced her intentions to travel out West and hike through the Grand Canyon. She was determined and her family knew that suggestions to the negative would have no effect. So off she went, grandson and backpack in hand.

The excursion was a successful one, Milly opted for climbing a mountain next. In the company of her daughter, the pair traveled to Colorado in the summer of 1977 to scale the jagged trails of Flat Top Mountain in the Rockies. But, prior to the trip, Milly had a medical check-up and her doctor noticed an irregular heartbeat. Nevertheless, despite arthritis, Milly was and still is in amazing health. So, with near blessings from the physician, Milly went on her date with the mountain.

Since that time, Milly's delight for adventure has led her to a wilderness canoe trip in Canada, hikes across Europe and additional trips to the western United States. As always, Milly travels in the company of family, friends and near strangers, all eager to enjoy the freedom and rustic

Michigan Ranks 23rd in Tax Revenues Raised
 Results of a study released by the Department of Management and Budget show that recent national statistics rate Michigan 23rd in terms of revenue imposed by state and local governments.

Robert Kleine, director of the Office of Revenue and Tax Analysis, said the state standing was determined by computing all forms of revenue except federal aid.

The report entitled "A Comparison of Selected State Tax Rates," which is based on data collected by the U. S. Census Bureau and other sources, notes that many other states included in the study supplement low tax rates with high fees and other charges.

Such items as tuition, park fees, hunting licenses, testing fees, sewer charges and school lunch sales are included along with taxes in measuring total state and local government revenue.

"These tables indicate Michigan's tax burden, as a whole, is about average, but it also shows that the local property tax and state income tax in Michigan are somewhat above average while the sales tax is below average—all measured as a percent of total personal income," Kleine said.

He noted the tables illustrated one of the major reasons that the governor's proposal for property tax relief includes a sales tax increase as a means of offsetting revenue loss.

Kleine noted that the report also shows that the total revenue for state and local government is 16.31 percent of total personal income in Michigan.

The personal income total includes all income in the state including "transfer payments" such as Social Security, unemployment and assistance payments.

The national average is 15.69 percent.

Michigan state government revenues alone declined as a percentage of personal income in recent years, dropping from 8.2 percent in 1979 to an estimated 7.5 percent in 1981 and 1982, Kleine said.

Other portions of the report indicated that Michigan state income tax ranks 14th in the nation (among 44 states that levy an income tax); the state sales tax ranks 29th (among 45 states levying a sales tax); the property tax in Michigan ranks 18th; and the cigarette tax, 11 cents a pack, is lower than in 32 other states.

Lockouts Disqualify Employees From Unemployment Benefits
 A company lockout is a labor dispute for which employees are disqualified from receiving unemployment benefits, the state Supreme Court has ruled. The decision reverses the Court of Appeals and reinstates findings of the Employment Security Commission.

The court said it rejected the contention that a lockout is not a disqualifying labor dispute because it would make redundant other clauses of the unemployment law relating to disqualification resulting from a labor dispute.

The high court also noted the legislature declared that benefits shall not be paid when unemployment is due to a labor dispute which is in progress.

And even though the law is meant to provide relief from the hardship of involuntary unemployment, the court said the disqualification provision makes an exception to that general purpose.

The justices declared employers must bear the burden of proving the claimants disqualification since payment of benefits is precluded only if the labor dispute is shown to be a substantial contributing cause of unemployment, even if other causes, such as economic reasons, contributed to the lockout.

Yours truly,
 Uncle Lew.

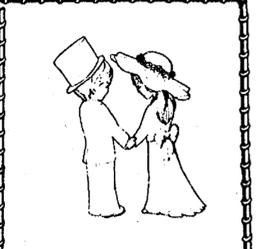

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

The fellers fell to discussing cloned mice Saturday night during the session at the country store, and they went on to deal with other best laid plans of mice and men. Bug Hookum had a clipping about the scientists in Switzerland turning out three mice from a cell of one. Bug said he couldn't figger what all the excitement was about, cause this world needs more mice the way it needs to transplant mumps. Instead of mice that are exactly alike, Bug said we ought to clone a batch of first rate mousers and upset the cat-mouse balance of nature in the other direction.

Zeke Grubb said he could see benefits of producing nothing but the best grade of cattle and hogs, so everybody could git the same cut of meat, but he was worried that this cloning business might be taking science where it ain't got no business. The problem is, Zeke went on, you allus got the Government behind the research in this country, and we have seen to many times where good intentions of Government has led us. He saw the other day where the Federal Highway Administration has spent $240,000 on a computer that tells motorists how to git where they're going. A feller telephoning the computer has to go through 16 steps, and he's liable to trip at each one. Sen. William Proxmire give the system his Golden Fleece award for the biggest waste of money. He said anybody that could take the 16 steps could read a road map. Besides, the computer can't come clost to being as good as stopping at the next gas station.

General speaking, the fellers was strong agin cloning. They agreed with Zeke that the risk was to great. Clem Webster had this report where the Health and Welfare people run a campaign urging folks to git second opinions before surgery. A followup was done in New York City, Clem said, and it was found that where they got second opinions surgery went up, not down. Another instant of backfired good intentions was where a study showed that the more laws you pass to make cars safer the more accidents you got. The reason is, Clem said, drivers take more chances. There are times, Clem declared, when a Government decision to do nothing is more help than doing somepun.

School Board Briefs

Present at a regular meeting of the Chelsea Board of Education Monday, Feb. 2, were Stirling, Feeney, Schumann, Snyder, Dils, Frau, Superintendent Van Meer, Assistant Superintendent Mills, Principals Williams, Conklin, Wojcicki, Benedict, Athletic Director Nemeth, Community Education Director Rogers, guests.

Meeting called to order at 8 p.m. by president James W. Stirling.

Board approved minutes of the Jan. 12 meeting.

Superintendent Van Meer indicated he would be meeting on Feb. 3 with two directors of the St. Louis school, to pursue the board's request that St. Louis school educate all of its students.

A group of parents addressed the board on their transportation concerns pertaining to behavior and discipline problems at the Beach school bus transfer point. A committee will be formed to study these problems.

Assistant Superintendent Mills reviewed the financial impact of the state revenue shortfall on the Chelsea School District. Projecting that state revenues will be reduced by $161,000, the administration has halted all requisitions for purchase of textbooks and capital outlay items. In addition, the administration has recommended reductions totaling $46,000 in the areas of maintenance and transportation, special education, community education, athletics, curriculum and the four schools. Any cash deficit resulting from the state shortfall will be carried over into next year's budget. The interest income determined by the district because of investment programs and high interest rates is estimated to be $50,000 above budget projections. All district checking accounts have been changed over to the NOW accounts, which should generate approximately $7,000 more income per year. The district also believes that a state line-item budget of $17,000 for court-placed children will remain intact.

Community Education Director Rogers briefed the board on a consortium summer school arrangement between Dexter, Manchester and Chelsea. A plan will be drawn up for presentation to the board which would serve students who need to make up courses for graduation.

Board approved the date of Sunday, June 14, 3 p.m. for the high school commencement.

Board approved the granting of tenure to Veronique Wills, special education teacher at Beach school.

Board approved a contract for Kieran Kargel, who will serve as high school art teacher.

Board approved several revised board policies.

Board approved the new Income Poverty Guidelines for free and reduced-price lunches, and increased reduced-price lunch from $.10 to $.20 per meal, as per Michigan Department of Education Memorandum dated Jan. 26. The new price is effective Feb. 16.

Board approved re-contract application to Washtenaw County for special service employment (CETA) positions, and authorized the assistant superintendent to sign all documents pertaining to this grant.

Assistant Superintendent Mills presented chassis and body bid tabulations on 66-passenger buses.

Board set the date of June 8 for the annual school election and for the millage renewal.

Board approved change of date for the next board meeting from Feb. 16 to Feb. 23, due to a conflict with AASA workshops and Chelsea's Patriots' Day weekend.

Meeting adjourned 11:25 p.m.

Special Events for Super Saturday

Chelsea Community Education and the Recreation Council have again initiated a Super Saturday program for the youth of the community. Registration was held Saturday, Feb. 7 at the South School Fun Fair and will continue throughout the week at the Community Education Office between the hours of 9 a.m. and 8 p.m., Monday through Thursday and from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Friday. This late registration will be held on a first-come, first-serve basis.

All Super Saturday classes will be held at Beach Middle school unless otherwise indicated and all participants should gather in the cafeteria on the first day of class. The Super Saturday programs get underway Saturday, Feb. 21 and end March 28.

New attractions in the Super Saturday circuit include the Korean martial art Tae Kwon Do, the unification of mind and body to achieve maximum coordination. This beginner class is open to all ages and will be taught by The Academy at a cost of $20.

A foreign exchange student from Chelsea High school will teach basic conversational German for students in grades 4, 5 and 6 at a cost of $5.

A trio of fascinating Chelsea Challenges will begin with a creative writing course for students in grades 2-6. The Rainbow Connection will be taught by Mary Colie, certified teacher.

Emily Polens and Carol Strahler of the Waterloo Natural History Association will offer a course entitled Science, Nature and the Outdoors to students in grades 3 through 6. This course intends to introduce a number of nature-oriented concepts to the student while acquainting the student with mammals and birds native to the surrounding area. In addition, skills of weather prediction, interpretation, wilderness survival and backpacking will be taught.

Creative problem solving will be made available through Quinary. The course is open to students in grades 2 through 6.

Traditional favorites of the Super Saturday program include a course in magic, "Abra-cadabra," "Kids Can Cook" and the ever-popular Eastern Michigan University-sponsored cheerleading clinic to be held at St. Mary's school gym, March 14.

Village Party Caucus, As the originator of the party, he was elected to his chair position. According to Brown, "This is no big political thing. Our platform is the same as that of the Independent Party. We are in favor of progressive, controlled growth in the community and support the planning commission."

Brown went on to explain the basic purpose of the Village Party. "Sticker and/or write-in campaigns are ineffective. We just want those persons interested in running for public office to be able to do so. With both party candidates on the ballot, whether election does or does not take place isn't what matters. This year, it will be the people's choice."

The Labor-Management Reporting and Disclosure Act, designed to eliminate improper activities by labor or management, was signed by the President on Sept. 14, 1959, according to "Important Events in American Labor History," a publication of the U. S. Department of Labor.

pleasures that hiking and backpacking affords.

During her travels, she has camped under the stars and has stayed in youth hostels in Europe. Milly has also had an opportunity unfamiliar to most. Her amazing story has been told in two publications, a book and magazine article.

A friend at an Ann Arbor YWCA camp met Milly and learned of her feats, later suggesting her to a pair of authors interested in compiling stories of American men and women who heroically pursued a full, rich and fit life. The authors, Charles T. Kuntzleman, Ed.D. and Lyn Cryderman, met with Milly and condensed her story for the 1980 publication of a book, They Accepted The Challenge.

Following the circulation of the book, the authors compiled an article entitled, "Three Women Who Dared," which is published in the February edition of Good Housekeeping magazine. This article, much like the book, concentrates on the amazing courage of its subjects; Milly is one of them.

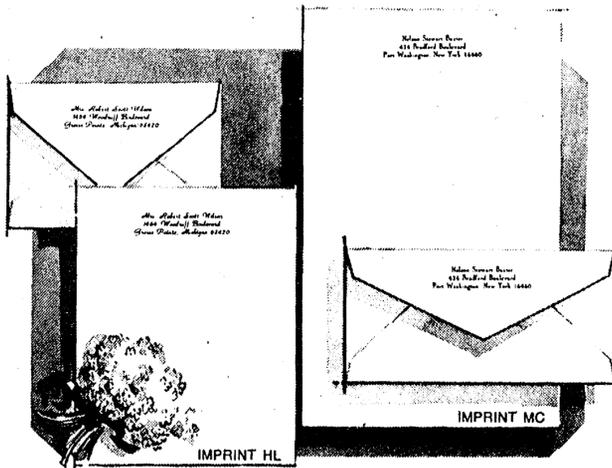

Economically disadvantaged persons hired under the Senior Community Service Employment Program take a wide variety of work assignments at day care centers, schools, hospitals, facilities for the handicapped, in beautification, conservation and restoration projects. The program is authorized by the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA).

Cager of the Week

TODD SPRAGUE, a Chelsea High school junior, is the most aggressive cager on the 1980-81 Bulldog team. At 5'10", Sprague has a height disadvantage which is countered by his aggressive style of play. In basketball, he is a good rebounder and good defensive player and, against Lincoln, he added 10 points for the Chelsea cause. A good all-around athlete, Sprague, in the off season, plays football and runs track for CHS.

A trio of drama classes will be taught by Bart Bauer, a student at Jackson Community College and a familiar face in various local dramatic productions.

Students in grades 1 through 6 will have the opportunity of learning basic stage skills including familiarity with hand tools, backstage operations, stage description and directions. Also, a course entitled "Painting for the Theatre" will provide students with basic knowledge necessary to paint with the magic necessary in theatrical art. "Acting Skills" will teach students techniques of using their voices to build character. Each student will be introduced to his or her hidden acting ability.

Each of the drama-related courses will be offered at a charge of $7.50. Designated meeting times and other questions regarding these Super Saturday classes may be obtained by calling the Community Education office at 475-9830.

CHS Psychology Course Good for College Credit

A new advanced psychology class is being offered at Chelsea High school this semester. Washtenaw Community College, Chelsea High school and Community Education have made it possible for the students in this class to earn dual credit.

Students taking this class will earn credits toward high school and/or college graduation and participants must have taken the high school psychology course as a prerequisite. The three credit Washtenaw Community College course can be transferred to most Michigan colleges and universities.

To earn college credit, students must pay tuition and purchase their book, Understanding Human Behavior by James V. McConnell of the University of Michigan.

Participating in this course, students will be required to perform at college level. Requirements will include an oral presentation to another class, several book reviews and reviews on articles in conjunction with chapter topics, and a newspaper article published in The Chelsea Standard.

Some possible field trips include a trip to both Mercywood and to the Coldwater State Home. Possible guests speakers are a hypnotist, a grapho-analyst and a child psychologist while course topics to be covered are biological bases of behavior, learning and memory, maturation and development, personality and social psychology.

Some three million armed forces veterans are 65 years of age or older, according to Veterans Administration statistics. By 1985, this number is expected to be five million and by 1990 it will be over 7 million.

St. Louis School Given Grand Champion Beef

The residents of St. Louis School for Exceptional Boys will be feasting heartily over the next couple of months. That is, since they were notified that they are the recipients of a Grand Champion steer, donated by David J. Stanton and Associates, Wendy's franchisee.

According to St. Louis School spokesmen, the receipt of the steer can be attributed to Mr. Stanton's special interest in handicapped children.

The prize steer was purchased in Lansing at the 50th Michigan Junior Livestock Show and auction late last month. The Grand Champion steer was raised by 15-year-old Clifford Simmons on his family's Omega farm in the Williamston area.

Stanton and Associates currently operate 11 Wendy's Restaurants across the state while a number of new units are currently under construction.

Commissioners Seek Persons for Two Appointments

Washtenaw County Board of Commissioners will, on March 4, make one appointment to the Board of Health for a term ending March 18, 1986, and one appointment of consumer representative on the Emergency Medical Services Commission for a term ending Dec. 31, 1981 left vacant by the resignation of Clarice Killian.

One-page resumes should be addressed to Carol Hampton, Board of Commissioners Office, Room 117, County Building, P. O. Box 8645, Ann Arbor 48107.

Those resumes received by Feb. 27 will be submitted to the Board of Commissioners for their consideration on March 4.

'Vanities' Comedy Slated Saturday

Three Chelsea women will be starring in Jack Helfner's comedy, "Vanities," a remarkable testament to the way one grows up—a funny, sad, true depiction of an innocent America coming of age, as seen through the lives of three Texas girls from the early Sixties to the present.

Rita Wilson-Howard, in the role of Mary, brings professionalism to "Vanities." She has starred in several theatre productions in New York and London in roles ranging from Louise, Gypsy Rose Lee in "Gypsy" to Ophelia in "Hamlet." Rita has been active with the Chelsea Players since moving here from England two and one-half years ago.

June Warren will be playing Kathy in the Feb. 21 production. June has served the Chelsea Players in many capacities. She appeared in "Hello Dolly" and was the music director for the Players' very successful production of "The King and I." She teaches vocal music at St. Louis

School for Exceptional Boys and directs the choirs at the Chelsea Methodist church.

This three character play will feature Julie Vorus in the part of Joanne. She has appeared in several Chelsea Player productions including "The King and I," "Bells are Ringing" and "Sweet Charity." She has directed and performed in productions by the University of Michigan Faculty Wives Drama Group.

The comedy follows the trio in three acts, each of which focuses on a different phase of their lives. Looking closely at "Vanities," viewers can often identify with the characters and see a great deal of contemporary America surrounding the plot as well.

Tickets for the Saturday, Feb. 21 dinner-theatre production of "Vanities" will be available through Wednesday, Feb. 18 at Heydlauff's and the Pierson-Riemschneider Realty in Chelsea and McLeod Drugs in Dexter.

Super Saturday Offers Arts, Crafts Classes

Chelsea Community Education and Recreation Department have compiled a vast assortment of learning experiences in this winter's Super Saturday line-up.

In the arts and crafts series, Julia Tomaro, a certified teacher in the Perry School District, will offer the 1st through 6th grader three art courses.

For the student in grades 1 or 2, Tomaro will discuss "Famous Artists and Their Ideas," introducing the student to the works of various artists. Landscapes, portraits and modern designs will be studied and students will attempt to create their own replicas, using learned techniques.

Children in grades 3 and 4 will have the opportunity to study basic printing methods, such as monoprints, and will be given the opportunity of understanding the printing process in "Print Making Techniques."

For the 5th or 6th grader, the "Three Dimensional Workshop" will offer a simple definition of 3-D objects and students will explore the world of 3-D.

For the younger set, the "Kindergarten Exploration Series" will offer the kindergartener a chance to create pictures about stories they have heard. Varying media and artistic techniques will be introduced each Saturday.

All four art and craft classes will be taught by Julia Tomaro at a cost of $8.50 per series. Registration for these and other Super Saturday courses will be held at the Community Education office Monday through Thursday between the hours of 9 a.m. and 8 p.m. or Friday from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Ask the Governor

Question: I have been hearing talk referring to your "economic diversification" plan. What is it?

Governor: The national economic downturn has severely affected Michigan's finances. Throughout the nation, states of all sizes had similar, but less severe, problems. Many coped with their problems with tax increases, while Michigan decided to make the tough decisions, cut the budget and live within its means. This ability to keep the level of expenditures below the level of revenues should contribute to a stable economic base—a base upon which we can continue to build. In the process we must sustain, in fact, strengthen, our traditional industries, encourage development of new high-growth industries and stimulate economic expansion.

My proposal for economic diversification calls for development in a variety of important economic areas, building a new foundation for job development and business expansion in Michigan.

Here are some general highlights of my economic diversification proposal:

Tourism—Michigan's tourist industry continues to flourish, supporting more than 200,000 jobs. To help continue its growth, I have proposed the largest increase in tourist promotion in Michigan's history.

Agriculture—I have proposed a substantial increase in funding for agricultural research, an accelerated effort to expand our overseas sales of Michigan's products and a number of other steps to help the sales of the good things that grow in Michigan.

The Auto Industry—It remains the backbone of our economy and is undergoing a massive effort to rebuild obsolete plants. I have attended an auto summit recently with other governors. We have formulated several proposals to submit to the federal government to help the auto industry get back on its feet.

Forestry—We must put a major focus on the forest products industry which already is committed to nearly $1 billion in expansion in Michigan.

Mining—Much of our economic planning must concentrate on helping the iron mining industry and copper mining, an industry where major capital expansion is planned.

High Technology—I have proposed major initiatives to expand high growth, technology-based industry through a joint effort by Michigan universities, industry and state government. I also have proposed establishment of a technology-based innovation fund, and an Innovation and New Product Center.

Energy—We have enormous and obvious potential for economic growth through the rapidly expanding oil, gas and solar energy industries.

Defense Contracts—I have initiated contacts with the new administration to assure that Michigan gets a larger share of national defense contracts.

Small Business—I am sponsoring a series of small business conferences which will culminate in a statewide conference in May to examine ways to foster small business growth. Small business accounts for 59 percent of all Michigan jobs and 90 percent of all new jobs.

Foreign Trade and Investments—We need to take a number of steps to stimulate more Michigan sales abroad and more foreign investments in Michigan. This can be done through our Tokyo and Brussels offices and through trade commissions we are planning. Michigan exports more than $7 billion in goods annually, the second highest of any state.

Urban Land Assembly Fund—I urge legislation to establish this fund to assemble multiple parcels of land as a means of keeping jobs where people live and helping stem deterioration of older urban areas.

Economic Summit—I have invited legislators to join me in a Michigan Economic Summit to assure that ideas for immediate action can be mobilized from all segments of our economy. I also will be working closely with other governors in collective efforts to improve the economy of states hit hardest by the national recession.

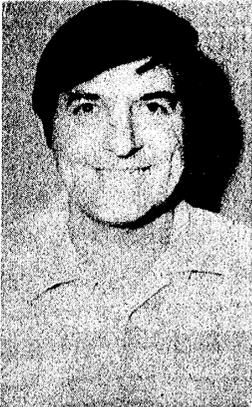

If you have a question for the Governor, please send it to: Ask the Governor, Executive Office, Press Section, Lansing 48909.

Washtenaw Extension Ag Agent Named

Ronald G. Struss has been appointed Extension agricultural agent in Washtenaw county, effective Feb. 9, pending approval of the Michigan State University Board of Trustees.

Struss will occupy a temporary position supported by the U. S. Department of Agriculture Rural Clean Water Program. He will be working on Extension educational programs that relate to the Saline Valley Rural Clean Water Project, which is designed to help curb water pollution in Washtenaw and Monroe counties.

He will be responsible for developing and conducting programs to increase awareness of and participation in the project, and for co-ordinating these efforts with USDA agencies and project participants.

Struss received his bachelor's degree in agronomy from Iowa State University in 1975 and his master's degree in agronomy from the University of Nebraska in 1977. He was a research technician at ISU and a research assistant at the U. of N. before joining the USDA Soil Conservation Service in 1978.

Struss will be based at the MSU Co-operative Extension Service office in the County Services Center, Ann Arbor.

Possession of Stolen Property Charges Filed

The man taken into custody following a recent rash of horse stealings in the Manchester area, Gerald Jacob, appeared before Judge Kenneth Bronson in 14th District Court Wednesday, Feb. 4.

Charged with two counts of larceny and one count of receiving and concealing or possession of stolen property over $100, the charges of larceny were dismissed. Jacob waived his right to a preliminary hearing in District Court and was bound over the Circuit Court on the latter charges.

At 8:30 a.m. Tuesday, Feb. 17, Jacob will be arraigned on the above charges by Circuit Court Judge Henry T. Conlin.

The Work Incentive (WIN) program helped 284,000 welfare applicants and recipients get jobs last year. More than 70 percent of these new workers were women, with an average starting wage of $3.58 an hour. About half of the women's jobs were in clerical, sales and service work. WIN is administered by the U. S. Department of Labor and Health and Human Services.

Chelsea's Famous Clock Tower Presides Over Community

The history of the Clock Tower, which looms high above the northwest side of the former Central Fibre Co. building, has long been a distorted mystery in the Village of Chelsea. Rumors passing through the historical grapevine have quite often been inaccurate if not downright wrong. Where did the clock come from, when was it built and when did all of its renovations take place?

Careful perusing through the yellowed pages of preserved bound copies of The Chelsea Standard-Herald and The Chelsea Standard, have revealed a rather complete historical account of the clock tower and its interior. Dating back to the early 1900's, these back issues offer detailed information regarding its origination.

The Tower Building was erected in early 1903 by Glazier Stove Co., a firm that was begun in Chelsea in 1891 by Frank P. Glazier, son of a local banker. The original building, that had housed the stove manufacturer, burned in a fire in 1894; thereafter, the company moved to the location that has since been known as Central Fibre Co.

At the time of its construction, the tower rose a phenomenal 120 feet above its foundation. It appeared considerably higher because it was situated on ground that was approximately 10 feet higher than the Stove Company, proper. The only other structure in the county that was comparable in height was the Catholic church in Ann Arbor. Still, Glazier Stove Company's clock tower extended into the air farther than any other Washtenaw county building.

The clock that was installed featured Westminster chimes and seven foot dials on all four sides. Accordingly, the time keeper would furnish the correct hour for citizens in all directions and for a considerable distance.

The Westminster chimes would have four differently-toned bells to strike the quarter hours. The only other chimes that could be considered comparable to the Chelsea chimes were those installed in the library tower at the University of Michigan. But, the Westminster chimes in the Glazier Stove Co. tower would be heavier in tone and louder than their University counterparts.

Though the magnificent tower clock would be the most interesting feature of the structure, its primary purpose for construction would be to carry a large tank of water for fire protection. This water tank would be utilized in conjunction with the automatic sprinkler system that had been added to Glazier Stove earlier.

The clock tower was built to hold 20,000 gallons of water, enough to sufficiently keep two full-sized fire streams in action for close to one hour.

At the time of its construction, builders utilized a new sort of building material, impervious brick and reinforced concrete, known for their increasing hardness and long life.

After the construction of the tower, the clock was installed in late September, 1907. The frame of the seven-foot dials was made of sectional ironwork and the numerals made up a part of the frame. The remainder of the frame consisted of glass. At night, the dials were to be illuminated with electric lights.

Each of the four Westminster chimes had different weights and

THE HUGE FACE of Chelsea Clock Tower's clock is enough to dwarf Art Farley, who has played a key role in the refurbishing of the former Central Fibre plant. Keeping perfect time in the village since 1907, the Chelsea Clock, according to new owner Tom Eisele will, continue to be maintained in perfect running condition.

I. T. Verdin Co. in Cincinnati began. The Ohio firm was responsible for the complete modernization and electrification of the gargantuan mechanism. For more than four months, the landmark time-keeper was inoperative.

Re-assembly was completed in mid-July. The newly-installed white dials and large black tones. The greatest weight, 1,250 lbs. was toned "G"; the "C" bell weighed 550 lbs.; "D" weighed 400 lbs.; and, "E," 300 lbs. With a total weight of 2,500 lbs., the chimes would strike as follows: first quarter, four bells; second quarter, eight bells; third quarter, 12 bells and fourth quarter, 16 bells. The hours would sound with the heavy "G" toned chime.

There was an automatic device attached to the clock allowing for the striking of the quarter hours to be eliminated at any time.

The clock was manufactured by the Seth Thomas Clock Co., located in Thomaston, Conn., while the chimes were cast for the clock company at a large foundry in Baltimore, Md. The work of installing the clock was handled under the supervision of Walter J. Buckley of Chicago.

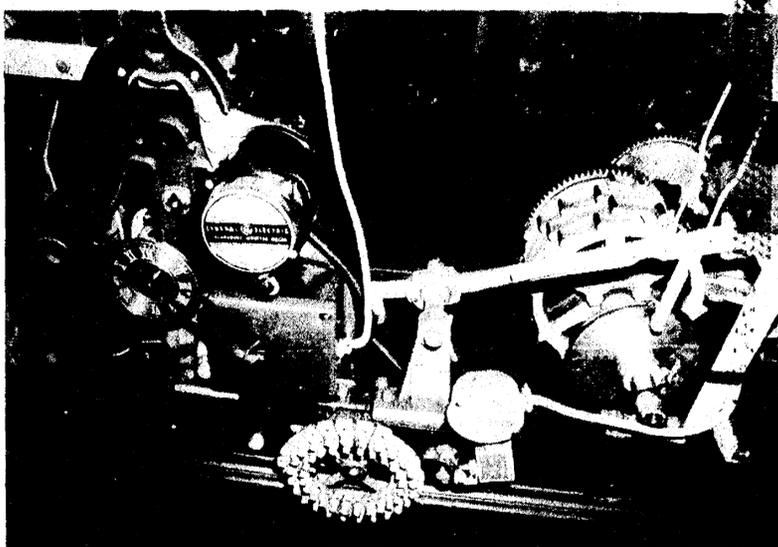

Alas, the mysterious "English" clock turned out to be as American as apple pie.

Following its ownership by Glazier Stove Co., the clock tower was later purchased by Federal Screw Works. Then, on Sept. 30, 1952, it was sold to Central Fibre Products, a firm that had been manufacturing automobile parts in an adjacent building for many years.

On July 18, 1955, the tower clock was modernized to operate electrically. A number of civic-minded individuals spread throughout the community had contributed to its estimated $3,000 renovation cost.

The conversion process took a number of months to complete. On May 13, 1955, dismantling of the clock for transportation to the top, to replace the ornamentation that was removed a number of years earlier, after it had accidentally been loosened.

THE CLOCKWORKS: Modernized in 1955, the Chelsea Clock Tower is an electrically operated time keeper that looms above the village. Having gone through a number of owners, the Tower is now the prized possession of Chelsea Industries, Inc. owner Tom Eisele. Eisele and his associates have vowed to keep the clock in perfect running order.

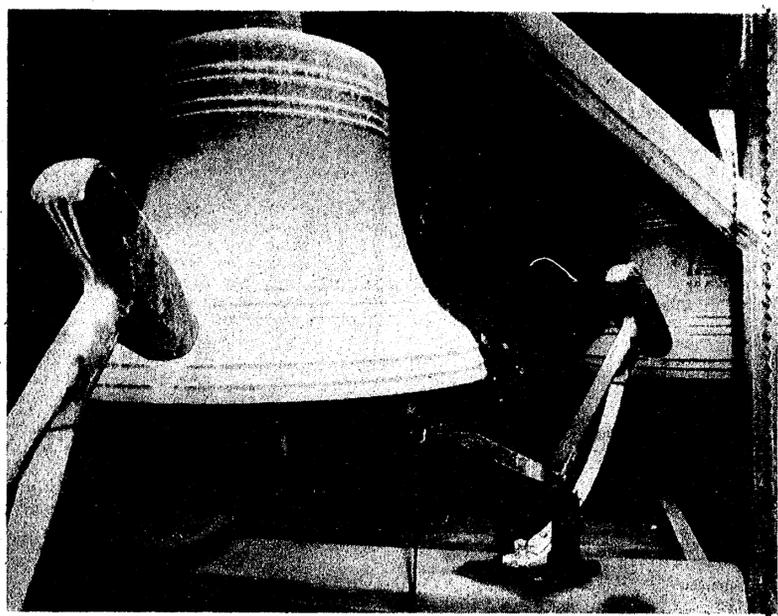

THREE MASSIVE BELLS hang high in the Chelsea Clock Tower, mechanized to send off melodious chimes every quarter, half, three-quarter and hour. Since 1907 the Clock Tower and its bells have loomed high above the village as if watching for any signs of danger. Long regarded as having a mysterious origin, the background is no secret. Each bell has its point of origin cast into its heavy iron body—Chicago, New York and Baltimore—and each bell was cast in 1907.

Since 1955, the tower building has remained much the same, save the general maintenance necessary for safety purposes. The water storage tanks, once filled with enough water to put out a sizeable fire, are now empty. The clock, itself, has been maintained, its mechanisms oiled and so on.

As a June 6, 1907 clipping of The Chelsea Standard-Herald describes the clock tower, "it is altogether possible that the tower . . . will remain one of the landmarks of Chelsea for several centuries to come." Standing tall and sturdy, if not majestic, the yellowed newspaper clipping has accurately estimated the future of this grand piece of architecture, just one more structure made possible through the philanthropic ventures of the Glazier family, to whom the Chelsea community will be forever grateful.

Your money will earn 12% interest compounded quarterly for an effective annual yield of 12.551% when you deposit at least $1,000 for thirty months or more. Interest earned on your contribution is not taxable until you retire, when your tax bracket will probably be lower.

Accounts are insured up to $100,000 by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. You pay no fees or charges to open an Individual Retirement Account at Ann Arbor Trust.

Village President Gives Half of Pay To Kiwanis Club

Late last month, Chelsea's Village President, Charles S. Ritter, surprised the Chelsea Kiwanis Club with a check made out to the club in the amount of $270. According to the president, "The enclosed check is to be used by your organization as you deem proper."

The $270 gift represents one-half of the annual salary earned by Mr. Ritter in the office of the Village President. Accompanying the check and its explanation was the reinforcing phrase, "Keep up the good work."

VALENTINE DUET: The Woman's Club of Chelsea's annual Valentine Party at the Chelsea United Methodist Retirement Home Friday, Feb. 13 was brought to life by a spritely duet by George Martin and his partner, Mrs. Leno Doty, at 102, the oldest resident of the Home. Another, resident, Mrs. Florence Reamer, not pictured, accompanied the duet.

Plans Underway for Beach Talent Fair

Preparations are currently being made for the second annual Beach School Talent Fair to be held Tuesday, March 31. Again this year, the basic purpose of the fair is to offer recognition to students in an area other than sports competition. Winners will include 1st, 2nd and 3rd place ribbons and one $6 gift certificate, donated by local merchants, in each category.

All students enrolled at Beach Middle school are eligible to participate in the talent fair by entering individual projects falling into one or more of the seven display categories which include art, science, home economics, music, English, English-social studies, and shop. Each category is broken down into a number of sub-categories.

Interested students are able to enter one or more categories; only one entry per category is allowed an individual. Though students are permitted to seek advice from teachers, parents or others, the work(s) entered must be created solely by the student and the deadline for submitting Talent Fair entries is Tuesday, March 17. If a student chooses to withdraw from the fair, the office must be personally notified. Entry blanks must be filled out when they are available, complete with appropriate signatures. They must be returned to the school office and participants must attend the orientation meeting for information regarding the transport and set up of exhibits.

On Tuesday afternoon, March 31, all entries will be judged by one or two judges in each category. The judges will not be members of the Beach Middle school teaching staff. It is currently planned that displays will be open to the public that evening and an awards assembly for all competitors will be held later in the week.

Twenty-three local merchants have each donated a $6 gift certificate for the winners of the Beach School Talent Fair. These certificates, once distributed, may be traded; most are redeemable at the place of origin, though others will be usable elsewhere.

Chelsea businesspeople contributing the gift certificates are Dayspring Gifts, Chelsea State Bank, Chelsea Cleaners, Groves

5-cent to $1 Store, Inc., Heydlauff's, Inc., Garnett's, Dairy Queen, Dancer's, LithoUnique Cranford, Inc., Schneider's Grocery, Merkel Furniture and Carpet, Chelsea Hardware, Vogel's or Foster's, Winans Jewelry, The Village Bakery, Strieter's and Kusterer's. Gambles contributed two while Chelsea Lumber contributed four $6 gift certificates.

Lori Van Riper Helping Blind Students at MSU

Lori Van Riper, a Michigan State University sophomore from Chelsea, is currently participating in a program that teaches blind students "a new way to see."

Van Riper, a special education major, is a member of a group of MSU volunteers who work weekly at the Michigan School for the Blind in Lansing. The volunteers help blind students develop their other senses in leisure-time activities ranging from basketball, bowling and bicycling to skating, swimming and skiing.

Deborah Stuart, therapeutic recreation supervisor at the school, says one-to-one, volunteer-to-student relationships help the blind realize that their feelings are not radically different from others. "Interaction promotes awareness and greater understanding from both the volunteer and student," Stuart explained.

Van Riper teaches blind students how to ice skate. She also has instructed roller-skating, fishing, hiking and music activities and has taught relaxation exercises.

Upon graduation, she plans to teach students with hearing impairments.

At MSU, Van Riper is a member of the Spartan Color Guard and an oboe player in both the Marching and the Repertory Bands.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Van Riper, 630 Flanders St.; she graduated from Chelsea High school in 1978.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor,
Living out in the country around Chelsea, the weather determines by its working on the roads if you're going to get out or not. The recent snow and ice storm of last week-end gave one the opportunity to read a little more which led to the writing of this letter.

Mr. Editor, have you read the startling statistics from Seventeen Magazine poll on girls from 13 to 19 years old. It goes like this:

"43 percent believe that there is nothing wrong with premarital sex. (This figure rises to 60 percent among the 18- to 19-year olds.) 36 percent saw nothing wrong with living with a man before marriage. (This figure drops to 16 percent among college girls.) Over 36 percent consider homosexuality an illness. 29 percent consider it an acceptable alternative life-style. 57 percent approve of divorce.

The poll further found that the older a teen-age girl is, the more likely it is that she will condone abortion. (This poll was conducted by the Gilbert Youth Research, Inc., a market research organization.)

The terrible instrument in our lives that influences these formative years is right in our front rooms. For some, there can be one found in about every room of the house... our TV sets! The one item that holds our children, and adults captives from a very early age. The dress code of many of the programs that are advertised as "family" programs are very suggestive.

Take the costumes of "Buck Rogers," "B J & the Bears," "Hee-Haw," "Dukes of Hazard" ... this is kid's stuff? Programs like "Three Is A Crowd," "Soap," "Maude," "One Day at a Time," "Dallas," "Dynasty," and your daily soap operas... where you know everyone loves someone... but it's not the partner they're married to.

Even the commercials. You can't just brush your teeth anymore to protect them, the tooth paste only sells now if a sex situation is used as a gimmick. And if you use the product as advertised and it doesn't change your social life, can you then sue for false advertising? When we see a positive wholesome love story, it sure is refreshing. It's almost out of place on the TV circuit.

As a parent you do have the right and responsibility to supervise what is seen in your home. It may not make us popular with our children. If we use this time to have family sharing instead of leaving the children to shift for themselves, and stop letting the TV be a substitute for parenthood loving, and cease to see it as a "cop-out" of our respectability, to our children. Maybe listening and talking times with our children would grow and reap wonders.

Remember, if you do not have cabled TV, the sponsor will back off of a given program if you write them and insist they do, at the cost of your not purchasing their product, if they don't. This is an effective tool for all us homemakers.

I wonder how many parents know there is a spot on Waterloo Rd., where it is most popular for young people to congregate in cars day or night; however, night is their greater numbers. One knows their sport is not snowmobiling! As daylight will reveal to a passerby of same area, one could make a monetary increase from the beer bottle returns, and make a collection of gin, vodka, and whiskey ones too. As you pass them, one wonders who do these girls and boys belong to? These are someone's young people, and beautiful people, too. "Well, they have somewhere to go," is an easy answer you hear, or coupled with "It keeps them off the streets."

I wonder if anyone ever took the time to tell those guys and gals there is no real love in one-night stands. Love does not come out of a beer bottle, or drugs. In that sort of sex, (and we are kidding ourselves with our heads buried in the sand, if we think it does not happen), you use and exploit yourself and another human being.

As we well know our parental love for our children is bombarded by not only the influence on our teens by peer groups, but by books, movies, television and music. Many of these influences make light of traditional morality. While the above poll is girl-centered, let us not overlook the boy, for he shares equally in all relationships. Does anyone get concerned and upset anymore? I do!

Mrs. Millie Warner.

SEC ROUND-UP:

Chelsea Pushes Saline Further into League Cellar

Chelsea 52, Saline 49

The Bulldogs upped their record to 7-4 in the SEC and clinched at least a second-place tie Friday by defeating the Saline Hornets, 52-49, at Saline. The loss dropped Saline even deeper into the SEC cellar with a 1-10 conference record.

In a slow paced game, Chelsea led throughout. The Bulldogs were ahead, 14-9, at the end of the first quarter, 26-22 at the half. By the third quarter, the Chelsea cagers were ahead 41-34 before clinching the victory.

Leading scorer for the Bulldogs was Chris Tobin who played an outstanding offensive game with 13 points and 12 rebounds. Jeff Dils and David Wojcicki each added 12 points for the victors.

Pacing Saline and doing nearly all scoring for the Hornets were Jim Phelps with 23 points and John Marx with 17.

Tecumseh 78, Blissfield 71

Following a just over 50 percent average from the free throw line, 16 for 30, the Tecumseh Indians rebounded their way to a decisive victory over Blissfield Friday night. Rebounding, Tecumseh grabbed 40 to the opponents' 25 and defeated the non-conference cagers, 78-71.

Tecumseh led by four at the half before going ahead by 10 in the third quarter, much due to guard Ron Smith's stellar showing. He sank an amazing 33 points and pulled down 13 rebounds for the Indians, followed by Scott McDonald with 16 points. Though Blissfield came within four points late in the game, following numerous fouls, Tecumseh hung on to another non-conference win.

Milan 74, Dexter 51

Milan's Big Reds continued their perfect league season, upping their SEC slate to 11-0 Friday night, trouncing the Dexter Dreadnaughts, 74-51 at Milan.

Pacing the win was a 22-10 first quarter lead that continued to grow throughout the contest. Leading Big Red scorer was Rob Cranson with 23 points while John Gruden had 13 and Sam Pope 11 for the victors.

Homeowners insurance is homeowners insurance, right? Wrong.

Auto-Owners homeowners insurance is different. Not only in the way we handle claims (Auto-Owners built its reputation on fast, fair claims service). Not only in the personal attention we give (another Auto-Owners trademark). Or in the way we could save you money (our low rates are famous). But, in our whole outlook on homeowners insurance, with innovative, imaginative policies that make sure you get just what you need, for just what you want to pay. So, if you're thinking you'd be wrong if you didn't call Auto-Owners... you're right.

BIDDY BASKETBALL ROUND-UP:

Some Teams Undefeated After Second Week of Play

Week number two of the biddy basketball program featured a number of close games and fine team performances. A full slate of games was played with the following results:

Warriors 41, Nets 34
Mike Feeny and Mark Bareis, with eight points each, led a balanced Warrior offense. Doug Graves played a hustling defensive game while Scott Frisinger provided needed rebounding. Jon Lane's 18 points for the Nets made him the game's high scorer. Lane was supported by Matt Steinhauer with eight points and good team defense by the rest of the Nets.

Jazz 22, Trailblazers 20
The second game was close from the opening tip-off. Both teams turned in excellent defensive performances. Kevin Maynard led the winners in scoring with 14 while Matt Bohlender, Ron Johnson and Doug Williams chipped in with two points apiece. The Blazers were led by Todd Starkey's 16 points and the hustling defensive play of Joe Eassa and Melanie Dils.

Suns 25, Rockets 20
The Suns gave a solid team effort in their win over the Rockets. Mike Swaringer led the team in scoring with 14 points while Rob Stearn and Tommy Mesnard played outstanding defense. Greg Boughton led the Rockets with 10 points and was supported by Steve Williams with four and Alan Beckwith, Nathan Hatto and Scott Mareantay with two each. Bill Huettelman, Don Luck, Mike Hodgeson and Shawn Henry played good defense.

Lakers 41, Supersonics 27
Stacey Murphy and Bobby Rawson played outstanding defense for the Lakers while Tim Anderson and Peter Spencer shouldered the offensive load with 20 and 10 points, respectively. The 'Sonics played a solid game on defense led by hustling Reno Nye. Carrying the offense for the 'Sonics, Jr. Morseaux scored 21 points and Jeff Patterson hustled his way to six.

Celtics 30, Spurs 19
A balanced offensive effort led to the Celtics' fourth quarter explosion which broke open an otherwise close contest. Craig Maynard paced the Celtics with 16 and received ample support from Jeff Steele with six points and Ken and Ward Beauchamp with four points apiece. Jeff Prentice added a pair of points as well. The Spurs featured a balanced offensive attack led by John Collins and Brent Norton. Mark Larson and Eric Frisinger played hustling defense which kept the Spurs close through the first three quarters.

Pacers 37, Bullets 34
A basket credited to the wrong team early in the contest apparently gave the Bullets a 36-35 win. However, a review of the scoring showed the Pacers to be a 37-34 winner. Brian White and Mark Johnson led the Pacers in scoring with ample support from Phillip Eassa and Mark Skiff. Defensive standouts were Loren Keizer, Mike Dally and Doug Neal. For the Bullets, Jeff Marshall had 12 points followed by Clay Hurd with eight. Tim Schultz and David Kvarnberg contributed an excellent over-all game for the Bullets.

COORDINATION COUNTS

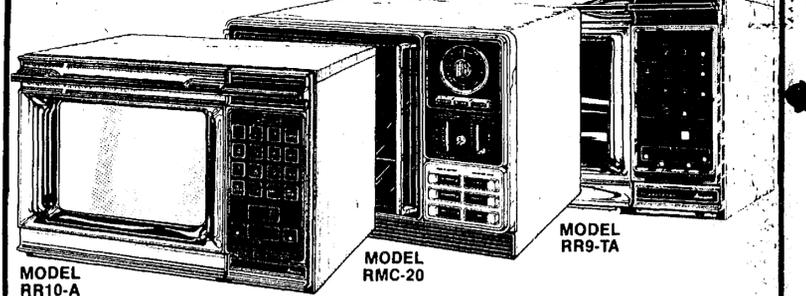

When you purchase property through a REALTOR, you are retaining the services of a coordinator who will be responsible for bringing all of the specialists together to make a complex financial transaction work for your benefit.

Depending on the complexity of the purchase, there could be a lot of other experts who could be involved. For example, you may need the services of an Appraiser for his specialized knowledge and skill; lending institution for the mortgage loan; insurer for fire and extended coverages, lawyer for deed preparation and title examination; entomologist for termite treatment, accountant for tax advice, civil engineer for land surveys.

The services of only some, or perhaps even more specialists, may be needed. Someone must coordinate these services, otherwise there could be delays and possible confusion. The obvious choice to perform this task is your REALTOR. You'll be glad you have him on your team.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at FRISINGER REALTY CO., 935 S. Main St., Chelsea. Phone: 475-8681; evenings 475-2621. We're here to help!
