Cavanaugh Lake Store Destroyed By Fire Last Monday Night

At approximately 10:30 p.m. Monday, Chelsea Fire Department was notified of a fire at Cavanaugh Lake Store, located at the intersection of Cavanaugh Lake and Glazier Rds., four miles west of Chelsea.

Nearly 20 volunteer firemen battled the blaze, which gutted the store's interior, until just after 3 a.m. The Dexter Fire Department was called in for assistance and supplied two trucks at the scene and one on standby at the village fire hall.

Investigators are probing into the cause of the fire which could not be immediately determined. Extensive fire and smoke damage was reportedly done to the store owned since mid-June 1979 by James Nye and Tom Delano.

The history of the property and the eventual store is fascinating. According to the William Dittmars, who had owned the store from 1969 until 1979, the first time the land was ever designated as property was Aug. 15, 1839. It was owned by James and Mary Wood.

In 1924, Ransom and Howard Armstrong inherited the land from their father, Rolla Armstrong. According to Mrs. Dittmar, this era undoubtedly saw the construction of the store.

In 1940, Otis and Glenard McLaughlin each shared a half interest in the Cavanaugh Lake Store and the Max Ormsbys purchased it in October 1946. Walt Schrader became the next owner in succession, enlarging the facility.

Then, in 1969, William and James Dittmar purchased the store which they operated for 10 years before selling it on a land contract basis to the present proprietors.

Cavanaugh Lake Store closed for the evening last Monday at 10 p.m. Approximately one half hour later, the interior of the store was gutted by fire.

Cause is unknown as is the total loss estimate; an inventory must be made. Will Cavanaugh Lake Store be re-constructed? According to co-owner James Nye, that is unknown at this time.

More Than 2,000 Attend 'South Pacific' Performances

Some 2,000 people packed into the Chelsea High school auditorium a week ago to enjoy the Chelsea Players' lively production of "South Pacific." The obvious enthusiasm and energy of the cast infected the audience, a delightful theater experience was had by all, performers as well as viewers.

Several people had worked long hours to make "South Pacific" the success it was. Jeannette Tracy Brock was back directing the players for her second year. Ms. Brock has a way of drawing the best out of her cast. Kathy Schneider choreographed all the dances and patiently taught them to the largely amateur chorus.

June Warren pulled the show together musically with her wonderful orchestra and clear direction. Bart Bauer and Doug Beaumont did an outstanding job on the beautiful sets. Norma Smith and Judy Stabler worked late into the night outfitting the large cast in everything from grass skirts to captain's uniforms.

Many more worked on makeup, properties, publicity and tickets. It was fun for everyone to pool their talents and work together to put on a show for their community. It was rewarding to have a community so enthusiastically support the effort. Bravo, Chelsea!

The Friends of the Chelsea Players is celebrating its 10th anniversary this year. The group hopes to continue to provide entertainment for all ages and a forum for the many talented friends and neighbors in the area.

Attorney General Preparing Suits On Home Mortgage Contracts

The state's attorney general is working on two separate fronts to protect consumers against questionable mortgage practices.

With the advent of creative financing with spiraling property costs and mortgage interest rates, certain lenders have been adding some "creative" contract of their own with the result being even more costs to the consumer.

Attorney General Frank J. Kelley has already served notice of intended legal action against a Harper Woods mortgage company, which he charged, requires homeowners to incorporate as a business in order to qualify for a second mortgage.

Kelley charged the requirement to incorporate allows the mortgage company to bypass the state usury laws and charge more than double the legal interest rate on second mortgages.

The attorney general said that the company, Manor Mortgage, is confusing prospective borrowers on the terms and conditions of credit transactions and is failing to reveal material facts which mislead the consumers and which the consumers could not be expected to know on their own.

By requiring a potential borrower to incorporate himself, Kelley charged the company could usurp the usury law which limits a second mortgage interest rate to 7 percent.

Kelley also has threatened to go to court if two large mortgage lenders do not agree to stop invoking a "due on sale" clause on the mortgages of people trying to sell their homes by land contracts or mortgage assumptions.

Those companies are Detroit and Northern Savings & Loan and First Federal Savings & Loan.

Due on sale clauses require a homeowner to pay off the balance of the loan before allowing a home to be sold on a land contract or assumption.

Kelley said they create an unreasonable restraint on the ability of a person to sell a home.

The attorney general said that other lending institutions invoke the clause but a legal judgment against the two named savings and loans would then compel the others to stop the practice.

Kelley said it was unlikely that persons who had been forced to pay off their mortgages could get any retribution if the practice is stopped.

He charged that the two lenders were invoking the clauses in order to force home buyers to get mortgages at higher interest rates than that of an assumable mortgage or a land contract.

A 1977 Court of Appeals decision ruled regular use of due on sale clauses were unenforceable and an unreasonable restraint on a person's right to buy and sell property. The Supreme Court upheld that decision when it refused to hear an appeal.

A lender can only use a due on sale clause when it can prove that a prospective buyer is a bad credit risk, Kelley said. If the due on sale practice is stopped, there is a chance lenders will try to slow up sales by claiming that people are bad risks, he added.

Kelley said complaints have come in from many people on the practice and realtors have told his office the practice has had a "catastrophic" effect on real estate sales.

Such clauses have been outlawed in other states through legislative action, Kelley reported and added, "but our legislature seems to have a case of judicial timidity."

Joining in on the suit will be the Financial Institutions Bureau, whose director Martha Seger, said routine use of due on sale clauses is illegal and that her bureau will take action against other lenders who improperly use the clause.

Good things are growing in Michigan, thanks to its farmers. With the help of modern technology each Michigan farmer is able to produce enough food to feed himself and 87 other people. An average Michigan farm today is 167 acres.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

I got a nasty habit of putting two with another two where it probably don't belong. You recall a few weeks back when a lady in Boise went grocery shopping with so many coupons that the supermarket owed her money after she had bought everything her family needed for two weeks. That same week, the FBI said in Chicago that food coupon stealing and counterfitting was a $250 million a year nationwide racket. Would you put them together, Mister Editor?

Not that the shopper was using stole or counterfitted coupons, but her use of good ones shows up what can be done with bad ones. It reminds us that where there's a will to do the American consumer a favor there's a way to turn it in to a fast and crooked buck. The FBI said grocery stores operate on such a slim margin that turning in fake coupons can be a big boost to em. The coupons that get a few cents off somepon usual are put out in newspapers. These coupon sections are swiped from newspaper plants, from delivery trucks, off newstands, and they are took to a printer and turned out by the jillions within hours, the FBI said. The grocery stores then buy em for a fraction of their value and turn em to food wholesalers for full credit.

The wholesaler then redeems em with the company that makes the food, which is paying a bonus for food that ain't been sold. So the next batch of the same food cost more, since the company puts the coupon down as operating expense and by the time the item gets to the supermarket shelf it has gone up another nickel and everybody moans about inflation being the ruin of us all. So instead of everybody being a winner, everybody is a loser.

It's like the soda pop bottle domino theory, Mister Editor. A feller gits a bottle from a machine, and he's supposed to drink the pop and leave the bottle. But he drinks while he drives, and he tosses the empty in the back of the truck, where it gits broke under a load of fence posts. The feller forgets the bottle. After all, Pepsi is a big company with billions of em. But Pepsi looks to the distributor, and the bottler looks to the driver of the truck for a deposit on ever bottle he hauls out of the plant. The driver has a family to feed, and taxes to pay and he multiplies that broken bottle by a few dozen others ever week and he worries.

It says here that Chrysler showed a profit this last quarter for the first time since 1978, after it was bailed out by $1.2 billion in Federal loans it ain't started paying back. That's one two. The other two is the report the same day where the tank Chrysler is building for the Army is costing five times what it was contracted for nine years ago. Each tank now sells for $2.3 million, and the Army wants to step up production to 60 a month so it can replace all the tanks in Europe. Tank crews say the tanks keep breaking down, and they've been changed so many times they can't fix em with the parts they got.

Mister Editor, could them twos be put together?

Yours truly,
 Uncle Lew.

ABWA Elects New Officers

The meeting room at Ann Arbor Trust was the meeting place, July 28, for the Chelsea Charter Chapter of the American Business Women.

A picnic supper served by Pat Baldwin and her committee was enjoyed by 25 members and three guests.

Shirley Schneider conducted the business meeting. Lena Behnke, chairman of the float committee discussed the theme for this year's float. Linda Bradbury was in charge of the program for the evening. She divided the members into groups to act out topics designated for each group—"What's Happening;" "A Typical Business Woman;" and a poem using the theme "Chelsea Charter Chapter, 1980-81."

Genevieve Quackenbush was the vocational speaker, she described the work she does and also spoke of the unusual requests her office receives. One such request was for a horse; her description of the end results was not only serious but also humorous. She concluded by telling the group that her working day was a challenge in meeting many people of different races and personalities and getting to understand their needs in the insurance business.

President Schneider read an invitation from the Cascadia Chapter of ABWA for the Jackson Chapter's annual Friendship Meeting to be held Aug. 25. Mrs. Esther Neuford, a psychic, will be the speaker.

Judy Durgin was installed as a new member. She is employed at Arbor Vitae Chiropractic Clinic. She was presented with a white carnation.

The Nominating committee chairman presented the names of the candidates for the election of 1981-82 officers. Elected were the following: Judy Moisan, president; Maxine Kushnau, vice-president; Cindy Bear, recording secretary; Lena Behnke, corresponding secretary; and Nancy Morgan, treasurer.

Outgoing president, Shirley Schneider, installed the officers and each was presented with a white carnation tied with a gold and black ribbon, symbols of the ABWA Chapter.

Jean Hubbard, retiring vice-president, presented Shirley Schneider with a past-president's pin.

The invocation was given by Nancy Morgan and the benediction by Shirley Schneider.

Guests at the meeting were Carla McCoy, ABWA local scholarship recipient Ruby McCoy and Minnie Johnson.

The August meeting will be held one week earlier, on the 18th, at Pierce Park, weather-permitting. Alternate meeting place will be the Ann Arbor Trust meeting room.

Bridesmaids included Brenda Woodward of Maybee who wore a peach Quiana gown with a white lace jacket and carried peach carnations; Holly Richardson of Ann Arbor, dressed in yellow Quiana and carrying yellow carnations; and Mary Beth Whitaker of Stockbridge who was attired in a blue Quiana gown. She carried a bouquet of blue carnations.

Best man was Bob Arbour, a friend of the bridegroom. Ushers included Randy Rosentreter, Dave Moody and Russell Elliott, brother of the bridegroom.

Immediately following the wedding ceremony, a reception, given by the bride's parents, was held at the Dexter Knights of Columbus Hall. Three-hundred guests attended and Sue Jankowicz cut the cake and attended the guest book.

Thereafter, the newlyweds departed on a week-long wedding trip in the Smokey Mountains. They are residing in Chelsea.

CENTENNIAL FARM DESIGNATION: The former Guthrie farm, now owned by June Robinson and occupied by her daughter, Judy Gallagher, husband Kevin and two sons, Todd and Kirk has been designated as a centennial farm by the Division of Michigan History.

Guthrie Farm Designated As Michigan Centennial Farm

The Guthrie farm, 1001 Pierce Rd., has been designated as a Centennial Farm by the Michigan Historical Commission. The farm, located in Sylvan township, has been in the possession of the family since 1880.

The original owner was James Speer and, in 1872, it was sold to George Taylor. Samuel Guthrie purchased the farm at 1:30 p.m. Dec. 16, 1880. He moved there from his birthplace which was located one-quarter mile east at the East Guthrie railroad crossing. He resided there until his death in 1952 at the age of 98.

Guthrie married Eva Newton and they had two daughters, Mrs. Olvlen (Allie) Floyd and Lida Guthrie. Both daughters, as well as a granddaughter, Mrs. Horace (June) Robinson, were born on the farm. Lida was well known to all in the community, having been a pharmacist with Fenn Drug for 57 years. She died on Nov. 5, 1979. Mrs. Floyd preceded her in death on Feb. 20, 1968.

The original buildings, except the dwelling, burned on April 26, 1913. The present barn and several other buildings were rebuilt.

Originally, owners farmed livestock, hay, corn, oats and other market grains. Samuel Guthrie farmed the huge parcel with horse-drawn equipment and collected boxes and boxes of Indian relics including arrowheads and spearheads.

Many old timers recall coming in to the residence to be warmed by the round oak stove as they were waiting for a street car, or tie their horses in the barn on a cold winter night. The inter-urban line ran a very short distance south of the present railroad tracks.

Many accidents occurred there as a result of these two transportation lines being constructed so close together. The victims were brought into the home for treatment by the Guthrie family.

The West Guthrie crossing has been a familiar landmark for people in the community as well as railroad people. June Robinson's father, Olvlen Floyd, was a conductor on the Michigan Central Railroad and made daily trips from Detroit to Chicago, passing by the farm during the course of his runs.

A pump located at the east side of the house was quite a refreshing place for the railroad section crews as pails carried on a yoke around the necks of the water boys would be filled at that well.

The farm is now approximately 45 acres in size, greatly reduced from its original state. Corn is grown and pleasure horses are raised.

The house has been modernized since it was first purchased by the family and is occupied by the great-granddaughter, Mrs. Kevin (Judy) Gallagher and her husband and two sons, Todd and Kirk, great-great-grandsons. The land has been handed down to the granddaughter, June Robinson and husband Horace, who reside on Francisco Rd.

The Robinsons have two other children, a daughter, Mrs. William (Ella) Willett of Plainfield and a son, Brian Floyd Robinson of Napoleon.

For the purpose of establishing a centennial farm, the farm must be in the continuous possession of the same family for 100 years or more. The Michigan History Division considers a farm to be either 10 or more acres having estimated farm product sales of more than $50 yearly or less than 10 acres having estimated sales of at least $250 yearly. A centennial farm comprises only the land and not the farm buildings, which may be remodeled or even new.

Community Merit Scholarships Granted By WCC

Twelve students from Washtenaw county earned scholarship recognition for the 1981-82 school year from Washtenaw Community College for service or potential for service to their communities. Awards cover the cost of tuition for the fall and winter terms as well as $100 per term for books and supplies.

Community Merit scholarships recognize students on the basis of their significant contribution to the community, previous grades, vocational goals and recommendations from community organizations or groups.

WCC's 1981-82 Community Merit scholars include Douglas Allen Beaumont, 335 Washington St., Chelsea, who works with the Chelsea Public Schools, youth groups, and the Chelsea Players and plans to study business management; and Karin K. LaVigne, 18760 M-52, a volunteer at North school and Immanuel Bible church; Judith Ann Huntsman, 9375 W. Huron River Dr., Dexter, who has shown interest in working with and helping other people and plans to study art; and Jacquelyn Corinne Steele, 319 East Main, Manchester, who has been involved with Explorer posts, the American Red Cross and has served as an auxiliary police officer. She intends to pursue a career in criminal justice.

Geo-Thermal Heating, Cooling System Built into New 'Soup's On' Restaurant

A quartet of Ann Arbor men, after discussing plans for more than a year, will open "Soup's On," a unique restaurant and "Honey Creek" delicatessen located on Jackson Rd. near Zeeb Rd. Projected opening date of the deli is Thursday, Aug. 6 while the restaurant should open its doors to the public Monday, Aug. 10.

The concept of the new restaurant is unique, perhaps the first of its kind in the country, according to owners Joe Hanish of Northville, Bob Carpenter, Jim and Dennis Coburn, all of Ann Arbor. "Soup's On" is constructed with a geo-thermal ground water system, which should provide the restauranters with a 90 percent savings on air conditioning and heating costs.

According to the owners, a 90-foot well has been dug beneath the restaurant. Flowing at a constant 51 degrees year-round, the water surges upward at a rate of six to 12 gallons per minute. This water is then pumped over electric coils for heat and the warmth attained is removed and enters a fan system and is sent throughout the interior. For air conditioning, only the cool is extracted from the water and goes through the fanning system. Thereafter, all water used is sent back underground, with nothing added and nothing taken away from it but its temperature.

Solar panels have also been installed to heat water. As a result, where many restaurants pay $1,200 to $1,500 per month for air conditioning and heating, "Soup's On" will undoubtedly not cost more than $200.

The unique, energy efficient, energy saving concept, in a time when energy is a major concern, has pleased the owners. Nonetheless, their biggest disappointment was the lack of grants and other financial support from state and federal government. Three grants were applied for, three grants were turned down.

When this lack of support might have turned others away, these men managed to acquire the necessary funds in hopes of proving that geo-thermal construction can and will work. It's a tremendously expensive endeavor.

Geo-thermal materials have been acquired by Tetco Geothermal Heat Extractors Co. of Columbus, O., contractors of the mode of construction. Architect of the structure is George Tessman of Farmington Hills.

Since their banding together, the four owners have done much of their own building, wiring and other work. "It's encouraging," comments Joe Hanish, "to realize all the talents and skills a person has and to utilize them like we have."

"All of the firms we have hired are doing a marvelous job, they're all local businesses. We've tried to keep the economy here. If we feed it, we hope it will come back to us," explained Hanish.

Food available at "Soup's On" and the "Honey Creek Delicatessen" is healthy, but not necessarily health food, quick, but not fast food. Everything served is homemade, ranging from soup stock to restaurant-baked meats for a vast assortment of sandwiches. A minimum of salt is used. Most flavorings are the result of careful additions of herbs and spices. All processes are on SOUP'S ON ENTREPRENEURS: Posing on the deck surrounding their unique restaurant are, from left, Bob Carpenter, Joe Hanish, Dennis Coburn and Jim Coburn. Geo-thermally heated and cooled, Soup's On will open next week and will offer the patron a hearty variety of soups, sandwiches and salads. An attached delicatessen, Honey Creek Delicatessen, will open Thursday at the restaurant located on Jackson Rd.

NORTH LAKE CO-OP NURSERY offered patrons some homemade goodness during the annual Sidewalk Festival last week in hopes of raising funds for the school. North Lake Co-Op Nursery Awards Hand-Made Cradle

Ron and Nancy Montagne of Chelsea, constructed a hand-made wooden cradle to be awarded during the eighth annual Chelsea Sidewalk Festival. The Montagnes are one of the very special families that are a part of the North Lake Co-Op Nursery. What makes them so special is their love and dedication to the nursery school. They have served as past co-presidents in 1980-81; and are deeply involved this year in donating their time and talents, as a family, in making the nursery school a rewarding experience for the "little people" for whom it exists. Ron uses his expertise as a carpenter and contractor, aided by his young sons, Matthew and Jeffrey, to do the many handyman jobs required in maintaining a state-approved facility. Families, like the Montagnes, enjoy the fellowship and cooperation of one another in supporting the school's teacher-

E. B. MCKITTRICK

E. B. "Mac" McKittrick, Edmonton, Alberta, was elected president of Kiwanis International, July 1, during the organization's 68th annual convention in New Orleans, La., according to Herman L. Koenn, president of the Kiwanis Club of Chelsea. He will assume office in October, at the start of the Kiwanis administrative year. Kiwanis International is a world-wide service organization of more than 300,000 members, in nearly 8,000 clubs in 73 countries. Some 18,000 people attended the New Orleans convention. All major sessions were held in the New Orleans Superdome. The convention traditionally serves as the "annual meeting" for Kiwanis. Delegates elected the organization's entire slate of officers for 1981-82 in addition to making McKittrick president. McKittrick, a 24-year veteran of Kiwanis, has been a member of its governing board for the past seven years. He succeeds Merald T. Enstad, Fergus Falls, Minn., insurance agent. McKittrick is a chartered accountant. He held most of the leadership positions in his club, (Edmonton-Oil Capital, Alberta), and his district (Western Canada) before his election to the International Board of Trustees seven years ago. McKittrick is a member of the Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants, and the Edmonton Accountants Club. He is a member of the North American Association of Corporate Planners. He is also a member of the Board of Alberta Medical Research Foundation, the Board of the Edmonton-United Way, and of the RCAS Association and the Edmonton Club. He is a former treasurer of Operation Friendship Society and of the Royal Canadian Legion. He and Mrs. McKittrick have two sons.

Other officers and trustees elected at New Orleans were John T. Roberts, Audubon Baton Rouge, La., president-elect; Aubrey E. Irby, Tyler, Tex., treasurer; Warren H. Edwards Bonifay (Orlando) Fla., and Raymond W. Lansford, Columbia, Mo., vice-president. Re-elected for two-year terms as Trustee were Frank J. DiNoto, Rosemead, Calif.; Henry "Les" Myers, Jr., Louisville, Ky.; and Donald E. Williams, Berea, O. Newly elected to the Board of Trustees were Arthur DeLorenzo, Rahway, N. J., and Gene R. Overholt, Colonial, Plymouth, Mich. Later this summer a Trustee will be selected from the Eastern Canada and Caribbean District to complete the 18-man Board of Trustees. All will assume office on Oct. 1.

Host Families Sought for YFU Exchange Students

Youth for Understanding (YFU), a non-profit international student exchange program, needs host families in the Chelsea and Dexter areas for students arriving in August from Europe, South America, Japan and Australia. Students will attend local high schools and share daily life with host families, participating as family members as opposed to guests.

Thomas Korte is 17 and comes from Germany. He hopes to have a career in medicine. He belongs to a church youth group, plays tennis and is a member of two orchestras.

Rie Nakashima is from Japan and is 18 years old. She does not smoke and enjoys tennis. She is a member of a photography club and has played the piano since she was six years old. Rie is an average student and quite interested in music.

YFU program fees and students' personal expenses are provided by their natural families; host families provide room and board and love. YFU provides adequate health insurance. The student shares the responsibilities in the home and respects any existing standards or routines.

Enrollment in an American high school is an integral part of the experience of a Youth for Understanding international student. Participating high schools benefit from the students' presence in classes; the added dimensions of other cultures, the daily interactions between young people of different attitudes and viewpoints, and the international students' special contributions in areas like foreign-language study, world history and literature classes, sports, music, theater and art.

The host family is the cornerstone of the Youth for Understanding program around the world. Host families open their homes and share their lives with a person from another part of the world. Host families are of Persons interested in providing a host family experience for Thomas or Rie or other exchange students arriving in the area this month should contact Mrs. James H. Krick, Field Coordinator for YFU, 2455 Newbury Ct., Ann Arbor, or call 663-6472.

Real Estate

By PAUL FRISINGER

REALTOR

OVER-IMPROVING

How much money should you put into improving your home? As much as you can afford IF you are doing it for your own enjoyment and don't plan to move for a long time. However, if you plan to make major improvements in order to get a better price when you sell—it is economically unwise. Seldom do such improvements bring more than fifty cents on the dollar spent to make them. And all bets are off if you overvalue your house in relation to other houses in the neighborhood. An old real estate axiom says, in effect, that nobody will spend $40,000 for a house in a $30,000 neighborhood. That's virtually true regardless of how large or good a house it may be.

The addition of an extra bedroom, in-ground swimming pool or central air conditioning, will increase the value of your home. But only at a fraction of the cost. About the only money you should spend on a house to sell it at a higher price is for repairs that are obviously needed to put your best foot forward.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at FRISINGER REALTY CO., 935 S. Main St., Chelsea. Phone: 475-8881; evenings 475-2821. We're here to help!

THANK YOU

As the Director of the Chelsea Recreation Pony League and Little League Baseball Programs, I want to thank the Moms and Dads who were so faithful in their attendance, and support, and words of encouragement. I wish to thank my coaches who did outstanding jobs by not only giving of their time, but also displaying sportsmanship and class under trying circumstances. I would like to recognize in print, my umpires Bob Browning, Akel Marshall, Dennis Petsch, Dale Petsch, Mike Bohlender, John Baker, Joe Ceccacci, Ron Dunn and Ross Murphy whose performances were exceptional and above reproach. A very special thanks to the Chelsea Fire Dept. who, upon request faithfully watered our diamonds making for a good playing surface.

As Director, I appreciate the backing and support I received from Recreation Director Jackie Schiller and the Chelsea Rec Dept.

The success of any program depends on the quality of people who make it up. I have been blessed with the privilege of working with a super class of people. Thanks Again.

In the championship game, Chelsea just seemed to run out of steam. Playing their fourth consecutive game in the 90 degree heat, Big Boy lost to Reading, 8-2. Good Things Growing In Michigan

By Margaret G. McCall
Michigan leads the nation in production of cucumbers for pickling, and last year harvested 210 million pounds for that purpose from 19,000 acres. Additionally, fresh market cucumbers totalled almost 15 million pounds, and together these good things growing in Michigan were worth almost $15 million dollars.

I've decided, based almost entirely on personal experience, that everybody loves pickles, but fresh cucumbers are favored mostly by adults. I don't know why that is; it might be a good topic for research. So this is a column for adults this week.

While the pickle packers are busy packing pickles, let's consider some of the uses for fresh cucumbers. First and simplest is the old familiar favorite—sliced cucumbers and onions in a vinegar solution, diluted with a little water and seasoned simply with salt and pepper.

Take that recipe one step further, and you have cucumbers in sour cream. Marinate cucumbers and onions in a fairly strong vinegar solution, add a little garlic if you like. Then, just before serving, drain and gently fold in sour cream. The result is a refreshing summer salad, and easy to prepare ahead of time.

Cucumbers make great containers for all sorts of salads. Select cucumbers of uniform size, scrub and slice in half lengthwise. Remove the seeds and as much of the center pulp as you wish—a melon baller is ideal for this task. Sprinkle lightly with salt and place, cut side down, in a shallow dish to drain for about half an hour. Fill with any desired salad—chicken, ham or shrimp is good—and serve. Makes an especially nice lunch-eon dish.

You can make attractive appetizers with the same recipe. Just use whole cucumbers, score the outside with the tines of a fork, then cut into three-quarter inch slices. Scoop out part of the center with your handy melon baller, and fill with finely chopped salad mixture. Garnish with a sprinkling of paprika or minced parsley. These can be prepared early in the day, wrapped well, and refrigerated until serving time.

You'll probably enjoy fresh cucumbers even more if you keep in mind they are 95 percent water, very low in calories, and still contain small amounts of minerals and vitamins.

Plan Now To Survey Corn Rootworms

Anytime you follow corn with corn, you could be setting yourself up as a target for corn rootworms.

In the past, you had two choices: treat the field with insecticide just in case, or gamble that corn rootworm won't be a serious problem. Either way, you could lose big.

Treating a field that didn't need it requires insecticide — at an average cost of $9 per acre — plus the time and energy needed to apply it. Failure to treat a field that gets hit hard by rootworms could cut yields by 15 to 20 bushels an acre, give or take a few.

Now, however, there's a way to predict the likelihood of corn rootworm problems a year in advance. All you have to do is count adult corn rootworms in midsummer and use the number seen as an index of what to expect if you plant the field to corn next year.

What you're looking for is a hard-backed, active beetle with long antennae (feelers). The northern variety is plain yellow or green. The western corn rootworm is yellow or red with three black stripes down the wing covers.

Michigan State University entomologist Bob Ruppel advises checking 60 plants in each of three areas of the field. Count all the corn rootworm adults you can see without stripping back leaves and husks.

If you see about one adult per plant, the population will probably be high enough next year to cause problems. If you see fewer than one per plant, you can expect little or no damage.

The key to making this survey work is timing. The best time to count corn rootworm adults is 25 to 35 days after the first adult is seen in the field.

In the southern part of the state, adults could start appearing in the first 10 days of July; in the northern counties, it could be well into August. Growers need to keep an eye out for these first ones so they can pinpoint the best time to make their survey.

It takes about an hour to check a field. If that hour saves you from unnecessarily treating an 80-acre field, you make, if effect, more than $720 for your trouble. If it reveals the need to treat and treating the field saves you from a 20-bushel-an-acre yield loss, the potential return on your time is even higher.

The important thing right now is to watch for those first corn rootworm adults and determine the best time for surveying the field. Also contact your county Co-operative Extension Service agent so other growers can be alerted.

Manchester Youth Completes Training Course at Ft. Benning

Pvt. Harry A. Wishon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Janofski of 17046 English Rd., Manchester, has completed One Station Unit Training (OSUT) at the U.S. Army Infantry School, Fort Benning, Ga.

OSUT is a 12-week period which combines basic combat training and advanced individual training.

The training included weapons qualifications, squad tactics, patrolling, landmine warfare, field communications and combat operations. Completion of this course qualifies the soldier as a light-weapons infantryman and as an indirect fire crewman.

Soldiers were taught to perform any of the duties in a rifle or mortar squad.

Views On Dental Health

By ROBERT A. BURNS, JR., DDS, P.C.

DENTAL X-RAYS

For a dentist to conduct dental examination without using dental x-rays, is like watching TV with your eyes closed. "Why," you may ask, "can't the dentist use his eyes and a trusty mirror to do the same diagnosis?" Because, as the "unsinkable" Titanic discovered; like icebergs, most serious dental trouble is beneath the surface and out of view.

Dental x-rays often reveal beginning decay between the teeth or beneath a filling or at the bottom of a narrow pit or groove in the chewing surface. The amount of bone supporting teeth that has been destroyed by periodontal disease, the development of root abscesses and cysts, the presence of unerupted teeth or broken root fragments or impacted teeth can only readily be determined by x-rays since these abnormalities are normally hidden from view.

With modern, shielded equipment and high speed x-ray film, only a very small amount of x-ray radiation is required to take a complete set of pictures. It's less than we normally receive from illuminated watch faces. The X-ray camera is one of the dentist's most valuable diagnostic tools.

If you have dental health questions you would like to see answered, please mail them to the address below.

Swiss Exchange Student Finds Many Things Different Here

Arriving in Chelsea last August and returning home in July, Konstanze Ehrsam, a Swiss exchange student staying with the Dale Schumann family explained her impressions of American life as compared to Swiss life in a taped interview, recorded prior to her departure.

Stanzi was very pleased to have been able to come to the United States for the past year, especially after Pattie Schumann had spent time with her in Switzerland the year before. That made the transition much easier for her; she knew Pattie and Pattie knew her. Her adjustment was swift. Stanzi loved having her American sister in Switzerland the summer before and considered both Pattie's being there and her being in the U.S. a "neat experience. We're very much alike," Stanzi explained.

In Chelsea, Stanzi's American family consisted of Dale and Wyn Schumann, two sisters, Tracy, 19, and Pattie, 18, and two brothers, Paul, 17, and Tim, 15. Initially, Stanzi, not having any brothers of her own, found it difficult to adjust to Tim and Paul as "brothers." To her, they were just boys, that is until immediately before her departure when they became "brothers."

In Switzerland, Stanzi's family is made up of her mother, Iris, a part-time teacher of German to foreign language speakers. Her father, Heinz, is a personnel director. Stanzi has one sister, Christine, age 14. While she was away, Stanzi's family moved from their home in Reinach, to the town of Therwil in the north-west part of the country.

Language differences were apparent to Stanzi from the time she arrived. In Switzerland, she was accustomed to speaking Swiss at home, and German and French in school. Prior to coming to the U.S., Stanzi had studied English for three years though she found American English much different from what she was taught. Eventually, her American English became easier, she began to think in English and she even had difficulty speaking in Swiss to her parents.

Many contrasts were seen during her stay here. Most prominently, Stanzi was amazed by all of the extra curricular activities at school. In Switzerland, school was strictly for learning. "You learn more there, but you have more fun here," she explained. While in Chelsea, Stanzi became a member of the volleyball team, the first time she had ever been a part of a team. "It was a good experience," she continued.

Her schooling here gave her the opportunity to take courses she found interesting, especially art classes. "At home, there's not enough time to study art," she said. "I learned a lot studying psychology here, too," she continued.

In Switzerland, Stanzi is limited to studying academics. She was amazed by the school spirit in Chelsea.

Another difference between her two school systems was the prom. "There's nothing like that in Switzerland," she admitted. Stanzi was taken to the prom by Herbie Pearson. "I was surprised by the differences people here see between black and white. At home, people are people and it makes no difference to me," she continued.

Graduation ceremonies also proved to be polarized. In Switzerland, this is a small ceremony where people receive their diplomas. It's not a happy occasion like it is in Chelsea and people usually wear black clothing as opposed to the cap and gown associated with American graduation ceremonies.

While in Chelsea, Stanzi had the opportunity to do a great deal of traveling. She visited Chicago, loved Florida, was impressed by Michigan's sand dunes and saw similarities between Toronto and major European cities and the differences between Canada and the United States.

The American countryside also proved to be something Stanzi was unfamiliar with. She pictured America as a land of big cities and found it difficult to get her bearings when she left Chelsea. "In Switzerland, you can always see the mountains and can tell where you are while here everything is so flat."

Foods and eating habits were new to Stanzi as well. Prior to her arrival here, she explains that she had never heard of dieting and had never seen so much promotion of food on TV, in magazines and the like. Meat is the exception rather than the rule in Switzerland and Stanzi was amazed at the amount of meat consumed by Americans. Her favorite foods included corn on the cob, ice cream, peanut butter, seafood and chicken.

This fall, Stanzi will re-enter school and study for two more years before graduation. Thereafter, she anticipates going to the university and becoming a nurse. She'd also like to study psychology and biology.

Her advice to future exchange students? Try everything, always be a part, get involved, and become a part of any and all social activities.
