ONE HUNDRED-THIRTEENTH YEAR—No. 14

CHELSEA, MICHIGAN, TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 7, 1982

Schools Opening Tuesday

Summer screeches to a halt Tuesday, Sept. 7 — the first day of school!

The rest of the school calendar will be announced after the teachers' contract, which sets the schedule, has been approved by both the school board and the teachers' union, the Chelsea Education Association. Both groups should be acting on it this week.

Elementary students will find class lists posted on classroom doors. Beach Middle school sixth grade students should report to the cafeteria. Beach Middle school seventh and eighth grade students will report to their homerooms. All Chelsea High school students will report to the high school gymnasium.

School starting times are as follows: North and South Elementary school students' hours—8:50 a.m. to 3:00 p.m.; and Beach Middle School students—8:50 a.m. to 3:10 p.m.

Please note the following change for Chelsea High school hours—8:45 a.m. to 3:10 p.m.

All Chelsea teaching staff will report one hour earlier than students. They started their work year Thursday, Sept. 2.

Due to declining enrollment, there will be a reduction of one bus route this school year. Pupils who rode bus number 7 will be transferred to bus number 33 and bus number 17 this year.

Also the students who live on Old U.S. 12, E. between Main St. and Freer Rd. will be riding bus number 31. Students from the Wilkinson and Old US-12 area will now ride bus number 1.

Pick-up times for all stops will remain approximately the same. The students affected by these changes will be contacted.

Further evaluation will be made of the remaining routes after school is in session.

Lunch prices for all Chelsea students will be $1 for hot lunch and 15 cents for milk. Adult lunches will be $1.40.

Joanne Williams has returned from her maternity leave and will be teaching an Emotionally and Mentally Impaired classroom at South school. Judy Bottom taught that class temporarily last year.

The first Dialogue with the Superintendent, a time when district residents may discuss the operation of the schools with superintendent Raymond Van Meer, will be held 9:30 a.m. Sept. 16 in the board room at the high school. Usually one of these meetings is scheduled every month.

Community Orchestra Forming

Rehearsals will begin soon for the newly formed Chelsea Community Orchestra, whose purpose is to give local string players, who like chamber music, a chance to play. Adults who would like to (Continued on page two)

CARINE BROWN IS THE RADIANT 1982 FAIR QUEEN. She was crowned by Beth Heller, last year's queen after an evening of talent and answering questions from the judges Tuesday, Aug. 31. Each girl wore a corsage, but Carine as the new queen got a red ribboned bouquet of red roses and baby's breath. For her talent presentation, she changed from this dusty lavender dress to blue jeans and a yellow blouse to sing the song "Happily Ever After" from the musical "Once Upon A Mattress." She is a junior at Chelsea High school and was sponsored by her class.

Carine Brown Named 'Queen of 1982 Fair' From 10 Contestants

Carine Brown was crowned 1982 fair queen Tuesday night at the Livestock tent, after each of the 10 contestants answered questions and performed their talent acts for the overflow crowd.

Carine sang the song "Happily Ever After" from the musical "Once Upon A Mattress." In the skit, she's babysitting and reading a story to a little girl, played by Nicole Raymond.

Both her response to her questions and many of the others asked by master of ceremonies Fat Bob Taylor, prompted him to remark, "ERA is here to stay."

Carine, 16-year old junior, responded "No way!" when asked that if she were better than her boyfriend in a sport, would she let him beat her.

Runnerup to Carine, was Sandra Frame, who wore a blue gingham bonnet, wire-rim glasses, gingham dress, long johns and work boots, while she told the Mark Twain story "Story of the Old Ram." She is an 18-year old senior, and sponsored by Chelsea Big Boy.

Trina Mindykowski was chosen by a vote of the contestants as Miss Congeniality, the girl who gave the most encouragement and support to the other contestants.

Trina, sponsored by McDonald's and a 16-year old senior, dressed up with an bright red yarn wig and yellow calico dress as Raggedy Ann, and came to life with a musical dance number.

Carine, who said as she was crowned by last year's queen Beth Heller, "I didn't really expect this," was swarmed and hugged by the other contestants after the contest was over.

She was sponsored by the Class of '84 and is the daughter of Robert D. Brown, and Penelope Smedley, and the step-daughter of William Smedley. She worked at the community education office this summer and sings in the Contemporaries and the school choir. She is a varsity basketball cheerleader. Her court for the float in Saturday's fair parade will be Carol Stirling and Terri Bort.

Each contestant rode in a convertible with their fathers in the children's parade, and was then introduced at the livestock tent by Art Steinaway. Fat Bob asked each one two questions, the contestant pulled out of the basket.

Laurie Beckwith, who played "For Elise" on the piano as her talent, got a strange question, "Which way does water go down the drain?" She paused a moment, and said "counter-clockwise."

Stephanie Grant, who played Serenade by Schubert on the piano, got a tough question too, Why does swiss cheese have holes in it? "The mice were hungry," she said.

Nancy Case, who sang "Whistle A Happy Tune," from the King and I, had a quick retort for the seashell tongue twister. Sheila picked up "as many seashells as she wanted" at the seashore, she said.

Trina Mindykowski said she would call up a boy for a date, "I'm not shy," but she and most others in the crowd didn't know what spumy meant. (foamy, according to the dictionary.)

Laurie Heller, who sang "I'll Never Fall in Love Again" and has long, thick blonde hair, appropriately picked the question, "Do blondes have more fun."

"Yeah," she replied, but with no explanation.

Connie Bollinger, who sang "I'm Just A Girl Who Can't Say No" from Oklahoma, got asked perhaps the toughest serious question, "Would you turn in a friend for cheating?"

Jean Folsom, who played Concerto in G Major on her flute, said the best advice anyone has given her, is to "smile and be myself."

Deborah Morris, who sang "You'll Never Walk Alone" and showed a pastel drawing, was asked if a woman would ever become president of the United States.

"No," she said, "men would kick them out if they ever got too close to the office."

Demolition Derby Crowds Overflow Seating Capacity

The clouds of exhaust clung to the field, punctured by headlights and flashing red siren lights. Freeway smells mingled with the sweetness of caramel and the salty butteriness of popcorn. Gears screeched in mad shifts, engines revved, and metal crunched. A sedan with snaggle teeth painted on a dented hood chased someone's bashed-up, rusted, family station wagon.

Nope, not a movie. It's the demolition derby at the fair, and the new section of bleachers meant that more people could watch this year. Spectators got there more than an hour early for good seats.

In Tuesday night's first heat, Tom Dyer in car number 43 won first, and Al Hafley in car 36 took second.

In heat 2, David Feldkamp in car 5 won, and Bill Clisham in car 8 took second.

In heat 3, Gene Lindamood in car 57 won, and Scott Roberts in car 29 took second.

For the final feature event, the heat winners face each other, and all drivers could still get their original smashed cars to go. Al Hafley in car 36 won, and Scott Roberts in car 29 took second.

In Wednesday's first heat, the powderpuff event, Elizabeth Herrst in car 83 won, and Cheryl Fitzsimmons in car 80 took second.

In heat 2, Chuck Broderick in car 41 won, and Nick Apostoleris in car 57 took second.

In heat 3, Donny Bollinger in car 9 won, and Don Wild in car 53 took second.

In heat 4, Steve Cobb in car 101 won, and Scott Otto in car 60 took second.

Scott Otto and Donny Bollinger tied in the feature event pitting the heat winners against each other.

In the eight years of the demolition derby at the fair, there have been no injuries, even with im-

Thursday, Sept. 14, 1978—

The Chelsea Village Council dropped its plan to increase parking meter rates at its Sept. 5 meeting. They had planned to do away with the penny charge entirely and cut down the amount of time a nickel and dime would buy, but found they increased revenues by doubling police meter patrolling time.

The Chelsea varsity football team beat Tecumseh 7-6 Sept. 8. Chelsea scored after Al Augustine intercepted a pass. The junior varsity also beat Tecumseh, 24-14, scoring two touchdowns in the second quarter and one in the fourth quarter in their opening game of the season. The freshman team lost four players to injuries in 15 minutes during their first scrimmage with Jackson County Western on Sept.

A bowling marathon held at Chelsea Lanes raised nearly $500 for the St. Louis School for Exceptional Boys. S. Gundry of Lansing won first-place, scoring 2,555 pins in his handicap division.

St. Jacob Evangelical Lutheran church will celebrate its 125th anniversary Sept. 17 with a special worship service. The Rev. Dr. John Lawrence, president of the Michigan Lutheran Seminary will give the sermon. The congregation was organized in 1841 by the Rev. F. Schmidt, a pioneer missionary.

General Dwight E. Beach will speak at the kick-off dinner for the 1978 United Way campaign Oct. 4. He retired with the rank of four-star general and was commander in chief of the United States Army, Pacific. He was born on a farm on Jackson Rd. which has been in his family for 125 years.

Eleven new contracts for teachers and a high school counselor were approved at two school board meetings.

Thursday, Sept. 5, 1968—

Sarah Lindauer was crowned Chelsea Community Fair queen over eight other contestants. She is a senior at Chelsea High school and was sponsored by the Jaycees. She is a member of the school band, vice-president of the Student Council, member of the National Honor Society and the Journalism Club. She was crowned by last year's queen Dianne Stoffer, and master of ceremonies William J. Rademacher.

The senior class float "Paradise Isle" won the youth division at Saturday's fair parade. The float was decorated with grass skirts, a large tiki, palms and queen contestant Jane Koch and her court Ann Vengren and Judy Sanderson. The American Legion won the adult division with "Let Freedom Ring," a float with a huge bell complete with a crack, Legion flags and two uniformed legionnaires.

Larry Hopkins had the grand champion steer, a 1,000 pound Hereford, which was bought by Stop & Shop for 77 cents a pound. Mike Bristle had the 135 pound and champion lamb, which he sold for 50 cents a pound to Chelsea State Bank. Neil Johnson, age 15, had the reserve and champion steer, which he sold to Schumm's Restaurant for 67 cents a pound.

Spaulding for Children, Chelsea's new adoption agency, had their first placement, two others. The agency has had 19 applications from prospective parents.

Sheriff's deputies refused to let members of Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) into the Bruin Lake Boy Scout Camp, after the Portage Trails Council cancelled a contract for a weekend retreat at the camp. The original request for camp use was in the name of "Student Government Council."

Doug Englebert won the fair's lightweight tractor pulling event, when his 3,900 pound Ford pulled 408 percent of total tractor weight. Heavy-lightweight winner was Richard Weiseneder of Saline, with his 5,370 pound Allis-Chalmers, which pulled 279 percent of its weight. Allen Phelps of Saline won heavyweight with his 11,250 pound John Deere, which pulled 235 percent of its weight in the heavyweight division, the late, late show at the fair, finishing at 1 a.m.

Bill Hunter made his first hole-in-one, at hole 7 with a number 5 iron, at Inverness. It was his first hole-in-one in his 15 years of playing golf there.

24 Years Ago . . .

Thursday, Sept. 11, 1958—

Elaine Walker, representing the senior class, was chosen 1958 fair queen. She was crowned by Karen McAllister. Judges were Bonnie Hull of Adrian, Sylvan township supervisor Maurice Hoffman, and George Peterson of Ann Arbor. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Devine of 138 E. Middle street.

Garry Eschelbach, age 14, had the grand champion steer at the fair. His 1,115 pound Hereford

Court Action Expected After Death Penalty Proposal Taken Off Ballot

Lawyers for backers of the controversial proposal allowing the death penalty for first degree murder planning taking their battle to the court after the Board of State Canvassers threw out petitions that would have placed the proposal on the November ballot. The canvassers ruled there was almost no statistical chance the petitions filed on the proposal contained the 286,722 valid signatures needed to put the question to the voters.

Lawyers for L. Brooks Patterson, Oakland County prosecutor and Republican candidate for attorney general who championed the proposal, said they would file a mandamus action with the state Court of Appeals to force the issue on the ballot.

Attorney Richard Thompson said the board added unnecessary technicalities in an effort to discredit the signatures of legally registered voters. The board refused to certify the proposal after ruling that out of a sample of 499 signatures of the 307,000 filed, there were only 411 valid signatures.

The board refused to include in the sample the signatures of 38 people the lawyers for Patterson argued were registered voters but simply made mistakes in signing the petitions.

Earlier in the month, Lansing Lawyer Eugene Wanger, author of the current constitutional ban on capital punishment, and Howard Simon of the American Civil Liberties Union, said they had found more than 100 signatures that were either invalid or questionable in the sample of 500 elections officials had drawn to check.

Thompson argued before the canvassers that the constitution and the courts demand that no artificial technicalities stand in the public's right to amend the constitution. "There is a constitutional right to get around the Legislature when the Legislature is not doing its will. The courts have held that you cannot restrict that right," Thompson said.

He argued that an Illinois case ruled that certain restrictions—such as petitioner signing his or her mailing address rather than their registration address—could not stand in the way of a constitutional initiative so long as the signers were registered voters.

Some 29 of the signatures excluded as invalid did involve such things as petitioners putting down the wrong address or being from the wrong county when signing the petitions.

Elections Director Chris Thomas said his staff checks signatures with the local clerks and if not found there, the signature is considered invalid. He added the errors are common mistakes and noted they could have been corrected if elections staff checked further.

Lansing attorney Thomas Downs, an expert in election law, said the state had the right to guarantee the purity of elections and that requiring a petitioner to put down the correct locality was not an excessive requirement.

Wanger said he had the right not to let his taxes be spent on a proposal unless those advancing it had conformed to the law. Capital punishment was far outlawed in Michigan in 1848. Only two executions have taken place in the state.

Several times in the past, petition drives have been started to put the question on the ballot but they have always failed.

This year's petition drive was far short of the necessary signatures until the shooting death of State Police Trooper Craig Scott. His widow, Lydia, publicly supported the proposal which provided the impetus to gather the 307,000 signatures filed last month with the state Elections Division.

Ordways Visited By Daughter of Displaced Family They Sponsored

Aija Bundze Seflic and her family visited Carroll and Else Ordway of 785 N. Dancer Rd. the afternoon of Monday, Aug. 30.

Mrs. Seflic made her first visit to Chelsea at the age of five, when she and her parents, Benita and the late Nikolajs Bundze, came here in 1949 as displaced persons sponsored by the Ordways. They were natives of Latvia, who had ended up in Germany at the end of World War II.

The Bundzes moved to the Detroit area, but kept in touch with the Ordways. When Mr. Bundze died within weeks of Aija's wedding in 1987, she asked Mr. Ordway to give her away at the wedding.

The Seflic family, with Aija, Michael and their two daughters

Maija, age 11 and Sara, age 8, have lived in Melbourne, Australia the past six years. Michael is employed by D'Arcy MacManus advertising agency, and Aija is a homemaker.

They visit the Ordways when they visit family in Michigan. Mrs. Seflic gave Mrs. Ordway a cross-stitch embroidered Koala bear bookmark, a book of Australian wildflowers, and a copy of The Weekly Times, an Australian farm magazine as mementos of the visit.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

Ed Doolittle is a collector, mostly of clippings he can use as evidence for the persecution at the sessions at the country store. But he come Saturday night with exhibit A from his new growing collection of bumper stickers. This one said "If You Gripe About Farmers, Don't Talk With Your Mouth Full." Ed used it to trick the fellers into listening to his report on how much food costs in America compared with some other countries, as worked out by the National Federation of Independent Business.

A breadwinner in America has to work 14.8 hours a week to feed his family of four. In Russia that works out to 43.5 hours, in England, 19.7, in France 17.2 and in West Germany, 18.3. The chart Ed had with him went through different kinds of foods and other needs like clothes, cars and appliances, and some of the other countries beat us on a few, but nowhere was the difference greater in our favor than in food. Ed said that ought to remind us how much our farmers and ranchers mean to us, and to tell us when they're hurting we're going to feel the pain.

to it. Zeke said he's seen this country go from hitching posts to parking meters to pastures paved for shopping centers, and so far we've come up with remedies for ever set of new problems. We breathe free air, Zeke said, as long as we don't try to condition it, and we got more free everything than we can handle. Where else in the world, for instant, can a man sentenced to 60 year in prison walk out scot free in two months because a clerk typed 60 days on his papers, like one did in Texas recent? Where else can a feller drive his Continental to pick up his unemployment check and not raise a eyebrow among others in the line?

Personal, Mister Editor, I ain't looking for a better hole, but I did see where some National Geographic explorers found a Pacific Island with 4,000 folks and no taxes, no public debts, no TV football and no juvenile delinquency. I ain't wanting to join them, but I ain't shore them pore ignorant savages want to join us either.

Yours truly,
 Uncle Lew.

 FUNERAL HOME

SHOULD THE CASKET BE OPEN OR CLOSED?
 This question can only be answered by the family, never by the funeral director.

There are several options available to the family. The casket can be open during the hours of visitation and closed during the final rites or it can remain open during the final rites. It can also remain closed at all times.

The customs of the family's faith and the influence of their clergyman's thoughts may help determine what is to be done.

Modern psychologists tell us viewing the deceased helps the family to accept the fact of death, especially when it may have been sudden or unexpected. If, however, the appearance of the deceased cannot be made acceptable, viewing may possibly be harmful.

The family's own wishes on the desired procedure will always be the guideline for the funeral director at our firm. We respect the family's wishes on all particulars of the funeral service as we try our very best to provide a truly personal and meaningful service.

Chelsea Charms Win Awards At State Fair

Five members of the Chelsea Charms competed in the "all association" baton twirling contest held Saturday, Aug. 28 at the Michigan State Fair in Detroit.

Amy Weir, the eight-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Weir, had her biggest wins to date, according to baton instructor Rita Wilson Howard. Amy won the first place trophy in both beginner basic strut and beginner military strut. She took third place in the novice twirling division.

Richelle Jones, the six-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Phil Jones, continued her winning streak by winning the first place trophies in both beginner basic strut and military strut in her age group. She also took third place in the novice solo division.

Christine Dunlap, the nine-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Dunlap, took second place in both beginner basic strut and beginner military strut in the 9-10-year-old age group. She also placed eighth in the novice solo division.

Josephine Krzeczowski, the 14-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Krzeczowski, and Laurie Honbaum, the nine-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Merritt Honbaum, both made excellent showings in strutting and twirling in their age groups.

Judges were from NBTA, USTA, and DMA twirling associations.

Coronary Open Golf Tournament Slated Sept. 15

The eighth annual Michigan Heart Association Coronary Open Golf Tournament will be held Wednesday, Sept. 15, at Bald Mountain Golf Course, 3350 Kern Rd., Lake Orion.

The tournament is held annually to encourage heart patients to increase their range of recreational activities and to promote public awareness of heart patients' potential for such activities.

Anyone who has had any heart ailment, including heart attack or heart surgery, may play in the Coronary Open. However, golfers should first check with their physicians.

Either of two courses may be played: the regulation course (18 holes), which is hilly; or the executive course, par 29, which is flat and easy. Tee-off times are from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Some 4,000 displaced homemakers were served during fiscal 1981 under a contract for technical assistance coordinated by the Women's Bureau of the U.S. Department of Labor. The Displaced Homemaker Network program also provided technical assistance to 37 programs at 54 sites in fiscal 1980-81.

Kiddie Parade Opens Fair

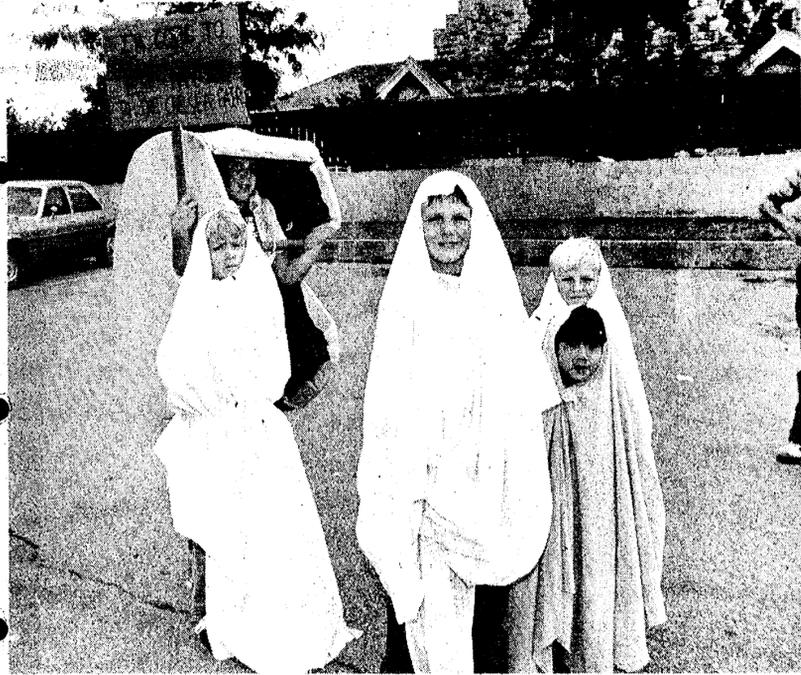

Civic Foundation Membership Drive Extended to Sept. 8

CAPTAIN HOOK'S SHIP won first place in the mixed age group category in the children's parade. The ship is made of brightly painted cardboard with bicycle wheels underneath and filled with Peter Pan characters. It was a neighborhood effort of Duane, David, Dena and Daniel Walker; Loren Keezer, Sara Musolf, Laura Griffin, and Sean Leonard.

HERE'S LOOKING AT YOU, James Hafner's entry, took second place for 6-8-year-olds in the children's parade. White plastic bags were blown up as the eyeballs, and brown paper eyelashes attached to the edge of the eyes.

I'M GOING TO EAT MY WAY TO THE CHELSEA FAIR! These five Pac-man creatures, each wearing a different colored pastel sheet, Jeff, Jimmy, and Phillip Steele, Adam Tillman, and Eric LeFurge took second place for the mixed age group category in the children's parade.

SEVEN BUTTERFLIES ON TRICYCLES AND BIG WHEELS, and with bright cardboard wings and antenna hats won first place for 3-5-year-olds in the children's parade. Butterflies Erin Baird, Jocelyn Dohner, Stephen and Lizzy Ross, Carrie Buss, Nicole Fite, and Jessica Holton are waiting in the municipal parking lot for the judging to finish before the parade started Tuesday evening, the kick-off to fair week.

It was the year of the cartoon character Smurf at the children's parade, the annual kick-off to the fair Tuesday. The Municipal parking lot was jammed with little blue faces, white hats, and smurf balloons.

Smurfs were joined by a Frito bandito, a boy from the movie E.T., with a "Phone home E.T." sign on his bicycle, clowns, a girl with a "Happy Birthday Daddy" sign, and even polittics too, with children carrying candidate balloons.

Seven butterflies, wearing paper wings, antenna hats, and riding tricycles and Big Wheels, won first place in the 3-5-year-old age group.

Erin Baird, Jocelyn Dohner, Stephen and Lizzy Ross, Carrie Buss, Nicole Fite, and Jessica Holton were the butterflies.

"Strawberry shortcake," with Jennifer Adler and Myra Musolf, one girl in a wagon and one on a bicycle decorated with balloons and crepe paper, won first place in the 6-8-year-olds.

Two butterflies on skates, Lisa and Laura Unterbrink, won first prize for the 9-12-year-old age group. They wore tights and paper wings.

Captain Hook's ship from Peter Pan won first place in the mixed age group category. Riding in the cardboard ship with bicycle wheels were Duane, David, Dena and Daniel Walker; Loren Keezer, Sara Musolf, Laura Griffin, and Sean Leonard.

Pioneers of Chelsea, who were Aaron Smith and Katy Long riding in a small wagon filled with antiques, took second place in 3-5-year-olds.

Two bunnies and flowers, Beth and Daniel Koenigter, took third place in 3-5-year-olds. One wore bright pink, and the other wore bright green.

"Here's looking at you," which was a clever pair of eyes, complete with eyelashes and two blown-up white plastic bags as eyeballs, worn by James Hafner, took second place in 6-8-year-olds.

Justin Navin wore a helmet, and built a car around his bicycle, and called himself "Demolition Derby." He took third prize in 6-8-year-olds.

Linell Brehmer was Mami Yokum, and she took second place in the 9-12-year-olds.

Fourteen area youth caught pigs in the fair "pig scramble." They get to keep the pig, but must agree to donate one of the pig's offspring for a future pig scramble.

The sophomore class float won the fair parade contest.

The tractor pull went on until 2 a.m. Saturday. David E. Beeman won first in tractors weighing up to 4,500 pounds; Dean Clark won in tractors 4,500 to 5,500 pounds, and Donald Proctor won the heavyweight class.

Wesley Cowell, a Chelsea High school teacher, was scheduled to appear on the television program "It could be you," in Los Angeles last night. He and other members of a bomber crew who escaped capture or death were being brought together as a surprise to the pilot of the plane.

County civil defense director Gerald G. Miller spoke Aug. 28 at a civil defense meeting at South school. Evacuation was stressed as the only means of saving lives in an atomic attack, and would require two or three hours advance notice. Miller showed a chart of an H-bomb explosion cloud.

Thursday, Sept. 9, 1948—

The tract of land to be called Pierce Park was formally presented to the village council at its Monday meeting by Lloyd Heydlauff, president of the Chelsea Chamber of Commerce. The park is a joint gift from the chamber and Miss Alma Pierce. The plot is approximately four acres in size, and is part of the Pierce farm, which has been owned continuously since 1832 by descendants of Nathan Pierce, a Sylvan township pioneer.

There were four automobile accidents in Chelsea over the Labor Day week-end.

The Independents beat Saline 3-2 in Sunday's game, with "Lefty" Barth as the winning pitcher. The Independents have scored a total of 177 runs in their 14-game schedule. Opponents have only scored 47 runs against the Independents.

The Chelsea Kiwanis Club won the state inter-club softball championship at the state competition in Sault Ste. Marie. They beat an Upper Peninsula team 24-7 in the finals.

The three rural schools in the Chelsea Agricultural District and the village school opened today.

A tandem bicycle ridden by Chris Tallman and Stephanie Bowers, dressed in Gay 90s clothing, took third prize in the 9-12-year-olds.

Pac man creatures Jeff, Jimmy, and Phillip Steele, Adam Tillman, and Eric LeSurge took second place in the mixed age group category.

A Bengals float complete with a football going through the goalpost, ridden by Jason and David Adams and Alex and Peggy Hammerschmidt took third place in mixed age group.

Judges for the contest, who had lots of tough decisions to make with a parking lot full of cute, excited, and moving children were Shirley Schaible, Grace Koch, and Jerri Young.

Fluoridated Water Assured With Chemical Stockpile

Chelsea has enough fluoride stockpiled to keep the village's water supply fluoridated through the end of the year, says Charles Hafner, electric and water superintendent.

Although some communities nationwide are facing the worst shortage since drinking water began to be fluoridated in 1945, Hafner began stockpiling fluoride in February, when he received a letter from the Michigan department of public health.

Chelsea has less naturally occurring fluoride in its water, said Hafner, than communities such as Dexter and Manchester, 0.2 to 0.3 parts per million, versus 0.7 in Dexter's water supply. Dexter doesn't even have to supplement its naturally occurring fluoride.

Fluoride is a by-product of the phosphate fertilizer industry. Although less fertilizer is produced during winter, said Hafner, less water is used then also. Hafner buys barrels with 155 pounds of fluoride. The community water supply uses about one barrel every 15 days.

Chelsea used 150,000 gallons less water per day in the second quarter, which ended in June, said Hafner, which was probably the result of the closing of the Rockwell plant.

Clowning Workshops Will Begin Sept. 7

Washtenaw County Cooperative Extension Service 4-H Department is holding a series of clowning workshops beginning Tuesday, Sept. 7.

The cost is $1.50 per person. The workshops will be held in the Ann Arbor area in a barrier-free facility and will run for six consecutive weeks. Registration deadline is 12 noon Tuesday, Sept. 7. The workshops are open to adults and youth ages 7 and above. Registration is limited.

For further information phone the Co-operative Extension Service office at 973-9510.

The drive for new Founding Members of the Civic Foundation of Chelsea has been extended to Wednesday, Sept. 8, by the Foundation's Temporary Steering Committee.

"Response to our Membership Drive has been so tremendous that we decided to extend the drive one more week," said Arthur Dills, chairman of the Temporary Steering Committee. "174 persons who live or work in the Chelsea area have become Founding Members. We know there are a few more people who want to be a part of this important community effort."

Monday, Sept. 13, has been set as the first meeting of the Founding Members of the Civic Foundation of Chelsea. The meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the main dining room of Chelsea Community Hospital. The purpose of the meeting will be to elect a Board of Directors and officers of the Foundation.

Interested persons may contact Arthur Dills, chairman, Temporary Steering Committee, 994-3904, or Ronald Olmsted, treasurer, 475-1311 Ext. 392. They may also send $50 membership contributions to the Civic Foundation of Chelsea, Post Office Box 45, Chelsea 48118.

Laura Goderis Wins Grand Award on State Fair Entry

Laura Goderis, age 14 of Chelsea, won a royal blue Grand Award rosette at the Michigan state fair for her counted cross stitch portrait of a fanciful artist. The 134th fair will be open through Labor Day, Sept. 6. Admission for adults is $4, and children 11 and under are admitted free.

Judge Ross W. Campbell, of Ann Arbor, received the Republican Party nomination for Supreme Court at the State Convention held at the Amway Grand Plaza Hotel in Grand Rapids on Saturday, Aug. 21.
 The nomination, which came at approximately 10:30 a.m., was preceded by speeches given by Stephen Bransdorfer, a Grand Rapids attorney; Jackie McGregor, field director for Phil Ruppe's campaign; and Robert Henry, Washtenaw county chairman and an attorney for the Republican Party.
 Campbell, a 22nd Circuit Court Judge, addressed individual district caucuses on Friday evening. He received several endorsements and a standing ovation from the 2nd District.
 After his acceptance speech, a jubilant Campbell said, "This is the first step in restoring reason and common sense to the decisions of the Michigan Supreme Court."

1983 Wheat Program Seeks 20% Reduction

Secretary of Agriculture John R. Block today announced a 20 percent acreage reduction program for 1983 crop wheat and advance wheat deficiency payments to those farmers who participate in the program.

"The reduced acreage program should strengthen wheat prices by limiting next year's harvest and the buildup of stocks," Block said. "At the same time," he said, "the program will increase long-term conservation on wheat land."

"Participation is voluntary, but only those farmers who enter the program will be eligible for price support loans, target price protection and eligibility for the farmer-owned grain reserve," he said.

Block also said the U.S. Department of Agriculture is intensifying its wheat export efforts and expanding its export credit sales program.

Block announced additional financing under the export credit guarantee (GSM 102) program. This will expand credit to countries buying U.S. farm products. The additional authorization of $300 million will increase the GSM 102 level to $2.8 billion from the currently authorized $2.5 billion.

While high interest rates have discouraged the use of the guaranteed loan programs this year, this funding increase will allow creditworthy countries to expand borrowing once financial or other conditions change.

Block also announced these other 1983 wheat program provisions:

—farmers will get an advance payment equal to one-half the estimated 1983 crop deficiency (target price) payments at the time they sign up.

This will help farmers who have tight cash flow problems. Sign up will begin Sept. 7 for winter wheat producers and later for spring wheat farmers.

—a target price of $4.30 per bushel.

—a loan rate of $3.55 per bushel for grain placed under the regular loan program and $4.00 per bushel for wheat placed into the reserve. Reserve storage payments will remain at 26.5 cents per bushel.

—acreage taken from production must be devoted to conservation uses.

Farmers participating in the 1983 acreage reduction program must reduce their wheat acreage for harvest by at least 20 percent from an established wheat base. If the farmer participated in the 1982 wheat program, the 1983 wheat acreage base will be the same as the 1982 base. For producers who did not participate in the 1982 wheat program, their 1983 acreage base will be the average acreage planted for harvest of the 1981 and 1982 crops.

To meet the conservation uses requirement, a farmer with a 1983 acreage base of 100 acres can plant no more than 80 acres of wheat for 1983 harvest. The remaining 20 acres must be devoted to conservation uses.

If farmers plant fewer than the permitted 80 acres, they will be permitted to devote fewer acres to conservation. For example, if only 50 acres are planted, only 12.5 acres (25 percent of 50) will have to be devoted to conservation use.

The land taken from production and devoted to conservation must be eligible crop land protected from wind and water erosion. Acreage designated to meet the conservation requirement may not be mechanically harvested and grazing will not be permitted.

In addition, Block also announced an incentive to divert eligible crop land for permanent conservation practices. If the producer incorporates permanent conservation practices, such acreage will be eligible as conserving use acreage for a three-year period.

AGRICULTURE IN ACTION

MICHIGAN FARM BUREAU EDITORIAL

The memories of starvation following World War II are still fresh in many European minds.

The European Community devised a plan to assure self-sufficiency in agriculture... and it worked well! Europe is now exporting many farm commodities... to the extent that they're competing with us in some of our traditional markets.

Of course, food prices are high in Europe. So how can they export food? Well, they've guaranteed their farmers a high price for their products. Higher than the world market price. So, to make their products competitive, the government pays an export subsidy to the, trade industry. This way they can pay the farmers, sell it at a lower price and make up the difference by collecting the export subsidy from the government. Quite a plan! Everybody's happy, right? Wrong!

European consumers complain of high food prices, and the cost of the export subsidy program is tremendous. Europeans pay taxes to support it, and their tax rate is terrific and it's hurting the United States because it's cutting into our agricultural export business.

Agricultural exports have traditionally been the one bright light in our trade picture. But the more Europe subsidizes its exports to undercut world market prices, the more we're being squeezed out of the market. And it's aggravated right now because we have such a glut of grain in storage.

So the pressure is on, through the administration and through private efforts, to convince the European Economic Community to curtail the use of export subsidies.

The only way to retaliate against the policy is to threaten, or actually begin a trade war. Among the options: start our own program of export subsidies to beat the Europeans at their own game, or place high levies on our exports to Europe.

But no one wins in a trade war. We hope the European Community will realize this before it's too late.

Manchester Teachers Attend Computer Classes

Fifteen Manchester teachers and administrators have just concluded a one-week intensive seminar designed to familiarize them with the world of microcomputers. Taught in the school district by Mary Ann Dettling, a seminar provided opportunities for teachers to work with computers in the classroom and to learn basic programming skills.

Jane Raus, Melinda Trout, Teddie Groeb, Janice Little, Susan Davis, Char Henderson, Sheryl Hall, Yvonne Henry, Dick Parson, Mary Koebe, Mary Kuyda, Astrida Panches, Mille Grantham, Mary Blossom, and Janice Hammond all returned to their classrooms early in order to develop special skills to meet the needs of their students. The dedication of these educators may be seen in their classrooms as they begin the process of preparing for students who will not arrive for another week.

"We were extremely pleased at the number of teachers interested in enrolling in the seminar and in fact had to limit the enrollment," said Superintendent Gene Thompson.

"I expect that we will offer the seminar again during the year on an after-school basis. I am extremely pleased at the dedication of our teachers and hope that the Manchester Community appreciates this level of commitment."

Appeals Court Reverses Judgment Given Postill in Suit After Chelsea Brawl

Three Michigan Court of Appeals judges ruled unanimously Tuesday, Aug. 24 in a libel suit against the Police Officers Association of Michigan (POAM) and Booth Newspapers, Inc., that two former Washtenaw county sheriff's officials failed to prove "constitutional actual malice."

The court reversed a $300,000 judgment to former Washtenaw County Sheriff Frederick J. Postill and ex-jail administrator Frank Donley, awarded in a suit against POAM and its executive director, Carl Parsell; Booth Newspapers, Inc., owner of the Ann Arbor News; and Sheriff's Deputy Basil Baysinger.

The suit concerned information provided to and printed in The Ann Arbor News on a brawl at a Chelsea wedding involving Postill, Donley and Baysinger.

A Washtenaw County jury two years ago awarded the plaintiffs $1 million, but visiting judge Herald Van Domelein struck down $700,000 in punitive damages as contrary to Michigan law and grossly excessive.

Postill and Donley appealed Domelein's decision to decrease the award, and POAM, Baysinger and Booth Newspapers contested the jury's decision and award.

The Appeals Court, in its decision, noted that both Postill and Donley were public officials and therefore had to prove actual malice—that statements were published with certain knowledge that the information was false or with reckless disregard for whether they were false or not.

The court, in its summary, said the two had failed to show that Baysinger, quoted in The News article, entertained serious doubts as to the truth of his statements.

The judges in the case were Dorothy Comstock, Walter P. Cuyner and R. R. Ferguson.

POAM Executive Director Parsell said his organization, which represents 8,000 law enforcement officials throughout Michigan, is ecstatic about the decision. "We are extremely pleased with the court's decision that the POAM, the sheriff's deputy, and The Ann Arbor News acted in good faith in this matter," he said.

"Lawsuits, unfortunately, are becoming more and more frequent for labor leaders. As Executive Director of the POAM, however, I refuse to be silenced in the protection of our members or our profession by the threat of any lawsuit."

Bill Would Provide Help in Foreign Bidding

Congressman Jim Dunn (Mich.-6) has co-sponsored a bill to help American firms compete with foreign companies in domestic markets.

The Fair Trade Finance Act of 1982, which has received widespread bipartisan support from Michigan's Congressional delegation, was introduced by Congressman Jim Blanchard (Mich.-18) after the U. S. Treasury Department refused to authorize financing for a state firm bidding against a foreign competitor for a lucrative subway car contract with New York City.

Bombardier's offer quoted a higher price per car than did the Budd Co., but received financial backing at low interest rates from the Canadian government.

Under the Export-Import Bank Amendments of 1978, the Treasury Department can authorize the Export-Import Bank to provide competitive financing for an American firm when it is determined that non-competitive financing is being offered by foreign bidders. In this case, the Treasury Department concluded that financing was not a determining factor in the deal and refused assistance to the Budd Co.

"The new legislation removes the discretion allowed under current legislation," Congressman Dunn said. "It would require that the federal government provide financing for American companies when foreign financing violates international trade agreements.

"We should not rely on the discretion of the Treasury Department to see that our industries have the ability to compete with foreign manufacturers."

"The shortcomings of the current law involving competitive financing have become painfully obvious after the Budd Co. lost this contract," Congressman Dunn said. "In this instance, it was a Michigan firm that lost a contract, so the state is directly affected. But all over the country our industries are getting burned because foreign firms with government backing are getting contracts.

"This legislation should provide American companies with a chance to compete fairly with foreign manufacturers and thereby keep more jobs in the United States," he added.

The New York Metropolitan Transit Authority earlier this week rejected an offer by the Troy, Mich.-based Budd Co., and awarded a $663 million contract for 825 subway cars to Bombardier Inc. of Canada.

Pinckney Area Youth Participating in Navy Training Exercise

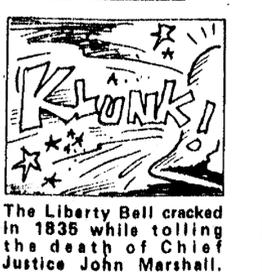

Marine Lance Cpl. Jordan E. Hannah, son of Barbara J. Hannah of 3390 Orchard Dr., Pinckney, is participating in exercise "Unitas XXIII" in the Southern Hemisphere.

He is a member of the Marine Detachment, "Unitas XXIII," Camp Lejeune, N. C.

This marks the 23rd consecutive year for the series of combined U. S. and South American naval exercises called "Unitas." These operations are designed to promote a high state of preparedness and co-operation between the various naval and air forces that support the southern sea lanes of the Western Hemisphere.

Participating U. S. forces will circumnavigate South America and join the navies of several South American countries for the scheduled training. This year units will also visit several countries along the west coast of Africa.

Operations will include anti-submarine and anti-aircraft warfare, surface gunnery, communications and amphibious landings.

The Liberty Bell cracked in 1835 while tolling the death of Chief Justice John Marshall.

Citizens Committee Will Recommend Land Use Policies

Instead of having the federal or state governments mandate their opinions about the development of agricultural lands, the agricultural lands citizens advisory committee to the county planning commission would like to have those decisions made at the local level of township and county, said committee member Herman Koenn of 2010 Hayes Rd.

The committee, established in 1980, will present recommendations to the county planning commission this fall, said Koenn, a realtor with Frisinger Realty Co. and representative to the committee from the county Grange, but they would like to get citizen opinion first.

Rural zoning is often done on the basis of density, said Donald Pennington, county senior planner and staff member to the agricultural lands committee, so requirements for a lot for a single family house could be 3 or 5 or 9 acres of land.

But a home doesn't need that much room, and the land, which could be cultivated, just sits, said Pennington. A sliding scale zoning district would mean there would be no specific lot size requirement. A 40-acre parcel could be split into three lots of 1 acre and 1 lot of 37 acres.

The suggested change to the subdivision act by the committee would also conserve cultivatable land, he said. Three splits of any size would be allowed. If an owner wanted more than three, he would have to undergo the state platting process.

The current act limits parcel splits to four times for splits 10 acres or less in 10 years, and sets more than four splits of 10 acres or less as the requirement to go through platting.

Anyone interested in the agricultural lands issue may obtain a booklet, which Koenn describes as a working document, on Washtenaw county rural policies from the county planning office. The booklet includes several maps of fragile, rural residential and agricultural lands.

The citizens committee also has a 20-minute narrated slide show of county aerial photographs, which Pennington says he will schedule for groups, such as township boards and planning commissions, service groups such as Kiwanis or Rotary, and groups with regional interests.

In Ceylon, money was once based on the value of an elephant.

The county's role will be to develop a co-ordinated policy, he said, which the townships can adapt to their special needs. Maps of a survey of the county's highly fragile natural resource lands, essential agricultural lands, and lands suitable for rural housing have been made.

Orderly development of farmland will help maintain land values, said Koenn, who has a partnership in a dairy farm with his son, because the market will know this land will be preserved by zoning policies.

People often confuse good practices of land use, he said, with sometimes negative perceptions of environmental rules and regulation.

But concern about agricultural lands is nothing new, he said. It began as a result of the 1930s dustbowl in Kansas.

Preliminary recommendations of the committee are to establish a sliding scale zoning district, to limit non-agricultural uses in highly productive agricultural areas, and that the Michigan Subdivision Control Act be amended to limit the splitting of lands in rural areas.

Sylvan Home Burglarized

A home in the 19900 block of Old US-12, Sylvan township, was broken into last week-end and two gold men's watches, a man's gold ring with a 1/4 carat diamond in it, a U.S. silver certificate, and a man's cameo ring were taken, according to Sheriff's Dept. reports.

Glass in a garage door was smashed to get inside. The value of the property has not yet been determined.

Another home on Old US-12, in the 13300 block, Lima township, was also broken into. The nozzle of a garden hose was used to smash a window. Drawers were ransacked and a silver dollar was taken.

Varsity Gridders Open Season Sept. 10 at Novi

Chelsea High school varsity football team opens its season with a big game against Novi, Sept. 10 at Novi.

Playing such a tough game early, said coach Gene LaFave, "will show us how good we are" early in the season.

This Bulldog team is a question mark this year, because so many of its players from last year, when the team was 8-1, third in the region, and co-conference champions with Saline, have graduated.

Last year Chelsea beat Novi 16-9 in a game LaFave says Chelsea won in the last few minutes. Novi went on to win the Kensington Valley Conference crown.

This year's team has "big shoes to fill," said LaFave, who will be assisted by Wayne Welton and Jim Ticknor. John Preston, who is now in military service, was the only more than 1,000 yard rusher in Chelsea history. Jeff Lantis is now playing at Hillsdale. Rick Poljan is at Central Michigan University, and co-captain Ross Murphy is at Clemson, the 1981 NCAA champions.

Thirty-three boys came out for the team this year, and 30 made the team, with 17 returning lettermen. The tallest player is six feet, five inches, and the heaviest player is 218 pounds. The shortest player is five feet, seven inches, and the lightest player is 140 pounds.

LaFave says David Wojcicki, team co-captain this year, will be quarterback. Russ Harris will be an offensive halfback, and two other backs who will play a great deal will be Mike Hintzen and Jay Marshall.

Wide-receivers will be team co-captain Matt Villemure and Rod Robeson. Tight end Tom Headrick will start his third year, as will offensive tackle Mike Neibauer. Glenn Prinzing will start his second year as center. Chris Gallas will be a guard along with Mike Cox and Dave Steinhauer. Carl Pate will be offensive tackle.

Defensive ends will be Matt McCallum and Kipp Bertke. Steve Cattell and Marty Steinhauer will be defensive backs, and Eric Buckberry will be defensive secondary.

A few players have been injured in pre-season practice, said LaFave, but they should be back by mid-season.

At the beginning of August, 25 team members went to Huron Football Camp, in the thumb area of the state. The whole team went to Chelsea football camp the week of Aug. 23. They slept, ate, and trained at the school.

The team is practicing twice a day until school starts, and then from 4 to 6:15 p.m. Monday through Thursday once school resumes.

Note that the team's Sept. 24 game scheduled with Tecumseh, whose voters turned down a millage Aug. 30, has been changed to a home game with Pontiac Northern on that date.

Team managers are Dave Bushway, Scott Mills, Brady Murphy, Jay Marshall, Chad Raymond, Loren Keezer, and Chad Starkey.

Team trainers are Joyce Robards, Tanya Mattoff and Jane Musbach.

Tecumseh Sports Victim of Millage

Tecumseh student athletes suffered a crushing defeat Monday, Aug. 30, but it wasn't on the playing fields or on the gymnasium. It was in the voters booth.

Tecumseh voters turned down an extracurricular millage, which sent Chelsea athletic director Ron Nemeth to the phones Tuesday, "out shopping" as he calls it, for opponents to replace matches made with Tecumseh, a member along with Chelsea of the Southeastern Conference.

The most difficult match to replace, said Nemeth, was the varsity football game Sept. 24, because football teams can only play one game a week.

He did find a team, Pontiac Northern, a Class A school with 2,400 students who agreed to come to Chelsea to play that date.

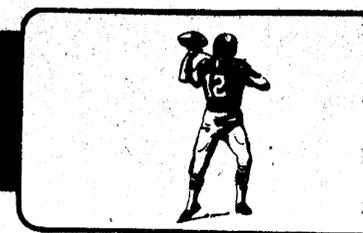

Pontiac voters just recently approved a millage, which restored athletics to their program, said Nemeth. Since they had no team last year, they were having a tough time filling up their schedule.

Nemeth had tried the Michigan High School Athletic Association scheduling computer in Lansing. He found nine teams "open" for that date. Some were like North Muskegon, which has a game scheduled that day with Montague, which has a millage vote Sept. 9. In a complicated game of millage dominoes, North Muskegon might actually be free, if Montague votes against the millage like Tecumseh voters did.

Nemeth says he was lucky to find Pontiac, since they did not show up on the computer.

He can probably reschedule other sports with teams within a 35 to 50 mile radius of Chelsea by school's start Sept. 7, he said, although he had to call Indiana and Ohio for the football team. (He did find one football opponent rather quickly — unfortunately in Evansville, Ind.)

Clarence Lacy, the principal of Tecumseh High school, met with other SEC athletic directors Wednesday, Sept. 1 in Ann Arbor.

JV, Frosh Grid Teams Emphasize Speed, Agility

Both the junior varsity and freshman football coaches have a unique problem. Boys at that age, both on their team and opposing teams, can grow so quickly over the summer, that the coaches have no idea how big everyone will be until the first day of practice.

Players can grow three inches and put on 50 pounds in a summer, says junior varsity coach Ken Sullins, who is assisted by Roger Roark. The team members' heights can range from four feet, seven inches, to six feet, two inches. Weight from lightest to heaviest can vary by 100 pounds.

The quarterback for the junior varsity will be Tony Hammerschmidt, who was quarterback on the freshman team last year, said Sullins, in his second season as coach of the team.

Boys who could be running backs or wide receivers are Steve Dotson, who moved into the district from Jackson County Western, Jon Carey, Dan Fenton, and Scott Miller, said Sullins. Rob Long and Keith Neibauer will be tight ends.

Dotson has the reactions to be the safety, he said. Players on both the offensive and defensive line will be Matt Smith, Jason Pierson, Mark E. Bentley, and Mark P. Bentley. The latter two players usually get called by nicknames to avoid name confusion.

The junior varsity had 31 players try out for the team, and all made it. Their first game is a home game against Novi Sept. 9.

The freshman team started practicing Aug. 30, and 30 boys tried out and made the team.

The Chelsea teams emphasize speed and quickness, said freshman coach Jim Tallman, so size isn't as much a factor.

"Besides, speed and quickness are more of an advantage at this age," he said, than size is.

Coaches from middle school to the varsity team co-ordinate the football training, said Tallman, who will be assisted by Chris Dimanin, so the boys have a logical development as players.

His team is working on flexibility, agility, and conditioning with sprints, situps, and pushups.

The freshman year is the boys' second year of organized contact football, he said. They start with flag touch football in seventh grade, with contact starting in eighth grade.

The team's first game is away against Milford Sept. 16. The next game, Sept. 21 against Tecumseh, will be rescheduled with another team. A tough game on their schedule, said Tallman, is against Adrian, a Class A school, on Oct. 19.

Cheerleaders Revamp Routines After State Ban On Pyramid Mounting

The high school cheerleaders will have a different look to their routines this year, because the Michigan High School Athletic Association has banned cheers using mounts from post-season games for safety reasons.

High school cheerleaders are just not as physically mature and strong as college cheerleaders, said Ron Nemeth, school athletic director, who supports the changed rule along with varsity advisor Helen Bareis and junior varsity-freshman advisor Annette Schmidt.

The MHSAA has had a "two-high" (two persons only in a mount cheer) post-season rule the last few years, said Nemeth, part of an effort to gradually ease out mount routines.

The Chelsea cheering squads, and many in the state have decided to just eliminate mounts, acrobatic stunts where the cheerleaders climb on top of each other to form pyramids, from their cheers. This means all three squads have been learning new routines.

Each varsity football cheerleader had to develop a new cheer for her tryout in the spring, said Mrs. Bareis, so the squad decided to learn each other's cheers as a way to increase their repertoire.

They are concentrating on skills such as jumps and cartwheels, she said, instead of time-consuming mount cheers.

Cheerleaders have physicals and must stay academically eligible just like student athletes, she said. Along with attending practices and games, the varsity cheerleaders are responsible for pep rallies, serve the food and make the decorations for the Friday football team dinners, and have a "secret pal" on the football team, a player for whom they anonymously do favors, such as get them a flower or food.

Varsity football cheerleaders are seniors Anna Bennett, Lynette Meppany, Julie Patrick, Sandy Sundling, Laura Beckwith, and juniors Debbie Morris and Becky Schluppe.

The freshman and junior varsity squads went to a U.S. Cheerleading Association camp at the University of Michigan in July to learn both an alternate way of cheering and new routines, said Mrs. Schmidt. They learned to be precise with their words, fluctuate their voices, and not be so sing-song.

They also learned how to form attractive groupings on the ground, she said, such as alternating kneeling, standing, and jumping cheerleaders.

The girls competed at camp, placing fourth out of 15, she said, quite a good place since many of the other squads were from larger Class A schools.

Junior varsity football cheerleaders are Carla Sears, Amy Smith, Gayla Bauer, Kim Cooper, and Shannon Morseau.

The key to getting the crowd to join in, she said, is to have easy cheers with hand movements the crowd can mimic, such as clapping or snapping fingers.

Cheers, that have as few words as possible, said Mrs. Bareis, are also winners with the crowd.

Q. A little over five years ago I bought a stock called W. W. Grainger, Inc. I didn't think I could go wrong buying that stock. It came to my attention in a publication that specializes in growth companies. The article pointed out that it had sold at higher prices every year for years. I asked my broker for a report on the company, and he gave me his firm's opinion that it was a top quality company and was expected to grow for years. I even went to my bank, and a friend of mine there got a report from his Trust Department, which said the bank had it on its approved list for bank managed accounts, and that it was highly regarded.

In spite of this great promise, this stock is only $36 and I paid $32 for it in 1976. Can you tell me why I didn't do better? I have a friend who bought another stock about the same time, and it is five times what he paid for it.

A. Not every good stock goes up in price. Your mistake, as I see it, was not in the stock you picked, but in the price you paid for it. At the time you bought the stock, it was earning $1.86 per share. You paid 17 times earnings for the stock. That may not have seemed like a high price for a stock with a record like this company had, and it was down from the price earnings ratio it had been selling for. The clue that might have warned you was that all the stocks in the Dow averages were selling on the average, at that time, at just about 10 times earnings.

The price earnings ratios at which high growth rate stocks had been selling had been coming down for several years when you made your purchase, and they have kept on coming down. Grainger is now earning $3.95 a share, but it is only selling at 9 times those earnings.

By all standards except price movement, Grainger has done very well. Sales have more than doubled from $398 to $887 million. Earnings per share have also more than doubled from $1.86 to $3.95. Dividends have tripled from 34 1/2 cents to $1.06.

You have owned this stock during an unfavorable period in the stock market. It seems likely the next five years may be more favorable, and the number of times earnings that good growing stocks sell at may go up again. If the stock again sold at 17 times earnings like when you bought it, it would sell at $68.

CLOUDS OF EXHAUST almost obliterated the arena during Tuesday night's demolition derby. At the beginning of each heat when all the cars were revved up, spectators had to strain to see the field.

SCOTT DAULT made it through his Tuesday night demolition derby heat intact. His relieved father congratulating him is Tom Dault of Grass Lake. Each driver must wear a helmet similar to the one Scott took off when he finished his heat.

That's Scott's car behind them, one of those eerie looking derby cars with the glass taken out of all the windows, and dented up—an insurance agent's nightmare.

Photography Classes Starting Soon at Artworlds Center

Artworlds, a non-profit center for creative arts in downtown Ann Arbor will begin its 60th term of photography classes and workshops beginning the week of Sept. 13.

NEW BRIDGE ON THE SAGINAW: Visible for miles is this high-level bridge being built across the Saginaw River at Zilwaukee. Its twin decks, 130 feet above the river, rise far above the drawbridge which now carries I-75 Freeway traffic. Metal framework atop the decks is a 940-foot-long launching girder from which a gantry crane lowers concrete segments forming the bridge decks into place. When finished, the bridge will be the largest in the world built with concrete segments.

Zilwaukee Bridge Making Progress

Rising from the flatlands of the Saginaw River basin, the new bridge at Zilwaukee is becoming probably the tallest structure in the Saginaw-Bay City area. It can be seen for miles, the first of its twin decks spanning the river 130 feet below.

When it is finished, possibly by the end of next year, it will be the world's largest concrete segmental bridge. Already it is a major attraction for occupants of many of the estimated 30,000 vehicles which drive by it every day on I-75 Freeway.

The Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT), owner of the mile-and-a-half-long structure, has built two parking lots from which the bridge and the construction activity can be viewed.

Motorists park there regularly and along the riverbank in Zilwaukee, watching as a gantry crane moves huge concrete segments along a 940-foot-long launching girder specially built for the bridge project. The segments, weighing up to 180 tons apiece and measuring 73 feet (four driving lanes and two shoulders) across, are lowered into place to form the bridge deck. Two decks will be built, one for northbound and one for southbound traffic.

The segments are attached to each other with super-strength epoxy glue that becomes harder than the concrete when it dries, and with post-tensioned steel cables pushed through a series of holes that run the full length of each segment.

"People are really impressed by the appearance of this bridge—with its clean lines and beautiful design—and by the construction method," said Ross LaVanway, MDOT's supervising engineer at the construction site. "We're getting groups of engineers here regularly to tour the project and see how it's done."

Steven Construction, Inc., of The Netherlands, contractor for the superstructure, is working seven days a week around the clock on the project. MDOT, Steven and Walter Toebe Construction Co., of Wixom, the contractor for the bridge substructure and the deck overlay, have some 400 workers on the job.

By mid-August, the Steven company had cast about half of the 1,656 concrete segments required for the project in a plant built on

Locally Grown Vegetables in Peak Supply

Mother Nature has definitely said yes to Michigan fruit and vegetable producers this year. Barring unforeseen bad weather, the summer of '82 could go down as the best ever for Michigan fruits and vegetables. The state is well known nationally for the production of apples, blueberries and cherries, and it's becoming increasingly important in vegetable production.

The Michigan celery harvest got underway in late June. Growers term this year's weather better than average. Look for Michigan celery and celery hearts through October.

A good crop of carrots is now being harvested and packed in the Grant area. New crop dry onions from there and elsewhere in western Michigan are coming to market now, too.

Shoppers will find the recently dug new potatoes are superior to last year's. These round whites are not only more uniform in size, but also have better skins. The skin of new potatoes is an important indication of potato quality because these potatoes are generally harvested before the skins have set.

Select potatoes that are firm, well shaped and smooth, with few eyes. Potatoes should be free from large cuts, growth cracks, bruises, skinned areas and decay. Don't purchase green potatoes. Some amount of skinning is normal in new potatoes, but reject new potatoes with large skinned or discolored areas. Buy no more than a 10-day supply of new potatoes.

Consumers may continue to see relatively low prices on fresh potatoes. The 1982 fall crop has been estimated by the U.S. Department of Agriculture at 1.1 million acres. This is 5 percent above last year's and 12 percent greater than the 1980 crop. But as any potato farmer knows, adverse weather during the fall could drastically alter the harvest.

August is the final big month for locally grown sweet corn. Fresh green husks and moist silk are clues that the corn is fresh. Freshness is essential in sweet corn because the sugar quickly converts to starch after picking.

Even though refrigeration slows down the deterioration, sweet corn should be used as soon as possible. Store it unskinned in the refrigerator no more than two days.

Eggplant is a minor summer vegetable that peaks in supply during August in Michigan. Good quality purple eggplants should be clear, dark and glossy. They should also be firm, heavy and not too large. Those 3 to 6 inches in diameter are best.

A variety of vegetables from the cabbage family are now produced in the state. Broccoli, green cabbage and cauliflower

An Evening in 'Anytown' U.S.A.

Last night, a self-satisfied Harry Hammett was driving home in his DATSUN. "This has been a good day," he gloved. "I sold two MITSUBISHI tractors and picked up firm prospects for three more. Good day hell, it was a great day!"

As Harry entered the garage to park next to his wife's HONDA, he noticed it would soon need a new set of BRIDGESTONE tires. "I wonder how much I could get for it in trade for a new TOYOTA," he mused.

Harry went into the house and took off his HONG KONG suit and slipped into his slacks and shirt from TAIWAN. He found his loving wife Harriet in the kitchen. She had already set the table with their MIKASA china and dinner was ready to pop into their SANYO microwave oven.

"Boy! I sure put in a day on that CANON calculator," he sighed. When he asked where the kids were, Harriet replied, "Jimmy took his girl friend for a ride on his KAWASAKI. Jill is in her room listening to her PANASONIC stereo. Randy went to the movies on his SUZUKI. Jane is out birdwatching with her NIKON binoculars and taking pictures with her PENTAX camera with MINOLTA telephoto lens and VIVITAR flash attachment."

Harry looked at his SEIKO watch and said, "Hey, let's go watch the news." They went into the living room and switched on their twenty-four inch SONY, Harry lit Harriet's cigarette with his KYOCHI lighter and said to her as they sipped their SAKI, "I wonder just how long it is going to take this damned Reagan to get our economy turned around!" "I really do not know darling; I always let you worry about things like that," she answered.

"Oh Harry, I have a wonderful idea," Harriet suggested. "Let's watch the Late Show tonight. 'It's From Here to Eternity,' all about when the Japs bombed Pearl Harbor." "It sounds good to me," smiled Harry.

Good Things Growing in Michigan

Ripe, red Michigan tomatoes are among the many good things growing all across the state right now. Last week-end, I saw in a friend's garden tomato plants six feet tall (we measured for accuracy) and loaded with ripening tomatoes.

Michigan grew more than 236 million pounds of tomatoes commercially last year, and we rank third among the states in processing production. The total crop was worth $20 million, according to the Michigan Department of Agriculture.

Whether you grow them in a backyard garden, buy them at your farmer's market or corner grocery, there are dozens of good uses for tomatoes. I don't think most of us could cook for any length of time without tomatoes or tomato preparations.

Fresh tomatoes are delicious simply sliced for a supper salad, perhaps dressed with a little oil and vinegar and garnished with sliced green onions. The question of whether to peel or not to peel depends upon your personal preference. If you must peel, it's easy if you first dip the tomatoes into simmering water, using a large slotted spoon, for a second or two to loosen the skins.

Fresh tomato slices topped with Parmesan cheese and a sprinkle of chives, then boiled a few minutes, are a flavorful accompaniment to many meals. Try them with a ham and cheese omelet for Sunday breakfast.

Cherry tomatoes make attractive and colorful hors d'oeuvres, stuffed with almost any filling. Slice off the stem end and use a small melon baller to scoop out the pulp. Stuff with minced chicken or egg salad.

Because we have such an abundance of tomatoes during this season, it's nice to store some of that goodness for winter use. Tomato sauce, simmered with chopped celery, green pepper, onions and seasonings, may be frozen to use in spaghetti sauces, chili, and many other recipes.

I find it easiest to wash and quarter ripe tomatoes, simmer until very tender, then put through a ricer or colander to remove the seeds and skins. Then I add my chopped vegetables and seasonings, simmer until quite thick, pour into freezer containers, chill and freeze.

Tips Offered Investors In Any Timeshare Plan

"Own two weeks in a fantastic resort. Your time guaranteed every year. All you have to do is..." Many people are reading ads like that and buying into a timeshare plan that enables them to use a vacation apartment or house for a set period of time. With a timeshare plan, you either buy or lease a share in the property, depending on the type of plan, and you may even be able to trade between resorts.

Timeshare plans can have problems, however. To help you protect yourself, the Federal Trade Commission has prepared a fact sheet called Ten Timeshare Tips that warns that there are some factors you should be aware of in making a purchase that may end up costing thousands of dollars. For a free copy of Ten Timeshare Tips, send your name and address on a postcard to Consumer Information Center, Dept. 637K, Pueblo, Colo. 81009.

One factor to consider is whether you will be able to use a timeshare facility regularly. Since timesharing means having pre-arranged vacation facilities, you'll need to have vacation times that aren't subject to last minute changes, or vary greatly in length or season from year to year.

Carefully examine any investment claims by the seller. The real value of timesharing is the use of the facilities, not profits. In addition, the future value of timeshares is subject to a host of conditions that make it difficult to predict its future worth.

Before you buy, check into the reputation of the company you're buying from. Talk to other users of the facilities. Call or visit consumer protection offices, local real estate agents, or Better Business Bureaus. If construction of the resort is still under way, make sure that promised completion dates are in writing.

Of course you should never sign any document under pressure or before you understand everything in it. Do all of the salesperson's verbal promises appear in the contract? Do you know the total cost, including finance charges, travel costs, and annual fees? Are there limits on the amount that these fees may increase? Is there a cooling-off period after signing that allows for cancellation of the contract and refund of your money? If not, you may want to hire an attorney to review the documents before you sign.

Finally, visit the resort if at all possible. Then compare the total costs for the timeshare facility, including transportation, finance charges, and maintenance fees, with the cost of a vacation at a similar place. Don't buy unless it is really to your advantage.

For more information, send for a copy of Ten Timeshare Tips. It's free. At the same time, you will receive a copy of the free Consumer Information Catalog that lists more than 200 other free or moderately-priced government publications of consumer interest. The Catalog is published quarterly by the Consumer Information Center of the General Services Administration.

Pfc. Scott Price Completes Marine Unit Clerk's Course

Marine Pfc. Scott E. Price, son of Edward M. and Elza A. Price of 711 W. Middle St., Chelsea, has completed the Unit Diary Clerk's Course.

The five-week course was conducted at Camp Pendleton, Calif. The course was designed to provide students with a working knowledge of processing and preparing a unit diary; the basic document of the Marine Corps Manpower Management System.

The course centered on the preparation and recording of reportable personnel information for input into the computer-based system. Additionally, students were instructed on the procedures for unit level recording of pay and allowances.

Ann Arbor Chamber Orchestra Season To Feature Area Debuts

The Ann Arbor Chamber Orchestra's 1982-1983 concert season will feature the area debuts of two young, rising musical talents, soprano Kathleen Battle and trumpeter Stephen Burns. Miss Battle, who regularly performs with the Metropolitan Opera, will appear with the Chamber Orchestra on their March 19 subscription concert. Burns, who recently appeared at the Mostly Mozart Festival at Lincoln Center and is a Young Artists International Competition winner, will perform with the orchestra on Feb. 10 and 11.

The 25-member chamber orchestra, under the baton of music director Carl Daehler, will open its fifth concert season Saturday,

Free Spirit Will Appear at Local Church

Free Spirit, a group of seven talented college-age Christian musicians will share their beliefs in testimony and song Tuesday, Sept. 14, at 7 p.m., at Chelsea Free Methodist church, 7665 Werkner Rd.

The concert will include inspirational music drawn from the group's 10-year history as recording and concert artists as well as a repertoire of new members that will appeal to all ages.

This year's troupe consists of: Tim Fosket, Seattle, Wash.; Todd Morgan, Buffalo, N.Y.; Cindy Shackley, Fort Wayne, Ind.; Colleen Morse, Saginaw; Steve Badsky, North Webster, Ind.; Barbara Connell, Washington, D.C., and Craig Ryan, Danville, Ill.

These musicians have interrupted their educations or careers for a year in order to share Jesus Christ in this full-time musical ministry. It is their conviction that all people, regardless of age, need the positive influence and encouragement of Jesus Christ presented in a fresh and appealing style through music.

The group's 14th album, entitled "In This Very Room" and recorded under the "Mustard Seed" label, has added to their international recognition. In past years, Free Spirit has appeared at the White House and the World's Fair as well as in the Holy Land, Rome, the Dominican Republic, Haiti and many parts of Europe. In addition, they have appeared in concert with other Christian recording artists and appeared at national and state Sunday school conventions and on a number of radio and television programs throughout North America.

In addition to their musical talents, members of Free Spirit share their Christian message with young and old in their audiences with the help of 18-inch hand puppets who present scriptural principles through song and dialogue.

Free Spirit is a self-supporting ministry of the Free Methodist Church of North America through its Department of Christian Education, Division of Youth Ministries.

This seminar will allow the public an opportunity to explore their interests in photography, visit the Artworlds' photo facilities including its new rebuilt and equipped darkroom, featuring Durst enlargers and Unicolor color processing equipment, and to meet the resident staff of photographer-instructors.

Admission is free and Artworlds will provide refreshments.

Congressman JIM DUNN Reports from Washington

★ Examining Tax Reform Alternatives . . .

Many Americans are becoming increasingly concerned about the size of their tax burden and the loopholes which enable certain people to avoid paying their fair share. Many of these people have suggested that the United States should consider reforming our tax structure to make it more equitable and prevent many people from taking advantage of the current federal income tax rules.

The Internal Revenue Service estimates that the underground economy accounts for more than $30 billion worth of unpaid income taxes a year and is growing at an annual rate of 10 percent. Some members of Congress have introduced legislation designed to reform our tax system based on a flat percentage tax rate with few or no deductions.

Rep. George Hansen of Idaho has introduced, H. R. 4821, the Tax Simplification Act, which provides for a 14 percent taxation rate of personal income with the current basic personal exemptions, and with deductions for only religious and catastrophic medical purposes. Rep. Leon Panetta of California has introduced another bill H. R. 6070, which would radically change the income tax by eliminating all deductions, credits, and exclusions, establishing a flat 19 percent tax on all income and creating a substantial personal exemption credit. This credit would prevent the major tax increase for low- and middle-income taxpayers that would otherwise accompany a switch to a flat-rate tax.

Representatives of some groups which benefit from current tax laws have expressed concern about plans to eliminate

MSU Prof Sees Cable Future For Newspapers

The newspaper of the future may be as long as 1,000 pages each day because the new journalism is going video, says a Michigan State University professor and cable systems consultant.

MSU's advertising department, says in five years people will receive their daily newspaper through electronic means. In 10 years, newsprint's popularity will decline and in 20 years half of all the newspapers in the country will be delivered via a cable system.

Block does not see a decline in competition among newspapers. "Newspapers will still compete with each other for subscribers. Instead of separate papers, there will be separate channels," he explains.

The professor predicts a bright future for video journalism. "Without the physical limitations of today's newspapers, there will be more stories and more in-depth stories. This will mean that additional staff will have to be added in the editorial operation," he says.

Clear Lake Camp Building Destroyed By Fire Aug. 29

An unoccupied building at Clear Lake Camp was destroyed by fire the afternoon of Aug. 29.

The fire department responded to the call at 3:23 p.m., said Fire Chief Paul Hankerd, but the building was badly damaged when the first truck got there.

The 15 Chelsea firemen, aided by the Grass Lake Fire Department, wet down the building. The fire was contained to the one building, which Hankerd says was probably the old Boy Scout mess hall, since it had a large kitchen. There were no injuries.

The fire, said Hankerd, is under investigation.

Paid Diversion In Wheat Program OK'd By House

A paid diversion program for 1983 grains was a part of the Fiscal 1983 Food and Agriculture Reconciliation Act passed by the U. S. House of Representatives on Aug. 10. The bill calls for farmers who participate in the 1983 Farm Program to reduce wheat acreage by 25 percent and corn acreage by 20 percent as a condition of eligibility for support loans and other benefits.

Wheat producers who comply would receive a paid diversion of $3 per bushel for normal yield on 10 percent of their reduced base acreage. A 10 percent paid diversion program with a payment of $1.50 per bushel would be required if the 1982 corn crop exceeds 7.3 billion bushels—almost a certainty at this time.

The Senate measure passed on Aug. 5 differs from the House bill in that farmers who reduce their wheat acreage by 15 percent and their corn acreage by 10 percent would receive a diversion payment for voluntarily reducing acreage another 10 percent. The bill calls for a payment of $120 and $150 per acre of wheat and corn, respectively, for the added 10 percent acreage reduction.
