CHANGES TO BE MADE? The old Chelsea Spring (Rockwell) plant on East St. is the subject of an application for an Industrial Development and Plant Rehabilitation District, filed by the Chelsea

Medical Clinic Building Corp., which has purchased the property from Rockwell International Corp. Development plans have not been revealed. The plant is presently unoccupied.

Industrial Rehabilitation Application Filed for Former Rockwell Plant

Chelsea Medical Clinic Building Corp., headed by Dr. Michael Papo, has filed an application with the Chelsea Village Council to have an Industrial Development and Plant Rehabilitation District established on the site of the old Chelsea Spring (Rockwell) plant.

The application was filed by attorney Peter C. Flintoff in behalf of the medical firm. It confirmed reports that the building and site had been purchased by the building corporation, which took over ownership on Sept. 21.

Neither Flintoff (who is also village attorney), Dr. Papo nor other persons known to be associated with Chelsea Medical Clinic Building Corp. could be reached for additional information.

"I honestly have no idea what they have in mind for the site," said Village Administrator Frederick A. Weber. "I am sure that the Village Council is going to want to know all the particulars before it decides on the application for an Industrial Development District."

The application is scheduled to be presented to the council tonight. The normal first step is to set a date for a formal hearing. At the hearing the development plans presumably will be made public.

Establishment of an Industrial Development and Plant Rehabilitation District would put the owners in position to seek a tax break under Act 198, P. A. 1974, which provides for a 50 percent reduction in assessments on improvements made on the property.

There is precedent for that in Chelsea, Weber said. Book-Crafters, Inc., a printing firm, located at 140 Buchanan St., received such a break, Weber said.

Chelsea Milling Co. asked for, and got, a district established for the Chelsea Lumber Co. property which it will take over after the first of the year for the purpose of building a new plant. The lumber company is moving to a new site off S. Main St. To this point Chelsea Milling has not requested tax abatement.

The property on N. Main St. recently rezoned from industrial to commercial to permit a convenience store across from the Sir Pizza restaurant is also covered by an Industrial Development District application, Weber said. However, rezoning voided the possibility of a tax break on the property, because it is no longer industrial.

The old Chelsea Spring plant is a village landmark. It was last owned by the Suspension and Components Division of Rockwell International Corp. before Chelsea Medical Clinic Building Corp. bought the property. The plant is presently empty and is widely considered to be obsolete.

The property fronts on East St. and is located just north of the railroad tracks and east of the Chelsea Standard building. The medical group is known to have purchased several other parcels of business and industrial property around town, apparently for long-term investment purposes.

Tregets Rezoning Request Nixed By Planning Comm.

Factories don't make good neighbors, decided the Chelsea Planning Commission at their Nov. 9 meeting. They recommended denying the rezoning of the old Riemenschneider two-cycle fuel property on Old US-12 from residential to light industrial, which had been requested by Tregets Tool and Engineering Co.

Although Tregets, a tool and die firm, wouldn't be all that objectionable, said Phil Hume, planning commission chairman, rezoning would set a precedent for that property, so that a factory with a more intensive use could move there someday.

The village's general development plan, intended to promote orderly and reasonable growth, shows that section of town as residential, he said. Other parts of town are zoned light industrial in the general development plan passed in 1976, so he suggested those parcels as alternatives.

The planning commission doesn't have the final word, though; village council does. They will set a date for a public hearing on the issue and hold the hearing at another meeting, before a final decision is made. The planning commission can only make recommendations on zoning.

Tuesday was the first time Stephen G. Dygert, a principal in Tregets, said he had heard anything negative about what the firm wanted to do.

"We would be moving our business into the village limits," he said, "and paying higher village taxes."

"We would create two new jobs at least if we moved. We can't grow where we are."

"That old plant, which is falling down, would be fixed up," he said, "and become an asset to the community instead of almost falling down."

He sees Old US-12 as an ideal location for light industrial use, he said. It has easy access to I-94, so trucks wouldn't have to rumble through town to get to and from factories.

The company is now just waiting to hear what the council decides, he says. They have not considered other sites.

Landfill Presents Potential Problem

Chelsea's sanitary landfill off Werkner Rd. northeast of the village has been identified as a "possible" site of groundwater contamination by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources.

Village Administrator Frederick A. Weber said monitoring wells have been drilled and the situation is being closely watched.

"It's possible that we do have a problem at the landfill," Weber said. "The soil is porous, and maybe is not really suitable to a landfill operation under the very stringent terms of Act 641 (the state's solid waste management law)."

"One problem is that there are no known landfill sites available to us which provide a solid, impermeable base which will absolutely prevent leakage of liquid discharges from a landfill into the groundwater. Let's face it, the soil around here is light and sandy."

"We are applying to renew our license to continue operating the landfill. We have 80 acres out there, and at least half of them are still usable."

"We may have to put in a clay base or a synthetic (plastic) liner in order to meet DNR requirements. The alternative is to abandon the landfill and have Chelsea's wastes put into a transfer station (big dumpsters) and hauled to some other landfill. That would be very expensive."

"The council eventually will have to decide what it wants to do."

In a survey of potentially contaminated groundwater sites the DNR identified virtually every sanitary landfill in the state. Liquids, including toxic chemicals, can build up over a period of time and travel downward through the soil into the water table, and spread from there.

"One way or another, it is going to cost Chelsea money to comply with the terms of Act 641," Weber said. "The old days of 'bury it and forget it' are gone. We don't want to be caught in the position of having contaminated water show up in some neighboring landowner's well. We may have to drill more and deeper monitoring wells around the landfill to keep track of what is happening."

No action is contemplated immediately, and the landfill will continue to be operated as it is now for the short term, Weber said, adding that he will prepare suggestions and recommendations for the council to consider.

Pharmacist From Spain Here on Study

Juan Altimiras, a pharmacist from Barcelona, Spain, arrived in Chelsea last Friday night to spend a week observing operations at the Chelsea Community Hospital pharmacy.

His visit was triggered by publication of an article in the American Journal of Hospital Pharmacy in April 1981. The article, titled "Medication Discharge Consultation Program in a Small Community Hospital," was co-authored by Lorraine Perkins, director of pharmacy at the Chelsea hospital, and Amy McCormack, former assistant director who is now working at St. Lawrence Hospital in Lansing.

Altimiras read the article, wrote to the authors for further information, and later received an educational grant to come to the United States for study. He came to Chelsea following a visit at the University of Nebraska medical center, and from here will go to the University of Minnesota.

While in Chelsea he will be a guest in the home of James and Joy Stacey.

Two Chain Saws Stolen in Burglary

Two chain saws valued at a total of $785 were stolen over the week-end from Huron Farm Supply, 8250 Dexter-Chelsea Rd. Entry into the building was made by breaking down a backdoor, the sheriff's department reported.

United Way Hits 77% in Final Week

Chelsea United Way campaign was 77 percent of the way to its $50,000 goal for its annual fund drive last Friday, reports Bob Porter, campaign chairman.

That means $38,375 has now been raised for the four Chelsea United Way agencies and others that are county- and state-wide.

Layoffs have cut into the contributions from heavy industry, says Porter, but still they are at 71 percent of goal, with two campaigns still to report, Chrysler Proving Grounds and Dana Corp.

Chelsea Milling Co. was one of the weekly United Way stars, he said. Their corporate contribution was up 25 percent over last year, and their employee contribution was up 7 percent.

The mail campaign is now 18 percent over goal.

The final campaign total will be done this week, so there is still time to help the campaign meet its goal, said Porter.

Fire Dept. Call Total Ahead of 1981

Chelsea Fire Department made 25 runs during October, Chief Paul E. Hankerd said in his monthly report to the Village Council. That total was nine more than in October a year ago, and helped put the department 38 calls ahead of its activity for the first 10 months of 1981.

So far this year the department has responded to 268 alarms, up from 230 at the comparable 1981 date.

In October the department made nine rescue (ambulance) runs, put out four grass fires, and went to the scene of three personal injury traffic accidents. There were two house fires and one barn fire involving damage to buildings.

Dexter Township Zoning Board OKs P-5 Ordinance

Dexter Township Zoning Board approved the P-5 Zoning Ordinance at their Tuesday, Nov. 9 meeting.

The ordinance was approved minus the load limit factor as recommended by both the Washtenaw County Planning Commission and the Dexter Township Zoning Board.

The motion was made by Marty Straub and seconded by Dave Scriven and accepted by a unanimous vote of the board.

Symphony Concert Set For Nov. 23

Chelsea High school symphony will give a concert at 8 p.m. Nov. 23 in the high school auditorium.

The string, woodwind, brass and percussion sections will combine to play the Overture to "Samson," by G. F. Handel; a medley of Jim Croce tunes; "The Hoe-down," from Aaron Copland's "Rodeo," and "Fantasia on Greensleeves," by Ralph Vaughan Williams. Christina Steffenson, a seventh-grade harpist, will accompany them on the Vaughan Williams number.

The string section will be featured in Bach's Brandenburg Concerto No. 3 and Edvard Grieg's "Holberg Suite."

This concert had originally been scheduled for Nov. 19, so please note the change of date.

Aug. 30 Date Set For Fair Opening

Hold your calendar free Aug. 30 to Sept. 3, 1983. Those dates for the 1983 Chelsea Community Fair were confirmed by Crown Amusement and fair board members at a Nov. 11 meeting at the fair service center.

Tentative arrangements for an antique tractor pull July 16-17, 1983 were made by Kim Smith, Wayne Dalton, Marvin Goss, Jerry Brace, and Ike Fry, representatives of the Central Michigan Antique Gas and Tractor Club, Inc.

Jerry Heydlauff, fair board president, called the meeting to order and minutes of the October meeting were read and accepted. Bills were presented and approved for payment.

At the annual meeting which followed, new officers and directors for 1983 were elected.

Art Stelaway was chosen president; Jerry Herrick, vice-president; Maryann Guenther, secretary; and Debbie Stapish, treasurer.

Father-Son Get Bucks on Opening Day

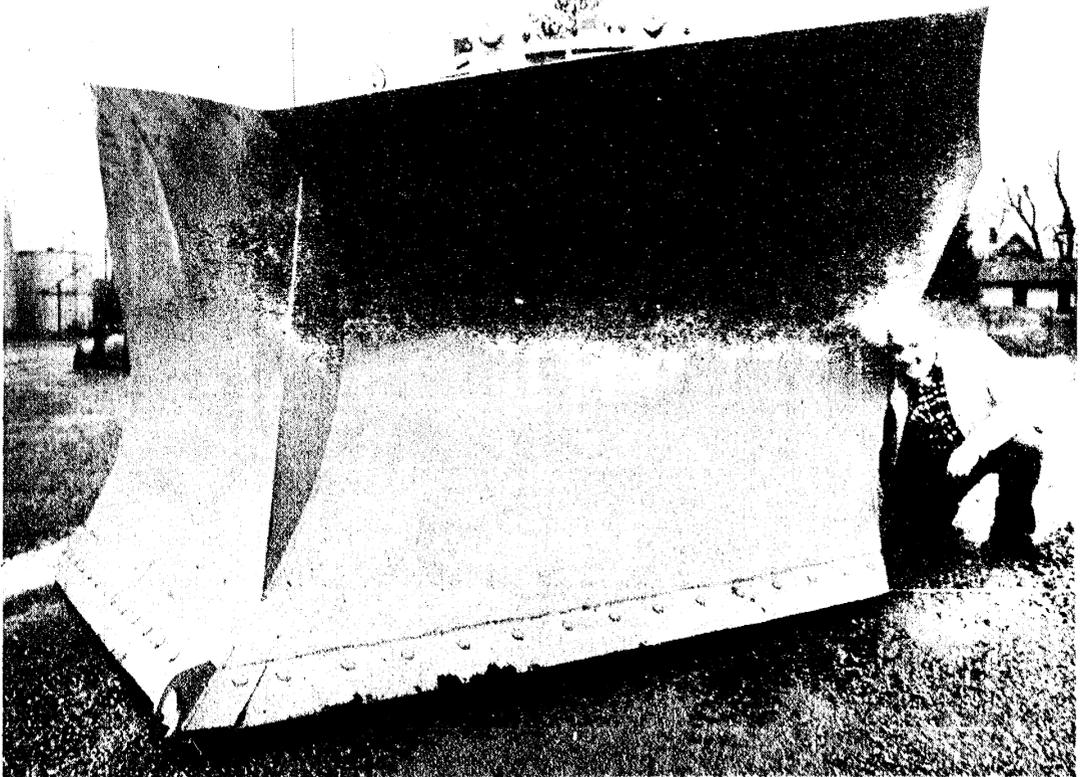

Double-play deer hunting was a father-son effort Nov. 15 for the Moores of 8800 Trinkle Rd.

Steven, 14, and his father Robert Moore, a 27-year deer hunting veteran, had seen deer behind their Trinkle Rd. home in the last few weeks, so that's where they waited.

Steven shot his six-point 200-pound buck at 7:30 a.m. It was his first deer ever, so he may have it mounted.

Robert Moore, 41, shot an eight-point, 175-pound buck at 10 a.m. He could only take off the morning from work, so he was under a bit of time pressure. He already has two other mounted deer trophies in the basement, so this one probably won't be mounted.

Joining in on the excitement but not the hunt, was David, 11. The family is hoping for a triple play in three years.

GETTING READY FOR WINTER: Washtenaw county escaped a predicted blizzard last week-end, as the storm went north and dumped up to 18 inches of snow on the Upper Peninsula. However, snow can come any time now, and road clearing crews are ready for it. Here, Emerson Wheeler of 121 Lincoln St. gives a final check to a snowplow blade. Wheeler, a long-time employee of the Washtenaw County Road Commission, works out of the commission's Chelsea yard at 430 W. Middle St.

Thursday, Nov. 18, 1978—Chelsea United Way's annual fund drive has passed the halfway mark of its $38,500 goal, said Will Connelly, general fund chairman. Pledges Chelsea residents made at work outside the area but designated for Chelsea have not yet been recorded.

Chelsea girl varsity swimmers won the second annual Chelsea Invitational Nov. 16, beating second-place Dundee, 363-284. Albion, Monroe, Willow Run, and Lincoln also competed.

Chelsea gridders will play more non-conference games next year. South Lyon, Novi and Brighton have dropped out of the Southeastern Michigan conference and only two teams, Jackson County Western and Tecumseh will replace them. Tecumseh, however, still has one more year left in the Huron League.

Dave Kaercher of Pinckney has been renovating the former Davidson Station at 113 S. Main St. as a bar-restaurant emphasizing memorabilia decor. He will name it Chelsea Woodshed and plans to open in January. Chelsea Planning Commission approved a 600-square foot addition at the rear to expand the seating capacity.

FUNERALS FOR THE MILITARY AND FRATERNAL

When a veteran's military funeral and burial is required, there are specific ceremonies, equipment and procedures that must be adhered to — and exactly! We have the proper ceremonial equipment and are well-versed in military protocol so that we can provide services "by the book" in honoring the veteran in his final hour.

Fraternal orders, such as the Masons, also have specific funeral requirements. We have conducted many, many funerals for members of fraternal and religious orders, so we are used to handling those rituals so important to the brotherhoods.

If you would like to have advance information regarding military requirements and veteran's funeral and burial expense allowances, or about the many fraternal order funerals we have conducted, just call or drop by. We invite you to counsel with our funeral specialists, be he Masonic, military, K of C, Elks or any of the other fine groups in the area.

Fuel Supplies Should Be Adequate for Winter

There should be no shortages of fuel—either natural gas, electricity, gasoline or heating oil—to meet winter needs in Michigan this year, Governor William G. Milliken has reported.

A report from both the Energy Administration and the Public Service Commission shows that supplies of the major fuels used should be adequate, but price increases, especially for natural gas, indicate that continued consumer conservation is needed.

Currently more than 200 billion cubic feet of natural gas is being stored, which should meet Michigan's needs even if the 1982-83 winter is colder than last year, Milliken said.

But natural gas prices are expected to increase from 15 percent to 20 percent, "indicating that energy conservation continues to be a good idea for all of us," the governor said.

Milliken added electrical use should be down slightly from the previous winter and said the report indicated that generating capacities should be able to provide the 67 billion kilowatt hours which is estimated will be needed.

The report added that more than 1.2 billion gallons of home heating oil are stored at terminals and refineries throughout the Midwest.

Proposal Unveiled for Repair of Zilwaukee Bridge

A proposal to repair damages to the yet-unfinished Zilwaukee Bridge, delaying the opening by almost a year, has been unveiled by officials of the Department of Transportation.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

With a genuine all-American holiday just ahead, the fellers was looking on the bright side of everything they could Saturday night at the country store. Even Ed Doolittle was more in the mood for giving thanks than viewing with alarm. He said here we are nearly two months into the new federal year, and he was pleased to note that even the Democrats admit there's life after all their programs died in September that they said we would die without.

Democrat Clem Webster didn't take the bait, except to say that it looked to him like the Administration was working its way around to a Republican edition of New Deal make work programs, and that $3.8 billion youth training deal may be no more than seed money if all them new Congressmen and the ones that survived can come to any kind of understanding about what they were saying and meaning during the heat of battle last month.

Moving on around the heater, Zeke Grubb said his list of blessings include a letup in congressional mail since the election. Zeke said there for a while he figured Sen. Charles Mathias underestimated his feller lawmakers. Mathias figured out the other day that Senators will send 245 million pieces of mail back home this year at a cost to taxpayers of $37 million. Zeke was wondering if this meant $37 million the Senate pays the Postal Service for the free service, or $37 million that will show up in USPS red ink and be made up in subsidy, as if that made a difference. At any rate, Mathias said for that kind of postage bill, the Senate could put up an office building ever four year and televise its sessions 100 year.

When his turn come, Bug Hookum said he had been looking for the silver lining in that cloud out of Knoxville, Tenn. and he final found it. The Tennessee Valley Authority there says it will abandon four nuclear power plants where $1.9 billion has been spent because it has figured out that the electricity they would turn out won't be needed for at

The proposal, which includes putting in a new footing for the section of the bridge that cracked and dropped, could begin within weeks, assuming the federal government approves the proposal, according to Gerald J. McCarthy, deputy department director for highways.

McCarthy said he did not have a total cost figure for the repairs, but noted it would cost at least $300,000 to $400,000 for repairs to caissons and footings. Additional costs will be required for a temporary support truss.

He also said until a determination was made on who was responsible for the damage to the $81 million structure, payments for the repairs would be borne by the federal and state governments.

The contractors for the project could be made to pay for the repair project if they are found responsible for the damage.

The damage occurred on Aug. 28 after a bridge segment weighing 157 tons was loaded onto a gantry crane above the bridge deck.

At that time, one end of the deck section attached to a support pier dropped five feet, raising the opposite end three and one-half feet.

Support footings were cracked. The bridge was scheduled to open in the fall of 1983 and McCarthy noted the contractors were barely on schedule before the accident.

The repairs will delay the opening of the bridge until at least the summer of 1984.

Officials are checking the other bridge footings to see if they would be subject to cracking.

Petition Drive To Protect Recreational Land Trust Fund

Directors of the Michigan United Conservation Clubs have authorized a petition drive to place on the 1984 ballot a constitutional amendment prohibiting the use of the funds in the Recreational Land Trust Fund for reasons other than purchase of land to be held in trust.

MUCC Executive Director Thomas Washington said the Legislature has been dipping into the fund to solve its current financial problems rather than use the money to acquire land as it was originally intended.

The fund was created statutorily in 1976 to earmark royalties and lease fees from oil, gas and mineral production on state-owned lands for the purchase of prime recreational land to be held in trust for future generations.

Two Thanksgiving Dinners Offered Senior Citizens

Chelsea senior citizens are doubling their Thanksgiving fun. They will have two dinners, one at 6 p.m. Friday, Nov. 19 at the North school cafeteria and another sponsored by the nutrition site, noon, Wednesday, Nov. 24 at the North school senior center.

Last year 225 persons attended the evening dinner, the cafeteria's capacity. There are some spaces left, but reservations should be made soon. Each month the seniors have a special event night, but this dinner is considered the highlight of the year. This evening is also a way seniors say "Thank you" to community members who contribute to their program.

Don Cole of Burghardt-Cole Chelsea Funeral Chapel will again donate the turkeys for the dinner. Fran Ferry, of the Chelsea school district cafeteria, will supervise trimmings such as dressing, rolls, mashed potatoes, gravy, green beans, tossed salad, and pumpkin pie.

Ann Arbor Youth Repertory Theatre will perform a Tom Sawyer play. Chelsea High school freshmen cheerleaders will direct parking at North school. They and other volunteers from First Step For Girls will help serve the dinner.

The meal and entertainment will cost $3 per person.

The noon dinner on Nov. 24 will feature turkey, dressing, sweet potatoes, mixed vegetables, cranberry relish, and pumpkin pie. Meals need to be ordered, so anyone interested should make a reservation no later than Tuesday, Nov. 23.

Homemakers Club Members Follow Clues on Road Rally

Chelsea Homemakers Club members and their husbands met in Polly's parking lot the evening of Oct. 23 to begin their first road rally. Many thanks to Nancy and John Bihlmeyer and to Holly and John Porter for planning the route, devising the clues, and organizing minutia, which made for a truly fun evening for all.

Homemakers and their husbands had to solve clues which took them to places such as the Chelsea Greenhouse, Sylvan Center, the Wolverine Lounge, McCalla Feeds, Honeggers, the home of DeeDee and Bob Koengeter, and the home of Harold Powers.

Members were given a special surprise welcome at the Bradbury home. Archie, Cindy and their son sprinkled them with a hose and made them chase the can which contained the clues. A frightening, masked man also chased the road rallyers.

The final clue was to Lloyd and Arlene Grau's home, where everyone laughed, told and retold their evening's experiences. Refreshments made by Liz Houle, Arlene Grau and Georgia Myers were served as everyone waited for teams to arrive.

First place winner was the team of Diane and Earl Horning, Leah and Jerry Herrick, and Debbie and Dan O'Connor. They each received a $100,000 candy bar.

In second place was the team of Vicki and Tom Kern and Barb and Dave Roehm. They got Payday candy bars.

The third place team of Wanda and Don Koengeter, Georgia and Jerry Myers, and Marge and Don Plumb got slowpoke suckers, as did the fourth, fifth, and sixth place teams.

Pat and Jerald Flinn, Arlene and Merritt Honbaum, and Sharon and Dave Roehm made up the fourth place team. Fifth place team members were Else and Bob Heller, Arlene and Lloyd Grau, and Liz and Gary Houle. Sixth place went to DeeDee Koengeter, club president, her husband Bob, and Barb and Ken Haist.

Barbara Schardein, Dennis Stoffer Speak Vows at St. Pauls' Church

Chelsea residents Barbara Lauren Schardein and Dennis John Stoffer were married at 6 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 6 in a candlelight ceremony at St. Paul United church of Christ.

The Rev. Erwin R. Koch officiated at the ceremony uniting the daughter of James and Mary Schardein of Kalamazoo and the son of John and Carolyn Stoffer of 237 Adams St. Thomas Sharrard sang "Let It Be Me" and "Perhaps Love." Beverly Slater sang "The Lord's Prayer," and Laurel Smith read scripture.

The bride wore a dress with a traditional Queen Anne neckline, fitted bodice with dropped waist, and straight sleeves overlaid with beaded chantilly lace. The taffeta skirt overlaid with organza extended into a cathedral train and had appliques that matched those on the hat she wore.

Matron of honor was Carolyn Schardein Smith of Atlanta, Ga. She wore an aubergine purple floor-length gown of selestia knit featuring a high military neckline, a yoke of Brussels lace, and bishop sleeves with Brussels lace on the cuffs. A wrap-draped front skirt accented the gown.

The set-up and organization committee was composed of Elise Heller, Deedee Koengeter, Liz Houle and Debbie O'Connor.

She joined members for refreshments served by the hostess. Everyone had a most enjoyable, informative evening.

Members are to meet at 6:15 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 14 at the Big Boy parking lot for a Christmas dinner at a surprise location.

Main objectives of the Occupational Safety and Health Administration for fiscal 1983 fall into six major categories; management, employer-employee assistance, state programs, compliance, federal agency programs, and standards, the U.S. Department of Labor reports.

VFW Auxiliary Inspection Conducted By District President

The annual inspection meeting of the Chelsea VFW Auxiliary was held Monday, Nov. 5 at the Post Home, 105 N. Main St. District President Mary Erskine called the meeting to order with 12 members and two guests present. Debra Fuller, sixth district president, conducted the inspection with the assistance of Mrs. Barbara Fuller.

Mrs. Elvira M. Heldt of Milan, the mother of Carl Heldt of the Chelsea Post, was voted in as a new member. Barbara Fuller was initiated as an honorary member of the Auxiliary.

Gertrude O'Dell reported on sending flowers to Beulah Knott's funeral. Later a thank you note from her family was read to the members.

Lucy Platt, hospital chairman, reported on October parties at Ypsilanti State Hospital and at the VA Hospital in Ann Arbor sponsored by the Post and Auxiliary. Both were very successful and appreciated by the patients.

Virginia Schirmacher, community service chairman, said although only a few persons took advantage of the Post's free babysitting and coffee on election day, those that did may not have voted if the service had not been available. On Oct. 30 1 1/2 tons of paper were collected for the paper drive of Boy Scout Troop No. 476, and 225 bags of candy were given to the ghosts and goblins roaming village streets on Halloween. The remaining 75 bags were presented to St. Louis School for Boys.

Two corsages and boutonnieres entered in the annual Pow Wow Buddy Poppy contest at Boyne Mountain by Auxiliary member Bertha White won third place.

The meeting was interrupted so members could watch "That's Incredible," which had a story on the "kid's fire department" at the VFW National Home in Eaton Rapids. The segment featured a surprise fire drill—not the kind in local schools—the young persons had to extinguish a fire set in the building for the purpose of the drill and to keep it from spreading to the rest of the building. This was done within minutes of the alarm.

Fire chiefs from surrounding communities such as Onondaga praised the young fire fighters' ability.

The Auxiliary's annual Christmas bazaar and bake sale will be held only one day this year—starting at 9 a.m. Friday, Nov. 19 at the Post Home. Anyone wishing to donate baked goods should put their name and phone number on each item for the consumer's benefit. Such is a sign of the times.

The next meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. Dec. 13 and feature a brief social hour following the meeting.

Is All Diabetes the Same?

There are two types of diabetes. About 10% of all patients have Type I, insulin-dependent diabetes. It formerly was called juvenile-onset because it most commonly develops in children and young adults. This is the more severe form of the disease. It begins abruptly and requires immediate attention. People with Type I diabetes must take insulin by injection one or more times a day.

"... We Never Talked About That..."

Almost everyone, in the course of making funeral arrangements says something like this: "Oh, I wish I knew what he would have liked. We... we never talked about it and... I just don't know..."

It isn't necessary that those left behind be burdened with this added agony of indecision. The thoughtful, sensible thing to do, is to record your wishes in advance of necessity.

★ Education and the New Federalism . . .

Whether one looks at the local, state or federal level of government, the environment has changed. Perhaps most disturbing is the implementation of the "new" federal policy of letting the state and local communities carry on alone. Historically, the federal government's role has been to initiate, to support, and to encourage new and needed programs and innovations — programs and innovations mandated either by the times and circumstances, or by the courts. The Morrill Act, the Smith-Hughes Act, the GI Bill, the National Defense Education Act, and the Elementary and Secondary Act were responses to the needs perceived at the federal level.

In 1954 the Brown decision provided the impetus for the integration of public schools, and huge federal investments in quality educational opportunities. In the late 1950's, the federal government, reacting to the Sputnik satellite syndrome, moved with the National Defense Education Act, and science and math in our schools became priority items.

The Elementary and Secondary Act in the 1960's was a commitment by the nation to support educational opportunity for those whose social and economic environment handicapped them educationally and, therefore, deprived them of full participation in our social system.

In the 1970's, educational equity was extended to the handicapped. Over several decades education was seen not only as a tool to build for national strength, but also as a lever that could fundamentally alter a perceived cycle of poverty and ignorance, thereby helping a segment of our population that had been permanently poor and that had imposed a high social cost on our total society.

The 1980 Presidential and Congressional election brought about a dramatic change in the course to which the federal government was committed. The new administration reordered priorities, and a new attitude of non-involvement toward public education has taken shape and is being implemented.

We must proceed to adapt, to modify, and to make what changes might be necessary to sustain and strengthen the educational enterprise. Nationally we spend an average of 10¢ per student per day on instructional materials — not half the cost of daily newspaper. Textbook sales in 1981 were about one-half the cost of an M-1 tank.

The challenge for the next decade will be to develop our human resources to cope effectively with the change we know will take place. Job opportunities, social stability, national progress, and national security will depend in great measure on our human resource investment.

Dexter Township Studying Fire Service Offers

Further inquiries and investigation is progressing on the question of fire department assigned territories, according to Dexter township supervisor Arlene Howe.

Mrs. Howe and the board are gathering pertinent information regarding comparable response times from both the Pinckney Fire Department and the Dexter Fire Department, mutual aid agreements and cost factors.

The board hopes to request a meeting soon of the parties concerned and determine the best method of providing fire protection to the township.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor,
I would appreciate the opportunity to comment on the opinion expressed in your recent article on the race for 52nd district.

Even though we knew the 52nd district was heavily Republican, we decided to give it our best effort. We ran a very strong issues-oriented campaign, and I am proud of the fact that it never left the "high road."

The campaign lost in numbers, but accomplished many other goals:

(1) It forced a discussion of the issues which doesn't happen if a candidate is unopposed. We presented, with dignity and enthusiasm, a moderately progressive alternative on the issues.

(2) The organizational work so many of us spent hundreds of hours on helped other Democrats on the ticket and will continue to help for many campaigns to come.

(3) It helped many residents who are Democrats become more aware that, while they are clearly not in the majority in western Washtenaw, their numbers are substantial and becoming more well-organized.

For me personally it was a great challenge, an adventure, an unforgettable experience.

I sincerely congratulate Margaret O'Connor on also having run a dignified and thoroughly honest campaign. Between the two of us, we left few issues unexplored.

I encourage friends, supporters, even those in the other party, to become even more involved in the political arena. It strengthens our culture, our characters, and our country. The quality of our politics is equal only to the quality of involvement from those who will stand up and participate.

Henry J. Flandy.

Dear Mr. Editor:
I would like to share something with you and your readers of a mixture that is both personal and community concern.

You printed in your obituary section the fact that one Frances Warner died on Oct. 24. To you and your readers she was "just someone." And you're right in manner of speaking. Frances was 97 years young, and spent a quiet life without marching for one cause or another. Her greatest interests amounted to her son, family, faith, and her one hobby, bingo.

She spent 42 years touching my life, 37 of those as her daughter-in-law, 13 years as our personal care. Her passing did not cause traffic to stop, nor flags to be flown at half-mast. But what she left behind is a cause and a need within this community. Please let me explain.

There is in this community of Chelsea strong family ties. Parents, grandparents, children, cousins, and so on. These folks care for their own more or less. But into this Chelsea family, come families whose ties are not rooted here, but who have the same problems as everyone else. Sure, the medical staff and professional people here in Chelsea are the best—but that is not all one needs. When there is, for instance, a physically handicapped person in a neighbor's home and that handicap is caused by accident, disease, or longevity there is a need to reach out and touch them. A word of concern, a card, a phone call. Your favorite cookies, and a smile are the best medicine around that cannot be bought for money, and will never be filled as a prescription at the pharmacy, but is a sure relief for not only the patient, but for those who care for them as well.

So it's almost Thanksgiving time and as we count our blessings, let us put our prayer into reality by looking across the street, or to the folks who live next door. Find those who are caring for loved ones 24 hours a day, or those who are alone for whatever reason, and touch them in a very special showing of loving concern.

This concern on the part of each of us would make every "Newcomer" to our community of Chelsea feel welcome.

Another wonderful source within our community from which all kinds of big and small daily miracles happen is the numerous churches which are beacons of hope. No one sees God, except through His people. This writing is dedicated to all the "Frances" people of our community and to those who care for them. God Bless you, and strengthen you with His love, just as He did me. Millie Warner.

Your Health Options

By Beverly Chethick
Director of Health Education, Washtenaw County Health Dept.

I was shocked to learn my employer spends more than $1,000 each year on Health insurance premiums for my family. Is there any way I can keep these costs down?

Many people think that if they are covered by health insurance, their medical care is free. Not so!

Even though you have health insurance, it's in your best interest to use health care services carefully. Premiums go up as medical costs and other health costs rise, and the more your employer spends on health insurance premiums, the less will be available for direct pay raises and extra paid vacation days.

There are two basic actions you can take to keep health care costs down. Use health services wisely and try to stay healthy.

Use health services wisely: Use emergency rooms only for emergencies. If possible see your doctor in his/her office; it usually costs twice as much to be treated in the emergency room.

If you need a medical procedure, ask if it can be done on an out-patient basis. Some procedures can be done easily and safely — and at less cost — outside the hospital.

Keep hospital stays short. Even one extra day in the hospital is very expensive. When we realize that almost 50% of our total health care bill goes to pay for hospital stays, it pays to consider recovery at home. It's cheaper and often is just as good for you. Use your doctor's services wisely. Choose a doctor before you need one so that when you have a health problem, you can turn to someone who knows your health history. If you need a specialist, your doctor will recommend one. Don't be afraid to talk about fees.

Try to stay healthy: Don't smoke. Smokers have a 70% greater chance of heart attack and are more likely to get lung cancer, emphysema or bronchitis.

Avoid being overweight. Eat balanced diets. Overweight contributes to high blood pressure and is harmful to the heart and circulatory system.

Finally, exercise regularly, avoid too much alcohol, get enough rest, and have periodic checkups. (Many illnesses are easier and less expensive to treat in their early stages.) An ounce of prevention is still worth a pound of cure!

Your HEALTH OPTIONS appears monthly in this paper. If you have a health related question, please write to this paper, ATTN: YOUR HEALTH OPTIONS, or directly to the Washtenaw County Health Department, Health Education Office, Box 8645, Ann Arbor 48107.

The Mouse That Roared Has Been Successful Comedy

"The Mouse That Roared," a comedy which the Chelsea High school stage and drama class will perform Dec. 16, first appeared as a novel by Leonard Wibberley in 1955.

The novel was made into a film in 1959 and was a tremendous hit, running for 26 weeks in some major cities. Peter Sellers played all three of the leading roles. Christopher Sergel turned the novel into a play in 1963, and it has been successful among amateur theater groups ever since.

"The Mouse That Roared" has been acclaimed as the most uproarious comedy in play form. It's a story of a war declared by the world's tiniest nation—the Duchy of Grand Fenwick, a 15-square mile valley in the Alps—against the United States. Tickets for the play at 7:30 p.m. Dec. 16 will go on sale Dec. 2 at Chelsea Pharmacy. Ticket prices have not yet been set.

Manchester Buses OK'd By Inspectors

On the recent annual Michigan State Inspection of the Manchester school bus fleet all buses were approved without deficiencies by the end of the inspection day. It is extremely rare for a school to be fully approved with no yellow or red tags at the end of the inspection day.

Teams from the Michigan State Police annually visit each school district to inspect every school bus which is used. This inspection is known nationally for being rigorous and extremely thorough. The process insures the safety of all students who ride buses. Inspectors have the authority to red tag buses which means they may not be used until corrections have been made. Yellow tags mean that a deficiency has been noted but that the school district may continue to utilize the bus until corrections have been made.

Rusty LeFurge, transportation supervisor, and Bob Brady, assistant mechanic, have worked extremely hard to keep the bus fleet in top-notch repair," said Superintendent Eugene Thompson. "I am extremely proud of the quality of our transportation department. All persons involved in the department take a great deal of pride in the service they provide to the community. The results are seen in the way in which drivers handle the equipment and the way the mechanics work to keep each piece in safe and efficient repair. It's not an easy job, especially in the winter. I am proud of all employees concerned with transporting students."

Nancy Burkhalter Named to County Planning Commission

Mrs. Nancy Burkhalter of 10956 Scio Church Rd., Lima township, has been appointed to the Washtenaw County Planning Commission after a one-year lapse and is delighted by the opportunity to come back.

She served a partial term in 1978-81, after being named to fill a vacancy, sought reappointment and was denied in favor of then county commissioner Gerald Faye of Ann Arbor.

Her new appointment is for a full three years beginning Jan. 1 and follows a spate of criticism that the county Board of Commissioners has been "too political" in selecting persons to serve on citizen bodies which are advisory to the board. The criticism focused on the fact that most appointments were going to current and past board members.

Mrs. Burkhalter, whose husband, Ken, is chairman of the Lima Township Planning Commission, said she regards her appointment as recognition that the rural, primarily agricultural interests of west Washtenaw county deserve a voice and a hearing on the Planning Commission.

"I think I can fairly represent those interests," she said. "I was disappointed when I wasn't allowed another term in 1981, and I am very happy now to be returning to the commission. I tried hard for the appointment and am delighted to have been selected."

Representation on the Planning Commission should not be based solely on population. If it is, then west Washtenaw has no voice whatever. I believe that urban and rural interests can work together, and I will encourage that.

"I was active on the agricultural lands committee (of the commission) when I served before, and hope to be again. I think my strong suit is rural planning."

Among many other civic activities, Mrs. Burkhalter's include service on the Mill Creek Research Council which is seeking to have a large portion of MRS. NANCY BURKHALTER stands outside her farm residence on Scio Church Rd. and reflects her pleasure at being reappointed to the Washtenaw County Planning Commission for a three-year term beginning Jan. 1. She says she intends to represent the interests of the county's rural western area during her commission service.

Lima township south of I-94 declared an "historic district" to preserve it as an agricultural area with long roots into the past.

A native of Petoskey, Mrs. Burkhalter has a degree in elementary education from the University of Michigan and taught for several years. She presently works part-time as a legal secretary for the Ann Arbor law firm of Harris, Lax, Gregg & Guenzel.

She has been active in the League of Women Voters. The Burkhalters have two sons, Scott and Chris, enrolled in Chelsea High school, and Mrs. Burkhalter says she retains a "strong interest" in education but is not presently involved other than as a parent.

The Burkhalters live on a 25-acre farm and "practice what they preach" about preserving the rural environment.

Neighbors Help Out at Time of Fire

Sometimes there is a story behind a story.

Last week The Standard reported a fire which destroyed a three-car garage at the home of Dr. John O'Brien, 2987 Fletcher Rd., with a loss of $14,000.

After reading the story, the Rev. John R. Morris, pastor of Zion Lutheran church which is located at Fletcher and Waters Rds., close to the O'Brien home, came in to tell the rest of it.

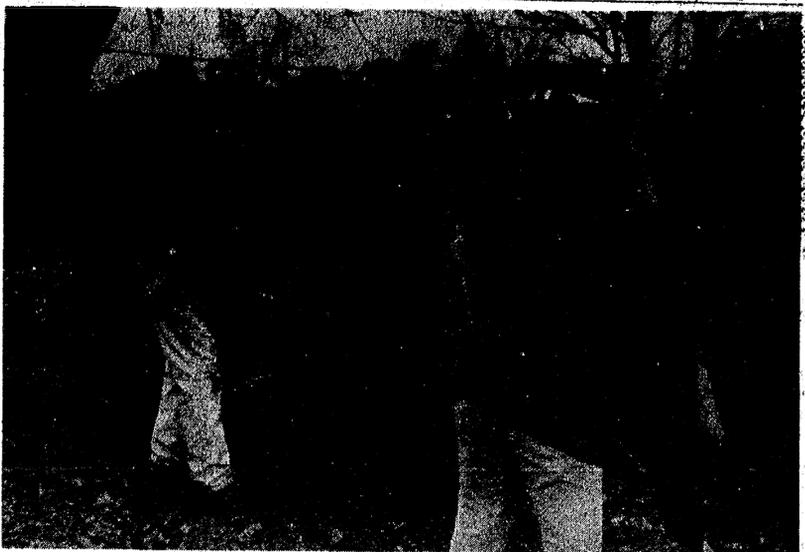

According to his account, two neighborhood teen-age boys, Darin Buss and Chris Grau, and a married couple, Elliott and Alice Lounsbury who also live nearby, spotted the night-time fire.

Together they aroused Dr. O'Brien, his wife and two children, who were sleeping, and their immediate neighbors, and summoned the Chelsea fire department. While waiting for the firemen and engines to get there, they began spraying the fire with garden hoses.

The burning garage was just a few feet from the O'Brien residence. Shrubbery between the two buildings caught fire, and the outside wall of the house started to scorch. The amateur firefighters managed to keep the dwelling from igniting until the fire department got there and took control.

"I'm convinced the house would have been lost but for this outstanding example of neighbors helping neighbors," the Rev. Morris said. "We are so quick to criticize people these days for refusing to get involved, and especially quick to criticize teenagers, that I thought your readers should know about this incident."

CHELSEA CO-OP NURSERY got five new pieces of playground equipment made of telephone poles, 2 x 4s, belts and old tires last week-end. Parents worked through eight hours of cold and snow Nov. 5 to install it. Jerry Marshall, a Michigan Bell employee, donated several "junkie" telephone poles, which had been removed from a building site to the school. Sherry Jones, the school's four-year-old teacher, her husband Phil, and Marshall scouted school yards looking for designs to fit the materials. Co-op membership approved the five designs. Tom Broughton, left, Dallas Peace, Marshall, Warren Atkinson, and Paul Dunn are assembling this piece. Phil Jones works in the foreground. Lee Mathieu, Tom Tuttle, Bryce Flinn and Scott Marshall, who also helped, are not pictured. Michigan Bell donated both the poles and a truck with a power auger to dig the holes. Other materials were donated by Chelsea Lumber Co and Fingler Lumber Co.

Restaurant Manager Dies of Wounds Following Shooting

Warren P. McIntyre, 31, manager of the Round Haus restaurant in Ypsilanti township, died last Thursday after having been shot by an armed robber on Oct. 22.

A $1,500 reward has been offered for information leading to the arrest and conviction of McIntyre's assailant, who is now a murderer.

McIntyre was forced to lie on the floor of the restaurant and then was blasted three times at close range with a shotgun.

Anyone with information is asked to call the sheriff's department at 971-8400. Informants may request anonymity if they choose.

What Is Diabetes?

Diabetes is a serious, chronic disease for which there is no cure at the present time, but which can be controlled. It is caused by the body's failure to make use of certain foods in the normal way. When diabetes develops, the body either does not produce enough insulin or does not properly make use of the insulin that is produced. Then the body is unable to use a form of sugar called glucose, one of the normal products of digestion. High levels of glucose build up in the blood and can lead to life-threatening complications.

THIS BIG BOULDER at the corner of Harrison and East Sts. has been more or less continuously painted since at least the 1950's, and so have the sidewalks in front. A similar painted rock in Ann Arbor is the subject of public controversy there, but the Chelsea boulder is causing no problems.

Chelsea's Painted Rock Accepted As Tradition

Like Ann Arbor, Chelsea has a painted rock.

Unlike Ann Arbor's, Chelsea's painted rock is not a cause of local controversy, or at least hasn't been so far.

Chelsea's rock is located at the corner of Harrison and East Sts. on private property occupied by the Schoolhouse apartment complex. It is heavily decorated with graffiti messages which are obviously the work of teen-agers equipped with cans of spray paint.

The painting is not confined to the boulder. It extends to the sidewalk on both sides of the corner. It is neither artistic nor especially attractive, but it doesn't seem to bother anybody.

Village Administrator Frederick A. Weber says that the rock has been regularly painted since at least the mid-1950's and quite possibly before then, and so have the walks.

"Nobody has complained about it, and so we don't worry about it," Weber said. "The rock is on private property, so it's really not a village government concern. The sidewalk painting is technically a violation of the law, but it would be awfully difficult to stop. It probably would require that somebody stand guard there all night."

"The only way to end the painting would be to take the rock away, and I'm not about to recommend that. In fact, I'm not sure we have the authority to do it, because the rock is on private property."

Weber added that the paint-daubed sidewalks will have to be replaced shortly, but not because of the paint.

"The walks are badly cracked," he noted. "We looked at them this year and decided they could last awhile longer. I suppose the new concrete will be painted whenever we do put it in."

A spokesman for the Ann Arbor firm which manages the Schoolhouse apartments, James Bernard, said his company is not especially concerned so long as paint is not sprayed on the buildings in the complex.

"So far as I know, we have had just one instance of that during the six years that the buildings have been there," Bernard said, "and it was minor. If it became a big problem, we probably would have to think about having the rock hauled away."

Bernard added that he would rather not think about that possibility, because moving the big boulder would be both difficult and costly.

It is indeed a huge hunk of stone. Nobody knows how much it weighs, but it certainly is many tons. The rock is there because it was excavated during construction of the school which formerly occupied the property. It was considered too big to move, and so was left as a marker to set off the site.

Human beings have been painted on rocks since the days of the cavemen, who drew pictures on the walls of their stark dwellings as a form of decoration. Those drawings have provided important clues to anthropologists and historians tracing man's cultural development.

Whether painted rocks such as those in Chelsea and Ann Arbor will furnish similar insight centuries from now is open to argument.

The Ann Arbor rock, at the corner of Washtenaw Ave. and Hill St., has split the city into two sharply divided bodies of opinion in recent weeks. Like Chelsea's rock, it has been there a long time and has been continuously painted.

The rock which is on a tiny triangle of city property in front of a U-M fraternity house, has been sand-blasted clean several times, only to be re-smearred.

The argument in Ann Arbor is between those who think that painting the rock is expressive and creative, and those who don't. As reflected in the letters-to-the-editor section of the Ann Arbor News and in a public wrangle between columnist Jane Myers (who endorses the painting) and outdoor editor Doug Fulton (who decries it) the two sides seem to be about even in terms of rhetoric.

The issue came to a boil after an Ann Arbor teacher conducted her second grade class on a field trip to the rock and directed the painting of a tribute to the retiring principal of their elementary school.

The anti-painting faction has suggested raising through private donations the estimated $1,000 needed to clean up the Ann Arbor rock one more time and then move it to some secluded location where it presumably would not be so attractive to would-be "artists" of all ages.

Nothing like that has been heard in Chelsea, where tradition seems to suggest that the village rock be painted and well enough left alone.

Boulders Limit Parking Area

Big boulders have been placed around the parking lot at Veterans Park as part of the redevelopment and expansion project soon to be completed at the site, and more will be installed to protect the fence around the two new softball diamonds.

Village Administrator Frederick W. Weber said the huge stones, weighing several hundred pounds each up into the tons, have been collected over the years. Some came from the park site itself, some from the village landfill site on Werkner Rd. and still others from private donors who are happy to be rid of them.

"They are hard to handle," Weber said, "just because they are so large and weigh so much. We pick them up with a front loader and put them into a truck for transportation. We have to be especially careful in unloading them. Drop them in the wrong place, and you are going to have broken pavement. We've had no 'accidents' so far."

Basically, the boulders are intended to keep people from driving into grassed areas or through fences, Weber said, and they are spaced so that a vehicle cannot go between any two of them. Any car or truck that runs into one of the stones is going to stop right there.

BOULDER BLOCK: These are some of the large stones being placed at Veterans Park on N. Main St. and Sibley Rd. as part of a project to expand and upgrade the park. The boulders are intended to protect grassed areas and fences against vehicle traffic.

Consumers Council Offers Home Buying Checklist

For most consumers, a home is the largest purchase they'll ever make. Unless they evaluate it carefully, what first appears to be a bargain may turn out to be a headache. That's why the Michigan Consumers Council has released a new factsheet, "Checklist for Potential Home Buyers."

"When consumers are evaluating a home they are interested in buying, they usually only look at the most obvious features such as the number of bedrooms, general appearance, and whether it has a fireplace or garage," said the Council's director, Kent Wilcox. "They often neglect some 'not so obvious' features which could turn their dream house into a nightmare."

Wilcox said these "not so obvious" features can range from checking to see if their furniture and appliances will fit through doors to finding out if the house is in an airport's landing pattern. Consumers also forget things like checking the condition of the heating system.

In addition to the checklist itself, the Council has also distributed a questionnaire for the seller to fill out and sign. It asks such questions as: "Has there ever been a fire in the home?" "Does the basement leak?" "Are there any law suits or disputes existing pertaining to this property or its boundaries?" This questionnaire enables the potential buyer to get representations in writing in the event that something goes wrong later on.

For a free copy of the "Checklist for Potential Home Buyers," consumers may write the Michigan Consumers Council, 414 Hollister Building, 106 W. Allegan St., Lansing, 48933; or call, (517) 373-0947.

Prison Escapees Worry Police Dept.

The village of Chelsea stands at a kind of crossroads so far as escaped prisoners from nearby Michigan Corrections Department are concerned.

Since the beginning of 1980, Chelsea police have arrested a total of 29 escapees from the state prison system, Chief Robert Aeillo reports.

By far the most of them—23—have been walkaways from the Cassidy Lake Technical School, Aeillo said. There have been five from Southern Michigan Prison at Jackson and one from Camp Waterloo.

"Those are just the ones our department caught and therefore do not reflect the total number of escapes during the 34 months ending in October of this year," Aeillo said. "I have no idea what the total is, but I'm sure other police agencies have apprehended some more. Nor do I know how many got away and were not recaptured."

Aeillo said he is concerned that the high number of escapes may show a lack of security in the institutions, especially at Cassidy Lake, which is a minimum-detention facility for young offenders selected as likely prospects for rehabilitation and successful release back into society.

The Cassidy Lake school is located on Waterloo Rd. west of M-52. Walkaways tend to come into Chelsea, the closest community. They are almost always arrested without resistance.

The last two escapees from the prison system caught by Chelsea police were two inmates of the prison at Jackson. They were captured by Aeillo and Sgt. Lenard McDougall on Oct. 8 after an air and ground search over a large area south of I-94.

July seems to be the favorite month for prisoners to seek freedom, a study by Aeillo shows. Nine of the 29 escapee arrests made by his department during the past three years were recorded in July, March is next, with seven.

If past patterns hold, a quiet time has set in. The months of November, December, January and February show no arrests. Apparently, convicts don't like to go out in the cold.

ERIC FRISINGER is one of 44 Chelsea Dexter Steer Club members trying to raise the 1983 Chelsea Community Fair grand champion steer. He and his brother trade off morning and evening chores. They are raising three steers, one for each of them, and one for the family. Eric, who is an 11-year old Beach school sixth grader, feeds them a mixture of oats and corn.

Steer Club Members Have Animals for '83 Fair Showing

One of those steers you see when passing fields in the Chelsea-Dexter area may be next year's Chelsea Community Fair grand champion—and make his owner feel like the king or queen of the fair.

Chelsea-Dexter Livestock Club members now have their 1983 fair steers, which were bought by club advisors at the Northern Michigan Beef Breeders Association mid-October sale in Gaylord.

Advisors bought 51 head of steers by pens chosen for their uniformity of weight, their breed, and a good price, said Paul Frisinger, a club advisor and former club member.

Club members had requested the Hereford breed this year, he said, because they are better natured. Other breeds may have more efficient weight gains, but kick more too.

Steers' weights ranged between 350 and 445 pounds when bought, so they will weigh-in at fair time at about 1,000 pounds.

Average price per pound was 67 cents, a good price, he said. If the original purchase price is too high, club members can lose money raising them.

Steers have been drawn by lot for the past 10 years, he said, so children will have a more equal chance to raise a champion.

One year a child had the grand champion, but the next year he drew a steer which was "wild"; it could never be trained so that it could safely be taken to the fair, even though it had the weight packed on in the right places. (It had a tendency to charge.)

A champion is chosen on its high percentage of cutability and its "confirmation," the way it's put together, said Frisinger. A long, lean shape is more desirable than one with a huge gut, so club members have to learn how to not overfeed them.

They also learn showing techniques, he said. They nudge the steer's feet with a pole to get it standing just so. That way the steer's back looks straight instead of sway backed.

Before a child takes a steer home after they are trucked down here, he must arrange financing for the original sale price, about $250-$300.

To show a steer at the fair, a club member must be at least 10 years old or a recent high school graduate, which means they are usually below the legal loan age of 18. For years Chelsea State Bank has arranged loans for steer club members, said Paul Schable, bank executive vice-president. Parents co-sign on behalf of their children, many of whom sit in on the loan discussion.

Raising a steer is a financial responsibility, which children learn from, said Frisinger. Each club member must keep financial records on feed, mineral supplements, and veterinary expenses. Steers are insured through Farm Bureau Insurance, so a child won't incur a huge debt if it dies.

Along with twice daily feedings and keeping the animal's stall clean, club members must teach the steer to "lead," said Frisinger, so they may be shown for livestock judges.

"If you wait to start that until a few weeks before fair time," he said, "you're trying to train a 1,000-pound animal. We encourage the children to start earlier."

The club has monthly meetings to which feed manufacturers, livestock industry members and veterinarians speak about all aspects of the animal's care.

After being with an animal through snow, rain, and heat, it's only natural to get attached to it, said Frisinger. "Club members at their first sale often have tears in their eyes. Their pet is going to be slaughtered—but then they see the sale check, and they perk right up."

Grand champion owners who sell their animals for more than $2 a pound can clear $1,000 after expenses. They use that money to buy their next animal, maybe have a tiny splurge, and can bank the rest for further schooling or to start their own herd someday.

But getting grand champion means more than money. Frisinger never had a grand champion himself, but has seen it as a way many children get recognition outside of school.

It's a pretty special award. When his son Scott won in 1981, he said he told him, "Enjoy and remember this moment. It's a once-in-a-lifetime experience."

Two Bulldog Backs Pass 1,000-Yd. Mark

Quarterback David Wojcicki wound up Chelsea High school's football season with 1,617 yards in total offense, an average of just a shade under 180 per game, final statistics show.

Halfback Russell Harris went over the 1,000-yard mark, including 905 in rushing, and scored 102 points.

Jay Marshall led the team in both pass receptions and tackles, numbers which show his outstanding ability as a two-way player.

Thom Headrick was second in pass catches and third in tackles, and had four interceptions, tops on the team.

Chris Gallas was the second-leading tackler on defense.

Wojcicki completed 91 passes in 175 attempts, a 52 percent average. His strong right arm accounted for 1,256 passing yards, and his fast feet added another 361 yards in 103 rushing attempts. His running output would have been higher but for the fact that quarterbacks are charged with the yardage loss when they are dropped in the backfield while trying to pass or pitch the ball.

Wojcicki threw for four touchdowns and placekicked two extra points. He had three touchdowns and three two-point conversions rushing. That all adds up to 50 points either scored or shared in.

Harris' most vital statistic was his 102 points scored. He ran for 15 touchdowns, caught a pass for another, and had three two-point conversion runs. Not many players at any level of football achieve 100 points in a season.

Harris ran the ball for 905 yards in 152 carries, a sparkling 5.9 average, and caught 13 passes for 152 yards, giving him 1,057 yards in total offense.

Marshall received 24 passes for 404 yards to lead the team in that department. He had one touchdown and one two-pointer. On defense he had 44 solo tackles and 31 assists, and an intercepted pass.

Headrick was on the receiving end of 19 passes for 267 yards, including a touchdown and a conversion. As a linebacker he made 33 solo tackles and assisted on 23 others. His four interceptions were half of the team's total for the year.

Linebacker Gallas had 42 unassisted tackles and helped on 29 others.

Chelsea Bulldogs Dominate SEC All-League Selections

Chelsea High school won the Southeastern Conference football championship outright, and that dominance was reflected in the list of all-league honors released last week.

Bulldog head coach Gene LaFave was named "Coach of the Year" by vote of his fellow SEC coaches. He guided Chelsea to a 4-1 winning record in the conference and 5-4 over-all.

Saddled with a 1-1 SEC record after an upset loss to Milan, LaFave pumped his team up to three straight "must" victories over Dexter, Saline and Lincoln to win the league title as the other conference teams took turns beating each other.

A coach doesn't do it by himself, of course, and the selection of 11 Chelsea players to a total of 17 all-conference mentions demonstrates the ability possessed by this fall's group of Bulldogs.

Chelsea placed a remarkable eight players on the all-league offensive first team, three on the defensive first team, two on the second-team defense, and four more on the honorable mention defense.

Six Bulldogs made it both ways, on offense and defense, an indication of the versatility of this year's Chelsea team which was a bit short on numbers but long on talent.

Honored were: Thom Headrick, first team end on offense, first team linebacker on defense.

Jay Marshall, first team split end on offense, first team back on defense.

Mike Neibauer, first team tackle on offense, second team down lineman on defense.

Chris Gallas, first team guard on offense, honorable mention linebacker on defense.

Glenn Prinzing, first team center on offense, second team end on defense.

Russell Harris, first team running back.

Dave Wojcicki, first team quarterback, honorable mention for kicking.

Mike Hintzen, first team running back.

Matt McCallum, first team defensive end.

David Kiel, honorable mention down lineman on defense.

Steve Cattell, honorable mention defensive back.

Gallas, Prinzing and Harris were unanimous choices for first team offense honors, and so was McCallum on defense.

Marshall, Gallas, Prinzing and Kiel are juniors and will be back to play again next fall. The other seven honorees are seniors who have completed their high school football careers.

Seven members of the Dexter grid squad made the all-SEC list. Pat Quigley was named a second team defensive back and honorable mention at offensive end. Others are:

Vince Reagin, second team offensive guard; Wilfred Nonnenmacher, second team running back; Mark Whitley, second team center; Bill Ploof, second team down lineman; Niles Mayrand, honorable mention linebacker, and Brad Kokmeyer, honorable mention defensive back.

Girls Swim Team Loses to Ypsilanti

Viral crud was the Chelsea girls swim team's main foe in their 74-52 loss to Ypsilanti High school Nov. 9 at Ypsilanti's pool.

Coach Von Acker had expected the meet to be close, but two sick swimmers made a big difference to Chelsea's small, 12-member team. (20 swimmers is an average-sized team.)

Vicki Harrell's fifth diving win qualified her for the regional diving meet. Divers qualify by their dual meet records for the regionals, and 15 divers from the two regional meets go to the state meet. Swimmers just go straight to the state meet if they meet certain time standards.

Paula Colombo lowered her varsity record in the 500 free by two seconds to 5:38.93. Dawn Borders swam her season's best time in the 100 backstroke to win that event. Missy Young also dropped two seconds off her 100 butterfly time.

200 medley relay—Dawn Borders, Kristin Thomas, Paula

Colombo; Amanda Holmes, first, 2:06.20.

100 back—Borders, first, 1:09.28; Grenier, fourth, 1:30.70.

100 breast—Thomas, second, 1:18.78; Harrell, (in her first time at this event) fourth, 2:24.6.

Girls Defending Chelsea Invitational Swim Meet Title

Chelsea girls varsity swimmers want to add another Chelsea Invitational champion banner to the walls at Cameron Pool—they will be going all out at the sixth Invitational Thursday, Nov. 18 at Cameron to defend their title.

Diving warm-ups begin at 1 p.m. and actual diving competition begins at 3 p.m. Swimming warm-ups begin at 5 p.m. and events, which will be time-finals, at 6 p.m.

Teams competing are Willow Run, Ypsilanti Lincoln, Dundee, Novi, and Dexter. St. Mary's Academy in Monroe is a possibility.

Coach Von Acker says the team has a good chance to win if they both win and place at least one more swimmer in each event. Although Chelsea has beaten all the teams attending in dual meets, team depth will matter Thursday, because the top 12 placers will score points. The Chelsea team has only 12 swimmers.

Six Bulldog swimmers have qualified for the December state meet, so they are doing a mini-peak for the Invitational, said Acker. One more girl has a good chance to qualify if she has a good time, then she'll have to go back into rigorous training. Others on the team will end their seasons Thursday.

First and second place teams will get trophies, and an outstanding swimmer or diver will be chosen by vote of the coaches. First through third places in each event will receive medals, and the other nine placers will get ribbons.

Cameron pool will be closed for community swimmers after 1 p.m. Thursday. The number of entries and heats will determine how long the meet will last.

Exotic event lineups ended midway through the Chelsea-Riverview girls swimming meet. The Bulldogs were down 2 points after diving, so they went tried-and-true, eking out a 65-60 win Nov. 11 away.

The team had been really psyched for the Tuesday Ypsilanti meet, which they lost, said coach Von Acker. They were looking ahead a bit too much to this week's Chelsea Invitational, so their performances were flat against Riverview.

After Bulldog swimmers were touched out in the 50 freestyle, Acker got them together for a post-diving team conference. That chat worked. Bulldog swimmers went first and second in the 500 free and first and third in the 100 backstroke. They had to win the last relay to win the meet, and they did.

ALL-AROUND TRUCK PARTS STORE!
That's what A&L Fleet Supply is — Jim Giles, Fleet Counter Supervisor, says that "Being so much to so many people is a big responsibility. We carry a lot of product lines — and are quite complete in most of them. We can take care of most requests — from our single-truck customers to the large fleet owners/operators."

"You don't have to be behind this counter long to know that when trucks aren't running they aren't making money. We have to anticipate — figure out what's going to be needed, how much of it, and when."

"Some things are a bonus. For instance, A&L recently became the area distributor for Korody-Colyer. That means that we have the widest in-stock selection around here of parts for Detroit Diesel engines. It's been estimated that one-fourth of all heavy-duty diesels manufactured in the U.S. are GM (or Detroit Diesels), so you can see how important having this line is to us."

All these things, plus the professionalism of Jim and the rest of the counter and sales staff, have added to the reputation of service and quality at A&L. Try it!

Girl Varsity Cagers Lose Final Two Games

Bulldog girls varsity basketball team finished their regular season last week with a 64-40 loss to Saline Nov. 9 at home and a 53-42 loss to Lincoln Nov. 12 away.

Lots of the Class B district tournament at Jackson Lumen Christi were drawn Friday. The Bulldogs will play Tecumseh, a team they lost a close game to this season, at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 20. If they win, they will play again Nov. 23. It is a single elimination tournament.

State champion will be chosen through district tournaments, eight regionals, quarter-finals, semi-finals and finals.

Chelsea never led in the Saline game. They had the ball with 20 seconds left in the first half, but the Hornets stole it and scored. That gave them a 31-22 half-time lead. If Chelsea had held onto the ball and scored, said coach Jim Winter, Saline would have only had a five-point cushion.

The Hornets led, 43-30, going into the final quarter, but Chelsea was still nipping at their heels until a five-point play put the game out of reach. A Saline player hit a field goal, and a Bulldog fouled a player going in for a possible rebound. That player had a one-and-one foul shot. She made the first one and missed the second shot. The Hornets got the rebound and scored—five points total, and now a 17-point lead.

Although game statistics were close, Saline led in each category. They made 10 of 17 free throw attempts, the Bulldogs, 6 of 15. Chelsea committed 16 fouls, Saline, 15. Saline had 50 rebounds, Chelsea, 41. Saline made 34 percent of their field goal attempts, while the Bulldogs made 26 percent of theirs.

Saline had talented shooters, which made a big difference, said Winter. Four of their players scored 9 points or more, but only one Bulldog scored more than 9.

Beth Unterbrink scored her season high point total, 23, had 5 rebounds, 3 assists, and 3 steals. Mary Klink had 6 points, 9 rebounds, and JoAnn Tobin had 4 points, 11 rebounds.

Although Chelsea only lagged, 37-34, going into the final quarter against Lincoln, they never got ahead, said Winter. Their end-of-game fouling strategy did not work, both because Lincoln made their foul shots and Chelsea couldn't sink field goals.

Lincoln led, 14-12, at the end of the first quarter, and 29-23, at half-time.

Although the Bulldogs played well offensively, said Winter, they had defensive problems. A quick Lincoln team "kept going right past us."

Chelsea made 14 of 62 field goal attempts, 22 percent. They made 14 of 28 free throw attempts and rebounded evenly with Lincoln.

The team, whose regular season league record was 1-9 and whose overall record was 4-16, will have a team banquet Nov. 22.

JV Girl Cagers Win Final Games

Bulldog junior varsity girls basketball team knows how to end a season. They had their best defensive game of the year against Saline Nov. 9, winning at home, 45-17. In their last game Nov. 12 against Lincoln away, they set a junior varsity scoring record, winning, 62-30.

The least they can do is tie for the unofficial junior varsity league championship with Dexter. They could win it outright, if Dexter loses today.

Although Chelsea didn't score against Saline in the first couple minutes of the game, Kristi Headrick came off the bench and scored 16 points in the first half—putting the game out of reach, said coach Paul Terpstra. She scored more than double Saline's total output in the first half—the Bulldogs led, 30-7, at half-time, and led, 39-13, going into the final quarter.

The Bulldogs just had a night when "everything clicked," said Terpstra. "We got the ball inside for easy baskets underneath the goal, and then also drew fouls."

Chelsea outrebounded Saline, 50-37. The Bulldogs made 17 of 70 field goal attempts, 24 percent for the game. Terpstra doesn't have first half percentages, but says Chelsea shot much better in that half. The team made 50 percent of their free throw attempts, and were even on steals and turnovers, 16 of each.

Kristi Headrick had her best game of the season, said Terpstra. She scored 19 points, snared 16 rebounds and stole the ball 4 times.

Samantha Collinsworth had 8 points, 11 rebounds, 3 steals; Kelly Hawker, 7 points; Anne Weber, 6 points; Tina Paddock, 2 points; Jenny Cattell, 2 points; and Kris Matloff, 1 point.

The Bulldogs saved their offensive best for their last game against Lincoln, who had a short-lived 2-0 lead. Chelsea never trailed after that, leading, 16-6, at the end of the first quarter, 32-18, at half-time, and 45-24 going into the final quarter.

The team was psyched for this game, said Terpstra. They shot one of their best field goal attempt percentages of the year, 35 percent, and their best free throw shooting percentage of the season, 71 percent.

The Bulldogs pressed; the Railsplitters turned it over, and the Bulldogs scored.

Headrick, who has really improved in the last few games, said Terpstra had her finest scoring day, 26 points. Weber also had a good game, 13 points and 4 steals. Hawker had 11 points, 11 rebounds, and 5 steals. Collinsworth had 6 points; Cattell, Michelle Easton, and Laura Koepele, 2 each.

Individual player awards such as most improved, most valuable and the girl with most team spirit will be announced at the team banquet Nov. 22.

Tecumseh Back for SEC Winter Sports

The Southeastern Conference will be back to a full six teams this winter in all league sports except freshman basketball, Chelsea High school athletic director Ron Nemeth reports.

Tecumseh High school, which dropped its sports program following a series of millage election defeats, is gradually bringing itself back into the SEC picture with funds provided from private donations.

Tecumseh missed most of the fall sports season schedule but did manage to field girls basketball and boys golf teams for the final three weeks.

Nemeth, who had predicted earlier that Tecumseh would resume full athletic participation this winter, was pleased by the news that the school has all but accomplished that goal.

"They have had a tough time, but they are overcoming their problems," he said. "I'm sure they will be competitive. We need them in the SEC. We will support them, but will do our best to beat them whenever we play each other. That's what athletics are all about—friendly rivalry."

Highway Maintenance Revenues Decline Again

Revenues for work on Michigan's highway and other transportation systems continued to fall in the fiscal year that ended Sept. 30 as gasoline consumption declined to the lowest level in 13 years, the Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) reports.

It was the third consecutive year of decline in the fuel and weight tax (license plate) income that pays for operation of the state highway, county road and local street systems, and for state-supported bus and rail programs.

Reflecting a continuing trend to lighter, more fuel-efficient automobiles and wider use of ride-sharing, gasoline sales dropped to 3,630,000,000 gallons. The total was down 118 million gallons from 1981 and 964 million gallons from the peak year of 1978 when sales totaled 4,594,000,000 gallons.

"At 11 cents a gallon, that represents a loss of about $105 million in gas tax income on an annual basis," said State Transportation Director John P. Woodford.

Collections from fuel taxes, license plate fees and other sources produced $664,298,888 in the 1981-82 fiscal year. That was $18.6 million, or 2.7 percent, less than in the previous year, $74.2 million less than in fiscal 1979-80 and $96.5 million down from 1978-79.

"Inflation is continuing to drive up costs at the same time that revenues are going down," Woodford said. "Unless the situation changes, all transportation agencies will be able to do less maintenance and improvement work every year. The inevitable result will be a poorer road and highway system and fewer transportation services."

The State Trunkline Fund for construction and maintenance of the state highway system received $230.92 million as its 38.4 percent share of net 1981-82 receipts, a drop of 3.4 percent, or $7.99 million. State-financed public transportation and rail programs collected $50.02 million as their 8.3 percent portion, a decrease of $1.69 million, or 3.3 percent.

The 83 county road commissions collected $210.13 million as their 34.3 percent share, off by $7.1 million, or 3.3 percent. The 532 incorporated cities and villages received $118.59 million as their 19 percent share, down by $4.02 million also 3.3 percent.

Together, the state, counties and municipalities maintain more than 117,000 miles of highways, roads and streets.

On the local level, Washtenaw county received $4,698,290 in 1981-82, down from $4,871,966 in 1980-81 and $5,205,091 in 1979-80. Comparable figures for Jackson county were $3,886,551, $4,018,241 and $4,507,229.

Chelsea's apportionment for 1981-82 was $75,722, more than $5,000 below the $81,216 received the previous year.

Dexter dropped from $35,356 in 1980-81 to $34,813 this year.

OUT IN THE OPEN

By BILL MULLENDORE

I am old enough to remember the first deer season in southern Michigan in modern times. It happened in the fall of 1948, and was preceded by a series of events and arguments that those born later probably will find hard to believe.

Buffalo, elk and deer were all once plentiful in southern Michigan. As the region was settled and the land cleared for farming, human pressure mounted on all three species. Buffalo and elk disappeared, partly because of hunting for food and the market, but mostly because neither species could adapt to the presence of people. Neither has come back, nor ever will in this part of the state.

Deer almost followed the same route to extinction south of the Muskegon-Bay City line. There were so few left that during the 1920's the Department of Conservation (now Natural Resources) imposed what was considered at the time to be a permanent closure on deer hunting in Zone 3, the southern one-third of Michigan.

Nobody really knows how low their numbers dropped, but deer became so scarce in these parts that during the early 1930's the mere sight of one was worth reporting in the newspaper. The survivors persisted, kept breeding, and gradually adapted to living in an environment dominated and controlled by people.

They learned to survive in the small woodlots, swamps, swales and other bits of cover that man left to them, and to use for food the crops that man planted for his own consumption. This was an evolutionary process. The White-tail deer originally was as wild an animal as existed in North America, and still is in some ways. The difference between yesterday's deer and today's is that the modern version can survive and thrive in places of fairly dense human population.

In the late 1930's the southern Michigan deer herd began to grow rapidly toward what wildlife biologists call an "explosion." What had not many years earlier been a scarce novelty erupted into a plentiful nuisance, to the point that in the mid 1940's grain farmers, orchardists, nurserymen and even some suburban city dwellers were crying for relief from "deer damage." The animals were destroying grain crops, fruit trees and ornamental shrubs in such large quantities that some kind of control measure had to be taken.

In the Howell-Brighton-Hartland area and in some other places it was common to see herds of 100 or more deer feeding in fields much like cattle. Having gone unharmed for so many years, these deer had grown bold to the point of ignoring—or at least tolerating—the close-by presence of people gawking at them.

The Conservation Department announced that deer hunting would be reopened in southern Michigan in the fall of 1948. That piece of news touched off outcries from animal lovers that the "tame" deer would be wiped out in a single season. It likewise provoked scare stories that scores of innocent citizens would be slaughtered by all the wild bullets flying around.

The latter fear prompted the Department to impose a "shotguns only" restriction on southern Michigan deer hunters. That caused sportsmen to protest that it was "impossible" to kill a deer with any firearm other than a high-powered rifle. Slugs fired from shotguns, they argued, would at best only wound a deer if they happened to hit at all, which was unlikely because you couldn't depend on hitting a bushel basket at 20 feet with a slug-loaded shotgun.

The 1948 season went ahead despite all the furor. Quite a few thousand deer were killed with those "inadequate" shotguns, including some monstrous old bucks. I recall taking a picture of one shot by a farmer near Brighton, which sported a 27-point untypical rack of antlers and dressed out at 240 pounds. It would have made the record books had the farmer been interested in registering it. He wasn't, even though I offered to help him do it. That was the biggest deer, alive or dead, that I have ever seen or ever expect to see. My best guess is that it was (and is) among the five "best" trophy deer ever taken in Michigan.

Those "tame" deer wised up in a hurry. After just one hunting season they became as wary and hunter-shy as northern Michigan whitetails. They continued to expand their numbers until, by the mid-1960's the annual deer harvest in southern Michigan exceeded that of the Upper Peninsula, as it has ever since and will again this fall and for foreseeable years to come.

There was no mass killing of innocent human bystanders, nor have accidents among hunters been any higher in southern Michigan than in the northern two-thirds of the state. Despite all the scare headlines you read every fall, hunting is one of the safer things that people do. A hunter is a whole lot more likely to be injured or killed driving his car to and from his hunting spot. For that matter he runs a higher risk of serious accident by slipping in the bathtub while taking a shower before he starts out.

Zone 3 deer hunters have learned that a shotgun fitted with a special slug barrel and a simple optical sight, and carefully sighted in, will put slugs into a six-inch circle at 75 yards, which is plenty good enough to insure a clean kill in the vital heart-lung area. Most deer brought down up north with rifles are shot at ranges inside 75 yards. The average is about 50. There aren't many places anywhere in Michigan deer country, north or south, where you are likely to see a deer farther than 75 yards away, much less get a shot at it.

Thus has deer hunting evolved into a major modern-day outdoor sport in southern Michigan, as the many thousands who went out hereabouts on opening day, yesterday, will testify. It didn't seem possible 40 years ago, but it has happened and will continue. Deer and hunters are both doing well, and increasing their numbers.

Michigan Hunters Offered Helpful Maps, Books

Michigan hunters are reminded by the Michigan United Conservation Clubs (MUCC) to include accurate, up-to-date maps as part of their hunting equipment.

Topographic maps prepared by the United States Geological Survey are an invaluable aid to hunters, according to MUCC, the state's largest map dealer. These maps show the locations of trails, campsites, river and stream crossings, springs, and many other features of interest to sportsmen and women. They can help hunters plan trips into game areas and are especially important in helping hunters avoid becoming lost.

MUCC stocks a complete array of topo maps covering every part of the state in extensive detail.

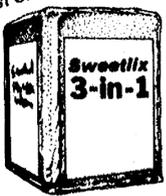

All of the maps are described in MUCC's "Map Index," which can be used for ordering individual maps. Copies of the "Map Index" are available free to anyone sending a No. 10 (business size) self-addressed envelope with 40 cents postage affixed to MUCC, Box 30235, Lansing 48909.

To further enhance the hunter's enjoyment of the outdoors, MUCC has published an unusual book of recipes titled "Wildlife Chef." The most comprehensive Michigan wild foods cookbook ever published, "Wildlife Chef" contains nearly 400 game and fish recipes, including the favorite recipes of outdoor enthusiasts throughout the country. Copies of "Wildlife Chef" are available from MUCC for $5.15 each.

What's cooking in Michigan...

By Margaret G. McCall
Michigan Department of Agriculture
Turkey, known as Ben Franklin's candidate for our national symbol, has instead become a symbol of thanks for a bountiful harvest, as well as the traditional dish for holiday celebrations.

Michigan turkey growers were expected to produce about 1.4 million birds in 1982, slightly less than the previous year. As turkey becomes more customary as a year-round food, per capita consumption in the United States has grown from 3 pounds annually in 1940 to 10.5 pounds per person in 1980.

About 40 percent of Michigan's turkey production goes into processed foods. Facilities to readily freeze turkeys make the birds available year-round, while improved breeding stocks produce tender, broad-breasted turkeys with large meaty thighs and drumsticks.

Roast turkey with all the trimmings is a feast, and leftovers are appetizing for sandwiches, turkey pie with home-made biscuits baked on top or chop suey. Additional ideas to add to your recipe file for leftovers are Turkey Divan, Hash and Tetrazzini.

For Turkey Divan, place slices of roast turkey breast in a shallow baking dish. Top with cooked broccoli spears. Cover with your favorite sharp cheese sauce. Sprinkle with bread crumbs and grated cheese. Bake about 15 minutes at 375 degrees.

Turkey Hash is prepared by sauteing one-half cup each, chopped onions and green pepper, in five tablespoons of garlic-seasoned butter. Add three cups diced cooked turkey and one cup stuffing. Allow the mixture to cook over medium heat until thoroughly warmed. Pour two-thirds cup heavy cream over the mixture and cook until blended and piping hot, top with one-half cup grated cheese and place under broiler to melt.

For Turkey Tetrazzini, combine two tablespoons melted butter, one tablespoon flour, one can cream of mushroom soup and one cup milk. Cook, stirring constantly, until thick. Mix two cups diced, cooked turkey, one four-ounce can mushrooms and one-half cup peas into sauce. Put one-half pound cooked spaghetti in the bottom of a greased baking dish. Pour turkey mixture over this and sprinkle with cheese. Bake at 400 degrees for 20 minutes.

*Bumper Snickers

This hasn't been a good year for farmers, but they haven't lost their sense of humor or their pride in production of their particular commodity. This is evidenced by the bumper stickers you see on vehicles at most any agricultural meeting or event across the state. Here are some examples:

Growing Beans is a Real Gas I have a Crush on a Grape Grower Flying Farmers are just Plane Crazy

Sows aren't Fined for Littering Never Give a Heifer a Bum Steer Beep, Beep, Sheep

Dairymen have a real fancy, using lots of color and graphics to get the message across. For example, a picture of a bright red tomato in the middle of this message:

Take a Real Tomato to Lunch And pea producers manage to be serious and clever at the same time as they show several pods of bright green peas in the middle of this message:

Let There be Peas on Earth Farmer's sense of humor also shows up on T-shirts. Spotted on a couple at a recent meeting were matching T-shirts: his read "I Rule the Roost" and hers read "I Rule the Rooster."

You could say that markets are down, but farmers are still up!

DRESSING TO REPRESENT A CAREER was one way Lols Moore's fifth grade class at South school observed National Career Awareness Week. They have also written poems about their feelings toward the working world. These poems will be judged by the high school English department, and winners sent on for further competition. Students also interviewed school employees, asking questions such as, "What are other jobs you have had during your lifetime?"

Fifth graders dressed like artists, veterinarians, and airline pilots are Christie Kozma, first row, left, Jennifer Weir, Doug Wingrove; Billy Endsley, second row, Karin Hammel, Dr. Lori Johnson; Holly Jorgensen, third row, Theresa Burskey, Michael Hinderer, Chris Tallman, Allison Stafford, Kim Roberts; Kelly Fisher, fourth row; Stacey Carruthers, Scott Brugh, Tim Van Scholck, James Cole, Joel Jacobus, Byron Pratt; Joe Williams, sixth row, and Doug Massey.

MARY MARKLE of Chelsea, a sophomore at Northern Michigan University, Marquette, is a key person in the production of theater as a costumer. Here, she sets a pattern for a costume in Shakespeare's "The Importance of Being Earnest," playing this month at Forest Roberts Theatre. Working with velvets and other fabrics, it took the costuming crew four weeks to complete 20 costumes for the play. Mary is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Markle, 17476 Cavanaugh Lake Rd., Chelsea.

New Books Received By McKune Library

McKune Memorial Library has recently received 12 new books on topics ranging from income taxes to Richard Nixon's memoirs to mental health first aid.

New books are often popular, so if the book you want is checked out, ask the librarian to put your name on the reserve list, and hope the others ahead of you finish with the three tax books before April 15!

These mini reviews were provided by JoAnn Walter, head librarian.

"Leaders," by Richard Nixon. He has known virtually every major foreign leader since World War II, some at the pinnacle of their power, and enjoyed the intimate confidences of some of them. He shares these insights and experiences in this book.

"Anatolian," by Elia Kazan. In the story of Stavros Papadogiorgis, Kazan gives a vivid picture of one man's struggle to understand his dreams, but also shows what it means for the immigrant to confront America.

"Lania," by Tristan Travis, Jr. A series of grisly murders has taken place in the politically troubled Chicago of the late 1960s. John Valjohn, a smart, reformist policeman, is placed in charge of the investigation. Unpopular in the department as an educated outsider and a black, known to the press as the Cubist Cop, Valjohn assembles a collage of evidence that will lead him to the killer, an avenging angel whose victims are all male sex offenders.

"The Magistrate," by Ernest Gann. A tale of one wonderfully good man's personal and professional trial by fire, centering around a court trial that would attack and pound at the bedrock of his very life.

"Teaching a Stone to Talk," by Annie Dillard. From eastern woods and farmlands to the Pacific northwest coast, to tropical islands and rivers, Annie Dillard explores the world of natural facts and human meanings.

"Mental First-Aid Manual: Instant Relief from 25 of Life's Worst Problems," by Dr. David Reuben. The first book designed to provide instant relief for the tension, anxiety, and depression produced by life's worst crises.

"Bech is Back," by John Updike. The problem of illusion and reality, of fame and art, and of fidelity to oneself and others are all illuminated in these sketches of a hypothetical post-modernist who inspires in Mr. Updike's prose a special affection and animation.

"God's Grace," by Bernard Malamud. A visionary tale with a prophetic warning, written by a superb artist who dares to take risks—Calvin Cohn, a paleologist who had been studying ship wrecks on the ocean floor when the "Devastation" struck, alone survives.

"Worldly Goods," by Michael Korda. A love affair between a ruthless tycoon who cannot escape from his past and a beautiful woman whose own past is linked to his. Their lives are caught up in the struggle for wealth and power that has obsessed each generation of a great Central European banking family.

"101 New Loopholes: The 1982 Reagan Tax Package," by Bill Green.

"Everything You Always Wanted to Know About Taxes, But Didn't Know How to Ask," by Michael Savage.

"All You Need to Know About the IRS," by Paul Strassels.

symptoms of Type I Diabetes?

Type I diabetes is characterized by the sudden appearance of: frequent urination accompanied by unusual thirst and excessive drinking of fluids; weight loss with easy tiring, weakness, irritability or nausea; uncontrollable craving for food, especially sweet foods and candy. The symptoms not only appear suddenly, but also signal the urgent need for proper treatment. Diabetic coma can follow the appearance of the symptoms very rapidly.

Volunteer Firemen Study Operation of Big City Cousins

Big city fire fighters and village firemen may have the same goal—get that fire out—but how they do it is very different, said Steve Jaskot, one of four local firemen who visited Chicago and Detroit fire departments on Oct. 30 and 23 for a 24-hour shift.

Face it, Chelsea has no need for two "water cannons," fed with 10 four-inch water lines and capable of shooting water 18-20 stories high, a fire fighting helicopter, a 144-foot aerial ladder (the longest in the world) or training on how to get someone's foot out of an escalator.

Availability of water makes a big difference in fire fighting style, said Jaskot. In both Detroit and Chicago, firemen just tap in to the hydrants and don't worry about conserving water.

But in a rural area without handy hydrants, a water supply is a main concern, he said. Several of Chelsea's trucks carry huge water tanks, and for a big fire not near a creek or lake, some firemen have to leave a fire to refill tanks.

Jaskot, Doug Eder, Bill Paul and Mark Toma, a Dexter fireman, paid their own expenses, such as transportation, uniforms and a daily contribution of $6, Detroit and $7, Chicago for firehouse meals.

They also signed release forms

Livestock Branding

Farmers can now have exclusive right to their livestock brand for a $50 fee and registration with the Secretary of State's office. Each applicant will be assigned a number which will be put into a computer and it's this number that should be used on the livestock as a key to identification in order to help prevent theft. Applications are available from the Department of State Livestock Registry, P.O. Box 30330, Lansing 48909.

relieving both cities from any insurance claims if they were injured.

Two Chelsea firemen spent the day at a downtown Chicago fire station, which specializes in skyscraper fire fighting and two spent the day at a Southside station. They ate, slept, cleaned the equipment and rode the trucks with the regular firemen, going on about 10 calls during the day. One Chelsea fireman, more used to hopping in his car to get to a fire, got big blisters on his hands as a souvenir from sliding down the fire pole the wrong way.

At one fire the chief told Jaskot, who is a paramedic with Jackson Emergency Medical Service, to leave, because he was wearing a different uniform from everyone else. The fire chief later apologized, he said. "Apparently they have a lot of fire buffs who come to fires wearing uniforms, with radios, and carrying equipment hoping to get in on the action. He thought I was one of those instead of a guest fireman."

In this area a house fire is usually an isolated event, he said, while in a large city a fire begun in one home often involves homes beside and behind it. He went on a fire call to a three-story apartment building, which had less than a foot clearance from the building beside it.

Big city firemen work together as a team daily, he said, so they were very efficient and quick. With a volunteer department, one seldom has the same crew together, since it just depends on who is in town and can get there.

Although Chicago firemen may one-up Chelsea fire fighters on technique, Chelsea firemen have a more personal style, said Jaskot of 20152 Old US-12. He went on a call to a kitchen fire in an elderly woman's home. As soon as the fire was controlled, the firemen rushed back to the station to be available for the next call.

"There were tears in her eyes when we left," he said. "In Chelsea we would have gotten out big fans to blow the smoke out, shoveled out the scorched, fallen plaster, squirted a little deodorizer, and called a neighbor or relative to come over and be with her."

"It was a real revelation to us too," he said, "to have people on the streets throwing garbage and bricks at the firemen riding a truck on a call."

Although the basic fire fighting styles are vastly different, the Chelsea firemen did learn things they can use here, he said. A high pressure hose is hard to control, so Chelsea firemen had been sitting on a loop of it to steady it. They learned how to wrap a strap around such a hose, so they could be standing and mobile when using it, and picked up rescue techniques. They also got hints on how to keep their air masks clean and working.

"You know the big city firemen have a well-deserved reputation for being good," he said, "but either of us would have trouble functioning in the other's setting."

Richard Simmons Gets Telegram from Farm Bureau

The American Farm Bureau Federation sent a telegram to the Richard Simmons TV show, urging an immediate retraction of statements made concerning beef by Diane Broughton, editor of "Thumper" magazine on a recent program. The Farm Bureau requested that positive scientific information be presented on the nutritional values of beef. "Contrary to what Ms. Broughton claims, the public can be assured that beef is wholesome, highly nutritious and an excellent source of minerals, vitamins and protein," the telegram said in part. Farm Bureau told Simmons that extreme care should be taken to verify information to be presented on any product.

Hints for Homemakers Tips To Help You

Apple canning season goes from late summer well into fall. When selecting apples for canning, choose fresh, firm, tart fruit that is not overripe. Imperfect fruit may be used, but all blemishes should be removed. Wash fruit, pare, core, cut into quarters or halves. Keep fruit from discoloring until you pack it by dropping it into a solution like lemon juice. Drain. Boil one minute in thin or medium syrup. Pack in jars, cover with boiling syrup and process 20 minutes in boiling water-bath.

BASKETBALL PLAYERS OF THE WEEK are sophomores Beth Unterbrink and JoAnn Tobin, who is trying to block her shot. Unterbrink is the leading scorer and best athlete on the team, said coach Jim Winter. She has so much talent, it's easy to forget she's just a sophomore and needs to learn how to relax while she plays—she tries too hard sometimes, he said. She had a sore knee when the team played Saline, didn't expect much of herself, and had one of her best games of the season. Tobin, a 5'8" forward who moved up from the junior varsity, has basketball sense, said Winter. She knows what's going to happen and gets to that play. That anticipation is an invaluable skill, he said, which is difficult to teach.

What's Cooking in Michigan ...

By Margaret G. McCall
Michigan Department of Agriculture
 Make way for the biggest apple crop in Michigan since the turn of the century! The forecast from the Agricultural Reporting service, Michigan Department of Agriculture, is for a harvest reaching 950 million pounds, almost 44 percent more than last year. Bushels, boxes and bags are filled to overflowing with apples at roadside markets, and there are colorful displays at your neighborhood grocery. So now's the time to take advantage of this abundance. You can store apples in the refrigerator for several weeks without losing flavor or freshness. Of course we all know apples are good for eating out-of-hand, for packing in lunchboxes, for tucking into a coat pocket when you begin a rambling walk through fallen autumn leaves. They can be roasted over an open fire, baked with sugar and spices, combined with other foods for salads, entrees and desserts. And our traditional apple cider is available in perfect time for Halloween. When you buy fresh cider, you may want to store some in the freezer for a mid-winter treat. Here's an apple recipe I like, which combines that favorite fruit with sauerkraut and breast of chicken—all good Michigan products—for a one dish meal. In a greased shallow casserole, place four boned and skinned chicken breasts. Top with three large apples, thinly sliced. Drain one large jar of sauerkraut and spread over the apples. Then add one-half pound shredded Swiss cheese, and pour a cup of bottled Thousand Island dressing over the top. Bake at 350 degrees about 45 minutes.
