YOU WERE EXPECTING SANTA PERHAPS? The jolly old man did make an appearance at the Chelsea senior citizens Christmas-birthday party Friday night at the North school cafeteria, but these belly dancers from the community education class stole the limelight. Five local dancers gave their first performance ever and seemed to be a big hit, according to different persons there. Seniors stood up to see better, and smiling men nudged each other. The dancers' traditional ethnic costumes with veils and finger cymbals, said Karen Mirochna, who has taught the class 2½ years, are a bit more reserved than what cabaret belly dancers usually wear.

Senior Citizens Entertained By Local Belly Dance Class

Chelsea senior citizens had special guests at their Christmas-monthly birthday party Friday night at the North school cafeteria.

If you guessed Santa Claus, you were only half-right. Belly dancers from the Community Education class also entertained.

One man, obviously enjoying the show, nudged the man beside him, said Treva Winans, senior activity center director. "I was born 30 years too soon," he said, as he watched the costumed dancers wearing veils, bells, and finger cymbals.

Elementary school classes had decorated the cafeteria walls with posters and drawings. Johnson Wax Company, whose Nigerian employees burned in an industrial fire were treated at Chelsea Community Hospital, donated green shampoo and hair conditioner to the hospital, and these were used as favors. The bottles of green, combined with red poinsettias, greenery and gold table clothes made the tables very festive, said Mrs. Winans. "Maybe next year someone will give us red conditioner!"

The 165 guests dined on turkeys and capons donated by Chelsea Community Hospital. The Contemporaries, a 15-voice girls singing group at Chelsea High school, both sang and led the group in carols.

Blood Bank Donor Clinic Slated Today

Chelsea High school will be invaded by vampires today—Red Cross blood-drawing vampires.

The health careers class is sponsoring the blood drive from 8:30 a.m. until 2:30 p.m. in room 23 of the science building.

Health careers students will do the preliminary interviewing, and Red Cross volunteers will draw the blood.

Walk-in donors will be accepted, said Sharon Glassford, a health careers student. Donors must be at least 17 years of age and have permission from a parent or guardian to donate.

As of Friday, 18 faculty members and 58 students had signed up for the drive.

Cookies and juice will be offered during the mandatory post-donation rest period.

Library Will Close For Coming Holidays

McKune Memorial Public Library will be closed Dec. 24-25 and Dec. 31-Jan. 1, librarian Joan Walter announces.

OFFICER OF THE YEAR in the Chelsea Police Department is Patrolman Rick Walters (center), who was cited by Chief Robert Aiello (left) especially for his detective work. At right is Jack Merkel, village president, who presented Walters two awards—one for Patrolman of the Year, the other for saving a life.

Rick Walters Honored As 'Officer of the Year'

Richard A. (Rick) Walters was honored at last week's village council meeting as the Chelsea police department's "Officer of the Year" and also received a special award for having saved a life.

Walters, who lives in Jackson, has been on the Chelsea police force for a little more than five years. A native of Milan, he was graduated from the Michigan Police Academy in 1977 and went to work in the village.

Police Chief Robert Aiello cited Walters as the member of the department who contributed the over-all most to it during the year, and especially praised his ability as a detective.

"He conducted seven major investigations during the year and completed every one of them successfully, resulting in numerous arrests and recovery of stolen property," Aiello said. "He convinced a man armed with a 12-gauge shotgun, who had barricaded himself in an attic, to come out and surrender without harming anyone."

"He has a knack for handling situations and solving things. He keeps up with what's going on. He digs in and carries on investigations until he either clears up the case or exhausts all possible leads."

The department does not have a detective as such. All uniformed officers work at the investigative phase of police work as their assignments and abilities allow. Walters has proven to be very good at it, Aiello noted.

The life-saving award resulted from an incident on Sept. 25, 1981, when Walters, a certified emergency medical technician, responded to a call to help a man in full cardiac arrest. His heart had stopped.

Walters administered cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR), restarted the victim's heart and maintained his life until he could be taken to a hospital where equipment was available to stabilize his condition.

"The doctor in the case certified that Walter's prompt and effective action made the difference between life and death," Aiello said. "Unfortunately, the man died later from another, separate heart attack, but that in no way detracts from what Rick did. He had been trained, he diagnosed the problem, he knew exactly what to do, and he did it."

Village president Jack Merkel said he was proud of both the police department as a group and of Walters as an individual.

"As village president and speaking for all the people in the community, I'm proud and grateful to have an officer of Rick Walters' ability serving and protecting us," Merkel said. "We are fortunate to have him on our police force. And we are fortunate to have a police department that does such a good job for us. If you look at the crime rates in some other communities, you can see how well we do by comparison. Our police are highly visible, and they have the confidence of the community."

For his part, Walters echoed the sentiments expressed by Merkel and Aiello.

"The people here in Chelsea are very co-operative," he said. "They help us, and we help them. It's an excellent relationship."

Walters expressed gratitude to Aiello for "giving me a free hand" to conduct investigations. "All he asks is that I keep him posted on what I'm doing, which is his duty as chief. When I need help, he gives it to me. Our department is a team. We all work well together. Nobody is going to go out there and do it all by himself."

Asked if he has any special "secret to success," Walters said it probably is his ability to get along with and talk to people. "I think my strong point is in-

Christmas Spectacular Scheduled Tonight By School Music Groups

The school's first Christmas music spectacular with 11 groups performing 25 Christmas and wintery numbers will begin tonight at 7:30 p.m. in the high school gymnasium.

Choirs, bands and orchestras, from Beach Middle and Chelsea High school will play in a "collage" performance—such as a junior high choir, followed by a high school band, followed by an orchestra. Each group will perform about two selections with some group numbers, such as the "Hallelujah Chorus" from Handel's "Messiah" and a Christmas carol sing-along as finale, with audience included.

Christmas music to be performed by the different groups includes "Deck the Halls," "Do You Hear What I Hear," "Jingle Bells Rhapsody," "Fantasia on Greensleeves," and the appropriately named tune, "Christmas in a Small Town." Tamara Barbet will direct the choirs; Warren J. Mayer, the Beach school bands; Carol Wells Palms, the orchestras, and William W. Gourley, chairman of the music department, will direct the high school bands.

Gourley suggests getting to the concert early for both parking ease and because the gymnasium only seats 1,200. The all-schools concerts are usually big draws.

Council Unanimously Votes To Buy into New Edison Electric Plant

Chelsea's Village Council voted unanimously last Tuesday night to buy into the Detroit Edison Company's new Belle River power plant, but will have to wait until spring to find out whether the deal goes through for sure.

It will take that long for the complicated agreement between the Michigan Public Power Agency (MPPA) and Edison to be formalized and a bond issue sold, said Village Administrator Frederick W. Weber.

Chelsea is a member of MPPA, and Weber represents the village on the agency's commission.

Weber attended an MPPA commission meeting in Lansing on Thursday, and said afterward that he sees no reason why the electrical power purchase deal will not develop. However, he added, there are a lot of details to be worked out and "it's not a sure thing" until all the papers are signed.

If it all happens, Chelsea will own a share of the Belle River generating plant and its transmission lines. The plant, which will burn low-sulphur coal imported from Montana, is scheduled to start up in 1984.

As of last Thursday, MPPA members including Chelsea had agreed to buy a total of 233½ megawatts of power from the Belle River plant, which has a potential generating capacity of 650 megawatts. Bay City has been given until Dec. 15 to decide whether it, too, wants to buy in.

Chelsea's share would be three megawatts.

"It's safe to say that last week's council committed the village to the project and that we are definitely 'in' provided the master contract is approved," Weber said. "It's a good move for the village. It will guarantee us a long-term power supply and also enable us to be more competitive in our rate structure."

"The whole purpose of Chelsea's having its own electric utility is to be able to sell reliable power at lower rates than village users could buy otherwise. If we can't do that, we shouldn't be in the business."

The village presently owns a share of Consumers Power Company's Campbell No. 3 plant and gets 1.85 megawatts of electricity annually from that source. It buys another 4-plus megawatts from Consumers at the company's "wholesale" rate.

That combination of sources allows the village to sell power to residential and commercial customers at lower rates than Consumers can offer directly. However, Consumers' direct rate for industrial users is lower than the village can meet.

"When the new source (from Belle River) comes on line, we will be able to adjust our rate structure so that we can go to Chelsea Milling, for example, and sell them electricity for less than they pay Consumers," Weber said.

"As we begin to get electricity from Belle River, we will cut back correspondingly on the amount we purchase from Consumers. It's complicated, but the net effect will be more power at (Continued on page eight)

Build the Unit Yourself Is Best Way To Assure Quality

Chelsea fire chief Paul "Bud" Hankerd should be quite confident of the quality control in the power take-offs the fire department installs on their trucks.

He makes them.

Power take-offs attach to a transmission so the transmission can be used as a power source. The PTO on the ¾-ton army truck the department uses for grass fires runs the winch loaded with cable and a hook to pull cars from ditches or away from trees. The PTO for that new truck, which was wrecked on its way here for the fair parade but which may make it here in January, runs both its water pump and winch.

Hankerd assembles PTOs at Dana Corporation, whose plant here is the largest PTO manufacturer in the country.

He has worked there since 1963 and has assembled PTOs the last three years. He has served with the volunteer Chelsea Fire Department for 26 years.

Hankerd prefers PTOs to electrical connections which depend on the car battery for two reasons, he says. "When we are at a fire, we are already draining the battery with headlights and radios."

"The last thing we need is to depend on a run-down battery as a power source for our water pumps."

The PTO is also less difficult to maintain, he says. They outlive the trucks they are installed on.

When the new truck arrived, it was not adapted for a PTO as was requested by the fire department. Hankerd got help converting the truck to PTO use from Dana's engineers, who also helped make the truck capable of pumping water and moving at the same time.

Hankerd either wears or sets his fire department radio on his workbench. If he gets a call, he leaves in a hurry without having to ask anyone for permission.

BOTH MAKER AND USER: Chelsea fire chief, Bud Hankerd, uses an air gun to assemble the power take-off, a power source attached to a transmission and made at Dana Corp., for a Chelsea grass-fire truck. He has made both this PTO and the one for the new truck due in January as part of his assembly job. The hardened-steel alloy gears showing are what will mesh with the transmission. It takes Hankerd about 10 minutes to finish each PTO. His fire department radio is always within reach, either on his work bench or attached to his belt.

 FUNERAL HOME

WE PERFORM AT LEAST 85 SERVICES FOR A FUNERAL!

We handle a myriad of details for each funeral to meet the special wishes and needs of the family. As funeral directors, we often help out for several months after the funeral to make sure all the details are completed.

It is important for funeral directors to consult at length with the family on literally dozens of details. Here are just a few of them:

- FUNERAL: setting its time and who is to officiate: choice of casket and clothing, music, Scriptures, etc.
- CEMETERY: purchase of lot or opening of family plot; getting permits.
- NOTICES: arranging death certificates, obituaries, notifying fraternal (or other) groups, distant relatives.
- FUNERAL DAY: organizing service details: helping conduct service; providing family cars and organizing procession.
- CLAIMS: helping family file for Social Security, military, union or insurance benefits.

Any of the 85 service details can cause grief when not handled right. We have to give EVERY funeral 110% of our time and attention to perform a service which comforts and fulfills the family's needs.

Transportation Package Appears Dead for Year

After it became apparent there were not enough votes to approve a sales tax on amusements and some services in the state House of Representatives, supporters of Governor William G. Milliken's $2 billion, four-phase transportation package declared the package dead for the year.

Prime supporter, Representative William Ryan (D-Detroit) said the package is dead "for all practical purposes" while Management and Budget Director Gerald Miller said there was still hope but admitted it didn't look good.

Both Democrats and Republicans said a lack of Republican support killed the proposal.

House Speaker Bobby Crim (D-Davison) said Democrats could have raised 35 of the necessary 56 votes, if Republicans could have guaranteed 21. But there did not appear to be any more than five Republican votes, said Republican floor Leader Representative Michael Busch (R-Saginaw).

In an effort to attract

Republican votes, Miller was unsuccessful in developing other proposals which would be acceptable. Ryan said Miller was authorized to come up with any formula that raised the same revenue and replaced the lost money to the general fund.

Earlier, Milliken said the package had to be passed if the state was to meet the matching requirements to get up to $134 million in federal revenue if the federal gas tax is increased.

Busch said that in 1983, if the state should fail to qualify for those funds it could give more impetus to some sort of program.

During a Republican caucus, Miller admitted that to meet the federal match would only require an increase of about one cent per gallon.

If the package had been limited to a tax increase simply for road repairs, it could have generated more Republican votes, Busch said.

But urban representatives insisted a package had to include increased funding for comprehensive transportation. "They went for more than they could realistically expect," Busch said.

The package was expected to raise some $2 billion over five years. The first part of the package would increase the gasoline tax according to a highway maintenance index, with a cap on increases of two cents a year.

Over five years, the tax would have raised an additional $911.7 million.

Weight taxes would be increased 30 percent for automobiles initially and 45 percent on commercial trucks, with the increase indexed each year to the increase in the state's personal income.

Over five years, the tax would raise some $176.5 million.

The package also phased-in a greater earmarking of auto-related sales tax for comprehensive transportation. That would cost the general fund $418 million over the period, and the package's most controversial element—imposing a sales tax on amusements and some repair services—would have raised $484 million.

With continued declining revenues, not only in the state's general fund but also in the state transportation fund, and a state transportation system in need of repair and updating, the new Legislature, along with new Governor-elect James Blanchard may have to face raising gasoline and weight taxes as its first order of business next year.

Ann Arbor Trust Increases Dividend Rate to Shareholders

The Board of Directors of the Ann Arbor Trust Co. has approved an increase in the quarterly dividend rate to shareholders, from 43 cents to 45 cents per share. The fourth quarter distribution will be paid on Dec. 15, to shareholders to record as of Dec. 1, 1982.

President George H. Cress explained that the new indicated annual dividend rate becomes $1.80 per share, up from $1.72. This makes the 10th consecutive year that Ann Arbor Trust has increased dividends to shareholders, he added.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

The fellers huddled close to the stove at the back of the country store Saturday night and spent most of the session talking about guilt. Ed Doolittle got the floor first with a report from a clipping about boys and girls in a club in Hollywood that were dressed so neat and being so orderly that somebody called the law. What's wrong with us, Ed said all them guilty parents out there must be wondering, that our kids didn't turn out like everybody else's.

These strange young people call themselves Mods, Ed said, and their idea is to be and do what other young folks ain't and don't. They take baths, git haircuts, wear nice clothes and ride scooters. They don't take drugs and some even have been heard saying "excuse me" and "thank you" to one another and to other people. What they're doing, Ed said, is behaving like the rule was before the exception become the rule.

It may be, allowed Zeke Grubb, that everything has swung to the end of its rope and now it's coming back to the middle. Zeke had saw the Army has decided men and wimmen recruits at Fort Jackson, S.C. are different after all. By order of commander general, female fighters will learn to powder their noses while the males are at bayonet drill. The Army felt guilty about training young wimmen to kill with knives, Zeke said, so it set up a makeup class fer em instead.

Clem Webster reported that a baby doctor in Arizona believes parents have ever right to feel guilty about the way they're raising their kids. Clem had saw where Dr. Oscar Christensen told a meeting of the American Academy of Pediatrics in New York that American parents have spoiled their children rotten, and sassy. He said parents have become confused with all the equal rights movements, and they want their children to be equal to. When you got a kid that thinks he and his parents are equal, you got a child you can't control and you got parents with a heavy load of guilt, the doctor claimed.

Actual, went on Clem, the sad truth is most of our lives are run on guilt. He said he didn't really want to teach a Sunday school class next year, but he felt bad after his old lady give him a lecture about allus taking and never giving. We might call it our conscience, Clem said, but the fact of the matter is, most of us could handle our consciences if folks didn't keep telling us we ought to be ashamed fer not letting our consciences bother us. If we learned anything from Adam and Eve and the apple, Clem said, it's that we can't git away from guilt.

Usual, Clem went on, we turn to old American values fer remedies. We make a money police and lay it right on the sore. Clem had saw where somepum called "parenting workshops" are being held all over the country. This is where, he said, parents pay $10 a head to come and hear, child-raising experts that probably don't have any kids tell em how bad they've been and what they've got to do to make amends.

If that ain't turning guilt into a profitable virtue, Clem asked, what is?

Yours truly,
 Uncle Lew.

Modern Mothers Enjoy Christmas Mexican Fiesta

Chelsea Modern Mothers held their annual Christmas party, which was a Mexican fiesta this year, Tuesday, Dec. 7 at June Wilson's home.

A social hour when sangria and quesadillas were served began the evening. Judy Wahl and Debbie Peck, both new members, were welcomed. A dinner of guacamole salad, posole (soup), turkey enchiladas, rice with artichoke hearts and refried beans followed and was thoroughly enjoyed by all.

Following the meal, club members gathered around a Christmas tree to learn of Mexican traditions including a pinata breaking. A surprise visit from Pancho Gonzales (June Wilson) added to the fun of the traditional gift exchange. A dessert of ice cream and Kahlua ended a real Mexican fiesta.

June Wilson, chairperson, was assisted by her committee, Jean Cooper, Marsy Doan, Jan Grenier, Mitzi Lewis, Denise Long, Mickey Michaud, Liz Prentis and Judy Steger.

The next meeting will be Jan. 11 at the high school auditorium. Peg Skelton, the guest speaker, will present a "Richard Simmons Show." Call 475-9856 for further information.

Altar Society Members Gather For Gift Exchange

St. Mary's Altar Society held their Dec. 6 meeting in the rectory basement with 32 members and three guests attending. Also present for this event were Fr. Philip Dupuis and his mother.

The meeting room was decorated for the Christmas season. A pot-luck dinner was served at 6:30 p.m. Also gracing the table was a decorated cake in honor of Fr. Dupuis' 31st anniversary in the priesthood.

After a short business meeting conducted by Bernice Augustine, president, those attending sang Christmas carols, led by Gertrude Drouyer, program chairwoman, assisted by Mary Guinan and Lynn Fowler. A gift exchange followed.

Persons selected for December altar duty are Kathleen Chapman, and Geraldine Sullivan. The next regular meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. Monday, Jan. 3 in the rectory basement.

Area Craftspeople Showing Work at Manchester Gallery

A special showing and sale of works by area artists and craftspeople is presented by the Manchester Art Guild during the next two weeks. Pottery, woodwork, painting, printed cards, quilting, and more are included in the exhibit.

In Guild tradition, items reflect a great variety in type and price, whether it be a special painting to fall in love with or a simple stoneware candle-holder. The most valuable gifts at any time of the year are ones made lovingly and in the one-of-a-kind manner symbolic of this holiday season.

Among Dexter artists displaying work, is Pam Grau, a potter and instructor at Artworlds in Ann Arbor.

This quality Christmas exhibit is located in the Manchester Art Gallery, 138 E. Main St., off the lobby of the Black Sheep Theater. Hours for the show coincide with theater performances of "Christmas Coast To Coast" Dec. 10-19. In addition to intermission, the gallery is open Thursday-Saturday from 7-8:15 p.m., Saturday from 10 a.m.-12 noon, and Sunday from 1-4 p.m. Additional hours will be posted.

Michigan apple farmers harvested 640,000,000 pounds of apples in 1981, valued at $6.3 million. Michigan is the nation's leading producer of Jonathans and Northern Spys and ranks third in the production of all apples.

What's Cooking In Michigan

If Christmas shopping has put a strain on your budget, don't think you have to forgo the pleasures of entertaining. Using some of the many good things growing in Michigan, you can entertain elegantly and inexpensively.

Hearty soup, of course, is an appropriate main dish, needing only a good crusty bread, salad and a simple dessert to complete the meal.

Another time, invite guests to a fondue party. Melt cheese with wine and seasonings, offer chunks of French bread for dunking. A relish tray replaces the salad course, and a sweet fondue (chocolate?) into which you dunk fresh apple wedges provides dessert.

A sit-down dinner could feature a rich beef stew. Just call it Ragout de Boeuf, as the French do, and you've upgraded the value instantly. With it, a green or molded salad and a light dessert—perhaps Michigan ice cream with raspberries from your freezer.

A French provincial cassoulet makes a wonderful party dish, you can use almost any combination of meats, and it's inexpensive. Soak 1 pound Michigan navy pea beans overnight, then par-boil. In large skillet, brown 1 pound lean pork and 1 pound of poultry, both cut in chunks. Remove and set aside. In same skillet, brown 1 pound smoked sausage, remove and slice. Saute in a little butter just until tender 1 medium onion, chopped, and 2 cloves minced garlic.

In large buttered casserole, combine beans, meats, onion and garlic, a pinch of cloves and thyme, and a little chopped parsley. You may also add a diced carrot if you like.

Pour over the mixture ½ cup Michigan red wine and enough of the bean liquid to cover. Bake in 325 degree oven about 3 hours, adding more liquid if necessary. You may also add about 2 tablespoons tomato paste to the liquid. Top with buttered bread crumbs for the last hour of baking.

The classic recipe calls for duck, but you can use the less expensive chicken or turkey just as well. You can also make this dish with leftover cooked meats, but in that case beef or chicken stock should replace part of the bean liquid.

Council OKs Purchase of New Loader

Chelsea Village Council last Tuesday night approved buying a new front-end loader to replace the machine which has been in use since 1969. Purchase price is $30,534 with a trade-in of the old loader.

The Caterpillar vehicle will be delivered by Michigan Tractor and Equipment Co. of Novi in three of four weeks, village administrator Frederick A. Weber said.

The loader will be used for leaf pick-up, snow removal, excavation and similar duties, Weber said, and will also serve as a back-up for the machine at the village landfill.

Tax Increase Seen Probable To Help Balance Budget

Governor Milliken's August executive order quarterbacked education across the state. The state highway system is in desperate need of repairs. Raymond Van Meer, schools superintendent, says he doesn't see either area able to survive deeper budget cuts to help the state meet its "compromise" deficit of $500 million.

The temporary income tax increase and executive order were supposed to balance the budget. Although estimates ran as high as $535 million, the outgoing and incoming governors and legislatures settled on the $500 million deficit figure last Wednesday.

"I don't know where they could make cuts to raise that kind of money," said Van Meer. He assumes it will come from higher revenue—another tax increase.

Officer of the Year

Walters asked that credit be given also to retired police chief George Meranuck, who hired him in 1977. "He had the courage to put three rookies on the force all at the same time. That meant half the department had no experience whatever. If he hadn't been willing to take that gamble, I wouldn't be working here."

Michigan dairy farms last year produced a record 4.97 billion pounds of milk valued at $650,028,000. More than 395,000 cows on 9,500 dairy farms set another record, with average production per cow of 12,582 pounds of milk.

DOLL CONTEST HONORABLE MENTIONS: Nanette Havens, left, Irene Sherman and Chris Hoopingartner were recognized for their entries in the Great Lakes Federal Savings doll contest. Mrs. Havens also made a nightgown and pants for her doll, so the Chelsea Social Services or Spaulding for Children client receiving it could have fun changing the doll into different outfits. Mrs. Sherman's doll's crocheted dress is a bright red. Mrs. Hoopingartner, the mother of twin daughters, dressed her doll in pastel, flowered material complete with a matching purse.

Winners Named in Christmas Doll Dressing Competition

Some little girl's face will glow Christmas day when she sees the doll Mercedes DeLaTorre of 524 Lane St. dressed for her.

Mrs. DeLaTorre, one of Santa's special helpers in Chelsea, won the local Great Lakes Federal Savings Dress-A-Doll contest this year with a Spanish dream doll, which will go to a little girl whose family is a client of Chelsea Social Services or of Spaulding for Children.

The doll wears a red taffeta-like dress with several flounces edged in black lace. Mrs. DeLaTorre crocheted and starched a black lace comb to hold a black mantilla. Satin roses adorn her hair and dress, which has a fabric flower edging a flounce. She wears little red drop earrings and a black lace fan on her bodice too.

Mrs. DeLaTorre, a former "tomboy," said she never played with dolls herself, but dressed dolls for her daughter and granddaughters, so that it became a hobby.

Betty Zabinski, of 10810 Beach Rd. and second prize winner with a skater doll complete with fur-trimmed skates, said when she was growing up during the Depression, dolls were luxuries. She has made doll clothes more than 30 years for hers and other's children, so some little girl will have a doll.

"I remember I wanted a real doll—one with hair—so badly," she said. "I was given a bald baby doll instead. But dolls were so precious then, you didn't dare complain."

"I'm so glad Great Lakes gives us dolls with hair!" The children getting the dolls were the motivation for these two women and the three honorable mentions, Chris Hoopingartner of 704 S. Main St., Nanette Havens of 10420 Hershey Lane East, and Irene Sherman. They said the prize money the bank awards them doesn't really matter—$25, $15, and $5 is no where near the value of the creativity and time these women put into their dolls.

They made little pocketbooks, petticoats, extra outfits such as nightgowns and pants so the girl could change the doll into something different, crocheted leg warmers, eyelet pinafores, and lace skirts.

Unfortunately this is the last year Great Lakes will sponsor the doll contest, said Robert Porter, branch manager, because of a lack of interest at other branches. The Chelsea branch had all 20 dolls at their office taken home and dressed, although it did take a little longer this year for them to go out, said Porter. "We had all these naked dolls lined up on the counter for a few weeks."

It could be the contest, in its 13th year, is old hat, he said. The bank had bought 6,000 dolls and used the same amount of advertising as in the past.

For first-time entrant Mrs. Havens and the other women, not having a contest next year will be a disappointment. This is a hobby for them and a way to share their talent. Mrs. Hoopingartner has twin daughters but still found time to dress one.

Great Lakes will pass out the surplus dolls from this year next October for anyone who wants to dress it.

But there are still going to be some very creative caring doll dressers who will need some dolls—preferably ones with hair.

The dolls will be on display at Great Lakes office this week, until Santa collects them for distribution.

No Moratorium in 14th District Court

Christmas-time "justice" as is observed in Ann Arbor's 15th District Court has two sides to it, said Judge Kenneth Bronson of 14th District Court 3 in Chelsea.

Three Ann Arbor judges signed a Christmas moratorium preventing creditors from garnishing or collecting from their debtors' paychecks or bank accounts from Dec. 13-31.

A creditor who has a judgment against a debtor must get court approval each time he wants to collect a specific amount.

But who is that playing Santa Claus to, asks Bronson. It gives debtors a good Christmas but not creditors who may need that money for their families' holiday.

Even Ann Arbor judges admit they don't have the authority to enforce this long-standing tradition. Bronson says the questionable legality of the tradition is another reason the 14th District has no such Christmas traditions. In sentences he gave last week, many of the fines are due between the middle and end of the month, as is usual for him.

County district courts are usually quieter during the last two weeks of December, he says, because the judges and attorneys often take vacation time then. But this year since he will move to the Saline court Jan. 3, he is trying to finish up loose ends and expects a heavy schedule.

An estimated 106,000,000 pounds of grapes, valued at $14.4 million, were harvested in 1981, another vintage year for Michigan grapes. This was a seven percent increase over 1980. Michigan is in fifth place among grape producing states with about 15,000 acres of commercial vineyards.

Hearing Slated Tonight On Zoning Amendment

Chelsea Village Planning Commission will hold a public hearing tonight at 7:30 p.m. in the council chambers on an amendment to the zoning ordinance to update the ordinance's language on special land uses and planned unit developments.

A letter from Pump 'N Pantry concerning the rejection of their site plan will also be read.
The ordinance amendment, which also must be approved by the village council, is necessary to bring the village's zoning ordinance into compliance with 1978 amendments to the state's City and Village Zoning Act.

Christmas Dance Slated by CHS Student Council

Chelsea High school will hold a Christmas dance, their only school-wide semiformal event, Saturday, Dec. 18 from 7 to 11 p.m. at the school gymnasium.

Girls are asked to wear dresses and boys ties. They may either go alone or as couples.

The dance's theme is "Christmas Fantasy," said Amy Poljan, student council president. The gymnasium and "fish bowl" will have crepe paper and mural-poster decorations made by art classes.

Doug Ingalls and his "Sanity Wall" stereo system will provide music. Cookies, punch, mints and candy canes will be served, and school staff will chaperone.

Tickets for the dance must be purchased by Dec. 15. Single tickets cost $3, and $5 for a couple.

Two More Escapes Are Reported from Area Prison Camps

The escapes go on.
Camp Waterloo and the Cassidy Lake Technical School each "lost" one inmate last Thursday night.

Rick Allen Schwartz, 23, of Fenton, serving 1½ to 5 years for attempted burglary, escaped from Camp Waterloo. Richard Daniel, 19, of Detroit, sentenced to two years for illegal possession of firearms, ran away from Cassidy Lake.

Both are being sought by area police agencies.

School Board Briefs

Present at a regular meeting of the Chelsea Board of Education Monday, Dec. 6, were Feeney, Schumann, Heller, Dils, Grau, Snyder, Comeau, Superintendent Van Meer, Assistant Superintendent Mills, Principals Williams, Conklin, Wojcicki, Assistant Principal Vogel, Special Education Director DeYoung, Athletic Director Nemeth, guests.

Meeting called to order at 8 p.m. by President Ann Feeney. The Board approved the minutes of the Nov. 15 meeting.

The Board of Education held a workshop on "Your Attitude Is Showing." The workshop was presented by Louise Hubal. Also in attendance for the workshop were students, teachers and parents from the various building committees formed to accentuate a positive attitude program. Mrs. Hubal stressed the commitment to making positive affirmations. The process of making positive affirmations in committing oneself to an element of positiveness can have a powerful effect on one's daily living.

The Board recessed to executive session to hear a parent's appeal of a high school disciplinary action. The Board subsequently returned to public session. No action was taken on the matter inasmuch as a recommendation from the high school principal gave solution to the problem.

Sue Carter, district testing coordinator, reviewed with the Board the results of the Michigan Assessment Test which was administered to 4th, 7th and 10th graders. Again, Chelsea continues to show reading improvement at all levels. Math Scores deviated, however, staying about the same. Both areas are above the state averages.

Principal John Williams reviewed with the Board the North Central evaluation. Overall, the report was very positive. Williams indicated that upon receipt of the written evaluation a plan will be implemented to strengthen any weaknesses.

Superintendent Van Meer indicated to the Board that the latest economic news from the State of Michigan is not good. It appears that the budget deficit could be as large as $35 million. The economic sag is due mainly to lack of sales tax generation. It is very possible that another Executive Order will be forthcoming. The educational systems have already had an executive order. The highway system is in need of repair making further reductions more complicated. The state may have to raise revenues.

The Board approved negotiation of a contract with DiGeronimo Architects to provide planning services for improving the tennis, track and football field facilities. This is part of the five-year maintenance millage plan.

The Board passed a resolution honoring the services of Judge Kenneth Bronson, 14th District Court, for his contributions to the students and staff of the Chelsea School District. Judge Bronson has been transferred to Saline.

The Board cancelled the Dec. 20 meeting of the Board of Education.

The Board approved the hiring of MAB to negotiate a Master Agreement with the Chelsea Education Association.

The Board was informed that the administration is critiquing energy management system bids, looking toward the installation of a computerized energy management system later this year.

Board adjourned at 11:10 p.m.

Correction

In the Nov. 30 issue of The Standard, it was mistakenly printed that the Christmas Caroling order forms were available at Dayspring Gifts. The article should have read that they are available at Merkel's and the Chelsea Drug Store. The Chelsea High School Band apologizes to Dayspring Gifts for any inconveniences this caused.

Rick's Market Contamination Case Officially Settled

All the legal papers have been signed and the out-of-court settlement in the chemical contamination case involving Rick's Market on M-52 north of Chelsea is now official and final.

A spokesman for the Ann Arbor law firm of Bishop & Shelton, which took over the case from Dexter attorney Daniel F. Giardina several months ago as the representative of the store owner Terry Rickerman, confirmed the settlement which was finally agreed to formally by all parties last Thursday.

Giardina had disclosed the tentative settlement three weeks ago, although he was not representing Rickerman at that time.

A condition of the settlement is that its precise terms not be revealed. It is said to involve hundreds of thousands of dollars.

It all started on Oct. 10, 1980, when agents for Orkin Exterminating Co. came to Rick's Market to carry out a routine pest control fumigating operation. Something went wrong.

A few days later customers began complaining about bad smells and tastes in meat, cheese, fruit, vegetables and other merchandise carried in the store. Rickerman closed the place, tried to clean up and announced that he would reopen in a week. The market has been out of business ever since. Rickerman subsequently sued Orkin for more than a million dollars. Although nobody has admitted anything publicly, it appears that Orkin may have applied too much of the chemical used for fumigation. It is supposed to be sprayed as a fine mist which evaporates before it hits the floor. Instead, there were puddles of liquid left. The residue continued to cause contamination of food samples put into the market as recently as last July, according to the Michigan Department of Agriculture's food inspection division.

The federal Environmental Protection Agency has certified that the building is now cleared of contamination and could be reopened as a food-marketing store, and has so notified the Department of Agriculture.

The Bishop & Shelton spokesman said that, to his knowledge, no decision has been made by his client, Rickerman, as to what will be done with the property.

"It is a valuable site in a good location," the spokesman said. "It has a package liquor license attached to it. There is presently no other grocery or party store in the vicinity on the north end of Chelsea, not even a gas station. I believe somebody will do something out there. There was some interest expressed in the property during negotiations for the settlement of the lawsuit."

Chelsea Hospital Pilots Rehabilitation Project

The Chelsea Community Hospital Rehabilitation Unit serves as a site for a pilot project of Rehabilitation Sources, an information service located in Lansing.

Rehabilitation Sources is a state-wide service which assists professionals and individuals in locating assistive devices needed by the handicapped for accomplishing every-day tasks. Some examples of the kinds of information requested are:

Where to locate adapted clothing for an individual with limited movement, to aid in dressing independently; where a talking clock for a blind person or special toy for a handicapped child might be found; is there such a thing as a fishing pole holder which can be easily used by a man with a paralyzed arm; are there aids for crafts or homemaking available?

Isabelle Green, R.N., of Rehabilitation Sources and former employee of Chelsea Community Hospital, feels that this is a time-saving service helpful to the therapy, social work, and nursing staff of the hospital.

Rehabilitation Sources is an adjunct service of the Physically Impaired Association of Michigan Assistance Centre.

SPICE SHAKERS-ICE CREAM TRADE: Mrs. Richard Clarke's fifth grade classroom at North school won an ice cream party Dec. 8 for selling 177 spice and flavor shakers, the most of any classroom in the school's annual fund-raiser for playground equipment. Chris Underhill uses one of the shakers to put sprinkles on his ice cream. Mrs. Packard's first grade class took second with 137 and Mrs. Mortensen's fifth grade class third with 131. Students raised more than $1,000 with the sale.

Chamber of Commerce Expands Its Activities

Outgoing Chelsea Area Chamber of Commerce President Sam Johnson states that the chamber has worked diligently to fulfill its mandate since being formed two years ago.

At that time the Chamber committed itself to speaking for a unified business community; leading an economic development program which will replace lost jobs; informing and taking an active role in local government and area concerns; leading a program of Chelsea vitalization; being concerned with short and long range planning; and presenting to the membership information on local issues on a regular basis.

President Johnson notes the following accomplishments of the Chamber of Commerce: recruited 64 members; taken a survey of area industry to aid economic development efforts; joined in a county-wide economic development plan; conducted a village election candidates night with a direct mailing to village residents urging them to vote; sponsored meetings for area employers with our congressman and Washtenaw Community College's Institute of Economic Development and Job Training, and taken the lead in trying to maintain and improve the Chelsea area telephone service.

The chamber has also met on a regular basis with village leaders to discuss areas of mutual concern; maintained liaison with other government leaders; met with surrounding township leaders; been concerned with central village development, including parking problems; sponsored Michigan Week and a series of plant tours; worked with the Chelsea Fire Department on its house number project; initiated a series of brochures soon to be available which will help the Chelsea business community; incorporated the Retail Merchants Association as a division of the Chamber of Commerce; shared in the cost of extending Main St. Christmas decorations; co-sponsored the new Chelsea area sign on the wall of the Chelsea Pharmacy; and helped prepare a Retail Merchants 1982 business calendar.

Johnson noted that, while the Board of Directors has been pleased to have 64 members, there could be many more. He urges anyone eligible to become a member. As Johnson states, "The Chelsea Area Chamber of Commerce needs your help in order for it to help you."

Necessary legal forms and contracts are being drawn up by a Lansing law firm. Village President Jack Merkel and Clerk Evelyn Rosentreter will sign them for the village. They key to when it all becomes official will be the date that a revenue bond issue to finance MMPA's share of the venture will be offered for sale, and that will depend partly on when the bond market is most favorable, Weber said.

Weber emphasized that Chelsea does not have to put up any money or pledge its faith and credit for the bonds.

Break-in Reported At South School

A break-in at South Elementary school last week resulted in the principal's office being ransacked but nothing apparently stolen, Chelsea village police said. A window was broken to gain entry into the school.

Development Proposed For Eight-Acre Parcel

The Chelsea Village Council has asked for more information on a proposal to develop an eight-acre parcel of land on the southwest side of the village for residential purposes.

The site is located east of Wilkinson St., south of Chandler, west of Grant and north of Wellington. The owner is Marvin Salyer of 314 Washington St. Much of it is low-lying swamp and presumably would have to be drained and/or filled.

Thornton Realty, Inc., represented Salyer in an appearance before the village council last Tuesday night, and a spokesman for the firm inquired specifically whether sewer hook-ups are available for the tract.

Village administrator Frederick A. Weber said there are sewer lines along the streets which front the property, but none extending into its interior.

After some discussion the council decided to ask for a detailed development and site plan, including the density of proposed homesites. Unclear at this point is whether single homes or multiple-dwelling buildings (apartments or condominiums) are planned.

"This is not a brand-new proposal," Weber said. "The Planning Commission considered it a year ago, and probably will have to look at it again because there apparently have been some changes in thinking. We all need to see a plan."

There are existing homes fronting along Wilkinson, Chandler and Grant Sts. The vacant land, except for a single large home, lies behind them. Right now a large portion of the property is under water as the result of recent heavy rains.

80TH BIRTHDAYS DESERVE BIG CARDS. Milly Smith, who has volunteered in South school first grade classrooms teaching reading for more than 10 years, turned 80 Dec. 8. Students in Mrs. Thornton's class gave her this card signed by all the students in the school, many of them her former reading pupils. Those balloons are some of the 80 that decorated the room. Mrs. Smith, in the center, took the card to another party Saturday to share with her teacher-

Volunteer 1st Grade Assistant Honored on 80th Birthday

The oldest "first grader" in South school history celebrated her birthday last Wednesday.

Milly Smith, a daily volunteer in JoAnn Thornton's first grade class, turned 80 Dec. 8. The children honored her with a birthday party, a card the size of a blackboard, and a chrysanthemum corsage.

Six-year-olds understand the idea of birthday, said Mrs. Thornton, "and were excited about honoring Mrs. Smith, a special person in the classroom."

But 80th birthday? That number was a bit large to comprehend, she said. The 80 helium-filled balloons she and her husband filled the classroom with, did help.

Mrs. Smith, a retired first grade teacher and in her 11th year of volunteering at the school, had also told them stories before about being a little girl in Indiana with no cars or electric lights.

First graders have a special place in Mrs. Smith's heart. "They are my favorites. They are just beginning and so eager and anxious to learn to read."

"If you can teach them to do that well," she said, "they are on their way to being successful—and that is so rewarding."

Mrs. Thornton teaches the basic reading skills, and Mrs. Smith drills and reinforces them one-on-one with word cards from their vocabulary level, listens to them read, and reads to them. She began volunteering when she moved to Chelsea in the early 1970s.

The children are "honored" to read with their special teacher, said Mrs. Thornton. "They look forward to their next chance."

Mrs. Smith is an exceptional 80-year-old in other ways too. When she was 75, her daughter convinced her to take a mule ride into the Grand Canyon so she could see it.

"I had a nice mule," she said, "but I was scared stiff. That's when I learned to hike."

She ordered a backpack and sleeping bag and started walking in Waterloo with a load of books. Since then she has hiked into the canyon four times.

It's hard to keep a secret from a savvy 80-year-old, so she had a hint there would be a party Wednesday. But the card and "all those balloons" were a big surprise, she said.

Social Services Needs New Toys

New toys are needed to brighten Christmas for 60 children whose families are clients of Chelsea Social Services.

Each year social services would like to be able to put at least one new toy for each child in his or her family's holiday box, said Linda Ormsby, director of social services. The children's ages range from birth to 13.

Social services will pack the holiday boxes from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 16 at Sylvan Township Hall. Community members may drop by toys then.

Donations of used toys, nonperishable food, clothing or personal care products such as shampoo or soap are also welcome, said Mrs. Ormsby, but they do have a special need for new toys.

Pressure Defense Nets Big Bulldog Varsity Win Over Tecumseh

One mark of a good basketball team is its ability to win on the road, and Chelsea's Bulldogs made it two in a row in that department with a 56-48 victory at Tecumseh last Friday night.

The win gave Chelsea a 3-0 season record going into this Friday's clash with Dexter, and mightily pleased Bulldog coach Robin Raymond.

"Tecumseh has a small gym, and the crowd seems to be sitting right out there on the floor with the players," Raymond said. "It's a very tough place for a visiting team, and we have always had trouble down there."

Chelsea won it by rushing out to a 17-10 lead at the end of the first quarter and playing the Indians a little more than even the rest of the way. It was 31-26 at the half and 43-34 at the end of three periods.

"Tecumseh came back at us several times," Raymond commented, "but we were always able to maintain control of the game. Whenever they threatened to get close, we got the points we needed to maintain our margin."

Matt Villemure's 18-foot jumper at the buzzer put the Bulldogs up by five at half-time and just may have been the most important basket of the game.

Chelsea came on after the intermission to outscore Tecumseh, 12-8, in the third quarter, and that locked it up.

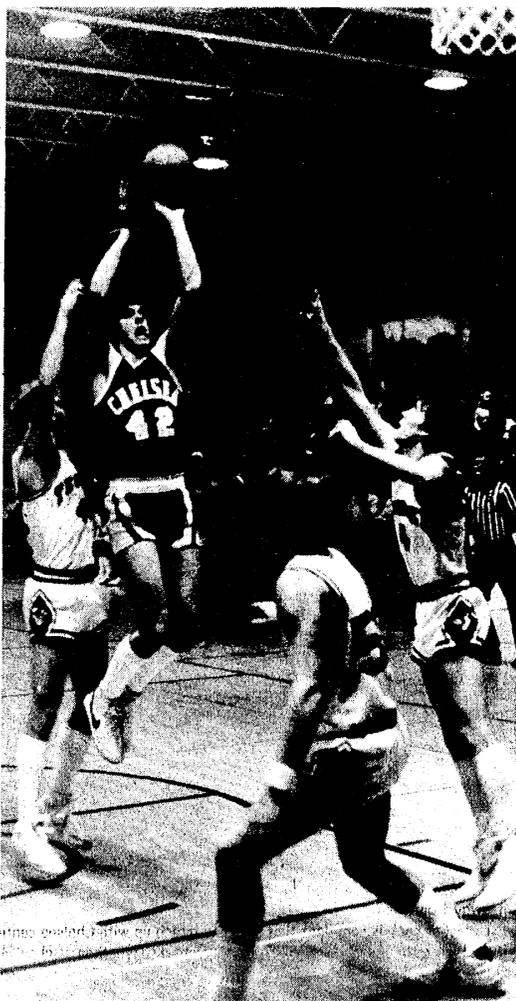

The Bulldogs' third-period edge was triggered by a shift of Marty Steinhauer to guard from his normal forward position. He and captain Dave Wojcicki shut down Tecumseh's two hot-shooting guards, who had kept the game close in the first half.

"Our pressure defense is what made the difference," Raymond said. "We made them work hard to get the ball upcourt and forced them into some poor shots."

Chelsea showed marked improvement in another important phase of the sport. After turning over the ball 33 and 27 times in their first two games, the Bulldogs gave it up only 11 times against Tecumseh.

And, after being badly out-rebounded by Pinckney last Tuesday night, Chelsea came back to earn a decisive 34-25 edge on the boards against Tecumseh, with center Dave Kiel picking off 15.

Still another bright spot was the Bulldogs' accuracy from the foul line, where they made 10 of 13 attempts. Tecumseh, meanwhile, hit only two of 10, an eight-point difference in Chelsea's favor. Considering that Chelsea won by eight, that swing was critical.

CHELSEA'S MARTY STEINHAUER goes up in a crowd of Tecumseh defenders to put in two of his team-leading 14 points in the Bulldogs' 56-48 Southeastern Conference victory at Tecumseh last Friday night.

Steinhauer paced the Bulldogs with 14 points in a well balanced team scoring effort. Wojcicki had 11. Carl Pate came off the bench to get 10, once again playing his role a "sixth man" in fine fashion. Kiel had eight to go along with his great play on the boards, and Villemure chipped in six. Dave Mann had five and Eric Schaffner two.

Chelsea's point total of 56 was well below its 80 average for the first two games. One reason was that Tecumseh tried to slow things down, Raymond said. Another was the Bulldog defense, which made the Indians take a lot of time to bring the ball upcourt and maneuver for a shot.

Chelsea has tonight off and will travel down the road to Dexter on Friday to try for its third successive away-from-home victory. After that comes the holiday break, with play resuming Jan. 7, a home date against Saline.

In last Friday's junior varsity clash, Chelsea was a 47-44 winner in overtime.

Cagers Hang on for Win at Pinckney

Chelsea Basketball coach Robin Raymond was happy to get out of Pinckney's new fieldhouse with a 72-62 victory over the tenacious Pirates Tuesday, but wasn't so pleased with some of the things that happened during the game.

He was especially unhappy that Pinckney had a 47-36 edge in rebounds, which helped to keep the game close. "They just plain out-hustled us on the boards, and we have to correct that if we are going to be big winners this season," he said.

Raymond also didn't like the fact that his Bulldogs turned the ball over 27 times, an improvement over the opening-game total of 33 but still far too many. "We have to get it down to around 15," he said.

Still, it was a win on the road against a good Pinckney team which hung in and scrapped after Chelsea opened up a 10-2 lead in the opening minutes and seemed en route to a runaway. The Pirates came back to tie the game at 16 at the end of the first quarter and were behind by only two, 32-30, at the half.

The Bulldogs actually won the game in the third quarter, outscoring Pinckney 15-7 to take a 48-37 lead. The two teams battled evenly the rest of the way, and Chelsea sealed the victory by making 10 of 12 free throws in the last two minutes as the Pirates were forced to foul to get the ball.

"We did a nice job in those last two minutes," Raymond said. "We were under pressure, and we stood up to it. Our third-quarter effort was the difference. We try to come on strong after the half, and we did this time."

Dave Wojcicki paced the Bulldogs with 23 points, including 10 in the third quarter, but it was Marty Steinhauer's fourth-quarter surge that kept his team on top. Steinhauer had 11 of his 19 points in the final period.

Matt Villemure contributed four key free throws in the final seconds to make sure that Pinckney didn't close the gap. The hustling point guard doesn't get to take many shots in the Chelsea offensive scheme but dishes out a lot of assists. He had five for the game.

Center Dave Kiel had seven points and, more important, 14 rebounds, 40 percent of his team's total.

"Part of our rebounding problem was simply that the ball took some bad bounces for us," Raymond said, "but Kiel was the only one who really scrapped for the ball underneath. His effort shows in the statistics."

Raymond suggested that the Bulldogs may have been bothered a bit by playing in the new Pinckney facility, which is more like a college field house than a high school gym.

"It's a very nice place, but it's different from what our boys are used to playing in," he commented. "I think we may have had a little trouble adjusting. But, give credit to the Pinckney team. They stayed in there when they could have folded. They had been blown out by Williamston in the final game of their tournament three nights before, and came back to play very well against us."

Frosh Cagers Dominate JC Western

Chelsea's freshman basketball team began its season on a high note with a resounding 77-26 win over Jackson County Western last Thursday, to the pleasant surprise of new coach Paul Ash.

"Frankly, I didn't know what to expect going into the game," Ash said. "I knew these kids didn't have much success last year, but they played well and showed a lot of ability. They aren't big, but they work hard and get the job done."

Ash lives in Milan and works full-time for Michigan Bell Telephone Co. He has been hired as freshman basketball coach but does not teach in the Chelsea school system.

"I've been in basketball all my life, but this is my first coaching assignment and I'm enjoying it," Ash said.

All 11 members of the Chelsea frosh squad got on the scoresheet. Ken Martin led with 16 points, Dan Bellus had 13, Tim Bowdish 11 and Kevin Maynard 10.

Chelsea led, 42-19, at the half, and Western managed only seven points the rest of the way.

"We weren't trying to run up the score," Ash said, "and tried to hold it down."

A sour note was a second-half ankle injury to center Mark Mull, who is expected to miss the next two games.

8th Grade Cagers Split First Two

Chelsea's eighth-grade basketball team made its debut last Tuesday night with a 31-30 victory over Lincoln that wasn't quite as close as the score.

Up by 10 points with two minutes to play, Chelsea coach Jim Tallman emptied his bench, and Lincoln came on to narrow the count to the eventual one-point difference.

"I have 18 players on the squad, and I want to be sure they all get a chance to play," Tallman said. "At the eighth-grade level that is probably more important than anything else. We have a good group of kids, and some of them will develop into fine players."

Todd Starkey led the team with 11 points, Matt Bolander had six, and Jon Lane and Mark Bareis four each. Starkey and Matt Steinhauer were top rebounders.

The eighth graders' next outing, against Saline two nights later, did not come out as well in terms of the score, the Hornets winning, 45-36.

"Strange as it may seem, we played better against Saline than we did against Lincoln, even though we lost this time," Tallman said. "We showed great improvement. Saline is an excellent team. They were unbeaten as seventh graders, and they haven't lost this year."

Starkey, with 18 points, and Jeffy Harvey with 12 accounted for all but six of Chelsea's total.

VOGEL'S & FOSTER'S

STUCK FOR A GOOD GIFT?

As Christmas approaches, it's the same old dilemma — what to get for Dad or Uncle Joe or Cousin Mark?

Reid Biggs, Auto Parts Counter Supervisor at A&L, says, "It shouldn't be that difficult. Tools are always a good present. Here at A&L we've got all sorts of hand and power tools that would do just fine. Socket sets in either U.S. or metric; or an impact wrench — how about a jack for the guy who really likes to work on his own car?"

"Then of course there's add-on equipment — things like tachometers or gauges or mirrors or even splash guards. Oil and a filter would be an unusual gift, but practical. So would anti-freeze or automatic transmission fluid."

"If someone is an old-car buff, some hard-to-find part would make a super present. And over at the Paint & Equipment store on Ashley Street there would be all kinds of polishes, cleaners, dressings, and waxes." Reid is right. A&L could be your Christmas store. It's handy (on Main St.); open Saturday mornings (8 'til noon); is certainly a retail sales store; takes VISA and MasterCard; and now has TeleCheck (your personal check is welcome).

Both coaches are deliberately soft-peddling it, but the fact is that the basketball game between Chelsea and Dexter at the Dexter gym Friday night looms as a key contest for both schools.

The loser won't be out of contention for the Southeastern Conference championship, but the winner will have a strong leg up in the chase for the SEC crown. Dexter is the defending titlist, Chelsea a chief challenger. It will be the last league game before the holiday break, and whichever team wins will have some momentum going for it.

It is understandable that neither Chelsea's Robin Raymond nor Dexter's Jim McCormack wants to call it a "showdown" game. There is a lot more basketball to be played after the first of the year, and the championship almost certainly will be decided down the stretch in late February and early March.

Unless I badly miss my guess, nobody is going to walk off with the SEC crown in the way that Dexter did last year, finishing a full three games in front of the rest of the pack while the other six teams took turns beating each other.

Chelsea is off to an excellent start. As this was written (before Friday's league opener against Tecumseh), the Bulldogs had scored impressive wins over East Jackson and Pinckney. Raymond had his run-and-shoot offense in high gear, putting up 159 points in the two games. His all-over-the-court pressure defense was doing what it was supposed to do—force turnovers and bad shots. Rebounding was not as good as it ought to be given Chelsea's big and strong front line, and there were too many whistles for unnecessary fouls, traveling and misdirected passes. Those are things that can be corrected with practice, and Raymond promises they will be.

"We're going to get some fouls called on us because of the aggressive way we play," Raymond says, "but we have to eliminate the cheap ones. We have to get our turnovers down to around 15 a game. We had 33 in the first game, 27 in the second, which means we have a lot more work to do. And we definitely have to do better getting up on the boards for rebounds."

McCormack was not as discouraged as he might have been by Dexter's two losses in the opening Pinckney Tip-Off Tournament, but was happy to have last Tuesday night's win over Novi. He has a young team, with only center Eric Sing back as a starter from last year, and figures it will take the new Dreadnaughts a few games to jell and play well together.

"I think we will be all right, but I'm not sure how soon," is the way he puts it. "I may have been responsible for our loss to Fowlerville (in the consolation game of the Pinckney tourney). We had a lead, and I began experimenting with zone defenses to see if we could execute them, which we didn't. We were a better team than Fowlerville but we lost, and it was probably my fault. I wanted to try some things, and let it go too far."

It is not giving away any secrets to suggest that McCormack may put up a zone against Raymond when their two teams clash on Friday. Chelsea is going to see a lot of zone defense and slow-down offense this season. Opposing coaches will try to disrupt the Bulldogs' hurry-up tempo on both ends of the floor. It will take a very good team indeed to beat them at their running game.

Raymond professes not to be worried. "We have the ability to shoot over a zone defense and pop in baskets from 15-20 feet," he insists. "And if opponents start passing the ball around a lot on offense, we'll get it away from them."

McCormack is confident that Sing can match up with Chelsea center Dave Kell, even though Sing will be at a weight disadvantage of about 40 pounds. Their heights are the same at 6-5. Weight can make a difference in the muscling for rebounds under the boards, where the game of basketball can get to be very physical indeed.

Raymond professes not to be worried. "We have the ability to shoot over a zone defense and pop in baskets from 15-20 feet," he insists. "And if opponents start passing the ball around a lot on offense, we'll get it away from them."

McCormack is confident that Sing can match up with Chelsea center Dave Kell, even though Sing will be at a weight disadvantage of about 40 pounds. Their heights are the same at 6-5. Weight can make a difference in the muscling for rebounds under the boards, where the game of basketball can get to be very physical indeed.

Swimmers Win Tough EMU Relays

A scientifically designed swimming pool combined with some Bulldog revenge gave Chelsea a big win Saturday at the Eastern Michigan Relays, a 12-team invitational for teams whose coaches are EMU graduates or former EMU swimmers.

Brighton, a two-time defending champion, had beaten Chelsea by just two points the last two years. This year Brighton was second with 105 to Chelsea's 118 points. Winning the 200-yard freestyle relay was important to Chelsea's win, said coach Larry Reed. The team of John Drew, Kent Noll, Hans Timmer and Steve Ramsey was seeded eighth, which put them in an outside lane.

In an older pool that is the kiss of death, because an outside lane gets all the backwash from the wall. But the new EMU pool is "designed to be fast," said Reed, and the outside lane has an advantage.

Although the Monroe relay had a better time than the Bulldog four, a Monroe swimmer false-started and their relay was disqualified.

The usual two high school relays, the 200 medley and 400 free relays were swum along with unusual events such as a 1500 free relay, three swimmers going 500 yards each, and a diving relay. The meet is intended to be a fun kick-off to the boy's season. Nine teams were Class A schools, and Chelsea was one of three Class B teams competing.

Bulldogs Dave Nicola, Ted Merkel, Brent Bauer and Sean Oxner won the 400 individual medley relay, each swimmer doing a 100 IM. Nicola, Mike Coffman, Merkel and Oxner also won the 200 breaststroke relay. Chelsea's 200 medley relay, second, and 400 free relay, fifth, recorded state meet qualifying times, in different line-ups than their two previous qualifications.

Chelsea scored in the top six in 9 of 10 events, and seventh in that 10th event. That balanced scoring was the difference in the meet, said Reed.

Reed was pleased with the state qualifying times, he said, and with Don Skiff's eight-second drop in his 200 free time.

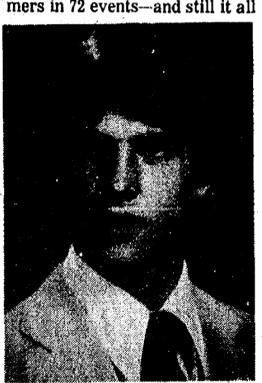

"We are going to have a lot more flexibility in our relays for the state meet," he said, "than I had expected. We learned a lot from this meet about possible relay line-ups."

Cherry Hill was third with 98 points; Troy Athens, fourth; Milan, fifth, 87; Ypsilanti, seventh, 71; and Willow Run, 12th, 25.

The Bulldogs' next meet is at 4:30 p.m. today against Okemos at Cameron Pool.

A special adult clinic will also be held with specific emphasis on development of skating techniques and stick handling skills.

came down to the last heat of the last event to give Chelsea Aquatic Club the championship Dec. 9 at Cameron Pool.

Chelsea was 25 points behind Ann Arbor Y at that point. Chelsea's 15- and older boys relay was seeded behind Brighton, and Chelsea lagged after the first two swimmers. John Drew, the third swimmer gave anchorman Sean Oxner a slight lead, and Oxner pulled away for a relay and team championship win. The power of three seconds of time!

Chelsea's relays finished first and fifth for 52 points and a final margin of 27 points over Ann Arbor.

Ann Arbor Y led after the first two days of events, Nov. 30 and Dec. 1 away, and the third day of events Dec. 6 at Cameron Pool. But high school coaches in Ann Arbor won't allow their swimmers to compete in club competition during the varsity season. Ann Arbor scored no points in that all-important 15- and older age-group—the difference in the championship.

Larry Reed, co-coach for the CAC and coach for the boys varsity team, said he had no qualms about letting boys varsity swimmers compete in such a meet, four months away from the most important varsity meet, the state championship.

During the CAC's winter season beginning after New Year's, there will be no 15- and older boys events as there wasn't for girl swimmers during their fall season.

Chelsea had 1,923 points total; Ann Arbor Y, 1,896; Milan, 1,687; Brighton, 994; Ypsilanti, 940; and Jackson, 187.

Complete results from the two week championships are not yet available.

Wrestlers Bounce Back In Invitational After Loss

There was bad news and good news on the Chelsea High school wrestling front last week.

The bad news was that the Bulldogs took a thorough beating on their opening Southeastern Conference dual meet against Jackson County Western, losing 47-15 last Thursday night. The only bright spots were Mark Rosen-treter's decision victory in the 119-pound class and Jeff Morgan's pin at 126 pounds. Travis Rudd won by forfeit at 132 pounds. Otherwise, Chelsea lost every match.

"Western has a strong team, but I honestly didn't believe they would beat us that badly," said a disappointed Kerry Kargel, Chelsea wrestling coach. The good news is that the Bulldogs came back strong last Saturday to finish third in a nine-team field at the Linden Invitational meet, despite having no entrants in three weight classes because of illnesses and injuries.

Class A Holly was first with 58 points, Fenton second with 157 and Chelsea third with 103. Bulldog freshman Pete Harma and his older brother, Bill, both won individual championships at 98 and 112 pounds, respectively. Rudd was second in the 132-pound class, and Rosentreter, Morgan, Scott Dault (138) and Jan Bowdish (167) each earned third places.

"Our kids really did well," Kargel said, "and I was pleased by their progress. This was a tough meet with several good teams and many good individuals entered. Both Rosentreter and Bowdish came up out of the 'rat pack' (loser's bracket) to earn their places. They each had to wrestle four matches during the day, and that isn't easy."

While the Bulldog varsity was competing at Linden, the JV wrestlers went to Dexter's Invitational meet. Freshman Andy Fenton won a fourth place there at 112 pounds.

"I knew we wouldn't score well at Dexter, but I wanted some of our younger boys to get experience by going up against varsity wrestlers from other schools. Andy Fenton's showing was a pleasant surprise."

Kargel anticipates an up-and-down season as his young, inexperienced squad goes through the learning process.

"We have very few veterans," he said, "and one of those (Ernie Bristle) but I am available for only one meet because of weight problems and injuries. But we're coming along, and by February I think we are going to surprise some people."

Swimming Team Edged By Monroe

You'd think a swimming meet would be all guts and brute strength—just swimming as fast as you can.

But the lineup of swimmers in different events can be a strategic game between two coaches, when the meet is expected to be close.

Bulldog boy swimmers lost such a meet to Monroe, 72-55, Dec. 9 away. Chelsea coach Larry Reed had figured from past times Monroe to be 10 points better, but expected the Bulldogs to have a good chance if the lineup went their way. It didn't.

In the past Monroe had loaded the first event, the medley relay, with their best swimmers. Reed has to turn in each event lineup before he sees which opponents are going up to the blocks, an educated but blind guess. Chelsea loaded their medley relay, and this year Monroe didn't—wasting Chelsea's big guns.

In dual meets swimmers are limited to three individual events, one of which must be a relay.

Coaches' second-guessing is complicated by the opponent's best swimmers, said Reed, because those athletes are usually all-around swimmers.

Chelsea was ahead until diving, and only trailed by nine points going into the final event, the 400-yard freestyle relay. If the Bulldogs took first and second, they would have 12 points and a win. Monroe, a Class A school, loaded that relay, and won it.

The varsity meet was a lot closer than the final score would indicate, said Reed, but the junior varsity meet, which the Bulldogs won, 64-60, wasn't really that close.

Chelsea led from the start, but a Chelsea swimmer took off from the blocks too soon in the final relay, disqualifying his relay team. (The "flying" relay start is another swimming gamble—trying to get off just as soon as the other swimmer touches, but not before he hits the wall.)

Reed said the junior varsity meet was especially exciting, because novice swimmers improve so dramatically each day.

The team's next home meet is 4:30 p.m. today against Okemos, a last minute schedule change. Okemos' girls coach had to suddenly take over the boys team in the last week and had scheduled the girl's team banquet for Thursday, the original date for the meet. Okemos is a Class B swimming powerhouse, so Reed expects an exciting night.

Bulldog swimmers recorded seven state meet qualifying times at this meet. Junior varsity meet results follow the varsity times and places.

200 medley relay—Oxner, T. Merkel, Nicola, Drew, first, 1:46.4, state qualifying time Miller, Coffman, Bauer, Skiff, third, 1:53.7; JV—Ramsey, Colombo, Leach, Timmer, first, 1:58.2; Samek, Cox, Brown, Westhoven, third, 2:12.4.

200 free—Hoffman, second, 2:00.0; Fowler, fifth; Degener, sixth; JV—R. Merkel, second, 2:18.2; Robbins, third, Ryan, sixth.

200 IM—Oxner, first, 2:12.8,

SEC ROUND-UP:

Milan, Saline Win Season Openers

Two of the three Southeastern Conference pre-season co-favorites won their opening league basketball games last Friday night, but defending champion Dexter dropped its contest with Saline.

Chelsea and Milan both began their pursuit of the SEC title with impressive victories. Chelsea dumped Tecumseh, 56-48, and Milan had a surprisingly easy time against Lincoln, winning 67-51. Lincoln has been regarded as a dark horse in the chase for the championship.

The other SEC member, Jackson County Western, did not have a league contest scheduled. With seven teams in the conference, only six can be involved in conference play on any given night.

Dexter jumped out to a big early lead over visiting Saline but let the game get away with poor play during the two middle quarters. A strong fourth-period Dexter rally fell short as Saline held on by out-shooting the Dreadnaughts at the foul line.

Chelsea led all the way in its road triumph over Tecumseh, opening up a 17-10 first quarter lead and maintaining the margin the rest of the way. The remaining three periods were played on fairly even terms. The Bulldogs' pressure defense, 10-of-13 free throw shooting, avoidance of turnovers (only 12 for the game) and rebounding edge (37-27) were big factors in the win.

Milan's tough defense keyed its home victory over Lincoln, which fell behind early and never got close. The Railsplitters made it easy for Milan with cold shooting from the floor, especially during the third quarter when they dropped in only two field goals.

Lincoln nevertheless has a lot of talent, and coach Bill Welch promises his team will be in the thick of things once it jells.

Putting it all together after the first night of play, it looks like at least six of the seven SEC teams must be considered legitimate contenders in what promises to be a real scramble for the title.

The jury is still out on Western, which was winless in the conference last year.

Willard Johnson To Head Area Hospital Council

Willard H. Johnson, administrator of Chelsea Community Hospital, is the chairman-elect of the newly formed Southeast Michigan Hospital Council.

The organization represents hospitals in Washtenaw, Livingston, Monroe, Wayne, Oakland, Macomb and St. Clair counties, and is affiliated with the Michigan Hospital Association. It includes about 90 hospitals in the seven-county area.

Nature Center May Offer Cross-Country Skiing

The scope of this winter's activity at the Waterloo Nature Center will depend on whether the Department of Natural Resources grants the Waterloo Natural History Association permission to charge fees for cross-country skiing on the trails in the vicinity. A decision from Lansing is expected in the next week or two.

"In any case we will be open on week-ends only, and only on those week-ends when there is enough snow for skiing," said Mrs. Emille Polens, center coordinator. "If we get permission to charge for skiing, we will set up a collection booth and provide a shelter where people can warm up and get a cup of coffee."

The association took over operation of the center after the DNR was forced to abandon it for budget reasons. It has been a constant touch-and-go struggle to keep the facility afloat financially.

"One thing we hope to do is offer rental of a horse-drawn sleigh," Mrs. Polens said. "For that we will need somebody to offer us the use of a draft horse, and volunteers to help provide the service."

Supposed 'Stolen' Ring Found in Locker Room

The ring reported stolen from a Chelsea High school locker on Dec. 2 apparently wasn't. It was found on the floor near the locker by a Chelsea student and turned in to the school office for return to its owner.

The supposed theft was reported to Chelsea police by a member of the Stockbridge High school wrestling team who used the locker during a dual meet between the two schools.

"It appears there was some horseplay involved," said Ron Nemeth, Chelsea athletic director. "The report to the police definitely was premature. The ring was found, and I'm glad of that."

Case closed.

Manchester Schools Instrumental Music Program Growing

Under the direction of Ms. Lynette Wanlass the instrumental music program of the Manchester Community Schools continues to grow at an ever increasing rate. The enthusiasm of the varsity band was readily observable during the past football season. Band members performed with renewed enthusiasm and skill.

While the varsity band is the end product of the instrumental music program and is most readily seen by the community it is truly only the tip of the iceberg.

To view the success of Ms. Wanlass' efforts one must look at the fifth grade where 80 percent of the students have chosen to become involved in the instrumental music program. This extraordinarily high level of participation is expected to pay high dividends in the coming years.

A problem to be encountered as the band continues to grow is the availability of instruments. Persons who may have an instrument in their home which is no longer in use are encouraged to consider donating it to the school system while using this donation as an income tax deduction. Should the person wish to retain ownership but be interested in loaning or trading an instrument please contact the building principal.

OUT IN THE OPEN
By BILL MULLENDORE

Doug Fulton took me (and I suspect a lot of other people) by surprise with his public announcement Dec. 5 that he plans to retire next spring from the position of outdoor editor of the Ann Arbor News, a job he has held for 20 years and some months.

Maybe I shouldn't have been surprised, because Doug's proclaimed reason for leaving is the same that mine was when I took early retirement from the Michigan Department of Natural Resources in the fall of 1981. He wants a change of pace and a chance to try something else. I hope he finds it, and wish him well.

Doug Fulton and I have known each other and been friends and professional associates for a long time. I helped to hire him at the News as a photographer, and he was (and still is) a darned good one. He has a wall full of plaques and citations to show for his genius with a camera.

When I left Ann Arbor in August of 1962, Doug volunteered to take over editorship of the paper's outdoor page, which at that time was a collateral assignment earning no extra pay or accolades. It was a task you did in whatever time you had left over after completing the duties of your regular job. It was mostly a labor of love, which I had worked at for 15 years.

One of Doug's accomplishments was to get the paper's management to recognize that outdoor writing is a legitimate occupation, and to create a full-time position as outdoor editor. Had that been done in my era, I might still be there and Doug might still be taking pictures for a living.

Doug has done some other important things. He had a lot to do with getting the Washtenaw county park system established, something that I had tried and failed to accomplish (although I like to think that I helped to lay a little groundwork).

He has been instrumental in the expansion and development of the Ann Arbor city park system, to the point where it is one of the finest of its kind in the nation.

He has been a vigorous voice in favor of the Ann Arbor Ecology Center, the Waterloo Natural History Association, and many other worthwhile environmental protection organizations and causes. He has never hesitated to speak out through his typewriter and take stands on controversial issues, sometimes offending those who were paying his salary. A newspaper columnist must have the courage of his convictions, and Doug never lacked that.

Doug Fulton will be missed when he leaves Ann Arbor permanently for the sunny southwest climate of Arizona. He has made his mark here, and the area is a better place because of his work.

A friend asked me if I intend to apply for Doug's job. Having learned long ago to never say never, I didn't answer with a flat-out no, but my inclinations are all against it.

I suspect the News will be looking for a younger person, one who will establish and develop continuity and reader rapport over more years than I intend to continue working. The job of an outdoor editor-writer is basically personal journalism, and it takes time to build the kind of writer-reader relationship that yields productive results.

I wouldn't be surprised if the assignment goes to a woman, because the News does that kind of thing. There is nothing wrong with the idea, assuming the person is competent, and it would not be a first in Michigan. At least two other Michigan newspapers that I know of have had female outdoor editors, and a good friend of mine, Gay Cowels of the DNR's information and education division, is currently an officer of the Michigan Outdoor Writers Association.

Beyond that, I'm not sure that Ann Arbor and its newspaper, and I, are compatible any more. Both the city and the News have changed drastically over the past 20 years, and I have, too, no doubt.

I belong to the "traditional" school of outdoor writing. Hunting, fishing, camping, boating, forestry are the things I know about and write about. Environmental protection and natural history are important, but they don't interest me enough to make me want to specialize in them full time. Other writers (like Doug Fulton) with more education and experience than I have in those fields are far better qualified to carry on.

So, I haven't applied for the job and have no reason to believe it would be given to me if I did. I suspect Doug Fulton's successor has already been selected, and hope that he or she carries on in Doug's tradition.

As a footnote, I hope Doug manages to get written the books that he says he wants to write. I'm carrying a couple of those around in my head, too, and am about to concede that they will never be put on paper. There is just too darned much else to do.

It Really Is A Small World

By Bill Mullendore

Somebody once wrote a song titled "It's a Small World After All," and Walt Disney used it as the theme for one of the more popular attractions at Disney
Land in California and Disney World in Florida.

For me the "small world" concept came home last week when I met one of the two sergeants newly assigned to command positions at the Chelsea station of the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department.

Back in the early 1950's my wife and I bought our first house, on Baylis Drive in Brookside subdivision, Ann Arbor. It was a neighborhood of young couples establishing families, and it turned out that most of us were pretty good at it. Pregnancies and subsequent births were announced and celebrated with enough regularity that there was almost always an excuse to have a neighborhood party. We came to call the subdivision "Fertile Acres."

There was one small fly in the ointment. Almost all the babies born were girls, to the point where there was a string of 17 straight female births, climaxed by the delivery of triplet girls to one couple.

There is nothing at all wrong with girls, of course, but most of us were hoping for a mixture of sexes in the families we planned and wanted to raise, and that didn't happen. We began to wonder if there was something in the air out there that ordained the begetting of girls.

There was an exception, a little boy a couple of blocks down the street. He was kind of lonely, because there weren't any other little boys. He became sort of special in the neighborhood, simply because he was the only one of his kind. We fathers of all-girl families paid considerable attention to him, to learn what it was like to have a boy around.

After a few years we bought another house and moved out of the neighborhood, and I forgot all about the nice little boy.

I met him again last week. His name is Harley Rider, and he has been put in charge of the afternoon shift at the Chelsea sheriff's station. We recognized and remembered each other instantly.

That we should both turn up on new jobs in Chelsea and meet one another is one of those near-impossibilities of mathematical probability, maybe a million-to-one chance.
As I said, it's a small world
after all.

Drama Class Play Slated Thursday

Eight weeks of work for Chelsea High school's stage and drama class will end at 7:30 p.m. Dec. 16 with the curtain rising on their public performance of Leonard Wibberley's comedy, "The Mouse That Roared" at the high school auditorium.

The last week has been spent finishing sets, rehearsing scene changes, designing lights and last minute polish of acting. Costumes have been rented from Lansing, make-up has been bought and drops rented—all to make the show more enjoyable.

Tim Benjamin and Eric Kruger, the student directors, both anticipate a successful performance. William Coelius III, the producer and drama teacher, says he is pleased with the job the directors are doing.

Tickets are general admission only. They are available at Chelsea Pharmacy. If any are left, they will be available at the door the night of the performance. The play will be put on in separate performances earlier in the week for both Beach Middle school and high school students.
