Tregets Move Still Possible

The proposal by Tregets Tool & Engineering Co. to move into the old Riemenschneider two-cycle fuel plant property on Old US-12 is still alive and breathing after having apparently been killed by the village Planning Commission.

The Chelsea Village Council last Tuesday night in effect overruled the Planning Commission by asking Administrator Frederick A. Weber to come up with a draft amendment to the village zoning ordinance which would allow the move under very tight, specific restrictions.

The Planning Commission had said no to the proposal following a public hearing on Nov. 9, during which residents of the area expressed concerns about possible adverse impacts of allowing an industry into a residential zone.

However, the council has the final word and last Tuesday night, following a hearing of its own, decided to seek a compromise to let Tregets move in while protecting residential neighbors from nuisances sometimes associated with factories.

Weber has asked Tom Davis, village planning consultant, to come up with draft language for a zoning ordinance amendment which would achieve both objectives. Possible changes in the zoning law are to be presented to the council at its Jan. 4 meeting.

Tregets is a small tool and die firm presently operating out of the old Weinberg Dairy building at 20056 Old US-12. The company has outgrown its present quarters and has to move in order to expand to meet a growing demand for its manufacturing services.

Tregets presently employs five persons and will add at least two more when the expansion takes place.

"We have to move somewhere," Tregets co-owner Steven G. Dygert said last September when the company filed its request for rezoning of the Riemenschneider plant site. "If we can't go there, we probably will have to leave the Chelsea area. We can't stay where we are."

The property that Tregets wants to move into consists of 2.25 acres and includes the old fuel plant which has been abandoned for several years, except for storage purposes, and will, according to Dygert, "cave in" if not reconstructed within the next few months.

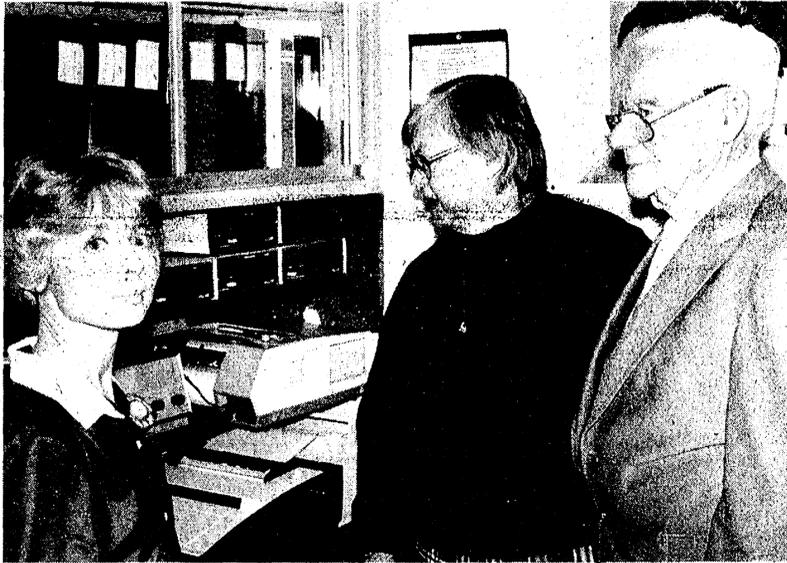

Tregets proposes to remodel the building, clean up the site, put in an asphalt driveway and otherwise spruce up the property.

The property, owned by Weber Homes, is zoned residential, as are adjacent lands. There is presently no active plan to develop the site for residential.

THE CALLING END: Prentiss Davis holds in his hand the pocket-sized transmitter which may be used to activate an emergency call on the Lifeline system. The special telephone is part of the system. Among its many features, the phone will operate on batteries in event of a line breakdown. It also will put in an "automatic" call for help if it is not pre-set within 24 hours.

THE RECEIVING END: Mary Lou Sweeton, Emergency Room supervisor at Chelsea Community Hospital, demonstrates the Lifeline receiving equipment which will enable Senior Citizen subscribers to obtain emergency help when they need it. Looking on are Shirley Dehn, president of Chelsea Senior Citizens, and Prentiss C. Davis, a member of the seniors group.

Lifeline Equipment Installation Like 'Having Friend in House'

"It's like having a friend in the house." That was the reaction of Mrs. F. W. Merkel, 320 S. Main St., when the new Lifeline equipment was installed in her home last week.

Lifeline is Personal Emergency Response System (PERS) which enables elderly or disabled persons to get help when they need it, merely by pressing a button.

Installation of Lifeline last week in the homes of several Chelsea Senior Citizens was made possible by an $8,000 grant from the Civic Foundation of Chelsea.

Lifeline is one of the marvels of the electronic age. Basically, it is a telephone attachment through which persons can contact an emergency response center and receive immediate assistance.

Contact may be made directly by telephone or by pressing a button on a pocket-sized transmitter which activates the phone in case the person needing help can't get to it. In either case, the telephone rings in the response center, located in the Emergency Room of Chelsea Community Hospital.

In the Emergency Room the person receiving the alarm tries to reach the caller by phone. If that doesn't work, a family member or friend is called and appropriate help arranged for.

If all that seems complicated, it is, but the system does indeed work as was demonstrated last week when the first Lifeline units were installed and tested. Buttons were pushed, alarm lights flashed, and telephones rang back and forth. Something happened in a hurry, less than 30 seconds.

Mrs. Merkel, who is 80 years old and has suffered a cardiac stroke, lives alone in her gracious home and wants to continue to be independent. She declined to pose for photographers, but talked about the Lifeline service.

"I will feel better and more secure because I have it," she said. "I know now that I can get instant help if I need it, and that is comforting. It's like having a friend in the house."

Mrs. Merkel's son, Bob, called Lifeline "a great idea." "It takes a load off the minds of family members who are responsible for the welfare of an older person," he said. "My mother wants to live by herself in her own home, and I'm glad she can. Naturally, we are concerned about her, but we can't be there all the time to see that everything is all right. With Lifeline we have assurance that, if she needs someplace else, but they seem to know exactly what to do," he said. Shoemaker has had his meat counter, his package liquor shelves and even his empty bottle and can storage area raided in past burglaries.

"I'm tired of it," he said, "and I'm going to do something about it. You can quote me as saying that anybody who tries to break in here runs a good chance of getting shot, because I intend to be here with a gun."

Many Basic Signs Point to Improvement By Second Half of '83

By Babson's Reports Inc. Wellesley Hills, Mass.

The transition from recession to expansion in economic conditions we had envisioned for the year now drawing to an end failed to materialize. Instead, the nation's value of goods and services produced, in 1972 dollars, (the real gross national product) plummeted 5.1% from the level of the final 1981 quarter and virtually matched the quarter-to-quarter slump which had jolted the American economy in that final three months of 1981.

There was modest improvement in the spring weeks, but the summer of 1982 proved to be a period of no growth and the final quarter probably was only slightly better. In short, while the 1981-82 downturn of the real GNP struck bottom in the first quarter of 1982, the remainder of the year was essentially flat and failed to experience the moderate recovery anticipated.

However, the recession continued to plague the industrial sector of the economy far into the year, causing layoffs which sent the unemployment rate close to the 11% mark. The consequent adverse effect upon public confidence kept consumer spending from making the show of strength needed to tilt business back upward. Also, the continuing downturn in industrial production resulted in increased idle manufacturing facilities and prompted a steady diet of cutbacks in business capital spending plans which, together with the malaise in retail trade, did much to forestall an economic recovery.

Basic Improvements Presage Improvement in 1983 In view of the relentless flow of unfavorable economic reports throughout 1982, it is understandable that public sentiment is lacking in enthusiasm concerning prospects for 1983 business conditions. The staff of Babson's Reports, however, feels that a more hopeful view is in order. The apprehension which is so rampant at this time, based upon the inability of the economy to throw off the yoke of the recession, overlooks the handful—but vital—improvements which have taken place over the past year. These have shored up important facets of the economy and are indispensable to a healthier economy.

For example, the intolerably high levels of inflation and interest rates have been squeezed down materially, although the latter still needs further betterment before a vibrant economy can take hold. In addition, even though slack business has left many concerns in danger of collapse, other companies have been able to effect much-needed corrections and are well situated to benefit from the upcoming economic recovery. The easing of interest rates enabled these firms to secure additional and less costly lines of credit, and to fund short-term borrowings; heavy inventory positions have been pared to leaner holdings more in line with current demand, with consequent relief of strained working capital positions; and strenuous efforts have been made to trim overhead and operating costs.

All told, the economy is now on a sounder foundation than it has been in a number of years, even though it is still far from robust. Hence, 1983 business should be better than is generally perceived at this time.

1982—Slow But Steady Uptrend Although some underlying improvement has occurred, Babson's does not expect the economy to snap back quickly and vigorously in 1983 as was the case following other post-World War II recessions. A gradual but steady economic uptrend will likely occur in the year ahead. However, the tempo of business will be noticeably stronger over the second half of the year, and the final quarter will exhibit the best vitality of 1983.

Many readers of this Forecast will undoubtedly question our intrinsic hopeful perspective, considering the malaise in so many of the nation's major manufacturing industries and the piteous state of the agricultural community. In some cases their related regional economies' "hard times" extend back several years—not just during the recession of 1981-82. However, the odds favor at least the beginning of a recovery sometime in 1983—a condition long overdue.

Bear in mind that with inflation brought to heel, and with interest rates having receded to far less onerous levels than those which had prevailed a little over a year ago, the danger of additional major slippages in the economy is far outweighed by the likelihood that the early stages of recovery will emerge. Once credibility is established, additional forward motion will follow.

Residential building—one of the key sectors of the economy—has already commenced a cyclical upturn. The domestic automobile industry seems to be on the verge of a comeback, although the effects of "sticker shock" (i.e. high factory prices on 1983 model cars) still constitute a vexing barrier to a full-scale outburst of demand for new autos.

Gross National Product We forecast that the nation's real gross national product (the GNP ex inflation) will trend upward in 1983. Any wavering in quarter-to-quarter betterment is likely to be nominal—not serious enough to abort the primary upward progression. Over-all, the average rate of advance could be (Continued on page five)

GENE HAS HAD ENOUGH!

Angry Store Owner Warns Thieves To Expect Violence

Jiffy Market at Sibley and Werkner Rds. was broken into early Sunday morning and an undetermined amount of merchandise stolen. It was the fifth burglary at the store during the past 14 months.

An angry Gene Shoemaker, owner of the market, told a reporter that he will begin staying in the building at night and will be armed and ready to confront any future burglars.

"I've had all of this I intend to stand for," he said. "If the police can't protect my business, I'm going to protect it myself."

After the last break-in, on Thanksgiving weekend, Shoemaker had a supposedly burglar-proof front door installed. It has a steel-reinforced bottom and unbreakable plastic "glass" on top.

Shortly afterward, burglars tried to pound their way through the glass top. They left some scratch marks, but did not get in. Last Sunday night, the glass was pried out by persons who, according to Shoemaker, "obviously had been here before and knew just exactly what tools to bring with them this time."

Shoemaker is convinced that Jiffy Market is being hit repeatedly by the same group of criminals. "They may be local, they may be coming from

NEW PATROLMAN: Police Chief Robert Aeillo pins a patrolman's badge on Frank J. Kornexl, newest member of the Chelsea police department. Kornexl went on duty as a part-time village policeman last Tuesday.

Kornexl Joins Police Dept.

Frank J. Kornexl, a 1978 graduate of Chelsea High school, is the newest recruit on the village police department.

He was sworn in following last Tuesday night's village council meeting at which his appointment as a part-time patrolman was approved.

Kornexl received a bachelor's degree in criminal justice from Michigan State University last June. He recently completed a 10-week training course at the Michigan Police Academy in Jackson and finished first in his class with a 95.07 grade average. He is also qualified as an "expert" pistol marksman.

The police department carries a complement of six full-time and five part-time officers. As a part-time patrolman, Kornexl's duty hours will vary according to needs.

He has worked part-time as a police department dispatcher during the past 3½ years while going to school, and has been a member of the police reserve force for two years.

Kornexl, 23, lives in the Chelsea area and is unmarried.

Blanchard Administration May Face Tax Hike

Governor William G. Milliken's budget director, Gerald Miller, has declared that one of the first orders of business facing the new administration of Governor-elect James Blanchard may be proposing to the Legislature a permanent increase in the state's income tax.

Miller told the Senate Appropriations Committee recently that the state's financial condition, which includes a $500 million and increasing deficit, is "frightening" and said such a tax increase may be the only solution.

He said the tax increase should be adopted early next year to cover the growing shortfall in the current 1982-83 fiscal year budget.

"I'm saying that the figures each month can't get worse. It's frightening. I am finding that the numbers are almost unbelievable," Miller said.

He said that in the first months of the new fiscal year, which began Oct. 1, revenue the state receives from income, sales and use taxes has been far below his department's original expectations.

Miller noted that in November alone, the tax receipts were $30 million off projections.

The Milliken budget director said that executive budget cut orders, which were used to take about $700 million out of the fiscal 1981-82 budget, should not be used on the current budget deficit because the state cannot responsibly reduce its spending much further.

He noted he could find only about $25 to $30 million that could be cut from the budget.

Miller said that if the temporary income tax, approved by the Legislature for six months last spring, had been made permanent, the state would now be holding its own in revenues against expenditures at present.

The governor, however, could only get the temporary tax approved in the Legislature and promised he would let it expire at the end of the six-month period.

That temporary increase raised about $300 million to aid the state through budget problems last fiscal year. At the same time, cigarette taxes were increased by 10 cents per pack with that revenue earmarked for immediate cash flow purposes.

Miller said after the new governor and his budget people get the revenue figures following the holiday purchases, a recommendation should be made to a permanent increase in the state's personal income tax rate.

He said only increases in the income tax or amendments to the state's single business tax could produce the necessary revenue to solve the current and possible future budget problems.

Due-on-Sale Clauses OK'd For Federal Savings & Loans

Federally chartered savings and loans can use Michigan's foreclosure procedures to enforce due-on-sale provisions, Attorney General Frank Kelley has ruled.

In enforcing those clauses, Kelley said the savings and loans will not have to follow guidelines demonstrating a threat to its security interest, established in a state court of appeals ruling.

Kelley said a U.S. Supreme Court ruling issued earlier this year dictates that state law can have no bearing on federal law permitting chartered savings and loans to enforce due-on-sale clauses.

Red Cross Schedules Special Holiday blood Donor Clinics

Holiday time is traditionally a time of family gatherings and friends sharing the festive season. It is also a time of accidents and emergency surgery.

The American Red Cross Blood Services, Southeastern Michigan Region, reports it is also a time of decreased blood donations and possibility of a critical blood shortage.

Once again, the Red Cross will sponsor the annual Save-A-Life Sundays on Dec. 26 and Sunday, Jan. 2, in an effort to avert a shortage of blood. The Save-A-Life program was initiated in 1974 as a one-day program and expanded to two days in 1979 to help meet increased blood needs.

All Red Cross regional blood centers, including centers in Ann Arbor and Port Huron, will be open from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on both days.

Blood may be donated by anyone in good general health between the ages of 17 and 66 years old. Donating blood takes less than an hour and includes a free mini-physical and post-donation snack. The actual donation procedure takes less than 10 minutes.

"Giving the gift of life, a blood donation, is the most caring way to start the new year," said Dr. Shafer.

To make an appointment to donate blood during one of the Save-A-Life Sundays, call the nearest Red Cross regional donor centers listed in the phone book under American Red Cross or call 833-4440 and ask for the Save-A-Life Sundays supervisor.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

I take my coffee under all conditions, more so in winter. My recollections of coffee go back to sacks of beans to roast in the oven of the wood stove and grind in the grinder nailed to the kitchen wall. A pot simmered on the back of the stove till it got drunk or so thick it wouldn't pour. They was a lot of talk about Army coffee that would melt spoons during the few months I served stateside in the first war, but I found it to be tame after what I'd grown up with.

I never heard mention of caffeine back then, so I didn't know it was in coffee until 20-odd years back when some companies announced they had took it out. To this day I've never tasted decaffeinated coffee, not on purpose anyway, so I can't speak of what doctoring it up does to the taste. I can say we are taking the eating and drinking out of everything we eat and drink.

Fer instant, I see the no-sugar war wasn't enough for the soda pop companies. Now they've declared a no-caffeine war. First one claims it has took all of it out, and then they all take it out. Maybe next they'll take out the coloring. You can see how tap water Coke will be it, until Pepsi fights back with distilled water without all the nasty chemicals. They've took the heavy out of beer, whatever that was, the salty out of salt, the calories out of everything and the more they take out the more what's left cost. When they get down to nothing we won't be able to buy it.

And nothing is what a patient in a Bethesda, Md. hospital paid for the other day. I saw this item where Louis Messoloughites had been billed $248 for oxygen during his week as a patient. He hadn't used any oxygen, other than what he thought was free in the air he and everybody else in the hospital breathed. He complained about the bill, and the hospital told him a charge always is made for "standby oxygen." I reckon Louis was happy to pay, thankful the hospital didn't pervide a standby coronary care team in the business office, in case he was overcome by the shock of the bill.

It's no wonder Massachusetts has passed a law putting a lid on hospital costs. With Government and private insurance picking up the tab, hospitals are operating just like power companies. They both think the only way to go is with a unlimited expense account provided by the customer. I read where hospitals in Boston, the country's health center, are having to cut back on staff and services, which leads me to wonder what we can do and do without when we have to.

Fer instant, if any good can come from the Tylenol terror it might be that we have learned we can live without allus being on somepun. Anybody that watches TV knows there's a pill fer ever ill, but doctors know the risks of these drugs and they are prescribing a third less than 10 year ago.

Meanwhile, Mister Editor, folks that need quick relief may find their headache wears off before they can git into the new triple-sealed Tylenol packages.

Yours truly,
 Uncle Lew.

DRAIN INSPECTION: Representatives of the Washtenaw County Drain Commission, the village of Chelsea and an engineering firm walked the length of the Palmer & Baldwin Drain last week as a preliminary step to determine what exactly needs doing to carry out a clean-out and renovation project approved by a Board of Determination last September. Left to right are: Frederick A. Weber, village administrator; Lee Fahrner of Washtenaw Engineering Co.; Valerie F. Tucker, deputy drain commissioner, and James E. Murray, drain commissioner. The long hike was for preliminary inspection purposes only, and no decisions were reached except that more information on elevations and topography is needed. The drain has been choked with silt, sand and vegetation for several years, and its malfunctioning has been held responsible for intermittent flooding problems on Chelsea's east side, especially along Freer and Trinkle Rds. No reconstruction work is expected to begin before next summer.

WCC Registration Slated Jan. 5 at Off-Campus Sites

In an effort to better serve its students, Washtenaw Community College offers many of its credit courses throughout the college district in co-operation with local high schools and other institutions.

Off-campus registration for these classes will be held Wednesday, Jan. 5, from 7 to 8 p.m. Registration will be held at those centers offering the College's courses: the Ann Arbor "Y", Sears at Briarwood and the Ypsilanti Community Center Building along with Ann Arbor Pioneer, Huron, Brighton, Chelsea, Dexter, Manchester, Milan, Salline, Whitmore Lake and Willow Run high schools.

Determinations on whether a class is continued or cancelled will be made on the night of Jan. 5, based upon the number of enrollees.

Students may also register on campus during normal registration hours.

For more information call 973-3408.

1983 Business Forecast

On the order of 3%, although we would not be surprised to see a somewhat better showing. This would not be a rousing display of economic vitality by any means but it would approximate the long-term growth trend of the American economy and be a decided improvement over the negative result which undoubtedly was the lot for 1982.

Industrial Production
Monthly readings of the Federal Reserve Index of Industrial Production (which measures the physical volume—as opposed to dollar value—of output of the nation's factories, mines, and utility facilities) will reverse their long downward trend in 1983. A new cyclical uptrend will prevail, although on a seasonally adjusted basis occasional sub-par readings are bound to occur. However, such slippages will be magnified out of proportion when they're compared with temporarily higher showings, hence will not reflect basic flaws in the economy.

Over-all, 1983 will likely chalk up a 3% advance in industrial production, in contrast with the steep slump experienced in 1982. With housing and military goods already imparting some beneficial effects to related raw materials production, industrial activity for 1983 has a good base upon which to build. We expect that there will be augmenting support from autos and other consumer durables, plus computer and high-tech lines. As the year progresses, we look for the pulse of industrial activity to quicken.

Business Inventories
Business inventory liquidation figured prominently in the soft-to-little economic climate in 1982. The impact was especially pronounced during the first quarter, but the process continued in the second three months at a less awesome pace. Changes in this segment of the gross national product were only nominal during the second half of 1982, but the effects were still essentially negative. Thus, throughout the year business had difficulty in trying to bring inventories into proper alignment with sales, since the inflow of new orders kept slipping and the anticipated upturn in demand failed to materialize. The stress placed upon trimming inventories also reflected a desire to rebuild liquidity and reduce bank borrowings.

The Babson staff anticipates that the changes in business inventories will be more constructive in 1983. The transition from deep cuts to normalizing inventories will contribute to better GNP readings during the year ahead, although the impact is not expected to be powerful over-all. Ample-to-adequate supplies of raw materials and finished goods in an atmosphere of moderate sales gains and well-contained price inflation will not offer much incentive for aggressive forward buying and inventory accumulation beyond normal requirements.

Business Capital Expenditures
Deterioration of business confidence and the decline in usage of industrial productive capacity overshadowed the appeal of tax incentives when it came to decisions on business capital spending in 1982. Babson's forecasts that there will be some over-all increase in this sector during 1983—on the order of 2% to 3%. However, much of the gain will occur in the year's second half. Look for capital investments to stress improved productivity and cost savings rather than major projects to add significantly to productive capacity.

Building and Construction
One of the bright spots in the economic outlook for 1983 is the residential building sector. The Babson forecast of new housing starts is 1.5 million units. This compares with an estimated average rate of 2 million units established in 1978 will not be approached in the year ahead. The cost and availability of mortgage money have improved in recent months, and further betterment will occur during the early months of 1983. Thus, the background is favorable for a pickup in new housing starts, and for sales of existing homes also. Nonetheless, mortgage rates will still be too high for many aspirants to warrant a stronger improvement in the housing market than is now envisioned.

In heavy construction, prospects for 1983 are nondescript. A glut in commercial and industrial facilities exists. This surplus must be absorbed before the construction business shows much zip.

Employment—Personal Income
The deeper and longer-than-expected recession saw an extension of the downturn in industrial production into late 1982. This resulted in a protracted span of deteriorating employment conditions. Although the seasonally adjusted monthly rate of employment was mostly in a sideways trend (but below the average of the year before), the number of workers on part time for economic reasons averaged substantially higher than the 4½-million rate for 1981, manufacturing employment declined noticeably, the average length of work weeks in manufacturing was clearly below the preceding year; and the jobless rate in the waning portion of the year was clearly past the 10% mark with no sign of any immediate downturn.

Looking to 1983, Babson's foresees better employment conditions for the year as a whole. Early on, work forces will expand slowly while factory work weeks lengthen. Then, when business strengthens and public confidence improves, employment will rise more noticeably. However, unemployment is expected to shade higher until around the winter-into-spring juncture, with the rate peaking near 11% (probably avoiding any marked penetration of that level). Nevertheless, with the labor force still growing, the tepid economic recovery anticipated means that subsequent lowering of the jobless rate will be tough and only minor—averaging a shade below 10% at best for 1983 as a whole.

Look for personal income to trend upward in 1983 and probably average 4%-5% higher than 1982. With traditional industrial lines not expected to show a vigorous rebound, the seemingly ambitious anticipated increase in personal income will probably stem from the better-paying employment lines such as high technology, defense activities, and services.

Wage rates will trend upward due to both existing multi-year labor pacts and new contracts scheduled for negotiations in 1983. But how much of gross income will translate into take-home pay depends upon whether the Administration can fend off the efforts to reduce, delay, or eliminate the 10% income tax cut slated for July 1st.

Our guess is that such attempts will be beaten back by the White House, though not without difficulty. One must also keep in mind definite and contemplated new and high tax imposts of one form or another.

Consumer and Government Spending
Reluctant consumer spending attitudes during 1982 were a factor in the economy's inability to rouse itself into a recovery move. However, some of the postponed spending will help to lift 1983 business. Odds now favor an increase in consumer expenditures approximating 7%. Yet this could either be tempered or enhanced, depending upon the outcome of the 1983 Federal income tax reduction legislation.

Government spending will be higher in 1983 and lend good support to the economy. Look for a sizable growth in outlays for basic services at the federal level. The proposed monumental hike in defense spending will undoubtedly be trimmed somewhat in exchange for programs to put the jobless to work.

Corporate Profits, Dividends
After 1982's dreadful showing, prospects favor an upswing in corporate profits after taxes during 1983. Betterment in business, some firming of prices, and benefits from cost-cutting measures instituted during the past year or more augur well for a rebound in net corporate earnings. Babson's forecast: Up at least 9%. However, competitive conditions will persist, posing some restraint on profits progress.

Corporate dividend payments will rule higher in 1983. Better profits will permit more instances of dividend rate increases than was seen in 1982 when there was a rash of cuts and omissions.

Farm Outlook
The beleaguered farm sector is expected to experience some relief in 1983. Increased exports of farm products should tilt depressed farm prices upward, and there will be some betterment in farm income. But deep financial problems and large carryovers of farm surpluses cannot be cured quickly under normal circumstances.

Inflation—Prices
The Fed persisted in its anti-inflation monetary policies over a good portion of 1982. Success of this course is evident in the sharply lowered (about 6% versus the double-digit scenario which plagued 1981) inflation rate, as measured by the average rate of monthly changes of the seasonally adjusted Consumer Price Index, annualized. For 1983, it is Babson's forecast that average monthly readings for the CPI will shade only fractionally lower. However, the bulk of the further betterment will occur in the first half of 1983. Beyond mid-year, the effects of the upward trek in business will mean firmer prices, but no return of dangerously high inflationary pressures.

Supply gluts of oil, coal, metals and other industrial raw materials, plus heavy overhangs of foodstuffs, are bulwarks against any long run of stiff price increases during the year ahead. However, deeply depressed wholesale prices are bound to experience some revival.

Interest Rates—Money & Credit
The welcomed downtrend in interest rates encompassing the entire span of the maturity scale exceeded expectations during 1982. Babson's foresees further easing early on in 1983. The prime rate, for example, could sag to around 10%. Long-term interest rates will also work more on the downside. However, sometime in the year's second half, firm-to-higher tendencies will bend interest rate curves back upward.

Foreign Affairs
U.S.-Soviet relations will not show much change until the new Kremlin leadership is fully organized. There will be a strong flow of rhetoric like the recent blasts debunking each other's arms and nuclear weapons charges, but no outright severing of dialogue in 1983. Thus, odds are against any early and substantive talks on nuclear and other arms limitations or reductions—more likely is movement in the opposite direction initially—but the atmosphere could improve later in the year.

American influence on Mideast matters offers distinct opportunities for enhancement of U.S. prestige and role in that region, but only if our cards are played correctly.

Prospects in Latin America are not as sanguine, with the danger more a matter of setbacks for U.S. efforts from time to time and consequent erosion in American influence.

Stock and Bond Outlook
The abrupt and spectacular transition in the trend of stock prices from down to up—bringing with it a similar basic change in investment sentiment during the late summer of 1982—was an important development.

The staff of Babson's Reports regards the change as a basic and genuine trend reversal which is not apt to run its course quickly.

As a matter of record, therefore, the Babson forecast is for stock prices to work higher in 1983, with the Dow Jones industrial average moving in a range of 940 on the downside to 1,250 on the upside, although it would not be a surprise to see the DJIA brushing against the 1,300 mark at its peak for the year. Thus, Babson's recommends that investors adhere to an 1983 investment policy which is more aggressive than otherwise—yet consistent with the individual needs of each investor.

The impressive rally of second-half 1982 notwithstanding, many common stock prices have merely rebounded from deeply over-sold levels and hence can still make rewarding upside progress. Judicious selections can be made to beef up portfolios, whether the investor's goal is growth, capital appreciation, or income, or any combination thereof. The bond market also can make further upside progress during the year ahead.

More than 18,000,000 pounds of Michigan pears were harvested from 296,000 trees on 3,100 acres in 1981. Although this was a slight decrease from the 1980 crop, Michigan pear production has tripled in the last five years.

THE STANDARD CAT: He is "Copy," "Stan," "Kitty" or "Whatchamacallit," depending on who is doing the talking at any particular time, but the fact is that this little feline has come to be an important element in the lives of the people who work in the Chelsea office of The Standard and Leader. Here he is letting everybody know who is the real boss around the place.

The Standard Has Been Adopted!

The Chelsea Standard has been adopted by a cat. If that statement seems strange, you don't know much about cats. People don't own cats; cats own people. It is the nature of the beasts to live with us humans on their terms, not ours. In that respect cats differ fundamentally from dogs, which are just the opposite when it comes to living and getting along with people.

That trait of independence is what has fascinated people about felines domesticus ever since the ancient Egyptians began capturing various species of small north African wildcats, bringing them into their homes and taming them to a degree. During the centuries since, the taming process has been worked at but never completed. If forced to, a housecat will revert to the wild in a week.

Back to The Standard cat. He is a soft-furred, fox-faced, yellow-eyed young male, mouse-gray except for a splash of white on his chest. He is maybe six months old, weighs about four pounds and is definitely still growing.

He got into The Standard building one night and was there next morning to greet arriving workers with plaintive meows suggesting that he would appreciate something to eat. He was by no means starved, and in fact looked so sleek and well fed that he was turned out to go home.

Next morning he was back. How he got in is not certain, but there are openings in the Standard's old landmark building that a small and determined cat can squeeze through.

This time our visitor was obviously hungry. Soft-hearted publisher Walter Leonard and an equally soft-hearted reporter provided cat food, milk, water, a litter box and some kind words. That's all it took. We had been adopted.

His table manners suggest that he has led a competitive life.

Tregets Move

(Continued from page one) purposes. The market for new, speculative home construction in the Chelsea area is such that not a single building permit for that purpose has been issued so far in 1982.

Village Administrator Weber said he feels that last Tuesday's council hearing on the issue was "very good" and on the whole "constructive."

"The impression I got was that residents of the area are not strongly opposed to the Tregets move, but they fear it could be 'a foot in the door' toward an eventual industrial-commercial strip development along Old US-12," Weber said. "Their concerns are reasonable, and they have to be addressed. I think there is room for compromise."

One approach would be to amend the village zoning ordinance to include a special "Type III" of light industry which would accommodate Tregets but exclude other manufacturers who might come along later and want to do something that might be less in keeping with the residential character of the neighborhood.

That, Weber and Davis agree, could amount to spot rezoning for a non-conforming use and open up possible problems in the future.

A second approach, which Weber and Davis indicated they favor, would be to establish a Planned Unit Development (PUD) district, under which terms of Tregets' occupancy of the property could be directly negotiated.

"We could seek an agreement (with Tregets) on everything from dust and noise abatement to shrubbery screening," Weber said, "and be sure that everybody was protected. If Tregets later vacated the property, the zoning would revert to its original residential status, and we would start over again should someone else want to use the site for industry."

PUD's are authorized under a 1978 Michigan law, provided that local governments concur. The existing Chelsea zoning ordinance allows PUD's for residential and commercial purposes, but not industrial, so an amendment would be necessary.

Weber and Davis said they will present all the alternatives to the council on Jan. 4.

"It's important to remember that the village master plan was adopted in 1976," Davis commented, "and the times were a lot different then. Economic development has a much higher priority right now than it did six years ago. The plan can't be considered as set in concrete. It has to be flexible to reflect changing conditions, but its basic integrity has to remain intact. I think there are reasonable solutions to special situations like the Tregets proposal."

Leadership Training Conference Set for Handicap Workers

Washtenaw Community College is hosting a leadership training conference devoted to handicappers and others interested in issues affecting the disabled in this area.

The conference, entitled "In the Handicappers' Movement: Styles, Setting and Strategies," will be held on the WCC campus Thursday and Friday, Jan. 6-7. The chief goal of the conference is the education and training of persons eager for involvement in the handicapper movement.

WCC president Gunder Myran will deliver the opening address. To register or obtain more information, contact Marilyn Daniels, program co-ordinator, 707-D Pray Harrold, Eastern Michigan University, Ypsilanti 48197, or call 487-0008.

DO IT WHILE YOU CAN: Snow has been scarce so far this season, but energetic and alert youngsters have taken advantage of the few opportunities provided by the weather. This snowman was created several days ago in the front yard of 237 Railroad St. The builders were (left to right) Tony Trotter, Brian Atlee, Chris Trotter and Aaron Atlee. The Trotters live at 237 Railroad, the Atlees at 205.

No White Christmas For Area This Year

If your dream was for a white Christmas this year, it didn't come true, and advance forecasts discourage chances for snow on New Year's Day. Rain is more likely.

If you are under the impression that this past fall, which officially ended last Tuesday, was warmer and wetter than usual, you are right. Average temperatures were more than a degree above normal, and precipitation was nearly 50 percent above average for the 90 days beginning Sept. 23.

Much of the temperature overage occurred during the first week of December, when the mercury topped 70 on a couple of days, breaking all-time records for the dates.

Long-range forecasts from the U. S. Weather Service call for continued relatively warm conditions through mid-January. There will be considerable precipitation, but most of it will come as rain rather than snow, it is predicted.

That is bad news for skiers and snowmobilers, but good tidings for those to whom snow means shoveling, treacherous driving and little else.

Actually, despite what your memory may suggest, white Christmases are uncommon in this part of Michigan, happening about once every five years. January and February are the traditional "winter" months hereabouts, with February normally the most severe in terms of cold and snow.

DEPARTING COURT EMPLOYEES: Judge Kenneth Bronson of 14th District Court 3 based in Chelsea will be taking along part of his court team when he moves to the new full-time Saline court Jan. 3. All four district judges will rotate at that time, along with those holding these three positions: Charles Dickerson, court officer, left; Annette Phillips, secretary; Judge Bronson; and Deborah Orlovski, recorder.

Judge Kenneth Bronson Transferring to Saline Court

During a recession courts are such a "growth industry," said Judge Kenneth Bronson, in an interview during his last week at 14th District Court 3 based in Chelsea, that before he sends someone to the county jail, the court must make sure "there's room in the inn."

Jan. 3 Bronson will begin presiding at the new full-time court in Saline, as all four district judges will rotate courts. Judge Karl Fink will then preside in Chelsea.

When times are bad, more larcenies are committed; evictions, civil suits, and collections claims rise in number, said Bronson. Small claims are also up, in part, he says, because of the popular television show, "Peoples' Court."

When auto industry lay-offs first began a few years ago, he said, drunk driving offenses also rose, because workers went to bars to socialize and for something to do. The number of those cases has now stabilized, he said, but at a higher level.

The 14th District as a whole has double the state-wide average number of cases per district, he said. Ann Arbor's District 15, which has three judges compared to the 14th's four judges, is running the average.

Although there is talk of the state taking over the counties' district courts, he said, he doubts that will happen because the courts are a source of revenue to the county—about $500,000 a year is raised by Court 3 alone.

He would like to see the county use a full-time magistrate to settle traffic cases, he said, and sees that as a lower-cost solution than adding a fifth judge to speed up the docket.

Court 3, with 400-500 drunk driving cases filed per year, has more than double the number filed in the city of Detroit, he said. It's not that there's more drinking per capita here, but that there are many more law enforcement officers on the road and living in the country means one must drive home.

The new rule about breathalyzers—refusing to take one will become a crime—will make a big difference in how drunk driving cases are decided, he says. It will protect sleepy drivers who have bloodshot eyes and a wandering car.

But if that new law works too well, he said, sentencing someone to a jail which turns him away for lack of space will make the court look like a joke.

He tries to make his sentences show drunk driving offenders the seriousness of being on the road under the influence, he says. First offenders have as part of their sentence an informational program run by recovering alcoholics. Second offenders get hit hard in their pocketbook, and are often put on no drinking, no bars probation, so that being in a bar, which is spot-checked by probation officers, is a probation violation.

A third offender usually faces time in jail, he said. Maybe then they will figure out "they are a problem."

Bronson had a friend he sentenced to jail for 90 days, whom he visited in jail.

Bronson told him, "If you keep this up, you'll be dead in a year."

His friend responded, "Will it take that long?"

Before the man died 16 months later, Bronson knew that a man with a death wish was probably driving drunk. That man and others he has seen, make Bronson, who likes to ride a motorcycle, "very nervous."

The courts can't really solve "this difficult problem," he said. Society's attitude about drunk driving is ambivalent. He used zoning requirements for commercial establishments as an example. Parking places are required at bars.

Enforcement of drunk driving laws and juries getting stricter, he said, would be a step in the right direction.

Bronson's last day at Court 3 will be Dec. 30. Anyone who has appeared before him in preliminaries has the right to be sentenced by him, he said, even if he is in Saline.

Mary Kay Poljan Appearing With Albion College Concert Band

Mary Kay Poljan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Poljan, 13875 McKinley, is a member of the Albion College Chamber Orchestra, and the college Concert Band. The group presented a Christmas concert with the College Concert Band Sunday, Dec. 5, in the college's Goodrich Chapel. Under the direction of Philip Mason, associate professor in music, the orchestra performed Mozart's Concerto in A Major and Darius Milhaud's La Creation Du Monde (The Creation of the World).

A 1981 graduate of Chelsea High school, Poljan plays bass and has been a band member for two years. A sophomore at Albion, Poljan is studying biology.

Store Owner Warns Thieves

relies on the sheriff's department for police protection.

Shoemaker said he intends to put up steel bars as reinforcement to the market's front door and will take other security measures to make breaking and entering more difficult. He acknowledged that "anything somebody invents to prevent break-ins, somebody else will figure out a way to get through it or around it."

As for Sunday's burglary, Shoemaker said he didn't know what he had lost and may never know exactly, but assumes a quantity of liquor and possibly some beer and wine were stolen.

"We had stocked up for the Christmas weekend and had cases and bottles all over the place, much more than we usually carry. We sold a lot of the extra stock on Friday and were so busy that we couldn't keep exact track of what we sold."

"We're taking an inventory to try to figure out just what was stolen," Shoemaker said. "It's possible the thieves may have been scared off before they got too much, and I hope that turns out to be true."

The burglary was discovered by a person delivering newspapers to the market, Chelsea police were called first, and they notified the sheriff's department.

Cassidy Lake Escapee Charged in Shooting

Norman Hall of Grand Rapids, a 20-year-old escapee from Cassidy Lake Technical School, has been charged with the shooting of a rural Lake county woman. He ran away from the institution on Oct. 18.

Hall himself was shot and wounded by Lake county sheriff's officers during the incident, which occurred last Thursday.

According to the police report, Hall—who calls himself Satan—approached the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Slovinski in rural Lake county near Baldwin and fired a shotgun through the front door, hitting Mrs. Slovinski, 36, in the back.

Her husband, Harold, fled from the house and called the sheriff's department. A deputy responded and traded gunfire with Hall, who ran into a nearby woods and holed up in an unoccupied cabin.

More officers came on the scene and surrounded the cabin. Hall came out with his hands up, but then attacked a deputy whose gun went off, hitting Hall in the stomach.

Mrs. Slovinski was reported critically injured, while Hall was said to be in stable condition.

Hall had been serving concurrent terms of 3 to 15 years for breaking and entering and 3 to 5 years for entering without breaking, when he escaped from Cassidy Lake.

The facility is intended to house young first offenders who are not considered dangerous and are deemed good prospects for rehabilitation and early release.

Year-End News Summary

January . . .

4—A winter storm of rain, snow and 35-mile-per-hour winds gusting up to 60-miles-per-hour extended Christmas vacation at least a day for Chelsea school children.

5—Chelsea voters amended the village charter today, 104-12, to nominate elected officials by petition and choose them by general election. This eliminated the nominating by caucus procedure and will force candidates to declare a political party affiliation.

5—Margie Rawson was named Most Valuable Swimmer for the girls swimming team. She had three career best and varsity record times at the state meet and received all-state recognition.

7—Ann Arbor Huron High had a last event relay disqualification against the Bulldog swimmers at Cameron Pool, giving the Bulldogs a hard-fought 87-85 win.

10—Our Savior Lutheran church celebrated the 10th anniversary of its present building.

Speakers included the Rev. Paul T. Heinecke, active in founding the congregation in 1969 and the Rev. Franklin H. Giebel, who has served the church the past three years.

12—Fire begun in a chimney destroyed Mr. and Mrs. John Miller's home at 17376 Cassidy Lake Rd. Damage was estimated at $85,000, but there were no injuries. Twenty firemen from Chelsea and Dexter worked four hours to control the blaze.

12—A wind chill factor of minus 45 degrees combined with ice and snow to again close the schools.

21—Robert A. Burns, Jr., a local dentist, died after being hit by a van while jogging near his Clear Lake Rd. home.

26—Jeff Daniels, a New York actor from Chelsea, flew home to talk to local attorneys to research his role as a small town-county prosecutor in the television film, "Asking For It."

27—Christine and Kathleen Morse, 3½ year-old twin sisters, became naturalized citizens. Korean born, the twins were adopted by Dennis and Becky Morse at age six months.

29—The ninth annual Winter Carnival, sponsored by the Herbert J. McKune Post No. 31 American Legion began today at Cavanaugh Lake.

30—Bulldog cagers beat Jackson County Northwest in overtime, 82-81. A key to the win was fine free throw shooting, 73 percent of free throw attempts.

February . . .

3—Bob Silva Chevrolet, the only Chevy dealership in town, closed just after a year in business, a victim of the drooping economy.

Super-Sub Carl Pate Fills Important Role

Carl Pate is a "garbage" basketball player according to Chelsea varsity basketball coach Robin Raymond, and in the language of the game that is high praise, not a criticism.

Says Raymond: "Carl goes out there and cleans up the mistakes that other players on both teams make. He grabs loose balls and puts them in the basket. He follows up on the boards for second shots. He picks up bobbed rebounds. He takes advantage of whatever chances he's offered."

"He's a hustler and a scrambler. He doesn't have the pure talent that some other players have, but he makes up for it with intensity and desire. He's one of our best in terms of what he contributes to the team."

"Pate doesn't start. He comes off the bench, usually about the middle of the first quarter when one of the front-liners shows signs of tiring or is just plain having a bad game."

At 6-2 and 190 pounds he can play at either forward or at center, and probably could go in at guard if he had to.

Pate is Raymond's "sixth man," an indispensable element of a successful basketball team.

He has the ability to step out on the court and get into the tempo of the game without having to "adjust" as many players do. He's ready to play all-out from the word go.

"Carl is good enough to start," Raymond said, "but he's more valuable as our first substitute because he can go in and fire things up, and usually get some points right away. He understands his role, and that's important. It doesn't bother him that he's not in the opening lineup."

"He knows he will get his share of playing time. When you add up the minutes for everybody, he is right up there with the starters."

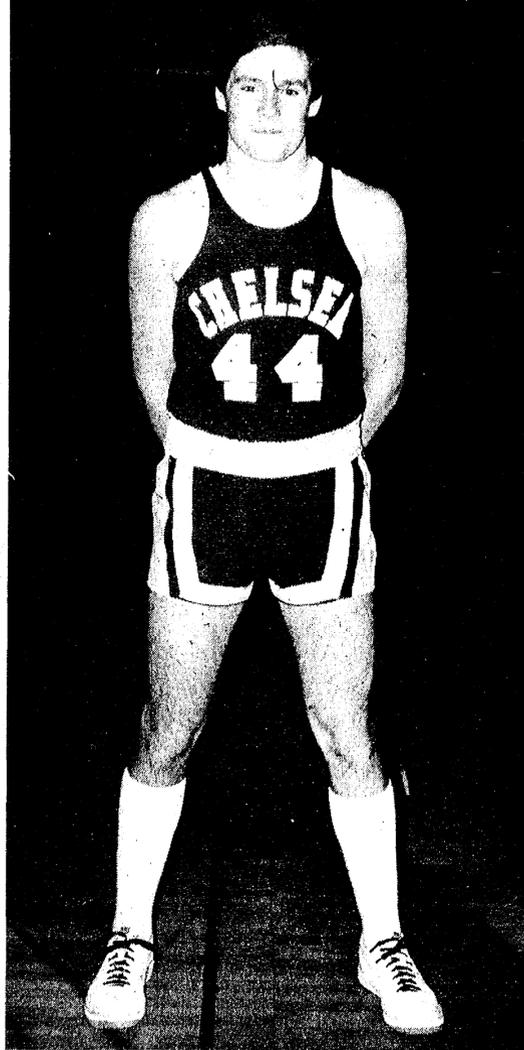

An indication of Pate's determination is the fact that he has played in all four of Chelsea's games thus far this season, even though he wasn't supposed to be available until after the holiday break.

Pate plays football, and suffered a shoulder separation in the Bulldogs' last grid game of the season on Nov. 12. Such injuries normally take at least six weeks to mend.

The recovery powers of high school-age athletes are sometimes surprising, and Pate got his doctor's approval to play in Chelsea's opening basketball game on Dec. 3. Despite having practiced very little, he scored 26 points, 20 of them in the first half.

Pate had 16 points in Chelsea's Dec. 17 overtime loss to Dexter, second only to David Kiel who put in 18. Not bad for a "substitute" who had once been declared out of action until after Jan. 1.

Cager of the Week

CARL PATE is "good enough to start," according to Chelsea basketball coach Robin Raymond, but is more valuable coming off the bench as the "sixth man" who can immediately get into the flow of the game and pump up the team. Some players need a minute or two to adjust to the action. Pate is ready to go all-out the minute he steps onto the court, and does.

SEC ROUND-UP: Milan Takes Over Lead With Night Off

The way things are shaping up in the Southeastern Conference this basketball season, it just may be that the best way to stay on top of the heap is not to play.

Milan profited by a night off from league action Dec. 17 and took sole possession of first place with a 1-0 record. Every other of the seven SEC teams has now lost, creating a five-way logjam for second place going into the holiday break.

Dexter's 60-57 overtime victory over Chelsea served notice that the Dreadnaughts are not about to surrender their league title without a fight. The young Dexter team came of age and jelled by jumping out to a 13-point half-time lead over the favored Bulldogs, saw Chelsea come back with a fierce third-quarter charge, then outlasted their foes down the stretch to record a cherished win in the traditional rivalry.

Lincoln put on a fourth-quarter rally to defeat Saline, 56-52, after the Hornets had led, 36-35 at the end of three periods. The Rallsplitters outscored Saline, 23-16 in the final eight minutes as center Eric Kedroske, making his first start of the season, dominated play with sharp shooting and tough rebounding.

Tecumseh got on the winning side of the ledger with a 51-48 triumph over Jackson County Western, holding off a last-ditch Panther rally after piling up what had appeared to be a safe 13-point lead. Western, which did not win an SEC game last year, showed that it can't be taken lightly this season. While they lost, the Panthers played well, and almost pulled it out in the last two minutes.

Cribbage Tourney Starts Jan. 17

The Chelsea Jaycees will start their annual cribbage tournament on Tuesday night, Jan. 17, in the VFW hall, 105 N. Main St.

The tournament is open to all comers and is expected to attract up to 60 entrants. There will be three successive Tuesday evenings of preliminary competition with each player taking on 10 different opponents in one-game matches.

Those with the best won-lost records after 30 games will move into the finals.

Entrants will be asked to bring their own cribbage boards and cards.

The Chelsea Jaycees are affiliated with the American Cribbage Association.

Lumber Co. Move Slated In January

Chelsea Lumber Company's move to its new site at 1 Barn Circle off S. Main St. near the I-94 interchange, targeted for the end of this year, will be delayed.

A spokesperson for the firm, which has been located at 305 N. Main St. for 60 years, said the move is now tentatively set for the middle of next month. Completion work at the new site has been delayed by adverse weather, especially rain.

When the N. Main St. property is vacated, it will be taken over by Chelsea Milling Co.

Area Students Earn Degrees

Twelve area residents were among 1,074 students awarded bachelor's degrees from Eastern Michigan University, Ypsilanti, during winter commencement exercises held Dec. 19. Dr. Wilbur J. Cohen, former University of Michigan dean and professor and also a member of President Johnson's cabinet, was the commencement speaker.

Degree recipients included: Dexter—Tammie Lynn Johnson, 11100 Island Lake Rd., bachelor of science; James Robert Kaercher, 12190 Island Lake Rd., bachelor of business administration; R. Brian Karvel, 3430 Pineview Dr., bachelor of science; Michael John Schlaff, 8283 Mast Rd., bachelor of business administration.

Grass Lake—Connie Zada Bobbett, 500 South St., bachelor of science; Valerie Irene Leech, 8691 Ann Arbor Rd., bachelor of science.

Manchester—Jeffrey A. Mutchler, 7373 Hashley Rd., bachelor of arts; Tushar R. Oza, 9747 Queen's Drs., bachelor of science; Corinne Kelli Widmayer, 5191 Esch Rd., bachelor of science.

Blood Drive Nets 45 Pints

Chelsea Jaycees collected 45 pints of blood at their Christmas blood drive Dec. 11 at St. Mary's school gymnasium.

The total, with only one person deferred, was about half of previous year's donations, said Bill Herrick, one of the Jaycees organizing the drive. The Red Cross had asked many of the Jaycees regular donors to give recently so they were not eligible for this drive.

Other regular donors gave at either Chelsea Community Hospital's blood drive, or the high school's first-time drive Dec. 14.

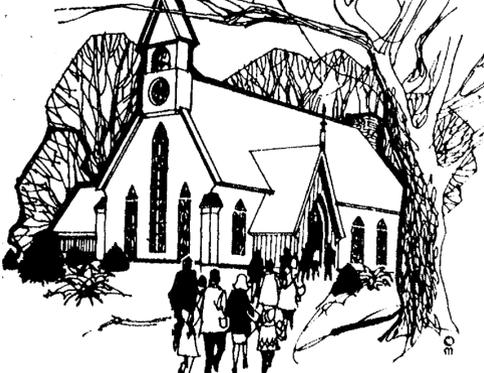

We're sending friends our recipe for a bright and healthy 1983! Thank you!

BULLDOG VOLLEYBALL P... the height and experience for ex... volleyball this season. At practic... Middle school gymnasium during... holidays, two players on the left

Volleyball

Bulldog girls volleyball team should have a much improved season this year, said three-year coach Cathy Bennett Vlcek, because the team will have nine returning lettermen who have their basic skills mastered. The team plays their first game Jan. 3 against Stockbridge and nasiums. The team began using a new ofense last year, the 6-2, which means three hitters are on the front row, said Ms. Vlcek. The has three different hitting angles instead of just two like most teams will have. This is another area where this year's team's experience will help.

Such an offense is also particularly well-suited to Chelsea's tall team, she said, which has a lot of hitting power.

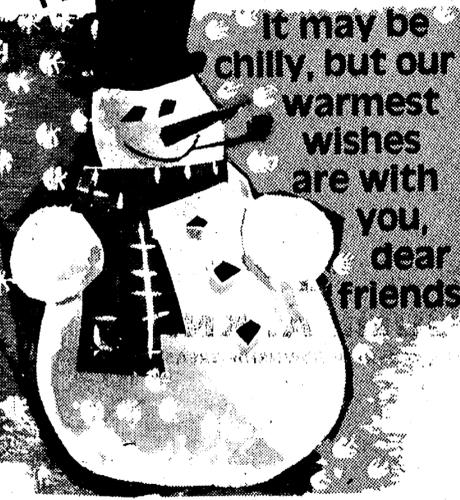

Volleyball in this area is getting much more exciting to watch, she said, because teams are starting to play "power" volleyball, which sets up plays. All three times a ball is allowed to be hit on a side are used—a good defensive pass to the setter, who lofts the ball into good position for a hitter to whack it across the net.

The varsity team went to volleyball camp for the first time as a group last summer. They now practice the "early bird special," 6 to 8 a.m. Ms. Vlcek says she prefers that time, because it is quieter in the gymnasium, and if the team practiced in the afternoon, they would have to bounce around different time slots instead of having a regular schedule.

Co-captains this year are Cathy Doll and Venus Roberts.

Coaches can set the tone for athletic rivalries, by what they say and (maybe more important) by what they don't say. Their influence spreads through their players and from them outward through fans and the public.

Example: Michigan and Michigan State. This natural match-up degenerated into a near blood-feud during the years when the late Fritz Crisler and Biggie Munn were opposing coaches, despised each other, and held nothing back in their public insults. Both moved up to athletic director's jobs. At the Ann Arbor end, first Bennie Oosterbaan and later Bump Elliot took over; at East Lansing Hugh (Duffie) Daugherty came in. All three were first-class gentlemen, whatever their shortcomings may have been as coaches. The rivalry was put back into perspective, and became healthy again.

Bo Schembechler came onto the scene at Michigan and Darryl Rogers at Michigan State. They became good friends and golfing partners, their wives social friends. Then one night at an MSU football "bust" Rogers, who just may have had a little bit too much to drink, referred to "those arrogant asses from Ann Arbor."

The quote was picked up by a Lansing State Journal sportswriter (which may be a good argument in favor of keeping all such social affairs off the record) and splashed in headlines. The word got back to Ann Arbor, of course, and a good many years of patient rebuilding of relationships went down the drain, where they still are.

Getting back to Dexter and Chelsea. I've been impressed by the fact that both Jim McCormack of Dexter and Robin Raymond of Chelsea have a lot of respect for each other. Nobody was bad-mouthing anybody as they got ready for last Friday's game, a mighty important one for both schools.

That Dexter won a very exciting overtime game really doesn't matter all that much. They will play again, later this season and in years to come. There is a winner and a loser in every athletic contest. What is important is that games be played to the best of the athletes' ability and that there be no hard feelings afterward among coaches, players and fans.

I get the impression that Dexter and Chelsea exemplify that standard of true excellence.

Burglars Ransack Sharon Home in 15-Minute Period

Burglars broke into a home at 6701 M-52, a short distance north of Peckins Rd. in Sharon township, last Friday morning and stole two rings, about $35 in cash and some Christmas presents.

Sheriff's deputies who are investigating said that entry was made during a 15-minute period when no one was in the home. A side door was forced open and the house ransacked.

Firemen Make 3 Runs in Past Week

Chelsea firemen made a run to the Waterloo Nature Center on Christmas day, in response to a ringing alarm, but no fire was found. The department also made two rescue runs last week.

Trial Set in Shooting of Rare Hawk

A Jan. 31 non-jury trial has been set for Jihad Fouad Makki of Dearborn, accused of shooting a protected red-shouldered hawk in the Pinckney Recreation Area last month. The trial will be held in the 14th district court at Chelsea.

Makki, 20, pleaded not guilty and is represented by a public defender.

The wounded bird, which was picked up by a group of hunters who witnessed the shooting, is still alive and recovering slowly from injuries to the head and a wing. It is under the care of Dr. Merlyn Minick of Eastern Michigan University.

Under state law the offense of shooting a protected hawk is punishable by up to 90 days in jail and a $100 fine.

OUT IN THE OPEN

By BILL MULLENDRE

This column, the next one, and maybe the one after that will be about how to keep warm in cold weather, a timely and timeless topic. At this writing we had been blessed by an unusually mild fall, including shirt-sleeve temperatures during the first week of December. We had had very little snow, only a few below-freezing days. By the time this gets into print, that pattern may have changed. Winter has begun officially, and I suspect we will have our normal share of it.

Keeping warm has been a major concern of humankind throughout history. Being cold is perhaps the most miserable of all physical experiences. It can also be deadly. Hypothermia, a condition caused by an extreme drop in body temperature, kills dozens of people every year across the country, and cripples hundreds more whose frozen limbs have to be amputated.

The facts are that, given a little bit of knowledge and a modest amount of money, nobody should ever be cold anywhere in outdoor (or indoor) America. The clothing and other gear needed to keep warm are available in variety and price ranges suited to just about all needs and purses except perhaps those of the truly poverty-stricken.

Right after World War II I went to a military surplus store and for $15 bought two garments—a pair of Navy foul-weather-gear bib overalls, and an Army parka designed for wear in the Arctic. I still have them and use them. After 35 years they look a little tacky compared to some of the fancy outdoor duds worn these days, but they get the job done, and I suspect they will outlive me. They have kept me comfortable through some mighty cold days and nights of ice fishing without shelter in the middle of large, wind-swept lakes.

At about the same time I bought for $5 a pair of fleece-lined mid-calf boots intended to be worn inside our-buckle rubber galoshes. Then, to the help of a couple of cobbler friends, I've been able to keep them repaired and serviceable. They, too, may outlast me. I hope they do, because I have never had a tingly toe while wearing them.

(I carry all three of those items in the trunk of my car during the winter months, just in case I should get stranded in a snowdrift. It hasn't happened yet, but I wouldn't worry about keeping warm if it did.)

You would have to multiply those prices three or four times to reflect what inflation has done since 1947, but the point is that effective cold-weather clothing can be bought cheap if you shop around for it.

Winter outdoor gear comes these days in a bewildering variety of fabrics, natural and synthetic, and an assortment of knits and weaves. There are exotic trade names such as Thinsulate and Gore-Tex. I don't pretend to know about all of them, but can recommend someone who does.

If you are going about outfitting yourself with cold-weather clothing for the first time, or are thinking about refurbishing and updating an old outfit, by all means find a library which carries file copies of Field and Stream magazine. Look up articles by Steve Netherby, camping editor, read them carefully, and take notes.

Netherby is a young, active, year-around outdoorsman who field-tests just about every new product that comes along, and writes about his experiences. If he finds something wrong, he doesn't hesitate to say so, refreshing candor in a business in which writers all too often cozy up to suppliers and advertisers for mutual monetary benefit. He also lists prices and vendors.

If there is a better source of information on the details of cold-weather equipment, it has escaped my attention. Netherby's expertise is free for looking it up.

Conventional wisdom has it that, the best of all possible materials for winter outdoor gear is "prime northern goose down," and it is in the sense that it is the warmest per ounce of weight. However, goose down has some drawbacks, not least of which is that it is scarce and therefore very expensive.

Beware of anything advertised or labelled as just plain "down." It is probably made of duck down, which is far less warming. Some unscrupulous manufacturers charge goose down prices for duck down garments.

Goose down loses much of its insulating value when compressed or wetted, and is tricky to take care of. I don't recommend it as a sleeping bag filler. Some of the synthetics are better, all things considered.

Many years ago somebody came up with the "layer" principle in dressing for cold weather, and nobody has improved upon it. The idea is that several layers of thin clothing will keep you warmer than a single thickness of equivalent weight. It works, because of the insulation provided by the air spaces between layers. Trapped air is the best insulator there is.

Just as important, dressing in layers gives you some flexibility. You can put on and take off clothing as conditions require, and they can change drastically during the course of a day. For example, wearing a snowmobile suit with nothing but skivvies underneath makes no sense. If the weather should suddenly warm up, you could not take off the outer suit without subjecting yourself to frostbite and possibly to arrest for indecent exposure besides.

I've experienced swings of as much as 60 degrees in air temperatures during a 12-hour winter day, and even more than that in wind-chill. Once in Montana I drove to work with the thermometer at -22 and came home for lunch with my coat over my arm. A so-called "chinook wind" had blown in, and with it came a premature spring thaw.

The most important layer of clothing is the one you put next to your skin—underwear—and I will write about that next week.

BookCrafters Promotions Announced

William G. Nuffer, president of BookCrafters, Inc. has recently announced the appointment of three top management positions at the corporate headquarters in Chelsea.

John Evans, promoted to vice president - manufacturing, has been with the company since 1972, working all of this time in the production area of the business. His new responsibility includes all phases of manufacturing at the Chelsea facility as well as the plant located in Fredericksburg, Va.

As the new general marketing manager, Phil Knight will be responsible for all functions of sales and marketing, including customer service and telemarketing. Knight joined BookCrafters in 1974 and has been in the Customer Service department most of that time, serving as manager of the department for several years.

Replacing Knight as customer service manager will be Rod Knieper, who has been with BookCrafters for eight years. He has recently been the assistant manager in this department which acts as a liaison between production and the customer.

Production Records Needed in Qualifying For Crop Insurance

Barbara Cranson, district director, Federal Crop Insurance Corp., stated that production records are now very important to the farmer in the purchases of "All-Risk" Crop Insurance. With the introduction of the Individual Yield Coverage Plan, farmers have been able to increase their coverage guarantees. Production records from the previous three years, qualifies a crop for the I.Y.C. plan.

Cranson also added that while production records are important for "All-Risk" Crop Insurance, farmers have other needs for good record-keeping. Many decisions required for good farm management are dependent on good records.

FCIC wants to make crop insurance attractive to all farmers, according to Cranson. The Individual Yield Coverage Plan economically increases coverage to protect the higher costs of production. Accumulated production records are the key to this affordable protection.

Card of Thanks 16

CARD OF THANKS
I want to thank each and everyone for the many acts of kindness extended to my daughter and me while I was in the hospital and since my return home. Also a big thank you to the staff of Chelsea Community Hospital.

Doris Blanchard.

THANK YOU

I would like to thank my relatives, friends and neighbors for the beautiful flowers, visits and cards I received while in Chelsea Community Hospital. A big thank you to the nurses and nurses aides for their kind and considerate care, also to Dr. Krause and Dr. Wolin. A special thanks to the Rev. Ron Iris and Roger Samonek for their visits and prayers.

Harold Buss.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Lawrence Koch would like to thank relatives and friends for their many acts of kindness and sympathy during our time of bereavement. A special thank you goes out to Dr. Krause's Chelsea ICU staff, and the ICU staff at the U. of M. Hospital. Thanks to Pastor Morris for his visits and prayers and to the Staffan-Mitchell Funeral Home.

THANK YOU

I would like to sincerely thank the members of the Chelsea Fire Dept., the Emergency Room staffs of CCH and U-M for the excellent care I received following my accident. I would also like to thank the inpatient staff at U-M for my continued care.

Mike Slane.

CHELSEA 1982 HISTORY:

Year-End News Summary

strong Tecumseh team, 39-27, at home.

9—John W. "Jack" Merkel will be running unopposed for village president March 8. Three incumbent trustees, Stephanie Kanten, Loren Keezer, and Joseph Merkel will face newcomers Ishmael Picklesimer, Herman C. Radloff and Jeanene Riemenschneider for three trusteeships.

13—Bulldog wrestlers, whose dual meet record is 6-0, won the conference tournament and league championship at Tecumseh. First in their weight category were Bill Hanna, 105; Travis Rudd, 132; John Preston, 155; Steve Grau, 167; and Rick Poljan, 198.

16—Chelsea High school began their annual Winter Carnival.

23—Chelsea Area Chamber of Commerce sponsored a Candidates Night at Chelsea Milling Company's auditorium for those running for village office.

23—Fenton ended Bulldog boy swimmers 34-dual meet winning streak last week, 92-90. Fenton peaked for the meet, and Chelsea didn't, which coach Larry Reed said was the difference. Bulldog swimmers peak for either the Chelsea Invitational or the March state meet.

27—Chelsea Players opened their two day run of Neil Simon's Plaza Suite with a dinner-theater at St. Louis school for Exceptional Boys.

24—Today is Chelsea Day in Florida, for all those Chelsea natives soaking up the sun to compare their tans in Palm Harbor.

24—McKune Memorial Library celebrated its 50th birthday. Started by the Child Study Club, now the Woman's Club of Chelsea, with 22 books and 100 others loaned by the State Library in a storefront on E. Middle St., the collection has grown to more than 23,000 books, 464 records, and 42 magazine subscriptions.

28—Hilltop Plumbing on Wacker Rd. closed. Steve Pangborn, who owned the business only 10 months, attributed the closing to the economy. Bob Shears owned the business for 27 years before selling it to Pangborn.

March . . .

4—Federal Screw Works employees, members of UAW Local 437, voted 66-33 to accept concessions to freeze their cost of living increases, forfeit five paid holidays, and accept minor changes in health insurance to help the company through slow times.

5—Chelsea cagers beat Milan, 64-68, in triple-overtime at home. Bulldogs finished their season 7-5, 30 tie for second in the SEC with Lincoln and Milan.

6—Rick Poljan placed third in the 198-lb. weight class and Ernie Bristol placed sixth at the state Class B wrestling championships at Ferris State College. Travis Rudd, Bill Hanna, and Jeff Morgan each won one match. The team finished 14th.

8—The village has a new trustee, Jeanene Riemenschneider. She joins incumbents Joseph Merkel and Loren Keezer on the board. John Merkel ran unopposed for village president, as did Charles B. Winans, II, as assessor, and Mary Harris as treasurer. Jean Eaton and John Grosser were elected to the library board.

9—Matt Riemenschneider, a 10-year-old South school student, took fifth in a national contest to make a 200th birthday card for the bald eagle. His entry for the contest sponsored by Ranger Rick magazine showed the eagle included in the stone carvings on Mt. Rushmore. Matt got a Ranger Rick hat.

9—Sarah Noah won the over-all Beach Middle school spelling bee with "credible" in the contest between different grade level champions.

9—The Rev. Robert Welkart received his Doctor of Ministry degree from United Theological Seminary, Dayton, O., at Chelsea Family Practice Center. He based his dissertation on research he did at the center on collaboration between Chelsea clergy and physicians in patient care.

13—David Mason became Chelsea High school's first state swimming champion, winning the 100-yard individual medley at the Class B championships at Grand Rapids. Bulldog swimmers moved up from a sixth-place seed to take fourth.

17—Chelsea Merchants sponsored a Midnight Madness sale.

17—A Stroh's Brewery truck leaked 50 gallons of brewer's yeast into a ditch near I-94 and Wacker Rd. Chelsea fire department helped wash down the road.

17—"West Side Story," Chelsea school's spring musical, opened. Phil Powers played Army Walter, Maria; Dave Ruff, the leader of the Jets; and Jim Herter, Bernardo, the Puerto Rican boy; and Celeste Arbogast, Anita, Bernardo's girlfriend.

26—It was a cold day in Hell. The 125-year-old Hell Creek dam broke from the pressure of spring run-off, flooding the town of about 300 residents and leaving 15 families in a nearby trailer park homeless. The dam was to be replaced this spring, and was first declared dangerous more than 40 years ago.

26—The Washtenaw County Agricultural Banquet, sponsored by the Dairy-Livestock Council, was held at Chelsea High school. Joe Merkel, owner and operator of the Wolverine Bar, catered the event, and the Contemporaries, a high school girls singing group, entertained. Pat Leimback, author of the newspaper column, "Country Wife," and two books, was the featured speaker.

27—Beach Middle school's 10-member team won the Southeastern Michigan Conference spelling championship.

27—Chelsea United Methodist Retirement Home residents demonstrated how to make maple syrup at their annual spring sale.

27—Terrific Tailors Tracy Roehm, Sara Noah, Beth Heller, Laura Hines and Mary Anderson were recognized as an honor group at the county spring 4-H achievement day.

28—Chelsea State Bank won the mens basketball league, beating Chelsea Woodshed in the finals of the single elimination tournament.

31—Beach Middle school closed because of a possible gas leak within the building, which turned out to be a gas spill. It took most of the day to track down the cause of fumes permeating the building.

April . . .

1—World Peace marchers, dedicated to world disarmament, arrived in Chelsea at dinner time and spent the night with host families. They began their march from San Francisco Oct. 24 and hope to reach New York City by June 1 to present their cause to the United Nations.

3—Chelsea High school's winter color guard took second place in the state championships held in Flushing.

3—Waterloo Natural History Association was named the year's outstanding organization for environmental achievement by the Michigan Audubon Society at their annual convention in Grand Rapids.

RESOLUTION REQUESTING MPPA PROJECT STUDY OF DETROIT EDISON BELL RIVER NO. 1

WHEREAS, the Village of Chelsea (the "Participant") is a member of the Michigan Public Power Agency (the "Agency"), an agency formed to meet the future electric needs of its member municipalities; and

WHEREAS, it is anticipated that the expenses of the Agency will be met in the following manner:

- 1. General administrative expenses will be paid from dues to be received by the Agency from all members of the Agency.
- 2. Project costs will be paid by members of the Project Committee; and

WHEREAS, Project Study Costs, such as engineering fees, legal fees, financial consulting fees, travel costs and others must be incurred by the Agency to investigate the desirability of a suggested project; and

WHEREAS, Project Study Costs must be paid by the Agency whether or not a project is finally acquired;

WHEREAS, certain Agency members have expressed an interest in having the Agency investigate the possibility of participating in some manner in:

The Belle River Unit No. 1 of the Detroit Edison Company, a coal fired plant, and associated transmission facilities.

NOW, THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED, by the Village Council of the Village of Chelsea, Michigan as follows:

- 1. The Agency is hereby requested to continue its investigation of the proposed project.
- 2. The Participant agrees to reimburse the Agency for a proportionate share of the Project Study Costs once it is provided with a firm estimate of costs and its proportionate share.
- 3. In the event the Agency acquires the Project, the Project Study Costs shall be included in the cost of the Project and appropriate adjustments shall be made between the Agency and the Participant.
- 4. At this time its estimate of capacity required from this project is 3.25 megawatts.

Motion by Keezer, supported by Satterthwaite, to adopt the above resolution as read. Roll call: Ayes — Chriswell, Keezer, Merkel, Radloff, Riemenschneider and Satterthwaite. Nays — None. Motion carried. Resolution adopted.

RESOLUTION APPROVING BELLE RIVER POWER SALES CONTRACT AND PROJECT SUPPORT CONTRACT

WHEREAS, the Village of Chelsea (The "Village") is a member municipality of the Michigan Public Power Agency ("MPPA"), a joint agency organized and existant pursuant to Act No. 448 of the Michigan Public Acts of 1976; and

WHEREAS, MPPA anticipates that it will enter into agreements with The Detroit Edison Company ("Edison") to purchase an undivided ownership interest in the Belle River I ("Belle River") fossil fuel fired plant and other facilities, all in St. Clair County, Michigan and certain transmission facilities in various locations; and

WHEREAS, MPPA anticipates that it will enter into agreements with Consumers Power Company ("Consumers") to purchase transmission lines and other facilities with respect to Belle River; and

WHEREAS, the Village and other member municipalities of MPPA desire to enter into contracts with MPPA to provide for the purchase and sale and transmission of power and energy derived from Belle River; and

WHEREAS, MPPA intends to finance its purchase of Belle River and certain transmission lines and facilities by the issuance of revenue bonds; and

WHEREAS, in order to issue such revenue bonds it is necessary that MPPA have substantially similar binding contracts with this municipality and each other municipality electing to participate in the purchase of power and energy, back-up power and transmission with respect to Belle River; and WHEREAS, MPPA will pledge the payments required to be made in accordance with such contracts as security for the payment of such revenue bonds; and

WHEREAS, the Village Clerk has on file a copy of the proposed Belle River Power Sales Contract (bearing a draft date of 11/1/82), to be entered into by MPPA and each municipality participating in the Belle River project which Power Sales Contract provides for the purchase and sale of power and energy derived from Belle River, the purchase of back-up power and energy and the purchase of rights to utilize certain transmission lines and facilities; and

WHEREAS, the Village Clerk also has on file a copy of the proposed Belle River Project Support Contract (bearing a draft date of 11/1/82), to be entered into by MPPA and each municipality participating in the Belle River Project which Project Support Contract provides for the payment by each municipality to MPPA for certain fixed costs relating to the purchase from Edison and Consumers and the ownership of MPPA's undivided interest in the Belle River project during those periods in which power and energy is not made available to such municipalities under the Belle River Power Sales Contract; and

NOW, THEREFORE, IT IS HEREBY RESOLVED by the Council of the Village as follows:

- 1. The forms of the Belle River Power Sales Contract and the Belle River Project Support Contract (the "Belle River Contracts") presented to the Village on this date are hereby approved and the Village President and Village Clerk of the Village are hereby authorized and directed to execute such contracts on behalf of the Village in substantially the form as presented on this date with such insertions, deletions and minor modifications as the Village President and Village Clerk deem necessary; provided, however, that the following insertions shall be included:

a. The Belle River Contracts shall provide that the Village shall purchase a power entitlement share in the Belle River project equivalent to 3.25 megawatts of power and energy and provide for the resale of a portion of such power and energy as planned excess capacity; and

b. The Belle River Contracts shall provide that the Village shall purchase back-up capacity equivalent to 3.25 megawatts of power and energy; and

c. The Belle River Contracts shall provide that the Village shall purchase a transmission entitlement share equivalent to 3.25 megawatts.

2. The Village President and the Village Clerk of the Village are further authorized and directed to execute such other documents and deliver or cause to be delivered such other articles, opinions and documents necessary to enable the Village to enter into the Belle River Contracts hereby authorized.

3. The Village hereby agrees to make such payments as are required under the Belle River Contracts.

4. All ordinances and resolutions or parts thereof in conflict with this resolution are, to the extent of such conflict, hereby repealed; provided, such repeal shall not impair the contractual obligations of the Village under the Power Sales Contract and the Project Support Contract, both dated as of October 1, 1979, as amended, entered into between the Village and MPPA, relating to the Campbell Project.

Motion by Keezer, supported by Riemenschneider, to adopt the above resolution as read. Roll call: Ayes — Chriswell, Keezer, Merkel, Radloff, Riemenschneider and Satterthwaite. Nays — None. Motion carried. Resolution adopted.

Motion by Radloff, supported by Satterthwaite to authorize the sum of One Hundred Dollars ($100.00) reward for the vandalism to electric meters. Roll call: Ayes all. Motion carried.

Administrator Weber discussed with Council problems in obtaining a license to operate our sanitary landfill.

Administrator Weber announced a Michigan Public Power Agency meeting at Mt. Pleasant on December 9, 1982 and invited members of Council to attend.

Council authorized Administrator Weber to obtain signs for the Kiwanis Club, that will be placed at the village limits, acknowledging the 1982 Girls Softball Team as Class B State Champions.

Motion by Satterthwaite, supported by Keezer, to authorize payment of bills as submitted. Roll call: Ayes all. Motion carried.

Motion by Keezer, supported by Radloff, to adjourn. Roll call: Ayes all. Motion carried. Meeting adjourned.

Evelyn Rosentreter, Village Clerk.

★ Is There Really Any Question That Marijuana Is Harmful?

While there has been disagreement about whether a $5 pot fine is adequate, there is little disagreement that marijuana use is a major public health problem in the United States.

The Surgeon General of the Public Health Service issued the following warning on marijuana: In the past 20 years, its use has increased 30-fold; it is estimated that a quarter of the American population has used it. The age at which persons first use marijuana has decreased gradually to the junior high school years. Until recently, nearly 11% of the high school seniors used it, and although that figure has declined to 7%, its daily use still exceeds that of alcohol; more high school seniors use marijuana than smoke cigarettes.

The Institute of Medicine of the National Academy of Sciences and the World Health Organization, in independent studies, reported that acute intoxication with marijuana interferes with many aspects of mental functioning. It has serious and acute effects—especially on complex tasks that involve perception, judgment or fine motor skills.

The long-term developmental effects on children and adolescents are of special concern. During these years, young people are especially vulnerable to the behavioral and psychological effects of marijuana. They may experience a loss of energy, difficulties in concentrating on their school work, and problems with relationships.

Debate Team 2nd in CMU Tournament

Chelsea High school's varsity debating team took second, their highest place this season, at the Silver Chalice Debate Tournament Dec. 18 at Central Michigan University, Mt. Pleasant.

That high finish, among more than 20 teams entered at the biggest tournament of the season so far, started team members thinking about the possibility of qualifying for the February state tournament, said Brian Kruger, debating coach and Eastern Michigan University undergraduate student. The team had a slow start in their first seven tournaments this season.

The question for the day was, "Should the U.S. significantly curtail arms sales?"

David M. Moore, member of the affirmative team along with Gretchen Vogel, also won a silver chalice for being the second best speaker that day. He and Gretchen compiled a 3-1 record at the tournament.

Negative team members, Jeff Koepele and Allen Cole, in his first varsity tournament, had a 4-0 record for the day. Allen, who had a 4-0 record at his last tournament as a novice Dec. 11 in Ann Arbor, now has a rather enviable 8-0 winning streak, said Kruger, a 1980 Chelsea High school graduate.

The team's next tournament is Jan. 8 in Marshall.

Grass Lake Couple Wins Merchants Sweepstakes

"I didn't believe it, because I've entered a lot of contests and never won anything. When they called and told me I had won, I thought somebody was playing a joke."

That was the reaction of Mrs. Charles (Pat) Koenig of Grass Lake to the news that she had won the Christmas Sweepstakes sponsored by the Chelsea Downtown Merchants Association in a drawing held last Wednesday.

The prize is a weekend trip for two to Toronto, Canada, including rail transportation from Windsor and back, two nights in the Westin Hotel in Toronto, and $100 in cash for spending money.

"You bet my husband and I are going to take the trip," an excited Mrs. Koenig said. "I don't know just when yet because we haven't had time to talk much about it, but we certainly will go."

The contest rules specify that the trip be taken sometime during January.

The Koenigs live at 12200 Riehlmiller Rd., Grass Lake. She is an elementary teacher in the Westland schools, and he works at the Federal Screw plant in Romulus. Both commute close to 100 miles a day to and from their jobs.

They put up with the travel inconvenience because "we love the area," Mrs. Koenig said. "It's worth the driving to be able to live out here."

The Koenigs do most of their shopping in Chelsea. She was in Vogel's department store on the evening that the sweepstakes opened.

"They had just received the information on the contest and were setting up a box to hold the entry coupons," Mrs. Koenig said. "They told me that if I filled out the form, mine would be the first entry from their store. I did it, but I certainly never dreamed that I would win."

Mrs. Koenig said she has been to Toronto twice before, both times many years ago, and remembers it as a "beautiful, exciting city."

"I'm sure looking forward to going back again," she added. "I can hardly wait."

SWEEPSTAKES WINNER: Mrs. Patricia Koenig (seated) won a week-end trip to Toronto for two in the Christmas Sweepstakes drawing sponsored by the Chelsea Downtown Merchants Association. Her husband, Charles, will enjoy the prize with her. The Koenigs' two children are Carrie and Chuck.
