ONE HUNDRED-THIRTEENTH YEAR—No. 31

CHELSEA, MICHIGAN, TUESDAY, JANUARY 4, 1983

16 Pages This Week

THE SIDEWALK isn't shrinking in front of the Steinbach Building at 109 W. Middle St. Construction workers on the building's renovation for William Rademacher and Randy Musbach's law offices put up the plywood shelter so they could be warmer while they worked on the facade, which will feature oak trim and windows on the first floor. The second story facade has been cleaned and repainted. Notice that tin work around the eaves. There isn't much of that left on buildings anymore.

Attorneys Preparing To Move Into Remodeled Building

The building at 109 W. Middle St. is undergoing a reverse face-lift—it is being restored through historical photographs at Bentley Historical Museum to what it looked like when it was built in 1894.

That space will house the law offices for the new partnership between William Rademacher and Randy A. Musbach.

Musbach, the son of Arden and Ruth Ann Musbach and a 1975 graduate of Chelsea High school, was admitted to the bar in November. He graduated from Miami University with a Bachelors degree in political science, in 1979, and graduated from the University of Toledo College of Law in March, 1982. He clerked in Rademacher's office two summers while he went to law school.

The restoration being done by the Grass Lake firm, Dick Clark Construction, Inc., began three weeks ago and is moving quickly. Clark says he expects to finish in early January. Contran Consultants of Jackson was the architectural firm.

The exterior brick has been cleaned and repainted. The first floor facade will feature natural oak trim in a historical style and glass fabricated to resemble the original glass.

The first floor will have two offices, a lounge, library, reception area and bathrooms. Marlene Rademacher has done the interior design work. The second floor will continue to be used for apartments and may one day be used for possible future expansion of the firm, said Musbach.

One historical feature to note, said Musbach, is the ornamental tinwork on the second floor facade. (A good place to see it is standing right in front of Sylvan Township Hall.)

Eleanor Hall, who has been Rademacher's legal secretary for many years, will continue in that position and Ann Merkel will join the business as its receptionist.

Rademacher and Arden Musbach now own the building.

WILLIAM NUFFER

PATTI HARRIS

Trustees Elected at Chelsea Hospital

William Nuffer, president of BookCrafters, Inc., of Chelsea, and Patti Harris, a civic leader in Grass Lake, have been elected trustees of Chelsea Community Hospital.

Nuffer graduated from the University of Michigan, was a vice-president of Braun & Brumfield, and started his own book manufacturing company, Litho-Crafters, in 1965. Following the acquisition of an additional plant in Virginia, Nuffer changed the company name to BookCrafters. Nuffer is active in the Ann Arbor Graphic Arts Foundation, a past president of Ann Arbor Litho Club, vice-president of the Civic Foundation of Chelsea, vice-president and council member of Our Savior Lutheran church. He lives in Chelsea.

Harris graduated from Denison University, did graduate work at the University of Michigan, has been active in the Jackson Junior Welfare League, and served on the Board of Huron Residential Services for Youth in Ann Arbor. Harris is an instructor-coordinator in the Emergency Medical Technician Program at Jackson Community College, is a licensed Emergency Medical Technician, and has advanced cardiac life support training. She is a CPR instructor for the American Heart Association, and regularly teaches CPR to various community groups. Harris is a volunteer of the Grass Lake Fire Department and is in charge of rescue operations.

Re-elected to the Board of Trustees was Thomas Niswonger, vice-president and co-owner of Bradley, Chesbrough, Niswonger, Inc., in Ann Arbor.

School Board Studies Possibility of Partial Tax Collection in July

Part of your school property taxes may be due this summer instead of December, one of those last minute Christmas presents from lame-duck legislators.

Chelsea school board must decide by Feb. 1 whether to implement recent legislation allowing them to get either 50 or 100 percent of their tax portion in the summer. Summer tax collection was on their agenda for last night's meeting, held after The Standard went to press.

Schools don't have the option of softening the blow by gradually increasing the percentage, said Fred Mills, assistant superintendent of Chelsea schools. It's either 50 or 100 percent, or do not collect mid-year and keep paying a lot of interest on a lot of borrowed money.

Having to make that decision can't be easy for school board members, who are all also taxpayers as are school officials.

The timing of the legislation was awkward. Governor Milliken signed the bill a few days before Christmas. Townships had to decide by Jan. 1 whether they would or wouldn't collect for the schools. At a county-wide meeting just after Christmas, township supervisors asked school boards to wait until 1984 to collect.

Chelsea and other school districts are in a dilemma. Chelsea borrowed $2.775 million in the summer to pay for running the schools until the tax money, which is on a different fiscal year, comes in, said Mills. Interest on that borrowed money costs the district and its taxpayers $185,000.

"If we could save that much anywhere else in the budget," he said, "the taxpayers would expect us to do it."

Farmers and senior citizens are exempt from the mid-year collection, making estimates of how much money would come in difficult.

The district falls into eight different townships. Lima, Lyndon, Sylvan, Freedom, and Dexter townships in Washtenaw county and Waterloo in Jackson county have contacted Mills. He has not heard officially from Sharon township or Grass Lake township which is in Jackson county.

Mills said he has been telephoned by community members anxious about the financial burden imposed if the schools were to ask for their full tax payment in July. He said he told them the schools would be more likely to go for partial payment, or 50 percent, but the decision really rests with the school board.

Township and school district officials will discuss summer tax collections at 10 a.m. Friday, Jan. 7 in the ABC room at Washtenaw Intermediate School District, 1819 S. Wagner Rd., Ann Arbor.

Most Merchants Report Improved Christmas Sales

Christmas sales brought mixed reactions from various Chelsea business owners.

Heydlauff's had an "excellent December," said Mark Heydlauff, president of Chelsea Downtown Merchants Association. They sold a lot of microwave ovens, which now have more features at the same or lower prices than when they were first marketed.

"It's such a good Christmas gift," he said, since it can be carried out of the store and doesn't need to be delivered.

Heydlauff's also sold a lot of video games, he said, this year's Christmas rage.

Clothing sales suffered from the unseasonably warm weather, said other merchants, and from pre-Christmas sales offered by large mall stores. That warm weather didn't inspire birdseed and sled sales either.

Chelsea Pharmacy's Christmas sales were "quite a bit better" than last year, said Dan Murphy, a co-owner of the store. The "dry spell" they had November 1981 through February 1982 was the worst he had seen in the past 12 years. It reminded him of 1957, when he worked at the store part-time and the auto industry was in the doldrums.

Business has steadily increased since February, he said, so this good Christmas did not surprise him.

The last two or three days before Christmas have traditionally been a busy time, so one merchant was very surprised those days were slow this year.

Dayspring Gifts began selling Christmas decorations in late summer, said Gail Murphy. They had a smaller post-Christmas inventory this year than last, so they were quite pleased.

Christmas decorations are one thing most people won't wait until after Christmas to buy, she said, unless they are thinking a year in advance.

The store stayed busy up through Christmas Eve. Other merchants found that consumers are so accustomed to post-Christmas and end-of-season sales, they decided to wait for sale time to buy.

Merchants interviewed said consumers still buy in bad times, but they don't buy as big Christmas presents.

Kiwanis Club Offers Tax Help to Seniors

Income tax means big headaches for most of us. Even if you don't owe Uncle Sam anything, understanding all that governmentalese necessary to file is a headache in itself.

Chelsea Kiwanis Club will take away some of those headaches for Chelsea senior citizens and may replace them with smiles for deductions they did not realize they were entitled to. Several club members will be at the North school senior center from 1 to 4 p.m. Monday, Jan. 10 and Monday, Jan. 31 to help seniors fill out their tax forms.

Julius Blaess, a Kiwanian who has been involved with the project several years, says he estimates they help seniors save $20,000 to $25,000 in deductions and special senior exemptions—not a bad return on the Kiwanians' donated time and expertise.

Otto Hinderer Has Merry Christmas

This is to report that Otto Hinderer had a merry Christmas and a happy birthday on Dec. 25, when he became 95 years old.

A story in the Dec. 21 edition of The Standard said, among other things, that Hinderer didn't know for sure where he would spend Christmas Day, which was coincidentally his 95th birthday. He was prepared to be alone if he had to.

He didn't have to. He was invited to the home of his nephew, Raymond J. Schairer of 50 N.

Parker Rd., Dexter, and had "a very nice time."

The day included a visit with his "kid sister," Anna, who is a mere 80 years old.

Mrs. Hinderer received some "real fine presents"—a brightly colored flannel shirt, a package of assorted jellies, a basket of fresh fruit, a frosted gingerbread house and a jar of home-made pickles.

He also got some new plants to add to his already abundant and (Continued on page six)

VISITING CHINESE NURSE HONORED: Li Xue-Zeng, editor of the Journal of Nursing in the People's Republic of China, recently visited the State Capitol in Lansing where she was a guest of Rep.  FUNERAL HOME

HAVE YOU HEARD ABOUT OUR "NO-PAYMENT" PRE-PLAN PROGRAM?

Did you know you can pre-plan funeral services at no charge? You can. It will cost you nothing at all to make your wishes known as to your choice of service, casket, music, specific readings from Scripture—even arrange for your favorite flowers and your clergyman. And these arrangements-in-advance can be made without cost or obligation.

HERE'S HOW TO DO IT: First, come in and complete our Pre-Planning Form with our help. The form covers all the above-mentioned choices and many others. Second, you will receive copies of the form for safekeeping with your lawyer, accountant, designated estate administrator or family member. Third, a copy remains with us which you may review from time-to-time and update as you require.

PRE-PAYMENT OPTIONS:
 Several pre-payment plans are available, too, if you choose to pay in advance. But pre-planning does not necessarily mean pre-payment. Stop by for full details.

$575 Million Transportation Package Completed
 Just as some people said it would be impossible in a lame-duck legislative session, the finishing touches were put on a transportation package that will raise $575 million over the next three years.

The action was taken during the waning hours of the final days of the 81st Legislature.

The additional revenue would be raised through an increase in the gasoline tax and a value registration fee for new car purchases coupled with an increase in the current weight tax on presently registered vehicles.

The gasoline tax provides for two years of gas tax hikes tied to the rise in the federal highway maintenance index.

Increases would be capped at 2 cents per gallon per year, meaning a maximum gas tax of 15 cents a gallon by 1984 compared to the current state excise tax of 11 cents per gallon.

The gas tax, effective Jan. 1, will itself raise an estimated $373 million over three years.

Passenger vehicle registrations will increase 15 percent on Feb. 1 while commercial vehicles will see an immediate increase of 30 percent as of Jan. 1.

For new vehicles, purchased on or after Oct. 1, 1983, registration would be computed on a value formula.

The tax would be .4 percent on the purchase price of the vehicle with the registration fee being reduced by 10 percent each year for three years.

After the third year, the fee would be frozen at that amount.

As older vehicles are taken out of service, the weight tax would ultimately be phased out, but until then, the weight tax will be indexed to increase in the state personal income until 1985.

The registration adjustment is expected to raise some $193.4 million over the three-year period.

To aid public transportation systems, changes were made in the allocation of the auto-related sales tax revenues and the amount going from the highway fund to comprehensive transportation.

Increases of the current 8.3 percent allocation of highway fund money to comprehensive transportation is 10 percent. The increased allocation would raise $232.2 million for comprehensive transportation over three years.

The comprehensive transportation fund would also receive an increased allocation from the auto-related sales tax that goes to the general fund.

Currently, the fund received 27.9 percent of the tax revenue. This would be increased to 53 percent in 1983, 46 percent in 1984 and 57 percent in 1985.

Any loss to the state's general fund as a result of the shift is expected to be replaced by federal funds under a congressional rewrite of the federal gasoline tax package.

The package was drastically reduced from the original recommendation of Governor William G. Milliken who originally proposed a program that would have raised approximately $2 billion over the same three-year period.

That plan was compromised when it became impossible to gain legislative approval for new taxes on some services and amusements.

The $575 million package will provide immediate money for the state to make necessary road and bridge repair and provide state matching money for federal funds for similar uses and public transportation systems around the state.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

Like Clem Webster allus says, Ed Doolittle ain't nothing if he ain't perdictable. Through most of December and over Christmas, Republican Ed kept his powder dry, and during the session at the country store Saturday night he let the fellers have both barrels.

Ed said he, fer one, was starting the year by taking a fresh look at this country, where she's been, where she's at and where she's headed. He allowed he had thought the situation up one side and down the other, and he was of a mind that all we got to do is clean up the image of recession. Our recession has a bad reputation, Ed said, and it's high time folks come around to looking on its good side.

Fer instant, Ed went on, recession and inflation was butting heads fer a while, but now inflation is on the run, and we got recession to thank fer it. Old folks on fixed incomes are finding they got money left at the end of their month, instead of the other way around. Factories can't turn out goods, store em in warehouses and watch the price go up. They've got to deal with a real market, and they can't borrow money in a make-believe world where the inflation rate is more than the interest rate. What we're doing, Ed declared, is returning to a real economy of demand and supply of goods and services.

Furthermore, Ed went on, the tightening up has caused folks to loosen up. Since the Federal government ain't picking up the tab fer everthing these days, people are willing to help more, and they know the salve is going right on the sore. Ed had saw where giving to church and charities has gone up by nearly 12 percent this year, and it ain't all because hard times scares folks back to church.

Fellers' Fabulous Fowls Beoming Famous

If the sight of another turkey tado, turkey tetrazini or turkey salad Christmas leftovers is going to cause family rebellion, you may be interested in an unusual kind of poultry grown at Cavanaugh Lake-capons.

Capons are neutered roosters who grow large in size like male birds but develop a large breast like hens, and have a distinctive rosy flesh which has been the favorite of royalty since Roman times.

Growing and processing the birds, 5,000 this year, is some "Hobby" for Irving Feller, a surgeon and burn medicine specialist at Chelsea Community Hospital and in Ann Arbor, and Cynthia Feller, his wife who runs his practice and her favorite, Cavanaugh Lakeview Farm's gardens.

Feller worked his way through school raising and selling chickens, said Mrs. Feller, and had always had the dream, "Some day I'm going to do this right."

They chose capons because a small producer cannot compete in today's chicken market, she said, when the profit is only cents per chicken.

They began with 70 male chicks bought from a breeder in 1975. Feller and a group of medical students spent a whole day neutering the chicks—giving them intravenous fluids, and fussing over them.

They learned that isn't the way to do it, said Mrs. Feller. Now Diane Meyers, a caponizer from Johnstown, Pa., visits for two weeks in the spring. She can caponize 120 chicks an hour.

When the birds are grown to about 15-16 pounds, they are taken to Indiana for slaughtering, then returned to the Fellers' farm for processing.

Each bird is injected with home-made chicken stock, made with onions, celery and honey produced on the farm and which has all the fat skimmed off. That kind of stock both gives a very good flavor, said Mrs. Feller, and is less greasy than butter.

The birds are either sold fresh or smoke/cooked from their farm, at Country Farm Meats, Big Ten Party Store and Applecore Natural Foods in Ann Arbor, or by mail.

The Fellers' goal is making the Nieman-Marcus Christmas catalogue, said Mrs. Feller, which would mean they have the top of the line poultry product in the country. The goal is within reach—the catalogue's star poultry product is just a smoked turkey.

They discovered as their business grew that kind of quality means controlling more of the processes themselves. They grow the corn, wheat, and soybean feed at the farm and installed their own smoker because most smokehouses are geared to heavier pork flavoring. They are also building their own slaughterhouse which should be ready for processing next year. Then once a chick arrives at their farm, it leaves as a dinner.

By controlling their own slaughtering they would have the option to do occasional kosher slaughters, so they could expand their marketing to Jewish communities around Detroit, said Mrs. Feller. They have no plans now to ever breed chickens and have set 10,000 capons annually as tentative maximum production.

During the past eight years they've produced some chicken stories too. Their dog, who grew up with the chickens thought he was one too. Why not? His best friend was a chicken.

She had never imagined she would be a chicken farmer herself, but she had some warning, she says. He was into chickens before the wedding. So far they haven't gotten tired of eating it either. Her next project? A chicken recipe book.

Cavanaugh Lakeview Farms capons may become famous someday—especially if they make that catalogue. Around here they may just keep their nickname, "Fellers' Fowls."

AUTOMATED CAPON COOP: Both the bowler derby-like water troughs to the right and the feeders to the left are controlled by weight of food. When food levels drop, each refills automatically, by the water tube or the four-inch feed pipe. Each trough and feeder, designed so birds cannot step in it, still needs twice daily checking, but nothing needs to be hauled. Snow fence separates the birds into four sections, so they will feed more evenly, and the 12 fans, like the one behind the snow fence, keeps the air circulating in warm weather. When this photograph was taken in early December, 600 capons were in the coop. Now they have all been slaughtered and the Fellers have an inventory of frozen products to sell until they run out.

CLEAN SHOES: Anyone who enters the capon coop, like Angle Hall, who processes the birds for the Fellers, must wear a pair of rubber boots and step into a tub of disinfectant before going in. Poultry is very susceptible to bacteria carried in droppings made by other birds, which is why everyone must take a foot bath. Poultry has an unexplained "sudden death syndrome" just prior to maturity, a research problem Irving Feller is trying to solve.

THE FELLERS make 17 poultry products from deluxe capons to turkeys, roasting chickens and a low-fat chicken salami. Behind Angle Hall, who processes the birds in this room, is the station where she injects the honey-chicken stock basting.

The government controlled maximum is 10 percent of the bird's weight. Each time she runs a batch of birds, a federal meat inspector is looking over her shoulder. This room must always be below 44 degrees Fahrenheit.

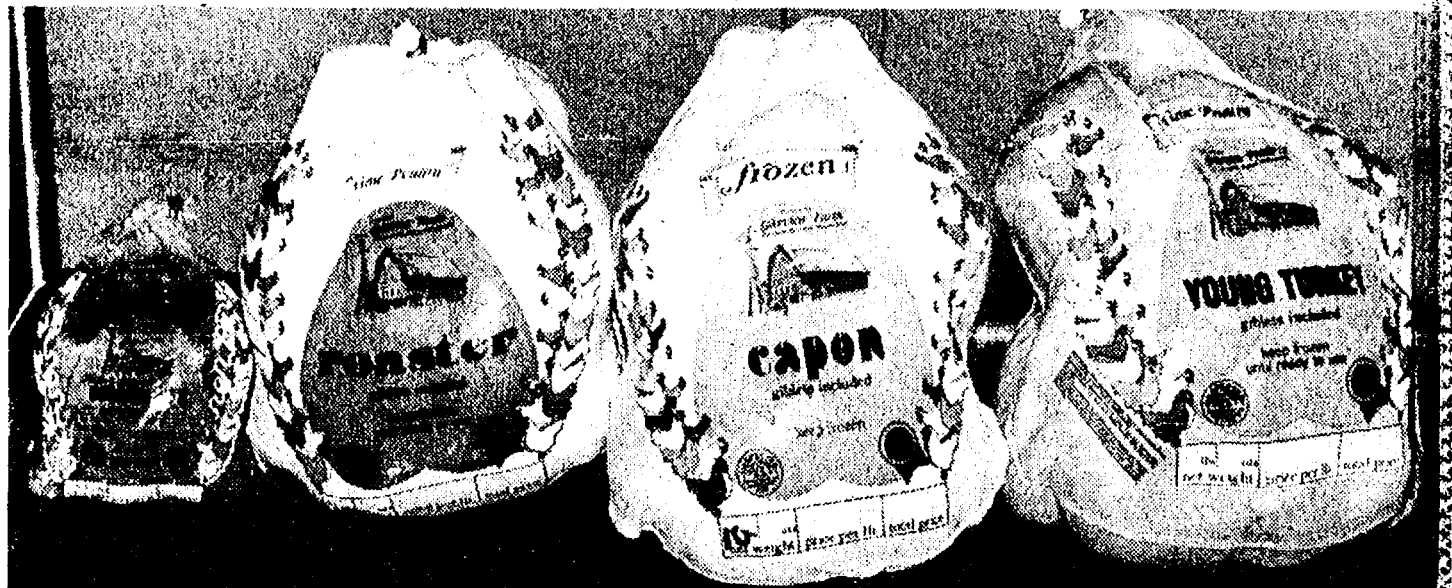

THE POULTRY BAG was one of those unexpected hitches that anyone starting a new business runs into. The Fellers thought one just drew up a bag. They sent off their design, said Cynthia Feller, right, and got back pages of bag design violations from the government. Meat bags must have type sized in certain ratios; only certain ink colors may be used and it must still be legible after shrinking; and information such as weight or ingredients must be in certain places on the label. Solution? They learned about companies which specialize in bag design and relieving potential meat packers' headaches. The logo was developed by Connie Gill of Dexter and Sandra Stone of Ann Arbor. Angle Hall, left, puts the bagged birds through a patented bag shrinking process, which helps prevent freezer burn.

THIS POULTRY SMOKER will cook and liquid smoke 50 hanging birds in about six hours with a spice combination patented and developed by a Chicago firm. The Fellers decided to do their own smoking because most smoke houses smoke everything with heavy spicing intended to enhance pork, not poultry. They chose liquid smoke, said Mrs. Feller, who is pointing to the racks, because it can be more easily controlled and is less of a fire hazard than wood chips. No other taste, she said, is equal to that of a capon right out of the smoker.

THIS POULTRY LINE-UP shows the difference between the relative sizes of Cornish game hens, a chicken breed slaughtered at about four weeks old; a roasting chicken, slaughtered between 12-20 weeks; a capon, which lives almost half a year; and a young turkey. The 15-16 pound live capons dress out to 11-13 pounds. Capons are neutered at about three weeks. This causes hormonal changes which cause the breast to develop like a hen's and the size to be big like a rooster. They also have a higher percentage of white to dark meat than other poultry, said Cynthia Feller, co-owner of Cavanaugh Lakeview Farms, where this line-up was produced.

Food Co-Op In Gregory Area Seeking Members
 Hickory Nut Food Co-operative is looking for new member/owners to share in buying food in bulk at greatly reduced prices. Monthly buying and bagging meetings are held in the Unadilla/Gregory area.
 The Co-op is affiliated with the Michigan Federation of Food Cooperatives (MF-of-FC), and purchases food directly from their member-owned warehouse located in Ann Arbor.
 The MF-of-FC strives to provide organically grown and minimally processed whole foods, and offers a wide variety of items at very low prices. Cheeses and fruit juices are among the more popular items, with cheese averaging less than $2 per pound.
 Persons interested in joining the Hickory Nut Food Co-op are invited to attend a New Member Information Meeting to be held on Jan. 18 at 7:30 p.m. in the Unadilla/Gregory area. There will be samples of various foods from the warehouse, and information about dues and work duties.
 If you are interested in joining and would like to attend the New Member Information Meeting, please call Theresa Perry at (313) 878-6663. Those who are unable to attend on the 18th, but who are interested in joining should ask Theresa to supply them with new member information.

Zoning Ordinance Proposal Would Speed Up Approval

Giving the planning commission authority to approve special land uses and planned unit developments as proposed in the zoning ordinance amendment going before village council Jan. 18 will speed up the approval process, said Thomas Davis, village planning consultant.

Now a conditional use permit, to be known as a special land use, goes to the planning commission at one meeting. They set a public hearing for their next meeting, usually the next month. After they make a recommendation, it goes to village council, which must act on it, and may table it for further information. All those steps add time to the approval process.

The new ordinance would eliminate the need for council approval for both special land uses and planned unit developments. If the planning commission denied an applicant, said Davis, the applicant would still have the option of going before village council in its role as zoning board of appeals.

A planned unit development is a special zoning district with negotiable restrictions on building height, setbacks and open space, he said, whereas other districts such as residential, commercial and industrial have specific restrictions listed in the ordinance.

The developer of a proposed PUD (It has been suggested that Tregets Tool & Engineering Co. use a PUD) and village officials work out what the restrictions will be for that property, he said. Restrictions may be stricter than for any other zoning district.

Planning commission recommended approval of the amendment at their December meeting with changes suggested by Davis, associate director of Eastern Michigan University's Institute for Community and Regional Development.

He suggested each applicant for a special land use permit, planned unit development, or site plan be given a published description of the approval process showing each step needed before a plan is finished.

Davis also added requirements not present in the ordinance now for approval of both special land uses and planned unit developments: a plan be compatible with the village's general development plan; that it will not be detrimental or hazardous to existing or future neighboring uses, persons or property, and will not create additional public costs for public facilities and services, (such as water and sewer lines, upgrading streets or increasing traffic to the point new lights or signs are needed).

The impetus for this amendment is bringing the village's ordinance into compliance with 1978 changes in state law.

Landfill License Renewal Expected

Following a meeting with officials of the Department of Natural Resources' solid waste management division, village administrator Frederick W. Weber has been advised to apply for renewal of Chelsea's license to operate its sanitary landfill.

"I got the impression that the permit will be renewed, provided we come up with a satisfactory plan of operation for the future," Weber said. "We have until June to submit the plan."

The DNR has identified the landfill site on Wexner Rd. north of the village as a possible source of groundwater contamination. The soil is porous (sandy), and there is a possibility that toxic materials previously put into the landfill may eventually seep down into the water table. Test wells have been drilled and are being monitored.

"Meanwhile, we are going to have to look at alternatives," Weber said. "I am sure we will not be allowed to go on indefinitely operating the landfill as we presently are."

Options are to install a lining of clay or plastic under the landfill to keep liquids from penetrating to the ground-water level, or to find some other way to dispose of the village's solid waste.

Possible "other ways" include setting up a transfer station, a facility which packs waste into large truck trailers which are then taken elsewhere for dumping—or contracting with haulers to pick up trash and dispose of it wherever they legally can.

"Whatever alternative we select is going to be more costly than what we are doing now," Weber acknowledged. "We will have to raise our present rates for trash pick-up, no doubt about it. I suspect there will be an increase next spring. I hope we can continue our present operation until we come up with a satisfactory solution, and I think the state will let us do that provided we don't wait too long."

United Way Campaign Leaders Recognized

Robert Porter, Chelsea United Way's campaign chairman, was presented a United Way of Michigan paper weight for his leadership to the local campaign at the state-wide campaign dinner Dec. 9 at the Kellogg Center on the campus of Michigan State University.

Although only 90 percent of the $50,000 Chelsea goal had been reached in early December, Porter said Chelsea United Way can fund all their agencies at the level they had hoped. The difference will come from a small reserve and cuts into administrative costs.

Keynote speaker for the Dec. 9 dinner, Richard H. Austin, Secretary of State, complimented the way the 500 United Way volunteers present had risen to the occasion "in this most difficult of all campaigns."

These volunteers raised $88,142,846 state-wide, 98 percent of the state-wide goal and more than $1 million over the amount raised last year.

Proceeds from the local campaigns will go to local, state, and national human care service agencies such as Michigan Heart Association, National Kidney Foundation of Michigan and Children's Leukemia Foundation. Chelsea agencies receiving funds include Chelsea Area Transportation Service; Chelsea Home Meals Service; Chelsea Recreation Council; and Chelsea Social Services.

The meeting and dinner were sponsored by major companies and organizations around the state.

★ The Success of Our Public Schools

This is the golden era in American education. At no time in our history has the literacy rate been higher or academic skills greater, and educational opportunities pursued by more citizens. Fifty-three percent of the American population aged 3 to 34 are involved in some form of education—most of it public education. While our 80,000 public schools are engulfed in the social problems of the state, they are the wonder of the rest of the world's education establishment, for the success they continue to show. America has the highest literacy rate in the world—98.2%. This is a far cry from the 55% in 1945. Almost all of the increase has been a product of public education. Today, more than 88% of America's public school graduates perform adequately or higher on literacy skill tests.

America spends more of its students to school than any other nation in the world, and more of them complete high school. More American high school graduates go to college—53%—than any other nation. And more American college students complete degree programs—50%—than students anywhere else. A higher percentage of handicapped children are taught in American public schools than in any other nation in the world—1.2 million enrolled in 1981.

While declining test scores alarm critics, the international education achievement survey shows that much of the variation which is displayed in tests is attributable to home background, not classroom experience. The decline in SAT scores is not an American phenomenon, but is world-wide and intimately linked to television viewing habits which have a profound impact on reading skills.

Similar tests given to students in all major non-communist countries show that American students still out-perform their peers in all other industrial nations by a considerable margin. In America, only about 7% of high school students take the test, and many of those are lower socio-economic class students who previously entertained no thought of higher education. Thus, the 14-year decline almost exactly parallels the massive integration of American education, the rise of television viewing, and the changing characteristic of family life.

Today's attack on public schools is unfair, and may very well shatter their foundation. The schools optimize the education of boys and girls regardless of race, creed, religion or socio-economic background. They don't always succeed, but they try, and a majority of Americans perceive that.

A recent Gallup Poll showed only two areas with approval ratings over 70%: organized religion at 82%, and the public schools at 74%. Schools don't know how to effectively deal with children of violence and divorce, drugs and permissiveness, any more than do most parents, but they are trying despite the critics. Public education is the greatest social success story of this nation. More Americans have made it because of public education than because of any other factor. Much of the success has been because the public schools are a living mix of all that is great and all that is bad in our society, lending the light of hope to those who will find it in no other institution in America. Everything America is, or ever hopes to be, depends on what happens in the public school classrooms.

An estimated 65,800 tons of carrots were marketed in Michigan in 1981, representing the fifth highest carrot production in the nation. Total value for the crop was $12.4 million.

Manchester School Board Sets Goals

Through discussion and consensus the Board of Education has arrived at a set of goals to guide the school district for the next several years. Board members worked for over three hours in a special meeting on Saturday, Dec. 17 in order to reach agreement on the goals.

Of chief concern to all Board members is the continued financial stability of the school district. It was felt that a multi-year millage should be a goal.

An education audit of the school district drew the interest of the Board. The superintendent was directed to investigate firms which could provide the Board with an independent assessment of the district's curriculum, standards, and general quality for students and employees.

Continued efforts in the area of public relations were cited by the Board as being critical. This was especially true in regards to non-parent citizens of the school district.

Renovation and maintenance of the school buildings was included as a major goal. The Board devoted additional time to the discussion of meeting this goal.

The continuation of the Manchester Community Schools as an independent school district was noted as a fifth major goal. Concern was expressed regarding pressure from the State Department of Education regarding the elimination of small school districts through consolidation.

The final major goal was to continue to provide means for professional development of the entire staff.

Jiffy Market Takes Extra Precautions To Thwart Burglars

There was a flurry of activity at the Jiffy Market following publication of a story in The Standard last week quoting owner Gene Shoemaker as saying that he intends to take drastic measures to protect his business against burglars.

The market, located at Sibley and Werkner Rds., has been broken into five times in the past 14 months. The latest burglary occurred over the Christmas weekend when an undetermined but apparently small amount of packaged liquor was stolen.

Shoemaker has put up steel bars to reinforce the doors to the market. The bars back up unbreakable plastic "glass" and heavy metal frames.

He is considering installing an electronic alarm system, which would ring in to the sheriff's department and the Chelsea police station and bring officers to the scene within minutes.

Spokesmen for both the sheriff's department and the village police, who asked to remain unnamed, said they have talked with Shoemaker about his published threat to shoot anybody who tries to enter the market during the hours that it is closed.

Professional policemen do not like the idea of private persons taking the law into their own hands. There is always the chance that some innocent person may become a victim of circumstances.

"If Gene were to injure or kill somebody who did not have proven criminal intent, he would be in serious trouble with the law," the sheriff's spokesman said. "I understand his problem, and I sympathize with it, but can't accept the idea of shooting first and asking questions afterward."

The spokesman added that the department provides protection for the Jiffy Market and all other business places in rural west Washtenaw county to the best of its ability, but pointed out that during night-time hours there is normally only one car on the road to patrol eight townships.

"We will pay special attention to the problem out there," he said. "There seems to be a pattern to the break-ins. We have some leads, some things to go on. We're working on it."

The Chelsea police spokesman said that, even though Jiffy Market is just outside the village limits, it is regularly checked by night patrols and will continue to be. The Sibley-Werkner intersection is a turn-around point for village police cars, whose responsibilities include the Dana plant across the road from the market.

Dana security guards have also been enlisted to watch for suspicious activity around the market.

Shoemaker, meanwhile, had some good news. His Christmas weekend loss apparently was not large, and may not have amounted to more than a couple of partial cases of liquor.

"I definitely believe they (the burglars) were scared off right after they broke in," he said. "From what I can tell, they didn't get much."

Entry was made by removing the pane of unbreakable plastic from the front door, an effort that took special tools and considerable time. The plastic pane was found intact inside the store and has been re-installed.

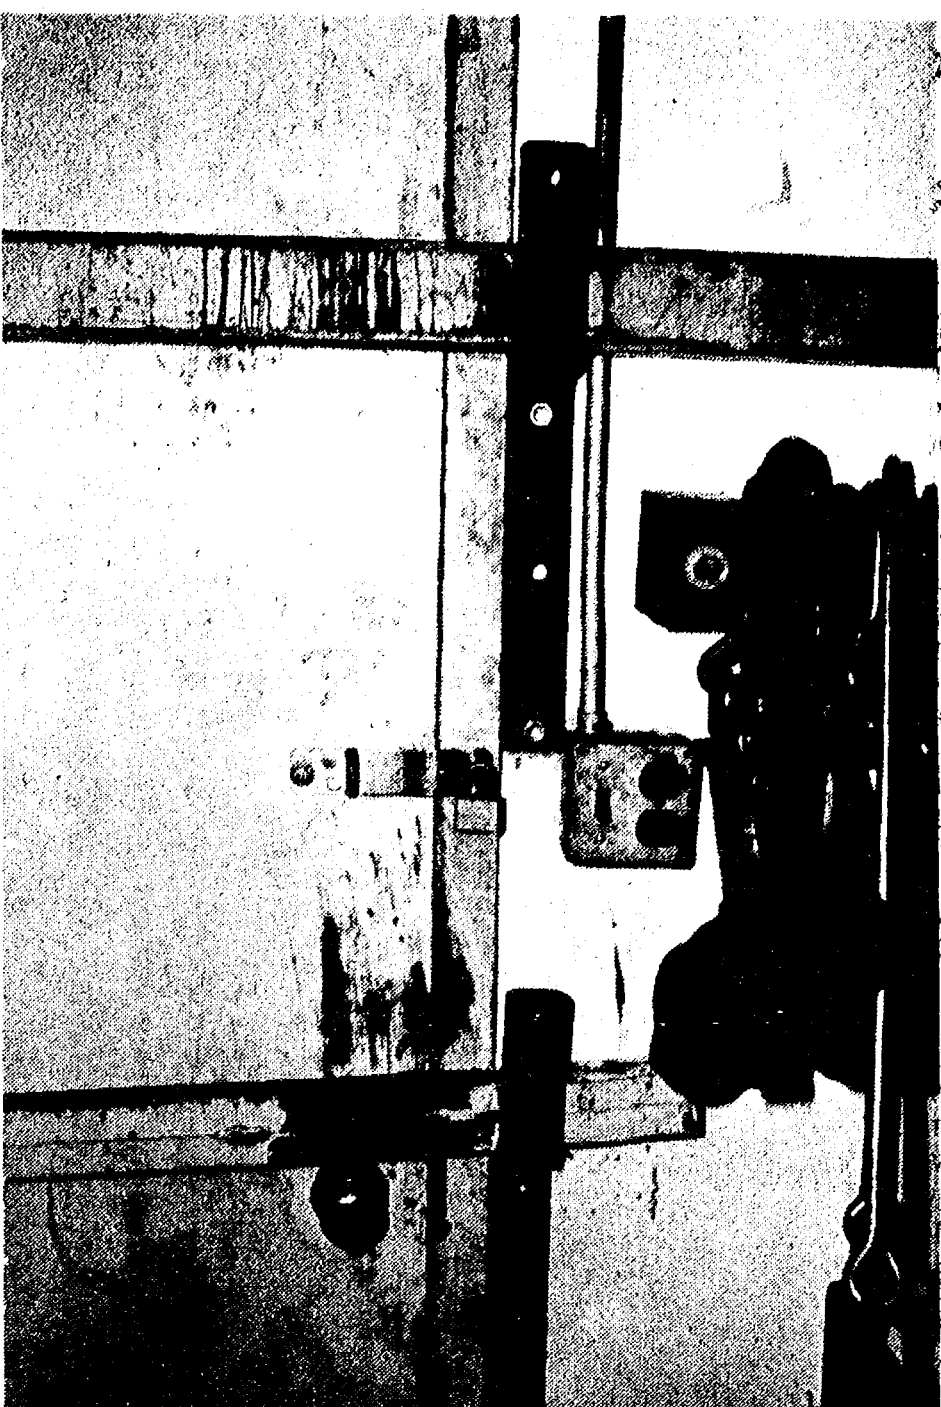

"I don't want to shoot anybody," Shoemaker said, "but I have to protect my property and my business. Everything I've worked for all my life is in the Jiffy Market. It hasn't been easy to keep it going in these times. I had 19 employees once, and I'm down to five now, so you can see that it's been a struggle. I just plain can't afford to be ripped off."

Manchester School Board Studies Renovation Plans

In a special meeting on Saturday, Dec. 17 the Manchester Board of Education met to review and discuss the status of all facilities and to examine plans for future renovations.

Superintendent Gene Thompson reviewed for the Board efforts which have been made to meet emergency problems in heating, roofing, and ventilation systems. He indicated that while immediate emergency problems had been met, the facilities remained badly in need of major renovation and that new emergencies would emerge unless plans were developed in the maintenance area.

Board members discussed timelines for the development of plans and debated possible means of finance for the required projects. It is anticipated that this topic will be a major concern of the Board for the next several months.

No-Till Conference Scheduled Jan. 20

A conference to explore no-till crop production is being sponsored by Michigan State University Extension, Jan. 20 at Weber's Inn, Ann Arbor.

Designed with the newcomer to no-till in mind, the conference will answer questions many no-till farmers have on weed control, fertilization and planting equipment. Featured will be a panel of farmers who have developed successful no-till systems on their farms. Advanced registration is required. Registration may be made by contacting the Washtenaw County Co-operative Extension Office, 973-9510.

No-till crop production involves no plowing, rather crops are planted in fields basically untouched since last season's harvest. Acres planted by no-till in Michigan during 1982 increased 68% over the previous year.

By not plowing, no-till farmers can reduce fuel, machinery and labor costs. No-till is a favorite of soil conservationists because it leaves large amounts of residues from the last season's crop on the field's surface to protect against soil erosion. Hilly ground previously restricted to hay crops may be safely row cropped using no-till methods.

Those unable to attend the conference may learn more about no-till systems by contacting the Co-operative Extension Service, 973-9510, or the Soil Conservation Service, 761-6721.

Census Data Show Strong Farm Sales for Michigan

Agricultural statistics for Michigan outline an industry with a majority of the farm operators reporting their chief occupation other than farming but still producing nearly $2 billion in farm product sales, according to the U.S. Commerce Department's Census Bureau.

The Census of Agriculture shows, moreover, that a high proportion of the places are operated as individual or family farms, and are fully owned, although smaller than the U.S. average.

Census data for Michigan indicate:

—Farm product sales totaling $1.9 billion in 1978, with an average per farm of $28,446, compared with the U.S. average of $43,618.

—Crops, including nursery and greenhouse sales, brought $1 billion and livestock and poultry, $928 million.

—Land and buildings had a per acre valuation of $975, up from $553 per acre in 1974 and well above the national average of $628.

The Michigan farm operator's status is reflected in a review of data from the 1978 Census of Agriculture, which offers a perspective in farmer characteristics, organization, and products. These statistics will be updated by the 22nd Census of Agriculture, with forms to be mailed to all farm and ranch operators in late December to collect data for 1982.

Farmers in Michigan and around the Nation are requested to aid the census by returning their report forms at the earliest possible date, with the deadline set for Feb. 15. The census provides the only uniform set of agricultural data at the county, state and national level, publishing information ranging from livestock, crops, acreage, and interest payments to cost of fertilizer and value of machinery.

For statistical purposes, a farm is defined as any place from which $1,000 or more of agricultural products were sold or normally would have been sold during the census year.

Census data show that of the 68,237 total farms in Michigan, 37,314 of the operators, 55 percent, reported their chief occupation as other than farming, with the balance, 30,923 farm operators giving agriculture as their main source of income.

Ninety percent, 61,339 places were operated as individual or family farms; 5,890 were partnerships and 787, or 1 percent, corporations.

Sixty-three percent of Michigan farm operators owned all the land they farmed; 30 percent were part owners—operators who both owned and rented land—and 7 percent were tenants.

Turning to the size of Michigan farms, the average of 168 acres compares with the U.S. average of 415 acres. Seventy-seven percent were less than 220 acres with 47 percent, 32,154 farms, in the 50 to 219 acres range.

A total of 15,028 farms had acreages ranging from 220 to 999, and 882 farms were of 1,000 acres or more. Michigan had 11.4 million acres of farmland, of which 7 million were harvested cropland. Some 226,200 acres were under irrigation.

Along with land and production values, expenses for Michigan farmers also were high: Feed for livestock and poultry, $184.1 million; commercial fertilizer, $175.9 million; livestock and poultry purchases, $149 million; hired labor, $137.3 million; and gasoline and other petroleum fuels, $100.2 million.

Census data users will look forward to the 1982 results, which will give some understanding of how farmers have weathered the economic situation over the past several years.

The census also shows that Michigan farm operators had inventories of 1.3 million cattle and calves, including 386,100 milk cows and 146,800 beef cows. Other inventories included 958,200 hogs and pigs; 112,700 sheep and lambs; and 7.1 million layers.

Crop data note that corn for all purposes was the major crop, harvested from 2.8 million acres. Hay was second, 1.6 million acres; soybeans, 898,100 acres; oats, 408,100 acres; wheat, 382,200; orchard land, 170,700; and vegetables, 122,300 acres.

Other facets from 1978 Michigan agriculture as noted in the census:

—Some 45 percent, 30,957 farm operators, worked 200 or more days off the farm during the census year.

—Four percent of the farms, 2,636 were operated by women and 65,601 by men. Nationally, 5 percent of the farms were women-operated.

—Seventeen percent of the farm operators were under 35 years of age and 15 percent were over 65. The average age for all Michigan farmers was 49.3, a little younger than the U.S. average of 50.1.

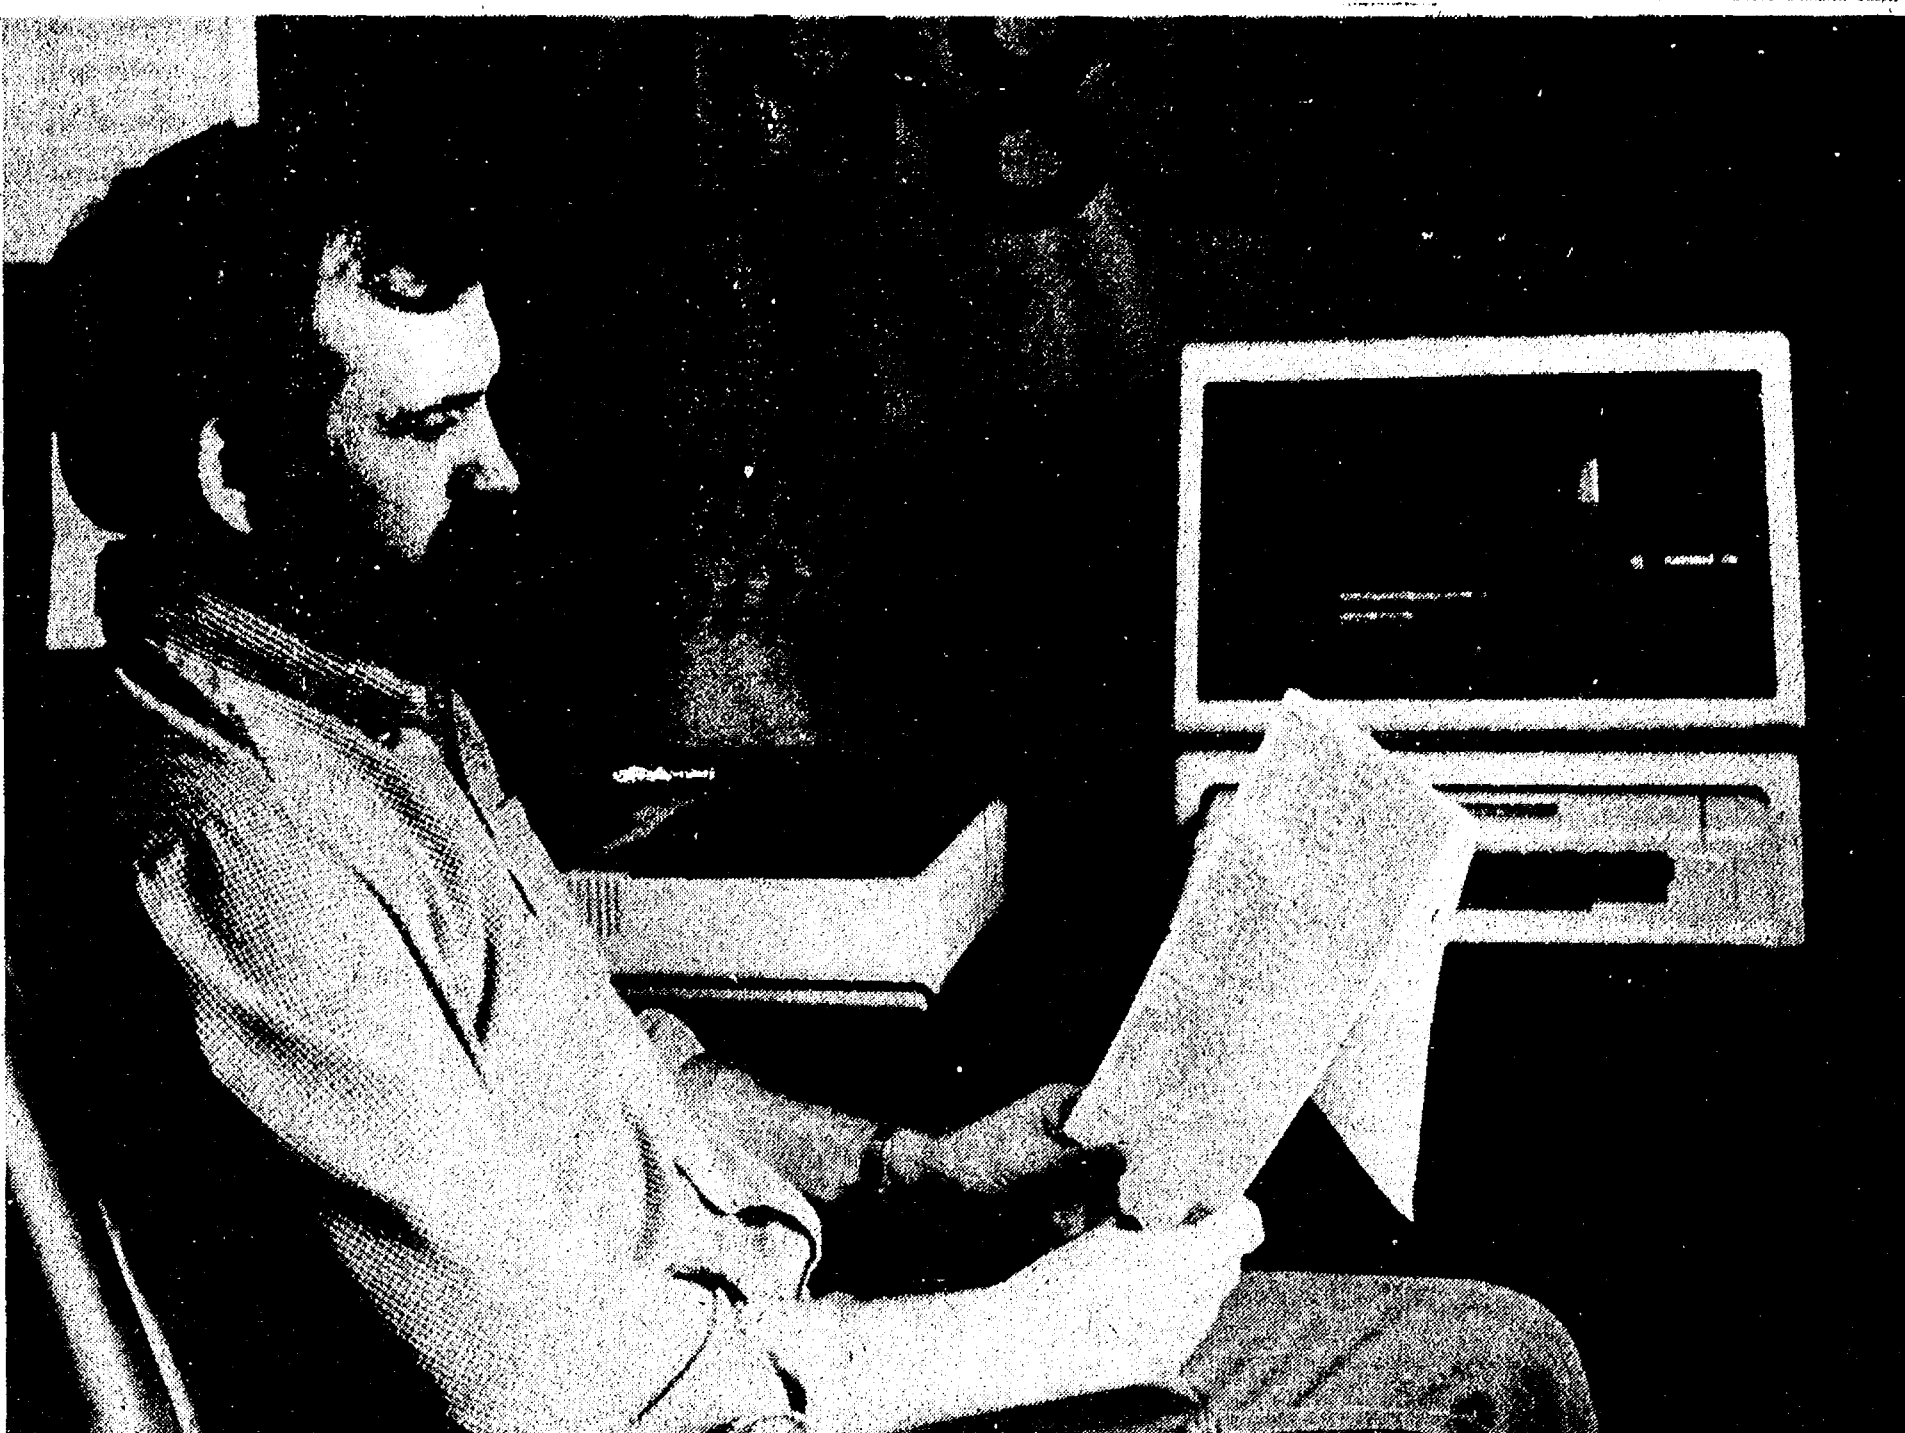

The data are from the publication, Michigan State and County Data, Volume 1, 1978 Census of Agriculture.

COMPUTERIZED: Seated before his sophisticated home computer, Larry Reed, aquatic coach at Chelsea High school, analyzes a printout of up-to-the-minute swimming records of the CHS varsity team. On the wall behind him is a pennant awarded to him when he was recognized as 1981 "Coach of the Year" by the Michigan High School Swimming Coaches Association.

Aquatics Coach Reed Keeps Records on Home Computer

After a long day, which begins with team practice at 6:30 a.m., what does a swimming coach do when he gets home at night?

He fires up his personal computer and works on vital statistics of his swimming teams—if he happens to be Larry Reed, aquatic coach, at Chelsea High school.

He is the only head swimming coach Chelsea has had since the pool opened in 1977. The dual meet history of CHS swimming teams is as follows:

1977	4 wins	5 losses
1978	11	5
1979	12	2
1980	13	1
1982	10	1

TOTALS: 63 wins, 14 losses
Chelsea has not lost a swimming meet at home since December 1979.

The memory in coach Reed's computer contains these all-time records for Chelsea High School male swimmers:

200 medley relay—Dave Mason 26.17, Craig Wirtz 29.12, Dave Nicola 24.09, John Drew 23.39, 1:42.69, 1982.

200 freestyle—Sean Oxner, 1:49.69, 1982.

200 individual medley—David Mason, 2:01.76, 1981.

50 freestyle—David Nicola, 22.60, 1982.

Diving—Craig Wirtz, 256.55, 1982.

100 butterfly—David Mason, 53.39, 1981.

100 freestyle—David Nicola, 50.45, 1982.

500 freestyle—Sean Oxner, 5:01.38, 1982.

100 backstroke—Tom Gaunt, 58.20, 1982.

100 breaststroke—David Nicola, 1:06.12, 1981.

400 freestyle relay—Tom Gaunt, David Nicola, Mike Mason, Phil Hoffman, 3:22.72, 1982.

Reed's computer, situated in the study of his rural home on Mester Rd., is also programmed with regularly updated state swimming records, Chelsea invitational records, boys freshman records and the Chelsea All State honor roll. Soon there will be a comparable programming of Chelsea girls swimming achievements.

Swimming athletes, as well as their families and fans, take pride in the tough 15-event schedule of the varsity team for the 1982-1983 season. Chelsea is rated as a Class B team because the enrollment of the school district is under 800. Yet, Chelsea swimmers are competing successfully with many Class A teams—schools with 1,500 students or more. Among them are traditionally strong competitors from high schools in Ann Arbor, Adrian, Monroe and Jackson. Chelsea swimmers have also competed against powerful Class B teams from Fenton, Okemos, Riverview, Cherry Hill and Battle Creek Lakeview.

In the 1982 EMU Relays, Chelsea won first place against top-rated Class A and Class B teams of Michigan.

Cassidy Lake Escapee Charged With Murder

Another escapee from Cassidy Lake Technical School made the news last week. He is Jerome D. Martinico, 41, of Troy, who walked away from the institution more than a year ago and was never recaptured.

He is charged with first degree murder following the shooting death of a woman in a parking lot outside a Troy restaurant. Troy is a suburb of Detroit.

Witnesses said that Martinico and the woman had an argument inside the restaurant, then went outside where the quarrel continued. She was found fatally shot a short time later. Martinico was arrested on the basis of a description and license plate number furnished by a witness.

Martinico was described as having "an extensive record of felonies against people and property," but police and state prison officials refused to release any further information.

Cassidy Lake is supposed to be a facility for housing first offenders under the age of 21, but State Corrections Department officials acknowledge that policy has been badly bent in recent years because of overcrowded conditions in the total prison system.

Some older criminals with records of serious crimes have been sent there because, in the judgment of prison officials, they were minimum security risks.

There is essentially no security at Cassidy Lake. The grounds are not walled or even fenced. Inmates are more or less free to walk away whenever they choose, and quite a few do. There were about two dozen "escapes" during 1982. Local police officials have described it as "a revolving door" situation.

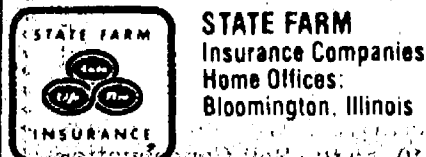

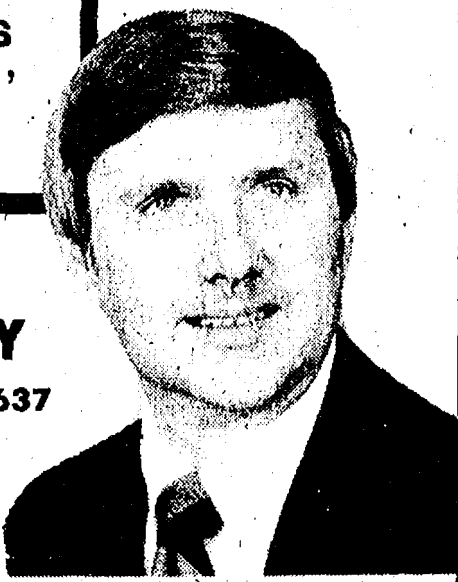

Weights and measures, from grocers' scales to gas pumps, are routinely inspected as a consumer protection service of the Michigan Department of Agriculture.

"Because I offer life, health, home and car insurance, I get to know my policyholders and their needs."

And that makes it easier for me to give good advice on the right kind and amount of coverages.

JV Cagers Post 3-1 Record for Month

Bulldogs boys junior varsity basketball team now has a 3-1 record over-all and a 1-1 league record with their lone loss to Dexter Dec. 17 away.

Chelsea beat East Jackson, 73-25, in their opening match of the season Dec. 3 at home. After a four-point first quarter lead, the Bulldogs opened up a formidable 38-16 half-time advantage to put the rest of the game in cruise control.

Bulldog players bested Jackson in field goal percentage, 44 to 20; free throw attempts percentage, 56 to 23; and rebounding, 37 to 22. Dave Steinhauer led scoring with 15; Mark Henson, 12; and Scott Miller, 10. Henson led rebounding with 9.

Chelsea had a 50-38 win over Pinckney Dec. 7 away, in a game which was closer than the final score, said coach Paul Terpstra. The Bulldogs pulled away in the last few minutes when Pinckney couldn't sink their free throw shots.

Bulldogs led, 23-20, at half-time. The score was tied going into the fourth quarter.

Chelsea again led in the statistics race; field goal percentage, 36 to 28; free throw attempts percentage, 50 to 26, and rebounds 42 to 31.

Jason Pierson was leading scorer with 11 and pulled down 7 rebounds; Henson, 10 points, 8 rebounds; Steinhauer, 9 points, Miller, 8 points; Rob Long, 8 rebounds; and Scott Jones, 7 rebounds.

Chelsea won a 47-44 over-time squeaker against Tecumseh Dec. 10 away.

The game went into over-time after Pierson tied it up with an eight-foot jumper with six seconds on the clock, 42-42. Chelsea's strategy was to get ahead in over-time, said Terpstra, because the momentum of the game had changed to Chelsea's favor. The Bulldogs had been behind by three points with a minute to go and had come back.

If they got the lead, Terpstra felt they could hang on to it—which they did.

The stats race was as close as the game with Chelsea just nudging Tecumseh in each category; field goal percentage, 35 to 31; free throw attempts percentage, 58 to 57; rebounds, 44 to 34.

Henson had 16 points, 11 rebounds; Pierson, 9 points, 7 rebounds; Jones, 9 points, 4 rebounds; Steinhauer, 6 points, 8 rebounds; Long, 7 rebounds.

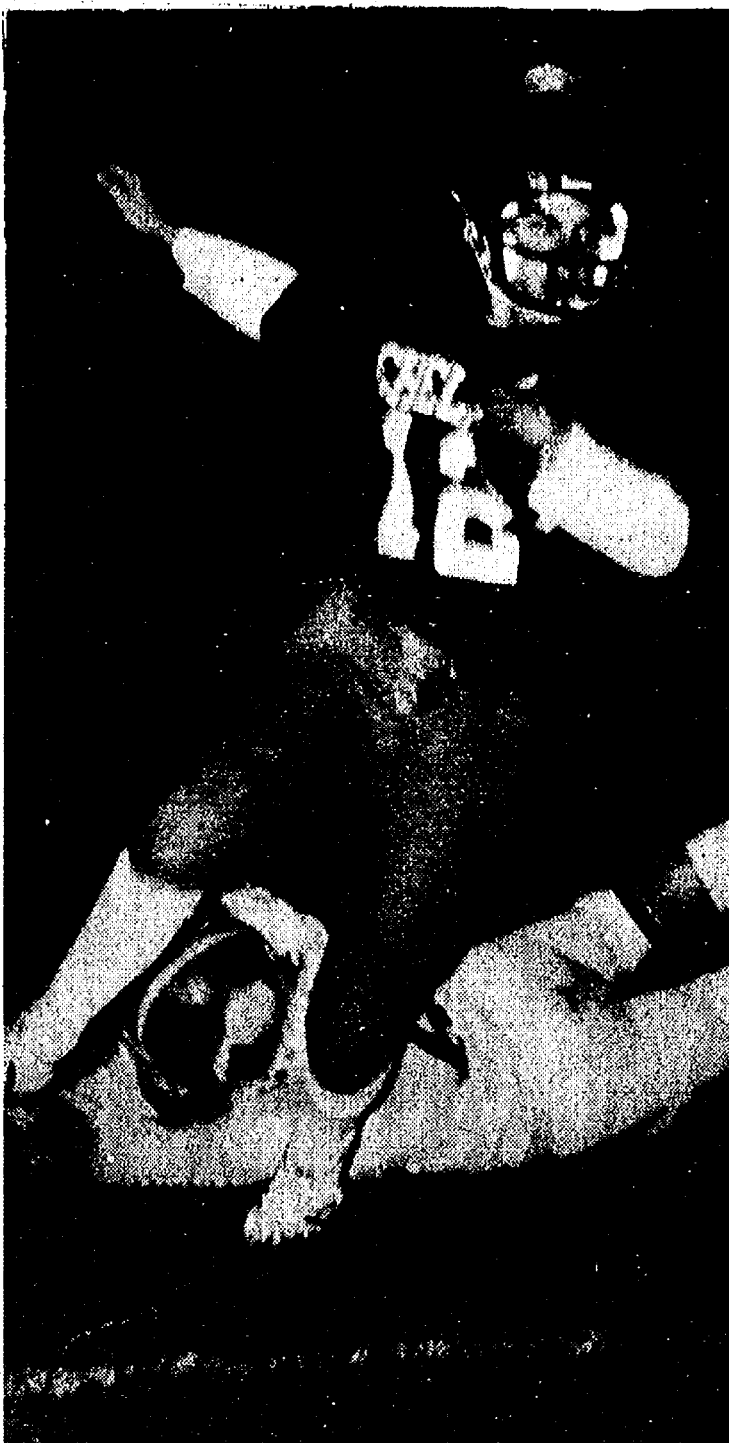

Dexter had a 15-7 cushion after the first quarter, forcing Chelsea to play catch-up ball the rest of the game.

Although the Bulldogs would cut the lead by three or four points, said Terpstra, they never went ahead because they weren't playing as aggressively as they should have.

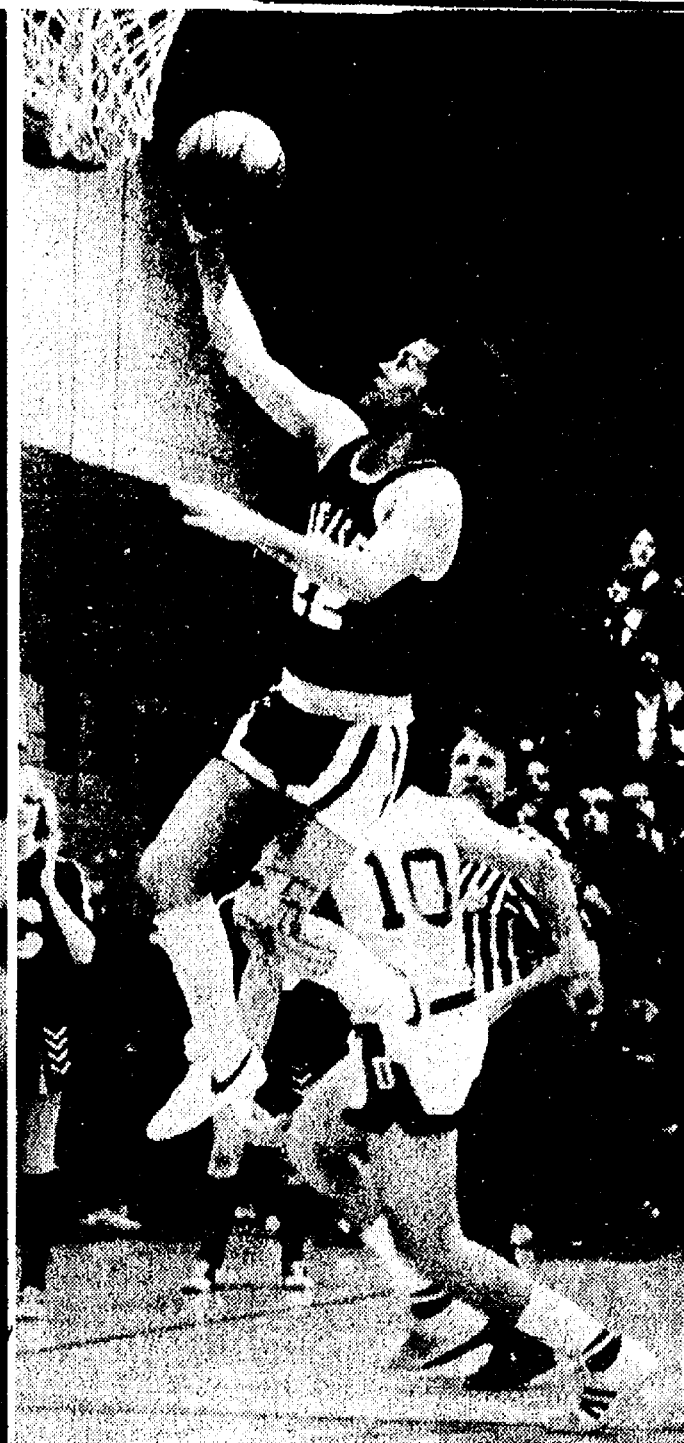

That and Dexter's 30-19 rebounding advantage was the difference in the game, he said.

Steinhauer was leading scorer with 16 and also the leading rebounder with 5.

Their next game is at 6:30 p.m. Friday, Jan. 7 against Saline at home.

PLAYING IN TOUGH LUCK: Dave Wojcicki holds the rare honor of having been elected captain of the football and basketball teams at Chelsea High school this year, and he has played his heart out on both teams. As the accompanying story tells, his luck has been running badly during the past few months, and it's overdue to change.

Dave Wojcicki Due for Some Good Breaks After 'Almosts'

By Bill Mullendore

One of these games Dave Wojcicki is going to have a little bit of luck and pull out a last-minute miracle victory. He has come so close so many times, and barely missed, that things just have to turn around for him.

Wojcicki is an exceptional athlete who has been playing both football and basketball in hard luck. It has to be frustrating.

Consider this litany of almosts:

Cribbage Tourney Opens Jan. 18

All of you cribbage players who have been calling The Standard to ask about the date announced for the start of the Chelsea Jaycees' annual cribbage tournament are right. There is no such date on the 1983 calendar as Tuesday, Jan. 17.

Both Fremont Boyer, who announced the tourney opening date, and the reporter who accepted the information without checking the calendar, goofed.

The tournament will begin at 6:30 Tuesday evening, Jan. 18, in the VFW hall, 105 N. Main St. All entrants are asked to bring cribbage boards and a new deck of cards. There may or may not be a modest entry fee, Boyer said. It probably will not exceed $2.

The tournament format calls for three nights of individual match play on successive Tuesdays—Jan. 18, Jan. 25 and Feb. 1. Each entrant will play 10 games each night against 10 different opponents. Those with the best win-loss records after the 30 preliminary games will advance to the finals, which will be played on Tuesday, Feb. 8.

Judging by the number of persons who have called about the opening date, interest in the tournament is high.

Oct. 1—After squandering a 12-0 half-time lead, Chelsea trails Milan, 13-12, with less than three minutes to play. The Bulldogs get the football on their own three-yard line and Wojcicki directs a brilliant drive upfield against the clock. With time for one last play, he tries a 27-yard field goal, well within the range of his strong kicking leg. The required perfect co-ordination of snapper, holder and kicker doesn't quite come together, and the boot sails wide to the right.

Oct. 29—Chelsea is trailing Mason, 16-6, early in the fourth quarter, but is driving and has a chance to get back into the game. Wojcicki runs out of a broken pass play and, with outstanding individual effort, gets to the Mason eight yard-line for an apparent first down and goal to go. A yellow hankie flutters. Far back upfield, where it didn't make any difference, a Bulldog is whistled for blocking below the waist, the most absurd penalty in football. The play is called back, the Chelsea drive sputters out, and the game winds up at 16-6.

Nov. 5—Chelsea trails Pinckney, 6-0, with less than a minute to go. The Bulldogs get the ball on their own 47, and Wojcicki moves them toward touchdown territory. With time running out he lofts a pass into the end zone, aimed at a Chelsea receiver standing among three defenders. It is a perfectly thrown pass under the circumstances and falls into the hands of the receiver—who drops it.

Dec. 17—It's basketball season now, Chelsea is playing Dexter, and the score is tied at 57 with six seconds on the clock. The Bulldogs inbound the ball and get it upcourt to Wojcicki, who fires from 40 feet just before the buzzer. Unlike most such last-second heaves, this one is on the money. It hits the backboard just above the hoop, bounces down onto the rim, and rolls off. It could just as well have gone in. Dexter goes on to win in overtime.

Luck eventually evens. A series of bad breaks is followed by a series of good ones. Wojcicki is due for a hot streak.

Pinckney Area Youth Promoted in Air Force

David E. Wagner, son of Duane E. and Gloria A. Wagner of 11759 Ericson Dr., Pinckney, has been promoted in the U.S. Air Force to the rank of senior airman.

Wagner is an aircraft pneumatic systems mechanic at Myrtle Beach Air Force Base, S.C., with the 354th Aircraft Generation Squadron.

His wife, Beth, is the daughter of Carter E. Gasque of 148 Millpond Rd., Murrells Inlet, S.C.

The airman is a 1979 graduate of Pinckney High school.

Ski Resort Operators Hope Winter Has Come

Operators of southeastern Michigan ski areas have their fingers crossed as they hope that winter weather has finally come to stay. So far, the season has been an on-and-off affair, because of recurring periods of spring-like temperatures and rain.

"We're starting from scratch for the fifth time since we first opened on Nov. 6," said Bill Risky, a spokesman for the Mt. Brighton ski area. "We've made snow and watched it melt, then done it all over again, time after time."

"We had good crowds on the days we were able to operate," Risky said, "and that makes me confident we can have a good season yet, even though we lost most of the early part. The demand is there. People are itching to get out on the slopes. All we need is a few days of sustained cold weather so we can build up a good snow base."

What really hurt, Risky said, was losing the first half of the 10-day Christmas-New Year's holiday period. "We normally do about 25 percent of our total season business during those 10 days," he noted.

Mt. Brighton is better off than other southeast Michigan ski areas because it has more snow-making equipment and can get its slopes in shape fast once the weather permits. "We can put down a 10-inch base in three days if conditions are right," Risky said. "The problem this season has been that we haven't been able to get a good base laid. Once we do we should be set until spring." The snow-making machines were turned on last Tuesday night, when the temperature dropped below freezing following a balmy Christmas weekend, and some slopes and lifts were opened on Wednesday afternoon.

Cottage Looted By Burglars At North Lake

Roy D. Beck of Westland, owner of a cottage at 13796 Rust Dr., North Lake, just north of the Inverness Inn, received an unhappy surprise last weekend when he visited the place which he had locked up and secured for the winter two months ago.

Burglars had entered through the rear door and looted the cottage of property with an estimated value of $1,500, sheriff's deputies said.

Items stolen included fishing rods and reels, a radio, color TV, kerosene heater, saber saw, circular saw, thermometer, and barometer, two outboard motors and a gasoline tank, three sets of glassware, two boxes of shotgun shells, and a fire extinguisher.

Handicap Advisory Appointments Will Be Made By County

Washtenaw County Board of Commissioners on Feb. 3 will make three appointments to the recently established Handicap Advisory Committee to advise the Board of Commissioners, through the Controller/Administrator, on accessibility provisions for existing and/or new county owned and leased facilities. This committee is to be composed of two handicapped individuals and one senior citizen. One appointment will end Dec. 31, 1983, one Dec. 31, 1984 and one Dec. 31, 1985.

One-page resumes should be addressed to Carol Hampton, Controller/Administrator's Office, County Administration Building, P.O. Box 8645, Ann Arbor 48107. Those resumes received by Jan. 21, 1983, will be submitted to the Board of Commissioners for their consideration on Feb. 3.

Hansen Racing Team 5th in First Snowmobile Race

Mark Cook and Steve Hansen of Chelsea finished fifth in their first professional snowmobile race, the 50-mile first annual Kinross Enduro Jan. 2 at Kinross. They drove a Ski Doo Snow Pro sled.

As Team Hansen, they represented Hansen Ski Doo and plan to race the Michigan International Race Association (MIRA) professional endurance circuit this winter.

Volleyball Tourney Slated Saturday

The second annual Chelsea Invitational volleyball tournament will begin at 8:15 a.m. Saturday, Jan. 8 at both Chelsea High and Beach Middle school gymnasiums—a good chance to see fast-paced power volleyball.

Bulldog girls team will play their round robin at Beach along with Vandercook Lake, South Lyon and Fowlerville, said Ron Nemeth, Chelsea athletic director. Brighton, the defending champion, Manchester, Pinckney, and Williamston will play their three-game pool at the high school.

Second place teams in both divisions will play each other at 3 p.m. at the high school, and fourth places teams at the same time at Beach. Division winners will play the championship match at 4:15 p.m. at the high school.

school and third place teams at the same time at Beach.

The winning team will receive a trophy.

Admission will be $2 for everyone attending. Concessions will not be sold, so spectators should bring their own lunches.

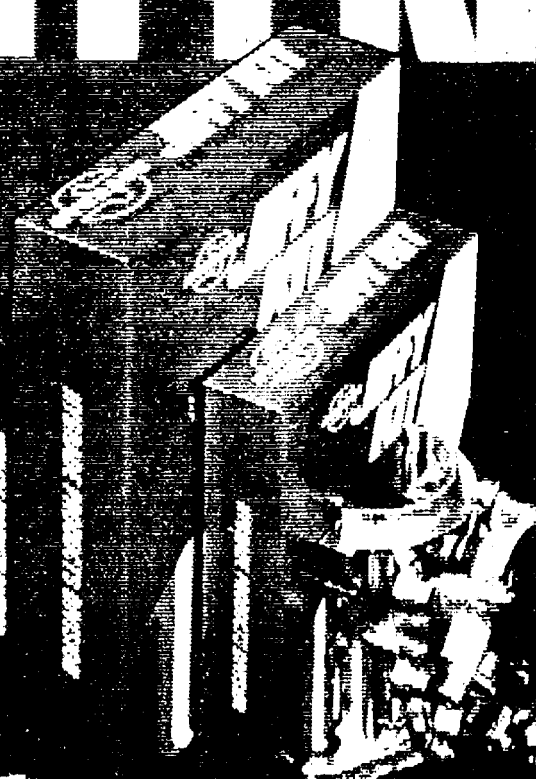

Two Brass Cranes Apparently Shoplifted

Two solid brass reproductions of cranes (birds) were reported stolen from Dayspring Gifts, 116 S. Main St., during the week before Christmas. The items were valued at more than $100. Chelsea police, who are investigating, are working on the presumption that the articles were shoplifted.

Sodium Facts Given in Free Consumers Folder

Sodium is essential for life. But, many Americans have diets that include far more sodium than they need. High sodium intake is believed to be one of several factors contributing to high blood pressure, which in turn can lead to heart disease and stroke. But, luckily, there are many ways to lower your sodium.

To help you find the easiest ways to moderate sodium in your diet, the Department of Health and Human Services has a new, free pamphlet that includes information on how much sodium you need, categories of food and their sodium levels, and different ideas for cutting sodium intake. To get your free copy of Sodium, write to the Consumer Information Center, Dept. 529L, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

Salt is the most common form of sodium in your diet. But you can learn to recognize other ingredients that contain sodium. These include soy sauce, salt brine, and any ingredient with sodium of soda in its name, such as monosodium glutamate or baking-soda.

A good step toward increasing your awareness of how much salt you are eating is to read the labels when you shop. Even when the amount of sodium isn't on the label, remember that the ingredients are listed in order of amount, from most to least. By reading the label, you will at least be able to compare sodium with the other ingredients.

Canned foods and other processed foods generally contain large amounts of sodium. Frozen foods are lower in sodium and fresh foods usually have the lowest sodium content of all.

When you're cooking at home, try gradually cutting the amount of salt you use in your favorite recipes until you've gotten it down to half or less. You weren't born with a preference for salt, and it can be unlearned.

Consider the sodium content of all the ingredients in a recipe. For instance, if you use cured meat, dehydrated or canned soup, processed cheese or canned vegetables in a dish, you may not need to add any salt. And if one part of your meal is high in salt, balance that with low-sodium side dishes. To cook with less sodium, get creative with the condiments such as lemon juice, paprika, pepper, curry, or dill. Try using onion and garlic powder rather than onion or garlic salt.

And when you're eating out, ask to have your food prepared without added salt where possible.

When you order Sodium, (free) you'll also receive a free copy of the Consumer Information Catalog. Published quarterly by the Consumer Information Center of the General Services Administration, the Catalog lists over 200 selected free and moderately priced federal consumer booklets.

Master Gardener Program Offered To Limited Group

If you are interested in learning how to improve your gardening and communication skills while helping others, the Master Gardener program is for you.

Washtenaw Co-operative Extension Service is looking for a few enthusiastic people to participate in a 10-week training program. Subjects covered provide technical knowledge in all facets of gardening — vegetables, houseplants, trees and shrubs, fruit and lawns. At the conclusion of the class, students must pass a comprehensive test.

Meetings are held for 10 consecutive Tuesdays starting Feb. 1 through April 5 in the Washtenaw County Service Center. Class times are 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. with an hour break for a sack lunch. The fee is $30, including materials.

To apply for the class, call 973-9510 and ask for a registration form. Enrollment is limited.

Administration. A file copy of the report form is provided which operators may complete and keep for their own records.

A time extension may be granted farmers who request it. Census results will be published for each state, and the nation. The first preliminary data will be released beginning in the fall of 1983.

The law which requires farmers and ranchers to report in the census also protects the privacy of their reports. Census report forms are confidential by law and they may be seen only by sworn Census employees and may be used only for statistical purposes. Even other government agencies cannot obtain or use the individual reports, and copies retained by the farmers are immune from the legal process.

Each report form will have a census file number (CFN) printed on the address label. If a report is not received for each file number, the Census Bureau will send out follow-up letters to all who have not responded.

Farmers and ranchers who have not received a form should request one from the Bureau of the Census, 1201 E. 10th St., Jeffersonville, Ind. 47133.

SPORTS
NOTES

BY BILL MULLENDORE

The basketball season resumes this week for Chelsea and Dexter. Neither was involved in a holiday tournament. Dexter gets back into action tonight at Pinckney, while Chelsea will wait until Friday for a home game against Saline.

Nothing that has happened so far suggests that the rest of the season will be any different from what was predicted before it started. There will be "upsets" galore, and the eventual winner of the Southeastern Conference championship will be the team that breaks even on the road while keeping control of its own gym.

Based on what I have seen so far, I would bet that a 9-3 record in SEC play will be good enough to win the league title, and 8-4 might do it. If there is a stand-out team clearly superior to the other six, it hasn't emerged as yet. Nobody looks to be capable of dominating Dexter did last year.

Michigan sits on top of the SEC standings right now, but a non-league loss before the holiday break suggests that the Big Reds are vulnerable. The title is still clearly up for grabs. The eventual winner will be the team that wants it most, because there is not all that much difference in talent among the seven. There haven't been any blow-outs in the six games played so far. Four were decided by six points or fewer. A six-point game is anybody's game until the final buzzer sounds. Six points can be turned around in 30 seconds or less.

Throughout Michigan, some teams shoot for conference championships, some for high places in the "March madness" of the state tournament. The two goals are not necessarily compatible. A team that has played its heart out down the stretch of a tough league race may not have enough physical and emotional energy left to get "up" for the tournament.

A team that has come along slowly and compiled an undistinguished regular season record may peak at tournament time and surprise everybody. A lot of past regional champions have gone into the tourney with season marks like 13-8.

Honestly, I don't see any SEC team with regional title potential. Having written that, I realize I may be forced to eat my words come March, and hope I am.

Back to Chelsea and Dexter—

Both have problems, but they are different.

Chelsea's biggest immediate problem was created by whomever put together a schedule which requires that the Bulldogs play six of their first eight games away from home. That is asking a lot of any basketball team. The fact that they came through the first four with a 3-1 record—the lone defeat an overtime loss at Dexter—suggests that the team has character. If they get through the next four and are 6-2, or even 5-3, they will have to be considered as being "for real."

Beyond that, the Bulldogs must regain their shooting touch which they lost in their game at Dexter. You don't win many basketball games hitting only 38 percent from the floor (including just over 25 percent in the first half) and 58 percent from the free-throw line.

The basic aim of the game is to put the ball through the hoop. If you don't hit on about half your floor attempts and three-fourths from the line, you are probably going to lose, no matter what else you do well.

Dexter's problem is to overcome its inexperience, which it seemingly had done in its victory over Chelsea while battling the veteran Bulldogs on even terms down the stretch of a very tough and tight ball game, then pulling out the win in overtime.

Four days later the young Dreadnaughts were wiped off the court by Willow Run. The Flyers are very good, no doubt about it, and they showed Dexter some things they hadn't seen before. Instead of reacting and adjusting, the Dreadnaught players just sort of stood around and watched. Tough teams aren't beaten by 40 points by anybody.

Dexter showed it can be very competitive in its win over Chelsea and its narrow losses to Williamston and Saline. The next few games will require, in effect, that the real Dreadnaught team please stand up.

Cager of the Week

Mary Boylan
Will Study in Italy
With College Class

Mary Boylan, a sophomore at Sienna Heights College in Adrian and a 1981 Chelsea High school graduate, will spend her spring semester in Florence, Italy studying art history, drawing, and photography as part of the college's Italian culture class.

She and her class will leave Jan. 28, fly into Brussels, take the train to Rome for a five-day visit, which includes an audience with Pope John Paul II, and then spend several months in Florence, with a side trip to Venice.

Students spent fall term preparing for their visit, ending their term with an Italian Christmas celebration featuring Christmas music, a decorated studio, and Christmas meal of minestrone, salad, cannelloni, wine and Italian desserts for 100 guests.

Miss Boylan played the part of Befana, the warm-hearted Italian Christmas witch in the pageant. According to legend, the wisemen stopped at the witch's house on their way to Bethlehem.

Befana said she had too much housework to go along with them, but asked them to visit on their return. They went back to their homelands a different way, and Befana is still awaiting their arrival.

During the six days before Epiphany on Jan. 6, Befana searches from home to home for the wisemen, leaving sweets for good children and lumps of coal for the naughty.

Senior Center
Compiling List of Temporary Help

A Chelsea senior citizen just home from the hospital needed temporary help with her housework, but had a hard time finding someone to do it.

That was the impetus for Chelsea seniors to establish a resource list of persons available for tasks such as temporary house cleaning, laundry, snow shoveling and driving.

Seniors needing such services may use the list to contact those on it. It will be the senior's responsibility to interview and hire from the list, which is intended to be just a helpful starting point.

Anyone who would like to be listed should call the senior center at North school, 475-9242 from 1 to 4 p.m. and ask for Treva Winans. She will take names, phone numbers, and skills.

Alcohol-related crashes are the leading cause of death for young Americans, between 16 and 24 years of age.

Horse Science Course
Set in January, February

The 1983 Area Horse Science Short Course for Washtenaw county and the surrounding area will be held at the Washtenaw Community College Main Campus during the months of January and February. The short course is sponsored jointly by Michigan State University, the Washtenaw Co-operative Extension Service and Washtenaw Community College. The following topics will be discussed:

Session One: Jan. 11, Breeding and Foaling—Breeding management of mares and stallions along with foaling and the care of the mare and foal afterbirth will be covered by Dr. Ken Gallagher, extension veterinarian, Large Animal Clinical Services, Michigan State University.

Session Two: Jan. 18, Selecting a Sound Horse—Things to look for when selecting a horse for breeding or pleasure. Topics included will be blemishes, unsoundness, and indicators of an existing disease problem. Dr. Art Orthenburer, resident equine clinician, Large Animal Clinical Science, Michigan State University.

Session Three: Jan. 25, Disease and Parasites—Sanitation, disease prevention/control will be presented for the most common diseases in horses. Parasites and their control will be discussed by Dr. Leslie Personett, resident equine clinician, Large Animal Clinical Sciences, Michigan State University.

Session Four: Feb. 1, Horse First Aid—This session is devoted to the common injuries of horses, simple first aid you can do and what to do until the veterinarian arrives. Dr. Dorothy Almsworth, resident equine clinician, Large Animal Clinical Sciences, Michigan State University.

Session Five: Feb. 8, Michigan State Extension Programs—Extension sponsored events and schools you can participate in will be presented by Dr. Dick Dann, extension specialist in horse science, Michigan State University. Equine Nutrition: Digestive system of the horse and how it influences nutritional requirements and feeding practices; the effects of functions on the nutritional requirements of the horse and suitable feeds will be discussed by Dr. Mark Russell, extension equine specialist, Purdue University.

Anyone 14 years of age and older having an interest in horses is welcome to register and attend these classes. Local counties will be given first priority in registration. There is room for 200 people.

Registration fee for each person attending is $20 for all five sessions. The fee covers the programs, a printed notebook, printed materials and refreshments. The fee for those not wanting the notebook is $15.

Please contact the Washtenaw Co-operative Extension Service for the registration form. If you have any questions, please ask for Bill Ames, Extension Agriculture Agent. The number is (313) 973-9510.

OUT IN THE OPEN

By BILL MULLENDORE

(Note: This is the second in a series of columns on how to keep warm out in the open in cold weather.)

If your budget for cold-weather outdoor clothing is limited and you can't afford to splurge on one item, invest your money in underwear. That makes sense if only because you will put on the same underclothing for every winter venture outdoors. Whatever else you wear will depend on where you are going and what you will be doing, and on weather conditions the day that you do it. Other things vary; underwear stays the same. Buy the best, and it will pay off many-fold in warm comfort.

Like everything else in outdoor (and indoor) clothing offered for sale, these days, winter underwear comes in all kinds of fabrics (both straight and mixed) and knits and weaves. It's not easy to decide what is best for you. Here are some tips on making up your mind: First, take inventory of your personal peculiarities. Can you tolerate wool next to your skin? Some people find it too scratchy. Are you allergic to some materials, especially synthetics? (For example, nylon makes me itch.) Do you sweat a lot, even when not exercising? (If so, don't wear cotton, which soaks up and holds moisture.) And so on.

Whatever material and weave you eventually decide on, make sure the undergarments you choose have a "wicking" action which draws water away from your skin. Your body perspires continuously, and if your skin is damp you will be cold no matter how many clothes you are wearing.

You can spend $50 or more for a top-quality set of outdoor underwear, and it's worth the money. The cheap stuff sold in discount stores won't keep you warm. If you think $50 is too high, consider that you can wear the underclothing in your home, dial your thermostat down at least five degrees, and be comfortable while saving 15-25 percent of your fuel costs.

What layers of clothing you put on over the underwear depends on many factors that a book could be written about them all. Essentially, it comes down to what you will be doing once you step out the door. Active exercise like cross-country skiing, snowshoeing and rabbit hunting requires considerably less protection against cold than passive pursuits such as ice fishing and snowmobiling. A principle to remember is that you don't want to work up a sweat, which will make you cold regardless.

I like to don a layer of wool, a shirt or sweater and trousers, on top of my underwear, because of its survival value. Better than any other material, wool retains its warmth when wet. Should you get soaked unexpectedly, through some such mishap as breaking through thin ice, wool can make the difference in keeping your body temperature up long enough to let you reach shelter before hypothermia immobilizes you.

Your outer layer of cold-weather clothing should have a tight weave which will ward off the wind. "Wind chill" is not just a fancy term used by weather forecasters. It is a very cold reality. A 30-mile wind blowing on a 30-degree day means you must dress as if it were zero.

Snowmobilers and downhill skiers create their own wind-chill by the speeds at which they move, and so must take special care to have adequate clothing. Snowmobilers in particular are well advised to wear face masks or toques to protect against frostbite on cheeks and noses.

Head, hands and feet require special protection, and here again you should take into account your individual susceptibilities to cold. For instance, I always carry gloves but rarely put them on because, for some reason, my hands don't get cold except under extremely bitter conditions. My feet are another story. My blood circulation apparently ends at my ankles. And so I need to wear more on my feet than most people, and do.

Whatever you put on your hands and feet should fit loosely. Gloves and boots that pinch don't leave room for air to be trapped inside them, and body heat is the best of all insulators. Rubber, by itself, is perhaps the coldest of all materials. Don't put any faith in rubber boots or gloves unless they are lined and/or insulated.

It may be macho to go bareheaded in cold weather, but it is also foolish. About 30 percent of the heat your body generates escapes through your scalp. And your ears are your anatomy's most inviting target for frostbite. By all means wear a head covering of some sort if you want to be warm, and be sure it can be pulled down over the forehead, ears and back of the neck. The old-fashioned stocking cap is a very practical choice. A lined parka hood is fine up to a point, but can be too warm for comfort. Have the cap with you as an alternative.

Dressing for the outdoors gets complicated when what you intend to do involves both active and passive pursuits. Let's say you are going fishing out on the open ice, will walk 10 minutes to your favorite spot, cut half a dozen holes, and then sit for several hours. If you put on enough clothes to handle the sitting part, your skin will be dripping wet by the time you have finished the walking and hole-cutting, and you will be cold the rest of the day.

The solution? Carry your outer layer of clothing, and put it on after you have finished exercising.

For this purpose a daypack (frameless backpack) is handy. In it you can carry not only spare clothes but also whatever you take along to eat and drink, and other odds and ends of gear which don't fit conveniently into pockets. A daypack has dozens of year-around uses and belongs on every outdoorsman's list of essential equipment. In selecting a daypack, pick one out that has a capacity at least 25 percent greater than you think you need. You will find ways to fill it up, believe me.

Property Stolen From Home on Grossman Rd.

A break-in at 9800 Grossman Rd., Manchester, resulted in the theft of $2,045 worth of property to the renters who occupy the dwelling. The burglary occurred sometime after the occupants left for a Christmas holiday vacation, sheriff's deputies said.

Stolen were a cassette tape deck, turntable, five rings, a camera, a .22 caliber rifle, and a hunting knife and case.

VILLAGE OF CHELSEA

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

TAKE NOTICE that the Village Council of the Village of Chelsea shall hold a Public Hearing upon the application of CHELSEA MEDICAL CLINIC BUILDING CORPORATION, dated October 25, 1982, to establish (1) A PLANT REHABILITATION DISTRICT, and (2) AN INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT DISTRICT under the provisions of Public Act 198 of 1974 regarding lands between Main Street and McKinley Streets, North of the Conrail tracks, on the 4th day of Jan., 1983, at 7:30 o'clock in the evening in the Village Council Chambers, the Village Offices, East Middle Street, Chelsea, Michigan 48118. The application and supporting papers are on file with the Clerk of the Village Council and is open to inspection of the public during regular business hours at the Village Offices. All owners of real estate within the proposed Districts and any other resident or taxpayer of the Village of Chelsea shall have the right to appear and be heard.

VILLAGE OF CHELSEA

Frederick A. Weber, Deputy Clerk

DATED: Dec. 22, 1982.

Chelsea Village Council Proceedings

December 21, 1982 Regular Session.

The meeting was called to order at 7:30 p.m. by President Merkel.

Present: President Merkel, Clerk Rosentreter and Administrator Weber.

Trustees Present: Merkel, Riemenschneider, Keezer and Satterthwaite.

Trustees Absent: Chriswell and Radloff.

Others Present: Police Chief Aello, Fire Chief Hankerd, Frank Kornel, Jr., Civil Defense Director Robert Schantz, Helen Rybka, Henry Rybka, Shirley Nelson, Edith Kealy, Harry Kealy, Steven Dygert, Mr. and Mrs. Dygert.

The minutes of the regular meeting of December 7, 1982 were read.

Motion by Keezer, supported by Merkel, to approve the minutes as read. Roll call: Ayes all. Motion carried.

A public hearing was held on Tregets Tool & Engineering Company's application to rezone 2.25 acres along Old U.S. 12 to Industrial (I-2) from Residential (RS-1). (The property is the site of the old 2-Cycle fuel manufacturing company and is the last piece of property within the village along the north side of Old U.S. 12 W.)

Residents who own property in the area participated in a discussion with Council and Mr. George Dygert of Tregets Tool and Engineering Company. Mr. and Mrs. Rybka who have lived at their present address for twenty-seven years felt that the area should be left residential. Doug Stevens who does not have any interest in the property stated he supported the rezoning of the property for Tregets Tool and Engineering Company and would like to see the building renovated and keep industry in our village. Mr. and Mrs. Kealy who have lived at their present address for twenty-eight years stated they felt the area should be kept residential. George Dygert spoke in behalf of Tregets Tool and Engineering Company. He felt they can contribute to the village. The Dygerts presented a proposed sketch of the building and grounds after renovation. Mr. Dygert also stated that Tregets presently have five (5) shop employees and two (2) part-time office employees. He anticipates no more than ten employees in the future. Mr. Kealy stated he was concerned about other industries coming into the building if Tregets decided in the future to go out of business. It was decided, at this time, to table action on the rezoning request until more information is given to Council.

Fire Chief Hankerd submitted the Fire Department Report for the month of November 1982.

Clerk Rosentreter administered the Oath of Office to police officer Frank Kornel, Jr.

Motion by Keezer, supported by Riemenschneider, to accept the Treasurer's Report for the month of November 1982 as submitted. Roll call: Ayes all. Motion carried.

Motion by Keezer, supported by Riemenschneider, to accept the Budget Report for the month of November 1982 as submitted. Roll call: Ayes all. Motion carried.

Motion by Keezer, supported by Merkel, to set the date of January 18, 1983 for a public hearing on Proposed Zoning Amendment—An Ordinance to amend the Village of Chelsea Zoning Ordinance to provide for procedures contained in said ordinance. Pertinent to Special Land Uses and for Planned Unit Development . . . etc. Roll call: Ayes all. Motion carried.

Council reviewed Finkbeiner, Pettis and Strout transmittal letter to the Department of Natural Resources dated December 18, 1982 regarding the hearing schedule for the wastewater plant facility plan.

Motion by Satterthwaite, supported by Keezer, to authorize payment to Finkbeiner, Pettis and Strout in the amount of $12,503.04 for Facilities Planning and Pretreatment Program Assistance for the period of August 1, 1982 thru November 30, 1982. Roll call: Ayes all. Motion carried.

President Merkel appointed Lyle Chriswell as Legislative Coordinator.

Administrator Weber discussed meeting with the Department of Natural Resources on December 20, 1982 regarding the village's landfill license.

Motion by Keezer, supported by Satterthwaite, to appoint Herman Radloff to the Economic Development Committee to fill the unexpired term of John Popovich which expires in November 1987. Roll call: Ayes all. Motion carried.

Motion by Keezer, supported by Satterthwaite, to appoint Frederick Belser to another term of six years on the Economic Development Committee. Roll call: Ayes all. Motion carried.

President Merkel appointed Jeanene Riemenschneider to represent Council at the Recreation Council Skiing Festival on January 23, 1983.

Motion by Keezer, supported by Riemenschneider, to authorize payment of bills as submitted. Roll call: Ayes all. Motion carried.

Motion by Keezer, supported by Satterthwaite, to adjourn. Roll call: Ayes all. Motion carried. Meeting adjourned.

Evelyn Rosentreter, Village Clerk.

Skills Exchange Program Proposed

If you have a skill, such as woodworking, plumbing, baking bread or story telling that you'd like to swap for window washing, babysitting, or clarinet lessons, you may be interested in the proposed Chelsea Skills Exchange, being organized this winter.

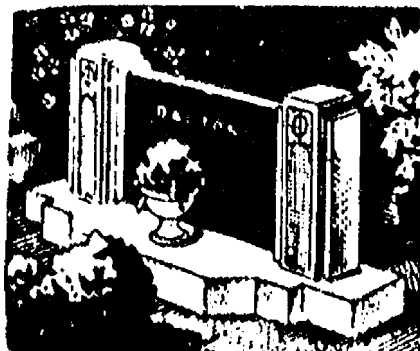

It would probably work by barter, said Barb Cherem, a Chelsea resident who is leading the organization of the exchange. In other parts of the country such exchanges have been used to pay college tuition. A ski-shop owner paid his son's $4,000 tuition at the University of Detroit by trading ski equipment for office supplies which the university needed. Other communities have used such a system to swap home repair, transportation, tutoring, and child care.

Ms. Cherem, who is doing graduate work at Eastern Michigan University in community education, would like volunteers to help her organize an exchange here. The group would work out details such as: would there be any cost to register a skill? who would screen applicants—the exchange or those requesting that skill? The group would also design forms for registrants.

Depending on demand, Ms. Cherem says the exchange could probably be stored in Community Education's word processor and she has made arrangements and contacts to use that data bank.

Anyone interested in the concept or willing to help set up such an exchange should call Ms. Cherem at 475-7000 from 4 to 6 p.m. Mondays or 10 a.m. to noon Tuesdays or Thursdays. Messages for her may also be left at the Community Education office, 475-9830, before Jan. 15. She will organize meeting times.

In 1981 Michigan farmers planted 3,400 acres to produce a $15.7 million crop of celery. Michigan's celery harvest of 144,000,000 pounds was third largest in the nation.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

ON PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO CHELSEA VILLAGE ZONING ORDINANCE

Notice is hereby given that the Chelsea Village Council will conduct a public hearing as the statute in such case provides for the amendment of the Chelsea Village Zoning Ordinance (Ordinance No. 79); that is:

An Ordinance to amend the Village of Chelsea Zoning Ordinance to provide for procedures contained in said Ordinance pertinent to "special and uses" and/or "planned unit developments," the administration of the Ordinance, standards for the exercise of discretionary authority, appeals to the Zoning Board of Appeals, improvements, barns, site plans, and conditions to be affixed to special and uses, planned unit developments, site plans, improvements, bonds, and discretionary action, and for violations of said Ordinance.

The aforesaid hearing will be held in the Council Room in the Chelsea Municipal Building on Tuesday, January 18, 1983, at 7:30 o'clock P.M., at which time all interested persons will be heard. The proposed amendment is on file in the office of the Village Administrator, and may be examined prior to the date of the hearing.

Card of Thanks 16

CARD OF THANKS
The 1982 holiday season was made so much more joyous for the 61 families in need, in the Chelsea school district, because so many families, groups, organizations and companies cared! Special thanks go to Class of '83 Chelsea High, Chelsea Suburbanites, Kiwanis Club of Chelsea. We also wish to especially thank those people who came to the Sylvan Town Hall and donated toys and food during the 40 days we were setting up.
Chelsea Social Service.

CARD OF THANKS
We would like to express our sincere appreciation to our many friends and relatives for the beautiful flowers, donations made to the Michigan Cancer Society, cards, visits, phone calls and food prepared and brought to us during the time of the loss of our wife, mother and grandmother, Dollie Gullett. Words cannot express what we feel in our hearts. A special thank you to Pastor O'Dell for his calls and help in our hours of sorrow; Dr. Nixon and the wonderful 5th floor nurses at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital. This kind of help and support makes the loss of our loved one a little easier to bear. We love you all and may God bless each and every one of you.
Woodrow Gullett, husband.
Mrs. David (Willadean) Miles, daughter.
Rex Miles, grandson.
Lori Miles, granddaughter.

CARD OF THANKS
I would like to thank all my friends, for their prayers, cards, gifts, telephone calls, plants and all the good food brought in, since my accident. It is deeply appreciated. God bless you all.
Leone Weber.

CARD OF THANKS
Thanks to my family and friends for their prayers, cards and kindness of gifts to me during my recent hospital stay and convalescence. A special thanks for the Christmas cookies left in my mailbox. The card apparently blew away. It brought me some sunshine and good feelings.
Thank you.
Emma Neibauer.

Classes Scheduled On Cooking With Natural Foods

"Cooking With Whole Foods" is a delicious way of providing an inexpensive and nutritionally sound diet, and is the name of a series of workshops and classes offered by Chelsea Community Education. Beginning the week of Jan. 17, Teresa Freed will teach four workshops and one six-week class dealing with the various aspects of whole food cookery. Teresa, who writes and publishes a monthly newsletter called The Foodletter, will be able to help participants make some sense of the conflicting nutritional information that is available. Delicious food samples and recipes will be included in all fees.

The six-week class titled "Whole Food Concepts and Techniques" is designed for newcomers to whole food cookery. Participants will learn how small changes in daily meal preparation can provide big improvements in their nutritional value—along with substantial savings in the food bill! This class will meet on Tuesdays from 7-8:30 p.m. (beginning Jan. 18) and Wednesdays from 3:45-5:15 p.m. (beginning Jan. 19) in the Chelsea High School Home Economics Room. Fee for the course is $17.

The workshops are designed for beginners and those with more advanced knowledge of good nutrition who would like to explore whole food cookery in more detail. All workshops will meet from 9 a.m. to noon on the specified date in the Chelsea High School Home Economics Room.

The first workshop, titled "In the Beginning . . ." is for those who are intrigued but bewildered by the health food store. Participants will be shown various whole foods and will learn how to buy them, store them, and introduce them to their families in favorite dishes. The workshop will meet on Saturday, Jan. 22.

"It's Soup!" is the name of the second workshop, which will meet on Saturday, Feb. 5. Participants will learn how to use leftovers and other odds and ends in making thick and flavorful soups.

The third workshop titled "Breads!" will explore making good whole grain breads. Making your own delicious breads is a wonderful way to raise the nutritional content of meals and lower your food bills. The workshop will meet on Saturday, March 5.

The last workshop in the series is called "A Family Affair." Attempting to change eating habits is difficult without the support of family members, so this workshop will focus on ways of encouraging their support. By communicating the why and how of good food habits, it is possible to get children and spouses involved in selecting and preparing their healthy food choices. This workshop will meet on Saturday, March 26.

The workshops are $6.50 each, or you may register for the series of four for $24. Register for the workshops and six-week class through Chelsea Community Education at (313) 475-9830.

Mailboxes Knocked Down on Sycamore

Five mailboxes were knocked down by vandals in the 2000 block of Sycamore St. in Chelsea over the weekend, village Police Chief Robert Aello reported. Aello said the boxes apparently were broken off by hand and that there was no indication a vehicle was involved.
