

School Board OKs Energy Management Computer

Chelsea school board approved a bid for a $64,950 energy management system computer at their Jan. 17 meeting.

The computer, made by Johnson Controls, Systems and Service Division, will monitor heat but have the capability to also control electricity and security in the future, said Fred Mills, assistant superintendent.

The system's cost will be split between surplus funds from the school's 1980 federal energy conservation measures grant and the maintenance millage, said Mills.

Payback time for total cost is expected to be 1.8 years.

The school district budgeted $205,000 for natural gas and $134,000 for electricity for the 1982-83 school year, said Mills. The district's goal is to "hold the line" on energy costs, he said, "the best anyone can do these days."

The computer will control heating costs with a pre-programmed, fine-tuned heating schedule and heating by zones within a building instead of by whole building, said Mills.

In the early morning, the computer will warm-up classrooms, and be set for cool-down at 3:30 p.m. If one wing of the building has a meeting scheduled, that wing would stay warm, while the rest of the school is cool.

The computer can be programmed to adjust to weekends, daylight savings time, holidays, weekly meetings and even leap year, said Mills. Once it is programmed, little has to be done.

Control points will be established in the four schools and connected by telephone to the computer at the high school. Mills has chosen 65 points now and the computer is capable of handling 324 points—allowing for future expansion to control electricity and security.

The computer has a built-in alarm system. If a thermostat won't respond to the computer's directions because of equipment problems, a console light will go on and the location identified in a message on the computer's printer.

If no one responds to the message within 10 minutes, the computer gets on the telephone. It runs through a list of five telephone numbers and would play a pre-recorded message to the answerer, such as Ron Joseph, who is in charge of buildings and grounds, or Mills.

That way they would know Friday night or Saturday morning the heat had gone off on a winter week-end instead of being surprised by frozen pipes Monday morning.

Government funds are to be used only to control heating costs, said Mills, so the school will have to add electrical or security controls later. That way school officials would know a machine or lights had been left on or someone had forgotten to lock a door after an evening event.

Electronic pilot lights could eventually be installed on the schools' water heaters, he said, so the high school's 1,500 gallon water heater could cool down some over the week-end and warm up again for Monday morning.

Each building would have a manual over-ride, he said, which would be important in emergencies or if something happened to the computer.

The high school should be on-line at the end of March, he said, and the rest of the buildings by the end of April.

The federal government had to approve the district's use of surplus grant funds, said Mills, before school officials were allowed to write specifications and examine bids on the system.

That time lag unfortunately delayed the computer system until the worst of the winter of 1982-83 is over, he said.

ONE HUNDRED-THIRTEENTH YEAR—No. 34

CHELSEA, MICHIGAN, TUESDAY, JANUARY 25, 1983

18 Pages This Week

TESTING: Mel Leach, superintendent of Chelsea's sewage treatment plant, tests samples taken from the hundreds of thousands of liquid gallons which run through the facility each day. The plant operates at over capacity much of the time, and needs to be enlarged. A $4.5 million expansion program is proposed.

Village Has Plan For Sewage Plant Update, Expansion

Chelsea has a plan to modernize and expand its overworked wastewater treatment system. All the village needs now is $4,543,600 to do the job.

The Village Council has approved payment of $12,503.04 to the Toledo, O., consulting engineering firm of Finkbeiner, Pettis & Strout for work done since Aug. 1 in preparing the plan.

If all goes well, Chelsea will get financial help from federal and state grants. However, those sources of funds are drying up as government money becomes scarcer because of policy changes and depressed economic conditions.

Chelsea will have to get in line, wait, and hope.

"We have to submit a plan," village administrator Frederick A. Weber explained. "We now have a draft plan in hand from our consultants. The next step is to hold a local public hearing, which will probably be scheduled toward the end of March. What happens after that will depend on the results of the hearing."

Chelsea's problem is that the village has outgrown its wastewater treatment plant, located off McKinley St. at the northeast edge of town. The plant has a capacity of 600,000 gallons a day, and on some days receives more than 800,000 gallons.

When there is more than 600,000 gallons, the excess is dumped untreated into Letts Creek.

Overflows occur just about every time it rains or thaws. Chelsea has two supposedly separate drainage systems—one for storm (surface) water, one for sanitary sewage. Storm water, which is supposedly non-polluting, drains directly into Letts Creek; sanitary sewage is piped to the treatment plant.

The contents of the two systems intermingle whenever there is a heavy surface water runoff. The village sewer system is old and full of leaks, and there are unknown but large numbers of illegal tap-ins.

Loads at the treatment plant have approached 850,000 gallons on some especially wet days, and the plant lacks the capacity to handle them.

The plant utilizes the so-called "activated sludge" method of treatment. Liquid sewage is kept constantly agitated and exposed to air so that bacteria can work to break it down. Solids settle to the bottom of the aerating tanks, are collected and "baked." The dried-out residue is hauled away for use as fertilizer. Remaining liquid, which is fairly clear water, is dosed with chlorine and aluminum sulphate and then emptied into Letts Creek.

What the village's engineering consultants have proposed is, basically, more of the same. The plan calls for constructing a series of "oxidation ditches," a concept not easy to grasp unless you can imagine a ditch in the form of a round pond with an island in the center.

The idea is that wastewater would be mechanically moved around the ditches (ponds) in a kind of race-track motion, and aerated. Solids would settle out and be collected.

As projected, the plan would take care of Chelsea's sewage treatment requirements until the year 2005, provided that the village sewer system is also repaired and updated.

All that is needed is a little more than 4½ million dollars.

New Uniforms Ordered For High School Band

Those 30-year old uniforms which the Chelsea High school marching band wears and which are so threadbare seams split are to be retired.

Chelsea school board approved a bid of $29,607 made by the DeMoulin Company for 150 marching band uniforms and 50 freshman band concert blazers and turtle-neck sweaters at their Jan. 17 meeting.

The board had budgeted $6,000 each of the past four years to replace the uniforms, said Bill Gourley, chairman of the music department and high school band director, after former band director Steve Bergman told them new uniforms were needed.

That long-range planning helped cut costs, said Gourley, because the district will get a six percent discount for paying cash, lowering the total cost to $27,830.58, which is within budget with another $6,000 from the 1983-84 year.

Although that may seem like a lot of money for uniforms, Gourley says these new uniforms should last another 25-30 years, and it's not cost effective in the long run to buy cheaper, less durable uniforms.

Durability is especially desirable in a marching band uniform, he said, since they get rained on, snowed on, students sometime have to kneel in mud during routines and they have to last through bleacher wear and tear.

The marching band uniforms, which were designed by a committee of school officials, music boosters, band student council members and Gourley, look like something a band in "The Music Man" musical would wear, said Gourley.

The fabric is a wool-dacron blend. The uniform consists of a hat with gold plume, short blue jacket trimmed with gold braid, a gold cummerbund and sash with a blue C, white gloves, and blue pants with a gold stripe. Only shoes have to be provided by the students.

Freshman band students will wear marching band pants, and a blue blazer with a gold C near the lapel, and gold turtle-neck dummies.

Students will be fitted for general sizes this week. The pants and coat cuffs have a four-inch hem for substantial leeway in fitting different students.

Students are issued a clean uniform, said Gourley, and are required to return them clean, which makes the uniforms last longer.

Bands wear uniforms the same reason sports teams and armies wear them, he said. Uniforms create pride and a group-team feeling. A uniformed student tries to represent his school well.

When students get their first uniforms, he said, one can see their excitement.

The marching band is known as "The Pride of Chelsea." Considering their consistently high district and state rankings, one understands why.

SEWAGE TREATMENT IN PROCESS: Cal Penix, an employee at the Chelsea sewage treatment plant, watches one of the activated sludge tanks in which sewage is kept stirred up and exposed to air so bacteria can work to break it down. Solids settle to the bottom, and the treated liquid is piped into Letts Creek.

Winter Carnival Planned by Legion

Pre-dawn ice fishing, a euchre tournament, a dance and music will be featured at Chelsea American Legion's 10th annual Winter Carnival to be held the week-end of Feb. 4-6 at the Legion Post on Cavanaugh Lake, 1700 Ridge Rd.

This event is the major fundraiser for the Legion, which sponsors local high school students to Boy's State and to the State Police Academy; Fourth of July activities, furnishes the flag and flagpole for Veteran's Park and flags for Memorial Day; and holds a Christmas program for handicapped and disadvantaged children.

The carnival officially begins at 6 p.m. Friday, Feb. 4. The euchre tournament, which has a $2 entry fee, begins that evening at 7:30 p.m.

The ice fishing derby with first, second, and third place prizes in perch, pike, and panfish begins at 7 a.m. Saturday, Feb. 5 at the lake. Adult entry fee is $2 and children 12 and under have a 25 cent entry fee.

Guided cross country skiing in Waterloo Recreation Area, starts from the Legion House at 1 p.m. for about two hours. From 2 to 5 p.m. sing-a-long or just listening piano music will be played on the upper deck, which features a panoramic view of the lake.

The carnival dance begins at 9 p.m. on the upper deck and features the Danny Dee Band and a buffet. Tickets, $10 per couple, should be purchased in advance. The lower level will be open to non-dancers.

Ice fishing continues at 8 a.m. Sunday, Feb. 6. A free concert will be given by Simms, Ruby and Kanten on the upper deck from 2 to 5 p.m., and children are welcome to attend. The fishing derby ends at 5 p.m. and prizes will be awarded at 5:30 p.m. The carnival will officially end at 6 p.m.

Snowmobilers are welcome and refreshments will be served throughout the day.

United Way Elects Board of Directors

Chelsea United Way has received $47,413 in payments and pledges toward its 1982 goal of $50,000 as of its annual meeting Jan. 19, said Robert Porter, United Way president.

Since administrative and campaign costs were less than budgeted and interest earnings higher than expected, he said, Chelsea United Way could still afford to fully fund the 39 agencies it supports.

Thanks to community support, he said, Chelsea United Way can continue its work.

At the meeting a new board of directors was elected. Serving terms expiring in January of 1984 are: Clare Warren, William Wescott, Calvin C. Summers, James Stacey, vice-president, Scott Tanner, Maxwell G. Sweet, treasurer, and Carol Kvarnberg, a new member.

Serving terms expiring in January of 1985 are Robert Porter, president, Laura Schieb-Bledron, secretary, Veretta Whitaker, James Brown, Barbara Haist, Sandie Mayer, and Sam Vogel, a new board member.

New board members Clinton Beckwith, Cindy Harrison, Gloria Mitchell, Betty Cox, Faye Frederick, Dave McAllister, and Lawrence Dietle are serving terms which expire in January of 1986.

RADIO PERSONALITY BUD GUEST was the featured speaker at Chelsea Community Hospital Auxiliary's annual meeting Jan. 22. For more than a quarter century he told light-hearted anecdotes on WJR's "On the Sunny Side of the Street." A former Detroit Free Press city editor and son of poet Edgar A. Guest, Bud Guest has been entertaining on the banquet circuit more than 20 years. He now lives in Troy and has an 80-acre farm in the Thumb area. Just after he told stories for the auxiliary audience, he posed with Carol van Reesema, outgoing auxiliary president.

WHAT SHOULD THE DECEASED WEAR?

Clothing helps to express the unique characteristics of an individual. Even in death, clothing can convey the special personality of the deceased. In planning of funeral details, the matter of clothing for the deceased should not be overlooked. Has there been a request in the past from the deceased concerning his or her own feelings? Sometimes a uniform of office or volunteer leadership has been requested, because of the significance to the deceased. Medals and jewelry may be considered to complete uniform or dress.

Is clothing worn by the deceased during lifetime appropriate? By all means. A suit or dress which was a particular favorite of the deceased — or the survivor — may be the prime consideration.

We invite your questions and will answer them privately or publicly through this column.

MICHIGAN MIRROR

By Warren M. Hoyt, Secretary, Michigan Press Association

Solutions Being Offered To Solve Budget Problems
New Democratic Governor James J. Blanchard has started to chip away at the state's budget problems with an indefinite delay on $509.1 million in aid payments to local governments and schools over the next two months, and an overall freeze in state jobs.

Meanwhile, legislative leaders are calling for a unified effort by all involved to immediately solve the state's soaring budget problems of over $750 million in deficits which could go as high as $1.9 billion considering cash flow problems and past accounting procedures.

One leader, namely Senate Majority Leader William Faust of Westland, has gone as far as offering a solution by proposing a 43 percent increase in the personal income tax rate—from the current 4.6 percent to 6.6 percent. That proposal could raise an additional $1 billion during the remainder of the current fiscal year.

Faust said that raising the state income tax is the quickest way to "pump money into state coffers to shore up the quality of life in Michigan."

He added the state's grave economic situation demands that the Legislature take action to get the state's house in order so as not to experience bankruptcy or default and maintain the current bond rating.

Newly elected House Speaker Representative Gary Owen of Ypsilanti declared that Michigan faces the most difficult time in its history and called upon the Legislature to show courage to "do what we're elected to do . . . lead and represent the people and not to follow."

While the Legislature was posturing on possible tax hikes, Blanchard was taking the hiring freeze and payment delay actions.

In making the announcement, he said the hold on aid payments will preserve options to reduce spending in those areas as well as give the state badly needed cash and the hiring freeze is only a preview of over-all job reductions.

The governor said deferrals in other grant payments may also be necessary.

"I understand that the deferrals I have ordered may cause severe problems and I regret that. Nevertheless, I am absolutely convinced these steps are indeed necessary as the first steps in facing the budget crisis."

Affected in the deferrals are payments of $67.7 million each on Jan. 15 and Feb. 15 to colleges and universities, $14 million in degree grants to private colleges, $216 million on Feb. 1 for K-12 schools and $33.2 million on Feb. 1 to townships and counties and $110.5 million on Feb. 28 in revenue sharing to those units as well as cities and villages.

Only about $55 million of the deferrals are constitutionally earmarked funds which must eventually be paid.

Blanchard said the payment deferrals, a device employed last year by former Governor William G. Milliken when the state ran short of cash, could turn out to be cuts.

The hiring freeze will cap state employment at about 59,500 and Blanchard said he does not expect that level to be exceeded during his tenure as governor.

"I want to make it plain that it is my firm conviction that we cannot solve our budget crisis without further reductions in the total number of state employees," Blanchard said.

Bait & Tackle Shop Opens in Sylvan Center

The Bluegill Bait & Tackle Shop has opened in Sylvan Center under the operation of Dick and Helen Scripser. It is located at 1008 Fährner Rd. just west off Old US-12.

The business handles a full line of live bait for ice fishing, including various sizes of minnows ranging from foot-long suckers to inch-long shiners, mousies, wax-worms and spikes.

Also available are selected tackle items, and the stock will be expanded as the business grows, Mrs. Scripser said.

Winter hours are 7 a.m. to 7 p.m., and will be extended during the warm weather months.

Richard Scripser, an employee of Federal Screw Works, has lived and fished in the west Washtenaw area for the past 30 years, and formerly assisted his father in the Cavanaugh Lake Bait Shop.

The Blue gill shop is set up in what used to be a chicken coop adjacent to the Scripser home. The building has been remodeled to include minnow tanks and associated plumbing, refrigerators and other equipment needed to keep live bait.

What's Cooking In Michigan...

By Margaret G. McCall
Michigan Dept. of Agriculture

The incredible edible egg is a valuable food source and an object of admiration. Package designers must envy Mother Nature's skill in designing such a distinctive useful package for this product.

Here in Michigan, production amounted to 1.54 billion eggs last year, an average of 244 eggs per hen. According to the Michigan Department of Agriculture, production was valued at nearly $70 million.

Refrigeration is so important to egg quality that Michigan law requires handlers to hold eggs at 60 degrees or lower until they are sold. Leaving a carton of eggs at room temperature for a day will age them more quickly than a week's refrigerator storage.

Eggs are fragile and should be cooked as gently as they are handled, using low heat. Eggs are a valuable ingredient in all sorts of recipes, and are versatile enough for main dishes.

Larousse Gastronomique describes more than 350 ways to cook and serve eggs, including a recipe for Princess Eggs: Serve poached eggs in puff pastry shells, covered with Sauce Supreme and garnished with asparagus spears and slivered chicken breast. You make the sauce by boiling 1 cup chicken broth until reduced by half, gradually adding 1/2 cup heavy cream.

A do-ahead egg dish which is a favorite of mine is Strata: Cube eight slices of bread after removing the crusts. Place in a two-quart shallow buttered casserole, top with 1/2 pound grated cheddar cheese and 1 pound diced cooked ham. Beat together 4 eggs and 2 cups milk, add 1 teaspoon salt, dash of nutmeg and pepper. Pour over the casserole, refrigerate overnight, covered. Bake at 350 degrees about one hour.

2,000 HOUR VOLUNTEERS: Chelsea Community Hospital Auxiliary honored three volunteers who had more than 2,000 hours of service during 1982 at the auxiliary's annual meeting Jan. 22. That's almost 40 hours a week. Mary Carr, left, has worked in the auxiliary's Arbor Nook Gift Shop since it opened more than two years ago. She is a former buyer for the shop and helps in hospital services, where volunteers do tasks such as take patients menus, escort them to therapy, and deliver flowers. Ruby Strieter, center, was president of the volunteers for six years, was chairman of the information desk and worked there during 1982, and also worked in hospital services. Ralph Fairchild worked evenings and week-ends at the information desk, helped deaf patients communicate with sign language and helped with recreational therapy.

Volunteers Cited at Hospital Auxiliary Annual Meeting

Chelsea Community Hospital Auxiliary held their annual meeting Saturday, Jan. 22 at the hospital dining room to install new officers, honor volunteers and hear Bud Guest reminisce about his years with WJR.

Volunteers gave a total of 17,138 hours service during 1982 in the following areas: patient service, in-service, Arbor Nook Gift Shop, information desk, ways and means, community service, public relations and youth volunteer service.

Those who gave more than 2,000 hours during 1982 were Mary Carr, Ruby Strieter and Ralph Fairchild. They received a gift of a gold pin with hospital logo, set with a diamond.

Receiving 1,000 hour gold pins with three aquamarines were Ella Aldrich, Bonnie Boyer,

Play Group Forming For Area Mothers Of Young Children

Shari Thompson-Sacks, the mother of a 19-month-old child, would like to start a play group for Chelsea area mothers and their 1-2-year-old children.

Such a group would be a social opportunity for mothers and children to make new friends, she said. The group would meet once a week from 10 a.m. to noon in different members' homes.

While the children played, mothers could share ideas about nutrition, handling tantrums, or simply enjoy bag lunches together. The group would decide the weekly program.

Anyone interested in joining such a group, may contact Ms. Thompson-Sacks at 475-2310.

Village Bakery Sets March 1 for Reopening

The owners of the Village Bakery at 103 W. Middle St. have set March 1 as a target date for reopening their business which was badly damaged by fire on Jan. 14.

"I'm not sure we can make it, but we are going to try," said Mrs. Phyllis Muncer who operates the bakery with her husband, John.

"The (Farm Bureau) insurance company has been working very closely with us," Mrs. Muncer said. "We spent all last week taking bids from contractors and will be reviewing them later today with Dave Rowe (Farm Bureau agent)."

"I hope we can award a contract right away and get started. Then it's just a question of how long it takes to finish the work. The estimates we are getting are from six to eight weeks. We are hoping for six."

IRS Publication Offers Taxpayers Year-Round Tips

Taxpayers interested in getting many year-round tax tips, as well as having an early start on the upcoming tax return filing season, may obtain a copy of a new, free IRS publication, the Internal Revenue said.

The helpful Publication 910, "Taxpayer's Guide to IRS information and Assistance," is available by writing to the IRS, P.O. Box 7390, Dept. R, Washington, D.C. 20044.

Contained in Publication 910 are descriptions of services available to help taxpayers prepare their tax returns or to receive assistance with their returns. The booklet explains how to resolve questions on bills, letters, and notices from the IRS, and assists taxpayers with questions concerning their accounts and the status of refunds they expect.

Other items of interest in the publication are explanations on collection of taxes, examination of returns, and how to file an amended return. The guide describes many of the free publications that are most often requested by taxpayers, together with a handy order blank.

Mrs. Muncer said she and her husband are "insisting" that the job be done by a local contractor, because they believe they should do business in the community rather than go outside even if it meant saving a few dollars.

The reconstruction will involve extensive repairs to the wall behind the bakery counter and to the ceiling above it, both of which were badly burned in the early morning fire that apparently started in wiring behind the wall.

The floor, which was soaked with water during the fire department's successful effort to put out the blaze before it could spread into upstairs apartments and adjacent business places, may also need some repairs, Mrs. Muncer said.

Numerous items of equipment will have to be replaced.

Meanwhile, the tenants of two apartments over the bakery have moved back in after their quarters and belongings were deodorized and cleaned to rid them of smoke smell.

"We are just terribly thankful that no one was hurt in the fire and that it wasn't worse," Mrs. Muncer said. "We are looking forward to reopening a sparkling new place, and we want to do it as soon as possible."

The fire in the bakery broke out about 5 a.m. and was reported by an upstairs tenant who smelled smoke and ran to the police department to turn in the alarm. Village firemen got there in time to confine the blaze to the bakery interior. Had it gone unchecked for a few more minutes, the whole block of old buildings might have burned, a fire department spokesman said.

G. Johnson Honored On Retirement from Corrections Dept.

Gilford R. Johnson of Howard Rd. was honored with a retirement dinner Jan. 14 at the Sheraton Inn in Jackson for more than 30 years with the Michigan Department of Corrections.

Johnson began working in the department of corrections as a shop instructor in March of 1953 at Cassidy Lake Technical school. He became assistant superintendent there in 1956.

He was appointed regional supervisor for the then five camps in the northern Lower Peninsula in July of 1960 and was headquartered at Camp Lehman in Grayling. In 1962 he was transferred to Camp Pugsley in Kingsley and was supervisor there for six years. He returned to Cassidy Lake as superintendent, and then became deputy superintendent of the camp program, his most recent position.

More than 125 friends and relatives were there to wish him well at the dinner. Guests included his wife, Jinny; son, Perry, and daughters, Sally, Maggie, Sarah, and Nancy, who flew in from California for the occasion.

Joseph McMullen, director of prisoner services at Marquette Branch Prison, and John Andrews, supervisor of Camp Waterloo, co-emceed the party. Robert Brown, deputy director of the department of corrections, and Rudy Stahlberg, regional administrator, both came from Lansing to the event.

Ted Heath, a vocalist and counselor at Camp Waterloo, was accompanied by Bill Bailey's Band for entertainment. Bailey is a corrections specialist at the State Prison of Southern Michigan.

Women, particularly in lower socioeconomic classes, place high value on personal transmission of information. Additional factors associated with successful quitting are a strong commitment to change, the use of positive behavioral techniques, and reliable social support for quitting.

School Board Briefs

Present at a regular meeting of the Chelsea Board of Education Monday, Jan. 17, were Feeney, Schumann, Heller, Snyder, Dils, Grau, Comeau, Superintendent Van Meer, Assistant Superintendent Mills, Principals Williams, Conklin, Wojcik, Assistant Principal Vogel, Community Education Director Rogers, Athletic Director Nemeth, Adult Education Instructor John Groesser and his government class, guests.

Meeting called to order at 8 p.m. by President Ann Feeney. Board approved the minutes of the Jan. 3 meeting.

The Board of Education reviewed the election dates for the 1983 election.

Superintendent Van Meer reviewed how teachers meet the needs of students who fall into moderate or high-need categories based on the Michigan Assessment Tests.

Superintendent Van Meer reviewed the committee structure for the Talented and Gifted, indicating that a committee would be established in each building to determine the needs of that building. Additionally, a committee has been formulated to plan the co-ordination of students in elementary, middle and high schools.

Superintendent Van Meer reviewed the committee structure for computer instruction, indicating that a committee had been formulated to give recommendations as to program instruction. There will be release time for teachers participating on these committees.

Principal John Williams reviewed course proposals for 1983-84 in art, social studies, home economics, business, English and science. More details later.

Superintendent Van Meer updated the Board on current legislation, indicating that the primary task for the new Governor and his administration is to remove the $750 million deficit which is about a $1.6 billion deficit if you take cash flow into account.

The Board approved the high school graduation date of June 12 at 3 p.m. and the adult education graduation date of June 16, 8 p.m.

The Board approved a leave of absence, without pay, for Ann Crowley, a high school language teacher. This leave follows a childbirth and will begin the second semester.

The Board approved the purchase of an energy management system and accepted the bid of Johnson Controls, Systems and Service Division, of $84,950 for a JC-85/10 Energy Management System. Fifty percent of the funds are provided by the grant which the district recently received, and 50% of the funds are from the maintenance millage. The energy management system is a computerized system for controlling heat.

The Board approved the purchase of band uniforms from DeMoulin Company. The purchase includes 150 marching band uniforms and 50 concert coats and T-neck sweaters for the freshman band. Low bid was $29,607.00. In each of the past four years, $6,000 has been budgeted to replace the band uniforms. With an anticipated cash discount, the item is within the budget.

The meeting adjourned at 9:25 p.m.

Allowable as income tax deductions are the cost of vasectomies, legal abortions, and cosmetic surgery even though these were not performed to improve health of the individual or as part of general medical treatment for an illness.

Laid Off Workers Offered Late Night Course at WCC

A group of 15 laid off area workers will receive accelerated training in numerical control at Washtenaw Community College through a special late-night program funded by CETA.

The program, set to run 11 p.m. to 5 a.m. weekdays from Jan. 18 through July 8, will put carefully selected applicants through rigorous occupational training normally taking at least a year. The program will prepare students for careers in numerical control, which involved the programming of industrial machines through computers.

Funding for the program will come from an $87,000 CETA (Comprehensive Employment Training Act) grant the College received in December. Along with tuition, students will be paid a minimum wage stipend for the hours spent in class.

To qualify for the program, applicants had to be CETA eligible, have an aptitude for math and have had some training as a machinist or in a related field. The program is a joint venture of Washtenaw County CETA and City of Ann Arbor TEC.

Classes will be held in the TC Building on WCC's main campus at 4800 E. Huron River Dr.

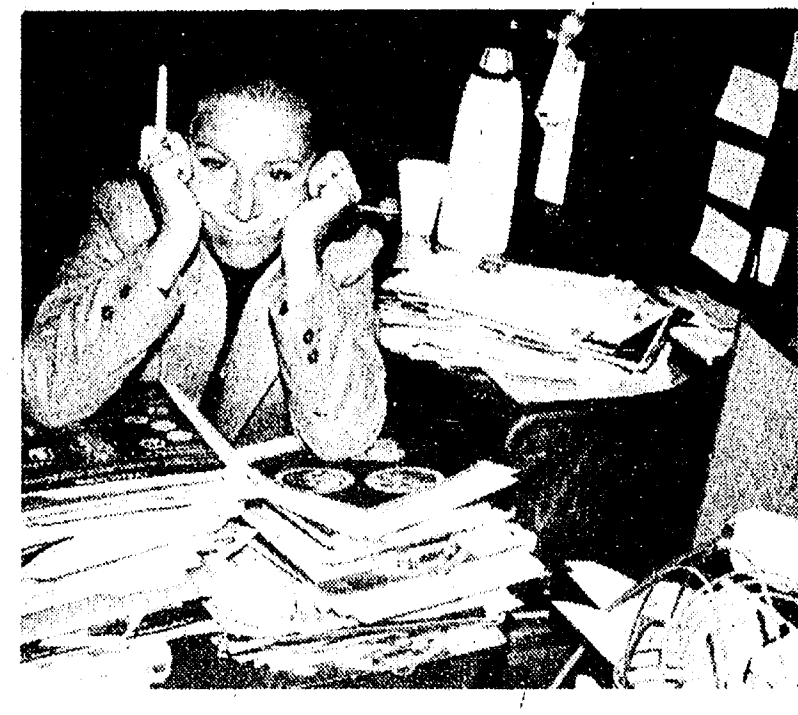

For more information, call Marcia D. Harrison, WCC coordinator for occupational training programs and CETA 973-3598.

Taxpayers who use their personal automobiles for business charitable work, medical transportation or to move their family or household may be eligible for a mileage deduction. Three different rates per mile may apply, depending on the purpose of the trip.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Would you like to get a $4,000 salary increase on top of your $31,000 salary? Well, that's what our legislators will get automatically on Feb. 2, to take effect in 1983, if we all do nothing. They don't even have to vote to get this raise. At a time when our state is experiencing severe unemployment and the threat of even higher taxes, our legislators are getting ready for another layer of feathers in their nests!

What can we do about this situation?

First write immediately to your State Representative and State Senator protesting this automatic increase. Tell our politicians they'd better learn to live on what they have for the time being like the rest of us.

Secondly, do you realize that Michigan and four other states are the only ones who have full-time legislators? If you observed their three-day week and hours of business, I don't think you'd even consider it full-time work, but the pay certainly is full-time.

The time has come to start circulating petitions for a part-time legislature. This idea is never going to come from the legislators themselves no matter how much pressure we put on them. I think if they had to live in the real world most of the time, they'd understand the predicament of the average taxpayer and be less inclined to consider raising taxes to get their raise. Everyone else is wondering if they'll even have a job next week, or perhaps are faced with a cut in salary to keep their job.

Christine Crowner,
Saline.

To the Editor:

Hooray for newly elected County Commissioner Martin Struab! At the first meeting of the County Board of Commissioners, Marty had several victories:

1. He was elected vice-chairman of the Ways and Means Committee.

2. Herman Koenn, nominated by Marty, is now a County Road Commissioner.

Keep up the good work, Marty! Margaret O'Connor, State Representative.

New Singles Group Being Organized

The recession's long arm seems to have touched everything these days—including how young people meet in Chelsea.

Lay-offs have hurt the natural meeting place of the '80s, the workplace.

Yet even those who work may find it difficult to meet people their age. Beth Cole, who moved to Chelsea after she had finished high school, is a nurse's aid at Chelsea United Methodist Retirement Home, where she has a better chance of meeting grandparents than 22-year-olds.

She has founded Chelsea Singles Group, co-sponsored by area churches, to help solve the meeting dilemma. She would like the group to do things which most people want to do as a group, instead of alone, such as go out for ice cream, Chinese food, bowling, to the movies or swimming.

But fun isn't the sole goal. She would like the group to combine it with religious activities such as Bible study and discussing the single ministry.

Miss Cole attended a workshop on the single adult ministry in October at Ward Presbyterian church in Livonia. She obtained tapes of talks by Dave Diles on subjects such as "Whatever Happened to the Barbie Doll Generation?" "What Do You Think About You?" and "Healing the Hurt, Binding the Wounds."

Those tapes and discussion of them will be the focus of the singles group's first meeting at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 3 in room 2, First United Methodist church's education building. (She had planned a trip to the Jackson Ice Cream Parlor Jan. 16, but cold weather snuffed enthusiasm for cold dessert.)

In a family-oriented town such as Chelsea, where it's difficult to move in and meet people, said Miss Cole, one has to come to terms with being alone.

"There's nothing wrong with being single," she said, and that is the focus of the ministry in Chelsea Singles.

First United Methodist church, which she belongs to, tried to start such a group in 1981, she said, but it folded. She belonged to a church-sponsored singles group in Ann Arbor, but that also folded. That is why this new group is expanding to include members from all area churches.

For further information about the group, call Miss Cole at 475-3134 or Jane Schairer at 426-4732. Messages for them may also be left at First United Methodist church, 475-8119.

Sgt. Richard Worden Returns From Germany To Fort Lewis, Wash.

Worden, a vehicle mechanic with the 9th Infantry Division, was previously assigned in Munich, West Germany.

The sergeant is a 1971 graduate of Chelsea high school.

Conservation District Plans Annual Meeting

William Fishbeck, chairman of the Washtenaw County Soil Conservation District, announces the 34th annual district meeting to be held Tuesday, Feb. 15, at the Pittsfield Union Grange Hall, 3337 Ann Arbor-Saline Rd., Ann Arbor. The public is invited to attend the meeting which will begin at 8 p.m.

According to Fishbeck, the annual meeting program will include awards, director elections, a feature program, refreshments and door prizes donated by area businesses. There is no charge for the meeting.

The feature program will be "Agriculture in Jamaica," presented by Duane Girbach, extension director of the Livingston County Co-operative Extension Service. Girbach recently visited Jamaica and will make a slide presentation on his visit, including the agriculture of this Caribbean island.

An important event at the meeting will be the election of two district directors to fill the expiring terms of William Fishbeck and William Nixon. Candidates for the two director positions are Mark Blumenauer, Manchester; David Gordon, Saline; Dennis Huehl, Chelsea; and William Fishbeck, Ann Arbor. The two candidates receiving the highest number of votes will be elected to three-year terms. All occupiers of land who hold title to or are in possession of three or more acres of land within Washtenaw county are eligible to vote in the director election.

Any questions regarding the annual meeting should be directed to the Soil Conservation District Office, 6101 Jackson Rd., Ann Arbor; telephone 761-6721.

MATCHING PETS TO OWNERS and their lifestyle has shown dramatic results for the Humane Society of Huron Valley in the past year. The new policy requires adopters to attend a counseling session with a staff member or volunteer to determine that the prospective owner knows and is willing to accept the responsibility of adopting a new pet.

Humane Society Reports Increase in Adoptions

The number of stray and unwanted animals placed in homes through the Humane Society of Huron Valley's adoption program increased by 37% in 1982 compared to 1981.

During the same time period the number of adopted animals which were eventually returned to the shelter dropped by 16%.

HSHV executive director Susan Schurman attributes these results to improvements in the Society's "adoption consultation program." The adoption consultation program was implemented in 1979 after a survey of our adoption results indicated that about four out of every 10 animals (or 40%) we adopted out eventually were brought back to the shelter, says Schurman. A high percentage of these returns were puppies which the adoptive persons had failed to properly housebreak. The consequence, in these cases, was an unhousebroken adolescent dog—by far the hardest animal to find another home for.

Other sources of returned animals included people renting homes/apartments whose landlords had not approved a pet; people with allergies; people who discovered they couldn't afford the expense of a pet; and a host of other reasons.

In 1979 HSHV implemented the adoption consultation program. Since that time prospective adopters have been required to attend a counseling session with a HSHV staff member or volunteer. "The initial purpose of these sessions was to be sure that the animals were going to permanent, responsible homes," says Schurman. "When we first started the counseling program we received a lot of criticism. People were very offended at the idea of having to attend a counseling session to adopt a pet. Most people assume they know how to care for a pet but many people had not considered how they would care for the pet if they moved."

It took some trial and error experimentation for the program to begin showing results. "At first," says Schurman, "I think we became overly restrictive and unrealistic about adopting animals. But, as we learned more about what we were doing, the results got better. We learned

Rabies Innoculations Urged for All Pets

Bubonic plague, typhoid fever, and rabies: diseases guaranteed to start a panic in any neighborhood. Thanks to vaccinations and sanitation, we rarely get to know these diseases first hand. But that doesn't mean they're not out there. You won't find the first two in Washtenaw county, but rabies is something of which everyone who owns a pet should be aware.

As the economic climate gets worse in this area, more people let their pets' vaccinations lapse. Eventually, this could lead to an outbreak of rabies. Last year in Washtenaw county, a cat had to be euthanized after exposure to rabies in a bat. The Center for Disease Control (CDC) reports animal rabies cases are on the upswing nation-wide, leading some authorities to consider mandatory rabies immunization programs.

Stray pets — cats and dogs that are allowed to roam — can spread rabies quickly when there is an outbreak. Roaming pets not only come into contact with wild animals, but in their travels they may visit dozens of neighboring yards and interact with countless other pets.

We may not be able to wipe out rabies, the way small pox has been eradicated, but it can be controlled if pet owners 1) get their pets vaccinated; 2) keep them confined to the owners' property; and 3) support a vigorous animal control program, including licensing, which requires a rabies vaccination, and picking up of free-roaming pets.

Dogs and cats must be regularly vaccinated. Cats need an annual rabies shot, dogs must be vaccinated at 6 months of age, at one year, and every three years thereafter.

The Humane Society of Huron Valley and the Washtenaw Academy of Veterinary Medicine urges all dog and cat owners to have their pets vaccinated against rabies by their veterinarians. Prevention is much cheaper than cure!

Village May Buy Used Compactor

Chelsea Village Council is looking into the possibility of buying a second-hand John Deere compactor to replace a machine now being used at the village sanitary landfill.

The compactor has been offered by AIS Construction Equipment Corp. at a price of $42,000.

Council last Tuesday night voted to instruct Village Administrator Frederick A. Weber to explore the offer, especially including the condition of the compactor and possible repair costs.

"It's a heavier, much more efficient machine than the one we are presently using at the landfill," Weber said. "From what we know now, it looks like a possible good buy, but we will make a thorough inspection before coming up with a recommendation. It all depends on what kind of shape the machine is in."

A compactor, which is similar to a front-end loader, is used at the landfill to compress refuse, cover it with dirt, and then pack down the "fill."

Chelsea Scouts Win Kite Award at Cookie Sale Kickoff

Members of local Cadette Girl Scout Troop No. 98 won the most attractive kite award in their category at the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council's cookie sale kickoff-kite contest Jan. 15 at Westland Center Mall.

Chelsea kite designers were Theresa Rudnicki, Stephanie Harnes, Kristi Jachalke and Karen Paulsell.

"Kites and Flying High with Girl Scout Cookies" is the theme for this year's cookie sale which began Friday. Kites had to use the cookie theme and be both designed and built by troop members.

Career demonstrations at the contest included meteorology, air traffic controllers, flight attendant, flight and aviation, and aerospace engineering.

The Kids on the Block, which are puppets portraying various handicaps and disabilities, gave a performance. They help people understand disabilities.

The purpose of the contest was to inspire enthusiasm for cookie sales, which are the council's and troops' major fundraiser of the year.

In 1941, the first federal activity to promote fair employment practices was the Fair Practice Commission, which sought to eliminate discrimination in hiring in the defense industry, according to "Labor Firsts in America," a U.S. Department of Labor publication.

Manchester School Board Declines Summer Taxes

At its regular meeting on Monday, Jan. 17, the Manchester Board of Education took action to decline the collection of a summer property tax within the school district. According to PA 333 which was recently approved the school district had the authority to institute a summer tax collection.

Noting that it may have been possible for the school district to reduce expenses for borrowing through the collection of summer taxes it was unclear, at this time, regarding the degree to which this would have been the case.

Lacking such information and indicating that it felt the imposition of such a tax in these economic times would be a true hardship the Board took action to firmly state its position.

Legally no action was required by the Board. However, the consensus was clear that the Board wished to make a very affirmative statement to the citizens of the community.

Upon the recommendation of superintendent Eugene Thompson and the Finance Committee expressed by treasurer David Little the Board unanimously voted to state that no summer tax will be collected by the school district in 1983.

★ The 'Feelin' Good' Program . . .

The "Feelin' Good" program is a cardiovascular fitness-health program for Chelsea students. "Feelin' Good" is a far-reaching program teaching sound health and living habits to elementary and junior high students. The program focuses on heart health through exercise, nutrition and weight control.

Three years ago Chelsea was selected as the experimental school in Washtenaw county. The program is funded by the W. K. Kellogg Foundation of Battle Creek, which awarded Spring Arbor College a three-year grant of $481,210 to implement a health program in Jackson county and to include two selected experimental and control schools outside the county. Chelsea was selected as the experimental school and Hillsdale as the control school.

The key concepts of the "Feelin' Good" program include the anatomy and physiology of the cardiovascular system, heart rate, blood pressure, exercise, diet, stress, obesity, and smoking. More than 60% of American children have at least one heart disease risk factor, and 30% have two or more risk factors. The fitness levels of school children have declined in the past 10 years as their consumption of foods low in nutritional value and high in sugar has increased. Patterns of activity, eating, and outlook are established early in life. By helping children develop sound values and habits on cardiovascular health, the "Feelin' Good" program expects to prevent many health problems in future generations.

Chelsea's 2nd, 5th and 7th graders have had an opportunity to be part of the three-year program. During each of the past two years, 30 children have been selected, 10 from each grade, to have the complete testing. All 2nd, 5th and 7th graders will have had an opportunity to participate in the program. Chelsea teachers, including physical education teachers, have been provided in-service training prior to the program's intervention. The last phase of the three-year fitness program will take place in January, and will be preceded by the complete testing of students in December.

A portion of the grant is designed for program evaluation. A research team from the University of Michigan headed by Dr. Thomas Gilligan, an Associate Professor of Physical Education and researcher in cardiovascular risk factors among children, will critique each aspect of the program. The Health Services Research Center of the University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill, is also contributing to the evaluation of this program.

If the test results show significant health changes, the Chelsea schools will seriously consider a full implementation of the "Feelin' Good" program in its K-12 physical education program. The "Feelin' Good" program may serve as a health education model to be followed throughout the nation.

Manchester Schools Establish Budget For Trial Projects

Manchester Community Schools Board of Education has established a special budget to enable teachers to develop new and experimental programs. Purposed by Trustee JoAnn King Okey the funds will be available to teachers through proposals which may be submitted to the school administration.

Administrators have been directed by the Board to establish procedures to award development grants for these trial projects. The intent of the budget is to encourage teachers to try new ideas in an effort to provide exciting learning situations in their classrooms.

Plans Underway for Feb. 5 South School Fun Fair

Representatives from Chelsea's fire and police departments will be there along with displays presented by University of Michigan departments of oceanic and space research.

A clown will make up faces, and Chuck E. Cheese will greet those attending.

Prizes offered include a 20-inch bicycle, a football autographed by the University of Michigan football team, gift certificates, toys, needlecraft kits, tools, a spotlight, and other gifts donated by Chelsea area merchants.

Refreshments such as hotdogs, chips, coffee and soft drinks will be served throughout the day. Those who have a sweet tooth

Postmaster Appointment Several Weeks Away

Appointment of a new Chelsea postmaster is probably 8-12 weeks away, temporary officer-in-charge Samuel R. McCoy says.

"These things move very slowly," McCoy explained. "I'm doing everything I can to support the appointment of Larry Williams, who has shown me that he does an excellent job and is fully qualified. It just takes time."

McCoy was placed in charge of the Chelsea post office temporarily following the retirement of Richard E. Schaules last Oct. 20. As interim officer-in-charge, he is ineligible to apply for the position.

Williams is presently assistant postmaster and has applied for the top job.

McCoy himself is hoping for appointment to the vacant postmastership at Milan. His present permanent job is supervisor of deliveries and collections at the Ypsilanti post office, from which he has been on leave while working in Chelsea.

"I really like Chelsea," McCoy said. "I haven't minded the commuting (from Ypsilanti) at all. The people here have received and treated me very well. The post office operation has been excellent. It was excellent when I came, and I haven't had to do anything more than go along with keeping it that way."

IRS Offers Tax Help By Telephone

Taxpayers with tax questions may call a new 24-hour, 7-days-a-week telephone recorded tax information service, called Tele-Tax, provided by the Internal Revenue Service. The service is offered in Ann Arbor and eight other Michigan cities—Detroit, Flint, Grand Rapids, Lansing, Mt. Clemens, Pontiac, Saginaw, and Kalamazoo.

The recorded information service is available to taxpayers with pushbutton telephones and has 141 information tapes on tax subjects including filing requirements, itemized deductions, tax credits, dependents, and adjustments to income, according to the IRS.

To use Tele-Tax, a taxpayer calls the local Tele-Tax number found in the tax package, Tele-Tax brochure, and in free IRS Publication 910, "Taxpayers Guide to IRS Information and Assistance." By punching in the appropriate tape numbers, the taxpayer hears the tax information message he or she wants. Taxpayers without access to the tape topics and their corresponding tape number, can hear a listing of the tapes by following the recording instructions.

Publication 910 and the Tele-Tax Brochure also have a complete list of the topics covered by the tapes.

The phone number for the Tele-Tax system in Ann Arbor is (313) 665-4544. If a taxpayer calls from outside the local dialing area, of any Tele-Tax number there will be a long-distance charge. Additional numbers may be available for your area. Check with directory assistance for the Tele-Tax number.

QUESTIONS ABOUT KIDS

By Mary Westhoff, M.D.
Pediatrician

Hazardous Conditions Handled Well

The winter's first hazardous driving weekend passed in relative safety in west Washtenaw county, according to sheriff's department and Chelsea police officers.

There were several "fender bender" collisions and a couple of minor personal injury accidents reported, but nothing of a serious nature.

more ear infections than other kids.

As you can see from the discussion above, it is not your fault that your little girl has these infections. There is no way to prevent them at the present time. Attempts are being made to develop vaccines against some of the bacteria that cause many of these infections, but so far they are ineffective for young children. At this time it is not possible to vaccinate against most of the viral infections that usually precede the episodes of otitis. Your doctor will treat her earaches with antibiotics to avoid some of the complications of otitis media such as hearing loss and meningitis.

If she has persistent fluid in the middle ear, the doctor may recommend using antibiotics every day for a few months in an attempt to clear up the persistent infection.

If her hearing is affected or the antibiotics do not control the infection, it may be suggested that she see an ear, nose, and throat specialist who may insert tubes through the ear drum to allow air to enter from the outer ear canal. Although these tubes do not entirely prevent further infections, they usually become less frequent and hearing is often greatly improved. Most children seldom have ear infections after six years of age.

If you have a question about your child's health, development or behavior you would like answered in this column, send it to Mary H. Westhoff, M.D., Chelsea Pediatric Center, 447 A.D. Mayer Dr., Chelsea 48118-475-9175.

Public Hearings Set on Proposed Zoning Changes

Chelsea planning commission will hold public hearings on two ordinance amendments Wednesday evening, Feb. 9 instead of Feb. 8 as had originally been planned.

Vote by village council to send the ordinances concerning a proposed planned industrial development and a proposed restricted industrial district to the planning commission is not required, said Frederick A. Weber, village administrator, but it is a courtesy observed. Council voted Jan. 18 to formally send the ordinances along.

The only legal requirement for the planning commission to hold the hearing, said Weber, is 15 days published notice, which will be met by a notice in this week's issue of The Standard.

The commission did not, and is not required to hold a meeting to set the new date for the hearings. At a Jan. 11 meeting, it had set Feb. 8 as hearing date, but did not run a legal ad until after the council's vote.

Burglary Reported From Cottage At Blind Lake

Sheriff's officers over the weekend received a belated report of an apparent burglary at a cottage on Blind Lake, Lyndon township, owned by Dr. Grant J. Withey of Detroit. Stolen were four stereo speakers worth $1,227, alcoholic drinks and mixers valued at $387 and frozen food estimated at $150.

The burglary apparently occurred sometime late last summer or early fall while the cottage was being occupied by a friend of Dr. Withey's but was not reported at the time.

Dr. Withey also told deputies that someone had broken into his boathouse recently, but nothing was stolen. Only reported loss was $10 for a padlock and hasp.

Dept. Annual Report Increased Violations

ment job. Given the amount of traffic that comes through the village, especially on M-52, we have to control it very carefully. Otherwise, we would have some real problems with accidents, injuries and possible fatalities.

The higher number of parking tickets shows that meters and no-parking areas are being checked more frequently, Aeillo said, and more violators are being caught and ticketed.

Ignoring red flags on parking meters and posted no-parking signs have obviously become more risky.

Otherwise, Aeillo's report showed no significant changes from the previous year. Complaints logged were up—3,331 to 3,029—but radio runs were down—2,954 to 3,061. Total arrests and case reports were just about even.

The department assisted more motorists, 358 to 282, which probably reflects an increasing number of older cars on the road, and made more property and bar checks. It put about 20,000 more miles on its patrol cars.

In October Aeillo had predicted that the 1981 total of 195 traffic accidents would be exceeded this year and might set a record. That did not happen, as accidents for 1982 added up to only 182.

A pleased police chief attributed the lower number to remarkably good driving weather during November and December. "We didn't have the snow and ice that we expect at that time of the year," he said, "so we didn't get the fender-benders we usually record when streets are slippery."

Again the village escaped without a single traffic fatality, and there were only 16 injuries reported among the 182 accidents.

The police department recorded one homicide during 1982, the instance of a man found stuffed in the trunk of a car in the Polly's Market parking lot. The case remains unsolved and, Aeillo said, probably will continue to be.

"It definitely was a 'mob' killing," Aeillo said. "Putting the victim in the trunk of a car and abandoning the car somewhere is a favorite Mafia method for disposing of bodies. I'm sure that's what happened in this case, although we have no proof and are not likely to get any."

The police department employs six full-time officers, including the chief, and also enlists the help of reserve officers when needed. Reserves put in a total of 1,303 man-hours in 1982.

Also during the year the department added a tracking dog to its pool of resources.

Vandals Damage Softball Field Fence

A vandal with apparently deliberate intent drove into the fence surrounding the new Veterans Park softball complex over the weekend. Three posts and a 20-foot section of fencing were damaged.

The incident occurred along the Sibley Rd. side of the facility, where there are as yet no boulders in place to protect the fence.

"It looks like somebody deliberately drove off the road, across the ditch and into the fence," Chelsea Police Chief Robert Aeillo said. "There were no footprints or skid marks in the snow to suggest it was an accident. It probably was a four-wheel-drive vehicle."

Village employees making temporary repairs yesterday morning said the posts could be salvaged, but a piece of wire fence will probably have to be replaced.

Large boulders have been put around the parking lot at the park to protect the fence and adjacent turf, but plans had not called for similar installation along Sibley Rd. "We may have to change our minds about that," a workman said.

Kiwanis Club Offers Seniors Tax Returns Help

Chelsea Kiwanis Club will again help senior citizens fill out their income tax returns and discuss exemptions and deductions from 1 to 4 p.m. Monday, Jan. 31 at the North school senior center.

Depending on demand and when seniors get their tax information on investments, mortgages, and income, this may be the last session, said Treva Winans, director of the senior activity center.

Kiwanians involved in this program encourage seniors to file for state income tax returns early before returns are delayed by the state's cash flow problems.

Bulldog Cagers Put Together Strong Finish To Stop JC Western

The game was closer than it was supposed to be for three quarters, but Chelsea's varsity basketball team got its act together in the final period last Friday night and disposed of Jackson County Western, 72-54.

The victory moved the Bulldogs into a triple tie for second place in the Southeastern Conference with a 3-2 mark, while Western remained basement-bound at 0-5.

Dave Wojcicki had his second successive fine game with 23 points, 12 of them in the first half when Chelsea was struggling to stay ahead. Carl Pate contributed 13, and David Kiel had 11 even though he was in foul trouble early. Chuck Hager put in eight and Eric Schaffner six.

Kiel, who is emerging as a dominant rebounder, pulled down 11 caroms. He is averaging 12 per game for the season.

Western made a game of it through the first half and was down by only six, 29-23, at the intermission. Both teams did some hot third-quarter shooting as the Bulldogs edged a little further in front, 51-42. The last eight minutes belonged to Chelsea as the visitors appeared to tire.

"We played consistent basketball throughout the game," Bulldog coach Robin Raymond said. "We didn't go in spurts as we have in some games. We were a little slow getting started, but part of that was caused by Western. They hustled hard against us and played a little better than we expected."

Chelsea, which has been plagued by inconsistent shooting this winter, was definitely "on," hitting 30 of 48 shots from the floor for better than 60 percent. The mark from the foul line was a respectable 12 of 19.

Raymond had only 10 players dressed for the contest. Marty Steinhauer was out with a leg injury and Matt Villemure with illness.

"We wanted to work on some things to get ready for the second half of the season," Raymond said. "We concentrated on improving our fast break and our pressure defense, and on cutting down our turnovers, and made some progress in all three areas."

Raymond is also using his bench more, and has put together a special second-string unit which he calls the "Gold" team. "I want them to play all-out for at least two minutes in each half and hold their own while the first stringers take a breather. If they can do that, they will get playing time."

The Bulldogs have an off night tonight, then play three games in five days beginning with a key league clash at Milan on Friday. A rare Saturday night game is scheduled here Saturday night against Stevensville Lakeshore, followed by another home outing against Mason next Tuesday. Lakeshore, which will travel all the way across the state from its home base on Lake Michigan, was described by Raymond as an "excellent team which has gone to the state quarter-finals three times in recent years."

Bulldog Cagers Down Northwest

Several good things happened to the Chelsea varsity basketballers last Tuesday night in their game at Jackson Northwest.

Most important was that they won, 62-56, snapping a two-game losing streak and perhaps turning around a season that was threatening to slip away into mediocrity.

It was a near thing. The Bulldogs led by as many as 13 points in the third quarter, only to have Northwest come back to take a one-point lead at 57-56 with just over two minutes to play. It looked like a repeat performance of the Lincoln game a week before, which Chelsea let get away after seemingly being in charge.

This time, though, the Bulldogs kept their composure, made the big plays that they had to make and came back to put away the

Junior High Wrestlers Pin Saline

Chelsea's junior high wrestlers made it two in a row with a 53-28 dual meet victory over Saline last Tuesday night.

"We wrestled well," said coach Pat Clarke. "Saline was big and strong, but our kids are coming along nicely and showed improvement."

Results included:

Mark Skiff (68 pounds) won by fall; Bryan Kidd (75), won by decision; Tyler Lewis (82) won by fall; Mike Westhoven (89) won by fall; Mac Krzewowski (96) lost by fall; Rob Finch (103) lost by decision; Ron Bogdanski (110) won by fall; Greggory Rudd (117) lost by decision; Steve Rosen-treter (124) lost by fall; Ron Grifka (131) won by fall; Chris Zangara (138) won by decision; Curtis Heard (147) lost by fall; Rob Hubbell (157) won by fall; Andy Box (169) won by decision; Doug Thomas (heavyweight) won by forfeit.

Mounties. The win was, in the words of Coach Robin Raymond, "a big boost to us, a confidence builder."

Guard and Captain Dave Wojcicki, who has struggled all this season, made a three-point play and two pressure free throws down the stretch to help lock up the win. He also found shooting eye from the floor, making 8 of 13 attempts, and wound up with 19 points.

Center David Kiel had what Raymond called his best game of the season with 18 points including 7 of 7 from the floor—rebounds and four assists. Under a complicated grading system that Raymond uses Kiel was "plus 34" for the evening, and would be difficult to do much better.

Although he didn't score a lot—only four points—Chuck Hager did a good job in his new role as a starter by getting the ball to Wojcicki and Kiel who had the hot hands.

Dave Mann came off the bench to can six points and pull down rebounds. Carl Pate had seven points, including a key breakaway layup in the last minute.

Only negative note was Marty Steinhauer's sore leg, which kept him out of last Friday's game against Jackson County Western.

"Marty's a tough kid and he wants to play, and he won't admit that the leg is bothering him, but I can tell that it is," Raymond said. "I think a rest will help him. We need him healthy in the games ahead."

The injury is not serious, but is one of those nagging hurts that only time and rest will heal. It happened several games ago and has been aggravated by Steinhauer's determination to play despite it.

Raymond said he will bring Eric Schaffner back to the varsity squad after having him play on the JV team for a couple of weeks.

For the game against Northwest the Bulldogs shot 51 percent from the floor, a vast improvement over their 32 percent showing the last time out. They cut their turnovers down and battled even on the boards for rebounds. They picked up 19 fouls to Jackson's 13, which bothered Raymond a little bit but not too much.

"We scrapped, we hustled, we ran well, we played our game, and we did what we had to do to win at the end," Raymond summed up. "I think we're on our way back."

Cager of the Week

JV Cagers Win 2 in Past Week

Bulldog junior varsity basketball team had a heart-stopper and a cakewalk last week. They beat Jackson Northwest, 62-56, in over-time Jan. 18 away and beat Jackson County Western, 60-30, Jan. 21 at home.

Bulldogs are now 6-3 overall and 3-2 in league play.

Chelsea had a 32-29 lead at half-time, but a four-five minute scoring dry spell in the third quarter put Northwest ahead, 40-38, going into the final quarter.

Chelsea fought back and led by one point with 11 seconds left. Eric Schaffner made it two points with a foul shot. Northwest brought the ball down court, shot, missed, got the rebound, and put it in for a 55-55 tie at the end of regulation.

Chelsea's over-time foul shooting was the difference, said coach Paul Terpstra.

It's not hard to see from the statistics why it was an over-time game. Both teams made 43 percent of their field goal attempts. Northwest made 54 percent of their free throw attempts and Chelsea 53 percent. Chelsea had 34 rebounds, Northwest, 22. Chelsea committed 25 fouls, Northwest, 22.

Schaffner led scoring with 27 points and had nine rebounds; Keith Neibauer, 11 points, nine rebounds; Dave Steinhauer, nine points; and John Harris, eight points, eight rebounds.

Friday night against Western was a different story. Chelsea led, 14-11, at the end of the first quarter. Bulldog foul shooting and second quarter steals turning into lay-ups gave Chelsea a 32-17 half-time lead.

Bulldogs had 21 steals to Western's 8, a difference which was the key to the game, said Terpstra. Western, which is used to setting up baskets, had trouble with Chelsea's backcourt pressure.

The Bulldogs outrebounded them, 41-36, and Western out-turned the Bulldogs, 32-15.

Chelsea made 22 of 63 field goal attempts for 35 percent to 12 of 48 attempts, 25 percent, for Western. Chelsea made 16 of 26 free throw attempts for 62 percent, while Western made 6 of 22 for 27 percent.

Nine of 11 Bulldogs dressed for the game got in the scoring column. Scott Jones had 17 points, eight rebounds; Mark Henson, 13 points, eight rebounds; Steinhauer, eight points; Harris, seven points, eight rebounds; Neibauer, seven points.

Games this week are at 6:30 p.m. Friday, Jan. 28 at Milan and 6 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 29 at home against Lakeshore.

Frosh Cagers Wiped Out By Adrian

Last week was one that Chelsea's freshman basketball squad and its coach, Paul Ash, would just as soon forget. After losing a home game to Saline that they could have won, the frosh came up empty against Adrian three days later in another home contest and were wiped out, 65-46.

The Bullpups fell behind, 16-5, at the start, then rallied nicely to take a 23-20 lead early in the second quarter. From there on it was all Adrian as the bigger and stronger Maples assumed control and kept it.

"We just didn't do much of anything right after the first 10 minutes," Ash said. "Our kids were uptight and hesitant. They didn't play the way you have to to defeat a team with a substantial size advantage."

Particularly distressing to Ash was his team's 14 of 37 record from the foul line, with most of the misses coming on the front of 1-and-1 opportunities. Had the freshmen been able to hit free throws, they could have stayed close.

"You don't win against a good team if you don't hit free throws," Ash commented. "That's something we have to work harder on."

Ken Martin and Dan Bellus had 11 points each for Chelsea, and Mark Mull put in 10 despite getting into early foul trouble.

Last week's two losses left the frosh with a 6-3 mark at the season's midway point.

Frosh Cagers Lose to Saline at Charity Stripe

Chelsea's freshman basketballers learned the hard way last Monday night that making free throws down the stretch is a big part of winning games. Failure to convert the front end of 1-and-1 situations probably cost them a loss to Saline, 53-46.

After trailing throughout the game, the frosh cagers three times pulled to within a point during the fourth quarter, and needed only a couple of clutch shots from the line to go out in front. They missed every time.

"If we had made the free throws and gotten ahead, I think we could have won," said coach Paul Ash. "With a lead, we would have forced them out of their zone defense and made them come after us. As it was, we kept having to foul to get the ball, and Saline made the free throws."

Ash praised the Saline freshmen as an "excellent group" which is going to contribute a lot to the Hornet varsity in the years ahead. "They are talented, have good size and are well coached," Ash commented.

He quickly added that Chelsea has some fine ninth-grade players, too. "Our boys may have gotten a little uptight about playing Saline," Ash said. "They knew that Saline is very good, and pointed toward the game all season. They may have put too much pressure on themselves."

Ken Martin and Dan Bellus paced the Bullpups with 12 points each, and Mark Mull had 9. Other scoring was scattered among several players.

The freshmen fell behind early in the game, and playing catch-up against a zone defense is never easy. "We have gotten behind in most of our games but managed to come back and win them," Ash said. "I felt that, sooner or later, we were going to run into a good team that wouldn't let us rally to win. Saline is a good team, and they stayed on top."

JV Wrestlers Win Places in Jackson

Seven Chelsea High school junior varsity wrestlers won places in the Jackson Northwest Invitational Tournament Jan. 15.

Topping the list was Steve Whitesall, who took first in his weight class. Others were Mark Edick, second; Mark Porath, second; Andy Fenton, third; and Chuck Downer, Bob Torres and Phil Huyck, each fourth.

Wrestlers Place 3rd in Rochester Invitational

Chelsea's varsity wrestlers finished a surprising third among 27 schools — 20 of them Class A — in the Rochester-Adams Invitational Meet last Saturday, as Mark Rosentreter (105 pounds) and Jeff Morgan (126) won individual titles.

Pete Hanna (98), Bill Hanna (112) and Travis Rudd (132) all were defeated in final matches, to finish second in their classes. Ernie Bristle (110) was sixth at his weight.

The meet was won by Flint Northern, with Holly second. Both are Class A schools.

The strong showing at Rochester-Adams followed a disappointing dual meet performance against Saline last Thursday, lost by the Bulldogs, 48-24.

Chelsea's two Hannas, Morgan and Rudd all won their matches with pins, but the Bulldogs lost in every other division.

Coach Kerry Kargel was distressed by the home meet showing against Saline. "I thought we might lose, but certainly not that badly," he said.

However, his spirits rebounded with his team's effort at the Saturday invitational which Kargel called "by far our best of the season. I'm really proud of what our kids did there."

Actually, as Kargel pointed, this year's Bulldog team may do better in large, open meets than in dual competition. "We have some excellent wrestlers who can hold their own with anybody," he said, "but we don't have enough

3-Way Tie In Cribbage Tournament

Three players tied for the lead in the Jaycee cribbage tournament after the opening round of play last night, all with 7-3 marks following the first round of 10 games. There were 20 entrants.

The leaders were David Boyer, Ginny Wheaton and Rodney Houle. Actually, Houle holds a narrow lead on the basis of a point-scoring system which will be used to break ties to determine finalists should that be necessary. Under the system the low score wins.

Houle had 284 points to Wheaton's 285 and Boyer's 336. Grouped at 6-4 are Richard Dotts, Jo Anderson, Glenn Boyer, Skip Schlupe, Norman Allen, Duane Boyer, Art Steinaway and Gini Schirrmacher. Alone at 5-5 is Jeff Boyer.

Records of 4-6 were posted by Ray Dotts, Leslie Williams, Tina Dotts and Tom Penhallegon.

Jim Hoffmeyer and Noreen Schuelke stood at 3-7, and Fremont Boyer and Gary Radke at 2-8.

Play will continue tonight in the second of three preliminary 10-game rounds to determine finalists. It will begin at 7 p.m. in the Chelsea VFW Hall, 105 N. Main St.

Junior High Wrestlers Pin Dexter

Chelsea's junior high school wrestling team got off to a good start Jan. 13 by downing Dexter, 53-26.

Results of the meet for Chelsea entrants were:

68 pounds — void (no entrants).

75 pounds — Bryan Kidd, won by fall.

82 pounds — Tyler Lewis, lost by fall.

89 pounds — Mike Westhoven, won by fall.

96 pounds — Mac Krzekowski, lost by fall.

103 pounds — Rob Finch, Chelsea, lost by fall.

110 pounds — Ron Bogdanski, Chelsea, draw, 2-2.

117 pounds — Lee Riemen-schneider, won 9-8 decision.

124 pounds — Gregg Rudd, won by fall.

131 pounds — Steve Rosen-treter, won by fall.

138 pounds — Chris Zangara, won by fall.

147 pounds — Curtis Heard, won by fall.

157 pounds — Andy Box, won by forfeit.

169 pounds — Rob Hubbel, lost by fall.

Heavyweight — Randy Ferry, won by forfeit.

In exhibition matches not counted toward the meet score, Andy Box, Randy Ferry, Paul Kennedy, Shawn Brown, Randy Dale, Ron Grifka, Ronnie Hafley, Tony Flintoff and Chad Romine all scored pins.

Pat Clarke coaches the junior high wrestlers, and said his big squad of 51 athletes "looked fair for a first meet. They are working hard and hope to improve."

Clarke's biggest problem has been to find a place large enough for his team to practice, but he has solved it. Wrestling is booming in the Chelsea school system.

High school coach Kerry Kargel had 70 boys turn out.

KERRY KARGEL, ARTIST, displays a watercolor painting of a beaver working on a dam. He likes to paint wildlife subjects, and hopes someday to win the prestigious Wildlife Artist of the Year award given by Michigan United Conservation Clubs.

KERRY KARGEL, WRESTLING COACH, instructs Steve Wingrove and Dave Gipson in one of the fine points of the sport. Kargel is a former state champion wrestler and a finalist in national competition. He is in his first year as Chelsea head coach.

Kerry Kargel Is Indeed A Unique, Talented Person

Somewhere in the world there may be another artist and art teacher who is also a wrestling coach and a former champion in the sport, but it's probably safe to describe Kerry Kargel as unique in the true sense of the word, which means one of a kind.

Kargel teaches art and coaches varsity wrestling at Chelsea High school. In his spare time he paints in watercolors and acrylics, does sculpture, and makes pottery and jewelry. During summers he tours art fairs and other outlets to sell his work, and has been successful which means that his art is good. Art is one of the most competitive endeavors there is.

Kargel feels that his competitive instincts and experience as an athlete have helped him in his art. "I'm a very competitive person," he explains. "When I see a good piece of art that someone else has done, I want to do better. I want to win in whatever I do."

Kargel also sees a parallel between wrestling and art, because they both represent expression of ability through the hands. "The hands are the most important tools of skill in wrestling and in art," Kargel believes. "In both you make your hands do what your mind directs them to do. But if your hands aren't skilled, in either wrestling or in art, your best ideas can't be carried out."

Kargel was born in Minnesota, the son of a plumber, and lived in that state until his parents moved to Michigan in 1965. He went to Whitmore Lake High school for two years and got into wrestling there.

In 1968 he transferred to Chelsea High school and the following year won the state Class B wrestling championship at 145 pounds. He's about 20 pounds heavier now, but stays in shape and undoubtedly could go to the mat with anybody of his age and weight and give a good account of himself.

"I enjoy working out with the kids on the wrestling team," Kargel says. "They're young and strong and want to learn what I can teach them. That helps keep me young."

Following graduation from Chelsea High, Kargel attended Grand Rapids Junior College for two years, earning an associate's degree, moved on to Grand Valley State College for a year, and finished up at Eastern Michigan University where he earned a degree in art and a teaching certificate.

In college he wrestled for three years, qualified for national tournaments each year and placed fifth one season in the ranks of America's junior college wrestlers at his weight.

Kargel probably could have gone to a large university on an athletic scholarship, but says he "just wasn't ready to handle that" when he finished high school.

"I wasn't sure what I wanted to do, and decided a junior college was the best place for me. I thought first I would go into biology or archeology, but after a couple of years concluded that what I really wanted to do was art. I had inherited some talent on my mother's side. Her grandfather was an outstanding carver of statues during the 1800's."

At about the same time Kargel got interested in education as a career, combining art and teaching it, "because I love working with kids," but admits that coaching wrestling was "the farthest thing from my mind" until he got into teaching and saw a chance to use his skills in that direction, too.

"Money is not my main concern," he says. "I just want to work at things that I enjoy doing."

This is Kargel's first year as Chelsea's head wrestling coach, after serving as an assistant for four years. He inherited a team from which most of the veterans had graduated, and so has had to rebuild. Most of his 40-boy squad are freshmen and sophomores, and inexperience has made things difficult for the Bulldogs this season.

Kargel, his wife Glenna, and two young sons, Chris and Andrew, live on Island Lake Rd. in Dexter township. He does his art work there, using his time in the classroom to instruct his students. "They are a great bunch of kids, too," he says. "I just try to bring out the best of their talents."

SPORTS NOTES

BY BILL MULLENDORE

Wrestling.

It's a sport that I have to admit I know very little about, and maybe therefore should not be writing about. I have never wrestled, except in after-school playground fights as a kid, where the idea was to beat up the other kid and make him go home crying. Having always been big for my age, I did fairly well at that. Being able to box a little bit and throw a good left-hand punch helped some in those rough-and-tumble scraps.

As far as I can recall, I have attended exactly three "honest" wrestling meets, in which the participants were out there trying to win. I've seen some Olympic wrestling on television, and understand that the rules are different than for U. S. amateur wrestling, although I couldn't possibly explain how or why.

And, of course, I've watched on the TV tube the travesty of so-called professional wrestling, which is a sick joke. The entertainers and the viewers have to be about equally sick. It is the poorest excuse for "sport" that I have ever witnessed, and it has no entertainment value either, so far as I am concerned.

I have a hunch that "professional" wrestling has badly hurt the public perception of wrestling as a contest of skill between matched athletes. Except for roller skating (the roller derby) I can't think of any other game in which the professional extension has been so monstrously distorted and taken over by clowns.

Professional baseball, football, basketball, hockey are all refined versions of their amateur counterparts, with rules modified to accommodate the exceptional talents of the players who are good enough to make it into the pro ranks. I am told that very few outstanding amateur wrestlers turn pro, and can understand why. An athlete with any pride in his sport is not going to make himself into a joke.

I am impressed that more than 100 male students in the Chelsea schools turned out for the high school and junior high wrestling programs this winter. That is close to as many as went out for football, and more than tried to make it in basketball.

I am likewise impressed by the excellence of Dexter High school's wrestling program, which also has a lot of boys involved. People are excited that Dexter's wrestlers are undefeated (or were when this was written) and could go on to win some championships.

I am further impressed by the dedication and enthusiasm of the wrestling coaches I have met. They operate in the shadows of their football and basketball counterparts, but they work just as hard and handle as many or more athletes. Wrestling is not a big "gate" sport, and may not ever get to be one, but the level of participation by students tells me that it should continue to be supported by athletic administrators.

I am fortunate to have working with me Steve Worley, who takes pictures and does many other things for The Standard and The Leader. Steve is a former wrestler and, I suspect, was a pretty good one although he doesn't brag about his abilities. He is slowly educating me into the subtleties of the sport.

Steve and I are about the same size. He is a good many years younger, but we are both in pretty decent physical shape. I asked him what would happen if we were to wrestle, just as an experiment. He came back at me with, "What would you try to do?"

I answered that I would attempt to grab him around the waist, pick him off the floor and throw him down.

"You'd be disqualified," Steve said. "Body slams are illegal."

So much for my knowledge of the rules of wrestling. They are not the same as those for bare-knuckle playground brawls.

Then I asked Steve what would happen if I went up against somebody like Kerry Kargel, Chelsea High school wrestling coach and former state champion wrestler. I outweigh him by at least 30 pounds.

"He'd have you flat on your back in 30 seconds or less," Steve assured me, "and so would I."

As I said at the beginning, I know very little about the sport, but I'm learning. I suggest it might be worthwhile for others to learn, too. Wrestling is popular among young people, and it wouldn't hurt us adults to find out why.

OUT IN THE OPEN

By BILL MULLENDRE

Winter weather has finally arrived, at least in part. The cold is here, although there still hadn't been enough snow to measure when this was written. Last week's several successive days of temperatures down into the single digits produced plenty of ice for fishermen and skaters on west Washtenaw lakes. Ice "makes" at the rate of up to two inches every 24 hours when it is very cold, there is little wind, and no snow cover to serve as an insulating blanket.

Barring some really unusual warm weather with rain, the outlook is for solid, safe ice at least through February. How long it will last beyond that is anybody's guess. I have fished on the ice in early April, during a couple of memorable winters when it seemed as if spring would never arrive. I have also seen years when the ice went out, or at least became honeycombed and unsafe, during the first few days of March. The only predictable fact about the weather in this part of the country is that it is totally unpredictable and therefore full of surprises.

Ice fishing is one of those specialized sports that you are either fanatic about or you despise. There is no in-between.

Fishing on the open ice without benefit of any kind of shelter requires that you be adequately dressed to withstand as much cold as you are ever likely to be exposed to (unless you are a snowmobiler). As described in a previous series of Out in the Open columns, the exposure can be handled with the right kind of clothing. However, don't underestimate how cold it can get when you are sitting in the middle of a frozen lake where the wind has a clean sweep on a below-freezing day. The wind-chill can get down into some pretty big numbers on the minus side of zero.

The equipment needed for ice fishing is simple and not especially costly. Most important item is a tool to cut holes in the ice. It can be anything from an axe (definitely not recommended because it is both inefficient and unsafe) to a drill powered by a small gasoline engine. Power augers are great under unusual conditions when ice thicknesses get to extremes. Several years ago I gladly paid the owner of such a machine $2 apiece to drill a series of holes on Houghton Lake through a measured 30 inches of ice, rather than cut them myself manually. It was money well spent.

Ice never—well, almost never—freezes deeper than a foot in southern Michigan, and the average is more like six inches. You don't need a power auger to drill through that much, unless you just want to spend the price of a small outboard motor for the luxury and status of owning one.

The traditional tool for cutting holes is a spud, which is nothing more than a steel chisel with a long handle. To work well a spud has to be heavy, and it has to be sharp. The best spuds I have seen were custom-made. Those sold commercially are generally too light to be efficient. A dull spud is an exasperating nuisance, just like a dull knife. If you lack the tools and/or the know-how to sharpen a spud yourself, take it to someone who has both, and do it often if you want to save a lot of work and time better devoted to fishing.

There are several styles of muscle-powered augers which are easier and faster to use than spuds, provided they are kept sharp. In my experience, sharpening such a tool is a job for a professional.

Spud or auger, be sure it is securely attached to you by a loop of rope slip-knotted around your wrist. The experience of having a tool slide out of your hands and disappear into the depths is both costly and humiliating, as I learned the hard way back when I was new at the ice fishing game.

The remaining equipment needed is simple—ice rods or tip-ups, or both, depending on whether you are after panfish or bigger game such as pike and walleyes—some monofilament line, a few small jiggling lures, hooks, bobbers and bait. The smaller the pound-test of the line, the better. Winter fish tend to be line-shy. I like two-pound mono for bluegills, perch and crappies, six-pound for pike and walleyes. You have to be a bit careful in setting the hook to keep from snapping the line, but after that those weights will handle anything you are likely to catch.

Bobbers should be as small as you can get away with, and should barely float in the hole, so that the slightest nudge will be noticeable. Fish in winter sometimes bite hard, but more often don't.

You will need a skimmer to clear ice chips out of the holes you cut and to keep them clear as the ice refreezes. (Hint: a little glycerine solution poured gently onto the surface of the water so that it floats on top retards freezing.)

Finally, you will need something to sit on. An upside-down five-gallon metal bucket works as well as anything, and doubles as a container to transport your tackle. Veteran ice anglers often custom-build special boxes which serve as seats and gear carriers. Look around at other fishermen and, if you see a box that appeals to you, construct one like it. For all but the most elaborate designs, a few odds and ends of wood, some nails or screws, and simple household tools will do the job. Just be sure the end result is sturdy enough to support your weight.

If you have never ice-fished and don't want to make an initial investment in equipment, until you have tried the sport to find out if you like it, make your first venture with a veteran who can probably loan you most of what you need. And dress warmly!

UP, UP AND AWAY: One of three wild turkeys imported from Iowa and released in the Waterloo Recreation Area last Friday morning takes wing and heads for a distant woods. More birds will be released as Iowa wildlife biologists are able to trap and ship them to Michigan.

Wild Turkey Restoration Project Starts With Release of Birds in Waterloo Area

Three birds imported from Iowa flew off across a cornfield and into the woods of the Waterloo Recreation Area last Friday morning, signalling the start of an attempt to establish wild turkey flocks in southeastern Michigan.

The birds, all males (toms), had survived the experience of being live-trapped in their home state, flown to Michigan and subjected to intensive physical examinations which included blood sampling. One had a tiny radio transmitter implanted in his back, so biologists can check on his whereabouts. Judging by the speed with which they took wing after being released from their cardboard crates, the turkeys were in excellent condition.

Wayne Bronner, Department of Natural Resources wildlife biologist, said release of the three birds was just the beginning of a long-term research and management program to find out if wild turkeys can thrive in this part of the state. They have become established in many of Michigan's more northerly areas and provide excellent "quality hunting" every spring under strictly controlled conditions of permits, quotas and enforcement.

"Obviously, we've got to have some hens out there if we are going to get any reproduction this coming spring," Bronner said. "That's the next step. It all depends on when the people in Iowa can trap and ship some to us."

The wild turkey is one of North America's wildest, warriest creatures, and live-trapping them without injury is not easy. The birds are segregated into flocks by sex at this time of year, which makes obtaining a mixture of toms and hens especially difficult.

Michigan is trading 140 wild ruffed grouse to Iowa in return for 65 wild turkeys.

Introduction of wild turkeys into southeast Michigan has been under DNR consideration for several years. A decision was made to import birds from Iowa, where a strain of turkeys compatible with fairly dense human populations has evolved.

Michigan turkeys are pretty much confined to large tracts of wild, heavily wooded land where there are few people and little human disturbance.

"We believe these Iowa birds have a better chance to make it in places like Waterloo than our own stock would have. They seem to be a little better adapted to living with people."

"The critical question is whether turkeys can thrive in an area as heavily used as Waterloo is, and that's what we want to find out," Bronner said. "A lot will depend on whether people respect the birds' needs to be left alone. If they are continually harassed, they won't survive."

In accord with a DNR request, this newspaper will not disclose the location of the release site, other than to report that it is somewhere in the Waterloo Recreation Area.

Bronner said that, even if all goes well, it will be several years before limited, controlled wild turkey hunting can be offered in southeastern Michigan, but added that hunting is the ultimate objective of the stocking program.

"At the very best we are looking at three or four years from now, and a more realistic guess is 7 to 10," Bronner said. "We must first establish a breeding stock large enough to be safe from bad weather or some other natural disaster and also to produce an annual surplus which can be safely harvested. That is going to take awhile."

Iowa turkeys are also being planted at the Rose Lake Wildlife Research Area near Lansing, which is even more heavily used by people than Waterloo, and at the Flat River State Game Area northwest of Lansing. Flat River receives relatively low use.

SEC ROUND-UP:

Tecumseh Moves into Lead With Rally Win Over Milan

Stick your head up in this winter's Southeastern Conference varsity basketball race, and you are probably going to get chopped off at the neck.

Both Milan and Lincoln have made a try at opening up a lead, only to be dropped back into the pack which is getting mighty crowded.

This week it is Tecumseh's turn to be on top, a somewhat surprising development in view of the fact that three months ago it wasn't at all certain whether the Indians would even put a team on the floor this winter. The Tecumseh school system has had financial problems, and the athletic program is being carried on thanks to private boosters.

Anyway, as of today Tecumseh leads the SEC pack at 4-1 in league play, and is the new team to beat. Chelsea owns the only loop victory over the Indians, and earned it in a tough game at Tecumseh on Dec. 10.

Tecumseh's upcoming Friday night game at Dexter will have a lot to do with determining whether the Indians are for real or not, and will also help establish whether Dexter's blossoming bid to defend its SEC title is serious.

After last Friday night's action Chelsea, Dexter and Milan settled into a three-way tie for second place at 3-2, a game behind Tecumseh. Lincoln dropped into fifth at 3-3, but still isn't out of the chase, nor is Saline at 2-3. Only Jackson County Western, which has yet to win a conference game, looks to have been eliminated.

There was no league play last Tuesday night, and only three SEC teams saw any kind of action. Chelsea defeated Jackson Northwest, 62-58, Lincoln topped Lincoln Park, 62-53, and Saline lost to Monroe Catholic Central, 66-46. Other conference schools had an open date.

Results last Friday night included Tecumseh's 48-40 victory over Milan, which saw the Indians come from four points behind in the last two minutes to breeze to victory as Milan repeatedly turned over the ball while trying to protect its lead.

Dexter won a thriller at home against Lincoln, 57-56, as the Railsplitters missed key free throws down the stretch which might have sent the game into overtime.

Chelsea had an easy time against Western once it got its offense in gear, winning, 72-54, thanks to a strong last quarter.

Saline did not play.

Varsity Volleyball Team Tough Against Saline

Although the Bulldogs girls varsity volleyball team lost to Saline, 14-16, 12-15, Jan. 20 away, they had a closer match with Saline than anyone in the league has had, said coach Cathy Vleck.

Saline has only lost this season to Temperance, a Class A school. Both games were give and take, point by point, said Ms. Vleck. The score was tied at 14-14 in the first game. Saline had to fight through long volleys to get the last two points.

In the second game, the score was again tied, 12-12, and Saline took the last three points, but again not by ace serves, but on good plays instead of Bulldog mistakes.

Almost every serve of the match was played and volleyed, said Ms. Vleck. The fans got their money's worth in action.

Chelsea only missed four serves all evening, she said.

When the team got behind, they came right back to stay in the game, which they have had trouble doing this season.

The largest margin of the match was three points at the end of the second game.

"I'm extremely pleased with the way the whole team played," she said.

Kathleen Morris had six service points, three of which were aces and two of which were touched but never controlled. Cathy Doll had nine service points, six of which were touched but not controlled.

Donna Popovich had four hits which were touched but not controlled, Kim Forner had three strong hits, and Sharon Glassford had two kill hits, which were never touched.

Fuels Used on Farms Exempt From New Tax

Farmers knew that the motor fuel they used on their farms was exempt from the 4-cent per gallon federal excise tax—but they weren't so sure about the new 5-cent increase recently passed by congress and scheduled to go into effect April 1.

According to Al Almy, director of public affairs for the Michigan Farm Bureau, farm fuels will also be exempt from the 5-cent tax increase.

"The 5-cent increase on gasoline and diesel fuel does not apply to fuel that is used in tractors and other equipment used in farming operations. Exemption from the current 4-cent tax will also continue," Almy said.

The situation for retail sales of gasoline, however, is a little more complicated. Gasohol had been exempt from the 4-cent per gallon federal excise tax, but that exemption has expired.

Parents Anonymous Offers Child Abuse Help

A new weekly self-help group for parents began meeting in Chelsea on Monday, Jan. 17 from 7 to 9 p.m. This group, a Parents Anonymous group, will give parents who have abused or feel they might abuse their children, an opportunity to work with others who are experiencing the same problems.

The group provides a setting in which a parent can become involved anonymously without fear of judgment, social stigma, reprisal, rejection or legal and punitive measures. A professional sponsor attends each meeting as a professional resource. The group is chaired by a parent chosen for this role by group members. The group is confidential; it charges no fees; childcare is available.

The group is being started at this time by Faith In Action with support from Chelsea Community Hospital, the Hospital's Auxiliary, and Dr. Mary Westhoff (Chelsea's new pediatrician). Impetus for starting the group is the knowledge that the western part of Washtenaw county has more than twice the rate of reported child abuse than would be expected for the area's population.

As the unemployment rate goes up, the rate of child abuse increases as the tension in the family escalates into violence. What is seldom understood is that parents who abuse their children wish they didn't and experience intense anguish and guilt about their behavior. Parents who abuse are in the grip of feelings that they are powerless to control. People often mistakenly think that when a parent has abuse problems, his entire relationship to his child is abusive. This is not so. Parents with abuse problems can, and do relate to their children in healthy, loving ways. Abuse is often only a small part of the parent/child relationship, but a part that the parent must have help in resolving if it is not to become overwhelming. Self-help groups such as Parents Anonymous, help the parent to

CHARITABLE CONTRIBUTIONS

QUESTION: Every year I donate to various charities, but because I can't itemize deductions, I don't receive any tax benefit from these contributions. Will I ever be able to deduct these contributions without itemizing deductions?

ANSWER: Beginning in tax year 1982, taxpayers may deduct a portion of their charitable contributions even if they are unable to itemize deductions. For 1982 and 1983 the deduction will be 25% of up to $100 ($50 Married Filing Separately) of your contributions.

Understaffed Aquatic Club Loses to Brighton

Chelsea Aquatic Club took a small team to the meet Jan. 15 against Brighton and lost, 405-213.

The 10- and-unders swam well with many career-best times, said coach Von Acker. The CAC outscored Brighton by about 70 points in that part of the meet.

Many of the team's older swimmers either compete with the middle school team or on the boys varsity team. Because both school teams have such busy schedules, it was decided those swimmers would not compete against Brighton, he said. Thin ranks in those age groups proved to be the deciding factor.

The team's next meet is Jan. 31 against Ypsilanti. Acker says, "We will be back in full strength by then."
