NEW CHELSEA LUMBER CO. SALES AREA: This is a portion of the customer sales floor and cash-out counter at the new Chelsea Lumber Co. office, 1 Old Barn Circle. The firm opened for business at its new location last Wednesday morning after moving from the N. Main St. site it has occupied for 60 years through three generations of ownership by the Daniels family.

Chelsea Lumber Co. Completing Move to New, Larger Facility

Chelsea Lumber Co. opened for business at its new location, 1 Old Barn Circle, last Wednesday morning amid the normal confusion which accompanies a move, be it a small household or a large retailer.

The site is off S. Main St. (M-52) about a quarter-mile south of Old US-12, directly west of the Faust-Morrow auto sales agency. It is easily spotted from the road by the big red barn which is part of the lumber firm's complex of buildings.

Retail operations at the lumber company's former location, at N. Main and North Sts., have been discontinued, according to Robert Daniels, co-owner of the firm.

"We still have several days of moving to finish up," Daniels said, "but we are 'in business' at the new location and will get all of our stock and fixtures out there just as soon as we can."

The opening occurred about six weeks behind schedule, thanks to the rain and mud which have characterized this abnormally mild winter. Weather conditions delayed construction of the office and display building, and of the six materials storage sheds. Some of the latter are still being worked on.

The parking lot is muddy but driveable. Visitors are well advised to wear boots or rubbers, at least until and unless the ground freezes. The lot will be black-topped as soon as weather permits.

The 9,600-square-foot sales building is finished in rough-sawn wood inside and out, is brightly lit and conveniently laid out with wide aisles and attractive shelving which invite shoppers to look around. There are several alcove room-type displays of cabinet ware and other building supplies.

The new building provides about twice as much display space as the old one did. The parking lot is spacious, in marked contrast to the cramped and crowded area at the old location. It is easy to get in and out.

Chelsea Lumber will continue to offer essentially the same products and services that it has in the past, catering to both contractors and home-owners. Advice and assistance on do-it-yourself repair and remodeling projects will remain a major service to customers.

The company markets in an area encompassing a radius of about 30 miles in all directions from Chelsea. It is said to be the most complete lumber and building supply outlet within that circle.

Chelsea Milling To Start Building In May or June

Chelsea Milling Co. will begin expanding onto the old Chelsea Lumber Co. site "in May or June," according to Howard Holmes, president and co-owner of the firm.

The milling company, which makes and markets "Jiffy Mix" products, will build a new manufacturing plant on the site vacated by Chelsea Lumber. The plant will house mixing and packaging operations.

Holmes said he hopes to preserve the lumber company's sales and office building which fronts on N. Main St. at North St. "and use it to our advantage." Other structures on the site—sheds for storage of lumber and other materials—will be torn down to make way for the new plant.

Chelsea Milling is also seeking to buy property on the north side of North St., across from its present offices, to expand parking space for employees and visitors. "Our plans and our timetable are still not quite complete," Holmes said, "but I think it is safe to say that we will begin work in May or June."

The new plant will have a floor area of about 130,000 square feet and will be four or five stories tall. The final design will not be completed until soil test borings are made following demolition of the lumber sheds.

The plant will operate on a gravity-flow principle. Flour and other ingredients for Jiffy Mixes will be elevated to the top of the building and mixed together at successive lower levels. The finished mixes will be stored on the ground floor for packaging and shipping.

The present manufacturing plant will remain in use. Chelsea Milling plans to get into the market for institutional (hospital and restaurant) food mixes. Its existing operation is geared to family-sized packages of dry ingredients for biscuits, cakes, brownies, muffins, pie crust, pizza dough and frosting.

Ike Kozminskis Plan Giant 'Egg Factory' Near Stockbridge

Imagine 100,000 egg-laying hen chickens in one building and multiply it by six, and you have an idea of the "egg factory" that Mr. and Mrs. Ike Kozminsky, Chelsea dairy farmers and business persons, are planning to develop.

The facility, designed to produce 13 million dozen eggs a year—or 156 million single eggs if you like really big numbers—will be built on an 180-acre site on Kane Rd. just northeast of Stockbridge in Ingham county, and will employ 40 to 50 people when complete and in operation.

All that remains for the project to go ahead is sale of $10 million worth of bonds by Ingham County's Economic Development Corp., which has approved raising that amount to assist agriculture-related enterprises with low interest loans.

Kozminski Enterprises is slated to receive a substantial portion of the bond issue in the form of loans to help finance the egg factory which has estimated investment costs of $5.3 million.

The Ingham County Board of Commissioners has approved the project and the bond sale.

The facility will consist of six buildings, each 100,000 square feet in size, and into each building will be installed 100,000 hens, or one per square foot. The job of the hens is to lay eggs at the rate of approximately one per day each.

The birds are kept in cages, and are fed and watered with automated systems. The cages are designed so that the eggs roll into troughs or chutes, and are conveyed to a central point where they are collected and packaged for shipment. It's a far cry from the old barnyard chicken flock housed in a coop.

The operation will use about 26,000 tons of feed, mostly corn, annually. It will be purchased locally, and that is a key to the plan.

"Most of the corn grown in this area is shipped out of state, and most of the eggs consumed in Michigan are imported from other states," Mrs. Kozminsky explained. "It makes sense to put the two together here locally."

"We believe we can produce eggs for three or four cents a dozen less than it costs retailers to buy them from outside Michigan, and that is the opportunity we see."

The Kozminskis have a tentative agreement with a major Detroit grocery chain to sell their eggs.

Asked where one goes about buying 600,000 laying hens, Mrs. Kozminski said there are dealers who supply the birds in such large quantities. After the hens pass the peak of their laying powers, they will be sold to a processor for conversion into chicken soup.

Mrs. Kozminski said she and her husband have no plans to get into the business of raising frying chickens—another production-line poultry enterprise—at this time, but that it could be a future possibility.

The Kozminskis live at 4678 Peckins Rd. south of Chelsea, where they carry on a dairy farming operation involving about 100 cows. They also own and manage extensive rental real estate holdings in Ann Arbor.

Residential Building Project Proposed on 8-Acre Site in Village

An architect's sketch showing a plan for 42 clustered one and two-story dwelling units to be developed on an eight-acre tract on Chelsea's southwest side was presented to the village council last Tuesday night.

Owner of the property—which is bounded by Wilkinson, Chandler, Grant and Wellington Sts.—is Marvin Salyer of 314 Washington St. Salyer was not present at the council meeting, and was represented by realtor Robert Thornton.

Immediate question before the council is whether to permit connections from the proposed dwellings to the village sewer system. The council deferred an answer at least until its March 1 meeting.

Village Administrator Frederick A. Weber said there are trunkline sewers along the streets which surround the property but that connecting lines would have to be installed, presumably at the developer's expense.

The village sewage treatment plant is presently operating at near capacity and on some days is forced to discharge untreated overloads into Letts Creek. The excesses occur in large part because of illegal connections between the stormwater and sanitary sewer systems, which are supposed to be separate.

"We plan to do some work on that problem later this year," Weber said, "and I am confident we can relieve some of the pressure on the treatment plant and provide some additional capacity."

Beyond that, the village is under state order not only to expand the sewage plant but also to upgrade its treatment processes to remove more wastes from the effluent. A $4.5 million blueprint to modernize the plant, prepared by an Ohio consulting engineering firm, is ready to go, but the necessary financing is not in sight. State and federal grants for such work have largely dried up during the economic recession, and it remains to be seen when or if they will be resumed.

"I hope that some way can be found to allow this (Salyer) project to go ahead," Weber said. "There hasn't been a residential building permit issued in Chelsea since 1979. We need something to get things going again."

MILO VOGEL has purchased Rick's Market north of Chelsea on M-52 near Werkner Rd. and plans to reopen it as a party and convenience store as soon as he can get necessary state licenses and permits transferred into his name. Vogel also owns and operates the Huron Creek Party Store on Dexter-Pinckney Rd.

M. Vogel Buys Rick's Market

Milo Vogel of 8500 Werkner Rd. has purchased Rick's Market on M-52 north of Chelsea and plans to reopen the business as a convenience store. Target date for the opening is early May.

Vogel, who owns and operates the Huron Creek Party Store at 100 Dexter-Pinckney Rd., said his plans are contingent on the transfer of alcoholic beverage licenses and a "clean bill of health" from the state Department of Agriculture.

"I've bought the place subject to those conditions," he explained. "I don't expect any problems, but I'm not going to do anything (on the site) until I have all the pieces of paper in my hands."

The "pieces of paper" include a package liquor license and a beer and wine takeout license, now held by Terry Rickerman, former owner of the property. The Michigan Liquor control Commission must approve the transfers, and Vogel said he expects it will take about 90 days for the paper work to be completed.

In addition, Vogel needs an operating permit from the Department of Agriculture's food inspection division, which ordered the market closed in October, 1980, after a routine fumigating job went wrong. The chemical applied by Orkin, a nation-wide fumigating specialty firm, contaminated foods in the store and left residues which were declared potentially toxic.

First Robins Reported

Betty Salyer, a Chelsea school district bus driver, called The Standard with the first sightings of robins this "spring."

Ms. Salyer, driver of bus 2, saw two of them perched and chirping on a bridge on Bowditch at 7:40 a.m. yesterday. She says she hopes to get a photograph of them sometime this week.

GRAND CANYON BOUND: Charles and Ruth Cameron, both 68, of Freer Rd. are going to make their first back packing trip a six-day hike in and out of the Grand Canyon. They are practicing for it by carrying 28-pound packs and making laps of their driveway—55 laps equals five miles. Their daughter and son-in-law, Carol and Edward Lauson, are making the hike also in a trip sponsored by Augustana College. The Camerons were inspired by Millie Smith, 80, who made her first canyon hike after age 75, said Mrs. Cameron.

A plan to add two softball fields, a parking lot, bleachers and a restroom to Veteran's Park was presented to village council last week by Fred Barkley, special projects and grants director. He is negotiating with Dana Corp. on a 5.6 acre parcel they own for the project. If he gets the go-ahead from all parties involved, he will apply for a matching grant from the Department of Natural Resources to cover the expected $150,160 park development cost.

Max Steger lost a $65 hubcap to a pothole on Freer Rd. while driving to his midnight shift at Chrysler Proving Grounds last week. When he returned the next day to look for it, he found six others. They turned the other hubcaps in to the Chelsea Public Works Department, which filled the pothole later that day.

Budget Cuts Delayed Until

Action on Income Tax

Governor James J. Blanchard has declared he will not press for budget cuts until the Legislature acts on his proposal to raise the state personal income tax rate.

At the same time, however, state department directors were informed to hold spending to the governor's target levels as if the $225 million in budget cuts were approved.

Directors were told to hold vacancies open, hold expenditures in line with the proposed cuts and refrain from new expenditures that would require legislative approval.

The budget cuts will be subject to more negotiations than will his proposed 1.75 percentage point increase in the income tax. "We're going to see a simultaneous package," he said.

Originally, the governor intended to issue the budget-cutting order within a couple of weeks of the Jan. 26 State of the State message. However, Management and Budget Director Phillip Jourdan said the decision to go with a single tax increase-budget cut package was reached following consultation with legislative leaders.

Jourdan said leaders suggested it would be better to issue one budget-cutting order rather than be forced to seek approval of a second one if the Legislature refused to support enough additional taxes to erase the remaining deficit.

Blanchard also defended his estimate that the deficit this year will be at least $900 million, saying the Senate Fiscal Agency's estimate of about $680 million is way too optimistic.

He said the past administration of Governor Milliken and past

Legislatures acted in a bipartisan manner, and in best of intention, to sweep budget problems under the rug.

Although many legislators have indicated a desire to rely on the lower deficit estimated, Jourdan said he and the governor have been and will continue to meet with lawmakers to try to convince them "our numbers are right."

He noted at best, the deficit would be at least $850 million and could easily top $1 billion. "This is not a worst case scenario by any stretch. We're just shading it toward the pessimistic end."

Michigan Is 14th in

Alcohol Problems

Michigan ranks 14th among the 48 contiguous states in terms of alcohol problems according to a study by the National Institute of Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism.

Compared to the other industrial Great Lakes states, Michigan ranked far worst in alcohol-related problems than six states—Illinois, 32nd; Ohio, 33rd; Pennsylvania, 35th; Wisconsin, 37th; Indiana, 38th and Minnesota, 43rd.

The study was based on alcohol-related mortality rates on a per capita basis, using deaths attributable to cirrhosis, alcoholic psychosis, alcoholism, alcoholic poisoning, highway fatalities, suicides and homicides.

A total of 17 separate factors—including unemployment, education levels and population density—were studied as contributing factors to alcohol problems.

The state with the worst alcohol problems was New Mexico, with Nevada number two.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

If the seed catalogs come, Ed Doolittle ask at the country store Saturday night, can spring be far behind? He said his old lady got in her usual supply of garden wish books two weeks ago, and she's been spending far to much time by the whither talking about cold frames and hot beds and where he's going to help her put this, that and the other at the first hint of spring. Ed said whoever claimed that hope springs eternal must of run a seed mail order house.

General speaking, the fellers were not as ready to listen to Ed's early plans to be included out of his old lady's early gardening plans as they were in more problems and solutions that was discussed the week before. It was Bug Hookum that said Congress had a remedy for mid-winter blahs better than looking at seed catalogs. Bug had saw where one of every 10 members had urgent public business in warmer places during the long January recess. This clipping Bug had showed where 10 senators and 50 representatives was investigating human rights, inspecting defenses and building up trade all over the warm world, especial Brazil, where they got $72 a day for living expenses.

Them honorables have a dirty job, Zeke Grubb agreed, but somebody's got to do it. Zeke went on to report where a judge in Georgia come up recent with a solution to fit a problem. He sentenced a 18-year-old boy to staying away from video games for 10 years, which Zeke said struck him as hard as having to stay out of downtown Cleveland for the rest of your life. But the judge was just trying to keep the boy from burning houses. His folks wanted to move out of town away from the games he was hooked on. They rented one house and it burned. They rented another and it burned right after the boy took a gas can and matches in a taxi to and from the scene.

Clem Webster said folks in Seattle have been taking another route to git what they want. Vets noticed a sharp rise in the number of calls for drugs for big sick dogs. They knowed there was just so many 160 pound Great Danes in the city, and they figured there was a heap more 160 pound people. Now, Clem said, the vets want to see the dogs before they subscribe the medicine.

Some times a solution is simple and some times not, Bug declared. He had saw where the Denver Symphony that has started giving cough drops to music lovers has found the investment paying off because paying customers don't want to hear a coughing concert. And one school in California where tobacco chewing has caught on had to settle for second best. It ask chewers not to spit on smokers unless smokers blow smoke on chewers.

Speaking of California, Mister Editor, I see Beverly Hills High School has a problem ever school would welcome. Students there can't use their soccer field because they got oil wells on it pumping 3,000 barrels a day and pumping $100,000 a month into the school budget.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

ON YOUR FEET

INFLAMED ARCHES

If you are feeling pain or a burning sensation on the underside of your foot, you may be suffering from an inflammation of the longitudinal arch. This condition should be treated as soon as possible to avoid the bony protrusion known as heel spur.

The inflammation is caused by stress, either through an injury to the foot or a structural imbalance that can be corrected. Stress to the foot may cause the plantar fascia, (the fibrous tissue that stretches from the heel to the toes) to become inflamed. Left untreated, the strain on foot muscles may cause ligaments to tear and bleed. This can lead to new tissue that calcifies into a bony protrusion in the heel area.

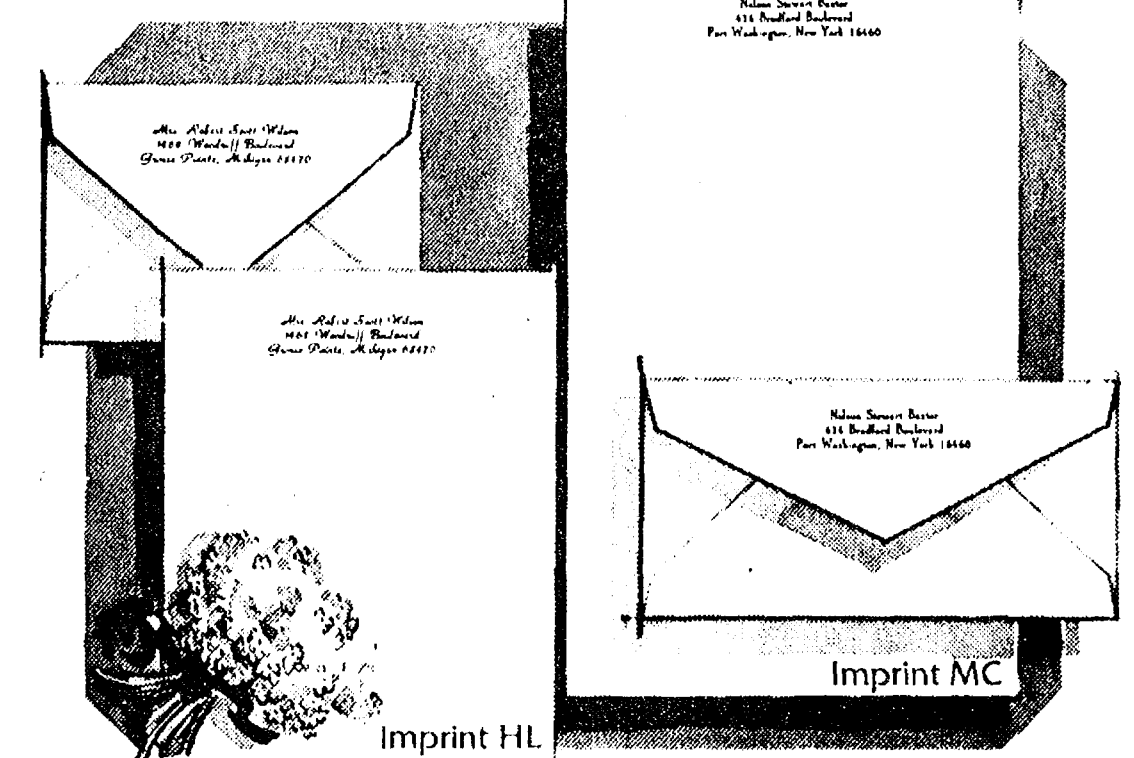

Resting your foot can help bring some relief. So can foot strapping to help bring the structure back into balance. An ultrasound technique may also be used. In this method sound waves at very high frequencies are focused on the afflicted area, the equivalent of a deep massage to relieve the pain.

FUNERAL HOME

IS A FUNERAL NECESSARY?

Death is one of the most difficult losses we can experience—especially the death of a family member or spouse.

The wake and funeral services can be "tools" that help us accept the fact of death and permanent separation as the real thing. The wake becomes a time of consolation to those who have experienced the loss—a time for friends to SHARE their grief.

The funeral helps us remember the life of the lost one. It provides strength for the family and friends and communicates to all those attending that this life is now permanently separated from ours.

It is my experience that some who do not attend the funeral of a loved and close one suffer more afterwards. The funeral can become the first stepping stone to the rebuilding of our own lives without the presence of the deceased.

Call us if you'd like more helpful information and booklets on the subject of funerals.

Whole Grain Bread Workshop Stated By Comm. Ed. Dept.

The aroma of oven-fresh breads is hard to beat, and so is the flavor and nutritional value of the loaves that you make yourself! Several different kinds of whole grain breads will be made and tasted during the "Breads!" workshop being offered through Chelsea Community Education. This three-hour workshop will meet from 9 a.m. to noon on Saturday, March 5 in the home economics room at Chelsea High school.

Participants will learn how whole grain breads can add important nutritional value to family meals while helping to cut down on the food bill. Some of the delicious breads that will be sampled are "herbed dinner rolls," "honey whole wheat bread," and "sesame oatmeal rolls." Each person will participate in the mixing, kneading, and rising of the bread of their choice, and will have a loaf to take home and bake after the final rising.

This workshop is similar to one that was taught last fall by Teresa Freed, author and publisher of The Foodletter. She is repeating it because of the enthusiastic response from the participants. Not only is it informative, but it also is a lot of fun. You may register for the workshop by calling the Chelsea Community Education Offices at 475-9830. The fee is $6.50 per person, and participants should bring a medium-sized bread pan.

Kiwanis Club Travel Film Features Holland

Chelsea Kiwanis Club will present the fifth in its "Travel and Adventure Series," "Let's Go Dutch" by Stanley Paulauskas, at 8 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 26 at Chelsea High school auditorium.

In "Let's Go Dutch" Paulauskas found that in spite of their continual conflict with the sea, the Dutch have succeeded in creating one of the most vital and viable states in Europe.

Although densely populated, Dutch cities are gracious and charming. The evening will include a visit to Amsterdam, Rotterdam and the Hague, with a chance to see the ingenuity of inspired urban planning. Art treasures by Vermeer, Rembrandt and Van Gogh are also included in the film.

One will explore the tranquil green countryside, which offers unlimited opportunities for the sport and nature lover.

One will also discover the richness of Dutch traditions.

Paulauskas grew up in the Cleveland, O., area. His home was next door to League Park, so one of his first loves was baseball.

He is particularly motivated to know and understand different cultures in depth. He allows himself time when traveling to look at countries closely. When he traveled through the U.S.S.R., he spent three months in Lithuania.

STANLEY PAULASKAS

visiting relatives and absorbing the culture first hand.

He communicates his cultural interest in his lively, informative films and narration.

Chelsea women's fast pitch softball team will sell coffee, hot chocolate and cookies at intermission.

In 1902, a two-month strike of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union (AFL) was settled by providing preferential union hiring, a board of grievances and a board of arbitration. This laid the foundation for the "impartial chairman" method of settling labor disputes, according to a publication of the U.S. Department of Labor.

KANSAS IN MICHIGAN: Bart Bauer, scenic designer, arranges corn for the scarecrow (Thad Bell) to guard for Chelsea High school's production of the musical, "The Wizard of Oz." Karen Moore, a sophomore jitterbug dancer in the show, and Rob Moore, a senior, work on Dorothy's Kansas home. Students will perform Feb. 24-26 at the high school auditorium.

THE WICKED WITCH (Marie Sullivan) and her skeleton butler (Phoebe Strong) practice a menacing welcome for Dorothy (Amy Wolter) and the tinman (Mike Smith). Chelsea High school students will present the musical, "The Wizard of Oz," Feb. 24-26 at the high school auditorium.

'Wizard of Oz' Opens Thursday

"The Wizard of Oz," a musical which Chelsea High school students will perform at 8 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 24, and Friday, Feb. 25, and at 3 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 26 at the high school auditorium, is a "great show for children and a light fun evening for adults as well," says Tamara Barbret, director and high school vocal instructor.

The first rehearsal with the 25-piece pit orchestra conducted by Carol Palms went very well, said Ms. Barbret, a good omen for opening night.

Tickets, sold at Chelsea Pharmacy, are selling well, so anyone interested in the show may want to buy soon versus later.

Mayor of the munchkins (Tom Mull) and the munchkin farmer (Carrie Parkins) will guide the audience through Oz.

* A Parent's Guide to the Testing Program

THE CRITERION-REFERENCED AND NORM-REFERENCED TESTS
(Second of a Two-Part Article)

There are two major kinds of tests. The most familiar is called a "criterion-referenced" test in which standards are set up in advance to measure performance. An example would be a 10-question spelling test which every student with seven or more right answers passes. The so-called "competency" tests have come into wide use throughout the country in recent years. These are criterion-referenced tests, in that students must get a certain score in order to pass, thus to graduate or be promoted. They are designed to show certain students have reached a particular level of skill or knowledge in a subject area. They are developed at the state or local level and are not standardized nationally.

The second major test is the "norm-referenced" test in which a student's score is compared to the average score achieved by a nation-wide sampling of students. Standardized aptitude and achievement tests are norm-referenced tests, and scores are given in relation to a national norm. Remember, the norm has nothing to do with passing or failing; it is simply a middle point. On any norm-referenced test, half of the students nationally will score above the norm and half below.

The I.Q. test is probably the most familiar example of a norm-referenced test. The norm of I.Q. test is 100. Half score above 100 and half below. Thus, if a student scores around 100, he/she has an "average" I.Q. There are no magic boundaries when above average becomes genius or below average becomes retarded, but as scores get farther away from the norm, more special attention should be given to programming. I.Q. tests do not actually measure "intelligence." At best they measure a child's ability to do school work. I.Q. scores can change from year to year, depending on a variety of factors. So it is best not to conclude that I.Q. scores are permanent.

Test scores tell us how one student's performance compares to that of others in the same age group or grade, and they help us identify a student's strong or weak area. A variety of factors can have an effect on students' scores, such as how he or she feels on the day the test was given, conditions in the test room, advance preparation given by the school, and many others. Tests are not perfect and do not give us all the answers about each student.

Test scores do, however, give a point of comparison and can help us understand each student better. By checking scores from year to year, scores in different areas, aptitude and achievement scores, test scores and classroom progress, and by using personal understanding of each student, schools can develop improved programs to serve one another better. Used properly, aptitude and achievement tests can be a powerful educational tool.

Needy Families Share in 20 Cases of Donated Foods

Chelsea Social Services and Faith in Action received 20 cases of canned goods to share Feb. 16, their portion of Elias Brothers fourth annual "Can-Do" food project.

Collection boxes were set up in the restaurants between Thanksgiving and Christmas for customers to make donations. This year response at the Chelsea Elias Brothers was much more than in other years of the drive, said Bill Nilan, owner. Community members filled several large boxes a week with canned goods. The food was divided among four southeastern Michigan counties. Washtenaw's share was three tons.

Volunteers at Huron Harvest Food Bank, a private agency in the county for food distribution, packaged each community's portion with a variety of vegetables, fruit and meat canned goods.

It is hard to tell how many in this community are going hungry, say representatives of social services and Faith in Action. Many will go without rather than ask for food.

Faith in Action has had more requests for food in the last week, when they officially opened their house near the emergency entrance of Chelsea Community Hospital.

Usually it isn't the hungry person himself who makes the request, but a neighbor, friend or relative who knows about the bare refrigerator.

Chelsea will get another shipment of canned goods in a few weeks from General Motors Corp.'s food collection, said Linda Ormsby, director of Chelsea Social Services. GM hopes to continue their drive through April, which would mean Chelsea would be getting canned goods from that drive through June.

Social services has been promised a shipment of government surplus cheese in March, their first since October, said Ormsby. They will distribute it at the Faith in Action house when they get it. In the past, social services has distributed it in the municipal parking lot, which has no shelter if the weather is bad.

FOOD FOR CHELSEA: Faith in Action and Chelsea Social Services split a shipment of 20 cases of canned and non-perishable food collected at Elias Restaurants and delivered to the Faith in Action house by members of the Huron Harvest Food Bank Feb. 16. The food bank distributes donated food to food programs around the county. Linda Ormsby, left, director of social services, is holding potatoes from a box. Florence Wessel, a Faith in Action volunteer, holds her son Brian. Jim Wilkes, Carl Squires and Jim Green are from the food bank.

Seva Helps Needy With Food Program

Although Seva Foundation of Chelsea may be better known for its blindness prevention programs in Nepal and India, it is now using its fund raising expertise and contacts to help with the local food crisis.

Ravi Khanna, Seva outreach co-ordinator, asked Polly's Market management for old bread. A collection box near the front door was set up for customers' donations of non-perishable food stuffs.

Khanna picked up about 100 loaves of bread and 50 packages of hot dog and hamburger buns in two recent visits. He delivers these in a truck donated by a man in Ann Arbor to either local food programs sponsored by Faith in Action or Chelsea Social Services, and other programs such as Second Baptist church of Ann Arbor's family food program, St. Andrew's Episcopal church's breakfast and overnight shelter program, and Jackson's Community Pantry and Union Food Bank.

He asked Midwest Natural Foods of Ann Arbor and Eden Food Distributors of Clinton for donations of food whose containers are bashed or dented but the food is still fine. He picked up about 900 pounds at the two distributors Feb. 9 and delivered them to Huron Harvest Food Bank, which distributes to food programs throughout the county. Seva has been asking people around the world for things and money for some time, so it knows how to approach potential donors, said Khanna. Seva has helped volunteers at Second Baptist church set up a budget and plans to show them ways to make those all important networks and contacts.

Although some food programs can only give the needy food for three days a month, those going to Second Baptist may get food for three days and come back again when they need more.

Seva plans to make an appeal to its list of 8,000 contributors around the country to help with the Michigan food crisis in March, said Khanna.

He would also like to expand the local network of contributors to other food stores and farmers with surplus crops.

The food crisis is an appropriate project for Seva, said Khanna, because it's in the "spirit of Seva" to help the needy.

For further information, call him at 475-1351.

In 1920, the Women's Bureau was established in the Department of Labor by an act of Congress.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor,

A summer of 1965 edition of DSGR (Detroit Society of Genealogical Research) Magazine mentions that the death of member Miss Edna G. Olds of Detroit and Chelsea occurred in February of that year. I am hoping someone in your readership will remember of Miss Olds and can advise me of names and locations of a few next of kin.

I am doing genealogical research and am eager to make contact with any descendants of Edna's Vermont-born grandfather, Henry Elias Olds (1827-1871), who was the only brother of my great-grandfather, Samuel N. Olds, late of Spencer-ville, Ind.

Council Delays Bid On Auditing

Chelsea Village Council last Tuesday night voted to delay awarding a contract to conduct the annual audit of the village financial records.

Administrator Frederick A. Weber said the apparent low bid was submitted by an out-of-the-county accounting business, but that there is a question whether the bid is "firm" or not.

The contract is expected to be let at the March 1 council meeting.

Jeffrey Eibler on Deans List at Northern Michigan

Jeffrey Eibler of Chelsea was named to the Dean's List for the fall semester at Northern Michigan University in Marquette. To qualify for the honor, a student must have between a 3.25 and 3.99 grade point average.

ORCHESTRA FUND-RAISER: Susan Schmunk, an eighth grade Beach Middle school cello player, sold Warren Mayer, middle school band director, the first box of Reese's Pieces last week. Orchestra students are selling the candy through Feb. 23 for music camp scholarships and other orchestra expenses.

more than a million dollars, and an out-of-court settlement was reached late last year. Meanwhile, the federal Environmental Protection Agency has certified that the chemical hazard is gone and the store can be reopened, but the Department of Agriculture has to issue a permit.

"I'm going to conduct a clean and safe operation," Vogel said. "There is no other way to do business."

His plans include removing the existing fixtures from the building and replacing the wall paneling and parts of the floor, in addition to clean-up and maintenance work on the outside of the 2.9-acre property.

"This place has been neglected for more than two years," Vogel said. "There's a lot to be done, and I'm ready to tackle it. I'm convinced the location is good and the business potential is there. The store did well before (the fumigating accident), and I'm sure it can again."

Vogel said he will open the business as Vogel's Party Store, specializing in liquor, beer and wine and basic groceries. In the future could be specialty meats.

and other gourmet foods and, possibly, gasoline pumps.

"We'll start out pretty simply and see how things go," he said.

Vogel, who retired six years ago after working for 25 years as a printer at the Ann Arbor News, said his wife, Lois, will have primary responsibility for managing the store while he looks after the Huron Creek operation.

Also involved will be the Vogels' son, Jeff, his wife, Patty, and the Vogels' daughter, Sherry Herter.

"It will be a family business," Vogel said. "We all live in the area, and we like it. We want to serve the local community and, naturally, make a little money."

Vogel declined to disclose the purchase price on the property, saying his agreement with Rick-erman included a provision that the selling price not be made public.

Fair Board Notes

Arrangements are being made to clean up the wooded area along the southwest boundary of the Chelsea Community Fair grounds, it was announced at the regular fair board meeting Feb. 17 at the fair grounds. Some of the trees have been marked to keep for shade or beauty.

The bonding of the treasurer will be processed, and the audit committee gave their progress report. Fair superintendents also discussed sheep entries and will continue looking at that topic at future meetings.

CHELSEA SENIOR CITIZENS' KITCHEN BAND gave their first performance at North school earlier this month and were dressed appropriately for Laura Ingalls Wilder week. The band formed after local seniors saw a Jackson kitchen band play at the Chelsea fair. Their performance was particularly appropriate to Laura Ingalls Wilder week, since that type of entertainment was common to the time Wilder's 11 books describe. Attending their performance was a treat to fourth graders Justin White, left; Jason Scripser, playing the kazoo, and Preston Gustine, because they had all read at least four Wilder books. Band members are tambourine player Jim Shadoan, left; Mary Malott, singer; Allyn Kaercher, kazoo; and Jennie Walz, wash tub drum.

"SCHOOL DAYS, SCHOOL DAYS": Don and Mary Parsons sang this song for North school students during Laura Ingalls Wilder week earlier this month. He is carrying books over his shoulder, and she has a slate on which she wrote, "I love you so." They were accompanied by members of the kitchen band, Jennie Walz, wash tub drum; Jim Shadoan, tambourine; Mary Malott, singer; Ed Elsner, mandolin; Annabelle Gouchanour, piano; and Rita Collins, brushes on a pan. Standing behind her are Allyn Kaercher, Mildred Collier, Vivian May and Mildred Fish.

Special Olympics Bowling Tournament Held Saturday

Chelsea Lions Club, assisted by Chelsea Lioness Club, sponsored its second annual Chelsea Area Special Olympics Bowling Tournament Saturday, Feb. 19 at Chelsea Lanes.

Trophies and ribbons were presented to winners and the 85 handicapped students ranging in age from seven to 26 who participated. They represented St. Louis school for Boys, Chelsea High school, Beach Middle school, South school, Wylie Middle school, Dexter High school, Manchester and the Island Lake Group Home.

Nancy Cooper, special education teacher at Chelsea High school, co-ordinated the tournament.

Washtenaw county Special Olympics bowling tournament will be held April 15 at Belmark Lanes. Chelsea High school will host a Special Olympics track and field meet for handicapped students from Chelsea, Dexter and High Point schools May 13.

Three Detroiters Charged With Theft From Fishing Shanty

Warrants have been authorized against three Detroit area men accused of breaking into and looting an ice fishing shanty on Little Portage Lake. They are charged with larceny under $100, a misdemeanor.

The stolen items included several pieces of ice fishing gear, and have been recovered, sheriff's officers said.

Prison Warden Addresses Lions

Dale E. Foltz, warden of the State Prison of Southern Michigan, described the prison's facilities and inmate programs to the Chelsea Lions Club at their regular dinner meeting Tuesday, Feb. 15 at The Wolverine Lounge.

The average recidivism (return to prison) rate for the nearly 6,000 inmates is 55 percent, he said. In contrast, the return rate for the approximately 500 inmates attending education classes and working on college studies is 1 percent. Felons entering the prison average an education grade level of 5.6.

Many of the inmates work in several industries maintained at the prison. They farm 1,000 acres, and their products are distributed to the prison and other state facilities.

The prison manufactures textiles, office furniture and license plates. Cloth and furniture products are supplied to other state and municipal agencies.

One noteworthy and unusual program at the prison is the transcribing of written material such as books, Sears catalogues and restaurant menus into braille form. The braille versions are then distributed throughout the country for blind persons. This project is sponsored by the Lions Clubs of Michigan.

Foltz said the elimination of "good time" sentence reductions, passed by statewide referendum several years ago, has definitely contributed to additional overcrowding and disciplinary problems.

Six full-time lawyers are maintained in Lansing by the state, he said, to defend him and his staff in lawsuits, many of which are frivolous, brought by prisoners, who have liberal legal rights in bringing suits.

Foltz said he was opposed to capital punishment as a deterrent to murder.

He recently celebrated 25 years of employment with the Michigan Department of Corrections. Foltz received his Bachelors degree from Michigan State University and his Masters degree from Eastern Michigan University.

Village Bakery Plans Delayed

Reopening of the Village Bakery at 103 W. Middle St. will be delayed beyond the hoped-for March 1 date because of problems in working out an insurance settlement on the Jan. 14 fire which badly damaged the building.

"We had hoped to have reconstruction work under way long before now," said John Muncer, who owns the business with his wife, Phyllis, "but we haven't been able to reach an agreement with our insurance company. We're still negotiating. I have no idea right now what our timetable is. We want to reopen just as soon as possible, but the insurance settlement has to come first. Then we'll hire contractors and push things along as fast as we can."

Checking for Cause of Fire

The fire which destroyed a house at 8250 Mester Rd. in Lyndon township on Feb. 5 remains under investigation, according to a Chelsea fire department spokesman.

Samples of materials from the burned-out house have been sent to the State Police crime laboratory in Lansing for analysis. It usually takes several weeks for a report to come back.

The house, owned by Dr. V.P. Laursen of Ypsilanti, was vacant at the time of the fire. Tenants had moved out three days earlier.

There is a suspicion of arson but no proof of any kind, a department investigator said.

CATS SERVICE TO EXPAND: This van-type bus will be seen more frequently around town beginning about March 1 as the Chelsea Area Transportation System (CATS) expands its service to six days a week. Pictured with the bus are drivers Maynard Poertner and Marvin Schiller.

CATS Bus Service Will Be Expanded to 6 Days Per Week

Chelsea Area Transportation System (CATS) will expand its services to senior citizens and the handicapped beginning about March 1.

Plans call for operating the van-type bus all day Monday through Friday and a half-day on Saturday, said Al Fellhauer, personnel chairman for CATS. It presently runs all day on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday, and half a day on Wednesday.

Fellhauer said a new driver has been hired, which will give the service three regular drivers each working on a part-time basis. The bus does not run a regular scheduled route but responds to calls for service. Scheduled route service is a future possibility.

Thanks to increased local financial support—from the United Way, service clubs, private businesses and individuals, and local governments—the state grant to CATS has been increased, Fellhauer said. The higher level of funding from all combined sources will make the expanded service possible.

"We've had excellent response from the community to our appeal for additional money, and the state has recognized that by raising its grant," Fellhauer said.

Dave Scriven, president of the CATS board of directors, said ridership on the bus is running at the rate of about 8,000 per year, and estimates that 150-200 individuals take most of those rides.

Mileage on the bus is piling up at the rate of about 15,000 miles per year, and the seven-year-old vehicle is going to have to be replaced soon, Scriven said. Its odometer shows more than 85,000 miles, and maintenance costs are rising.

"The way the rules are written right now, we could get 100 percent state funding for a new bus whenever they agree that we need one, but you just can't depend on the promise of state money these days," Scriven said. "Local support will remain the backbone of our operation."

In that connection, CATS will sponsor a benefit banquet on March 7 at Chelsea Community Hospital, with all proceeds going to help operate the service. The affair will begin with hors

Doug Eder and Ishmael Picklesimer. The small, speedy vehicle will be "first out of the garage" on rural fire calls where getting to the scene quickly is all important. It carries four men, 250 gallons of water and a variety of other equipment.

ENCORE, the 10th anniversary celebration of the Chelsea Players will feature Al Townsend and the Ambassadors. Chelsea resident, Al Townsend, former first trombonist with the famous Gene Krupa Orchestra, is the leader of the 17-piece dance orchestra. Tickets for the March 5 event are available at Merkel Furniture or from any Chelsea Players board member.

Monte Carlo Night Planned For March 5

A once popular entertainment event in Chelsea's 149-year history is about to be revived. Chelsea will again celebrate a Monte Carlo Night in which hundreds of "millionaires" will gamble and gambol into the wee hours of the morning.

The 1983 event will begin at 8 p.m. Saturday, March 5, and end at 2 a.m. the next morning. It will be held at the Chelsea American Legion Post 31 Home, 1700 Ridge Rd., Cavanaugh Lake.

Ticket holders will each be awarded a money supply of one million (Monte Carlo) dollars to begin play at various card and dice games. Additional playing money may be bought as needed, along with refreshments.

The evening will close with an auction of valuable prizes furnished by Chelsea merchants. Auctioneer will be Loren Heller.

Monte Carlo Night, which has been featured by other organizations in former years, is being staged by the Chelsea Rod and Gun Club in partnership with the American Legion. The event will have the sanction of the Michigan Department of Lottery. Proceeds will be used by Rod and Gun Club members to support their conservation activities and by the Legion for its programs in patriotism and citizenship.

Persons or groups, in addition to conservation club members or Legionnaires, are invited to enjoy the festive affair and become millionaires, too. Tickets may be obtained at Strieter's Men's Wear or at the Chelsea office of the Ann Arbor Trust Co.

For People Who Want To Quit Working Someday

ANN ARBOR TRUST'S DESIRABLE RETIREMENT PLAN

Everyone should be able to enter retirement with sufficient financial resources to enjoy this very special part of their life. But every day we hear of elderly persons whose savings have been gobbled up by inflation and taxes, and who can barely scrape by on their Social Security and limited pension benefits. You can avoid that possibility by opening an Individual Retirement Account (IRA).

Our DESIRABLE Retirement Plan allows you, as a working person, to contribute up to $2,000 each year to your IRA and deduct the entire contribution from your current taxable income.

If you've been wanting to save for retirement, but just can't seem to get started, you'll like our Floating Rate Account that allows you to make regular contributions of $25 or more after an opening deposit of just $100. You'll earn a high rate of interest, and the rate will be adjusted quarterly.

If you find it more convenient to make a deposit of $1,000 or more, you may prefer our Fixed Rate Account where the rate in effect when you make your opening deposit remains constant during the term of the deposit. Both of these plans offer terms of deposit ranging from 18 to 60 months. Interest is compounded quarterly, and each account is insured to $100,000. How's that for safety, convenience and flexibility?

Need more information? Just complete the form and we'll send you all the details. Don't delay taking this step towards a secure financial future.

Withdrawals from an IRA prior to age 59½ are subject to substantial tax penalties. If certificates of deposit are used, added penalties may also apply. Withdrawals must begin and no contributions may be made past age 70½.

Bulldog Cagers Go All Out To Defeat Lincoln in Title Chase

By Bill Millendore
Chelsea 71, Lincoln 68.

Those numbers don't begin to tell the story of a high school basketball game between two talented teams with a lot at stake who went at each other hammer-and-tongs for a full 32 minutes. It was one of the best contests this reporter has witnessed in 40 years of watching the sport. It was really too bad that somebody had to lose.

Not until David Wojcicki drove through heavy traffic for an unbelievable reverse left-handed layup while being body-blocked from behind by a frustrated Lincoln defender and then picked himself up off the floor to complete the three-point play with a perfect free throw was the result decided. That happened with nine seconds to go, and those three points proved to be the difference.

Wojcicki has taken some heavy hits on the football field, but he probably never has been whacked any harder than he was on that game-winning shot last Friday night. That he made it was a miracle, a tribute to his remarkable athletic talents.

It was some kind of basketball game, all the way.

The key to Chelsea's victory may have been that Lincoln's big and talented center, Eric Kedroske, drew his fourth personal foul early in the third quarter and had to sit out more than seven minutes of the second half.

That opened things up for Chelsea's David Kiel, even bigger and just as talented, to go to work inside, and Kiel came through with a performance that can only be described as outstanding and inspired.

Kedroske and Kiel are recognized as the two best "big men" in the Southeastern Conference, and Kiel came out with a clear advantage in the match-up. He scored 20 points to Kedroske's 18 and, more important, pulled down 15 rebounds to Kedroske's eight. More important yet, he kept out of foul trouble and was available when needed. His play underneath in the second half was wonderful to watch.

"When Kedroske had to sit down, it opened things up for us," an elated Chelsea coach Robin Raymond said. "Lincoln plays a tight zone defense, and Kedroske is the key man in the middle. With him not in there, we were able to work the ball inside and pick up some easy buckets."

"Easy" may not be the right word. Kiel battled for every one of his close-in two-pointers, going up with two or three defenders swarming all over him. On one occasion he had to try three times before getting the ball in.

Neither team led by more than seven points at any stage. Chelsea jumped out to an early 12-6 lead on some fancy inside and outside shooting by Wojcicki, who had a game-high 22 points for his night's work, 18 of them coming in the first half.

Lincoln — a talented bunch of sharpshooters from anywhere on the court — came back and trailed by just a point, 21-20, at the end of the furious-paced first quarter.

The Railsplitters had a little bit the better of the second quarter and at one stage took a 42-35 lead, only to have the Bulldogs reply with two buckets to close the score to 42-39 at intermission.

Chelsea played its usual good third quarter, grabbing the lead on a brilliant three-point play by Marty Steinhauer, and moving out to a 53-46 margin. The Railsplitters promptly charged back to be down by only two points, 55-53, at the end of the period.

Lincoln took advantage of two Chelsea turnovers for easy baskets early in the final period and pulled in front for the last time at 58-57. The Bulldogs answered that salvo with six points of their own and went ahead, 63-58, with four minutes to play.

Chelsea went into a slowdown game to run some time off the clock, but the strategy backfired as Lincoln got possession twice on steals and each time cut the gap to two, the last with just 18 seconds to go.

That set the stage for Wojcicki's game-winning effort. The Railsplitters came back with a field goal at the buzzer to trim the winning margin to three.

"We worked very hard and played very well, and so did Lincoln," Raymond summarized afterward. "It was an exceptionally good game. I'm happy we won it, but I don't want to take anything away from Lincoln. We had to be at our best to beat them."

The Railsplitters were a group of iron men. Four of their starters played the entire 32 minutes, and the only reason anybody from the bench got into the game was Kedroske's foul problem. Yet the Lincolmites did not appear to tire and were still running and gunning at the end.

Besides the two Davids — Wojcicki and Kiel — Chelsea got fine performances from Steinhauer with 12 points and Chuck Hager with 9, including four clutch fourth-quarter free throws. Dave Mann had a fine defensive game and Frank Waller, a surprise starter, played well in his unaccustomed role.

The victory left Chelsea still chasing Tecumseh for the SEC lead and put Lincoln into third place, still not out of the title chase by any means.

The Bulldogs entertain Dearborn tonight in a non-league contest and then host Tecumseh Friday in a game that will have a lot to do with determining the eventual conference winner.

Bulldog Cagers Get Slow Start, Lose to Adrian

Another woeful start added up to another defeat for Chelsea's varsity basketball team as the Bulldogs were dumped, 68-59, at Adrian last Tuesday night.

Chelsea has played a lot of poor first periods this season, but this one was the worst. The Bulldogs trailed 14-2 at one stage and were down 22-8 when the quarter ended.

From there on out Chelsea had a little the better of things, but Adrian proved to be too good a team to squander a 14-point lead. The Bulldogs got the deficit down to nine at the half, and to eight entering the last quarter, but that was as close as they ever came.

"We're lacking something, I don't know what," said Chelsea coach Robin Raymond. "I thought we had the slow-start problem licked, but our games against Saline and Adrian showed we didn't."

"Adrian is good and a Class A school besides, and I'm not ashamed to lose to them. If you play hard and well against a good team, and lose, that's one thing. If you don't play hard and well, that's something else. We could have beaten Adrian with a good effort."

Chelsea's other season-long problem—inability to shoot well away from home—also showed in the game statistics. The Bulldogs hit only 19 of 47 attempts, while their foes were putting in an excellent 29 of 50.

Marty Steinhauer led Chelsea with 13 points, but was the only Bulldog to get into double figures. Dave Kiel had nine. Usually high-scoring David Wojcicki took only three shots during the game and wound up with six points, a total matched by Chuck Hager, Dave Mann and Carl Pate.

"Hager played pretty well," Raymond said. "He is improving all the time."

The Bulldogs shot a very respectable 21 of 29 from the foul line and held a slight edge in rebounding after having been bombed off the boards at Saline the previous Friday.

When it was suggested to him that everybody will forget the Adrian loss if Chelsea goes on to win its next four games and the Southeastern Conference championship, Raymond said tersely, "I won't."

He was not a happy coach.

IT WAS WILD OUT THERE: These two action photos portray the style and tempo of play as Chelsea and Lincoln put on a dramatic basketball show in the Bulldog gym last Friday night. Above, Chelsea's Marty Steinhauer gets off a jump shot while being pressed to the limit by a Lincoln defender. At right, David Kiel goes up in heavy traffic to lay in two points for Chelsea, despite the efforts of Lincoln's Quinn Chambers to stop him.

JV Cagers Lose to Lincoln, Adrian

Bulldog junior varsity basketball team lost a gutsy come-from-behind game to Lincoln, 60-47, Friday at home.

A weak first quarter against Adrian Feb. 15 away was the difference in the Bulldogs' 57-43 loss. Their record is now 9-8 overall and 6-4 in the league.

Chelsea was down 17-5 at the end of the first quarter against Lincoln. The Bulldogs shooting began to "come alive" during the last two minutes of the half, said coach Paul Terpstra, and Lincoln. The Bulldogs' shooting at the end of the third quarter Lincoln led, 39-27.

With three minutes to go, Chelsea trailed by only two points, 47-45, but a quick Lincoln team got some easy baskets at the end.

The Bulldogs made only 3 of 16 free throw attempts in the first half. They rebounded in the second half to make 4 of 5 for a game percentage of 33 percent, but that first half slump hurt, said Terpstra. They made 31 percent of their field goal attempts and had 27 errors and eight steals.

Dave Steinhauer had 19 points; Mark Henson, nine points, 10 rebounds; and Keith Neibauer, 10 rebounds.

Chelsea had trouble controlling the ball in the first quarter against Adrian, who was hot, said Terpstra. Adrian led, 17-4.

Although the Bulldogs played them even for the rest of the game, that early cushion was the difference, he said.

Chelsea made 38 percent of their field goal attempts to Adrian's 45 percent. Chelsea made 62 percent of their free throw attempts to Adrian's 73 percent. Adrian had 32 rebounds to Chelsea's 30. The Bulldogs had 20 errors and 11 steals.

Steinhauer had 12 points; Neibauer, 11 points; Henson, 10 points, eight rebounds; and Jason Pierson, six points.

The Bulldogs play Dearborn at 6 p.m. today at home.

In March 1981, both women and men workers had completed a median of 12.7 years of schooling.

Freshman Basketballers Finish Strong Over Dexter

Chelsea's and Dexter's freshman basketball teams played a tight game for three periods Feb. 14 in the Bulldog gym, but Chelsea came on strong in the fourth quarter to win it, 59-42.

"We've been a strong fourth quarter team all season long," Chelsea coach Paul Ash noted, "and it was especially true in this game when we outscored Dexter, 20 to 5, in the last eight minutes." Up to that point the game was close. Chelsea led, 18-12, at the end of the first period, but Dexter began chipping away. It was 30-25 at the half and 39-37 at the three-quarter mark.

Mark Mull scored only 10 points, a bit below him norm, but got all of them in the last period to spark the Chelsea charge to victory. Ken Martin led the Bulldogs with 20, including 10 of 13 from the foul line, and Dan Bellus had 15.

SPORTS NOTES

By PEGGY PAGE

Physical athletic talent is easy to talk about. One look at Ralph Sampson and one can tell his height is important to his game.

But the equally important mental side of the game is elusive, unmeasurable and uncontrollable.

Good teams choke occasionally—and coaches search for words such as "they lacked consistency," "they couldn't bounce back," "the basket had a lid on it," to describe those "everything went wrong" games.

Coaches would sleep better if everyone performed up to potential, but that isn't what high school sports are all about. (Besides, who would go to games if it could all be worked out on a paper beforehand?)

Athletes of any age are human, but those human qualities of emotion and making mistakes are compounded by the youth of high school athletes, most of whom are not old enough to vote and some cannot drive.

Not that there is anything wrong with youth. It just takes time for most people to be able to both learn from their mistakes and to put them behind. That is a skill which pays off on the playing floor, the classroom, in marriage, and on the job.

I remember my raging emotions in high school. My girlfriends and I formed a group called LIWD (Ladies in Waiting Desperately—for a date.) We went to ball games together to ogle the players and gorged on ice cream afterwards to assuage our lack of escorts to the shopping center ice cream parlor. I had enough acne to give it away to 10 other teenagers and make them all look really pimply. When I blew my first Scholastic Aptitude Test and got my first high school C, it seemed like the end of the world. I didn't have enough self-confidence to fill the dot of an i.

I was also an athlete, an unchokable relay swimmer, but folded when I was alone on a starting block. My specialty was missing freestyle flip turns in crucial races—either crashing my ankles in the gutter or missing the wall entirely. One race I muffed three out of three turns, a percentage that probably made my coach lose a few days of life.

But when I swam for my college team just a few years later, I never missed a turn.

I hadn't changed the way I did them. They were just much more consistent. I find that the older I get, the better my swimming style gets.

High school athletes must perform in both the classroom and the gymnasium, field or pool at the same time they are making major decisions about the directions of their lives.

It's not an easy time, but no more difficult than juggling a job, deciding when to have children and whether or not one can afford to replace that rusty old car.

My family finally got a chance to go to a basketball game featuring Kareem Abdul Jabbar two years ago. He was someone we wanted to see ever since he played in his first nationally televised game.

Neither the Lakers nor the Utah Jazz were up for this mid-season game. Nobody made any glaring mistakes, but the game was so matter-of-fact, it was a yawner.

That game said a lot for the vulnerability and volatility of high school athletes. It's hard to understand and it's frustrating at times, but those qualities make for exciting match-ups and conference races.

The humanity of it all has its value, too.

Six Wrestlers Into Regional

Two Chelsea wrestlers won first places and four more advanced to the regional finals in last Saturday's district championship meet at Charlotte. Chelsea's team finished fourth behind Eaton Rapids, Marshall and Jackson Northwest.

The Bulldogs were led by Mark Rosentreter, who won the district title at 105 pounds, and Jeff Morgan, who finished first at 119.

Other Bulldog qualifiers for the regional meet were Pete Hanna, fourth at 98 pounds; Bill Hanna, third at 112; Ernie Bristle, fourth at 128, and Travis Rudd, second at 132.

Chelsea coach Kerry Kargel expressed himself as "very pleased with how well our boys did in a very tough district competition" and said he hopes at least a couple of the regional entrants will make it from there into the state meet.

The regional meet is scheduled Saturday, also at Charlotte.

Junior High Wrestlers Defeat Dundee, 58-14

Chelsea's junior high wrestling team completed its season with a 1-1 record by defeating Dundee, 58-14, last Thursday in a home meet.

JV Volleyball Team Loses to Dexter, Saline

Chelsea junior varsity girls volleyball team lost to Dexter, 15-12, Feb. 14 away and lost to Saline, 3-15, 10-15, Feb. 17 at home.

The Bulldogs got a slow start in the first game against Saline, said coach Sandy Mandel, but played well in the second game. Chelsea led, 10-8, but the Hornets' excellent setter and spiker helped Saline take the game.

Kris Matloff had four good spikes in the match, and Debbie Morris had four service points straight in the second game.

After the match each player and her parents were introduced. After the varsity match both teams and their parents had desserts made by the junior varsity in the school cafeteria.

The team had trouble getting their serves over in the first game against Dexter, said Mrs. Mandel, and trouble controlling the ball in the second game.

Julie Koch had nine service points in the match, eight straight in the second game. Cathy Basso had three good hits.

HANNA AND HANNA: Pete (in rear) and Bill Hanna had a little trouble getting serious for the photographer when the posed for this picture, probably because neither wanted to take a chance on hurting the other with the district meet coming up. The Hanna brothers have been mainstays of the Chelsea wrestling team this season, and both could make it to the state meet.

Hanna Brothers Ready for Tourneys

Brother acts are not exactly rare in sports, but they are unusual enough to merit recognition, and Pete and Bill Hanna have certainly earned that with their sterling performances as Chelsea varsity wrestlers this winter.

They are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. William Hanna of 1805 Pierce Rd.

Pete, a freshman, wrestles at 98 pounds, lowest weight in the lineup, and had put together a 29-7 win-loss record for the season going into last Saturday's district meet.

Bill, a senior, is a little heavier at 112 pounds. His pre-district record was 33-4.

An indication of the way they wrestle is that both have been nicknamed "Hurricane Hanna" for their whirlwind style which more often than not results in an early pin.

"They are both outstanding boys and fine athletes," says their coach, Kerry Kargel. "They love their sport and they work hard at it. They are coachable and well disciplined. They are anxious to learn and improve, and respond really well to instruction. I can't say enough good things about them."

"It's going to be tough to lose Bill at the end of the year," Kargel went on. "He's an outstanding senior who has contributed a lot to the wrestling program over the years. It's going to be nice to have Pete back. His record as a freshman has been exceptional. If he keeps on improving, there's no telling what he might eventually be able to do."

Bulldog Volleyball Team Downs Dexter in Return Match

Bulldogs girls varsity volleyball team didn't need sweethearts to have a sweet Valentine's Day. They got a big 9-15, 15-12, 15-9 win over Dexter away.

They had lost to the Dreadnaughts at home earlier in the season.

Their luck wore off by Thursday, though, and they lost to Saline, 11-15, 11-15, at home.

Good back row passes to the setter made a big difference in Chelsea's game against the Dreadnaughts, said coach Cathy Vleck.

Cathy Doll had 29 great passes from the back row, said Ms. Vleck, which left her with some bruises and floor burns—the rewards of good back row play.

Kathy Morris had 13 service points in the match, nine of which came in the third game. Venus Roberts had 12 service points in the match, eight of which came in the second game.

Roberts had five unreturnable hits, three of which were "kills," which hit the floor before being touched by a Dreadnaught.

Saline played more aggressively and hit harder than the Bulldogs in the Feb. 17 game, said Ms. Vleck. Roberts had seven service points, and Donna Popovich had

The Bulldogs didn't fare well against Tecumseh, losing 12-15, 18-20, Feb. 7 at home.

Although they lost, the Bulldogs played well, said Ms. Vleck. The match was evenly fought with good officiating.

The second game was close the whole way, tied point by point up to 18-18. Tecumseh served the last two points.

Popovich had eight service points, five of which were unreturned. Doll had seven service points, three of which were not returned.

Klink had 12 good hits, three of which were kills and three which were touched but not controlled.

The Bulldogs lost their match Feb. 10 at home against Milan, 4-15, 10-15.

OUT IN THE OPEN

By BILL MULLENDORE

A small flock of English sparrows hangs out around The Standard building, and the spunky little birds have caught my fancy.

They roost in the juniper bushes which stake out the entrance to the office, nest in the nooks and crannies in the outside upper stories of the old structure, and pick up most of their food from spillages at the feed store across the railroad tracks.

They are hardy opportunists and therefore survivors. The soft life in the south following a leisurely fall migration flight is not for them. They stay here around the calendar. On the coldest mornings of the winter—and we have had a few close to zero—they have greeted me when I drove into the parking lot at dawn, their feathers fluffed against the cold, flitting and hopping to keep their blood flowing and body temperatures up.

More than one sandwich intended for my lunch has been cheerfully donated to their struggle to stay alive. I suspect they could get along without my gifts, but they seem to appreciate them nonetheless, to the point where they appear to recognize and look forward to my daily arrival.

The sparrows provide a diversion for The Standard's office cat, who spends his mornings "bird-watching" in his own fashion, following their movements through the windows, stalking and making mock pounces. It's a harmless mutual exercise for both parties. In no way is the cat ever going to be induced to go outside and actually chase the birds. He likes to be warm and has gotten so shamefully fat that he couldn't catch a paralytic mouse, let alone something that can fly away from him.

I suspect most readers do not share my enthusiasm for English sparrows, and I have to admit that I never got very excited about them except as targets for my boyhood BB gun, until coming to work at The Standard. English sparrows draw for most people, something that you have around and put up with, and sometimes set out to eradicate as a nuisance. (You won't succeed in any such endeavor. No matter how many you eliminate by whatever method, there will always be more.)

Of all the misnamed species of wildlife in America, the English sparrow is perhaps the most poorly labeled. It isn't English, and it isn't a sparrow. The species is a member of the finch family of birds, and its original range included all of Europe and much of Asia. The European finch, as it is more properly called, was imported into this country by a homesick transplanted Englishman who got lonesome for the familiar things of life in his native land and had the wherewithal to bring some of them to his estate near Boston. This same gentleman also caused starlings to be introduced into the United States, and that is another story.

A few pairs of "English sparrows," as they came to be called in America, were liberated, and they adapted about as well as you could ask of any introduced species. Horses were the "automobiles" of those times, and most everybody kept a couple in a stable behind his home. Where there were horses, there were also straw, hay and grain. It was a made-to-order environment for the immigrant birds, and within a very few years they multiplied and spread throughout the country.

Americans decided they didn't care for the new arrivals. English sparrows are cheeky, boisterous, competitive birds. They are not especially pretty, nor are their "songs" particularly pleasant to the ear. Their nesting and digestive habits are dirty and, given the right conditions, their reproduction potential rivals that of rabbits.

Along with most other states, Michigan put a bounty on English sparrows and kept it in force through the 1920's. This provided a small but steady source of income for shooters and trappers and catchers of sparrows, but accomplished little or nothing toward keeping the population in check.

During the Great Depression years of the 1930's, sparrow pie became a common item on dining tables. I can testify from experience that it is a very satisfactory dish. The dark-meated breasts of the birds are small—about two bites on each side—but tasty. Baked in a rich dough crust with some vegetables added, sparrows made good eating when you couldn't afford anything better.

I am not advocating that anybody go out and collect a bunch of sparrows for food—and discourage the thought—but the fact is that you can legally do it if you wish. Only two species of birds are unprotected in Michigan. One is the English sparrow, the other is the starling (which I will write about another time).

What finally brought English sparrows under control in America was replacement of the horse by the automobile. Except for garages, cars have no by-products of interest to sparrows. The birds have adapted to the horseless carriage environment so as to maintain themselves, and perhaps have increased somewhat in recent years as ownership of horses for recreational purposes has become more popular.

Meanwhile, I like the sparrows that have managed to make a home at The Standard. Like our office cat, the birds add a little bit of extra enjoyment to the place.

Table Tennis Tourney Set For Saturday

About 30 entrants are expected for the Chelsea Table Tennis Club's annual tournament Saturday in the Beach Middle school gym. Six tables will be set up for play, with singles competition starting at 2 p.m. and doubles at 5 p.m.

Singles play will be triple-elimination, with results of the first two games deciding the bracket for the third game. Doubles will be played on a one-loss-and-out basis.

Players must bring their own paddles and are asked to wear dark-colored shirts or blouses. Entry fee is $5 for both singles and doubles. Proceeds will go toward purchasing equipment for the club.

For more information Gerald Scharphorn may be called at 475-8237 evenings.

SEC ROUND-UP:

Chelsea, Lincoln Race After League Leading Tecumseh

The formula for winning a conference championship is to win conference games, and Tecumseh is doing just that. The Indians became the first team to hold the Southeastern Conference lead for two weeks in a row with an impressive 57-46 victory over Saline last Friday night.

Chelsea moved into second place, half a game behind, with a hair-raising 71-68 win over Lincoln, which dropped into third place in a race which has become the basketball equivalent of musical chairs.

Tecumseh, Chelsea and Lincoln all have chances to win or tie for the SEC title, but Tecumseh has to be the favorite right now because of its all-important lead in the "loss" column. If the Indians capture their remaining three conference games, they will win outright, regardless of what anybody else does, and can lose once and still be assured of a tie.

A March 1 contest between Chelsea and Tecumseh just could decide who wins or ties for what. Last Tuesday was a night off from league competition for all SEC members. In non-conference action Lincoln lost to Ann Arbor

More Turkeys Go to Waterloo

Things are looking up on the wild turkey front in the Waterloo Recreation Area. The population was quintupled with the release of 12 more Iowa-imported birds last Thursday and, more important, there is now a mixture of sexes in the bunch.

With the mating and nesting season due to begin in a few weeks, the addition of some hens to the previously all-male flock was critical to success of the experimental introduction.

The turkeys are being live-trapped in Iowa and flown to Michigan for release. Three toms (males) were turned loose on Jan. 18 and are, according to the best information available, still alive and thriving at a site which is being kept secret to protect the birds against curiosity-seekers. They are being monitored through signals emitted by radio transmitters attached to their backs.

Last Thursday, six hens were released at the same site in the hope that they will get together with the toms and produce little turkeys this spring.

On the same day, two toms and four hens were put out at a second location, which is also a secret. Those birds, too, will be monitored by radio.

Establishment of two flocks is a hedge against the possibility that some sort of disaster might wipe one out before the turkeys have a chance to breed.

Wayne Bronner, Department of Natural Resources wild turkey specialist who is in charge of the introduction effort, said he hopes to obtain at least 15 more birds from Iowa for release in Waterloo.

"We would like to get one more tom and 14 more hens," he said. "The ideal sex ratio is one-to-four. Turkeys are polygamous, and one male will mate with several females."

Whether the additional birds are obtained or not will depend on the luck of Iowa wildlife biologists who are doing the trapping. Iowa has so far had an unusually mild winter—much like Michigan's—and that makes it difficult to lure turkeys onto baited ground so they can be caught in cannon-fired nets.

"The only reason we got this latest batch is that Iowa finally had some snow," Bronner said. "When there is snow on the ground, turkeys will come to bait."

One of the toms released last week weighed a whopping 21½ pounds, which is about as big as wild turkeys ever get. Average weight for mature toms is around 18 pounds, and hens are about half that size.

Bronner said he is optimistic about the experiment and predicted success "if people will just leave the birds alone."

Adult turkeys have few natural enemies, Bronner added. "Great-horned owls may kill an occasional turkey, and so might a large hawk. Foxes and other ground predators rarely can catch one. The biggest problem is human disturbance, especially during the mating and nesting season which will begin in late March."

Wild turkeys already thrive in northern Michigan, but the Iowa strain is being used for introduction in the south part of the state because the Iowa birds have shown they can prosper in similar habitat—agricultural land with some woodlots mixed in, and a fairly high human population.

Iowa has about 30,000 wild turkeys, approximately three times the number in northern Michigan.

Frosh Cagers Fall to Talented Saline Squad

Saline's freshman basketball team just plain had too much talent and depth for the Chelsea frosh last Thursday night and won going away, 63-49, in a game played at Saline.

The Bullsups made a game of it during the first half and trailed by only a point, 25-24, at intermission, but it was all Saline from there on.

"Saline has an excellent group of freshmen," Chelsea coach Paul Ash said. "Their starters are good, and they can go to the bench through their first four substitutes without losing a thing. We were out-manned and couldn't keep up with them."

Ash noted that two freshmen are playing on the Saline junior varsity squad this year and predicted that "in a couple of years Saline is going to have quite a varsity basketball team."

Bright spots for Chelsea included Mark Mull's 19 points and strong rebounding—his "best game of the season," according to Ash—and Dan Ballus's 15 points. Also earning plaudits from Ash was point guard Ray Spencer who is developing into a good passer and all-around ball-handler.

Thom Headrick Wins Scholarship From Northwood

Thom Headrick, son of Mrs. Don Proctor of 121 Summit St., has been awarded a scholarship by Northwood Institute of Midland, Chelsea football coach Gene LaFave announced.

As a two-way player, Headrick has starred as a tight end and linebacker for the Bulldog grid-ers. He also plays baseball. He is 6 feet tall and weighs about 200 pounds.

Headrick is the second member of last fall's Chelsea grid squad to earn a scholarship tender. Quarterback David Wojcicki has been tapped by Hillsdale College.

LaFave said at least three more Bulldog footballers may receive college scholarships, but details remain to be worked out.

Beach School Girls Volleyballers Lose To St. Francis

Bullpup seventh and eighth grade girls volleyball teams lost to St. Francis Feb. 15 away.

The seventh grade team lost a very close match, 14-16, 15-6, 14-16. St. Francis came back in the last game from a 14-4 deficit to take the match.

Jennifer Rossi had a good back row defensive game, said coach Beverly Martin, and Laura Walton consistently bumped hits.

The eighth grade team lost, 13-15, 4-15. Cris Zerkel and Edie Harook had good defensive games on the back row.

Visiting Chinese Nurse Going Home Tomorrow

Li Xue-Zeng will leave Chelsea tomorrow on her way back to her home city of Peking in the People's Republic of China—taking with her many fond memories of her four-month visit to the United States—plus a package of potato chips, a can of coffee, and an envelope of marigold seeds.

Miss Li is the editor of the Chinese Journal of Nursing, and is the first person in her profession to come to this country under an educational and cultural exchange program.

Her visit was arranged with the help of Mrs. Leonard Woodcock, wife of the former U. S. ambassador to China. Funds to support her stay were raised mostly in the Chelsea area. She lived in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Schaff, 345 Washington St.

Although her stay centered on Chelsea Community Hospital, her itinerary allowed her to look at the University of Michigan and Eastern Michigan University schools of nursing, along with schools in Indiana, Washington, D. C., and Virginia. She also met with her counterpart editors of several American nursing journals.

She has had a busy four months, and what follows are excerpts from an "exit interview" granted to a reporter for The Standard and The Leader.

(It should be said at the outset that Miss Li's command of English has improved remarkably in four months, and it was pretty good to start. She now speaks our very difficult idiomatic language fluently and gracefully.)

Some samples taken from notes on an hour-long conversation with Miss Li:

About America—
"I had a wrong impression when I came here. I had the idea that nobody in America worked for a living. Your television programs which we see in China show everybody living a luxury life. I have learned that American people work very hard, and that your TV programs give a wrong impression. Something should be done about that."

Pinckney Youth Completes Avionics Technician Course

Marine Pfc. Jon L. Moore, son of Ralph E. and Bernice Moore of 3454 Apache, Pinckney, has completed the Basic Avionics ("aviation electronics") Technician Course.

During the self-paced course at the Naval Air Technical Training Center, Millington, Tenn., the students received instruction on the fundamentals of electronic circuitry and were introduced to the wide variety of electronic equipment items currently installed aboard Navy and Marine Corps Aircraft. They studied airborne radar, communication and computer equipment, plus the technical manuals, safety precautions and troubleshooting procedures.

"You Americans work at a very fast pace. I think it is too fast."

About nursing—
"Nursing in the United States is more independent. The nurses have more authority and more time to work with individual patients. There are good relationships among physicians, nurses and patients."

"I like the idea of a small hospital, like this one at Chelsea. Here a nurse can get an overview and see everything. This hospital is a family. All the people work together very closely. Nurses like to work here because they are given a sense of importance."

"I like it that here in this (Chelsea) hospital clerks have been employed to do the paper work so that registered nurses don't have to do all of it. That allows the nurses to do what they are supposed to do, which is take care of patients."

"I'm going to take some of these ideas back to China."

About Chelsea and the rest of the United States—
"People in Chelsea and everywhere else have been very friendly. They have talked with me and shared with me. Many in the Chelsea community have been involved, and I want to thank all of them for being so kind to me. I have been made to feel welcome in your country."

"Everywhere I have gone, my experience has been good. I will tell that when I get home."

"Some of your Chinese restaurants are very good, and I have enjoyed them. They prepare Chinese food to American tastes, which means the dishes are not totally Chinese."

"Your potato chips are excellent. We have nothing like them in China, and I want to take some home. Your packaged coffee is also very good. We have coffee in China, but none like you have."

Kathy Brubaker, director of nursing at the hospital, who has been guiding Miss Li through her four-month stay, said:

"We've learned a lot, too."

Exploding the Lost Mutt Myth

Humane Societies only get mixed breed dogs, right? —WRONG! In 1982 the Humane Society of Huron Valley received 1,282 purebred dogs. Breeds ranging from Alaskan Malamutes to Irish Water Spaniels to Whippets, from Yorkshire Terriers to Great Danes, and just about everything inbetween. In fact, the Society took in 80 different breeds last year.

A few myths remain however—the myth that—purebreds don't get lost, they are stolen. Of the 772 purebred strays only 990 (or 52.7%) were returned to their owners. Too many people automatically assume that if their purebred is missing it was stolen. The Humane Society urges all owners to call in a lost report as soon as their pet is missing, and visit the shelter.

from Miss Li's visit to the hospital. "There are many similarities between Chelsea Hospital and the People's Republic of China, and there are also many differences."

"We have some common problems, and they relate to recognition of nurses as professionals as well as caretaking persons."

Joanne Warner-Handelsman, associate director of nursing, said she was impressed by what Miss Li "has picked up and put together" during her visit. "She has asked very good questions, and has insisted on getting answers," she said.

"We are going to miss her," Kathy Brubaker said. "Along with the chips and coffee, she is taking back to China with her a package of marigold seeds—the traditional Chinese 'flower of friendship.' I think we will plant some, too."

World Day of Prayer Scheduled for March 4

World Day of Prayer will be celebrated this year on March 4. Sponsored in the United States by Church Women United, this annual observance unites women of faith in 170 countries on six continents around the globe. 1983 marks the 96th consecutive year in which untold thousands of women will gather to be part of this world-wide prayer witness. World Day of Prayer, translated into many languages, may well be the most widely used Christian literature in the world apart from the Scriptures.

The service for 1983 was written by Christian women from the island countries of the Caribbean on the theme, "New Persons in Christ." Representing a rich mixture of races and cultures, they are seeking a new Caribbean identity, as service reflects their joy in the new-found independence of their nations. James Meade, a Caribbean student at the University of Michigan has been contacted to speak.

Church Women United is the Christian movement that brings together more than half a million Protestant, Roman Catholic, and Orthodox women into one Christian "community of caring." World Day of Prayer offerings make possible the mission of the Church Women United, including the Intercontinental Grants for Mission programs that fund National and International projects in support to inspire, with courage and hope, the role of women, human rights, justice and peace.

World Day of Prayer events in Chelsea will be held at St. Paul United Church of Christ on March 4 at 9:30 a.m. till 11:30 a.m. A "white breakfast" of juice, coffee, and rolls will be provided. Babysitting services will be available also. Mrs. Kathleen Chapman, president of Chelsea CWU, extends a very warm and personal invitation to all women, to come to the World Day of Prayer on March 4, (with Snow day of March 11 if necessary).

Rodney Grames Bound Over to Circuit Court

A 17-year-old Detroit youth charged with burglarizing the Jiffy Market on Dec. 16 waived examination in district court last Tuesday and was bound over to circuit court by Judge Karl V. Fink.

Rodney Grames is accused of breaking and entering with intent to commit larceny. He was arrested following an intensive investigation by detective Paul Wade of the Washtenaw sheriff's department.

The Jiffy Market, at Sibley and Werkner Rds., was burglarized five times during the 14 months ending last December. Owner Gene Shoemaker had threatened drastic action to protect his property against future thefts.

Grames was scheduled to appear in circuit court sometime this week to enter a plea to the breaking and entering charge.

Fire Destroys Small House On North St.

A small four-room frame house at 220 North St. was ravaged by fire last Tuesday morning with an almost total loss of the building and its contents.

The home is owned by Colet Crayton, 66, who is unemployed. He said he had no insurance and has "no place to go. I'm just living around town, wherever I can."

"All I have left is the clothes you see me wearing," Crayton told a news reporter who found him rummaging through the charred interior of the dwelling, looking for anything that might be salvaged.

Cause of the fire is undetermined and under investigation by the Chelsea fire department. Extent of the loss has not been estimated, but Crayton said he had recently been offered $12,500 for the property by the Chelsea Milling Co. and had turned it down.

The milling firm, with offices directly across the street, is seeking the property to expand its parking lot.

Village firemen received the alarm at 11:15 a.m. and arrived to find flames shooting out of the front of the house. The call was made by a Chelsea Milling employee who spotted the fire from his work station. Crayton was not at home at the time.

"It had a real good start," a fire department spokesman said. "By the time we got there, the whole front of the house was gone."

The rear part of the building did not burn but was severely damaged by smoke and water.

Firemen speculated that the fire broke out in the living room, where there was a wood-burning stove and several electrical appliances, and spread from there to the front porch.

The house is old and built entirely of wood, and "burned like a torch," a fireman said.

It was the second major house fire for the village department during the month of February. On Feb. 5 a home at 8250 Mester Rd., Lyndon township, was destroyed.

Sophomore Class Wins Winter Carnival School Spirit Contest

Chelsea High school's sophomore class won the Winter Carnival inter-class school spirit contest last week, it was announced at the dance following the Lincoln ball game.

The juniors and seniors tied for second, and the freshmen were third.

Sladjana Janicevic and Josh Smith both had seven pins to win the respective boys and girls hush days. Girls try to get boys to talk to them on hush day, and vice versa. If a student talks, he or she must give pin to the one who made him or her say something.

The sophomores won the air band at the pep rally, in which students try to imitate a popular band. They also won the spirit contest at the ball game. Each class gave the battle cry to a noise meter.

The seniors won the contest for best wall decorations for their wall in the fishbowl, in the gymnasium building. The freshmen won the three-legged race at the pep rally.

Classes also scored points for each student who was dressed appropriately for the four different dress days, toddler day, punk day, dress up (coats and ties or dresses), and blue and gold day.

The dance following the game was very well attended, said Amy Poljan, president of the student council which sponsored the carnival.

St. Barnabas Awards List Of Prizes

Jess Kime of Saline won the grand prize of an Amana microwave oven at St. Barnabas Episcopal church's Valentine's Day drawing.

Mary Johnston of Saline, the former church treasurer, won the second prize of a Maganavox 19-inch color television set. Lyn Culver of Chelsea got the third prize, a video game.

JoAnn Carruthers drew the names.

Ticket sales increased in the final days of the drawing, so a modest profit for the church was made.

After the drawing, the Bishop's committee discussed future church projects.

They decided unanimously to proceed with plans for the next fund raiser, a pancake and sausage breakfast tentatively scheduled for Saturday, May 7 at the church.

An auction of unusual items acquired by the church over the past year was discussed, and it is also being planned for this spring at the church.

The first Sunday of the month pot-luck dinners will be continued following the 10:30 a.m. service. Everyone is welcome to bring a dish to pass and have a pleasant hour or so of friendly conversation and good food.

New Produce Store Opening In March

If your fancies turn to peaches and melons as spring approaches, you are in luck. A new produce store featuring a full line of in- and out-of-season fruits and vegetables will open in early March here.

Parking isn't going to be a problem for potential customers of Park Street Produce. The 1,600 square-foot store faces the municipal parking lot and is in the lower level of the Chelsea Litho Inc. building.

Quality and service will be two important features of the new store, said Kathy Kentala, a partner along with her husband, Keith, and her parents, Jerry and Pat Koch. They will all operate the store.

They plan to accept phone-in orders, have carry-out service, and make deliveries available. Their supplier is a Detroit wholesale produce co-operative.

Along with citrus, melons and exotic fruits such as kiwi berries, and vegetables ranging from onions and potatoes to those used in Chinese cooking, they will also offer dried beans, spices by the ounce, a full dairy line, Mill Pond baked goods, and convenience items. The hanging plant decorations will also be for sale. They have applied for a license to sell beer and wine.

Jerry Koch, a licensed contractor, built the more than 140 feet of display cases. A large cooler will be installed this week and signs are being done.

Tentative hours scheduled are 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

The number of mothers who work outside the home reached 18.7 million in March 1982, rising from 15.5 million in 1977 and 12.7 million a decade ago, the U.S. Department of Labor reports.
