Convenience Store Site Plan Revised

The Elsiele site plan for a convenience store at N. Main St. has been revised to include a music store. Chelsea village planning commission will review the re-done plan at their meeting at 7:30 p.m. today in the municipal building.

Planning commission had tabled the convenience store plan at their February meeting for lack of information.

The music store has its own entrance and is in the existing building, towards the interior of the lot. It has its own entrance and one handicapped parking spot.

The other handicapped spot is beside the convenience entrance, now closer to Main St.

The new plan also shows a fence following the building line to the east lot line and landscaping along the side of the building and around the entrance to Main St.

The parking lot, which shows less spaces than the original but still more than required, will be gravel for the present. Asphalt (bituminous) is planned for an undetermined date.

If the plan is approved, construction is scheduled to begin this month and last two months, according to notations on the plan.

Bay City Firm Wins Bid for Village Audit

A Bay City firm—Campbell, Kusterer & Walraven—has been retained by the Village Council to conduct Chelsea's annual village audit at a guaranteed fixed price of no more than $4,800.

The council voted last Tuesday night to accept the Bay City firm's bid after asking all four

Goodwins Buy North Lake Store

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Goodwin of 3184 Deer Trail, Pinckney, have purchased the North Lake Country Store at North Territorial and Stoffer Rds. and began operating it on March 1.

The former owners were Ron and Ann Adams, who ran the business for seven years before selling it to the Goodwins.

Goodwin's wife, Dale, works in Chelsea as secretary to Dr. Dick J. Dijkman, an orthodontist, and will continue to do so. "She will help me out in the store on weekends," Goodwin said.

"We will continue the same basic operation that the Adamses carried on," Goodwin said. "There may be some small changes, but nothing major. The building and facilities are in good condition, and there is nothing important that needs to be done. The store carries a typical convenience-store assortment of groceries and sundries, and also sells liquor, beer and wine.

Goodwin at one time owned and operated The Trading Post at Portage Lake, has sold life insurance, has been a personnel recruiter for an Ann Arbor employment agency, and worked in Washington, D.C., for the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) for eight years.

"We like this area and want to settle here," Goodwin said. "We plan to move closer to Chelsea as soon as possible. During the first few days that we have operated the store, we have found people to

CHS, Beach School Bands Offer Concert

Chelsea High and Beach Middle school bands will present a concert at 7:30 p.m. tonight at Chelsea High school auditorium of the music the four groups are preparing for upcoming festival competition.

The middle school bands, directed by Warren J. Mayer, will have their district festival competition March 12. The high school bands, directed by William W. Gourley, will have their festival competition March 19.

The seventh grade band will play "Blue Water Bridge March," by Conley; "Idyllwild Fantasy," by O'Reilly; and "Suite in Minor Mode: Dance, The Little Song, The Horseman," by Kabalevsky.

The eighth grade band will perform "Le Sabre Concert March," by Oesterling; "Three Kentucky Sketches," by O'Reilly; and "Land Mark Overture," by Caudill.

The high school concert band will play "Blue and Gold March," by Beeler; "Pageantry Overture," by Edmondson; and "Suite," by Lobos/Bilik.

The high school symphony band will play "Pride of the Wolverines," by Sousa; "Nocturne," by Scriabin/Reed; and "Prologue and Dance," by Del Borgo.

Hearing Set On Village Sewage Plant Expansion

Chelsea Village Council will hold a public hearing at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, March 16, at the Village Hall to review the recommendations to upgrade the village's wastewater treatment plant. The improvements have been under study by Finkbeiner, Pettis & Strout, of Toledo for the past several years. The facilities plan encompasses Chelsea as well as surrounding portions of Sylvan and Lima townships.

According to the plan, which has been on file at the Village Hall since Feb. 1, the current treatment plant is unable to meet the required water quality for discharge as required by the Environmental Protection Agency. Also, during times of large wastewater flows, part of the flow bypasses the treatment

Three Council Positions Will Be Filled in Next Week's Village Election

Chelsea voters will go to the polls next Monday to elect three village trustees, two members of the library board and a village clerk.

The single polling place—the Sylvan Township Hall at 112 W. Middle St.—will open at 7 a.m. and close at 8 p.m. Any persons in line and waiting at 8 p.m. will be allowed to vote.

Voting will be by punch card, and 10 devices will be available. After all votes have been cast and the polls officially closed, the punched ballots will be taken to Ann Arbor for counting by a scanning machine. Results should be known by midnight or shortly thereafter.

Unfortunately, because of The Standard's copy deadlines and printing schedule—which requires that the paper go to press in mid-afternoon on election day—results cannot be published until the March 22 edition.

Village clerk Evelyn Rosentreter, an unopposed candidate for re-election, predicts that perhaps 300 of Chelsea's 2,075 registered voters will take the time and trouble to vote, but hopes for a better turnout.

"We have had past village elections with fewer than 100 ballots cast, and I think that is a shame," Mrs. Rosentreter said. "I wish more people would come out and vote. Whether they vote for me or not doesn't matter. I would just like to see more participation."

Village president Jack Merkel, who is not up for re-election, said much the same thing. "We have some important issues and problems facing us," he commented. "The council race is important. The library board contest is important. I hope citizens will take an active interest and go out and vote. Elected officials need a sense of direction from the people they represent."

Next Monday's ballot will include the following:

Village clerk—Evelyn Rosentreter, unopposed.

Village trustees (three to be elected from among four candidates)—Lyle Chriswell, Herman Radloff, Jerry Satterthwaite, Richard Steele. The first three named are incumbents.

Library board trustees (two to be elected from among four candidates)—Fred Harris, Daphne Hodder, Robert Riemenschneider, Katherine Wagner. Harris and Wagner are incumbents.

All terms are for two years.

Members of the council and the library board serve "at large," which means they do not represent any wards or any other geographical areas of the village. There are no political parties or partisan identifications involved.

Until two years ago village elective offices were filled on a partisan basis. There were two "parties"—the People's party and the Independent party. Each put up a slate of candidates selected in party caucuses.

Under the new system anybody can be nominated for any office by a petition signed by between 15 and 50 registered voters.

Council Candidates All See 'Controlled Growth' Long-Range Village Goal

Whether three of the four candidates for the Chelsea Village Council are elected next Monday, don't expect any dramatic changes in the present course of village government affairs.

The four men running offer a remarkable similarity of views on what they see as Chelsea's present problems and future needs.

All favor "controlled growth" which will allow the village to expand its economic base and provide more jobs, but all quickly add that they want to see Chelsea preserve its existing character and charm as an extra-nice community to live in.

All view the sewage treatment plant and the sanitary landfill as potential barriers to growth and development and believe those problems must be resolved as soon as possible. The village is under state order to increase the sewage plant's waste-handling capacity and upgrade its treatment processes. The landfill is on a state list of potential sources of ground-water contamination.

While it would be stretching a point to say that there isn't "a dime's worth of difference" among the candidates, their comments to a reporter from The Standard were very closely alike.

Richard Steele of 211 Lincoln St. is the only non-incumbent running. A Chelsea resident for the past 10 years, he was born here, moved away, and came back. He is employed as an endoscopy technician at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor. (Endoscopy involves the insertion of flexible tubes to diagnose internal medical problems.)

Steele, who has been attending council meetings regularly for the past two years, said he wants to see the village "stay on a good course" and "grow with restraint."

"I think there may be room for improvement in the area of street and sidewalk repairs," he said, and added that the council "must deal realistically" with utility rates for electricity and water. "I think there will have to be some adjustments."

Steele, who has never run for public office before, stated that he would "like to get on the inside and find out" how village government affairs are actually handled. He is campaigning actively "to try to let people know who I am" and claims that his efforts have received "a generally favorable response."

Incumbent trustee Jerry Satterthwaite, of 415 McKinley St., owns the J & M Oil Co. at 682 W. Middle St. and is a lifelong Chelsea resident. Elected to the council in 1981, Satterthwaite believes "it honestly takes two years" to learn the ropes and become a fully effective member.

"Now that I know what's going on and how things are done in village government, I think I can do a better job in a second term," Satterthwaite said. "Experience counts, and now I have it."

"I want to see Chelsea get ready for the economic pick-up. We must keep the industry we have, and try to get some more. We need more jobs in the community. The sewage plant is a problem that has to be solved."

"We are controlled so much by federal and state laws that it's really difficult to do anything locally, but we have to try."

Satterthwaite said he is carrying on a "low key" campaign aimed mainly at getting his supporters out to vote.

Incumbent Herman Radloff, of 413 Madison St., is sales manager for Killins Concrete Co. in Ann Arbor. After running and losing for a council seat in 1981, he was appointed as a trustee in September, 1982, to fill a vacancy and is running for his first full term.

Radloff has lived in Chelsea for the past five years and considers it "a very nice community, which I want to help keep that way. I've been impressed by the experience of living here, and I've met a lot of great people," he said.

"I favor controlled growth, but I want to see Chelsea stay basically the way it is," Radloff continued. "We have problems with the sewage plant and the landfill, and they have to be solved. But the village should keep its unique character. It's something special."

Radloff says he is the kind of person who likes "to be involved" and has been active in local service clubs, the First United Methodist church and the Civic Foundation.

He, too, is conducting a very modest campaign, intended to get supporters out to vote. Incumbent Lyle Chriswell, of 201 Wilkinson St., is sales manager for the Palmer Ford agency and is a lifelong Chelsea resident. He has been a member of the Village Council since 1977.

Chriswell said he is "campaigning hard" for re-election, although he sees no real issues among the candidates and has "no axes to grind."

"I think we all agree that we need some new industry, new jobs, new construction, an enlarged tax base. I favor growth, but I don't want to see Chelsea become another Saline where a company (Ford) came in and built a new plant and forced the whole community to turn itself inside out."

"Our sewage system is our biggest problem, and we have to do something about it. We are boxed in on growth until we get that solved. Otherwise, I think village affairs are going pretty smoothly."

There will be three winners and one loser when the votes are counted after the polls close on March 14.

Four Seek Election to Two Library Board Positions

The most spirited contest, in terms of numbers, in next Monday's village election is that for seats on the McKune Memorial Library's board of trustees. Four candidates, including two incumbents, are seeking the two open positions.

Running for re-election are incumbents Fred Harris and Mrs. Katherine Wagner. Opposing them are Mrs. Daphne Hodder and Robert W. Riemenschneider.

None of the four is running what could be called a "strong" campaign. Mrs. Wagner, in fact, is in Florida and could not be reached by The Standard for statement concerning her candidacy. She lives at 319 Congdon St.

Harris, the other incumbent, resides at 415 S. Main St. An engineer by profession, he has been retired from Xerox Corp. in Ann Arbor for two years and has been a library trustee since 1981 when he was appointed to fill the vacancy created when Jack Merkel was elected village president. He is running for election for the first time. He has lived in Chelsea for more than 55 years.

"I see my role on the library board as doing something for the community," Harris said. "I'm not real familiar with the details of the 'book' operation of the

 No more fire permits will be issued in the county until grass fire season is over. A grass fire which started about 1 p.m. Saturday at Hadley Rd. burned over 100 acres and threatened several farms and homes. One started a half an hour later near Roepke Rd., when debris from paper being burned in an uncovered container blew out and caught a nearby field on fire. That fire endangered homes on Ellsworth Lake and burned over several fields. Four local fire departments were needed for both fires.
 St. Mary's Parochial school will drop eighth grade for the next school year. Existing classroom space is not enough for an increasing enrollment, but an addition is too costly. The school, which has 235 students enrolled in grades 1-8, is supported by tuition and the parish treasury. The building was constructed for grades 1-12 in 1926, but the high school curriculum was dropped in 1934, again for a lack of space.

"HOW DO I GIVE COMFORT TO THE TERMINALLY ILL?"

It is usually best to maintain the same closeness you have shared in the past. Your contacts with the person should be of the same type as they were in the past — a phone call, short visit over coffee, a personal note — whichever was your manner of contact before you heard of the illness.

If making a personal call seems too difficult, perhaps a short note indicating "Word has come to me that you are ill. Please be comforted that you are in my thoughts and prayers."

Silence can often be interpreted to mean indifference to one who is ill. A simple note of concern and love makes an opening for a personal call at a time convenient to the sick person. That personal visit will surely prove a comfort to both parties!

And finally, that personal visit should be made just as you ordinarily might make. Don't change your personality or behavior — rather "Be yourself." Bring news or items of interest into the conversation, all in a way to show you care.

Former Court Justice Calls For Reinstatement of Riley
 Former Supreme Court Justice Thomas Brennan has maintained the state Supreme Court acted unconstitutionally in removing Dorothy Comstock Riley from office.

A letter to the remaining six justices asked them to recede from their recent ruling ousting Riley from the court and apologize to her. Brennan also urged Riley to continue to claim the seat.

The court acted on a suit filed by Attorney General Frank Kelley asking the court to remove Riley who had been appointed to the court by former Governor William G. Milliken to fill a vacancy created by the death of Justice Blair Moody, Jr.

The controversy came over appointing Riley to a term beginning on Jan. 1, the same day Milliken turned over the governor's office to James Blanchard. Blanchard, as the first Democratic governor in 20 years, felt the appointment was his to make as of the beginning of his new four-year term.

Brennan, president of the Cooley Law School in Lansing, contended only the governor and the Legislature have the power to remove a justice and Blanchard would be acting unconstitutionally if he attempted to make an appointment unless that action was taken.

Brennan said he would personally challenge any appointment by Blanchard.

Sue Carter, Blanchard's press secretary, said the governor does, very soon intend to make an appointment to the Supreme Court. "He is willing to proceed with what he feels is his constitutional obligation and if anyone wants to challenge it, they would do so at that time," she said.

Frederick Buesser III, Riley's attorney, said Brennan makes some convincing arguments, but she plans to take no further action to remain in office. He said she decided not to pursue the matter because of personal, practical and legal considerations, even though she continues to believe the court was wrong.

Brennan said the Supreme Court's order to oust Riley is a nullity because of constitutional language prohibiting it from removing a judge. He said the dispute over whether former Governor Milliken had the authority to appoint Riley until Jan. 1, 1985 can only be resolved by the Legislature and governor, not the court itself.

Brennan said the attorney general must share in the responsibility for the "obvious indefensible disregard of the constitution."

His reading of the constitutional limitations on the court's authority were not raised by any of the parties, nor by the justices. Brennan said that is probably the result of the focus on how Riley got on the court, while ignoring how she should be removed.

He said the court should have thrown the case out the minute it came in.

An official for the attorney general said Brennan's argument would be "laughed out of court" if presented in a brief. The official said the restriction on the court's ability to remove a judge is superseded by a later provision permitting the court to remove a judge upon recommendation by the Judicial Tenure Commission.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

Clem Webster told the fellers at the country store Saturday night that he had studied the situation up one side and down the other, and he was of a mind that we are seeing economic recovery because we are talking economic recovery. Part of it is the lift in our spirits that allus comes from putting another winter behind us, Clem allowed, but the big part is the old trick of making up our minds we got a half full bottle instead of a half empty one.

A truck dealer he tried to trade with some years back was a full bottle believer, Clem went on. The feller said not to worry about the price of a new one, just pick out what you want with what you want on it. After all, the salesman said, if you can make one payment you can make 48, so why worry about it? Folks are figuring they've took the worst a day at a time and held on, so they can keep on keeping on. Clem allowed that good times can be as contagious as bad times. Fer sure, he said, when we're around people that talk poor mouth we catch their disease, so there's ever reason to figger we can catch a cure the same way.

Clem's perscription played to mixed reviews. Ed Doolittle said he, fer one, wasn't buying any. He charged Democrat Clem with throwing in a crazy notion to cover up the clear, hard fact that the Republican medicine that was so hard fer the country to swallow was working. If the Democrats had pushed thru make work jobs to pump up employment figgers and sink the Federal budget deeper in debt, Ed declared, we could rest assured Clem would be singing a different tune.

Bug Hookum stood on the fence, leaning to Ed's side. Bug said folks have got to learn to handle downs as well as ups of life, and how they deal with both sets the mood of the country. But it takes more than thinking nice thoughts about the driver and the road ahead to git the bus out of the ditch, Bug declared, all the riders have got to git out and push. Bug had saw where this professor at Johns Hopkins University had done a study of ups and downs in this country. He found that folks drink more, fight more and are sick more when they're out of work and can't feed the kids and pay the rent. But, Bug went on, the hard times caused the mulligrubs, not the other way around, and he found no evidence of folks laughing themselves happy.

General speaking, Zeke Grubb said, we have got to the place it don't matter if we laugh or cry, because nobody notices anybody any more. Clem said he had been thinking how easy we lie to one another. We say how you do, the other feller says fine, how you do, and neither one cares.

A wife lies to her husband about how much she paid fer a hat, Clem went on, and he tells her he's a half hour late fer supper because he had a flat tire when they both know he stopped fer gas and got into a high stakes checker game. But, said Clem, that ain't called lying, that's called gitting along.

Yours truly,
 Uncle Lew.

Senior Class Plans Dance Marathon

Chelsea High school's senior class will hold a dance and cards marathon from 8 p.m. Friday, March 11 to midnight Saturday, March 12 at the high school cafeteria to raise funds for graduation.

Students will be seeking pledges from community members this week.

The Class of '79 held a very successful dance marathon four years ago, said Sandy Sundling, Class of '83 vice-president. South Lyon recently held one that also included volleyball.

Dancers must keep their feet moving for 55 minutes an hour, and then they get a five-minute rest. There will be a 15-minute break for showers every five hours. No partner is needed, and dancers are encouraged to wear comfortable clothing.

Sundling says she has heard of several varsity athletes who plan to "go the distance" in the dance marathon.

Card players get a five-minute break every two hours, and a shower break every six hours.

Students may either bring their own food or buy it from the senior class concession stand. Parents will chaperone, and student volunteers will keep track of marathoners' time and breaks.

Seniors Tim Greenleaf and John Bowditch, who have a sound system called Vantage Point with John Hoffman, have volunteered their time for the marathon.

Prizes of $50 will be awarded to the dancer and card player who lasts the longest. If there is a time tie, the one who has the most pledges will win.

For more information, call Bud Janich, senior class advisor; Jon Bentley, class president, or Sundling.

Sesquicentennial Logo Contest Deadline Set

Students currently enrolled at Beach Middle and Chelsea High schools are eligible to enter the Chelsea Sesquicentennial logo contest. Entry deadline is April 1.

Logo design themes should depict the heritage of the Chelsea area featuring cultural settings such as agriculture, education and/or industry. The dates 1834-1984 should be prominently displayed.

Black and white drawings in any medium on a 9 x 11-inch piece of paper should be sent to Marcia Quilter, 420 Wilkinson St. Chelsea, by April 1. An attached card should list the entrant's name, age, address, phone number and school, so entries may be judged anonymously. There is no limit to the number of entries from a student.

Designs will be judged on originality, creativity, historical and cultural accuracy and artistic appeal by Ben Bower, Walt Brown, Fran Gerber, Deborah Holfka and a sesquicentennial committee member. None of the judges have children eligible for the contest.

Contest winner will be notified by the sesquicentennial committee later in April and will be awarded a cash prize of $25.

Logo guidelines are posted in McKune Memorial Library and in the art rooms at Beach Middle and Chelsea High schools. For more information call Marcia Quilter at 475-9523.

TELEPHONE DAY: Kelly Bowers, left, and Diana Harsh, right, both four-year-olds at Chelsea Co-op Nursery, talked to a classmate who was on another extension across the room during the telephone company's annual visit. Gerry Marshall, a Michigan Bell employee, set up the telephones for them. Children have been meeting community members who hold a variety of jobs that make a community run in the last month, such as Marshall, a veterinarian, dental assistant, nurse and postman.

Village Clerk Responsible for Election Barred from Polls

The law requires that Chelsea village clerk Evelyn Rosentreter take charge of and supervise next Monday's village election. She has to set up all the voting machinery, see that everything runs smoothly and that the ballots are counted properly.

The law also requires that, because she is a candidate for reelection, she has to stay away from the Sylvan Township Hall during the hours that the polls are open because she might "influence" voters.

Trips to Kalamazoo, Washington Offered To Senior Citizens

Chelsea senior citizens interested in chartered bus trips to Upjohn Co. and to the Air Zoo in Kalamazoo, March 17 or a trip April 11-14 to Washington, D.C. should make reservations by mid-March at the senior center, 475-9242, week days from 1 to 4 p.m.

The Kalamazoo trip will also feature an all-you-can-eat buffet lunch. The group will leave at 10:15 a.m. from the school bus garage to Kalamazoo and return at 5:30 p.m.

Sights to be toured in Washington include the White House, Capitol, Archives, Washington Cathedral, embassy row, various presidential and war memorials, Arlington Cemetery, Alexandria, the Library of Congress, and Kennedy Center. Departure is planned at 7 a.m. April 11 and return at 7 p.m. April 14.

Seniors will also be touring Pennsylvania Amish-chocolate country June 13-17.

Senior Citizens Planning Indoor Spring Picnic

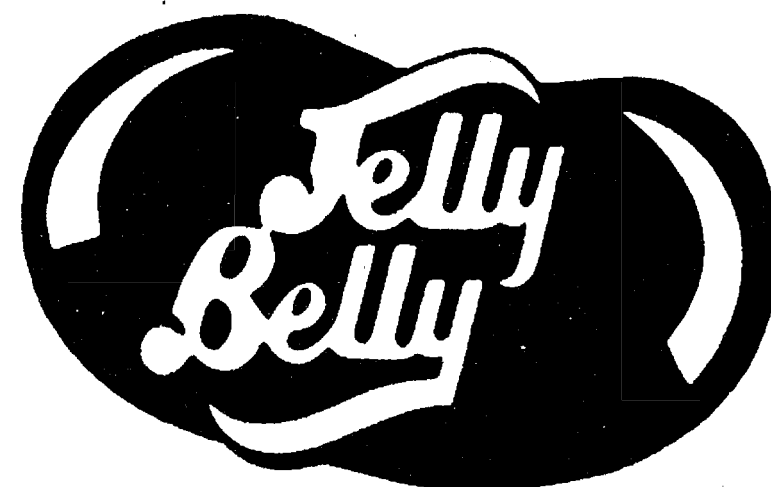

Chelsea senior citizens will have an indoor spring picnic at 6 p.m. Thursday, March 10 at the North school senior citizens center.

"Spring Magic," the evening's theme, will feature magic by Boyer and Fitzsimmons Magic Company.

Sandwiches will be provided. Those attending are asked to bring a dish to pass, a place setting and 75 cents.

Call 475-9242 to make reservations.

KEN BEAUCHAMP

Ken Beauchamp Now General Mgr. With Bookcrafters

Ken Beauchamp of 29 Sycamore has been promoted to general manager from production manager at Bookcrafters Michigan Division, announced William G. Nuffer, president of Bookcrafters, Inc.

Beauchamp has been with the company for 14 years. He began as a machine operator trainee and was promoted to caseline machine operator, multiple machine operator and lead operator. He became a member of the management team in 1975 and has held the positions of casebindery supervisor, case and paper bindery supervisor and production manager.

He attended the College of Business at Eastern Michigan University.

Beauchamp and his wife, Cindy, have four sons, Ken, Ward, Jeremy and Adam. He is a member of Chelsea Lions Club and attends First Congregational church.

Electric Rate Hike Offset By Rebate

Rates charged to persons who buy their electricity from the village of Chelsea will go up by 17-18 percent on April 20, the Village Council decided last Tuesday night.

Affected are all village householders and almost all businesses. A few large business and industrial users buy electric-

Village Employees Granted Pay Hike

A 1983-84 budget calling for, among other things, an 8 percent across-the-board pay increase for all village employees was adopted by the Chelsea Village Council last Tuesday night.

The $1,018,000 income-and-outgo blueprint was approved without change from the document that the council considered and tentatively approved at a special meeting on Feb. 22.

All but unnoticed in the budget-passing process was the hefty salary and wage hike, which is nearly double the inflation rate during the past 12 months and therefore represents a considerable gain for village workers. In the private sector recent pay hikes have been on the order of 3-5 percent, and workers in some especially troubled businesses and industries have had to accept cuts.

The 8 percent increase will be paid in quarterly installments during the fiscal year as an add-on to the base salary and wage schedule. The lump-sum payments will be considered, technically, as cost-of-living "bonuses" rather than permanent pay hikes.

By doing it that way, the council did not permanently raise pay rates, which will stay the same as they were a year ago. The council has the option to change its collective mind about giving village employees the extra money, by modifying its Feb. 22 resolution during the fiscal year if it chooses to.

Meanwhile, the 1982 salary and wage schedule remains in effect.

The pay increase was actually approved at the Feb. 22 special meeting on a 3-2 vote among the five trustees present and voting. Lyle Chriswell, Loren Keezer and Jeanene Riemenschneider cast yes votes, while Herman Radloff and Jerry Satterthwaite voted no. Trustee Joe Merkel was absent, and president Jack Merkel did not vote.

An earlier motion to limit the raise to 7 percent was defeated, also 3-2, with Radloff and Satterthwaite voting yes and Chriswell, Keezer and Riemenschneider no.

Fire Dept. Warns Of Early Spring Grass Fire Danger

The Chelsea fire department put out a blaze which broke out in a rear bedroom of a double-width mobile home at 18600 M-52 last Saturday. Damage was reported as minor.

A report of a fire at 20200 Jerusalem Rd. early Sunday morning turned out to be a false alarm.

The department also responded to two grass fires last week. This winter's unusually warm, dry weather has brought on the grass fire season much earlier than usual. Last Sunday's rain eased the danger temporarily, but a few dry days could cause a high burning hazard, firemen said.

Rodney Grames Arrested on Driving Charge

Rodney A. Grames, 17, of Detroit was arrested Sunday evening for driving under the influence of intoxicating liquor, the Washtenaw sheriff's department reported.

The arrest was made by deputy Chester Wilson on Dexter Town Hall Rd. near Colby Rd., Dexter township, at 8:45 p.m. Sunday. Grames is awaiting circuit court action on a charge of burglarizing the Jiffy Market last Dec. 26. He is free on personal recognizance, bond pending appearance in circuit court.

Orchestra Students Gross $1,000-Plus In Candy Sale

Beach Middle school orchestra students sold more than $1,000 of candy in their sale sponsored by the middle school orchestra boosters which ended Feb. 28.

First prizes of $5 went to Cheryl Blough, sixth grade; Kimberly Degener, seventh grade; and Susan Schmunk, eighth grade. The over-all prize of $10 went to Kimberly, who sold $180 worth of Reese's Pieces.

Runners who received E.T. posters were sixth graders Jenny Ghent, Lisa Kolek, Jeff Vetter, Brenda Welch, Vanessa May and Laura Unterbrink; and seventh graders Shannon Dunn, Karen Grau and David Teare.

Con Artists Take Money But Don't Deliver Merchandise

A case of "larceny by trick" was reported at the Wolverine Truck Plaza, I-94 at Baker Rd., last week. A motorist who stopped at the plaza was approached by two persons who offered to sell him used televisions sets and radar detectors for $195. He paid the money, and the two "salesmen" fled without delivering the merchandise.

original bidders to submit new proposals with a fixed "ceiling" price. The revised bids ranged up to $7,300, village administrator Frederick A. Weber said.

The three unsuccessful bidders were all from Washtenaw county. "I don't know that any firm policy exists which requires that the village accept a low bid in every case, but that practice is generally followed," Weber said. "In this instance the cost difference was so substantial that, in my opinion, awarding the contract to a firm from outside the area was entirely justified."

Nomination of South Lima Rural Historic District to the National Register of Historic Places.

The South Lima Rural Historic District, in Lima will be considered by the Michigan Historic Preservation Review Board for nomination to the National Register of Historic Places at the Review Board meeting to be held April 7, 1983 room 124, 208 N. Capitol, Lansing, Michigan, at 10:00 a.m.

The South Lima Rural Historic District is in generally comprising the southerly 2 1/2 miles of Lima Township (but including all of Section 20 and the NE corner of Section 19 while excluding parts of sections 19, 24, 25, 30, 31, 33, 34, and 36) and also parcels 3-6 and 14 in Section 1 and 2, 3, and 11 in Section 5 of Freedom Township and also parcels 1, 3, and 15A in Section 25 of Sylvan Township.

The National Register is the federal government's official list of properties which are deemed to be worthy of preservation because of their importance in American history and culture. National Register designation provides recognition and assists in preserving our national heritage.

Listing in the National Register provides the following benefits:
Consideration in planning for federally assisted projects. The Advisory Council on Historic Preservation must be given an opportunity to comment on projects affecting such properties.

Eligibility for federal tax benefits. The Economic Recovery Tax Act of 1981, as amended, contains provisions intended to encourage the preservation of depreciable historic structures by allowing favorable tax treatments for rehabilitation, and to discourage destruction of historic buildings.

Consideration for historic values in the decision to issue a surface coal mining permit.

Qualification for federal grants-in-aid whenever funds are appropriated by Congress. None are available.

Owners of private properties nominated to the National Register are given an opportunity to concur in or object to the nomination in accordance with the National Historic Preservation Act Amendments of 1980 and federal regulations 36 CFR Part 60. Any owner or partial owner of private property who chooses to object to listing must submit to the State Historic Preservation Officer a notarized statement certifying that the party is the sole or partial owner of the private property, as appropriate, and objects to the listing. If a majority of the owners object to listing, the district will not be listed. Each owner or partial owner of private property has one vote regardless of how many properties or what part of one property that party owns.

If the district cannot be listed, the State Historic Preservation Officer shall submit the nomination to the Keeper of the National Register for a determination of eligibility for inclusion in the National Register.

If the district is determined eligible, but not formally listed, the Advisory Council on Historic Preservation must still be given an opportunity to comment on federal projects which may affect it.

Notarized objections to listing and other comments must be sent to the following address by the time the Review Board reviews the nomination:

Dr. Martha M. Bigelow
State Historic Preservation Officer
Michigan History Division
Michigan Department of State
Lansing, Michigan 48918

Attention: Kathryn B. Eckert

A copy of the nomination, the criteria under which properties are evaluated, and more information on the federal tax benefits are available at the Michigan History Division, 208 North Capitol Avenue, Lansing, Michigan.

COMMUNITY CALENDAR

From the SUPERINTENDENT'S DESK

By Raymond E. Van Meer
Superintendent of Schools

* The Growth of Consortiums *

The Chelsea School District is currently involved in two organized consortiums. Chelsea is a member of the South and West Washtenaw Consortium for vocational-technical education AND Region V Special Education Consortium. Members of the Consortium are Chelsea, Dexter, Manchester, Milan and Saline. This Consortium, authorized by State Code, was formed in 1980. The Consortium was formed to enhance the availability of program offerings for students in the various schools.

By combining in a consortium arrangement, the school districts were also eligible for some federal funding. Currently the vocational program offerings for students are: production agriculture, agri-business, secretarial, marketing and distribution, health occupations, child care guidance, food production, construction trades, electrical/electronics, auto mechanics, co-op and cosmetology. Chelsea students, during this school year, are enrolled in production agriculture, health occupations, child care guidance, food production, construction trades, electrical/electronics, auto mechanics, co-op and cosmetology. Chelsea students attend classes in Chelsea for production agriculture, health occupations and auto mechanics; in Saline for child care guidance; in Dexter for construction trades; and in Ann Arbor for cosmetology.

Chelsea also participates in a consortium involving special education services. Region V membership consists of Chelsea, Dexter, Manchester and Whitmore Lake. The consortium is designed to provide programs for handicapped children who may be mentally, physically, emotionally, visually, hearing or speech and language impaired, or to other students who have specific learning disabilities. These schools are also looking for co-operative resource sharing in academic areas. Recently, committees representing the schools reviewed the five most feasible delivery systems for academic sharing:

1. Combining low enrollment classes during the existing school day at one specific school;
 2. Combining low enrollment classes during the existing school day at one or more schools within the consortium.
 3. A combination of classes offered in all schools by means of electronic media (video-audio sharing);
 4. A combination of classes outside the existing school day at a common location;
 5. A combination of low enrollment classes during the existing school day at a location other than any of the existing schools (neutral site).
- The thrust of consortium arrangement is to preserve programs for students at a time of declining enrollments and diminishing educational dollars. In a spirit of co-operation we are exploring arrangements with other schools so that students in the Chelsea schools may continue to receive a comprehensive educational program.

plant and is discharged directly to Letts Creek.

Several solutions to the problems have been explored and will be presented at the public hearing. The engineers have recommended that the current wastewater treatment plant be converted to an oxidation ditch system and expanded. Improvements to the existing sanitary sewer collection system to reduce the effects of infiltration/inflow on the volume of flow reaching the wastewater treatment plant are also recommended. The project is designed to serve the area's needs to the year 2005 and is estimated to cost $4.3 million.

Library Board Candidates

library, but I do know something about running a building—heating, lighting, maintenance, that kind of thing. That's where I think I have been able to contribute, and can continue.

"I don't know of any real problems with the library. It seems to be very well run, and I don't think the board members should get involved in administration unless unusual problems do arise. We don't have any issues of censorship or book banning that I know of."

Mrs. Hodder, of 129 South St., is records supervisor at Cassidy Lake Technical School and has been a Chelsea resident since 1964. She formerly worked as an assistant librarian at McKune for five years and "loved it," but left in 1970 to take her present job because she needed more money.

"The library was a wonderful place to work," she said. "I know and love books, and have had some training in cataloging. I guess that's why I would like to be on the board. I like library work and the library itself."

Mrs. Hodder said she knows of no serious problems in the present library operation. She sees the board's role as that of "a kind of benevolent godfather, taking care of the broad picture and setting guidelines for policy and administration," and added:

"Whether I'm elected or not, I just hope people will show some interest by going out and voting." Riemschneider, of 215 Congdon St., is a realtor by profession and is running for public office for the first time. He is a lifelong Chelsea resident and says he feels a "strong sense of wanting to be involved in a very fine community."

"I honestly don't know a whole lot about the library," Riemschneider said. "I'm a businessman, and I think I can contribute something to the board from that standpoint. I do a lot of reading, and my interest in the library is that of a citizen who wants to do his part." Riemschneider added that he is not aware of any serious

K-C Hosts Dinner For Students, Staff Of St. Louis School

Chelsea Knights of Columbus entertained 87 students and staff members at a fish fry at the old St. Mary's school on Congdon St. last Friday night. It is an annual event, according to Bob Guerin, fish fry chairman.

The K. of C. serves fish dinners to the public (for a price) every Friday evening during Lent.

High School Ag Classes Victims of Low Enrollment

By PEGGY PAGE

Chelsea school district is not unique in questioning the future of its agriculture classes. Milan may be the only school district in the seemingly agricultural out-county area (including Saline, Dexter and Manchester) to offer agriculture next year.

Chelsea school board was scheduled to decide last night whether to continue introductory agriculture for ninth and 10th graders, a class with a current enrollment of five. But it was not just a decision on that class, but also one on the FFA, (the former Future Farmers of America) an organization with quite a local tradition.

Once a school discontinues agriculture classes, the school's FFA chapter may no longer recruit new members, but present members may continue in the program until graduation.

Even if Chelsea school board drops agriculture, Chelsea students still have the option of taking the South and West Washtenaw Consortium course on agri-business. Although that course has been offered for two years, no Chelsea students have taken it. A student enrolled in the consortium course would be eligible for FFA.

Yet even the consortium course has a "not too secure" enrollment of 10 this year, said David Mafels, assistant superintendent of the consortium which coordinates vocational education for member districts. "We'd like to see it higher, about 18-20 students."

Pre-enrollment shows more students for next year, he said. Teacher of the consortium course, Tom Stahl, a Milan teacher whose FFA chapter has 50 students and whose introductory agriculture course has a "low" enrollment of 21 students this year, has been recruiting.

He has spoken to the Washtenaw County Farm Bureau, Washtenaw County Young Farmers, local FFA clubs and sent letters to parents. The consortium class also has occasional "bring a friend" days.

Stahl has dropped pre-requisites for the consortium course, so interested students in districts who have dropped the introductory courses are not eliminated.

He grew up in Monroe county, which did not offer any agricultural classes in the schools, he says. He got exposed to the field, "which has many job opportunities in this area," on the family farm, an advantage not every potential farmer has.

Chelsea's agriculture enrollment problems are not new, said John Williams, Chelsea High school principal. Although the school wanted to drop the course last spring, it decided later to continue the course and open it up to students in districts which had already dropped their beginning courses.

No students from outside districts took the course, however.

Jane Wilson, who teaches Chelsea's course, said she would not discuss either the course or FFA until the school board has made its decision.

Dexter school district, whose regular agriculture teacher, Kathy Pfleger, is on maternity leave this year, has dropped its agriculture classes for next year because of projected low enrollment from pre-registration.

Agriculture enrollments have been struggling for a decade, said Dr. John Hansen, Dexter High school principal, who is asking the state FFA hierarchy for clemency for the Dexter club.

Saline dropped agriculture for the 1982-83 year, and Manchester dropped it prior to the 1981-82 year.

The lack of interest in agriculture in the out-county region's five school districts seems surprising considering the rich agricultural tradition of the area.

But agriculture has changed too. It takes less time to produce a crop, said Stahl, the Milan teacher, but managing one's farm takes more time. Many students are taking accounting, law and computing courses instead of agricultural courses to prepare themselves for taking over the family farm.

Since a big concern in agriculture these days is just staying afloat, the in-class portion of the consortium course focuses on farm management topics such as inventory, calculating equipment depreciation, how to get loans, whether to go into partnerships or to incorporate and the futures market. Students also get hands-on experience on a local farm in an area in which they wish to specialize, such as dairy farming.

Hansen, the Dexter high school principal, sees other changes affecting enrollments, too.

"You'd think this area was nothing but farms," he said, but the number of local farms has dropped in the past 20 years. What has happened is the farms that are left are now much larger.

One farmer in the school district has a 2,800 acre farm and two sons. Thirty years ago that would have been 28 separate farms, he said, with eight children in each family.

There are less farms and less children to go around.

Stahl believes in both schools having agriculture courses and in the FFA.

He has taught in Milan for two years. Last year one student got an FFA scholarship to Michigan State University. This year two students got FFA scholarships.

Students from farm families traditionally have had trouble qualifying for student loans and financial aid, he said, since the family is asset rich, although it may be cash poor.

FFA scholarships are very available, he said, if a student has good grades.

He would like to see teachers shared among districts, he said, rather than have the students travel to a central location, which takes a huge time chunk out of a student's schedule options.

It also takes a lot of confidence, often in short supply among 14- and 15-year-olds, to go to a strange school.

Lloyd Grau is a school board member, dairy and crop farmer, parent and former FFA member.

Although he says he'd like to see agriculture offered in the Chelsea district, it's hard to justify the expense for so few students.

His son had wanted to take an agriculture course. He was told he would have to be bused to another school, since Chelsea had not planned to offer the course this year. The transportation time involved discouraged his son and he took another course.

Agriculture has such a large scope and changes so rapidly, said Grau, it's very difficult to teach in a classroom. He learned more about agriculture growing up on a farm than in high school or through FFA.

But he found the public speaking and parliamentary procedure he learned in FFA really paid off, when he was on the the MSU dairy and livestock judging teams, which were ranked fifth nationally.

He also met members of other FFA clubs, who are now professional contacts.

Agriculture has a lot more competition from other electives now, he said. When he attended Chelsea High school (Class of 1954), the only science course offered was biology.

Earl Heller, a local sheep producer and electrical contractor, was FFA State Farmer of the Year in 1959. The local FFA chapter had 70-80 members then, he said.

He has found parliamentary procedure, one of the traditional FFA events for competition, is very valuable if one ever ends up leading a meeting for a community group. He also valued the fellowship that came with being in the club.

Dropping agriculture should not be looked on as a forever and ever decision, said Hansen, the Dexter principal. "We alternate course and extra-curricular activities from year to year, which helps build back demand."

One year freshman football had to be dropped because only nine students came out for the team. The next year 26 did, so the team was reinstated.

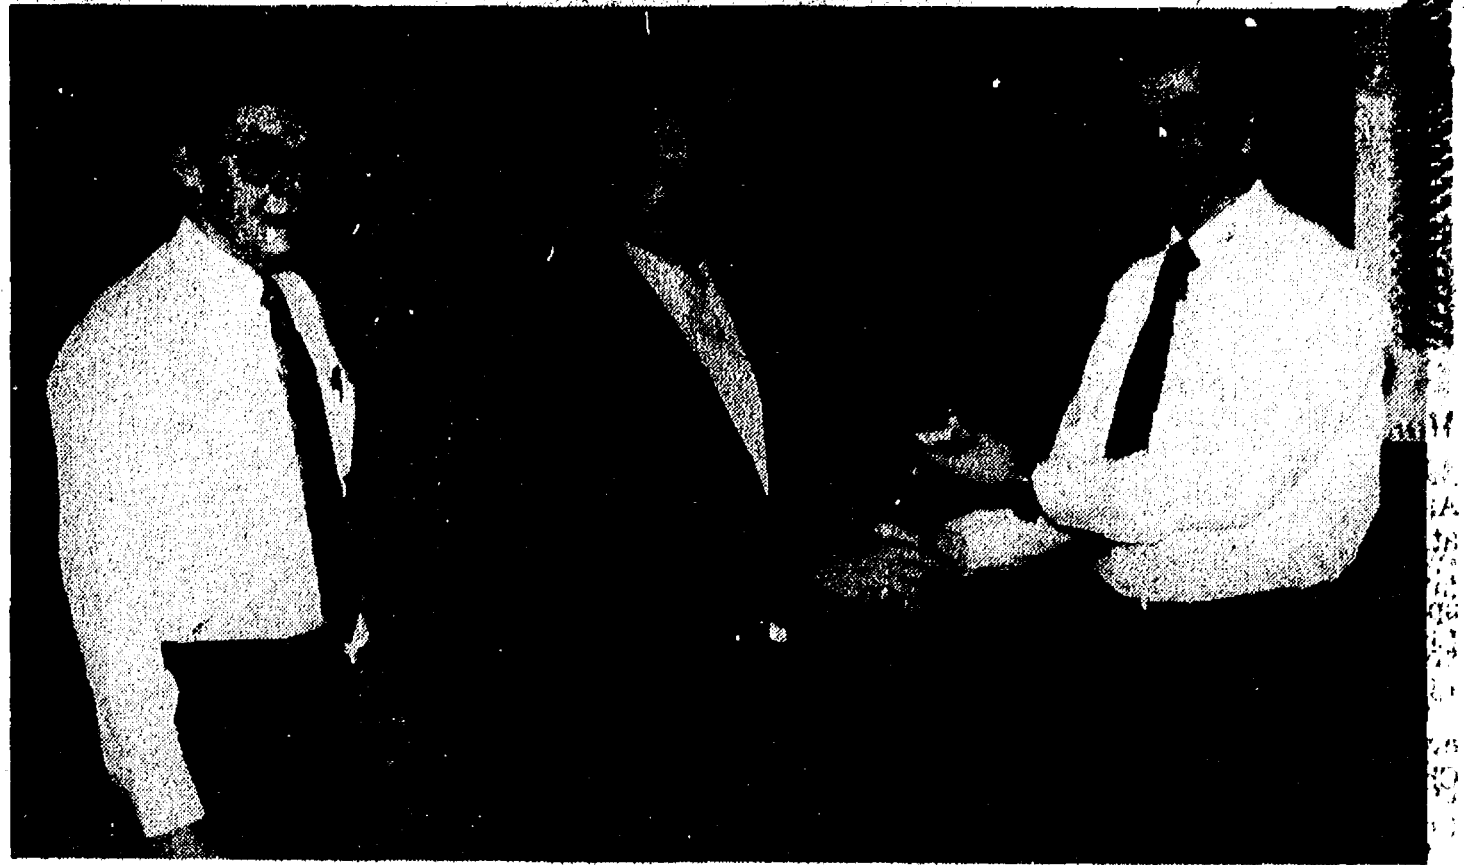

Ag Banquet Set March 29 at CHS

The 1983 annual Washtenaw County Agriculture Banquet will be held Tuesday, March 29, at 7 p.m. at Chelsea High school. The Washtenaw Dairy Livestock Council, composed of 16 Washtenaw county farmers, with the support of agri-business, will sponsor this event.

It has been a tough year for those involved in the agriculture industry. Keeping this in mind, the council has asked Laura Heuser to be the keynote speaker. She will wow you, she will humor you, she will motivate you, she will stir you up, she will make you feel proud to be an American agriculturist. Just what the doctor ordered!

Mrs. Heuser is a graduate of Michigan State University with a Bachelor of Science cum laude degree from the Department of Horticulture. She is currently vice-president, public relations, of Hilltop Orchards and Nurseries. She is married to Wallace Heuser, fruit grower and nurseryman, from Hartford. They have four sons and one daughter.

Her awards include Michiganian of 1979, Outstanding Alumnus, Department of Agriculture at Michigan State University, Spokesman of the Year for Agriculture, Founder Award from "Woman for Survival of Agriculture."

engineer, presented him with a Dana blazer and retirement pin. Moss and his wife, Helen, plan to do a little traveling and golfing.

Drew Sprague Wins Scholarship

Drew Sprague, a junior in the college of mechanical engineering at Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill., was recently notified of his selection for the Amoco Foundation Scholarship in mechanical engineering. Sprague is a member of the Northwestern football marching band as well as the basketball pep band. He is a 1980 graduate of Chelsea High school and is the son of James and Marian Sprague of Grass Lake.

INTRODUCING THE BEST IRA BONUS OFFER IN TOWN:

UP TO $80*
IN CASH.
UP FRONT.

There are several IRA bonus plans being offered right now. And some of them sound pretty good. But work them out on paper, and you'll discover that Ann Arbor Trust beats them all with a 2% up-front cash bonus PLUS 10% interest.

Let's take an example:

Suppose you and your spouse both work, and that you each deposit $2000 into an IRA. In that case, we would automatically add $80 to your total deposit. Then we'd pay you high, tax-deferred, compounded interest on all that money. All year long. And with maturities ranging from 18 months to five years. (With other plans, you'd get higher short-term interest and no cash added to your deposit.)

If you open your IRA before the April 15th deadline, you can deduct the entire amount of your deposit from your 1982 taxable income.

So before you invest your hard-earned money in an IRA that just sounds good, call Ann Arbor Trust today at 994-5555. We'll show you—in black and white—how our cash bonus beats any other offer in town.

*Based on maximum initial contributions of $2000 for a married couple with two incomes. Offer applies to new IRA customers only and ends April 15, 1983. Withdrawal prior to age 59½ incurs substantial tax penalty except for death or disability. Early withdrawal from any certificate of deposit incurs substantial interest penalty.

Applies to Fixed Rate Certificates.

This Could Be the Winter That Wasn't

Dear Boss:

I have purposely been putting this off, figuring that just as soon as I wrote it and you could get it into print we would have about two feet of snow or an inch of freezing rain dumped on us. That's the way life goes in the newspaper business. The mistakes you make are preserved for posterity, and your yet-unborn grandchildren may someday look through the files and ask why you were dumb enough to write such a stupid story.

However, journalistic good conscience has prevailed, and I feel compelled to declare this "the winter that wasn't." Everybody else is saying it, so maybe we should join the bandwagon and say so, too.

I am writing this on the sunny afternoon of March 1 with the outside temperature at 55 degrees. I took my topcoat off when I went out to lunch at noon. Between telephone calls about papers that weren't received and ads that didn't come out the way they were supposed to I've taken several from people who have crocuses blooming and tulips emerging. We have "first robins" coming out of our ears.

A few weeks ago (just a month, to be exact) I wrote to tell you that I didn't believe the story in that other local newspaper (the Ann Arbor News) which sought to shove down its readers' throats the nonsense that we had had 9.4 inches of snow through the end of January. Up to that point we had never had enough snow to cover the ground in a decent cloak of modesty, and we still haven't. It did manage to snow about an inch a week or so ago, and it lasted for all of 24 hours—just long enough for me to write a couple of stories about cross-country ski trails being open and not be able to pull them back before press time. Before the paper was delivered the snow was gone. It's been that kind of winter. Anybody who has been able to ski cross-country this winter has figured out a way to do it on grass.

I can testify that the ice fishing season was the shortest in my memory. It began about the middle of January and ended a month later, although a few people didn't think so, as some stories we have printed in the past weeks will attest. Right now you would have to wear a bathing suit to go fishing without a boat.

My mother and dad live in Detroit, and have since 1924, two years before I was born. They are both 81 years old, in good health, with memories as sharp as mine. Neither can remember any winter like this one, ever. Actually, I think they are a little disappointed. Fighting winter has always given them something to do and get them into shape for spring gardening.

Two years ago Mom decided the two of them should retreat into a small den-type room during the winter months and keep warm with the heat from a fireplace. They haven't been able to use the "cozy" room this alleged winter. Every time they stoked up the fireplace it got too darned hot, and they had to go out into the unheated living room to cool off.

About five years ago mother convinced my dad that he really ought to quit hand-shovelling snow. He bought a snow-blower and, like most kids with a new toy, came to like the machine. He waited all season long to crank it up this winter and finally took it out one morning a couple of weeks ago when there was maybe half an inch of snow on the driveway, just to see if it would start. It started all right, so he wheeled it back into the garage and swept off the snow with a broom.

My wife bought a new pair of boots back in November. Got a real bargain and was all set for winter, she told me, $50 boots for half price. She's worn them about twice, and has complained between times that she hasn't been able to get her money's worth. I suspect there will be more real winters, but the boots may be out of style by the time they come.

I took my usual precautions—winterizing autos, stowing cold-weather clothes in the trunk of the car that I drive between Ann Arbor and Chelsea, making sure snow tires were inflated right. Frankly, I had some concerns about the commute. Fact is, there have been exactly two times this winter when even a little caution was needed because of snow and ice. Fog has been the biggest driving problem.

I have a winter overcoat hanging in my closet. I've worn it once since Dec. 1, and was uncomfortably warm in it that day. Sometime this week it will go into a moth-proof bag to wait until next year.

Even the Ann Arbor News, which is kind of slow to catch up on things, seems finally to have recognized that this has been a mighty unusual winter season. I see on their front page today (March 1) a story recognizing that this has indeed been a mild winter. They are only a month behind us in reporting that fact.

Meanwhile, I have heard and read some advance weather forecasts which predict that the rest of March hereabouts will be unusually warm and dry. The fact that such outlooks have been published just could mean that it will be cold and wet.

This is not good weather forecasting country. The jet stream, fronts and all the other weather-making phenomena that I don't understand whip-saw around here and, in the words of Mark Twain, "If you don't like the weather, wait a minute."

Continued warm, dry weather is not necessarily a good thing. Farmers need cool, moist springs to get their crops started right. Any deviation from the normal pattern of weather is bad for agriculture.

With spring seemingly coming on in early March, and triggering growth, a severe cold snap in April or May could be disastrous. This part of Michigan has known snowstorms and frosts well into May. I remember coming home from a Florida vacation in the fourth week of April and having to shovel snow to get into the driveway.

Meanwhile, it's been interesting, a new kind of winter for southern Michigan. Nothing like this has happened in at least 59 years, and I think that makes it newsworthy.

Your hard-working reporter,

Bill Mullendore.

Burglars Steal Cash From Flea Market

Burglars kicked in the front door of the Hilltop Trading Post at 8316 Werkner Rd. last Saturday night and stole $200 in cash from a file cabinet, sheriff's deputies reported. Nothing else was taken from the "flea market" store.

Bowling Meet Benefits Co-Op School

A "Scotch doubles" bowling tournament held to raise funds for the Chelsea Co-Operative Nursery school on Feb. 20 was a success, according to spokesperson Janet Phipps. Eighty-six couples took part in the event at Chelsea Lanes.

In Scotch doubles, one bowler rolls the first ball in a frame and, unless that ball is a strike, the partner bowls the second.

Prizes were won as follows: First, $200 to Mike and Gail Williamson; second, $100 to Jerry and Louise Thompson; third, $50 to Danny and Doty Bloxom; fourth, $25 to Lloyd Miller and Cindy Gentner.

Gasoline Prices Continue To Drop

Gasoline prices in Chelsea have come down 11 cents a gallon since The Standard last surveyed them on Jan. 11, and the price gap between Ann Arbor and Chelsea has closed by about four cents.

However, it still costs considerably more to fill your tank in Chelsea than in points a few miles east.

A spot check made last Wednesday showed regular gas at self-serve pumps selling for $1.109 in Chelsea, with unleaded seven cents higher at $1.179. Comparable prices three weeks ago were $1.219 and $1.289.

In Ann Arbor last Wednesday you could buy regular for $1.049 and no-lead for $1.099, seven cents less than on Jan. 11.

In Dexter last Wednesday regular gas was going for $1.069 and unleaded for $1.119, two cents more than in Ann Arbor.

Prices vary, of course, by a penny or two from station to station, and full-serve charges are 10 cents a gallon or more higher. Prices quoted are the lowest found in the localities.

Gasoline marketers explain the price differences between places as being caused by "local market conditions." What that means is that dealers in any particular locality charge the highest price they can get while maintaining sales volume.

Gasoline prices have been falling along with the world price of crude oil, and industry analysts are predicting that within a few weeks gasoline will be widely available at less than a dollar a gallon. Some are forecasting 70-cent gasoline by mid-summer.

A five-cents-a-gallon federal tax increase is scheduled to go into effect April 1, and that will raise prices at least temporarily.

Quiz Bowl Team 2nd in SEC Meet

Beach Middle school's quiz bowl team took second to Saline by 10 points in the Southeastern Conference quiz bowl championship Feb. 26 in Saline. Dexter took third.

All games in the double elimination tournament were close, within 50 points, said Alan Conklin, Beach school principal. Beach students did "very well."

Dexter had a first-round bye, and Chelsea beat Saline. Chelsea then beat Dexter. Dexter had its final loss to Saline, and Saline won the next two matches over Chelsea.

Students on the eighth grade team, which won the Beach championship, were Loren Rosenberg, team captain; Cris Zerkel, Carol Palmer and Jay Marentay. Alison Chasteen, who was unable to attend the tournament, was replaced by Jordan

Gray, captain of the seventh grade team.

Portions of the tournament were scheduled to be shown on cable Channel 21 Friday, March 4.

Beach will have its school-wide spelling bee championship at 9 a.m. Friday, March 11. The top 10 students in each grade will compete.

The top 10 students over-all will continue on to the conference spelling bee at 9:30 a.m. Saturday, March 26 at Chelsea High school auditorium to compete against students from Saline, Dexter and Milan. Entries from Tecumseh and Lincoln are still tentative.

The Michigan State University Mass Spectrometry Facility can detect and identify chemicals that are present in amounts as small as one-trillionth of a gram.

PART ONE OF A SERIES

Cassidy Lake Technical School ... Dangerous, Or Noble Project?

By Bill Mullendore
(First of a series)

John Staten is a big man. His physical size kind of overpowers you when you first meet him. He is 6-5 and weighs about 260 pounds, a former tight end for the Houston Oilers professional football team. You wouldn't want to get into an argument with him if you thought it might degenerate into a physical fight. He could tear any normal-sized person in half.

That is one side of John Staten. The other side is that of a soft-spoken, intelligent, well educated, very concerned man who has the extremely difficult job of superintending the Cassidy Lake Technical School located off Waterloo Rd. in the Waterloo Recreation Area.

Cassidy Lake is a "minimum security" state prison, which means that it has no walls or fences, or armed guards. Its inmates are, for the most part, young male first offenders, 17 to 22 years old. Its purpose is to prepare those young men for release back into society with the education, skills and right-mindedness that will insure against their coming back into the state prison system as repeat offenders.

Like all correctional institutions, Cassidy Lake sometimes succeeds and sometimes fails. Some of its "graduates" go on to become law-abiding productive citizens. Some others get back into the police and court grist mill, and wind up as inmates of harsher prisons at Jackson, Marquette and Huron Valley — institutions where there are walls and armed guards and drastic security measures, and where the primary object is to punish rather than to deter and rehabilitate.

Cassidy Lake has been a subject of local concern in the Chelsea area ever since the state bought the former National Youth Administration (NYA) camp from the federal government for one dollar back in 1944.

A problem has been escapes or, as they have come to be termed, "walkaways." It is easy for a "resident" to get out of Cassidy Lake. Security measures consist primarily of periodic roll-calls and head-counts, plus surveillance by school employees. Any inmate (a word that Staten and his staff don't like) can walk off by using just a little bit of intelligence and ingenuity.

Some do. Walkaways number about two dozen a year. Most just wander off down the road and are picked up in a day or two within a few miles of the school by local police agencies. A few get into cars which meet them by pre-arrangement, but are usually tracked down at or near their homes within a week. Once in a great while something more serious happens. A Cassidy Lake escapee committed a murder a few weeks ago. It happened in Detroit.

Police and some area residents are concerned that walkaways might commit crimes locally, although there have been few such instances. The most likely kinds of offenses are thefts of cars, money and clothes by escapees determined to make a permanent getaway.

So far, however, there has been no such local "crime wave" by walk-off residents of Cassidy Lake or nearby Camp Waterloo (where "trusties" are housed and put to work on projects provided by the Department of Natural Resources under joint supervision with the Department of Corrections).

Staten is convinced that local fears are largely groundless. "The young men at Cassidy Lake have strong motivation to behave," he says. "They are under short sentences and scheduled for release relatively soon. If they walk away, they will

SGT. HOWARD SAYRE, a shift commander on the security force at Cassidy Lake Technical School, points to the sheet which lists all the residents (about 260 at any one time) of the school. By punching a button and issuing an order, Sayre can ask school employees to conduct a roll call and account for the presence or absence of all inmates. It is routinely done every two hours during the day and hourly at night. Like all other personnel at the school, Sayre does not carry a firearm. He is wearing the standard security guard uniform of green blazer, black trousers, white shirt and black tie.

most likely be caught and put into a walled prison with time added on to their terms.

"It makes no sense for a resident to try to escape from here, and most of our young men realize and understand that. Admittedly, a few don't."

Staten is an interesting story by himself. A black native of Selma, Ala., where he grew up in an atmosphere of racial bigotry and hatred, which culminated in the famous civil rights march led by Dr. Martin Luther King, Staten went on to college where he excelled in both scholarship and football.

An injury cut his pro football career short a year after its promising start, and he eventually found his way to Michigan as an employee of the Department of Corrections. He rose through the ranks to his present job as superintendent at Cassidy Lake, and commutes from his Lansing home every day.

He is an unusually sensitive, caring man, probably because of his experiences while growing up as a black in a white-supremacist environment. He worries about the "residents" at Cassidy Lake who are in his charge, and is concerned for the future of each one, be they black or white or whatever.

"My job is to rehabilitate these young men," he explains earnestly. "Rehabilitation can't be forced; it has to come from within. The young men here are responsible for themselves and their own futures. We seek to provide an opportunity for them to change their past behavior, and motivate them so that they will."

Bulldog Cagers Share SEC Crown in Loss To Milan Friday Night

Chelsea High school's varsity basketball team has been living dangerously all season long, getting off to slow starts, then coming from behind to win most games. That formula almost worked one more time against Milan last Friday night in the Bulldog gym, but the Big Reds held on for a 61-57 victory that was not locked up until the final three seconds.

The loss deprived Chelsea of its chance to win the championship of the Southeastern Conference outright. Instead, they had to share it with Lincoln and Tecumseh. All three finished the SEC race with 8-4 records. The Bulldogs were 13-7 over-all for the regular season.

Chelsea fell behind, 18-8, at the end of the first quarter and during one disastrous stretch extending into the second period went for more than eight minutes without making a field goal. Some good shooting from the foul line kept the Bulldogs in the game during that cold spell.

However, it was inability to hit free throws in the fourth quarter that cost Chelsea the game. The Bulldogs were 2 for 11 from the line during the final eight minutes and were 17 of 28 for the game, well below their usual average.

Their shooting from the floor was also below par—20 of 61 for just 32 percent. The Bulldogs generally shoot close to 50 percent on their home court.

Still, Chelsea could have won it. As they have so many times this season, they battled from behind and narrowed the gap to 29-27 at the half, then put on their usual strong third-quarter surge to lead by as many as six points. The comeback effort may have taken too much out of them. They were visibly tired down the stretch, and Milan dominated the final few minutes.

The game almost went into overtime. With his team trailing by three points and three seconds left on the clock, Chelsea's Carl Pate went to the free throw line for two shots. He made the first one and deliberately missed the second on a set-up play with David Kiel assigned to grab the rebound. Kiel got good position, but the ball didn't come off the board quite right, and he just missed grabbing it. Instead of putting up a last-second shot that might have tied things, Kiel drew a foul, and Milan's Brad Collar iced the outcome with a pair of pressure tosses.

"Give credit to Milan," a disappointed Chelsea coach Robin Raymond said. "They are a fine team, and they played very well. Their record is deceiving. They had some problems during the middle of the season, but they have played some outstanding ball the past few weeks."

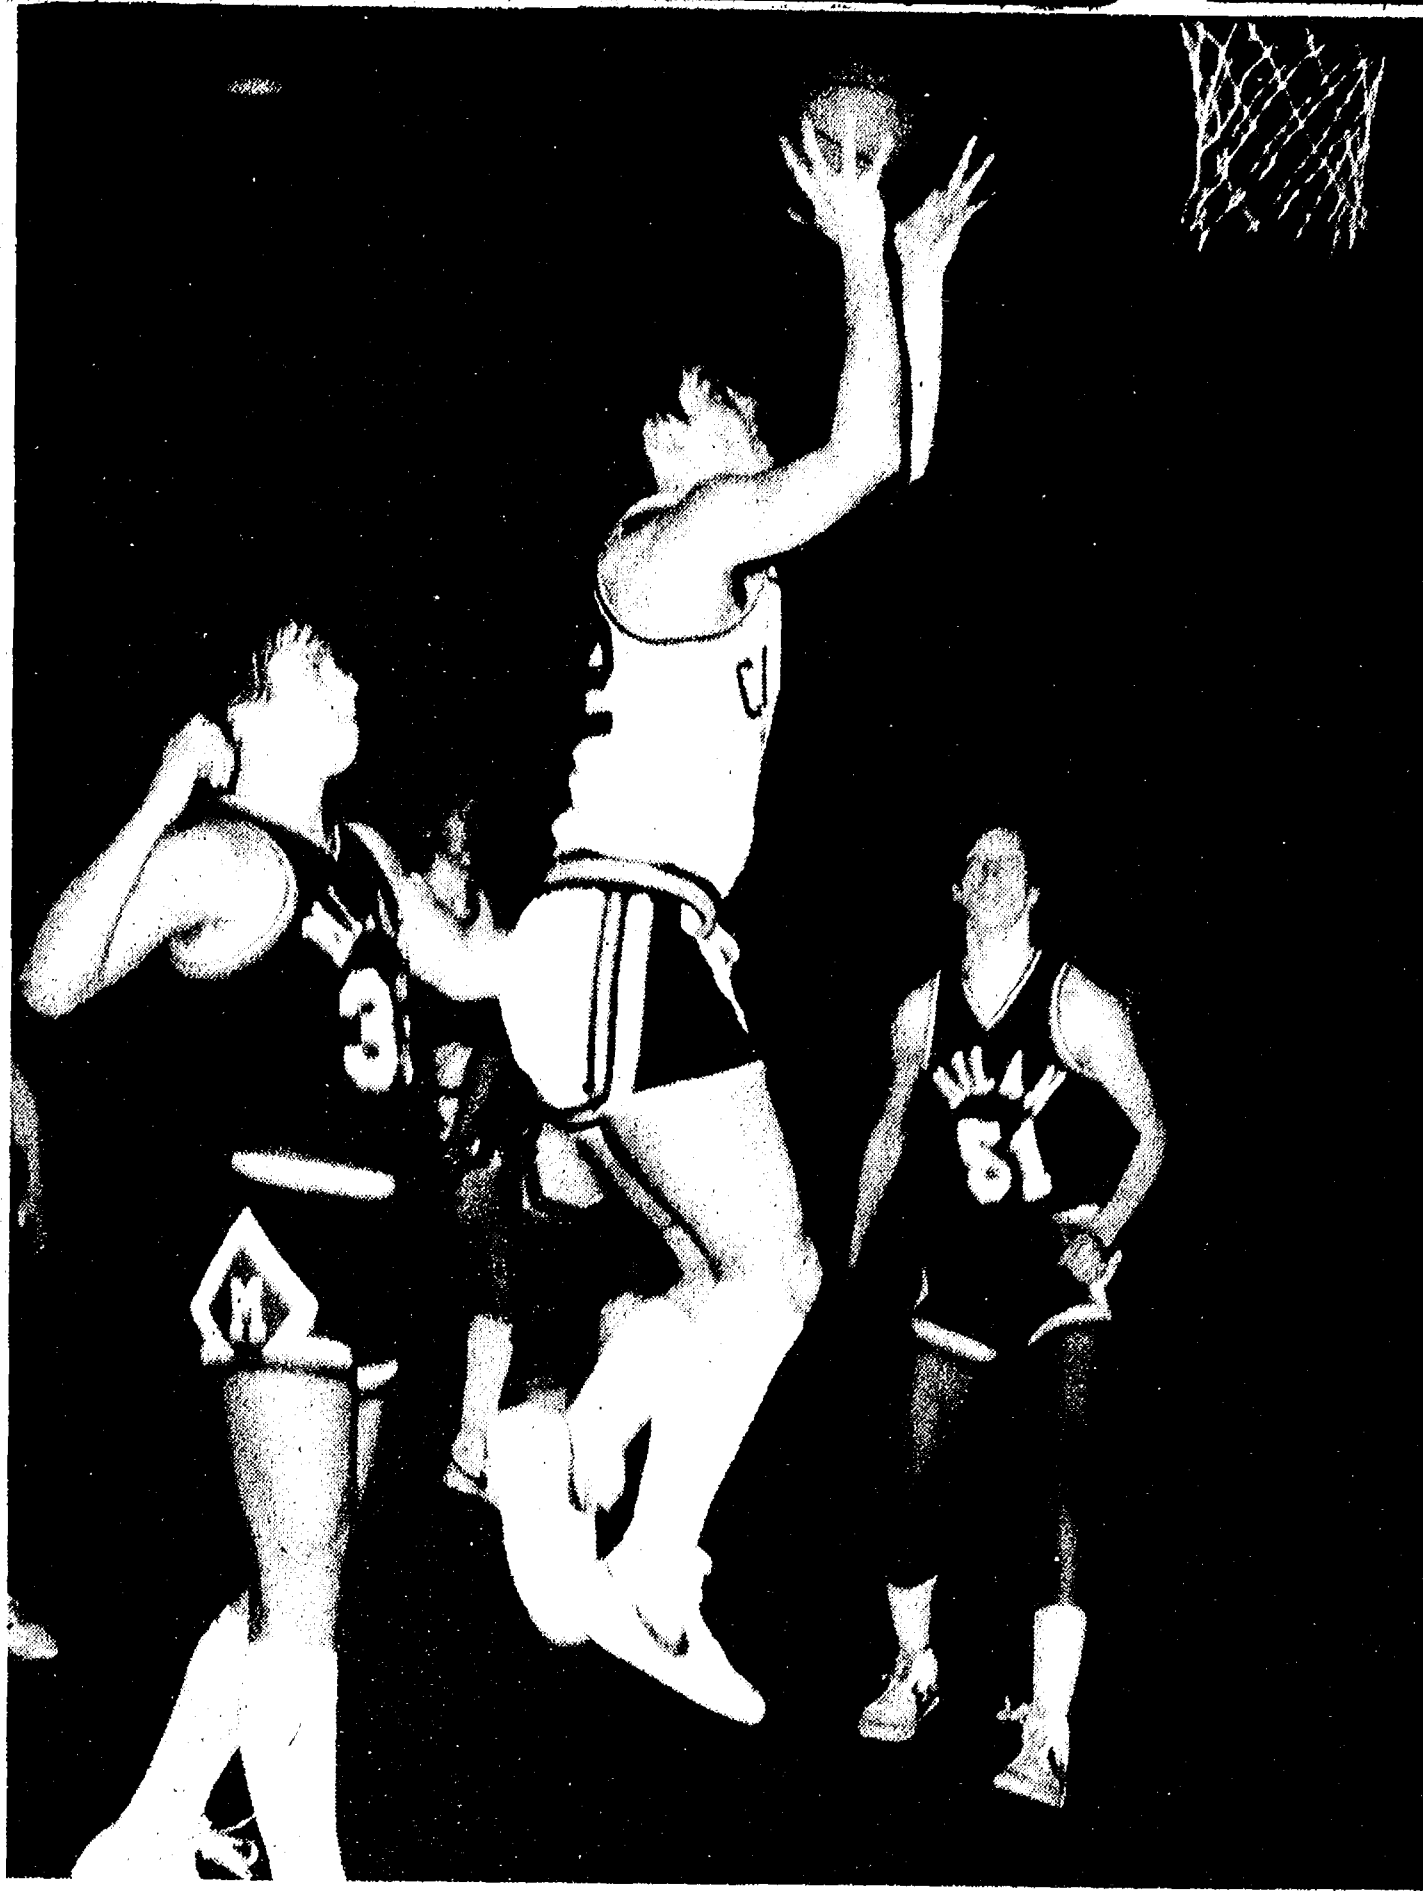

Milan's sticky-tough zone press defense kept the Bulldogs outside of their normal offensive range and largely neutralized Chelsea's usually strong inside game.

But for an outstanding display of shooting by David Wojcicki, who scored 25 of his team's 57 points, the contest would not have been close. Playing his final game before a home crowd, Wojcicki pumped in nine field goals on a variety of outside jumpers and drive-in lay-ups, and was 7 for 9 from the foul line.

"It was unquestionably David's best offensive game of the season, maybe his best ever during his three years on the varsity," Raymond said. "It's just too bad we couldn't win the game. Wojcicki and the rest of our seniors wanted it badly."

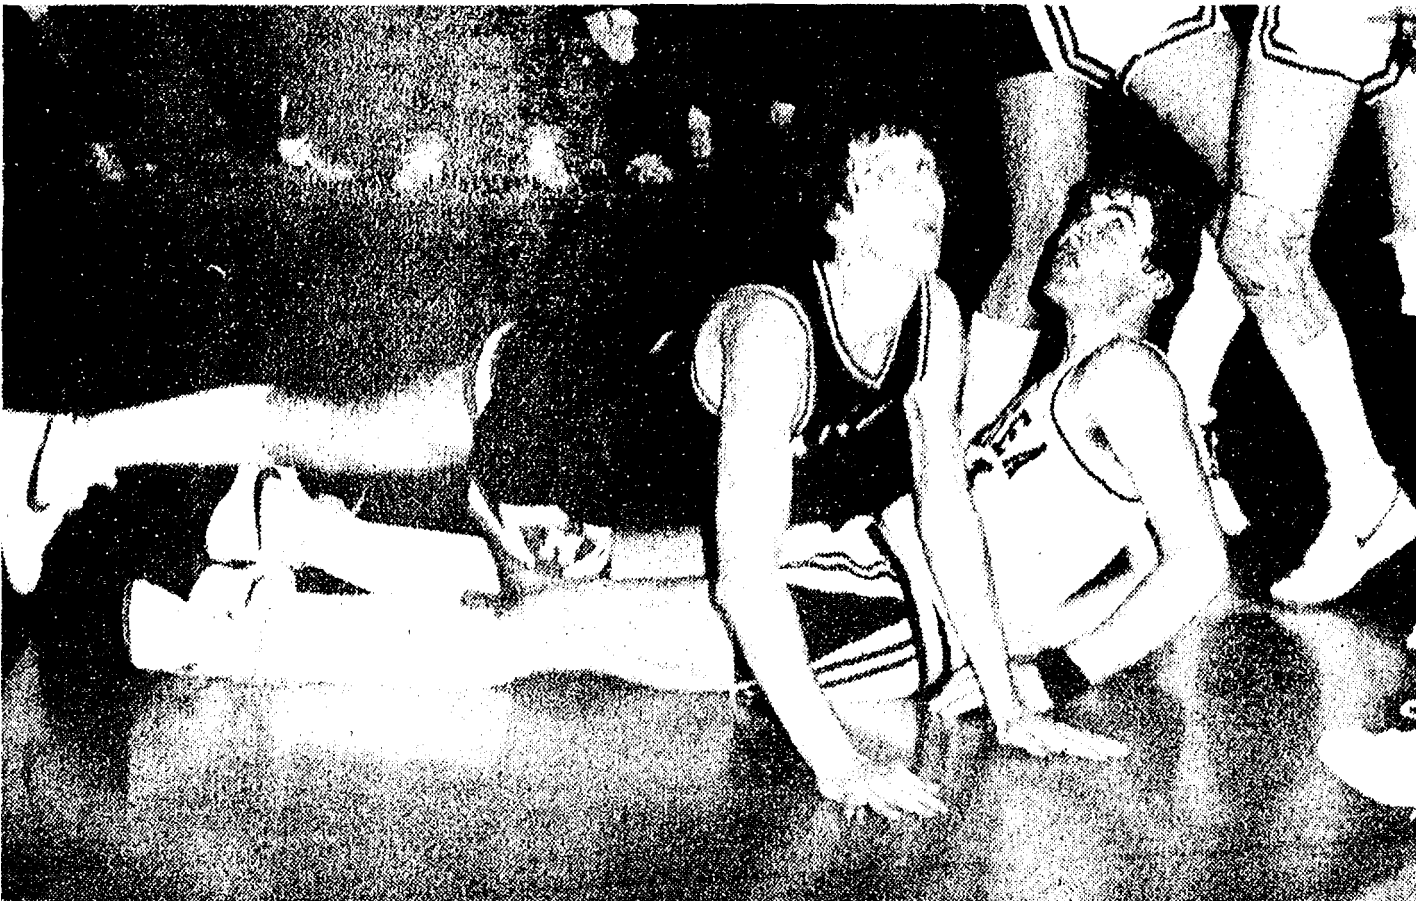

Unfortunately, Wojcicki did not get a whole lot of scoring help from his teammates. Kiel had 14 points and Pate 11, but nobody else managed more than two. Kiel had his usual strong rebounding game, pulling down 14, and Pate grabbed eight.

The Bulldogs' next outing will be in the district tournament at Jackson Lumen Christi on Thursday night.

WOJCICKI PUTS IT IN: This driving lay-up was just one scene in the super offensive show that senior guard and captain David Wojcicki put on last Friday night in his final home basketball game. The Bulldogs lost, but it certainly wasn't Wojcicki's fault.

WHERE DID IT GO? Sprawled on the floor, Chelsea's Chuck Hager and an unidentified Milan player look for the ball after scrambling for it and letting it get away. It was an intense game from start to finish, with both teams battling every step.

SEC ROUNDUP:

Chelsea, Tecumseh, Lincoln Share Title With 8-4 Records

Before the Southeastern Conference basketball season opened last December, it was predicted around the league that the race would be tight and that an 8-4 record might be good enough to win.

Both predictions proved accurate. The competition was indeed close, and 8-4 proved to be the magic won-lost combination. Three schools—Chelsea, Lincoln and Tecumseh—shared the championship. Milan finished fourth at 7-5, Dexter was fifth at 6-6, and Saline sixth at 5-7. Jackson County Western, playing in its last SEC season, failed to win a game and wound up 0-12.

Chelsea could have won the crown outright with a victory over Milan last Friday night, but instead the Big Reds upset the Bulldogs, 61-57, on Chelsea's home court to help produce the three-way tie.

Tecumseh, the league's surprise team, earned a share of the title with a 49-43 overtime victory against Dexter. There was a question whether Tecumseh would even put a team on the floor this winter, because of financial problems in the school district, and nobody accorded them a chance of being a winner. Yet, there they are as co-champions.

In last Friday night's other conference game, Saline blew out hapless Western, 73-39. It was Western's last SEC game. The school is quitting the conference in June to join the two-tiered league in Jackson county.

Chelsea clinched a share of the championship with its 68-48 victory over Tecumseh last Tuesday night, a win that wasn't quite as easy as the score suggests. The game was tied at half-time.

Lincoln, meanwhile, had finished its schedule, was idle all week, and had to look on and hope that Chelsea and Tecumseh would each lose a game. Each did, and so the Railsplitters gained one-third interest in the championship.

Best Route Given For Fans Going To Lumen Christi

Chelsea and Dexter fans intending to go to this week's district tournament basketball games at Jackson Lumen Christi High school are advised to use the following route:

Take I-94 west to Business Route 127 south and exit there. Follow BR 127 (which is West St.) south to Morrell St. Turn right on Morrell and go to Spring Arbor Rd. Turn left on Spring Arbor and drive until you come to Lumen Christi High school.

Dexter and Tecumseh will play tonight. The winner of that game will meet Chelsea Thursday night. The final game, in which either Dexter or Chelsea may or may not be involved, will be on Saturday. All games start at 7 p.m.

JV Cage Team Has Fine Mark

Bulldog junior varsity basketball team finished their season with a big 58-52 win over Milan March 4 at home. That made them 11-9 over-all and 7-5 in the league, the first winning season this group of boys has had since they started playing basketball in middle school.

Their win avenged a 59-52 loss to Milan earlier in the season.

One key to the win was Chelsea's 13 steals and only six errors, their best steal-to-error ratio of the season, said coach Paul Terpstra.

Chelsea led, 17-16, at the end of the first quarter; 29-25, at half-time; and 45-34, going into the final quarter.

Milan pulled within three during the fourth quarter, but the Bulldogs came through with key foul shots and rebounds to get the win.

Chelsea made 24 of 52 field goal attempts for 46 percent, to Milan's 22 of 45, 49 percent; made 10 of 16 free throw attempts for 63 percent, to Milan's 8 of 17 for 47 percent; and 17 rebounds to Milan's 29.

Dave Steinhauer had 14 points; Keith Neibauer, 12 points, four rebounds; Scott Jones, 10 points; John Harris, eight points; Mark Henson, eight points, three rebounds; and Jason Pierson, four rebounds.

The Bulldogs' final week of the season was not unblemished, however. They lost to Tecumseh, 60-49, March 1 at home mainly because of a third quarter scoring freeze.

The Bulldogs may have set "some kind of record" with that scoreless third quarter, said coach Paul Terpstra, "but it's not a record you want to hold."

Tecumseh led, 17-9, at the end of the first quarter, but the Bulldogs bounced back to lead, 30-28, at half-time.

Tecumseh's zone bothered the Bulldogs in the third quarter. The Indians intercepted passes, while the Bulldogs were trying to set up shots. Chelsea ended up taking some bad shots as a result. None of their eight field goal attempts made it through the hoop, giving Tecumseh a 45-30 lead going into the final quarter.

Chelsea made 18 of 45 field goal attempts for 40 percent, to Tecumseh's 22 of 47 for 47 percent; Chelsea made 13 of 22 free throw attempts for 59 percent to Tecumseh's 16 of 19 for an excellent 84 percent.

Another key to the outcome, said Terpstra, was Tecumseh's 27-19 rebounding advantage.

Dave Steinhauer had 22 points; Scott Jones, 11 points; Keith Neibauer, five rebounds; and John Harris, four rebounds.

Charles Waller To Be Honored As Coach of the Year

Charles Waller, coach of Chelsea High school's 1982 Class B state champion softball team, will be honored by the Michigan High School Coaches Association (MHSCA) at a public awards banquet at 4:30 p.m. Saturday, March 26 at the Michigan League in Ann Arbor.

All Coaches of the Year will be guests of the MHSCA at the banquet, to be held between the afternoon and evening sessions of the state basketball finals.

Bulldog Swimmers Qualify 15 for State Championships

Fifteen Chelsea swimmers qualified for the state Class B swimming championships Friday and Saturday, March 11-12 at Grand Rapids Junior College.

Three divers, Kraig Leach, Todd Brown and Tim Hampton, qualified for regional competition today in Plainwell by either taking five dual meet firsts or by placing among the top five finishers at an invitational. The top 15 divers from the two regionals will go on to the state championship meet.

Some Bulldog swimmers qualified outright. Others recorded consideration times. The time margin between a qualifying and consideration time is determined by event length. If less than 24 swimmers make the qualifying time, those with consideration times will have a chance at the event.

Decisions on consideration times will be announced tomorrow.

Possible combinations for the 200 medley relay are John Hoffman, Craig Miller, Sean Oxner, backstroke; Ted Merkel, Mike Coffman, Kevin Colombo, breaststroke; Dave Nicola, Brent Bauer, butterfly; and John Drew, Don Skiff, Steve Ramsey and Kent Noll, freestyle.

200 free—Oxner and Nicola qualified; Skiff, consideration.

200 IM—Nicola and Oxner qualified; T. Merkel, consideration.

50 free—Drew qualified; Skiff, Nicola and Ramsey, consideration.

100 fly—Nicola qualified; Bauer, consideration.

100 free—Oxner, Drew, Nicola qualified; Hoffman, Skiff and Bauer, consideration.

500 free—Oxner qualified.

100 back—Oxner, Hoffman, Miller, consideration.

100 breast—T. Merkel qualified; Coffman, Oxner, consideration.

400 free relay—A combination of Oxner, Drew, Nicola, Hoffman, Skiff, Bauer, Ramsey, Noll, Dan Degener, Richard Merkel and Mike Carignan.

Varsity Spikers Split Final Matches

Although the Bulldog girls varsity volleyball team lost to Jackson County Western Feb. 28 because of problems with their basic skills, those very same skills were the key to their win over Tecumseh March 2 away in their final regular season game, said coach Cathy Vleck.

Everyone played consistently in their 15-11, 4-15, 15-4 win, she said. The team finished their season with a 12-12 record overall and 5-7 in the conference.

Venus Roberts, a senior, had some inspired serving, 18 points in the match and nine points straight in the third game to give the Bulldogs a comfy 12-1 lead in that game.

Julie Hunn had seven service points; Marty Kovick, four service points; Kim Forner, three good hits, one ace; Mary Klink, three good hits; and Hunn and Roberts, one ace hit each.

Although Chelsea had some "spectacular saves" against Jackson County Western, said Ms. Vleck, they lacked basic skills in their 12-15, 6-15 loss.

Western was observing parents' night, she said, and seemed more psyched because of that.

Cathy Doll had nine service points in the match.

In both games last week, the Bulldogs missed senior Sharon Glassford, who was out with a fractured wrist, said Ms. Vleck. Glassford broke it with a fall in practice, but should be ready for track season.

Cadettes Offer Three Colorful Nylon Kites

Cadette Troop 98 will draw the winning tickets for three colorful kites during their monthly meeting at St. Mary's school March 19. The kite shapes—sleddog, and delta—were designed and sewn by the troop for the 1983 Girl Scout Cookie/Kite contest in Westland.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Young donated the brightly colored nylon material to the troop for this project. One of the three kites won first award in the "most attractive" category.

All the kites will be on display this week in Dancer's window on Main St. Tickets for the drawing may be purchased from any member of Troop 98 or by contacting the leader, Susan Harris, at 475-1139.

District Volleyball Meet Held

Bulldog girls varsity volleyball team lost to Dexter, 6-15, 9-15, in the semifinals of the Class B district volleyball tournament March 5 at Chelsea High school.

Saline, which had cruised through their preliminary round at Beach Middle school, beat Dexter in the finals, 15-12, 15-5. The Hornets will go on to the regionals March 12 in Fowlerville.

Final league standings were announced Sunday. Chelsea, with a 5-7 league record, was fifth; Saline, first; Milan, second, Dexter, third; Tecumseh, fourth; Jackson County Western, sixth; and Lincoln, seventh.

Chelsea beat Brooklyn Columbia Central, 15-2, 17-15, in their first game, before facing the Dreadnaughts, who had upset Milan, 15-11, 15-11.

Although the crowd grumbled about Chelsea's hitting game against Dexter, the Bulldogs weak offensive game wasn't necessarily the fault of the front line.

The first pass from the back row to the setter, sets up the play. Chelsea had troubles with those passes, bumping them out of bounds, into the net, too far from the setter or too low for her to set well. That set up a chain reaction, that had the setter chasing the ball, making it difficult to give a good set for the hitter, who usually just bumped it over underhand instead of with a sound hit.

Dexter however, had fine first passes, right to the setter in the middle front. That made such a difference in their hitting game and the score.

After a 2-2 tie in game 1, Dexter pulled ahead to 9-3 with several "kill" hits the Bulldogs couldn't touch and via Bulldog errors such as hitting out of bounds, touching the net, hitting the antenna and bad bumps.

Chelsea pulled within four, 10-6, but the Dreadnaughts got the next five points and the game.

Dexter pulled away from a 2-2 tie in the second game to a 10-4 lead. Chelsea closed the gap to 9-10 via Dexter mistakes, such as hitting out, "carrying" the set and touching the net.

Although this was the crucial time in the match, either a loss or to get it into three games, Chelsea again had mistake-itis, hitting out, bumping the ball out, and hitting into the net. Dexter kept scoring on their hits to win the match.

Donna Popovich had three service points in game 1, and Cathy Doll had five service points in game 2.

Volleyball is a game which is usually won by the consistent team capitalizing on the other team's errors. Against Dexter, Chelsea was the team making the errors, but against Columbia Central, Chelsea was the consistent team.

The Bulldogs began their day well against Columbia Central, building up a 12-1 lead in the first game with fine cross court hits, good saves and serves, and Columbia Central mistakes. Columbia Central finally got their second point on a bad Chelsea set, but the Bulldogs closed the game with solid hitting.

The second game was much closer, tied point by point up to 15-15. A fine Chelsea block made it 16-15. Kathy Morris, Chelsea's designated server who had seven service points in game 2 and nine in the match, finished the game with a scorcher, which Columbia Central barely got a hand on.

Julie Hunn had five service points in each game for a total of 10; Popovich had four in game 2; and Venus Roberts and Doll had three each in the match.

In the round played at Beach Middle school, Jackson County Northwest beat Willow Run, 15-2, 15-2. Saline beat Tecumseh, 15-7, 15-8. Saline then beat Northwest, 15-5, 15-5.

In pre-district play earlier in the week, (byes decided by draw), Milan beat Jackson Lumen Christi, 4-15, 15-10, 16-14; Willow Run beat Lincoln, 15-11, 9-15, 15-13; and Saline defeated Pinckney, 15-7, 15-10.

The Bulldogs will end their season with a team banquet later this month. Conference honors, voted on by the coaches March 6, will be announced this week.

More than 100 new crop varieties have been created at Michigan State University to extend production and create new industries.

Bulldog Wrestlers Place in State Meet

Four Chelsea High school wrestlers went to the Class B state championship meet at Big Rapids last weekend, and three earned medals by placing among the top six in their weight classes. The fourth just missed, finishing seventh in his division.

Bill Hanna at 112 pounds and Jeff Morgan at 119 both came in fourth, and Travis Rudd was fifth at 132. Mark Rosentreter was seventh in the 105-pound class.

The team championship was won by Monroe for the second year in a row, with Marshall second, Flint Ainsworth third and Eaton Rapids fourth. Chelsea did not make the top 10.

"Our boys made an excellent showing," Bulldog coach Kerry Kargel said. "It's quite unusual to take four wrestlers to the state meet and have all of them finish among the top eight. It's a plain too bad that Mark (Rosentreter) didn't win a medal. He wrestled very well, but had some bad luck in the draw for pairings in the early matches. It's an honor to get to go to the state meet, and a privilege to place high. The competition is always tough, and all the matches are close, usually a matter of a couple of points. I know how hard it is, because I've been there." (Kargel is a former state high school champion.)

Table Tennis Tournament Draws Talent

Chelsea Table Tennis Club's first tournament Feb. 26 attracted "good competition" from Toledo, O., Rome, Ypsilanti and Adrian, said Gerald Scharphorn, tournament organizer.

Terry Durtley of Manitou Beach won the A singles division prize of $20. Dale Nofzinger, a former national champion from Adrian, took the A division second prize of $10.

Bill Kidder of Toledo, O., won the B singles division, and John Tandy of Gregory won the C singles division.

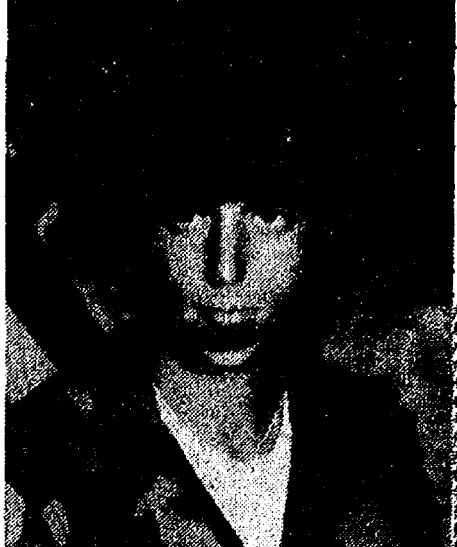

Nofzinger and his son, Brian, won the doubles division first prize of $5.

Eight pairs entered doubles, and 22 total entered singles competition.

The club made $85 after expenses from entry fees, said Scharphorn, and this will go towards a new ping pong table.

Next year the club may hold two tournaments during the winter season, he said, one early and one closer to spring.

The club will continue to play at 7 p.m. Wednesdays at the "fishbowl" of Chelsea High school's gymnasium building for the rest of the school year.

By BILL MULLENDORE

Let's go on with birds and complete a trio of European imports which have had a big impact, for better or worse, on this country. European finches (English sparrows) and starlings were the first two. The third is the rock pigeon, sometimes mistakenly labelled rock dove, the bird we commonly call just plain "pigeon." Doves and pigeons are closely related but belong to separate families. Species of doves and species of pigeons can and do inter-breed, but doves and pigeons can't.

The native American pigeon is (or was) the passenger pigeon which once roamed this country's skies by the tens, maybe hundreds of millions, but was wiped out by a combination of over-harvesting and habitat destruction. Extinction of the passenger pigeon is the sorriest blot on this country's wildlife conservation record, another story for another time.

With native pigeons gone, Americans brought in rock pigeons from Europe and Asia, and they have adapted remarkably well, to the point where many people consider them a nuisance. At first they took to barns, and just about every farm family had its private pigeon flock. They also took to church towers, roof ledges, windowsills and anywhere else up high where they could find space to build a nest. They became as plentiful in town as in the country, to the point where feeding scraps and crumbs to pigeons is a favored form of outdoor enjoyment for city dwellers.

The interstate highway construction program, with all its bridges and overpasses, has proved a boon to pigeons. The structures make ideal roosting and nesting places, and the birds have been quick to take advantage.

Unlike English sparrows and starlings, pigeons are protected by law. While I don't know of any conservation officer or other policeman who is out there deliberately running down pigeon killers, the fact is that it is illegal to shoot or trap or otherwise harm a pigeon, and you can get arrested for doing it.

I lived in blissful ignorance of that law for most of my life. I cut my shooting teeth on the pigeons that lived and bred in my grandfather's barn—first with a BB gun, later with a .22 rifle and finally with a shotgun. I accounted for quite a few birds during those growing-up years, but there always seemed to be just about as many around regardless of my efforts to thin them out. They are fast and prolific breeders, raising several broods per season.

During my adult years I regularly shot pigeons as a kind of warm-up to the game hunting seasons, going to the farms of friends and relatives who were all too happy to have surplus birds removed from their barns, especially if I shared the bag. The facts are that pigeons are very sporty shooting targets and are excellent meat on the table besides. Pigeons stuffed and roasted, or baked in sour cream are toothsome table fare.

It was Conservation Officer Don Boyer who told me one day that I was violating the law and that he would have to arrest me if he caught me (he would have, too) and so I quit shooting pigeons. (I was working for the Department of Natural Resources at the time, and any arrest for a hunting or fishing law violation meant automatic dismissal with no questions asked or answers accepted.)

For what it's worth, I think a harvest of pigeons, perhaps with a season and bag limits, would not hurt anything and would provide considerable sport and good eating.

Whether or not they are ever again legally hunted, pigeons have left a lasting legacy to the traditions of shooting. The sport of trap-shooting originally involved releasing live pigeons from a box with a hinged lid, a trap. When somebody pulled a string attached to the lid, it popped open and the bird flew out as a target for a shotgunner stationed some distance away. (Live pigeon shooting is still done in some European countries, but is banned in the United States. I agree with the prohibition. Hunting free-roaming game is one thing; using captive birds for target practice is something else entirely.)

When live pigeons were ruled out, round discs made of asphalt and clay, which fly on the frisbee principle when thrown, were substituted. These man-made targets came to be called, appropriately, clay pigeons. And the gadgets used to throw them are called traps.

The pigeons we see flying and walking around are not the original pure strain of European rock pigeon. They are a mongrel mixture of breeds which has resulted from the accidental or intentional release of several other species by pigeon fanciers who raise the birds for racing (carrier pigeons) and exhibition purposes.

Look carefully at any flock of pigeons you see close-up, and you will observe that no two birds are exactly alike in coloration and markings.

Drivers Alerted to Wildlife Dangers

It may not yet be spring according to the calendar, but the wild critters think so and are on the move. It's time for drivers to be extra careful to avoid both needless killing and possible damage to themselves and their vehicles.

A sharp increase in deer-car accidents during the past 10 days and a noticeable number of carcasses of cottontail rabbits, skunks, squirrels and woodchucks on and along-side local roads testify to the early oncoming of spring.

So does the unusually early appearance of several species of migratory birds, which are putting on courtship and mating displays a good two weeks ahead of normal. Great horned owls are nesting, and many others (including mourning doves, pigeons, sparrows, starlings, grackles and blackbirds) are getting ready. Canada geese are flying, and early migrant ducks are arriving.

Most of this activity traces to the breeding urge, which is triggered both by hours of daylight and by temperatures. Sunrise and sunset hours haven't changed, but temperatures have been abnormally warm and have caused many wild things to "jump the gun" on spring.

Deer breed in the fall and then retreat into winter cover, where they more or less stay until warm weather comes. Then they move out to seek the first green shoots of new growth which, unfortunately for them and for motorists, usually show up on road-sides.

Deer are on the move. A Chelsea resident last week reported counting 16 crossing the road on M-52 just north of town. He stopped his car in time to sit and tally them.

Most every other kind of wildlife in west Washtenaw county mates in the spring, and the opposite sexes are roaming around and looking for each other. That means they will be crossing roads.

Traffic safety experts advise holding a straight course and hitting anything in the road—other than a person or another vehicle—rather than swerve or brake sharply and risk losing control. Colliding with a deer will likely result in considerable damage to a car or truck, but it's a better choice than running off the road and rolling over or striking some sturdy stationary object such as a tree.

Small animals and birds usually can be hit with no worse result to the driver than the knowledge of having killed something, although birds occasionally crack or break windshields and windows. The writer of this story can testify that having a smashed crow in your lap and staring through the hole in the glass that the crow made is an unnerving experience, but it's better than wrecking a car and maybe yourself by hurtling off the highway to avoid the collision.

Best advice is that drivers should slow down and keep a sharp eye out for wild things at this time of year, especially at night. If you see a couple of red, horizontal, close-together pinpoints about three feet off the ground reflected in your headlights, come to a controlled stop. Those red lights are the eyes of a deer, and it probably is going to cross the road, and there probably will be others behind it. Deer run in herds in spring.

If you have ever hit a skunk, you will remember the lingering odor of the experience. The animals invariably manage to discharge a load of scent at the instant of impact. Tomato juice works as well as anything for scrubbing away the smell.

Big Bucks Scoring Period Ends March 15

The 1982 scoring period for Commemorative Bucks of Michigan's Big Bucks Book ends March 15. Any Michigan deer hunter who has taken a Michigan buck meeting CBM's minimum requirements should enter their buck for ranking and possible awards.

To enter there is no charge and all one has to do to enter is take their deer's antlers to an official CBM scorer for scoring and then mail their score to Joe Newmyer, CBM Scoring Chairman, 4835 S. Commerce Rd., Union Lake 48085.

All scores must be received by March 15, to qualify for the 1982 scoring period.

Commemorative Bucks of Michigan is a non-profit corporation dedicated to promoting and recognizing Michigan's trophy whitetail deer.

CBM uses the Boone and Crockett Club's scoring system which is accepted as the North American record determinant/base. This system differs from the Safari Club International's system used by the Michigan DNR.

CBM scorers nearest this area include Brad Bruce, 503 E. Russel Rd., Tecumseh 49286, phone (517) 423-3527 and Joe Ostervik, 5493 Pinckney Rd., Howell 48843, phone (517) 548-5214.

Signed: WILLIAM EISENBEISER
Township Clerk.
Dated: March 8, 1983.

I lived in blissful ignorance of that law for most of my life. I cut my shooting teeth on the pigeons that lived and bred in my grandfather's barn—first with a BB gun, later with a .22 rifle and finally with a shotgun. I accounted for quite a few birds during those growing-up years, but there always seemed to be just about as many around regardless of my efforts to thin them out. They are fast and prolific breeders, raising several broods per season.

During my adult years I regularly shot pigeons as a kind of warm-up to the game hunting seasons, going to the farms of friends and relatives who were all too happy to have surplus birds removed from their barns, especially if I shared the bag. The facts are that pigeons are very sporty shooting targets and are excellent meat on the table besides. Pigeons stuffed and roasted, or baked in sour cream are toothsome table fare.

It was Conservation Officer Don Boyer who told me one day that I was violating the law and that he would have to arrest me if he caught me (he would have, too) and so I quit shooting pigeons. (I was working for the Department of Natural Resources at the time, and any arrest for a hunting or fishing law violation meant automatic dismissal with no questions asked or answers accepted.)

For what it's worth, I think a harvest of pigeons, perhaps with a season and bag limits, would not hurt anything and would provide considerable sport and good eating.

Whether or not they are ever again legally hunted, pigeons have left a lasting legacy to the traditions of shooting. The sport of trap-shooting originally involved releasing live pigeons from a box with a hinged lid, a trap. When somebody pulled a string attached to the lid, it popped open and the bird flew out as a target for a shotgunner stationed some distance away. (Live pigeon shooting is still done in some European countries, but is banned in the United States. I agree with the prohibition. Hunting free-roaming game is one thing; using captive birds for target practice is something else entirely.)

When live pigeons were ruled out, round discs made of asphalt and clay, which fly on the frisbee principle when thrown, were substituted. These man-made targets came to be called, appropriately, clay pigeons. And the gadgets used to throw them are called traps.

The pigeons we see flying and walking around are not the original pure strain of European rock pigeon. They are a mongrel mixture of breeds which has resulted from the accidental or intentional release of several other species by pigeon fanciers who raise the birds for racing (carrier pigeons) and exhibition purposes.

Look carefully at any flock of pigeons you see close-up, and you will observe that no two birds are exactly alike in coloration and markings.

CARD OF THANKS

The PTS would like to express our sincere appreciation to Mr. and Mrs. Aram Walker, Mr. and Mrs. Walker spent months planning the South School Fun Fair. The results were an overwhelming success. The children were delighted and the parents once again supported their school. Parent participation is the key to success — for the PTS, school, and the kids. Mr. and Mrs. Walker in our opinion are one of the best examples of parent participation we have at our school. When they were called and asked to plan and run the Fun Fair it was done with much apprehension. You see they did it last year. Often when calling parents to ask for volunteers we hear "I'll help but I don't want to be the chairman." Mr. and Mrs. Walker never hesitated in taking the responsibility of the Fun Fair. To simply say Thank You did not seem enough. We wanted the community to know how special they are. The PTS has been lucky in finding parents who care enough to go the extra yard. Mr. and Mrs. Walker we thank you. Parent Teachers South.

Black Sheep Theatre Offers

Neil Simon Play

Black Sheep Theater under the management of Flying Taxi Theater will present "Barefoot in the Park," by Neil Simon for nine performances March 10-12, 17-19, and 24-26 at the theater, located at 138 E. Main, Manchester. Performances will be at 8:15 p.m. Thursday, Friday, and Saturday. There are no Sunday performances.

This classic Neil Simon play opens The Black Sheep Theater's 1983 season. A pair of the greenest, most-in-love newlyweds finds the apartment of their dreams. Six flights up and no elevator. If they can catch their breath, they just might last the week. That is, if they can also survive Mom, the strange man who climbs in and out of their bathroom window, the phone man, and the hole in the skylight!

For ticket information and advance reservations, call (313) 428-7000.

Theatre-goers may ask about the new dinner theater package.

VOLLEYBALL PLAYERS OF THE WEEK

are Mary Klink, left, Donna Popovich and Sharon Glassford. Klink, a senior and the Bulldogs' tallest player, is a hitter and blocker with a lot of potential, said coach Cathy Vleck. She is on the varsity for the second year as is Popovich, one of the best setters in the area. Popovich, a good all-around athlete, also serves low and powerfully, and is a master of the dink, a strategic soft hit. Glassford ended her season last week when she fractured her wrist with a fall in practice. She was one of the team's best all-around players, said Ms. Vleck, in her third year on the varsity, and was missed at Saturday's district tournament. Glassford is a member of the National Honor Society and is very active in many school activities.

Children's Television Director To Speak Here

Elaine Saum, director of the Committee for Children's Television/Metro Detroit, will discuss the effects of television on children, how to become a more critical viewer and creative alternatives to television at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, March 10 at the North school media center.

She will also show a film, "TV, the Anonymous Teacher."

Committee for Children's Television (CCT), a non-profit group, formed after a Parent Teacher Association study group monitored commercials for sugared foods in 1973. Participants concerned about the study group's results founded CCT.

It has members throughout the metro area and state who work to educate communities and promote quality television for children. CCT has an advisory council of experts in fields related to children and/or television which provides data, research and support to the committee. Mrs. Saum, a social worker, has been director of CCT for the past 1 1/2 years.

CCT has designed elementary school curriculums to teach critical viewing skills to second and third graders. This program resulted from pleas from teachers who were seeing decreased concentration levels, exhaustion from late viewing, passivity, decreased creativity, shortened attention spans, increased need for visual stimulation, and decreased reading interest.

The session, sponsored by Parent Teacher North, is open to anyone in the community who is interested.

Evangelist To Speak On 'Jews for Jesus'

What do the Jewish Passover and Jesus' Last Supper have in common? Rich Robinson, staff evangelist with Jews for Jesus, will answer that question as he presents "Christ in the Passover" at St. Thomas Lutheran church, 10001 W. Ellsworth Rd., Ann Arbor, on Thursday, March 17 at 8 p.m.

Purpose of the "Christ in the Passover" presentation is to enhance the Christian understanding of the New Testament by showing a Jewish background for the Communion celebration. Ancient and modern Jewish customs are discussed and described with an emphasis on the aspect of redemption that Christ accomplished at Calvary.

A table is set with the traditional Jewish Passover items, including representative foods which are explained, but not eaten. Members of the Jews for Jesus group have given this demonstration in more than 1,000 different churches. It was originally written in 1956 by Moishe Rosen, the founder and leader of Jews for Jesus. It was abstracted from the writings of the former rabbi Leopold Cohn, who came to Christ in 1894 and died in 1936.

Rosen contends that some of the most important elements of Christian doctrine, such as the Trinity, the principle of substitutionary atonement, and salvation through a personal relationship with the Messiah, are implied in the Seder (Passover feast) as observed by Orthodox Jews.

Those attending the special "Christ in the Passover" program will also have an opportunity to learn more about what Jews for Jesus has planned by way of evangelism nation-wide. The program is open to the public and Rich Robinson will be available to answer questions.

DEXTER TOWNSHIP HALL

6880 Dexter-Pinckney Rd., Dexter, Mich.

Appeals and conferences with taxpayers will be heard on

MONDAY, MARCH 14, 1983

from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

TUESDAY, MARCH 15, 1983

from 12 p.m. to 6 p.m.

and on

THURSDAY, MARCH 17, 1983

from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m.

FRIDAY, MARCH 25, 1983

from 12 p.m. to 5 p.m. for those assessments changed, if needed.

at which time the Board of Review will be in session. Upon request of any person who is assessed on said tax roll or of his or her agent and upon sufficient cause being shown, said board of Review will correct the assessment as to such property in such manner as will in their judgment make the valuation just and equal.

Such assessment tax roll as reviewed and approved by said Board of Review will be the assessment roll of said Township of Dexter for the year 1983.

Tentative Ratios are: Agriculture 45.62, factor 1.0961; Commercial 47.23, factor 1.0587; Industrial 49.93, factor 1.0015; Residential 49.40, factor 1.0122; Developmental 49.10, factor 1.0184.

Faith in Action Has Food, Clothing

Since the official opening of the Faith in Action house, response has been generous. Many people have donated food, clothing and some furniture. Service delivery has also increased.

People seem to feel very comfortable with the trade-off system for receiving services. Those who are able, exchange volunteer time and services for food, clothing and fuel assistance. That is not a requirement, however, to receive assistance. Sometimes it is not possible to volunteer for some people and that is all right. Others have time and/or transportation but no food or clothing, and they feel good about doing something for someone else.

The mild winter has been very fortunate, and requests for fuel assistance have not yet overwhelmed the organization.

Currently, there is a good supply of canned or boxed food and clothing available. Persons in need of these items are welcome to stop at the Faith in Action house during the hours of 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. The house is located at the rear of the Chelsea Community Hospital, across from the out-patient surgery center entrance. A volunteer is available during those times to provide assistance.

Faith in Action still needs volunteers to provide transportation. Persons interested should call the house, 475-3305. Mileage reimbursements are provided.

LIMA TOWNSHIP BOARD OF REVIEW

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN to all persons liable to assessment for taxes in

LIMA TOWNSHIP

11452 Jackson Road, Chelsea, Michigan

that the Board of Review will meet at the

LIMA TOWNSHIP HALL

to hear appeals to the Assessment Roll on

MONDAY, MARCH 14, 1983

9 a.m. to 12 Noon and 1 p.m. to 4 p.m.

TUESDAY, MARCH 15, 1983

9 a.m. to 12 noon; 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. & 6 p.m. to 8 p.m.

at which time, upon request of any person, or his or her agent, who is assessed on this tax roll and if sufficient cause is shown, the Board of Review will correct the assessment on the property in question in a manner that will, in their judgment, make the valuation relatively just and equal. The assessment tax roll, after being reviewed and approved by the Board of Review, will be the assessment roll of LIMA TOWNSHIP for the year 1983.

The County Board of Commissioners of Washtenaw County has proposed the following ratios for the year 1983: Agriculture, 47.52; Commercial 46.73, Industrial, 47.41; Residential, 50.87; Developmental, 49.32.

Free Tax Help Offered Seniors By AARP Group

While few things in life are free, one thing still is for sure. It's tax counseling for persons 60 years of age or more, sponsored by the IRS and the American Association of Retired Persons, AARP.

Specialty trained volunteers will help you with estimated tax for individuals, the special treatment of the gain on the sale of a home by an elderly person, the proper method of reporting pension income and paying tax on it when necessary.

This AARP program of tax assistance makes getting the help you need easier, because it's provided in neighborhood areas. You don't have to worry about bad weather, lack of transportation, or long trips into town.

If you could use some free help with your tax problems, then call the IRS at 1-800-424-1040 for details on times and places of this program. Surprisingly enough, some things in life are still free.

St. Patrick's Church Plans Open House

"Come and Share" is the theme of an Open House being held at St. Patrick's church, Northfield township, from 2 to 5 p.m. on Sunday, March 13. St. Patrick's is the oldest English-speaking Catholic parish in the State of Michigan, dating back to 1831. The present church was built in 1877 and is a registered national historic site.

The public will be invited to tour the rectory and parish center as well as the church itself. The rectory was completed in 1890 but its top floors were extensively remodeled by "the Great Cyclone" of 1917. The parish center, built largely by the people of St. Patrick's in 1977, was virtually demolished by a tornado in August 1980 and was rebuilt soon thereafter. Natural adversities have not dampened spirits at this country church, however.

In addition to the tours, the church choir will present a concert at 3:30 p.m. and historical and classroom displays will be featured in the center building.

St. Patrick's is on Whitmore Lake Rd. (Old US-23) four miles north of Ann Arbor and two miles south of North Territorial Rd.

Capacity Crowd Jams Legion For Monte Carlo Night

A happy crowd of more than 300 "millionaires" thronged the American Legion Post 31 Home Saturday night for a fling at cards, dice and neighborly fun. Each player received one million dollars in playing money for participation in Monte Carlo Night, staged by the Legion in collaboration with the Chelsea Rod and Gun Club.

Card games were played on the main floor of the Legion home while the upper floor was crowded with players at the dice tables.

The successful event was organized by Pat Merkel of the Legion and Verne Salsburg, post commander. Liaison between the veterans post and the conservation club was handled by Bob Bauer, a member of both organizations and Rolly Spaulding, president of the Rod and Gun Club.

After an evening of play some players were broke. Others were affluent and could use their Monte Carlo winnings for bidding in an auction of prizes supplied by local merchants.

Earl Heller served as auctioneer. The prizes and their winners were:

Family airplane ride Charlie Smith
 Workmate bench Jack Schroen
 Weber's Room for 2 breakfast Rod Powers
 Demolition derby car Loretta Roskowski
 Portrait Cathy Clark
 Furnace service Ken McCalla
 Case of wine Henri Vanderwaard
 Wolverine 4 prime rib dinners Fay Bollinger

 Lube oil and filter change Jerry Welsh
 Romantic St. Patrick's Day gift for wife Jan Ziel
 Schuler's $20 certificate Mrs. Tom McNamara
 2 fifths Jennifer Casterline
 2 fifths Jerry Morrow
 Jug of hard cider Ken McCalla

BOB BAUER, left foreground, who assisted in organizing Monte Carlo Night, pauses in mid-event for a word with white-bearded Rolly Spaulding, president of the Chelsea Rod and Gun Club.

FOOD MERCHANT "RED" Flintoft, left, begins to measure the height of insurance man David Rowe in terms of hot dogs. Schneider's had offered a combination prize to be auctioned at the Monte Carlo Night celebration held at the hall of American Legion Post 31. Part of the prize was the winning bidder's height in frankfurters. The rest of the prize consisted of two porterhouse steaks plus a loaf of bread and a jug of wine, but no "thou" Rowe, the winning bidder, embraces all that he won. He proved to be 12 hot dogs tall.

BLACKJACK was a favorite game for the high stakes gamblers who came to the card tables. In the center of the picture stands Earl Heller (plaid shirt) who was serving as a floor manager. Later in the evening he served as auctioneer, plunk hitting for Loren Heller.
