ONE HUNDRED-THIRTEENTH YEAR—No. 41

CHELSEA, MICHIGAN, TUESDAY, MARCH 15, 1983

20 Pages This Week

HOW ABOUT ANOTHER ONE FOR 1983? You can't get into Chelsea without knowing the town is proud of its 1982 Class B state champion softball team. These softball signs were donated by Chelsea Kiwanis Club. The team begins their season with an eight-team invitational Friday and Saturday, April 22-23, and there is plenty of room on those village limit sign posts for a 1983 champs sign. Tom Bust, left, is president of Chelsea Kiwanis Club. He is joined by this year's captains, Amy Huffe and Celeste Powell, coach Charles Waller, and former coach, Bill Wescott.

County Seeks Some Way To Cut Court Costs

Although the county commissioners are exploring ways to centralize the 14th District Court to save money, that issue is a real catch-22 for taxpayers.

What may save them money in taxes could be lost in personal expenses to get to court.

The courts can't be truly centralized anyway. State law which set up the district courts under county jurisdiction says the court must sit in cities and villages within the district which have 3,250 persons or more.

That includes Chelsea, which had a population of 3,816 in the 1980 census, Ypsilanti, Saline and Milan. Ann Arbor has its own court, the 15th District.

Ironically, the county service center, where the court is based, is in Pittsfield township, where the court isn't even legally required to sit.

The four judges in the 14th District rotated benches effective Jan. 1, 1983 and changed township territories for each bench at that time.

Although there used to be two full-time judges at the service center, now there is just one full-time judge there, and one in Saline.

Lloyd E. Powell, public defender, has said his office has had trouble providing a lawyer at each court location this year. County commissioners recently authorized Powell to pay a law firm up to $22,000 to provide staffing through Dec. 31.

But the public defender's burden may not be just geography, said Judge Karl Fink of Court 3 in Chelsea. When lots of people are unemployed, demands on the public defender increase.

When there were two judges at the service center (Judge Fink was one of them), the two courtrooms occasionally shared a public defender, which didn't always work out with case scheduling.

Traditionally in hard times, governments have made the people travel to the services, said Fink, but the district court law won't allow that.

Even if it did, there would not be enough room at the service center for all the judges.

Although the law says court must sit in villages and towns of a certain size, there is no rule about how frequently that has to be, said Fink, except for small claims, which must be held every 30 days.

Yet cutting down the number of times court is held in outcounty locations, may not be a real savings to the county or to the public, he said.

That may save public defender's traveling costs, but up costs to the sheriff's department. Outcounty sheriff's employees who have to testify will have to travel into Ann Arbor.

That would also mean more travel time needed by village police departments, township officials, lawyers, who like any businessman would probably pass that cost on to their clients, and the public itself, who would have to spend more on gas, and take off more time from work if they need to be in court—instead of just popping up to the courthouse on a break to pay a speeding ticket.

The county is now conducting a space-use study of all county offices to guide their cost-cutting.

The whole issue of court centralization is a dilemma. Who is going to save money by it in the long run, with the law on district courts permitting.

Moonlight Madness Sale Slated

Chelsea Merchants are sponsoring a "Moonlight Madness" sale from 7 to 9:30 p.m. Wednesday, March 16.

Merchants will offer specials on new spring merchandise, said Mark Heydlauff, president of the merchants group, and also do some "spring cleaning" with sales on off-season merchandise.

Moonlight Madness sales are traditionally offered in March and October. This year's Sidewalk Sales will be Friday and Saturday, July 29-30.

Produce Market Goes Bananas for Grand Opening

Chelsea went "bananas" over the grand opening of Park Street Produce the first week of March.

The new store sold three tons of bananas in three days, March 3-5. The store's banana supplier in Detroit was "amazed" by the store's volume, said Kathy Kentala, one of the four owners.

They also sold more than 1,000 pounds of mushrooms in that same time period and 150 cases of grapefruit, which comes to about 6,000 grapefruits.

Health Dept. Denies Methodist Home Plans For Building Expansion

The $8.6 million proposal to expand the Chelsea United Methodist Retirement Home is not dead, but it was dealt a hurtful blow last week when the Michigan Department of Public Health (DPH) denied a "certificate of need."

"We definitely will appeal that decision, which we feel was based on misunderstanding of facts," said Elmer J. Benson, executive director of the corporation which operates the Chelsea home and also one in Detroit.

"Our board of directors, our attorneys and I, personally, believe we can convince the DPH to reconsider and issue the certificate of need. The case for our expansion is so logical and makes so much sense that I simply cannot believe it will continue to be denied."

"There is an established process for seeking reconsideration (from the DPH), and we will follow it. Should that fail, we will take the matter into the courts. There definitely are some civil and constitutional rights issues involved."

The DPH turned down the United Methodist Home expansion on the basis that the "project is proposed in an area already determined to have an excess number of (nursing home) beds."

The project, if carried out in full, would provide 58 new nursing care beds in addition to the 62 already licensed at the home. It would add four new spaces for "home for the aged" residents—persons who do not require the special care offered by a nursing home. The United Methodist Home presently houses 173 such persons.

The squeeze arises when the elderly but basically healthy retiree residents reach an age and physical condition at which they need nursing home-type care. Facilities at the United Methodist Home to furnish it are inadequate, to the point that during the past two years 28 persons have had to be discharged to other nursing homes, mostly outside Washtenaw county. There is a long waiting list for nursing beds at the home, and no new patients have been admitted directly to the nursing portion of the home since 1976.

"It may be true that there is a theoretical 'excess' of nursing home beds in Washtenaw county," Benson said. "The fact is that most of those so-called extra beds are in homes which admit no or very few Medicare or Medicaid patients, but demand private payment. Most of our prospective nursing home patients are receiving financial assistance, and we accept them because that is our mission as a church-related home."

"Our operation is based on the Christian principle of caring, and that includes the belief that people who choose to enter our home because of their religious preferences have a right to expect a continuum of care during the rest of their lifetimes. They should not be forced to move out when they pass from the stage of retirement home living to nursing care need."

"It is particularly distressing that in many cases we have to turn away married couples who apply when one spouse can be cared for as a resident retiree while the other needs nursing care, but it happens frequently. It is unconscionable to force married couples to separate because of their differing needs."

Benson said the central point of the United Methodist Home's appeal to the DPH will be that the facility serves the members of more than 500 churches located throughout much of eastern Michigan including some in the Upper Peninsula.

"Only 27 percent of our present nursing home patients are from Washtenaw county," he pointed out, "and most of our applicants are from outside the county. If we can get that point across, I am confident our proposal will be approved."

CHS Ag Courses Saved Temporarily

An eleventh hour reprieve at least temporarily saved Chelsea High school's introductory agriculture course for ninth and tenth graders.

A petition signed by 17 eighth graders who said they were interested in the course and requested it remain available was presented to the school board at the March 7 meeting—the first student petition anyone remembers to save a course.

That petition made a big difference in the board's vote to keep the course available at this time, said Lloyd Grau, school board member and farmer.

The petition, written by Michael Park and circulated by him, and two other students, Mike Van Riper and Ron Grifka, was delivered to John Williams, high school principal, by Jean Mann, a Beach school counselor, late afternoon March 7.

But the course's future will not be secure until after course request time, when students actually sign their name on the dotted line to take it. Pre-registration or course request time begins this week at the middle school, a time for students to discuss their courses with their parents, counselors and teachers.

Fifteen students is the usual minimum enrollment to offer a course, said Williams, but there is some flexibility with that number such as with remedial math classes, which are very important to the students who need them, and higher level language classes which are combined in the same time period.

After course request, the high school administration will then determine the number of sections and time of day for classes, before open registration in May.

Mike Park, 13, of 8850 Werkner Rd. had read in the March 1 issue of The Standard the course might be dropped, because enrollment had dwindled for some time to five students this year.

That got him down, said his father, Bruce Park, since Mike had looked forward to taking the course and joining FFA. The family has a farm south of Alpena where they raise feeder Gun Club. Center and right are Verne Salsburg, post commander, and Rolly Spaulding, conservation club president.

Home Meal Service Receives Share of Monte Carlo Profits

Monte Carlo Night, an event staged by the Chelsea Rod and Gun Club and American Legion Post 31, provided recreation for more than 300 people who attended on the night of March 5. Persons who enjoyed the Monte Carlo fun paid $5 each for their tickets and local merchants made generous donations of merchandise for the Monte Carlo auction.

Now the proceeds of the event, as intended, are beginning to flow back to the social and civic needs of the community.

Saturday a check for $200 was presented to Ann Feeney, treasurer of Chelsea Home Meal Service, who accepted it on behalf of Joyce Manley, president of CHMS. The contribution was presented by Verne Salsburg, Legion post commander, and Rolly Spaulding, president of the conservation club.

Additional proceeds of the highly successful event will be distributed in other projects which center around conservation, citizenship and community assistance.

Chelsea Home Meal Service provides hot dinners which are delivered during the noon hour to persons who are aged or handicapped. The meals, which are sold at cost, are prepared by the Chelsea Methodist Retirement Home and delivered hot by volunteers. Special requests of those who receive the meals are honored. No salt? Okay. Please slice the meat? Sure. Whole wheat bread instead of white? Of course.

Mrs. Feeney, who is also president of the Chelsea Board of Education, has served as a volunteer in the Home Meals Service for eight years.

JOB APPLICANTS: More than 500 persons lined up on North St. yesterday morning to apply for jobs at Chelsea Milling Co. The firm was just updating its applicant file, which it does every six months; it had not advertised any openings. Shortly after 8 a.m. the line, three to four persons deep, stretched almost to Main St. Cal Summers of personnel said they had processed more than 500 applications before noon. September of 1982 they had 300 applicants during the whole day, and 500 for the day last March.

Chelsea Police Officer's Association, the Fraternal Order of Police (FOP), has filed a union election application with the Department of Labor. A hearing will be held this month to settle a disagreement on terms of the election. The village wants both full- and part-time officers to vote. The FOP wants only full-time officers to have the right to vote.

Thursday, March 13, 1969—Mike Gaken, 175-pounds, and Kerry Kargel, 145-pounds, became Chelsea's first state champions at the Class B state wrestling tournament last week-end in Okemos. They are the first wrestlers from this conference to take state titles, and together they were the fourth-place team in the tournament. Kargel finished the season with a 33-0 record. Gaken, was 32-1, and set a new school record for number of pins in a season.

Two village charter amendments were approved in Monday's election of an uncontested slate of officers. One provides for two-year terms for village president, clerk and treasurer. The other exempts village candidates from the 1966 state law requiring township, county and state candidates to file petitions under a national party. Now village candidates may be nominated by a caucus of their own party, which may be formed by 10 registered voters.

Thursday, March 19, 1959—Margaret Leisinger foiled a would-be robbery at Waterloo store Monday morning by pushing aside the youthful bandit-to-be's shotgun and smashing him over the head with a plastic and metal sign. He was so flustered trying to run for the getaway car, he stumbled, and the gun went off, breaking a car window. State police are investigating.

More than 20,000 chicken fryers destined for Detroit were part of the wreckage of a tractor trailer truck on US-12 last Thursday. The driver fell asleep at the wheel, and the truck went off the road into a ditch. It careened 420 feet along the bottom of a ditch, uprooting a tree, before smashing an eight-foot section of Chrysler Proving Grounds fence. The driver was not injured. Although most of the truck cab was crushed, the small part where he was sitting was undamaged.

Earl Heller, a senior at Chelsea High school, and Douglas Stark, a 1958 graduate, were given the State Farmer award at the Future Farmers annual state convention this week at Michigan State University.

At Chelsea Kiwanis Club's 35th birthday party Monday night, Paul F. Niehaus was honored for 35 years of perfect attendance, dating back to charter night, March 21, 1924. That is 1,820 meetings.

New Policy for Releasing Funds to School Districts

With the state still unable to say when it can release deferred school aid payments, officials have announced a formal policy to provide funds to districts that are facing severe financial problems.

State Treasurer Robert Bowman said even if Governor James Blanchard's tax package is passed by the first of April, the state will have to make "other deferrals down the road" in order to continue to meet its payroll.

Bowman said if the state had not already deferred about $500 million in payments to schools, colleges and local governments, it would not have been able to meet its mid-March payroll.

The state has released over $22 million to 55 school districts which were running short of cash to meet their February payrolls, but as of March 25, schools in similar financial distress may not receive payments from deferred funds unless they have tried unsuccessfully to borrow money on their own.

Superintendent of Public Instruction Phillip Runkel said another $48 million will be released to 42 districts which do have pressing cash needs.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

With spring fixing to spring, the fellers was looking on the bright side Saturday night at the country store. Zeke Grubb got the session off to a promising start with a report on outfits that actual make new out of old. Zeke looked around the stove and allowed as how he could name a bunch of wore out machines that needed a new everything.

What this company in Framingham, Mass. does, Zeke said, is remanufacture cars from the ground up fer half the price of new ones in the same class. Another shop in Ohio does the same fer computers, and one in Texas specializes in televisions, he went one, and both give warrants like their remakes were brand new. The clipping Zeke had said more than 400 firms have been started in recent years with the idea of doing nothing but giving new life to old stuff. With the success them Salt Lake City doctors had with Barney Clark and his store-bought heart, Zeke declared, it can't be long til we'll have parts places fer people like we got fer cars.

Clem Webster said he, fer one, welcomed Zeke's encouraging word, but he was even more interested in a report out of the University of North Carolina that people soon might be hibernating like bears. This scientist isolated the "hibernating trigger" in groundhog blood and put it in the blood of monkeys that don't hibernate. The doctor said the monkeys didn't sleep thru the winter, but their body temperatures dropped, their hearts slowed down and they showed other hibernating signs. The scientist went on to say that the nervous systems of monkeys are wired pritty much like people, and that hibernating triggers might can give to folks to reduce fever, lower blood pressure, slow em down and even put em to sleep.

ed to 42 districts which do have pressing cash needs.

Although he said the new policy is somewhat tougher than the old, Runkel said it probably will not make much difference in releasing state payments since the market for borrowing in Michigan is not good anyway.

Both Runkel and Bowman made a pitch for legislative approval for the governor's package of a 38 percent tax increase and $225 million in cuts. Runkel said failure of the package would cause many of the deferrals to become cuts.

And, he said if the state's cash position remains so weak that the April payments must be deferred, many districts would find it extremely difficult to make their payrolls.

Bowman said if deferrals are ordered in April, they would not be as large as those ordered earlier. And, he said no decision has been made as to which payments—local governments, schools or colleges—would be deferred if that route is necessary.

So far, only the city of Benton Harbor has requested release of some of its state aid and was sent $75,000 in February.

Work Order on Zillwaukee Bridge Suspended

The back-to-work order issued earlier to the contractors of the damaged Zillwaukee Bridge has been suspended by the Department of Transportation while negotiations continued on deciding who has responsibility for the costs of the repairs.

The order would have required the repairs to begin immediately, but transportation officials said their goal now is for repairs to begin in April.

Transportation Director James Pitz said design work for the repair procedures would not be completed for several more weeks.

Repairs will take four to five months. During that time, no construction will take place on the northbound portion of the three-mile long bridge.

But the work will continue on the southbound portion and officials are still hoping construction could be completed on the bridge in 1984.

Meanwhile, the department has hired the firm of Howard Needles, Tamman and Burgen-doff of Kansas City to act as on site consultants during repairs and final construction.

The Loft Expands Display Space

The Loft, which expanded into the space vacated by insurance agent David Rowe, will use that extra room as display space, said Walt Brown, owner.

What is not sold at The Loft's display of wildlife art at the Briarwood Hilton, will be shown for about 30 days in the new space, which can show about 50 pieces.

A new oval matte cutter has been ordered, and will also be put into that room.

In the fall, The Loft hopes to open a wildlife gift line of hand-made notecards and decoys, said Brown.

Cathy McClung Chosen 1983 Michigan Outdoors Artist of the Year

Cathy McClung of Dexter has been selected as a 1983 Michigan Outdoors—Artist of the Year, and her work will be featured in an exhibition March 19-20 at the Briarwood Hilton Inn in Ann Arbor, sponsored by The Loft Frame and Art Gallery of Chelsea.

Mrs. McClung's original painting of "Fox Squirrel and Bluejays," which earned her the honor, will be on display at the show, as will the nine other originals judged "best" at the recent Michigan Boat & Fishing Show held at Cobo Hall in Detroit.

Most of the artists, including Mrs. McClung, will be present. Originals and prints, some of them in limited editions, will be for sale by the artists. Show hours are 11 a.m.-5 p.m. Saturday, March 19, and noon-4 p.m. Sunday, March 20. There is no admission charge.

A native of Toronto, Canada, Cathy McClung moved to Michigan as a teen-ager and received a bachelor's degree from Eastern Michigan University. She now works full-time as a professional wildlife artist. Her home and studio are at 6172 Webster Church Rd., where she lives with her husband, Michael, and seven-year-old daughter, Merissa.

She employs an unusual technique, using acrylics as watercolors, to paint her favorite subjects, the backyard songbirds she observes at her rural home.

"I come to know a bird after observing it many times over," she says. "Then I can communicate in a painting the unique personality of a species."

Her work has been honored with awards in many bird and waterfowl art competitions. She won a first place in the Midwest Wildlife Art Show in 1981 and took "best of show" honors in the same exhibition last year.

She was a finalist in the Michigan Waterfowl Stamp design contest in 1979 and 1981, and also in 1981 was a runner-up in the Michigan United Conservation Clubs' "Wildlife Artist of the Year" competition.

Cathy prizes most the selection of one of her paintings, titled "Woodland Pause," to hang in the Leigh Yawkey Woodson Museum's Bird Art Exhibit, one of the world's most prestigious wildlife art exhibits. The museum is located in Wausau, Wis.

Her limited edition print of "Woodland Pause" sold out 250 copies prior to publication. It is a portrait of a rufous-sided towhee, a rather uncommon woodland bird sometimes called a "ground robin." It isn't a robin, but does bear a superficial resemblance to that familiar bird.

Other well-known artists whose work will be on display at the Briarwood Hilton exhibition this weekend, and who will be personally present, include:

Harry Antis of Ann Arbor, winner of the 1983 Ohio Duck Stamp Contest, and runner-up in the Michigan contest last year.

Gisbert (Nick) van Frankenhuyzen, art editor of Michigan Natural Resources magazine, winner of the first Michigan Wildlife Artist of the year award in 1980 and of the Michigan Duck Stamp contest in 1982.

Richard Pas of Flint, 1982 Michigan Wildlife Artist of the Year.

11 Units Enter Winter Guard Competition

Eleven winter guard corps from Michigan and Windsor, Ontario, competed in the winter guard competition sponsored by Chelsea Music Boosters March 5 at Chelsea High school.

Professional judges from as far away as Chicago rated the corps on individual performance, ensemble performance and general effect, with penalties given for any infraction.

Trophies were awarded to the first three places in each class.

Trophy recipients were Auxiliary—Rochester-Adams, first; Windsor Optimists, second; Spirit of Windsor, third.

Class A—St. Charles, first; West Bloomfield, second; Chelsea, third.

Open Class—Bridgeport, first; Lansing, second; Windsor Spirit Brigade, third.

Chelsea competed in Class A March 6 for the first time after declining from Auxiliary. They took a second-place in Class A March 6 in Chesaning.

During March they will compete in Windsor, Bridgeport, Flint and West Bloomfield.

MORE HONORS FOR CATHY MCCLUNG: Wildlife artist Cathy McClung of Dexter has won another honor with a first place award in the 1983 Michigan Outdoors—Artist of the Year competition. Above, she displays her painting of a fox squirrel and a pair of bluejays which won the prize. Other photos are of paintings which have also earned honors for Mrs. McClung. Her favorite subjects are songbirds, and some examples of her art are (upper right) goldfinches feeding on thistles, (lower right) mourning doves, and (below) a rufous-sided towhee. The paintings must be seen in color to be fully appreciated, and they will be on exhibit next Saturday and Sunday at the Briarwood Hilton Inn in Ann Arbor.

Methodist Home Building Plans...

Benson added that all dealings with the Department of Public Health so far have been conducted by mail, and he is looking forward to sitting down and talking around the table with DPH officials.

"It may take several meetings, but I am confident we can make our case and that the certificate will be issued, hopefully within 60 days, so that we can go ahead with our building plans this spring."

Benson's optimism is based, in part, on the fact that the Comprehensive Health Planning Council for Southeastern Michigan unanimously approved the United Methodist's Home's proposal after a face-to-face meeting. The DPH usually endorses the recommendations of the regional councils which report to it, but did not in this instance.

"I was certainly disappointed to receive the negative notice from the DPH, but I know that our needs are valid and that we have the factual information to support our application," Benson concluded. "This project has been under expert study for many years. Our decision to try to go ahead with a building program that will cost more than $8 million was not an easy one. We are not rich."

Theoretically, the United Methodist Home's surplus cheese, butter will be distributed Chelsea Social Services in conjunction with Faith in Action will be distributing surplus cheese and butter from 1 to 3 p.m. Saturday, March 19 at the Faith in Action house behind Chelsea Community Hospital.

To be eligible for the surplus food, one must be unemployed, on public assistance or have a limited income, such as social security.

Methodist Home could proceed without state approval, but it would lose authorization to receive federal and state health care funds if it did so. "We simply could not afford to operate without those funds," Benson commented. "As I said, neither the home nor its patients are rich."

calves and grow hay, and Mike has several friends who live on large farms, which he visits often.

Park explained to his son it would cost too much to give the course to so few students.

"How could it be saved," Mike asked.

"By letting someone know somebody is interested in taking agriculture," his father told him. Park suggested a petition. Mike wrote one up and took it to school, careful to screen students to get those truly interested in the course, instead of just names.

Now he must wait for the results of course request time.

Area Students Earn Degrees at MSU

Three area students were awarded degrees from Michigan State University during winter term commencement exercises held last Saturday at East Lansing. They are:

James H. Botsford of 19900 Sibley Rd., Chelsea, bachelor of science in veterinary medicine, with honors.

James E. Claus, Jr., of 13696 Sharon Hollow Rd., Manchester, master of arts in counseling.

John P. Hill of 9521 Portage Lake Ave., Pinckney, bachelor of science in civil engineering.

Young Farmers Attend Leaders State Conference

Some 200 young Farm Bureau members from across the state took part in the 1983 Young Farmer Leaders' Conference held March 2-4 in Lansing. Attending from Washtenaw County were John and Holly Porter, Carol and Dennis Huehl, Dan and Julie Schaible, Doug and Robin Welshans and Bill Peltes.

The conference, sponsored by the MFB Young Farmer Committee, offered sessions on farm partnerships, farm computers, estate planning, marketing, recent changes in the dairy industry, stress management, the role of Young Farmers in the Farm Bureau organization and legislative issues affecting agriculture.

ACATS Speaker Will Discuss Ways To Improve Brain

"Right Brain, Left Brain" will be the topic of the March meeting of Association for Creative and Academically Talented Students (ACATS) at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, March 17 at Beach Middle school LGI room.

The human brain has two distinct halves, according to many scientists and researchers. The left and usually dominant side handles such things as logic, sequence, analysis and language. The right brain is thought to be the center for creativity, spontaneity and intuitiveness.

A problem arises, say some researchers, because society focuses overwhelmingly on the left side, often to the total disregard of the right.

The ACATS meeting will be led by Kristi Beckwith, a Jackson area artist who has done much work in this field.

Adults and children in the fourth grade and older are invited to the meeting to learn a little more about increasing their right brain skills.

America & Me Essay Contest Winners Told

Three eighth grade students from Beach Middle school were named local winners in the 14th annual America & Me essay contest, sponsored by Farm Bureau Insurance Group.

Trisha Mattoff won first place; Loren Rosenberg, second; and Elizabeth Maurer, third.

All three received award certificates. As the school's first place winner, Trisha's name will be engraved on a plaque for permanent display in the school.

Her first place essay, on this year's theme of "Why I Am Important to America's Future," now advances to state level competition, from which the top 100 essays in the state will be selected and announced in March.

Those state winners will receive plaques, U. S. savings bonds ranging in value from $200 to $1,000, be honored at a banquet in Lansing and meet the top governmental leaders in the state.

State judges will include state political leaders and other dignitaries.

Several thousand eighth graders from about 500 Michigan schools participated in preliminary competition.

Demonstration of East Indian Cooking Offered March 16

The heat of the spices and the cool of the yogurt are the contrasts you will enjoy at the display of East Indian cookery on Wednesday, March 16, at 1 p.m. at Co-operative Extension Service, 4133 Washtenaw Ave., Ann Arbor. The educational program will feature a demonstration, by two native Indian women, of the preparation of the basic bread, the chapati, two mixed dishes with the seasonings we associate with curry, and a vegetable dish.

They will show how whole spices are ground to make the "garam masala" used in many Indian foods. This combination of spices, most of which are already in the American kitchen, is a distinguishing feature of this cuisine. However, the food need not be fiery; it may be prepared without the hot chili peppers and still be "authentic."

There will be a $2 charge for the event to cover the cost of food to be tasted by the audience. Call 973-9510 to reserve a space.

This demonstration is part of a continuing monthly series of food programs offered by Co-operative Extension Service. Call to obtain a free flyer describing the series.

Tornado Clouds Sighted Monday

Some wicked weather stormed through Washtenaw county early last week, but the Chelsea and Dexter areas escaped the worst of it. About all that happened in the vicinity of both villages was rain and some occasional flashes of lightning and rumbles of thunder.

There were three verified sightings of tornado funnel clouds in the area, most unusual for early March, but none apparently touched ground. One was reported seen at Lima Center and Byrmeister Rds. in Bridgewater township, another near Saline and a third north of Tecumseh.

Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti experienced thunderstorms, including large-sized hail, and some scattered interruptions of electrical power.

Temperatures rose into the high 60's last Monday afternoon as the storm front passed through, breaking all records for the date.

In Chelsea and Dexter, some ugly looking clouds passed overhead on Monday afternoon and again on Tuesday morning, but they went on by without causing anything more than anxious looks and considerable rain.

No tornado warning sirens were sounded in Chelsea.

However, Chelsea Community Hospital was put on alert late Monday afternoon and took measures both to receive possible casualties and to protect patients already in the hospital. The emergency procedures include evacuating ambulatory patients into basement areas and moving those who cannot walk to places of shelter away from outside walls.

A hospital spokesman expressed concern that sirens were not blown in Chelsea after a county-wide tornado warning was issued, and said he was going to take up the matter with village officials.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

With St. Patrick's Day approaching, my thoughts go back to my Irish grandfather, Raymond Culhane.

Many of the area residents remember him as he lived in this area over 50 years. He worked as a janitor for St. Mary's school for many years and the children, now grown will have many fond memories of him. He was known as "Mr. Fix It."

Grandpa used to write poems of life around him, family and friends. His one goal in life was to have his poems printed. He was taken seriously ill and given the last rites of the Catholic Church when he was 80 years old. I decided right then to have his poems printed. I started out in search of someone to type and proofread his poems. A lady in Ann Arbor, agreed to help me and Edward Bros. printed the book.

I never will forget how he looked when I brought him his books. God was good to him and he lived one year longer so he could pass out his books to his family and friends.

This is just a little memento to my grandfather and you can bet when St. Patrick's Day is here this is one granddaughter who won't forget him.

Mary Parsons.

Two Residents Walk Away at Cassidy Lake

Parent Groups Discuss Problems

Forty-four persons turned out for a March 3 meeting at Chelsea High school for parents troubled by problems with teen-age children, and guidance counselor Chris Dimanin, who arranged the meeting, said he believes there may be some follow-up action.

Representatives of three area self-support groups—Parents Anonymous, Families Anonymous and Toughlove—spoke at the meeting—and there was also a sharing of information among persons present.

"I was pleased by the number of people who came to the meeting and by the interest they showed," Dimanin said. "It indicated to me that there are many concerned parents interested in helping each other solve problems they are having with their children."

"As a guidance counselor in the high school, I am aware of some of those problems, which may involve abuse of alcohol and drugs or some other kind of harmful behavior which troubles parents who want to help but may not know how."

"In a community the size of Chelsea there are bound to be some 'problem' youngsters and therefore some 'problem' parents. That needs to be recognized. It is wrong to pretend that such things just don't exist here, because they do. I don't want to get people unnecessarily upset or alarmed, but we have to be realistic."

There is a Parents Anonymous Chapter in Chelsea. Its purpose is to help parents learn how to control their own emotions, especially anger, so that they can deal effectively with their children.

Interest was expressed at the March 3 meeting in establishing a local chapter of Families Anonymous, a group which focuses on dealing with substance abuse problems within the family setting.

Toughlove is a more controversial organization which encourages parents to make firm rules for their children and let the youngsters suffer the consequences of disobedience, learning the hard way. As an example, a young person arrested for drunk driving might be left to spend some time in jail rather than having his parents bail him or her out.

"What I am looking and hoping for now is for interested parents to let me know what they want to do (such as setting up a Families Anonymous chapter). The school will be supportive, but it can't take the lead. The motivation has to come from parents. The school can't force any adult to do anything."

Dimanin may be reached by telephone at 475-9131.

ON YOUR FEET

YOUR JOB AND YOUR FEET

If your feet hurt when you come home from work at night, the problem may not be in the kind of work you do but in a foot problem that needs attention.

Many foot problems are caused by imbalances between the bone and muscle structure that throw, not only your feet, but the rest of your body out of balance. Corns and calluses are indications of foot problems, and so are itching and excessive perspiration. Any foot infection should be treated before it gets worse and leads to other problems.

Aching, tired feet not only affect your health, they can also affect your disposition and your efficiency on the job.

When they are out of balance they can also cause aches in your legs and back because those structures are thrown out of balance, too.

Some jobs require a lot of walking or standing. Others require more strenuous activity, such as climbing or bending at uncomfortable angles. No matter what the activity, your feet support your body up to four times its weight. If your feet hurt, have the problem treated by your foot specialist.

Area Craftsmen Attending Dexter Pioneer Fair

Candlewicking—embroidery for the working woman—smocking and spinning are three new crafts at the Dexter Pioneer Fair March 19 to be presented by Chelsea area craftsmen.

Candlewicking, forming a pattern with either french or colonial knots, began during the Revolutionary War. Colonial women, cut off from shipments of embroidery thread and yarn from England, actually used their candle wicks as thread on muslin, a white on white pattern.

The style, like dot to dot pictures before the dots are joined by crayon, conserved the precious supply of wicks, but still gave them something pretty to do with their hands.

Sometimes they left strands on the knots, cut them, and fluffed the ends, which became the method for making modern carpets.

Candlewicking has just caught on in the northern states, this past fall, said Barbara Branch, owner of Chelsea Craft Co. She took a course on it last summer and will demonstrate it at the fair along with Debi Winters.

Candlewicking modern style is done with a heavy "wicking" yarn (which comes in a variety of colors) on muslin. One can lay the translucent muslin over a picture and transfer the dots with a marker that washes out in cold water. All the knots are done in the same direction, or it looks "uneven and messy," said Mrs. Branch. The number of strands of yarn determines the size of the knot.

It is very easy to learn, and finishes up quickly, she said, and is the kind of embroidery one can relax with at the end of a busy day.

Because the style conserves yarn, it also is cheaper to do than needlepoint or crewel, she said, an important factor for a handicraft during a recession.

But she doesn't see it pushing aside the more challenging needlework crafts, because candlewicking may be too easy for the devotee.

Barbara Ullman of 20931 Island Lake Rd. will demonstrate the craft of spinning at the fair with her partner, Mary Jane Coble of Dexter.

Mrs. Ullman raises angora goats and cross-bred sheep, and mixes the goat hair and fleece during carding for a combination that brings to mind that cliché about the fleecy clouds.

Angora goats produce mohair yarn. (It's the angora rabbits that produce angora yarn.) Pure mohair yarn is very smooth, without the fine scales of wool yarn. That smoothness gives pure mohair an odd, rather unpleasant feel, but when mixed it gives the new product that nice fuzzy softness it's known for.

She doubts she will ever raise angora rabbits, she said, because the fibers for the yarn are plucked from the rabbit. That just doesn't appeal to her.

She got her nanny goat several years ago, but had trouble finding a good billy goat in the area to breed it with. Billies tend to be more temperamental, she said, and the breed, originally imported from Turkey, is scarce around here. She now has a young male, too.

He may be a little young for her nanny, but he's great at producing hair. In the recent shearing, he had 12½ pounds. She may try biannual shearings for his comfort, but that shortens her fiber length for spinning.

A botanist by education, she also dyes her yarns with plants such as marigolds, milkweed and ragweed. Onion skins give a really delicate color, but she discovered it is not color fast and fades in sunlight.

She will have some materials at the fair to demonstrate dying.

When her family spent a year in England for her husband's sabbatical, she learned to spin and weave on an upright tapestry loom, which is best suited to curves and diagonals but not the hard edged patterns one gets from a floor loom.

Donna Harsh of 10117 Chelsea-Dexter Rd. learned to smock 1½ years ago for her three daughters. She is now doing the smocking, while a Canton woman, Patti Getyina, does the final sewing for a clothing business they founded, The Balloon Tree.

Smocking was used like elastic is today when it began in the 1700s, said Mrs. Harsh. Because the pleats in a smocked garment can expand, smocking is practical for children's and maternity clothing.

For American smocking, one gathers the pleats as one goes, which works well with gingham fabric. But plain fabrics need to have dots marked on them, which Mrs. Harsh always found difficult to get out.

Basketball Season Closes With Bulldogs Runners-Up

Seeking its first district championship in 22 years, Chelsea's basketball team made an excellent try against Jackson Lumen Christi at the latter's gym last Saturday night but came up a little bit short and lost, 56-49.

It was actually closer than that. The Bulldogs were down by only three points with two minutes to play, had momentum, and appeared ready to charge in front. Three successive questionable officials' calls—two judgment fouls and a three-second lane violation—put an end to the Bulldogs' hopes.

If ever a game was decided by officiating, this one was. The calls against both teams evened out at the end, but those that went against Chelsea occurred at the worst possible moments.

Still, the Bulldogs could have won it had they not gotten off to another of their glacially slow starts, netting only 14 points in the first half and digging themselves into a hole that they could not quite manage to climb out of. Both teams started slowly, scoring eight points apiece in the first quarter of a slow-down game marked by repeated missed shots against opposing zone defenses. Lumen Christi got itself untracked in the second period, and Chelsea didn't, and that turned out to be the difference. The Titans outscored the Bulldogs, 16-6, during those eight minutes to run up a 10-point half-time lead.

Coming from behind against a well-executed zone defense is perhaps the most difficult feat in basketball, especially if your opponent doesn't oblige with a spell of cold shooting.

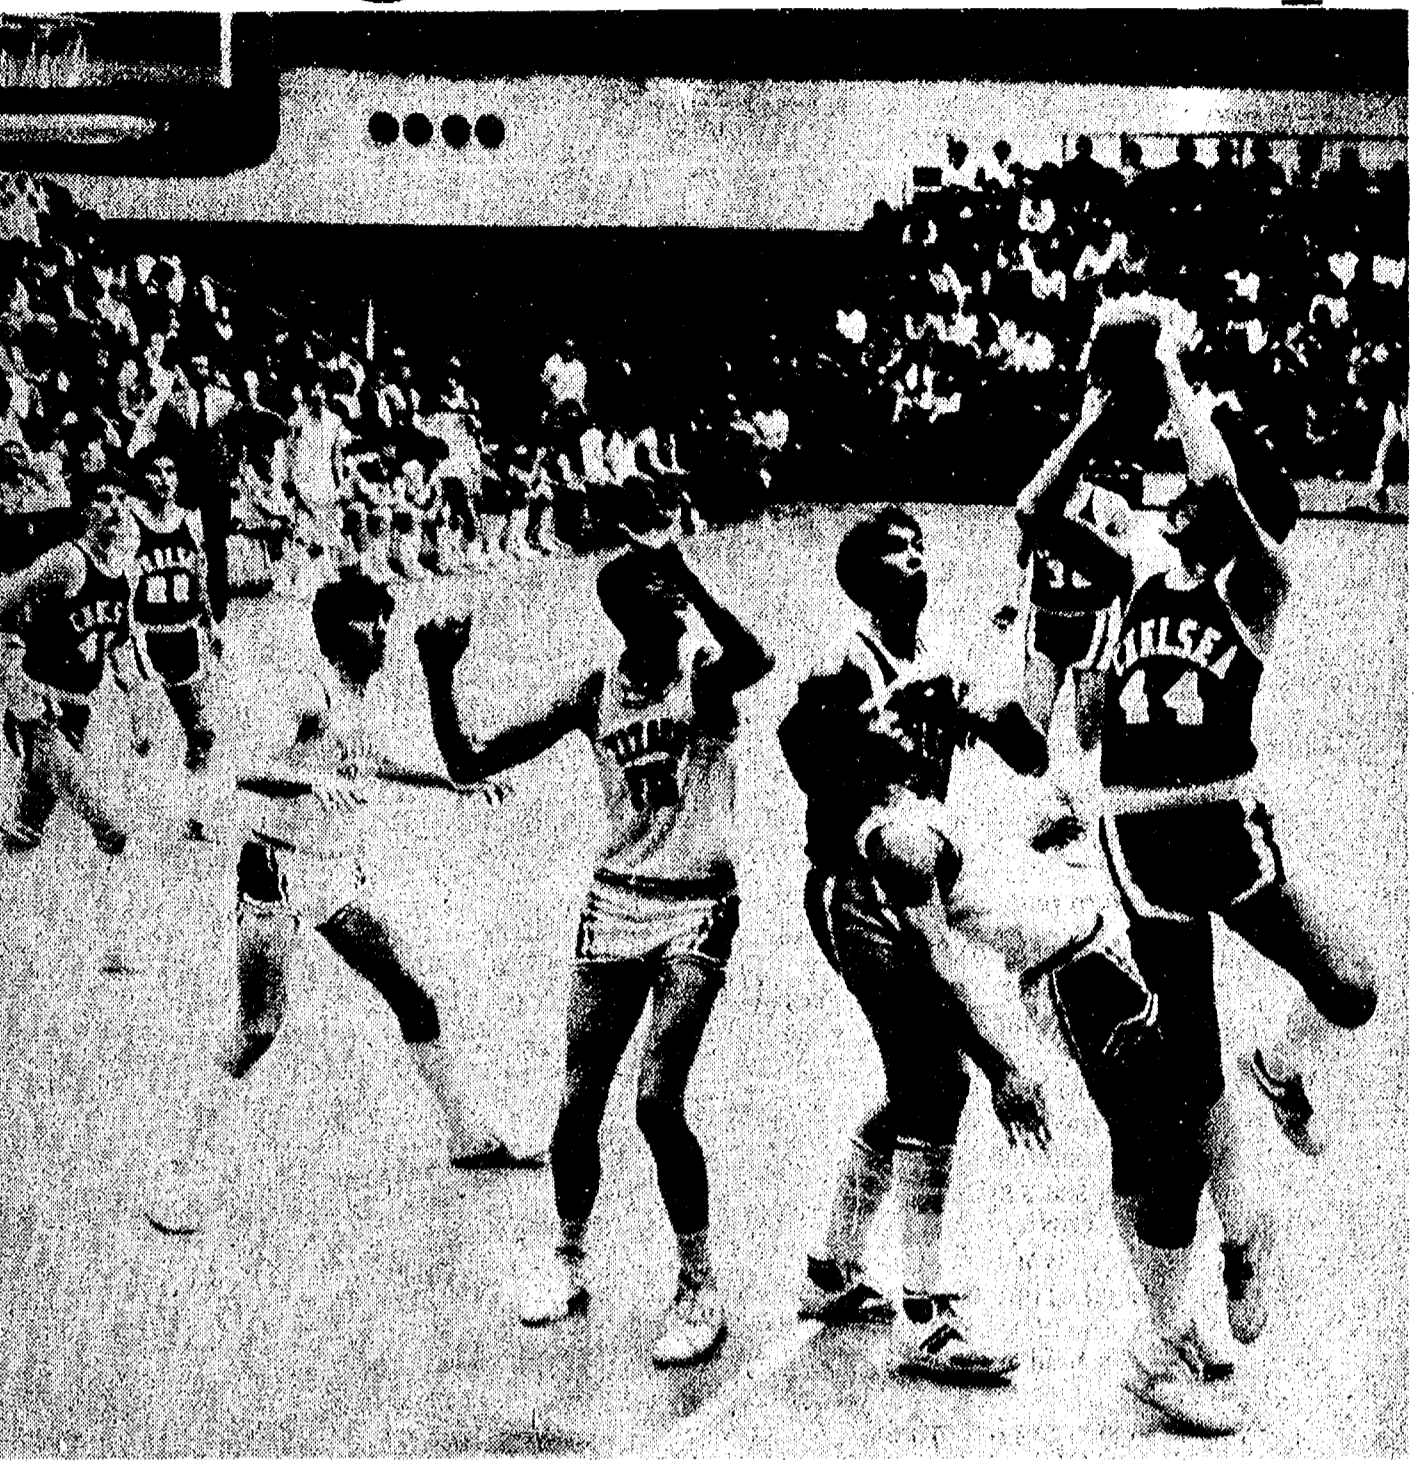

Chelsea played its usual strong third quarter, putting in 17 points, but Lumen Christi came up with 16 to keep its lead at nine.

The tenacious Bulldogs continued their charge and finally cut their foes' lead to three, at 48-45, with Carl Pate leading the way on some fine shooting from the floor and foul line. One more basket, and Chelsea would have been back in it.

That's when the referees' whistles took over and decided the outcome. The Bulldogs were called for two quick and questionable fouls, which opportunistic Lumen Christi turned in for four points with clutch free-throw shooting. The lane violation, which nobody but one official saw, nullified an apparent Chelsea field goal.

Safely ahead by seven, Lumen Christi played a delay game the rest of the way, forced Chelsea in to intentional fouls and stayed on top. The Titans shot a super 14 of 17 from the line during the game. Not many college or professional teams do that well. Chelsea's 13 of 19 was very good, but not quite good enough.

Playing his last game of a fine

PATE PUTS IT UP: Senior forward Carl Pate had an excellent two games in the district tournament. He led a drive that just missed in the final contest. Here he puts up a shot while a Jackson Lumen Christi defender literally leans over backward to avoid a foul.

three years on the Bulldog varsity, David Wojcicki paced Chelsea with 17 points, getting most of them in the first half when his team was struggling to stay within striking distance. Pate had 16, including 6-for-6 from the foul line. Marty Steinhauer put in 8.

Lumen Christi used the same collapsing zone defense that Dexter had employed two nights previously to shut off Chelsea's inside game, and it worked again. The Bulldogs simply could not get the ball in to center David Kiel and had to shoot from outside.

Chelsea also employed a zone for the first time this season. It was fairly effective, but Lumen Christi did a good job of shooting over it. Mike Schonhard did most of the damage with 22 points, and Andy Hinkle added 10.

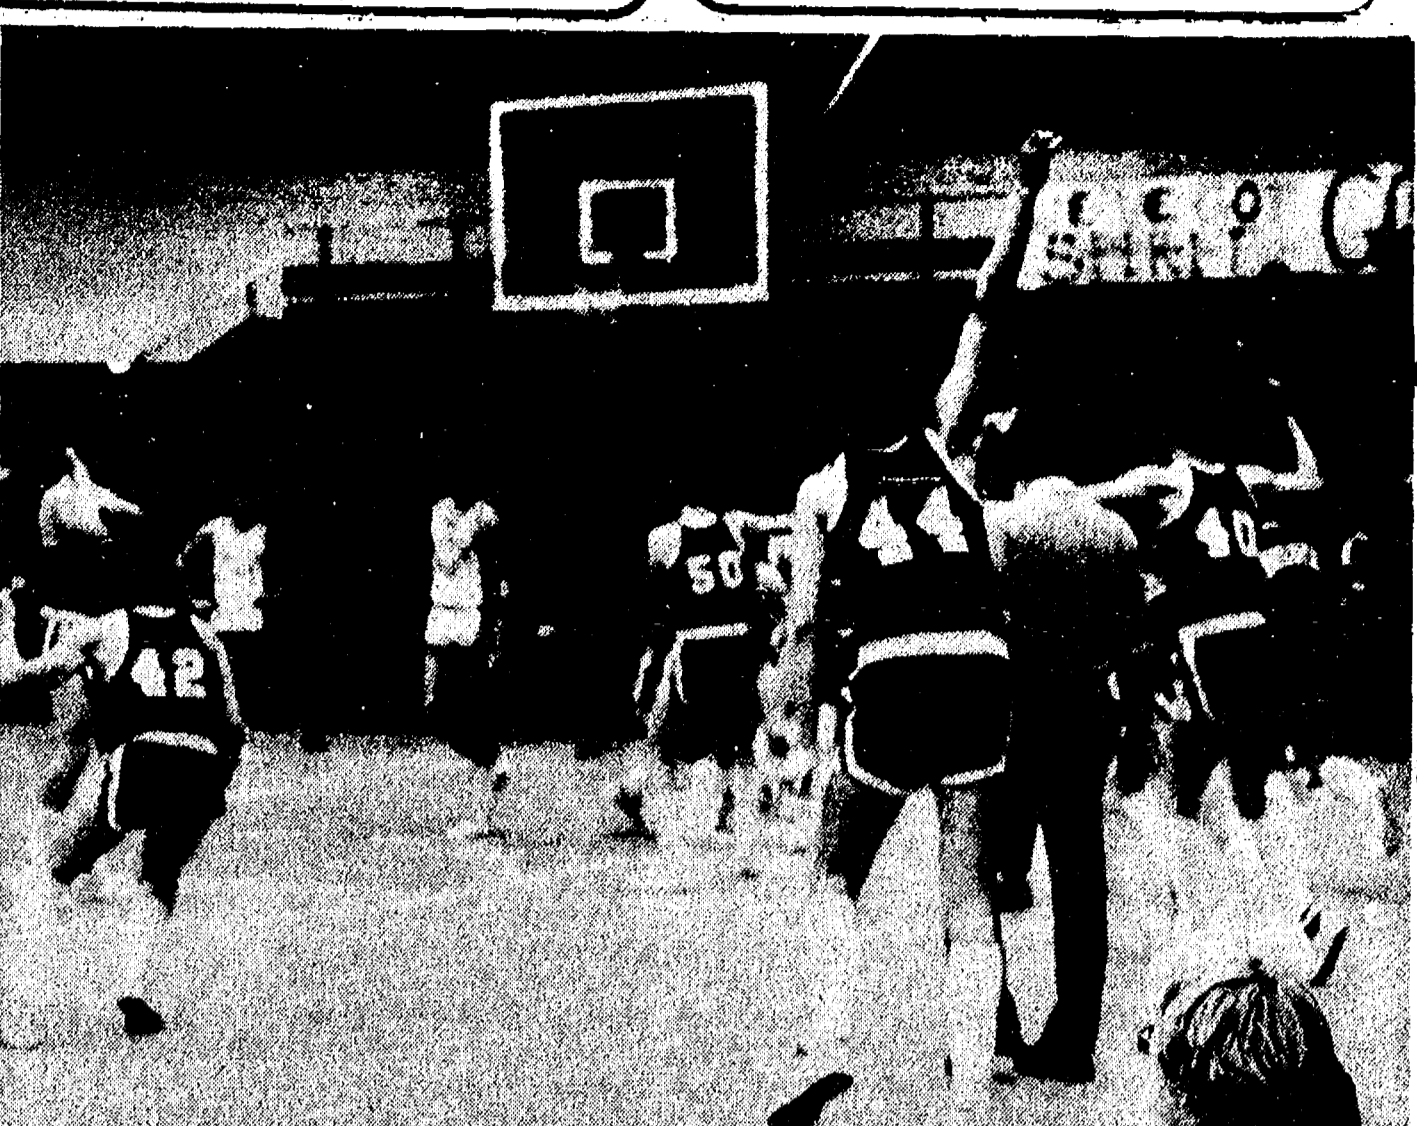

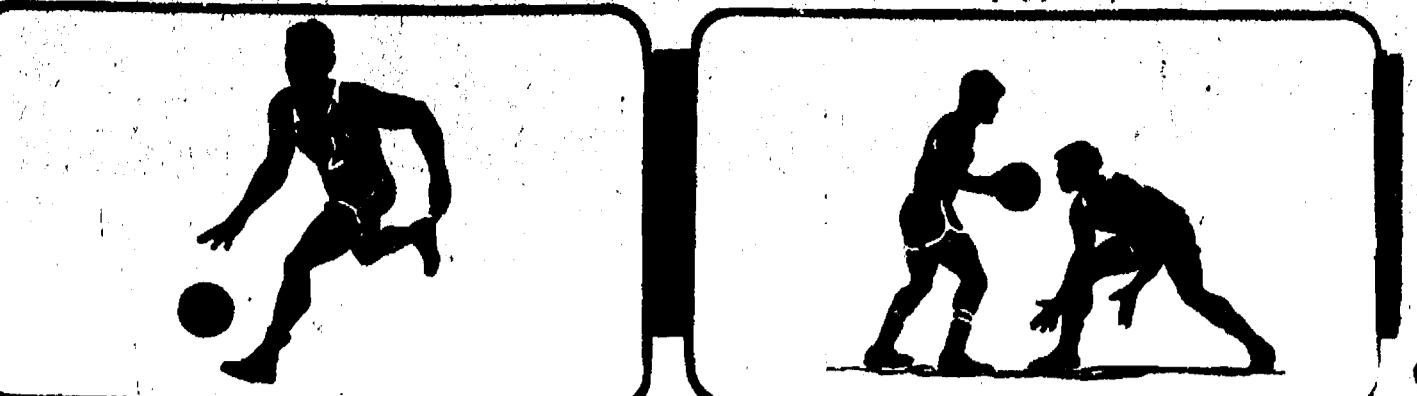

"Lumen Christi is bigger and faster than we are, and they like to run," said Bulldog coach Robin Raymond about his decision to go to an unaccustomed zone defense and a slow-down offense. "We could not have matched them in a running game. Our best chance was to slow the tempo and try to neutralize their size advantage." The Lumen Christi roster listed

WHO FOULED WHOM? Chelsea's Marty Steinhauer was knocked to the floor on this play in the district championship game with Jackson Lumen Christi, but nevertheless was whistled for a foul. It was one of several key officiating calls late in the game that turned the tide against the Bulldogs.

one player at 6-7 and two at 6-6. "We played a poor first half offensively, but that is nothing new for us," Raymond continued. "We came back and played an excellent second half. The officials' calls at critical times hurt us." "We were probably a little too tight at the beginning of the game. That's understandable when you are trying to win your first district championship in 22 years.

"I'm proud of what our team achieved this year. We were 14-8 on the season, won a share of the Southeastern Conference championship and finished second in the district. That's a good record, something to build on. We're losing some fine seniors, but we have seven varsity boys coming back next year, and some good ones coming up from the junior varsity and freshman teams. I'm looking forward to it already."

THE JOY OF WINNING: Chelsea basketball players erupt in joy as David Wojcicki's last-second shot gives the Bulldogs 56-55 double-overtime victory over Dexter in a district tournament game at Jackson Lumen Christi High school last Thursday night. Hidden somewhere in the mass is Wojcicki. The ball which had dropped through the hoop is visible at left rear, behind a couple of stunned Dexter players. The man in the sweater is Dexter coach Jim McCormack, going out to console his players and offer congratulations to the winners.

Bulldog Cagers Stop Dexter in Buzzer Shot

Chelsea's David Wojcicki grabbed a loose ball following a tip-off, dribbled the length of the court and laid in an at-the-buzzer field goal to give his team a 56-55 double-overtime win over Dexter in district tournament play at Jackson Lumen Christi High school last Thursday night.

It was another of those heart-pounding games that have been common this winter when Southeastern Conference rivals have met, and was reminiscent of Dexter's overtime victory over Chelsea last December, only this time Chelsea won.

It was one of many contests witnessed by this reporter this season, after which it could honestly be said that it was a shame somebody had to lose. Both teams played their hearts and guts out. Both scrapped with the intensity and desire you expect from two neighborhood rivals playing with a lot at stake—a shot at the district championship.

There were so many "might have beens" and "could haves" in this game that it would take far too much space to recount them all. Both teams had earlier opportunities to win and blew them. Both made some excellent clutch plays to keep in contention.

In the end it was Wojcicki who made the difference. After being held down during the 32 minutes of regulation play by a super-tough Dexter defense, he called on something extra within himself and took charge of the two overtimes, scoring eight of his team's nine points. His winning shot was one of those remarkable individual efforts that you will remember for a long time if you saw it.

For Dexter the heart-breaking loss ended the basketball season for a team that has to be disappointed but has no reason to be ashamed. The Dreadnaughts failed to defend the SEC title they won last year, but they gave it a good try. And they came within a point and five seconds of getting into the district tournament final game. Their over-all season record was 10-12.

For Chelsea the last-second win meant a chance to go on and play at least one more game, against Lumen Christi for the district crown. It also gave the Bulldogs the mythical championship of Dexter-Chelsea Rd. Chelsea won two of the three times that the two schools clashed. One was a 22-point blowout by the Bulldogs in their home gym. The other two went into overtime, and could have gone either way.

Last Thursday night, both teams played in patterns that have become typical for them this season. Notoriously slow-starting Chelsea had another of its ice-cold beginnings, managing only four points in the first seven minutes and handing Dexter the opportunity to take an early lead which it did, going up 11-6 at the end of the first quarter. The second period was near-even, but the Dreadnaughts had enough of an edge to take a 27-20 lead into the locker room at half-time.

Then it was Dexter's turn to run into a problem that has plagued them all season—poor third-quarter play. The Dreadnaughts scored only two points in the eight minutes after intermission. That allowed Chelsea to go ahead, 30-29.

During the slam-bang final period the Bulldogs got on top by as many as seven points, but couldn't put the determined Dreadnaughts away. Dexter rallied to tie the score in the final seconds of regulation time and had an excellent opportunity to win but missed a lay-up shot as time ran out.

In the first overtime period Dexter took an early lead on Darrell Dittmer's three-point play, but Chelsea matched it on a long jumper by Wojcicki and a free throw by Carl Pate.

Wojcicki put the Bulldogs ahead with a field goal early in the second overtime, but Dexter came back with a three-pointer by Wilfred Nonnenmacher to go in front. Wojcicki hit another shot from the floor, but Dexter's Niles Mayrand matched it, putting the Dreadnaughts ahead, 55-54.

Working for a last shot, Chelsea threw the ball away. Dexter got it and drew a foul. The attempt was missed, and Chelsea's Chuck Hager and Dexter's Eric Sing tussled for the rebound. A jump-ball was called. Sing used his height advantage to win the tip and slap the ball backward toward two waiting teammates. But Wojcicki used his quickness to get there first, pick up the ball, and head down-court.

"I knew I had five seconds," Wojcicki said afterward. "I saw an opening and decided to go all the way in instead of putting up a shot from outside. I felt sure I could make the lay-up if I could get there."

Actually, it was not an easy shot. With a Dexter defender between him and the basket, Wojcicki had to leave his feet early to prevent either a charging foul or a block, adjust the ball in his hand while in the air and put it up from the side. It was perfect. The ball bounced off the board and down through the hoop as the buzzer sounded, and that was the game.

THIS IS HOW WE DO IT: The camera looked into a Chelsea sideline huddle as coach Robin Raymond plotted the strategy for the last-second play which resulted in David Wojcicki's game-winning shot against Dexter. Raymond is pointing at Wojcicki, letting everybody know that he wants his senior captain guard to take the all-important last shot.

Buzzer Shot . . .

Dexter Coach Jim McCormack had devised a game plan around a collapsing zone defense designed to shut off Chelsea's strong inside game and particularly to keep the ball away from Bulldog center David Kiel. That worked to perfection as the usually high-scoring Kiel was held without a field goal.

Keeping Kiel surrounded by as many as three defenders meant, however, offering opportunities to other Bulldogs, and Marty Steinhauer in particular took advantage. Steinhauer had a game-high 18 points. Wojcicki 15, Pat 9, Hager 6 and Eric Schaffner 5. Chelsea played its usual all-court pressure man-to-man, but it didn't bother the Dreadnaughts much as they lost the ball only once on a steal and repeatedly found openings for close-in shots. Dexter had well balanced scoring, topped by Dittmer's 12. Mayrand and Sing had 11 each, Pat Quigley 8 and Bob Haggerty 6.

Actually, either team could have won easily in regulation time with better marksmanship from the foul line. Each scored 22 field goals, but Chelsea converted 12 of 24 free throw attempts to Dexter's 11 of 26. Both normally shoot much better than that from the line.

Bulldog Coach Robin Raymond was excited but limp after the game. "I'm happy we won, but have to admit we were a little bit lucky. Dexter played well, and so did we. There wasn't much difference. It could have gone either way. It was an extremely intense game between two fired-up teams."

A disconsolate McCormack likewise praised his opponent but reflected on the many chances that Dexter had to win but didn't capitalize on. "I thought we had the game won several times," he said, "but we never could quite make the key play when we really needed it. Both teams made great efforts. Now that we're out of it, I hope Chelsea goes on and wins district. We're rivals, but we're also friends."

Running Clinic For Women Set at Hospital

A beginning running clinic for women will be held at the Family Practice Center in Chelsea on Thursday, April 7. The clinic will cover all the basic information necessary to begin a running program, with special emphasis on the needs and concerns of women in running.

Topics will include the whys of running, where, when and how to run. Clothing and shoes will be discussed along with how to avoid injuries.

The clinic is free of charge and will be held at the Family Practice Center located at 775 S. Main St. The clinic is sponsored by the University of Michigan Medical School's Department of Family Practice. Two sessions will be held, one from 2-4 p.m. and the other at 7-9 p.m.

The clinic will be taught by Peggy Alford, a long distance runner, along with Dr. Jim Chenoweth, a physician at the Family Practice Center. Dr. Chenoweth is a marathon runner and served as the team physician for Chelsea High school this past year.

SPORTS NOTES

BY BILL MULLENDORE

About this time a year ago I was in Indianapolis visiting my daughter and son-in-law and so had a chance to watch the final day of "Hoosier hysteria," the Indiana state high school basketball tournament.

They take basketball mighty seriously in Hoosierland, about as seriously as they take politics. Indiana politics are something else; they have to be experienced to be believed, and so does the craziness that overwhelms the state when round-ball tournament time arrives. Basketball wasn't invented in Indiana, but don't try to tell a Hoosier that.

They do things differently in Indiana than in Michigan when it comes to high school tournament basketball. There is no such thing as "classes." All schools, large and small, match up together, and the big ones don't always win. Back in the 1920's a high school with an enrollment of 58, 27 of them boys, won the state title. Among those 27 boys there happened to be five darned good basketball players.

On the last day of the Indiana tournament both semi-finals and finals are played, which means two games within 10 hours for the finalists. It gets to be an endurance contest, survival of the fittest.

Last year, along with teams from Indianapolis, Fort Wayne and Evansville, there was a team from Plymouth, a little town in northern Indiana about the size of Chelsea, with a high school that would be Class C in Michigan. As a long-time roofer for underdogs, I took a fancy to this Plymouth squad that apparently had no business being where they were, even though they had lost only once all season.

Watching the morning semi-finals, my eyes were caught by a short, stocky point guard on the Plymouth team. He wasn't spectacular. He didn't slam-dunk or jump six feet off the floor, or dribble behind his back. He also didn't throw the ball away or have it stolen when he was bringing it up the court. He hit his center or his wingmen with sharp passes when they were open, and he put the ball in the basket about two-thirds of the time whenever he shot, which was often.

He scored 39 points in the semi-final game, which went into overtime, including his winning team's last effort. He came on in the final game to put in 41 in another overtime affair, hitting the game-winning shot from 25 feet out at the buzzer.

It was some kind of performance—80 points in two games in one day, a state championship won against all the odds, climaxed by selection at the end of it all as Indiana's "Mr. Basketball" for the season. When it was over, I said to my son-in-law, "That boy is some basketball player. He's going to make a name for himself in college somewhere."

Funny thing, he had a hard time getting a basketball scholarship. He felt he was good enough to make it in the Big Ten, and hoped to play in his home state. Neither Indiana nor Purdue made him an offer. He then looked toward Michigan, the next state north, because he wanted to go to school somewhere close to home.

Michigan's Bill Frieder, busy recruiting what was said to be the nation's best freshman cage crop, wasn't interested. (If you check the record, the U-M frosh haven't turned out to be all that great.) Jud Heathcote at Michigan State had had a so-so recruiting season, had a scholarship left over, and decided to take a chance on the kid from Plymouth, Indiana. It was the best move Heathcote has made since he persuaded Earvin Johnson to play two seasons at MSU.

The young man's name is Scott Skiles, and if he doesn't win the Big Ten's "freshman of the year" award there is something awfully wrong with the selection system. He has made the transition from little high school to big university with no problems, or at least none that are visible on the basketball floor. He does the same things he did in high school—gets the ball upcourt without losing it, hits the open man with passes, puts the ball in the basket two out of every three times he shoots it. He isn't spectacular, but he sure gets the job done.

Michigan certainly could have used Skiles this winter: The Wolverines have been hurt badly by lack of depth at guard.

I suspect that Bobby Knight at Indiana may be kicking himself for letting Skiles get away, and so must the Purdue coaching staff.

Meanwhile, Heathcote is smiling, although he's honest enough to admit that having Skiles on his team was more good luck than wisdom on his part. "I didn't let him start our first three games because I saw him at first as a reserve guard who might come off the bench and play a few minutes," Heathcote said last week after Skiles had led the Spartans to an upset victory over Minnesota. "That was the worst coaching mistake I've ever made. It took me far too long to figure out how good he is."

There's a moral in this story somewhere. I suspect it comes down to the fact that, if you have a chance to sign up Indiana's "Mr. Basketball" from any season, it's a good thing to do, even if he comes from a little school and doesn't slam-dunk the ball.

Swimmers Place 7th in State Meet

Bulldog boy swimmers took seventh in the Class B state championship meet March 11-12 in Grand Rapids with five new varsity records.

Six Chelsea swimmers got all-state honors by placing in the top six in an event. John Hoffman, Ted Merkel, Dave Nicola, Don Skiff, Sean Oxner and Kraig Leach.

Oxner, a senior co-captain, finished his career the way anyone wants to, with his most outstanding meet ever, according to the coaching staff. He set two new varsity records.

Kraig Leach was the first boy Bulldog diver to ever score points at the state meet with a fourth place. Both he and Todd Brown, 15th, had qualified for the states at regionals earlier in the week, and were the best Bulldog diving combo ever at the state championship, according to the coaching staff.

Ted Merkel, 11th in the 100 breaststroke, was the first Chelsea swimmer to ever score in that event at the state meet. He missed qualifying for the top six finals by 1/100 of a second.

John Drew broke two school records in the 50 and 100 free and scored some unexpected points.

Dave Nicola swam his best butterfly times of the year to score in the 100 fly and the medley relay. Don Skiff, a sophomore, swam well under pressure in his first state meet, according to the coaching staff.

Bulldog's 400 free relay had expected to qualify for the top six finals, but one swimmer got a muscle spasm in his thigh while he was swimming in preliminary relay competition.

Beach School Volleyball Teams Finish Season

Bullpup girls volleyball teams both won matches during their last three contests of the season.

The seventh graders beat Lincoln, 15-10, 19-17, March 9 away. Karen Grau had a good serving game, and Chris Basso had several good saves, said Beverly Martin, coach of both teams. The eighth grade team lost to Lincoln, 4-15, 6-15.

They beat Dexter, however, 15-13, 15-4, March 1 at home, playing a mentally alert game, said Miss Martin, with enthusiastic support from the bench. Edie Harook had a good hitting game, and Kris Zerkel, Mary Lazarz and Tylene Greenleaf had good serving games.

The seventh graders lost to Dexter, 2-15, 15-13, 14-16. Laura Walton had a good serving game, and Chris Basso and Leah Enderle had good defensive and serving games.

The eighth graders lost to Milan, 3-15, 15-0, 10-15, March 8 at

She would also like to compliment the players' families on their support of the teams, she said.

They finished their season with a pizza party March 11.

OUT IN THE OPEN

By BILL MULLENDORE

This is the in-between season out in the open in southern Michigan, and especially so this year after the winter that didn't happen.

There just isn't a whole lot going on out there right now.

The last of the hunting seasons, for cottontail rabbits, ended March 1. It was a poor season—no snow. There were plenty of rabbits around, but without snow for good tracking and hound work, the hunting wasn't much fun.

The ice fishing season was the shortest in my memory, which stretches back more than 40 years. It lasted all of four weeks. Some of my favorite lakes never did freeze to a depth that I felt was safe.

For skiers, both downhill and cross-country, the season has been a disaster. Even the northern ski resorts have given up and closed a full month ahead of normal. The story is the same for snowmobilers. The last thing Michigan's troubled economy needed was a non-winter for the tourist industry, but that is exactly what it got. For some reason, when things are going badly, they keep on heading in that direction.

So much for the bad news.

If I were looking for something to do outdoors right now, and I am, I would go fishing. Yes, fishing.

If I were feeling really adventuresome, I would take a couple of days and head over to the Lake Michigan shoreline where there are steelhead trout (lake-run rainbows) to be caught in the tributary streams at this time of year. Spring steelheading in Michigan provides some of the most exciting fishing in the world.

It's a cold, tough and often wet sport, but the rewards can weigh up to 20 pounds each. Even a small (5-10 pounds) steelhead is something to remember if you manage to hook one, let alone land it. Steelhead trout run and jump unlike any other fish that I know of.

You have to work for them. You must get into the water and wade, and the March wading is mighty chilly, even after a mild winter. With thermal underwear and insulated waders, you can last about half an hour before having to go ashore and thaw out. Your fingers will get stiff, unless you can figure out a way to fish with gloves on, which I never have. The tackle, baits and lures, and techniques are highly specialized. The best advice I can give is to go with someone who has fished successfully for spring steelhead before, and try to copy everything he does.

If you manage to land one steelhead in a day's fishing, you will have had a good trip. Anything more than one is exceptional. I caught three in one day once, and will never forget the experience. It went into my logbook of red-letter days.

If you are looking for something a little less stressful, I suggest putting a boat or canoe into a local lake some sunny afternoon and probing the shallows for bluegills and sunfish, preferably with a flyrod and a rubber spider or small fly or bug. A very small spinning lure will also work, although not as well. You can make-do with live bait, but keep it small (wax worms, mousies, corn borers, goldenrod grubs, a little piece of earthworm).

Fish seek out warmer water at this time of year, and the shallows warm up first, especially on a sunny day. They head for the warmth for two reasons—it's more comfortable, and there is food available in the form of early-emerging insects.

Some of the fastest fishing I've ever enjoyed has been experienced in late March and early April, just as good as what can be expected when bluegills and sunfish are on the beds during the spawning season. I've never tried it this early but, then, I've never seen a winter like this one. I think it just might work, and intend to try it.

Aquatic Club Wins Over Milan, 285-282

Chelsea Aquatic Club geared up for the Southern Michigan Swim League championship meets this week with a 285-282 win over Milan, their last dual meet of the winter season.

Team members had some outstanding swims against Milan, according to the coaching staff, and they are ready for more fast swims this week.

All the swimmers showed up for the Milan meet, said the coaches, which was crucial to the win.

Championships for 8-and-unders, were held yesterday at Ypsilanti at 5:30 p.m. The meet for 9-10-year-olds will be held at 5:30 p.m. today at Ypsilanti; for 11-12-year-olds, at 5:30 p.m. Wednesday, March 16 at Brighton; and for 13-and-older, at 5:30 p.m. Thursday, March 17 at Milan.

Results of the Milan meet came in too late to be included in this week's paper.

FREE HEARING TESTS

Jackson, Mich. — Free electronic hearing tests will be given on Monday, March 21st thru Thursday, March 24th from 9 A.M. to 5 P.M. at Beckord's Hearing Aid Center.

A hearing aid specialist will be available to give these free tests at 2922 Wildwood Ave.

The tests have been arranged for anyone who suspects they are losing their hearing. Such persons generally say they can hear but cannot understand conversation. Testing with the latest electronic equipment will indicate whether it can be helped electronically.

Everyone, especially those over 60, should have an electronic hearing test at least once a year. If there is a hearing problem, a free electronic hearing test may reveal that newly developed methods of correction will help, even for those who have been told in the past that a hearing aid would not help them.

For those wishing the free test but want to avoid waiting, an appointment for a specific day and time may be arranged by phoning (517) 782-5724.

These free hearing tests are given for the purpose of making selections and adaptations of electronic hearing instruments.

Available for inspection on the test days will be the All-In-The-Ear hearing aid which is especially designed for nerve deafness.

Albion Band Concert Slated Thursday

Albion College concert band, clarinet choir and jazz ensemble will perform at 8 p.m. Thursday, March 17 for students at Chelsea High School, the group's first stop on a four-day spring concert tour. Albion's string bassist, Mary Kay Poljan, graduated from Chelsea High school in 1981.

The concert is free and open to the public.

Under the direction of Richard L. Blatt and assistant director Keith Lemmons, the 65-piece group will also perform for school and church groups in the Detroit area and cross into Canada for stopovers in Toronto and Sarnia. The band has taken similar spring tours for the past two years.

Crop Insurance Plan Offers Higher

High yields and good records can pay off in increased crop insurance protection for many farmers, according to Barbara Cranson, field representative of Federal Crop Insurance Corp.

Cranson reports that a major change in the method of calculating insurance yield guarantee makes it possible for qualifying farmers to obtain additional coverage at no additional cost.

"Our goal is to offer each farmer a guaranteed yield that reflects his own yield experience. Thus, if a farmer can prove that his yields during the past three or more years have been above the average for his area, we'll also give him credit for above-average yields in years for which he doesn't have the necessary records. Specifically," Cranson explains, "we'll assume his yields in those years were above average by the same percentage as his recent yields."

Yield Guarantees

For 1983, the Individual Yield Coverage Program is open to farmers who produce corn, soybeans, grain sorghum, and dry beans. Insurance agents can explain exactly what coverage is available and what the protection would cost. To make the insurance affordable as possible, the Federal Government pays up to 30 percent of the premium cost.

Maple Sugar Festival Set at Nature Center

pioneer equipment loaned from the Waterloo Farm Museum will be on display. Visitors will be able to purchase both maple sugar candy and maple syrup. Waterloo Nature Center may be reached by taking I-94 to exit 167. Travel north on Pierce Rd. to Bush Rd. Turn left on Bush to the entrance. ## Farmers Forum Slated March 15

Farming in Washtenaw county is the subject of the "Farmers Forum," a panel discussion with five area farmers to be held Tuesday, March 15, at 7:30 p.m. at Zion Lutheran church, 1501 W. Liberty St., Ann Arbor.

Bill Ames, Washtenaw county co-operative extension service agent, will serve as a moderator for the discussion, which will focus on issues that concern local farmers and consumers and the future of agriculture in the county. Topics addressed will include the economics of farming, public policy and the farmer, the impact of urban growth on farming, the future of local marketing, and the relationships between hunger, unemployment, and farming.

The forum offers an opportunity for farmers and consumers, rural and urban residents, to talk together about agriculture in Washtenaw county. Panel participants will describe their own farming experiences, mention some of their key problems, and share their points of view on what can be done to keep the county's agriculture healthy.

Panelists include Tom Bloomer, a grain and hog farmer from Webster township; Mike DuRusell, a commercial potato grower from Manchester; Ken King, a small truck farmer from Brooklyn; Richard Wheeler, Dexter dairy farmer; and Jeremiah Winter, who raises soybeans in Milan.

Sponsors for Tuesday's event include the Land, Food, and Justice Committee of Interfaith Council for Peace/CALC, the Washtenaw County Co-operative Extension Service, the Ecology Center of Ann Arbor, and Project Grow. Admission is free.

For more information call the Interfaith Council for Peace at 663-1870.

JOHN W. CARPENTER

John Carpenter Honored At 80th Birthday Parties

John W. Carpenter of Chelsea was honored with 80th birthday parties Sunday, Feb. 27 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Philip La Joy in Canton and Tuesday, March 1, his actual birthday, at his home.

Dial-A-Garden Topics Listed

Dial-A-Garden, the system of pre-recorded daily gardening tips, is sponsored by the Washtenaw County Co-operative Extension Service. The system is in operation 24 hours per day, seven days per week. Interested persons are invited to call 971-1122 at their convenience and receive timely, up-to-date gardening information.

Wednesday, March 16—"Time To Think About Peas and Sweet Peas."

Thursday, March 17—"Making Low-Calorie Salad Dressings."

Friday, March 18—"Using Cold Frames and Hotcaps To Get a Head Start."

Monday, March 21—"Pruning Is Easy With the Right Tools."

Taxpayers who use their personal automobiles for business, charitable work, medical transportation or to move their family or household may be eligible for a mileage deduction.

Carpenter, a former Wayne resident, his wife, Katie, and 38 friends and relatives from the Wayne area enjoyed a buffet dinner at 2 p.m. Feb. 27. His birthday cake was baked and decorated by a granddaughter, Joan Dittmar.

He received cards and gifts, including a card with best wishes from President and Mrs. Reagan and also greetings from Gov. James Blanchard.

Seventeen friends and relatives of Bryan, O., came to the Carpenter's home March 1 for a noon dinner, more cake and gifts. Several well-wishers dropped in to add their congratulations.

The spring-like weather both Sunday and Tuesday was much better than the day he was born in Ohio—in the middle of a blizzard.

Both parties were hosted by Mr. and Mrs. William Dittmar, their five children and families.

Area Craftsmen

She bought an English-style smocking pleating machine from South Africa. It gathers the fabric with threads which can easily be removed later. Although for a high-volume smocker like herself it was a worthwhile investment, she said, the pleating machine is probably too expensive for the average smocker.

When it first began, smocking was used for undergarments such as slips and camisoles. Only in the past 100 years has it been used as decoration for outer clothing, she said. She learned it to give her daughters' dresses "a party touch."

It isn't that difficult to do, she said, but beginners have problems because pattern notation is not standardized. Developing such a notation, designing patterns, and writing "a good beginner" book are directions she is interested in pursuing.

Smocking is most often seen on little girls' dresses, she said. They tend to grow out of that look when they are about seven and want to wear T-shirts and blue jeans.

Although smocking would be practical decoration for maternity clothing, she said she hasn't seen anyone explore its possibilities in that decoration with more adult geometric designs instead of childish hearts and ducks.

These four women will be demonstrating new crafts at the pioneer fair, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, March 19 at Dexter High school, 2615 Baker Rd.

Other Chelsea area craftsmen who have appeared at the fair in the past and will be there again this year are Ben Bower, water color; Robert Polens, maple sugar candy; Basil Greenleaf, wooden toys; Cheryl Ford, Hawaiian quilting; Ole Carlson, knitted lace; and Sylvia Prentice, crocheting and tatting.

Crafts such as German paper cutting, rocking animals, weather vanes, wooden bi-planes and miniature counted cross stitch will also be shown.

INTRODUCING THE BEST IRA BONUS OFFER IN TOWN:

UP TO $80* IN CASH. UP FRONT.

There are several IRA bonus plans being offered right now. And some of them sound pretty good. But work them out on paper, and you'll discover that Ann Arbor Trust beats them all with a 2% up-front cash bonus PLUS 10% interest.**

Let's take an example:

Suppose you and your spouse both work, and that you each deposit $2000 into an IRA. In that case, we would automatically add $80 to your total deposit. Then we'd pay you high, tax-deferred, compounded interest on all that money. All year long. And with maturities ranging from 18 months to five years. (With other plans, you'd get higher short-term interest and no cash added to your deposit.)

If you open your IRA before the April 15th deadline, you can deduct the entire amount of your deposit from your 1982 taxable income.

So before you invest your hard-earned money in an IRA that just sounds good, call Ann Arbor Trust today at 994-5555. We'll show you—in black and white—how our cash bonus beats any other offer in town.

*Based on maximum initial contributions of $2000 for a married couple with two incomes. Offer applies to new IRA deposits only and ends April 15, 1983. Withdrawal prior to age 59½ incurs substantial tax penalty except for death or disability. Early withdrawal from any certificate of deposit incurs substantial interest penalty.

**Applies to Fixed Rate Certificates.

Sheep Population Explodes With Multiple Births

Mr. and Mrs. Darrel Satterthwaite and their son Trent, who farm the Sylvester Weber farm on Selo Church Rd., have had unusually good luck with lambing this year.

They have a flock of 50 ewes, and 25 of them have had 53 lambs total. Two ewes had single lambs, 19 ewes had twins, three ewes had triplets, and one ewe had quadruplets. She is doing a good job of raising all four, said Sylvester Weber.

School Board Briefs

Present at a regular meeting of the Chelsea Board of Education Monday, March 7 were Feeney, Schumann, Heller, Dils, Snyder, Grau, Comeau, Superintendent Van Meer, Assistant Superintendent Mills, Principals Williams, Wojcik, Benedict, Athletic Director Nemeth, guests.
Meeting called to order at 8 p.m. by President Ann Feeney.
Board approved the minutes of the Feb. 21 meeting.

The Board received a communication from a District resident indicating an interest in establishing a late-afternoon bus to accommodate students involved in extra-curricular activities.

The Board also received a communication from an out-of-town resident complimenting members of the Chelsea High School Ski Club for their exemplary behavior during a recent bus trip.

The Board received a communication from Paul Buntin, president of the Chelsea Recreation Council, asking for an exchange of Board meeting minutes.

Joe DiGeronimo, of DiGeronimo Architects, reviewed with the Board the construction bids according to specifications for the outdoor athletic facilities. A Board administrative committee will continue to review the data and make recommendations in the near future.

Superintendent Van Meer presented five-year enrollment projections, indicating that the secondary enrollments at Beach and the High school will be declining in the next few years.

The Board discussed the extent of involvement in the Sesquicentennial celebration in 1984.

Superintendent Van Meer reviewed the Board of Education goals and objectives and progress to date.

Superintendent Van Meer presented a legislative update, spending considerable time informing the Board about the committee of township clerks and superintendents which is currently working on a procedure for summer tax collection for 1984. Three school districts—Whitmore Lake, Ypsilanti and Willow Run—are currently planning on a 1983 summer tax collection. The committee is trying to draft a uniform agreement; then it will be up to each Board of Education to determine if it wants to participate in summer tax collection.

School Board members and administrators will meet with area legislators at 7:00 a.m. on Monday, March 14th.

Superintendent Van Meer indicated there is a bill in the Senate which could affect the age requirement for kindergartners. The bill would allow children who reach the age of 5 years by Nov. 1 to enter kindergarten in 1983-84; by Oct. 1, 1984-85; by Sept. 1, 1985-86.

Superintendent Van Meer indicated there is concern about the status of the deferred payment from the State of Michigan in the event the income tax passes.

Superintendent Van Meer commented on the establishment of "Equal Partners," which will be citizen groups, teachers, school board members, and administrators, attempting to form local coalitions. The main charge of this grass-roots effort will be to convey to legislators the need to have proper funding for the public schools.

Seventeen students at Beach school indicated they would be taking agriculture next year at the high school, and hoped that the Agriculture class would be available. Agriculture will be part of the curriculum for 1983-84. At a later date the Board will discuss a possible required enrollment number for all high school courses.

Assistant Superintendent Mills indicated that June 13 has been set for the annual School Election. There will be one School Board vacancy created by the June 30 expiration of the term of secretary Arthur E. Dils. Candidates for the School Board may pick up petitions at the reception desk in the Administration Building, E. Washington St., between the hours of 8 a.m. and 4 p.m., and must be returned with signatures by 4 p.m. on April 11.

The Board accepted a gift valued at $4,000 from the Dale Schumann family in memory of their son Paul. The gift consists of a new electronic timing console and digital printout board for the swimming pool at Beach Middle school.

The Board appointed Assistant Superintendent Frederick A. Mills as Election Administrator.

The Board approved the remodeling of the projection booth in the auditorium. The remodeling will be paid for by Chelsea Kiwanis Club at an estimated cost of $1,700.

DANCE MARATHONERS: Chelsea High school senior Kim Forner, left, and her boyfriend, Rick Eder, right, won the dance marathon sponsored by the senior class by dancing 17 hours straight last week-end at the school cafeteria. Behind them is Rick Proctor, who danced 15 hours. This photograph was taken after 14 hours had elapsed. The photographer said the cafeteria had a strong odor of Ben-Gay, a muscle ache cream. Dancers had to keep their feet moving 55 minutes of each hour and got a 15-minute shower break every five hours.

Dance Marathon Winners Exhausted After 17 Hours

Kim Forner, a Chelsea High school senior, was planning on using the $50 first prize in the senior class' dance and cards marathon last Friday and Saturday to go to a fancy dinner-dance with her boyfriend in April.

It was only after she and Rick Eder, a freshman at Ferris State, had won by dancing 17 hours straight, that she found out the dinner dance was April 9—a day she and the rest of the softball team will be in Florida for spring training over spring break.

Missi Connell won the cards marathon prize of $50, playing 16½ hours with pledges of $2.42 per hour. Money raised by the marathoners goes to the senior class' graduation fund.

Forner, in good shape after just finishing the season on the Bulldog varsity volleyball team, had pledges of $8.15 per hour, a total of $104.55. Second place dancer was Dawn Murphy, 16 hours, pledges of $2.48 per hour; third place, Rick Proctor, 15 hours, $2.06 per hour, and fourth place, Barry Newkirk, 15 hours, $1 per hour. Pledge totals were the tie-breakers.

Chaperones, some of them doing a marathon themselves, were Richard Sundling, Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Degener, Charlotte Bentley, Mary Kay Poljan, Ruth Horning and Bud Janich, class advisor.

Park Permits Required

Michigan state park motor vehicle permits are now required to enter the picnic sites at Crooked Lake and Mud Lake, the access sites at Winnewana Impoundment, Mud Lake, Crooked Lake, Mill Lake, Walsh Lake and Cedar Lake, and the Horseback Riding Stable, all in the Waterloo Recreation Area.

This requirement took effect Jan. 1, 1983. The inclusion of these additional areas was necessitated by recent budget reductions and the need to increase revenue.

Motor vehicle permits are also required as before at the Portage

Lake Beach and campground, Sugarloaf campground, Mill Lake Outdoor Center, Cedar Lake Outdoor Center, Green Lake campground, Horsemen's campground, and Burns Frontier Camp.

The annual park permit costs $10 for the calendar year. The daily permit is $2. Michigan resident senior citizens may purchase an annual permit for $1.
