Civic Foundation of Chelsea Starts Membership Campaign

"Do something special for Chelsea" is the theme of the Civic Foundation of Chelsea's drive for corporate members.

Area corporations will be approached during the next several weeks to join the foundation. Corporate memberships are: Regular at $250 or more, and Corporate Patron at $1,000 or more.

The Civic Foundation is a community trust dedicated to making Chelsea an even better place in which to live and work. Its purpose is to raise funds for community projects and programs which are not fundable from existing sources.

The Civic Foundation's first grant went to the Chelsea Senior Citizens for a Lifeline Personal Emergency Response Program which enables elderly and handicapped persons to live independently.

BookCrafters Corporation kicked off the foundation's drive with a $1,000 Corporate Patron membership contribution. Individual memberships range from $15 to $1,000 or more. To date, 254 individuals have joined the Foundation.

Contributions may be made to or more information obtained by writing P.O. Box 45, Chelsea 48118.

Newcomer Steele Elected to Council

Newcomer Richard Steele won a seat on the Chelsea Village Council in the March 14 election as incumbent Lyle D. Chriswell lost out by a single vote. Chriswell said he would not contest the outcome.

In other election results, incumbent Katherine Wagner and newcomer Daphne Hodder were named to the McKune Memorial Library board of trustees, and Mrs. Evelyn Rosentreter was re-elected village clerk without opposition.

With four candidates seeking three at-large council seats, the results were:

Jerry Satterthwaite, 129; Steele, 127; Herman Radloff, 104, and Chriswell, 103. Satterthwaite and Radloff, both incumbents, were elected along with Steele.

Chriswell said he was "disappointed" by the outcome but would accept it without asking for a recount or seeking to have the election overturned. "I will go along with the wishes of the people," he said. "It hurts to lose, especially by just one vote, but that's the way it turned out."

"In punch-card voting (in which the ballots are counted by computer) a recount undoubtedly would show the same result. And I have no reason to think there was any irregularity in the way the election was conducted."

Steele said he was "very pleased" by the results which placed him second in the field of four and is looking forward to attending his first council meeting as a member on April 5. He has been going to meetings as a spectator for the last two years.

"It's going to be different being on the inside," said Steele, who lives at 211 Lincoln St. and is a diagnostic technician at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor. "It will be a learning process for awhile until I get into the swing of things."

In the library board contest, with four candidates contesting for two trustee seats, the results were:

Katherine Wagner, 102; Mrs. Hodder, 98; Fred Harris, 90, and Robert W. Riemenschneider, 55. Mrs. Wagner was re-elected as an incumbent. Harris, an incumbent, was defeated along with Riemenschneider.

Mrs. Rosentreter received 163 votes in her uncontested run for re-election as clerk.

A total of 193 ballots were cast by Chelsea's more than 2,000 registered voters.

Our Winter Finally Arrives ... On First Day of Spring

Is the "winter that wasn't" going to be followed by the "spring that isn't"?

Local residents had to be wondering yesterday morning as they awoke on the official first day of spring, March 21, to four inches of snow on the ground with more coming down. It was by far the heaviest snowfall of the season, and was predicted to total six inches or more before it ended.

Schools throughout Washtenaw county—including Chelsea and Dexter—were closed, traffic slowed to a crawl and many people were late for work. Some rural residents on secondary roads were snowed in pending the arrival of plows.

Snowblowers and shovels which had been scarcely used all winter long were brought out and put to work. A few snowmobiles were observed in operation.

Police agencies reported no major accidents, although there were numerous instances of vehicles skidding off roads.

The storm was not extremely severe as measured against some that have dumped two feet or more of snow in past years. But it was surprising, coming after the mildest winter in these parts since at least 1900. (Records for the years before 1900 are sketchy.)

At no time during the winter was there more than an inch of snow on the ground, and the total for the season was only 12 inches, as against a norm of more than 30.

The snow bean to fall a few hours before spring officially arrived at 11:39 p.m. Sunday. That was the exact time of the vernal equinox—when the hours between sunrise and sunset are exactly 12 out of the 24-hour day.

Until last Saturday, when it turned cold with a sharp north wind, it had seemed like spring since about the middle of February, with temperatures in the 50's and 60's on many days.

Unseasonably warm weather has provoked, among other things, an early grass greenup, premature blooming of spring flowers such as crocuses, bird migrations weeks ahead of normal, and other unusually early signs of the spring season.

All of that could be good or bad, depending on what happens during the next few weeks. A prolonged cold snap with below-freezing temperatures could cause severe damage to tree buds which have begun to swell and to ground plants which have started to grow.

Historical records show severe snowstorms during the early weeks of spring, extending into May. There have been killing frosts in early June, although the average frost-free date for the area is May 17.

Some pessimists have predicted that southern Michigan will "pay for" its non-winter—during which less than 12 inches of total snowfall was recorded—before summer arrives on June 21. They could be right. Experience suggests that anything can happen during a southern Michigan spring.

One cause of concern locally is that precipitation—in the form of either snow or rain—has been (Continued on page three)

Plans Presented for Upgrading, Expanding Village Sewage Plant

Approximately 20 persons showed up for a public hearing last Wednesday night on a $4.3 million proposal to upgrade Chelsea's wastewater treatment plant.

Most sat and listened, but a few asked questions of two representatives of the Toledo, O., engineering firm, which has prepared the plan under contract with the village. The questions were for the most part technical, and so were the answers.

The proposal, prepared by Finkbeiner, Pettis & Strout of Toledo, calls for expanding the plant and converting it to an "oxidation ditch" system of treatment. If completed as recommended, the upgraded plant would serve Chelsea's needs for an estimated 20 years or longer. Sorting through all the engineering technology, Chelsea needs to do two things in order to meet state and federal requirements for wastewater treatment:

1. Increase the capacity of the present plant, which is now overloaded at times, resulting in periodic discharges of untreated wastes into Letts Creek.
2. Improve the quality of treatment, so that more waste materials are removed before the effluent is discharged.

The engineering firm's proposal is designed to do both.

The council took no formal action following the hearing, but village administrator Frederick A. Weber said steps must be taken soon if Chelsea is to have any chance of getting on the state priority list while 75 percent federal funding for waste treatment improvement projects is still available.

Otherwise, he noted, the funding aid level will drop to 55 percent.

"I hope we can get on the state priority list this summer, which would perhaps assure us a 75 percent grant before the Oct. 1, 1984 deadline when the cost-share is scheduled to drop to 55 percent," Weber explained. "There definitely is some urgency."

Whatever the ultimate federal grant, the village would have to sell bonds to finance its share of the project cost, Weber added. "We don't have the money, in hand or in sight, to pay even 25 percent of $4.3 million," he said.

In a related action the council approved payment of $11,911 to Finkbeiner, Pettis & Strout for consulting work done during the months of December through February.

Council Offers Two Plans for Tregets Plant

Chelsea Village Council last Tuesday night opened two possible doors for Tregets Tool & Engineering Co. to move into the former Riemenschneider fuel plant property on Old US-12 and left it up to Tregets which, if either, it wants to try to go through.

"We are looking at our choices," said Steven G. Dygert, co-owner of Tregets along with his brother, Donald. "I honestly can't tell you what we will do next. We've been working on this for six months, and we're just about where we were when we started."

Tregets is a small but growing tool and die firm which now operates out of the old Weinberg Dairy building at 20056 Old US-12, outside the village limits, and needs to expand into larger quarters. The Dygerts identified the Riemenschneider plant as their preferred new location and asked to have the 2.25-acre property rezoned "light industrial" so they could move in. That happened last October and, although there have been many hearings and meetings since, the situation remains about the same.

The property—presently owned by William Weber, Sharon Roberts, and Melville and Virginia Jones—is zoned residential, and at one time was proposed for development into homesites. That plan never bore fruit. Meanwhile, the land is vacant except for the old fuel plant which is being used for storage and is slowly crumbling.

"It will be on the ground within two years if somebody doesn't go in and make repairs," Steven Dygert has said. "If we can get into it in time, we can save it and use it. It would house our operation very nicely."

Neighboring residents objected to the rezoning, citing noise, dust, trucks and other nuisances, and the possibility of lowered property values. Tregets' request was denied, but the council kept the proposal alive by asking the Planning Commission to come up with alternative ideas which would allow Tregets to move and also meet citizen concerns.

Two proposed amendments to the village zoning ordinance were drafted, and after going through the required hearing process, both were adopted by the council last Tuesday night.

Moratorium Lifted On Sewer Hook-Ups

Chelsea Village Council last Tuesday night lifted a 14-year moratorium on new connections to the village sewer system. The action was taken specifically to accommodate a proposed 42-unit multiple dwelling complex on the village's southwest side, but opens the door for anyone to apply for a sewer hook-up.

The moratorium has been in effect since 1969. It was eased slightly in 1978 to accommodate a few landlocked properties which were without sewer connections.

Last week's council action took the lid off entirely. "Anyone can now apply for a sewer hook-up," village administrator Frederick A. Weber said. "That doesn't mean that all applications will be granted. Each will be decided on its merits."

The housing complex on the southwest side has been proposed by Marvin Salyer on an eight-acre tract of land he owns, bounded by Wilkinson, Chandler, Grant and Wellington Sts. He has presented a plan to construct 42 one and two-story units on the site, contingent on the availability of sewer service. Trunkline sewers run along the boundary

Village Council Okays Two Local Fund Solicitations

Chelsea Village Council approved two requests for fund solicitations in the village and denied another, at its meeting last Tuesday night.

Given the green light were fund-raising efforts by the American Cancer Society during the week of April 23-29 and the Chelsea Scholarship and Financial Aid Committee May 20-21.

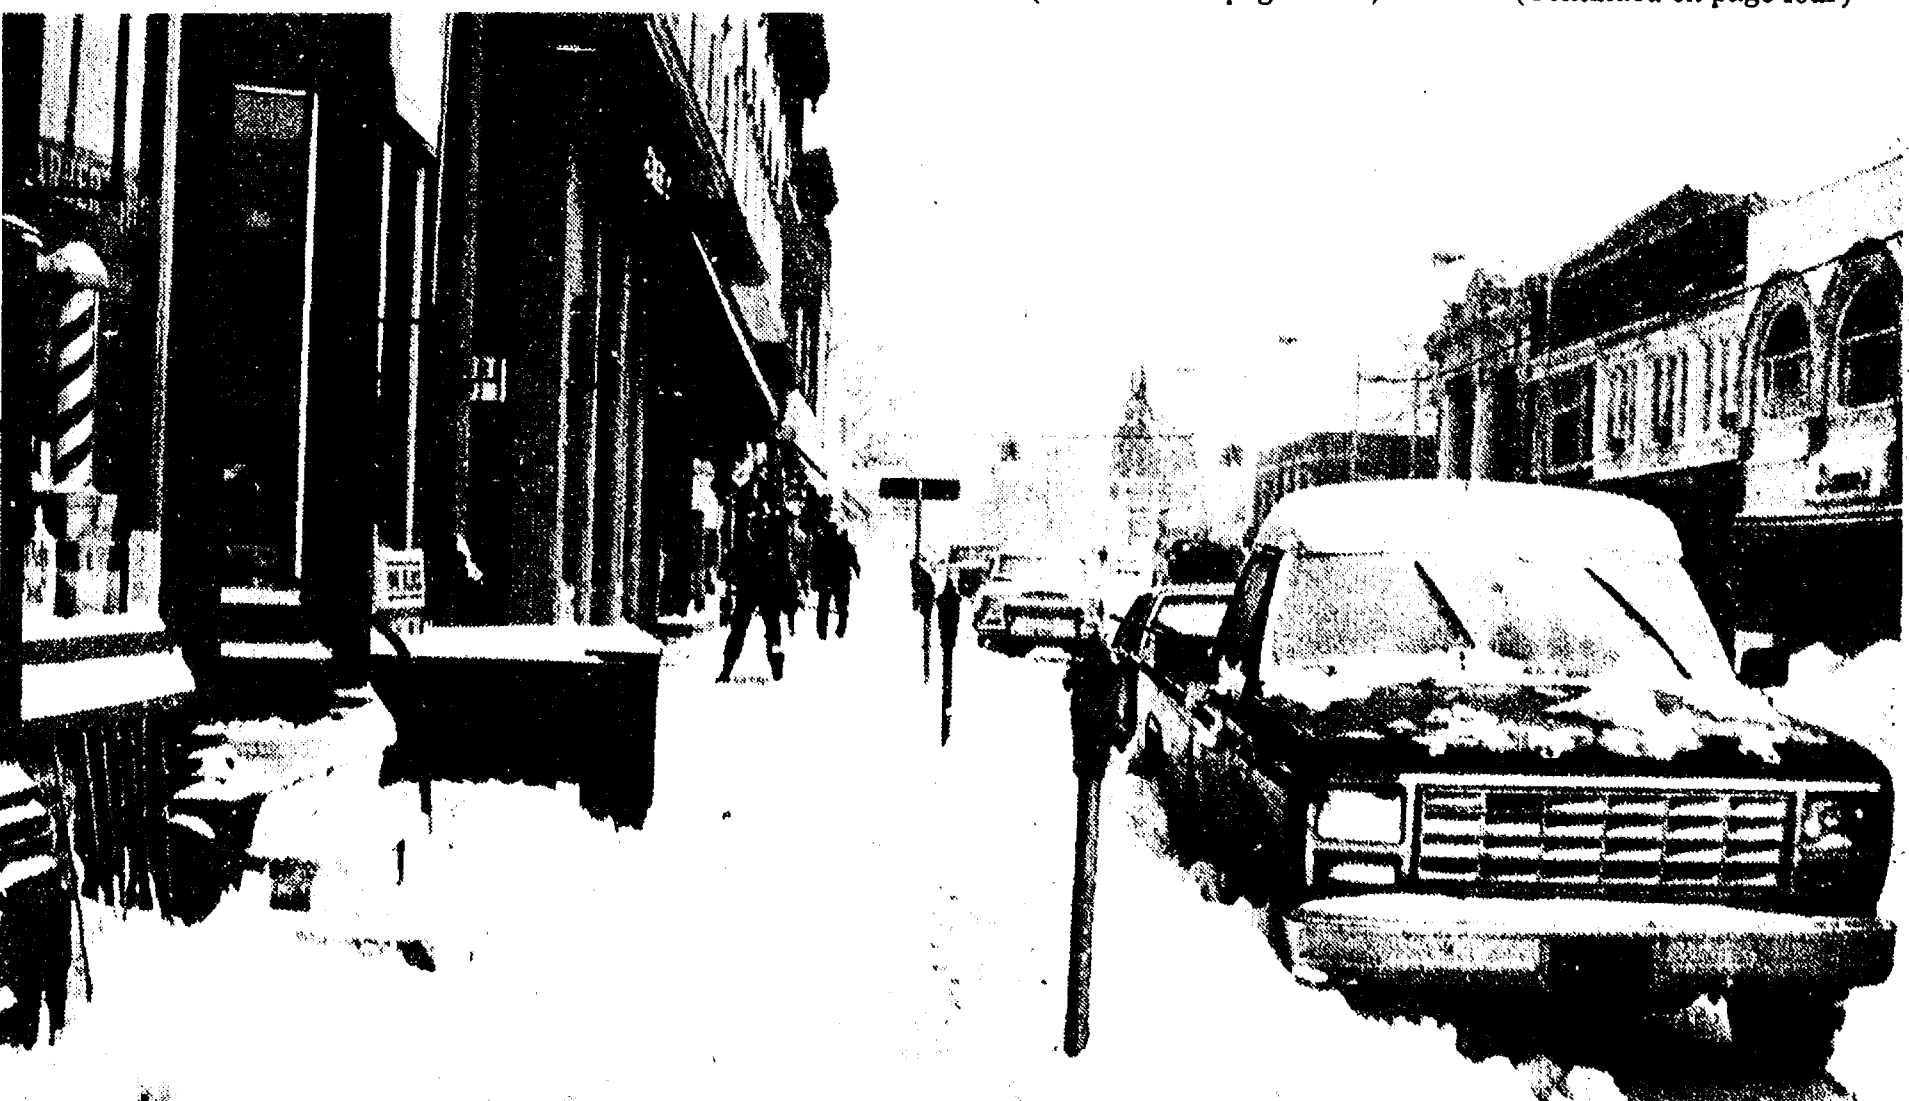

Turned down was a request by the Ann Arbor YM-YWCA to conduct an "Earn Your Way to Camp" candy sale.

streets, but connecting conduits would have to be installed.

The village sewage treatment plant is presently operating at close to capacity, and on some rainy days exceeds it. Weber believes the overload problem can be relieved if work is done to reduce infiltration of storm water into the sanitary sewer system, and hopes that can be accomplished later this year.

"We have reason to hope we will get a grant from the Department of Natural Resources to help us on the infiltration reduction work," Weber said.

No building permit for new residential construction in Chelsea has been issued since 1979. While the stagnant economy, which has slowed housing starts nation-wide, is partly to blame, the sewer connection moratorium has also been a deterrent locally.

SURPRISE! This is how it looked along Main St. yesterday morning as Chelsea greeted the first day of spring. Business persons were out shovelling an overnight snowfall which, before it ended, dumped an estimated six inches on the area. That was half as much as fell during the entire winter which officially ended late Sunday night.

Banks May Charge Premium For Credit Insurance

Attorney General Frank J. Kelley, in reversing an opinion issued last year, has ruled financial institutions may charge borrowers a premium for credit life insurance on auto loans, even if they are already charging the highest legal interest rate on the loans.

Kelley said the most favored lender doctrine requires banks, savings and loan associations and credit unions to be given the same loan rights as are motor finance arms of the car companies.

Auto loan companies are not required to include credit insurance charges when computing loan interest rates.

The opinion directly addressed only car sales, but Kelley noted a federal district court in Missouri ruled the most favored lender doctrine encompasses credit transactions involving sellers of all retail goods.

And, he noted a state court ruled lenders covered by the Retail Installment Sales Act and the Home Improvement Finance Act, as well as the car loan law, are not subject to the insurance code's limitations on computing credit insurance fees.

The insurance code was intended to prohibit a lender from using credit insurance as a means to circumvent the usury limitations applicable to particular loans.

Kelley's opinion reversed an earlier one (January, 1982) in which he said financial institutions could not collect credit insurance premiums if the premiums and the interest on a loan exceeded the maximum amount of interest which could be lawfully charged.

Several credit insurance companies filed suit in an effort to overturn that ruling.

In June, 1982, the Ingham County Circuit Court ruled similarly to the attorney general's opinion. But in addition, the court ruled that the insurance code prohibition to receiving premiums in excess of the maximum loan interest did not apply to retail sellers of motor vehicles who fall under the finance act.

Though technically a loan from an auto dealer is different than that of a financial institution, "the economic realities make the transaction substantially identical to that of a loan secured by a financial institution," Kelley said.

Therefore, the auto dealers have an advantage over other lenders which, he said, "is precisely the effect Congress sought to prohibit in giving all federally insured lenders 'most favored lender' status."

Unemployment Figures Have Mixed Message

Although February unemployment levels in Michigan bucked the historical trend for that month, Department of Management and Budget Director Phillip Jourdan said economic indicators are still carrying a mixed message.

About the best that can be said is that "we have bottomed out," but he added the question remains on how fast the recovery will be.

Jourdan said he is sticking with an approach of "constructive realism" and believes there will be a slow, very modest recovery. Although the Michigan Employment Security Commission reported the adjusted rate at 18.5 percent marked the first time in three months the rate was under 17 percent, Jourdan said the figure is still way too high.

The discouraging figures, he said, were those showing a drop in the labor force of 22,000 as the discouraged unemployed quit looking for jobs.

Moonlight Madness Sale Draws Crowd

If crowds at Moonlight Madness sales are any barometer of the economy, things are picking up.

Shoppers lined up outside downtown clothing stores, waiting for stores to re-open at 7 p.m. last Wednesday when Moonlight Madness sales on out-of-season and spring merchandise began.

Of course some of them were just "sleeve pullers," retailers' jargon for shoppers who don't buy, but many did. Several local persons said they couldn't even get into some of the clothing stores, which were packed.

Warm weather inspired other purchases too. Dan Murphy, co-owner of Chelsea Pharmacy, said his store sold lots of sunglasses.

Moonlight Madness sales are sponsored twice a year by Chelsea Merchants.

School Board Petitions Now Available

A valid petition must have at least 20 names of registered voters in the school district.

WHY DO I NEED A VIP BOX?

Everyone in town needs a safe place to keep "Very Important Papers," or, as I call it, a "VIP Box."

Fortunately, our village has some mighty fine banks, and most have a variety of types and sizes of safety deposit boxes. You are able to store safely, without fear of fire or theft, your insurance policies, property titles, mortgage papers, confidential documents, jewels, and other precious possessions not used frequently.

The VIP box is really one single collection point for your most valuable records, possessions — and instructions to the next of kin in case of your death.

Your own VIP box is the safest place I know to store your life's records of success and security. If you don't have such a box, get one. We constantly witness the problems of families who did not have such a storage place.

SPECIAL NOTE: Most state laws require the safety box to be closed at death until State Examiners inspect the contents. Papers which might be needed at time of death should be duplicated and copies left with a friend, relative or executor.

Tea Honors Volunteers at Chelsea Methodist Home

Volunteers play a large and vital role in the Chelsea United Methodist Home's effort to offer stimulation and support to all of its residents. Hosting coffee hours, leading small groups who come together with a common interest, such as sewing or reading, assisting with the monthly weight and blood pressure clinics, or visiting and writing or reading for individual residents.

Recently a tea was held to honor the many people in Washtenaw county who have served faithfully as volunteers this past year. Dorothy Coons of the U. of M.'s Institute of Gerontology spoke to the group about the ways a volunteer can enhance and brighten the lives of older people. Mrs. Edwin Weiss provided some delightful piano music and Mrs. Wayne Fleenor thanked the volunteers on behalf of the Resident Council.

The following volunteers were recognized for service during the past year.

Chelsea Hospital Auxiliaries Meet With Legislators

Four members of the Chelsea Community Hospital Auxiliary visited their legislators during the Michigan Association of Hospital Auxiliaries' "Day at the Capitol" program on March 9 in Lansing.

They are Mrs. Ella Aldrich, Mrs. Gale Johnson, Mrs. Carole Van Reesema and Mrs. Margie German.

Purpose of the annual program, is to maintain a close line of communication with state representatives on issues affecting the health care delivery system in this state.

"Because of the economic conditions in Michigan, budget cuts may have a direct effect on local hospitals, and so we feel it is especially crucial this year that hospital people make their concerns known to the legislators," Mrs. German said.

These issues were discussed with legislators at a luncheon meeting at Lansing's Civic Center. Following a tour of the Capitol, participating auxiliaries had the opportunity to observe a legislative session.

Woman's Club Hears Talk on Health Care

Woman's Club of Chelsea heard Dr. Steven A. Yarows, an internist at Chelsea Community Hospital, speak on "When to See Your Doctor" at their March 8 meeting at McKune Memorial Library.

Heart trouble and symptoms that could lead to a heart attack were discussed along with other illnesses such as hypertension (high blood pressure), diabetes and cancer. Carole van Reesema, a hostess along with Beth Lyerla, introduced him.

The next meeting will be March 22 and feature a program on hospices.

Sheila Tarasow, Robert Branham Are Wed at Methodist Church

Sheila Rae Tarasow and Robert Jeffrey Branham, both of Chelsea, were united in marriage March 12 in the Chelsea United Methodist church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Tarasow of 509 East St. The bridegroom is the son of Ron Branham of 525 Arthur Ct. and Donna Branham of 12005 Jerusalem Rd.

The evening ceremony was performed by the Rev. Marvin H. McCallum.

The bride wore a white gown with a sweetheart neckline and long capped sleeves, covered with silk venise lace and sequins. The skirt was covered with venise lace and carried a train. The dress was accented with a veil and cascade flower-arrangement.

Michelle Kamyszek of Arlington, Tex., a friend of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a long raspberry satin dress belted at the waist with puffed sleeves. Bridesmaids Caroline Enderle and Eileen Stapish, both of Chelsea, wore similar dresses.

The bride's mother wore a royal blue crepe street-length dress accented with a three-tier ruffle and tie bow. The bridegroom's mother wore a light aqua silk dress with splashes of pink, white and silver.

Jessica Williams was the flower girl, and Ethan Williams was ringbearer.

James Bollinger of Chelsea served as best man, and Howard Bush and Christopher Tarasow, both of Chelsea, were ushers.

A reception was held at the Chelsea Fairgrounds immediately following the 6 p.m. ceremony. The newlyweds are living in Chelsea.

Beach School Students Attend Junior Authors Conference

Six Beach Middle school students were chosen by their English teachers to attend the county-wide Junior Writers Conference March 19 at Edmonson Middle school in Willow Run.

Each student took along a manuscript which was critiqued by a group of their peers and a workshop instructor. Although in the past all manuscripts were bound as a volume, this year printing costs dictated that only the best would be chosen for the anthology.

Students also attended other workshops and heard a keynote address by Ken Mikolowski, poet and author of "Thank You, Call Again" and "Little Mysteries."

Selected on the basis of their writing ability were Elizabeth Maurer, eighth grade; Krissy Steffenson, Patrick Gustine and Angle Welch, seventh grade; and

Dana Plant Closed for Week

The Dana Corp. plant in Chelsea is shut down this week and all employees except maintenance, security and some administrative personnel furloughed.

The plant has been closing one week per month on a fairly regular basis, to adjust to slow economic conditions and sales.

Bill Coelius and Luman Strong, sixth grade.

Joining them at the conference were English teachers, Bill Wescott and Barbara Brown, who both led workshops.

The conference was sponsored by gifted and talented program of Washtenaw Intermediate School District.

Tregets . . .

class of industrial zone, officially called Restricted Industrial District. It provides for what might be called "extra-light industry" and is intended to accommodate small, clean plants such as Tregets, which employs five people and would hire two more if it had room for them to work.

The second allows for "Planned Industrial Districts" (PID's) within areas zoned for other uses. To set up a PID, the property owner and village officials would negotiate a firm agreement on what can and cannot be done.

With those two amendments now on the books, Tregets has the opportunity to select either one and re-apply for a zoning change on the Riemenschneider property. That would set in motion another lengthy hearing and meeting process.

Tregets' other option is to give up the whole idea and move someplace else, presumably out of the Chelsea area.

Parenting Classes Offered By Chelsea Hospital Staff

A series of parenting classes will be offered at the Family Practice Center in Chelsea beginning in April. This series was developed to answer the many questions that arise during pregnancy and early parenting. The classes provide parents with the opportunity to acquire knowledge and discover their own best ways of achieving healthy pregnancy and parenting experiences.

The series is divided into three segments. The first is the prenatal six-week series which may be taken anytime during pregnancy. This series includes topics of pregnancy and labor; emotional aspects of pregnancy and early parenting; common controversies and complications in childbirth; feeding your baby; and a session on either infant care or parenting more than one child.

The second series is the preparation for childbirth series with four weekly sessions devoted to preparing parents for an active role in coping with labor and childbirth. Breathing and relaxation techniques taught will be based on the LaMaze method.

The third series is the postpartum series and includes the topics of: parenting an infant 0-3 months of age; life changes for fathers and mothers; balancing work, marriage and parenting; parenting an infant 3-6 months of age; and critical turning points in parenting.

The fee for the program is set according to the sessions attended and ranges from $3 to $24 depending on whether individual classes or the entire series are taken. For more information or to register for the classes, please call the Family Practice Center at 475-1321, extension 433.

The program is offered through the University of Michigan Medical School's Department of Family Practice at the Family Practice Center in Chelsea. The classes are available to all members of the community. They will be taught by Linda Cronenwett, RN, PhD, the coordinator of Parent/Child Health Services at the center.

Parenting classes are one part of the total obstetrical services available at the Family Practice Center. Other services include continuous care during pregnancy, labor and delivery by your own Family Practice Center physician, family centered childbirth provided at Women's Hospital in Ann Arbor, and pediatric care for the newborn.

SERVICE AWARDS: Dorothy Ottoman (seated) and Robert Heller, both of Chelsea, are congratulated for their years of service to the 4-H program by Dr. Barbara S. Stowe, assistant director of extension for the Michigan 4-H - Youth Program. Mrs. Ottoman received the 25-year Emerald Clover Award; Heller received the 30-year Ruby Clover Award. Also honored with the Emerald Clover Award was Margaret Sias of Chelsea, who was not present for the picture.

Tornado Safety Discussion Slated

Knowing what to do during a tornado alert or severe spring weather is something one needs in advance—afterwards may be too late.

Chelsea Communications Club, Chelsea Civil Defense and UAW Local 1284 invite community members to their annual weather service program at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, March 24 at UAW Local 1284 Hall, 2795 South M-52, Chelsea.

Don Harsh, county director of emergency management, will show a film, slides and discuss weather forecasting and severe weather conditions such as tornadoes.

It's definitely the season for funnel clouds. Harsh's lecture March 7 was interrupted by two tornado touchdowns in the county.

Tornadoes occur most frequently during April, May and June in the late afternoon and evening. Michigan averages 17 a year. Since 1950, 227 persons have been killed in Michigan as a result of tornadoes.

April 3, 1974 was the worst tornado day in U.S. history—148 separate funnel clouds hit in 13 states across the continent.

Twisters, spawned by thunderstorms, usually last less than 10 minutes, with paths a quarter of a mile wide and seldom more than 15 miles in length. They usually travel about 20 to 45 miles per hour, but some travel at 70 miles per hour, with a path a mile wide and have lasted 200 miles.

They usually rotate counterclockwise with wind speeds from 100 to 300 mph.

Safety terminology is important to understand. A tornado or storm "watch" means weather conditions are conducive for the development of severe weather. A "warning" means a tornado or severe storm has been sighted or indicated by radar. One should seek shelter or stay near shelter depending how close it is. Storm safety experts suggest each family have a battery powered radio to keep up with the different alerts.

In Chelsea the signal for a warning, to take cover, is a three to five minute blast on the siren. That signal is being adopted nationwide as a standard message.

Best shelter is a strong interior room on the lowest level of the building. One should protect oneself under a strong table or desk. Since tornadoes often travel in a southwest to northeast direction, a few windows on the northeast side of the house should left open to equalize pressure.

Motorists should seek shelter in a nearby building, preferably one with a steel frame or reinforced concrete, or lie in a ditch or culvert and protect their heads. If one cannot avoid being out on open ground, one should travel at right angles to the funnel's path.

Service Awards Made To Chelsea 4-H Leaders

Three Washtenaw county 4-H leaders were honored for their years of service to the Michigan 4-H - Youth Program during the 1983 4-H Leader conference held recently at Michigan State University, East Lansing.

Robert Heller, Dorothy Ottoman and Margaret Sias, all of Chelsea, were among 150 4-H volunteer leaders recognized state-wide and received Clover Awards sponsored by the Michigan Farm Bureau.

Heller received the Ruby Clover Award for 30 years of service to 4-H. He has been an active 4-H dairy, beef, sheep, swine, rabbit and poultry leader. A former 4-H'er, he has served on several county committees and the Chelsea Community Fair Board.

Mrs. Ottoman and Mrs. Sias received the 25-year Emerald Clover Award. Mrs. Ottoman has been involved in 4-H personal appearance, foods and nutrition and food preservation projects. Mrs. Sias has served as a 4-H foods and nutrition, child care and personal appearance leader.

Last Travel Film Saturday Features 'Arctic Adventure'

Chelsea Kiwanis Club will present its final "Travel and Adventure Series" program at 8 p.m. Saturday, March 26. The program, "Arctic Adventure," tells the story of Canada's last frontier.

The film, by Keith McColl, who is best-known for his long-running television series, "Outdoors Unlimited," blends wildlife and adventure as it describes Eskimos and others who live in this little known part of Canada.

The evening begins in the scenic MacKenzie Mountains, followed by plane, horseback and foot travels to see the Dall sheep, caribou and fishing for Arctic grayling.

Further north at Univik, three ethnic groups will compete in the first ever "Arctic Summer Games." World famous Eskimo carvings and Beluga whales will also be featured.

Then comes a dog team trip across the ice to the rarely-filmed Namadic Eskimos, who live a primitive existence on the tundra.

McColl, who began his television show in Calgary, Alberta, has produced more than 300 half-hour shows. He has travelled extensively throughout western and northern Canada, venturing high above the Arctic Circle and near the North Pole.

He does all his own photography, editing, scripts and narration.

He has produced promotional films which have enjoyed critical acclaim and wide distribution on British Columbia, the northwest territories and the Yukon.

He and his wife make their home in Sicamous, British Columbia.

Refreshments will be sold during intermission by members of Chelsea women's fast pitch softball team.

The first federal eight-hour law for all workers and mechanics employed by the U.S. and the District of Columbia governments on public works was passed in 1892, according to a publication of the U.S. Department of Labor.

Egg Factory Hits Temporary Snag

The proposal by Kozminski Enterprises of Chelsea to build a giant "egg factory" near Stockbridge in Ingham County has hit a snag, but the Kozminski believes the problem will be solved and the delay only temporary.

"I think we will get everything cleared up and approval to go ahead sometime soon after this week," Kozminski said. "We are still planning to start construction this spring and be in full operation in six to nine months."

The problem is responsibility for upgrading and maintaining roads leading to and from the egg factory, which is proposed to be located on a 180-acre site on Kane Rd., northeast of Stockbridge. Portions of Kane, Sheppler, Craig and Green Rds. would have to be improved to handle the heavy truck traffic that the plant would generate.

Complicating the situation is that Kane Rd. is a boundary road between Ingham and Livingston counties, and there is a difference of opinion over which county should foot how much of the bill.

Mr. and Mrs. Kozminski, who live at 4678 Peckins Rd., applied to the Ingham County Economic Development Corp. for loans which would allow them to sell low-interest, tax-free bonds to help finance the $5.3 million project.

The EDC approved, but the Ingham County Board of Commissioners balked on a 10-10 tie vote, which amounted to a turn-down. A motion to reconsider the vote was to be brought up at tonight's commission meeting, and Kozminski said he expected it to be favorable.

"We have had some meetings and I think we have made progress toward an agreement,"

Letters to the Editor

To Mr. James E. Murray
Drain Commissioner
Washtenaw County

Dear Sir,

I was unable to attend the last meeting at Chelsea High school regarding the Palmer-Baldwin Drain problem, but I am strictly opposed to the recommendations that came back from the engineers. As I said at the first meeting, it will be too expensive and this watershed area cannot afford it. The area has been a problem for the last 20 years and we can live with it.

I have had a number of phone calls against it. Please think of our pocketbooks first and let the taxpayers reject it. Please feel free to call or write me on this subject. As far as I am concerned any more money spent in this project would be a waste of taxpayers' money. We have already invested $2,500 and now we know where we stand and have no complaints.

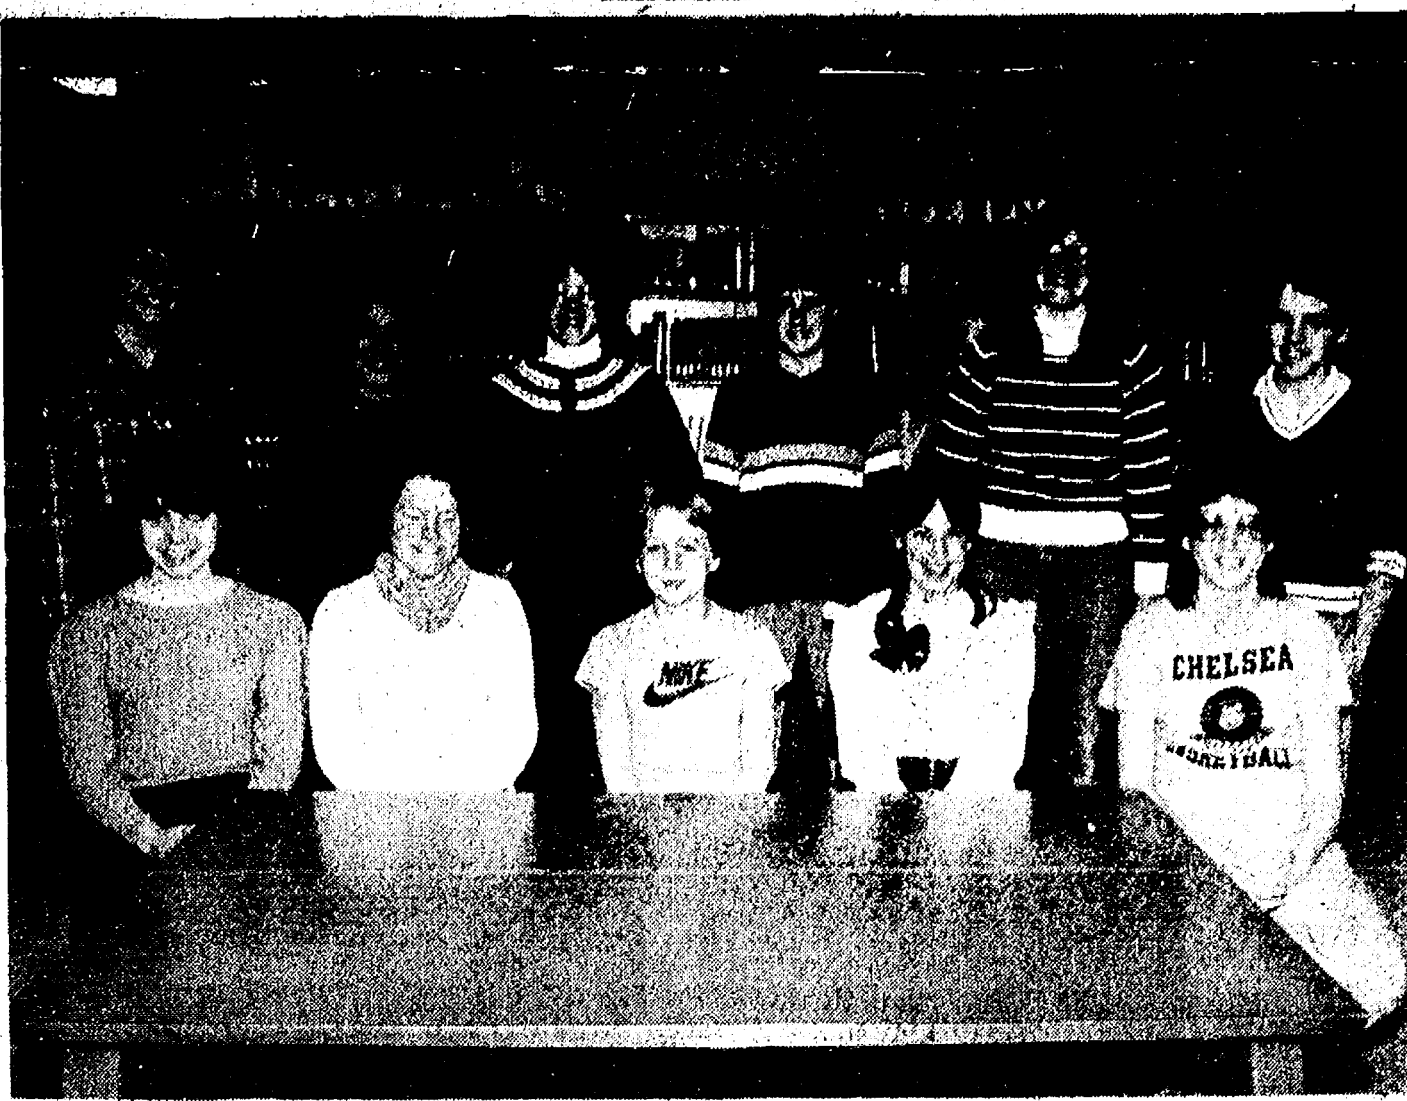

Thanks again for trying to help out the community.
Ted Cheever.

Thieves Tamper With 2 Vehicles

Chelsea police reported two incidents of car tampering last week. Theft was involved in one case.

Last Wednesday a vehicle owned by Anthony Lee Carter of Manchester (no relation to the Anthony Carter of University of Michigan football fame) was broken into at the Chelsea Lanes parking lot. Two tool boxes and a variety of tools, valued at a total of $175, were stolen.

On Thursday morning a car parked at the Wolverine Bar was found with its hood unlatched and several wires pulled. Someone apparently had tried to detach and remove a CB radio but was unsuccessful. The would-be thief may have been frightened off, police chief Robert Aeillo said.

ON YOUR FEET
BEWARE OF HEEL BLISTERS
If you've noticed any blisters developing on the upper rear area of your heels, you should have them treated before more painful conditions develop. Blistering of the heel can lead to bursitis of the heel bone, a very painful condition caused by inflammation of the bursa or lubricating sacs.
Improperly fitted shoes can sometimes cause heel blisters. Shoes that are too loose-fitting at the heel, for example, may cause an abnormal amount of friction that results in heel blisters. A protective layer of material such as moleskin can be wrapped around the heel to make the shoes fit better. Or you can change to a different style of shoe or a better-fitting shoe if that will help solve the problem.
The problem, however, may not be in the shoes, but in your feet, if they are structurally out of balance. This can cause many painful conditions, not only to your feet and legs, but to other parts of your body, such as the lower back area.
If you have a heel blister problem, you will benefit from examination and treatment by your foot specialist.

CHELSEA QUADRUPLTS: The lamb four-some, born three weeks ago to this Finn ewe owned by the Darrel Satterthwaite, is thriving under momma's care. They don't need bottle feeding and were born unassisted. The barn housing the Satterthwaite's prolific flock is full of frisky lambs, who nuzzle up to visitors' legs for a friendly lick.

Ewes Deliver 26 More Lambs for Satterthwaites

The Darrel Satterthwaite's prolific flock of lambs at 20927 Scio Church Rd. is getting even more so.

Since the article last week, 12 more ewes have had a total of 26 lambs; one single, eight sets of twins and three sets of triplets.

But those triplets are overshadowed by a set of quadruplets born to a four-year-old Finn ewe. All four well-formed lambs are thriving under their mother's care, said Troy Satterthwaite, 19. No assist was needed at her morning birth about three weeks ago. The lambs were not weighed then, but he estimated they weighed three to four pounds apiece.

Although the flock is averaging two births a day, which "keeps us busy," he said, they have been lucky about the timing. Most have been born during the day. Only one major assist was needed, he said, for an 11-pound lamb.

Fins are known for multiple births, he said. Last year one of their Finn ewes also had quadruplets, which all survived.

He attributes their high lamb survival rate this year to the mild winter and spring.

The Satterthwaites, who are farming Sylvester Weber's farm, began their flock with 15 ewes four years ago. They now have 50 ewes, not counting the lambs. More births are expected during the next few weeks.

They will keep the female lambs and sell the males.

Readers of the Just Reminiscing historical column may have seen the item a few weeks ago about an unusual lamb one of Weber's ewes had 34 years ago. The stillborn lamb had eight feet, 7½ legs and two hindquarters. But that ewe is not related to any of this present flock.

Drunk Driving Law Effective March 30

It's hard to choose between suspension of licenses for minimum drunk driving charges or the new law regarding blood alcohol levels as the most important change in state drunk driving laws to take effect March 30.

Old law said it had to be proved alcohol was affecting one's ability for a conviction. The new law says there is no reward for being able to "hold your liquor," if you've had a lot of it.

If a driver's blood has .1 percent or more by weight of alcohol, he will face the same sentence (jails, fines and license suspensions) as someone charged with driving or operating a motor vehicle under the influence of alcohol (DUIL or OUIL).

This new Unlawful Blood Alcohol Level (UBAL) charge isn't as cut and dried as it may look.

Judge Karl Fink of 14th District Court 3 based in Chelsea says chemical tests are usually done about an hour from the time a driver has been stopped by a law enforcement officer.

If the blood alcohol content is very close to .1 percent, either above or below, that hour may make the results questionable.

If a driver refuses a chemical test, he will lose his license for at least six months, get six points, but may have the option of a restricted license. Multiple refusals get stricter penalties.

Refusing to take a preliminary breathalyzer test, given by a law enforcement officer at the scene, used to have no punishment. Now it will be considered a civil infraction with a $100 fine.

All drunk driving sentences will have three additions, up to 12

PROPOSED HISTORIC DISTRICT: This map outlines the 9,400-acre area proposed for inclusion in the South Lima Rural Historic District. All of the land lies south of I-94, which is not shown but would run across the top of the map if it were. There are two parcels each in Sylvan and Freedom townships; the rest is in Lima township.

Discussion Slated on Proposed Creation of Lima Historic District

Two representatives of the Michigan Department of State's history division will appear at the Lima Town Hall on Tuesday, March 29, to answer questions about the proposed creation of a South Lima Historic District.

The meeting, sponsored by the Mill Creek Research Council, will begin at 7:30 p.m.

The session is a prelude to a hearing set for 10 a.m. Thursday, April 7, in Lansing, at which the history division's review board will formally consider whether to nominate the South Lima District for inclusion on the National Register of Historic Places.

The Lansing meeting will be held in Room 224 of the history division's offices at 208 N. Capitol Ave.

The two events will serve to bring toward a conclusion a move initiated two years ago by the Mill Creek Research Council to have a South Lima Historic District established. The proposed area includes about 9,400 acres south of I-94, all in Lima township except for two small parcels each in Sylvan and Freedom townships.

Designation of the site would be a "first" in the United States, in the sense of having a large, rural agricultural area placed on the national register.

Next Tuesday's meeting at the Lima Town Hall is intended to give affected residents and property owners an opportunity to ask questions and obtain further information, said Mrs. Margaret L. Sias, spokesperson for the Mill Creek council.

On hand will be Kathryn Eckert and Robert Christianson of the state history division. Mrs. Virginia Denham, chairperson of the council's historic district committee, will hostess the meeting.

Following a break, the Mill Creek council will hold its annual business meeting to review activities, elect officers and receive a report from Roger Storm, a graduate student at Eastern Michigan University, who is doing a research project on the South Lima Historic District concept.

The April 7 review board hearing in Lansing is critical to the proposal's future. The board will determine whether or not to recommend to Washington that the district be placed on National Register of Historic Places as a "Late 19th Century Rural" site of special significance in American history.

Required legal notice of the Lansing hearing was published in The Standard and The Leader on March 8, and the boards of all three affected townships were notified. In addition, the research council is sending individual letters to all affected property owners to make sure they are aware of the hearing and can appear if they wish. There are more than 400 separate parcels of land involved.

The research council submitted its application for designation of the South Lima Historic District in July, 1981. Action on it has been delayed because of cuts in the budget and staff of the history division.

Property owners involved may concur in or object to the listing proposal. Those who object must submit a notarized statement that they are a full or part owner of one of the properties involved. Should a majority object, the proposal would be dropped.

Inclusion in the national register does not, by itself, impose restrictions on what private owners may do with their property in the future. It does qualify owners for certain federal tax benefits which encourage preservation of historic buildings and discourages their destruction.

The Mill Creek Research Council was formed in 1965 to oppose a plan by the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority (HCMA) to dam Mill Creek and create an artificial lake as the focal point of a 4,000-acre metropark.

HCMA has abandoned the park proposal for many reasons—local and state-level opposition, costs, lack of funds, and a shift of emphasis toward developing parks closer to cities in the six-county region.

The South Lima district is primarily rural and agricultural, with heavy emphasis on corn and dairying. It contains many houses, barns and other structures which date back to the late 1800's.

There has been some development in recent years, but much of the area looks pretty much as it did 100 years ago, and that is what the research council seeks to preserve through the historic district designation. How preservation would be enforced is a matter for local government officials to decide through zoning and other laws.

Mrs. Sias said that research council dues—$12 for new members, $10 for renewals—are payable and may be sent to William Chandler of Chelsea. Further information about the two upcoming meetings may be obtained by calling 475-1076 or 475-8483.

Fair Board Plans Building Additions

At the monthly fair board meeting March 17, Earl Heller presented a comprehensive plan for some additions to fair buildings, such as the stock buildings. Planning is in progress.

The schedule of fair events will be similar to last year's schedule, with only minor changes.

A work bee will determine what articles on the southeast area of the fairgrounds will be salvaged or junked.

Lloyd Grau gave a report on superintendents for the 1983 fair. Superintendents' suggestions, which had been sent in, tractor pulling, bonding of the treasurer, which is to be done, and leases were discussed.

Fair board officers present for the meeting were Art Steinaway, president; Jerry Herrick, vice-president; Maryann Guenther, secretary; and Grau, executive vice-president.

Directors present were Richard Bollinger, Jim Dault, Earl Heller, Robert Heller, Jerry Heydlauff, John Klink, Jeff Layher, Reuben Lesser, Jr. and Mark Stapish.

Others at the meeting were Jan

Murrell, Bess Ohlgren and Lisa Helber, who were interested in having a horse show; Micky O'Neil, representing poultry; and John Wellnitz, correspondent.

Patricia Klapperich Injured in Swerving To Avoid Hitting Deer

Patricia Anne Klapperich, 28, of Dexter, suffered minor injuries when she swerved her car off the road to miss a deer. She was not hospitalized. The accident occurred at Island Lake and Dexter Town Hall Rds., sheriff's deputies said.

Players Plan For Summer Musical

Chelsea Area Players are now concentrating on their 1983 summer musical, "Kiss Me Kate," after their successful cabaret dance, "Encore!" March 5. Encore! celebrated the group's 10th anniversary.

Local talent will direct "Kiss Me Kate." Warren McArthur is producer; Doug Foreman, artistic director; June Warren, orchestra conductor; and Brian Myers, technical director.

Positions of choreographer and costumer are still open. Local persons are preferred if possible. Anyone interested may send a resume to C.A.P., 12470 Trinkle Rd., Dexter 48130 or call 475-9576.

Guests at Encore! were entertained by the big band sound of "The Ambassadors" at the Dexter Knights of Columbus Hall, which was gaily decorated with a crepe paper canopy and a mirror ball above the dance floor. Posters from the past 10 years decorated the walls. Songs from the first 10 productions were performed, many of them by the original cast members.

Village Water Rate Schedule Under Study

Chelsea residents can expect an increase in water rates sometime in the relatively near future.

The Village Council last Tuesday night authorized a study of the village's water rate structure by the Ann Arbor engineering firm of Ayres, Lewis, Norris & May, to be completed at a cost of $2,500.

"I think it's safe to predict that the study will suggest a rate increase," village administrator Frederick A. Weber said. "The present rates have been in effect since 1971, and costs of operating the water system have gone up greatly since then."

Weber said the engineers will review the rates presently being charged each class of customers, and will project revenues needed during the next five years to keep the water system financially sound.

Whatever the study recommends, approval of any rate changes will be up to the council.

The first state anti-discrimination law to protect the elderly was in Colorado in 1903, according to "Labor Firsts in America," a publication of the U.S. Department of Labor.

TOT LABOR: Children at North Lake Co-op Nursery school made posters last week for the nursery's annual rummage sale March 25-26, which is said to have as much variety as the different objects drawn by the children on the posters. Young commercial artists are Bekah Knight, left, Adam Marklow, Ryan Flynn and Keven Grifka.

Co-Op Nursery Plans Rummage Sale

North Lake Co-op Nursery school will hold their second annual rummage sale from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Friday and Saturday, March 25-26 at the Longworth Plating Building.

Nursery school membership changes each year, so those attending should find a new assortment of children's and adult items, furniture, household items, and a little bit of everything. "Blue light" specials will be featured throughout both days.

Hand-made crafts and home-made baked goods will also be available. The North Lake Bear will be around town to greet shoppers.

Information about fall enrollment for both the three and four-year-olds sessions will be available from co-op members at the sale.

Proceeds from the sale will be divided between classroom and playground equipment and the Shutes Scholarship fund.

TOOTSIE ROLL DRIVE: Chelsea Knights of Columbus who are making preparations for the drive are Walter Berjeski, left, Joe Wesolowski, chairman, and Gerald Gondek, Grand Knight.

Annual Funds Drive Set To Help Mentally Retarded

The eighth annual fund drive to assist the mentally retarded locally and in Michigan will be conducted by Chelsea Council No. 3092 of the Knights of Columbus on March 25, 26, and 27, according to Joe Wesolowski, Council chairman of the local drive.

Under the program, which is carried out in most of the 250 K. of C. councils in Michigan, people are asked to donate money to the mentally retarded and are given Tootsie Roll candy in appreciation of the gift.

Eighty percent of the net income for the donations is retained by the local council for distribution to area groups and agencies. The balance is forwarded to the State Council of the Knights of Columbus to meet expenses of the program and to make donations in behalf of all the 70,000 Knights in Michigan.

Last year state-wide the Knights of Columbus collected $703,200 in the three-day weekend drive. Locally, more than $1,800 was collected and donated to St. Louis school and special education programs in Chelsea and Stockbridge.

During the local drive, the Chelsea Knights of Columbus and their helpers will be located at various businesses and street corners in town. They are easily recognized by the canisters they carry and the wearing of bright yellow aprons emblazoned with

"K. of C. Help the Mentally Retarded."

In the seven years the Knights have been conducting the drive, almost $4,000,000 has been collected for the 285,000 mentally retarded citizens in Michigan. This year's target is $1 million.

Tax deductible contributions may be made to the Chelsea Knights of Columbus, Tootsie Roll Drive, P.O. Box 202, Chelsea.

Paul Hankerd Reappointed Fire Chief

Paul (Bud) Hankerd was reappointed chief of the Chelsea fire department by the Village Council last Tuesday night. Larry Koch's appointment as assistant chief was also renewed.

The appointments are made annually under village ordinance. The fire department is an all-volunteer organization with no full-time employees. Members, from the chief on down, are paid by the hour for the time they put in.

CHELSEA'S DEPOT, a village landmark, got a new roof and paint job in the late 1970s, but the building is deteriorating from lack of care. Local legend says the fore-runner of this building, a rather run-down shed west of Main St., was chained to an eastbound freight train one night in the 1870s by local boys. When the train started up, timbers were scattered from Main St. to the cemetery. The village got a proper depot, the present one, in 1880.

Railroad Depot May Be Ailing But No Plans for Demolition

Contrary to rumors going around town, the Chelsea train depot isn't going to be torn down by Conrail. Actually Amtrak owns it.

Martin Cochrane, Amtrak property control officer who confirmed last Friday "we do own the depot," says he doesn't know if Amtrak has any plans for it—to either develop it or to get rid of it.

The manager of station development who would know was out sick last week.

Old depots owned by Amtrak in Ypsilanti and Albion are being developed now, said Cochrane.

The rumor about the demise of the depot began Wednesday, when a Conrail employee called the village offices to ask that water and electrical utilities be turned off. A village employee asked him if Conrail were planning to tear it down or something.

He said, "We have done that with many of them."

That was a new employee, said James W. Meadows, Conrail division superintendent. "We can't tear it down because we don't own it." He had consulted the firm's Chicago real estate office.

Conrail will not be using it anymore, he said, so they didn't want to pay for utilities any longer.

Local interest in the depot has increased as the village sesquicentennial (June of 1984) approaches.

Chelsea Area Historical Society wants to use the building as a museum for their antique collection, and members of the Civic Foundation of Chelsea and the sesquicentennial committee have expressed interest in it.

But if anyone contemplates using it, a fix-up job is needed fast. Sam Johnson, owner of Gambles, which used it for storage until October of 1981, said the last time he was in there the floors were badly deteriorated, often the sign of foundation problems.

The depot would have fallen down in the late 1970s, he said, if a group of railroad buffs and community members hadn't raised funds for repairs such as a new roof.

Lynda Longe, secretary of the historical society, began writing letters in September of 1982 to determine ownership.

Usually one can determine ownership rather easily by examining local property tax records. But the building is on the railroad right-of-way, so it isn't even listed among local assessments.

Mrs. Longe wrote Amtrak first to ask if the historical society could rent or buy the building.

She got a letter back in November from an Amtrak's manager of field operations, real estate marketing, which told her,

"Conrail is the owner of the depot, and your inquiry should be addressed to them."

Actually Conrail does own some of the land in the railroad right-of-way. They sold two parcels just west of Main St. to Chelsea Lumber Co. Dec. 14, 1979.

Mrs. Longe wrote Amtrak back Jan. 26 to say Conrail said they didn't own it either—Amtrak owned it.

A resourceful person, she also mentioned she had contacted Johnson, who had told her they mailed their depot rent checks to the Amtrak office in St. Louis, details which she mentioned in her letter.

Amtrak has not responded to her most recent letter.

Amtrak got the depot in 1978, retroactive to 1976, following Penn Central Railroad's bankruptcy.

INTRODUCING THE BEST IRA BONUS OFFER IN TOWN:

UP TO $80.*
IN CASH.
UP FRONT.

There are several IRA bonus plans being offered right now. And some of them sound pretty good. But work them out on paper, and you'll discover that Ann Arbor Trust beats them all with a 2% up-front cash bonus PLUS 10% interest.

Let's take an example:

Suppose you and your spouse both work, and that you each deposit $2000 into an IRA. In that case, we would automatically add $80 to your total deposit. Then we'd pay you high, tax-deferred, compounded interest on all that money. All year long. And with maturities ranging from 18 months to five years. (With other plans, you'd get higher short-term interest and no cash added to your deposit.)

If you open your IRA before the April 15th deadline, you can deduct the entire amount of your deposit from your 1982 taxable income.

So before you invest your hard-earned money in an IRA that just sounds good, call Ann Arbor Trust today at 994-5555. We'll show you—in black and white—how our cash bonus beats any other offer in town.

*Based on maximum initial contributions of $2000 for a married couple with two incomes. Offer applies to new IRA deposits only and ends April 15, 1983. Withdrawal prior to age 59½ incurs substantial tax penalty except for death or disability. Early withdrawal from any certificate of deposit incurs substantial interest penalty.

Applies to Fixed Rate Certificates.

Softball Team Has 12 Veterans Returning To Defend State Title

They may be ranked seventh in the state by the coaches' pre-season poll, but Charlie Waller, coach of Chelsea's defending Class B softball state champions, says they have a chance to repeat.

The Bulldogs open their season with the eight-team Chelsea Invitational April 22-23.

Chelsea is an unknown quantity to many this year, he said, since their awesome pitcher last year, Amy Unterbrink, graduated.

But her departure didn't leave an unfillable chasm. Donna Popovich, a superb athlete, is going to be a real "surprise" to some teams this year, said Waller, who don't remember how good she was as a relief pitcher last year.

She will be a "class" pitcher in the state this year, he predicts.

Popovich is strong. Her pitches were clocked at 55 miles per hour last year, he said, barely slower than Unterbrink's 63 m.p.h. during her senior year. Unterbrink, 6'1", also has quite a bit of height advantage on the 5'6" Popovich, whose speed hasn't been tested yet this year.

Donna threw extremely well as a reliever last year, shutting out Pioneer High school in the first five innings of the county tournament. In games in which she was the number one pitcher, she was 8-0.

This year the team will be playing a more complex "prevent" defense, said Waller, going for the lead runner. Third and first basemen will play in close to the plate, to discourage bunts.

Bulldog softballers have some awesome credentials this year, with 12 of 13 players returning varsity lettermen, experienced at the post-season pressure cooker.

Kim Forner will return as first baseman, as will Lisa Beeman as catcher and co-captain Amy Hume at second base. Hume made the all-region and all-league teams, and got an all-state honorable mention.

Celeste Powell, the other senior co-captain, will play third base. Cathy Doll will be shortstop. Former shortstop, Julie Patrick, will be out for the season with knee injuries.

Marji Rawson, a junior, will be a valuable relief pitcher, said Waller, because she's left-handed, which is hard for many hitters to deal with.

Jane Verwey will start in left field, and probably be joined in the outfield by speed thrower, Debbie Morris. Joyce Robards will be back-up catcher; Beth Unterbrink, a back-up pitcher. Anne Weber and Karen Wilson will be multi-purpose utility players.

The team will go to Treasure Island, near Bradenton, Fla., for spring training over spring break, the first week of April. It's a time to practice twice daily, get some sun and fun, and build team morale, said Waller.

The trip will be paid for individually and from outside donations, such as Waller's and Mike Sweet's salaries keeping stats for the basketball team.

Waller expects the Bulldogs to SOFTBALL PITCHER Donna Popovich, the Bulldogs number one pitcher this season, throws both fast (Her pitches were clocked at 55 miles per hour last year.) and with control. A superb athlete just coming from the volleyball season, Popovich is going to be one of the top pitchers in the state, said her coach, Charlie Waller.

They will play in three tournaments this season, their own invitational; the prestigious Dondero May 7-8 in Royal Oak, a in a hotly contested race with tournament which lets a coach see what kind of team he or she really has, said Waller, and the county tournament May 20-21.

The top four teams in the state Class B pre-season poll are Richmond, Marysville, Fenton and Mount Morris.

All-Conference Cage Team Chosen

The all-Southeastern Conference basketball team has been announced, and Chelsea's David Wojcicki was a unanimous first-team choice.

David Kiel and Marty Steinhauer were named to the second team, and Carl Pate earned honorable mention.

Dexter's Eric Sing was a second-team selection, and Bob Haggerty and Gary Hosmer received honorable mention.

FIRST TEAM—Brad Collar, Milan; Jim Greenwood, Lincoln;

Eric Kedroske, Lincoln; Rodney Miller, Saline; David Wojcicki, Chelsea. Along with Wojcicki, Collar and Miller were unanimous selections.

SECOND TEAM—Quinn Chambers, Lincoln; Greg Clark, Tecumseh; David Kiel, Chelsea; Eric Sing, Dexter; Marty Steinhauer, Chelsea.

Chelsea, Lincoln and Tecumseh finished in a triple tie for the SEC championship with identical 8-4 records.

School Basketball Records Sought

Chelsea High school basketball coach Robin Raymond is appealing to local cage fans, especially those with long memories and documents to back them up, to help him compile a list of all-time school basketball records.

"We have good records for the six years that I've been here but nothing from before then that I can find," Raymond said.

Specifically, he is looking for records on:

Most points scored by an individual—game, season, career.

Most rebounds by an individual—game, season, career.

Most assists by an individual—game, season, career.

Best individual field goal percentage—season and career.

Best individual free throw percentage—season and career.

Team—best won-lost record, most points scored (game and season), best season scoring average.

Marty Steinhauer Undergoes Surgery On Damaged Knee

Marty Steinhauer underwent arthroscopic surgery on his right knee last Friday to repair damage suffered midway of the basketball season, Chelsea cage coach Robin Raymond said, describing the operation as relatively minor.

"After he hurt the knee his doctor gave him the option of having surgery right then or waiting until the end of the season," Raymond said. "Marty chose to play. He's the kind of competitor who is going to play if he possibly can. He wants to come back and play baseball this spring and, knowing Marty, I wouldn't be surprised if he does."

The first legislation putting restrictions on union activity was the Sherman Antitrust Act as interpreted in the Danbury Hatters' case in 1880, according to a publication of the U.S. Department of Labor.

Varsity Basketball Awards Presented

David Wojcicki was elected by his teammates as the Chelsea varsity's most valuable basketball player during the highly successful past season which saw the Bulldogs win 14 of 22 games and a share of the Southeastern Conference championship, and finish second in the district tournament.

Wojcicki, this year's team captain and a three-year starter, led the Bulldogs in points scored, field goal percentage, free throw percentage and assists, and also won the free throw "ladder" competition held in practice sessions during the season. Wojcicki is a senior and has completed his cage career at Chelsea.

Chuck Hager was named as the team's most improved player during the season. He began the schedule as a bench warmer and saw little playing time in early games, but worked his way up to become a starter at forward. A junior, Hager will be back next season.

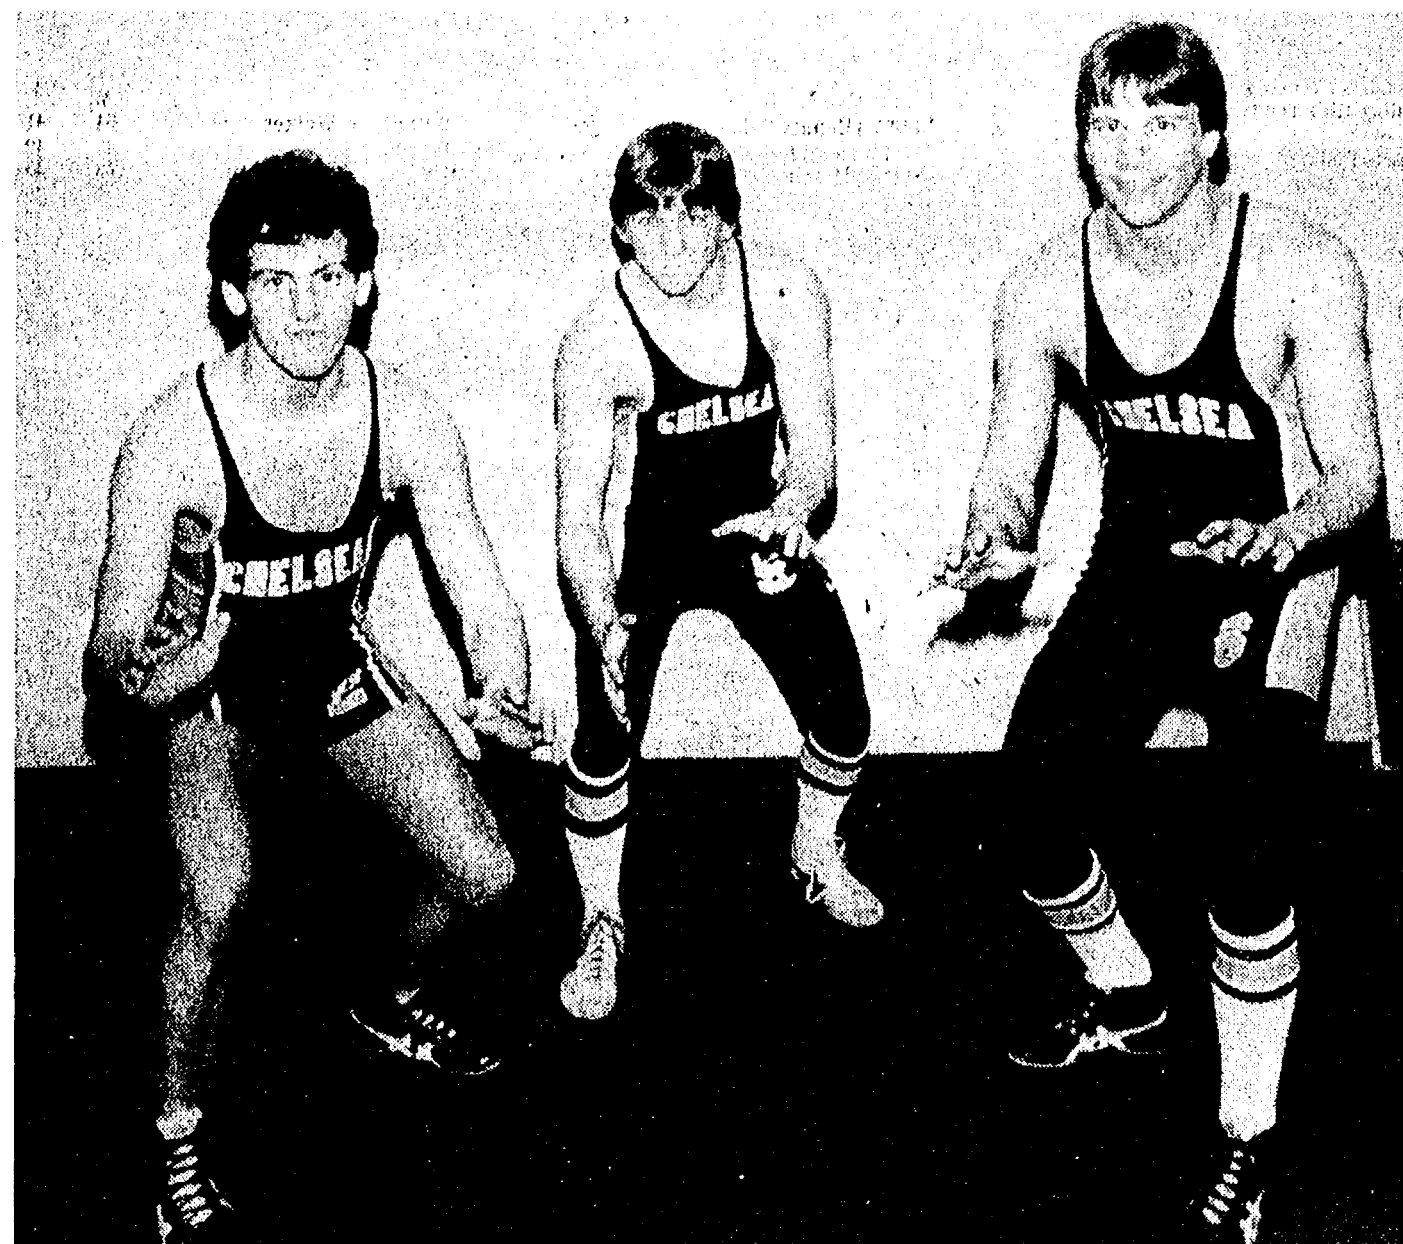

Senior forward Dave Mann won the Oil Can Award, voted to the squad member who contributes the most to keeping everybody pepped up and in good spirits to practice and play.

Junior Dave Kiel earned individual honors for snaring the most rebounds, and also won the not-so-coveted Hatchet Award for committing the most fouls. Let it be said that a big center who plays the low post on offense and is his team's principal rebounder is certain to attract attention from the officials. Kiel fouled out of only one game, and that in overtime.

Besides Wojcicki and Mann, seniors honored were Carl Pate, Matt Velleumure and Frank Waller.

The first federal legislation calling for a 40-hour week with time and a half pay for overtime was the Walsh-Healy Act, which applied to workers employed under government contracts exceeding $10,000, according to "Labor Firsts in America," a publication of the U.S. Department of Labor.

WIN PLACES IN STATE MEET: Bill Hanna, Jeff Morgan and Travis Rudd earned scoring places in the recent state high school Class B wrestling tournament. Hanna (112 pounds) and Morgan (119) both were third in their weight classes, and Rudd was fifth at 132.

Six Veterans Back With Baseball Team

This spring's Chelsea varsity baseball team faces a strong challenge in seeking to match or improve the record of last year's squad which was 18-3 on the season and finished second in the Southeastern Conference.

"Six of the losses were by one run, and we were close in the other two," recalls coach Wayne Welton. "We had a good chance to win every game we played. It was a very good team which just missed being excellent."

The bad news is that 11 seniors graduated from that 1982 contingent. The good news is that six veterans are back, and there are some fine prospects eager to play this spring.

"At this stage I honestly can't tell you how good we might be this year," Welton said. "We will be a young team without a lot of experience. It all depends on how fast and how well the new players come along."

The returning veterans include catcher Rod Robeson, who is a co-captain this year, and Doug Pagliarini, a pitcher-infielder who is the other co-captain. Pagliarini was an all-region third baseman last year. Welton plans to shift him to shortstop to take better advantage of his fielding skills.

Others coming back are pitcher-first baseman Ken Nadeau, outfielder Mike Niebauer, infielder Matt Villeneuve and pitcher Jay Marshall.

Senior pitcher-outfielder Thom Headrick will not play this season. The knee he injured while playing football last fall has not yet fully recovered following surgery.

The Bulldogs will open the season, hopefully, against Brighton on either March 28 or 29. Welton tries to schedule early games with a leeway date to allow for uncertainties of early spring weather.

of winters, there have been many days since mid-February when it would have been not only possible but fun to play baseball. However, that is not the normal mode of weather in this area.)

The baseball squad will spend the first week of April in Florida, a privately financed annual trip taken during spring vacation.

They will travel by van and live in a large Army tent pitched on a campground at Venice, Fla.

"It's quite an experience, both for the boys and for the adults who go," Welton said. "We practice and play baseball from 7:30 a.m. to noon every day. Afternoons are free time. The experience helps to bring everybody closer together and mold them into a team."

No inter-school games are played in Florida, because Michigan High School Athletic Association rules forbid them. "We play a lot of intra-squad ball," Welton said, "and we'll learn a lot. We come back ready to play our season schedule."

Two Chelsea Girls

Do Well in Meet

Two Chelsea girls placed in the Girls U.S. Swimming State Meet March 11-13 at Wayne State University.

Sarah Weiss had an excellent meet. She won the 50-yard butterfly, 28.68, and took second in the 100 butterfly, 1:04.89.

CROSSING THE BAR: Pole vaulter Eric Buckberry completes a successful practice leap over the cross-bar as Chelsea High School track teammates Dan Fenton and Ed Brosnan, also pole vaulters, look on. The track team will see its first action Friday at the Huron Relays in Ypsilanti.

Bulldog Track Team Practices Without Track

How would you like to be a coach without a place for your team to practice, much less play? That is one of the problems facing Chelsea varsity track coach Pat Clarke as he gets his team ready for the spring season which opens Friday with the Huron Relays at Ypsilanti.

The high school track is in such bad condition—hard, and full of cracks and holes—that Clarke will not let his squad run on it, even for practice purposes. "It's just too dangerous," he says. "I don't want to take the risk of having some boy get seriously hurt. It's especially hard on our sprinters and hurdlers. They need to practice on a track. The distance runners can practice on grass. We have good facilities for workouts in the field events.

Clarke said both Dexter and Manchester High schools make some practice time available on their tracks, but it has to be at hours when the home schools aren't using them.

All of Chelsea's track meets are scheduled away from home, so anybody who wants to see the team perform this spring will have to travel to do it.

A proposed program to upgrade some of the high school's athletic facilities—including construction of a new track—is in the design stage, and bids have been taken. The bids are being evaluated by the Board of Education.

The lack of practice and home meet facilities is only one of Clarke's problems. He faces the task of rebuilding a team which last year placed second in the Southeastern Conference and the region, and was 12th in the state.

"We scored 82 points in the regional meet, and we graduated 62 of them," Clarke said. "The other 20 were scored by Mark Brosnan (premiere distance runner who is back this year and can be virtually counted on for first places in whichever two events he runs).

Clarke said this year's track and field squad is small in numbers, with only 32 members as compared to a normal 36-40, but he hopes he may pick up a few more after squad cuts are made in other spring sports.

"At this point I can't predict what kind of a team we will have," Clarke said. "We have a lot of work to do, and it will be very difficult for us to match last year's record, but we certainly are going to try. I'll know a lot more about our potential after we run in the Huron Relays."

Todd Sprague 4th in Conference Shot Put Event

Todd Sprague, a freshman at Ferris State University, took fourth in the shot put with a heave of 45'11" March 19 at the indoor Great Lakes Conference Championships in Allendale.

Ferris State took third over-all. The meet was won by Saginaw Valley State.

Sprague, the son of James and Marion Sprague of 3490 Clear Lake, Grass Lake, graduated from Chelsea High school in 1982.

Volleyball Players Win Honors

Venus Roberts and Cathy Doll, senior co-captains and 5'10" and 5'6" hitters, respectively, for Chelsea's varsity volleyball team, were both named to the coaches' all-conference second team last week.

Bulldog setter, Donna Popovich, a 5'6" senior, received an honorable mention.

Doll was also chosen Most Valuable Player by her teammates, which was announced at the March 15 team sundae party. Cindy Connell was voted Most Improved Player.

Debbie Morris, junior varsity team captain, was voted Most Valuable by her teammates, and Crystal Porath was selected as Most Improved.

First team all-conference players were: Catherine Arnold, Saline hitter and Mary Jo Stommen, Milan setter, both unanimous selections; Patty Donegan, Saline hitter; Kimberly Gehringer, Dexter hitter; Kristy Peyton, Jackson County Western hitter; and Tracy Walters, Tecumseh hitter.

Others on the second team were Chrissy Coleman, Milan hitter; Molly Marcantonio, Milan hitter; Maureen McCallum, Dexter hitter; and Stacey Starling, Saline hitter.

Honorable mentions were Trisha Eisele, Dexter, the only defensive player chosen for any honors; T. J. Henry, Lincoln hitter; Toni Moore, Lincoln hitter;

ALL-LEAGUE HONORS: Hitters Cathy Doll, left, and Venus Roberts made the volleyball coaches' all-league second team. Donna Popovich, a setter, received an honorable mention. Popovich and Roberts both got Ann Arbor News all-region honorable mentions.

SPORTS NOTES

BY BILL MULLENDORE

After watching and reporting the district basketball tournament held at Jackson Lumen Christi High school, I remain convinced that it is dead wrong to give one team a home-court advantage over the others.

That is not sour grapes. Sure, I would have liked to see either Chelsea or Dexter win it. If you follow a couple of teams through a season, and get to know the coaches and players, you start rooting for them, even though, as a reporter, you are supposed to be objective and impartial.

Lumen Christi is by no means the first team to go into a Michigan district basketball tourney with an inferior—in this instance, 7-13—regular season record and come out a winner. The Titans did what they had to do, winning three close games in the space of six nights. Give them credit. They had the opportunity, and they took advantage of it.

Yet I am convinced, although I obviously can't prove it, that there were at least two better teams in the district than Lumen Christi, and maybe as many as four, and that their championship owes entirely to the fact that they were playing at home.

As I had been told before I went over and saw for myself, the Lumen Christi gym is indeed "different." It's round, for one thing, a mini-domed stadium. The basketball court isn't round, of course, but it's laid out as a rectangle in the middle of the circle. Bleachers extend along both sides and across one end; the other end is open.

There is no solid background to shoot against at either end. The bleachers are well back from the floor, so the noise level is much lower than in most high school gyms (especially when there are so few spectators as there were at the two games I watched).

The backboards hang from some strange-looking supports, and my impression was that the ball was taking some unusual rebounds off boards and rims, although that may have been imagination at work.

The floor is synthetic, harder than wood, and that definitely does cause the ball to bounce differently.

There is nothing wrong with any of that. All in all, the Lumen Christi gym is a nice facility, although it has the shakiest bleachers that I have ever had to climb up and down—fine for young folks perhaps, but definitely hazardous to older types who wear bifocals.

The point is, the place takes some getting used to and a team that has practiced and played in it all season long has an even bigger than usual home-court advantage. It may be worth as much as 10 points a game.

Both Chelsea and Dexter had a lot of problems trying to adjust to playing in the Lumen Christi gym. Both shot well below their season averages from the floor and the foul line. Both missed rebounds when they had what looked to be good position. Both turned the ball over more than usual. Both, frankly, looked a little frightened playing in the unaccustomed large space.

Some of that may have been tournament jitters, but I don't believe all of it was. The below-normal performances were, I think, in large part attributable to playing in strange surroundings. Granted, any court that you haven't played on before is "strange." The point is, it should be strange to both teams in a tournament game. The idea behind the state high school basketball tournament is that everybody starts over in a "second season," with no advantage to anybody. Giving one school in a district the home-court advantage negates that idea.

CINDY CONNELL, a senior setter, was chosen by her teammates as most improved player on the Bulldog varsity volleyball team.

CATHY DOLL, senior hitter, was voted most valuable player on the Bulldog varsity volleyball team.

I've been told that the system really is fair, because each district school gets a turn at hosting the tournament. Sorry, but that is pure baloney. When Chelsea's or Dexter's turn next comes around, there is no predicting what caliber of team it will have. Tournaments are—or should be—held on a "this year" basis, not on "wait until next year" or five years from now.

The reason for assigning a district tournament to a host school within the district is to let that school make some money, and that is an important consideration in these days when scratching up dollars to support athletic programs is a real challenge to administrators.

If Jackson Lumen Christi made any important amount of money out of the tournament, I will be surprised. As the saying goes, "it didn't draw flies," leading me to wonder just how much interest there really is around here in high school basketball. That's another story, which I will leave for another year.

As a footnote to the basketball season, I want to thank publicly coaches Robin Raymond of Chelsea and Jim McCormack of Dexter for their co-operation in helping me cover the fortunes of their teams. They are both good coaches and were very helpful.

On to spring sports.

By BILL MULLENDORE

Add "dioxins" to the list of emerging household words, especially here in southern Michigan where a Michigan State University graduate student and his professor have released a research report declaring that dioxins are possibly present in potentially dangerous amounts in all fish in all river systems, including the Huron.

Dioxins are among the most toxic poisons known. The U. S. Food and Drug Administration has declared that anything over 50 parts per trillion of dioxins in food can be hazardous to health. The concept of 50 parts per trillion boggles the mind. A scientist friend once described to me a part per million as "one drop of chocolate syrup in a railroad tankcar of milk," and added that "it would be mighty weak chocolate milk."

If my arithmetic is right, one part per trillion is one drop in a million tankcars. Fifty parts per trillion is one drop in 20,000 tankcars. That is extremely weak chocolate milk.

The miracle to me is that instruments and knowledge exist to detect such minute levels, but apparently they do, although some reputable scientists have questioned the accuracy of the MSU research. They have also questioned what may be a world record jump to a conclusion. After examining a few carp and suckers taken from each of 19 rivers tributary to Lake Erie and Saginaw Bay, and finding more than 50 parts per trillion of dioxins in individual fish from 10 of them, the MSU researchers came up with the result that there are intolerable levels of dioxins in all species of fish in all rivers in all of southern Michigan. At least that is how the findings have been reported in the news media and spread across the country.

Dioxins are by-products of the manufacture of other synthetic chemicals, so far as anybody officially knows. Nobody deliberately makes dioxins, although the obvious chemical warfare possibilities make you wonder. It should not have been surprising that dioxins would be found in fish in the Tittabawassee River below the Dow Chemical plant, which specializes in manufacturing exotic chemicals.

What is surprising is that dioxins should show up in a river like the Huron, where nobody in the watershed manufactures anything that could produce dioxins (or at least admits to it). That suggests dioxins, like some other notorious chemicals such as the chlorinated hydrocarbons (DDT, etc.) have gotten loose into the environment and migrated. It's a scary thought.

Anyway, the proverbial Pandora's box has been opened, and a "dioxin scare" touched off. In the absence of hard information, rumors and speculation are flying around all over the place. The word getting out is that Michigan fish are "poisonous," and the backlash is already showing up. The Michigan Travel Bureau is being flooded with calls, many from out of state, asking if it's safe to eat fish caught from Michigan rivers.

Sportfishing is a mainstay of the state's tourist industry, which has held up well in the face of Michigan's general economic decline. The last thing this state needs is a body blow to the tourist industry, and the dioxin scare could turn out to be just that.

The MSU study included no game fish from any river. Trout, salmon, bass, pike, panfish—none were sampled. If you were looking for fish that might be contaminated, you would naturally seek out the bottom feeders, like carp and suckers, which are more likely to pick up toxic substances from mud, sand and weeds.

However, if dioxins are dissolved in the water, it's conceivable that a fish could get them into its system simply by breathing, which involves inhaling and expelling water over its gills. (It is similarly conceivable, that you could take them in by drinking from public water supplies fed by the allegedly contaminated rivers.)

In the absence of better information than is now available, rumors will continue to circulate and expand. What is needed, urgently, is more and better research which will either confirm or dispel the dioxin scare. It should be carried on by reputable scientists whom the public trusts and whose findings and conclusions will be accepted.

Unfortunately, the research will cost money. As earlier noted, the technology exists to do it, but it is extremely sophisticated and therefore expensive, as might be expected of any test designed to determine parts per trillion of anything. The Department of Natural Resources has proposed a plan costing $200,000 to test 100 fish, or $2,000 per fish!

In budget-strapped Michigan, wrestling with a deficit ranging up toward a billion dollars (depending on whose estimate you care to believe) a couple of hundred thousand dollars is hard to come by, but it would be money well spent, and eventually will have to be in order to dispel the cloud hanging over the state's important fishery resource.

Meanwhile, I suggest heeding the advice of state health authorities who say, in effect: Don't be afraid to eat Michigan sport fish, but don't make them a staple of your diet. Especially, don't over-indulge in carp and suckers, which very few people eat in large amounts anyway.

Board of Health Will Meet in Ypsilanti Hall

During the coming year, the Washtenaw County Board of Health will hold several of its regular meetings at sites outside of Ann Arbor. The Board, seeking input from community members regarding health issues, is attempting to make the meetings more accessible to county residents.

The March 25 meeting of the Board will be held at the Boardroom of the Ypsilanti Township Civic Center, 7200 S. Huron River Dr., Ypsilanti, at 9 a.m. to 12 noon. A presentation on "Solid Waste in Washtenaw County: 1) Health Department Involvement, 2) Overview of Waste Disposal in Washtenaw County, 3) Future of Solid Waste Program, and 4) Potential Ground Water Influence" will be addressed by David Plueddemann, assistant public health engineer for the Environmental Division of the Washtenaw County Health Department.

Time will be set aside for public discussion. The business portion of the meeting will follow. All interested area residents are invited to attend.

David B. Steinbach Completes Navy Recruit Training

Poison Prevention Week Observed

Chelsea Community Hospital will observe National Poison Prevention Week March 20-26.

Each year half a million children accidentally swallow poisonous substances, the most common being plants, pesticides, soaps, detergents and aspirin. Ninety percent of accidents involve children under five years of age.

Hospital pharmacists and technicians will visit kindergartners and pre-schoolers in Chelsea schools and the hospital's Children's Center this week to show a film, "Sniffy Escapes Poisoning," and to play a game with the children to teach them the difference between edible foods and potentially toxic substances found in the home.

Dr. Mary Westhoff, a local pediatrician, and Amy Heydlauff will present a program to middle school students to help them as older brothers, sisters and babysitters to prevent poisonings.

Pat Rogers, district elementary school art teacher, taught students in grades 1-5 about poison prevention last week. Students then made posters, which were judged by pharmacy personnel at the hospital and Chelsea Pharmacy March 18.

The five winning posters, one from each grade, will be displayed this week at Chelsea McDonald's. Each winner received a free breakfast or dinner for themselves and their families and a blue ribbon.

Nine runners-up from each class received McDonald's coupons. Their posters will be displayed at the hospital this week.

Free ipecac syrup will be given to all hospital employees and to others who ask for it this week. The pharmacy will display educational materials outside the hospital dining room such as pamphlets, telephone stickers so families may have an emergency poison center telephone number handy; and a display of plants and how to avoid poisonings with them.

Parents Anonymous
 Helps With Child Abuse
 A child in the United States dies every four hours as a result of abuse or neglect by his or her parent or guardian.
 That toll is preventable, but only if the problem is dealt with early. Seldom does a child die as a result of the first episode of abuse. The pattern is for abuse to begin mildly and escalate over time unless the parents seek help or intervention occurs by an outside agency.
 Abuse often begins as a result of stress in the parent's life, such as unemployment, marital problems, financial difficulties, or changes in the family structure or composition. The parent feels out of control and seeks to lash out at what is causing the problem. Then a child does something and becomes the target for the anger.

 Love of the child increases the sense of shame and guilt the parent feels. Unfortunately, these same feelings decrease the parents' sense of self-worth and their ability to control themselves, which increases the chance the first blow will be repeated.
 If you see this happening in your life or in the life of someone you care about, resources are available. Parents who abuse their children also love their children. The stresses and pressures they experience simply overwhelm their ability to cope. In a Parents Anonymous group, parents who experience these kinds of feelings can meet confidentially with other parents and professional sponsors who will help them change their patterns so they don't hurt the ones they love.
 If you want information on Parents Anonymous or on child abuse, call 475-9176 (Dr. Mary Westhoff's office) and tell them you are calling about Parents Anonymous. You do not need to give your name. If you choose, you can be put in touch with a sponsor who will tell you about the group, or leave a phone number and your first name only and you will be called.

CHELSEA PIANO STUDENTS who qualified for divisional competition last week-end at Eastern Michigan University are Tim Mayer, seated left, Beth Peterson; Lenae Rinn, standing left, Christine Young, Anna Flintoft, Michelle Graflund and Alan Beckwith. Winners at the division level will continue on to State Student Day Finals in April.

Piano Students Compete in Teachers Assoc. Semi-Finals

Seven Chelsea area piano students competed in east and central division semi-finals at Eastern Michigan University March 19. They qualified with high scores in the Michigan Music Teachers Association student achievement tests March 12. Students were tested in five areas of musicianship: theory, aural awareness, which is an ear training test, sight reading, technique and performance of three memorized pieces by the Ann Arbor Area Guild of Piano Teachers. A total of 100 points was possible. If a student scored 70 or higher in performance and had a total of 90 or above over-all, he became eligible for the semi-finals.

Chelsea students who qualified for further competition are Beth Peterson, Anna Flintoft, Alan Beckwith, Michelle Graflund, Christine Young, Lenae Rinn and Tim Mayer. They are all students of local teachers.

If they did well Saturday, they will be eligible for the State Student Day finals April 23 at Michigan State University.

Other students competing from Chelsea were Lee Riemenschneider, Linda Mullison, Meredith Johnson, Lisa Poe, Matt Riemenschneider, Jennifer Freeman, Piper Copeland, Brendan Love, Melissa Johnson, Scott Mullison and Sarah Bentley, all LaVonne Harris' students; Katie Flynn, Sara Nicola, Sarah Grau, Jane Irwin, Sheila Tillman, John Hall, Carrie Flintoft, Vicki Bullock, Angel Lawton, Karen Grau, Carol Palmer and Phoebe Strong, all Patricia Stirling's students; David Freitas, Michael Kennedy, Beckie Booth, Justin Hines, Lori Wetzel and Steven Riddle, all Betty Rasmussen's students.

C. of C. Economic Development Brochure Coming

Local service groups or organizations who would like to be listed in the Chamber of Commerce's economic development brochure, should get in touch with Sam Johnson by April 5. The brochure, which is being written by chamber members, will give basic information on local businesses, utility rates and special features of the community.

Johnson may be contacted during Gambles store hours at 475-7472.

DEATHS

Haskell Worden

41 Cedar Lake
Chelsea

Haskell V. Worden, Sr., 93, of 31 Cedar Lake, died March 15 at Cedar Knoll Nursing Home. He had been a resident of Chelsea since 1941.

He was born Dec. 9, 1889 in Munith to Frank and Estella (Chapman) Worden. He married Edna Page July 2, 1910 in Jackson, and she survives him.

Mr. Worden had been employed by Federal Screw Works and retired from Rockwell International in 1958. He was a member of the Golden Wedding Anniversary Club and AARP.

Survivors include his widow; five children, Mrs. Mildred Young of Napoleon, Fred Worden of Chelsea, Frank Worden of Grass Lake, Haskell V. Worden, Jr. of Chelsea and Mrs. Lorriane Mock of Chelsea; one sister, Mrs. Lois Ennis of Tower; 24 grandchildren, 47 great-grandchildren, seven great-great-grandchildren, and numerous nieces and nephews.

Funeral services were held at 1 p.m. Friday, March 18 at Staffan Mitchell Funeral Home with the Rev. Marvin H. McCallum of First United Methodist church of Chelsea officiating.

Burial was in Roseland Memorial Gardens, Jackson.

Fire Dept. Called For Two Grass Fires

The Chelsea fire department reported a variety of activity last week, including two grass fires during the unseasonably warm weather which preceded the weekend cold snap and snowstorm.

There were two chimney fires, at 801 McKinley St. and 851 Freer Rd., and an electrical fire at 304-312 Washington St. Damage was minor in all instances.

Choral Groups Perform Tonight

Chelsea High school choral groups will perform the pieces they sang in district competition at 7:30 p.m. today at the high school auditorium.

Both the SSA (soprano I, soprano II and alto) choir and the SATB (soprano, alto, tenor and bass) choirs took II performance ratings at their festivals March 17 and 18. Choral festivals don't group schools by size, so both choirs were competing against Class A and AA schools.

Tonight the all-girl SSA choir will sing "Hodie Christus Natus Est," "Hymn to the Night," and two Spanish ballads by Eugene Butler, "Come at Dawn" and "Moon Song."

SATB choir, with both male and female voices, will perform a madrigal, "All Ye Who Music

Love," "Blow, Blow, Thou Winter Wind," "Blessed Are the Pure and Merciful," and a song in Latin by Mozart, "Gloria."

The Contemporaries, an ensemble of 15 sophomore, junior and senior girls who took a I rating at their festival competition last month, will sing "Now I Am Free Once More," "The River," and "O Sleep, Fond Fantasy," by Thomas Morley.

Several soloists will also perform. Pearl Phillips and Gayla Bauer will each sing a song by Claude Debussy. Laurie Heller will sing "Il mio bel foco," an Italian song by Marcello. Cathy Basso will sing "The Little Horses," by Aaron Copland, and Marge Lewis will sing "Ave Maria," by Schubert.

There is no admission charge.

Beach Bands Rated Tops in District

Both Beach Middle school bands won top I ratings at the district festival March 12 in Ida.

Groups receive three ratings from the three performance judges. A fourth judge rates them on sight reading, a grade which carries less weight than performance. The majority of ratings determines over-all score.

The eighth grade band received grades of I, I and II in performance and a I in sight reading in Class B, giving them a I over-all. School size and grade level determines which class a group enters.

The seventh grade band had scores of I, I and II in performance and a II in sight reading, giving them an over-all score of I in Class C, since sight reading counts less.

Both bands played "really well," said Warren Mayer, their director, and he was really pleased with how well they did.

The band is now learning new music for their next concert in May. Members of the school stage band, an extracurricular jazz band, will play at the school's fine arts festival Tuesday, March 29.

Village Seeks Grant For New Water Main

Village administrator Frederick A. Weber has been authorized by the Village Council to seek a grant from the state Department of Commerce for construction of a new water main along Sibley Rd. to serve the Dana Corp. plant.

The Commerce Department last year approved a $6,000 study and design grant for the project, which is intended to supplement Dana's water supply and thus lower its fire insurance costs. The plant is presently served by a single water line. The new one would provide a back-up source.

If constructed, the new main would also provide potential water service for vacant property along Sibley Rd. which may be developed in the future.

The engineering and design study for the project was done by Ayres, Lewis, Norris & May of Ann Arbor, consultants to the village.

Births

A son, Michael Wayne, March 8 at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital to Brenda and Tim Chaffee of Ypsilanti. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Raham of Saline and Mr. and Mrs. Paul C. Chaffee of Dexter.

FIRST TIME OUTING: Not until yesterday morning had there been enough snow on the ground this season to allow operation of a snowmobile. Kent Longworth had his machine out and running to welcome spring Monday morning.

Surplus Cheese Shipment May Arrive This Week

If that shipment of surplus cheese and butter, which was delayed for last week's scheduled distribution, gets here within the next few days, it will be distributed from 1 to 3 p.m. Saturday, March 26 at the Faith in Action house behind Chelsea Community Hospital.

Chelsea hasn't gotten any cheese since October, so anyone who qualifies for it, by being unemployed, on public assistance or who has a limited income such as social security, should call social services this week just to make sure the surplus food gets here.

The cheese is shipped from Wisconsin, said Jim Green, coordinator of Huron Harvest Food Bank, food distributor for the county. There are only eight trucks to make deliveries nationwide, which often causes delays.

Methodist Home Residents Offer Annual Spring Sale

Residents of the Chelsea United Methodist Home are inviting the public to the annual spring sale and craft show. The sale will be held Saturday, March 26, from 1-4 p.m., on the M-ground shuffleboard court. Fine hand-made crafts will be on sale, including quilts, ceramics, woodwork, needlepoint and yarn goods. Baked goods will also be on sale.

In addition, many interesting crafts will be demonstrated. The public will have a chance to see loom weaving, slip casting, pottery, patchwork quilting, Easter egg dying and more. Many bargains will be available.

The United Methodist Home is located at 805 W. Middle in Chelsea. For further information, call 475-8633.
