Ag Banquet Draws Gasoline Prices Jump Record Attendance With 5-Cent Tax Added

County Dairy and Livestock Association banquet last Tuesday night at Chelsea High school, the largest attendance in the history of the event.

"It was a very fine evening," said Ralph McCalla of Chelsea, who is a member of the association's board of directors. "We didn't transact any business, but everybody had a good time. Actually, we could have sold a few more tickets, but we had to limit attendance for space reasons."

McCalla said that, judging from remarks at the banquet and comments made to him at his feed store, there is high local interest in the new federal Paid in Kind (PIK) program to limit acreage planted to agricultural from production this year will receive free grain from federally stored surpluses built up over the years. The grain—which in this area will be mostly corn and wheat—may be fed to livestock or sold on the market.

Farmers will receive 80-90 percent of the grain they would have raised on the land they didn't plant. This is considered a fair trade because there will be no production costs involved for the farmer.

The idea is to reduce huge surpluses accumulated over the past several years of bumper crops, and so firm up market prices which have become depressed because of the grain glut.

There were some good gasoline bargains available to motorists last Friday morning, the day that the new five-cents-per-gallon federal tax increase went into ef-

About half the stations checked by a reporter who commutes between Ann Arbor and Chelsea had neglected to change their posted prices to reflect the tax hike, and so were forced to swallow the five cents a gallon.

"I just plain forgot about it (the tax increase)," said one operator who cut a conversation short so he could rush out and change the prices on his pumps and advertising signs. "If you want to fill up at the old price, go ahead. You saved me a lot of money by reminding me."

By law, gas stations must sell at the price listed on the pump from which the fuel is delivered. Advertising signs are not legally binding, but a dealer would have a hard time explaining that to a customer.

Among the stations which had changed their prices to include the tax increase, the pattern went something like this:

Ann Arbor-$1.119 to $1.139 for regular, $1.179 to $1.199 for lead free.

Dexter-$1.129 to $1.149 for regular, $1.189 to $1.209 for lead-I-94 interchange at Fletcher

Rd.-$1.139 for regular, $1.199 for lead-free. I-94 interchange at M-52-

$1.159 for regular, $1.229 for lead-

Chelsea-$1.159 for regular, $1.219 for lead-free.

"I think you are going to see a mixed price pattern for awhile," said one operator who asked that his name not be used, "because there is some variation in the prices that suppliers are charging to retailers. That will level out after a couple of weeks, and we'll all be competing for business just like we have been."

Several major suppliers raised their prices a penny or two a gallon late last month, and those increases were promptly posted on the retail pumps. Some suppliers held prices steady, and so their retail outlets have a temporary market advantage.

Oil industry analysts quoted in the national news media have predicted that gasoline prices will rise slightly during the next by about 20 cents a gallon during the past year, even though world crude oil prices are declining.

They cite three factors:

1. There is a temporary shortage of gasoline, created by large bulk purchasers who filled their storage tanks in anticipation of the federal tax increase and thus drew down refinery stockpiles.

2. The warm-weather travel season is coming on, which will increase demand for gasoline and keep the supply relatively low.

3. Refiners will try to recapture losses incurred during the past three months because of price-

Freedom townships' annual $9.504.81, will be used for the meetings March 26 show in- usual designations of Chelsea creases for fire protection and Recreation Council, McKune road maintenance, respectively. Lyndon township's proposed budget for 1983-84 is $107,738.38, up from $104,431.91 for the 1982-83 year.

The township budgeted $24,000 for fire protection for 1982-83, but ended up spending $36,000 because of several major house fires. For the 1983-84 year, $32,000 has been budgeted for fire protection, and the township's contingency fund has increased from $8,000 to $18,000.

Fire protection has been a masix months after having dropped jor chunk of the budget for the past two years, said Linda Wade, township clerk. "We are hoping last year was just a bad year."

Results from Lyndon and Federal revenue sharing funds, Memorial Library and roads.

The only salary increases will be $200 per year for both the treasurer and clerk.

The increase in Freedom township's budget from $91,500 for 1982-83 to $110,000 for 1983-84 will go towards road maintenance, said Walter Hieber, township treasurer.

Last year the township budgeted $19,000 for the roads, and this year they have set aside $35,000. Federal revenue sharing funds will also go to the roads.

Salaries for township officials will stay the same.

Parts Peddler Buys 'Big A' Parts Store

Parts Peddler, Inc., of Chelsea, has bought the inventory and machine shop assets of the "Big A" auto parts store at 121 N. Ashley St., Ann Arbor. The firm presently has stores in Chelsea, Dexter, Whitmore Lake and Saline.

Parts Peddler is owned by the Richard Kolander family of Chelsea. The company's Saline outlet, bought last November, operates under the name of Big A, as will the newly acquired Ann Arbor store.

Addition of the Ann Arbor facility will allow the company to expand its services with the largest machine shop in this area. The shop is equipped to do light and heavy duty engine rebuilding, heavy duty truck drum grinding, and other shop work such as alternator, starter and electrical services. Shop equipment has been updated.

The Ann Arbor store has been painted and cleaned, and all inventories have been updated to serve the public and service garages, fleets and farm accounts with name-brand auto parts. Foreign parts are also available.

Parts Peddler specializes in hard-to-find parts, locating them usually within 24 hours through the use of a computer.

Andy Fleischmann will be the manager of the Ann Arbor store. Ron Morcom will be the new manager at the Dexter store formerly managed by Fleisch-

The main office for the corporation will remain at 1414 S. Main St., Chelsea.

Village Bakery Reconstruction Work Starting

The Village Bakery will reopen by June 1, following an insurance settlement on the Jan. 14 fire which burned out the establishment's interior, co-owner John Muncer happily announces.

"We'll have the contractor starting work this week, and we are shooting for a 45-day reconstruction period," Muncer cutting. Most major oil com- said. "Realistically, it may take 60 days to get all the new equipment delivered and ready to go."

"We (his wife, Phyliss, is the quarter financial reports come other owner of the business) are hoping for a May 15 grand reopening, but I suspect it might take until June 1 for everything to be in place."

F. C. Belser & Son, a local contracting firm, will do the work, which Muncer estimated will cost $50-$60,000. The first phase will involve cleaning out the firedamaged structural elements and replacing them. Restoration and redecorating will follow.

Muncer said the rebuilding project will include a change in the outside front appearance of the bakery so that it will blend in with the turn-of-the-century architecture which prevails in the 100 block of W. Middle St. The business is located at 103 W. Mid-

"We will increase our food selection for the luncheon trade, and we will expand our ice cream parlor operation, making it into more of an old-fashioned soda fountain," Muncer said. "Along with those changes, we will keep up our traditional breakfast, bakery and coffee-break services." Muncer emphasized that he is in no way critical of Dave Rowe, local Farm Bureau insurance agent, for the long delay in reaching the insurance settlement which finally allowed the rebuilding project to go forward.

"We were frustrated, and he was too," Muncer said. "He wanted to settle the claim as quickly as possible, and he did everything he could. The difficulty was higher up in the company.

"I think the problem was that insurance companies have had so many false and inflated claims made against them that they have become very cautious in arriving at settlements until all losses are thoroughly document-

"Once we got our documentation in order and convinced them (Farm Bureau) that our loss claim was honest, the settlement went through quickly. It was very Muncer said he plans to renew his insurance with Rowe and Farm Bureau.

CAN WE TOUR YOUR FUNERAL HOME?

As professionals dealing with death and bereavement, we funeral directors feel a close kinship with the clergy. We work closely with them before, during and after the funeral service.

It is for this reason we extend an invitation to members of the clergy in the area to visit with us, view our facilities, and become better acquainted with our funeral home, our staff and directors. It also becomes an opportunity to discuss how we can serve more appropriately your congregations from a religious viewpoint.

This invitation is also extended without reservation to all others whose professional or personal interests would be served or benefitted by our "Open house" visit. Please phone in advance so we can personally spend this time with you.

To further indicate our desire to share our common concern with the clergy, we offer the use of our library of professional reference books on death and dying. These are likewise available to other interested persons.

New Tax Plan, Pegged to Economy, Clears Legislature Michigan joined other surrounding states recently with the enactment of an income tax in-

The Legislature hammered out agreement on Governor James Blanchard's 38 percent income tax increase to solve an immediate $900 million budget deficit and prepare the state to provide for future services which have been subject to severe cuts during the past few years.

The new tax plan, which immediately increases the personal income tax rate from 4.6 percent to 6.35 percent (retroactive to Jan. 1), also recognizes an upturn in the economy and provides for reductions based on declining unemployment rates.

The tax also has specific rollback dates for both the regular income tax and a .25 percent surcharge from which revenues are designated to be used to solve the state's immediate cash flow problems and bringing the state's bond rating back up.

Following final legislative action, Blanchard said the Legislature has taken the necessary first step. "Today, we began to stand up for ourselves," he said.

Blanchard added that with a little bit of luck, the package will put the state back into fiscal health, but that means by the third year at least, some economy recovery at the national level is necessary.

The income tax increase would fiscal year—Sept. 30—which is to be coupled with executive order for a three-year automatic reduction to 5.35 percent (including the .25 percent accumulted deficit elimination surcharge) with unemployment rate reductions crease to cover sagging state potentially further reducing the rate back to the current 4.6 percent or even to 3.9 percent should the state's unemployment rate reach 7 percent. The tax rate goes up by 1.5 percentage points immediately through the end of the current calendar year. The hike will be reduced to 1.25 percent at the end of calendar 1984 and 5 percent after calendar 1985.

The revised proposal provides of the tax hike.

Besides the automatic reductions, unemployment rate reductions would work independently to further reduce the tax rate.

An adjusted scale would provide for a .1 percentage point reduction for every .5 percentage reduction in the unemployment rate with the first reduction taking place when the rate reaches 14 percent.

The schedule would bring about a total elimination of the present increase should the unemployment rate reach 9 percent and the rate could go as low as 3.9 percent (the early 1970's rate) should unemployment ever return to 7 percent in Michigan.

A specific expiration date of the .25 percent cash restoration surcharge was added to the final version of the bill.

The surcharge will automatically expire on Sept. 30, 1986, even if the near $1 billion deficit in accumulated debt due to cash produce some $675 million shortages and deviations from through the end of the current generally accepted accounting principles is not eliminated.

Legislative Republicans, who budget cuts of $225 million to almost unanimously opposed the eliminate the projected deficit of plan from the outset, continued to express concerns of the passage

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

country store Saturday night that he stood foursquare fer everthing in the Good Book, especial the few parts he was give to understand. Since this is the time fer Guvernments to reap, Zeke ask, how come the papers have picked this time to shut up. Those bear

Bug Hookum allowed that Zeke had took to talking in tongues, and the rest of the fellers looked puzzled. But Zeke went on to explain that he had kept a clost watch in the papers fer more about that man in Chicago that choosed not to pay income taxes, and he ain't seen anything after that one item last month. Zeke wondered if there is a national news blackout on this case until after the Infernal Revenue's big harvest is over the middle of

The piece Zeke saw reported where this feller was tried fer not paying income tax the past two year. He told the jury that the way he reads the laws paying taxes is voluntary and he quit volunteering. The jury bought his reasoning and turned him loose. What we need now, Zeke went on, is word on how members of that jury stand with the IRS. Fer sure, he said, not to many of us want to force our money on the Guvernment, and that kind of equal justice fer all will flash over this country like a match to dynamite.

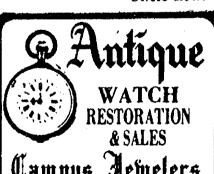

Ed Doolittle patted Zeke's pointy head and told him not to not to set up nights worrying if he ought to do the right thing and keep on keeping up his Guvernments. Volunteering to pay taxes is like volunteering fer Army KP or to break up the garden fer the old lady, Ed allowed, you don't do it, it gits done to you. Everthing in this free country is volunteer, Zeke Grubb allowed at the Ed went on, but we got to face the opening bell of the session at the results of not volunteering. We ain't got to git a driver's license to drive, Ed went on, nobody dragged us kicking and screaming to take our polio vacseen and there's no law that says we got to drop a little somepun in the collection plate on Sunday. His boss called hm in and said everbody in the plant had give but him, and if he didn't donate there was a strong chanct his job would be took over by the new computer. The feller told his boss the good cause hadn't been proper explained to him before, and that he would be more than glad to give his fair share.

Personal, Mister Editor, I never put much faith in juries of my peers. If I know that word, I wouldn't trust the future of the income tax to 12 folks like me. Actual, I was suprised when a jury in Idaho convicted a feller the other day of stealing a airplane. He said he was being beamed up to the Enterprise and the plane got caught in the beam. That's far out, but I've heard of worse happening to husbands that was late gitting home.

Yours truly, Uncle Lew.

etters to the Editor

Dear Editor.

I have followed the continual problems of parking at the Pump and Pantry on Main St. with interest. Having observed the situation first hand on numerous occassions, I feel a swift and comprehensive change should be made to correct the problem.

Plenty of parking could be provided simply by tearing down the McKune Library! A parking lot on the McKune site would provide easy and convenient parking for the Pump and Pantry as well as all the other downtown businesses.

Let's face it, it is impractical to support an institution that LOANS books for FREE when the same space could be used to stimulate business! Parking meters charging a hefty fee could even be installed to cut the village in on some of the action.

I think it's a great idea and look forward to the day when I can utilize the McKune Memorial Parking Lot whenever I go shopping in Chelsea. That's my view,

Steve C. Lewis.

To the Editor,

Re: Proposed nomination for listing of the South Lima Rural Historic District in the National Register of Historic Places.

We are writing you in an effort to reach all property owners in the South Lima Rural Historic District because of our concern and objection to the proposed listing of said District in the National Register of Historic

As explained in a Notice published recently in The Dexter Leader and The Chelsea Standard owners may object to this listing but only by a written notarized statement if filed on or before April 7, 1983 with the Michigan History Preservation Review Board in Lansing. Unless a majority of owners object, you should assume it will be listed.

We would be happy to provide a form which you may complete, sign and have notarized, and mail for filing if you so choose as we have. We urge you to do so. This should be mailed immediately to assure its arrival in time, but send it no matter how late you may be. We would be happy to notarize and mail it for you.

The research on this project began in the late 1960's as a way of combating the proposed Mill Creek Park. We wish to commend those who have worked so long and hard on this project; they have done an excellent job and have distinguished themselves and the community at the local, state and national by choice, not mandate of law, to preserve them. Proponents of the listing claim that their only motive is to make development of the "Mill Creek Metropark" more difficult, on the grounds it would require federal review of the proposed park. This is not true and listing is unnecessary because the exact same federal review procedure is already required of any federally-funded project because the District has been determined "eligible for listing" by the National Register.

Our real concern is that listing might result in future land use and building controls and regulations that would apply only to the "historic" district and the "historic" buildings and things in it, by local ordinance or state law, in the form of zoning and building regulations. These new laws are unpredictable and may be severely restrictive as they are now in many communities.

Many local governments in the United States, including Michigan, have local historic district ordinances which severely restrict and limit your rights to alter, improve, or otherwise change structures which are deemed to have "historic significance." This could be a house, barn, shed, milkhouse, fencerow, or trees along the road.

Once listed in the National Register, the District will remain listed forever. You cannot choose or elect to be "unlisted" after being listed.

If listed, the South Lima Rural Historic District would have the dubious distinction of being the largest such district in the entire United States. Thus a prime target for future governmentcontrolled "preservation" in our

We do not want to desecrate our past, but we do wish to keep private control of our future and that of the community, and to preserve private property rights.

The likelihood of losing this control will increase if the District is listed in the National Register.

Therefore, we urge you to object. We also urge you to attend the public hearing before the Michigan Historic Preservation Review Board in Lansing on otarize and mail it for you. Thursday, April 7, 1983, at Room.

We will now explain our 124, 208 N. Capital, Lansing.

Manchester Coaches Earn Area Awards

Bart Bartels and Ms. Kathy Rose, varsity basketball and varsity volleyball coach, respectively, have been selected by the Ann Arbor News as Coach of the Year in each of their sports for Washtenaw county.

Bartels has been varsity basketball coach in Manchester for the past eight years. Following a disasterous 1981-82 season during which the athletic program was sharply reduced in the Manchester schools, Bartels' varsity team rebounded in 1982-83 with a 13 and 8 season. It was for his effort and for the general turnaround in the entire Manchester basketball program that Bartels was selected as Coach of the Year.

Ms. Rose has been varsity volleyball coach at Manchester for two years. For the second year in succession she led her team to the LCAA championship before being eliminated in the playoffs.

Superintendent Gene Thompson commented, "I am extremely proud of both of these coaches. Though not a member of the teaching staff, Kathy Rose has provided outstanding leadership to the young women who participate in her volleyball program. We are indebted to community persons such as Ms. Rose. Mr. Bartels is, of course, a respected member of the Manhester teaching staff. # County Will Distribute Pamphlet on Nuclear War to Every Home

"Washtenaw county, a county of 250,000 residents in Southeastern Michigan, is the first county in the United states to deliver door-to-door to each and every household a civil defense pamphlet describing the effects of nuclear war," announced Mary Egnor, chairwoman of the Washtenaw County Board of Commissioners. "This effort is significant because it offers county residents another point of view contrary to that of the Reagan Administration. This is truly a grass roots effort with local government working with local citizens groups for peace," she added.

The county government recently appropriated $3,500 to print the 96,000 pamphlets. The Interfaith Council for Peace and other civic groups, utilizing more than 800 volunteers will distribute the pamphlet on Sunday, April 10. Each volunteer is being given a route which can be completed in two hours or less, placing the pamphlet in the residential door and moving on to the next.

The pamphlet emphasizes that "unlike the situation with natural disasters, the effects of a nuclear strike would be virtually unmanageable: any surviving human or material resource would be instantly overloaded . . . The effects of a nuclear war would be worse than a world-wide epidemic; the only practical approach in this situation is to prevent a nuclear war."

Dr. Arthur Vander of Physicians for Social Responsibility is co-ordinator of a speakers bureau to educate county residents of the effects of a nuclear war. "The residents of our county must understand that in a nuclear disaster there are no winners and only a few survivors," stated Dr.

Your Health Options

By Beverly Chethick Director of Health Education, Washtenaw County Health Dept.

On the news I heard that a fiveyear-old died from rabies. My dog has been vaccinated, but I've heard I should vaccinate my cat too. Is that true?

It certainly is true. While people have been fairly conscientious about vaccinating their dogs, many have forgotten about their cats. Hard economic times seem to encourage animal owners to postpone vaccinating all their animals. This is a risky business.

To protect your family and your community you should vaccinate your cat as well as your dog regularly. A three-year vaccination is now available for cats as well as for dogs-replacing the annual vaccination that was required in the past for cats.

In addition to vaccinating your pets, the State Health Department recommends that the public:

(1) keep their pets confined to their property

(2) keep a watchful eye on their pets and report any changes of behavior (nervousness, viciousness, paralysis) to a veterinarian (3) not touch stray, injured or sick animals (4) not keep wild animals as

(5) leave bats and skunks alone since they have the highest incidence of rabies in Michigan.

If, in spite of precautions, a person is bitten by an animal, the wound should be thoroughly washed, a physician should be contacted, and the bit should be reported to the health department at 994-2492.

Authorities will arrange for the animal to be kept under observation for 10 days. If no sign of rabies appears, nothing further will be done. If, however, rabies symptoms do appear, the animal will be destroyed and its brain examined for rabies. The victim will receive medical attention. The Center for Disease Control in Atlanta is concerned that animal rabies is on the upswing nationally, and they fear this may lead to outbreaks of rables. In Washtenaw county, if we are cautious with animals, report bites quickly, vaccinate our cats and dogs and enforce the law, we should be able to prevent rabies in humans.

Your Health Options appears monthly in this paper. If you have a health related question, please write to this paper, Attn: Your Health Options, or directly to the Washtenaw County Health Department, Box 8645, Ann Arbor, 48107.

The first Congressional attempt to guarantee jobs to those who wanted them was the Full Employment Bill of 1945, which stated that all Americans "have the right to useful, remunerative, regular, full-time employment." However, the measure was defeated, according to a publication of the U.S. Department of Labor.

Chelsea Hospital Salutes National Medic Alert Week

National Medic Alert Week this year is being observed April 3-9. Its purpose is to call attention to the need and value of emergency medical identification in the situation where a patient is unable to speak or otherwise communicate that he or she has a hidden medical condition.

The unique Medic Alert system consists of an alerting device (worn as either a bracelet or necklace), a 24-hour emergency answering service, and a wallet card containing updated medical history from the past 12 months.

The alerting device is stainless steel and has an emblem specifically recongnized for hidden medical conditions. The reverse side has the person's medical condition or conditions, and a special "call collect" number that provides instant access to emergency medical records and the names of physicians or relatives to be contacted. This phone service is operational 24 hours a day, every day of the

In addition to the bracelet or necklace and emergency phone number, a wallet identification card is provided that contains additional personal and medical information.

The Medic Alert program came into existence in 1956, a few years after a physician's daughter had a near fatal reaction to a tetanus

In the summer of 1953 in Turlock, Calif., a high school student named Linda Collins cut herself while playing with an air rifle. Her father and mother were away from home so a neighbor took Linda to the hospital for treatment.

The attending physician gave Linda a sensitivity test to tetanus antitoxin in case she was allergic. Unfortunately, she was highly allergic to the test, went into a coma for three days and almost died.

Her father, physician Dr. Marion C. Collins, determined to prevent this from happening again to Linda, designed a silver bracelet bearing the insignia of the medical profession on the front with the words, "Medic Alert." On the back was engraved the warning: "Allergic to Horse Serum," the liquid vehicle used at the time for tetanus antitoxin.

Convinced that bracelets or necklaces with medical messages could help save lives and speed treatment in emergencies, Dr. Collins investigated the feasibility of establishing a nonprofit, charitable organization to provide a lifeline to those who might be unable to ask for help in critical situations. He surmised that people with medication allergies, diabetes, hypertension, heart problems and myriad others with medical problems could find themselves in situations where improper diagnosis and treatment might cost them their lives.

After three years of planning and consulting with fellow physicians, nurses, law enforcement agencies, and national leaders, he established the Medic Alert Foundation International in April, 1956. Unlike many nonprofit, charitable organizations though, Medic Alert has not received any federal or state funds. It is maintained by enrollment of new members and by

People with hidden medical conditions or specific drug allergies, such as diabetics on insulin, and people allergic to penicillin, can benefit greatly from the Medic Alert program. Tragic or fatal mistakes may be made during emergency medical treatment if hidden medical conditions are not recognized.

During Medic Alert Week, April 3-9, Chelsea Community Hospital Department of Pharmacy will be presenting a program at the Chelsea Senior Center on Monday, April 4 and at the Dexter Meal Site on Tuesday, April 5, emphasizing the importance of this emergency medical identification system. The Pharmacy Department has also made plans to have an active program promoting the Medic Alert system in the University of Michigan Family Practice Center as well as Chelsea Community Hospital.

"In the end, the Breathalyzer test is what we're going to have to do anyway," said Chelsea police chief Robert Aeillo, "at least until the courts uphold the validity of the new law and the PBT tests."

Opinion among police officers is that it is going to take many test cases and considerable time for the courts to sort out the effects and implications of the new drunk driving law and come up with firm guidelines for police agencies to follow.

"I think you will see a lot of appeals from arrests and convictions made under the new law," one veteran policemen said. "It's going to have to be fought all the way up to the state supreme court. That happens with any new law, and especially one that involves the right to drive a car, which is very important to most people." One problem that policemen see in the new law is that .10 blood alcohol content is marginal so far as driving impairment is concerned. "Some persons can handle that much and not be affected in their ability to drive," said one officer. "Some can't. There are so many variables - sex, age, weight, liver function, what the person has or hasn't eaten, what mood he or she was in at the time of drinking.

"If a persons tests .15 or higher on the Breathalyzer, that's pretty good proof of intoxication sufficient to make driving dangerous. At that level your co-ordination, reflexes and judgment definitely are damaged. At .10 there's a question, at least with some peoproved credit. Customer pays first month's payment and $125,00 refundable security deposit on delivery.

Athletic Boosters Planning Millionaires Party April 16

Chelsea Athletic Boosters will finish off a successful year at 8 p.m. Saturday, April 16 with their fourth annual Millionaires Party at the Chelsea fairgrounds.

Proceeds from last year's party helped the boosters purchase $4,500 worth of weight training equipment for Chelsea High

During the 1982-83 school year, the boosters have worked the admission gates for the Chelsea ty chairman, and his committee Community Fair, sold tickets to all athletic events, assisted in scoring, timing and judging various athletic events; sold spirit items at basketball games and prepared an updated boosters' constitution.

More than 150 adults have volunteered to make these activities a success.

Amtrack Invites Depot Suggestions Calling all local developers and rented it for $1 a year to a local community groups-Amtrak is interested in your proposals to turn the Chelsea depot into something more than an empty. decaying building.

Communities which have specific plans and ideas for revitalizing depots get priority, said Don Pross, director of station development for the approximately 200 "under-used" or vacant stations nationwide owned by the National Railroad Passenger Corp. (Amtrak).

"As a rule we don't sell property," he said, but the company would be willing to negotiate long-term leases such as for 30

Amtrak would prefer trying to make money off their depots, he said, but sometimes there is no commercial potential, such as with the Albion station. Amtrak preservation group which is restoring the building.

Whether commercial or goodwill development, the company would prefer old depots be used-so "eyesore" doesn't become a synonym for Amtrak.

Pross has asked regional engineers and operations personnel to take a look at Chelsea's depot to assess it. He has not seen it himself. Depots in general have good development potential, he said, because they often can be registered as historic landmarks or are in historic districts, so developers can get tax credits for preserving them.

To get a building registered, one needs to fill out a severalpage form, and prove by historical data the building is architecturally significant, important to the history of the community, something important happened there or someone important lived there-requirements, except for the latter, which could apply to the Chelsea

Depots have another development advantage—by the nature of the beast they are usually centrally located.

The Battle Creek depot is being turned into a restaurant, farmers' market, and retail and office space.

Amtrak has begun developing its old depots just within the last year, said Pross. When the company got into financial trouble in the 1970s, the government said concentrate on transportation, not real estate. But beginning in the Carter administration and continuing with the Reagan administration, the government has encouraged Amtrak to make money with their real estate, so the company can eventually be weaned from federal subsidies.

Many old depots had been used for storage, as Chelsea's has been, he said. But the firm would prefer a less passive use for security reasons to prevent vandalism and potential fires.

Pross says he gets several hundred letters a year, with vague development schemes such as, "Gee, I'd like to own a depot!" Specific plans from local developers and community groups go over better.

Anyone with ideas may write Don Pross, director of station development, National Railroad Passenger Corp., 400 North Capitol St., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20001.

Court in Overtime on Drunk Driving Cases

Persons arrested for the minimum drunk driving offense who couldn't get their cases to court before March 30 can relax about keeping their driver's licenses, thanks to the state legislature.

Anyone arrested on or after that date isn't so lucky.

Under new laws effective at 12:01 a.m. March 30, the penalty for first offenders of the minimum drunk driving charge includes at least a three-month suspension of the driver's license. A problem arose with interpretation of the new law. The Secretary of State's office said it would base license suspensions on the date of conviction instead of the date of arrest. So if someone were arrested March 15 and came to trial April 10, he would be punished according to laws that didn't exist when he was arrested. "Lawyers didn't believe that interpretation would stand up takes time and money. The state legislature ended the three-month legal controversy with a bill amendment which made it from committee to the governor's desk in just six days. Governor James Blanchard signed Public Act 18, which sets license re-instatement fees, March 29.

The amendment to PA 18, sponsored by State Rep. Perry Bullard of the 53rd District, D-Ann Arbor, says the Secretary of State shall assess points and take license action according to the law in effect at the time the offense was committed.

Action by the legislature prevented a deluge of appeals, but came too late to ease the burden at 14th District Court 3 based in Chelsea. Lawyers and clients who didn't want to endure an appeal wanted to get their cases heard before March 30.

Court 3 was open an extra 90 minutes Monday, March 28 to process 33 last-gasp sentencings. Compare that to the week of Feb. 28 through March 4—only seven drunk driving sentences were given during five days.

Under the legal principle of ex post facto, the legislature's amendment was unnecessary. But considering the differing opinions about the law, it was prounder 'appeal, but appealing 'bably a good idea and prevented a lot of litigation.

Ex post facto says it is unconstitutional to apply a new law that inflicts more severe punishment than the law on the books when the offense was committed.

The first case challenging the Secretary of State's office was already filed before the legislative amendment.

A Detroit man arrested Nov. 4, who knew he would not be coming to trial before March 30, and his lawyer filed a suit in early March in Wayne Circuit Court to prevent his license from being taken

A circuit court judge threw the case out of court because it was "premature." The man would have to wait until he actually lost his license for his suit to be viable.

Thanks to the legislature he won't have to re-challenge the Secretary of State's office. But he still faces a day in court for trial and sentencing.

There are several IRA bonus plans being offered right now. And some of them sound pretty good. But work them out on paper, and you'll discover that Ann Arbor Trust beats them all with a 2% up-front cash bonus PLUS 10% interest.**

Let's take an example:

Suppose you and your spouse both work, and that you each deposit $2000 into an IRA. In that case, we would automatically add $80 to your total deposit. Then we'd pay you high, tax-deferred, compounded interest on all that money. All year long. And with maturities ranging from 18 months to five years. (With other plans, you'd get higher short-term interest and no cash added to your deposit.)

If you open your IRA before the April 15th deadline, you can deduct the entire amount of your deposit from your 1982 taxable income.

So before you invest your hard-earned money in an IRA that just sounds good, call Ann Arbor Trust today at 994-5555. We'll show you—in black and white—how our cash bonus beats any other offer in town.

*Based on maximum initial contributions of $2000 for a married couple with two incomes. Offer applies to new IRA deposits only and ends April 15, 1983. Withdrawal prior to age 591/2 incurs substantial tax penalty except for death or disability. Early withdrawal from any certificate of deposit incurs substantial interest penalty. **Applies to Fixed Rate Certificates.

Varsity Baseball Team Gets Chilly Reception in 9-0 Loss at Brighton

Chelsea High school's varsity spring," Bulldog coach Wayne baseball team got off to an early, chilly and losing start at Brighton last Wednesday afternoon, dropping the first game of a doubleheader, 9-0, and playing to a scoreless tie in the nightcap which was called because of darkness after five innings.

Welton said. "And I don't know of any college or professional teams which played that early, so I think you can say Chelsea and Brighton opened the Michigan baseball season."

The temperature was in the low 40's and there were piles of snow "I'm pretty sure they were the in the background, but the first high school baseball games Brighton diamond was in played anywhere in the state this playable condition. Not so the

Bulldog Baseball Practicing This Week in Florida

Fifteen players compose the Chelsea High school varsity baseball squad following cuts made by coach Wayne Welton. They, along with a member of the junior varsity team and a student manager, left for Florida last Friday for a week of practice in what they hope will be warm, dry

With 16 players and Welton doing most of the pitching, the squad will be able to divide into teams and play intra-squad games. "We'll work the pitchers into some innings, and I'll play someplace else," said Welton, who played three years of varsity baseball at Chelsea before he came back to coach.

Hager, junior, first base. David Gipson from the JV team made the Florida trip, as did

Mark Porath, student manager. Robeson, the only two-year letterman on the squad, and Pagliarini are co-captains. Villemure, Nadeau and Neibauer are the only other lettermen.

Welton said Nadeau will be his first-line pitcher at the beginning of the season, because of his experience, but added that Pagliarini and Marshall will also see a lot of duty on the mound.

"Each is a different type of pitcher," Welton said. "Marshall has the most velocity and Pagliarini the best control. Nadeau is kind of a combination of the two."

Steinhauer will also get a chance to pitch, but not until he recovers completely from what turned out to be minor surgery on his right knee. "I'm really happy that Marty has come back so quickly and will be able to play," Welton said. "He can do a lot of things-pitch, play in the outfield, play first base—and he's a real hustler besides. The problem with him will be to hold him down until his knee is fully ready."

Chelsea field. A doubleheader scheduled here between the Chelsea and Brighton junior varsities was cancelled because of wet, muddy ground.

Despite the 9-0 Brighton win in the one completed game of the day. Welton was not alarmed or discouraged.

"Brighton is a Class A school and has an excellent baseball team," he said. "Their pitching is outstanding, as good as any we will face this season. Brighton will be a championship con-

Welton also noted that his squad had almost no opportunity to practice outdoors before the opener. A March 21 snowstorm covered the Bulldog field six inches deep, and the melt-down left it waterlogged. The heavy soil does not drain quickly.

Chelsea managed just three hits in the total 12 innings that were played. Mike Neibauer got two of them, one in each game, and Chris Gallas had the other.

Ken Nadeau took the pitching loss in the first game, but Welton said his performance wasn't nearly as shaky as the 9-0 score might suggest. "He didn't get a lot of support in the field," Welton commented. "We made errors at critical times, and they hurt badly. The score should have been a lot closer."

The coach was pleased by two good innings pitched by Doug Pagliarini in relief of Nadeau, and by five innings of shutout ball hurled by Jay Marshall in the incomplete second game. Marshall gave up only one hit.

"We'll be all right," Welton predicted. "What we need is a lot of practice, and we'll get that during our week in Florida. This was a good experience for the boys to have before going south. The more we can play before the conference season begins, the better off we will be. We're a young team."

After the spring vacation break in Florida, the Bulldogs will resume competition with a home doubleheader against Pinckney on Saturday, April 16.

Team Has 11 Veterans

Bulldog boys tennis tear returns 11 lettermen this year, giving the team more experience than usual—and with nine newcomers, essentially a junior varsity team, Chelsea's future looks promising, too.

Team members have been working out most of the winter, said coach Terry Schreiner, and have good potential. Their first match is at 4 p.m. Thursday, April 14 away against Hartland

Since the team hasn't won a loc in the past, she said, one thing they have to learn this year is confidence they can win.

Newcomers are William Van Reesema, Steve Worthing, Mike Feeney, Mark Henson, Matt Grau, Dan Waldyke, Kevin Vandegrift, David Merkel and Rick Proctor.

The doubles team of Mark and Worthing should go undefeated again this year, said Miss Schreiner. Their toughest match will probably be against Greenhills.

Wrestling Club Scores In Three Tournaments

Members of the Chelsea Recreation Wrestling Club earned places in three recent outings. In the Gull Lake tounament on March 26, Bryndon Skelton placed second and Colby Skelton third in the 8-and-under age class. Rob Finch was second and Scott Lan-drum third in the 11-12 group. At Lansing, also on March 26, Alan Hanna took first and Eric Hanna second, in the 9-10 age bracket.

At Hartland on March 31, Bryndon and Colby Skelton tied for second, and Nicky Kramer was third in 8-and-under, and Alan

Vo-Ed Run Scheduled April 16

Dexter Community Education annual Vocational Education Run is scheduled for Saturday, April 16.

The 5K and 10K run will be held this year on the first day of the Michigan Technology Fair in recognition of the support role vocational education plays with technology

The 1983 Fair will be held in Ann Arbor at the U. of M. Track and Tennis Building, April 16 and 17. It provides an insider's view of the diverse technology based industries in southeastern Michigan. This year's theme is "Technology and Our Quality of Life—A Cause for Optimism."

The run includes 5K (3.1 miles) and 10K (6.2 miles) races which will begin at the Wylie Middle school. The 5K begins at 9:45 a.m. and the 10 K begins at 10 a.m.

The pre-entry fee is $5 by April 2. Late entry and day of run fees are $7.

T-shirts and Michigan Technology Fair tickets will be awarded to all runners. Trophies will be awarded to the first-place finishers in each division. Trophies will also be awarded to first-place vocational education students and vocational education staff.

Medals will be awarded to the second- and third-place finishers.

For further information, contact Bob Miller, job placement co-ordinator at (313) 662-9898.

Jeff Landrum, Christina Gibson.

and Eric Hanna were first and second in 9-10. Others who competed included Eddie GreenLeaf, Doug Steele, Sue Steele, Vincent Stahl, Chris Gibson, Ryan Lafferty, Michael Montange, Jeffrey Montange, Matthew Montange, Ian Dyer. Jordan Dyer, Mark Eder, Mike Eder, Adam Tillman, Jimmy Steele, Chris Haugen, Scott Centilli, Butch Michaud, Rich Finch.

Brant Snyder and Ryan Ludwig. The club is coached by Jim Finch, who has never wrestled competitively but became interested and involved in the sport under the tutelage of Joe Rodriguez of the Dexter Recreation Wrestling Club.

"Joe taught me a lot, and Kerry Kargel (Chelsea High school varsity wrestling coach) has helped me, too," Finch said.

"I encouraged my children to get into wrestling and decided that I should also, because I believe it helps prepare you for later life better than any other sport. A wrestler has to learn mental and physical self-discipline to be successful. Just making the weight week after week is a challenge.'

The Chelsea club is coeducational, and Finch said that, up to about age 10, girls equal or excel boys. "Girls grow a little faster and have an edge in strength," Finch commented. Some of them become excellent wrestlers.

"The problem is that wrestling is a dead-end sport for girls. There is no opportunity for them to compete once they get into junior high school. If they want to go on in athletics, they have to choose another sport.

Finch said he would favor interscholastic wrestling for junior high and high school girls, but not coed wrestling past the age of 10. ''You get into some difficult problems as the boys and girls get older," Finch said.

Special Olympic Cagers Win One in State Tourney

Washtenaw Special Olympics all-star basketball team won one game and lost two at the state basketball tournament March 25-26 in Grand Rapids. They finished their season with a 10-2 over-all record.

More than 50 teams competed and were screened to determine pairing and divisions.

Washtenaw won its first game against the Mason Bulldogs, 28-16. Brian Shinault scored 17; Ken Bartus, six; Jay Curry, four; and Bryan Santore, one.

The team advanced to play Ottowa County-Holland, but lost, 37-30. Shinault had 21; Santore, four, and Curry, five.

They descended to the losers bracket, and lost to the Muskegon

The next local event for special olympians will be a bowling tournament Friday, April 15 at Belmark Lanes. Volunteers are needed to keep score. If interested, call Nancy Cooper at 475-9131, ext. 49, when school reopens April 11.

SPORTS NOTES

BY BILL MULLENDORE

Athletic directors and coaches aren't awfully anxious to talk about

The Chelsea Standard, Tuesday, April 5, 1983

available to get even. Retribution is not part of the officiating ethic, but it's been known to happen. The directors and coaches to whom I've talked during the past six officiating problems, at least not for the record. Criticisms they make may come back to haunt them. Officials are human, and they have ways months agree quite closely on two conclusions: 1. There are too many officials who just plain don't know the rules of the games they are officiating.

2. There is an almost desperate shortage of good, young officials.

One coach, who is also a licensed official, told me: "The license examination is a joke. It's an open book test on the rules. If you can read, you can pass it." There is no "performance test" as such. An applicant passes the written exam, is certified and placed on a register, and can go out and referee games for any school that wants to hire him. Beginners start at the bottom, handling games at little schools, and gradually work their way up if they are good enough. Athletic directors send evaluation reports on officials to the Michigan High School Athletic Association after every game, or at least are supposed to. This judging process apparently is something of a joke.

looked at if they are filed. "I don't know of a single instance in which an official has been disqualified because of poor evaluation reports," one source told me.

The reports may or may not be made out conscientiously, may or may not be sent at all, and—according to what I've been told—are seldom if ever

Officials "move up" primarily through word of mouth that gets around. Good officials have no trouble scheduling games and passing from one level to the next. The best eventually appear in the college and professional ranks. I know one man who started out working Class D football and now is a Big Ten referee. I know another with similar small beginnings who does a National Football League game every week during the season.

Except for Major League baseball umpires, officiating is not a fulltime occupation that provides a livelihood, but it's not a bad source of supplemental income even at the small high school level.

Chelsea and Dexter, for example, pay officials $20 to $30 per game. That doesn't include travel expenses, but athletic directors try to hold those down by hiring persons who live close-by and can share rides. Good officials—the ones in demand—can generally work at least two games a week. That kind of "moonlighting" income will buy a lot of groceries.

Ron Nemeth, Chelsea High's athletic director, is willing to talk for the record about the problem of getting good, new officials into the pro-

"There are a lot of young peple coming in, especially because the examination is so easy to take and pass," Nemeth said. "The trouble is that most are incompetent, and they won't take the time and effort to improve themselves. They work a few freshman or junior varsity games, and think they are ready to go on to varsity officiating, do a few games, and move on to Class A. It doesn't work that way.'

"For those who are conscientious and ambitious, there are many opportunities for new, young officials to learn and get better. Special clinics and training programs are available all over the state. They don't cost a for, and they reach the fine points—the little things that make the difference between good and poor officiating.

"Officiating is like anything else. You have to learn, and you learn by a combination of training and experience. Just as you don't earn a high school or a college degree in one year, you don't get to be a top-rank official in a year, but most of the young ones entering the ranks seem to think they should be able to. "We like to give young officials a chance, but they have to prove to us that they are competent. We scout officials, and we're always on the lookout for new names to add to our list of people we consider capable of working our games. But we won't hire just anybody simply because he has a license and a few lower-class games under his belt." Thinking back over the past football and basketball season, my recollection is that most of the officials were men in their 30's and 40's. I don't recall many younger ones. Some of the faces became quite familiar because they showed up for repeated game assignments. Obviously, they had earned respect and confidence, and so were asked back. Neither Nemeth nor any other athletic director is looking for partisans or "homers." They want officials who know the rules, will keep games under control, do an honest job of calling the fouls and penalties, and not make too many blatantly wrong calls. As'I wrote last week, I have seen some bad calls and some good ones, and a lot more that I couldn't pass judgment on because, like every other spectator, I was in poor position to see exactly what did happen or was looking somewhere else. What impresses me is that I have not seen a really badly officiated game, one that erupted into a riot or became a ridiculous parade of penalties.

Officials have to expect criticism (although not abuse, which is outof-bounds and unsportsmanlike) from players, coaches, fans and, yes, sports writers. That's part of the game. There are compensations, not only in money but also in the knowledge that, without the contributions of officials, sports as we know them could not exist.

CARD OF THANKS

I would like to express a very sincere "thank you" to the North School P.T.N. for the very special day they gave to me on March 31. The flowers, gifts, working in the office and the delicious luncheon were most appreciated. You are a great group to work with. My thanks is also extended to the North School Staff for helping with the luncheon and all that they did on my "special day." No one could work with a better staff of people. Thank you to the students of North School for the flowers, pictures, card and the special assembly with singing and skits. Most of all I enjoyed the special "hugs." My appreciation is also extended to Bob Benedict, Ray and Joyce Van Meer, Fred Mills and my husband, Don, for all they did to make such a wenderful and memorable day.

Open House Set at MSU

High school and junior college students interested in attending Michigan State University can become "students for a day" during MSU's Open House Week, April 12-16.

Potential students and their families will participate in discussions with faculty and administrators, open classes, "rap sessions" with current students. "This is an excellent way for students interested in attending MSU to learn about campus life during a typical week," Cecil Mackey, MSU president, said. "We have made a commitment to provide potential students and their families with an extensive introduction to our academic programs and student activities. Our students, faculty, and staff are looking forward to hosting this event.'

General reception areas and numerous display booths will be featured at the MSU Union, the check-in point for students. The facility will be open Tuesday-Saturday from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Free parking and shuttle service will be provided throughout the week.

Special tour buses will be available for visits to all academic areas on campus, as well as to selected residence

On Saturday, April 16, most Open House activities will take place at the MSU Union. Special open houses will be held Saturday at the College of Engineering, College of Communication Arts and Sciences, and College of Osteopathic Medicine.

For further information on the Open House, contact Keith Williams, chairperson, (517) 355-8332.

Bicycle Touring Society Organizing for Season

Anyone interested in bicycling is invited to attend the Tuesday, April 19 open meeting of the Ann Arbor Bicycle Touring Society at the Huron High school cafeteria from 8 to 10 p.m. This is the annual spring meeting to introduce the club's activities and officers. Slides of past AABTS rides will be shown and light refreshments served.

Information will be given concerning the weekly rides sponsored by the club as well as the major events planned for the

The Ann Arbor Bicycle Touring Society was incorporated in 1977 (as an offshoot of American Youth Hostels) to promote local touring rides into the surrounding countryside on weekday evenings as well as one and two-day weekend rides.

The club is comprised of riders ranging in ability from competitive racing athletes to interested beginners. As a rough gage to evaluate their present level, bicycle riders have a choice of three riding ability classifications: "A"-relatively fast, 15-18 mph, able to ride 100 mi. in 7 hours; "B"-moderate, 12-15 mph, stops as needed, ride 65 mi. in 5 hours; and "C"-leisurely, 8-10 mph, frequent stops, excellent for inexperienced

Regular weekly rides in April include the Saturday Breakfast which leaves at 8:30 a.m. from the old Amtrak station, destination Dexter. "C" riders take breakfast from the bakery to the nearby park on the river, then return directly to Ann Arbor. "A"/"B" groups continue after breakfast on a 40-70 mile ride. A new feature beginning with the April 2 Saturday Breakfast ride is a 20-minute clinic on riding techniques to be held in Delhi Park, conducted by Reuben

Chapman. In May, the weekly Tuesday Night A/B Training Ride and the Wednesday Evening "C" ride will begin, as well at the Thursday Evening Bird Watchers "C" ride. After Daylight Savings Time goes into effect, the Saturday Breakfast will leave a half-hour earlier, at 8 a.m. Interested bicycle riders are encouraged to join the rides as announced in the Kiosk section of the Ann Arbor News in order to get acquainted with other bicyclers and club members.

To receive an Ann Arbor Bicycle Touring Society ride calendar outlining club activities, membership is available for $7.50 single or $10 per family by writing to Robbin and Dan Lenardon, 7660 Corbin, Dr., Canton

Seminary Group Will Sing Here

The Singing Seminarians, a 24-voice male chorus of students from Asbury Theological Seminary in Kentucky, will be appearing at Chelsea Free Methodist church on April 9 at 7

The group will be performing a varied program of sacred choral music, including well-known hymns and classics.

One of the few male touring concert groups in the United States, the Singing Seminarians have made more than 31 tours since their founding in 1943. The group is directed by Dr. Charles K. Sims, associate professor of church music at Asbury Theological Seminary. They are accompanied by a brass ensemble, also made up of seminary students.

Asbury Theological Seminary is located in Wilmore, Ky., the heart of the bluegrass region. Founded in 1923, the multidenominational seminary has prepared thousands of ministers who now serve in 50 states and in 58 foreign nations.

The seminary ranks ninth in enrollment among accredited seminaries in the United States and Canada.

By BILL MULLENDORE

Last week I wrote about the chances of encountering a rabid animal in the wild, which are mighty slim, and suggested that any animals other than mother bears and male deer in the rut which show aggression toward people should be considered suspect. That remains a good general rule but, like all such rules, there are in self-defense.

Let me tell you about a couple from my own experience.

One fall day during the pheasant season i was working my way. through an alfalfa field when I heard a strange hissing noise. I stopped, looked around, and finally spotted the hisser—the first and only badger that I have ever seen in the wild. The animal was about six feet away, had its back up, and was definitely ready to do battle.

Badgers are interesting creatures in many ways, including the fact that they have no natural enemies except themselves. The only predators on badgers are other badgers. Bigger ones kill and eat smaller ones. Nothing else out there is a match for a badger's slashing teeth and inch-long curved claws. A 15-pound badger can kill a 75-pound dog in single combat, as used to be proven regularly in the cruel "sport" of "badgerbaiting" formerly practiced in England until outlawed a century or so ago.

Badgers smell bad, like skunks. They can't spray the odoriferous liquid, but they can excrete it over their hind quarters in sufficient volume that you don't want to be close to the source.

Cole-Burghardt Retains Membership In Golden Rule Order

For the fifth consecutive year, Cole-Burghardt Funeral Chapel in Chelsea has secured membership in the International Order of the Golden Rule. This decision was based on recommendations made by members of the community.

Executive Director Dale L. Rollings said, "Before any member is accepted into our organization, it is carefully evaluated to determine its standing in the community. Once membership is granted, the firm must continue to follow a high standard of conduct to maintain membership."

The order accepts members from all over the world, and brings them together at regularly scheduled conferences and seminars. At these times, they are brought up-to-date on changes taking place within the profession, including consumer attitudes on funeral service.

Manchester Youth Participates in Alaska Training Exercise

Army Sgt. Robert W. Hamilton, son of Robert N. and Alberta L. Hamilton of 11720 Mulvaney Rd., Manchester, participated in Brim Frost 1983, a U. S. Readiness Command jointservice exercise held in Alaska.

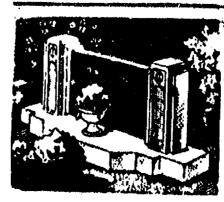

The exercise is designed to test and evaluate active and reserve component commanders in joint procedures and tactics. It also gauges their ability to function in an arctic environment.

Exercise participants were personnel from Army and Air Force units already assigned to Alaska, a Canadian light infantry battalion, soldiers from Fort Lewis, Wash., and Fort Campbell, Ky., and reservists and national guardsmen from 14 different states.

Hamilton is a field wireman with the 172nd Infantry Brigade at Fort Richardson, Alaska.

His wife, Susan, is the daughter of Audrey and Donald Drexler of 13175 Lima Center Rd., Clinton.

The sergeant is a 1973 graduate of Columbia Central High School, Brooklyn.

This badger I met was on the muscle. It advanced toward me hissing and snarling, exuding scent. I backed off. Armed with a loaded 12-gauge shotgun, I could easily have killed the animal but didn't want to. Badgers are fully protected by law, and I would have felt sort of silly trying to explain that I had been forced to shoot one

As long as I kept my six-foot distance, the badger came no closer. At length, when I had taken several backward steps, the animal turned away and disappeared down a hole.

I am convinced that badger was not rabid. It was defending a territory that I had intruded upon and was determined to drive me out of it. It did so with spirit and courage that have to be admired. How many humans would threaten to attack some being more than 10 times their size? And how many would get away with it? The badger's display of bravado was comparable to a bare-handed man charging a bull elephant without knowing how the elephant felt.

One summer day several years ago I was wading along a remote section of a northern Michigan trout stream more than a mile from grass grow undisturbed forever: the nearest road and farther than that from the closest house. There was a rustle in the stream-side alders, and suddenly there was a mink so close that I could have too small to support their body reached over and touched it.

We can testify there were eight which eyeballed each other at a distance could fly faster than a former of three feet for perhaps a minute, athlete still in reasonably decent then I moved on. About 20 feet or so upstream, the animal turned and was quickly lost in the brush. The mink may have been

Among all wild creatures, some species of birds are perhaps most fearless in defense of their eggs and young. If you have ever walked close to a breeding colony of gulls or terns, you know what it is to have scores of birds fly at you, at times brushing you with their wing-tips. It's really anot dangerous, but it's disquieting enough that you don't stay argund

Of all nature's creatures, the biting and stinging insects are the most aggressive toward people. Mosquitoes, black flies, no-seeums, sand flies, deer flies, bees, wasps and horners—all affack without hesitation and usually without provocation. I am allergic to black fly bites, and they have given me some of the worst times in my outdoor life. I recall dice when my forearms were swellen nearly to the size of my thighs and remained so for more than a week.

The worst memory of all is of the time that I pushed a power lawnmower over a colony of ground-nesting bumblebees. Had I known the nest was there, I would have cut a wide swathe around it and let that particular patchinof It has been said of bumblebees

School Holds 'Sally Proctor Day'

If you want to learn how to keep a surprise from someone, ask North school.

More than 370 elementary school children kept the secret about "Sally Proctor Day," so Mrs. Proctor, the school secretary, was surprised when she got to school March 31.

The school wanted to honor her seven years of dedicated service. The date itself wasn't chosen for any particular significance, (She became secretary in 1976), but in the future it will probably seem pretty special to her.

To show their appreciation for Mrs. Proctor's efforts-she knows all the children by name and is famous for her help and her smiles-parents took over her job for the day. Each class brought her a flower with the lunch count.

A luncheon buffet was given for her, her co-workers, guests such as her husband and some of her children, and administration officials.

An afternoon school-wide assembly was held in her honor. She entered the cafeteria via a "red carpet" of construction paper. The children gave a bandaid skit, and one in the style of "one day in the life of . . ." in which a horse borrowed for showand-tell got loose on the playground and a box of gerbils and cookies got switched. (The skit even had a brief appearance by a Chelsea Standard reporter who was asking about that horse.)

The children sang "We Love you Sally," to the tune and most of the words of "We Love You Conrad," from "Bye Bye Birdie."

Robert Benedict, Jr., North school principal, and Karen Koch, president of Parent Teacher North, each gave a few words about Mrs. Proctor.

calls when something special is going to happen, such as a classroom activity that would make a good photograph. She gets messages to teachers a reporter needs to contact, answers questions about school activities, and keeps track of the chicken pox count during the season for that childhood disease.

Before Mrs. Proctor became school secretary, she drove school bus 16 for seven years. She was born in Chelsea but moved with her family (her maiden name was Wheeler) to Ann Arbor. They later moved back to the Dexter-Pinckney area, and her father managed Kolb's Restaurant, which is where The Woodshed is now.

After graduation from Dexter High school, she went to Cleary College, married and took care of her children.

She and her second husband, Don Proctor, who is employed by Chrysler Proving Grounds, have 13 children between them now (one is deceased) and three grandchildren.

They live at 121 W. Summit St. and are members of St. Mary's Catholic church.
