GIFT OF FLAGS TO CHELSEA: Veterans of Foreign Wars Post No. 4076 and its auxiliary presented the village of Chelsea with ten flags and staffs for the Main St. light poles last week. The federal flag code now permits the flag to be flown 24 hours a day as long as the flags are illuminated. Eulahlee Packard, 23-year chairman of the auxiliary's Americanism committee, and Gerald Hoover, post commander, show one of the flags to Jack Merkel, village president, who accepted the gift. Absentee ballots may be returned by mail, in person by the voter before the polls open on election day, or by another person during election day.

Deadline to apply for an absentee ballot is 2 p.m. Saturday, June 11.

Emergency absentee ballot applications are available to registered voters who become sick or must be absent from the district because of family sickness or death. This must happen after 2 p.m. June 11. Applications for emergency absentee ballots must be made before 4 p.m. on election day.

Such ballots must be returned by 8 p.m. on election day to be valid.

Now, anyone voting in person... polls open at 7 a.m. Monday, June 13 and stay open until 8 p.m. that evening at Beach Middle school.

Incumbent Arthur E. Dils is the only candidate for the one school board trustee vacancy.

There will be two millage proposals, one to renew the ½ mill for maintenance, repair and improvement of school facilities for five years, 1983-1987 inclusive. The other proposal will be a three-year, 2.9 mill increase for operating funds.

Baccalaureate Services Set Sunday, June 5

Baccalaureate services for Chelsea High school seniors, their families and friends will be held at 7:30 p.m. Sunday, June 5 at the high school auditorium.

The annual event is sponsored by Chelsea Ministerial Fellowship.

The Rev. Marvin McCallum of First United Methodist church will speak on the theme, "Do Not Forget Your Past as You Make Plans for Your Future." The Rev. John R. Morris of Zion

Lutheran church will lead worship. Both ministers have children in the graduating class.

Other participants include the Contemporaries vocal ensemble; Tamara Barbret, vocal director and piano accompanist; Roderick Janich, senior class advisor; senior class officers and faculty members.

Seniors will wear their caps and gowns for the service. Graduation is Sunday, June 12.

Depot Restoration Drive Launched

Chances are much better now than two months ago that something will come of the Chelsea depot.

Chelsea Area Historical Society voted unanimously May 25 to proceed with their depot restoration project as soon as initial funding can be secured.

The historical society will submit a development proposal to Amtrak, the owner of the depot, in early June, said Lynda Longe, historical society secretary. Amtrak is expecting proposals from other parties, however.

The historical society's plans call for the depot to have museum space, a meeting room office space (possibly the Chamber of Commerce and/or the headquarters of the Chelsea Sesquicentennial), and restrooms, said Mrs. Longe.

The exterior would remain as it is now, but the building needs replumbing, rewiring, insulation, central heating and foundation repair, she said.

Those repairs wouldn't be free—she said the historical society is beginning to solicit funds now to show Amtrak their proposal is in "good faith."

Exterior landscaping would be planned as well as parking, between the depot and East St.

Amtrak employees have examined the depot and surveyed the community to see what development possibilities the depot has, said Mrs. Longe.

Musicians To Receive Honors

Seniors in the band, orchestra and vocal music programs at Chelsea High school will be recognized at music honors night Tuesday, May 31.

The evening will begin with a pot-luck dinner at 6:30 p.m. at the high school cafeteria. All music students from grades seven and up and their families are invited to attend.

The highlight of the evening will be the presentation of the three top awards, the John Philip Sousa Award for the outstanding senior in band; the National String Orchestra Award for the outstanding orchestra senior; and the National Choir Award, for the outstanding senior in vocal music. These awards were voted on by the students in each group and will be a surprise.

All seniors will receive an award plaque listing their activities during their musical careers.

Scholarships, to music camps and other honors will also be announced.

Information Program Set On Band Unit

Band information night for fifth graders interested in the band program and their parents will be held at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, June 1 at the Beach Middle school band room.

William Gourley, senior high school band director and chairman of the music department, visited elementary schools last week to demonstrate different instruments.

At the information night, the band program, instrument selection, and what is expected of band students during sixth grade will be explained. There will also be a question and answer time.

A representative from an instrument company will be on hand to make appointments to discuss instrument selection and prices.

The summer program in beginning band will start June 15, said Gourley. Although that is listed as one of the cuts if the millage increase is denied at the June 13 election, it will be offered somehow, he said.

Anyone who cannot make the meeting should get in touch with Gourley at Chelsea High school or Warren Mayer, the Beach school band director.

Merchandise Stolen from Concession Stand

Approximately $400 worth of merchandise was stolen from a concession stand at 8555 Silver Hill Rd. in the Pinckney Recreation Area last Tuesday night, the sheriff's department reported. Taken were miscellaneous items including sunglasses, snorkels, candy, cookies, athletic shorts and cigarettes.

CASHING IN THE COUPONS: Merton Teare unloads a cart in a Polly's Market check-out lane while his three grandchildren—Sarah, 11, David, 13, and Jennifer, 9—wait for the groceries to be tallied and bagged. By using coupons and refund checks, Teare paid $3.13 for $100.11 worth of merchandise. The youngsters are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel L. Teare of 8930 Werkner Rd.

Couponer Checks Out $100 in Food for $3.13

Would you believe buying $100 worth of groceries for three bucks, without cheating or stealing?

This reporter wouldn't have either, until he saw it done at Polly's Market last Tuesday afternoon by Merton Teare of 7807 Werkner Rd., his wife Mary, and three of his grandchildren.

Teare is a "couponer." A retired Ann Arbor public school teacher, he spends what he says "almost full time" collecting cents-off coupons and various kinds of refund offers from manufacturers and merchandisers.

When he has accumulated a bunch, he goes to the store and shops.

Last Tuesday the Teare family filled two shopping carts with what turned out to be six big sacks full of groceries—canned goods, paper products, toiletries, just about everything you can buy at a full-line supermarket except fresh meat and produce.

At the check-out counter the cash register rang a merry tune as it added up the purchases to a total of $100.11. "I figure I have about a hundred dollars worth," Teare remarked as the tallying was going on. He guessed it awfully close.

Teare handed a big stack of coupons to the cashier, and a subtraction process began. As each coupon was checked off, the $100.11 total began to shrink. It was slow—10, 15, 20, 25 cents at a time.

"I think I'll come out pretty close to even," Teare said. "It may owe them a little bit, but it won't be much."

After all the coupon discounts had been recorded, the cash register showed a balance of $50.37, just over half the original total. That was impressive enough, but Teare wasn't through yet.

He next handed over a bunch of refund checks. The amounts were bigger—50 cents, a dollar, two dollars. The big one was for $20. Teare's reward for having saved up and sent in labels from 100 packages of Nabisco products that he had previously purchased.

The whole process took about 40 minutes, which is a long time to wait at a check-out counter, but it was well worth it. When the last subtraction had been made, the register showed that Teare owed exactly $3.13. He had saved $96.98 in an astonishing demonstration of what can be done through a combination of clipping coupons, applying for refunds and shopping carefully.

"The whole idea is to buy as much as possible for as little as possible," says Teare of his retirement hobby. "I take advantage of sales and specials, double-coupon days, everything available to the alert shopper."

Sixth Graders To Give Concert

Sixth grade music students will present a concert at 7:30 p.m. Monday, June 6 at the Beach Middle school cafeteria.

Band, orchestra, and vocal music students will perform as separate groups and end the concert with several combined numbers.

The different classes of instruments began to meet as one entire band or string group for the first time recently—a big step in these students' musical careers.

Can anybody do it?

Yes, says Teare, provided you have the time. "You couldn't do it if you had a full-time job. You have to work hard at couponing if you want to make it really pay off. You must be willing to put in a lot of hours, and you have to be organized."

Teare belongs to a group of about 25 persons throughout the country, who exchange information and coupons. The trading is important. "If I have coupons for more items of something than I can use, I trade some of them to a person who has an excess of coupons for something else. That way we both benefit."

Teare also subscribes to a magazine called "Shopper's Supplement" which offers tips on how to play the couponing game. He's competing for the title of "Coupon King," a for-men-only contest being conducted by the magazine and, if last Tuesday's demonstration of his skill was any indication, he has a good chance to win.

Mrs. Teare said the couponing is strictly her husband's hobby. "I just go along on the shopping trips and help him find the items he's looking for. Believe me, I support what he's doing. It saves us a lot of money, and that is important to retired people."

Teare said he is considering forming a couponing club for senior citizens in the Chelsea area when he recovers completely from coronary bypass surgery done a few weeks ago. The operation is the reason why he had his grandchildren along on Tuesday's shopping spree. "I need them to push the carts," he said. "I'm not supposed to do that yet."

THE BRIDGE IS OUT: Where there was a bridge over the north fork of Mill Creek on Chelsea-Dexter Rd., there now is a gap in the road as workers complete the preliminary part of a replacement project. Several pieces of heavy equipment have been brought to the site by Argersinger-Morse Construction Co. of Ann Arbor, including a pile-driver, a crane, a drag-line and a front-end loader. Traffic is being re-routed around the site.

Legislature Gets Another Shot At Rejecting Pay Raises
 Saying they are willing to make sacrifices in line with imposing the new 38 percent income tax increase on the people of Michigan, the Senate has approved legislation that would allow them a second chance at rejecting pay increases of the governor, lieutenant governor, justices of the Supreme Court and members of the Legislature.

The bill would allow the Legislature 90 days after the governor submits the annual executive budget proposal to consider salary and expense recommendations as proposed by the State Officers Compensation Commission.

The commission meets every two years to review the work load of the state officials and sets new pay schedules for the next two years. The pay rates go into effect automatically unless the Legislature rejects the entire recommendations by a two-thirds majority in both houses.

The Legislature currently has until Jan. 31 of every odd-numbered year to consider the pay package.

Because the Legislature does not convene until the second Wednesday of January in those years and then recesses to get organized, the Legislature, in actuality has only two or three days in which to review the pay plan. As a result, no serious efforts have ever been mounted to rescind the recommendations.

Under the legislation, sponsored by Senator James Barcia (D-Bay City), the Legislature would be able to review the proposed budget, along with the economy of the state and nation as well as projected revenues, to be better able to consider the pay proposals in their proper context.

The Senate debate on the bill created fiery discussions, uncommon in what is otherwise a stodgy body.

Most outspoken was Senator Jack Faxon (D-Southfield) who charged the bill was just a vehicle so some members could "stand forth in purity and piety."

He called the bill unconstitutional now that it is ex post facto for the 1983-84 recommendations since the most recent recommendations were automatically approved as of Jan. 31 without legislative action.

Faxon said football coaches at major Michigan colleges and universities are higher paid public servants than the governor. "Football coaches are supreme, we are nothing," he said.

Barcia responded, reminding the members of the Senate of the tax increase recently imposed on the people. He said the government has extracted sacrifices from the public and the bill shows the public the Legislature is willing to face the same sacrifices.

Senator David Holmes (D-Detroit) likened the Legislature to a board of directors in his speech opposing the bill.

He said the Legislature is a 148-member board responsible for the imposition, collection and expenditure of more than $4 billion annually.

Holmes said he believed the members of the Legislature were greatly underpaid considering the amount of progressive legislation generated each year to protect the health and well-being of the more than 9 million people of the state.

Commission recommendations for 1983-84 called for a freeze during 1983 and an average increase of 7.2 percent for 1984.

Under the recommendations, the governor's salary will go from $70,000 to $78,000; the lieutenant governor will receive $53,000, up from $50,000; justices of the Supreme Court will receive $74,000 compared to the current $69,000; and members of the Legislature will receive $33,200, up from the current $31,000.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

News of a Florida grand jury refusing to indict Hans Florian a few weeks back was met with some alarm by the fellers at the country store and, I reckon, by old folks all over. The man is 79 year old, and he shot his 62 year old wife dead in a hospital because she was sick and suffering and showing no sign of getting better. He didn't deny killing her, in fact he said he did it as an act of mercy.

Like Bug Hookum said during a Saturday night session not long after, this is not a easy thing to think about. These court cases have a way of starting things, he noted, since ever court looks back in the records for one like it is dealing with. There was no mention in the papers about Hans being sick in the head or otherwise. He looked at a bad situation and he did what he thought was right. So what did the jury say, Bug ask, that it's all right to shoot all sick people or just old sick people? If Florian was 49 with some low-cost prison years ahead of him would the jury have looked at the situation different, Bug wanted to know.

Coming around to Bug's thinking, Josh Clodhopper took note of moves in some states to turn crooks loose fer no better reason than prisons are full. So, Josh said, are we coming around to justice based on age and how many empty cells we got. Bug remembered the feller that was let out of jail in New Jersey some months back because he had a bad heart and he was so fat he couldn't sleep on a regular cot. It ain't much comfort to know you ain't going to jail if you're old and sick if you run a bigger risk of getting shot because you're old and sick, was Bug's words, and he got Josh's vote.

Recalling that discussion, Mister Editor, it was refreshing fer Ed Doolittle to introduce one of his clippings this past Saturday night. Ed had this item out of Abilene, Texas where a young feller and a old lady got in a contest and, fer onct, age carried the day. Both tried for a parking place, and the man won. When she ask him why he took the place he said "because I'm young and quick." He went about his business and when he got back the woman was going about hers. She was ramming her car into his. He wanted to know why she was doing it, and she told him "because I'm old and rich." Ed said he was right proud of that old gal, and when he ask for a show of hands in support of her action he got it.

Another of Ed's items had to do with a survey took recent among criminals in Sweden. Most of em said crime pays good, but the hours are bad. Ed said 51 percent of the crooks figger they make better money than they could in a legal line of work, but getting caught is a real drawback. Since jail terms cut into their fun time, they said, they general spend somebody else's money as fast as they can git it.

Personal, Mister Editor, I met Ed halfway. His little old lady report says somepun about life after Social Security, but his survey was about as strong as the one where they ask Willie Sutton why he robbed banks and he said because that's where they keep the money.

Yours truly,
 Uncle Lew.

The showing is scheduled to begin at 8 p.m.

The film, shot behind the walls of New York's Attica prison, is hosted by Art Linkletter. It tells the story of how the work of International Prison Ministry is accomplishing what more guards, higher prison walls and greater financial expenditures have failed to do—keep released inmates from returning to lives of crime.

Telling their stories in the 44-minute film are George Meyer, Al Capone's favorite driver; Floyd Hamilton, (Public Enemy No. 1) the last of the Bonnie and Clyde Gang; Jerry Graham, the "robber king" of California; and Ted Jefferson, convicted of crimes from drugs and robbery to murder.

Also featured is "Chaplain Ray," whose Dallas-based International Prison Ministry has changed the lives of thousands of inmates over the past 18 years.

The Rev. Mearl L. Bradley pastor of Chelsea Free Methodist church, said he hopes all citizens concerned about the problem of rising crime will attend the free screening of the film.

Parents six months pregnant to near term are welcome. Refreshments will be served.

The class is free of charge; however, registration is requested, but not necessary. To register, please call Dr. Westhoff's office at 475-9175.

CEA Requests
Academics
Be Preserved

Chelsea Education Association sent a letter to the school board which said academic programs should be preserved if the millage increase doesn't pass at the June 13 election.

The letter was read aloud and made public record at the May 16 school board meeting, but neither the school administration nor Ann Feeney, school board president, could find the board's copy of it last week.

The list of proposed cuts and reductions if the millage doesn't pass, which was decided upon by the board earlier this month, includes eliminating the gifted and talented program at the elementary school, two teachers at Beach Middle school, a reading teacher at Beach, an elementary school reading teacher, several high school teachers, three positions in art, music and physical education, and field trips.

THE NEW PASTOR at St. John's United Church of Christ at Rogers Corners is Phyllis Pawson, who is from the Adrian-Onsted area. Her Easter sermon was a first-person conversation between Mary, the mother of Jesus, and Mary Magdalen. The church, with unusual curved pews and a stained glass window behind the altar, is set among fields, trees and homes in Freedom township and celebrated its 90th anniversary in 1982.

Phyllis Pawson Serving St. John's As Lay Pastor

There are advantages to beginning a ministerial career mid-life—one has experienced the joy and pain of children, marriage and death, the major concerns of one's flock.
Phyllis Pawson, 53, has been a wife, mother, widow, grandmother and churchwoman before becoming the new pastor at St. John United Church of Christ at Rogers Corners.
Although some ministers who begin their careers early in life get the chance to baptize their children, Mrs. Pawson will marry her son next month, and has already baptized her youngest grandchild.
While she serves the church as pastor, she is also studying for her Masters of Divinity degree at Chicago Theological Seminary. She is now a licensed lay pastor, and will be ordained when she gets her degree next spring.
Her goal is to become a hospital chaplain—a goal she is uniquely qualified for. Her husband, Calvin C. Pawson, had a debilitating heart attack seven years before he died in 1981. After his coronary, he could no longer work, so they both knew she would have to find a career to support herself.
Entering the ministry was a shared decision between herself and her husband, she said. She finished her Bachelors degree at Siena Heights College the year he died.
As the mother of five and a grandmother of 13, she also knows what it's like to have sick children; as a daughter, she knows what it's like to nurse one's own parents.
Her special interest in burn and cancer patients developed while she took a three month course in clinical pastoral counseling at the University of Michigan hospitals. She has also worked in admissions counseling at Ypsilanti State Hospital and was a medical assistant in a hospital laboratory. She would like to become involved in counseling at Chelsea Community Hospital, but her weekly commute to Chicago takes a big chunk out of her life.
She was born and reared in the Adrian-Onsted area, where she spent most of her married life, until her husband needed to winter in Florida. Mrs. Pawson has been a member of West Adrian United Church of Christ since 1936. She now resides on Pleasant Lake Rd.

Although woman pastors are still unusual, half of Mrs. Pawson's seminary class are women, she said, which is a national trend. Chicago Theological Seminary was one of the first to ordain women in the 19th century.
St. John's is a small church which celebrated its 90th anniversary in 1982. Mrs. Pawson said she would like to start some church groups and work on church growth.
Community members who are not members of her congregation are welcome to get in touch with her, she said. Her flock doesn't have boundaries.

Tried all the diet fads without success? Find yourself tired, moody, & nervous? Now try the Biblical approach. Presenting Drs. James & Dianna Reid at Chelsea Full Gospel Church (Lima Twp. Hall) Beginning June 1st every Wed. at 7:00 p.m.

Dr. James Reid, born in Scotland, was healed from cancer at the age of 16, under the ministry of Smith Wigglesworth. Dr. Reid was pastor of several Baptist churches in New Zealand. Then in 1958 he decided to devote all his time to the divine healing ministry of Christ. While in the U. S. he has enjoyed the experiences of bringing Christ's healing to people through a daily radio program and many pastoral activities.

Dr. Dianna Reid, founder of weight a-way, has taught Physical Education and counseled in high schools for 12 years. Then for 11 years enjoyed conducting teaching & healing meetings with her husband in New Zealand and Australia. Dr. Reid lost 63 pounds and learned an effective way of losing weight plus maintaining a balanced beauty for Christ. She continues to help people lose weight and grow in faith in Jesus Christ.

Come and learn how to change fat cells into healthy ones through Christ control and not by the denials through diets. Find out why God's word mentions certain foods to abstain from. See why Christ called Himself "the bread of life," and why the word of God is likened to milk. Then watch yourself grow shapely, healthy, & spiritually. No fees or dues like "Weight Watchers". 12 week classes given on free will donations. For further information call Pastor Chuck Clemons at 475-9497 and remember "all the fat is the Lord's," Lev. 3:16.

THE MAGNIFICAT
My being proclaims the greatness of the Lord,
My spirit finds joy in God my savior,
For He has looked upon His servant in her lowliness,
All ages to come shall call me blessed.
God who is mighty has done great things for me,

Skills Exchange Ready To Function

Bank your skills as you would your money. Give your skills to others in the form of time, and then draw on another's skill when you need.

The Community Skills Exchange was organized as a means of benefitting individuals in the communities of Chelsea and Dexter. Individuals register their skills in the Exchange, and share their skills and interests with others in a non-monetary manner.

The idea of the Exchange is to trade a skill for a skill—editing for cabinetry; crocheting an afghan for house-sitting; typing for tutoring; an hour for an hour. These exchanges may be over time, and involve more than two people.

Chelsea's Community Education office houses the "bank" of registrants with skills. When a registrant wishes to use the people resources registered, he/she merely calls the Community Education office and requests a bakesales during lunch hours and fundraising time limits.

The new club-activity attendance policy says a student must be in school that day to participate in an extra-curricular activity, he said, such as the school play or Spanish Club banquet. That is the same as the athletic attendance policy.

The suspension policies for activities and athletics differ only in time-frame, said Vogel.

If a student violates one of the school rules, such as smoking or drinking, while involved in an extra-curricular activity, he will not be allowed to participate in that club or activity for a maximum of 18 weeks, one semester.

Athletes who violate rules are kicked off a team for the rest of the season, he said.

The 18-week rule developed for clubs, he said, since their "season" runs a full school year.

Some programs, such as band which is both a class and an activity, publish their own handbook of rules, said Vogel. Those rules will have to conform to the official activity handbook.

School board members were given copies of the proposed handbook at their May 16 meeting.

Predicting school enrollments is sort of like predicting the weather. One must do it way ahead of time and the whole picture can change.

Six-year enrollment projections for Chelsea school district show a decline from 2,249 students as of Feb. 17 to 1,823 for the 1988-89 school year.

Raymond Van Meer, school district superintendent, based his projections, which he presented to the school board last month, on moving each class up grade by grade, a steady rate of families moving in and out, and the state average drop-out rate, 10 percent, between junior and senior years of high school.

Major events in the community, such as the recent lifting of the sewer moratorium, a social trend affecting the birth rate, a major business coming to town, or a major business leaving could change these predictions up or down, but the school board must have some basis for long-range planning of staff and programs.

The district's enrollment has been dropping steadily for the past several years. Fourth Friday count in October showed 87 fewer students than the 1981-82 school year.

State Bookkeepers Up to Old Tricks

The financially-strapped state department of management and budget wants to do some fancy bookkeeping on education aid that has school administrators worried, Raymond Van Meer, school district superintendent, told the school board at its May 16 meeting.

By law, 41.6 percent of the state budget must go to local government units which include school districts, said Van Meer. But since the state is in such financial trouble, the budget people have come up with a scheme that would make it look as if they were meeting that commitment without actually doing so.

The state would send school districts a check to cover the district's social security and retirement payments for current employees, he said. The total is about $180 million every five months. A district would be instructed to mail the check back immediately without cashing it.

This way the state would get credit for that 41.6 percent commitment, he said, without actually giving up any money.

School administrators don't like the plan, he said, because it "borders on fraud" and may set a trend for the future, when the state's financial picture will probably improve.

Now school districts make periodic payments of social security and retirement monies to Lansing, he said.

The state's budget trick wouldn't affect these payments or the Chelsea school district directly, he said, unless this becomes a long-term trick and attitude towards supporting education.

Nationally, eight out of 100 women 65 and older were in the labor force in 1981.

THANK YOU

After the completion of this year's Prom, the 1983 Prom Committee would like to thank those who helped make it a success. We realize we cannot recognize each individual, so we extend our thanks to: The custodians, for the use of their equipment, their time, and their assistance. The teachers who released students to help work in the gym. The administrators who kept us in line while still allowing this all to happen. The office staff who put up with our constant running in and out on various errands. Juniors who didn't attend the Prom and people outside the Junior Class who put a lot of work and time into helping us. We are very grateful to the people in the community who donated their Oriental possessions for our use at the Prom. Most of all, we would like to thank the parents. These people put up with their children getting 5 or fewer hours of sleep each night and being gone all day and all night to work on the Prom. In addition, these parents came in before and after work to help advise the students, work, and organize the Prom. Without these people, this Prom could have never turned out as well as it did. We are very grateful for their help.

Sincerely,
The 1983 Prom Committee

TUESDAYS ONLY!

HER FAMILY ALBUM is a thick one; Mrs. Edith White of 414 McKinley St. will be 95 years old on Wednesday, and she has plenty of relatives to send her happy birthday wishes. Mrs. White has 87 living direct descendants, a few of whom are shown on the two pages of the photo album she is holding.

Edith White Prepares For Her 95th Birthday

Records aren't kept on such matters, but there is no question that having 87 living direct descendants places Mrs. Edith White of 414 McKinley St. in a special class of people. She will celebrate her 95th birthday on Wednesday, June 1.

Mrs. White has six living children, 23 grandchildren, 42 great-grandchildren and 16 great-great-grandchildren, according to her daughter, Mrs. Vera Briston of 220 Jackson St.

"I guess you could say that we are a prolific family," Mrs. Briston said.

Mrs. White lives in her own home and is pert and alert although a bit hard of hearing. She suffered a broken hip in a fall last September, but it has healed well and she is able to get about with the aid of a walker.

Born in Reddick, Ill., on June 1, 1888, Mrs. White has been a Chelsea resident for the past 63 years. Her husband, Bert, died in 1956.

Besides Mrs. Briston, her children include Mrs. Mildred Titus of Plymouth, Mrs. Barbara Clark of Leesburg, Fla., Mrs. Audrey Patterson of Clare, Mrs. Nancy Harris of Milwaukee, and Richard White of Farmington Hills. Two other sons, Clayton and Edward, are deceased.

Fire Association To Back Parade For Celebration

Chelsea Fire Association will sponsor the parade for the Chelsea Sesquicentennial, it was decided at the sesquicentennial committee meeting May 25.

Doug Eder and Larry Gaken represented the association at the meeting. The parade will be held during the week of festivities in 1984.

A kick-off fund raiser, a dance at the fair service center, was planned for October.

A meeting to discuss progress on the celebration with community members will be held in early fall.

Horse Show Slated at Hunt Club

Horse lovers will have an opportunity to see some of the midwest's leading dressage horses and riders at the MDA Dressage Days horse show, June 10-12, at the Waterloo Hunt Club, Glenn Rd., Grass Lake.

Grand Prix level dressage is an Olympic sport, and many of the riders have an eye toward the "Olympic gold."

The show is sponsored by the Midwest Dressage Assn. (MDA), a non-profit group dedicated to promoting and educating the public about the sport of dressage. There is no admission fee.

In addition to the horse show classes, from training level through Grand Prix, the show will feature daily raffles and a tack swap. A Hospitality Center will be staffed by people qualified to explain dressage, how it is judged, and what to look for as a spectator.

4-H clubs, pony clubs, and other groups may schedule special educational sessions by calling Sue Hughes, MDA president, at (313) 455-7273. For information about the tack swap, contact Cherie Everett at (517) 521-4190.

Dressage comes from the French word for training. It is systematic training to develop the mental and physical abilities of the horse as an athlete. It also develops the rider's ability to communicate clearly to the horse. The result is a horse and rider working together harmoniously as a team, the horse responding to rider's signals (aids) that are barely perceptible to the onlooker.

At the lower levels, dressage is correct basic training for all horses, regardless of their intended use (pleasure or competition, western or english). At its highest competitive level, it is an Olympic and International sport. Dressage through third level is part of 3-day event competition, also an Olympic equestrian sport.

"Dressage is, perhaps, best known because of the famed Lipizzan stallions of the Spanish Riding School. The school practices dressage at its ultimate level as a balletic art.

OK — So, Washtenaw County has an overpopulation problem—but what can I do about it? The Humane Society of Huron Valley recommends that individuals support a total program of animal care and control, including: an enforceable ordinance, a sterilization program, and a public information program. Above all consider having your own pet spayed or neutered and urge friends to do the same.

To spay or neuter, or not to spay or neuter? That is the question. And the answer is yes. Yes! Decidedly yes! Do it! Save yourself trouble, heartbreak and money.

The arguments against the operations are many and varied. You've probably heard the one about dogs getting fat and lazy after being sterilized. Apple-sauce! With proper diet and exercise, your dog will stay as slim and trim as you want. Or maybe you've been subjected to the myth that it's 'good' for a female to have at least one litter.

Don't count on motherhood to have a calming effect on a nervous, excitable or hyperactive female. Motherhood is not a relaxing occupation.

If you spay your female dog as a youngster, this is what you'll be missing:

- messy twice-a-year 'seasons'
- lovesick male dogs loitering around your doorstep
- An accidental litter of pups that need care, feeding, shots and good homes
- ovarian cysts or other female-related problems
- the likelihood of breast tumors or growths

Some folks who would readily agree to spaying a female, are horrified at the idea of neutering a male. Men sometimes see the operation on their dog as a sort of threat to their own masculinity. "Why shouldn't the dog enjoy a few sexual encounters too?" or "Would a truly macho man have a neutered dog?" Others can see no logical reason for neutering a male. The truth is that spaying or neutering doesn't cause any emotional upheavals in your animal. The operation is a good idea if you have a male who:

- acts as if all female dogs are in heat
- seems determined to have a sexual experience with your leg
- frequently tries to escape and go roaming
- is overly aggressive
- forgets training and lifts his leg on the furniture

More importantly, he won't be the cause of several innocent, helpless puppies being killed because the female's owner doesn't want the bother of looking after them, or because there are no homes for them. Tragically, it happens every day.

Don't put it off any longer—do it today! Call your veterinarian or the HSHV low-cost Spay/Neuter Clinic (662-4365) for an appointment. TODAY!

ON YOUR FEET

By Dr. Howard Reznick and Dr. Paul L. Tai Podiatrists

WHEN FEET NEED REALIGNMENT

If you've developed a callus or buildup of thickened skin in certain areas of your feet, your feet may need realignment to prevent more serious foot disorders from developing.

Calluses usually occur in areas of the feet subject to heavy friction and pressure, such as under the bony areas on the ball of the foot. The cause can often be traced to an improperly aligned foot. In some ways, this is similar to what happens to automobile tires when a car is out of alignment. A misaligned foot tries to compensate for the excessive wear by developing calluses. When the affected area becomes red, swollen, and unusually warm to the touch there may be an infection present.

You should have properly balanced feet to give your body the support it needs. When your feet are out of alignment, as evidenced by calluses, this can throw other parts of your body out of balance as well, including your legs, hips, and back. Examination and treatment by your foot specialist can bring you the help you need to restore your feet and body to proper balance.

Open House Set for Mental Health Homes

Open house will be held Sunday, June 5 at homes in Chelsea and Dexter which have recently been leased by the Washtenaw County Community Mental Health Center and occupied by mentally impaired persons under supervision.

The homes are at 13225 Old US-12, Chelsea, and 10885 North Territorial Rd., Dexter. Hours for the open houses are 1-5 p.m., said Judy Weinberger whose A-Jay Services, Inc., operates both under contract with the mental health center.

Invitations have been sent to persons known to be interested, Ms. Weinberger said, but the public is invited and will be most welcome. "We would very much like to have people come and see these homes and meet their residents," she emphasized.

Each home houses six adult persons who are mentally impaired with intelligence levels roughly comparable to pre-schoolers, Ms. Weinberger explained. They are under 24-hour supervision by staff people provided by A-Jay Services.

Ms. Weinberger maintains an office in the Chelsea home, having moved her headquarters from Manchester. She lives in South Lyon.

"We like the two houses very much," she said. "They are fine houses in nice neighborhoods, very well suited to the purpose of our care and treatment program."

"For the most part we have been warmly welcomed. Several people have come to call on us, and some have brought flowers and cookies. I don't anticipate any problems in adjusting."

Residents of the homes attend special schools during the day Monday through Friday and are transported by bus or van. They also attend local churches, go shopping, prepare for and compete in athletic events such as the Special Olympics, watch TV, and carry on a variety of other activities suited to persons of their mental ages. Everything is done under adult supervision, Ms. Weinberger stressed. "At no time are the residents left to themselves," she said. "They are never alone."

A-Jay Services contracts to provide care at the rate of $50 per day per resident. All expenses are paid out of that charge to the county.

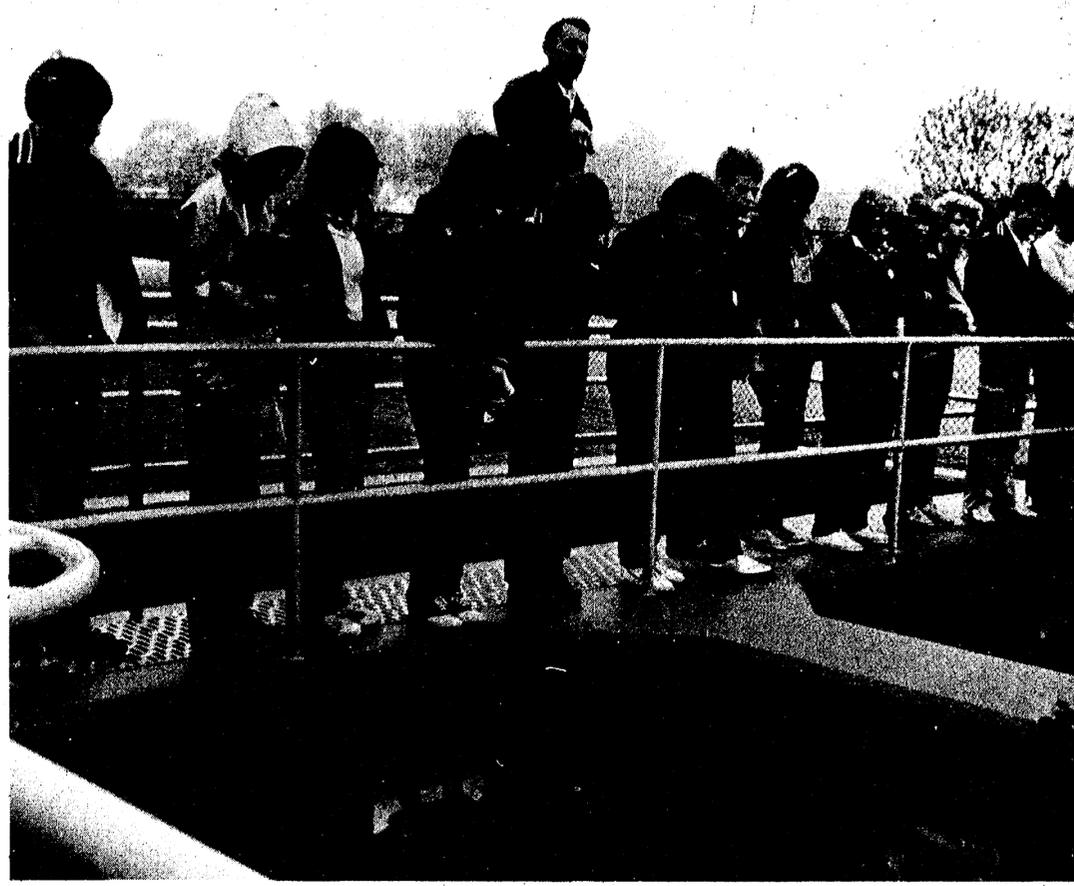

Drunk Driving Ordinance Is Amended

The village council has voted to amend Chelsea's traffic ordinance to make it conform with the new state drunk driving law.

The state law sets new standards for presumptive evidence of intoxication and, among other things, provides that a driver may be arrested if caught sitting behind the steering wheel of a parked car, whether or not the engine is running. Penalties under the new state law are stiffer.

"We might as well make these arrests under village ordinance and collect the fines, instead of having money go to the state," said police chief Robert Aeilio in asking for the ordinance amendment.

The way the law is written, a driver who gets sleepy and parks to take a nap may be arrested unless he or she slides over into the passenger side of the vehicle. Sitting in the driver's seat is considered proof of intent to drive.

CHelsea's WASTEWATER TREATMENT PLANT is one of the examples of hazardous waste treatment being studied by eighth graders this spring. Each year they study a current environmental issue in science class. Mel Leach, plant superintendent, describes a secondary settling tank. After the first or primary settling of wastes, water is then mixed with a certain bacteria which somehow attracts particles. The water is pumped into this tank, and the now heavy, particle-laden bacteria settles to the bottom of the tank. The lighter, cleaner water rises to the top, and is treated with chlorine before going into Letts Creek. (It was pouring down rain when this photograph was taken.)

RESOLUTION

WHEREAS, Paul C. Maroney, who resided at 227 E. Middle St., in the Village of Chelsea, has been a historian and collector of World War I data, and,

WHEREAS, he was active in the decoration of the grave sites at the Oak Grove Cemetery and devoted untold hours to doing such, and

WHEREAS, his extensive research into World War I leaves a permanent addition to the historical data we preserve

NOW, THEREFORE, the Chelsea Area Historical Society at its meeting May 24, 1983 does hereby memorialize him and honor his contributions and further does record it's loss on this day, May 21, 1983. The foregoing resolution was passed and recorded in the minutes of the Society, this twenty-fourth day of May, 1983.

Council Approves $10,000 Outlay For Power Work

Expenditure of up to $10,000 for a variety of electric power distribution projects—involving poles, transformers and lights—has been approved by the Chelsea village council.

The work will be done by Kent Power Services of Ravenna, which offered the low per-day bid on the job. Charles Hafner, village electric and water superintendent, will oversee the work.

Eighth Graders Get Behind Push for Sewage Grant

Chelsea's request for federal funding for wastewater treatment plant improvements is getting help from an unexpected source—eighth graders at Beach Middle school.

Each spring for at least the past 15 years, eighth graders study the environment in their science classes.

The unit is focused around a current topic, such as hazardous wastes this year, or the bottle bill, PCB and PBB, the closing of Waterloo Nature Center or the energy crisis, said Alice Steinbach, an eighth grade science teacher along with Nola Borders.

Students will be writing their congressmen and senators to request the funding for the Chelsea wastewater treatment plant, she said. For background the students toured the plant May 19 in the driving rain.

Mel Leach, plant superintendent, showed them samples of untreated effluent; that which has undergone both primary treatment, the first settling of wastes, and secondary treatment, aeration with bacteria to which particles attach themselves; and the final product which is sent into Letts Creek.

The proposed plant expansion would both increase plant capacity (it was built in 1937 and expanded in 1960 to handle 600,000 gallons of water daily, and has gone over the 1 million gallon mark frequently this spring) and add tertiary treatment, sending the water through a filter such as sand or charcoal before it goes into the creek, said Leach. The creek is used as a water supply source by communities downstream of Chelsea on the Huron River.

Along with the local waste water treatment issue, students are reading about hazardous wastes such as dioxin and acid rain, said Mrs. Steinbach. "The fall they have a health unit, then a combined unit on physical science and basic chemistry."

Although an active conservationist herself, she says she tries to point out the biases in materials they use, such as films by the Sierra Club and Consumer's Power, and explore different opinions about these often politically-explosive issues.

One conclusion the students have drawn this year, she said, is their own lifestyles create hazardous wastes—their families' automobiles, their

Varsity Sluggers Split Doubleheader With Pinckney Pirates

This spring's Chelsea varsity baseball team either scores runs in bunches or not at all. It did a little of both last Tuesday afternoon in a home double-header against Pinckney, and as a result won one and lost one.

Bulldog bats boomed in the opener, banging out hits all over the place, to rack up 15 runs in just four turns at the plate, including nine in the bottom of the fourth inning. The game ended half an inning later under the mercy rule, with Chelsea winning it, 15-5.

Jay Marshall got the pitching victory. After struggling with control problems through the first two innings and yielding four runs, Marshall settled down and threw well the rest of the way. He helped himself with three big hits, including a homer and a triple.

As it turned out, the Bulldogs should have saved some of their hitting heroics for the next game, which they lost, 6-1, spoiling the debut of freshman Mark Mull as a varsity starting pitcher.

Mull pitched very well but would have had to hurl a shutout to win as his teammates scrounged only one run in his support. Four of the Pinckney tallies were on the cheap side as Mull gave up only one solid hit with runners in scoring position.

Left-handed pitchers have given Chelsea fits all season, and Pinckney has a fine one—a southpaw who threw the ball hard and, last Tuesday at least, got it over the plate most of the time.

Bulldog coach Wayne Welton was pleased with the showings of both Marshall and Mull, who are counted on for mound duty next year. "Jay is making progress," Welton said of Marshall, who gets a lot of pop on his pitches but has had trouble finding the plate.

"Mark is a fine young athlete," Welton said. "He's big and strong for a freshman, and he throws strikes. He'll get better with age and experience."

WALKING THE SIDELINES: Coaches can't play, and there are times when they undoubtedly wish they could, because in almost all instances they have been fine players themselves. Here Chelsea varsity baseball coach Wayne Welton walks off the third-base coaching line toward the dugout, deep in thought about strategy for the next inning.

Softball Team Clinches Tie

The Bulldog softball team's 10-0 mercy win over Lincoln May 23 at home guaranteed them at least a share of the Southeastern Conference title.

A win over Jackson County Western, a game which was rained out May 25 and rescheduled May 26 after The Standard's holiday deadline, would give the Bulldogs sole possession of the league crown.

All other teams in the league have at least two losses, while Chelsea has a 10-1 league record. The game against the Railspitters went five innings. Donna Popovich, the winning pitcher, had four strike-outs, gave up two hits and one walk.

Chelsea got four runs in the second inning, two in the third, and four in the fifth.

Amy Hume had two hits, one a three-RBI double in the fifth inning. Celeste Powell also had a big hit, a two-RBI single in the second to put Chelsea in the scoring column.

Chelsea played well defensively, said coach Charlie Waller.

Bulldog Sluggers Down Lincoln, 5-3

"It wasn't pretty, but it was a win, and we'll take it at this point."

That's how Chelsea varsity baseball coach Wayne Welton described the Bulldogs' 5-3 victory over Lincoln last Monday there.

Senior hurler Ken Nadeau pitched over and around six Chelsea errors to earn the victory. "It may have been Ken's best game of the season," Welton said. "He kept the ball down and had them hitting it on the ground. It sure wasn't his fault that we booted quite a few of them."

Nadeau gave up five hits, struck out four and walked two in going the full seven innings.

Chelsea didn't have a hit going into the fifth inning trailing 2-0. A couple of walks put runners on base, and Rod Robeson and Doug Pagliarini delivered clutch singles to put the Bulldogs ahead, 3-2. They got two more in the top of the seventh.

Lincoln threatened to come back in the bottom of the seventh, but Nadeau closed it out with only one run crossing the plate.

Chelsea had just four hits for the game but took advantage of six walks and seven stolen bases.

Manchester Youth Participates in Navy Training Exercise

Marine Cpl. John A. Benedict, son of Helen F. Benedict of 529 Granger St., Manchester, recently participated in exercise "Kernel Blitz 83" on the coast of Southern California.

He is a member of the 5th Marine Amphibious Brigade, Camp Pendleton, Calif.

Kernel Blitz was a nine-day U. S. Navy Third Fleet training exercise involving more than 7,000 Marines and sailors, 10 ships, and 40 aircraft. The exercise tested the capability of the Navy and Marine Corps to evacuate American citizens from a hostile area and project combat power ashore.

The Navy conducted training in the embarkation of Marines, live firing was conducted at the San Clemente Island range and an embassy evacuation exercise took place at Camp Pendleton, Calif. Both helicopter and surface assault forces were involved in an amphibious landing which included simulated aircraft bombing runs and artillery fire.

Kernel Blitz is one of a series of exercises designed to test and refine the abilities of Navy and Marine Corps amphibious forces.

HE'S OUT! Chelsea catcher Rod Robeson puts the tag on a Pinckney runner trying to score during last Tuesday's double-header here. Robeson has done an excellent job behind the plate for the Bulldogs this season, and has also swung a hot bat. Unusual for a catcher, he can match anybody on the Chelsea squad in foot speed.

Lolich Makes Hit At Bowling Banquet

About 335 young bowlers and members of their families attended the Michigan Bowling Proprietors' Youth Awards Banquet at the UAW 1284 Hall last Sunday.

Ed GreenLeaf, owner of Chelsea Lanes which sponsored the banquet, called it "a very successful event," thanks primarily to the appearance of Mickey Lolich, the pitcher who won three games as the Detroit Tigers took the 1968 World Series from the St. Louis Cardinals.

Lolich delighted the crowd with his description of the only home run he ever hit during his Major League career, a long fly ball that dropped into the stands during the seventh and deciding game of the 1968 Series.

Like many pitchers of his era (before the designated hitter rule) Lolich was pathetic with the bat. He got on base about once a year. When he hit the home run, he didn't quite know what to do.

"I knew I was supposed to run to first base," said Lolich, whose version of running can most charitably be described as a jog. He carried a lot of weight, which provided the power he needed to throw his variety of left-handed curves and sliders that made him an outstanding pitcher but left him a little bit lacking in the running phase of the game.

"When I got to first, the coach told me to go on to second," Lolich recalled. "I had a hard time finding it. I'd never been there before."

After Lolich chugged into second base and stopped, the Cardinal shortstop told him that he

George Lawrence Rolls to State Title

George Lawrence of 232 Jefferson St. says he "used to be a real good bowler," and at age 82 he still is. He rolled a 575 actual as he and his partner, Paul Bock of Ann Arbor, combined to win the state Senior Citizens Class A doubles title in a tournament held at Monroe.

Lawrence picked up another 96 pins on his handicap to post a 671 score. Bock, who is a mere 75, had 547 actual and 670 with handicap, to give the duo a total of 1,341 in the doubles. That was good enough to place first among the 113 pairs of over-70 bowlers entered in the doubles.

Lawrence and Bock bowled three weeks ago, but didn't learn until late last week that they had won. They will receive a prize of $100 plus trophies.

"I don't need any more bowling trophies," Lawrence chuckled. "I gave away 61 of them a couple of years ago to a group that erases the engraving and then re-wards them to young bowlers. I also donated a bunch of old bowling shirts, and have some more that I intend to donate. I like to help the kids who are starting in to the game."

Lawrence rolled his last 600 series in competition at the age of 67 and "would have liked to do it again" at 82 but missed by 25 pins.

"I didn't do too well in the singles at Monroe," Lawrence said. "When you are 82, you get a little tired after three games."

Boys Track Team Third In Conference Competition

Chelsea's boys track team came in third in the Southeastern Conference league meet held at Dexter on a cold and windy Wednesday afternoon.

The unseasonable weather hampered the athletes, who had trouble loosening up, and had spectators huddling in blankets in a scene reminiscent of a November football game.

As expected, Lincoln literally ran away with the championship with a seemingly endless depth of sprinters and jumpers. The Rallsplitters piled up 116 points, even though top performers were held out of some events.

Saline was a distant second with 76, and Chelsea scored 56. Chelsea's third-place finish, combined with its 4-2 SEC dual meet record, gave the Bulldogs third over-all for the season in the very tough and talented track league.

"We ran about as well as we could," Chelsea coach Pat Clarke said. "It was very difficult out there because of the weather, especially in the distance runs. Our boys won 15 medals, a fine over-all effort."

Eric Buckberry accounted for the only Bulldog first place with a leap of 13 feet in the pole vault. Teammate Darin Rowe cleared 12 feet to place second.

Matt McCallum should have had a first in the 110-meter high hurdles, after breaking the tape half a step in front, but was awarded second after a long huddle by the clockers and judges who finally decided the placings on the basis of a videotape. Whatever the tape may have suggested, McCallum was clearly ahead according to eye-witnesses at the finish line.

Mark Brosnan did not have one of his better days but still managed to place second in both the 800- and 1,600-meter runs. "The cold weather definitely hurt Mark," Clarke said. "He's still not fully recovered from an early season illness."

Brosnan's time of 4:34 in the 1,600 was almost 13 seconds slower than his winning mark in the regional meet the previous week.

Allen Cole turned in super efforts to place third in the 1,600 and fourth in the 3,200.

Other Chelsea placers included:

110-meter high hurdles—Mike Hintzen, fifth; Mark Spayd, sixth.

1,600-meter run—Tim Bowdish, third.

Discus—Gar DeYoe, fifth.

Shot put—Matt Lorenz, sixth.

High jump—Frank Waller, sixth.

800-meter relay—Chelsea (Kevin Richardson, Hintzen, Scott Miller, Randy Krichbaum) third.

400-meter relay—Chelsea (Dan Fenton, Richardson, Hintzen, Krichbaum) third.

1,600-meter relay—Chelsea (Fenton, Brosnan, Richardson, Scott Cooper) sixth.

300-meter low hurdles—Hintzen third.

3,200-meter run—Eric Green seventh.

Individual standout of the meet was Saline's Mark Pogliano who swept the three distance runs without being seriously pushed in any of them. An exceptionally strong if not especially stylish runner, Pogliano simply got out ahead in every race and ran his competition into the ground.

BOYS TRACK STANDOUTS: Matt McCallum, Eric Buckberry, Mark Brosnan and Mike Hintzen have been mainstays of this spring's Chelsea boys track team. McCallum is a hurdler, Buckberry a pole valuter, Brosnan a distance runner, and Hintzen a hurdler-sprinter who also competes in the shot put when he isn't doing anything else.

BOWING OUT: Pat Clarke is resigning at the end of this season after 14 years as head coach of the Chelsea boys varsity track team. Clarke is also giving up his duties as junior high wrestling mentor, but will continue to coach the boys and girls cross-country teams.

STATE MEET QUALIFIERS: These members of the Bulldog girls track team qualified for the state championships Saturday, June 4 at Caro. Sue Young, left, will go in the 800-meter relay; Carolyn Chandler, co-captain, 800 relay; Wendy Wolfgang, 1600 relay; Amy Wolfgang, 800 relay, 1600 relay and 300 low hurdles; Laura Damm, 1600 relay and Carol Warren, 800 and 1600 relays. For interested fans, the finals begin at 1:30 p.m. The 800 relay is scheduled for 2 p.m., the 300 hurdles at 3:45 p.m. and the 1600 relay at 5:10 p.m.

Bulldog Girls Finish Fifth In SEC Meet

Bulldog girls track team took fifth at the league meet May 25 at Dexter. Since there was a logjam for first, and for fifth, sixth and seventh from the regular season, a team's place in the league meet determined its over-all conference finish.

Milan won with 100 points; Dexter, 71½; Saline, 50½; Tecumseh, 45½; Chelsea, 36; Lincoln, 30½; and Jackson County Western, 14.

Cold weather slowed down Chelsea times, and shortened distances in field events such as the long jump, said coach Bill Bainton. Long-jumpers were going into the wind.

But the weather didn't bother the Bulldogs as much as it did other teams, he said. "The kids were ready to run."

Although he thought they had a good chance for fifth, he said they had to work for it. After the 200 meters Lincoln was leading.

Sue Oesterle took second in the shot put with a career best toss of 32'8". Amy Wolfgang took second in the 300 hurdles with a time of :49.3.

Wendy Wolfgang was second in the 800-meters in 2:28.3, an "outstanding effort," said Bainton.

The 1600 relay of Wendy Wolfgang, Carol Warren, Amy Wolfgang, and Laura Damm took second in 4:13.5. They gave the Milan team, which won, a good race, said Bainton, and led at the end of the third leg. But the Milan anchor, who had won the 400-meters, ran a blistering time to pass the Bulldog runner.

Sandra Frame took third in the 1600 in 5:36, a season best time. She also took fourth in the 3200 in 11:59.9. Kim Collins set a freshman record in that race of 12:37.6

but did not place.

The 800 relay team of Warren, Carolyn Chandler, Amy Wolfgang and Damm was fourth in 1:51.4. Warren took fifth in the 400, 1:03.7; Sue Young, fifth, long jump, 14'3"; and Chandler made the finals in the 200 but did not place.

The honor roll meet will be held Tuesday, May 31 at Jackson Northwest. The top ranked girls in the area, regardless of class, will compete. Qualifiers had not been determined before The Standard's early holiday deadline.

Six Chelsea girls have qualified for the state meet June 4.

Beach Girls Track Team Loses to Saline

When two teams undefeated in dual meets face each other, one has to lose. Unfortunately it was the Beach school girls track team that came up short to Saline, 65-58, May 18 at the Chelsea High school track.

The meet came down to the last two events, the mile and 400 relays. Chelsea was leading, 58-55, and had to win just one of the two to win the meet.

Although the mile relay ran their best time of the season, the Baby Hornets took that event. Edie Harook, anchorman of the 440, made up several yards during her leg of the relay, but the Bullpups were nosed out at the finish.

Beach had built up a lead in the distance races with excellent times, said coach Ann Schaffner, and got much-needed points in sprints with fine individual efforts.

Chris Neuman set a new school record of 2:38.8 in the 800, winning that event. The old record was 2:40.4. Sallie Wilson took second with a career best of 2:40.66. Kasey Anderson, who was just coming back from an injury, ran 2:41.68.

Four Bullpups ran under 14 minutes in the two-mile, sweeping that event as usual. Cathy Barham was first; Ann Brosnan, second; and Kim Degener, third. Also in that event were Beth Kenney and Melanie Flanagan. Sarah Weis won the mile in 6:00, and Robin Mock was second, 6:04.24. Edie Harook won the 100 dash in 13.30 and also won the long jump, 14' 6". Chris Zerkel won the shot put; Amy Richardson was second, and Carol Palmer won the 75-yard dash.

Traci Modrzejewski was second in the 440; Shannon Dunn, second, 60 hurdles; Tami Harris, third, 220; Weis, third, high jump; and Heidi Knickerbocker, third, 100 dash.

The team's season record was 4-1. They took second to Saline at the Jackson County Western Invitational May 13.

Although not all 55 girls completing the season were able to score points at meets, said Mrs. Schaffner, everyone lowered their times and seemed to have a good experience.

It was certainly an enjoyable team to coach, she said.

SPORTS NOTES

BY BILL MULLENDORE

Even if you are not an avid automobile racing fan, there is something about the Indianapolis 500 that gets to you. I know. I've been there, several times, and hope to go back for several more before I run out of years.

A big part of the thrill is just being in the crowd of 350,000 or so, the largest throng to attend any sporting event—or any other kind of event, for that matter—anywhere in the world, ever. A capacity crowd at the Michigan Stadium would rattle around in the vastness of the Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

After the singing of "Back Home Again in Indiana," with the 33 qualifying cars lined up in 11 neat rows of three behind the starting line, the call goes out, "Gentlemen, start your engines!" and those monstrous machines roar into life in a deafening thunder that makes the hair prickle on the back of your neck. To me, it is the most electrifying moment in sports.

Maybe the magic for me comes in part because the 500 is in my blood. My roots are in the Indianapolis area, where my mother and dad were born. Most of my relatives, including a married daughter, live there, and you can bet they will all be in the Speedway come Monday morning. I wish I were going to be there with them.

An aunt of mine, who died a couple of years ago at 93, attended more than 50 consecutive 500's, the last one at age 91. They had to carry her in, but she wasn't about to miss it. My dad's cousin, Harry McQuinn, drove at Indy for about 20 years and once managed to finish seventh. Back when the racing cars were two-seaters, Dad rode around the track with Harry whenever he got the chance, at the then sensational speed of more than 100 miles per hour.

The better cars can turn a lap at more than 200 mph today, hitting as high as 230 in the straight-aways before "slowing down" to 180 or so on the turns. Speeds have risen to the point where they have to put special air foils on the cars to hold them down on the track. Otherwise, they would take off and fly.

At those speeds there is absolutely no margin for driver error. One split-second of lost concentration spells disaster. Anybody who says that the 500 is a test of machines and not of men is talking through his hat.

Sure the machines have to work, incredibly well. Mechanical failures take more than 15 cars out of the race every year. Usually, it's a breakdown of some two-dollar part in a racer that cost a quarter-million or more to construct. If his car won't make it through the full 500 miles, the driver has no chance to win.

But in almost all races, when it comes down to the final few laps, it's the driver who makes the difference. Gordon Johncock didn't have the fastest car in the stretch run last year, but he did the most skillful job of driving and he won.

There is special local interest in this year's Indy. Howdy Holmes of Ann Arbor, son of the president of Chelsea Milling Co., qualified well up toward the front in a new car that is obviously "hot." It isn't the fastest in the field, but it's fast enough that he has an honest shot at winning if the machine can make it all the way.

I found out last year, when I was in Indianapolis for the race, that Holmes is one of the most popular drivers around, personable and gracious. He will have a lot of people pulling for him Monday.

Johncock also has Michigan ties. He formerly lived in Mason and now calls Coldwater home. The facts that he has been in racing for a long time, has won the 500 twice, and will be driving a car that has been thoroughly tested and proven durable will make him one of the favorites. Johncock will start in the fourth row, as will Holmes.

Unfortunately, you won't be able to see the race as it happens unless you are there in person. The Indy 500 is one of the few major sporting events in America that is not televised live, a policy established by the Hulman family which owns the Speedway and conducts the race according to its own rules and whims. There will be a live radio broadcast, and, later in the evening, a condensed videotape telecast of the highlights.

I would like to be there to see the whole thing. In no way is the race a bore. It doesn't last as long as a baseball double-header, and takes little more time than a college football game. There is a lot happening besides the cars going around and around. Watching the pit crews in action, as they change a set of tires and pour in a tankful of fuel in less than 15 seconds, is a sight to see in itself.

Like the Kentucky Derby, the Rose Bowl game and a World Series, the Indy 500 is one of those spectacles that every sports fan owes it to himself to witness at least once. I haven't made the Derby yet but, up to now in my life, the 500 is the greatest of them all for the sheer thrill of being there.

TOP DOUBLES TEAM: Seniors Damon Mark, left, and Rod Worthing were the number one doubles team on the Bulldog tennis team this season. They compiled a 15-2 record and took second at the regionals May 21. Although their place would have been good enough to qualify them for the state meet if they had been singles players, doubles teams, for some reason, don't go to the state tennis championships.

Tennis Team Takes 5th in Regionals

Bulldog tennis team took fifth out of 14 teams at the regionals May 21-22 at Monroe Catholic Central.

Damon Mark and Rod Worthing, the number one doubles team who has led the team throughout the season, took second in the finals in a three set match, 4-6, 6-2, 4-6, to be the top Bulldog placers.

Only singles players go on to the state meet, so this was their last match of the season.

Mark and Worthing, who were seeded second, had a bye in the first round; defeated an Allen Park Cabrini team, 6-2, 6-2, and

Tennis Team Wins 1 of 3

Chelsea boys tennis team defeated Howell, 4-3, May 16, then lost to them the next day, 2-5, and lost to Gabriel Richard, 5-2, May 18.

Rod Worthing played first singles against Howell Monday, and won, 4-6, 6-2, 6-2. He won again at second singles, 6-2, 6-3, Tuesday, and teamed up with Damon Mark to win first doubles against Richard, 6-4, 6-3. Their over-all doubles record is now 10-1.

The second singles team of Thom Schumann and Kurt Eisenbeiser won Monday, 6-0, 6-3, but lost Tuesday and Wednesday, 0-3, 5-7, and 2-6, 6-7, respectively. Their over-all record is 5-6.

Craig Hinz and Greg Markle at third doubles won all three of their matches last week. They defeated the two Howell teams, 7-5, 6-3 and 6-4, 6-0, and Richard, 7-6, 6-1. Their over-all record is 10-2.

Singles players tried hard, said coach Terry Schreiner, but couldn't get the points for match wins.

Hillsdale, 6-1, 6-3 to make the Saturday finals. Their season record is 15-2, and their dual meet record is 8-1.

Craig Hinz and Greg Markle, the number three doubles team, lost a heartbreaker in the semi-finals to Saline, 1-6, 6-2, 7-9. They played a beautiful match, said coach Terry Schreiner. It was tied, 6-6, 7-7, and then Saline won the last two games to take the match.

Hinz and Markle, seeded third, got a bye in the first round and won their second round over a good Allen Park team, 7-6, 7-6.

All Bulldog doubles teams got by the first round without incident. Thom Schumann and Kurt Eisenbeiser defeated an Allen Park Cabrini team, 6-2, 6-2, and then lost in the second round to Hillsdale, 2-6, 2-6.

Mark Henson, fourth singles, was the only singles player to score points at the regionals. He won his first round match, 2-6, 6-4, 6-3, and then lost to the

JV Sluggers Down Lincoln, Lose to AA

Chelsea's junior varsity baseball team defeated Lincoln, 8-5, last Monday afternoon but found Class A Ann Arbor Pioneer a bit too much to handle the next day and dropped a 3-0 decision.

Chuck Downer's bases-loaded double that drove in three runs keyed the come-from-behind win over Lincoln as the Bulldogs rallied in the top of the sixth to achieve the victory. Downer also had a single and chalked up four RBI's for the game.

Eric Schaffner was in near-complete control on the pitching mound except for one bad inning—the fourth—during which the Railsplitters put together four of their five hits and all of their runs. He struck out nine and walked three.

Brian Farley and Schaffner had the only other two Chelsea hits.

Pioneer used bunts to squeeze home all three of its runs while the Bulldogs were being shut out on just three hits by what coach Ken Larson called "a really fine left-handed pitcher, the best we have seen all season."

Downer did the pitching for Chelsea and, according to Lar-

"It was an excellent game, well played by both teams," Larson said. "We played errorless ball for the first time this season, and we had some chances to score, but we couldn't come up with hits when we needed them. Give credit to the Pioneer pitcher. He threw awfully well."

OUT IN THE OPEN

By BILL MULLENDRE

Gov. Blanchard has appointed three new members to the Natural Resources Commission (NRC), with the obvious intent of stacking the deck in his favor so that he can personally select the new director of the Department of Natural Resources after Howard Tanner officially leaves on June 1.

What Blanchard has done is legal. He took advantage of a combination of two expired terms and a resignation to load the commission with persons who, according to their published statements, are servile to his dictates. I find that more than a little surprising.

One of Blanchard's appointees is former State Rep. Thomas J. Anderson of Southgate, a man I know well and respect as one of the very few thoroughly honest politicians I have ever dealt with. Tom chaired the House Conservation Committee for many years and never sought any partisan advantage as a member of the Democratic majority. In fact, for a couple of terms he invited a Republican, Warren Goemaere, to co-chair the committee with him. They worked perfectly in tandem and, between them, steered the important natural resources management and environmental protection laws of the early 1970's through the Legislature.

So it comes as a surprise to read in the papers that Anderson has agreed in advance to support Blanchard's choice for director, whoever it turns out to be, and also has promised to sit by while the governor and his henchmen steal the last dollar from the Michigan Recreation Land Trust Fund.

Maybe that is what Tom had to do to get the nod for his appointment to the commission. Politics is a pretty sleazy game, one that is hard indeed for honest persons to play. If and when he is confirmed by the Senate, Tom will have a difficult decision to make: Will he keep his promises to the governor who appointed him, or will he do what is right for Michigan conservation?

As the issues are now drawn, Anderson is going to have to choose, and for a man of honor the decisions will not be easy. He has made commitments to Blanchard, and he is likewise committed to good conservation. The two are incompatible. I have to hope that he will wrestle with his conscience and come down on the side of conservation.

Another of Blanchard's NRC appointees, former State Democratic Sen. Steven Monsma of Grand Rapids, has a reputation as a "sound" conservationist, whatever that is. I don't know him, but have looked at his voting record and it seems to be reasonably good. Unlike Anderson, Monsma hasn't been a mover and shaker, but he usually has voted on the right side of conservation issues, and did serve for a time as chairman of the Senate Conservation Committee.

Unfortunately, Monsma has likewise publicly promised subservience to Blanchard. Whether he has the personal strength and courage to serve as an honest commissioner remains to be seen.

Blanchard's third appointment, that of E. R. Carollo of Iron Mountain, is a blatant piece of political wheeling and dealing. Carollo is said to represent the interests of tourism on the NRC, a strange credential indeed considering that the tourist industry has its own commission and agency in the Department of Commerce. There is nothing in Carollo's background to suggest fitness to serve on the NRC.

The fact is that Carollo owes his appointment to the influence of State Sen. Joseph S. Mack of Ironwood, a negative force against the good of Michigan conservation for so many years (more than 20) that I have lost count. After trying and failing for a long time, Joe Mack has gotten his way and will have his mouthpiece on the commission.

It comes down to the fact that Mack is the "swing" vote in a 20-18 Democratic majority in the Senate, and is therefore going to have a lot to say about which bills pass and which don't. He is also going to have a lot to say about who gets appointed to what. By pulling the strings on his puppet Carollo, Mack will be able to wield influence far beyond his apparent importance as the senator from the west end of the Upper Peninsula.

Knowing Joe as well as I do—and admiring his political skills while despising his conservation philosophy—I have to salute him. He has finally put himself in a position to call a lot of shots, and just might decide who the next DNR director will be.

There definitely needs to be better communication between the DNR, on the one hand, and the governor's office and the Legislature on the other. That was one of the principal weaknesses of Tanner's directorate, and appointment of two former legislators who are loyal to the governor should help to mend those breached fences. The door is at least open for people to start talking with each other.

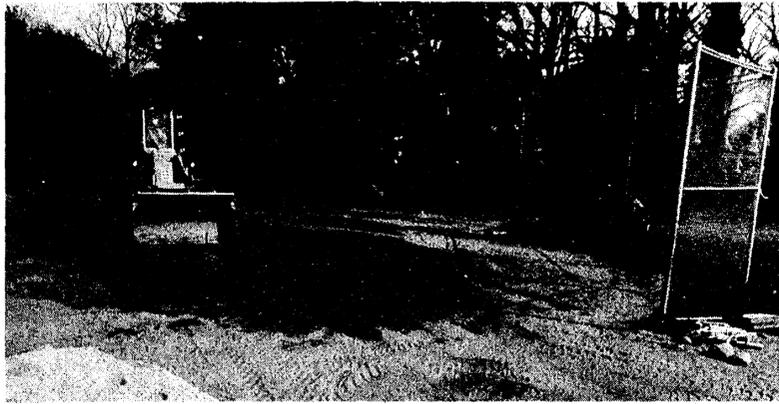

Unfortunately, no steps have been taken yet to address the "really wrong" problems in the DNR, including its organization, purpose, programs and employee morale. The intent of the Blanchard administration, so far, seems to be to ignore those, or at least duck them, in the hope that a few new faces will take care of everything. They won't, because they can't.

More next week.

IT'S TRILLIUM TIME: Spring has been slow in coming to Michigan this year, but you can tell it's here for sure when the trilliums bloom in the woods. About half a dozen species of trilliums grow in the state, but the white one pictured here is by far the most common. Trilliums are on the list of protected wildflowers, which suggests they are rare although they really aren't. However, trilliums should be left alone. They won't last half a day if picked and put in a vase, and almost never survive attempts at transplanting. Look, admire, but don't touch is a good rule to follow.

MORE FOR SOFTBALL: While one softball diamond at Beach Middle is in use, the second is being refurbished with a new infield surface of compacted limestone sand. It and the two new diamonds at Dana Field (Veterans Park) should be ready for play next month.

Two Chelsea Students Earn Degrees At Bowling Green

Caroline E. Lane of 636 N. Main St., Chelsea, and Shelly E. Springer of 13771 Sauer, Gregory, graduated from Bowling Green State University at commencement ceremonies May 7.

Gerald B. Mitchell, chairman and chief executive officer of Dana Corp., was one of the honorary degree recipients.

Lane was awarded a Bachelors of Science degree in education, and Springer received a Bachelors of Science degree in business administration.

Canoeing Clinics

Instruction is offered for families and individuals at the Argo Park Canoe Livery located at 1055 Longshore Dr., Ann Arbor, on Saturdays through June 25, (excluding Memorial Day week-end).

Clinics are two hours long and are from 10 a.m. to 12 noon. The first hour includes basic canoeing techniques, safety and proper handling and the second hour provides practice in Argo Pond.

All equipment and canoes are provided, and instructors are Red Cross certified. The cost is $7.50 per person.

Possible Nuisance Ordinance Studied

The village council and police department are taking a look at a possible new "public nuisance" ordinance covering such things as junk cars, rubbish piles, noxious weeds and other unsightly messes.

"It's not all gathered together in a single ordinance, but I believe it's all there someplace. We'll check to see if anything is not covered."

"I think we are already pretty well covered under various portions of existing ordinances," police chief Robert Aello said.

Village policy is to collect photographic evidence of nuisances, talk with the persons responsible, issue formal warnings if necessary, and prosecute only as a last resort, Aello said.

From the SUPERINTENDENT'S DESK

By Raymond E. Van Meer, Superintendent of Schools

Why Do the Schools Need Millage?

During the past five years, the State of Michigan, because of a loss in sales and income tax revenues, has issued Executive Orders which have reduced income to the Chelsea schools. The state has withheld approximately $500,000 in Executive Order from the Chelsea School District during the past five years. Subsequently the school district budgets were reduced each year. These reductions have partially offset previous growth in state equalized valuation and changes in the State Aid formula. These series of Executive Orders, plus the recent property tax decline, are the reasons that the schools must ask for increased operating millage.

The Chelsea Board of Education has appreciated the community support of a quality school system. The Board of Education needs your continued support for your schools. Property assessments have declined an average of 5.366%, or approximately $10,000,000, in the Chelsea School District for 1983. This decline in valuation has severe budget impact for the 1983-84 school year. The Board of Education made reductions of $587,934 in the proposed 1983-84 budget requests previous to knowing the actual decline in valuation. In order to balance the 1983-84 budget, 2.9 mills are necessary, or a second set of reductions totaling approximately $500,000 will have to be made. These second reductions will severely impact on programs for students and adults.

Will the 2.9 Mill Increase in Operating Millage Increase Your Total Tax Bill?

A. It will depend on what happened to your assessment (SEV). If your SEV remains the same, your tax bill will be increased by approximately 6.2%.

Example 1: SEV remains the same

1982-SEV $40,000
1982 Total Levy $46.69/1,000
1982 Tax Bill— $40,000 x 46.69 mills	= $1,867.60
2.9 mill increase	40,000 x 2.90 = 116.00
1983 Tax Bill	$1,983.60
Net Tax Increase (+6.2%)	$ 116.00

If your assessment (SEV) was reduced by 5.366%, which is the average reduction, your total tax bill will increase by approximately 1/2 of 1%.

Example 2: SEV reduced by 5.366%

1982-SEV $40,000—New SEV $37,854 (-5.366%)
1982 Total Levy $46.69/1,000
1982 Tax Bill— $40,000 x 46.69 mills	= $1,867.60
1983 Tax Bill— 37,854 x 46.69	= 1,767.40
2.9 mill increase	37,854 x 2.90 = 109.78
Total 1983 Tax Bill	$1,877.18
Net Tax Increase (+0.51%)	$ 9.58

If your assessment (SEV) was reduced by 5.88% or greater, your total tax bill will be the same or decrease.

Example 3: SEV reduced by 5.88%

1982-SEV $40,000—New SEV $37,648 (-5.88%)
1982 Total Levy $46.69/1,000
1982 Tax Bill— $40,000 x 46.69 mills	= $1,867.60
1983 Tax Bill (new SEV)	37,648 x 46.69 = 1,757.79
2.9 mill increase	37,648 x 2.9 = 109.18
Total 1983 Tax Bill	$1,866.97
Tax approximately even	-.63%

Example 4: SEV reduced by 10%

1982-SEV $40,000—New SEV $36,000 (-10%)
1982 Total Levy $46.69/1,000
1982 Tax Bill— $40,000 x 46.69 mills	= $1,867.60
1983 Tax Bill (new SEV)	36,000 x 46.69 = 1,680.84
2.9 mill increase	36,000 x 2.0 = 104.40
Total 1983 Tax Bill	$1,785.24
Net Tax Decrease (-4.41%)	$ 82.36

Robert G. Wetzel Named Guest Professor of Sweden

Robert G. Wetzel, a professor of botany at Michigan State University and the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Wetzel of 17 Sycamore Dr., Chelsea, is now serving as the first Erlander National Guest Professor of Sweden. Wetzel, an ecologist and author of several books and scientific articles on the physiology and ecology of freshwater organisms, began his six-month appointment at the Institute of Limnology, the University of Uppsala April 1. Limnology is the study of fresh water as oceanography is the study of oceans.

The professorship was initiated last year by the Swedish Parliament in honor of the 80th birthday of Tage Erlander, who was the Swedish prime minister for 20 years. Integrating society effectively with the environment was one of Erlander's interests.

Wetzel is researching the effects of "acid rain," the acidification of fresh waters by atmospheric pollution, which is a worldwide problem but particularly acute in Europe and North America.

He received both his Bachelors and Masters degrees at the University of Michigan. In 1962 he was awarded his Ph.D. from the University of California at Davis, where he began studying freshwater ecology.

Wetzel joined the MSU faculty after a brief period on the faculty of Indiana University. He is also an adjunct professor of zoology at MSU.

School District Gets Good Rate on Tax Notes

Sometimes it's an advantage to be a big, short-term, relatively risk-free borrower.

Anyone buying a home now would like to get the school district's interest bids on its $3 million in tax anticipation notes—6.07 percent was the low bid from City Bank and Trust Co. of Jackson. Chelsea State Bank will be the paying agent.

Chelsea school board voted to accept that bid at its May 16 meeting. Borrowing at that interest rate will cost the district $152,761.67.

The district borrows annually, because its fiscal year begins in July, and taxes to support that school year are due the following December.

The five interest bids, due at 3 p.m. May 16, ranged from 6.07 to 6.94 percent. A bid of 5.9 percent was not allowed because it was bid on discounted notes worth less than $3 million, Fred Mills, school district assistant superintendent, told the board.

Bids were to be on par value, he said, and effective interest on that bid would have been 6.45 percent anyway.

Chelsea got good bids, said Mills, because the school district qualified the notes for insurance by giving financial information such as a history of the district's tax collection rate, state equalized valuations in the district and cash flow. Insurance raises the effective bond rating to AAA, the highest possible.

Mills, who said he had expected an interest rate between 6.5 and 7.0 percent, told the board he was "mighty pleased" with 6.07 percent. That saved the district $45,000 to $60,000.

The low bid for another school district, whose bids were due at 2 p.m. that same day, was 6.64 percent.

New PIK Program Can Benefit Soils

Many area farmers may be wondering what the best management practice is for land idled under the USDA Payment-In-Kind program.

"Plant a deep-rooted cover crop" is what Morse Brown, district conservationist for the USDA Soil Conservation Service in Washtenaw county is telling local farmers. Brown believes, along with MSU agronomists that PIK offers the opportunity to improve the condition of fields by correcting problems with insects and weeds and reduce soil compaction problems by establishing a deep rooted legume crop. According to County Agricultural Agent Ron Struss, evidence of excessively compacted soils can be found in most fields in Washtenaw county, often reducing crop production.

Most compacted soil problems in Michigan have been caused by past soil management. Soils that were once easy to till have become hard and cloddy due to the packing action of various tillage and harvesting operations.

"Soil will recover its loose structure if we give it a chance" said Brown, "and the PIK Program is an excellent opportunity for landowners to let their soil recover good structure."

Approved Cover Crops

According to ASCS county executive director Lori Hunker, land left idle by the PIK program must be protected from erosion. In Washtenaw county this requirement will be satisfied by any one of the following:

- 1.) Annual, biennial, or perennial grasses and legumes including volunteer stands but excluding soybeans.
- 2.) Small grains including volunteer stands cut by the disposition dates (June 20 for fall-seeded crops, July 1 for spring-seeded crops.)
- 3.) Crop residue from minimum tillage practices such as corn or wheat stubble. Weeds must be controlled either by cutting or with herbicides.

Several factors should be considered when developing a management program for acreage taken out of production. These factors include the previous crop grown and the herbicide application history. Triazine residues (Atrazine or Princep) will reduce options for a cover crop.

All legumes and most forage grasses are sensitive to triazine, whereas sorghum and sorghum-sudan hybrids have a much higher tolerance. Advice on testing for atrazine carryover may be obtained from the Cooperative Extension Service.

If triazine carryover is not a problem, ideal legumes would be red clover or alfalfa because they will supply nitrogen for a subsequent crop. For a one-year cover, red clover is ideal because it is easily established, grows vigorously and provides competition against weeds. Alfalfa is a good alternative if a long-term cover is desired since ASCS cost-sharing is available for a long-term stand (5 years.) Sweet clover is a good cover best suited for plow down because insect and animal nutrition problems make it less desirable as a future forage crop. Other legumes provide good cover but may not be as productive or supply as much nitrogen.

Where triazine carryover is a problem, close-sown corn may be used although this option will promote the build up of disease and insects such as corn rootworm. This will only be a concern if the next crop is corn.

District Conservationist Morse Brown is enthusiastic about the fact that the large amount of idled land will provide an excellent opportunity for the installation of other soil conservation measures. Diversions and grassed waterways can be installed on idle cropland without sacrificing a crop during the growing season.

For more information concerning assistance on conservation measure, feel free to visit the Soil Conservation District Office at 6101 Jackson Rd., Ann Arbor, or call 761-6722.

County Historical Society Will Tour Webster Area

The annual Washtenaw County Historical Society bus tour will explore "Washtenaw's Daniel Webster connection by visiting on Saturday, June 11, the township named after him 150 years ago this spring.

The 19th century New England statesman contributed more than his name to the township which extends from Dexter to Base Lake to Independence Lake to Loch Alpine subdivision.

The tour will visit the 1871 township hall, the 1834 Webster church, the 1832 Cottonwood Farm house where the township was organized, the Italianate Scadin house and two new antique-furnished Cape Cod houses. A gourmet luncheon will be served at the Community House by women of the church.

The church is one of the two oldest church buildings in continuous use in the state. It and the township hall are on the State Register of Historic Places. The Brigham bow house has an unusual bow-shaped roof and was recently featured in the Detroit Free Press. The Kleinschmidt house is partially geothermally heated.

James Parker, president of the township historical society and author of a new 24-page history, will guide. He will board the bus in Ann Arbor and narrate as the bus shun-pikes (avoids super highways and main roads) its way to the township hall.

The bus will board at 9:45 a.m. at Westgate Shopping Center, Ann Arbor, and return by 5 p.m. Prepaid reservations, $18 per person, are due Friday, June 3, to: WCHS Tour, 1931 Coronada Drive, Ann Arbor 48103.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Chelsea Standard,
I am writing from my eighth grade science class room. We were assigned to do projects concerning hazardous waste and its disposal. This interests me. I am concerned about this because I feel that we need our environment to be clean not only for living conditions but for our own recreation also. For instance if our water was polluted with chemical wastes, where could we get our water to drink but also where would we swim?
I understand that these wastes can kill off many animals and this worries many people, including me.
I hope we all do something about this as soon as possible and help people understand how hazardous it really is.
Melanie Dils.

Dear Mr. Editor,
In science class we are studying about our environment and the disposal of hazardous waste. I am thankful that I have had a chance to learn more about it.
But in becoming more aware of the disposal of hazardous waste, I have become very concerned about the safety in doing so.
Recently in the news I have heard about the dioxin contamination in Midland, Mich. Such contaminations have frightened me because of the effects it puts on our people and the environment.
Many times I have read about how certain species of animals are dying out because of man-made pollutants.
As a teenager I know that the solution to this problem lies in my generation's hands. I only hope that we will be able to save ourselves from ourselves. For without nature and people there is no life.
Thank you for letting me express my concerns.
Alison Chasteen.

Dear Mr. Editor,
I am very worried about hazardous waste disposal in Michigan. People who work for the county do not seem to be doing much about it in ways of treating it, and making it into a non-hazardous material and while people take their time. Just because one little thing may not prove that a material may be hazardous. Some people are having health problems like kidney problems and other defects because it gets in the air, and usually the water.
I don't want to grow up and have my kids and have it so they have to wear gas masks, never be able to fish, swim or do anything in the water. Could you please try and do something?
Norman Weber.

Dear Editor:
After reading the many letters published in The Standard concerning the Pump 'n' Pantry and the McKune Library, I decided that this matter would benefit from a perceptual overview. The future of the Pump 'n' Pantry and the McKune Library, depends upon the fact that the citizens of Chelsea recognize the need for an adaptable multi-cultural perspective to synthesize total modular exchange between the two establishments. In addition, it must also be realized that comprehensive reciprocal interaction would facilitate multi-purpose serial communication between the patrons of the McKune Library and the customers of the Pump 'n' Pantry. For example, minimal attitudinal objectives would maximize a high potential for assessing the value of both buildings.
The Pump 'n' Pantry serves as an interpersonal encounter where the individuals are stylistic; however, this diversity facilitates serial transmission and instrumentation. In contrast, the McKune Library serves as an ontological approach to resources and maximizes a sophisticated systems analysis center. With this in mind, it follows that the McKune Library and the Pump 'n' Pantry must be adaptable to a workable interaction; if not, they both will alienate the individual.
In conclusion, it can be stated that both the Pump 'n' Pantry and the McKune Library serve the citizens of Chelsea with a multi-cultural environment; such an environment articulates the needs of our society.

Dear Editor:
This letter was written in response to a letter from "An Irritated Taxpayer" that appeared in the May 24 issue of The Standard. The main point raised in this letter was that the schools use idle threats to try to convince voters to pass millage proposals. This simply isn't true.
I, too, used to feel that the schools wouldn't do as they threatened, but this year they have no choice. The administration this year is being more realistic than they have been in past years. In fact, the budget cuts have already been planned in case of millage failure. No one is threatening to cut "ALL SPORTS" or "THE MUSIC PROGRAM" this year. The proposed reductions are spread over all programs, and all will feel the impact.
I'm only fifteen and I won't be paying any taxes this year, but I still believe that I can identify polyester clothing, the making of stereos.

If a community or country doesn't want to have hazardous wastes it can change its lifestyle, she said, or take responsibility for the wastes it creates, instead of shoving them off onto another community.

She spent part of last summer in New Zealand. Instead of a parking lot full of cars, the schools there had lots full of bicycles, ridden by staff and students. Fuel has to be imported, so it is very expensive.

The environmental unit seems to intrigue the students, she said. They often do more than double the required assignments.

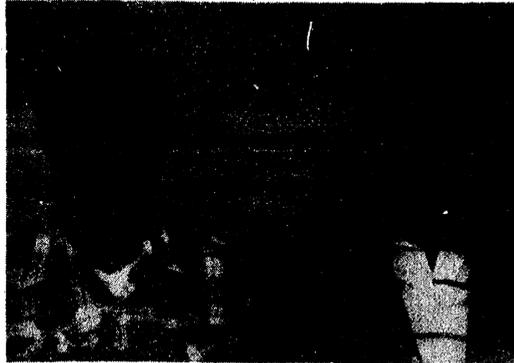

But their interest in their environment doesn't stop after eighth grade. Several of the Earth Day students from the early 1970s are now congressional aides in Washington.

Almost one-quarter, or 23.6 percent, of Michigan's older population lives alone.

with the way these "Irritated Taxpayers" feel. But I also think that these people are not taking into consideration all the facts; for instance, according to this newspaper, the lower valuation is supposed to offset the higher millage. If the proposal passes, most people will not even notice its effect.

The administration isn't making idle threats this year. If the vote on June 13 doesn't pass, we'll all suffer.

Joshua Smith.

DEATHS Chelsea Not Alone In Money Crunch

Dillon D. Wolverton

Chelsea and Hallandale, Fla. Dillon D. Wolverton, 80, of Chelsea and Hallandale, Fla., died suddenly May 24 at Chelsea Community Hospital.

He was born May 20, 1903 in Blissfield to Charles and Clara (Beagle) Wolverton. He married Geraldine Ford in 1927 at the Michigan Union, Ann Arbor, and she preceded him in death in September of 1969. He married Ellen Collier May 1, 1970 in Hollywood, Fla., and she survives him.

From 1928 until he moved to Chelsea in 1941, Mr. Wolverton was principal and coach of Caledonia High school. He built and operated the Sylvan Theatre in Chelsea, and, more recently, owned and operated the Wolverton Nursery.

He had served on the village council and was a friend of North Lake United Methodist church. He graduated from University of Michigan in 1927 and was a charter member of the Quarterback Club.

Survivors in addition to his widow are three nephews. He was preceded in death by a brother, the Rev. Merle Wolverton.

Funeral services were held at 11 a.m. Friday, May 27 at Staffan-Mitchell Funeral Home with the Rev. David Strobe of North Lake United Methodist church officiating.

Burial was in Toledo Memorial Park Cemetery, Sylvania, O.

Memorial contributions may be made to North Lake United Methodist church.

Garage Sale Nets $538.69 for School District

Chelsea school district's garage sale was proof that "One man's junk is another's treasure."

The district made $538.69 at its garage sales May 13, 14, and 19. The first day district employees were given the chance to both buy things for themselves and choose materials for their classrooms.

The property tax income decline in the Chelsea school district—which caused the 2.9 mill increase in operating funds proposal to be added to June 13 ballots—is not unique to Chelsea.

Of the 10 school districts in the Washtenaw Intermediate School District, only Ann Arbor had an increase in equalized valuations this year, and a slim one at that, .4 percent. The SEV is multiplied by the millage rate to determine one's property tax bill.

Dexter had the biggest percentage and dollar drop from last year's equalization figures, 7.38 percent, $13.38 million. (These figures do not contain industrial facilities taxes, so they will be different from SEV figures which include that.)

Chelsea ranked third as biggest SEV loser based on percentage, 5.37 percent, and was the third biggest loser based on over-all dollars, $9.8 million. That translates into more than $325,000 loss in income.

According to figures released by the Chelsea school district, Chelsea ranked fourth for the 1981-82 school year in per pupil operating costs among districts in WISD, $2,357.29.

Chelsea school district students did rank first and second among WISD member districts in all math and reading comparisons in grades 4, 7 and 10.

The intermediate school district as a whole had a 1.5 percent decline in equalizations this year, which comes to $49.6 million.

WISD will deal with its loss of income by holding the line on their programs, which serve children from around the county, said Claude Elmore, director of administrative services. Any employees who retire or leave will probably not be replaced at this time.

After Roman Banquet, It's Back to English

Seventh grade social studies and English classes held their third annual Roman banquet May 25 to finish their world history unit on the Romans.

The five-course meal began with "wine," (grapejuice); followed by hors d'oeuvres of olives, raisins, grapes and nuts; bread and Collumella salad, based on a recipe from a Roman poem; a main course of Lucellus' Delight, meat combined with "hummingbird tongues" (pimento), topped with hot Etruscan sauce; and a dessert of baklava.

More than 200 appropriately dressed students dined in three shifts, sitting on the floor on pillows and eating at low tables in the large group instruction room. Slaves were chosen by lot.

They wore the same clothes and ate the same food, said Barbara Brown, one of the teachers, but had to serve two other students.

The banquet included a grand march and best-dressed prizes. Although the banquet was probably the highlight of the year (the teachers' goal is to give them an experience they will always remember, said Ms. Brown) for the rest of the school year these classes will have an English unit.

The three teachers, Ms. Brown, Jim Hoefft and Charles Waller, cooked and assembled all the food, except the baklava, which Lenore Mattoff prepared.
