Variety of Events On Tap for Village July 4 Celebration

Chelsea's Fourth of July celebration features chicken barbecue, four-wheel drive truck pulls, ice cream and fireworks at the Chelsea Community Fairgrounds.

Floyd Rinehart of American Legion Post No. 31, traditional host of the celebration, is in charge of the crew which cooks 1,500 chicken halves for the noon barbecue. The $4 dinners include a piece of "juicy, extra heavy" chicken, promise the sponsoring Legion members, slaw, potato chips and roll. Beverage is extra. The barbecue ends at no set time—when there are no more chickens left.

At 1 p.m. the four-wheel drive truck pull begins at the arena, and drivers from throughout the state will be competing. Admission is $3.

The ice cream social, sponsored by the Knights of Columbus Auxiliary, begins at 5 p.m.

For anyone who has extra room left after the chicken and ice cream, Chelsea Kiwanis Club's knockwurst tent will be set up at 7 p.m. along with a beer tent.

Don Doll is in charge of the fireworks, which will be set off at dusk south of the arena. This year the Legion has been able to raise more money for the fireworks, $2,500, with the help of other sponsoring organizations.

That means more booms, more color and a more dazzling finale.

Doll began doing Legion firework displays more than 20 years ago when the Legion had the celebration at Cavanaugh Lake.

It was pretty tricky setting them off from a raft in the middle of the lake, he said. "If one didn't go up high enough, you went swimming in a hurry."

Helping the Legion sponsor the celebration are Chelsea Kiwanis Club, Four-wheel Drive Pullers Association, BookCrafters, Inc., Chelsea Milling Co., McDonald's, Chelsea Lions Club, Knights of Columbus Auxiliary and the Chelsea Community fair board.

Village May Ask Federal Grants Under Jobs Act

Chelsea officials are studying the possibility of applying for funding of any or all of four municipal public works projects which may be eligible under the federal Emergency Jobs Act of 1983.

Village administrator Frederick A. Weber listed improvements to water and sewage lines, upgrading of the sewage treatment plant and development of a proposed industrial park as projects which might qualify under the act.

"There is no question that we are eligible for grants under the broad terms of the act," Weber said. "The federal funds are offered to areas where unemployment is 8.7 percent or higher, and Chelsea is at 9.9 percent."

Council discussion indicated that water and sewer improvements in the portion of the village located south of Old US-12 are of top concern. Water pressures are low in that sector, to the point where there is a good question whether a major fire could be put out if it occurred.

Some combination of a tower, pumps and mains is needed to correct the problem, and also to provide capacity for anticipated future business development in the area.

What goes in has to come out, and increased water delivery would step up the load on sewer lines, which are also inadequate.

"It really doesn't make too much difference which we do first," said Charles Hafner, superintendent of the village electric and water department, "because we are going to have to

Audit Firm Finds All In Order

Chelsea officials received high marks from the Bay City accounting firm of Campbell, Kusterer and Walraven, which conducted the annual audit of the village books for the fiscal year which ended Feb. 28.

"Your budget is in good shape and your financial records are in very good condition," a representative of the firm told the village council last Tuesday night.

A couple of minor recommendations for more detailed documentation of expenditures were made, including preparation of line-item budgets for four special funds. Village administrator Frederick A. Weber said he would put the numbers down on paper and submit them to the council.

do both eventually. Ideally, the jobs should be done together."

One practical problem the village has in seeking Emergency Jobs Act grants is that applications are due July 1. "There is an awful lot of paperwork involved," Weber said, adding that he would get some facts and figures together on the south side water and sewer improvements.

"It would be nice if we had detailed plans and specifications in place and ready to go," Weber said, "but we don't. We'll just have to see what we can do in the short time we have."

There is also a problem of how the village would find the money to come up with any required local matching share of funds. This year's tight budget is fully committed.

Secession Possible, Council Informed

Village attorney Peter Flintoft has advised the Chelsea council that it is legally possible to detach the property of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Knoll of 1220 Old Manchester Rd. from the village limits.

The council will take up the matter formally at its July 5 meeting. The Knolls have asked to secede from the village on the basis that they do not receive service benefits in proportion to the taxes they pay.

Holiday Notice

Because of the July 4 holiday next Monday The Standard will be distributed Wednesday, July 6.

Industrial Park Search Shifted To South Side

Consulting engineers working with officials of Chelsea village and Sylvan township on proposed development of an industrial park have been directed to take a closer look at property along Brown Dr. south of the village as a possible site.

That was the upshot of a meeting between representatives of the two government agencies last Thursday to consider a feasibility study report prepared by the Ann Arbor engineering firm of Ayres, Lewis, Norris & May.

Consideration of an industrial park site had previously focused on a 73-acre parcel on Sibley Rd. west of the Dana Corp. plant. The tract, owned by Stuart Small, is for sale, and the village has a $139,000 option to buy it.

The feasibility study came down strongly in favor of an industrial park and clearly pointed to the Sibley Rd. site as the place to put it.

The land is available at a good price, utility lines are close by, the land is located next to an existing industrial zone, highway and rail transportation are in place, and soils and topography are suitable for development.

The Brown Dr. site, as identified in the study report, consists of approximately 20 acres north of the street and immediately west of M-52. The land is owned by the Daniels brothers, owners of the Chelsea Lumber Co., and is not presently listed as being for sale.

Twenty acres is probably too small to make a viable industrial park, so additional tracts would have to be purchased, which would involve other ownerships that are likewise not presently for sale.

All of the Brown Dr. site is in Sylvan township. Village utility lines would have to be extended and a new elevated water storage tank built to assure a reliable water supply. Per-acre land costs are reliably estimated at least three times those of the Sibley Rd. site.

Advantages of the Brown Dr. site, as listed in the feasibility study, are high visibility and easy access from I-94.

"Based on potential costs of development, the Sibley Rd. site is the preferred location for developing an industrial park," the report concludes.

Sylvan township officials did not accept that conclusion, however, and insisted that more detailed study be given to Brown Dr. Thursday's meeting was officially adjourned indefinitely pending receipt of more information. The village and the township are sharing the costs of the study, which was initiated by the township.

One thing the study did zero in on is that there is an urgent need to stimulate economic growth and development in the Chelsea area, including Sylvan and Lima townships. These factors were cited:

1. The area lost population between 1970 and 1980, reflecting a declining economic base and lack of jobs.

2. Plant closings and lay-offs resulted in a loss of 1,200 jobs during that period, mostly at the Chrysler Proving Grounds, Central Fibre, IPSCO, Rockwell International and Dana.

3. Unemployment in the area is two percentage points higher than the national average and (Continued on page seven)

Wilkinson, Orchard Street Resurfacing Projects To Start

Residents and motorists along Wilkinson and Orchard Sts. will have to put up with some temporary inconvenience during the summer as both undergo major repairs.

The village council last Tuesday night gave the go-ahead to both projects, with the work on Wilkinson St. scheduled to start this week.

Wilkinson will be resurfaced between Chandler and W. Middle Sts., at a cost of $49,000. The price will be paid from state gasoline and weight (license plate) taxes reimbursed to the village under the local sharing formula.

The Orchard St. project has been expanded from its original concept, which included resurfacing only at an originally estimated cost of $20,000. The work will begin 200 feet east of Main St. and extend to East St.

As revised, the job will include 1,200 feet of new curb and gutter at a cost of $20,810. Resurfacing cost has been pinned down more exactly at $24,430, bringing the total bill to $45,120.

Under a complicated cost-sharing formula, the village will pay $5,500 in cash. The rest of its 50 percent share will be contributed through the use of village labor and equipment on the project.

"We decided we should do the job right if we were going to do it at all," village administrator Frederick A. Weber said. "Doing it right means replacing the curb and gutter."

The Orchard St. project will test a new method of recycling old asphalt paving material by grinding it up, mixing it with a binder, and laying it back down as a new surface. The process is supposed to save money.

Both projects are scheduled to be completed by the end of August.

Postmastership Still Up in Air

The Chelsea post office continues to go through changes of temporary command since the retirement of Richard E. Schaules last Oct. 29. The third officer-in-charge to serve until a new postmaster is appointed began her duties June 20.

She is Ethel Monday, New Hudson postmaster, who will act until either a permanent Chelsea postmaster is named or still another officer-in-charge is brought in.

Under U. S. Postal Service procedures, officers-in-charge are appointed to manage offices where postmaster vacancies exist. By rule, the officers cannot be candidates for the postmastership.

First to be named officer-in-charge at Chelsea following Schaules' retirement was Sam McCoy of Ypsilanti. He was succeeded on March 21 by Tim Cooper of Northville, who left June 17 to be replaced by Mrs. Monday.

Both McCoy and Cooper served well but were needed back at their home post offices where they regularly work.

Larry Williams, Chelsea assistant postmaster, said he had no idea why it is taking so long to appoint a permanent replacement for Schaules, who was postmaster here for 18 years. The process normally takes 4-6 months. Williams is a candidate for the position.

Dexter Township Discusses Lakes Area Fire Contract

Dexter township board held their bi-monthly meeting on Tuesday, June 21.

The subject of a fire contract for the Portage Lake area was on the agenda and discussed by the board.

By a motion of the board, the subject was again tabled pending further investigation. The board is seeking to determine the exact terms that the Putnam township fire department is proposing.

The Portage Lake area is now being serviced by the Dexter village fire department with each organization seeking to retain the territory.

In the midst of the meeting's heated fire contract discussions, somehow reminiscent of a foregone plot, little beeps began filling the air waves. Dexter fire chief Mike Collins and a few of the department's firefighters were on hand for the township's proceedings when their little boxes began summoning them to duty. Without a moment's hesitation, off they sped, leaving behind only a cloud of dust and an example of the beeper paging system.

The main item of discourse throughout the past has been the actual distance from each fire station to the lake area. Dexter village has continuously maintained that though they are farther in mileage, their response time is equal or less. One way they feel they can accomplish this is through the use of beepers as opposed to simply blowing the fire siren within the village limits.

Sanderson New Zoning Inspector

Carl J. Sanderson of 750 N. Main St. has been appointed Chelsea zoning inspector by unanimous vote of the village council.

The part-time position pays $5.50 per hour to start, with an increase to $6.50 at the end of six months. Village administrator Frederick A. Weber said the job will require from two to 10 hours a week, depending on the time of year.

Sanderson, a former purchasing agent for Chrysler Corp., was the only applicant for the post. "It's not the kind of job that wins you any popularity contests," Weber commented, "but it needs to be done and Mr. Sanderson is well qualified."

The task has been performed by Charles (Skip) Winans, Weber's assistant. Winans asked to be relieved of the assignment because it conflicts with some of his other duties.

4 Years Ago . . .

Thursday, July 5, 1979—

Finding a permanent site for Chelsea area senior citizens to meet has frustrated local community groups. As one Chelsea Kiwanian put it, "Anyone will give us an acre out in the country," but seniors who no longer drive wouldn't be able to get there. Chelsea Kiwanis recently leased a centrally located house on W. Middle St. from the village, but the village's purchase agreement on the house stipulates it must be torn down for a parking lot in five years. Although the house has several large open rooms on the first floor and a kitchen, the second floor space cannot be utilized as well, because the stairwell to it is long and steep.

Flower boxes, alternated to prevent a regimented look, and trees cleverly placed to cover utility connections have completed the facelift of the alley between Main St. and the municipal parking lot. New cement has replaced the crumbling concrete and new lights installed. Funds for improvements came from the Downtown Merchants Association and proceeds from the former hospitality sign on I-94.

14 Years Ago . . .

Thursday, June 26, 1969—

Chelsea police became cowboys last Wednesday when at least 11 stray Black Angus caused two wrecks on I-94 near Pierce Rd. Cattle were all over the road in both lanes, said one driver, who couldn't avoid hitting an 800-pound steer. His convertible rolled over four or five times and threw him 100 feet from the car. Just after the ambulance took him to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital where he is in satisfactory condition, the driver of a semi-truck loaded with automotive parts hit a cow, jack-knifed and rolled over on its side. That driver was treated for knee injuries. Six cattle were rounded up and put into a barn on Old US-12. Two that were still loose were chased by a policeman on foot and one in a patrol car. The cows disappeared into the night.

Homer Nixon, who has served 29 years in the village's water and electric department, will retire as supervisor of that department at the end of June. Changes he has seen include fluoridation of water begun eight years ago, installation of the iron removal plant in the early 1940s, a doubling of electrical customers (now 1,300), and a quadrupling of electricity consumed.

Heldi Sprague and Bobbie Dvorak, both upcoming seniors at Chelsea High school, left today for France. Their trips are being sponsored by Youth for Understanding and a French scholarship fund.

McKune Memorial Library, the first permanent site for the library collection, opened Monday. Chelsea Woman's Club, the former Chelsea Child Study Club, began with 22 donated and 100 loaned books in 1932. They began a library building fund in 1951 with a $100 contribution. The McKune house was built in 1860 by Elisha Congdon, II, one of the founders of Chelsea. Timothy McKune purchased the home when Congdon died in 1867 and used it as an inn.

Three Chelsea "Belles," all sporting beards, were spotted at the lunch counter of the Chelsea Drug Store this week. Wearing bonnets and dresses were Richard Schaules, post office employee; William Chandler, a councilman; and Thomas Bust, owner of Chelsea Hardware.

"Remembering When," a pageant in honor of the 125th anniversary celebration featuring a cast of 515, will be performed six times during the anniversary celebration July 6-12. It begins with the original Indian settlers and proceeds through wagon trains, the Civil War, the Gay 90's, World War I, the silent movie era and World War II. The pageant ends with a simulated atomic bomb blast complete with mushroom cloud and the question, "The Beginning of the End?"

Work on Energy Plan To Continue

Legislators and various utilities and energy consumer groups will continue this summer to reach agreement on an "energy assurance" program that would help provide utility service to low income households, keep costs down for regular consumers, and cut down on bad debts collected by utilities.

Representative Alma Stallworth (D-Detroit), chair of the House Public Utilities committee, told representatives of various organizations she hoped a package could be approved by the end of September and in law before winter.

Deliberations will center around a 12-bill proposal, which has not yet been introduced, drafted by the staff of the Public Service Commission and representatives of the state's three largest utilities (Consumers Power, Detroit Edison and Michigan Consolidated Gas).

The package would affect welfare recipients, working poor people, long-term unemployed and senior citizens—approximately 1.8 million households.

The program should not require new costs to ratepayers and should prove a wash the first year of operation with greater savings in future years.

The package would require direct payments of utility fees to utilities, change the current lifeline rate program for electric use, expand weatherization programs and provide some incentives for low income people to cut their energy use.

The lifeline rate changes would affect all four low-income groups. Currently, lifeline rates provide a discount to residential customers using less than a certain amount of electricity.

Under the proposal, the first 360 kilowatt hours of electricity used for those groups would be discounted by 15 percent.

Other proposals for welfare recipients include direct payments to utilities, expanded weatherization programs with the hope of limiting maximum natural gas usage from 400 metric cubic feet to 200 metric cubic feet in 1987-88, and a "shared savings" system where the customer would receive the equivalent of half of the first year's savings.

For the working poor, the program would limit their natural gas home heating payments to 13 percent of their income, electric heat payments to 15-20 percent.

For those unemployed, the program would institute a specialized home energy audit to help provide immediate savings, a cyclical budget plan and a deferred budget which would cut monthly payments by 20 percent below the normal usage and be repaid when the customer is back at work.

Senior citizens, under the program, would receive an additional 5 percent discount on their first 150 metric cubic feet of natural gas used, plus an exemption from the sales tax on energy costs.

State Asks UPSCO Be Declared Bankrupt

The Department of Transportation, joined with four private firms, has asked the federal bankruptcy court in Grand Rapids to reorganize the financially troubled Upper Peninsula Shipbuilding Co.

The move is tantamount to declaring the corporation—which was to build a new tugboat and four barges for Great Lakes shipping—bankrupt.

The action was taken, according to Transportation Director James Pitz, in an effort to "facilitate negotiations aimed at re-opening the shipyard."

UPSCO closed its doors last July 2 in a contract dispute with the state, and Pitz said the state has been unable to work with potential investors interested in purchasing the shipyard and resuming operations.

Joining the state in the action are Fiske Brothers Refining Company of Newark, N. J., Philadelphia Resins, Inc., of Montgomery, Pa.; Standard Equipment Company, Inc., of Mobile, Ala., and Seacarl Marine Industries, Inc., of Hoboken N. J.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

Zeke Grubb told the fellers at the country store Saturday night that ever time he starts thinking we have gone as far as we can go old Pat Pending comes up with a new wrinkle. This feller's name has gone on thousands of inventions, Zeke said, and he just keeps on keeping on.

Fer instant, Zeke went on, there's a new gadget that automatic controls the sound of television commercials. When you say automatic this day and time you automatic get attention, Zeke declared, so he is sure this latest TV aid will catch on big. What the thing does is turns down the power of the signal at the station when it passes a certain level, so commercials won't be no louder than what's between em.

Actual, Zeke said, he ain't as interested in what the station does with the invention as what he could do with it. Whenever somepun comes along that's good fer one thing, like space travel, Zeke explained, it ain't long til a new, improved model is out fer general use. He said he wanted to be among the first to sign up fer the automatic sound regulator cause he already has some use fer it in mind.

Right off, Zeke said, he will set it next to his reading chair and aim it at his old lady. Just the other day, he said he was trying to catch up on his farm journals while she was sewing. She was jabbering along at a low hum when sudden her noise level shot up and he heard that he never talks to her, and the least he ought to do is read to her while she sewed so she'll know not to call the undertaker. Zeke said he told her he had a better idea. She could sew to him while he reads.

Practical speaking, said Bug Hookum, we have got to many improved inventions now. Plastic, fer one, is fine in its place, Bug said, but it's in to many places. Fer instant, plastic has got no business taking the place of the paper bag in the grocery store. You can see the fresh bolonnie sealed in clear plastic at the meat counter, Bug said, but you can't git it out. It's worse to use the roll of plastic bags over the produce. Even if you can find the seam on the roll to tear one off, and if you ever git the sides unstuck, Bug said, the flimsy invisible pocket melts under the weight of one bunch of wet grapes. What we got to do, Bug declared, is fit the invention to the job.

The fellers general favored Bug's view. Clem Webster had saw where the inventor of designer clothes final outsmarted himself. So many real and fake designs are popping up that fancy dressers have quit wearing em to be different. So now, Clem said, the big name designers are making no name clothes and the hole idee has cancelled itself out.

Like Clem said, Mister Editor, all inventions ain't fer the better. I saw where a doctor says he cures hickups by rubbing the back of the mouth with a cotton swab. Fer my money, trading hickups fer the gags ain't much of a bargain, so I'll stick to eight swallows of water and hold my breath while I wait fer a improved model.

Holly Hotel And Bonsai Await Seniors

Historic Holly Hotel and the Ozawa Bonsai Gardens will be the featured sites on Chelsea senior citizens day bus trip July 14.

The hotel was part of the scene in 1908 when prohibitionist Carrie Nation charged through Bottle Alley smashing whiskey bottles and castigating "sinners."

After a fire in 1978, the hotel was restored using the original stained glass windows and rich, subdued colors typical of the 1890s.

After dinner the seniors will visit the gardens to see the 1,700-year old art of bonsai, which means "tree in a tray." A tour guide will explain the meaning of the Japanese garden.

The group will also stop at a candle factory where one may see candles being made.

Departure from the bus garage is at 9:30 a.m., and return is expected at 6 p.m. Cost is $17. Call the senior center at 475-9242 from 1 to 4 p.m. to make reservations.

Washtenaw County Literacy Council Elects Officers

Shirley Harrison of 2833 Heatherway, Ann Arbor, has been elected president of the Literacy Council of Washtenaw county. She succeeds Jean Henle.

Rita Waggoner of 1577 Wingate, Ypsilanti, was elected council secretary, succeeding Nancy Hedburg. Jane Costabile of 803 Barton Dr., Ann Arbor, University of Michigan professor-emeritus of social work, was re-elected treasurer.

Newly elected to the council board, in addition to the officers, were Sharon Norbeck, publications; succeeding Rebecca Super; Jeanne Ogle, supplies; succeeding John Sedlander; and Larry Bush, community relations; succeeding Sally Winter.

Re-elected to the board were Anne H. Jones, workshop co-ordinator; Helena S. Buning, assistant workshop co-ordinator; Barbara Francisco, recruitment; Margaret Miller, newsletter; Rhea Kish, Friends of the Ann Arbor Public Library liaison; Betsy Lawrence, Public Library and Townsend Fund liaison; and Estelle Tittiv, ex-officio.

Donna DeButts of Ypsilanti continues as tutor-student co-ordinator, and Patricia Frey of Ann Arbor as tutor trainer.

The council, with support from the Friends of the Library and the Townsend Fund, provides training of volunteers to teach illiterate and functionally illiterate persons in the county to read and write. There are an estimated 12,500 persons, 25 or older, in the county with less than an eighth grade education, and some 600 with no education.

Women Aware of Dangers in Jogging Along Country Roads

To live a life without risk, one would have to find a very secure dungeon and stay there.

Local women who run say the two recent assaults on women joggers in the county and the rape of a woman jogger in Waterloo township will not keep them off the roads.

One has to find a balance between absolute security and the freedom to run, work, grocery shop, drive a car and weed the garden.

Assaults on Joggers Said Not Connected

There is no link to connect three reported assaults on women joggers in the Washtenaw-Jackson county area during recent days, investigating county sheriff's officers say.

"The descriptions of persons and vehicles involved don't match up in any way," said detective Paul Wade. "It appears that we are dealing with three separate, isolated incidents that are not connected."

In two of the instances—one in Pittsfield township and the other on Bush Rd. northwest of Chelsea—female joggers reported they were forced off the road by vehicles, but descriptions of the vehicles and their drivers were dissimilar.

In the third incident, in Jackson county's Waterloo township, a woman runner was overtaken from behind by a man on foot, dragged off the road, and raped. No vehicle was involved.

"We don't want to sound any alarms," agreed Wade and Sgt. Don Wenk. "Obviously, there is a certain amount of risk involved in running along remote country roads, especially early and late in the day when there is little traffic," Wenk said. "It can be lonely out there at those times, but those are also the times that people like to run, and a lot of them do."

"Still, we have had very few complaints of molestation or harassment, let alone assault," Wenk added. "Most of what few complaints we do receive are from drivers who say that some runners insist on staying in the middle of the road and refuse to yield the right-of-way to a vehicle. That is definitely dangerous for both parties. We get the same kind of complaints about bicyclists."

In the one incident directly involving the Chelsea sheriff's department station, deputies are looking for a white, blond male in his mid-20's who was driving a long-bed pickup truck described as either dark green or black, probably a 1977 or 1978 Chevrolet or GMC.

The victim said the driver of the truck passed her on Bush Rd. near McClure Rd., turned around, drove off the road and knocked her down, then tried to drag her into the vehicle. She kicked her way free and fled, she said.

"At this point it's a case of felonious assault with a motor vehicle, and that's all it is," Wade said. "We have no evidence to suggest there was any other intent, although there may have been."

"My wife jogs in the evening along a country road. If I didn't think it was safe, I certainly wouldn't let her do it."

clothing was remarked on by a man as "provocative."

A woman runner can either boil in sweats or consider the probabilities of an assault and be comfortable.

Pat Clarke, coach of the boys and girls cross country teams, says his major concern is one of his runners getting hit by a car, especially a drunk driver. The probabilities of that are higher than a sexual assault.

He does encourage his runners to run near where they live and in pairs or groups if possible, he said.

After an incident with an anti-runner driver almost hitting one of the boys on the team, Clarke says he goes out with the runners during practice. He parks his car ahead of them and waits for the runners to go by before moving the car.

That seems to be a deterrent to speeders, he said. A car will be going really fast, see Clarke's car and slow down while going by the cross country team.

As one woman runner said, "I'm not going to hide in my home. Running is an acceptable risk for me."

Kim Forner Wins Kim Boyd Memorial Award

Kim Forner, senior first baseman on the Bulldog softball team this year, was named winner of the Kim Boyd Memorial Softball Award.

It is given to a girl for athletic contribution to the team, scholastic achievement, and to someone for whom softball has been a positive factor in her development.

Forner, one of four summa cum laude graduates of Chelsea High school this year, was named to the all-league second team as an infielder. She also played first base on the 1982 state championship team.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Is it that time of year when school is out and vacations have started, and already we're hearing "I'm bored."

We are wondering now, if it was a "bored" person or persons who so maliciously stripped off the 17 VFW Auxiliary No. 4076 memorial flags from their staffs and left them lying all over the cemetery grounds? These navy flags, with gold lettering, are emblematic, and are placed on all of our deceased members' graves each year during the week before Memorial Day by our chaplain. They are left there in the standards, year around, to let the living know we care. Our motto is "to honor our dead, by helping the living."

On June 16th our chaplain's son went there to place some flowers, and found the above condition. The chaplain then chose to remove the remaining emblematic flags from their standards and took them home for safer keeping.

Her wish is to have the public be concerned over this and other destruction of personal property. (The police should be notified first.) If anyone has seen the removal of these flags, we would be very thankful. They are very costly for our organization—Unlike the American Flag that must be removed after Memorial Day, they and other emblematic flags can remain there yearly.

Eulahlee Packard
Americanism Chairman.
Gertrude O'Dell, Chaplain.

Honor Roll Addition

John Collins, a sixth grader at Beach Middle school, was inadvertently left off the school's list of those continuously on the honor roll which was submitted to The Standard.

To the Editor:

I have been reading for a long time now news reports in The Standard relative to repeated accidents at the intersection of Werkner Rd. and M-52. I feel that perhaps it's time to move on prevention rather than to keep a running tally sheet on how many lives will be changed by sudden accidents resulting in pain, anxiety, loss of time and in some cases life, not to mention destruction of automobiles. I would like to offer the following solution if I may.

It must be that the posted, "Stop" signs on the north and south sides of the approaching area to the intersection are not attention getting enough to make persons heed. I suggest stronger devices: a blinking signal light at the intersection, with the north and south sides of Werkner Rd. resurfaced with raised ridges laid down much like those put down at the approaches to toll gate areas in some states. Ridges on the road are used in Detroit to get the attention of drivers, alerting them to a dangerous area. These ridges put in mind the old-fashioned washboard surface. It really works.

This plan may cost dollars and cents, but it will save lives. There has been a dragging of heels on this matter, and it's time for less talk and more action from those who can make a difference. "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure."

Millie Warner.
P.S. We pass the Werkner-M-52 intersection twice a day.

Special Land Use Process Streamlined

Chelsea village planning commission now has the authority to approve special land uses and planned unit developments, which should eliminate steps in the approval process.

In the past, applications had to go to both the planning commission and to the village council. The new ordinance amendment passed by the council June 21 eliminates the council in the process, bringing the village's ordinance into compliance with 1978 changes in state law.

If the planning commission turns down an applicant, he or she would still have the option of appealing its decision to the council in its role of zoning board of appeals.

The ordinance also changes the name of conditional use permits to special land use permits.

A planned unit development is a special zoning district with negotiable restrictions on building height, setbacks and open space. Other zoning districts such as residential, commercial and industrial have specific restrictions.

Make-Up Day For Fingerprinting Scheduled July 1

The make-up day for children who missed the fingerprinting session sponsored by Chelsea Jaycees during the school year will be held from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Friday, July 1 at the South school gymnasium.

Parents will be given the prints to be put in a safe place, so if positive identification is ever needed, they would have the child's fingerprints.

Originally children in grades K-8 were fingerprinted, but parents of younger children may bring them to the make-up session, said Harold Allen of the Jaycees.

There is no charge for this service.

Two from Area Win Cleary Scholarships

Thomas Lytle of Chelsea and Toni Lopiccolo of Pinckney have been granted scholarships by Cleary College. The awards consist of a one-year, $500 tuition stipend.

Winners were chosen on the basis of academic achievement, career interest and extra-curricular activities.

Amy L. Finkbeiner Moves to Finals Of State Pageant

Amy L. Finkbeiner, 16-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Finkbeiner of 854 N. Fletcher Rd., has been selected as a state finalist in the 1983 Miss United Teenager Pageant to be held Aug. 12 at Adrian College.

Contestants will be judged on scholastic and civic achievements, beauty, poise and personality. No swimsuit competition or talent demonstration is involved.

Each contestant must participate in a volunteer community service program of choice, and must also write and present on stage an essay titled "My Country."

Winner of the state finals will receive a trip to Hollywood, Calif., and Hawaii to compete in the national finals for prizes including scholarships, a wardrobe, use of an automobile, an appearance contract, and others.

Miss Finkbeiner, a student at Chelsea High school, is sponsored by Chelsea Milling Co., Book-Crafters, Chelsea Chiropractic Center and Chelsea State Bank. Her hobbies include drawing and painting, bicycling, and music.

Car Hits Electric Power Pole, Causing Outages and Fires

A car that went off the road and hit an electric power pole at Huron River Dr. and Gregory Rd., Webster township, last Friday evening caused temporary power outages, ground fires and charring to several homes in the area. No severe damage was reported.

Jimmy D. Potter, 39, was arrested by Washtenaw sheriff's deputies for driving under the influence of alcohol. Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority rangers assisted in policing the incident.

'Confessions' in Texas Cause Check of Local Crime Records

Local police are checking on statements by Henry Lee Lucas, who claims to have killed more than 100 women in a dozen states during the past eight years, including at least eight in Washtenaw county.

Lucas, who was arrested in Montague, Tex., on two murder charges, has named Ann Arbor, Saline and Chelsea as places where he has killed women and buried their bodies.

That "confession" sent local police agencies scurrying to their record shelves, looking for reports of unsolved murders and missing persons.

"We don't have anything that appears to check out with what he (Lucas) has told authorities in Texas," Chelsea police chief Robert Aeillo said, "but we can't ignore the possibility that he is telling the truth and that he did commit some crimes in this area."

"We have no old cases involving persons that are not accounted for," Aeillo said. "If he killed somebody in Chelsea, there is nothing in our records to suggest it."

Detective Charles Anderson of the sheriff's department said much the same thing, stating the department has no record of a case where a woman was reported missing and no trace ever found.

Ann Arbor police chief William Corbett said his department will "check out" information received from Texas police who are questioning Lucas.

Saline police chief James Douglas said Lucas is a suspect in the 1981 murder of a barmaid whose body was found in a farm field 10 days after she disappeared.

Lucas, 46, is known to have killed his 74-year-old mother in Lenawee county in 1960. He was convicted of second-degree murder and sentenced to 20-40 years in Southern Michigan Prison at Jackson, but was paroled in 1970. Eighteen months later he was back in SMP after attempting to kidnap a young girl. He was released in 1975 and has been drifting around the country, including Michigan, ever since.

Texas officials are reported to have doubts about Lucas' claim to have killed more than 100 women, including at least 16 in Texas. A panel of psychiatrists has been appointed to determine his sanity. Texas police plan to fly him to the 16 sites where in that state he claims to have buried bodies.

Chelsea police chief Aeillo summarized the problem from a local standpoint: "I hope what he's saying isn't true, but we can't discount the possibility that it could be. Any murders that he might have committed here would be several years old."

"There are a lot of places in and around Chelsea where a body could be buried unobserved and there is no way of knowing where to begin to look. They would be skeletons by this time, and there would be no surface traces. He would have to tell us or show us exactly where they are. I honestly hope we don't have to start digging, but we will if we get some specific information."

South School Students Win in Read-a-Thon

Children at South Elementary school won the Mystery Sleuth trophy for raising the most money among schools in four counties in the Muscular Dystrophy read-a-thon.

The children raised $2,654.75 in pledges for books they read. South school also had the most children participate in the read-a-thon, 73, among schools in Washtenaw, Monroe, Jackson and Hillsdale counties. They read a total of 1,458 books during February and March.

Holly Koscielnik, a South school third-grader, raised the most money of children in the Chelsea district, $376.10, while Robert Coelius, a third grader at North school, read the most books, 100.

A student from Jackson raised pledges of $715 for reading 25 books.

At North Elementary school, which is smaller than South, 45 children entered the read-a-thon and raised $1,315.40 for reading 901 books. Elizabeth Williams had the most in pledges, $115.25.

Only sixth graders were eligible to compete at Beach Middle school. Kathleen Holmes, 12, raised the most money among the 17 students, $300. Shannon Fredette raised $100.

Beach students contributed $600 to the read-a-thon.

Bargaining Teams Will Set Rules For School Talks

The bargaining teams from Chelsea Education Association and the school board plan to meet tomorrow to lay out ground rules for expedited bargaining, said Raymond Van Meer, school district superintendent.

Both sides are interested in the shortened process, he said, which limits the number of issues discussed and time allowed.

If the two sides cannot settle a contract with expedited bargaining, they always have the option of traditional bargaining with no time or issue limit.

The present contract expires June 30.

Area Students Earn Places on Dean's List

Steven D. Kvarnberg of 5470 Conway Rd., Chelsea, and Lesa D. Burns of 7395 Ann Arbor Rd., Dexter, are among 38 undergraduate students named to the dean's list in the University of Michigan's School of Natural Resources for the winter academic term.

To earn the honor students must have been going to school full time and achieved a 3.5 grade-point average.

Michigan State University has undergone five name changes since its founding in 1855 as the Agricultural College of the State of Michigan.

Industrial Park

more than a point higher than the county average.

4. Plant closings have resulted in a serious erosion in the tax base, partly reflected in this year's 7.5 percent drop in Chelsea's state equalized valuation (SEV).

5. Other industrial parks already in place in Ann Arbor, Ypsilanti, Saline and several townships are competing for new industries. The Chelsea area is late getting into the game.

Advantages for attracting business into a local industrial park include:

1. An available pool of both skilled and unskilled labor, with wage rates that are "typically lower" than those in neighboring areas.

2. Comparatively low tax rates. Both Ann Arbor's and Ypsilanti's are considerably higher.

3. Comparatively low water and sewer rates, and an assured future supply of both electricity and natural gas.

4. Good transportation facilities.

5. Available land.

Disadvantages cited in the report include the fact that Chelsea lies outside the recognized Detroit metropolitan area, lacks airport and motel facilities, and will be in tough competition with at least eight other established major industrial complexes located within a 25-mile radius.

Women maintaining families are far more likely to be unemployed than are husbands or wives; their average (median) family income is less than half that of married couples, and they are five times as likely to be in poverty, according to "Women at Work: A Chartbook," published by the U. S. Labor Department.

No. 1 ENEMY IS DAMPNES! A dehumidifier should remove moisture from your home to insure the maximum amount of protection against mildew, mold, corrosion and rot.

COPPER TUBING-A MUST! Copper will not rust or corrode. Its use is the only practical way to avoid rusting out. Amana uses solid copper in both the condenser and evaporator section.

AIR MOVEMENT OVER COILS-ONE MEASURE OF PERFORMANCE. To be efficient the air in the area to be dehumidified must pass over the evaporator coil. Amana has 34 1/2" feet of evaporator coils. An air control shroud assures all air passing over the coils and avoids air leaks of moisture laden air back into the room.

WATER DISPOSAL MUST BE QUICK, EASY AND SURE. Amana gives you a choice of 3 ways to remove condensate. 1) a standard hose connection for direct to drain. 2) set unit directly over drain. 3) big condensate pan that holds more than 2 gallons of water.

Four Summa Cum Laude Graduates Display Wide Variety of Activities

Four Chelsea High school seniors were recognized at commencement June 12 for summa cum laude honors, maintaining a career grade point average of at least 10.5/11.0.

What is as impressive as the grades of Daniel R. Klemmer, Sharon S. Glassford, Jeffrey S. Koepele and Kimberly A. Forner, is the variety of their school activities.

Klemmer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Klemmer of 13483 Trinkle Rd., Chelsea, graduated first in his class, was a two-year member of the National Honor Society and was named outstanding English and science student this year.

He was a member of the symphony band, pep band, high school orchestra, jazz band and marching band.

He will attend University of Michigan, which awarded him Honorary Freshman Engineering and Horace H. Rackham Undergraduate scholarships.

More than 500 students competed for the six Rackham awards, which are renewed annually if a student maintains at least a 3.0/4.0 grade point average.

Klemmer also won an honorary scholarship in the State of Michigan Competitive Scholarship Program and one from the general Chelsea scholarship fund.

Glassford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Glassford of 13123 Island Lake Rd., Chelsea, was a member of the National Honor Society and was named outstanding mathematics and foreign language student this year. She will attend University of Michigan, which named her a Regents-Alumni Scholar, and she received a Chelsea Lions Club scholarship. Her grades and college board scores placed her in the top one percent of students in the freshman class this fall.

In addition to her scholastic achievement, Glassford is a member of student council, Key Club and the forensics team. She played varsity volleyball for three years and varsity track and basketball for two seasons, which meant that during her junior and senior years, she was on a varsity team in every season.

Koepele, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Koepele of 14020 Waters Rd., Chelsea, will attend Michigan State University, which gave him an Award for Academic Excellence. He was a four-year member of the high school orchestra and a member of the National Honor Society.

His event on the forensics team was impromptu, which meant he drew a current events topic and had less than 15 minutes to prepare a talk. Also a member of the debate team, Koepele was co-winner of the outstanding speech student award.

Forner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Neil Horning of 1184 Pierce Rd., Chelsea, and the late Donald Forner, was named Kiwanis Outstanding Senior Scholar Athlete.

She has received Lions Club, Knights of Columbus, Chelsea American Business Women's Association and Ferris State Merit scholarships.

Forner, who won the Chelsea Sesquicentennial logo contest this spring, will major in commercial art at Ferris State. She was named outstanding art student and received U.S. Achievement Academy awards in accounting and history.

She played first base on the 1982 state championship softball team and first base on the 1983 district champion team. She also played varsity volleyball her junior and senior years and was a senior class representative to student council.

In addition to these four sum-

Federal Funding Sought for Local Drainage Projects

Two Chelsea area projects are included on a "want" list submitted by Washtenaw drain commissioner James E. Murray for possible federal funding under the Emergency Jobs Act passed by Congress last March.

Murray is seeking grants of $150,000 to help pay for cleaning out the Palmer & Baldwin Drain and restoring it to working order, and $200,000 to stabilize the level of Four Mile Lake and clean its drainage channel.

Also on Murray's list are requests for $1,250,000 to provide adequate storm water drainage in the so-called Ypsilanti No. 14 drainage district, and $240,000 to clean out and improve the Saline-Bridgewater Drain.

The Ypsilanti project has been assigned top priority among the four proposals. It is the most costly and, in Murray's judgment, the most necessary because of the high population in the district.

The Emergency Jobs Act provides $4.65 billion to be allocated nationally for public works in areas with an unemployment rate of 8.7 percent or higher.

Washtenaw county's current jobless rate is 11.1 percent.

"There is a huge scramble taking place nationwide for the federal funding," Murray noted, adding that he feels confident Washtenaw county will receive at least a small piece of the pie.

"All four projects are long over-due but, owing to lack of funds, have not been able to go ahead," Murray said. "They all fit rather nicely the requirements and priorities identified in the grant application form."

Grants will be made by Sept. 30. Deadline for applications is July 1, and Murray has his in. The forms were not made available until June 8.

The Palmer & Baldwin drains system is supposed to carry surface water off a 932-acre district located generally east of Madison St. and south of Dexter-Chelsea Rd. The ditches, tiles and culverts in the system are choked with soil and vegetation to the point where there is little or no flow. Flooding occurs during periods of heavy rain and snow melt. No building permits can be issued within the district until something is done to correct the problem, Murray has said.

The Four Mile Lake project has been on the drawing board for a long time. The level of the large, shallow lake fluctuates with precipitation. Murray proposes to install a control structure at the lake's south outlet and clean out the drain which flows into Mill Creek south of Chelsea-Dexter Rd. Another device would be put in on the east shore to provide agricultural drainage and level control.

If any of the four Washtenaw projects is approved, construction could be started this fall and completed next year, Murray said.

Farmers Need Rain To Aid Crops

After the spring monsoons, it seems strange to wish for more rain, but the crops need it after this spell of hot, dry weather.

Impact on the crops depends on when and how much rain the area gets, said Bill Ames, county cooperative extension agent.

This year with light snowfall in winter, followed by downpours and then rainless weather, wasn't "normal," said Ames, "but then I don't know what a normal year is anymore."

There is always something wrong with the weather for farmers, he said.

Alfalfa plants were lost during the winter, he said. Seedlings didn't make it and old stands thinned out, possibly because of lack of protective snow cover.

Parks Commission Brochures Available

The Chelsea Standard

Chelsea, Michigan, Tuesday, June 28, 1983

Pages 9

500-HORSEPOWER BOOST: This super-charger blower, held by Jim Roberts, a local professional truck-puller, would give the 700 horsepower engine in his Twister truck an additional 500 horsepower. He plans to drive Twister in the modified class at the Fourth of July pulls, however, which means he cannot use this super-charger in it. A blower speeds up combustion in the engine by forcing fresh air through it. Roberts has found that works better than a turbo, which uses exhaust as an air supply.

Competition Trucks Measure Mileage in Feet Per Gallon

Fireworks and ice cream have been part of Fourth of July for a long time, but Chelsea added a new one several years ago—four-wheel drive truck pulls at the Chelsea fairgrounds arena.

But these aren't regular pickups by any means. Normal axles break trying to pull the 50,000-pound weight transfer sled.

Jim Roberts, a professional puller from Chelsea who is co-owner of Roberts Paint & Body Inc., got a two-inch Army surplus axle shaft after breaking several regular ones for his Dodge truck named "Twister."

In pulls such as the one at the fairgrounds, the truck is hitched to the stationary sled. As the truck goes forward, the weight box moves up the inclined sled. The further the truck goes, the more resistance there is. Winner is determined by distance.

If a truck goes the full 300 feet, that means it pulled the equivalent of 37,500 pounds. If more than one truck makes a full pull, there is a pull-off and the weight-gear ratio is changed.

Roberts' truck has special tires designed for truck pulls by a California man. They are 18 inches wide, 34 inches tall and cost about $225 apiece. He beveled the original one-inch tread for a better grip on the ground and to prevent the tires from spinning a big hole and sinking instead of going forward.

The front of the truck is lower than the back, so the center of gravity takes longer to change (the rear digging into the ground) than if one used a level truck.

The arena at the Chelsea fairgrounds has a "super" clay track, said Roberts. For the best traction, the clay should be slightly damp, not muddy or dusty dry. The only weather condition which could cancel the pull would be too much rain.

There will be two modified classes, 5,800 and 6,200 pounds and one super-modified class. Alcohol or gasoline fuel may be used in the trucks in either class, said Roberts.

The difference is that super-mod trucks may have superchargers, which are blowers, or turbos which force fresh air or exhaust through the engine to speed up combustion.

Although Twister's engine isn't super-charged, it isn't a sissy 80-100 horsepower, four-cylinder engine such as many compacts have. Roberts figures it has 700 to 800 horsepower, but one cannot speak of its fuel consumption in miles per gallon—it consumes 2½ gallons of alcohol fuel for each pull, one gallon per 120 feet.

A super-charger, such as is in his brother Jerry's truck, "Twister Too," would add an additional 500 horsepower to the engine, but it consumes fuel at the rate of one gallon per 100 feet, or 528 gallons per mile.

If Twister Too's engine were put in a drag racer, Roberts says it would go a quarter-mile in seven seconds, 175-180 miles per hour.

Roberts, a former drag racer who began truck-pulling professionally five years ago, says he has about $5,000 to $6,000 invested in Twister. His brother has about $7,500 into Twister Too.

That may sound like an expensive hobby, but Roberts earned enough prize money by his second year to cover expenses.

He competes in pulls throughout Michigan, of course, and in other states such as Florida, Connecticut and Kansas. Parts Peddler and the body shop help sponsor him.

His wife, Teresa, has been patient with his hobby for the past five years, he said, "so it's time to build her a house."

He is constructing it with friends on the lot on M-32 where he has his polebarn for his trucks. The house completion goal is September, the month their first child is due.

You won't see Roberts taking the family out for a Sunday drive in Twister, however. Besides its poor gas mileage, it has a rigid suspension in the rear, which would make it very uncomfortable if one hit a bump.

Roberts takes Twister to competitions on a trailer.

The truck pulls begin at 1 p.m. Monday, July 4. About 50 entries over-all are expected. Roberts and Richard Bollinger are two local entrants.

High School To Have Best Track in State, Better Grid Lights

"There is no doubt about it. Come next spring, Chelsea will have the finest high school track in the state of Michigan." So says Ron Nemeth, Chelsea athletic director.

That will be a giant step forward from having no track at all that is safe to run on. In recent past seasons all boys and girls track meets, including the Chelsea Invitational, have had to be held away from home.

The new track will have a black surface called "Sprint 300," granules of coarse rubber bonded with polyurethane plastic. It will be laid down over an asphalt base and a sub-base of ground-up asphalt (the old track).

It has a lot of bounce, and Nemeth said he will not be surprised if almost all Chelsea track records are broken next spring. "It's an excellent surface," he said, "and it should bring out top performances by our runners. We will have the fastest high school track in the state, bar none."

The new track will be measured in meters instead of yards, and will be eight lanes wide compared to the present six. That will qualify it for any track event in the world including the Olympic Games.

Construction work on the track and on the football field which it will surround is scheduled to begin this week, after final details were ironed out with consultants Architects DiGeronimo, a national firm specializing in athletic facility design, and contractors Souter Asphalt & Paving Co. of Troy and A. F. Smith & Son of Ypsilanti.

The $212,000 athletic facilities renovation program was announced last January, but was then put on "hold" for six months until results of the June 13 school millage election were known. The board of education gave the go-ahead a couple of hours after the votes were tallied and showed a favorable 1,408-705 vote on a special half-mill levy for school district maintenance and facilities improvements.

First step in the construction work will be removal of the existing light poles, which will be replaced in different locations. Once the poles are out of the way, machinery will be brought in to grind up the old track and also the sod on the football field. Both old surfaces will form part of the base for new ones.

Structures will be installed to provide better drainage (a key factor in the disintegration of the existing track). The football field will be re-sodded, and it will be something of a race against time to get the new grass firmly rooted for the start of play in September. The turf will be of a special type grown to withstand the wear and tear of football.

Far brighter lights will illuminate the gridiron, bringing the lighting up to and beyond prescribed state high school athletic standards. Chelsea grid-ers will no longer be literally "playing in the shadows."

Chelsea schools superintendent Ray Van Meer, a former coach, suggested that the new lights may result in more touchdown passes being caught in the end zones. "I honestly don't think the kids could see the ball," he said. "The lighting has been pretty bad, especially beyond the goal lines. I'm very happy that we can now correct that problem."

The only fly in the ointment is that high school tennis players will have to put up with cracked and uneven courts for at least another year. Four new courts are proposed to be built in place of the existing two defective ones, but that project will have to wait until money becomes available. The cost is estimated at close to $50,000.

The decision to delay the tennis project was an especially tough one for Nemeth, who is a tennis player and a former coach of the sport. "It came down to what we can do with the money we have to benefit the largest numbers of athletes and fans," Nemeth said. "On that basis the track and football projects clearly merited priority."

"We wish we could do everything at once and get it over with," assistant superintendent Fred Mills added, "but the money just wasn't there. The way we are going, two badly needed major projects will be completed, and we will hope to do the tennis courts next year."

HE'S SAFE! The umpire spreads his arms in the "safe" signal as Mark Luick of the Pirates slides home in front of catcher Tony Byers of the Orioles, who did a fine job of blocking the plate but didn't get the ball in time to make the tag.

Four From Chelsea All-State in Softball

Four Bulldog softball players got all-state honors this year.

Donna Popovich, pitcher, and Amy Hume, second baseman, were named to the third team. Joyce Robards, catcher, and Lisa Beeman, outfielder, received honorable mentions.

Their end-of-the-season statistics are impressive.

Hume, senior co-captain who led the team in runs scored, runners batted in (32) and walks (24), had a .923 fielding average and a .358 batting average. She had 88 put-outs, eight assists, eight errors and stole 15 bases.

She also made the coaches' all-league and all-region first teams and the Ann Arbor News all-region team. She is the daughter of Phil and Dorothy Hume of 12 Hickory Dr. and plans to attend Eastern Michigan University.

Popovich, a senior, had a 15-3 record, a .47 earned run average and a .320 batting average. She faced 476 batters this season, had 96 strike-outs and 22 walks. Of the 74 hits she gave up, 56 were singles.

Popovich, daughter of Charles Popovich and Norma Jean Smith, was also named to the coaches' all-region and all-league teams and the Ann Arbor News' all-region team. Her teammates chose her as most valuable player this season.

She is being scouted by Ball State, Western Michigan University and Northwood Institute. She is leaning towards Northwood, she said Friday, and plans to major in advertising.

Robards, a junior, threw out 12 stealers this season and allowed only four bases stolen. She had 28 put-outs, seven assists and five errors, three of which came when she played shortstop. Her fielding average was .875 and her batting average was .337. She had 18 RBI's and stole 17 bases.

Robards, daughter of James and Patricia Robards of 13204 Luick Dr., also made the coaches' all-region and all-league first teams and the News' all-region second team.

Beeman, a senior outfielder who played catcher in the beginning of the season, had a fielding average of .954—she made one error all season, had 16 put-outs and five assists.

She had a .347 batting average, 24 RBI's and 16 bases on balls. Beeman, daughter of Donald and Barbara Beeman of 16810 Waterloo Rd., was named to the coaches' all-region and all-league teams. She plans to major in nursing at Grand Valley State College.

Chelsea Girls Beat Dexter in Softball

A Bulldog softball player got the first run of the year June 22. Unfortunately high school softball season ended June 11 for Chelsea, but the hitter, Beth Unterbrink, will be a junior next high school season.

The run came in Chelsea's 13-3, six-inning mercy win over Dexter at Riverside Park in Ann Arbor.

Both community teams play in Ann Arbor's 16-18-year-old girls fastpitch league.

Chelsea pitchers, Marji Rawson and Kelly Hawker, combined for 13 strike-outs.

Metroparks Ready For July Fourth Holiday Attendance

The 12 Huron-Clinton Metroparks are ready to serve the public during the Fourth of July holiday week-end.

"Good weather" will be the key factor in Metropark attendance this holiday period, according to James J. Pompo, deputy director of the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority. More than 19,376 acres of land are in public use at the Metroparks. The parks include Hudson Mills, Dexter-Huron and Delhi in Washtenaw county.

A 1983 vehicle entry permit is required (annual: regular $7 or senior citizen $2, or daily $2).

For additional details on Washtenaw park facilities, persons may call 426-8211.

Maps and park brochures are available free at all Metroparks and/or Huron-Clinton Metroparks, 3050 Penobscot Bldg., Detroit, MI 48226.

The list of placers in the elementary school track meet submitted to The Standard had an error. It was Matt Herter who won the 50-yard dash for fifth grade boys, not Matt Heard. In the photograph, he was the boy at the right.

It's Summer-Time! everybody Outdoors

But while you're out enjoying area lakes, rivers and streams, remember what else is there:
1) there are hazards to your own personal safety.
2) your actions can adversely affect... birds, insects, animals and fish that live year-round in that environment.

Here are some tips to remember while you're outdoors this summer, for you and the environment!

HIKING:

- Don't leave rubbish behind: carry out what you carry in!
- Dress for protection from weather, insects and brush.
- Walk lightly and avoid sensitive natural areas.
- Respect personal property.
- Don't leave food or garbage for animals to get into.

BOATING & FISHING:

- Don't speed near shore... wave action can promote erosion & destroy spawning beds.
- Always use boating lights after dark.
- Be conscientious: Pay attention to other boaters.
- Always carry enough life jackets for all passengers.

SWIMMING:

- Always use the buddy system: it really works!
- Don't dive off bridges, docks or boats into unfamiliar waters.
- Do not swim in boat traffic and launching areas.

PICNICKING:

- Pick up ALL trash after your picnic, especially glass.
- Build fires only in designated picnic areas.
- Never leave hot coals smolder with water or bury.
- Don't spray insecticide in areas with open food.

Big Boy Team Wins Tourney

Chelsea Big Boy won the Scottville "A" invitational last weekend. Big Boy went through the double-elimination tournament unbeaten in four games. Two wins were by the mercy rule. Chelsea's victories were 11-3 over Cadillac Sport Shop, 4-2 over Custer VFW, 9-2 over Urka Printing of Ludington, and 4-2 again over Urka, which had advanced through the loser's bracket.

This was Chelsea's second straight championship in the Scottville tournament. Next year Big Boy will try to tie a tournament record by winning three straight. Next year will be the 10th anniversary of the tournament, which benefits multiple sclerosis, and is in memory of a victim of the disease.

Bruce Wagner, Big Boy second baseman, won the most valuable player award, hitting .538 for the tourney and delivering a big two-run triple in the sixth inning of the Custer game, played in front of a loud and boisterous hometown crowd. The victory over Custer was the key game for Big Boy. Wagner also made a fine snag of a line drive, headed up

Pirates 19, Tigers 8; home runs by Matt Gakin, Ricky Clouse, Orin Wilcox and Benny Hurst.
Pirates 11, Dodgers 10; home runs by Chris White, Rick Clouse and Benny Hurst.

SPORTS NOTES

BY BILL MULLENDORE

A book could be written about either Charlie Gehringer or Hank Greenberg, and chances are good that both books will be written someday. For reasons that I have never fathomed, a person worthy of a book has to die, and the memory has to ripen for a few years, before somebody sits down and does the writing.

Here are four anecdotes—two each about Gehringer and Greenberg—that live in my memory.

The year is 1934, the Detroit Tigers are battling for the American League pennant, and at the age of eight I am attending my first Major League baseball game in old Navin Field which has since been expanded into Tiger Stadium. All 22,500 seats are filled.

For 8½ innings it has been a bad day for the good guys. The St. Louis Browns (remember them?) lead 5-3 going into the home half of the ninth. The Tigers load the bases with two out, and Gehringer comes to bat. He takes a strike, two balls, another strike, another ball.

It's three-and-two, and the pitch comes in. Gehringer swings, and ker-whop! The ball sizzles on a line into straight-away centerfield and hits the top of the wall. When the dust settles, three runs are home, Gehringer is standing on third, the score is 6-5, the ball game is over, and an eight-year-old baseball fan has been baptized.

Gehringer is acknowledged today as the greatest second baseman who ever played the game. It was not always so. In his prime he was forever being compared to Napoleon Lajoie, a former Cleveland Indian who had indeed been very good at the trade of playing second base.

Gehringer never said much. He was one of those athletes who let his performance on the field speak for him. He was the poorest interview in town, the despair of sportswriters looking for lively quotes.

One day when the Indians came to town, a Detroit writer with nothing better to do wrote still another in what had gotten to be a litany of stories comparing the two second basemen.

Gehringer had a lot of pride. He was the best, and he knew it, even though he never bragged. In the last inning of that afternoon's game, with the outcome on the line, he made one of those impossible plays that he was forever making—a full-stretch dive into the hole to spear a line drive off the tips of the grass-blades, a roll-over and a flip to first to complete a game-ending double-play.

In the club-house he made one of his rare statements to the press. It consisted of one sentence: "I wonder how Lajoie would have handled that one."

Greenberg was a devout Orthodox Jew from New York's Bronx. It was written into his contract that he did not have to play on Yom Kippur, the Jewish Day of Atonement on which all activity is forbidden. The Tigers were in a feverish pennant race during the late summer of 1935, and Greenberg's big bat was a principal reason why. A crucial series with the New York Yankees was coming up, and one of the games fell on Yom Kippur.

For two weeks the biggest news story in Detroit dwelt on speculation whether Greenberg would play or not. The day before the game Greenberg announced that he would talk to his rabbi and be guided accordingly.

Came the game, and Greenberg was in the lineup. The rabbi was sitting in the owner's box. It turned out he was a Tiger fan, too. Greenberg hit a home run and drove in three runs as the Tigers beat the hated Yanks. They went on to win the pennant by one game and defeated the Chicago Cubs in the World Series. Perhaps the real hero was the rabbi who gave Greenberg the go-ahead to play in that critical game, and came out to watch him.

It's 1945, and the Tigers are embattled in another pennant race. Greenberg has been in the Army for three years and has been given his discharge, effective in 30 days. That will get him back to Detroit in time for the September stretch drive.

Greenberg has never played any position but first base. Trouble is, the Tigers already have a power-hitting first baseman in Rudy York, who can't play anyplace else. He has been tried as a catcher, and has set some kind of a record for passed balls.

The question goes out to Greenberg at the separation center: Can you possibly play in the outfield? We need both you and York in the lineup.

One of the hardest-working players in the history of the game, Greenberg agrees to try. During his remaining days at the separation center, he finds people to hit endless fly balls and take throws back into the infield. He is awkward at first, but gets better with practice.

Discharged at last, Greenberg asks for a few days to get ready to play. He spends all the daylight hours shagging flies and making throws, and after a week announces that he is ready.

He takes the field for his first game as a left fielder and, as fate would have it, the first ball hit is a fly to left. Greenberg drops back a few steps, gets the range, comes in, squeezes it in both hands for the out, and lines it into the shortstop. The roar from the capacity crowd is like nothing you have ever heard before.

You would think Greenberg had hit a bases-loaded homer to clinch the pennant. He did just that on the last day of the season. He was some kind of ball player, and some kind of man.

Authority of township board to approve applications and renewals of licenses, to revoke such approval, and to attach conditions to approval: The township board shall by resolution approve, disapprove, or conditionally approve applications for licenses and make findings of fact that the applicant has met the requirements of the ordinance, and/or, that the applicant has failed to meet the requirements of the ordinance, and/or, that the applicant could by meeting additional conditions comply with the ordinance. In the granting of any approval of a license pursuant to this ordinance, the approval shall be subject to the condition that the applicant comply with the terms and provisions of this ordinance and the rules and regulations of the Michigan Liquor Control Commission. If the township board deems that additional conditions of operation are necessary to meet the intent and purpose of this ordinance, the township board shall set forth said conditions and the granting of approval shall be subject to the condition that the applicant comply with such additional terms and provisions as set forth by the township board. Failure to comply with the conditions of this ordinance or with the conditions set forth by the township board shall be cause for denying an application to renew a license or for revocation of a license. The township board shall have the authority to modify, amend, vary, and increase any conditions attached to an application for a license, previously granted, at the time of its renewal.

B. Term of license: Approval of a license shall be for a period of one year subject to annual renewal by the township board upon continued compliance with the regulations of this ordinance. Approval of a license shall be conditional upon the completion of any necessary remodeling or new construction for the use of the license within six months of the action of the township board or the Michigan Liquor Control Commission approving such license, whichever last occurs, and the performance of the conditions of this ordinance and any conditions adopted by the township board. Any unnecessary delay in the completion of such remodeling or construction or the breach of the conditions of this ordinance and those attached by the township board, may subject the license to revocation.

OUT IN THE OPEN

By BILL MULLENDRE

There's a saying that goes something like, "What if you gave a party and nobody came?"

That more or less describes the position of the Michigan Natural Resources Commission, which offered the directorship of the Department of Natural Resources to M. Peter Lananan of New York, announced the appointment, and then found out the next day that Lananan really didn't want the job and was turning it down.

The commission is back to square one, and indications are they will move a good deal more cautiously the next time around after having made themselves look foolish in public in the Lananan fiasco. For one thing, they undoubtedly will make sure their next appointee intends to accept before proclaiming that he has.

The rules of bureaucratic gamesmanship require that anybody eligible for any job anywhere which represents a promotional opportunity send in an application. The same is true in the private sector. The tons of resumes going through the mail help keep the Post Office in business.

Take it from one who knows, about 98 percent of those applications are sent without the slightest idea that they will be seriously considered, much less accepted. Every once in awhile, though, one of those shots in the dark hits the target and the shooter has to ask himself, "How in the world did I ever get into this mess?"

It happened to me a couple of years ago. I applied for a job in Pennsylvania that I really didn't want, found myself among the finalists, went through the rigamarole of an interview, and lived for several days in fear that I might turn out to be the "winner." I was the happiest man in the world when I got a phone call informing me that I had come in second.

I suspect the Lananan story is as simple as that. He applied for the DNR directorship without ever expecting to be chosen, especially because his boss, Herbert Doig, had also put in a bid. Both are high-ranking officials of the New York Department of Environmental Conservation, the only natural resources-environmental protection "umbrella" state agency that has worked at all well anywhere. (New York's record isn't all that good, but it's far better than Michigan's, which is dismal indeed.)

It was evident from the start that new Gov. James Blanchard wanted an "outsider" to direct Michigan's DNR, and that he favored someone from New York. Doig was Blanchard's first choice. When he sensed that he might be under serious consideration, Doig had the good grace to withdraw his name before the final interviewing process began. He didn't want the job. Lananan left his hat in the ring, perhaps reflecting his inexperience in these job games that bureaucrats play.

Actually, Lananan may have been tempted. A $53,000 a year post as director of one of the nation's largest and most powerful resources agencies is not to be sneezed at. Had it been offered on the right terms, he might have accepted.

My informed guess is that Lananan looked at the Commission vote to appoint him, and decided "no way." It was reported as 5-1 (with one member absent) in the daily press. It was actually 4-2, and the two "no" votes were strong ones. Directing the DNR is tough enough with the enthusiastic support of all seven commissioners. As Howard Tanner ultimately found out, the job is impossible with a Commission minority constantly nipping at your heels. (Tanner was appointed by a 4-3 vote in 1973.)

Commissioners Paul Wendler and Harry Whiteley, who didn't want Lananan, are pushing the candidacy of Ronald Skoog, former director of the Alaska Fish and Game Department. Trouble is, at least two of the other commissioners don't want Skoog, which means he would be in trouble from the start if he were offered the post and took it.

Both Commission chairman Jacob Hoefler and new member Steven Monsma suggested that the best thing to do now is let the dust settle, re-open the application list, and wait until all seven commissioners can agree on somebody.

Meanwhile, acting director Jim Cleary is looking better all the time. He's minding the store, maintaining a low profile, and keeping the DNR out of the headlines while holding the agency on track.

So far as I know, Cleary is the only present top staff member of the DNR who has any background in business administration, experience the department—and all of state government—desperately needs.

He's not a scientist in any phase of natural resources or environmental management, but he knows how to run an organization. He understands budgets and the legislative process. He gets along well with everybody, which is important in the Lansing political game.

The commission might not have to look farther than the seventh floor of the Stevens T. Mason building, across the street from the Capitol, to find its new director. That's where Cleary sits.

Chelsea Baseballers Open Summer Play

The Chelsea Summer League weekend baseball team opened action on June 18 in Ann Arbor with a double-header and took it on the chin twice losing to Packard Dairy Queen 12-0 and 20-2. Pitching for Chelsea were Mark Mull and Chuck Downer.

In the opener Chelsea collected only one hit, a single by David Bushway. In the nightcap Bushway had two more singles, and Ron Dunn, Rick Boham, Evan Roberts, and Jim Toon each contributed a single to the losing cause.

The Chelsea High week night team began the season by beating Stein and Goetz, 12-1, and North American Exploration, 16-9. Against Stein and Goetz Jay Marshall pitched a fine one-hitter as the game went five innings. Marshall also hit a home run. Dunn hit two doubles, and Eric Stofflet had two singles to pace Chelsea's hitting barrage.

Chelsea kept it going two nights later, collecting 17 hits in five innings while beating North American Exploration. Chelsea fell behind three times only to come back and take the lead. In the fifth inning Chelsea put it all together and with two outs scored 10 runs to wrap the game up.

Chris Gallas pitched a good game for Chelsea and also collected three base hits. The big blow was an opposite-field home run by Dunn which put Chelsea ahead for good.

These teams are composed of players who will be going out for varsity ball next spring. By playing in the summer together, they gain experience by playing varsity calibre ball.

The week night team which is 2-0, plays on Tuesday and Thursday nights in the Ann Arbor Summer Recreation Department. The weekend team plays a double-header on Saturdays and is in the Washtenaw Amateur Baseball Association.

Playing on both teams are: David Bushway, Dean Boote, Dave Boote, Rick Boham, Mark Mull, Ron Dunn, Jim Ritter, Mike Niebauer, Keith Niebauer, Jay Marshall, Evans Roberts and Jim Toon.

Playing weekdays only are: Mark Porath, Chuck Downer, Eric Stofflet, Charlie Koenn and Chris Gallas.

Playing weekends only are: Tony Hammerschmidt, Biff Buntun and Mark Bentley.

Both teams are coached by Akel Marshall.

Council Approves Sidewalk Festival Street Closings

The Chelsea Downtown Merchants Association has been granted permission to block the north half of E. Middle St. between Main St. and the entrance to the municipal parking lot, and South St. between Main St. and the alley west of the district court building, during the Chelsea Sidewalk Festival July 29-30.

The temporary closings will allow traffic to move more or less normally, and will not block routes used by police and fire vehicles.

In approving the street closures the village council also set a public hearing for July 5 on the merchants association's request to put up a banner across Main St. advertising the festival.

Walleyes Put in Portage Lake

Thirteen thousand walleye fingerlings, reared in a pond on the grounds of Southern Michigan Prison at Jackson, have been released in Big Portage Lake north of Dexter.

Fisheries biologist Ken Dodge of the Department of Natural Resources' district office in Jackson said the planted walleyes average 1.8 inches in length.

"They were a little smaller than we would have liked, but they were out of food in the rearing pond and we had to do something or lose them entirely. We couldn't hold them any longer."

The lake received a similar planting last year, and test netting this spring showed that at least a few survived and grew to 9-10 inches. Minimum legal length for walleyes is 15 inches, and it takes them at least two years to reach that size.

"This is an experiment," Dodge said. "There is no existing walleye fishery in Portage Lake, but our tests show they might do well there. In some lakes we get good survival and growth, and in some we don't, and we really don't know why. It's a trial-and-error kind of program, but I'm mildly optimistic in this case."

Dodge added that he doubts the lake has suitable spawning areas for natural walleye reproduction and that the fishery, if established, would have to be maintained through a regular stocking program.

Technological breakthroughs in recent years have made large-scale walleye stocking programs feasible. The fish are reared in managed ponds, where they eat natural foods and are netted out after they have grown to planting size.

The walleye is a member of the perch family, but grows to much larger size than the more familiar yellow perch. It is considered perhaps the best on the table of all warm-water fish, but is notoriously difficult to catch.

Communities hoping to attract new businesses by promoting their tax abatement programs or quality of life are often ignoring the real needs of business, according to Michigan State University marketing professor Ronald Savitt.

Savitt says product and price are two of the most important ingredients in any business decision. Factors such as labor force skills and available transportation are among the considerations for moving a business, he says.

Chelsea Fire Department Gets Jeep

The Chelsea Fire Department has received a Jeep under the federal surplus property program administered in Michigan by the Department of Natural Resources.

Fire Chief Paul Hankerd said the vehicle is "basically in very good shape" and will be prepared and equipped to respond to grass fires. It will be ready for service by next spring, he promised.

"We'll be able to send the Jeep out on grass fire alarms and won't have to use our new fast-response truck which is not really required on most grass fires," Hankerd said. "The Jeep will give us more flexibility in dispatching equipment to suit the situation."

The department already has one Jeep, a 1952 model used primarily on grass fires. The new one brings to 10 the number of vehicles stationed in the fire hall. Jeeps are especially valuable because they can be driven "off the road" in places where larger and heavier equipment might be damaged.

Local Radio Hams Test Preparedness

Members of the Chelsea Communication Club participated in the 46th Annual American Radio Relay League Field Day emergency preparedness test last weekend.

Over the weekend, thousands of amateur radio operators (hams) in the United States and Canada set up their stations in the open using only emergency power and portable antennas. They contacted as many operators as possible in the 24-hour period.
