CASSIDY LAKE DEMONSTRATION: Pickets organized by the Committee To Fence Or Close the Cassidy Lake Technical School marched outside the prison's Waterloo Rd. boundary for five hours last Wednesday.

The demonstration was peaceful, as prison officials ignored it. An inmate escaped from the institution while the picketing was going on, but was recaptured shortly afterward.

March on Lansing Could Come Next In Cassidy Hassle

The next move in the campaign to fence or close Cassidy Lake Technical School may be a march on Lansing, organizer Ronald Olmsted declares.

"I hope it doesn't have to come to that, but I'm sure we could get at least 500 people to join in a personal protest to the governor and the Department of Corrections," Olmsted said, noting that he had gathered more than 800 local signatures of support and expects to reach the 1,000 mark.

Olmsted added that State Rep. Margaret O'Connor, whose district includes west Washtenaw county, has offered her support for a demonstration in Lansing.

"She has called me several times and expressed her concern about the problem. She has contacted people in the Department of Corrections trying to get some answers, and she hasn't gotten any. They are stone-walling her, just like they are stone-walling us. Nobody in charge up there will say anything, and that's a shame. It just makes a bad situation worse."

Olmsted's "Fence It Or Close It" group conducted a peaceful picketing demonstration outside the Cassidy Lake prison last Wednesday. There were about 30 sign-carrying marchers on hand at any one time during the five-hour display.

"We didn't want a large group out there," Olmsted said. "Waterloo Rd. was nearly impassable, and a crowd would have created a bad situation for everybody." (The road was being repaved at the time, and construction workers did well to keep one bumpy lane open to traffic.)

Even as the protest picketing was going on, there was still another walk-away from Cassidy Lake. Sirens announcing an escape were sounded at 11 a.m. as William H. Johnson, 19, of Lansing, serving a term for attempted armed robbery, turned up missing following a routine head count of inmates.

Johnson was recaptured two hours later near Stockbridge, but the incident proved the point of the picketers, in their minds anyway. "That's exactly the problem," Olmsted said. "There is no security out here, and we want the place either fenced or closed."

Johnson was the 44th person to escape from Cassidy Lake so far this year. He committed no crimes during his brief period of freedom.

Obviously under orders to maintain a low profile and say nothing, Cassidy Lake superintendent John Staten did not meet with the demonstrators, and declined to talk on record to reporters or appear in front of television cameras.

Staten handed out a prepared three-paragraph statement which read as follows:

"Cassidy Lake Technical School is a minimum security institution without a fence or walls.

Its purpose is to not only provide educational and vocational training programs, but also to test prisoners in an environment where they make decisions which demonstrate their ability to manage themselves upon release.

"We are concerned about escapes. We are also concerned about the public well-being. To this end the Community Liaison Council was formed several years ago to address community concerns. We have worked with this council in the past, we are currently working with them, and we anticipate a continuing good relationship with the liaison council in the future."

"The Community Liaison Council has presented many suggestions and concerns to the superintendent. They have either been acted upon or are under study by the Department of Corrections. For instance, road patrol and staff working hours. A review of the types of individuals sent to Cassidy Lake Technical School is now under study. Changes are made continuously, not as an over-reaction to one incident, but as needs dictate."

"That is all I intend to say," said the physically big but very soft-spoken Staten. "I'm here to run this institution, not to get into an argument with anybody."

"That statement tells me nothing," Olmsted commented, "except that the corrections department is counting on the Community Liaison Council to solve this situation somehow. I can assure you that won't work. The council of which Olmsted is a member will vote in favor of fencing or closing the place. The solution lies in Lansing."

Marchers on the picket line were not nearly so restrained in their comments as was Staten.

Demonstrators told a combined story of fear and terror following repeated incidents of crime by escapees from Cassidy Lake.

"We're scared to death. We're terrified," one woman marcher said. "I'm afraid to leave my children at home alone. We never know when somebody is going to get out and do something."

"I work nights, and I'm scared to leave my family alone," another said.

Still another resident, an Ann Arbor police officer whose home was threatened but not burglarized several weeks ago by Cassidy Lake escapees, called the situation a "powder keg," adding that "somebody is going to get killed."

That notion was reinforced by reports that residents in the Cassidy Lake area have armed themselves and are prepared to shoot first and ask questions later.

"That is really scary," said a police officer who asked not to be quoted by name. "When people decide to take the law into their own hands and start shooting, some innocent person is likely to be the victim."

Meeting Slated On Summer Tax Collection

The Chelsea Board of Education will host a public meeting to discuss the possibility of collecting summer taxes in the summer of 1984, and the Board invites district residents to share their input about this subject.

The meeting will be held Monday, Sept. 19, at 7 p.m. in the Board Room of the Administration Building on Washington St.

BookCrafter's Objects To 'New' Requirements

In a stiffly worded letter to the village council, BookCrafter's has objected to what it calls a mid-course change in the rules for constructing its proposed new parking lot.

Trustee Richard Steele, who sits on the planning commission, denied there has been any change. "All we asked for was some more information on their site plan," he said. "They didn't give us (the planning commission) enough detail the first time, and so we asked for more."

BookCrafter's claimed that gathering the requested data will cost considerable money for extra architectural and engineering fees.

Village president Jack Merkel pointed to the book which contains village zoning ordinances and wondered out loud if BookCrafter's officials and consultants had read it before filing their site plan.

"Every requirement is stated in there," Merkel said, "and they are spelled out very clearly. We adopted these rules for good reasons, and I think we should follow them. Otherwise, the zoning ordinance is useless."

Administrator Frederick A. Weber expressed the same thoughts.

Trustee Jerry Satterthwaite had a somewhat contrary view, suggesting that BookCrafter's might not have been asked to supply the added information had not the village last month hired Carl Schmult of Ann Arbor as a professional consultant on planning and zoning matters.

"Maybe we did change the ground rules by taking that step," Satterthwaite suggested.

Council took no action. Merkel said he would talk with BookCrafter's officials and try to resolve the issue informally.

Engineering Firm Hired To Design Industrial Park

The Ann Arbor consulting firm of Ayres, Lewis, Norris & May will do engineering design work on Chelsea's industrial park at a cost of $21,000, the village council has determined.

The nine-month contract was approved unanimously on recommendation of trustee Jerry Satterthwaite, who heads the council's special industrial park committee.

The $21,000 will be borrowed from the village electric fund, with a promise to repay from proceeds from future land sales in the park.

The land itself was purchased with a loan from the electric fund.

"Now that we've bought it (the land), we need to go ahead and do something with it," Satterthwaite said, "and the engineering design is a necessary first step."

The industrial park is a 73-acre tract on the south side of Sibley Rd., just west of the Dana Corp. plant. It presently consists of a house, several out-buildings and a large cornfield.

Water, Sewer Service Asked on Freer Rd.

Frisinger Realty Co. has asked the village to extend water and sewer service to property on the west side of Freer Rd. south of Washington St., adjacent to Chelsea school district land. The property is owned by Mrs. Lionel Vickers of 668 Washington St.

After discussion, the village council decided to defer action pending receipt of further information on plans for development of the parcel. A Frisinger representative will be asked to appear at next week's council meeting.

Village administrator Frederick A. Weber guessed that water service could be provided for approximately $10,000, but said the costs of extending sewers would be "prohibitively expensive" because of the terrain and other engineering problems.

He suggested that a permit for septic tanks might be secured, but that would be up to the county health department. The land is in the basin of the Palmer & Baldwin drain, which is choked with silt and canary grass, and doesn't function well. A proposal to clean out the drain is stalled because of the high costs involved. County drain commissioner James E. Murray has said no more development can be allowed in the area until something is done about the drain.

Church Inquires About Old Fuel Plant Site

Fellowship Baptist church is considering the former Riemenschneider two-cycle fuel plant site on Old US-12 as a possible site for a new church and has approached the village council for extension of sewer service.

"We're interested," the Rev. Larry Mattis told the council. "We could make a church out of it, but we need a sewer."

The congregation presently holds its Sunday afternoon service in the Rebekah Hall.

The Rev. Mattis was advised that he should file a formal letter of application for a sewer. A small line could be extended from the end of the existing trunkline.

Carl Heldt Quits Planning Comm., Two Posts Open

Carl Heldt has resigned from the Chelsea Planning Commission, creating a second vacancy on the 11-member body. Craig Coltre resigned several weeks ago, and his position has not been filled.

Heldt cited business pressures in his letter of resignation, which the village council accepted. His term was due to expire next June.

Village president Jack Merkel said he is seeking candidates for the two vacancies and hopes to have at least one name to present to the council for consideration at its meeting next Tuesday.

A septic tank is another option, but the minister said he definitely prefers a sewer.

The two-plus-acre property includes a vacant, cinder-block building. It was unclear whether

Cassidy Lake Visitors Monitored

Whatever the shortcomings of the Cassidy Lake Technical School's security system in keeping the inmates inside, it works very well in maintaining watch on visitors.

As a reporter for The Standard drove into the school parking lot last Wednesday morning, he was startled to hear a "voice from the blue" demanding, "Have you checked out that gray Chevrolet?"

A glance around revealed that the voice was coming out of a walkie-talkie radio carried by a guard who was standing beside the gray Chevrolet and asking its driver what his business was in being there.

Identification was established, and there was no problem. The incident was handled courteously and efficiently. Given the security problems the school has been having, it was interesting to learn first-hand that visitors are tracked so closely.

Fire Hall Repair Postponed for Now

Repairs to the Chelsea fire hall roof and front overhang will have to wait until next year, the village council has decided following a report from its ways and means committee that money isn't available in this year's general fund budget.

The project could cost $30,000 or more, depending on which of several options is eventually selected.

Reporting for the ways and means committee, trustee Loren Keezer said he and trustee Herman Radloff had reviewed the current status of the budget and determined that no more major costs can be handled this fiscal year.

"We'll look at the situation again in January," Keezer said, "but right now it appears to be very tight. There doesn't seem to be any money available for large expenditures not already provided for in the budget."

Fire chief Paul Hankerd said his department could live with the leaky roof and the rotted wood in the fire hall overhang until next year. "I'd rather wait and have the repair job done right, than do a cheap patch-up now that won't solve the problem," he told the council. "I suggest we let it sit until we have the money."

All six trustees agreed, and voted to postpone the fire hall repair issue until next year. The village fiscal year begins on March 1, and money to fix the building could be included in the 1984-85 budget.

President Jack Merkel thanked trustees Richard Steele and Joe Merkel for their work in studying the problem and soliciting bids from contractors, and promised that the matter definitely will be brought up again.

County Board Approves Detaching Knoll Property

The Washtenaw County Board of Commissioners has approved the detachment of property owned by Mr. and Mrs. Donald Knoll at 1220 Old Manchester Rd. from the village of Chelsea.

No one showed up at the board meeting to either support or oppose the move, Commissioner Martin Straub said, and so it was approved routinely.

"I'm a little concerned that we may have set an important precedent without really understanding the issue," Straub said, "but there wasn't much information to go on."

The Knoll property was annexed to the village 17 years ago, and it apparently was an honest mistake, the result of an improperly drafted annexation petition. The Knolls asked that the error be rectified, and the Chelsea council agreed to take the necessary legal steps. The final requirement was county board approval.

The property is, or at least was, separated from the rest of the village, and the Knolls alleged they were not receiving services worth the taxes they pay.

"I can't quite understand why it took 17 years for this problem to come up," Straub said.

There is talk of improving sewer and water/utility services on the south side of Chelsea, which could mean special assessments for affected property owners in the village.

Village Will Pay School Guard Cost

The village of Chelsea will pay the $3,400 cost of crossing guards at North and South elementary schools, the village council has determined.

The school district has declined to pay the charge, citing a Michigan attorney general's opinion which declares it to be a municipal responsibility.

"I believe it is clear that this is a village obligation," police chief Robert Aeillo told the council. "We are providing the guards. If we didn't and a child were killed at an unguarded crossing, the village couldn't afford the costs of damages in the lawsuit that would follow."

Council agreed and voted the $3,400 expenditure.

Cable TV Firm's Lease Renewed

The village council has renewed the lease of Chelsea's water tower by Clear Cablevision, but carefully stipulated the price will be $500 for the next year, even though the company offered to pay $300 more.

Hospice Group Plans Information Meeting

Hospice of Washtenaw, a non-profit health care agency, trains and utilizes volunteers in the care of the terminally ill and their families. Volunteers serve families in a variety of ways—through supportive counseling, friendly visiting, health care education, light household chores and errand assistance. Other volunteers assist in office operations, publicity, and public speaking. It is not necessary to have a background in health care to be a Hospice volunteer.

Anyone interested in learning more about the Hospice of Washtenaw is urged to attend an Informational Meeting to be held Sept. 19, at 7:30 p.m. at 2530 S. Main St., Ann Arbor. Please call 995-1995 if you would like more information.

Docent Training Program Set By Botanical Gardens

Friends of the Matthaei Botanical Gardens will sponsor a docent (guide) program beginning this winter.

Applications will be accepted through Oct. 15 for the winter training class.

The training will consist of a five-month program, January through May, in basic botany and special topics based on the Garden's collections. It will also include a study of tour techniques and practice sessions.

This program at the Gardens is aimed at interpreting the collections of the conservatory and grounds for visitors.

For a docent course application and additional information, call 764-1168 weekdays and leave your name and address.

Extension Service Offers Program On Color Theory

Want to learn more about the popular seasonal color theory—how your choices of the colors you wear can affect your appearance and the impression you make? Then call 973-9510 to reserve a place for a "Color Impressions" workshop offered by the Washtenaw County Co-operative Extension Service on Tuesday, Sept. 20, at 10 a.m. Cost is $2.

Hope Warner, fashion stylist, will explain how wearing "your" colors can enhance your natural coloring. She will also involve the audience in learning how to "analyze" which season's colors are best.

"Do It Yourself" color analysis kits will be available from the Co-operative Extension Service for workshop participants to borrow for a small fee plus a refundable deposit. Priority for borrowing the kits will be given for program leaders to use with organized groups, then to individuals.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Dancer

Donald Dancers Observe 50th Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Donald J. Dancer of Chelsea were honored on Aug. 28 on the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary at a dinner at Weber's in Ann Arbor.

The event, attended by the immediate family, was hosted by their daughters, Carol Collins and her husband, Jim, of Chelsea; Sharon Owings, and her husband, Ralph, of Hastings; and their grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Dancer were married Sept. 9, 1933 at the home of Mr. Dancer's parents, Emmet H. and Eva L. Dancer, in Lima Center. The Rev. Henry Lenz performed the ceremony. He also officiated at Mr. Dancer's parents' wedding.

A lovely two-tiered anniversary cake adorned the table accented with gold. The immediate family and relatives were there to share in the celebration.

Mr. and Mrs. Dancer have resided in Chelsea for 50 years. Mr. Dancer retired from the Chelsea Post Office after 37 years of service in 1965 and then worked seven years for the Chrysler dealership. Mrs. Dancer worked as a nurse in a local doctor's office.

They both were active in the Eastern Star and Mr. Dancer has been involved in Masonry for 54 years. He is a life member of all the York rite bodies of Masonry and a member of the Moslem Shrine of Detroit.

Junior Women's Club Organizing in Chelsea

All women in Chelsea and surrounding areas are invited to attend an informational tea regarding the formation of the Chelsea Area Junior Women's Club on Wednesday evening, Sept. 21, beginning at 7:30 in the dining room of the Chelsea Community Hospital.

The newly formed Chelsea Area Junior Women's Club will be a member of the General Federation of Women's Clubs (GFWC), the largest and oldest non-denominational, non-partisan, international service organization of volunteer women in the world.

Organized in 1889, the GFWC is recognized as a powerful organization not alone because of its huge membership, but because of the commitment by its dedicated members to improve the quality of life in their communities.

For the American women, membership in GFWC, which has its national headquarters in Washington, D.C., offers identification with an influential international volunteer service organization plus a common bond with 12,000 clubs and 600,000 other service women in the United States and Puerto Rico. Accomplishments through unity that cannot be attained singly and a national perspective to club work are additional benefits to the members of this illustrious group.

The Chelsea Area Juniors will meet monthly beginning in October. Besides community involvement, the club members will be aware of and, in many cases, be involved with state and national projects of concern to women, their families, and the world around them.

A handful of invitations have been sent out in the mail, mainly to those women who are new to the area or to those who are not already involved in other area organizations, but the invitation is extended to all area women, especially those newcomers to Chelsea and surrounding towns who would like to become actively involved with their new friends and neighbors.

To make your reservation for the Sept. 21 tea, or for more information phone Lorraine Perkins at 475-1311.

Extension Service Offers Workshop on Foods for Children

Getting children to eat what's good for them is a challenge to every parent. Kathleen Baxter, author of "Come and Get It: A Natural Foods Cookbook for Children," believes she has an answer. "Let them enjoy preparing it themselves."

She will prepare some of her child tested and approved recipes at the Corner on the Kitchen sponsored by Co-operative Extension Service on Sept. 15 at 1 p.m. and again at 7:30 p.m. This month's Corner on the Kitchen, "How To Turn Kids on to Good Foods" is part of a regular series held at the Co-operative Extension Service Building in the County Service Center at Hogback and Washtenaw in Ann Arbor.

Come to sample snack and lunch-box treats using whole foods and home-made mixes. Ms. Baxter will share some tasty recipes for healthful cookies, breads and muffins, Jell-O, yogurt treats and sandwiches.

A $2 entry fee covers food for tasting. Phone reservations are required. The number is 973-9510.

Children's Center Offers Programs of Child Care

The Children's Center of Chelsea Community Hospital provides child care for children, aged 3 months to 12 years. The center offers special programs for children of various ages.

Of special interest this fall for parents are the pre-school and pre-kindergarten programs. Both offer educationally enriching experiences while allowing children to participate in new social and play activities. All programs are planned and directed by experienced teachers. There are still openings in these programs and others.

Parents are welcome to call for an appointment to visit the center and meet the staff. Drop-in child-care service is also available. Call the center and arrange for child care to meet your needs. The center is open from 6:30 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. Call 475-1311, ext. 405.

RETIRES FROM DANA: Rex Gulman, lifelong resident of Dexter, retired from Dana Corp. on Sept. 1. He worked for Dana for 33 years. Friends and neighbors held a surprise party at Waters Bros. Pub, which was highlighted with the appearance of a belly dancer. One of Rex's many comments was, "Wow, is all this for me?" His plans for retirement include a trip to Arizona and just plain relaxing.

RETIREMENT: Three of Dana's senior employees retired Sept. 1, with the total of 87 years of service. Owen Cavender had 37 years, Rex Gulman 33 years and Jerry McPeake 17 years. Plant manager Don Blair presented all three with Dana Blue Blazers. Area managers and foremen presented their employees with the Dana Folders including first retirement check, and Certificate of Retirement. Chairman of the UAW Local 437,

Hearings Scheduled On Requests for Main St. Banners

Public hearings will be held next Tuesday on requests by St. Mary's Catholic church and the Chelsea United Way to put up banners across downtown Main St. Both are scheduled at 7:30 p.m. in the village hall.

St. Mary's church wants to advertise its fall festival which is scheduled Sept. 23-25. United Way seeks to promote its annual October fund campaign.

Village administrator Frederick A. Weber said it would be possible to get the needed clearance from the state in time for the St. Mary's banner to go up, provided council approves it. State permission is required because Main St. (M-52) is a state highway.

Free Dog Training, Care Clinic Offered By Humane Society

The Humane Society of Huron Valley is presenting a free monthly clinic on Dog Training and Care. The clinic will be taught by instructors of the Ann Arbor Dog Training Club and offered the third Tuesday of every month, beginning Sept. 20, from 7 to 8:30 p.m. at the HSHV Education Building at 3100 Cherry Hill Rd., Ann Arbor.

The clinic will include demonstrations and information on housebreaking, chewing, crating, dog behavior, grooming, health care and basic obedience. People and questions are welcomed, pets should be left behind.

Play It Cool If You Have Problems With Bats

Since Monday, Aug. 15, the Health Department has received six phone calls from people who have had encounters with bats. The bats were reported flying inside houses, and in one case, a person was bitten.

The Health Department cautions that bats are known to carry rabies and should be handled with care. According to James Henderson, chief sanitarian, "People should use tongs or other utensils to pick up dead bats." The bat's head should not be crushed because the virus is found within the brain.

When bats are brought to the Health Department, they are forwarded to Lansing for analysis for rabies, and the results are back in the county within a few days.

A person who is suspected of having been bitten by a bat should be examined by a physician immediately.

"Bats typically are active during the summer months," notes Henderson, "and people are often concerned about how to get bats out of their houses—and to keep them out."

Henderson suggests that people who are confronted by a bat, "keep their cool." "Avoid provoking a bat," he says. "The bat perceives the human as part of his problem, so it's best to keep a low profile."

"To get the bat out of your house, put on the lights and open a door or window. The bats will detect the fresh air movement and fly out."

"Some people take off after bats with a fishing net or tennis racket; this may work, but it takes a lot of effort. Besides, the bat's echo-location system makes a broom or other solid object not very effective."

To make a house "bat-proof," Henderson suggests people carefully inspect for unprotected vents, broken windows or other open spaces, and then "build out" the bats. "Large openings should be covered with sheet metal or with 1/4-inch mesh hardware cloth. Narrow cracks can be sealed or caulked. This will provide useful weather protection, too," he adds.

Although the very mention of the word "bat" tends to frighten humans—perhaps because bats whiz by suddenly and unexpectedly or because a body the size of a mouse spreads its wings and suddenly measures a full 10 inches. "Despite what people claim—bats do not attack humans and they don't get tangled in people's hair. If you keep cool, the bat will most likely be all too happy to fly away on its own."

A VIEW from the CLOCK TOWER

Bill Mullendore

Hats off, congratulations, kudos and any other laudatory words you can think of are due the people who negotiated the new three-year contract between the Chelsea Board of Education and the Chelsea Education Association.

Much credit goes, too, to the majority of voters who cast ballots in the June 13 millage election. They understood the issue and agreed to a hold-the-line increase made necessary by an arbitrary slash in the school district's tax base.

When you look at what is happening in many other school districts around here, you can only conclude that Chelsea set an example which some of its neighbors would do well to follow.

The health insurance coverage issue that sent Ann Arbor teachers to the picket lines was resolved here harmoniously. Chelsea teachers agreed to choose individually between the two offered coverages, and pay the difference out of their own pockets if they select the higher-priced policy. They also agreed to a study which might reduce costs of providing the total package of fringe benefits. Any savings realized will go into the salary schedule.

That group of decisions makes so much basic good sense that you have to wonder why and how the negotiators in Ann Arbor failed to make them. As an allegedly "educated" community, Ann Arbor frequently demonstrates dumbness.

I honestly don't know enough about the Dexter situation to comment intelligently, other than to note that it's too bad. The community has been polarized over an issue that probably never would have become important had it been properly handled in the first place. The most charitable explanation is that there was a failure of communications somewhere along the line.

Dexter district voters twice declined, by a margin of two votes the first time around, to make up the revenue lost by a state-imposed cut in equalized valuation. One suspects there was a misunderstanding over an apparent tax increase that really wasn't. Chelsea school officials got their message across; Dexter's didn't.

The litany of trouble goes on to the point where the Ann Arbor News is publishing a daily "box score" on the problems of the school districts in its circulation area. Besides those in Ann Arbor, teachers in Howell and Willow Run were striking as this was written. Teachers in Ypsilanti, Dexter, Lincoln, Whitmore Lake and Brighton were working without contracts, with later strikes possible if agreements are not reached. In most other districts school opened on the basis of existing contracts which have a year or more yet to run. Clinton and Milan joined Chelsea in negotiating new agreements this year.

I go back to a time when the mere suggestion of joining a union would have been grounds for dismissal of a teacher. My wife taught in the Pontiac, Milan, Lincoln and Ann Arbor districts during various years before and after we were married. "Negotiations" in those days consisted of the school administration sending the teacher a proposed individual contract, which could be signed and returned or not. The "or not" alternative meant no job. It was strictly "take it or leave it."

That was an unfair system, loaded against the teachers. The new system of bargaining which casts administrators and teachers in adversary roles likewise leaves a lot to be desired. When forced to argue and perhaps backed into a corner, human nature is to dig in and come out swinging. The guess here is that is exactly what happened in Ann Arbor. The issue of which company's health insurance coverage to buy is so frivolous on its face that it could not possibly justify a strike—unless the two parties had become so antagonistic that an excuse had to be found for a showdown.

Chelsea's negotiators managed to avoid that kind of a confrontation. Although the discussions were held in private, everything I hear indicates that they were carried on constructively, with a real desire on both sides to reach an agreement. Result was a contract that allowed school to open as scheduled and further provides for three years of no-hassling. Probably nobody is entirely happy with the result, but all parties can live with it.

The real winners are the kids who go to school in Chelsea, a very good bunch from what I've seen of them. Let's salute them, too, while we're handing out compliments.

Schools Set Four Major 1983-84 Goals

On June 4 the Board of Education held its annual Board Goals Workshop. Present at the meeting were administrators, teachers, students, and representatives of other employee groups. The Board of Education will place special emphasis on the following four goals for the 1983-84 school year.

I. The Chelsea Schools will continue a District-wide plan of Curriculum Review and will implement appropriate improvements.

A. Review current school programs to see if they adequately meet the students' varying needs and abilities.

B. Review graduation requirements.

C. Conduct an independent educational audit of K-12 with the results to be completed by Feb. 1, 1984.

II. The Chelsea School District shall undertake a study to determine instructional time spent on curriculum areas at K-7 Level.

Develop a committee to determine a method of collecting data by Nov. 1.

A. September and October—Generate interest in program.

B. Jan. 1—Seek volunteers to develop method of collecting data.

C. March and April—Analyze data.

D. May—Write report.

E. June 15—Present to Board.

III. The Chelsea School District will produce a brochure of the district encompassing the balance of programs, achievements, community relations, facilities, and services.

IV. The Chelsea School District shall continue to work toward a district-wide program to develop positive attitudes among school employees.

A. This is to be accomplished by in-service programs for the school employees.

B. School employees will communicate positive attitudes to students, parents and to the general public.

Washtenaw 4-H's Earn Awards at State Horse Show

Several Washtenaw county 4-Hers received awards at the 1983 Michigan 4-H Horse Show held Aug. 23 at Michigan State University.

Keith Pastorino of Ann Arbor was awarded reserve champion in saddle seat equitation; Amy Thomas of Plymouth and Christine Atkins of Ann Arbor earned champion places in the dressage event; and Charlotte Muck of Dexter took reserve champion honors in the fitting and showing contest.

According to Sara Paton, Washtenaw county 4-H Youth Agent, the purpose of the annual event is to give 4-H horse project members an opportunity to evaluate their horsemanship skills by competing against other youths from across the state with similar interests.

This year's event included 248 classes ranging from western and English riding and dressage to costume, trail and gymkhana events.

Sewer Requested

the church is interested in the entire tract or just the building.

Tregets Tool & Engineering Co. sought to buy the property last year, but was thwarted by a village decision against rezoning the tract to allow light industrial use. Tregets subsequently moved its operations to Jackson, vacating the Weinberg Dairy building which it had occupied.

Establishment of a church on the site would likewise require a zoning decision.

Chelsea Village Council Proceedings

September 6, 1983

Regular Session.

The meeting was called to order at 7:30 p.m. by President Merkel.

Present: President Merkel, Clerk Rosentretter and Administrator Weber.

Walking Clinic Set For Senior Citizens Here on Thursday

A walking clinic for senior citizens will be held Thursday, Sept., 22, from 2-3 p.m. at the Senior Citizens Center in Chelsea.

It will be an opportunity to learn about all of the positive benefits of a walking program for the older citizen. Discussion will focus on getting started—how to determine if you are able and what to watch for while walking.

Other topics will include the relationship of disease and illness to physical exercise and when to stop so as not to overdo.

The program is sponsored by the Family Practice Center, at Chelsea and will be presented by Peggy Alford and Dr. Tama Martini. To register call the Chelsea Community Education office at 475-9832.

To everything there is a season, and a time to every purpose under the heaven.

School Board Notes

Present at a regular meeting of the Chelsea Board of Education Tuesday, Sept. 6 were Schumann, Heller, Dils, Grau, Feeney, Comau, Redding, Superintendent Van Meer, Assistant Mills, Principals Williams, Conklin, Benedict, Wojcicki, Assistant Principal Vogel, Community Education Director Rogers, Athletic Director Nemeth, Special Education Director DeYoung, guests.

Meeting called to order at 8 p.m. by President Dale Schumann.

Board approved the minutes of the Aug. 15 meeting.

Board approved the agreements with the bus drivers and the cafeteria workers. The agreement with the bus drivers is for two years, and the cafeteria workers' agreement is for one year. Bus drivers' salaries were increased 3% for the 1983-84 school year, and 4% for 1984-85; the increase for cafeteria workers for 1983-84 was 4.2%.

The Board ratified the three-year negotiated agreement with the Chelsea Education Association. The agreement is effective July 1, 1983, through June 30, 1986.

The Board approved a contract for June Warren for the 1983-84 school year. June is replacing Tammi Barbret, who is on a leave of absence.

The Board approved a contract for Mary Watson, who will be replacing Janeen Messimer, a part-time teacher who has been granted a one-semester leave of absence.

The Board accepted, with regret, the resignation of Deborah Mohl, Special Education Vocation Co-ordinator, who has relocated to North Carolina.

Superintendent Van Meer reported on the instructional skills workshop which was attended by three administrators and seven teachers on Aug. 22-23. The workshop is a co-operative program involving Chelsea, Manchester, Dexter and Whitmore Lake. The participants will meet in three more sessions, one session each in September, October and November. The instructional skills workshop emphasizes effective teaching techniques in the classroom.

Athletic Director Nemeth reported on the status of the outdoor facility project. Present plans call for the Homecoming game of Oct. 14 to be the first home football game.

The Board reported that a public hearing on summer tax collection will be held Sept. 19.

Superintendent Van Meer reviewed the candidates for the Beach and North School principalships, and expressed his over-all pleasure with the caliber of the candidates. An interview committee, comprised of three administrators, a board member, a teacher and a parent, interviewed a total of 17 candidates—seven for the Beach principalship and 10 for the North School principalship—and has reduced the number of candidates to three at each school.

All principals reported that the opening day of school went smoothly. A total of 780 students were in attendance at the high school on opening day.

Community Education Director Rogers reported that programs are in full swing and adult education classes will begin Sept. 19.

Meeting adjourned at 9:25 p.m.

Tuition in most private vocational schools ranges from $1,000 to $4,000 for a 10-month course, with an average cost of $2,000.

Meeting Held on Summer School Tax Collections

Washtenaw County school superintendents, board of education presidents, and township supervisors met at the Washtenaw County Intermediate School District offices on Tuesday, Sept. 13, at 4 p.m. to consider initiating summer tax collections starting in the summer of 1984.

A committee of several school superintendents, including Dexter's Michael Williamson, and township officials has been meeting since January to explore the best ways to achieve common implementation of the summer tax collection legislation passed last year.

Committee co-chairs Harry Howard of the Ann Arbor Public Schools and Robert Lillie of Pittsfield township have cited several examples of advantages to be gained through the new agreements. Chief among these reasons are: county-wide uniformity in summer tax collection, the elimination of 1% collection fee formerly assessed against taxpayers, and a considerable reduction in the time involved negotiating separate annual agreements between the districts and the townships.

Lillie and Howard report that while taxpayers may find the first year adjustment bothersome, the long range effect will be to the taxpayer's benefit. Summer tax collections will greatly improve the cash flow process in county school districts, with borrowing at high interest to meet first quarter revenue needs becoming unnecessary or substantially reduced.

Although the meeting was announced as being for the purpose of "signing agreements" for collecting summer taxes, decisions on the issue have not been reached in many districts.

The Chelsea Board of Education, for example has scheduled a public forum at 7 p.m. next Monday in the high school board room to give school district taxpayers a chance to express their views, and will not decide anything until after that session.

Dexter's position is likewise uncertain following defeat of two proposals to renew operating millage.

Some occupations with more than 50 percent projected growth in employment through 1990 include: paralegal personnel, computer service technician, computer operator, office machine repairer, and physical therapist. Training for these occupations is available through schools accredited by NATTS.

Workshop Series Offered on Cooking With Whole Foods

Learning to cook with whole foods can be quite a challenge, especially with all of the conflicting information about the nutritional value of our foods. Come join Teresa Freed, editor of The Foodletter, as she presents a series of workshops designed to put that information in perspective while participants explore cooking with whole grains and fresh produce.

The workshops are being offered by Chelsea Community Education and will take place on the specified dates from 9 a.m. to noon in the Chelsea High School Home Economics Room. Many delicious recipes will be made and sampled during the workshops, and recipe reprints will be included in the workshop fees.

"Rice Is Nice" is the first workshop in the series, and it will be held Saturday, Oct. 8. Brown rice is a delicious and exceptionally nourishing food, but is sometimes difficult to work into your diet. This workshop will focus on methods for cooking brown rice, ways to combine rice with other foods to form a complete meal without using meat, and many ideas for using rice in side dishes, salads, desserts, etc.

The second workshop is named "It's Soup" and will take place on Saturday, Oct. 29. Hearty soups are warming and satisfying, besides being very thrifty. Participants will learn how to make flavorful soups using leftover odds and ends that normally would be thrown away. Watery soups will be a thing of the past once you know how to extract the flavor and nutrients like Grandma used to do.

The third workshop, "Breads!" will explore making good whole grain breads. Making your own delicious bread is a wonderful way to raise the nutritional content of your meals and to lower your food bills. Participants will have a fragrant loaf of bread to take home. This workshop will meet Saturday, Nov. 12.

"Christmas Bakeshop" is the final workshop in the series, and will meet Saturday, Dec. 3. Baking is an important part of Christmas tradition in most households.

You may register for the workshops through Chelsea Community Education at 475-9830. They are $7 each, or you may register for the series of four for $28. Learning about cooking with whole foods is a very individual thing, and you may have ideas for workshops or other activities that are more suited to your needs.

The Committee To Fence Or Close Cassidy Lake Prison Wants You To Know About Cassidy Lake Prison

It was designed 40 years ago to accomodate youthful, first offense "hub-cap stealers."

There aren't any "hub-cap stealers" in the Michigan prison system today. With overcrowding, "hub-cap stealers" simply aren't sent to prison these days.

Assaultive, armed robbery, and multiple offense prisoners are being placed now at Cassidy Lake. All Cassidy Lake prisoners are convicted felons!

The Department of Corrections is using Cassidy Lake—a minimum security facility—for medium security type prisoners who obviously should be fenced in.

Forty-five escapes have taken place so far in 1983. That's 16% of the prisoners at Cassidy Lake!

Escapees have committed rape, murder, assault, auto theft, and break-ins.

The Department of Corrections is not fulfilling its responsibility to keep these prisoners at Cassidy Lake Prison. They send prisoners there but don't keep them there!

Cassidy Lake prisoners have more freedom than we do. We have to lock ourselves in. They aren't locked in!

Thousands of us who live in the Chelsea-Cassidy Lake area are frightened to death.

We're angry that the Department of Corrections doesn't seem to give a damn.

We need to do something about it! We need to get the attention of the Governor, our legislators, and the Director of Corrections.

Write to them now!

They are:

Tell them how you feel about Cassidy Lake Prison. If you're frightened to death, say it. If you can't sleep at night, say it. If you have a loaded gun now and never did before, say it. If you have children and you're frightened for their safety, say it. If you're angry about the lack of concern and action by the Department of Corrections, say it. If you're scared as hell and aren't going to take it anymore, say that too.

Your letter doesn't have to be formal or long. The important thing is to write something!

If you can, please send copies of your letters to the Committee, P.O. Box 43, Chelsea. If not, please drop us a note that you've written so we can tally the number of letters written.

Dexter 4-H Youth In Top Group at Livestock Expo

Three Dexter-area 4-H members finished in the top 20 of approximately 150 competitors during the Michigan 4-H Livestock Expo held recently at Michigan State University.

The trio will travel to Lexington and Louisville, Ky., with 17 other winners on a three-day all expense paid trip in November. As part of their prize they will visit the Kentucky Horse Park and attend the North American International Livestock Exposition, said Bernadette Sietz Garbe of the Washtenaw County Co-operative Extension Service.

Sietz-Garbe said the purpose of the competition is to encourage 4-H members to broaden their skills and expertise in livestock judging and related fields. The competition included livestock judging and evaluation, public speaking, demonstration and photography contests, a livestock Quiz Bowl and Ag Olympics, and a veterinary science fair.

The local winners are:

Lori Nixon, 16, a junior at Dexter High school. Nixon took first place in the live animal evaluation, second place in both the sheep production management and meat judging competitions, third place in the sheep showmanship competition, and 18 place in beef showmanship. Nixon is the daughter of Bill and Cheri Nixon.

Ken Baldus, 14, freshman at Dexter High school. Baldus took first place in the junior division for livestock judging and placed fifth overall in the category, first in the junior division of public speaking and fifth over-all, first in live animal evaluation in the junior division and 18 over-all, second in the junior division of photography and eighth over-all, fourth in demonstrations in the junior division and ninth over-all, and 10th place in swine showmanship. Baldus is the son of Fran and Dave Baldus.

Rick Baldus, 17, a senior at Dexter High school. Baldus took first place in livestock judging, fourth place in the live animal evaluation and demonstrations competitions, sixth place in public speaking, and 10th place in photography. Baldus is the son of Bill and Barb Baldus.

In addition Nixon and Rick Baldus were members of the county's senior livestock judging team which placed third in the state during the Livestock Expo. Ken Baldus was a member of the junior judging team which also placed third in separate competi-

Manchester Girl Wins State 4-H Horse Project

Washtenaw county 4-H'er Lisa Buono of Manchester won top honors at the Michigan 4-H Standardbred Production Project Show, held Aug. 27, in Adrian.

Buono placed fifth in the fitting and showmanship class and sixth in conformation judging.

The show was the final activity in a number of events planned to help Michigan 4-H members participating in the Michigan 4-H Standardbred Production Project to develop a greater understanding of the Michigan harness horse raising industry.

4-H members involved in the production program are given a Weanling Standardbred foal to raise for one year. During the year the 4-H'ers attend a number of workshops and field trips designed to help them learn about harness horse breeding, training and racing. They also work with the foals to teach them basic stable and trailering manners.

At the end of the program, members bring their yearlings to a special show so that judges and prospective buyers may evaluate the horses' conditioning and harness and potential as winning training horses.

The yearlings are sold at an auction, and 4-H members receive one-third of the selling price after expenses. The breeder who donated the horse to the program receives the remainder.

Selling prices for this year's horses ranged from $1,100 to $8,200, with the average price being $3,100.

The Michigan Standardbred Horse Production Project is jointly sponsored by the Michigan Harness Horsemen's Association, the Michigan Standardbred Breeders' Association and the Michigan 4-H Youth Program.

Horses for this year's project were made available by: Shiawassee Farms of Durand; William Buggs of St. Johns; Patrick Heeney of Stockbridge; John Donley of Elwell; William Milne, III, and James Downing, Jr., both of Northville; Charles Keene and Carl Mayes, both of Mt. Pleasant; Lowell Trigg of Brighton; and Paul Linehan of Adrian.

Pre-School PREP Program Offered Parents

The Parent Readiness Education Project (PREP) will be available for parents and their pre-schoolers again this year in the Chelsea School District.

The program entails one morning per week of classroom activities and individually assigned home activities for the remainder of the week. It is designed to make a smoother and more rewarding kindergarten year for the child in the future.

The PREP teachers, Linda Hiatt and Susan Lovejoy, have sent letters to all the parents of children born between Dec. 2, 1978 and Dec. 1, 1979. If you have not received a letter please call the PREP office at 475-9131, ext. 60, to make an appointment. Screening will take place in the PREP room at North Elementary School on Sept. 14, 15 and 19. At this time the PREP staff will meet individually with each child to assess the child's learning strengths and weaknesses. The information will be shared with the parents at that time.

This free service is offered to parents to learn more about their child's readiness for school activities.

Waterloo Nature Center Work Bee Slated Saturday

Waterloo Nature Center will hold a Work Bee Saturday, Sept. 17, beginning at 10 a.m.

The event is open to the public. Participants should bring a lunch. Snacks will be provided. The Work Bee is the second event on the Nature Center's fall calendar. The Center will feature various fall programs and events through Nov. 19. There will be a 50 cent charge per person for each program.

The Waterloo Nature Center is located at 17030 Bush Rd., Chelsea. Take I-94 to Exit 157 and proceed north on Pierce Rd. Turn left on Bush Rd.

CPR Courses Set At Chelsea Hospital

A course in cardio-pulmonary resuscitation (CPR) will be offered by the Washtenaw chapter of the American Red Cross at Chelsea High school on three successive Monday evenings beginning Sept. 19.

The classes will be held from 7 to 10 p.m. and will be taught through lectures, discussions, demonstrations and manikin practice. Further information may be obtained by calling 475-9830.

Gary Packard, Jr., Completes Air Force Pilot Training

Second Lt. Gary A. Packard, Jr., son of Gary A. and Bernice E. Packard of 19678 North Territorial Rd., Chelsea, has graduated from U. S. Air Force pilot training, and has received silver wings at Vance Air Force Base, Okla.

Packard will now serve with the 8th Flying Training Wing at Vance Air Force Base.

He is a 1982 graduate of the U. S. Air Force Academy, Colorado Springs, Colo.

Salmon Fever Hits Great Lakes Area

One of the best Great Lakes salmon fishing seasons will peak over the next two months as two million coho and chinook school for spawning runs off 44 rivers, bays and lakes, reports the Automobile Club of Michigan.

Action will center on the Great Lakes ports until mid-September, then shift to the state's major rivers and streams where salmon become the targets of wading anglers until early November.

Each fall the salmon return to the streams highlighted on the Auto Club's 1983 guide to spawn and die. Chinook fingerlings migrate downstream to the Great Lakes in the spring where they'll spend three to six years, growing up to 35 pounds in size. The coho salmon stay in the big lakes a year and one-half and can grow to 15 pounds at maturity.

Charter boat captains and Department of Natural Resources (DNR) fisheries biologists report spring and summer activity equal to or slightly better than last year's which was the best since Great Lakes salmon fishing began in 1967. Nearly 300,000 anglers in boats, on piers, along shorelines or in streams will try to fill their coolers with salmon this fall.

This year's most improved fishing has been in Lake Huron along the Thumb. The first mature schools of chinook are returning to Port Sanilac and Port Austin. In addition, recent Port Austin plantings of 200,000 steelhead and brown trout plus more than one million lake trout and 100,000 coho salmon should mean excellent spring to fall fishing action in two or three years.

The DNR also planted more than a million coho and chinook in Lake Huron near Rogers City this summer to ensure heavy runs of coho beginning next year and chinook in 1985.

A bonus pink salmon fishery awaits anglers in the Upper Peninsula and along a few tributaries in the Lower Peninsula. The biennial runs of the pink, or humpback salmon, are expected to hit at least five streams off Lake Superior and one off northern Lake Huron, all in the U.P.

The peak runs of the tasty pinks are expected by mid-September. The humpbacks, which average about one pound, are taken by casting spinners or spawn at river mouths or over spawning beds.

While the first mature runs of salmon will darken the waters of several Thumb-area streams, DNR fisheries biologists in West Michigan expect better than normal runs on the St. Joseph River from Benton Harbor to Berrien Springs and on the Grand River from Grand Haven to Grand Rapids. They expect the other Lake Michigan tributaries to produce about the same results as 1982.

When salmon fishing began in Michigan 16 years ago, it was primarily a fall sport for fishermen along streams and piers. In the last 10 years it has evolved into a spring through fall activity due to the growth in popularity of trolling.

The switch from streams to lakes occurred mainly because salmon still in the Great Lakes make prime table fare and take lures more readily than in the streams. In rivers, fish are usually too ripe for prime meat and must be provoked into striking a lure.

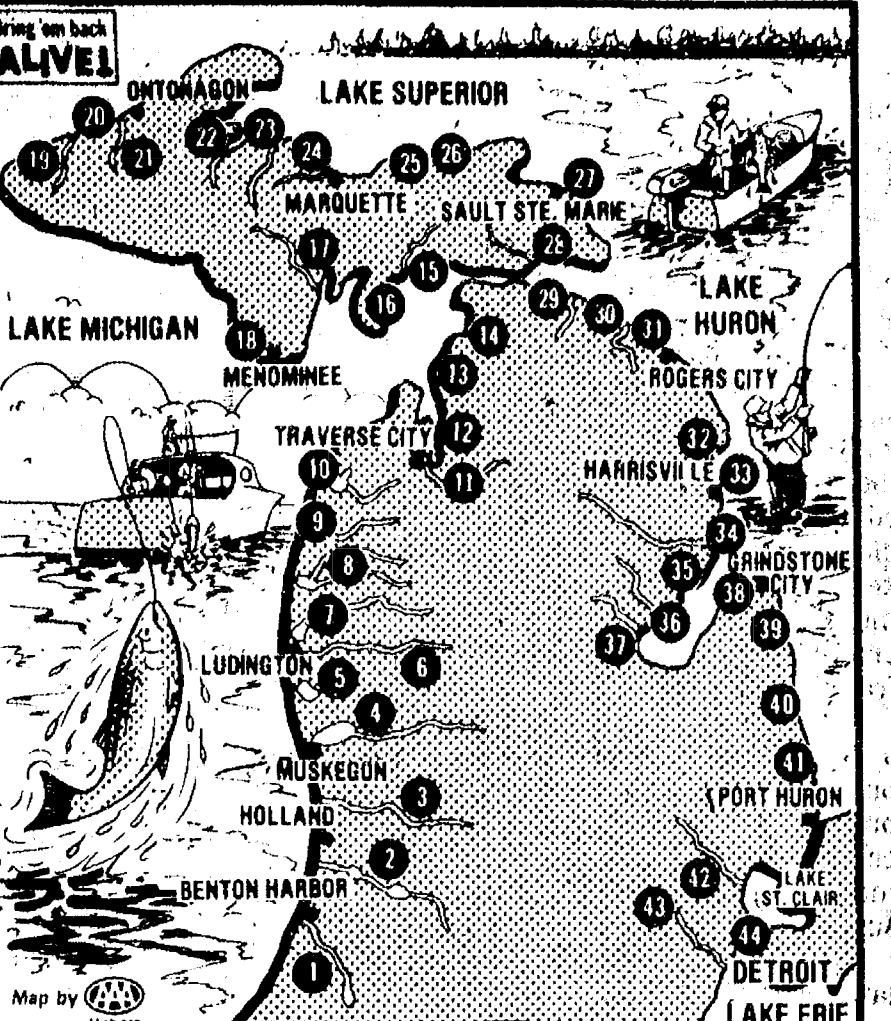

There are literally dozens of popular salmon lures being used on the Great Lakes. Some of the more favored baits this summer include Northport Nailers, Huron Herrings, J-Plugs, Canadian Plugs, Squids, Sparkle Flies, dodgers, Flutter Chucks and Zippers. Salmon spawn is another favorite.

This fall there will be "liberalized" fishing rules along sections of East Michigan's Au Sable and West Michigan's Big Manistee, Pere Marquette, Muskegon and Sable rivers from Sept. 10 to Oct. 25. The rules allow anglers to keep foul-hooked or snagged Pacific salmon. For sections open on each river, consult the DNR's 1983 Michigan Fishing Guide.

Anglers planning a charter boat trip should count on spending $50 to $60 per person for a half-day's fishing, with most skippers requiring a minimum of four passengers. For a free copy of the Fishing and Specialty Charters directory, write the Michigan Travel Bureau, Department of Commerce, Lansing 48909.

Even though the levels of chemical contaminants are dropping in Great Lakes fish, the Michigan Department of Public Health continues to advise children and women who are pregnant or nursing against eating any salmon.

'Average' Corn Crop Forecast For Farmers in County

"We're going to have a corn crop. It won't be a bumper crop, but it will be at least average, probably 90-100 bushels per acre. And that could improve if we get some more rain in time."

That is how Bill Ames, Washtenaw county agricultural extension agent, sums up the outlook for the local corn harvest.

"We've been lucky," Ames said. "We haven't had an abundance of rain, but it has come at the right times. Whenever it looked like we might be in real trouble, we got enough moisture to keep the corn growing. We need more rain, but there will be a crop regardless of what happens from now on."

Ames said the prospects are for a "reasonably decent" harvest but nothing like the 130 or more bushels per acre of recent excellent years. "It's been kind of a marginal growing season," he summarized.

Most local corn was planted late because of the cold, wet spring, and was far behind schedule during the early part of the growing season. Plants that are supposed to be "knee high by the Fourth of July" were barely above the ankles on Independence Day.

Growth caught up, however, under a combination of hot, humid weather with rain falling just often enough to keep the crop going. Corn requires an astonishing amount of water, measured in gallons per plant per week during the growing season.

While the news is not the best for Washtenaw farmers, it is far better than that coming from the Iowa-Illinois-Indiana corn belt, which has been declared a crop disaster area.

Farmers there are plowing up their drought-withered corn because it isn't worth picking. Nationally, the corn crop is forecast to be down more than 30 percent, a short-fall expected to translate into higher prices for meat next year as livestock growers run short of home-grown feed and are forced to pay dearly for scarce supplies on the open market.

"We look pretty good locally as compared to the situation nationwide," Ames said. "yields around here will vary according to soil conditions. High, sandy fields won't do real well, but they will produce a crop worth harvesting. Some farmers will have very good harvests. The rains have been spotty, and a lot depends on where a particular field is located."

Race Walking Clinic To Be Held Here on Sept. 21

A race walking clinic will be held at the University of Michigan's Family Practice Center at Chelsea on Wednesday, Sept. 21, from 7-9 p.m.

The clinic will be taught by Jeanne and Jerry Bocci who have been race walking for several years. Jeanne holds many women's national and world records in race walking, and Jerry qualified for the 1968 and 1972 Olympic race walking competition.

A physician at the Family Practice Center will also be serving as medical consultant.

Race walking is one of the fastest growing sports today. It is relatively injury-free, and anyone can do it. A participant can derive many of the same benefits from race walking as from running. Race walking is an alternative to running for those unable or unwilling to run. It is an excellent means of toning the body.

The clinic will include a discussion of race walking, a demonstration and an opportunity to give it a try. Pre-registration is required. Call Peggy Alford at 764-8010 to register. There will be a $2 fee payable at the session.

The number of persons who worked full-time year-round in 1982 was 64.0 million, down 1.3 million from 1981. This decline occurred entirely among men, according to the annual work experience survey reported by the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

County Budget Hearing Scheduled for Sept. 21

The Washtenaw Board of Commissioners will hold a public hearing at 7 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 21, on the proposed county budget for the next fiscal year.

Commissioner Martin Straub of Dexter township encourages western Washtenaw residents to attend the hearing and try to find out what the proposed budget is all about.

"It's in three volumes that stack up about eight inches high and weigh 10 pounds," Straub said. "I honestly don't understand it, but I'm wading through the books and trying to."

Straub said he still opposes the board's decision to increase the county tax levy from 4.88 to 5.25 mills, which he voted against.

"The millage increase was sold on the basis that, because the county's state equalized valuation (SEV) is down, there would be no increase in dollars," Straub said. "The fact is that there is a projected growth in revenue under the new tax rate. County taxes will increase under this proposed budget."

Commissioner George Merkel of Chelsea voted for the increase, but said he did so reluctantly, deciding it was necessary to maintain existing county government services.

"Any way you look at it, there is a growth in dollars for the county to spend," Straub said. "I think that's wrong in these times."

Band Uniforms Look Great

"The Pride of Chelsea" the high school marching band, made its first appearance in its spanking new uniforms last Saturday night at Dexter and put on a show worthy of its attire.

The 150 blue and gold uniforms, plus 50 freshman band concert blazers and turtle-neck sweaters, were bought last winter at a net cost of $27,630, authorized by the Board of Education.

The outfits look a little bit like those worn by the University of Michigan marching band—the colors are the same. Made of a dacron-wool blend, the uniform consists of a blue cap with gold plume, short blue jacket trimmed with gold braid, a gold cummerbund and sash with a blue "C", and blue trousers with a gold stripe.

Band director Bill Gourley estimates the uniforms will last for 25-30 years. The old ones, which had been worn threadbare, gave 30 years of service.

Band members are issued a uniform at the beginning of the school year and are required to keep it in good condition through the year. The uniforms must be returned at the end of the year, clean and ready for further use.

The band's appearance in its new regalia turned out to be the highlight of an otherwise disappointing evening for Chelsea football fans last Saturday. The grid-ders lost to Novi, 7-0, but the band upheld its proud tradition of being one of the best in the state. It not only looked good, it marched and played well.

One spectator (who happens to be married to this reporter and who has seen a lot of bands over a good many years) commented:

"That is the best high school band I've ever watched perform. They are really good. It's worth coming to the game just to see and hear them."

"Ann Arbor Trust helps us keep growing."

Drive about seven miles north of Stockbridge on M-52 and you'll come across a sign announcing "Basore Farms—Home of Winner Brand Vacuum-Packed Lettuce."

That farm was started in the mid-1940's by David Basore, an Ohio-born organic farmer who planted his 133 acres primarily with onions.

Today, Basore's son Tom and his family supervise the planting of over 1,150 acres in Michigan and another 3,000 acres in the farm's Florida operations. Each day, they harvest and ship an average of 8,000 cartons—or approximately 192,000 heads of lettuce. Their markets include major chains and wholesale dealers as far north as Montreal, as far south as Miami, and as far west as Oklahoma City. During the peak summer season, the full-time harvest crew often includes as many as 200 workers.

Basore faces the same problems as all independent farmers: a fluctuating market, unreliable weather, and fierce competition from corporate-run agribusinesses—most of them in California. Added to all that is the fact that lettuce is a particularly delicate and volatile crop.

Yet despite the obvious problems—and due largely to intelligent management—the farm is prospering. The Basores continue to add customers, acreage and employees.

Would they ever consider changing crops? "Never," says Tom Basore. "Lettuce is what we do best. And it's what we intend to keep doing for a long time to come."

"Lettuce is picked and packed right in the fields. To assure a long shelf life, we have to drop the temperature of the vegetable from about 80°F to around 33°. Quickly. That process requires an expensive piece of equipment called a vacuum tube.

"Up until 1976, we leased our vacuum tubes at a cost of about $.25 per carton of lettuce. It wasn't a very satisfactory arrangement. So in 1977, we talked to Ann Arbor Trust about building our own tubes.

"We found the people there very interested in our business. Willing to listen and—even more important—willing to help.

"Eventually, Ann Arbor Trust financed the building of four vacuum tubes—to the tune of about half a million dollars. They've also helped us out of some unexpected scrapes from time to time. For example, when we had a bad season in Florida, Ann Arbor Trust was right there with a loan that helped keep us going.

"It's as simple as this: we like the way Ann Arbor Trust works."

Mistakes Cost Chelsea Opening Loss to Novi, 7-0

Correcting offensive errors will be the first order of practice business for Chelsea's varsity football team this week following a disappointing 7-0 loss to Novi last Saturday night in a game the Bulldogs could and probably should have won.

Mistakes—fumbles, interceptions, penalties, broken plays—did the Bulldogs in. Most worrisome was a breakdown in blocking on the line, which allowed the visitors to force many of the errors.

"We don't have a lot of experienced players back on offense," Coach Gene LaFave commented after the game, "and it showed. Novi did a lot of jumping around and stunting, and we just didn't pick it up. They were breaking through and spoiling plays before they had a chance to develop."

The bright spot for the Bulldogs was their tenacious defensive play, which kept the game close and was good enough to win had Chelsea been able to put some points on the board. Novi's lone touchdown was not really the fault of the defense.

Near the end of the first quarter Chelsea's Marty Steinhauer went back to punt deep in his own territory. Having already had an earlier kick blocked, Steinhauer saw he couldn't get the ball away in the face of a swarming rush, tried to run, and was smothered, giving Novi the ball on the Bulldog 15.

Two plays later Wildcat quarterback Todd Crutchfield found receiver Dave Black open at the goal line and completed the pass for what turned out to be the game's only touchdown.

Meanwhile, Chelsea was blowing repeated first-half chances to score. They moved to first downs on the Novi 4 and 7 yard-lines, only to cough up the ball on a fumble and an interception. Two perfectly thrown Steinhauer passes were dropped by receivers who had nothing but the goal line in front of them. A penalty stopped another promising drive.

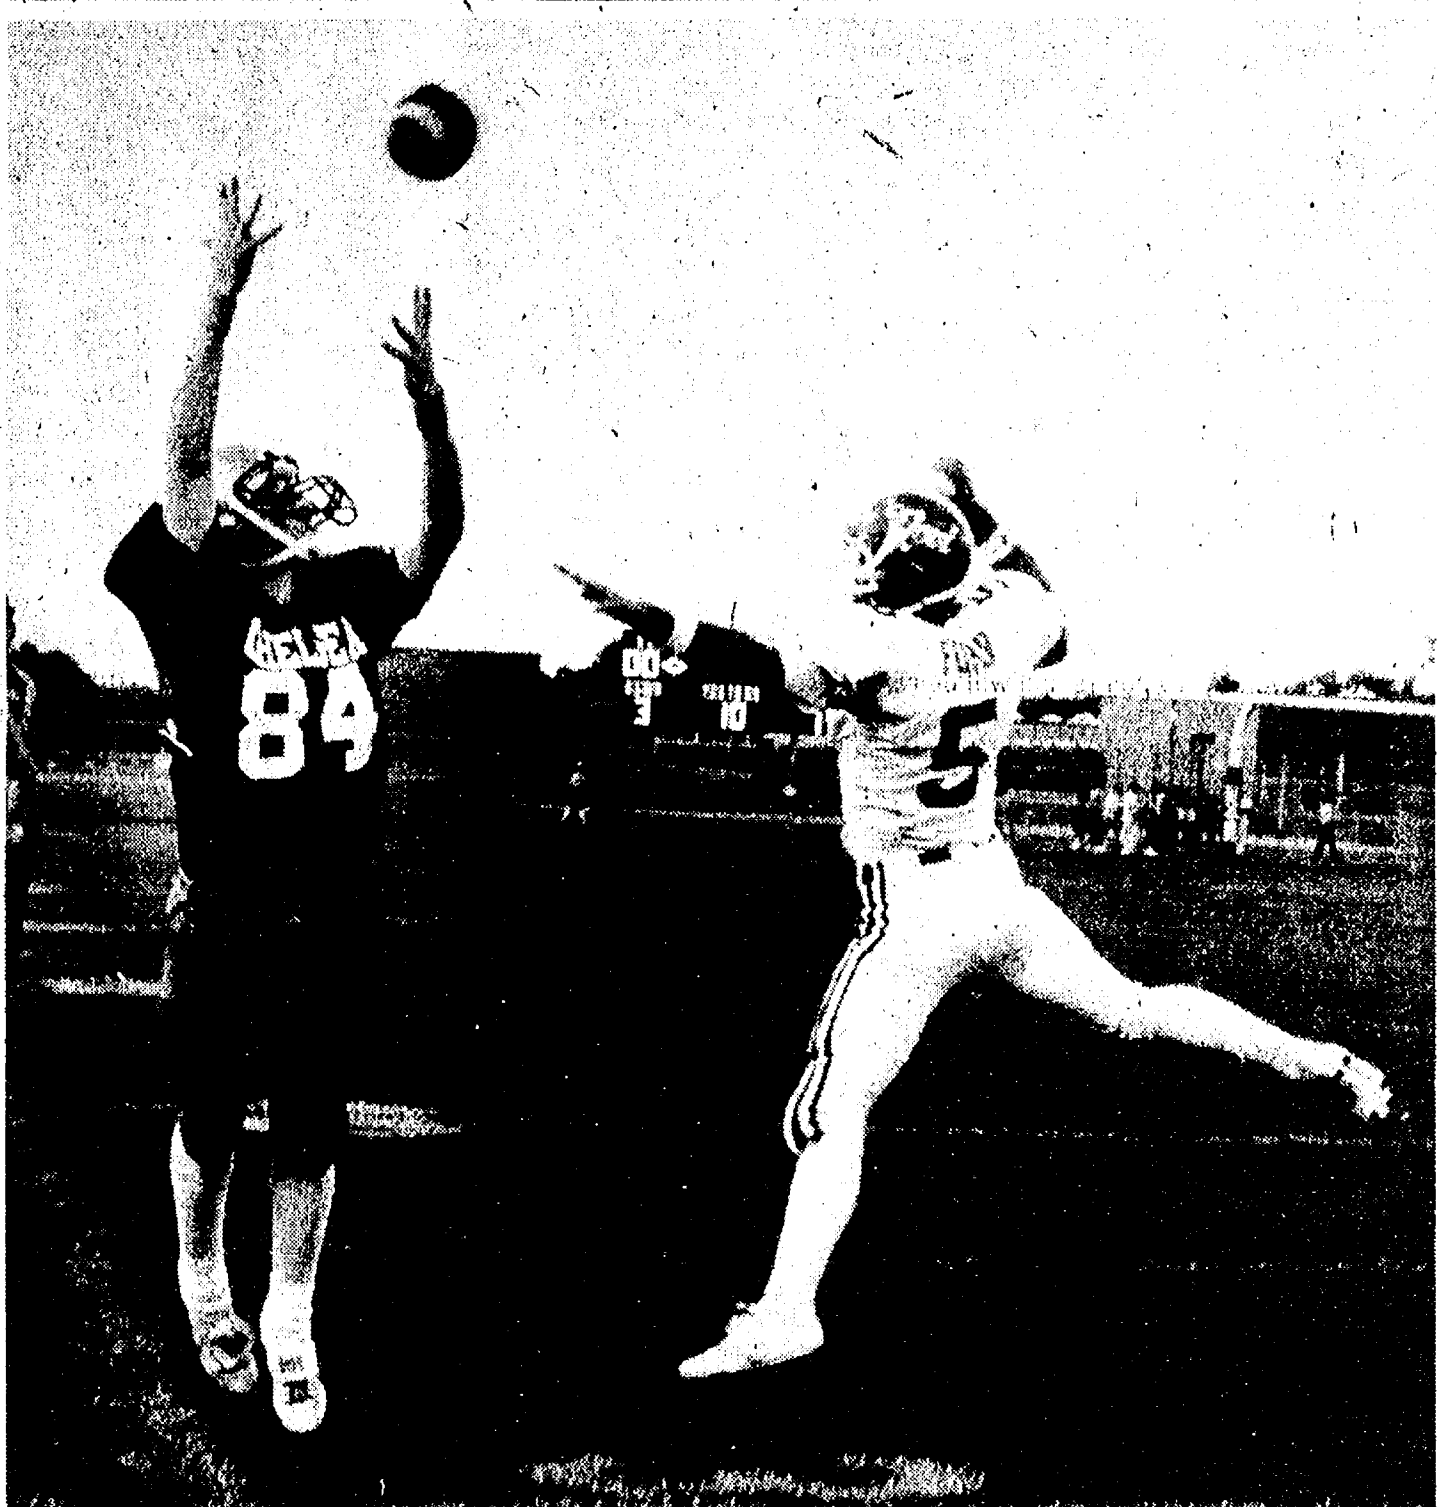

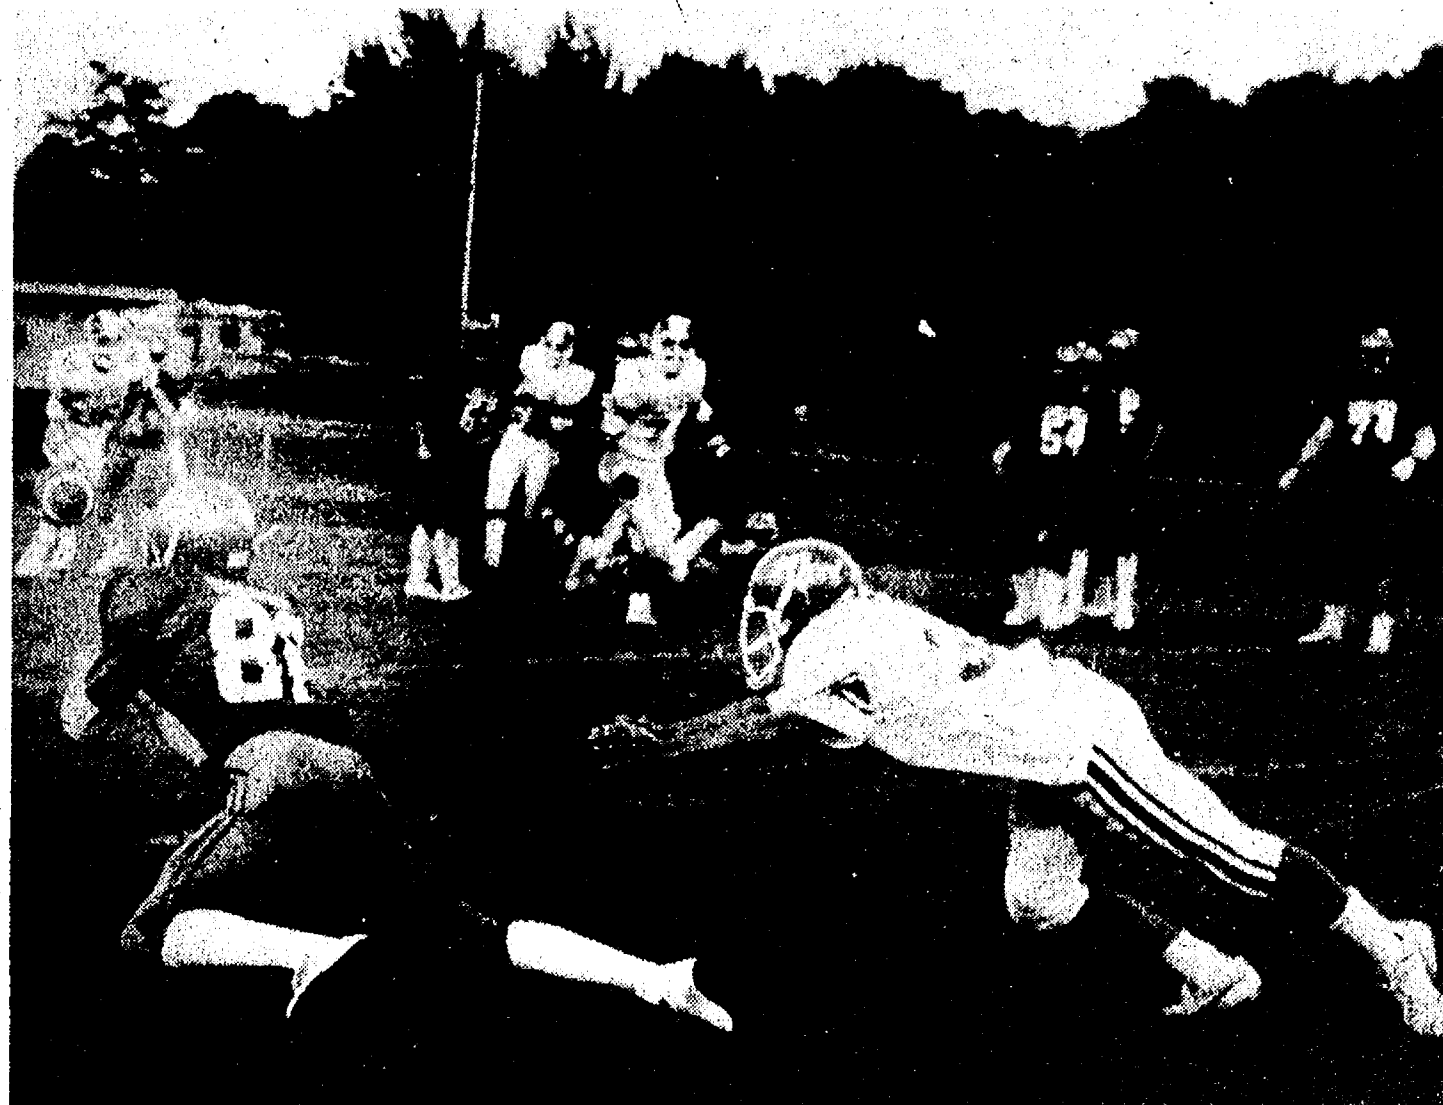

Instead of being ahead by two or three touchdowns at the intermission, the Bulldogs were down by seven points, and that's the way the game ended.

The second half was a tough defensive struggle as the hot, humid weather began to get to both teams. Neither came close to scoring until Novi marched to a first down on the Chelsea 5 with a minute to play. A penalty set the Wildcats back to the 10, and they elected to run out the clock rather than risk a turn-over.

LaFave had been a bit concerned about his defense, but was encouraged by what he saw. "We played excellent defense tonight," he said after the game, "but the offense just made too many mistakes. We have to correct those if we are going to be winners."

It was an especially discouraging evening for Steinhauer, making his debut as varsity quarterback. A drop-back passer who needs a few seconds to spot his receiver, set up and throw, he seldom had a chance to do anything but run for his life after taking the snap.

Another piece of bad news was

PASSING PROBLEMS: Chelsea's passing game sputtered in its opening game loss to Novi at Dexter last Saturday night. In top photo, wide receiver Dave Walter goes to his knees in an effort to grab a short pass as a Novi defender dives in. In lower picture, Chuck Hager tries for a grab along the sidelines in front of the Bulldog bench. Chelsea quarterback Marty Steinhauer was harried all night by the hard-rushing Novi defense and seldom had time to set and throw the way he wanted to.

an injury to two-way lineman David Kiel, at 6-5 and 230 pounds the biggest player on the Bulldog squad. Kiel suffered a dislocated elbow and will be lost for several weeks, possibly for the season.

"We'll just have to wait and see how bad the injury is and how quickly he recovers," LaFave said. "We're going to miss him. He's an outstanding player on both offense and defense, one of our few experienced linemen."

Back on the bright side, Jay Marshall was impressive in his first start at the key left halfback spot, accounting for more than half of Chelsea's offensive output with 90 yards rushing on 22 carries. With a little more blocking help he could have gone all the way on a couple of plays.

Marshall also turned in a fine defensive effort at free safety. He had an interception, a fumble recovery and several solo tackles.

The Bulldogs travel to Jackson County Western on Friday night, and they will have to generate some consistency on offense if they are going to defeat the Panthers and get on a winning track.

LaFave has said that Western has "its best team in 15 years" and will be hard to handle on its home field.

If a fly lands on your nose, they say, somebody has something to tell you.

Tennis Team Drops First Two Matches

After losing six seniors the Chelsea girls tennis team will have "a tough road to hoe" this season, according to coach Teresa Schreiner.

The team dropped its first two matches of the year to Pinckney (7-0) and Novi (6-1). Chelsea's Sarah Wenk got the lone point during that match by winning 4-6, 6-2, 6-3 over Novi's Lisa Polinsky.

Chelsea has only five returning players this season, Schreiner said. The remainder of the 12-woman squad is comprised of newcomers.

"With the majority of the squad being in their first or second year of tennis, Chelsea will have a tough road to hoe," Schreiner said. "We are in a rebuilding year and we will be for several years to come."

Returning to the team this year are: Chris DeFant, Dawn Olson, Carrie Parkins, Jane Wood and Sara Wenk. New players are: Jackie Boosey, Melanie Dils, Laura Nix, Karen Killelea, Deana Slusher, Ann Acree and Heather Grenier.

The team will have an away match at Gabriel Richard High school on Thursday.

Chelsea-Saline Football Contest Moved to Dexter

It's official. Chelsea will play its first home football game this fall on Friday, Oct. 14, against Tecumseh. The Saline game has been moved to Dexter and will be played there on Friday evening, Sept. 23.

The decisions were made by superintendent Ray Van Meer, a former coach, who said he was looking at the best long-term interests of the Chelsea football program.

"The way things shape up, with the sod laid late and the new lights still not installed, trying to play a game here on Sept. 23 just didn't make sense," Van Meer said. "We're investing a lot of money in this new facility, and we shouldn't try to use it until it is ready. Getting onto the field too early could damage it and add to our costs."

Last week's opening game against Novi was also supposed to have been played in Chelsea but was moved to Dexter, which made its facilities available for any and all contests that can't be held at Niehaus Field.

The Bulldogs travel to Jackson County Western (Parma) this Friday, then will take on Saline at Dexter the following Friday. Next come away games against Dexter (Sept. 30) and Lincoln (Oct. 7) before the homecoming clash with Tecumseh here on the 14th.

Loss of the home-field advantage for the Saline game definitely hurts. Forecasters have made Chelsea and Saline co-favorites for the Southeastern Conference championship. The game undoubtedly will have an important bearing on the outcome of the title chase.

Playing at home is generally considered to be worth a touchdown to the home team. Chelsea and Saline will go at it on neutral turf, which means they likely will start the game rated even-up. The Bulldogs will hold whatever advantage there may be in having played a game on Dexter's field.

Girls Win, Boys Lose Opening Harrier Meets

The Chelsea girls cross-country team, which is shaping up as excellent, swamped Jackson County Western last Thursday, 15-49, but the boys team lost to the Panthers, 22-38.

The girls took the first six places, and the top three finishers are new members of the varsity squad. Sophomore Kim Collins led the pack at 21:35, with freshman Robin Mock just a second behind. Maria Feldman, Mary Ann Richardson, Laura Damm and Amy Wolfgang were next in that order.

The boys' showing was not as bad as the score might indicate, Chelsea coach Pat Clarke said, noting that Western has one of the top five Class B teams in the state. "They are very good," he said. "Their first two runners were very close to the course record, and their third one wasn't far off."

Eric Green and Scott Cooper paced the Bulldogs, coming in fourth and fifth. Junior Steve Hunn ran a personal best time in finishing ninth.

"We'll get better," Clarke said. "Actually, the boys ran respectably, but there was no way we could match up with Western. Not very many teams can."

Chelsea placers and times:

Girls—Kim Collins (1) 21:35, Robin Mock (2), 21:36, Maria Feldman (3) 21:44, Mary Ann Richardson (4) 21:47, Laura Damm (5) 22:08, Amy Wolfgang (6) 22:09, Melanie Planigan (8) 22:38, Shanda Friday (9) 22:47, Jill Schaffner (12) 23:34, Jennifer Colvin (13) 23:36, Debbie Tift (14) 23:37, Stephanie Roberts (15) 23:40, Stephanie Grant (16) 23:47, Crystal Porath (18) 24:03, Sue Young (20) 24:37, Chris Neuman (21) 24:41, Wendy Wolfgang (24) 24:55, Cathy Burkel (25) 25:17, Kathryn Morgan (26) 26:24, Elizabeth Lindstrom (31) 27:40, Julie Thompson (34) 29:53. Boys—Eric Green (4) 17:26, Scott Cooper (5) 17:45, Allen Cole (7) 18:00, Jared Bradley (8) 18:04, Steve Hunn (9) 18:27, Damien Creffield (11) 18:35, Craig Maciag (14) 18:50, Jason Creffield (15) 19:00, Lee Riemen-schneider (17) 19:24, Tom Nemeth (21) 19:47, Jeff Nemeth (24) 20:33, Gregg Jalynski (31) 21:28, Jeff Wheaton (32) 21:42.

The new Job Training Partnership Act is a program specifically designed to ease the existing mismatch between jobs and workers' skills, according to the 1982 annual report of the U. S. Department of Labor.

First Games Suggest Interesting SEC Race

It's going to be an interesting football season in the Southeastern Conference.

In the opening weekend of non-league play both Saline and Milan recorded impressive victories, and Lincoln and Tecumseh put up surprisingly strong showings in defeat. Chelsea and Dexter disappointed their followers, but showed promise of better things.

Saline mauled South Lyon, 24-7, in a game that had been rated a toss-up. The Hornets dominated the game with an excellent performance on both offense and defense, and established themselves as the solid early favorites in the SEC.

Milan's 27-6 win over Carleton Airport likewise boosted its prestige, although the Big Reds' opposition wasn't quite in the same class as Saline's. Milan's inexperienced team played very well in its opening game.

Lincoln wasn't supposed to beat a very strong Brooklyn Columbia Central team, and didn't, but came awfully close before losing, 19-18, after leading late in the fourth quarter. The game had been billed in advance as a mismatch.

Tecumseh, which didn't play football last year because of financial problems, has virtually no experienced players and was expected to have trouble coming back. The Indians proved they are ready to play by giving Hillsdale plenty of trouble before bowing, 6-2.

Chelsea beat itself with mistakes against Novi, but showed promise of improvement if the errors can be ironed out.

Dexter played Pinckney dead even for 3½ quarters, then gave up a touchdown on a broken play that opened the gates for a 16-0 Pirate victory. Like Chelsea, Dexter was plagued by offensive mistakes but sparkled on defense until the late-game breakdown. The Dreadnaughts can't be counted out by any means.

Harriers Compete In Big Field

Chelsea girls cross country team made a respectable showing last Saturday by placing seventh among 34 teams at the prestigious West Bloomfield Invitational meet.

"The girls ran quite well in their first big meet of the season. It was a valuable experience for them," said coach Pat Clarke.

Kim Collins led the Bulldogs, placing 28th among the 238 runners at 21:36 over the 5,000-meter course.

Other placers were: Mary Ann Richardson (50) 22:22, Robin Mock (51) 22:24, Amy Wolfgang (57) 22:32, Laura Damm (66) 23:05, Melanie Flanigan (77) 23:25, and Marla Feldman (83) 23:34.

The boys team placed 16th among 25 teams at West Bloomfield.

Leading the way was Allen Cole in 45th place at 18:12. Other placers were: Eric Green (51) 18:18, Scott Cooper (71) 18:43, Jared Bradley (72) 18:43, Jason Creffield (111) 19:32, and Damion Creffield (118) 19:43.

SPORTS NOTES

BY BILL MULLENDRE

Great consternation arose in Ann Arbor a couple of weeks ago when Sports Illustrated, which claims to be America's top sports magazine, predicted that the University of Michigan football team would be No. 1 in the country this fall.

Both the prediction and the reaction were interesting. There is no reason to think that the U. of M., coming off an 8-4 season last year, has improved enough to be a national champion. There are several reasons to believe that the Wolverines will have trouble matching last season's record, despite what some observers have called a "soft" schedule.

Sports Illustrated's selection, as it turns out, was based on a desire to avoid embarrassment, rather than a wish to be right. Most of SI's so-called experts really believed that Nebraska should be ranked on top. Trouble was that Nebraska was scheduled to play Penn State on the day that Sports Illustrated was to be published. What if Penn State won, always a possibility under the tutelage of Joe Paterno, the best college football coach in the business? The magazine just might have had its selection shot down almost before its ink was dry. For the record, Nebraska won by 40 points and will be ranked No. 1 until somebody beats them.

Thus the selection of Michigan. It could have been any one of two dozen or more other teams, including a couple in the Big Ten, which have legitimate shots at coming out on top of the national rankings when the final poll is taken after the bowl games next New Year's Day.

The last thing Wolverine coach Bo Schembechler and his supporters wanted was to be labelled as a potential national champion and thus set up as a target for every opposing team to shoot at. Michigan appears to have a reasonably decent football team which, with luck, could surprise some people. It just might win a lot of games, but the measure of potential success depends in part on being able to lie back in the weeds and catch opponents off-guard. (The potential to lose a lot of games is also there.)

Actually, the pick of Michigan is probably as good as any, which isn't saying much. The Wolverines will almost certainly lose at least a couple of games, as probably will Nebraska and just about any other major college football team you can name. Ranking on top is an invitation to being beaten by some upstart outfit that doesn't believe the polls.

Who are the alleged experts?

One news service purports to use a "board of coaches," which means that athletic publicity directors at 30-some universities fill out a ballot every week. Coaches have more important things to do during the season than scratch their heads and try to figure out who is No. 1.

The other news service compiles its poll from sports writers on major daily newspapers. Believe me, those so-called "experts" know less than the average enthusiastic fan. Their skill is words, not football knowledge. The fan who sits conscientiously in front of the TV tube and watches every football game offered will have seen a lot more teams play than the football writer who is covering his home-town team live and will watch a dozen or so games all season long.

Even the most zealous televistoid, however, cannot possibly see every major team in action, and so judgments have to be taken with a very generous grain of salt.

Predicting a national collegiate football champion these days is a real exercise in guessmanship. The levelling-off of talent caused by limits on athletic scholarships has spread to the point where an undefeated season is so unlikely as to be considered almost out of the question.

From what I read, at least four of the teams in the Big Ten have honest shots at the football championship this fall, and three more can't be counted out of contention. The other three will win some games. It will take a miracle for anybody to play the full nine-game round-robin in the Big Ten and come out unscathed. Great. That is what competition is all about and why games are played.

Canoe Liveryes Start Fall Schedules

Argo Canoe Livery in Ann Arbor began its fall operational schedule beginning Sept. 6. Fall hours will be Saturday and Sunday 9 a.m. to 8 p.m., and Monday and Friday from 12:30 p.m. to 7 p.m. The livery will be closed Tuesday through Thursday. Rental schedule will be Saturday and Sunday from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Golf Team Makes Excellent Start

Coach Ken Larson says he has by far the best Chelsea High varsity golf team that he has assembled during his five years of coaching, and they proved it last week with a sparkling team score of 153 over the tough Inverness Country Club course.

"We're good," Larson said. "We have our top five golfers back from last year, and some more fine players besides. I'm really happy about this team."

That is the good news. The bad news is that at least three Southeastern Conference golf coaches can say just about the same things. Milan, Saline and Tecumseh likewise have outstanding teams.

"It wouldn't surprise me to see a four-way tie in the league, with the title decided at the championship meet," Larson said. "It's that close. There are some excellent young golfers in the conference. The overall quality of play has improved tremendously."

Chelsea's first outing in a double dual match with South Lyon and Jackson Northwest, both

JV Girl Cagers Divide Opening Two Games

Long on numbers but short on experience, the Chelsea girls junior varsity basketball team divided its first two games of the season, losing to Stockbridge, 53-44, and defeating South Lyon, 49-15.

Coach Paul Terpstra has 18 players on his squad, an unusually large number, but noted that 12 are freshmen without previous experience. Of the six sophomores, only four played last year.

"I'm very pleased by the large turn-out," Terpstra said, "and I won't make any cuts. The girls are enthusiastic, and they work hard at improving. We don't have a lot of height, and that's a problem we will try to overcome with discipline and hustle."

Co-captains are sophomores Jennifer Cattell and Kristi Headrick. Other 10th graders on the squad are Michelle Easton, Kris Mattoff, Anne Becker and Chandy Hurd.

OUT IN THE OPEN

By BILL MULLENDRE

My introduction to woodcock hunting was made more than 30 years ago not very far from Chelsea, and it came about through a fluke. Let me explain.

A friend and I had been fishing the Sylvan ponds off McClure Rd., which used to be stocked with trout, quite regularly in the evenings. As dusk descended, we saw birds fly out of the brushy thickets surrounding the ponds and decided they must be woodcock. Neither one of us had ever seen a woodcock close enough to identify it for sure. All we knew was that they were about the size of quail, had wide-spread wings and flew like bats, had long beaks and were more or less brown in color. They twittered when they flew.

With the help of a big male golden retriever—trained as a duck dog but always anxious to hunt the uplands in his own fashion, which was to bust through the heaviest cover and put up anything his keen nose sensed—we flushed about a dozen woodcock. After several trial-and-error misses, we each managed to bag one of the birds, and thereby learned another lesson: some of the best retrieving dogs will have nothing to do with woodcock.

Sedge picked the birds up, spat them out, and walked away. He was a perfect retriever on ducks and pheasants. Something about the taste of woodcock, or possibly their loose feathers, turned him off entirely. Since then, I have seen several otherwise excellent retrievers react to woodcock in the same way. Many owners of good hunting dogs have told me that their animals likewise refuse when it comes to woodcock.

Over the years I learned to shoot woodcock quite well, a skill that many shotguns never master. I just wish I could have done as well on some other species, such as ruffed grouse, which baffled me to the end. Once I discovered a couple of things—that woodcock invariably fly toward the sun, and that they pause (tower) after clearing the cover—it was easy. Position yourself properly in relation to the sun and wait for the pause, and you have a stationary target outlined against the sky. A wide-open barrel and skeet loads make up for most errors in judging range.

Shoot too soon or too late, and you are tracking a juking, jinking target that doesn't fly fast but changes direction with almost every wing-beat. Hitting woodcock the hard way will challenge the best of scatter-gunners.

On the plus side, woodcock don't fly far and can often be marked down and re-flushed if you miss the first time. They aren't much for running, and hold so closely for pointing dogs that I have stepped on a couple while walking in to flush them. (My size 12 foot is more lethal than my shotgun.)

Woodcock are among the more interesting creatures in nature. Their courtship ritual is unique. A male stakes out a breeding ground, and late on a spring evening sounds off a series of low-note "peent" calls. He then takes off and flies in tight spirals to a height of 100 feet or more, singing a rather pretty song as he goes. He reaches the top, then plunges to earth with a loud whirring of wings, levelling out at the last instant to land on his breeding territory and begin the behavior all over again.

All this is designed to attract a female and, if it succeeds, mating ensues. Hen woodcock are considerably larger than their male partners. They invariably lay four eggs—no more, no fewer—and all four chicks are of the same sex. The little ones can run around as soon as their down is dry, and the hens are good mothers. The survival rate is high, about 75 percent, which insures a good crop of woodcock year after year. There is remarkably little up-and-down fluctuation in the population.

Woodcock feed almost entirely at night, and almost exclusively on earthworms. Their appetite for worms puts robins to shame. Their long (1½-2 inches) beaks are designed to probe for and grab worms. The tips of the beak are flexible, something like lips. After poking its bill down into the vicinity of a worm, which woodcock seem to be able to sense, the bird opens its elongated mouth and habs its victim, pulling it out of the ground for swallowing.

During the day woodcock often move to higher ground to rest and relax in the sun after having stuffed themselves with worms all night. They will never be found very far away from heavy cover, however. I've had good luck hunting woodcock on the south slopes of upland thickets during the mid-day hours, but it's a chancy game. Better to go early and late in the day, when they are on or close to their feeding grounds, which are moist spots that harbor earthworms. My favorite covers are close to the edges of streams.

Although they may appear unable to fly more than a hundred yards at a stretch, woodcock are migratory. They move in fits and starts ahead of cold weather which threatens to cut off their worm supply, and can cover a couple of hundred miles at a time if they have to.

When migrating, woodcock congregate in small flocks, and they tend to land and rest in the same places year after year. If you are lucky enough to find one of those spots, guard it jealously.

VOLUNTEERS help sign in hikers entering a 17-mile Hike-A-Thon which benefits Waterloo Nature Center. Starting point is at Portage Lake (Jackson County) and conclusion is at the Waterloo Nature Center off Bush Rd., Chelsea.

Hike-A-Thon Set At Nature Center

As the hot days of summer draw to a close and the deer fly population has finally subsided, hikers once again are ready to hit the trails and enjoy the splendor of fall's colorful foliage.

In an attempt to raise funds for the Waterloo Nature Center, the Waterloo Natural History Association and the Huron Valley Group of the Sierra Club are once again co-sponsoring the second annual Hike-A-Thon along a 17-mile portion of the Waterloo Trail. The trail, which starts at Portage Lake and ends at the Nature Center, meanders through a variety of habitats. Some sections of the trail are flat and others quite steep. Those who participated in the event last year found it both enjoyable and challenging.

The Nature Center, which is operated by the non-profit Waterloo Natural History Association, offers a variety of interpretive programs, workshops and special events to school groups, organizations and the public. Last year more than 8,000 people enjoyed programs at the Center. The Center, which is staffed mainly by volunteers, receives its funding through membership fees, building admissions, program fees, charitable donations and special fund-raising events including a spring Maple Sugar Festival and the Hike-A-Thon.

If you would like to support the Nature Center, plan on hiking Saturday, Oct. 8. The magnifi-

Waterloo Trail Steeped in Early Murder Legend

In the early 1980's the Washtenaw Trail Hikers initiated the idea of constructing a trail from Portage Lake in Jackson County to Green Lake Campground off M-52. The trail was to be named the Murder Mountain Trail, and the master plan called for a connection to the Potawatomi Trail (then under construction) in the Pinckney Recreation Area. Unfortunately the DNR was unable to purchase the land needed for public access, and so the two trails have never been joined.

Murder Mountain refers to Pond Lily Lookout, one of several glacially formed hills in the area.

The name originated during pioneer days, and refers to the "Legend of Murder Hill." One night a group of Indians silently crossed Clear Lake in canoes, climbed the only unprotected side of the hill, annihilated a small group of immigrants, and burned down the stockade in which they resided. Since then, trees and shrubs have failed to grow on the hilltop, which, according to legend, is mute testimony to that mythical, murderous raid.

Girl Cagers Lack Experience

While the 1983 Chelsea girls basketball squad is short on experience, it has the physical prowess to forge a successful season, according to coach Jim Winter.

Winter, who is beginning his sixth year as girls varsity coach, hopes his team of 10 cagers will surpass last year's disappointing 4-17 record. To date this season the Bulldogs have lost to Stockbridge (68-36) and South Lyon (54-53). They were scheduled to play Ann Arbor's Pioneer High school Tuesday evening.

This year's team is young, with only four returning players. But Winter said he hopes to combat the lack of experience with a good attitude and a lot of physical strength.

"We have to work on everything because we are a young team," he said. "Physically we have the potential to do a lot of things. How well we do them will be based on how hard we work."

Assisting Winter with coaching duties this year will be Penny Collinsworth, a 1978 Chelsea graduate and former captain of the team.

Saline and Milan are likely to present the most formidable competition this year, Winter said. Both teams had excellent seasons last year and have a number of returning players. He added that each of the other teams in the Southeastern Conference is "pretty tough."

The girls basketball squad is next scheduled to play a home game with Manchester Tuesday, Sept. 20, at 5:30 p.m.

Zoning Variance Sought on House On Madison St.

Donald Cole has applied for a variance from the village zoning ordinance on a lot he plans to develop on Madison St. just north of the Oak Grove Cemetery entrance.

Cole plans to move a house onto the lot, which he is in the process of clearing. He is seeking to be allowed to put the house closer to the street than the ordinance requires.

Acting as the zoning board of appeals, the council set a public hearing for next Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the village hall.

Bulb Sale Proceeds To Buy North School Computer Software

North school students will be selling Holland bulbs to their neighbors and relatives from Sept. 21 through Sept. 28. Proceeds will be used to purchase software for the computer recently bought by the PTN for the Math Lab.

Packages of crocuses, tulips, daffodils, and Dutch iris will be available.

Linda Dyer is heading the project. She may be reached in the evenings at 475-1008 for additional information or bulb orders.

There comes a time in your life when you have to go out on your own. That's what Michigan Bell will be doing in January of next year, when we separate from AT&T and become a part of Ameritech, a new holding company for five midwest communications companies which include Illinois Bell, Indiana Bell, Michigan Bell, Ohio Bell and Wisconsin Telephone.

Frankly, a change like that could be unsettling, but we welcome the challenges it presents and the opportunities it provides to serve you even better. We've had time to think about it, to plan for it, to make sure that when you pick up your phone on January 1, 1984, you'll make those calls just as you always have. And you'll get the same reliable Michigan Bell service you've come to expect over the years.

Sure, there'll be some changes, but nothing we can't easily handle together. For instance, AT&T will be leasing you the phones Michigan Bell now provides you for a monthly fee. You may continue to lease them if you wish, or you may buy your own. The choice is yours.

There could be some changes in how your telephone repair needs are met... depending upon whether the problem is with the service or the equipment. Not a big thing for the most part, except for the possibility of new phone numbers to call if you need help.

You may notice one change right off... extra pages in your phone bill. That would be the result of your getting more billing information than you're used to seeing.

As we said, changes and choices... some now, some later... but nothing you can't take in stride with a little assistance. That's where we come in.

In the weeks ahead we'll be keeping you up to date with more detailed information on the changes as they take place.

We mean to make this transition as easy for you as possible because we want to be on the best of terms with you for a long, long time. After all...

Card of Thanks 16

CARD OF THANKS

We would like to thank Linda Long and her committee and Mr. and Mrs. Wynn Kanten for the use of their piano and van and to Heydlauff's for the use of their truck and to McCalla's for the wagon and horses and to you, Ron, for driving us. To Sandy and Walt Zeeb for the beautiful flowers. To anyone else we have missed who helped with our float. It was all so nice and we really appreciate it. Chelsea Senior Citizens Kitchen Band

CARD OF THANKS

We, the Ladies Day Committee of the Chelsea Community Fair, would like to thank each and every one, in the Dexter-Chelsea area, for your donations of door prizes for our Ladies Day program. Whether it was gifts, money or gift certificates, it was all very much appreciated. If it wasn't for all of your support and generosity this day would not have been such a big success. Thanks again to each and every one of you. The Ladies Day Committee.

CARD OF THANKS

I would like to thank all my neighbors, friends and relatives for the cards, gifts, and visits while I was in the hospital and since my return home. A special thank-you to Dr. Krause and the nursing staff at Chelsea Community Hospital. Everything was greatly appreciated. Lou Parsons.

CARD OF THANKS

Our heartfelt thanks to friends, neighbors and relatives for all the kindness shown the family in our time of loss of a loved one. For the flowers, cards, food and comforting words of sympathy. Thanks to the doctors and the nurses in the intensive care unit at the Chelsea Community Hospital for their help and kindness. Thanks to the Chelsea Fire Department for all their help. Thanks to Staffan-Mitchell Funeral Home for everything. God bless you all. The family of Floyd E. Gentner.

THANK YOU

We would like to thank the following merchants for donating prizes to our top exhibitors in the Home Economic Department: Chelsea—Gari Feldman, Gambles, Vogel's, Barbara's Needlearts, Chelsea Hardware, The Village Bakery, Chelsea Milling, Chelsea Fair Board; Dexter—Hachney Hardware, Dexter Bakery, Dexter IGA. It takes people like you to make this fair possible. Thanks again. Home Economic Superintendent Chelsea Community Fair

THANK YOU

On behalf of the Chelsea Fair Board I would like to thank: Chelsea Fire Dept., Athletic Boosters Club, Chelsea Auxiliary Police, Chelsea Police Department, The Village of Chelsea for various deeds, all the department chairpersons, the daily activity chairmen, office help, and Dale Koch for the P.A. system. Lloyd Grau Fair Manager.

The number of years an average 20-year-old woman could expect to spend in the labor force nearly doubled between 1950 and 1977, rising from 14½ to 28 years; in contrast, the worklife expectancy of a 20-year-old man went down from about 14½ to 37 years over the same period, according to a publication by the U. S. Department of Labor.

The worklife expectancy of women has increased faster than life expectancy; in 1977 a 20-year-old woman could expect to spend 45 percent of her life in the labor market, up from 27 percent in 1950, according to "Women at Work: A Chartbook," published by the U. S. Department of Labor.

AGENDA
1. Consider the application for Conditional Use Permit from Laura Kustra and Carolyn Doll to provide entertainment (in the form of 4-6 video games) in conjunction with the Log Cabin Restaurant located at 9280 McGregor Road, Portage Lake.

2. Consider amending Sec. 2.02 and 4.20 E(3) of the Dexter Township Zoning Ordinance to provide for FARM MARKETS.

3. Discuss possibilities of amending the Zoning Ordinance so that Conditional Use Permits previously issued without conditions of periodic review (all prior to 1973) might be reviewed or altered.

Dixboro Church Plans 125th Anniversary

An eventful weekend of activities is planned at the Dixboro United Methodist church to commemorate the church's 125th anniversary. The public is invited to attend the observances.

The picturesque New England-style church, completed in 1858 and listed in the National Registry of Historical Buildings and Places, is located two miles east of US-23 on Plymouth Rd. Its 337 members also come from the neighboring communities of Ann Arbor, Ypsilanti, Plymouth and Canton.

The Rev. William K. Quick, pastor of the Metropolitan United Methodist church in Detroit, chairman of the commemorative committee for the 1984 Methodist Church's 200th anniversary, will be the featured speaker at a church pot-luck, Saturday, Sept. 24 at 6 p.m., in Fellowship Hall. His topic will be "Proclaiming the Past—Celebrating the Present—Challenging the Future."

The following day, The Rev. Ronald A. Brunger, a Methodist minister and former Dixboro pastor, will deliver a sermon entitled "A Great Heritage" during the morning worship service at 10:45 in the church sanctuary. Two legislative salutes of the Dixboro church anniversary are planned. State Sen. Lana Pollock is expected to sponsor a joint resolution recognizing the church celebration and U.S. Representative Carl D. Pursell is planning to send "greetings" and arrange for the presentation of a flag flown over the U.S. Capitol on Dec. 9, 1983—125 years to the day the Dixboro church was completed.

A 24-page booklet entitled "Tidbits and Trivia" about the church has been published as a commemoration of the anniversary. The pamphlet was written by church member Dale R. Leslie who spent over a year researching its contents.

A recreation of a play depicting the first meeting of the church's board of trustees in 1857, written by church member Donald Burns and first presented at the centennial celebration, will also be performed.

The Rev. Dr. Haldun D. Ferris serves as the church's 57th pastor.

For more information call the church office at 665-5632.

Sylvan Township Board Proceedings

Regular Meeting
 Sept. 6, 1983

The meeting was called to order by Clerk Harris in the absence of Supervisor Sweeney. Also present was Treasurer Pearsall, Trustee Carruthers and Trustee Lesser.

Minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. Bills were presented by the Clerk. Motion by Pearsall, supported by Lesser, that orders be drawn and bills be paid. Motion carried.

A complaint was heard over junk and what could be done to correct it. Also an inquiry over appeal of a decision of the Planning Commission.

Letter was read from the Department of Natural Resources regarding coal mines. Motion by Carruthers, supported by Pearsall, to send a Resolution in favor of "closing or fencing" Cassidy Lake Correctional Facility, to all concerned authorities. Motion carried.

Washtenaw County Sheriff's report for July was read and accepted.

Zoning report was given by Walter Berjeski.

Bids will be accepted from interested persons for the refinishing and sealing of the brick on Sylvan Townhall, until Sept. 30, 1983.

Meeting adjourned.

Mary M. Harris, Clerk.

Manchester School Superintendent Chosen for Management Training Project

Manchester Community Schools Superintendent Gene Thompson has been selected by Dr. Phillip Runkel, Superintendent of the Michigan Department of Education to be a participant in a special project designed to study and train for special problems in public education. The Management Effectiveness Project will be held at the Dearborn Hyatt Regency late in October.

Twenty-two superintendents from across the state were invited to attend after applications had been mailed to all 529 school districts.

Participants will work with the State Superintendent and six other national management consultants for an intensive three-day period. Training objectives have been identified for the project. Participants have been advised that extensive homework assignments will be part of the study program.

Upon being notified that he had been selected as a participant Thompson stated, "I am extremely proud and honored to have been selected as a participant in this project. Many superintendents wanted to be included. I am certain that the selection process was difficult. My hope is to study in order to gain additional skills which will be of benefit to the Manchester Community Schools in the coming years."

GOOD PSYCHOLOGY

INCREASINGLY, A GOOD NUMBER OF AMERICANS ARE GETTING INTO EXERCISE. ONCE THEY'VE CLEARED IT WITH THEIR DOCTORS, MANY HAVE FOUND THAT IT NOT ONLY MAKES THEIR BODIES FEEL BETTER, THEY FEEL BETTER ABOUT THEMSELVES.

Why does Lewis Jewelers have such a successful jewelry store?

Why does Lewis Jewelers do over half their business just selling diamonds?

It's simple. We sell quality. We also have the most reasonable prices in the latest styles. We also manufacture many of our own "one-of-a-kind" pieces.

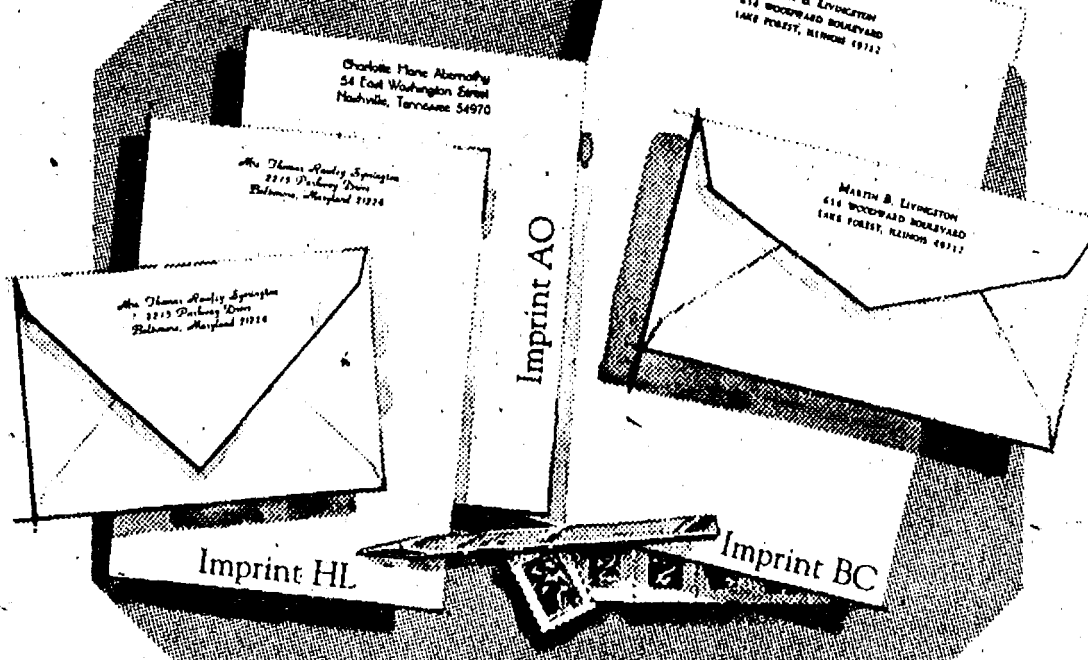

Don't be fooled by 1/2 off sale prices and special deals. We can sell you a half carat diamond anywhere from $200 to $6,300. The bottom line is, that we care how you spend your money and we make a point to see that you get what you pay for.

Does this sound like the kind of store you have always been looking for? If so, we hope you will give us the opportunity to prove the difference a professional jeweler can make.

A son, John Mathew, Aug. 29, to Nelson and Donna Bollinger. Maternal grandparents are Mrs. Tom Stafford of Chelsea and Dr. Don Alexander of Ann Arbor. Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Lee Bollinger of Chelsea.

A daughter, Lindsay Marie, Sept. 1 in Spokane, Wash., to Todd and Betty Gardner. Grandparents are Cliff and Dorothy Barnes of Hatboro, Pa., and Russ and Joyce Gardner of Stanwood, formerly of Chelsea.

Correction

It was incorrectly reported in last week's issue of The Standard that the sponsors of a retirement party for Owen F. Cavender included his wife, Mrs. Katherine Cavender is deceased. The person identified as Owen Cavender's wife is actually the spouse of his son, Spark. The Standard regrets and apologizes for the errors.

Wanda Lou Rock

13246 Noah Rd.
Gregory
Mrs. Wanda Lou Rock, 52, of 13246 Noah Rd., Gregory, died unexpectedly on Sept. 6 at Chelsea Community Hospital.

She was born Oct. 7, 1930, in Columbia City, Ind., the daughter of Homer and Ruth Barr Grable, and on Aug. 27, 1949, married Thomas J. Rock, who survives.

Mrs. Rock lived most of her life in Columbia City, moving to the Chelsea area in 1978. She was an active member of the Chelsea Hospital Auxiliary, Inverness Country Club, the Women of the Moose of Columbia City and the St. Paul the Cross Catholic church of Columbia City.

Surviving besides her husband are three children, Mrs. John (Terry Lynn) Frye of Columbia City, Thomas Lee of LaPorte, Ind., and Kevin J. of Gregory; five grandchildren, and two brothers, Robert and Richard Grable, both of Columbia City.

Mrs. Rock was preceded in death by her father, Homer Grable, in 1965.

The family received friends at the Staffan-Mitchell Funeral Home in Chelsea, and Mrs. Rock was afterward taken to St. Paul the Cross church in Columbia City, where a mass of the resurrection was held on Friday, Sept. 9. Burial was in St. Paul the Cross Cemetery.

Arrangements were made by the Staffan-Mitchell Funeral Home.

Harriet E. Moore

10480 Hadley Rd.
Gregory

Mrs. Harriet E. Moore, 90, widow of the late James Moore, died at her home at 10480 Hadley Rd., Gregory, on Sept. 9 after an extended illness. She had been a Gregory resident since 1931.

She was born April 14, 1893, in Fairgrove, a daughter of Parley and Carrie Shafer Sherman, and was married to Mr. Moore in 1914. He died in 1969.

Mrs. Moore was a member of the Bethel A.M.E. Church of Ann Arbor, the missionary society of the church, the Ann Arbor Women's Federation and the Chelsea Senior Citizens. She had at one time been a cook for the Boy Scout Council.

She is survived by two sisters, Lucretia Grayer of Gregory and Ruby Baker of Ann Arbor, and several nieces and nephews. Four sisters and a brother preceded her in death.

Funeral services were held on Monday, Sept. 11, at the Bethel A.M.E. church with the Rev. John A. Woods officiating. Burial was in Forest Hills Cemetery, Ann Arbor.

Contributions may be made to the Bethel A.M.E. church and building fund.

Arrangements were made by the Muehlberg Chapel.

Floyd E. Gentner

316 Jackson St.
Chelsea

Floyd E. Gentner, 81, of 316 Jackson St., Chelsea, died Sept. 6 after a brief illness.

He was born April 3, 1902, in Lima township, the son of Edmund G. and Louisa May (Young) Gentner, and married Florence M. Abdon on May 8, 1925, in the First Congregational church parsonage. She survives.

A life-long Chelsea resident, Mr. Gentner was a descendant of Elisha Congdon, one of the village founders, who donated the land on which the Congregational church was built. Mr. Gentner was a life-long member of the church.

He was a life member of the American Rabbit Breeders Association and a past president of the Michigan Rabbit Breeders Association, and for many years was a member of the Chelsea Fire Department.

Surviving besides his widow, are three sons, Ronald F. of Stockbridge, Duane L. of Aurora, Colo., and Terry D. of Chelsea; three granddaughters, and one grandson. He was preceded in death by his sister, Marion Buku, in 1952.

Funeral services were held Friday, Sept. 9, at the Staffan-Mitchell Funeral Home with the Rev. Carl W. Schwarm of the First Congregational church officiating. Burial was in Oak Grove Cemetery. Members of the Chelsea Fire Department served as pallbearers.

Expressions of sympathy may be made to the First Congregational church.

NEW BUILDING AT HUDSON MILLS: This is an architect's sketch of the new outdoor activity center building to be constructed at Hudson Mills.

Metropark this fall. When completed, the building will have multi-purpose and year-around use.

Contract Awarded for Hudson Mills Building

Construction will begin this fall on a new outdoor activity center building at Hudson Mills Metropark, the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority has announced.

The decision to go ahead with the project was made despite strong local opposition by a group which calls itself the Huron River Area Association. The organization opposes further development at Hudson Mills or the two small HCMA parks down-river from Dexter.

A contract for $728,797 has been awarded to Carl Engineers, Inc., of Jackson, for construction of the masonry and wood activity center building. The main floor of the building covers 5,500 square feet with 2,000 square feet on the mezzanine, 600 square feet of storage space, and a service yard area of 1,700 square feet.

The announcement of the contract was made by James B. Cosgrove, who represents Washtenaw county on the seven-member board of commissioners of HCMA, which operates Delhi, Dexter-Huron and Hudson Mills Metroparks in Washtenaw county.

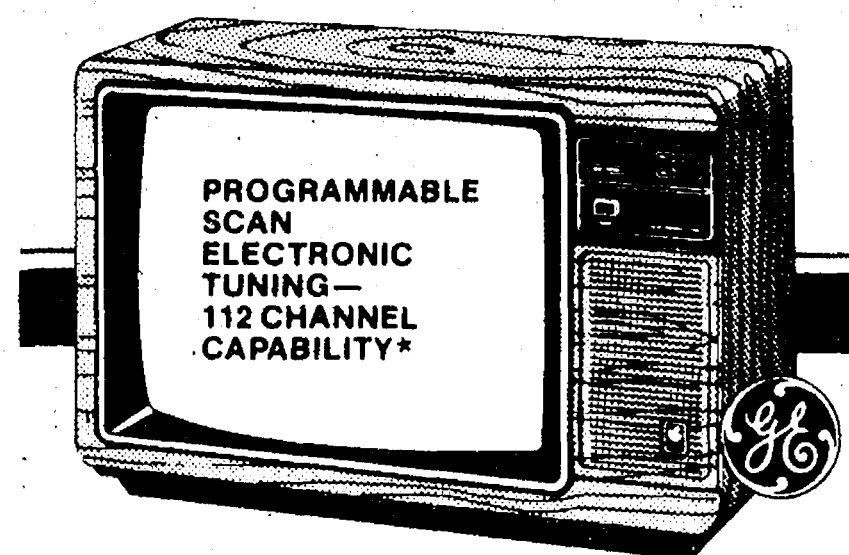

The new structure, when completed, will have multi-purpose and year-around use. The building was designed by the firm of Gunn-Levine Architectural Associates of Ypsilanti, and will be the main service building for an activity area yet to be constructed. The building will also have a food service area, restrooms and a warming area for winter sports enthusiasts, such as those participating in ice skating or cross-country skiing. Hudson Mills cover 1,524 acres. The new facilities are expected to be ready for public use in 1984 or 1985.
