Industrial Park Becomes Official With Rezoning

It's official. Chelsea now has an industrial park. The necessary final legal step was taken last Tuesday when the village council approved rezoning of 70.06 acres on the south side of Sibley Rd., immediately west of the Dana Corp. plant, from agricultural to light industrial. The action opens the way for development of the land for industries which may be persuaded to locate here. The 70 acres are presently planted in corn, which will be harvested this fall. The Ann Arbor engineering firm of Ayres, Lewis, Norris & May has been hired under contract to draw up plans and specifications for the industrial park. The $21,000 design job is to be completed within nine months.

Volunteers Sought for Meal Service

Volunteer drivers are needed on Tuesdays for the Chelsea Home Meal Service, according to co-ordinator Mary Ann Merkel. Also needed are substitute drivers for all days of the week. Drivers work about one day a week, picking up cooked and packaged meals at the Methodist Home and delivering them to persons who are home-bound. About 20 persons presently receive the service. Persons interested in volunteering are asked to call Joyce Manley at 475-2795 or Anne Kenney at 475-1493.

The Sibley Rd. site, which includes a total of 73 acres, was purchased by the village for $139,000 from Stuart Small on July 19. Chelsea subsequently joined the Washtenaw Economic Development Council as one way of promoting the park. Exempted from the rezoning action were approximately three acres on which there are a two-story house and several out-buildings. It has been suggested that this parcel may be sold separately as residential property. Sooner or later, the $139,000 purchase price, plus development cost, will have to be repaid to the village electric fund from which the money is being borrowed. Sale of the residence, which has an estimated value of about $70,000, would pay off a chunk of the debt.

Although it was not discussed at last week's council meeting, the fact that Dexter has stolen a march on Chelsea by opening up an industrial park and attracting three corporate clients into it is an obvious concern in that it creates more competition.

Ground was broken Sept. 15 at Tech Park West, a 70-acre site on Baker Rd. just north of I-94, for a 36,000-square-foot building to be occupied by Newman Computer Exchange Corp. The building lot is 38 acres, and the plant is designed to be expanded to nearly triple its initial size. About 25 jobs will be created initially.

Unitec Corp., developer of Tech Park West, has firm commitments from two other companies. (Continued on page four)

Autumn Arrives Along With a Killing Frost

Fall arrived on schedule at 10:42 a.m. last Friday—the official time of the so-called autumnal equinox during which the hours of daylight and darkness over 24 hours balance exactly—and so did the season's first frost.

Actually, there was a light frost on Thursday night preceding the advent of fall, but Friday night's was heavy enough to be a killer of tender garden crops and flowers. The early Saturday-morning landscape was a study in white.

The average "first frost" date for these parts is Sept. 17, so the area got a week's reprieve from the inevitable.

The sudden dip into fall followed several days of off-and-on rain which gave wet Washtenaw county its first good drenching since early August. The precipitation greened up lawns and may have helped late-maturing farm crops.

Autumn follows the hottest summer hereabouts since 1934, and also one of the driest in recent years. The long, hot summer was preceded by the mildest winter recorded since statistics began being kept during the 1870's, and a cold wet spring.

Some forecasters have predicted that this will be a poor autumn for fall color, citing the unusual weather patterns that have prevailed during the past nine months. That remains to be seen. Leaves are just starting to show touches of color here and there.

The crop of walnuts and hickory nuts looks to be excellent. Walnuts are already beginning to drop.

Sesquicentennial Kick-Off Dance, Auction Scheduled

The first event of Chelsea's Sesquicentennial celebration has been scheduled for Saturday, Oct. 22. The event will be in the form of a fall dance with music by Alliance, combined with a fund raiser auction.

The dance will run from 8 p.m. to 2 a.m. and will be held at the Chelsea Fairgrounds. Tickets are available at $15 per couple or $8 for a single admission by calling 475-3429 or 475-8393. The cost of the tickets include mixers, snacks, and a midnight buffet. It will be a BYOB affair.

Also on the program for the evening will be an auction of Chelsea memorabilia and antiques donated by local people.

Anyone who might be interested in donating antiques or Chelsea memorabilia, is urged to contact Dan Bleske at 475-9280.

Parent-Teacher Conferences Stated

Parent-teacher conferences will be held at Chelsea North Elementary, South Elementary and Beach Middle schools on Nov. 10 at 11 a.m. The high school faculty will participate in a professional development seminar that afternoon.

Cassidy Lake Inmate Population High in 'Assaultive' Crimes

Information released this week by the Department of Corrections under pressure from the local committee to fence or close Cassidy Lake Technical School "confirms my worst fears," committee head Ronald Olmsted says.

An analysis of the inmate population at the school as of Sept. 12 showed that 117 of the 270 "residents" were under sentences for "assaultive" crimes, including 11 homicides.

The breakdown includes 63 armed robberies, 21 unarmed robberies involving larceny from a person, 21 assaults, 8 man-slaughters, 2 second degree murders, 1 first degree murder and 1 case of arson.

Another 14 convicts involved possession of weapons.

"This data, which we had a hard time getting, confirms my worst fears," Olmsted said. "It's an outrage that 43 percent of the Cassidy Lake prisoners, including 11 murderers, were placed in this so-called minimum security institution where there really is no security.

"Bad as they are, the figures don't take into consideration the plea-bargaining that happened before the sentences. You can't really tell what crimes these people actually committed."

(One of the three men who broke into Olmsted's home after fleeing Cassidy Lake on Aug. 24 was serving a term for unarmed robbery. He had been involved in the armed robbery of a bank, but his offense and sentence were reduced in return for a guilty plea.)

"I can't understand why possession of weapons is not considered an assaultive crime and is listed separately," Olmsted said. "Anybody who has a weapon must be at least thinking about using it, or he wouldn't have it."

Olmsted credited the pressure of letters from his committee, which now numbers more than 1,200 and is still growing, for breaking loose the inmate information. "The letters and the diligent efforts of Rep. Margaret O'Connor finally did it," he said.

"Mrs. O'Connor has been very helpful in knocking down the Department of Corrections' stone wall."

Sen. Lana Pollack has responded so far to the committee with "a form letter, that I suspect somebody else wrote," Olmsted said, and nothing at all has been heard from Gov. Blanchard.

"Some people seem to think this is a tempest in a teapot that will blow over if it's ignored long enough," Olmsted said. "Believe me, it won't. We'll keep pushing until we get some action."

Olmsted accused the Department of Corrections of "playing down" the facts that there have been "only" 46 escapes from Cassidy Lake so far this year and "only" seven incidents involving crimes committed by the escapees in the Chelsea area.

"One escape and one incident are exactly one too many," he charged. "If they are going to put dangerous criminals out there, they should keep them there and not let them run around loose."

Olmsted also questioned the fact that more than 1,000 prisoners a year spend some time at Cassidy Lake, which has a capacity of less than 300.

"What those numbers tell me is that the average inmate stays four months in what is supposed to be an educational institution, a school. What kind of a rehabilitation program is that? What do they think they are accomplishing?"

The Community Liaison Council, of which Olmsted is a member and officer, was to meet last night at Cassidy Lake, and Olmsted promised there would be "a continuing show of determination" by his "Fence It Or Close It" committee to get something done.

"We're not going to go away," he promised. "I know that's what the state is hoping for, but it isn't going to happen. We're in this to stay."

United Way Sets $59,000 Chelsea Goal

Area residents and business people will have to be very generous this year if the Chelsea United Way campaign is to achieve its $59,000 goal.

Bob Porter, area chairperson of the drive, said the goal, which is $13,000 more than was raised in 1982, is necessary to meet the requests of local United Way agencies.

"Looking at the potential here in Chelsea and looking at how much similar areas raise, we feel that the goal can be achieved."

The local campaign will begin tonight with a kick-off dinner at Chelsea Community Hospital, and run through October.

This year, 82 percent of the funds raised during the drive will benefit five local agencies; the Chelsea Home Meal Service, Chelsea Social Service, Chelsea Area Transportation Service, Chelsea Recreation Council and the Parent to Parent Program, as well as five county agencies.

The remaining 18 percent will go to Michigan United Way agencies or administrative use, Porter said.

The majority of funds raised locally are contributed by corporations and small businesses, Porter said. In 1982, 80 percent of the $46,000 raised in the drive came from area business donations.

CENTENNIAL BUSINESS: John Mitchell, right, owner of Staffan-Mitchell Funeral Home, was recently awarded a certificate from the Historical Society of Michigan, acknowledging that his business has been in operation for more than 100 years. Presenting the award is Tom Jones, executive director of the historical society.

Staffan-Mitchell Funeral Home Is Centennial Business

If they owned a different sort of business John and Gloria Mitchell might consider using their new "Michigan Centennial Business" stature in their promotional material.

But as owners of Staffan-Mitchell Funeral Home, their advertisements will continue to contain the modest slogan, "Since 1862."

Nonetheless, they are proud of their award. John Mitchell was presented with the Michigan Centennial Business certificate during a recent Chelsea Kiwanis Club meeting by Tom Jones, executive director of the Historical Society of Michigan.

Staffan-Mitchell Funeral Home joins 500 other Michigan businesses to receive the Centennial Business award. In Chelsea, the only other business to receive the honor to date is The Chelsea Standard. The Historical Society of Michigan began honoring businesses in operation for more than 100 years in 1977, Jones said.

"Our aim is not just to honor the businesses, but to make the larger citizenry of Michigan aware that our business community is one that has been marked by tenacity," he said.

To receive the certificate, business owners must provide documentation of the age of the business and prove that they are (Continued on page two)

How Does One Adjust To Widowhood?
 There are many excellent texts and reference books relating to the adjustments which surviving widows and widowers must make. Most are not overly technical and may help you understand better the transitional stages of widowhood. These books help explain how to facilitate healthy mental and physical adjustments after the loss of a loved one.

Here are just a few of them:
 Parents Without Partners — J. Egleson
 Explaining Death to Children — E. Grollman
 For the Living — Edgar Jackson
 When Death Takes a Father — G. Koolman
 On Death and Dying — E. Kubler-Ross

Drunk Driving Statute Increasing Jury Trials

Jury trials for persons charged with drunk driving are increasing greatly, however, the success rate of prosecutions likewise is increasing, members of a statewide Drunk Driving Task Force were told at their initial meeting.
 Ingham county prosecutor Peter Houk said that the new drunk driving law, which took effect April 1, has brought about an increased demand for a jury trial ranging from 500 to 600 percent, but the prosecution success rate is up nearly 1,000 percent.
 Houk suggested the backlog of jury requests have resulted because of the potential for driver license restrictions.
 He added procedural challenges are "gumming up the system" when the drunken driving cases reach trial.
 The Task Force, appointed under provisions of the new act, has begun deliberations with an eye toward making a preliminary report to the governor and Legislature one year after the effective date of the act and a final report a year later.
 The group decided to support proposed amendments to the new act including one establishing a new section determining that an attempted offense under the drunk driving statute shall be punished as if the offense had been completed.
 An attempted offense would also be subject to the same pro-

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:
 Early in the session at the country store Saturday night, Clem Webster got the floor to claim that he had learned somepun from television. That crazy notion got everybody's attention and Clem went on to make his case. He said he saw this doctor documentary the other night where a real doctor was followed around by cameras in a real hospital with real patients. The doctor would hum to himself and swap jokes with doctors and nurses between seeing a old lady die and scrubbing up to operate on a little boy's head that had been crushed under a tractor wheel.
 Looking at this real life drama, Clem said, he ask himself how that man could do that. He studied the situation up one side and down the other and come to believe the doctor sings and jokes to keep his sanity. He can't afford to mourn ever death and suffer ever accident. If he did he'd be such a wreck in a week he wouldn't be any good to anybody. That might be why the Good Lord told us to be in the world but not of the world, Clem said, because we can't be of everthing.
 General speaking, the fellers were impressed with Clem's report and they agreed with his thinking. Bug Hookum went on to say doctors ain't the only ones that got to laugh to keep from crying. There's so much deadly serious going on we got to look on the light side to keep reminding ourselves we live in a good but imperfect place. Bug said what give him a lift lately was a outfit called Action for Children's Television. It says the big cereal companies are making nervous wrecks of kids putting cards in boxes and telling em on TV they can win prizes. The problem is, some git prizes and some don't, Bug went on, and ACT says you ought not to tell a kid he can if he might not.
 ACT says the cereal makers "unfairly misrepresent" chances of winning. So, Bug declared, it's not the gambling this outfit is worried about, it's how the dealer explains the odds. It's okay to encourage kids to gamble, but bad to tell them they might not win. Bug recalled the child some years ago that failed to find a prize in her Crackerjacks. She got upset and her Ma wrote the company, which sent her a gift with a letter of apology after calling a news conference to git more great publicity than it could ever buy. Bug said he hopes the cereal companies are punished as severely.

cedure when assessing points and taking license action.
 Upon a suggestion by the Rev. Allen Rice of the Michigan Council on Alcohol Problems, the task force decided to look into the possibility of driver license revocations before a case goes to trial.
 Rice said administrative hearings satisfy the due process constitutional requirements in the cases.
 Minnesota and Iowa currently are revoking or restricting licenses as punishments after administrative hearings.
 Blanchard offered his total support for the working of the task force.
 His chief of staff Phillip Jordan, on behalf of the governor, urged the membership to work toward making a safer transportation network for Michigan citizens and tourists.
 The governor said the task force should concentrate on identification of drunk drivers, guarantee quick judicial proceedings, follow-up checks after arrest and adjudication and treatment.

Council OK's Variance for House Move

Donald Cole has been granted a variance from the front-yard setback requirements for the house he plans to move to a lot on Madison St. just north of the Oak Grove Cemetery gates.
 No one appeared at a public hearing to argue against Cole's proposal, and the village council approved it unanimously.
 "What I'm trying to do is save some trees," Cole explained to a reporter. "It would be a shame to cut them down. I'm trying to figure out a way to have the house moved in from the side of the lot instead of the front. That way I could save more trees."
 Cole, who is owner-director of the Cole-Burghardt Funeral Home, plans to move a house from a lot east of the funeral home to the Madison St. site, and use the vacated space for expanded parking.
 "I'm amazed at how much interest this project has stirred up," Cole said. "Apparently, houses aren't moved very often in Chelsea. I think I'll make a public announcement when the move begins, so everybody can come out and watch."

ON YOUR FEET

WALKING YOUNG, WALKING OLD

Do you walk young? Or do you walk old? It's often not a matter of age but of physical condition, including the condition of your feet. If your feet are causing you discomfort or pain, for whatever reason, your gait may make you look much older than your years. By the same token, even an older person, if his body and feet are in good condition, can seem much younger. Walking with a spring to your feet, with a jaunty rhythm and ease, is to walk young. It can also make you feel young.
 If you get regular foot care, you'll find that almost all foot problems can be overcome.
 or bunions, for example, but that doesn't mean you have to

Soundings Receives Grant To Fund 'Jobs for Women'

Soundings, a counseling center for women in their middle years in Ann Arbor, has received a third year of funding from the Michigan Department of Labor to support an intensive, employment related program, "Target: Jobs for Women." The grant will allow Soundings to continue to serve divorced, separated or widowed women, needing to find a job, who live in Washtenaw county and adjoining areas of Western Wayne, Jackson, Livingston and Monroe counties.

To be eligible for the first 10-week session, beginning on Monday, Sept. 26, applicants must have spent 10 or more years as homemakers and because of a change in marital status or permanent disability of a family wage earner must now get a job to support themselves. The program is directed toward women who do not have young children in the home.

"We see this program as an opportunity for participants to receive needed information and support from other women while they explore options for employment and conduct a directed job search. Often the support is the vital element in moving women who lack confidence in their skills toward economic self-sufficiency," explained Soundings Director, Gerry Brown.

Five to 10 group members for each 10-week session will meet in the Soundings Room, Bach school, 600 W. Jefferson, Ann Arbor, on Mondays and Wednesdays from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. for five weeks, then on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 9 to 11:30 a.m. for five weeks, then on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 9 to 11:30 a.m. for five weeks. There are eight sessions of the program scheduled for the year.

Soundings staff members, in addition to providing personal support and workshops on decision making, job finding strategies, resume writing and interviewing techniques, will work with eligible participants to secure appropriate employment. There will be a moderate fee adjusted to the individual's income for the sessions.

For more information about "Target: Jobs for Women" and other Soundings groups and services, interested women should call 665-2606 in Ann Arbor.

Homemakers Club Members Show Their Baby Photos

The 22-member Chelsea Homemakers Club opened its season with a meeting at the home of Barb Haist.

The program committee presented the agenda for the season, which was approved by club members.

Members of the club brought baby pictures of themselves for other members to identify. Last year's Secret Pals were also disclosed and the names of new Secret Pals were drawn.

Refreshments were served by Penny Laier.

Next month members of the Homemakers Club will attend the horse races at Northville with their husbands.

Tracy Cattell Chosen Resident Assistant At Albion College

Tracy Cattell, a 1980 Chelsea High school graduate, has been chosen to be a resident assistant at Albion College.

Cattell, a senior at Albion, will be a resident assistant this year in Albion's East/West Hall. She is one of 38 resident assistants at the school.

In her role, she is responsible for aiding in the administration of residence programs and helping to solve problems in her dorm as they arise.

She is the daughter of Lynda Cattell, 358 Washington, Chelsea.

Mr. and Mrs. David A. Seyfried
Jamie Atkinson, David Seyfried
 Speak Vows at Methodist Church

Jamie D. Atkinson of Glazier Rd. and David A. Seyfried of W. Middle St. were married Aug. 13 in an evening ceremony held at the First United Methodist church of Chelsea with the Rev. David W. Truran, pastor, officiating. There were 270 guests.

The bride is the daughter of Jeanne L. Atkinson of Glazier Rd. and David E. Atkinson of Vero Beach, Fla. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard A. Seyfried of Waterloo Rd.

The bride wore a white acetate and nylon gown with a fitted bodice, long sheer sleeves, and a chapel-length train with fingertip veil. She carried a bouquet of silk roses with baby's breath trim.

A friend of the bride, Sarah E. Haselschardt of Chelsea, was maid of honor. She was costumed in an ankle-length pink linen dress with a drop waist.

Daniel A. Blough of Chelsea served as best man. Ushers were Michael A. and John E. Seyfried, brothers of the bridegroom.

The bride's mother wore a studee rose floor-length gown with a long-sleeved jacket and stand-up neckline, and matching accessories. The bridegroom's mother was dressed in a floor-length gown of periwinkle blue with a pearl-trimmed stand-up collar and overlying cape.

A reception was held at the UAW Local 1284 Hall on Chelsea-Manchester Rd. Kelly Minick of Grass Lake and Tracy Blough of Chelsea, friends of the bride, were in charge of the guest book. Nelly Cobb of Chelsea, the bride's aunt, cut the cake.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Seyfried took a week's wedding trip to Gatlinburg, Tenn., and are residing at 437 W. Middle St.

She is employed by Washtenaw county as a bookkeeper. He is a mechanic for the village of Chelsea. Both are 1980 graduates of Chelsea High school.

Council Postpones Action on Request To Extend Utilities

The village council has tabled a request from Frisinger Realty Co. to extend water and sewer service to property owned by Mrs. Lionel Vickers on the west side of Freer Rd. south of Washington St.

A representative of the firm had been asked to appear at last week's council meeting, but nobody showed up.

In a letter to the council three weeks ago, Paul Frisinger indicated an intent to develop three residential lots on the property which abuts land owned by the Chelsea schools.

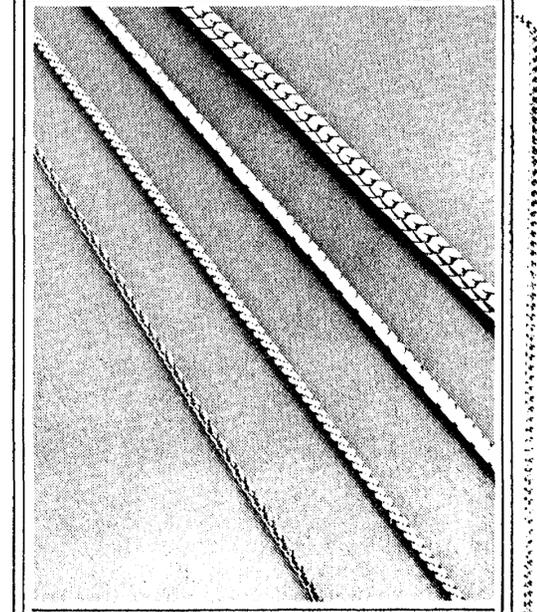

One question the council wants answered is how the developer intends to deal with the one-way drive which extends from the high school parking lot east to Freer Rd. Access to at least one of the proposed lots which apparently would be from that drive.

"We need some information and answers before we can decide anything," trustee Joe Merkel said in making the motion to table. "Let's try again to get someone here to explain this to us."

Cathy McClung in 2nd Place Tie for Wildlife Artist of Year

Catherine McClung of Dexter placed in a three-way tie for second place in the 1983 Michigan Wildlife Artist of the Year competition, sponsored by the Michigan United Conservation Clubs.

Out of the field of more than 80 entries, David Conklin of Kincheloe, placed first with a painting of a black bear and a red fox.

Cathy McClung's entry was entitled "Say Yes to Michigan" and portrayed an American robin in an apple tree.

Also in a tie for second place, was John Felsing of Mason with a painting of an elk and Tim Widener of Lansing with a painting of a great horned owl.

Harry Antis of Ann Arbor placed fifth with a painting of a white-tail deer.

Cathy McClung also placed third this year in the Ducks Unlimited competition with a misty painting of five snow geese in flight.

SAY YES TO MICHIGAN was the title of this Catherine McClung entry in the 1983 Michigan Wildlife Artist of the Year competition. Cathy placed in a three-way tie for second place in the competition.

Industrial Park

panies to locate in the park and is designing buildings for them.

Unlike Chelsea's, the Dexter industrial park is entirely a private enterprise, established without advance publicity. Unitec bought the land, attracted the clients and then announced its intentions.

The announcement caught everybody by surprise. There had been no previous public disclosure that an industrial park on Baker Rd. was even being planned, much less in an advanced stage of development.

Chelsea obviously has some catching up to do.

School Board Notes

Present at a regular meeting of the Chelsea Board of Education Monday, Sept. 19 were Heller, Dills, Grau, Feeney, Comeau, Redding, Superintendent Van Meer, Assistant Superintendent Mills, Principals Williams, Conklin, Wojcicki, Assistant Principal Vogel, Community Education Director Rogers, Athletic Director Nemeth, guests.

A public hearing was held at 7 p.m. by district residents to share their input on the possibility of the Chelsea School District initiating a 1984 summer tax collection.

Meeting called to order at 8 p.m. by President Dale Schumann.

Board approved the minutes of the Sept. 6 meeting.

The Board approved fleet (all district-owned vehicles) insurance coverage with State Farm Insurance for a total cost of $8,353.57. This is a reduction in cost of 28% over last year's figure.

Superintendent Van Meer reviewed with the Board the High School Commission's preliminary report, which speaks to guidelines for high school graduation within a four-year period. Recommendations include 4 years of language arts (English, literature, writing, speaking and listening), 2 years of mathematics, 2 years of science, 3 years of social studies, 1/2 year of computer science. Recommendations to the Governor and to the Legislature also included: an increase in staff development funds from Section 97 for the improvement of teaching skills; implementation, over a four-year period, of a minimum school year of 200 instructional days and 1,000 hours; each school district should operate at least six class periods a day for middle school and senior high school students.

Other recommendations are: the State Board of Education should recognize exemplary high schools and high school programs; the Intermediate School District or large school districts should serve as regional learning centers which would offer or coordinate examinations which individual high schools or local school districts could not provide on their own. A copy of the complete commission report is available for examination in each building principal's office.

Superintendent Van Meer apprised the Board that the Legislature is back in session, and it appears that the main issues will be economic and educational ones. This fact is substantiated by the reports, "A Nation at Risk, The Carnegie Report," and the High School Commission's Report. Many legislators are attempting to present their own plans for improving education. In all probability a corporal punishment bill will be introduced in the Senate by Senator Pollack; it will probably receive a lot of publicity.

Superintendent Van Meer also apprised the Board that he released figures indicating the 1981 property tax rebates by school district; $1,113,092 was returned to Chelsea School District property owners, as reflected below:

General—No., 1,499; Amt., $598,413.

Seniors—No., 465; Amt., $355,115.

Vets/Blind—No., 20; Amt., $3,926.

Disabled—No., 10; Amt., $5,182.

Farmland and Solar—No., 10; Amt., $5,182.

Farmland and Solar—No., 42; Amt., $150,456.

The three internal candidates for the Beach Middle School principalship—Barbara Brown, Sam Vogel and Bill Wescott—made a presentation to the Board. They reviewed their educational training and teaching and administrative experience.

The Board accepted the coaching resignation of Robin Raymond. Robin will be taking over the coaching duties at Pioneer High school. He will remain in his mathematics teaching position for the school year. The head basketball coach position will be filled on an interim basis either from within the system or by someone in the immediate geographic area for one year.

The Board viewed a video presentation on reducing liabilities in athletics and physical education. Athletic Director Ron Nemeth indicated that this would be shown to coaches, students and parents.

Meeting adjourned at 9:45 p.m.

Jeff Daniels Earns Rave Reviews for Role in Washington

It's a good season for Chelsea's favorite son, actor Jeff Daniels.

Daniels, who graduated from Chelsea High school in 1973, is currently winning raves in Washington for his portrayal of a journalist in the A. R. Guyton, Jr. play, "The Golden Age."

And shortly, Chelsea fans will be able to see Daniels in "Terms of Endearment," a movie expected to be released during the holiday season. He will portray the husband of Deborah Winger, of "Urban Cowboy" and "An Officer And A Gentleman" fame.

While it will be easier for local residents to see Daniels in the movie, quite a number have seen "The Golden Age," his father, Bob Daniels, said.

"Every performance since last Wednesday evening there has been someone from Chelsea in the audience," Bob Daniels said.

Daniels is appearing in the production with noteworthy performers, Irene Worth and Stockard Channing.

He portrays Tom, a young and eager reporter intent on tracking down a story he is sure Isabel Hastings Hoyt (Worth) can give him. Hoyt thinks he and her granddaughter Virginia (Channing) would make a lovely couple.

The Washington Post called the play "warm and humorous" and praised his performance saying: "Jeff Daniels, last seen in 'Fifth of July' on Broadway and PBS, holds his own in such heavy company, endlessly boyish yet a man who knows what he is after. His reticent seduction scene with Channing in the second act is a sublime example of restrained comedy. At times Tom must be a pawn and then a predator, and Daniels leads us down both garden paths."

Daniels is the son of Bob and Marjorie Daniels of Chelsea.

Manchester Seeks Person To Fill School Board Post

Due to the recent resignation of Paul DuFresne from his position as president of the board the Manchester Board of Education is currently seeking persons interested in serving in a trustee position.

Persons interested in a position on the board are asked to submit a letter indicating their interest to either a member of the board or to the Board of Education office at 710 E. Main.

The person chosen to fill the position of trustee will serve until the next regular school election in June, 1984. At that time an election will be held to select a person to fill the remainder of DuFresne's unexpired term.

Several board members have indicated that a statement from persons interested in the position regarding their reasons for seeking the role would be appreciated as the decision is made.

The board anticipates taking action at the regular meeting on Oct. 17 to fill the vacant slot.

Deadline Near for Crop Insurance

Farmers will have until Sept. 30, to sign up for crop insurance protection for wheat according to Barbara Cranson, district director, Federal Crop Insurance Corp.

The devastating effect of heat and drought on crops this summer has reminded us how unkind nature can be to crops. A lot of money and work has gone down the drain.

Crop Insurance has improved and is sold by local certified agents, according to Cranson. ASCS county offices have the lists of agents that have been trained and are eligible to handle crop insurance.

The cost of insuring wheat is very reasonable stated Cranson. Gambling on the quirks of nature without crop insurance is a poor way to conserve expenses.

Teacher Profile

MARY WATSON, a new special education teacher at Chelsea high school, specializes in teaching learning disabled and emotionally impaired students.

There was a time when Mary Watson was very unsure of what to do with her life.

She had earned a bachelors degree in social science, with emphasis in Latin American studies, from U. of M. She thought she might like to teach bilingual studies, but she wasn't sure.

Undecided about her future, she took a job as a waitress at The Earle restaurant in Ann Arbor. She also began substitute teaching in an Ann Arbor program for children who are mentally or emotionally impaired.

"It just hit me one day," she said. "I really enjoyed the students and enjoyed teaching, so I decided to go back to graduate school."

After earning a masters degree and a certificate in teaching the emotionally impaired, Watson, 27, recently began her first teaching job as an instructor in the Chelsea High School special education department.

Watson works with 11 high school students, assisting them in subjects like U.S. Government, World Geography, and Michigan Geography. In addition, she helps them attain necessary life skills, such as how to present themselves during a job interview and fill out employment applications.

"I really enjoy working with the kids," she said. "I like to talk with them."

She calls the Chelsea special education program "very comprehensive."

A native of Michigan, she was raised in Grosse Ile and now lives in Ann Arbor, Watson said she was happy to be hired at a school close to home.

"I originally interviewed out east, but I wanted to stay near my friends and family, she said.

JUNE WARREN is happy to be sharing her musical ability with Chelsea middle school and high school students as vocal music director this year.

June Warren Returns to Teach Vocal Music

Music has been a very important part of June Warren's life for a long time. This year she is sharing her interest with Chelsea junior and high school students.

After years of directing a local church choir as well as the community's annual musical presentation, Warren has been hired by the school district to teach vocal music.

The job came as a pleasant surprise to Warren.

"I just happened to hear of the opening," she said. "It is a marvelous and delightful opportunity."

Warren moved to Chelsea in 1955 with her husband Clair, a local dentist, when he was a student at U. of M. She taught Chelsea elementary students for three years at that time.

While the couple's four children were youngsters, Warren contented herself with starting a choir program at United Methodist Church of Chelsea. What began as a 10-person group, has blossomed to include five vocal and two bell choirs.

Five years ago she decided to go back to college. While she had a degree in elementary education, she felt a second degree in musical education would further her career. She next taught music at the St. Louis School for Exceptional Boys for more than two years.

At Chelsea, Warren teaches two sixth grade music classes and directs the seventh and eighth grade choir, and three senior high choirs.

"It's something I love," Warren said. "I love working with the kids—they're a real nice bunch."

Series of Burglaries Reported by Sheriff

A rash of burglaries in the Chelsea area is under investigation by the sheriff's department. The most serious, in terms of the value of items stolen, occurred last Thursday night at a home on Hashley Rd. which was looted of cash, jewelry, guns, a coin collection and other valuables adding up to a total of more than $6,000. Entry was gained through a window.

A Friday break-in at a residence on S. Fletcher Rd. resulted in the theft of an electric timer, coins and miscellaneous personal papers. Jewelry and clothing valued at more than $300 were taken from a home on Waterloo Rd. last Wednesday.

Banner Requests OK'd But Questions Raised

The village council has approved requests from St. Mary's Catholic church and the Washtenaw United Way to have banners placed across Main St. to advertise their respective promotional events.

During informal discussion, council members suggested that they may want to change their policy of having village employees put up the banners without charge to the sponsors. "It costs the village a lot of money to do it (stretch the banners across the street)," trustee Herman Radloff said. "It takes a high-lift truck, a couple of people and quite a bit of time. Maybe it's a service that should be paid for."

The banners also have to be taken down, which involves the same equipment, employees and time.

Several banners are put up across Main St. every year.

A fourth break-in occurred on North Territorial Rd., also on Wednesday, but apparently nothing was stolen.

"It's possible that all these incidents are connected," sheriff's detective Paul Wade said. "We have some clues, and we're working on them."

Wade emphasized that the burglaries are not connected to escapes from the Cassidy Lake Technical School or Camp Waterloo. "There has been so much publicity about that problem that I think it's important to keep this one separate. Not all the crime in this area comes from those places."

Village government procedures require that each be approved by the council following an announced public hearing. Nobody can remember the last time when someone showed up to protest a banner request.

Council took no formal action on the suggestion that a charge be made for the banner service.

The Immigration and Nationality Act requires the Secretary of Labor to ensure that the admission of aliens for permanent employment will not adversely affect job opportunities, wages, and working conditions of U. S. workers.

Council Joins Move To Fence or Close

The Chelsea Village Council has unanimously endorsed the move to fence or close the Cassidy Lake Technical School.

Following an appearance by Ronald Olmsted, organizer of the "Fence It or Close It" committee, during which he outlined his group's objectives, the council approved a motion of support made by Herman Radloff and seconded by Jeanene Riemenschneider.

Also voting in favor were Jerry

Satterthwaite, Loren Keezer, Joe Merkel and Richard Steele.

President Jack Merkel, who does not get to cast a vote except to break ties, made it known that he also supports the effort to tighten security at Cassidy Lake.

"I think you are doing something very important," Merkel told Olmsted. "We have a real problem, and we have a responsibility and a duty to take action. I'm very pleased with what you are doing. We're with you all the way."

Manchester School Board President Resigns Position

Paul DuFresne, president of the Manchester Board of Education, has submitted his resignation. In official action at its regular meeting on Sept. 19 the resignation was accepted with deep regret.

DuFresne who had been re-elected to another four-year term in June is moving from the Manchester area to accept a position as Director of Public Safety for the city of Gladstone in the Upper Peninsula. Previously DuFresne had been employed by the Eastern Michigan University Department of Public Safety as a road patrol sergeant.

During his tenure on the board DuFresne served as a trustee, secretary, and president. He worked hard to see that the school district adopted established policies, pressed for continued curriculum development and was a leader in the effort to renovate buildings.

In addition to serving as a member of the Board of Education DuFresne was also a board member of the Manchester Community United Way, a member of the Industrial Park Advisory Committee, a member of the Washtenaw County School Officer's Association, and a member of the 4-H Advisory Board.

"Paul was one of the two remaining members from the Board of Education which asked me to come to Manchester," said Superintendent Gene Thompson. "We became personal friends in addition to our education work together. I always knew that if I had a problem in the district I could always stop at the DuFresnes so that we could trade ideas. I will miss Paul personally in addition to the easy working relationship we had." Several board members echoed Thompson's thought as they noted the special sadness which came with his letter of resignation.

Two Named To Planning Commission

Two vacancies on the Chelsea planning commission have been filled with appointments of Thomas J. McGaw of 312 Washington St. and John D. Yelsik of 628 S. Main St.

They replace Philip W. Hume and Carl Heldt, both of whom resigned for personal reasons.

The nominations were offered by village president Jack Merkel, who said he had talked with both men and found them "very willing" to serve in the non-paying positions.

The council, with all six trustees present, approved the appointments unanimously.

It was incorrectly reported in The Standard two weeks ago that Craig Coltre had resigned from the planning commission. He has not, and continues to serve.

The 11-member commission consists of nine citizens-at-large plus two village trustees (currently Jerry Satterthwaite and Richard Steele).

GETTING READY: Shari Schweda, of Grass Lake, recently brought some of the remainder of last year's corn crop to Farmer's Supply Co. in Chelsea to be ground. This year's corn crop will be ready soon, according to Allen Broesamle, shown unloading the truck. Accompanying their mother, on the trip were Ryan, in the back of the truck; Renee, in the cab; and Ricky, not shown.

German Armed Forces Band Plans Area Concert

The world renowned 110-piece German Armed Forces Staff Band will present a concert on Wednesday, Sept. 28, at 8 p.m. at Hill Auditorium, 825 N. University Ave., Ann Arbor, to help celebrate 300 years of German Immigration to North America.

Since its founding in 1957, the German Armed Forces Staff Band has been the official band for all ceremonies and receptions of the Federal Republic of Germany. In addition, the band has presented more than 1,000 concerts, appeared in TV and radio programs, recorded records, and made concert tours to several foreign countries. The last visit to the United States was in October 1981 where the band helped celebrate the 200th anniversary of the victory at Yorktown.

This year's tour will bring the band to Detroit, Ann Arbor, Frankenmuth, Louisville, Washington D.C., and Philadelphia where they will perform for Presidents Reagan and Carstens of Germany at the banquet honoring the first group of Germans to come to North America on Oct. 6, 1683.

Admission is free. Doors will open at 7:15 p.m.

Donations to help defray expenses may be sent to The Ann Arbor German Society, 5141 W. Liberty Rd., Ann Arbor 48103.

breads and pastries are baked fresh always. We never use additives. Our roast beef and poultry are special favorites with our customers."

"When Ann Arbor Trust opened its commercial services division in 1976, we were one of its first customers. That proved to be an excellent decision on our part.

"One thing we especially appreciate is the personal involvement the bank has shown. The way they really work at maintaining a relationship. A few years ago, for example, when we decided to build a new banquet hall, we called Ann Arbor Trust. We were impressed with the fact that a bank officer came out in person, talked with us, looked over the grounds and then processed the loan—almost immediately.

"In all of our business dealings, Ann Arbor Trust has been accommodating, efficient and straightforward. And it's a genuine pleasure walking into the bank—for whatever purpose—and being greeted by name. You simply can't get that kind of personal attention anywhere else."

Roman and Elizabeth Philipps Romanoff's Hall and Catering Service

It's a long way from Heidelberg to Ann Arbor. But the main office of Romanoff's Hall and Catering Service makes you wonder if you haven't crossed an international dateline.

Founded over 20 years ago by German-born Master Chef Roman Philipps and his wife Elizabeth, Romanoff's outgrew two Ann Arbor locations before moving to its present site at the corner of Dixboro Road and Pontiac Trail. The spacious, orchard-flecked grounds house an office, several kitchens, three banquet halls, an animal farm, playing fields, a picnic grove and a recently opened German-style "Biergarten." The name of the business has stayed the same, commemorating the marriage of Roman's grandfather to one of the Russian Romanoffs.

Centrally located to reach southern Michigan and northern Ohio markets, the family-run business specializes almost exclusively in catering events. Restaurant trade is limited to a popular all-you-can-eat German buffet held each Wednesday, complete with accordion music and Old Country ballads.

With a permanent staff of 40 and a part-time crew that can swell to as many as 120 people, the Philipps accommodate groups ranging from 25 to well over 20,000. They cater gatherings both indoors and outdoors. Their large and loyal following includes clients as diverse as The University of Michigan Wolverines, ABC News, the city of Flint and a host of local families and businesses.

What accounts for Romanoff's continuing success? Roman Philipps has a ready answer: "You do it right or you don't do it at all. Our

SURVIVAL FLIGHT: Ann Arbor-based Survival Flight, an emergency helicopter service, landed at the official opening last week of St. Joseph Mercy Hospital's helicopter pad.

St. Joseph Hospital Dedicates New Helicopter Landing Pad

A new emergency helicopter landing pad was dedicated Sept. 19 at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor.

John McCabe, M.D., director of Emergency Services said the pad will facilitate emergency cases brought to the hospital by helicopter.

"We have had patients transported to and from the hospital for a long time," McCabe said. "The construction of the landing pad is an indication of the importance the helicopter is playing now in emergency medicine, and our dedication to provide the finest and safest facilities possible for our patients."

Greg Henry, M.D., a SJMH staff physician and chairman of Washtenaw County Emergency Medical Services Medical Committee, said the helicopter emergency service is basically an ambulance that flies. "As in any emergency transport, choice of hospitals is up to the patient. If the patient is unconscious, the emergency team will transport to the closest hospital able to care for the injuries."

"By working co-operatively with area hospitals, the helicopter services can prevent the costly duplication of air ambulance services, and be an example of how to provide both high quality and cost effective health care," McCabe said.

The ceremony was attended by hospital, police, fire and emergency officials from throughout the area. Helicopters from Survival Flight, in Ann Arbor, and Life Flight, in Toledo, landed for inspection by those in attendance.

St. Joseph Mercy Hospital is a unit of Catherine McAuley Health Center.

Two Zoning Hearings Scheduled by Council

Chelsea Village Council has scheduled public hearings at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 18, in the village hall on two rezoning requests.

One is on a petition by Robert Thornton asking the village to create a planned unit district (PUD) on seven-plus acres of land off Wilkinson St. so that a "cluster" development of 28 homes may be constructed.

The property is owned by Marvin and Mary Salyer of Chelsea and John and Margaret DeVall, Jr., of Ann Arbor. Thornton represents Chelsea Residential Development, which proposes to erect the new housing.

The land is presently unoccupied and is zoned for either agriculture or single-family residences. Much of it is on low ground.

Under a PUD, if approved, conditions and restrictions would be negotiated between the developer and the village.

Some concerns have been expressed earlier over possible traffic and drainage problems if the high-density residential project is carried out.

The other rezoning hearing involves a lot at 20701 Old US-12 next-door to Heller Electric Co. Owners Earl Heller and Don Thompson have asked that it be rezoned from residential to general commercial.

Farm Bureau To Sponsor International Trade Forum

An International Trade Forum, sponsored by the American Farm Bureau Federation, will be held Oct. 12-13 at the Sheraton International O'Hare Airport, Chicago. U. S. Trade Representative William Brock will be the keynote speaker.

The forum is designed to provide a thorough review of the world trade situation, examine the U. S. position in the world markets for all major commodities, and to define what Farm Bureau can do to increase the U. S. share of world agricultural exports. In addition to general sessions, the forum will include concurrent workshops on specific commodities.

There is no charge for attending the forum and reservations may be made by calling the American Farm Bureau Federation, 312-399-5763.

Village Trying Again To Settle Herrst Claim

The Chelsea council has decided to make yet another try to settle a long-standing legal fight between the village and farmer Bernard Herrst of 780 N. Freer Rd.

The problem dates back to 1969, when some work was done to improve Freer Rd. in front of Herrst's property. Herrst claims that, in the process of completing the job, workers employed by the village did considerable damage to his property. He sued for loss of crops, fence and trees.

Negotiations between attorneys representing both parties have been going back and forth ever since, with no conclusion.

Village attorney Peter Flintoft has recommended that Chelsea, while not admitting liability, pay Herrst $1,695 for crop damage. That much seems to be agreed upon between Flintoft and William Rademacher, Herrst's lawyer.

There also appears to be agreement that the claim for loss of trees should be dropped, because the trees in question are (or were) located on the road right-of-way and not inside Herrst's boundary fences.

That brings up the question of the fence. Herrst is asking $1,800 as the replacement cost for a 60-rod (330 yards) section of fence that has not been rebuilt.

Village administrator Frederick A. Weber told the council he had contacted a contractor and received an informal estimate of $1,245 for 60 rods of fencing. "That $1,800 proposal is way too high," he told the council. "We should negotiate some more."

A couple of trustees wondered what would happen if Herrst went ahead and had the fence built for $1,800 and submitted the actual construction cost as part of his claim.

"Let's get this settled," village president Jack Merkel suggested. "It's been hanging over our heads far too long."

Search Starts for New MDA Director

Michigan Agriculture Commission members, Robert Chaffin of Ithaca and David Diehl of Dansville, have been appointed to a special screening committee to seek qualified candidates for MDA director. The committee will accept applications through Oct. 7. Ag industry leaders have been encouraged to make recommendations to the committee.

There are about 679 different species of trees native to the continental U.S.

Church Asks Rezoning on Old US-12

The Fellowship Baptist church apparently is serious about moving into the abandoned two-cycle fuel plant on Old US-12 and has asked for a variance from the village zoning ordinance so the property could be used for religious purposes.

The two-plus-acre tract presently is zoned for single-family residential use only. A public hearing on the requested zoning change has been set for 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 4, in the village hall.

Earlier, the Rev. Larry Mattis, pastor of the church, had asked the council whether a sewer could be extended to the property. He was not given an answer, and was told to file a formal letter of application. The existing trunkline sewer ends about 200 feet east of the property, which has been unoccupied for several years.

The Fellowship Baptist church presently holds its services in the Rebekah Hall.

Motorcycle Stolen From Parking Lot

A motorcycle owned by Tony Lee Schoening of Grass Lake was stolen last Saturday from the Chelsea Milling Co. parking lot on North St. Valued at $1,576, the machine has not been recovered, village police said.

GETTING TO KNOW YOU: That's the idea behind the new "Curious Crawlers" class sponsored by Chelsea Community Education. Mothers and children meet once a week to learn simple exercises to develop motor co-ordination of the children and to spend some time with each other. Pictured are, clockwise; instructor Laura Schieb-Biedron and daughter Caitlin, with backs to camera; Barb Merkel and Benjamin; Betsy Henry and Sarah; and Carolyn Pichea and Jason.

Curious Crawlers Class Offered Mothers, Toddlers

Dressed in varying styles and colors of baby-chic, participants of the Chelsea "Curious Crawlers" tap their small feet, clap dimpled hands and tumble head over heels.

Actually, their moms do most of the work for them—but the babies are getting the idea.

Curious Crawlers is one of five fall classes being offered for mothers and their infants or toddlers through the Chelsea Community Education office.

The purpose is to allow mothers and children to meet and interact with their peers, according to instructor Laura Schieb-Biedron. "It's so mothers can spend quality time with their babies, without the phone, the doorbell and all of the other distractions," she said.

During the weekly session, Schieb-Biedron teaches simple exercises, such as manually moving a baby's feet or arms up and down, which will help in the development of motor control. The exercises are done in conjunction with songs, such as Hickory-Dickory-Do or The Bear Climbed Over The Mountain.

The class gives the babies, who are between six months and a year old, a chance to see each other.

"They really get a kick out of being together, although they won't really play together for another few months," Schieb-Biedron said.

Equally important, it gives mothers an opportunity to talk to each other and to share experiences they have had with their young children, she said.

"Being a mom, especially a first-time mom, can be an isolating experience."

Schieb-Biedron said she became interested in such classes after the birth of her first daughter, Ingrid.

"I was a new mother and I was very interested in what types of things I could do with her."

After enrolling Ingrid in an infant class, she took training and taught for two years in the Family Life Forum program in Ann Arbor.

Her second child, Caitlin, is a member of Curious Crawlers and often serves as a model for the exercises.

Bulldogs' Sputtery Offense Is Shut Out By Saline

Football coaches will tell you that games are won with defense, and it's generally true, but the offense has to put up at least a few points if the result is going to be anything better than a scoreless tie.

For the third straight week the Chelsea Bulldogs played excellent defense last Friday night, but their efforts got them nowhere against a Saline Team that took advantage of Chelsea offensive errors to take home a deserved 18-0 victory.

The game was played at Dexter, which it appears more and more likely will be Chelsea's "home" field throughout the season, before a crowd of about 1,500 on a perfect fall evening for football, crisp and clear.

Saline scored midway through the first quarter on a 51-yard pass play after recovering a Chelsea fumble. The touchdown resulted from one of the Bulldogs' few defensive lapses during the game, a mix-up in secondary coverage. The conversion attempt failed.

Those six points stood up until well into the fourth period, when the Chelsea defense finally yielded to the constant pressure of having Saline in possession of the ball in good field position during most of the game.

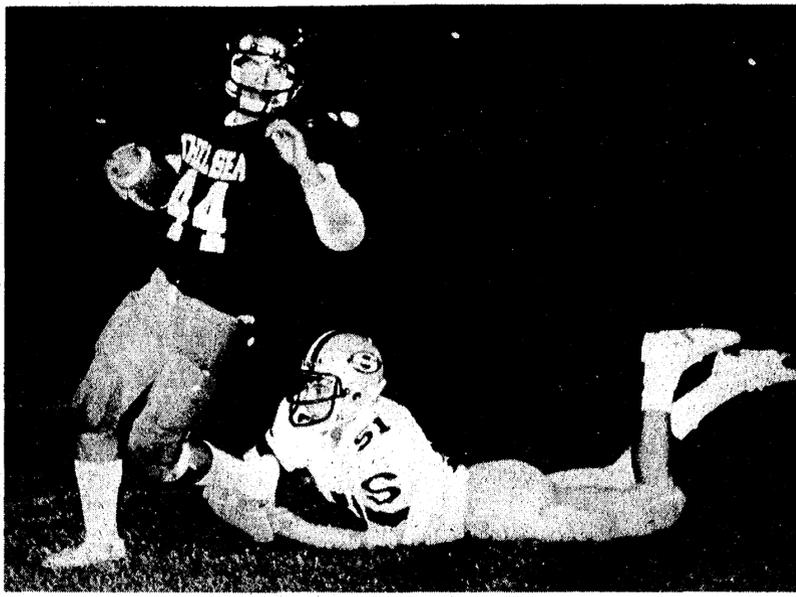

Another error—a shanked punt that gave the Hornets possession on the Chelsea 40—resulted in Saline's second touchdown halfway through the fourth quarter. A dive play designed to gain a couple of yards for a first down resulted in a 32-yard scoring run as a tackle was missed at the line of scrimmage and allowed the visitors' Chris Evans to race untouched into the end zone.

Ninety seconds later the Bulldogs turned the ball over again deep in their own territory, and Saline's Dammond Barkel iced the game with a nine-yard touchdown burst.

One has to believe that neither of those fourth-quarter touchdowns would have been scored had the Chelsea offense been able to generate something and inspire the defenders to keep on playing tough.

The Bulldogs had their chances on offense. They repeatedly had the ball in good position, but couldn't move it. They never came close to scoring. Chelsea's total offense for the game was a puny 150 yards, including just 60 on the ground.

Bulldog coach Gene LaFave's game plan called for putting the ball in the air, which quarterback Marty Steinhauer did 28 times. He completed eight for 90 yards, with three interceptions. Several well aimed balls were dropped by potential receivers.

Give some credit to Saline. The Hornets are a very solid if not spectacular football team that plays every phase of the game pretty well. They put pressure on Steinhauer and covered well in the secondary. They also shut off Bulldog attempts to establish a running game.

"We have to generate some offense," LaFave said after the loss. "We've played three games, have been shut out twice, and have scored only 14 points. We can't be winners that way."

"We're inconsistent. We move the ball pretty well for three or four plays, then we sputter and die. We make mistakes that we shouldn't make. We've corrected some of them, but not enough."

LaFave said he plans to "make some changes" in his offense in preparation for Friday's game against Dexter, but for obvious reasons declined to reveal what he has in mind.

Defensively, the Bulldogs have played well enough to win all three of their games. They have given up a few big plays for touchdowns, but otherwise have kept their opponents under control.

"Our defense has been very good," LaFave emphasized, "and I'm proud of it. It has kept us in contention. But we've got to find ways to control and move the ball, and get it into the end zone."

READY TO RUN PASS PATTERN: Junior David Steinhauer has been a stand-out on both offense and defense for the Chelsea Bulldogs in their first three games. Here he's lined up wide of his normal tight end position on a pass play, hoping to team up on a completion with his brother Marty at quarterback. David plays in the backfield on defense.

We can't play defense all the time."

Adding to LaFave's problems in getting ready for Dexter are injuries to Mike Wynn, who plays both ways at tackle, and defensive back Rob Beckwith. Wynn has a sprained ankle, Beckwith a mild concussion suffered when he was given an opportunity to run the ball on offense late in the Saline game. Both are questionable for readiness to play Friday.

The Chelsea-Dexter game is unusual in that it will be played on what, during this season so far, is the home field for both schools. Dexter will be the nominal home team.

Chelsea's Niehaus field is still undergoing renovation, and the prospect that the scheduled Oct. 14 homecoming game against Tecumseh will be shifted to Dexter looks better by the day. Work is proceeding very slowly. End zones remain sodded, and light poles have not yet been put in place.

Freshman Gridders Lose, 14-0

Football games aren't often delayed for any reason, but the start of the Sept. 20 Chelsea-Saline freshman contest was postponed for 20 minutes because of lightning and thunder over the field at Saline.

The game was eventually played through intermittent rain, and Saline won it, 14-0.

"The weather took our passing game away, and we couldn't sustain an offense on the ground," coach Jim Tallman said. "We had some chances but made mistakes and never really came close to scoring."

Saline punched over a touchdown in the first quarter and added another late in the game, and kicked both extra points.

Scott Frisinger and Joe Eassa played well on offense, Tallman said, and Matt Steinhauer and Mark Pletcher turned in good defensive efforts.

UP FOR GRABS: Chelsea's Dave Walter (dark Jersey) and Saline's Dave Dettling (24) battle for the ball when it was bounced around and fell to the ground. Neither one got it as a pass intended for Walter.

Saline Supreme On Gridiron

It wasn't a good week for Chelsea footballers in competition with Saline. Playing on three levels—varsity, junior varsity and freshman—Chelsea lost by a total combined score of 72-0.

The varsity lost 18-0, the JV's 40-0 and the freshmen 14-0.

Saline has a solid football program, and so does Chelsea. Year in and year out, they are the top two schools in the Southeastern Conference. This year, anyway, Saline is clearly on top.

SEC ROUNDUP: Undefeated Saline Still Flying High

Don't count Tecumseh out of the Southeastern Conference football race. And don't ignore Dexter, either.

Saline remains the odds-on favorite after thumping Chelsea, 18-0, last Friday evening, but Tecumseh and Dexter also turned in impressive victories.

Tecumseh, which wasn't supposed to do much this year after sitting out last season because the school district couldn't dig up the money to support a football team, took care of Milan, 29-0.

The Indians are getting better by the week. First-year coach Wayne Nix obviously has something going, and his players are responding.

Dexter defeated Lincoln, 21-20, in overtime after the game was tied 14-all at the end of 48 minutes. Each team scored a touchdown in the extra period. Dexter's Mike Ritt made the all-important seventh-point conversion, Lincoln missed, and that turned out to be the difference.

JV Gridders Find Saline Too Much, 40-0

Hurt both by injuries and a big and strong Saline team, Chelsea's junior varsity gridders absorbed a 40-0 shellacking at the hands of the Hornets last week.

"There isn't much you can say about a game like that," Chelsea coach Ken Sullins said. "There weren't any highlights from our standpoint. We had a lot of players out with injuries, we made six turn-overs, and Saline is very good. It all added up to a bad evening for us."

Actually, Saline only generated about 200 yards in total offense, not a whole lot to back up a total of 40 points. Chelsea fumbles and intercepted passes—three each—made it easy for the home-playing Hornets.

"We kept giving them the ball in short scoring range, and they are good enough to take advantage any time you open the door for them," Sullins said.

Five potential Bullpup starters were sidelined with injuries, and several others were banged-up but played.

"In general, we didn't do all that badly, despite the 40-0 score. Still, it was an embarrassing loss."

Meanwhile, the boy harriers were losing to Saline, 23-33, but showing improvement in the process. "The boys are getting better," coach Pat Clarke said, "but are still not where they should be. They have to continue to improve."

In the girls meet, Chelsea split the first four places, and took six of the first 10. Kim Collins came home first at 21:30, closely followed by Robin Mock at 21:49, Laura Damm at 21:59 and Amy Wolfgang at 22:03.

Clarke mentioned Collins, Richardson, Grant and Roberts as having run especially well considering previous times. In the boys meet, Saline's Mark Poglian won as expected, finishing almost a minute ahead of Chelsea's first finisher, and was followed to the tape by two of his teammates.

Allen Cole paced the Bulldogs by coming in fourth at 17:49. Eric Green was fifth (17:59), Scott Cooper sixth (18:13), and Jared Bradley seventh (18:14). # SPORTS NOTES

BY BILL MULLENDORE

This column started out to be about something entirely different until I learned unexpectedly a week ago Tuesday that Robin Raymond is leaving as Chelsea High school's head basketball coach. That kind of news is always received with mixed feelings.

I'm happy for Raymond. He has taken a big step up the coaching ladder by being selected to take over the program at Ann Arbor Pioneer. It's a splendid opportunity. Pioneer has been "down" in basketball for a good many years, and has no place to go but up. From what I know of Raymond, he will put a lot of energy and coaching talents into making the Pioneers respectable on the court.

I'm sorry to see Raymond leave Chelsea. He has built a fine basketball program here through dedicated hard work and skilled patient coaching. Last winter's team was 14-6, shared a Southeastern Conference title and would have been a district champion had the tournament been played anywhere but in the Jackson Lumen Christi gym.

Chelsea has seven members of that squad coming back, plus some promising newcomers, and has the potential to be an outstanding basketball team. I hope they fall into good coaching hands. Whoever takes over as coach has a golden chance to make a name for himself right away. Raymond is leaving the program in excellent shape.

"I realize the possibilities here in Chelsea," Raymond told me, "and I'm sorry to leave them. But when an opportunity like that at Ann Arbor comes along in this business, you have to take advantage of it if you want to move ahead. I've been coaching basketball for 11 years, the last six at Chelsea. I'm told that the Pioneer position is one of the five best high school basketball coaching jobs in the state. I'm pleased and proud that I was selected. There was a lot of competition. Many people wanted the position."

Raymond is a low-key individual. He doesn't rant and rave, scream and shout like so many basketball coaches do, and I give him a lot of credit for that. He gets excited in the fast-flowing tempo of the game, but keeps his cool. Instead of blowing his top, he coaches. When he calls a time-out, he has something in mind, and he conveys it to his players. He doesn't berate officials, abuse his players or bad-mouth the opposition. I've seen far too much of that from too many coaches.

Most important, Raymond knows and understands the game he coaches. As a person who once played basketball reasonably well, I could understand the purpose of his offensive and defensive strategies. His team last year was extremely well schooled and drilled in fundamentals. The players knew where they were supposed to be on the court and what they were supposed to try to do. The fact that they didn't always do it was not his fault. Athletes, especially those of high school age, are only human after all.

Ann Arbor has never been a "big" high school basketball town. It has produced some excellent football teams over the years, but roundball hasn't been one of the city's specialties.

I have a hunch that, given a few years, Raymond may change that. It will take some time. Good basketball players don't just happen. They are developed during a program that begins in grade school as soon as a youngster is old and strong enough to put a ball up to the hoop.

I saw what happened in Lansing when players of the caliber of Earvin Johnson and Jay and Sam Vincent were generated from a system that had been patiently put together. Ann Arbor is capable of producing talent in that class, and it wouldn't surprise me at all to see Raymond bring it forward.

I will miss Robin Raymond. Chelsea basketball players and boosters will also miss him. We all wish him well in his new and exciting opportunity. He deserves the chance to move ahead in his chosen profession of teaching the game of basketball.

OUT IN THE OPEN

By BILL MULLENDORE

There are a lot of deer in southeastern Michigan this fall, maybe more than ever before. There may also be more hunters than ever before. It all adds up to an interesting three months of deer hunting.

The bow-and-arrow season opens Saturday, continues through Nov. 14, lapses for 15 days while firearms hunters have their fling, then resumes through the month of December. There is a special muzzle-loading rifle season in early December.

A spate of publicity in recent weeks about trophy buck deer available in southern Michigan is expected to attract additional numbers of hunters, including a possible influx from out-of-state. Big white-tail bucks with heavy racks of antlers are the most elusive wildlife targets in North America. You can hunt for a lifetime and never see one, much less get a shot with either arrow or gun.

Collecting a buck with a rack worth mounting and hanging on the wall is a dream that a lot of deer hunters never realize. Many settle finally for young animals with small-beamed eight-point antlers, the kind you quite often see around here. They are, for the most part, 2½-year-old bucks that have thrived under the ideal living conditions which southern Michigan provides, and grown antlers big for their age.

The only live record-class trophy buck I ever saw was standing in the middle of a gravel road at about midnight. I caught him in the headlights long enough to count his 16 points and marvel at their massiveness. He was collected a couple of weeks later, by somebody else, and made the Boone & Crockett book.

That buck had been born and grown up within a mile of the cottage I owned in Cheboygan county at the time. He was 5½ years old, according to the biologist who examined him; and was in the peak prime of his life. His antlers probably would have gradually deteriorated in future years. He dressed out at 230 pounds, a truly huge deer.

I can recall 1948, the year that southern Michigan was reopened to deer hunting after more than 30 years of closed seasons. Some "monster bucks were taken that fall, especially in the Brighton-Howell area. I wasn't lucky enough to shoot one, but did take pictures of several fortunate hunters who were. One of those deer is still listed in the all-time national records for non-typical antlers.

Last fall photographer Dale Fisher gave me a ride in his helicopter. Shortly after lifting off, we hovered low over a small marsh in the Waterloo Recreation Area. In the middle of that 20 acres of cattails was a buck deer, a nice one—not a record-book specimen but a very decent animal.

Bow-hunting season was on, and there were archers posted all around the edges of that little marsh. "That buck has been in there every day for two weeks," Dale told me. "He apparently goes out to feed at night, then sneaks back in before daylight and lies up for the day. The only time he stands up is when we fly over him, but he doesn't move. He just watches. I suspect he's going to survive the hunting season."

That buck is probably still around and very likely is trophy-size by now. If he stays in that little marsh like he did last year, he has a good chance to survive and grow even bigger. He might eventually die of old age.

There is no doubt that there are a lot of deer around here, and that among them are some very big deer. The forecast that the best chance to bag a trophy buck in Michigan this fall lies somewhere in the southern counties is probably correct, as is the more precise prediction that Washtenaw and Livingston counties offer exceptional good prospects.

I expect to see a lot of deer hunters out in the thickets and woodlots during the next three months, and I hope to see a good deer harvest. If I get a chance to take pictures of some outstanding bucks and interview the lucky shooters, that will be the proverbial frosting on the cake. Both archers and gun hunters are hereby invited to bring their trophies to The Standard office.

Having written that, let me define a trophy typical white-tail buck. It has at least 12 points, a 24-inch spread, and scores 140 or more under the Boone & Crockett measuring system. (Note: Final measurements for official recording purposes are not taken until several months after the deer was killed. There is some shrinkage as the antlers dry out. For purposes here, a preliminary score of 140 is asked for.)

Non-typical trophy racks come in such a wide variety of configurations that it is just about impossible to set limits. Most that I have seen had more than 20 points. The record I witnessed in 1948 had 27.

A good guide is body weight. A buck bearing a trophy head, typical or non-typical, will weigh more than 200 pounds after field-dressing. That is a mighty big deer. A dressed weight of 125 pounds is about average for bucks.

There are exceptions, of course. Some bucks grow big bodies and small antlers, and the reverse also happens sometimes although infrequently. I once saw a 220-pound dressed deer with antlers that wouldn't have dignified a yearling.

It was a very old animal. I also have seen a 16-point rack on a 2½-year-old buck. It was about 12 inches across with beams about the size of pencils.

If anybody comes up with a doe that dresses at an honest 200 pounds, let me know. It will set some kind of a record.

Harriers Run Well At Jackson

Both the Chelsea girls and boys cross country teams made strong showings in the Jackson Invitational Meet last Saturday, finishing third and fifth, respectively, in tough competition.

The girls ran exceptionally well considering that their top entrant, Robin Mock, had to drop out of the race midway through the course with a knee injury. Marla Feldman was another casualty with a sprained ankle.

"I hope they will both be back this week," coach Pat Clarke said, "but you just can't predict how long it will take for injuries of that kind to heal."

Kim Collins, Mary Ann Richardson and Amy Wolfgang all turned in excellent times under 21 minutes in finishing 12th, 14th and 16th among the 57 runners.

Jackson Lumen Christi won the meet with 34 points. Grand Rapids Christian was second at 77 and Chelsea third with 93.

Chelsea placers included Collins (12) 20:38, Richardson (14) 20:46, Wolfgang (16) 20:54, Laura Damm (21) 21:15, Stephanie Grant (30) 21:41, and Melanie Flanigan (31) 22:01.

"I think we have at least four girls capable of running under 20 minutes before the season is over, and we may have a couple of others," Clarke said. "We've had problems with injuries and illness. It would be great to have everybody healthy."

The boys' fifth-place finish was very good considering that the four teams ahead of them are ranked among the top 10 in the state. "The boys are really coming along, improving with every meet," Clarke said.

Allen Cole turned in a sparkling 16:42 time to finish ninth in the strong 63-man field. The winning 15:49 time of Jackson County Western's Lee Kingsley borders on the unbelievable, and there were 12 finishers under 17 minutes.

Other Chelsea placers and times included Eric Green (15) 17:05, Scott Cooper (25) 17:33, Jared Bradley (29) 17:39, Craig MacIag (35) 17:50, Steve Humm (48) 18:29, and Lee Riemen-schneider (50) 18:50.

Okemos won the meet with 53 points, followed by Western (62), Grand Rapids Christian (77), Lumen Christi (86) and Chelsea (113).

Archers Will Open Bulldog Golfers Season Saturday Have Big Week

Fall hunting in southern Michigan gets under way in earnest Saturday with the opening of the bow-and-arrow deer season, which is expected to draw a crowd.

The outlook for deer hunters is excellent, and especially so for archers who can take animals of either sex without having to worry about "seeing horns" unless they choose to do so.

Conservation officer Craig Wales believes the local deer herd is the largest ever, thanks to an especially big fawn crop this past spring following a mild winter which insured survival of adults.

"We have a lot of deer around here," Wales said, "more than I've ever seen before. The number of antlered bucks may be only normal, but the total number of deer is definitely up."

Autopsies performed on road-killed does last spring showed an unusually large number of multiple births in the making. Most were carrying at least twins, and there were several instances of triplets and quadruplets.

It's questionable whether does can raise four fawns, but they definitely can rear three if the babies are big and strong enough to stand up and nurse within a few hours of being born.

Squirrel, ruffed grouse and woodcock hunting seasons have been open since Sept. 15, but have attracted few sportsmen. Harvest of all three species has been very light because of heavy tree foliage and unseasonably warm temperatures.

Put-take pheasant hunting has been open since Sept. 1 on 15 selected state game, forest and park areas, including Pinckney and Sharonville. Success has been high for those hunters participating.

Unless the Legislature changes its mind, this will be the last year for the put-take pheasant program. It has been cut about in half this fall and is scheduled to be phased out entirely next year. Begun 10 years ago, the program has been expensive and has not lived up to predictions for participation. Special fees charged for hunting the pen-reared birds have never come close to paying for the cost of raising and releasing the birds.

Chelsea High golfers had a good week last week as both the varsity and JV teams won a pair of matches, each defeating Lincoln and Tecumseh to score important Southeastern Conference victories.

The varsity linksmen beat Lincoln, 149-163, over the par 34 Hickory Woods course near Ypsilanti. Jim Ritter led the Bulldogs with a 35. Other counting scores were Eric Schaffner, 37; Doug Otto, 38, and Mike Carignan, 39.

The JV's turned in a team score of 161, which would have been good enough to win the varsity match. John Harris and Tom Roth both had 139's, their lowest rounds of the season. John Mitchell came in at 40 and Rob Murrell at 43.

Playing at par 36 Brookside during intermittent rain and hail, the varsity golfers defeated Tecumseh, 158-166, and the JV's likewise won, 173-198. "It was excellent golf under the conditions," coach Ken Larson said. "It wasn't easy out there."

For the varsity, Carignan was medalist at 38. Right behind were Schaffner (39), Ritter (40) and Brian Ackley (41).

JV scores included Harris (41), Mark Porath (43), Chris Tarasow (44) and Mitchell (45).

The varsity team is now 5-1 on the season and 3-1 in the SEC in a tie for first place with Saline, which was upset by Dexter during the week. The JV's are also 5-1, and are undefeated at 4-1 in SEC competition.

Swim Classes Offered By County Park & Recreation

Washtenaw County Parks and Recreation Commission's 50 & Up Swim is about to begin. The class will offer lap swimming as well as exercises in the water.

Classes will be held on Monday, Wednesday and Fridays from 12:30 to 1:30 p.m. starting Sept. 12 through Nov. 9. Classes will be held at Ypsilanti High school and will cost $20 for 25 classes.

For further information call WCPARC at 973-2575.

Varsity Cagers Have Difficulty in Scoring

Chelsea's girls varsity basketball team won over Manchester, but lost to Gabriel Richard last week in two games marred by poor shooting.

The team is now 14 for the season.

Coach Jim Winter said his team is improving its defense and passing but has exhibited "a pretty sad display of shooting."

"It is hard to figure out the other things we're doing wrong when that (shooting) is so glaring," Winter said.

Chelsea won its home game with Manchester last Tuesday, 43-31. The team scored 9 points in about a minute and a half in the second quarter.

"That was good," Winter said. "They never got real close after that but we didn't play well enough to bury them like I thought we should."

Anne Weber was high scorer with 16, Kelly Hawker followed with 11.

Leading rebounder was Beth Unterbrink with 11. Carol Warren had 9 rebounds.

The team dropped its game with Gabriel Richard on Thursday, 39-24.

"We did not play well at all," Winter said. "It was mostly just us. Gabriel Richard is a good team and we just didn't do the things we had to do."

Top scorers were Unterbrink and Samantha Collinsworth with 8 points each.

Unterbrink was also top rebounder with 10, Winter said. "We just couldn't score, we couldn't shoot the ball at all," Winter said.

The varsity cagers have been having that problem a lot this season.

Winter said the team has shot an average of 26 percent from the floor in the first five games. They have averaged 51 percent from the foul line, a figure he calls "not real exciting."

"Things are pretty dismal in the way we're shooting the ball. We're not playing the way I thought we would," he said. "We're going to have to learn to shoot."

The team was scheduled to play at Saline last night. They will host rival Dexter tomorrow night.

Cassidy Lake Prison-Fence It Or Close It

Excerpts from letters written to the Governor, our legislators, and the Director of Corrections:

"Governor Blanchard, in picturing yourself and your family living in this type of environment, for only then would you truly see the concern of the community. You have a solemn responsibility and duty . . . to take steps to either "Fence it or Close It" . . . I will watch your response on this issue carefully."

" . . . we are sitting on a powder keg. I sincerely hope action is taken before we see more innocent citizens hurt or a prisoner killed by a community up in arms."

"As a taxpayer, I am tired of seeing the hundreds of law enforcement man-hours being spent by the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department and the Chelsea Police Department . . . recapturing these escapees . . ."

"We are both nearly age 80. With so many escaping from Cassidy Lake Prison, I am protecting ourselves with both a shotgun and a pistol. Never before have we considered a loaded gun in the house. Fence or Close Cassidy Lake Prison."

"These escapes and subsequent robberies have our whole town up in arms. I myself am terrified. I happen to be deaf and live alone. At night I have to sleep with the windows closed and locked, which has been unbearable in this summer heat . . . The present situation is intolerable and must be CORRECTED NOW."

" . . . our state and local correctional facilities are overcrowded and understaffed. However, that does not mean that the overflow of prisoners should be shipped out to facilities such as Cassidy Lake where they are allowed to escape and be returned to the system like a revolving door."

"The State's legislators are going to have to wake up to the fact that the breed of prisoners at Cassidy Lake in 1983 is not the same as those for whom the facility was designed."

"I recently purchased land north of Chelsea and intended to build a home there. I now have second thoughts about the safety of my family, should I build there as planned . . ."

"We moved to Chelsea to avoid the kinds of problems like break-ins, living in fear of strangers walking along our road, and sounds in the night. What have we got? Everything we fled from."

"You have no idea the feeling one has to come home and find someone has been there going through your personal belongings. You feel violated. Then the fear of the next time when you might encounter the criminal."

"As a member of the Chelsea community, I am sick of these escapes occurring two to three times a week, posing a potential threat to my family, friends, and neighbors."

"Why should good citizens have to live with these fears on a daily basis? . . . To date there have been total disregard for the opinion or safety of the Chelsea Community who are affected . . . How can you expect the people of Chelsea to just take it? As our elected official, we need and expect your help. Please."

WE CAN force a solution to the Cassidy Lake Prison problem. To force this solution we need to get the attention of the Governor, our legislators, and the Director of Corrections. Write to them and continue writing. Once won't be enough. Clip news articles or even this page. Keep letting them know you're concerned and scared and expect a solution. Your letter doesn't have to be formal or long. The important thing is to write!

Church Services

St. John's Church Plans Homecoming

Plans are underway for the Homecoming Sunday celebration scheduled for Oct. 2, at St. John's United Church of Christ, 12376 Waters Rd.

Worship service will begin at 10:30 a.m. and will include the sacrament of holy communion and special music.

Following worship, a brunch will be served in the fellowship hall.

If you have received notice of Homecoming Sunday and plan to attend the brunch, return the reservation slip to St. John's United Church of Christ, P.O. Box 65, Manchester 48158, or call Arlene Flisk (428-7301 evenings) or Marsha Chartrand (428-8831 days), and make a reservation now.

Photography Workshop Scheduled

Many folks enjoy hiking trails and fields, reveling at the scenery and absorbing nature on a grand scale. And then there are those who prefer a close-up view of what nature has to offer. Contorting their bodies into sometimes agonizing positions, these "investigators" reveal texture and form through the use of close-up photography. Spider webs laden with dew, or the silken white seeds of willow weed waiting in the wind, are transformed into nature's wonders through the use of proper lighting.

If you have ever marveled at these types of photographs, and desired to learn the techniques of close-up photography, plan on attending the photography workshop offered by Waterloo Nature Center Oct. 1. Workshops will be taught at 1 and 3 p.m. by well known local photographer Bill Bliss and assistant Jay Sinclair. Bliss is affiliated with the Ann Arbor Camera Club. His specialty is wildflower photography and those participating in the workshop will view his slide show.

The indoor portion of the program will last one hour and concentrate on techniques; equipment; composition and light limitations. Participants can then practice their newly acquired skills during an outdoor stroll. Depending on interest, participants may set a date to analyze their processed film.

The photography workshop is geared for SLR cameras. The cost is $5. Advance registration is not required but would be appreciated. Call 475-8069.

The Nature Center is located at 17030 Bush Rd. Take I-94 to Exit 157, proceed north on Pierce Rd. and turn left on Bush Rd.

FOOTBALL FIELD DAMAGED: The look on his face reflects the unhappiness of Chelsea High school athletic director Ron Nemeth over damage done to the new sod on Niehaus Field last week by a group of intruders who sneaked in and played a pick-up game of football on turf that wasn't ready.

Football Field Damaged By Intrusive 'Players'

Several "somebodies" played an impromptu game of football on Chelsea High school's Niehaus Field last Sunday and, as a result, the plan to have the field ready for use in time for the Oct. 14 homecoming game against Tecumseh has suffered a severe setback.

"This really hurts," athletic director Ron Nemeth said. "The sod has been torn up in maybe 50 places, and every one of them is going to have to be repaired by hand. We had the grass growing well, but now I just don't know."

"These weren't students who did the damage," Nemeth added. "If you look at the footprints and the cleat marks you can tell they were adults. I think I know who some of them are, but can't prove it. They are men in their mid-20's."

An inspection of the damage showed that some big feet were involved, and that they were wearing cleated shoes.

The outdoor athletic area at the high school has been left open on weekends so that persons can get in and use the tennis courts. "I guess we're going to have to lock everything up," Nemeth said. "It's too bad."

"We've had this problem before of people sneaking in and using the football field without permission, but it hasn't mattered all that much. This time it does matter. It could make the difference between playing our homecoming game here or not.

"If people want to play football, there are a lot of places around here that they can do it without ruining brand-new sod. We've had enough trouble getting the field in shape, and we sure didn't need this."

Even if the damage had not occurred, it was questionable whether Niehaus Field would be ready by Oct. 14. Final grading and sodding of the end zones is supposed to be completed this week, given good weather.

The poles for lights haven't been manufactured yet, much less delivered. They are "on line" at a Muncie, Inc., plant but hadn't been made as of Monday, Nemeth said. "I honestly don't know when we'll get them," he added. "I'll believe them when I see them."

JV Girl Cagers Win Two Contests in Week

The Chelsea girl's junior varsity basketball squad won both its contests last week, outscoring Manchester, 43-23, and squeezing past Gabriel Richard, 33-30.

Despite the team's 4-1 record, coach Paul Terpstra cautions that league competition, which begins this week, will be tough on the junior cagers.

"So far we're doing all right," he said. "But league competition is going to be tougher than non-conference games are."

Stealing the ball once again made a big difference in last Tuesday's match with Manchester.

Terpstra said his squad played well in the first half, they outscored Manchester 17-2 in the second quarter, and were leading their opponents 28-6 at half-time.

The bulldogs scored nine out of 17 times at the foul line for 53 percent, a figure Terpstra called "very good."

The team also shot 17 of 53 from the floor, stole the ball 37 times, and got 42 rebounds in comparison to Manchester's 35.

Leading scorer was Kristi Headrick with 24. She was followed by Jenny Cattell, 10, Kris Mattoff, 4, Pam Brown, 2, and Mary Lazarz, Cindy Stirling and Sallie Wilson, who each had 1. Headrick was leading rebounder with 11, followed by Mattoff with 7.

Mattoff led with 8 steals, followed by Cattell and Zerkel with 6.

Terpstra called Thursday's match with Gabriel Richard "A close ball game all the way."

Chelsea fell behind their opponents in the first quarter 12-6. But the team fought back to tie the game at 18-18 by half time.

"The key was even though we fell behind right away and the kids could have given-up, they didn't."

As in Tuesday's game Headrick was top scorer, with 19. Cattell followed, scoring 10.

Zerkel was leading rebounder with 13. Headrick had 7 and Mattoff got 6 rebounds.

Leading in steals were Headrick with 7 and Mattoff with 5.

Farm Bureau Opposes Proposed Domestic Content Legislation

The House Ways and Means Subcommittee on Trade has been notified by Farm Bureau that the organization strongly opposes H.R. 1234, domestic content legislation. The proposed legislation would restrict imports of automobiles and trucks by requiring that up to 90% of the components in domestically sold vehicles be produced in the United States.

Village President Wonders If Washtenaw 'Wants Us'

"It looks like they just plain don't want us."

That was president Jack Merkel's bitter comment summing up village council discussion of a proposal by the Board of County Commissioners to centralize all district court operations in Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti, shutting down the courtroom in Chelsea.

"Everything they (the board of commissioners) do seems to be aimed at separating west Washtenaw from the rest of the county," Merkel said. "I'm sick of it, and I think it's time we made our feelings known in no uncertain terms."

It is not a new issue. Several years ago the idea of having the western townships "secede" from Washtenaw county and annex themselves to Jackson county was seriously explored. Upshot was a legal opinion that the move cannot be made under existing Michigan laws.

"Where are our western Washtenaw board members on this issue?" Merkel wondered out loud. "Why don't they speak up for areas they represent? I'm going to contact them and find out."

(West Washtenaw is represented on the county commission by George Merkel of Chelsea and Martin L. Straub of Dexter township.)

Jack Merkel said he intends to write a tough letter to the board in his role as Chelsea village president, protesting the move to close the district court operation here.

"I think they need to hear from us, and they definitely are going to hear from me," Merkel said.

"There is more to Washtenaw county than Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti, and that should be made clear. We live in the county, we pay taxes, and we should get some services."

"In my business (a furniture and carpet store) we are involved in a lot of small claims cases. It would be a real inconvenience and very costly to have to go to Ann Arbor every time. I know there are a lot of other people out here with the same problem. We need a court here."

Centralizing all district court functions in Ann Arbor, with an exception for Ypsilanti, has been proposed by the county board as a way of saving money. That would mean shutting down the courtroom in Chelsea.

Objections have been raised that, under state law, district court must be held in all cities and villages with a population of 3,250 or more. Chelsea qualifies for a court under that standard, as do Ann Arbor, Ypsilanti, Saline, Milan and several of the densely developed eastern townships.

Ironically, the Washtenaw County Service Center, which has been suggested as the place where the 14th District Court should be centered, is located in Pittsfield township, which doesn't measure up under the population guideline.

Manchester Area House Tour Slated

St. Mary's Altar Society is proud to announce a House Tour of six homes in the Manchester area. The tour will take place Sunday afternoon, Oct. 2 from 1 to 5 p.m.

The first home on the tour is the home of Lloyd and Pat Spaulding of 9757 Kaiser Rd. in Bridgewater. This beautiful new home has oak floors and woodwork throughout and has an old fashioned beamed ceiling in the family room.

The totally modern and convenient kitchen features a huge bay window that overlooks the rolling countryside. The house has been beautifully decorated.

The home of Brian and Debbie Alber is next on the tour. They live at 19426 Pleasant Lake Rd. This 19th century farm house has all the original woodwork intact and is in beautiful condition. It has old fashioned french doors separating the living room and dining area. The back staircase that once accommodated the farm hands of old is still intact. The house has been extensively redecorated throughout.

The next home is that of Roger and Dulce Kappler of 19163 Bethel Church Rd. The Kapplers have totally remodeled this 140-year-old farm house. The beautiful wood floors have all been completely refinished. The new family room with its large bay window and fireplace makes a cozy nook to spend those cold winter nights in.

The fourth home on the tour is Steve and Sharon Schlingmann's. This beautiful executive home is located at 18089 Y. Austin Rd. The home sits on a hill overlooking the countryside. The lovely argue that the legal requirement to hold court in Chelsea, Saline, Milan, etc., could be fulfilled by convening a session once a year in those communities and promptly dismissing it. That would clearly be a subterfuge, but it might be technically legal.

Also put forward is a suggestion that, if Chelsea wants to keep a district judge here, it should provide more spacious quarters at village expense. The claim has been made that the building at 122 S. Main St. is too small to serve the court's needs.

Whatever the merits of that contention, the fact is that providing adequate space for the district court is a county responsibility under the law.

ceramic tiled foyer with open stairway has excellent traffic flow directly to the gourmet kitchen. The kitchen has all the modern conveniences with lots of cabinets and counter space.

The large family room has a beamed ceiling with built-in bookshelves and cabinets and a custom-built fireplace.

Simon and Lenore Steele's home is next on the tour. Their home is located at 356 Schaffer Court. The large kitchen overlooks the living room. When they entertain they can be busy in the kitchen and still be with their guests. The sliding glass door, off the living room, goes out onto a deck which is covered with beautiful plants. The stairs from the deck go down to the basement level, which they have renovated into a family room.

The last home on the tour this year is that of Robert and Yvonne Huber of 351 Schaffer Court. The Hubers have had their home on the tour before, but have remodeled since then. The garage has been extended and converted into a family room and dining area.

The home is decorated in a more modern style; however, there are a great many beautiful antiques throughout the house. Most of these antiques have been handed down from generation to generation and have a great deal of sentimental value.

Tickets are $3 and are now available at Krauss Pharmacy on Main St. in Manchester. They will also be available the day of the tour, Oct. 2 at St. Mary's Church Hall, 210 W. Main St. A map will be provided to assist you in locating each home.

Girls Swim Team Defeated By Novi

Despite taking first place in 7 of 11 events, the Chelsea girls swim team still dropped its second meet of the season to Novi, 101-68.

Coach Von Acker was disappointed but not disheartened with last Tuesday's loss.

"Quality, not quantity is the motto of the team," he said. "Not that they want it that way, but that's the way it is. And the meet against Novi proved it."

Acker said he sees marked improvement in the swimmers and hopes their tenacity will be worthwhile at season's end.

"When it comes down to the big invitational, Chelsea will do well because our quality will beat the quality of the other teams."

Three Chelsea swimmers took first place honors in two events during the meet with Novi.

Fire Dept. Has 23 Runs For August

Chelsea fire department activity continues to lag slightly behind last year. Village firemen made 23 runs during August, compared to 31 in the same month of 1982. For 1983 to date the department is 16 calls behind a year ago.

Of last month's 23 alarms, eight were in Sylvan township. There were three each in Dexter and Lyndon townships and the village of Chelsea. The rest were scattered.

Only four of the calls involved fires—three in buildings and one in an automobile. There were 12 rescue runs, six responses to traffic accidents and one drowning.

Five members of the department spent a total of 84 hours getting a recently acquired Jeep ready for service. Sixteen put in a total of 106 volunteer hours standing by and providing help as needed during the demolition derby at the Chelsea Community Fair. Several cars caught fire during the competition. All were quickly extinguished.

Bids Being Solicited For Trash Collection

Bids are being solicited on a two-year contract for pick-up and hauling of household trash in Chelsea, beginning Nov. 8 of this year.

Diamond D. Rubbish of 20095 Waterloo Rd. presently holds the contract for twice-a-week collections on Tuesdays and Fridays.

Specifications for the new contract include a requirement that the hauler pay $2.50 per cubic yard for disposal in the village landfill, up from the $1.50 now being charged.

That probably will mean an increase in the monthly bill to residents for trash pick-up service.

Also under consideration is a charge per load to residents who haul their own refuse to the landfill, a service that is presently "free" under permits obtainable at the village hall.

Additional revenue is needed to provide funds for upgrading the landfill operation as demanded

Repairing Gates a Study in Artistry

By Bill Mullendore

The first phases of the reconstruction job on the Oak Grove Cemetery gates at the east end of Middle St. were easy, in a way. All they required were muscles and endurance to work through the sticky summer heat.

Husky young men swung mallets to break up and knock off the old concrete caps that had chipped, stained and eroded over the years. After that came a lot of hammer-and-chisel work to knock out the rotten mortar between the stones in the pillars.

The stones were sand-blasted to remove the grime that had darkened their surfaces during the decades. New mortar was trowelled into the cracks, and fancy "beadwork" finished.

Then came the hard part. Forms had to be built for new caps and hoisted into place on top of the pillars. Cement had to be mixed on the site, carried up ladders a bucket at a time, dumped into the forms, and smoothed and trimmed by hand. That work was still going on as this was written.

The job is taking longer than contractor Paul Henes of Dexter figured when he accepted the $4,300 contract. "I knew it wasn't going to be easy," Henes says, "but I didn't realize how difficult it is."

Henes will lose money. By the time he has paid for his help, materials, equipment and transportation, he will have nothing left to show for his labor except pride in a job well done.

"I think I probably knew that when I agreed to the contract," he says. "I took the job because I had never tackled anything like this before and wanted to see if I could do it. I thought I was a pretty good stone mason and saw this as a challenge to find out how good I am."

Constructing the wooden forms (molds) for the concrete caps turned out to be the most difficult challenge of all. The ornamental caps weigh several hundred pounds each—big square blocks of solid cement, shaped into curves and grooves and corners.

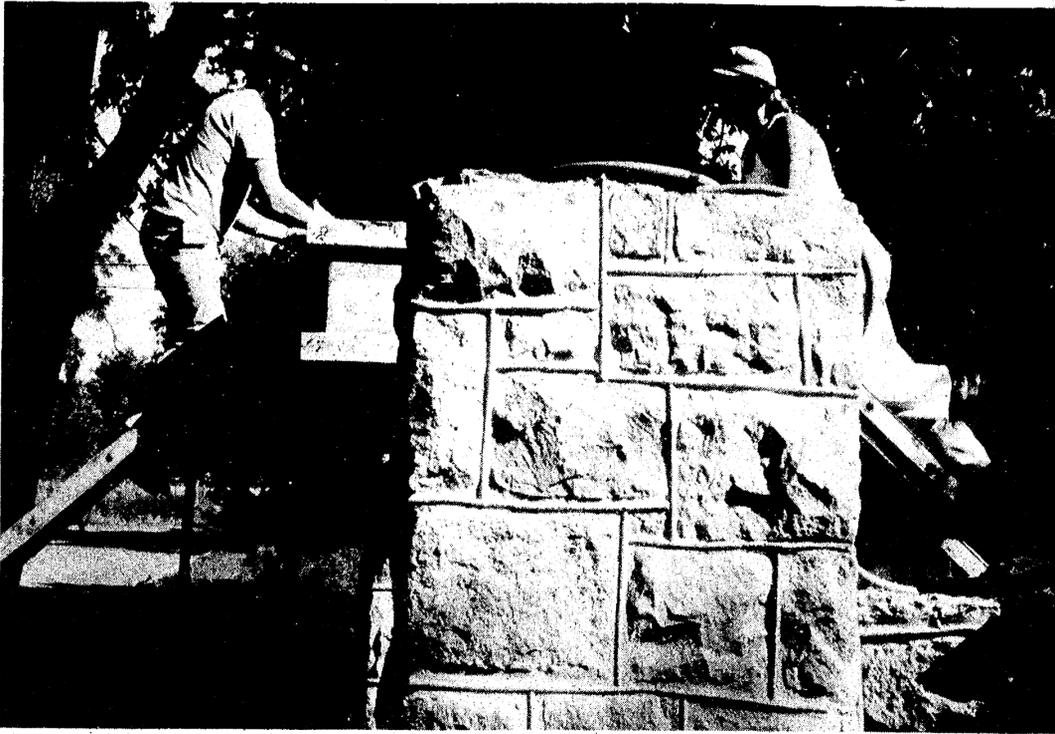

Asked how he made the forms, Henes offered a reply that typifies his work: "Very, very carefully. It was slow going. I built them at home, one step at a time. It took forever to get them right."

When Henes described the process, you could understand why it "took forever."

He started with a special kind of a quarter-inch plywood, made of mahogany, which bends when wetted and worked.

"You wet it a little, bend it a little, nail the bend in place, then wet some more, bend some more, and nail some more. Eventually, you get the shape you want. If you break a piece, you start all over."

Imagine taking a piece of plywood and shaping it into an "S" curve, and then putting several such pieces together, and you will have a rough idea of what is involved.

Henes said he had to use metal for a few of the more extreme curvatures, but didn't like to because concrete doesn't form as well to metal as it does to wood.

The poured caps are flawless in appearance. They look as if they had been made in the kind of mold that cooks use to create gelatin desserts.

Nor was it merely a matter of dumping cement into the forms and letting it harden. Each form had to be carefully set in place atop its pillar and propped up with 2x4's. Both the forms and the concrete that went into them had to be levelled.

"The pillars aren't level," Henes explained. "They probably were originally, but they have settled unevenly. They're crooked. If I had set the caps square on the pillars, they wouldn't have looked right. I had to adjust them a little bit at a time so they will be even across the top when I get all done."

He had a helper standing out in the street to gauge the result, much as you do when you hang a picture on the wall with somebody giving you advice. It was "up a little, down a little" until the caps were level.

The final evening-up was done by hand with a cementing trowel that Henes wielded with the delicacy that men of older times used in scraping a straight razor over their chins. The last bits of wet cement were shaved off drop by drop.

"You have to remember that this stuff shrinks a little bit as it dries and hardens, and allow for it," Henes explained as he worked with his trowel. "If the mixture of concrete isn't uniform, it will shrink unevenly. That's just one more thing you have to worry about."

This reporter has watched skilled artists paint pictures, and has never seen more meticulous care taken to do delicate work.

Henes began the job in mid-August and figured he would need about a month to complete it. Had that timetable worked out, he would have just about broken even. It's taking longer, but he isn't hurrying.

"I'm going to do it right, and I don't care how long it takes," he says. "I'm learning something every day, and that is going to be valuable somewhere down the line."

The pay-off could come in future jobs repairing the many fine pieces of old stonework to be found in Chelsea. "A lot of people have stopped and looked and asked questions," he said.

"Maybe some of them will hire me. I hope so. Now I know that I can do the work, and I like it."

A VIEW from the CLOCK TOWER

Bill Mullendore

Having been born with 10 thumbs, I admire people who can do things with their hands, including such simple operations as driving a nail straight or wielding a paint brush without slopping all over. A craftsman I am not.

A man I worked with for many years had a nice sense of humor. He formed a "Can't Hardly Club." I became a charter member. Membership required that you tackle some do-it-yourself project, and botch it, admitting at the end that "I can't hardly do it." I had many impressive credentials and was accepted without question.

Honesty compels me to admit that I have never managed to learn to type well in 40 years of trying. If you attempted to read these words in their original form, you probably couldn't. Editors and typesetters have been my salvation. They clean up the typewritten messes I make.

All that is by way of introduction to this expression of awed admiration for the job that stone mason Paul Henes of Dexter is doing on repairing the Oak Grove Cemetery gates. The cemetery is on my route to and from work, so I have been privileged to keep a daily watch on the progress of the reconstruction. (A story and pictures appear elsewhere in this edition.)

Henes and his helpers are craftsmen, no doubt about it. They display both the skills and the meticulous attention to detail that really fine work demands. They put in the time to do things right, no matter how long it takes. Pride of workmanship is evident.

When Henes says he is going to lose money on the job but doesn't mind because he is learning from the experience, he obviously means it. He is building something that is going to be around for a long time, and he wants it to bear his mark of excellence. It will.

One of the prices that we as a society have paid for advances in technology and mass production techniques has been a loss of quality in the products that are slapped together on the assembly line. The result, all too often, is sloppy work and shoddy goods.

Recently I had a small household appliance, a toaster oven, go on the blink after lasting less than two years. When I inquired about having it fixed, I was told that it would be cheaper to buy a new one. That is kind of sad when you think about it.

My decision was to get along without a toaster oven. If the people who make the things can't build them any better than that, forget it.

Similarly with the cemetery gates. It would have been a whole lot easier—and probably cheaper—to simply knock the old ones down and put up some new ones. I don't know what might have been erected in their place, but suspect some sort of pre-cast concrete pillars which would have been ugly and not lasted long.

Thankfully, the Oak Grove Cemetery board decided to preserve that old and beautiful monument which is in its own way as important a part of Chelsea's heritage as the clock tower which symbolizes my view of the village. The village government agreed to share in the cost.

Thankfully, too, the cemetery board found in Paul Henes an old-fashioned craftsman with the skill, patience and pride to carry out the restoration as it deserves to be done. It's instructive to drive by and watch him at work, and witness the results of his labor.

There are many examples of fine stone work around town. They are getting old and showing the signs of their age. The hope here is that they, too, will be repaired, maintained and kept in place as permanent marks of this community's charm and tradition. Chelsea is one of the few towns I have seen that can honestly be described as beautiful, and the stone masonry objects along the streets contribute importantly to its beauty.

The sesquicentennial planning committee could well give some thought to that facet of the village in planning next year's celebration.

Earl Horning Heads School Board

Earl Horning of Pleasant Lake Rd., has become the new president of the Manchester Board of Education filling the vacancy created by Paul DuFresne's resignation. Recently elected to his second term as vice-president, Horning officially assumed the president's role at the Board of Education meeting on Sept. 19.

Superintendent of Schools Gene Thompson commented, "I look forward to working with Earl as president. He is now the only remaining board member from the board which hired me four years ago. We have worked through many problems together and are both proud of the progress we have made. Both of us feel, however, that much work remains ahead and have pledged ourselves to working together to provide the leadership to reach those goals."

Ohio Man Accused Of Burglary After Running Out of Gas

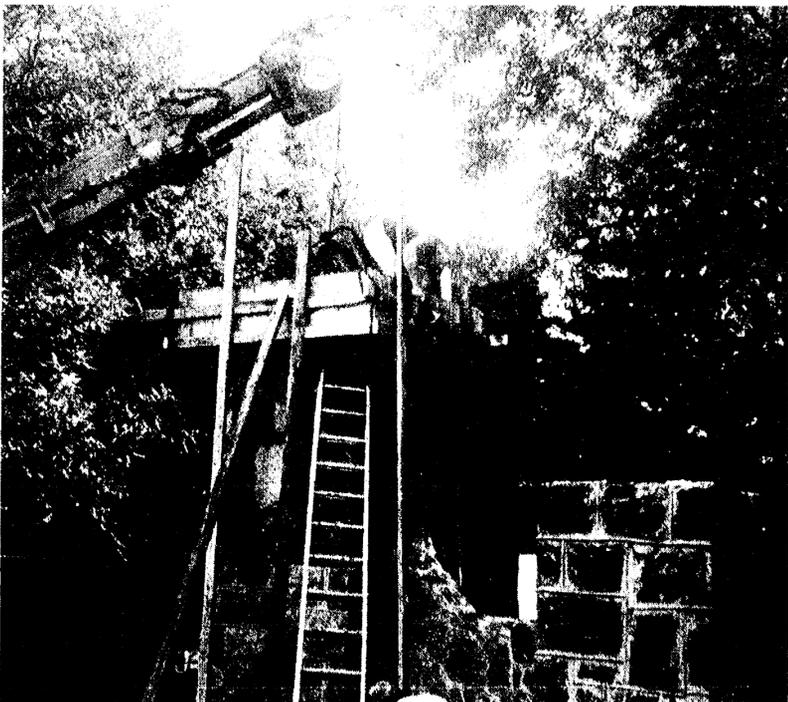

Scott A. Gambrell, 22, of Sylvania, O., was arrested and charged with burglary after breaking into a garage at a home on North M-52 in an unsuccessful attempt to steal gasoline.

Sgt. Donald Wenk of the sheriff's department, who investigated the case and made the arrest, said Gambrell apparently ran out of gas late at night, broke into the garage and went to work on a car in an effort to refuel. He tried siphoning with a piece of garden hose and cutting the car's fuel line. Neither worked. He left a gasoline can at the scene.

Gambrell then returned to his own car, fell asleep, and was found by Wenk. Gambrell made a signed statement.

CONCRETE CAP IN PLACE: This is one of the new concrete pillar caps formed from a hand-shaped plywood mold. Its curves, grooves and lines are perfect. The stonework at the bottom of the pillar has been newly cemented. That at the top remains to be completed after the old mortar was chipped out by hand.

FORM PUT IN PLACE: A wooden form, constructed of special mahogany plywood which can be wetted and shaped into curves and corners, is hoisted into place as Paul Henes nails supporting props. The form will be filled with several hundred pounds of cement.

Council, Planning Body To Hold Joint Meeting

The village council and the planning commission will hold a joint informal meeting at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 11, to discuss possible ways to simplify procedures prescribed by the village zoning code, and perhaps the code itself.

The meeting was requested by the planning commission, which has come under fire in recent months while carrying out functions that the zoning code prescribes.

"The Village of Chelsea Compiled Ordinance Zoning Code" (sub-titled "Ordinance Systems") is a two-inch-thick looseleaf volume bound in light green covers. Village officials refer to it as "the green book."

The book began with the passage of the village zoning ordinance in 1966 and has grown steadily since with periodic enactment of amendments and new regulations.

What apparently triggered the Oct. 11 meeting was a protest by BookCrafter's, Inc., over the way that its proposal to construct a new parking lot has been handled. BookCrafter's objected to what company officials called "a mid-course change" in the ground rules.

Village trustee Jerry Satterthwaite, who sits on the planning commission as one of the two council representatives, has indicated he feels there may be some merit to criticism that the zoning code and procedures are too complicated and cumbersome.

So apparently, do some other members of the planning commission who are uncomfortable over the flak they are getting while performing their duties.

YOUR BACK & YOUR HEALTH

DR. W. ATKINSON
DIRECTOR

What (really) is chiropractic?

This is a new column that will appear in this space every other week. Because there are so many misconceptions about chiropractic and chiropractors, this column will attempt to straighten things out.

First of all, chiropractic is neither a cure-all nor a worthless practice. It has definite merits and definite limitations. Obviously you wouldn't go to a chiropractor for a broken leg. Then the question is, when should you visit a chiropractor? This series of columns will try to give you some usable guidelines. The first step is to understand the basic principles of chiropractic.

Your spine is made up of 24 moveable segments, called vertebrae. Running down through these vertebrae is the spinal cord, which is really a whole lot of nerves, sort of like communications' lines from your brain. The nerves extend out from between the vertebrae to send messages from the brain to the organs of the body.

Sometimes a fall or a twist or a jar moves a vertebrae out of its normal position. This can prevent the message from the brain from getting through to the body organ the way it's supposed to.

The job of the chiropractor is to restore the vertebra to its normal position so the body can once again function as it should. While this is clearly an oversimplified presentation of chiropractic, it's essentially correct.

Your body's natural state is good health. Chiropractic is dedicated to letting the body achieve that state, naturally.
