ROGER AND JOSEPH OTTOMAN are two of several local farmers who are unable to use their silos because of PCB contamination. The silo in the background contains 400 parts per million of the suspected carcinogen. "It kind of makes you disgusted to have it sitting there and not to be able to use it," Joseph Ottoman said.

PCB Contaminated Silos Banned from Dairy Farms

When Joseph Ottoman's father had two silos built by the Michigan Silo Co. in the early 1950s, the material used on the calking inside the structures was considered one of the best sealants around.

He had no idea that 30 years later that sealant would cost his son and grandson $30,000.

Joseph and Roger Ottoman are among several local and over 300 farmers across the state to own silos tainted with polychlorinated biphenyl (PCB), a suspected carcinogen. The silos were all built by the same company within a 20 year period between the late 1940s and the late 1960s.

A six-month ban on the use of the contaminated silos will expire Nov. 9. Meanwhile, legislators in Lansing are hurriedly working to pass various bills which would allow the state to condemn the contaminated silos, provide low interest loans to farmers to build new structures and provide state reimbursement.

Tests done by the Michigan Department of Agriculture laboratory in June 1982, show that the two silos on the Ottoman's farm contained 210 and 400 parts per million of PCB. Milk samples showed only minute traces of the substance.

Because of the ban on the use of the silos, and with a need to store feed for the winter months, the Ottomans recently tore down the silo with the least amount of contamination and placed it in an isolated section of the farm, away from the livestock. The new 20 by 60 foot concrete silo stands 25 feet away from the original structure, on ground that was tested and proved not to be contaminated by PCB. The cost of the structure was approximately $30,000.

"We priced Harvester's also and they were about twice as much," Joseph Ottoman said.

The other tainted silo still stands on the dairy farm. Joseph Ottoman said he is waiting to hear how the state will dispose of the structure.

Rezoning Of Lot OK'd By Council

The village council has approved rezoning of a one-acre lot west of the Heller Electric Co., 20650 Old US-12, from residential to general commercial.

The land is owned by Earl Heller and Don Thompson, who said their immediate plan is to use the lot for parking next-door to their places of business. There could be some further development in the future, they indicated.

The five village trustees present OK'd the rezoning unanimously after no objections were raised during a public hearing.

Because the silo contains over 50 parts per million of PCB, it cannot be dismantled and taken to a regular landfill, but must be taken to a toxic waste dump, according to Ken Van Patten, director of the Michigan Agricultural Product Assurance Bureau. Van Patten said there are no toxic waste dumps in Michigan. He added that in some cases the silo will probably try sandblasting and other techniques to bring many Michigan silos within the allowed PCB range so that they may be taken to regular landfills.

Dean and Donna Clark of Chelsea were a little bit luckier than the Ottomans. Although testing showed their silo contained 600 parts per million of PCB, they did not suffer the same financial loss. They had not used the silo for the last eight or nine years, ever since they switched from dairy to hog farming.

"We really don't need it anyway," Donna Clark said.

She said that the notification of contamination did not surprise them.

"My husband knew the inspectors would be coming since the silo was built during that time period and by that company."

The PCB contamination in Michigan silos came from a coating used on the calking inside of the structures, Jerry Dunn, acting communications chief of the Agriculture Department said. The coating was meant to prevent the calking from being etched away by acid from wet silage.

"At the time the PCB made it easier to use the product," Dunn said. "Later we find out its bad."

Testing of silos has been ongoing for a number of years. However, the first bill, to condemn the tainted structures, which was introduced by the Senate, never went very far, Van Patten said. Because the ban on the silos will be lifted next month, the legislative wheels have begun to turn more swiftly, he said.

A House bill, identical in wording to its Senate predecessor was drafted, but before it reached the floor a substitute bill was written which includes a clause to give compensation to farmers for their monetary losses. That bill passed the House last week.

Another bill, which would give farmers low interest loans to construct new silos is now in the House appropriations committee.

Unlike many Michigan farmers, the Ottomans do not express anger over their plight, although they do hope for state reimbursement.

"I think they should (reimburse farmers)," Joseph Ottoman said. "We certainly didn't know they contained anything toxic when we put them up."

Council Approves Development Proposal For Salyer Tract

The village council has given the green light to proposed development of 7.17 acres of land east of Wilkinson St., popularly known as the "Salyer tract," for multiple housing.

Council unanimously approved a request from Robert Thornton of Chelsea Residential Development Co. that a Planned Unit District (PUD) be established so that 28 "cluster" homes can be built on the site. The land had previously been zoned for either agriculture or single-family homes.

Trustees Loren Keezer, Richard Steele, Joe Merkel, Jerry Satterthwaite and Jeanene Rlemenschneider voted in favor of the proposal. Trustee Herman Radloff was absent.

The action followed a public hearing during which no oral or written statements were presented against the proposal.

Thornton answered a number of questions from council members, most of them concerning possible drainage problems on the tract, which is low-lying land. Thornton described a development plan which includes retention ponds to handle any excess water.

"We are planning this development so it will conform to village standards for drainage, traffic patterns and utilities," Thornton said. "If our engineers can't do that, we'll give up the whole idea."

Under the PUD approach, final conditions for development of the site will be negotiated between the developer and village officials, and a plan agreed upon before work begins.

Thornton gave assurances that the intent is to build and sell homes, not to establish a rental complex. "I can't guarantee that owners won't later rent their dwellings on an individual basis, which the law allows, but our idea is to sell houses."

If the project is carried out, it will result in the first new housing to be constructed in Chelsea in more than three years.

Tax Abatement Zone Eyed for Industry Park

Rather than doing it piece-meal as clients buy into Chelsea's new industrial park on Sibley Rd., the village council has decided to have the entire 70-acre tract designated as a special Industrial Development District.

The designation would qualify firms for 50 percent tax abatements on development work done in the park over periods of up to 12 years.

"I think we might as well do this all at once rather than have companies come to us one at a time as they locate in the park," village president Jack Merkel said. "The opportunity for tax abatement is open to all, and you can be sure that everybody will use it."

After discussion, the village council agreed informally to have administrator Frederick Weber prepare an appropriate legal resolution for consideration at a future meeting.

There are presently four Industrial Development Districts in Chelsea—established for BookCrafters, Chelsea Milling, Chelsea Industries, and the doctors' group which has bought the old Rockwell plant. Of those, only BookCrafters so far has used its option to receive tax relief. Chelsea Milling is expected to do so when it builds a new manufacturing plant next year.

North School Plans Book Fair, Medieval Festival

Two annual North Elementary school special events, the Medieval Festival and the Book Fair will be held this weekend.

The Medieval Festival will be held Saturday, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the school. Events will include a hayride and numerous games. Halloween costumes will be judged at 1 p.m. Prizes will be given for the best costumes. Each child who participates will receive a free ticket to use one of the 15 to 20 games at the fair.

Refreshments will include cotton candy and popcorn.

Proceeds from the fund-raiser will go in part toward the purchase of a new slide for the playground.

The Book Fair will be held at the school Thursday and Friday, during school hours, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday and Monday morning. Books for everyone from pre-schoolers to adults will be available.

Art calendars designed by North and South Elementary school children will also be available at the sale.

Proceeds from the Book Fair will go to the North school media center. Funds raised by the sale of art calendars will go toward the purchase of show cases for the school.

Turn Back Your Clocks Early Sunday

It's coming on time to turn back the clock.

Michigan will go off Daylight Savings Time at 2 a.m. Sunday, Oct. 30, and revert to Eastern Standard Time until late March of 1984. That means the time will be an hour earlier during the next five months.

Brown Drops From Race for Principalship

Barbara Brown, an instructor of a seventh grade block program at Beach Middle school, has pulled out of the race for the principalship of that school.

Brown said she made her decision because she does not want to leave teaching.

Superintendent Ray Van Meer said the thought Brown put into making her decision "speaks well of her."

"She has been agonizing about withdrawing for the last two weeks, but decided she doesn't want to leave the classroom, he said."

Brown was one of three candidates vying for the position. Sam Vogel, assistant principal at Chelsea High school, and Bill Prescott, a sixth grade block instructor at Beach Middle school, are now in contention for the position.

The new principal, expected to be named in April, will replace Al Ottoman, who is retiring in June.

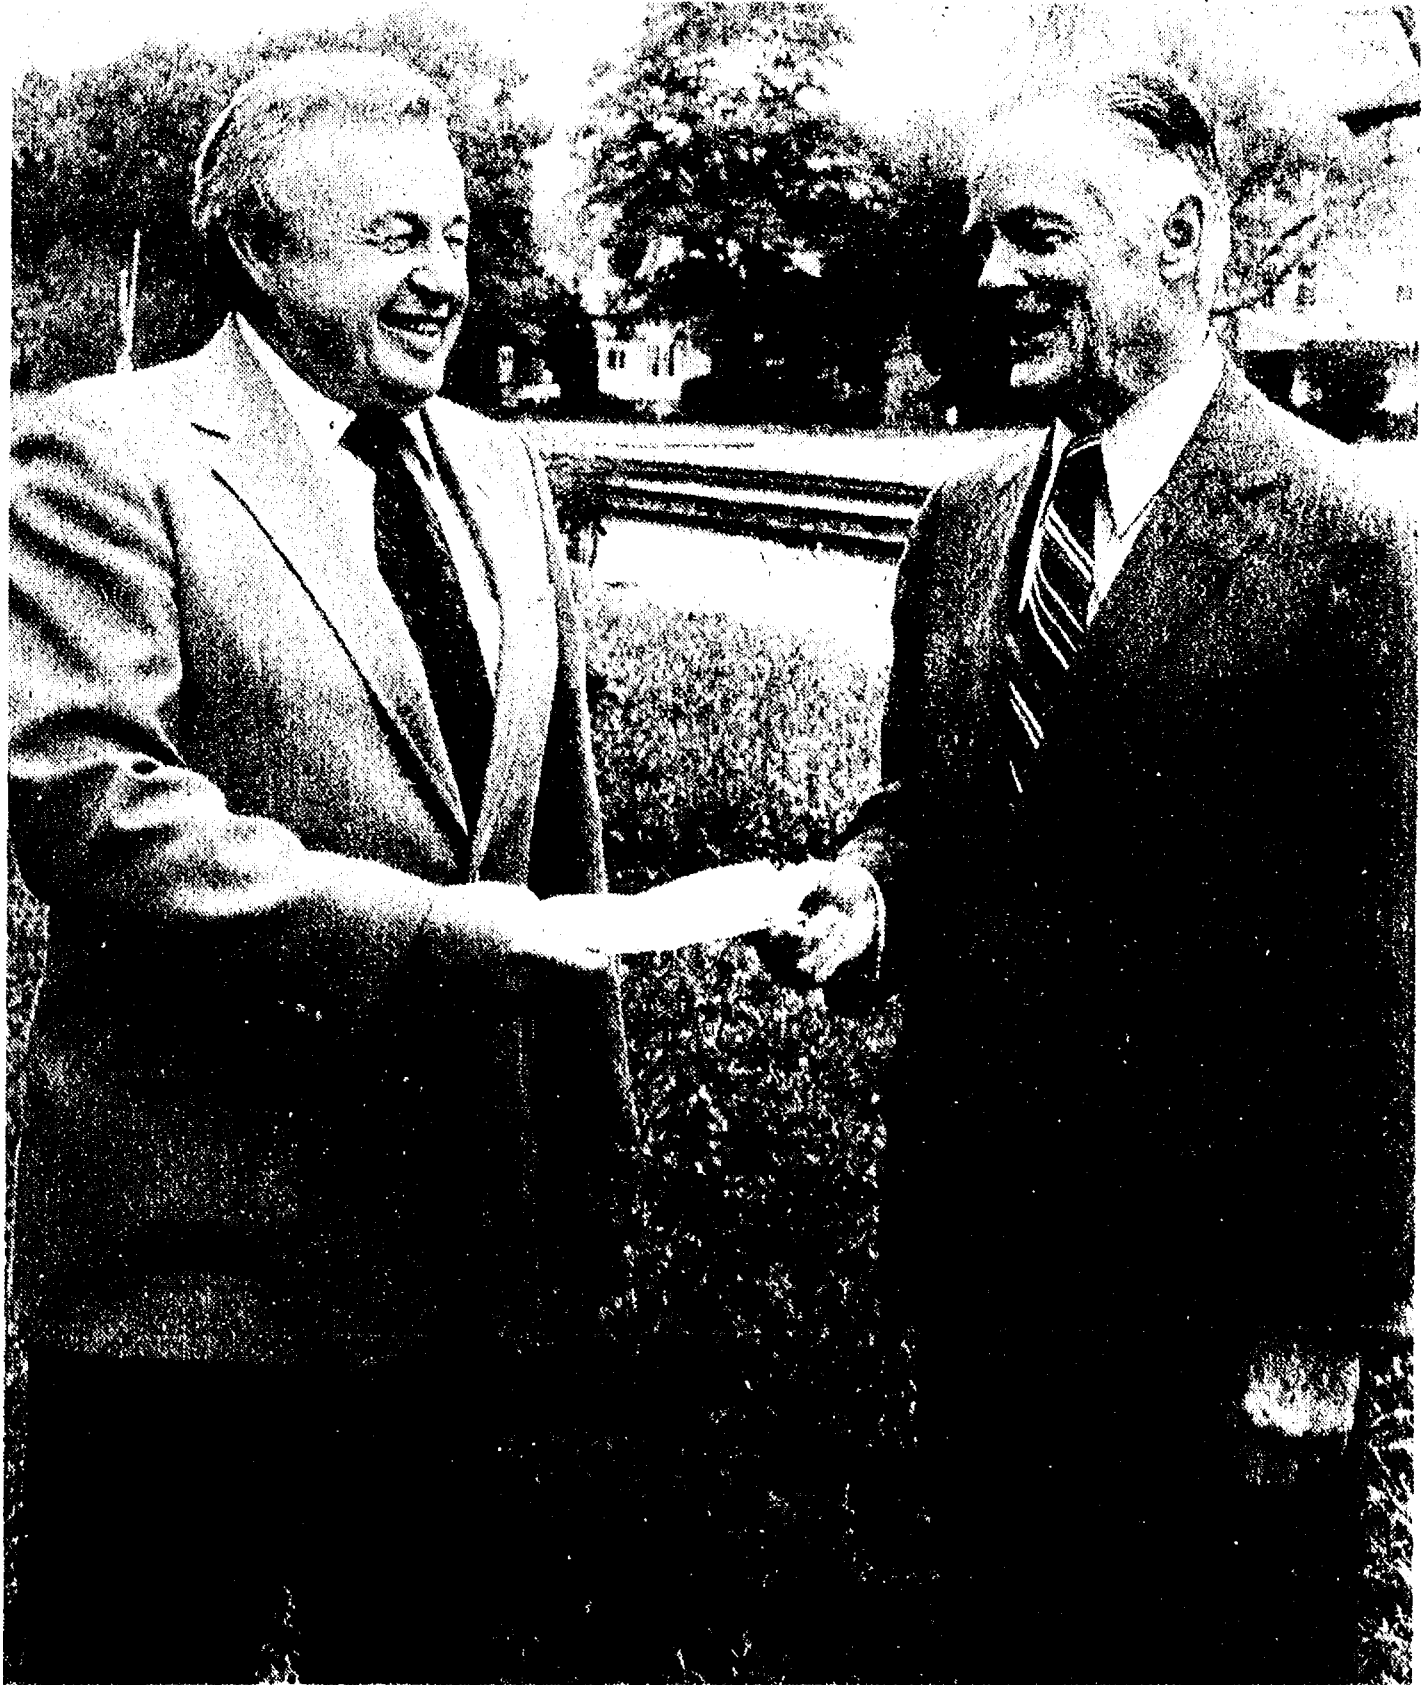

Homecoming Celebration Underway

The Chelsea High school homecoming "Celebration!" is in full swing.

Today is "Beach Bum" day at the school. Students are dressed in beach attire, actually they were not allowed to wear bathing suits or halter tops. During lunch hour there will be a vote for queen candidates and tonight the winners from yesterday's powderpuff football game will compete in a playoff at South Elementary school. Half-time activities will include a wagon race and egg toss.

Tomorrow's theme is "Jukebox Hero." Students will walk the halls attired as their favorite rock stars.

The theme on Friday is "Chelsea High . . . Blue and Gold." Halls will be decorated by each class and there will be a pep rally to boost team spirit before the game with Mason. The homecoming parade will begin at 6 p.m. with the game beginning at 7:30. The queen contest will be held during half-time.

UNITED WAY CONTRIBUTION: Bill Nuffer, president of BookCrafters, Inc., recently presented Howard Holmes, honorary chairperson of the 1983 Chelsea United Way drive, with a contribution. The BookCrafters donation is a 50 percent increase over the company's 1982 contribution.

FUNERAL HOME

WHEN SHOULD I PRE-PLAN MY FUNERAL?
A sage of old once said, "A man cannot say to the Angel of Death: 'I wish to arrange my affairs before I go with you.' " Since we cannot know the exact time of our own death, we are well-advised to prepare for it—spiritually, ethically, practically. So it is that arranging one's affairs—including the preparations for one's funeral in advance of need—provides the satisfaction and peace of mind in having done it. In so doing, we've spared our family some measure of grief and distress.
YOUR OWN CHOICES
We have arranged services for many people around here and have several plans for your consideration. You may provide for a funeral service costing neither less nor more than you wish it to be. Your decisions will be calm and rational, without stress or strain. Can you imagine your family faced with all the burdens of arranging a funeral when their grief and emotions are at their peak?
It is wise and practical to have professional counseling on this pre-planning with plenty of time for deliberation and discussion. You may call us for an appointment to get all the details and discussion you need.

Republicans Propose Garbage Tax
A series of suggested environmental policies, including a proposal to impose a surtax on waste dumped into landfills, has been unveiled by a House Republican task force.
The proposals, according to task force chair Rep. Vern Ehlers (R-Grand Rapids), are to "provide a framework on a number of issues" that Republicans can use as direction on environmental issues.
House Minority Leader Michael Busch (R-Saginaw) said the caucus feels that Michigan environmental laws "are some of the best in the country," but that the legislators wanted to speak out on areas where they felt improvements could be made either to cut down on excessive regulations that hurts business or strengthens penalties against polluters.
The surcharge on dumping in landfills could go either to an environmental response fund or a perpetual care fund that could do such things as help promote recycling of resources.
Cutting down on the amount of waste dumped is essential to help preserve state lands, the Republican leaders said.
Neither had a definitive idea on how much the surcharge could be, but Ehlers estimated it could be as much as $1 a ton.
He said such a surcharge should not be considered a tax, but the cost of doing business which would eventually be passed on to the public which generates the trash.
Harsher penalties against polluters and more efficient enforcement methods to help recover the costs of cleanups, are also needed the two said.
In the cleanup of Berlin and Farro, Inc., a toxic dump near Swartz Creek, the state has spent more than $10 million while the firm was fined only $250, Ehlers said.
Rep. Charles Mueller (R-Linden) said the state should consider developing its own toxic waste disposal site—such as an incinerator—to help cut the costs of cleanups.
Mueller said most of the cost in the Berlin and Farro cleanup was in transporting the waste out of the state and noted a state owned facility would not only save state funds but possibly attract businesses which would know a local facility existed to dispose of their wastes.
Registration of Lobbyist Begins
The Department of State is beginning to implement the 1978 lobbyist regulation act by registering lobbyists and lobbying agents and advising them to begin keeping records on financial transactions.
Secretary of State Richard Austin said he was taking the action at the expiration of the time period for filing appeals of the Supreme Court's decision which left intact a lower court ruling upholding most of the law.
Ingham County Circuit Court Judge Robert Holmes Bell, who had original jurisdiction in the case, has scheduled a Nov. 9 hearing to determine when reporting requirements become effective.
Dennis Neuner, assistant to Austin, said alternatives include requiring lobbyists to report financial transactions occurring after Jan. 1, or requiring them to file their first reports Jan. 31 of transactions that have taken place since the Sept. 21 court ruling.
Lobbyists who must register include those who make expenditures ($1,000 in 12-month period or $250 on a single official), attempt to influence legislation or administration action and receive reimbursement for those activities.
Agents hired by lobbyists also must register and both agents and lobbyist are required to file two reports a year.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:
The fellers was hit with an epidemic of dodja voo at the country store Saturday night. Zeke Grubb's preacher named what ailed em. He picked up the discussion when he stopped by fer some cheese, and he said dodja voo means feeling like you've lived before what you're living now.
Ed Doolittle had opened the session with a report on mass divorce, and Ed allowed this was nothing more than a throwback to Bible times when the man spoke "I divorce thee" three times, tossed the woman out of the tent and that was that. We have invented disposable razors, flashlights and all the rest, Ed said, but throw-away marriages ain't new.
The clipping Ed brung told where Judge Linda Thomas divorced 54 couples in a 20 minute ceremony recent in her Dallas courts. She had all of em raise their hands and swear they wanted "no-contest" divorces, she tossed in a few whereases and thereupons, and they all got em.
The fellers were general agreed with Clem Webster when he said all Ed's report shows is that life is more the same thing over and over than it is one thing after another. Clem was thinking of a item he had saw about clinics being set up in Washington, D.C. to learn wimmen how to share men. If this don't take us back, Clem wanted to know what does. It ain't been all that long, he went on, since men kept small herds of wimmen and in some countries this still is the normal arrangement. Pairing off is a fairly new idee, Clem declared, and fer sure it ain't nearly as strong as the law of supply and demand.
Practical speaking, Clem went on, any society will bend to suit most of the folks in it. If there is four wimmen fer ever man in Washington and that ain't the balance they want they will find ways to change it. Men that figger they got one woman to many already can't see it, he said, but this woman at Howard University that teaches man sharing has found a need and she is meeting it.
Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

Actual, Bug Hookum broke in, folks try to reinvent the wheel ever time they want to change somepun. He had saw where Senator Jesse Helms said churches and private charities ought to feed the hungry, not the Government. Everbody thought he had come up with a crazy new notion, but, the fact is, Bug pointed out, that the usual role of Governments has been to take away what folks had with the excuse they had to have it to protect them from other Governments.
Furthermore, Bug went on, reinventing ain't limited to history. He had saw where the car companies just recent made convertibles and called them "exciting new fun machines." It ain't been long, Bug said, since there weren't no other kind.
Personal, Mister Editor, this dodja voo sounds like another way of knowing you're gitting old. Like when the Maytag company quit making antique ringer washing machines you thought was the state of the washday art.
Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

ON YOUR FEET

TOEING IN, TOEING OUT

If you have a youngster who's achieved the milestone of learning how to walk unaided, you may notice him walking with his toes in or in an outward position at first. These are signs of leg rotation that help the child gain stability when he is first learning to walk. But once he has mastered walking he should be walking with his toes pointed straight ahead. Otherwise he may develop structural problems.

Take a close look at your child's walking stance. Does he tend to toe-in when he's walking barefoot? Is it more noticeable when he's wearing shoes and not so noticeable when he's wearing sneakers? Unless the foot problem is corrected, bowleggedness and other problems may develop. Or does your child tend to walk with his toes pointed in an outward direction? Toeing-out is frequently a symptom of weakness of the arch. Untreated this can lead to a host of problems, including awkward gait, poor posture, excessive fatigue, and lower back pain.

A routine examination by your podiatrist can determine if any problems exist and how they can best be treated.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Lee Marble

Ann M. Burgess, Clifford Marble Wed in Ann Arbor Ceremony

Ann Marie Burgess became the bride of Clifford Lee Marble in St. Francis of Assisi church, Ann Arbor, Sept. 24.

Father Terrance Healy performed the ceremony for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Burgess of Chelsea and the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Marble of Chelsea.

The bride wore the wedding gown her mother wore 25 years ago. The gown was of peau de soie and alencon lace. The lace bodice was trimmed with pearls and sequins. The long sleeves ended in pointed outline over her hands and there were lace insets at the back of the floor-length gown. She carried a cascade bouquet of white silk roses.

The matron of honor was Colleen Racenet of St. Johnsbury, Vt. She wore a floor-length, long sleeved gown of teal brocade. She also wore a heart-shaped monogrammed locket which was a gift from the bride couple. She carried a nosegay bouquet of wine and pink roses with lace streamers and wore flowers in her hair.

Bridesmaids were Mary Marble of Chelsea, sister of the bridegroom; Gail Middlebrook of Mason, friend of the bride; Sherry Conley of Chelsea, friend of the bride and Sue Brown, friend of the bride. They wore dresses and lockets and carried bouquets which were identical to the maid of honor.

Best man was William Brown. Ushers were Gregory Marble of Chelsea, brother of the bridegroom; Robert Burgess of Midland, brother of the bride; William Burgess of Wirtzburg, Germany, brother of the bride and Robert Polen of Chelsea, friend of the bridegroom.

Solist was Faith Marble, sister of the bridegroom. Organist was Margaret Wiedmayer.

The bride's mother wore a three-piece floor-length dress of wine brocade with a pink silk rose corsage.

The mother of the bridegroom wore a floor-length gray floral silk gown with a corsage of white silk roses.

A reception was held at UAW Local 1284 Hall on Chelsea-Manchester Rd. Jill Geddes and Delores Notten served punch. Joanne Oesterle and Susan Oesterle cut and served the cake.

Following a one-week Caribbean cruise the couple is residing in Chelsea.

The bride is a 1978 graduate of Chelsea High school and a 1982 graduate of Mid Michigan Community College. She is employed by Chelsea Medical Laboratory Inc. at Chelsea Hospital.

The bridegroom is a 1979 graduate of Chelsea High school. He attended Northern Michigan University in Marquette and is now employed by the Waterloo Nature Center.

YOUR BACK & YOUR HEALTH

Chiropractic and Arthritis

Arthritis is one of the major health problems in our society today. Perhaps because it is so widespread, often aches and pains that don't seem to fit other categories are labelled arthritis. Since newspapers and magazines and the broadcast media have convinced the sufferers that arthritis is incurable, the effect is much like receiving a life sentence.

Then what often happens is that the so-called arthritis goes to a chiropractor, perhaps to have a back problem alleviated. And suddenly the arthritis is much improved. How could this happen? If it happens, the condition may not have been arthritis at all, but something else that was diagnosed as arthritis. The arthritis-like symptoms were created by an out-of-place spinal segment (vertebra) which in turn has irritated a nerve. Restoring the vertebra to its proper position has eliminated the nerve irritation - and with it the "arthritis."

Workshop Offered On Home-Made Whole Grain Bread

The aroma of oven-fresh bread is hard to beat, and so is the flavor and nutritional value of the loaves that you make yourself. Several different kinds of whole grain breads will be made and tasted during the "Bread!" workshop that is being offered by Chelsea Community Education. This three-hour workshop will meet from 9 a.m. to noon on Saturday, Nov. 12 in the home economics room at Chelsea High school, and again on Tuesday, Nov. 15 at Manchester High school.

Teresa Freed, editor of "The Foodletter," will show participants how whole grain breads can add important nutritional value to family meals while helping to cut down on the food bill. Some of the delicious breads that will be sampled are "herbed dinner rolls," "honey whole wheat bread," and "Sesame oatmeal rolls." Each person will participate in the mixing, kneading, and rising of the bread of their choice, and will have a loaf to take home and bake after the final rising.

You may register for the workshops by calling the Chelsea Community Education offices at 475-9830, or the Manchester offices at 428-7804. The fee is $7 per person, and participants should bring a medium-sized bread pan.

Ruth Circle Elects Officers

Ruth Circle of the United Methodist Christian Women's group elected officers for 1984 during an Oct. 19 meeting.

The newly named president of the group is Martha Earles. Other officers are: Carmen Jones, program chairperson; Joy Sicard, secretary; Elaine McCalla, treasurer and Marion Harper, spiritual life.

Prior to the meeting, devotions were given by Cora Dolan. Carmen Jones introduced the Rev. Dr. David Truran who spoke on his background and held an informal question and answer period on the scripture and the Bible.

Hosting the meeting and serving refreshments were Iva Barton, Hazel Summers, Neva Tarasow and Gladys Klumpp.

Former Area Woman's Daughter Married in Maryland Ceremony

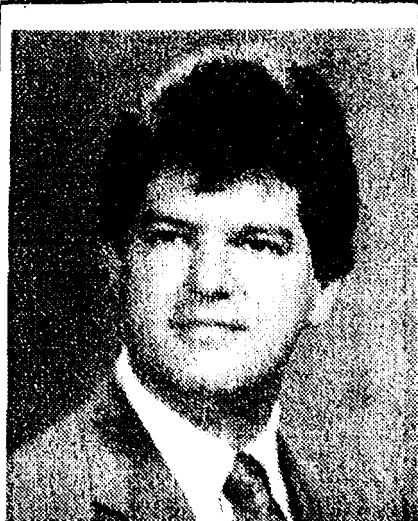

Laurel Dent became the bride of George Ferris Lipscomb, Saturday, Oct. 15 at River Road Unitarian church in Bethesda, Md.

The bride is the daughter of the former Vivian Kalmbach, previously of the Chelsea area and James Dent. The family resides in Bethesda. The bridegroom is the son of George and Elizabeth Lipscomb of Raleigh, N.C.

The couple will reside near Palo Alto, Calif. He is employed by the Lockheed Corp. and she works at Stanford University.

Personal Note

Florence Gentner, 316 Jackson St., Chelsea, recently returned from a two-week visit with her son and daughter-in-law, Duane and Carole Gentner, who live in Aurora, Colo. During her stay she watched her 8-year-old grandson, Chris, play in three school soccer games. His team won each game.

where cases of deafness, migraine headaches and other health conditions have improved drastically following spinal adjustment. This is really a natural sequence of events. The nerves from the spinal cord extend out from between the vertebrae of the spine to send messages to and receive messages from organs of the body. It logically follows that a vertebra out of place (and this can occur very easily from a bump or a fall or a strain) can interfere with the nerve and the job it is supposed to do.

So it's easy to understand how a condition that has wrongly been diagnosed as arthritis can benefit from chiropractic care. Because of his long and intensive training, a chiropractor is specially qualified to deal with these problems.

WINANS JEWELRY

Mr. and Mrs. Terrence Philip Jones

Dawn Krieger, Terrence Jones Wed in July Garden Ceremony

Dawn Lynn Krieger married Terrence Philip Jones in a garden ceremony at the home of her parents, July 30.

The Rev. James Stacey performed the ceremony for the daughter of Donald and Marlene Krieger of Chelsea and the son of Earl and Patricia Jones of Jackson.

A reception for the couple will be held Nov. 12 at 8 p.m. at the Jackson Sportsman's Club.

For her wedding, the bride wore a white satin gown with an empire waist, inlay lace bodice, lace sleeves and a silk train. The bride made her veil which was of lace trimmed white chiffon. It was attached to a floral wreath of white rosebuds and baby's breath. Her bouquet was of white roses and baby's breath.

The matron of honor was La Denia Gottschalk of Grass Lake, the bride's sister. She wore a light blue floral print peasant-style gown and carried blue, pink and white silk flowers. All of the flowers were designed, made and arranged by the bride.

The best man was Paul Neuland, friend of the bridegroom. Ed Krieger was usher.

Jennifer and Jami Gottschalk, niece and nephew of the bride, were flower girl and ringbearer.

The bride's mother wore a white linen suit with a royal blue silk blouse.

The mother of the bridegroom wore a dusty rose knit dress.

The bride is a 1980 Chelsea High school graduate.

The bridegroom is a 1978 graduate of East Jackson High school. He is now in training in the army and will be stationed at Fort Campbell, Ky.

Botanical Gardens Sponsoring Docent Training Program

The Friends of the Matthaei Botanical Gardens will sponsor a docent (guide) program beginning this winter.

Applications will be accepted through Nov. 1 for the winter training class.

The training will consist of a five-month program, January through May, in basic botany and special topics based on the gardens' collections. It will also include a study of tour techniques and practice sessions.

This program at the gardens is aimed at interpreting the collections of the conservatory and grounds for visitors.

For a docent course application and additional information, call 764-1168 weekdays and leave your name and address.

Contract Extended For Maintenance Of Main Street

The village's contract with the Michigan Department of Highways and Transportation to maintain the route of M-52 (Main St.) through town expired Oct. 1, but both parties have agreed to extend it until a new one can be arranged.

Under terms of the agreement the village maintains the portion of Main St. from Old US-12 north to Letts Creek and is reimbursed for its costs.

"I don't think there are any problems," village administrator Frederick Weber said. "The agreement ran out without the state taking steps to renew it. I'm willing to go along with an extension of the old contract until they come to us with a proposal for a new one."

Rec. Council Cheerleaders Class Performs at Game

With all the fervor and enthusiasm of their older counterparts, some of the tiniest cheerleaders around helped urge the Chelsea Bulldogs on to their 42-7 victory over Milan Friday.

Ranging from kindergarten to sixth grade students, the young leaders of cheers, who performed during the first quarter of the game, were members of a Chelsea Recreation Council class.

Sixty girls (boys were welcome but none registered) began the once-a-week class Sept. 24 and concluded their training Saturday, said Mary Picklesimer, secretary of the Recreation Council. They were instructed by members of the high school varsity cheerleading squad and learned five cheers during the course of their training.

"The big highlight of the class was to cheer at the game Friday," Picklesimer said.

The cheerleading sessions are held each year, but were previously conducted during the basketball season.

"It seems to be quite a popular class," Picklesimer said.

George Bauer Honored at Retirement

George F. Bauer, who will be 79 next month, retired from the Chelsea School District on Sept. 1, and is "already bored by not having anything to do," according to his daughter, Barb Fredette.

Bauer and his wife, Ruby, live at 19835 Waterloo Rd. A retirement party attended by 29 family members was held Oct. 22 at Tom's Grill in Jackson.

Bauer was employed in the school district's maintenance department for 17 years prior to his retirement, and is a former Lyndon township supervisor.

Chelsea Charms Sugar Shakers Win Regional Title

Chelsea Charms "Sugar Shakers" took the regional championship in the Large Tiny Tot dance twirl division at a competition held Oct. 8 in Temperance.

The group won the honor with its routine to "All Shook Up."

In addition, other members of the group also won individual awards. Tracy Wales took the runner-up trophy in the regional juvenile division, while Kori White took fourth place in the state twirling contest.

In Open Events, also held during the state and regional contest at Temperance, several members of the Chelsea Charms Baton Corps also took first place awards. They are: Deana Hager, Kori White, Tracey Wales, Kate Steele, Richelle Jones, Amy Weir, Michelle Graflund, Laurie Honbaum and Christine Dunlap.

Other Chelsea Charms placing in various events were: Danielle Clark, Heather Wynn, Nicole Schultz and Kristen Clark.

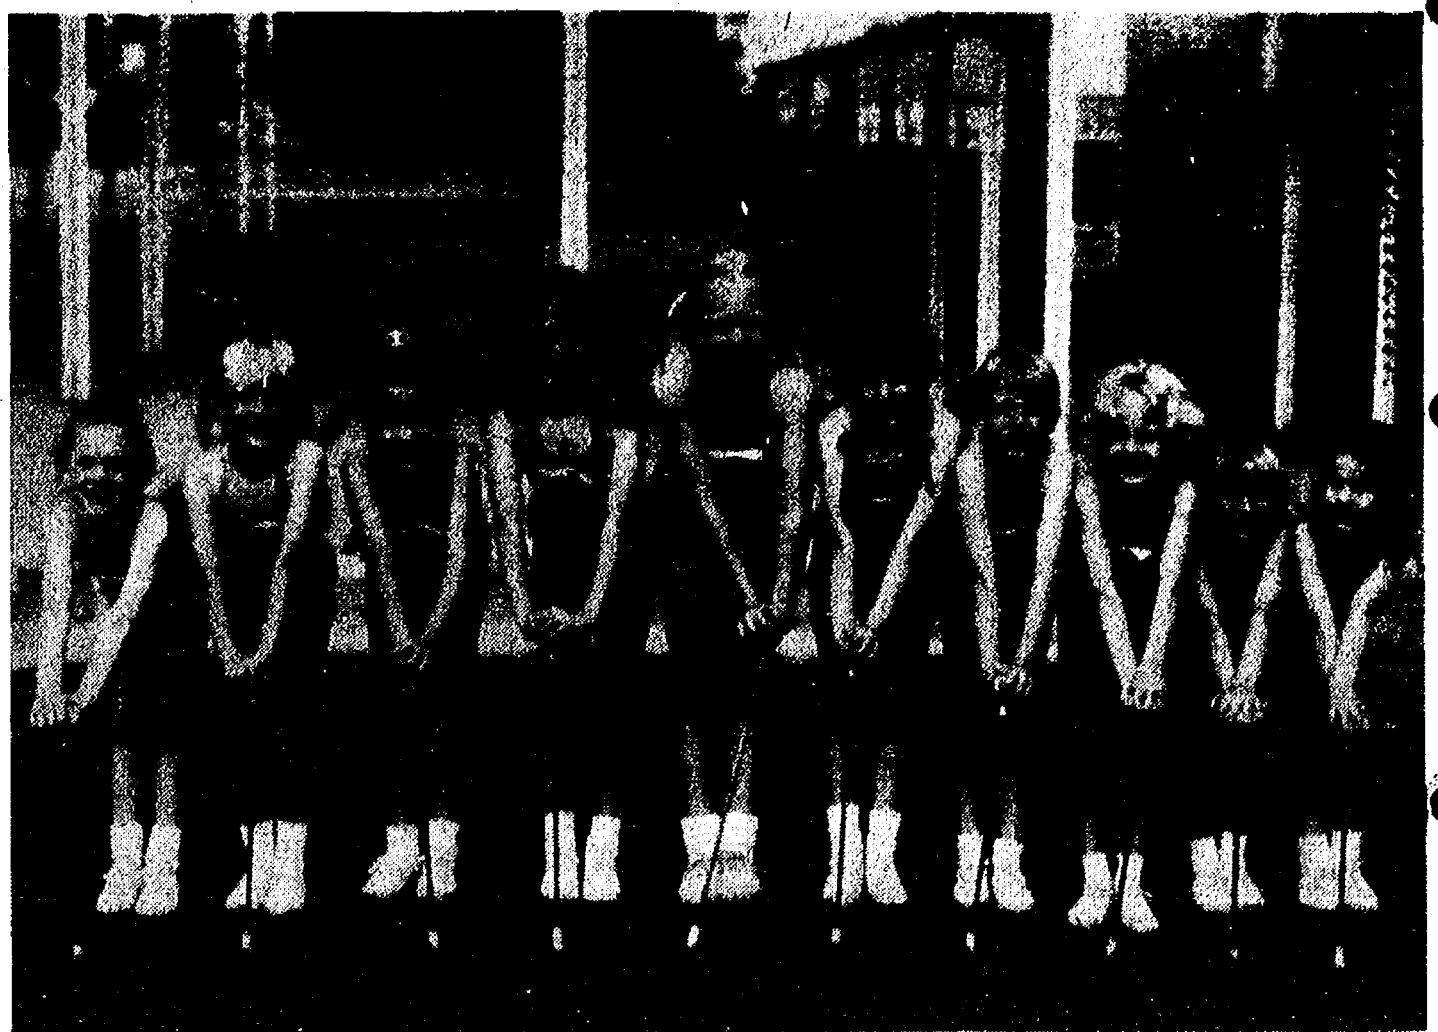

Lyndon Study Group Presents 50-Year Memberships

The Committee To Fence Or Close Cassidy Lake Prison Wants You To . . . WRITE!

The quality of life in the Chelsea area is very special. It is unique. It would be hard to duplicate elsewhere.

There is just one problem—CASSIDY LAKE PRISON.

The wrong kind of prisoners are being placed there and they're not being kept there.

The Department of Corrections is not being responsive to the fear and anger of the people of the Chelsea area. We MUST make them responsive.

The following have either voted to support the Fence It or Close It movement or have demanded action:

VILLAGE OF CHELSEA
CHELSEA AREA CHAMBER OF COMMERCE
SYLVAN TOWNSHIP
LIMA TOWNSHIP
ANN ARBOR NEWS EDITORIAL
WASHTENAW COUNTY BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS

The way to force the Department of Corrections to be responsive is to write letters and clip newspaper articles and send them to the Governor, our legislators, and the Director of Corrections. If you have written, write again. Your letter doesn't have to be formal or long. Just say you are concerned and expect a solution. Even clipping this page will help. If you can, please send copies of your letters to the Committee:

A VIEW from the CLOCK TOWER

Bill Mullendore

The Department of Corrections' negative response to the Cassidy Lake Liaison Council's recommendations for changes at the prison were disappointing but not surprising to this observer. It was about what I expected, based on the experience of having worked 17 years in the Lansing bureaucracy.

Representative government is in theory responsive to the wishes and needs of the people who support and pay for it. Unfortunately, it all too often doesn't work that way, and the Cassidy Lake situation is emerging as a classic example of how and why it doesn't.

Let me explain:

I took a public information job with the Department of Natural Resources in 1964, convinced that I had some answers to charges that the DNR was not responding positively to the concerns of the public it was supposed to be serving. Nineteen years later I still have those answers in my back pocket, never having had the chance to try them out.

What I found in the DNR was a squirrel-cage of rules and regulations which almost always made impossible any kind of fast and flexible response to legitimate public concerns. The DNR, and I'm sure all other state agencies including Corrections, had tied itself into such a shin-tangle of regulatory procedures that it couldn't react quickly or meaningfully when a new idea was put to it by the public.

Much of this is bureaucracy's own fault. Government administrative agencies and officials have a way of generating endless bodies of "rules" to circumscribe their actions. They do this as a matter of what they perceive to be self-defense. It's much easier (and safer) to be able to cite a rule as an excuse for not doing something, especially something different, than it is to stick your neck out and do it.

What the agencies don't manage to think up in the way of rules, the Legislature does. The rules that the legislators enact and impose are commonly advertised as intended to make the bureaucracy "more responsive," but they rarely work that way. One problem is that by the time the laborious legislative process has been completed the need for the rule usually has long since vanished, yet it goes on the books and stays there.

The Corrections Department's response to the Liaison Council's recommendations clearly suggests that the agency is a prisoner of its own regulations. The department won't do what the council wants it to do, because it can't without violating the rules and procedures under which it operates.

The most glaring example of that helplessness to respond remains the "rule" that, if a fence is put up around the Cassidy Lake prison, its erection will automatically change the character of the institution and the types of inmates to be housed there. That is so ridiculous as to be laughable if the situation weren't so serious, but it's a rule.

As I see it, the Department of Corrections has painted itself into a corner by insisting on enforcing in full the complex body of regulations that it has imposed upon itself. On the one hand, the department admits that the average length of stay for a Cassidy Lake inmate is six months. On the other hand, it purports to operate Cassidy Lake as a rehabilitative institution where young men can receive educational and vocational training sufficient to enable them to earn an honest living upon release.

The programs are good, but the fact is that nobody is going to earn the equivalent of a high school diploma or master a trade skill in six months. The Liaison Council's recommendations focused on the need to use Cassidy Lake for its intended purpose. Thus the suggestions for changes in the screening process so that convicts who could benefit from the prison's program, which is unique in the state, would be sent there.

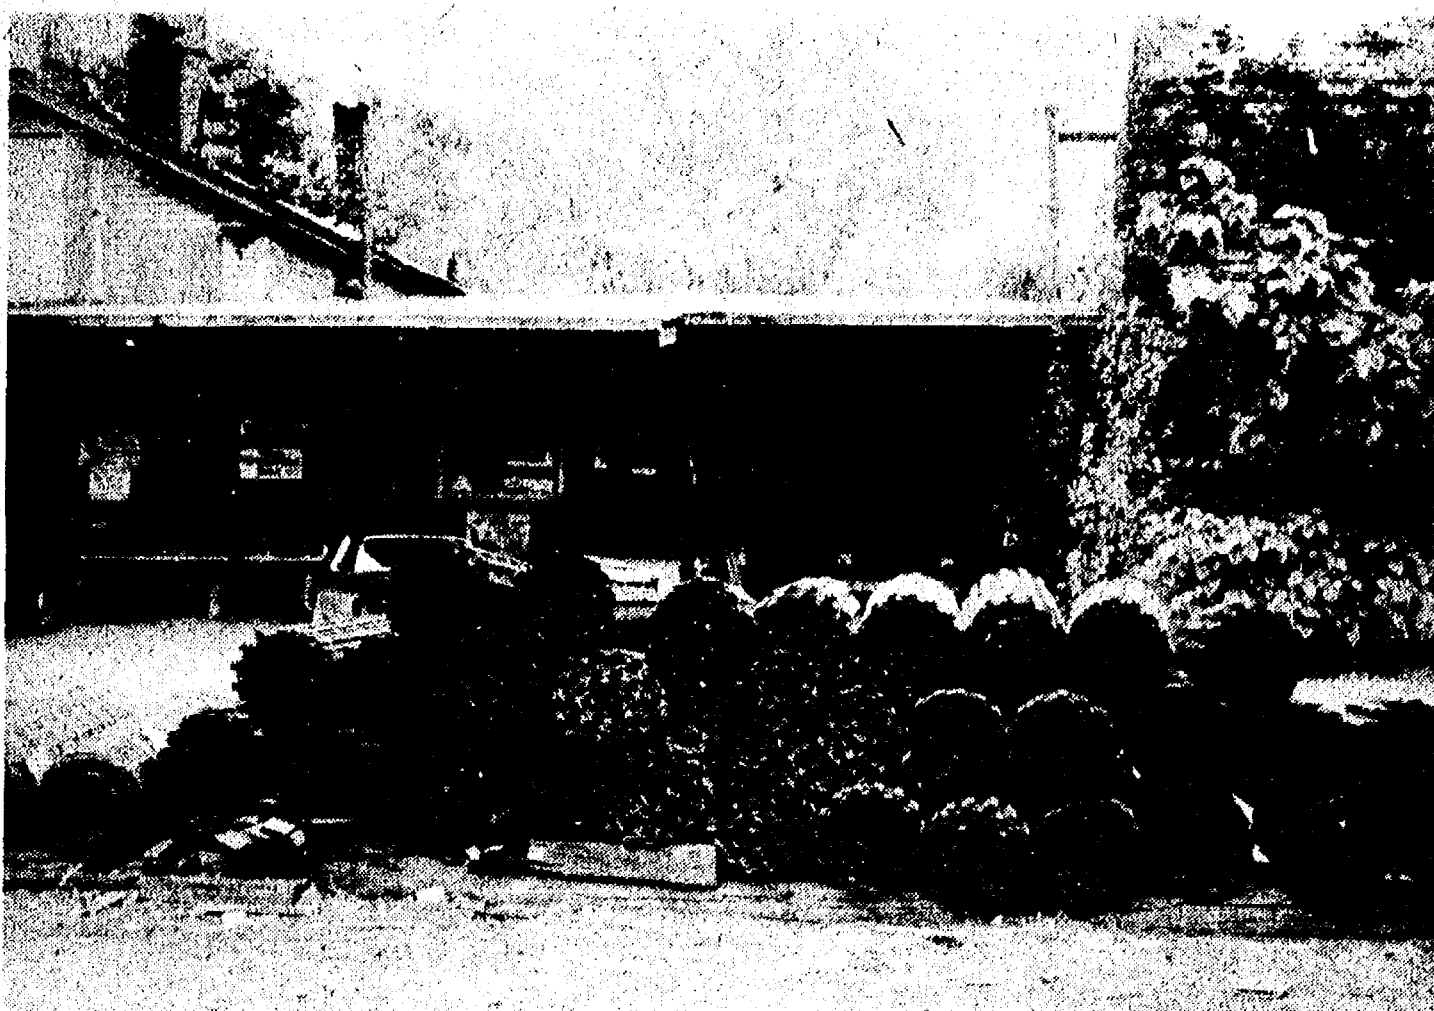

These recommendations made a lot of sense, and it is just plain too bad that the Department of Corrections has rejected them out of hand.

Instead, the agency is standing on its moves to tighten security at Cassidy Lake—increased staffing during the peak escape hours, more frequent head counts, more patrolling, closer supervision of new inmates.

Unfortunately, those measures will appear to work during the next several months. The walkaway rate drops during cold weather, a fact that has nothing to do with security. It's just not comfortable out there in the wilds of Waterloo when it's cold and snowy.

You can bet, however, that the escape problem will re-surface next spring, unless steps along the lines recommended by the Liaison Council are taken. Corrections officials know that, but obviously are hoping that local people will forget about the problem over the winter.

Here's hoping they don't, and that they keep the pressure on until Corrections Department, the Legislature or both respond positively to their legitimate concerns.

SIGN OF WINTER: It has been a balmy if somewhat wet fall season, but a sure sign that winter is coming is this pile of snow fence stacked outside the Farmers' Supply Co. store, 122 Jackson St.

Letters to the Editor

Editor's Note: The following letter has been sent to Gov. Blanchard, Sen. Pollack, Rep. O'Connor and Corrections Dept. Director Perry Johnson.

To the Editor,

The Hon. James Blanchard, Governor State of Michigan Executive Office of the Governor Capitol Building Lansing, Mich. 48909

Dear Governor Blanchard,

This letter regards my concerns about the rash of walk-aways at Cassidy Lake Prison.

My family has lived in Chelsea for eight years. We love the community. Being active in several civic organizations, I spend a great deal of time in behalf of the Chelsea Community. Consequently, I abhor the negative impact of the current and worsening situation at Cassidy Lake.

I also abhor the conscious changes the problems there have caused in our personal lives... wondering if our home is safe when we return... locking the patio doors upstairs when we go downstairs to the family room... fearing to leave our 14-year-old daughter alone... listening for sounds at night, etc.

Why should good citizens have to live with these fears on a daily basis?

The state has chosen (perhaps out of necessity) to permit the worsening of the profile of Cassidy Lake prisoners. To date there has been total disregard for the opinion or safety of the Chelsea community who are affected by those decisions.

I have attended meetings in the past, listening to excuses and promises. The only thing that has materialized is a much worse situation. How can you expect the people of Chelsea to just take it.

As our elected official we need and expect your help. Please.

Sincerely,
Arthur E. Dills.

To the Editor:

Should we let the Soviets get away with shooting down an unarmed civilian airliner and killing 269 innocent people in cold blood? President Reagan's strongest action, closing down the Soviet airline Aeroflot in the U.S. was just a slap on the wrist. As U.S. Congressman Thomas Hartnett said, "attacking an unarmed civilian plane is like attacking a school bus." We must so pressure the Soviets that it will never happen again.

President Reagan has said of those who have criticized him for the way he has handled the attack, "What would they have us do?" I can think of several things we can do.

1. Cut off all trade with the Soviets. The Soviets rely on U.S. trade to help feed their people, this way they can use their own resources to build up their military. They need U.S. technology to build huge oil pipelines, more accurate missiles, and tank assembly plants.

2. Stop U.S. loans to Soviet bloc Communist countries. The U.S. Government right now subsidizes loans of billions of dollars to Communist Poland and other Soviet allies, which strengthens the Communist governments to further suppress the people. Let's cut off all loans to the Soviet bloc and declare their many unpaid loans in default. This will cost the Soviet Union heavily and drain their resources so that they cannot continue to build up their military against us.

3. Build a stronger defense at home and abroad. The Soviet airline massacre shows why America needs strong defenses against the Soviets. The President should tell them that and forget about appeasing them.

4. Expel Soviet diplomats, trade and cultural personnel. The FBI states that many Soviet "diplomats" are really KGB spies, in other words Soviet Secret police.

All these actions can be easily accomplished, and all of them will hit the Soviets hard.

Let's make sure that the deaths of the flight victims weren't in vain.

Write President Reagan, White House, Washington, D. C. 20500 and Senators Carl Levin and Don Riegle, Senate Office Bldg., Washington, D. C. 20510 and demand that stronger action be taken against the Soviets.

To the Editor,

Remember me? Some people call me Old Glory, others call me the Star Spangled Banner; but whatever they call me, I am your flag, the flag of the United States of America.

Something has been bothering me, so I thought I might talk it over with you because it is about you and me.

I remember some time ago people lined up on both sides of the street to watch the parade and naturally I was leading every parade, proudly waving in the breeze. When your daddy saw me coming, he immediately removed his hat and placed it against his heart, remember? I remember you, standing there straight as a soldier. You didn't have a hat, but you were giving the right salute. Remember little sister? Not to be outdone, she was saluting the same as you with her right hand over her heart, remember?

What happened? I'm still the same old flag—Oh, I have a few more stars since you were a boy; a lot more blood has been shed since those parades of long ago. I don't feel as proud as I used to. When I come down the street, they stand with their hands in their pockets. I may get a glance and then they look away. The children are running around and shouting. They don't seem to know who I am. I saw one man take his hat off, then look around. He didn't see anyone else with theirs off, so he quickly put his own on.

Well, it won't be long until I'll be coming down your street again. So when you see me, stand straight, continue to set your fine example, and I'll salute you by waving back... and I'll know THAT YOU REMEMBER.

School Board Notes

Present at a regular meeting of the Chelsea Board of Education Monday, Oct. 17, were Schumann, Dills, Grau, Comeau, Feeney, Redding, Superintendent Van Meer, Assistant Superintendent Mills, Principals Williams, Benedict, Conklin, Wojcik, Assistant Principal Vogel, Community Education Director Rogers, Athletic Director Neneh, guests.

Meeting called to order at 8 p.m. by President Dale Schumann.

The board approved the minutes of the Oct. 3 meeting.

President Dale Schumann recognized the following persons for their efforts in behalf of the district: Sandy Hamilton, Judy Irwin, Milly Smith, the Athletic Boosters and the Chelsea Music Boosters.

Sandy Hamilton, South school teacher, was recognized for her work on Hobby and Craft Day. She organized and contacted all of the people who participated in the program. On Oct. 6 she organized participation of students in the weather balloon project. To date, letters have been received from as far away as Pennsylvania.

Judy Irwin is a South school parent recognized for painting the playground equipment at South school. She organized the project and did most of the work.

Milly Smith, a retired school teacher living at the Methodist Home, was recognized for 12 years of tutoring first graders at South school.

The Athletic Boosters and the Chelsea Music Boosters were recognized for their continuing efforts of supporting the Chelsea schools in general and their specific activities in particular. Bob Bentley accepted the certificate of recognition on behalf of the Athletic Boosters, and Domingo Hermosillo accepted the certificate on behalf of the Music Boosters.

The board also recognized the High School Marching Band's accomplishment in receiving all I ratings at the recent Marching Band Festival.

Also commended by the board was the boys' golf team for attaining SEC co-champion status and qualifying for the state meet.

Dr. William Coats and Dr. Terry Davidson, of The Accountability Group in Ann Arbor, were present to discuss a proposal to conduct an educational audit. The audit is one of the board goals for the current school year. The audit would allow someone from outside the district to examine academic achievement, curriculum, structure, morale, management, and to make a statement of mission.

The North school interns—Bob Bullock, Sally Burchfiel and Bill Wescott—made a presentation to the board.

High School Principal John Williams reported on the membership of the Vocational Advisory Committee, the sex education monitoring process, and the date of the High School Open House, which is scheduled for Oct. 24.

The administration recommended the appointment of Paul Ash as interim high school basketball coach. Paul coached the freshmen last year. The position will be posted again in June.

Board members Feeney, Comeau and Schumann reported on the MASE Conference which they attended in Detroit. The theme of the conference was "Expanding Quality Without Compromise." The board members described various clinic sessions on specific topics and general sessions dealing with the various reports on instructional excellence.

The Board of Education will not request a summer tax levy for 1984. Although there would be some savings to the district, specifically that amount between interest income and interest expense, the board felt that a summer tax collection would be considered a hardship on district residents.

The board adopted a resolution to amend the 1983-84 operating budget, with income of $7,117,837 and current expenditures of $7,237,266. The expenditures exceeded revenue by $119,429. There is a maintenance millage carry-over fund of $91,767. There will be a $27,662 reduction in fund equity to balance the budget.

The board approved a high school student's admission to Cottey College in September, 1984. Her diploma will be awarded upon completion of Chelsea High school's graduation requirements.

The board approved the K-12 media curriculum.

Board adjourned at 10:12 p.m.

Horticultural Agent For County Wins National Award

Roberta Lawrence, Michigan State University Co-operative Extension Service horticulture agent for Washtenaw county, has won a top award from the National Association of County Agricultural Agents (NACAA).

Lawrence was the first place national winner in the radio program category of the 1983 Public Information Awards Program sponsored by NACAA.

Recognition of individual outstanding performance was part of the 68th annual meeting of the NACAA, Oct. 10-16, in Wichita, Kan. The NACAA sponsors competitions each year that recognize the efforts of Co-operative Extension Service personnel who conduct unique programs that help improve the lives of people in the community they serve.

NACAA awards are open to all extension workers in the U. S. and selection for the highest awards are made from more than 1,500 entries.

Council Raises Commercial Trash Disposal Charge

Commercial haulers will pay $2.50 per cubic yard to dispose of rubbish in Chelsea's sanitary landfill beginning Nov. 9, the village council determined last week.

The new rate, up from $1.50, is in line with earlier decisions to generate new revenues to pay for improvements at the landfill so the operation will conform to upgraded standards set by the state Department of Natural Resources.

The $2.50 rate is in line with terms of the contract recently signed between the village and Diamond D Rubbish Co. under which Diamond D will continue to collect and haul residential rubbish during the next two years.

Michelle Hellner Named to Post on Siena Heights Senate

Michelle Hellner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Hellner, 1038 Lima Center Rd., Chelsea, was recently elected social chairperson in the Student Senate at Siena Heights College.

A 1982 graduate of Chelsea High school, Hellner is a freshman and has not chosen a major course of study.

The Student Senate, an organization which promotes open communication between faculty, administration, and students at Siena, also plans and directs social activities for the campus community.

Construction Work Slated on M-14 Near Ann Arbor

Traffic on about three miles of M-14 north of Ann Arbor will be reduced to one lane in either direction for joint repair work until late November, the Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) has announced.

The construction work begins east of the tri-level interchange of US-23, business route US-23 and M-14 and ends at Vorhies Rd. Traffic restrictions will be in effect daylight hours only and some weekends, but not on weekends of home University of Michigan football games.

Motorists are reminded to observe the 45-mile-per-hour speed limit in construction zones.

Punt, Pass, Kick Contest Will Be Held on Saturday

The Chelsea punt, pass and kick competition jointly sponsored by the Jaycees and Palmer Ford will be held this coming Saturday after having been postponed because of heavy rain last Saturday.

The contest will begin at 9 a.m. on the high school practice field, Jaycee spokesman Tim Merkel said. It is open to boys and girls age 8 to 13. Entrants are grouped into classes according to age.

Entries may be made at Palmer Ford or at the field up to 9 a.m. Saturday.

NOW OPEN Phil's SERVICE

NEW SERVICE GARAGE: Phil Musolf is the owner-operator of Phil's Service, a new automobile-light truck service garage recently opened at 889 S. Main St. Musolf hopes to employ at least one more mechanic if and as his business grows.

Auto-Truck Service Business Is Opened

Phil Musolf is trying to build a business the old-fashioned way, from scratch.

He has opened up an auto-small truck service garage at 889 S. Main St. in a building formerly occupied by Broderick Tire Service, which moved out to centralize operations at its Tower Shell station at the interchange of I-94 and M-52.

"I don't have much capital," Musolf said. "I'm hoping I can make this business go by keeping my charges low and doing good work that will satisfy customers, and let the word get around."

Musolf, 31, lives on Orchard St. and most recently worked at an auto glass repair and replacement firm before he was laid off and decided to try going into business for himself. He opened up last week.

"So far, it has gone pretty well," he said. "I've been busy, and that's good. I figure there is a living to be made by anybody who can service a car or pick-up truck right, and that's what I'm betting on."

Musolf said he hopes eventually to be able to employ a helper, but is meanwhile handling the business himself.

The Catholic Youth Organization, which started 50 years ago with a softball league, has hit an all-time high in its athletic program this year with 23,000 participants.

Mary Boylan Named to Siena Heights Senate

Mary Boylan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Keith L. Boylan, 245 Park St., Chelsea, was recently elected junior class representative on the Student Senate at Siena Heights College, Adrian.

A 1981 graduate of Chelsea High school, Mary has entered a major course of study in art and business administration.

The Student Senate, an organization which promotes open communication between faculty, administration, and students at Siena, also plans and directs social activities for the campus community.

Payment Approved For Engineering

A further payment of $7,722.10 to the engineering firm of Finkbeiner, Pettis & Strout of Toledo, O., has been authorized for planning work on proposed expansion of Chelsea's wastewater treatment plant.

This installment covers work done through last August.

The firm is developing plans to upgrade Chelsea's sewage treatment operations in line with state requirements. Whether the plans will be carried out depends on the village obtaining a federal grant to do the work.

Nature Center Offers Sunday Program on 'Animals in Winter'

"Animals in Winter" is the title of a program being presented at the Waterloo Nature Center Sunday.

Naturalist Holly Hartman will explore the wintertime survival habits of various species, including hibernation, migration and food storage. Programs will be held at 1:30 and 3:30 p.m.

The Nature Center is located at 17030 Bush Rd., Chelsea. Take I-94 to Exit 157 and proceed north on Pierce Rd. Turn left on Bush Rd.

★ Broadening the Definition of "Basic Skills"

The era of advancing technological change and global competition will radically change our concept of the minimum necessary skills for a person's economic survival. This kind of re-definition has happened before. Over the years, our concept of literacy, for example, has undergone considerable revision as technology has advanced in America, and as the demand for knowledge has increased in the workplace.

In our nation's early days, to be literate meant simply to be able to write one's name. Later, literacy came to mean the ability to read and write. Today, to most of us basic literacy applies to the ability to read, write and compute at a rudimentary level to be sure, but at a level higher than was common among unskilled workers a century ago or even 50 years ago.

What we consider the basic skills today can be described fairly simply. In most states and communities that have established minimum competency requirements, basic skills are defined as minimal: first, the ability to comprehend literally a simple written passage; second, the ability to compute with whole numbers; and third, the mastery of writing mechanics.

We expect our schools to impart much more than the basic skills; we demand that they impart no less.

First we must upgrade considerably our definition of basic skills, skills that will be demanded in tomorrow's technological sophisticated workplace. In the near future, for example, minimum basic competency may well include skills considerably broader than those we consider basic today. Competency in reading, for example, may well include not only the ability to literally decipher simple written passages, but other skills as well—the ability to analyze and summarize, for example, and the ability to interpret passages inferentially as well as literally.

Basic minimal mathematics competency may well include not just the ability to compute with whole numbers, but also more complicated computing with problem-solving skills and the ability to use arithmetic computation in solving practical problems.

Competency in writing may well comprise not just the ability to write a sentence or paragraph, but the ability to gather and organize information coherently.

The Chelsea schools have maintained a strong commitment to basic skills instruction, and will continue to place emphasis on these skills so that our students will be prepared for the technological society in which they will live.

County Farm Park Dedication Slated

As part of the Dedication Day Ceremony for County Farm Park, the Washtenaw County Parks and Recreation Commission will be planting 2,000 pine and spruce seedlings with the help of volunteers. Several hundred Girl Scouts and Boy Scouts from Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti will be doing the planting with the assistance of University of Michigan students. Members of the Natural Resources Club, the Society of American Foresters and the Landscape Architecture Program of the School of Natural Resources will be demonstrating planting methods and supervising the activities.

The Dedication Day is Saturday, Oct. 29. The tree planting is scheduled to begin at 9 a.m. followed by the dedication ceremony at 11 a.m. The rain date alternative schedule is 2 p.m. for the planting and 4 p.m. for the ceremony on Sunday, Oct. 30. A park tour is planned for those who are interested. County Farm is located at Washtenaw Ave. and Platt Rd., with the main entrance off of Platt.

The 140-acre County Farm Park is on the site of the old County Poor House which later became the County Hospital. Although the hospital no longer exists, the outline of hedgerows and woodlots that were associated with the farming activities is still there. Under the direction of Polakowski and Brown, Landscape Architects, the Commission has constructed winding paths through the old fields and has planted more than 300 native Michigan trees. Additional plantings of evergreens and shrubs are being planned, in addition to a perennial garden. A new exercise trail has been completed with Parcours equipment donated by Control-O-Mation, Inc., of Dexter. The park is also the site of one of the largest Project Grow community gardens. Winter activities will include sleigh rides and cross-country skiing.

House Doors Broken But Nothing Stolen

Both front and back doors were removed and a sliding glass patio door damaged in what apparently was an unsuccessful attempt to break into a Roe Rd. house last week, the sheriff's department reported. The dwelling is owned by Comerica Bank.

County Taxes Will Increase in 1984

Your county taxes will go up next year, from 4.66 to 5.25 mills per $1,000 of state equalized valuation (SEV), according to the budget approved last week by the Board of County Commissioners on a 5-4 vote.

A typical property assessed at $37,500—half of its supposed market value—will be taxed at $197 next year, up from $183 in 1983. Individual tax bills will vary according to individual changes in assessed values.

Both of west Washtenaw's representatives on the nine-member county board—George A. Merkel of Chelsea and Martin L. Straub of Dexter township—voted against the tax increase, which was approved by a coalition of Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti commissioners.

The 1984 county budget is pegged at $33.4 million, up 4.9 percent over this year's outlay.

Besides the 5.25-mill operating millage, county taxpayers will pay special levies to finance the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority, four construction bond issues and a county-wide drain assessment, bringing the total millage to 6.29.

The 1984 county budget was described as a hold-the-line spending plan designed to maintain present services with 34 fewer employees.

Halloween Party Slated On Monday

Halloween: It used to be a time to cut irregular eye holes in a discarded sheet or beg the use of your sister's taffeta prom dress, which would be just what a fairy princess should wear.

Today, young trick-or-treaters are just as likely to paint their faces blue and costume themselves as a Smurf.

But whatever the costume, the idea is the same—to fill the shopping bag (and later the tummy) with as much gooey gobbledygook as possible.

Halloween: A time for kids, right? Not necessarily.

Don Cole, the man in charge of this year's Kiwanis Club Halloween party, says adults are not immune to the fun.

"I think they have as much fun as the kids do," Cole said, smiling.

With that in mind, Kiwanis members are once again sponsoring the annual Halloween party.

Festivities will begin at 4:30 p.m. Monday with trick-or-treating for the younger set.

The Chelsea Police department will be at McDonald's from 6 to 10 p.m. to check treats for metal objects. Metal detectors cannot detect glass, wooden particles, narcotics or drug substances.

At 6 p.m. there will be a siren blast to announce the start of the party, which will again be held at the municipal parking lot. The traditional parade of costumes will follow, with several prizes being awarded.

Back at the municipal lot, the junior high school band will perform and cider and doughnuts will be served—to children of all ages.

CHS Alumni Invited To Meet at Homecoming

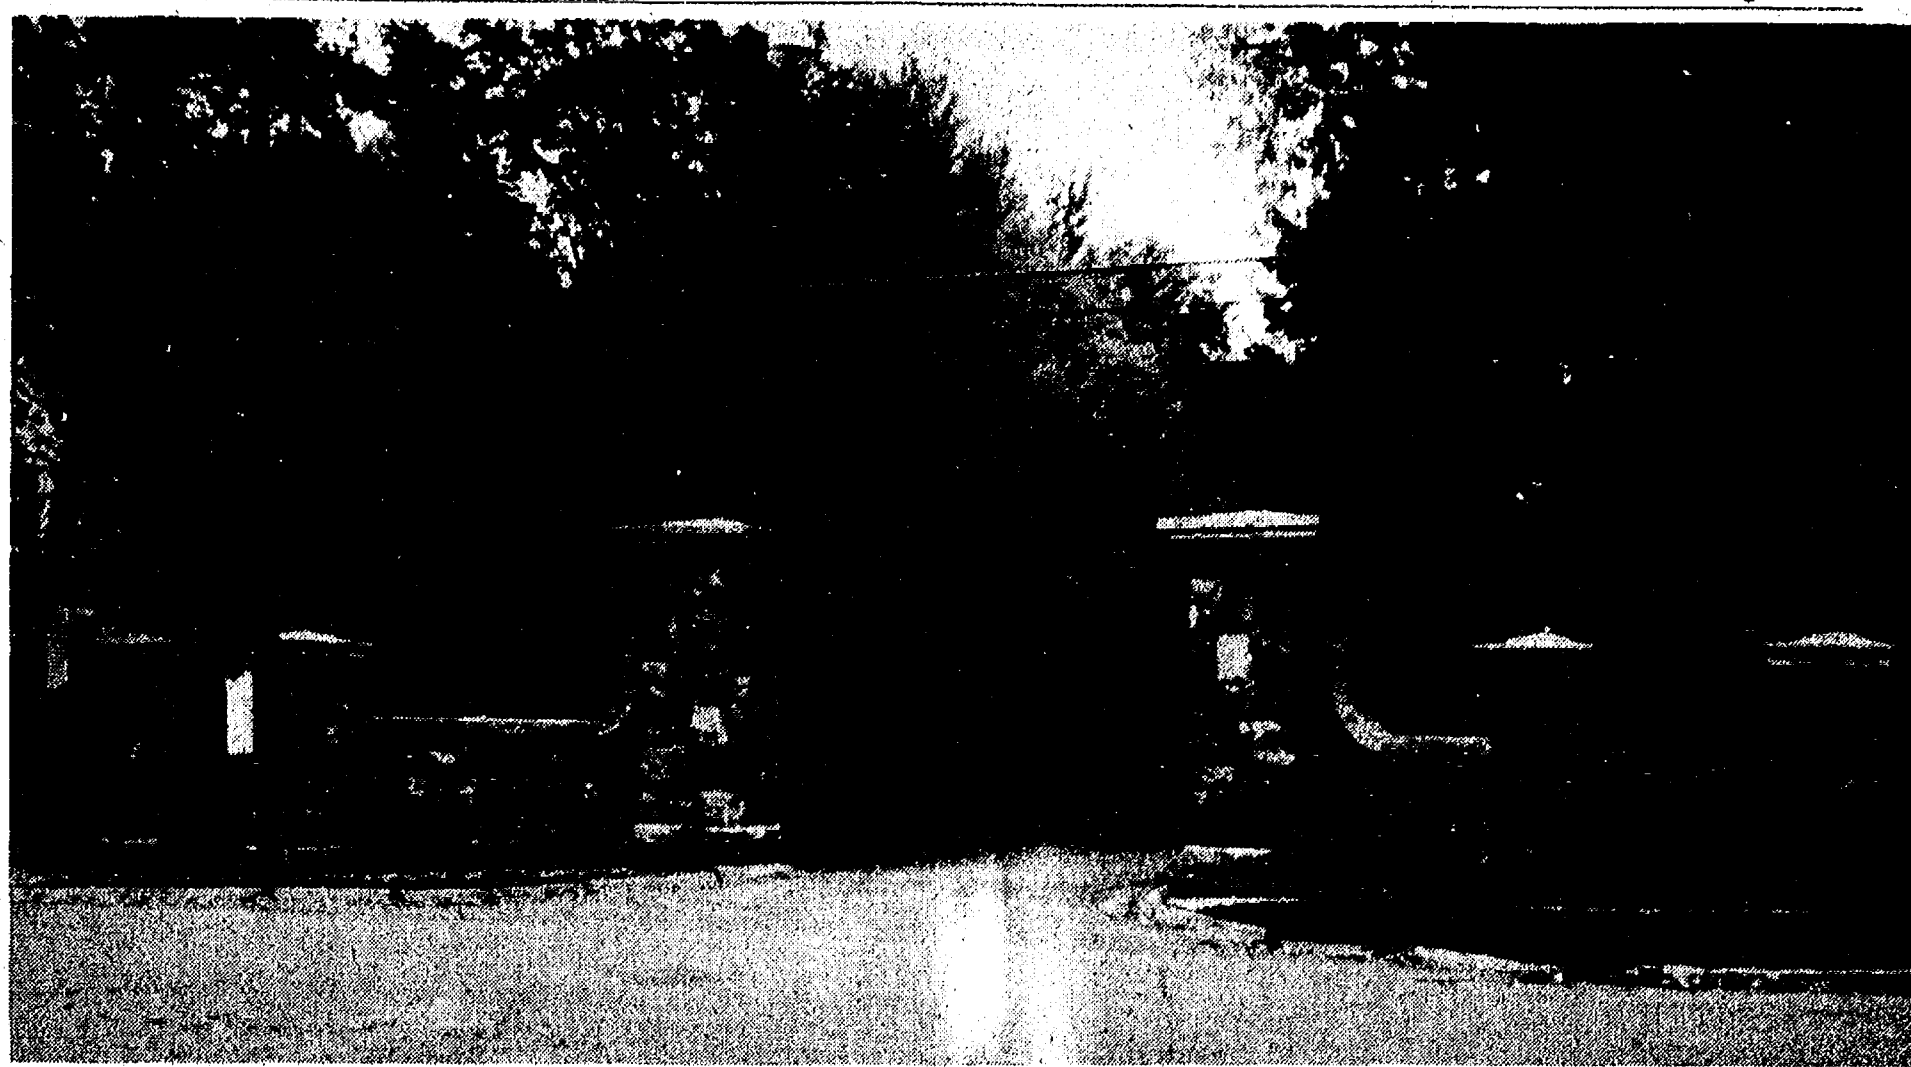

There will be a special gathering for all Chelsea High school alumni following Friday's homecoming game with Mason. The event will be held in the high school cafeteria. Coffee and doughnuts will be served.

COMPLETED: Dexter masonry contractor Paul Henes has completed his work on the Oak Grove Cemetery gates at the east end of Middle St. All that remains to be done is for village employees to install light fixtures. The village council last week paid tribute to Henes for his outstanding work in restoring the historic structure, a Chelsea landmark.

'Tomato Fight' Concludes With Injuries to Two

The annual "tomato fight" during the week before Homecoming at Chelsea High school concluded with an automobile accident in which two 16-year-olds were injured.

"I think this is one of those 'traditions' that ought to be ended," village police chief Robert Aeillo said. "People get hurt."

A car driven by a 16-year-old juvenile on Washington St. east of Flanders St. was pelted by tomatoes and eggs on the windshield. Driving blind, the operator went off the street and hit a utility pole, with minor injuries to himself and a passenger.

"It could have been a lot worse," Aeillo said. "We were kind of lucky this time. Nobody was seriously injured."

Although the name of the persons involved are known, they are being withheld from publication because of a law which prohibits printing names of persons under 17 who commit crimes.

Alumni Band Prepares For CHS Homecoming

Strains of George M. Cohen's music will be heard at half-time during Friday's homecoming game as the Chelsea High school Alumni Band performs for the first time.

The musical reunion will include "Give My Regards to Broadway," "Yankee Doodle Dandy," "Grand Old Flag," "Broadway Razzle Dazzle," and "When I'm Sixty-Four."

Alumni who are interested in performing at the show will meet at the high school band room at 4:30 p.m. Practice will begin at 5:30 p.m. Alumni must participate in the practice session in order to participate in the half-time performance.

Participants should wear dark trousers and a white shirt or sweater with long sleeves. Uniform overlays will be distributed following the practice session. Alumni should be certain to bring their instruments.

There will be a $5 registration fee which will cover gate charge and cost of a pizza party following the game. Band members may bring one guest at a charge of $3.50.

New Floral Shop Opens In Chelsea

Marilyn Fay knows it isn't always convenient for people planning a wedding to make arrangements for their floral decorations during normal business hours.

And she's ready to meet their needs.

Fay is the owner of Chelsea's newest flower shop, "Floral Designs . . . By Fay." The store, which opened just in time for Sweetest Day, Oct. 15, specializes in weddings and other occasions. In addition to the shop's regular business hours of 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Wednesday through Saturday, Fay does evening consultations by appointment.

The Chelsea store is Fay's second flower shop. She opened her main location, a full-service store, in Stockbridge almost five years ago. Eventually she found that many of her customers were people from the Chelsea area who were planning weddings, she said. She began thinking of opening a shop in town a couple of years ago, but only recently found a vacant store. "Floral Designs . . . By Fay" is located below street level at 105½ S. Main St.

Fay said she is pleased with her new Chelsea location. "I'm really excited about it," she said.

Vocal Dept. Plans Concert Wednesday

Chelsea High School Vocal Department will present their first concert of the year on Wednesday, Oct. 26 at 7:30 p.m. in the high school auditorium.

The concert is titled "Sound of Autumn" and will feature selections that are both old and new.

Groups participating will be the girls SSA Vocal Choir, the Mixed Choir, the Contemporaries, and introducing a new singing ensemble, the Madrigals, a small male group who will be singing spirituals, barber-shop music, and other fun music through the year.

The concert will be directed by June Warren. Accompanists will be Mrs. Donna Palmer, and student accompanist, Tom Mull.

The community is invited to enjoy the concert. There is no admission charge.

Approximately 20,000 Scouts and adult leaders from 200 parishes participate in the CYO program of spiritual enrichment for Boy Scout, Girl Scout and Camp Fire units.

We Are Pleased

We are achieving our goals of service . . .

Bulldogs Rally After Slow Start To Trample Milan By 42-7 Margin

Slow starts have plagued Chelsea's varsity football team all fall, and they got off to another one last Friday night, trailing Milan 7-0 at the end of the first quarter, then rallying to win big, 42-7.

For 12 minutes it looked as if the Bulldogs had come up flat for their first game on re-sodded and re-lighted Niehaus Field, an excellent facility in which Chelsea can take a lot of pride.

The underdog Big Reds got on the board late in the first quarter on a 47-yard dash up the middle by Dallas Holzer and kicked the extra point. Chelsea, meanwhile, had stopped itself with penalties on its first two possessions, and there was a smell of upset in the air.

The Bulldog defense tightened up with exceptionally hard but clean tackling, and the offense got untracked and posted 22 second-quarter points. From there on the only question was the final margin. It could have been even more than 35 points had Chelsea coach Gene LaFave chosen to pour it on, which to his credit he didn't. Everybody got a chance to play late in the game.

Rain that had been forecast to start about game time held off, and a good crowd approaching 2,000 enjoyed a fine late-October evening for football with mild temperature and just a little bit of wind.

The new sod held up without a divot that this reporter could see, and the new lights brightened some formerly dimly illuminated corners of the field, especially the end zones, where it used to be impossible to get a reading on a camera exposure meter.

Back to the ball game. Chelsea compiled 396 yards in total offense, 254 rushing and 142 passing. Quarterback Marty Steinhauer completed 10 of 17 passes, including three touchdown tosses, and halfback Jay Marshall ran for 113 yards in 23 carries, his first 100-yard-plus game. He got them the hard way, with no long-gainers.

David Steinhauer scored twice, once on offense and once on defense. Dave Walter caught a long pass for a TD and grabbed two others that set up touchdowns. Scott Miller recorded a touchdown and two two-point conversions, and Marshall banged in for two six-pointers. Rich Slater was two-for-three on extra-point kicks.

Asked to name some unsung heroes besides those who get their names in the paper week after week, LaFave picked out two-way linemen David Kiel and Jerry Hammerschmidt.

"Kiel has improved tremendously, especially on offense, since he came back from an early season injury, and Hammerschmidt has played exceptionally well all season long even though he doesn't get a lot of notice," LaFave said.

"And don't forget Marshall on defense. Good as he is carrying the ball, his defensive effort has been even better. He has 85 tackles in seven games, and that's a bunch."

Chelsea's scoring went like this:

1. Following Milan's touchdown, the Bulldogs took the kickoff and marched 68 yards with Marshall cracking over from the one four seconds into the second quarter, to narrow the gap to 7-6.

2. Two minutes later Kiel recovered a fumble at the Milan 30, and a couple of plays later Marty Steinhauer threw a perfect pass to Walter for 22 yards and six points. Miller converted for two to make it 14-7 and, as it turned out, Chelsea's ball game.

3. Marshall went in again with just 22 seconds remaining in the half, crashing for two yards after a Steinhauer-to-Walter pass had put the ball in scoring position. Miller again got two extra points.

4. A 14-yard screen pass play from Marty Steinhauer to Miller was good for six midway through the third period.

5. Less than a minute later David Steinhauer, playing at linebacker on defense, picked off a Milan pass and raced 30 yards into the end zone. Slater added the PAT.

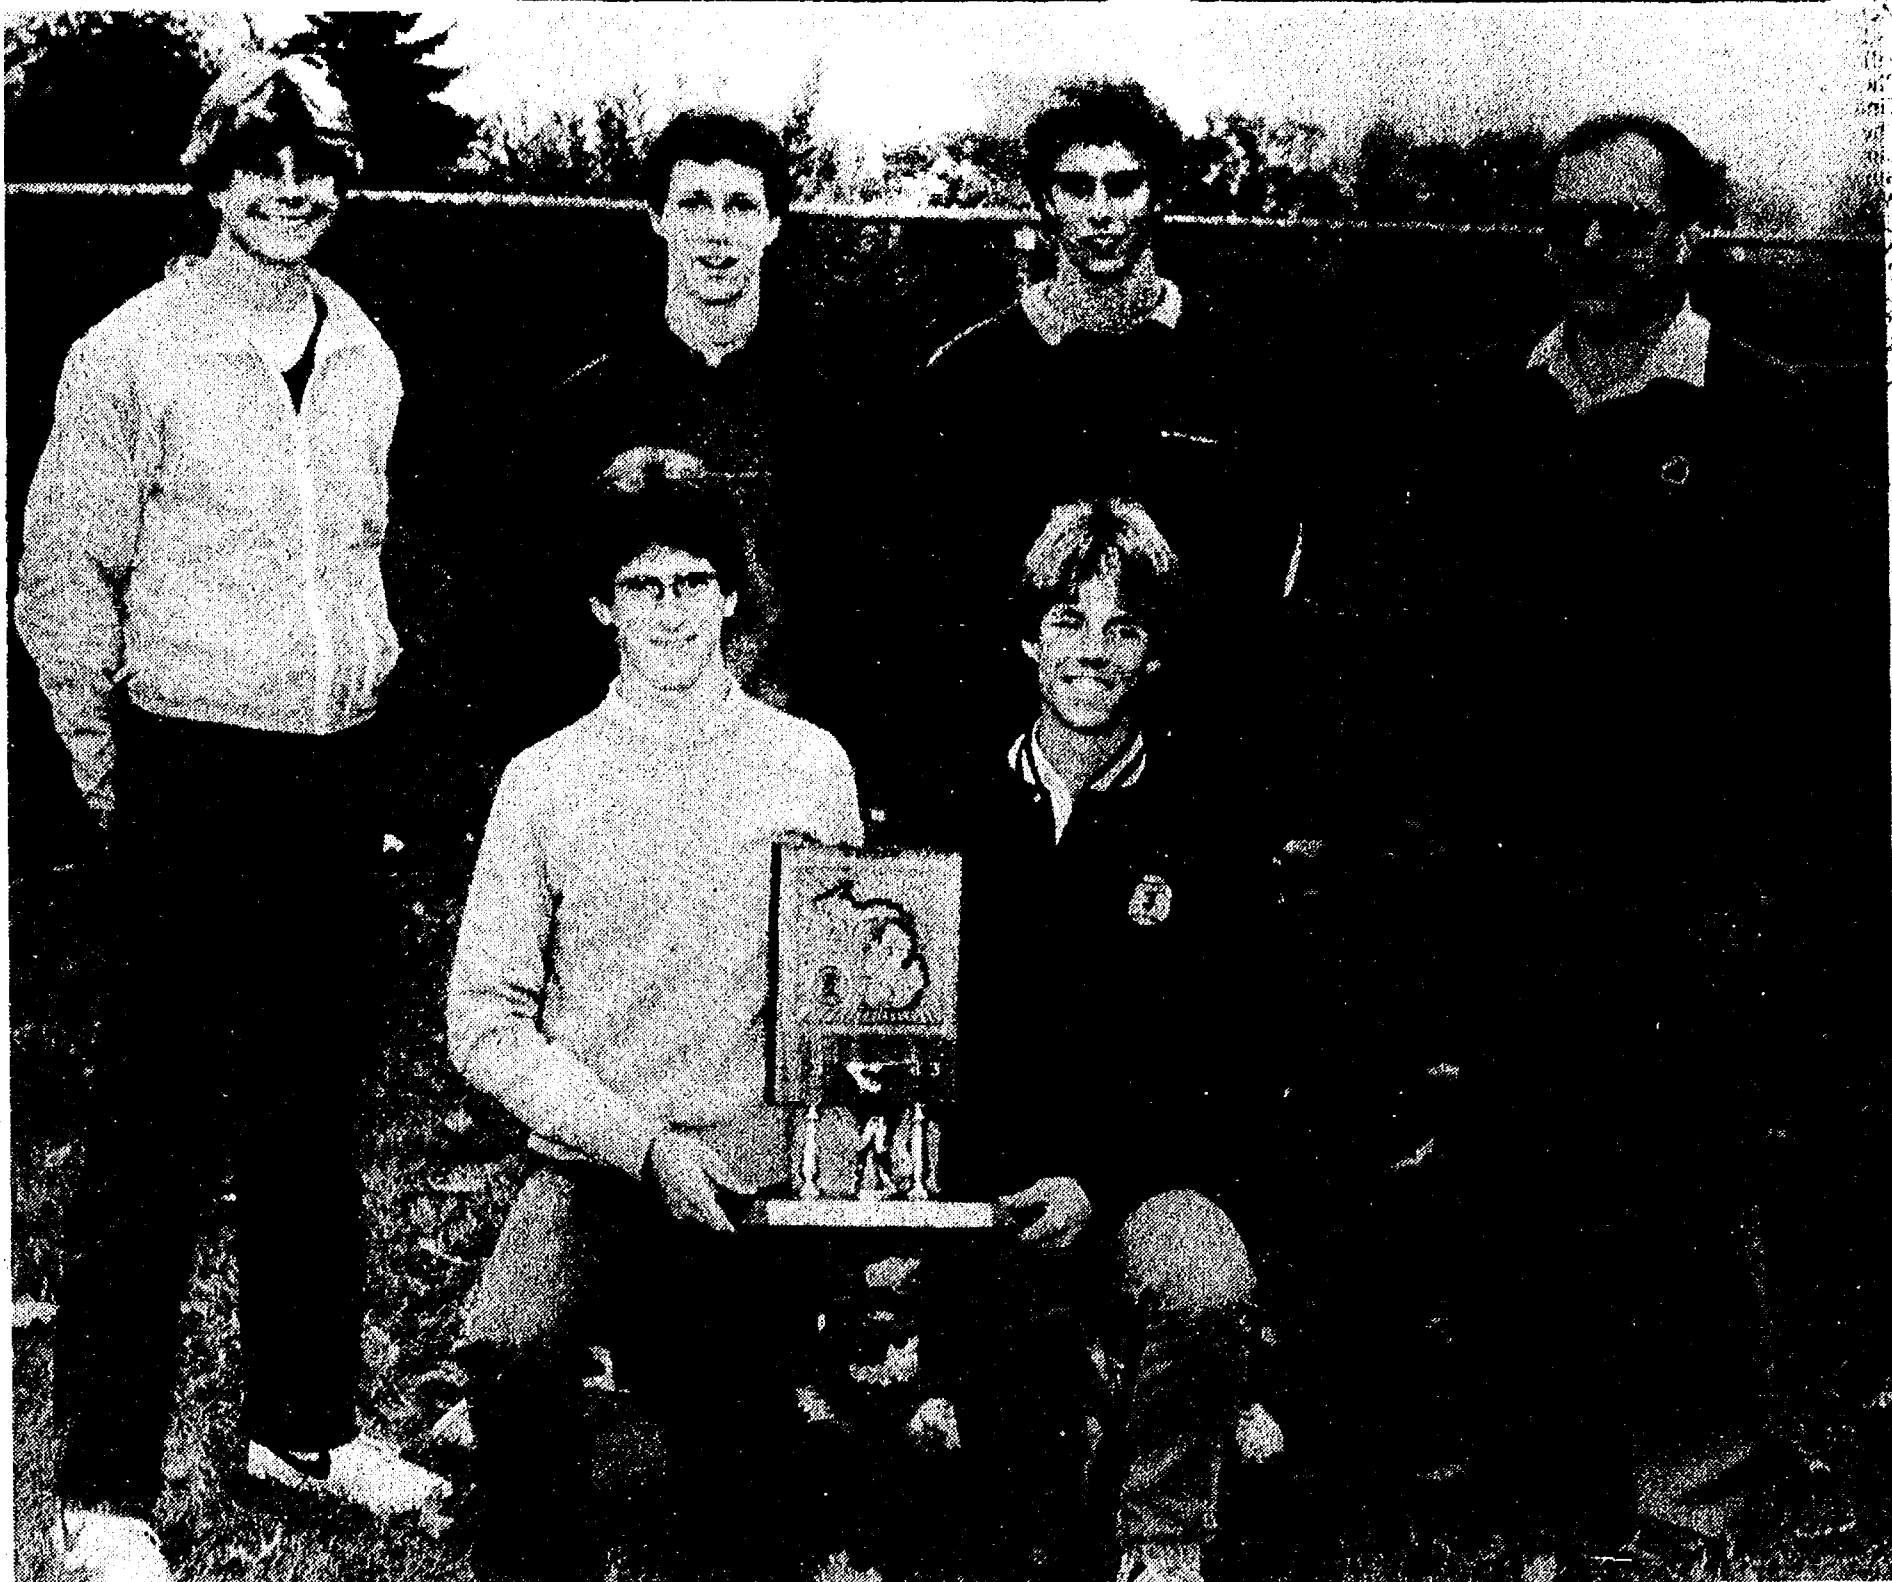

6. Brothers Marty and David Steinhauer connected on their third touchdown pass of the season, a perfectly executed 15-yarder, with 5:43 left in the game, and Slater converted again.

LaFave emptied his bench after that one, and the Bulldog subs more than held their own although they didn't score.

The victory gave Chelsea a 3-2 final mark in the Southeastern Conference, good for a share of second place with Dexter and Tecumseh, and boosted them above .500 over-all for the first time this season with a 4-3 record. The Bulldogs have now won three in a row after a dismal 1-3 start, and have shown steady improvement with every game.

"It was good to play a game on our home field," LaFave said, "and I think the experience helped us. It's a lot more comfortable playing in familiar surroundings. The new facility is excellent. The lighting in particular is much better."

Chelsea entertains Mason here Friday in a delayed homecoming game that was originally supposed to have been played against Tecumseh two weeks ago, but was postponed so that the event could be held on the Bulldogs' home field. Chelsea will close out its season at Pinckney on Nov. 4.

BEST CHELSEA GOLF TEAM EVER: Chelsea High school's varsity golfers finished a strong second in last Saturday's state Class B tournament. Displaying the trophy are (in front, kneeling) Kurt

Chelsea Golfers Finish Second In State Tourney

Shooting a four-man 18-hole score of 318, which broke the school record by 12 strokes, Chelsea's varsity golf team finished a strong second in the state Class B golf tournament at Grand Rapids last Saturday.

"We possibly might have won it but for a few bad strokes here and there," coach Ken Larson said, "but I'm very proud of the way the boys played not only in the tournament but throughout the fall. It was by far the best golf season ever for Chelsea high school."

Jackson Lumen Christi won the championship, as it has in eight of the past nine years, with a team score of 314. Milan was fifth at 327, giving the Southeastern Conference two of the first five places, and the southeastern region three of the top five.

"That shows how good the competition is in this region and how difficult it is even to qualify for the state meet," Larson commented. "Jackson Lumen Christi has an advantage because there are more and better courses around Jackson than in the Ann Arbor area, and practicing on those courses gives them an edge."

Doug Otto led the Chelsea team with a 75, good for third place among individuals. Eric Schaffner started to finish, which made the Saskatoon Golf Club course much more difficult than normal.

"It's a fairly short course, but it's tight, with dense groves of pine trees guarding the fairways," Larson explained. "It was hard to hit the ball straight with the rain causing slippery grips. Some shots went into the pines that ordinarily wouldn't have, and they cost a stroke every time. There was no way you could hit out of those trees."

As it was, the Chelsea boys thought they had the tournament won. They were in the clubhouse with 318, and one Lumen Christi player was still out on the course. He had played the front nine in 40, and a similar score on the back nine would have given victory to the Bulldogs. Instead, he shot a remarkable 34, and it made the difference.

"That was disappointing, but our boys are still very excited about coming in second," Larson said. "They are proud of what they accomplished, and have every right to be."

With five of his top seven golfers scheduled to return next fall, Larson is already looking forward to 1984. "We should have a very respectable team," he said.

Varsity Cagers Lose Two Games Last Week

The Chelsea girls varsity basketball squad suffered two losses last week, dropping games, 52-41 to Saline and 38-29 to Dexter.

The team now stands at 1-6 in the Southeastern Conference and 3-10 over-all.

The squad started out well in Tuesday's match with Saline, coach Jim Winter said.

"For the first three quarters we played real well, we were ahead in the first quarter, ahead in the second quarter and tied at the half. Then the sky fell in."

Saline outscored Chelsea, 19-4, in the last six minutes of the contest.

"They decided to start playing, and they did well," Winter said. Top scorers were Beth Unterbrink and Kristi Headrick with 10 points each. Headrick and Warren were leading rebounders with 8 each. Joann Tobin had 8 points and 7 rebounds.

While Chelsea started out well against Saline, the same was not true with Dexter on Thursday. The Bulldogs didn't score from the floor in the first 12 minutes of the game.

The team did play good defense during the first half, giving up only 14 points.

"But we only scored 13," Winter said.

The Dreadnaughts outscored Chelsea by 8 points in the third quarter and the teams both scored 10 in the fourth quarter.

Unterbrink led scoring with 9 points and Headrick was top rebounder with 6.

Chelsea played at Lincoln last night and hosts Tecumseh tomorrow.

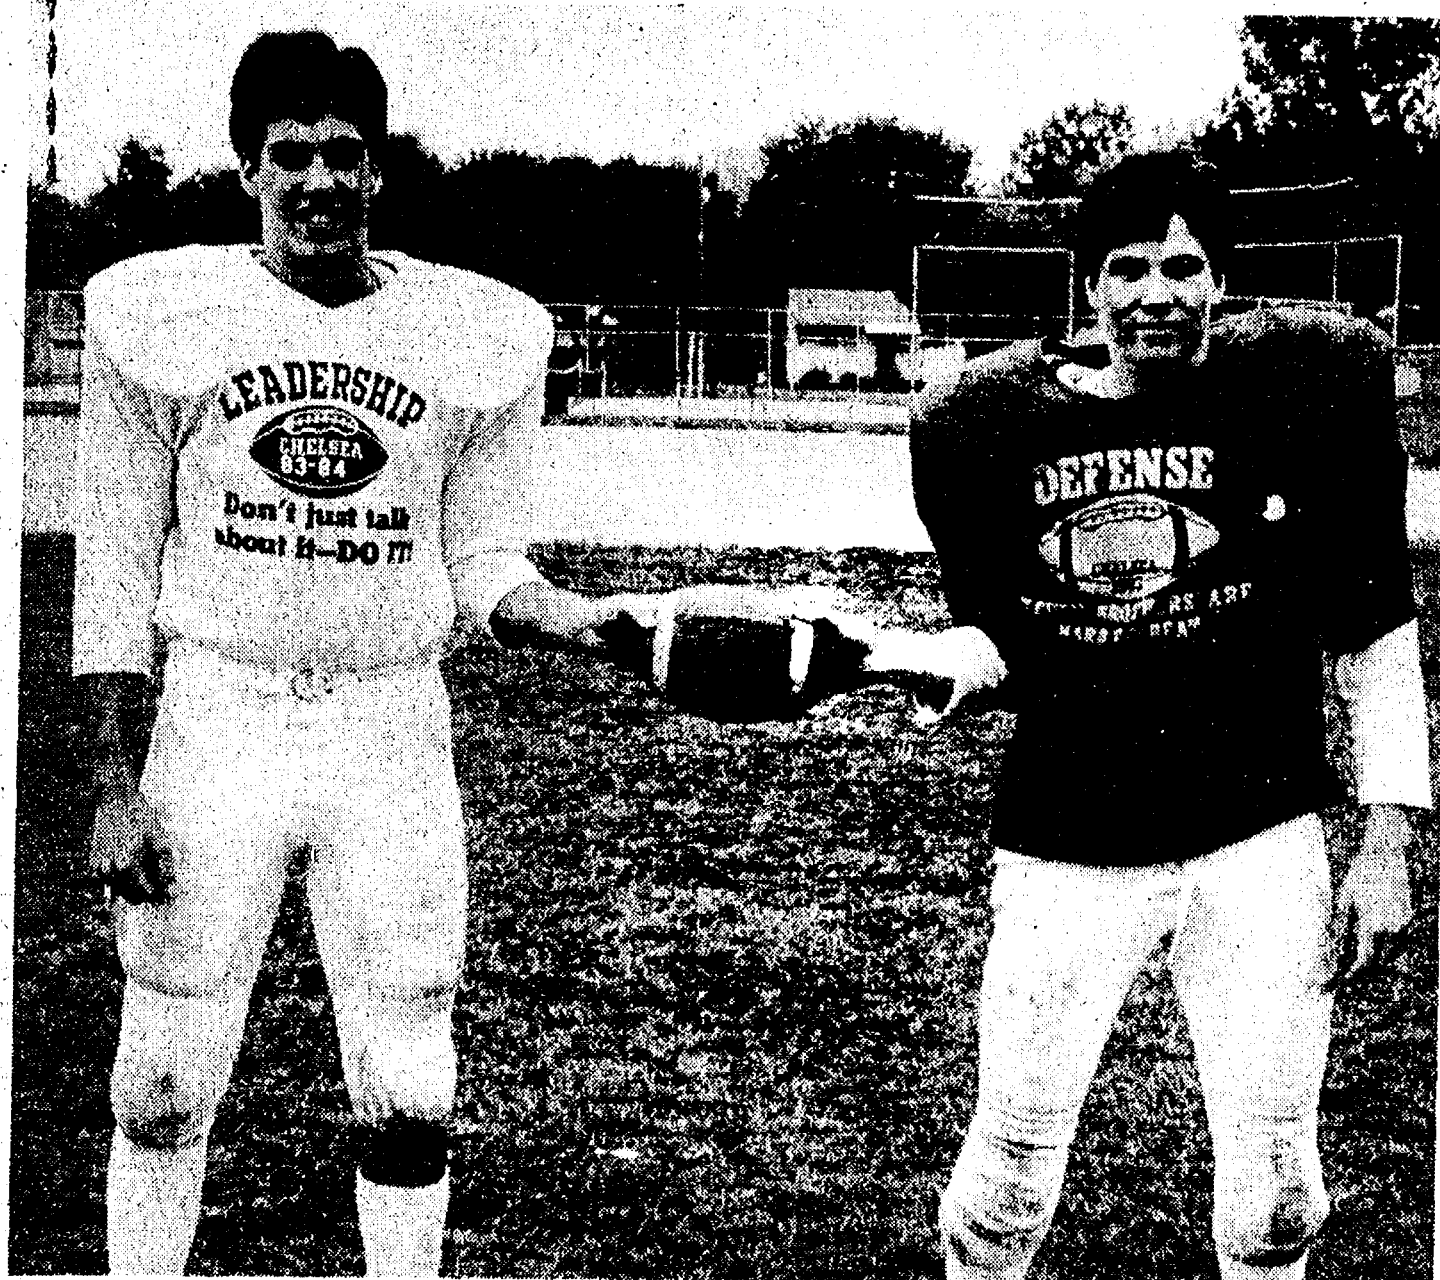

JV Gridders Inconsistent In Milan Loss

Chelsea's junior varsity grid-ders were shut out, 26-0, by the Milan JV's there last week, leaving them with a 2-5 season record and one game to go.

"It was one of those games where we just didn't do much of anything right," Bullpup coach Ken Sullins said. "We had seven turn-overs, three intercepted passes and four lost fumbles. You don't win that way."

The host Milan team scored 20 first-half points and added six in the fourth quarter. Chelsea got inside the opposition 50 yard-line only twice, and never came close to scoring.

BROTHER ACT: Brothers on the same football team are not common, and a successful passing combination is rare indeed. Chelsea's Marty Steinhauer (quarterback) and David Steinhauer (tight end) have connected on three touchdown completions so far this season, and are looking for more in the remaining two games.

Not Important, But Meeting Will Be Fun

The 32nd annual meeting of TLOCDH&DSOAA will be held Thursday evening at the Chelsea Rod and Gun Club.

For those who, in the course of 32 years have forgotten the complete, official name of TLOCDH&DSOAA, it is The Loyal Order of Confirmed Deer Hunters and Deer Slayers of America Amalgamated. During the deer hunting season all members are considered to be armed and dangerous.

The annual meeting, according to President Charlie Fredette, is to exchange experiences, share the secrets of venison stew, and shoot the bull about shooting deer.

SPORTS NOTES

BY BILL MULLENDORE

Give him a chance, for heaven's sake.

That plea is prompted by the rumblings of dissatisfaction I've heard since the announcement of Paul Ash's appointment as Chelsea's new varsity basketball coach.

Granted are the facts that Paul is young, has only a year of coaching experience, and is not a member of the high school faculty. All the grumbling in the world won't change those.

On the positive side, Ash has grown up around the game of basketball, has played it well in high school and college, has built a record as an outstanding referee, has guided the Bulldog freshmen to a winning season last year, and is full of enthusiasm for his new assignment which he acknowledges to be both a rare opportunity and a stern challenge. He is open to the idea of going back to school and qualifying for a teaching certificate if things go right.

I think the positives far outweigh the negatives, if indeed there are any real negatives.

There weren't a whole lot of options open to athletic director Ron Nemeth when Robin Raymond revealed in late September that he was leaving to take the head basketball coaching job at Ann Arbor Pioneer. That is in no way a slap at Raymond. As a career coach, he had to take the promotional opportunity when it came along. It's a big step up the ladder for him, a tribute to his success in building a solid basketball program in Chelsea. That the timing was awkward certainly was no fault of his.

With seven veterans returning from last year's very good Bulldog varsity team and several promising newcomers coming on board, Chelsea has an opportunity for another fine season. I'm confident that Ash has the ability and the dedication to get the job done right—provided he receives full support from players, parents and fans (and, yes, the local press). Let's give it to him.

Looking at the pictures of the seven young men inducted into Chelsea High school's football Hall of Fame last week brought back a flood of memories, all of them good. They were an exceptional group not only as athletes but also—and more important—as people. Never before in my life had I had the chance to meet and get to know a finer bunch of boys.

Let me add right here that this year's group of seniors who will be selected for the Hall of Fame in 1984 is likewise outstanding. When the time comes, I will remember them fondly, too.

Space won't allow a detailed rundown on all seven of this year's inductees, so here are a few scatter-shots that rise to mind, in no order of precedence other than the sequence of their pictures in the paper.

David Wojcicki—"Exciting" is the word that wraps him up.

Whether it was a football or a basketball he was handling, you never knew what he was going to do with it, and I suspect he didn't either, but he made things happen. Exceptionally quick and talented, intelligent, a bit shy and uncomfortable when asked to talk about himself and his achievements.

Matt McCallum—One of those boys you figure is too small to play football, but did it very well. A terror on the specialty teams, fearless in throwing his body into the path of blockers and ball carriers on kick returns. He wasn't big, but used every ounce of what he had, and got the job done. Also a fine hurdler on the track team.

Rodney Robeson—Hurt early during the football season so I didn't get a chance to see too much of him on the gridiron last fall. Fast and sure-handed as a pass receiver. Definitely the best high school baseball catcher I have ever seen, and hit with surprising power for his size. You don't often find the fastest boy on a baseball squad playing as a catcher. Extremely personable, fun to talk to.

Russell Harris—Also exciting. When he got his hands on the ball at his left halfback position, there was always the possibility of a take-it-all-the-way touchdown. Not big nor extremely fast, but thoroughly determined. Delightful sense of humor. Gave me one of the best quotes I have ever obtained during my newspapering career following a game in which he had played over pain with an assortment of hurts, and performed brilliantly. I asked him if he might have done even better had he been healthy. "No," he answered, "I don't think I would have done any better, but I sure would have felt better doing it."

Matt Villeneuve—One of those "unsung hero" athletes who rarely got his name in the paper but who was always out there doing what was asked of him, constantly working to improve. Gave 100 percent of himself in football, basketball and baseball. Never a star, but as dedicated to athletics as any boy I've ever known. Made the most of his abilities.

Thom Headrick—Until he was injured in a late-season game, as fine a combination of tight end and defensive back as I've been privileged to watch. Not spectacular, and it was easy to overlook his accomplishments until after the game when I began adding up the statistics and discovering how many passes he had caught and tackles he had been in on. I just hope that badly damaged knee holds up following surgical repairs.

Mike Neibauer—Led the blocking charge on the left side of the Bulldog line that opened up the holes for Harris to run through, and played a whale of a defensive game as well. Could hit a baseball nine miles, and also catch one in the outfield. A nice young man who always had time to answer the questions of a sportswriter who needed help in confirming who did what on the field. Helped me

LAURA STEPHENS AND SUSAN SCHMUNK (right) each garnered three first place honors against Dundee last week. Schmunk took first in the 100 free, 100 breast and 200 medley relay. Stephens finished first in the 200 and 500 free events as well as a member of the 400 free relay team.

Girls Swim Team Splits Two Meets

After losing narrowly, 86-83, against Lincoln on Tuesday, the Chelsea girls swim team turned around to defeat Riverview, 88-74 Thursday.

Coach Von Acker was jubilant with the win.

"All year long I've kept telling the girls 'we just have to meet a team the same size as we are and we will beat them.' We finally got our chance to do just that."

Chelsea swimmer Tammi Mullaly had her best meet of the year, taking third in both the 100 and 200 free.

Earlier in the week the team swam very well, but couldn't get by Lincoln. Swimmer Ann Albrecht, a first year swimmer, had a fine meet, placing fifth in the 200 free and breaking the three minute mark for the first time. Dawn Borders, Susan Schmunk and Laura Stephens also had a good meet, each taking three first place honors.

Following are the times of Chelsea swimmers in the meet with Riverview:

200 medley relay—the team of Borders, Schmunk, Missy Young and Laura Stephens, first, 2:09.58.

several times as a volunteer "spotter" during basketball games, a service the more appreciated because it was freely given.

Frankly, when I came to work at The Standard last fall, I didn't quite know what to expect, having been away from high school sports for a lot of years. Having read a lot of stuff about how bad today's teen-agers are, I had some misgivings. Never have I been treated with more respect and courtesy. It took awhile to get used to being called "sir." That's a tribute to teachers, coaches and parents but—most important—to the boys themselves.

SEC ROUND-UP:

Saline Takes League Title With Victory Over Lincoln

It wasn't easy, but Saline locked up the Southeastern Conference varsity football championship with a hard-fought 8-0 victory over a Lincoln team that was playing for pride and came close to pulling the upset of the season.

The league portion of the season ended with Saline sporting a spotless 5-0 record. Dexter, Chelsea and Tecumseh finished in a three-way tie for second with 3-2 marks, thanks to a surprising 22-0 win by Tecumseh over Dexter. Chelsea thrashed Milan, 42-7.

Saline now goes on in search of an undefeated season in non-league games against Taylor Truman and Riverview, and a possible spot in the state Class B playoffs.

Lincoln, which had been a doormat during the early part of the season, gave high-flying Saline all it wanted and then some, keeping the game scoreless until early in the fourth quarter when the Hornets drove 64 yards for the game's only touchdown and added a two-point conversion.

The offensive statistics were just about even, and in the end it was Saline's defense that made the difference by keeping the Railsplitters out of the end zone. The Hornets defenders have recorded three straight shut-outs, and have five altogether in seven games. Eric Hoffman scored all three Tecumseh touchdowns as the underdog Indians beat favored Dexter. The game was scoreless until midway through the third quarter when Hoffman ran for the first of his three six-pointers. He added two more in the fourth period to wrap it up. With star halfback Brad Kokmeyer still hurting from a separated shoulder, Dexter was unable to mount any kind of an offense.

Chelsea got off to a slow start and trailed Milan, 7-0, at the end of the first quarter, then came on strong with a 22-point explosion in the second period. From there it was just a question of what the final margin was going to be. Bulldog quarterback Marty Steinhauer completed three touchdown passes, and halfback

Jay Marshall had his first 100-yards-plus rushing game of the season.

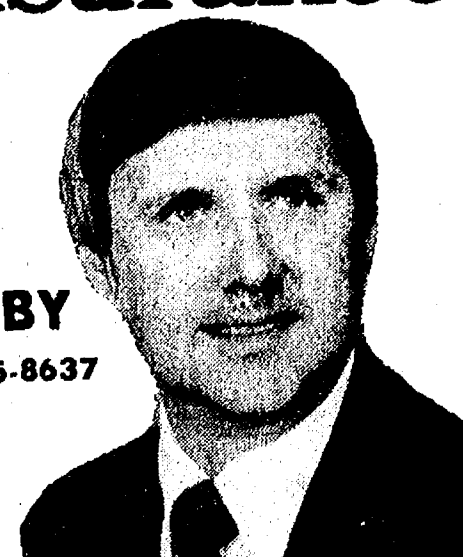

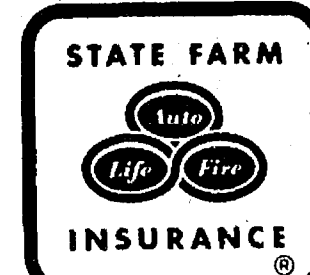

Saline actually hurt its chances for making the state play-offs with its narrow win over Lincoln, a team that had won only one game earlier. The computer formula for selecting the finalists is based in part on game score differences and past records of opponents. The Hornets needed to win big to impress the computer, and didn't.

CHRYSLER-PLYMOUTH DEALERS ANNOUNCE THE 5/50 PLYMOUTH FOR 1984

Match it! (If you can)

The 5/50 Plymouth Reliant K: America's highest mileage, 6-passenger front-wheel-drive car. Match it if you can, Tempo.

Plymouth Reliant delivers 29 EPA est. mpg.* Ford Tempo can't match that number. Excellent gas mileage is just one of the reasons over a million cars have been sold since their introduction.

The 5 Year/50,000 Mile Protection Plan

Only Chrysler backs all its new American-built cars with limited warranties on engine/power train and outer body rust-through for 5 years or 50,000 miles, whichever comes first. Deductible applies. Excludes leases. SEE DEALER FOR DETAILS.

*Use EPA estimates for comparison. Your mileage may vary depending on speed, weather and trip length. Highway mileage probably lower. California numbers lower.

The 5/50 Plymouth Horizon. Match it for gas mileage and room, Chevette.

Plymouth Horizon seats five adults comfortably, Chevette only four. In addition to roomy comfort, Horizon gets 32 EPA est. mpg, 49 est. hwy.* higher gas mileage than Chevy Chevette. Horizon: the original front-wheel-drive Plymouth just keeps getting better.

The 5/50 Plymouth Turismo. Match it for mileage, Mustang.

At 32 EPA est. mpg, 49 est. hwy.* Turismo leaves Mustang behind at the pump. Plymouth Turismo: for front-wheel-drive, mileage, and a sporty flair, it's tough to match!

Chelsea Cross Country Teams Split in Meets with South Lyon

Chelsea girls cross-country team has an exceptional amount of depth, and it paid off last Thursday in a 24-36 victory over Class A South Lyon in a dual meet over the demanding Inverness Country Club course.

The boys team, meanwhile, was losing, 25-32, in a match that would have been very close had not Scott Miller been forced to drop out of the race with a hurting leg.

"He probably could have finished," coach Pat Clarke said, "but I made him stop running because we need him in the conference meet. I didn't want to take a chance on having him aggravate the injury."

South Lyon's Lori Gilleran won the girls meet in the fine time of 20:38, but Chelsea took 12 of the first 15 places. Robin Mock was second in 20:56, breaking 21 minutes for the first time at Inverness.

"South Lyon has three fine runners, but we have a very good team and ran a fine team race," Clarke said.

The girl harriers wound up their dual meet season with a 7-1 record and 4-0 in the South-eastern Conference, good for first place in the league.

The conference meet was held yesterday, too late for the results to be printed in The Standard. The regional meet is slated Saturday.

7th Grade Girl Cagers Down Dexter

After losing three in a row, the Chelsea seventh grade girls basketball team bounded back to beat Dexter, 27-11, last Wednesday.

The win brings the team record to 4-4 for the season.

Coach Ann Schaffner said the game against the Dreadnaughts "was a good team effort."

High scorers for the game were Heather Neibauer, Carey Maciag, Vanessa May and Sharon Losey. Losey was also top rebounder with 12. Maciag had 6 rebounds.

Before the Dexter win, the team had lost three games to Saline, 20-8; Stockbridge, 22-18; and Lincoln, 30-22.

day, with the girls having a good chance to qualify for the state meet if they run up to par.

In the boys meet with South Lyon, seniors Allen Cole and Eric Green ran lifetime-best times to finish first and third, respectively, but South Lyon's superior depth plus Cooper's injury made the difference.

The boy Bulldogs finished second behind Saline in the SEC with a 3-1 record and are 4-4 over-all in dual meets. All four losses were at the hands of top-ranked Class A and B teams.

The boys are likewise looking at the league and regional meets, and a chance to get into the state finals. "They have come a long way," Clarke said. "They have hung in and improved."

Chelsea girls places and times:

Mock (2) 20:56, Kim Collins (4) 21:19, Amy Wolfgang (5) 21:25, Mary Ann Richardson (6) 21:34, Melanie Flanigan (7) 21:40, Stephanie Roberts (8) 21:47, Laura Damm (10) 21:58, Stephanie Grant (11) 21:59, Wendy Wolfgang (12) 22:56, Jennifer Colvin (13) 23:16, Crystal Porath (14) 23:17, Chris Neuman (15) 23:28, Jill Schaffner (10) 23:52, Shanda Friday (21) 24:12, Cathy Burkell (22) 24:25, Debbie Tiff (24) 24:49, Kathryn Morgan (25) 25:07, Sue Young (26) 25:12.

Mock, Amy Wolfgang, Roberts, Grant, Colvin, Porath, Neuman, Schaffner, Friday and Morgan all ran their best times ever over the Inverness course.

Boys places and times:
Cole (1) 17:11, Green (3) 17:22, Jared Bradley (7) 17:50, Craig Maciag (10) 18:28, Steve Hunn (11) 18:43, Lee Riemenschneider (12) 18:53, Jason Creffield (14) 19:20, Damion Creffield (16) 19:24, Kyle Kemmish (17) 19:31, Mark Spayd (18) 19:40, Tom Nemeth (19) 19:45, Greg Jalynski (22) 20:23.

Cole, Green, Riemenschneider, Nemeth and Jalynski all ran personal best times ever at Inverness.

Special Olympic Hockey Team 3rd in Tournament

The Chelsea Poly Hockey team finished in third place in a Special Olympic tournament held at Dexter High school Friday.

Dexter won the event after defeating teams from Chelsea, Community Mental Health and St. Louis School For Exceptional Boys. The St. Louis team finished in second place.

The Chelsea team lost its first game of the tournament to Dexter, 4-3. Team member Kenny Smith had two of the Chelsea goals and Theresa Carlson had one goal. Goalie Jay Curry made over 22 saves and Tom Carlson and Dawn Stancato played great defense, coach Nancy Cooper said.

Chelsea won its second contest of the day with High Point, 6-0. Carlson, Smith and Linda Alber all had two goals. Other offensive players were Denise DeVoe, David Cercone and John Wilson. David Mytyk played defense along with Curry and Stancato.

In the third game Chelsea took the third place trophy over opponents Community Mental Health by winning, 8-6. Carlson scored five goals, all on assists from Marcus Miller and Kenny Smith.

Card of Thanks

THANK YOU

On behalf of the approximately 100 mentally impaired athletes who took part in the Poly Hockey Tournament sponsored by the Kiwanis Club, I extend a hearty thank-you. These men did a wonderful job! Over the 15 years I have been involved in Special Olympics, I can honestly say I have never seen one organized so well. Everything went like clockwork—the many games, the lunch, arrivals and departures. Especially nice was having those men cheer for each group. The kids and the adults had a super time. Thanks for a wonderful day!

Nancy Cooper, Chelsea Special Olympics.

Cathy McClung, Rod Lawrence To Release New Art Prints

Several Michigan artists, including Cathy McClung of Dexter and Harry Antis of Ann Arbor are scheduled to appear at a special wildlife art show at the Loft Gallery, 107½ S. Main St., Chelsea, Saturday and Sunday.

Also appearing will be Heiner Hertling of from the southeastern part of the state and Rod Lawrence of Kalkaska. Some of the artists will have their new paintings on display.

This will be the last show to be held at The Loft in its present location. The gallery will move to a new site early next year.

Mrs. McClung will release a limited edition of prints from a new painting titled "Summer Hummer," a depiction of a ruby-throated hummingbird hovering over flowers. She will also have several original paintings on display for sale.

Antis will have prints of his "Cottontail" painting, which shows a rabbit against a winter background, available for sale, and will also have original paintings on display.

Hertling will release his new "Grouse" print, and Lawrence will have prints of his 1983 Michigan Waterfowl Stamp winning picture for sale. Both will also show originals.

Hours of the show are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 29, and noon to 5 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 30.

The show is the largest ever put on by The Loft, which has staged one-artist displays but none featuring the works of four painters at a time.

Former Chelseaite Ordained Minister Sept. 18 in Texas

Alda Rudd Wahl, of Corsicana, Tex., formerly of Chelsea, was ordained a minister of the gospel of Jesus Christ, Sept. 18.

Alda is a graduate of Chelsea High school. She married Richard Wahl of the Chelsea-Manchester area, in 1943. They lived in Chelsea until moving to Jackson in 1954. In 1963 the Wahl family moved to Corsicana, Tex. Richard and Alda have four children and 11 grandchildren.

The Rev. Wahl has ministered the gospel for 10 years. She will be visiting with her mother, Maude Rudd Fletcher at 620 N. Main St. in late October. In November she will be going to the Holy Land with a group of ministers from the Dallas area.

OUT IN THE OPEN

By BILL MULLENDORE

The pheasant hunting season opened last Thursday, and very few people bothered or cared. That was not always so. The pheasant opener used to be one of the big days on the calendar, not quite a state holiday but almost.

I recall the good old days when more than 500,000 men, women and children turned out for the first day of pheasant hunting. For many of them it was the only hunting outing of the year, a celebration that came close to rivaling Thanksgiving and Christmas, an almost religious rite.

My memories stretch back to the Great Depression years of the 1930's, when I was a young boy growing up and was lucky enough to have a dad who had a job. He worked six 10-hour days a week but always arranged a vacation day to "go hunting" when the pheasant season opened in mid-October.

Dad was a good hunter, a crack shot with both rifle and shotgun. He started taking me along on his opening-day pheasant forays when I was seven years old, directing me to "play dog" by busting through the heavy cover to kick out birds for him to shoot. It was an ideal role for an energetic boy who yearned desperately to learn the arts and skills and ethics of hunting.

When I was 12, Dad bought me a shotgun and taught me how to use it. With practice I got to be a reasonably decent marksman, and so ceased to be a dog and became a hunter in my own right. The first cock pheasant I fired at came down dead in a flurry of feathers. The thrill of picking up that bird remains one of the outstanding memories of my life. It happened on an opening day, just 20 minutes after the 1938 season began. The recall is etched so strongly in my mind that it could have happened yesterday.

Those opening days were very special. In some towns schools and factories shut down so that pupils and workers could go pheasant hunting. For me, the day meant an excused absence from school. Dad always played a game with me, waiting until the last minute to write the note that would get me out of classes, admonishing me all the time to "keep your studies up." I did my best schoolwork during those first six weeks of the fall prior to pheasant season.

Once the note had been taken to school and validated by the principal, the real fun began. There were guns to uncase and clean one more time, even though they had been kept spotless since the previous season. There were hunting clothes to take out of the closet and put in order for dressing the next day. There were shells to be carefully holed in a shooting vest. There were boots to be greased. Maybe they don't seem like much, but those chores somehow took half the night. It didn't really matter, because there was little sleeping done. I don't think I ever closed an eye the night before the season opened.

Mother, meanwhile, had bought a big piece of fresh ham, roasted it, and carved the meat into the makings for a big sack of pork barbecue sandwiches. We took along a dozen huge buns stuffed with meat and sauce, and managed to eat them all during the day. Vacuum bottles were beyond our financial means, but fruit jars wrapped in several thicknesses of newspaper did an acceptable job of keeping hot liquids warm and cold drinks cool.

At the chosen hunting ground—some farm where Dad had obtained permission to hunt—there was a renewal of friendships. Men who hadn't seen each other since the last pheasant opener shook hands and slapped backs. Some lies were told, and a few jokes exchanged that a young boy wasn't supposed to hear but did.

The farmer-host took time off from his fall harvesting chores to join the hunting party, and that was good because he knew where the pheasants were "using." It seldom took more than a few minutes for the shooting action to start. Quite often the first birds were brought to bag in the barnyard, roosters that had fallen into the habit of feeding with the chickens.

At the end of the day there were birds to sort out and apportion among the hunters—the game was invariably shared evenly no matter who shot what—and a bonus of cottontail rabbits and maybe a few squirrels. Dad was deadly on rabbits, never missing one that I can remember, and eventually taught me how to hit them ("point a little bit over and out in front, and shoot fast").

As I grew older, went away to college, got a job and established a home of my own, I preserved the traditions of the pheasant opener. Dad had to quit hunting because an old leg injury flared up and made it impossible to walk very far without pain, and so I found other companions with whom to share the

Nature Center Offers 'Salute to Cranes' Program

Waterloo Nature Center will present "A Salute to Cranes" Saturday from 2 p.m. until 5 p.m.

The program will include a movie and lecture on the ecology and behavior of these fascinating birds, followed by a backroads automobile tour to search for the elusive cranes. The program will conclude at Haehnle Sanctuary where hundreds of cranes may be observed as they return to roost.

Participants are asked to dress warmly and bring a snack and something to drink. Cost of the program is $2.

unique experience of opening day. It never ceased to be a marvel, a kind of renewal of life.

All good things must come to an end, and so have the great days of Michigan pheasant hunting. The birds have dwindled to the point of all-but disappearance. Only a few die-hards persist in hunting

Village Firemen Record 28 Calls During September

Chelsea's fire department made 28 runs during September, four more than for the same month a year ago. Only seven were responses to fire alarms. The rest were mostly for rescues and traffic accidents.

For the year to date the department has been called out 231 times as compared to 243 during the first nine months of 1982.

Nine of last month's calls originated in Sylvan township, eight in Chelsea, five in Lima township, three in Dexter township, two in Lyndon and one in Sharon.

Village firemen donated a total of 114 man-hours during the month, most of them for volunteer work at the Chelsea Community Fair.

Archer Claims To Have Made 2-in-1 Miracle

Two deer killed with one shot from a bow. It's an interesting story because it is a mighty rare occurrence, but it may have happened in Michigan last weekend.

According to Gene Shoemaker, proprietor of the Jiffy Market, an archer brought in a small buck deer late Sunday night and told the following story:

While hunting near St. Helen in Roscommon county, he spotted a large doe at close range and fired an arrow from his 70-pound draw-weight bow. He saw the arrow go into the vital heart-lung area.

He waited 20 minutes, then followed up and found the doe dead a short distance from where it had been standing. After dressing out the animal, the archer went back to look for his arrow. He discovered instead another blood trail leading in a separate direction.

He took off on the track and came upon a button buck that had been hit in the hindquarters and had bled to death. The missing arrow was embedded in the deer.

As far as the hunter could tell, his arrow had passed cleanly through the doe and struck the buck standing directly behind it with enough force to cause a fatal hemorrhage. Arrows kill by cutting blood vessels and causing bleeding, not by shock as bullets from a gun generally do.

The man brought the buck into the Jiffy Market for processing and said he had given the doe to another licensed archer in his party.

Efforts by The Standard to contact the hunter were unsuccessful. The telephone number left with Shoemaker is for a residence in Wayne county's Sumpter township. "I understand he has a cottage at an area lake, but I can't confirm that for sure," Shoemaker said.

There are a couple of technical law violations involved. First, of course, it is illegal to kill more than one deer on an archery license. Second, it is unlawful to let somebody who has not actually shot the deer tag it.

Conservation officers generally take a charitable view of cases where a double-kill is made by honest mistake, provided they are satisfied that it was an accident rather than a deliberate violation.

It is occasionally possible to line up two deer and kill them both with one gunshot. The chance of doing that deliberately with a bow is so slight as to be scarcely worth considering.

United Way Campaign at 23% of Goal

In the fourth week of the 1983 campaign, the Chelsea United Way has achieved 23 percent of its $59,000 goal.

Bob Porter, who heads the local campaign, said he is optimistic of achieving the ambitious goal.

Donations from some groups have shown a marked increase over last year, he said. The Book-Crafters, Inc., contribution which Porter received Friday, is 50 percent more than the company donated in 1982.

The majority of funds raised by the Chelsea United Way drive will remain in the area, benefiting five local and five county agencies. The remainder of the funds will go to state United Way agencies or be used for administrative purposes.
