KOZMINSKI HOME: This is the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ike Kozminski at 4678 Peckins Rd. in Lima township. The Kozminskis and their son, John, have been accused by federal authorities of holding two farmhands in involuntary servitude (slavery), the first such charge to be pressed in Michigan in more than 65 years.

Three Lima Residents Face Involuntary Servitude Charges

Three Lima township residents have been formally charged by the Federal Bureau of Investigation with holding a pair of farmhands in involuntary servitude (slavery).

They are Ike Kozminski, 60; his wife, Margarethe, 56, and their son, John, 30. The Kozminskis live on a 400-acre farm at 4678 Peckins Rd. All three are free on personal bond pending appearances before a U. S. magistrate's court in Detroit on Nov. 10, when it will be decided whether the FBI has sufficient evidence to obtain indictments and take the cases to trial.

Repeated efforts by The Standard to contact the Kozminskis by telephone or in person were unavailing, although it is obvious that someone is living in their handsome colonial home on Peckins Rd.

Federal authorities reportedly have confiscated the Kozminskis' passports and restricted them to travel inside Michigan. Ike Kozminski is a native of Poland and is said to have extensive property holdings in Europe.

Besides their Lima township farm the Kozminskis own considerable other property in Washtenaw and Lenawee counties. Much of it is said to be up for sale. Kozminski recently sold his large herd of dairy cattle which he had maintained on the Peckins Rd. farm.

The Kozminskis are specifically charged with holding Bob Fulmer, 57, and Louis Molitoris, 59, in what amounts to slavery for a period of 11 years. The two men were removed from the Lima township farm last August by Washtenaw County Sheriff's deputies and placed in the protective custody of the Michigan Department of Social Services. Their present whereabouts are not known.

Fulmer is said to have worked on the farm since 1967 and Molitoris since 1972. The Kozminskis reportedly purchased the place in 1973. That is one of the many discrepancies in a story which has received widespread newspaper publicity with a remarkable lack of facts.

The case came to light when a former employee of the Kozminskis, who now lives in Cheboygan, called the Washtenaw County Health Department to report that Fulmer and Molitoris were living in squalor in an old trailer on the Kozminski farm.

The trailer was said to be filthy, unheated, lacking running water and a working toilet. It has since been burned. Whether the fire occurred before or after it was tagged for evidence by federal authorities is unclear.

The informant, Mike Wilcome, also said that the two men were unpaid and inadequately fed and were threatened with arrest and jail if they tried to leave the farm.

A sheriff's department investigation followed, and the case was turned over to the FBI when it was discovered there is no "slavery" law on the Michigan books. A federal crime is listed and is punishable by five years in prison, a $5,000 fine, or both.

Legal disputes are not new to the Kozminskis, who have been in court frequently over the years on matters ranging from sale of adulterated milk to alleged failure to pay business debts. They were the target of several lawsuits in the aftermath of a 1978 fire in an Adrian apartment house which they owned.

When arrested on the slavery charge last week, the Kozminskis were in Washtenaw Circuit Court in Ann Arbor answering an unrelated suit over a bill allegedly owed on a purchase of cattle.

There have been charges made that the two farmhands were physically beaten on some occasions and were denied medical treatment after suffering injuries during their duties on the farm.

Neighbors of the Kozminskis describe Fulmer and Molitoris as perhaps below-normal mentally but good workers. None admit to any personal knowledge that the two were mistreated. "They were typical farmhands," one said. "I can't say they lived a good life, but I can't say they were abused, either."

The truth may begin to come out when the FBI presents its case in court on Nov. 10.

Hi-Land Lake Refills While Arguments On Costs Continue

Hi-Land Lake is back in business.

The lake is rapidly filling up following completion of a dam across the Portage River south of Patterson Lake Rd. in the unincorporated village of Hell southwest of Pinckney.

Hi-Land Lake temporarily disappeared in February, 1982, when the old dam gave way under pressure of an early spring run-off and let the water flow down into Portage Lake and Little Portage Lake to the east.

Portage River, improperly called Hell Creek, rises south of Hi-Land Lake and meanders several miles through Livingston county's Putnam township and Washtenaw's Dexter township before emptying into the Portage Lakes at Dexter-Pinckney Rd. It is part of the Huron River drainage basin.

After the dam broke, Hi-Land Lake was dry, and it remained that way for two years while property-owners and government agencies argued over what should be done and who should pay for it.

Eventually, a contract was awarded to the Walter Toebe Construction Co. of Wixom to build a new dam for $250,000. Meanwhile, a firm of consulting engineers had gone out and bored holes to determine soil conditions, under contract to the Washtenaw county drain commission.

That turned out to be a big mistake. The borings uncovered a lot of up-welling ground water which spilled and flooded all over the construction site, making it impossible for the Toebe firm to get its heavy equipment onto the ground until the holes were capped.

There were arguments about who should pay for what, and the Toebe company demanded payment for having to cap the unintended wells. The firm was awarded an extra $33,000, and is claiming $120,000 more in cost over-runs.

Meanwhile, the dam finally got built, and it is working to back up the Portage River and re-flood Hi-Land Lake. There is still a lot of surface water around the dam-site. It is seeping up all over the place. A walk around the site is guaranteed to ruin a pair of shoes. Toebe crews are dumping and grading dirt to try to cover up the problem.

The dam works. Hi-Land Lake has refilled to its near normal depth, and some water is being spilled downstream to maintain a flow in the Portage River. After two summers of sitting high and dry, lake property-owners can look forward to having water to use for esthetic and recreational purposes next summer. They can also look forward to paying off a $1 million assessment—a $483,000 bond issue plus interest—for a project that probably could have been completed for a quarter of that.

Veterans Day Parade Slated Sunday in Dexter

Washtenaw County Council of Veterans, the Veterans Affairs Office, and the Village of Dexter will sponsor a Veterans Day Parade Sunday, Nov. 6.

The parade, traditionally held at the 11th hour of the 11th day of the 11th month was moved to Sunday so that more people can participate in the festivities.

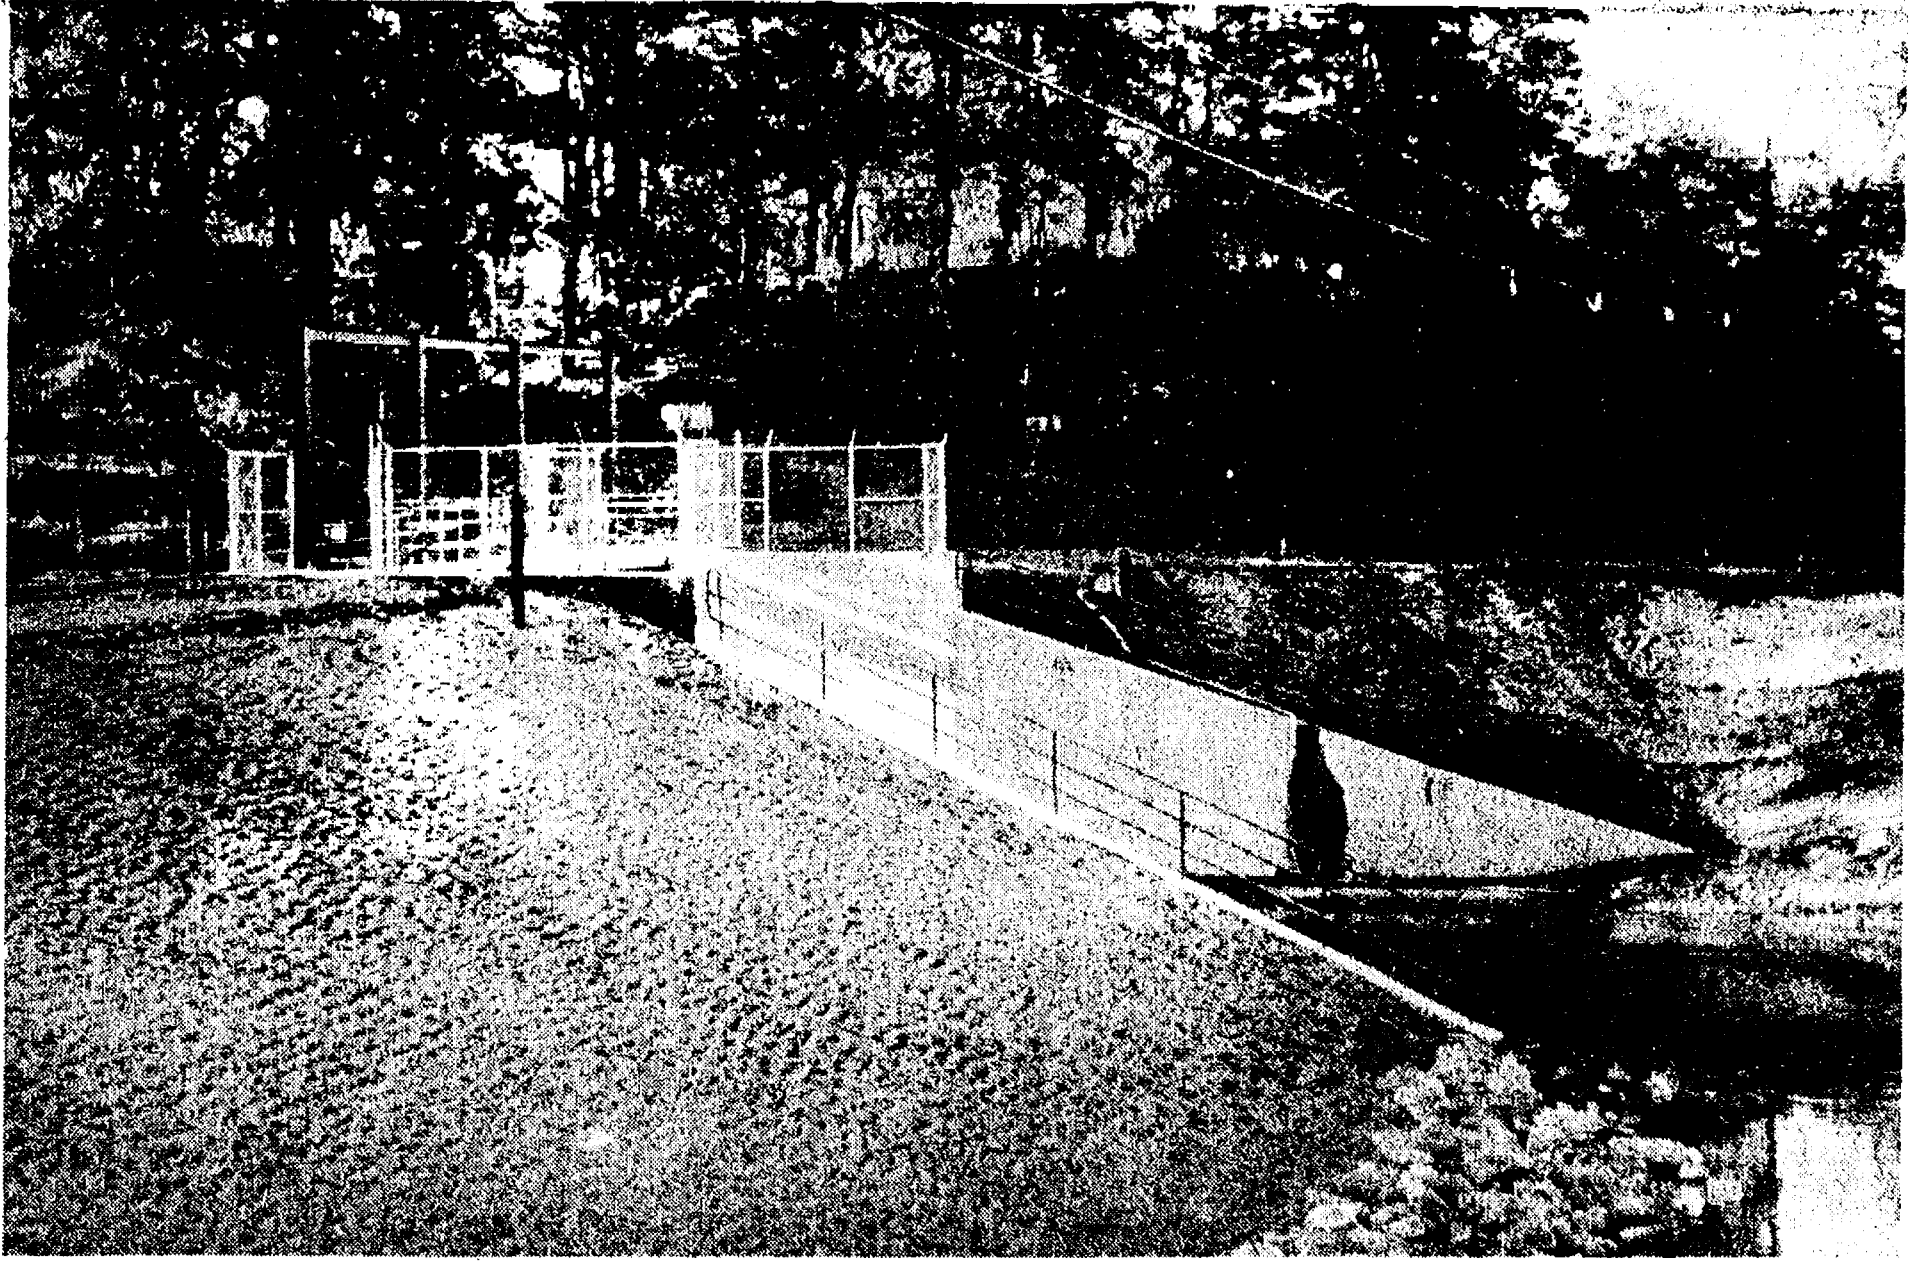

The celebration is to honor all veterans and particularly those from Washtenaw county, who have served in the Armed Forces and to publicly demonstrate support for those who carry on the torch seized from the Veterans of yesteryear.

Washtenaw county has a rich history of citizen sacrifice for our country, and the parade is to show that we remember and are thankful. With recent deaths of military personnel in Lebanon and Grenada it serves as a grim reminder of the sacrifices others have and are making so that we may enjoy our freedom.

This year's Grand Marshal will be James Thayer who was recently given the Michigan Veteran of the Year award for all the assistance he has given his fellow veterans. This award was presented to him during the Veterans' Ceremonies that took place at the Michigan State Fair.

Taps will be blown and a rifle volley will take place to signal the start of the parade at 2 p.m. The parade will begin at the corner of Kensington and Ann Arbor Sts. and proceed through town, ending up at Dexter American Legion Post No. 557 home, located on Dexter-Chelsea Rd.

NEW DAM: This is the new dam constructed by the Walter Toebe Co. of Wixom to replace the old one that broke in February of 1982 and left Hi-Land Lake temporarily empty. The dam is located south of Patterson Lake Rd. in the village of Hell.

Juniors Win Homecoming Spirit Award

The football game Friday night ended in disappointment, but throughout the preceding week, homecoming spirits at Chelsea were high.

The junior class was the winner of the week-long spirit competition. Each class amassed points for its participation in various events during the week. Students were judged on their attire during "Sweats" day, "Mafia and Gangs in the Street" day, "Beach Bum" day, "Jukebox Hero" day and "Blue and Gold" day.

In addition, their scores from various events during the week were tabulated to determine the over-all winner. The events included: powderpuff football games, pie eating contest, VW stuff, wagon race, egg toss, pyramid building, hall decorating and a class skit during Friday's pep rally.

The senior class finished in second place during homecoming week competition, followed by the sophomores and the freshmen.

The junior litho printer's entry took first prize in the float competition.

Many students at the school worked to make homecoming week a success, Bruce Boughner, student council advisor, said. He added that Becky Schlup and Kelly Barkley, who were in charge of homecoming week activities, worked many hours to plan the events.

United Way Drive Now at 44% of Goal

With contributions up from last year, but coming in slowly, the 1983 drive for the Chelsea United Way is being extended until mid-November.

As of Monday the drive had netted $25,725, 44 percent of the ambitious $59,000 goal.

While many individual and company contributions are significantly higher than last year, Bob Porter, who heads the local campaign, said the drive "still has a long way to go."

"The results we do have are much better than last year, but several campaigns (in local factories or among local groups) were slow getting started."

The county-wide United Way drive concludes tomorrow, according to Sue Koloczczek, campaign secretary for Washtenaw county. The county-wide campaign stood at 80 percent of its $3,880,000 goal as of Oct. 29.

"We're in real good shape," she said.

The Chelsea drive has been independent of the county for many years, so extending the deadline does not cause any problems, Porter said.

Chelsea and Manchester are the only local towns to run campaigns independent of the county, he said. Running the campaigns independently allows more control over how the funds are distributed.

Approximately 82 percent of the funds raised through the Chelsea drive will benefit five county agencies and five local agencies; the Chelsea Home Meal Service, the Chelsea Social Service, Chelsea Area Transportation Service, Chelsea Recreation Council and the Parent to Parent Program. The remaining 18 percent is used by Michigan United Way agencies or for administrative purposes.

Drive Begins To Prevent Water Diversion from Great Lakes

Efforts by both legislators and Governor James Blanchard towards adoption of an interstate compact prohibiting the diversion of Great Lakes water to other parts of the country got underway recently.

Blanchard announced he was corresponding with all other Great Lakes states governors to assess their interest in such a compact and several legislators, led by Rep. Mary Ellen Parrott (D-Utica), announced they were preparing legislation to prohibit any water diversions.

Parrott, along with Reps. Pat Gagliardi (D-Drummond Island), Jeff Padden (D-Wyandotte), Sen. Mitch Irwin (D-Sault Ste. Marie) and Natural Resources Director Ronald Skoog, said the legislation would be a "unified starting point," but that "ultimately we must seek strength and solidarity" with the other Great Lakes states and Canada to prevent any diversion of water to areas such as the southwest states.

Any such diversions of water could have tremendous impact on the states, especially Michigan, both environmentally and economically, she said.

"A drawing down of one inch in the Great Lakes level has a tremendous impact on shipping," Parrott said, forcing freighters to carry smaller loads and increasing shipping costs.

The legislators admitted that Michigan by itself could not prevent any diversions from the lakes, but argued that an interstate compact could help stop any diversion.

Asked if the issue was not eventually a lost cause for the Great Lakes states as the nation's population was shifting more towards the west and southern states with greater political impact, Padden said a political strategy will have to be developed to get an interstate compact approved by Congress, which must approve interstate compacts.

It was possible, he said, that the Great Lakes states could draw on the support of states that would not be involved in any specific diversion issue.

Blanchard said he would initiate discussions with other Great Lakes chief executives at their Nov. 16-18 meeting in Indianapolis on an interstate compact.

Last month, the House and Senate both approved a resolution, sponsored by Gagliardi, urging Congress to oppose any diversion of Great Lakes water.

Governor Creates Job Training Office

Blanchard recently announced the creation of a new office of Job Training and appointed Deputy State Superintendent of Public Instruction Eugene Paslow as director.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

After their discussion at the country store Saturday night, the fellers was full convinced a lot of Puritans go into reserch. Ed Doolittle said he had heard a Puritan is one that goes through life worrying that somewhere somebody is having fun. This piece on Halloween Ed had saw last week was trying to take the fun out of it fer everybody.

This year, Mister Editor, some children may of been led to a life of violent crime by Halloween, and some old folks might of been scared to death, but Ed couldn't recall any long-term damage from all the other Halloweens, and he couldn't see cause to be alarmed about the one this week. What got Ed started was a warning put out about all the antics of Halloween being hazardous to our health.

Fer instant, Ed reported, a professor at one school said we ought to stop make-believe haunted houses because we are teaching our children crazy values. Kids got to wonder, this resercher said, about grown people that make jokes of screaming ghosts, buckets of blood and headless bodies floating around. Besides, he said, old folks with bad hearts might just pass dead away at the sights and sounds of such. Another Puritan declared that all the pretending about demons gives kids chances to act like their heroes, and he allowed that "becoming a monster gives a child a great deal of confidence."

If that ain't bad enough on the poor kids, Clem Webster come with a report on the Justice Department wanting to do reserch in criminal trates in 2,000 boys between the ages of nine and 12. According to this piece Clem saw, somebody has found that being lefthanded is one tipoff that a kid is a natural born crook, and as a lifelong incurable southpaw Clem said he was powerful worried about this. Clem allowed that he had managed to stay out of jail through his three score and 10, not giving a minute's thought to having "innate criminal tendencies," and he was of a mind a lot of boys coming along are going to be surprised to learn they got these job skills.

Furthermore, Clem said, Justice ain't proposing to stop at weeding out southpaws, it wants to spend $500,000 to get the goods on boys with other common conditions like odd shaped ears, curved fingers and sweaty palms.

Bug Hookum was of a mind that most reserch ain't worth the paper it's reported on, much less the millions it cost. Bug had saw where one feller working for the New York Foundation spent $32,000 and three years reserching men and wimmen "social encounters" in 50 bars to find out that wimmen flirt better than men, which Bug said is ever bit as surprising as learning that winter follers fall.

Personal, Mister Editor, the best reserch I saw lately come from England, where they've been studying the best way to kill flies. Don't whack em on the biscuits, they say, be sporting about it. Take tissue in each hand, wait til the fly is flying and pop him between clapped hands in mid air. If I see anybody fly hunting this way I aim to report him to the Justice Department, no matter what age he is.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.BARBARA M. WEHR, D.D.S.

PODIATRISTSON YOUR FEET*A PAINFUL CALLUS

If you have a callus on your foot that has become increasingly painful, it may even cause you to limp until you get the treatment needed from your podiatrist. The cell structure of a callus is similar to a corn in that there is an increase of epidermal cells that cause pressure on the papillae of the skin. Unlike the corn, which is cone-shaped, however, the callus develops in flat planes. It is caused by friction and pressure on your foot. The resulting irritation increases the blood supply to the area, which makes the callus grow larger and more painful. Any acute pain is a signal that your foot needs immediate attention. In addition to the callus, there may be other lesions such as an ulcer, a pseudo-sinus, a hematoma, or a wart. There may even be a corn growing within the callus, adding to the pain. A callus is like a corn in another way, too. It is a symptom that there is something wrong with the structure of your foot. The symptoms won't go away until the problem is treated by your podiatrist.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Lee Markle

Ann M. Burgess, Clifford Markle Wed in Ann Arbor Ceremony

Ann Marie Burgess became the bride of Clifford Lee Markle in St. Francis of Assisi church, Ann Arbor, Sept. 24.

Father Terrance Healy performed the ceremony for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Burgess of Chelsea and the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Markle of Chelsea.

The bride wore the wedding gown her mother wore 25 years ago. The gown was of peau de soie and alencon lace. The lace bodice was trimmed with pearls and sequins. The long sleeves ended in pointed outline over her hands and there were lace insets at the back of the floor-length gown. She carried a cascade bouquet of white silk roses.

The matron of honor was Colleen Racenet of St. Johnsbury, Vt. She wore a floor-length, long sleeved gown of teal brocade. She also wore a heart-shaped monogrammed locket which was a gift from the bride couple. She carried a nosegay bouquet of wine and pink roses with lace streamers and wore flowers in her hair.

Bridesmaids were Mary Markle of Chelsea, sister of the bridegroom; Gail Middlebrook of Mason, friend of the bride; Sherry Conley of Chelsea, friend of the bride and Sue Brown, friend of the bride. They wore dresses and lockets and carried bouquets which were identical to that of the maid of honor.

Best man was William Brown. Ushers were Gregory Markle of Chelsea, brother of the bridegroom.

Vocation speaker was Martha Powers, who works at Eberbach's in Ann Arbor. She told of the challenge of her job in a scientific equipment manufacturing company.

New officers will be installed at the association's November meeting. Members will also bring gifts for this year's Christmas project, the Youth Haven Ranch.

The meeting was held at the home of club member June Wilson. Guests were Nancy Benjamin, Eileen Sayer and Cheryl Vogel.

Members then browsed in two rooms containing hundreds of baskets of all sizes, shapes and materials. Members were able to purchase any baskets on the spot and take them home that evening.

Co-hostesses for the evening were Carol Ghent and Carrie Noah.

A VIEW from the CLOCK TOWER

Bill Mullendore

It was worth waiting for. That sums up my reaction to Chelsea High school's new football field, which was put into play 12 days ago after a delay of about two months. It's a beautiful facility, and every taxpayer who has put a penny toward it should go out and take a look.

Actually, the opening evening turned out to be just a little bit too good for this observer. The new lights fooled me, and I ruined a roll of film with a wrong camera exposure setting. I just couldn't believe there was that much light out there.

There was, and I lost 26 pictures. I'm sorry about that, and apologize to all who hoped their photos might appear in last week's paper. I was dazzled by the bright lights and plain blew the picture-taking.

I used to wonder how potential pass receivers found their way into the end zones without the help of a leader dog, and the fact that once in awhile somebody actually managed to grab a ball out of the gloom was something to marvel at.

Not so now. Standing beyond the goal posts, I could read the fine print on my wrist watch which tells me the day and date. Before, I could barely see the watch.

The new track is awfully good, too. Quite unexpectedly, I was forced to test it when the first quarter ended with Chelsea in possession on the two-yard line and driving for a game-equalizing touchdown. That required a sprint of 120 yards to the other end of the field to get into position to see the score registered, and I made it in time.

Laden with camera and note pad, I didn't set any records for the run, but the surface felt fine as my feet bounced off it. It felt so good, in fact, that I went back a couple of days later properly equipped with track shoes and other running gear and did a very comfortable eight-minute mile, about 60 seconds under my usual sedate pace. It's a fine place to run, and I will continue using it so long as I can find my way through the system of gates and fences that surrounds the place. A whole lot of new wite has been put up.

Herewith a salute to athletic director Ron Nemeth, who worked his head off to get the football field ready for play. And I mean the kind of hands-dirty work that an administrator is not required to do under his contract. He was out there digging and shovelling, pushing and pulling from start to finish. He worked his tail off.

If everybody else involved had been half as zealous as Nemeth about getting the job done, Chelsea would not have had to play its first three "home" football games at Dexter.

Some things remain to be done. The east side (visitor) stands have to be replaced. Fortunately, the old ones were junked before they collapsed and caused a major accident. Use of the Dana softball field bleachers as a substitute is a good but temporary expedient.

Actually, the west side (home) grandstand isn't all that great and is not in keeping with the rest of the new complex. The suggestion from here for what is worth is that those bleachers be moved across the field, and new ones bought for the west side. Boosters and service clubs looking for a project to support might consider that one. Anyone interested should take a look at the Dexter grandstand, which is excellent.

The frosting on the cake for this reporter would be a new pressbox to replace what is absolutely the worst one that I ever tried to work from. You can't see inside either 30-yard line, and that makes accurate reporting more than a little bit difficult. It also explains why I walk the sidelines during games.

I've offered to design a new pressbox. All that remains is for somebody to build it.

Beach School Grid Program Successful

The Beach school football program closed out a successful program last week by playing a final game at Dexter and winning, 16-0.

This year, 68 boys reported for football—62 from the eighth grade and six from the seventh grade. Basically, the program is designed for eighth-graders with a smattering of seventh graders who are judged ready to play tackle football.

The players are divided into two teams: the "A" team made up of larger, faster boys and the "B" team composed of smaller players. The "A" squad played eighth-grade teams from other schools, and the "B" team played seventh-grade teams.

The "A" team played five games. Milan won the first game, 14-0. Chelsea then defeated Lincoln, 38-14, lost to Saline, 18-12, defeated Lincoln again, 38-12 and defeated Dexter, 16-0.

The "B" team lost to Milan, defeated Lincoln twice, and lost to Saline.

The squads were coached by Bert Kruse, who headed the junior high program; Bill Wescott who assisted with the A squad, and Sandy McLaughlin former Chelsea athlete who coached the B squad.

"We felt it was a successful season not only because of the records, but also because we saw advancement in the players skill and knowledge level," Kruse said. "It was a very coachable group, and we felt good that out of 68 boys who started we ended with 67."

Members of the A and B squads were:

Boy Harriers 2nd in SEC Dual Runs

Chelsea's boys cross country runners have come back strong after a slow start to finish second behind Saline in Southeastern Conference dual meet competition.

The final league standings showed Saline in front with a perfect 4-0 mark, followed by Chelsea at 3-1. The Bulldogs' only loss was to Saline.

Dexter finished at 2-2, Lincoln at 1-3 and Milan at 0-4. Tecumseh did not compete in boys cross country this year.

The boy Bulldog harriers defeated Milan, 17-44, on Oct. 18, over the Inverness Country Club course. Senior captains Allen Cole and Eric Green finished one-two, and Jared Bradley ran the best race of his life to come in third.

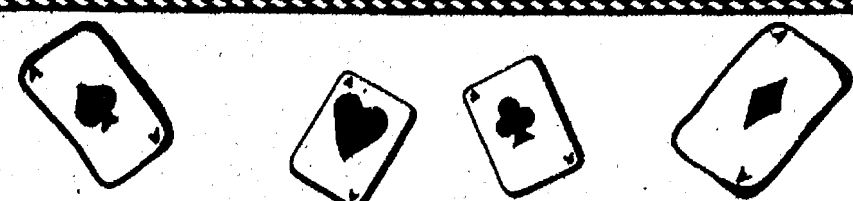

Chelsea places and times in the Milan match:

Cole (1) 17:23, Green (2) 17:24, Bradley (3) 17:34, Scott Cooper (5) 18:22, Craig Maciag (6) 18:25, Steve Hunn (8) 19:04, Kyle Kem-

JV Cagers Hit High, Low

It was the best and worst of the season rolled into one week for the Chelsea junior varsity girls basketball team.

According to coach Paul Terpstra, team members outdid themselves with their 40-39 win over Saline Tuesday, Oct. 18.

But the 45-30 loss to Dexter Oct. 20 represented their worst playing of the year, he said.

The junior bulldogs played with intensity and enthusiasm against Saline, Terpstra said. After their opponents jumped off to a 12-5 lead, Chelsea fought back to outscore the team 13-3 in the second quarter.

"After that it was close," Terpstra said.

Jenny Cattell was top scorer with 9 points. She was followed closely by Kris Zerkel and Laura Anderson, each with 8, and Kris Mattoff with 6. Zerkel and Anderson also excelled in rebounds with 15 each.

On defense, the team had an impressive 19 steals. Anderson took the ball from Saline 5 times and Cattell and Michelle Easton had 4 steals.

After the triumph on Tuesday, the loss to Dexter came as a blow. "It was a very flat ball game and the score showed it," Terpstra said.

Dexter led, 19-15, at the half and consistently outscored Chelsea.

Chelsea won, 43-29, the first time the teams met this season.

Country Music Star Visits Friends Here

Jim Riggins was a self-described "green kid" when he wrote the song. He spent over a year working on the music then, uncertain of its potential, sold all rights to a Nashville music production company.

The song, "What a Difference You Made in My Life," was subsequently recorded by country music star Ronnie Milsap and became a number one single, selling over one million copies. By selling all rights to the tune, Riggins figures he's lost some $300,000 in residuals.

That rude awakening was in the mid 1970s. Since then things have begun to look a little brighter.

Riggins, who now tours with Milsap's band and currently owns major interest in a music publishing firm, was in Chelsea to visit friends last weekend.

The friendly, soft spoken, musician met Gail Seyfried of Ann Arbor and her sisters, Terri McKenzie and Lynn Brown of Chelsea, while the women were visiting Nashville last summer.

The three sisters were vacationing in the city, hoping to visit some country western night spots—but they couldn't find any. All the bars in the city famous for its country music seemed to feature rock and roll bands.

One evening, Seyfried decided to approach a man sitting in a parked car to ask where they could hear some good country music.

"That's how we met," she said, laughing.

Milsap is currently on tour with Barbara Mandrell and Riggins took a short vacation to visit his friends in Chelsea.

"From what I've seen so far I really like it," he said. "Chelsea seems like such a nice town."

Riggins isn't bitter when speaking of "What a Difference You Made in My Life," a song he said he wrote for "no one in particular."

After Milsap recorded the song, Riggins was offered a job as a studio musician with the singer's recording company, RCA. The musician, who plays keyboards, base guitar and lead guitar worked on various projects such as promotions for country music and commercials for Bell Telephone and Pepsi Cola.

For the past couple of years Riggins has also been working with Milsap, as part of the singer's concert crew and as one of his three personal business managers.

His own music publishing and artist management firm, "Music Square Productions," is just getting started. His company currently manages the business of Judy Morrison who penned the gospel song "Child, Child," which was recorded recently by The Kingmen. Riggins said the song is doing well and anticipates it will be number one on the gospel charts by the beginning of the year.

Professionally things have been looking better for Riggins. And in a round-about way, he credits his selling the rights to the number one hit to the personal success he is now enjoying. Milsap has become a friend and looks benevolently on him.

"One reason I'm working now is that if you do something for him he'll remember you. I hope he doesn't forget me for awhile."

Aircraft Damaged By Shotgun Fire

Shotgun rounds were fired into the engine compartments of a helicopter and a fixed-wing airplane parked at the Cackleberry Farm airport at Mast and Strawberry Lake Rds. on Oct. 30, the sheriff's department reports. Damage was estimated at well over $100. The incident remains under investigation.

ONE FIELD OF HUSKED CORN looks pretty much like any other, but this one is special because it is the site of Chelsea's new industrial park on Sibley Rd. west of the Dana Corp. plant.

Husking of the corn is the first sign of "development" on the 70-acre tract. In background are the grain elevators of the Chelsea Milling Co.

Beach Students Join In EMU String Clinic

Thirteen Beach Middle school orchestra students were among the participants at the 1983 Michigan School Band and Orchestra Association (MSBOA) string clinic held Saturday at Eastern Michigan University.

About 217 students from 18 schools rehearsed in the morning and early afternoon in one of three string orchestras. Each group performed at 3 p.m. in EMU's Pease Auditorium.

Carol Palms, string teacher and orchestra director at Beach Middle School and the high school said the event was not a competition but a chance to learn new musical skills from students at other schools.

Conductors of the three orchestras were Gabe Villaurda of Ann Arbor, Dorothy McDonald of East Lansing and Bob Phillips of Saline.

Chelsea students taking part in the clinic were seventh graders: Diane Bruck, Karen Grau, Amy Jo Sanderson and Dena Stevens and eighth graders: Stephen Atkins, Laura Comeau, Kelly Dale, Kathryn Giebel, Cynthia Gieske, Jeff Kielwasser, Vanessa May, Calisa Tucker and Jeff Vetur.

The next orchestra concert in Chelsea will be Friday, Nov. 18 at 8 p.m. in the Chelsea High school gymnasium. The event will be a "Pops" concert with desserts, snacks and door prizes.

THE RAPE OF LIMA TOWNSHIP TAXPAYERS

The policies of the Lima Township Supervisor and Township Board have forced Lima Township taxpayers to pay over $8000. as of November 1981 and much more since then in the tax appeal case of Conlin vs. Lima Township only to lose and be severely reprimanded by the Michigan Court of Appeals.

This decision, favorable to Conlin, would help all landowners in Lima Township. It demands the assessor reduce land assessments where land contracts were used to assess. The assessor must discount land contracts to present cash value. In the last 5 years no farmland was sold by other than land contract. THEREFORE ALL FARMLAND AND MOST RESIDENCES WOULD HAVE TO HAVE THEIR ASSESSMENTS REDUCED.

Why are the supervisor and township board taking this action which is detrimental to ALL Lima Township taxpayers?

Do they work for us, the equalization department or the Michigan Department of Treasury?

WORSE: The supervisor and the township board have appealed to the Supreme Court who they hope will set aside this beneficial decision.

WORSE YET: Presently they are expending additional thousands of dollars to appeal this decision. The township is going to expend all these thousands when the absolute most additional money the township will receive for 1980 and 1981 is

Free Diabetes Tests Offered at Hospital

As part of Chelsea Community Hospital's and Chelsea Medical Laboratories promotion of Diabetes Detection Week, free blood tests will be provided at the Chelsea Community Hospital main entrance on Monday, Nov. 7 through Thursday Nov. 10, from 2 p.m. to 8 p.m.

Julie Say, R.D., community nutritionist, stressed the importance of eating a high carbohydrate meal, one with a large amount of starches and sugars, two hours before the test. A person planning to take the test after lunch could have a bowl of soup, a sandwich with two slices of bread, cake or pie for dessert, and a glass of milk. A person planning to take the test after supper could have a serving of meat, fish, or poultry, 1 cup mashed potatoes or a large baked potato, a hot vegetable, salad if desired, cake or pie for dessert, and a glass of milk. After the meal, nothing else except water should be taken before the test.

The free blood tests are meant for people who are 18 and older and not known diabetics. An estimated 200,000 persons in Michigan are diabetic and don't know it. Persons who are at high risk of developing diabetes are over 40, overweight, and related to diabetics.

If you have any questions regarding the blood tests, contact Chelsea Medical Laboratories, 475-1311, Ext. 402, or Julie Say, R.D., community nutritionist, 475-1311, extension 369.

The term "acid rain" was first coined more than 100 years ago by a British chemist, Robert Angus Smith. In 1852, Smith observed that as skies over Manchester became increasingly dirty, the rain became increasingly acidic. It wasn't until the mid-1960's, however, that acid rain became a focus of scientific study around the world.

New Theatre Group Presenting First Play

Suspension Theatre, a new theatre ensemble founded by three Chelsea area residents, will present its first production, Alexander Ostrovsky's 19th century Russian comedy "The Forest," on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Nov. 4-6 and 11-12-13.

Friday and Saturday performances will begin at 8 p.m., the Sunday performances at 6:30 p.m. and there will be Saturday matinees at 2 p.m. The performance Network at 408 W. Washington St., Ann Arbor. Tickets may be reserved by calling 475-1197; they will also be available at the door.

One of 19th century Europe's most influential playwrights, Ostrovsky's works remain popular in Europe but are rarely performed in this country. "The Forest," long considered one of Ostrovsky's classics, contrasts role playing on the stage with role playing in real life as it follows the adventures of two strolling players barnstorming the backwoods of provincial Russia. Andy Mennick, director of "The Forest," stated, "We've found the best way to bring out the humor in the script is to emphasize the visual and vocal elements in producing the play. We feel we have developed a really energetic and visually exciting show."

Suspension Theatre was formed this year by Mennick, John Nicolson and Brian Harcourt, all 1983 graduates of Iowa's Grinnell College. Mennick, a "long-time Chelsea summer resident" and assistant director of the Chelsea Players' 1980 production of "The King and I" said, "We were immediately attracted to this area as an ideal place to work and live. With the tremendous cultural diversity of Ann Arbor and the friendliness of Chelsea, we really feel we have the best of both worlds." John Nicolson, originally from Arlington, Va., and Brian Harcourt from Pendleton, Ore., are the other two core members of the ensemble. Both newcomers to Michigan, they play the two strolling actors in the production.

CHELSEA ARTIST BETH FORNER inherited her love of art from her mother and passed it along to her granddaughter. She has been painting still life portraits, seascapes and landscapes on canvas for almost 30 years. She also enjoys painting on china.

Father, Son Retire On Same Day

Monday was a momentous day for Walter Schrader and his son Larry.

Against all odds, the father and son each retired that day.

"It just happened that way," said Walter Schrader, of Chelsea.

After a varied career, Walter Schrader, 62, retired from the Intel Division of Chrysler Motor Corp. in Ann Arbor where he has worked as a repairman for the past 14 years. Prior to that he owned the Cavanaugh Lake Store for approximately 14 years. He also worked for 15 years at Central Fibre in Chelsea.

His son is retiring after 23 years in the Navy. Most recently he has been stationed at the Pentagon where he received the Joint Service Commendation for Superior Performance.

During his years in the Navy, Larry Schrader, 42, served as a medic. He served two tours of duty in Vietnam with the Marine Corps. He was also stationed for four years at a naval hospital in Naples, Italy.

Larry Schrader is one of two sons of Walter and Ruth Schrader. He and his wife, Mary Jane, have five children and one grandchild. After his retirement from the Navy he plans to work in North Carolina as an exterminator.

His father also has very specific plans for his retirement.

"I know there are a lot of fish in Cavanaugh Lake with my name on them," he said.

Halloween Quiet Night In Chelsea

Halloween was a quiet time in Chelsea, village police chief Robert Aeillo reports.

"We had no major incidents on either Halloween or the night before (devil's night)," Aeillo said. "There was no malicious destruction of property, no serious damage of any kind. We had one leaf fire which the fire department promptly put out."

Aeillo had extra forces on duty both evenings. "I think it helps for us to maintain high visibility," he commented. "What also helps a lot is the Kiwanis Club party on Halloween night. The kids are anxious to go, and it gets them off the streets early."

The Wage and Hour Division of the U. S. Department of Labor was established in 1938 to administer the landmark Fair Labor Standards Act, which contains minimum wage, overtime pay, recordkeeping and child labor provisions.

Beth Forner Recognized for Talent Shown in Art Hobby

Art has become something of a tradition in the family of Beth Forner.

Many years ago her mother expressed her talent by drawing pictures of animals to amuse her children as they sat around the kitchen table doing homework. For many years Forner has taken numerous art classes, producing beautiful still life paintings. And now, her granddaughter, Kim Forner, is attending Ferris State College to study commercial art.

But while Forner is full of praise for the talents of her mother ("She could draw the best likeness of a pig you've ever seen") and her granddaughter ("She really is very good") she views her own artwork with an ever critical eye.

A native of Canada, she moved to Ann Arbor in 1937. After meeting her husband, the late Albert Forner, two years later the couple moved to Chelsea.

Forner has been busy for almost 30 years, creating still life portraits of flowers, seascapes, landscapes and houses as well as painting on china.

She says she probably inherited her love of art from her mother, who never really had the time to develop her talent while she was raising seven children.

For a long time Forner never thought she would be able to devote much time to her artwork either.

"I always really wanted to paint but, with six children, I just never had time. Then when one of my sons was working in a drug store he came home one day with some paints and an easel and said 'Go ahead mom, get yourself a teacher and get started.'"

That was in 1956—she's been painting ever since.

In her first art class "all we did was paint bottles," Forner says.

But she progressed steadily, taking many teachers in the Ann Arbor-Chelsea area.

"Everytime you go to somebody new they can be so much different, but you really learn a lot," she says.

Today, her colorful paintings dot the walls of her home on Pierce Rd. and decorated china plates and cups line the walls of her dining room cabinet.

She has sold a number of her paintings, friends and relatives have often been recipients of others. She is a member of the Ann Arbor Art Association and this year was in charge of the arts and crafts booth at the St. Mary's church Fall Festival.

Forner usually uses oil paints, although she has experimented with watercolors and says she would like to learn more about their use. She would also like to become more skilled at portrait painting, but says she will stay away from her mother's specialty.

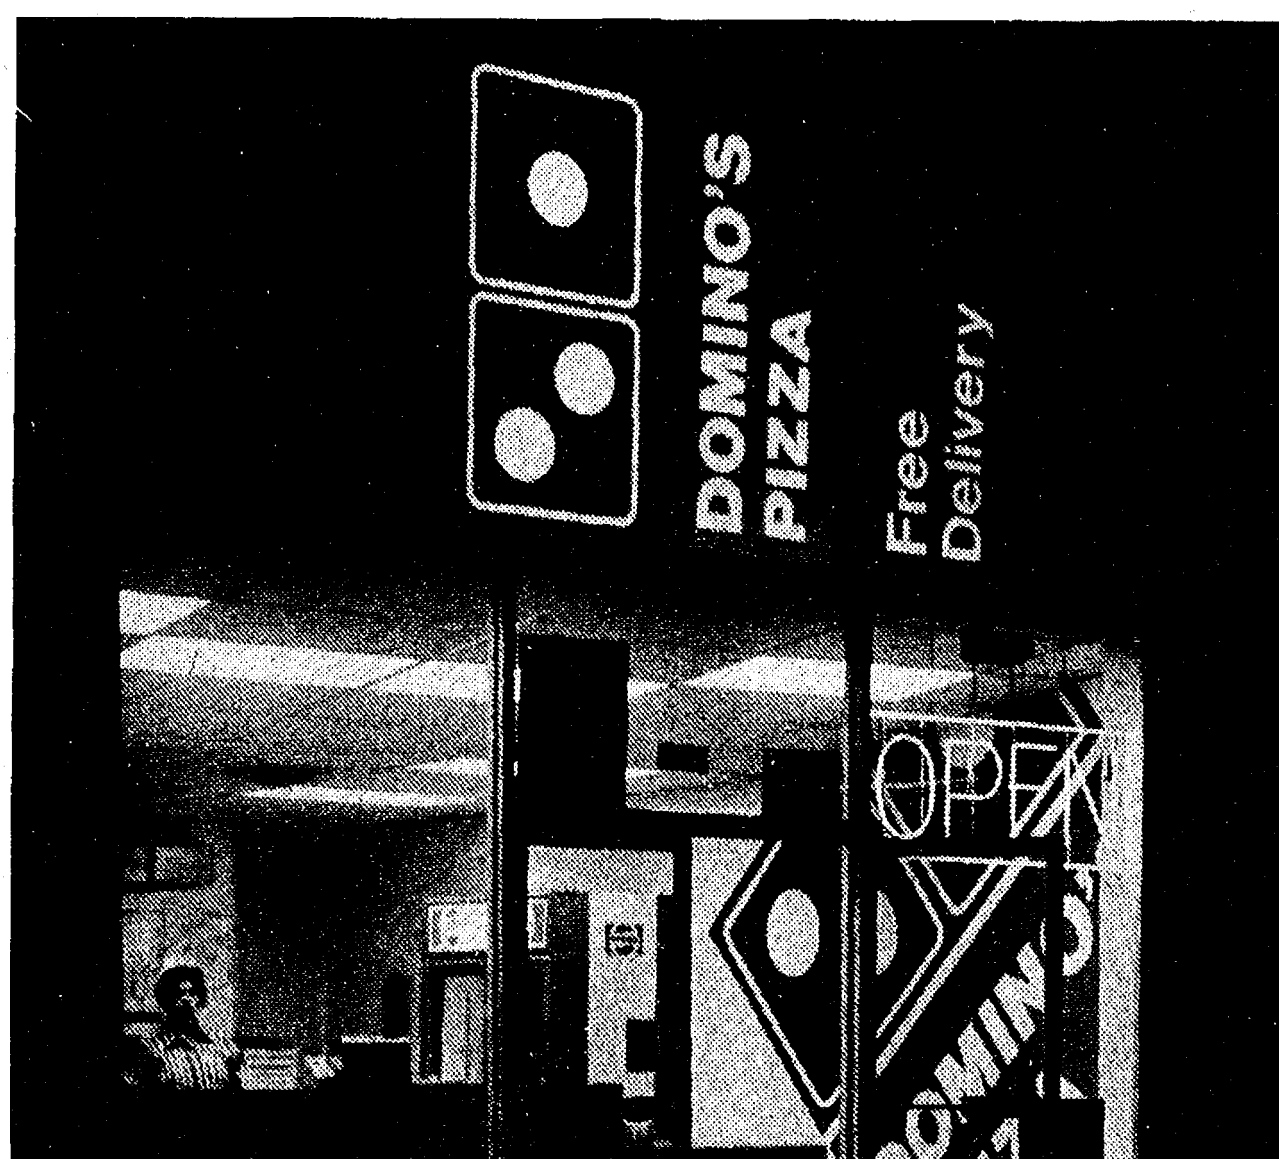

"I'm not crazy about drawing animals," she says.

Citizens Against Drugs To View PBS Presentation

Chelsea Citizens Against Drugs is sponsoring a group viewing and discussion of the PBS presentation of "The Chemical People," at Chelsea Community Hospital, tonight and Wednesday, Nov. 9 at 7:30 p.m.

The program will be aired on TV channel 23 at 8 p.m. both evenings.

"When we needed working capital, Ann Arbor Trust delivered."

The success of Domino's Pizza, Inc., the #1 pizza delivery business in the country, is a classic rags-to-riches story. Thomas Monaghan founded the Domino's chain in a storefront near EMU's campus, in 1960. Soon after, Monaghan opened two more stores in the Ann Arbor/Ypsilanti area. These three stores are represented by the three dots on Domino's well-known logo.

Based on the number of pizzas sold, Domino's has grown to become one of the top two pizza chains in the United States. Currently, there are over 1,000 Domino's stores in 48 states, over 30 new stores under construction.

The success of Domino's is attributed to several factors. Pizza, as a fast food, became very popular in the late 1950's, and Domino's is a tasty pizza made from fine ingredients. Equally important is Monaghan's marketing of Domino's as the only large chain to specialize in free, speedy delivery.

What's ahead for the successful pizza chain? Monaghan plans to make Domino's the largest pizzeria in the country.

"A business without hard assets like machinery and other heavy equipment can sometimes have a difficult time getting a loan. I should know. Three different institutions turned me down."

"Then I talked to Ann Arbor Trust. They went beyond simply looking at my statement and asking, 'Where's the collateral?' They took into consideration such things as character and our potential for success."

"And Ann Arbor Trust made a point of understanding my business."

"Many years ago, I peddled newspapers at the corner of Huron and Main Street in front of the Ann Arbor Trust Building. Little did I know that with their help I would one day own a successful, rapidly-growing business."

Mason Makes Big Plays To Defeat Chelsea Grid Team

Chelsea's varsity football team has played pretty solid defense all season long but has shown a tendency to give up an occasional "big play." That bad habit caught up with the Bulldogs last Friday night, and the outcome was a 28-17 loss to visiting Mason.

The defeat disappointed a big crowd of more than 3,000 on hand for the delayed Homecoming game, but they got their money's worth. It was a good football game with lots of offensive fireworks on both sides, exciting to watch.

Chelsea went into the contest lacking senior quarterback Marty Steinhauer, who had suffered a serious knee injury in practice earlier in the week. Pressed into a varsity starting role, sophomore Dan Bellus came up from the JV squad and played very well indeed, showing remarkable poise under pressure.

Bellus completed eight of 19 passes for 114 yards, and his record would have been better but for some drops of several well-thrown balls. His hand-offs were flawless, and the one Chelsea fumble in the backfield on a pitch-out play was not his fault. Had any one of three successive catchable passes been caught in the fourth quarter, the Bulldogs might have won the game.

Running back Jay Marshall turned in by far his best performance of the season by rushing for 156 yards in 19 carries and catching two passes for 55 more, putting him over the 200-yard mark in total offense.

Marshall got some excellent blocking help off the left side of the Chelsea line, with David Kiel and Chris Gallas leading the charge.

Scott Miller, the right halfback who doesn't get to carry the ball much, scored a touchdown on a fine individual effort. He has a knack for finding his way into the end zone when called upon inside the 15-yard line.

The local Bulldogs (Mason has the same nickname) opened the game well with an excellent 73-yard sustained drive for a touchdown after taking the opening kick-off. Bellus completed a pass to Marshall on the game's first scrimmage play, and that appeared to give him confidence for the rest of the game.

Marshall whammed in for the touchdown from three yards out, Rich Slater kicked the extra point, and Chelsea looked to be off and running with an early 7-0 lead.

Things turned around quickly as Mason's Brad Boilore caught the ensuing kick-off and ran it back 79 yards without a hand being laid on him, one of those "big plays" that the Chelsea defense has given up. An extra point followed, and it was suddenly a 7-7 ball game.

That change of momentum took the wind out of Chelsea's sails as they struggled through the rest of the half and yielded a touchdown on a Boilore two-yard run. The score was set up by a completion of a short pass over the middle, a five-yard toss turned into a 50-yard gain.

That short zone was open all night, and Mason took advantage of it to get into position for their two fourth-quarter scores that put the game away.

"I honestly don't think our coverage was all that bad," Chelsea coach Gene LaFave said. "Mason executed those plays perfectly, and we couldn't stop them. The balls were thrown quickly and accurately, and they were caught. We didn't get pressure on the passer, and that hurt."

Behind 14-7 at half-time, Chelsea rallied in the third quarter with a 40-yard field goal by Rich Slater and an 11-yard touchdown run by Miller to take the lead, 17-14, and once again appeared to be in control.

Mason went back to the short-zone pass, and moved for two fourth-period touchdowns. The last one came with just over a minute left and iced the game.

Chelsea was guilty of some shoddy tackling, but LaFave credited Mason for having caused it.

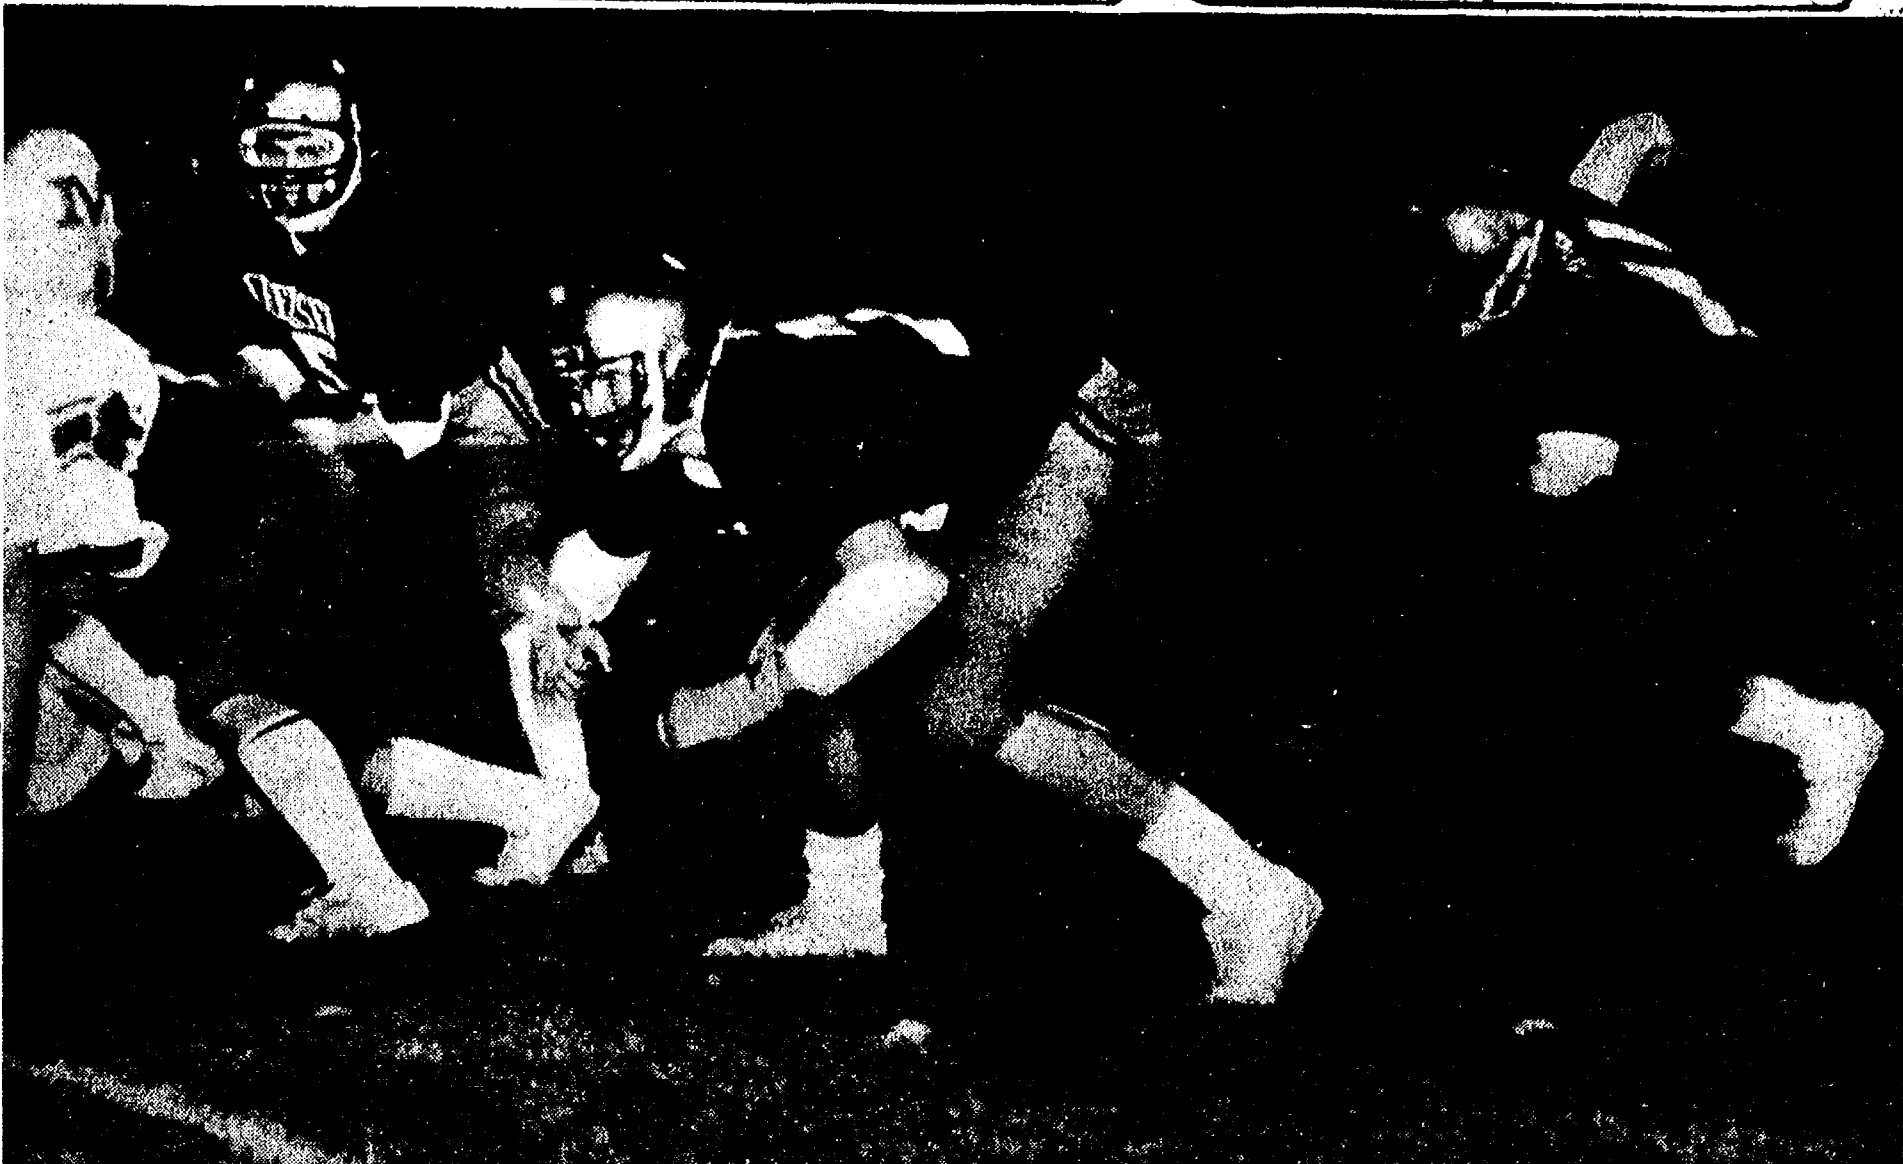

"We hadn't been blocked that hard before all season long," he said. "Mason took it to us. They always do. They are a very aggressive, very physical football team. Their record showed that they were inconsistent this year. They have had some good games and some poor games. They played very well against us, and were the best team we have faced all season."

Injury problems continue to plague the Bulldogs. Marty Steinhauer definitely will not play in the season-ending game at Pinckney on Friday. He faces probable surgery on his left knee, and his basketball status is doubtful.

Dave Walter, the Bulldogs' leading pass receiver and principal deep threat, went down with a crippled knee on the next-to-last play of the game. "I'm not sure what his condition is, but I'm not optimistic about it," LaFave said. "I'm waiting for a report from his doctors. He couldn't walk, and we had to carry him off, and that's a bad sign."

Chelsea goes into its final game of the season at Pinckney looking to salvage something from what has otherwise been a disappointing season. A victory would put the Bulldogs at 5-4 on the year.

"We'll come back, and we'll play hard at Pinckney," LaFave promised. "A winning record means a lot to us."

SOPHOMORE QUARTERBACK SHINES: Dan Bellus (facing camera) turned in an excellent performance when pressed into service as Chelsea's starting varsity quarterback last Friday night against Mason. The sophomore replaced injured senior Marty Steinhauer and played with exceptional poise after only two days of practice with the varsity. Here he has taken the center snap and is getting ready to hand off to Jay Marshall, charging up from the right.

A TOUGH BUNCH OF BLOCKERS: The Chelsea Bulldogs have done a fine job of blocking on the offensive line all season long, especially on the left side. Here they are braced to protect on a punt.

JV Gridders End Fall With 20-0 Loss to Mason

Chelsea's junior varsity football team wound up its season with a 20-0 loss to Mason last Thursday night, posting a 2-6 won-lost record for the year.

"I honestly don't believe we were as bad as the record shows," coach Ken Sullins said. "We had to play over a lot of problems, game after game. It seemed there was something new to try to overcome every week."

The problem last week was that JV quarterback Dan Bellus was practicing with the varsity, getting ready to play in place of injured Marty Steinhauer. Biff Buntun replaced Bellus and, according to Sullins, "did a very creditable job considering he had never taken a center snap during a game before."

The Bulldogs surrendered 20 points in the first half, and then shut out Mason the rest of the way. "We gave up a couple of big plays but otherwise were very solid on defense. Brian Robeson, Andy Fenton and Steve Whitesall played especially well."

Chelsea didn't move the ball much on offense, but Steve Wingrove and Fred Esch ran well under the circumstances, Sullins said.

"It probably was the most solid game we've played all season, even though the results don't reflect it," Sullins commented. "This team has had to overcome a lot of adversity, and I'm not at all unhappy about what they have accomplished. They have improved with every game, and that's all a coach can ask."

The JV's practiced with the varsity this week.

Mason Frosh Gridders Defeat Chelsea, 46-22

Mason's freshmen put up 46 points in the first half, then coasted to a 46-22 victory over the Chelsea frosh last Thursday afternoon.

"They are an awfully good freshman team," Bulldog coach Jim Tallman said. "I understand they scrimmaged against the junior varsity and beat them. That tells you something about the talent they have. Mason is going to be hard to handle at the varsity level for the next two or three years."

After falling behind, 46-0, at the end of the half, Chelsea rallied for three touchdowns to make the final score respectable.

A 40-yard run by Scott Frisinger set up a short plunge by quarterback Todd Starkey for the Bulldogs' first score, and Joe Eassa ran for a two-point conversion. Frisinger later went over on a 10-yard dash, and Rob McDowell got the third Chelsea TD with Starkey converting for two.

The defeat left the Chelsea freshmen with a 4-3 record for the season, a winning mark. "I think we did fairly well, all things considered, but this loss to Mason hurt," Tallman said. "They took it to us, and we just weren't ready to play that kind of a physical game."

Tallman named Frisinger, Starkey, Andy Box, Matt Steinhauer, Marty Poljan and Curtis Heard as players who might qualify for places on the varsity roster next year.

Chelsea Girl Harriers Make It to State Meet

READY TO RUN: Members of the Chelsea girls cross country team get ready to toe the mark and run over the Hudson Mills course at last Saturday's regional meet. The lady Bulldog harriers finished second to qualify for this Saturday's state championship meet.

Chelsea's girl cross country team qualified for this weekend's state meet with a strong second-place finish in last Saturday's regional run hosted by Dexter and raced over the Hudson Mills Metropark course.

The boys did not qualify as a team, finishing ninth, but Eric Green made it into the state finals as an individual by coming in 21st with a fine time of 17:08.5.

There was no way the Chelsea girls could beat talented Jackson Lumen Christi, but they gave it a good try despite having to go without their top runner, Robin Mock, and a sub-par performance from No. 3 Mary Ann Richardson. Both are battling illness.

Lumen Christi won with 23 points to Chelsea's 77. Dexter was third at 108, and likewise qualified for the state meet, which will be held over the tough Tyrone Hills course at Linden. Saline, Tecumseh and Milan all finished in the top seven, but missed out on getting into the finals.

"The girls were just remarkable," Chelsea coach Pat Clarke said. "The team has shown remarkable depth all season, and it paid off in the regional meet. With Mock out and Richardson running sick, we had to have super performances from the rest of the girls, and we got them."

Dexter's Linda Gardner was the first Southeastern Conference runner across the line, coming in fifth with an excellent time of 19:53.3.

Amy Wolfgang paced the Chelsea team with a time of 20:39.2 to finish 13th. Kim Collins was right behind her in 14th place, eight-tenths of a second slower. Stephanie Grant was 20th (20:59.2), Laura Damm 22nd (21:07.4), Melanie Flanigan 26th (21:18.2), Stephanie Roberts 28th.

The Job Training Partnership Act will train more than 1 million people a year of permanent, lasting jobs in the private sector, the U. S. Department of labor reported.

In the boys meet, Green ran the best race of his life to qualify for the state tournament. Allen Cole, Jared Bradley, Craig Maciag, Steve Hunn, Jason Creffield and Damion Creffield all ran well but did not finish high enough to win a spot in the state meet.

Jackson County Western won the regional title with a score of 66, and Lumen Christi was close behind at 81. Coldwater came in third to clinch the remaining state berth.

Dexter was eighth and Chelsea ninth. Surprisingly, a strong Saline team didn't make the final cut, coming in fourth despite fine individual efforts by Darrel Zeck and Mark Pogliano, who were second and 11th, respectively. Both will run as individuals in the state meet.

Dexter qualified Matt Parks (20th) for the state run. Mark Gibb, Eric Wireman, Mark Aufdenberge, Tom Schmidt, Tim Knapp and Robb Knapp were other Dexter placers.

SPORTS
NOTES

BY BILL MULLENDORE

Golf. It's a four-letter word. It is also the most exasperating, irritating, frustrating game that I have ever played, and I've tried most of the common sports at one time or another in my life.

Thus my congratulations are especially heart-felt toward the members of the Chelsea varsity golf team who finished second in the state Class B tournament, and would have won it had not some boy from Jackson Lumen Christi shot the lights out on the second nine of the Saskatoon Golf Club course near Grand Rapids. The kid carded a 34 in a drenching downpour. He may never break 40 again in dry weather.

Believe me, I know. I shot an honest 68 once on a fairly difficult 18-hole course, and figured I had finally mastered the game. Didn't hit a really bad shot during the whole round, and sank some putts that I still can't quite believe, including a couple of 50-footers that snaked their way into the hole as if they had eyes.

I went out the next day over the same course and shot a 92, which is about my usual speed. Same course, same player, same swing, same putting stroke, except that this time the ball went right and left off the tee and fairway, and curled around the cup. I've never since come within 10 strokes of that 68, but keep hoping that the miracle will happen again.

Golf is a crazy game. The swing is unnatural, a series of motions that the human body was not designed to carry out. The clubs and the ball are deliberately badly designed for their purposes—small surfaces aimed at hitting an ever smaller target. The swing, mallet and ball used in croquet make a lot more sense.

I'm told that tennis is just about as difficult, but haven't tried it. Before I was married, my bride-to-be confided that she had once received an "A" in a tennis class at the University of Michigan. Call it male chauvinism, macho spirit or whatever, I decided never to venture onto a tennis court with my wife, and never have. She is tough enough to beat at golf, and has whipped me a few times over short nine-hole courses. She doesn't hit the ball very far, but she hits it straight, and her putter is a deadly weapon. From 15 feet on in, she's an odds-on bet to sink the ball. I miss quite often from inside five feet.

Chelsea golf coach Ken Larson invited me to play a practice round with his varsity golfers at Inverness Country Club. I was properly grateful to have been asked, but declined after watching the boys sock their drives off the first tee. A 57-year-old near-senior citizen doesn't like to be shown up by a bunch of 17-year-olds. Fortunately, I had an excuse. My clubs weren't in my car.

High school golf doesn't get the headlines that go to football, basketball, baseball and track. Golf is not a spectator sport, except at the professional level. It is the hardest game to watch that I know of. You can either walk around the course with a foursome, or take a stand on one hole and see each player hit two or three shots. Not even the magic of television has managed to make watching golf good entertainment.

Despite its drawbacks from a spectator standpoint, golf just may be the most difficult—and therefore the most skilled—of all sports that people of all ages play. Most all-America or all-pro football and basketball players can't break 100 on the links.

One of the few golf tournaments that I have covered during my sportswriting life was a Big Ten title match played over the University of Michigan course nearly 30 years ago.

The word came into the press tent that some kid from Ohio State had finished with a 65 and set a course record. That interrupted a continuous poker game, and a round of show-down was dealt to decide who would to get the information and bring it back for all to share.

I got the low hand, and so was elected to find out who this player was. What's your name? I asked the stocky young man who was coming into the clubhouse.

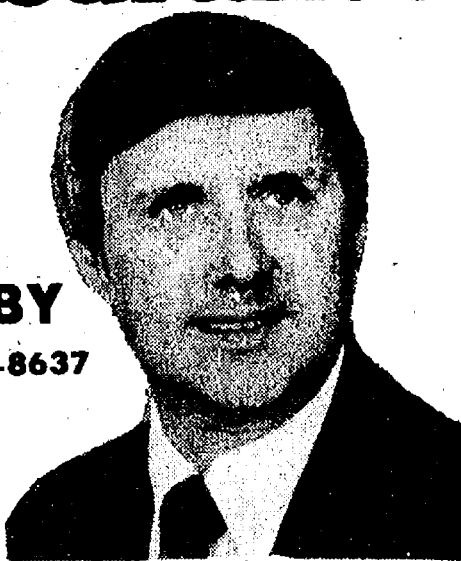

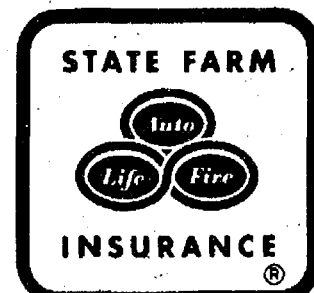

I'm Jack Nicklaus," he replied.

I didn't take the time to interview him because I had some money on the card table and was in a hurry to get back and protect it, and so missed the chance for an exclusive story on the man who was to become the greatest golfer in the history of the game. That's the way golf is.

Depth Is Difference as Girl Harriers Win SEC Meet

Depth has been the story for the Chelsea girls cross country team all season long, and it came across in spades last Tuesday as the Bulldog girls won the Southeastern Conference meet even though their top runner dropped out because of illness.

Running at Manchester's Carr Park, the Chelsea girls scored 38 points (low is what counts in cross country) to second-place Dexter's 57. Saline was third with 66, and Tecumseh and Milan trailed with 94 and 97, respectively.

Chelsea's Robin Mock had to quit a mile short of the finish line because of a cold, but it didn't matter from a team placement standpoint. The Bulldogs had four of the first 10 finishers, and placed two more in the top 16.

"Our winning score would have been a little better had Robin been able to run," Chelsea coach Pat Clarke said. "We had two other girls who were sick and did not run up to par. But the rest of the girls came through and ran exceptionally well. Our depth made the difference."

Sophomore Kim Collins ran the race of her life to finish third in the field, behind Dexter's Linda Gardner and Tecumseh's Jeanne Vanderheide.

Amy Wolfgang was fifth, Mary Ann Richardson eighth, and Melanie Flanagan 10th to join Collins in earning all-league honors. Stephanie Roberts came in a strong 12th and Laura Damm 16th to round out the Bulldog scoring.

Gardner's winning time was 20:30.2.

Chelsea placers and times: Collins (3) 20:55.3, Wolfgang (5) 21:23.8, Richardson (8) 21:34, Flanagan (10) 21:40.8, Roberts (12) 21:48.5, Damm (16) 22:21.1. The Bulldogs, who had been 4-0 in SEC dual meets, locked up the

FOOTBALL ROUND-UP:

Saline Wins Big In Bid for Play-Offs

The Southeastern Conference football season is over, with Saline the clear winner on a perfect 5-0 mark, but it is of interest to see how SEC teams fare through the rest of the season.

Of primary importance last Friday night was Saline's 45-0 victory over Class A Taylor Truman, a win that helped the Hornets mightily in their bid to make the state Class B playoffs.

Saline needs to finish first or second regionally in the computer-based rankings which determine who goes into the play-offs, and now solidly in second place, and can make it with a decisive victory over Riverview this Friday.

The Hornets put a lot of points on the board, but basically won with defense. It was their sixth shut-out in eight games, and that impresses the computer.

Lincoln, which has come back strong after a disastrous start and gave Saline its toughest battle of the season, defeated Ida, 7-0.

Dexter recorded a 9-7 victory over Jackson County Western, using tough defense to eke out the win. The Dreadnaughts, still lacking all-star running back Brad Kokmeyer who is injured, had only 83 yards in total offense but managed to win regardless.

Chelsea fell to Mason, 28-17, in a game that the local Bulldogs might have won except for some lapses on defense which had been Chelsea's strong point all season. Mason played its usual "physical" game including a lot of questionable late hits which the officials didn't call.

Columbia Central mauled hapless Milan, 56-12, and Eaton Rapids tripped Tecumseh, 14-6.

The temperature rarely falls faster than it did last Friday night at Niehaus Field. It was about 60 degrees at the 7:30 kickoff, with a warm wind blowing from the south. Shortly before the end of the first half, the bottom dropped out of the thermometer. There was a scurrying for warmer clothes at half-time. This reporter went home and changed into his duck-hunting gear, and so survived the second half in comfort. By game's end it was mighty cold out there.

Chelsea's new lighting system drew a rave review from Standard photographer Steve Worley, who missed the Oct. 21 Milan game because he was on vacation and was working at the new facility for the first time last Friday night.

"Hey, I can get a reading," he exclaimed as he set up his camera and recorded the light through an exposure meter. "There's actually some light out here. That's new to me. If we don't get decent pictures now, it's my fault. Before, all we could do was open the camera wide, push the film in developing, and pray."

Last Friday night's crowd was the largest this reporter has seen during his two years of covering Chelsea High school football. There must have been at least 3,000 people on hand. Unfortunately, there wasn't enough seating to accommodate them, and the parking situation was bad.

JV Cagers Earn Split in Two Games

The Chelsea junior varsity girls basketball squad split two games last week, losing a close game to Lincoln, 39-37, and triumphing over Tecumseh, 44-20.

Despite an outstanding fourth quarter, when the junior Bulldogs outscored Lincoln, 18-10, the team couldn't quite get ahead of their opponents, coach Paul Terpstra said.

The team shot poorly from the foul line but had 19 steals to 15 turnovers which Terpstra called a "good ratio."

Jenny Cattell was high scorer with 12 points. She was followed by Michelle Easton and Laura Anderson with seven points each and Trisha Mattoff with five points.

Cattell was also top rebounder with 12. Cris Zerkel had eight rebounds.

Leading in steals was Easton with six.

Thursday's victory over Tecumseh was sweet, since the team had won 40-36 over Chelsea earlier in the season.

Cattell had 16 points and nine rebounds. Anderson had 12 points and 13 rebounds.

The team's record is now 8-7 over-all and 4-5 in the conference.

Girls Swim Team Loses Two Meets

The Chelsea girls swimming team presented some very good performances, but couldn't beat opponents Albion and Milan in separate competitions last week.

The team dropped its meet with Milan, 106-58, Tuesday, as well as its competition with Albion, 97-71, Thursday.

Two swimmers set season best records against Albion on Parents Night. Pam Mullaly finished fourth in the 50 free with her best time this season, 32.5. Anne Albrecht finished fourth in the 100 free with her season record of 1:16.94.

Also swimming well against Albion were Paula Colombo, who finished first in the 200 free as well as the 100 butterfly, and Susan Schunk who finished first in the 50 free and the 100 breast.

The team also swam well against Milan on Tuesday, coach Von Acker said. The swimmers had put all their efforts into trying to make state qualifying times in the two relays, but did not succeed.

Following are the scores of Chelsea swimmers in the match with Albion:

OUT IN THE OPEN

By BILL MULLENDORE

Unless the Legislature has a collective change of mind, which is unlikely, this is the last year of the put-take pheasant hunting program. This fall's season has been cut back by about half, in terms of dates, hunting areas and numbers of birds to be released, and the whole thing is scheduled to be abolished when the season ends on Nov. 14.

The put-take experience strikes me as a "noble experiment" which, like national prohibition of alcoholic beverages back during the 1930's, was well meant but didn't work.

Put-take pheasant hunting was established during the mid-1970's thanks to then state Sen. Garland Lane of Flint. Lane wasn't a hunter and could have cared less, but he had a constituency to answer to. The voters who elected him demanded that something be done to replace the wild pheasant hunting that had gone to pot. As chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, Lane was in a position to dictate, and he did.

The Department of Natural Resources received a legislative mandate to get going on a program to raise and release pheasants on public land for hunters to shoot under a special license. The thinking was that the license fees would underwrite the costs. Like so many projections of government expenditures and income, that one never came close to reality. The program operated under huge annual deficits from its beginning, and thus the decision to close it out in these times of tight budgets when even legislators have gotten the message that money means something.

Following Sen. Lane's directive, the DNR cranked up and modernized the old state game farm near Mason and went into the business of raising pheasants. The poultry science department at Michigan State University was invited into the venture, and joined it. The early results were "laughable," MSU came up with a five-pound pheasant that couldn't fly. The birds were ground-swatted as they ambled over open ground like domestic chickens.

That breeding mistake was rectified, and a pretty decent strain of pheasants was eventually developed. They didn't behave quite like wild birds, but they were close enough so that an indiscriminating hunter didn't mind the difference. The problem was that those pheasants cost about $5 each to raise, and at last report the state was charging $13.25 for a permit to harvest five of them. Simple arithmetic tells you that is a losing proposition.

I believe there is a place in Michigan for put-take pheasant hunting. A whole lot of years ago I had something to do with securing passage of a law which allows operation of private shooting preserves. The thinking was that busy persons who could afford the price would be able to go out for a couple of hours and be guaranteed something to shoot at, and it is still valid. The going rate for a pheasant is about $10, and that is a fair price. It costs that much to raise the bird and make a profit on it. Pheasants aren't easy to rear, like chickens are, and they can't be sold for 49 cents a pound dressed if any money is to be made.

I have hunted pheasants on private preserves and found the experience reasonably gratifying, although expensive. I have hunted on state put-take areas and didn't like it. Every time a bird went up there was a shower of shot, and I just plain don't like pellets coming down around my ears, even if they are spent and can't hurt.

The rear-and-release program is best handled by private enterprisers catering to those who can afford the time and money. The state should never have gotten into the business. A government program that ran up a deficit of more than half a million dollars a year and served fewer than 100,000 persons cannot be justified on any basis. There are private shooting preserves out there for anybody who wants to pay the honest cost of a shot at a live bird.

Pheasant Hunting Poor, Deer Kill Also Down

Pheasant hunting has been poor this fall as predicted, although Department of Natural Resources field men continue to say that the bird population is up a little bit from last year.

Locally, there was almost no turn-out of hunters for the Oct. 20 opener, and continuous rain pretty well washed out the first weekend of the season.

Former Conservation Officer Don Boyer, who lives in retirement in Florida but returns to the Chelsea area to hunt every fall, reported bagging a bird on the second day of the season.

"It was the only rooster I saw in two days of hard hunting with two good dogs, and I feel darned lucky to have gotten it," Boyer said. "The birds are very scarce. It's hard to believe how few there are in comparison with the old days."

The archery deer kill is also down, but the problem is not a shortage of game. The local deer population is probably at its highest level since southern Michigan was re-opened to deer hunting in 1946.

Archers have been fighting a late leaf fall which has reduced visibility to close to zero in the woods. Success should pick up now that the leaves have finally started to drop. Hunting pressure is unexpectedly light, considering the bumper deer crop.

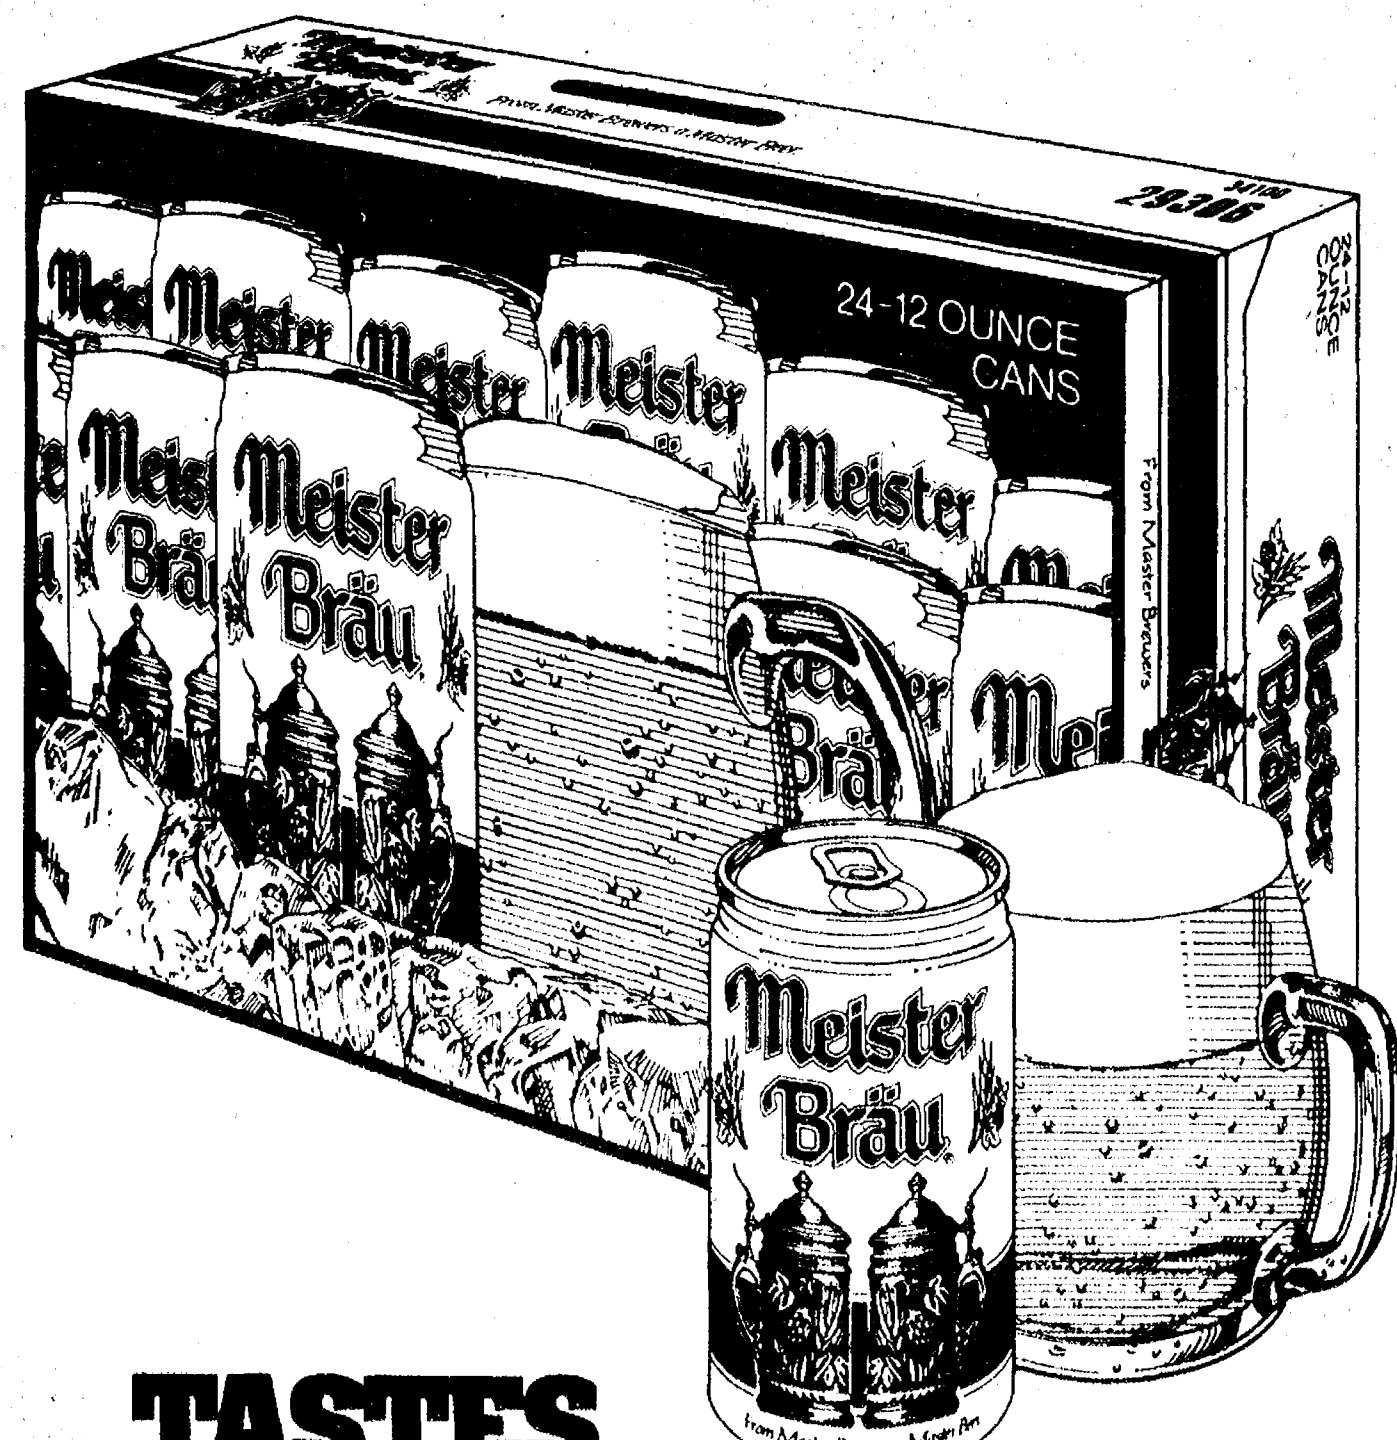

Sunday, Nov. 6, has been designated Catholic Youth Organization Sunday, marking the CYO's golden anniversary of service.

A GOOD TIME HAD BY ALL: The Loyal Order of Confirmed Deer Hunters and Deer Slayers of America Amalgamated (TLOODH&DSOAA) pronounced "Tloodsooa" with tongue in cheek, held its 32nd annual meeting at the Chelsea Rod and Gun Club last week. Pictured are president Charles Fredette (left) and Reuben A. Lesser, a charter member of the organization which held its first meeting in 1951. It's strictly a fun group, and they had a lot of it.

Letters to the Editor

Editor's Note: The following letter has been sent to Gov. Blanchard, Sen. Pollack, Rep. O'Connor and Corrections Dept. Director Perry Johnson.

To the Editor,
We are writing concerning the on-going problem at Cassidy Lake Technical (School?) Prison, located in Lyndon township, Washtenaw county. We live one mile from the prison.

In 1979 we were broken into while no one was home. A few small items were taken. After that we took special precautions to prevent easy break-ins. Two weeks later while I (Heidi) was at home another prisoner was walking around our home looking in. I scared him off. By the time a head count (the only security(?) available there) was taken, he was back with the other prisoners. We have just recently learned that when one calls in an escapee from Cassidy Lake they wait two hours before doing a head count in hopes of finding the walk-away themselves; and then having to report nothing.

That same year a young couple came to the State Waterloo Recreation Area (in which this completely non-secure prison is located) for a walk through the trails in the woods which surround the prison. On one of these trails they met a prisoner who by knife point raped the woman. Also, that year another one of the escapees killed the person he was hiding with in Ann Arbor.

There were township meetings at which we were told a fence around the prison would bring in more serious offenders (they would reclassify the prison from minimum to medium security—what is more dangerous than murderers and rapists anyway?) and that uniforms would make the guys really try to break in to homes to get a change of clothing. The only visual outcome of those meetings were a few signs.

There are no fences, few head counts; some prisoners stay a short time so they are not even on the roster. They wear whatever they want (we are told they are issued uniforms, but do not have to wear them).

We are prisoners in our own homes, living in what is known to most as a recreation area. This past spring while I (Heidi) was home with my two small children (ages 3 years, and 2 months) two prisoners from Cassidy Lake came to my home and tried to break in (they smashed one layer of glass of my living room window). Because of our screams they ran off and did not get in. The prison, when called, first said as usual no one was missing. However, because of my quick action in calling the police another check showed two missing. They were caught trying to walk back in. I have had many sleepless nights since that evening.

Last Monday, Sept. 5, 1983, I (Heidi) was walking up my driveway to get the newspaper when I saw two prisoners walking out of the woods across the street. I ran back into my home and called the police. Of course, the camp said they had no one missing, but after the sheriff's car came, there was a state police car and two state prison cars up and down the road.

This prison is no prison! Anyone can walk in or out at anytime under the cover of heavy woods. We wonder why these prisoners leave; the grounds are so beautiful it should be a pleasure being there. How can the state buy 26,000 plus acres called Waterloo Recreation Area and place a minimum security prison in it. Today with overcrowding in prisons there are no minimum security prisoners. They are all on probation! So give the people of Chelsea, citizens of Michigan, and vacationers of Michigan a real recreation area and close Cassidy Lake Prison. Free us from this completely unsecured prison before one of our neighbors or us is raped or killed.

This prison was designed and built many years ago as a vocational training school for area residents. It is not adequate to house today's breed of prisoners. Again, it is a fallacy to assume such a thing as low risk prisoners. They are all dangerous! We are scared of the state's non-concern for our safety. What about our rights? Our safety? Our peace of mind?

The inmates of this prison are not minimum security risks. Anyone even vaguely familiar with the criminal justice system (my husband is a 10-year veteran of Ann Arbor Police Dept.) knows that to land in Michigan's prison system, one has to be a repeat offender (5 to 10 felonies on the average). It is well known today that rehabilitation of prisoners is a joke. It does not happen. Let's protect the citizens of this state.

To make a long story short, all that we're asking you to do is use common sense and have a legitimate concern for us, citizens of this state. These youths confined (?) here are not low risk first offenders. They are indeed dangerous felons. The state is allowing them to prey freely on their neighbors, us. Please help us. Take our civil rights into consideration for once, instead of the poor deprived criminals.

We realize criticism is not much use unless constructive alternatives are given in their stead. Cassidy Lake holds approximately 300 free-spirits now. They could first of all be relocated. Suggestions are to a U.P. sparsely populated area, or at least an area which can be secured (no lakes, woods, etc.). If you are familiar with the grounds here at Cassidy Lake, you know the area is not conducive to adequate security. The camp and grounds surround Cassidy Lake. The area is beautiful! Sell or transfer the property to the state park system (recreation). We are sure with its location close to Ann Arbor, Jackson, and Metro Detroit area and its idyllic wooded setting adjacent to many acres of state recreation land it could be a big money maker for the State of Michigan as a recreational campground for hunting, fishing, skiing, hiking and camping.

We do not believe the state could afford not to remove this prison. The day is coming when there will be bloodshed. Many of our neighbors are arming themselves. Let's not pretend it could not happen. Look what happened very recently in California to a family of four that were hacked to death by a prisoner from a neighborhood minimum security prison (more secure than what we have here). Help us!

If you are not moved to action on moral, ethical grounds, at least be responsible as elected officials of the state in protecting the lives of its citizens.

Once again, please help us! We are scared to death for ourselves and our children. Take positive action before it is too late for us, or our neighbors. Thank you for a bit of your valuable time.

Sincerely Scared to Death,
Gary and Heidi

Dear Editor,

I would like to suggest that each woman demonstrate her belief in peace, not war, by staying home on the 10th of November, the day before Nov. 11 Veteran's Day. I suggest that leaders of women's clubs, church groups, organizations and each and every woman remain in their homes Nov. 10 to bring focus and attention on how strongly they feel we must have peace.

My friends and I have spoken on talk shows, written letters, cards, made phone calls to all influential people to show how much we must have peace and only fight to defend our own great nation by putting the United States first.

I am begging all women to stay home for peace, on Nov. 10, the day before Veterans Day. Then maybe the politicians will take note and protect us. I will be glad to talk to anyone who wishes to support the idea of "Women Stay Home" Nov. 10 the day before Veterans Day.

My first husband, a major in World War II was killed while overseas defending our great nation, the United States. Our only child, a daughter was five years old. Our family knows the suffering and pain that war always brings.

I may be reached at 426-4962.
Marjorie A. Smith.

To the Editor,

United States tax dollars are being used to subsidize Communist countries and deadbeat nations everywhere. A cessation of this aid will not only save the U. S. taxpayers billions but will also curtail the ability of America's enemies to wage war.

In 1982 the World Bank vice-president promised the Chinese Communists $2 billion per year of the bank's funding. Twenty percent of these funds come from U. S. wage earners. In 1981, the Reagan Administration proposed an authorization for $12.8 billion in additional funding over the next three years. In 1982, the President authorized a $1.2 million dollar short-term loan to Brazil which was already $80 billion in the red. In August 1982, Mexico was given $1 billion in commercial bank loans guaranteed by Washington and $4.5 billion in credits from the I.M.F. In November 1982, loans were made to Marxist Zimbabwe totalling $300 million.

In January 1983, I.M.F. delegates meeting in Washington agreed to expand their lendable resources by $2.5 billion. The money will be made available to the likes of Communist Romania, Communist Yugoslavia and what Patrick Buchanan calls "the bankrupts, the freeloaders, the deadbeats, the insolvents, the illiquid."

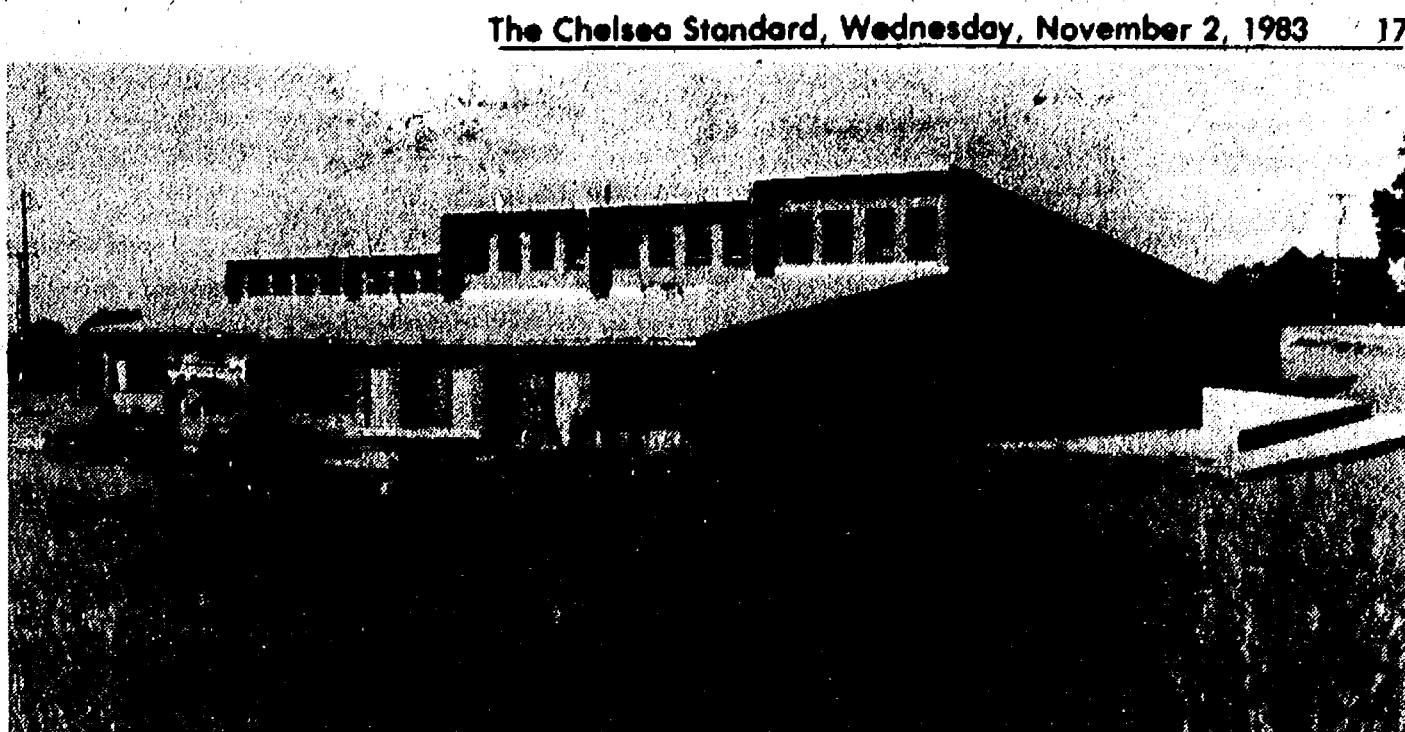

Powerful international banks, especially those in the U. S. have overextended themselves with loans to nations who can't pay but the American taxpayer can—and does.

It is madness to be asked to defend ourselves against an enemy we have helped to create and continue to strengthen. It is also madness to be asked to disarm while tyrants seek world domination.

Sanity demands that we freeze the flow of U. S. technological know-how, U. S. loans and loan guarantees and U. S. tax dollars to our avowed enemies. This solution to the arms race will not only save the U. S. taxpayer billions—it may also prevent national suicide.

EMERSON SCHOOL has moved into a new, permanent home on the corner of Scio Church and Zeeb Rds. The private school for academically talented children now has an enrollment of 150, growing rapidly from 10 students when the project was started 10 years ago in a Plymouth church classroom.

Emerson School Moves To New Permanent Home

A new school house proudly sits atop one of Washtenaw county's highest hills on the corner of Scio Church and Zeeb Rds. Moving-in day was Saturday, Oct. 29. This uniquely designed building will be the home for 150 Emerson school children.

For Jean Navarre, founder and director of this school for the academically talented, it is a long way from Emerson's debut 10 years ago in a Plymouth church classroom with just two teachers and 10 students. One year later she moved her fledgling school to the West Side United Methodist church Sunday school building on S. Seventh St., Ann Arbor, where they have been ever since.

By 1977 she knew her school needed to move again.

"The time had come for us to have a permanent home in Ann Arbor," she said. "It was time to become an established part of the community and give the school a sense of permanence."

The first step toward this permanent home began in 1980 with the purchase of a 10-acre parcel of farmland on Ann Arbor's west side. Navarre remembers those uncertain times.

"Glenn Hellner, an Emerson parent, found the land for us," she explains. "He gave me the support I needed to go ahead. He said, 'Come on Jean we're going to build you a school.'"

As it turned out, Butcher & Willets, Ann Arbor contractors, actually built her the 12,000 square foot building with the financial backing of the Ann Arbor Trust Co.

Harry S. Kowalewski and Associates, also of Ann designed the $750,000 brick and cinder block building which has a kindergarten room, six elementary classrooms, a middle-school room, both a science and a fine arts room, a temporary open-air library and office space and a large commons area—plus mandatory bathroom facilities.

Kowalewski, who is also a professor of architecture at the University of Michigan, is pleased with his building that hugs the side of the hill. He is particularly proud of the building's innovative corridor design. It fills the dual role of solving the problem of building on the side of a hill and incorporating passive solar energy concepts into the building.

He explains that the hall unifies the commons areas with the various classrooms and at the same time slowly snakes its way up the hill.

"The corridor is a very gentle ramp that starts out at the lower ground level and climbs along the classrooms to the higher level. By the time you get to the higher elevation you are four feet higher than when you started."

"This four foot lift between classrooms enables us to introduce a clerestory concept," Kowalewski explains that the design will allow for the use of passive solar energy. "The low-angled winter sun comes in through these third story (clerestory) windows and warms and brightens the central space."

There are also indoor windows in each classroom which open into the central space. This allows the heat to circulate from the commons area into the classrooms in the wintertime and for cool breezes to flow through the building in the summer months.

The commons area central space will be used not only as a solar collector but as an indoor play area, a multi-purpose study area, a concert hall, and a place for arrival and departure.

"The central space is largely undefined," explains the architect. "It will take shape and mold to things depending on what the children are doing. It also gives the school a sense of community which is important to Emmerson."

One aspect of the community feeling at the school is the helping role parents take. They have contributed time, money and talent to make the new building a reality.

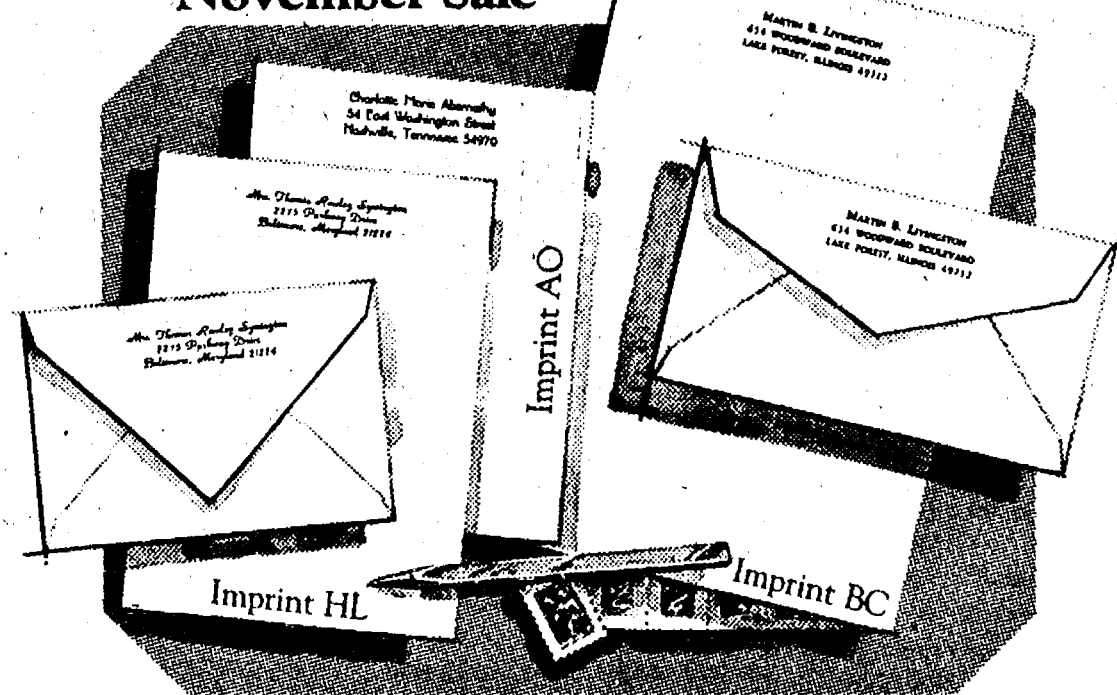

Last spring they held their first annual Country Fair. Parents sold everything from baton twirling lessons to home-made egg rolls. Their one-day effort raised $2,000 to buy new student chairs.

Their next big project was painting the classroom's cinderblock walls. Tim Wilson, an Emerson teacher and part-time summer painter, and his cadre of parent volunteers and teachers have spent nights and week-ends putting the finishing touches on the window sills and walls.

The parents have been the key to success in this building project, according to Navarre.

7th Grade Cagers Post 5-5 Record

The Chelsea seventh grade basketball squad finished its season last week with a 5-5 record.

Coach Ann Schaffner said the young team "showed continued improvement throughout the season."

"Hopefully (the players) will work hard individually on shooting and ball handling between now and next season to make the most of their athletic ability."

The team split the last two games of the season, downing Milan, 23-14, and losing to Saline in overtime, 23-20.

In the Oct. 26 game with Saline, a foul shot by Kelly Scott tied the regulation game with five seconds on the clock.

IT'S A LAKE AGAIN: Hi-Land Lake south of the village of Hell has been dry for nearly two years following a break in the dam across the Portage River, but it's rapidly filling up again with completion of a new dam. The water level isn't up to normal yet but is quickly getting there.

Impressions Vary Sharply On Cassidy Lake Meeting

How successful was last week's meeting of the Cassidy Lake Community Liaison Council with Perry Johnson, director of the Michigan Department of Corrections? The answer depends on to whom you talk.

Council chairperson Mary Beth Dettling said, "I walked away from the meeting feeling good about Cassidy Lake and Perry Johnson. He was very receptive and responsive, and gave us a lot of new information. He has made some changes and suggested he is willing to consider more as the result of an on-going dialogue with the council."

Not nearly so optimistic was Phil Boham, council vice-chairman. "We have a stalemate with the Department of Corrections," Boham said. "They've made some superficial changes but haven't really done anything important. There is a lot more that could be done."

Nature Center Repeats 'Salute to Cranes' Program

Waterloo Nature Center is having a repeat of its Oct. 23 program "Salute to Cranes," Saturday, Nov. 5, from 2 to 5 p.m.

The Nature Center is known for its Sandhill Crane population. Participants of the program will see a movie and hear a lecture on the ecology and behavior of these animals and will then take a backroads automobile tour in search of the elusive birds. The program will conclude at the Haehnle Sanctuary where hundreds of cranes may be observed as they return to roost.

Participants are advised to dress warmly and pack a snack and beverage. Cost of the program is $2, with members receiving free admission.

The Nature Center is located at 17030 Bush Rd., Chelsea. Take I-94 to exit 157 and proceed north of Pierce Rd. Turn left on Bush Rd.

Ron Olmsted, chairman of the ad hoc Committee To Fence Or Close Cassidy Lake, is a member of the council but not of the executive committee, and so was not invited to attend the meeting. He didn't like what he heard and read about the session.

"From what I can tell, Johnson just continued to stonewall," Olmsted said. "I get the impression he thinks our committee is going to let up in its campaign to stop the escape problem. I've got news for him. We aren't going to let up. He and the Legislature are going to continue hearing about this problem until they do something meaningful to correct it."

For the record, the last walkaway from Cassidy Lake occurred Sept. 13, more than six weeks ago. That is typical of the annual escape pattern at the institution. Run-offs peak during the spring and summer, then drop sharply during fall and winter.

This year's drop in the escape rate coincided with the new security measures which included stepped-up foot and car patrols around the 88-acre grounds, more frequent head counts, and special housing and supervision for new inmates. Some re-screening to try to identify potential escape risks has also been done.

The liaison council had recommended to Johnson that no persons convicted of assaultive crimes or of crimes involving use or sale of drugs be sent to Cassidy Lake. Johnson rejected those suggestions as impractical, considering the present mix of persons in the state prison system.

It was also suggested that screening be used to identify prisoners who could benefit from the school's educational and vocational training programs. Average length of individual inmate stay presently is six months, a very short time to earn a high school diploma or master a skilled trade.

"Mr. Johnson told us that effective training is possible over a period of six months and that the 1,000 young men a year who pass through Cassidy Lake is not an excessive number," Mrs. Dettling said. "We don't hear about the successes they have, only the failures. (The prison has a rated capacity of 270 inmates.)"

"He said there is no known psychological test to predict the potential for escape. Crime is not predictable. Individual situations and circumstances have to be looked at."

"I think they are doing the best they can (at Cassidy Lake) although I believe there can be some further improvements in the screening process, which was kind of sloppy for awhile," Boham left town on business immediately after the meeting and was unavailable for further comment.

Olmsted made it clear he is not satisfied and will continue to press to have Cassidy Lake fenced or closed as his 1,300-member committee of local citizens demands.

"I'm getting some price quotes on cyclone fencing with concertina wire on top and a rat wall underneath," Olmsted said. "From what I've found out so far, it isn't nearly as expensive as the Corrections Department would like you to believe."

"We're not talking about fencing the whole 88 acres, including the lake. We're looking at maybe 20 acres where the buildings are. The rest of the grounds outside the fence could still be used for recreation, gardening and the like, provided they were done under proper supervision."

Olmsted said he had heard a report that Cassidy Lake might be converted into a correctional institution for young women. "I don't know if there is any truth to it or not," he said, "but it's an interesting idea. It might solve a lot of problems."
