Hatch Stamping Moving to Chelsea

IPSCO PLANT FROM AIR: The size of the 49,000 square-foot Industrial Plastic Specialties Co. (IPSCO) plant which has been bought for "a little under a million dollars" by Hatch Stamping Co. of Dexter is indicated in this aerial photo taken earlier this year while the leaves were still on the trees. Availability of a large amount of space was a key factor in the Hatch firm's decision to move here. The small structure at left front is the "office" part of the building, which has been vacant for three years.

AND FROM GROUND LEVEL: Although unoccupied since 1980, the IPSCO building and surrounding grounds are in good condition, thanks to the fact that Chelsea Milling Co. has been using the facility as a warehouse and has maintained it. Hatch Stamping will begin moving in during the week of Dec. 5 and expects to be in full operation by the first of the year.

Dexter Firm Buys Old IPSCO Plant For Space Needs

Hatch Stamping Co. of Dexter has bought the former Industrial Plastic Specialty Co. (IPSCO) plant in Chelsea and will begin moving its operations in early December.

The plant entrance is at 570 Cleveland St., east of Cavanaugh Lake Rd. and north of the Conrail tracks.

The announcement was made by Arley Fredette of Ann Arbor, president of Hatch Stamping. The firm presently employs 33 persons in the manufacture of small precision metal stampings—brackets and clips—for the automotive industry.

Fredette said the firm has outgrown its building at 8155 Huron St., in Dexter, cannot expand there because it is hemmed in by surrounding properties, and had to find space to grow.

"We started looking last May, considered several locations, and decided that Chelsea is the right place for us to go," Fredette said. "The old IPSCO plant will meet our needs very nicely. A strong factor in our decision was that the plant is available and, Chelsea officials greeted us with open arms. They have been extremely co-operative."

The IPSCO plant has 49,000 square feet of manufacturing floor space, compared to Hatch Stamping's present 21,000 in Dexter. "If we continue to grow as we have been, we expect to use all the added space and hire some new employees," Fredette said. "I can't honestly estimate how many more people we may eventually need. That will depend on the orders we get from our customers."

Hatch Stamping presently sells most of its production to Ford, Chrysler and Eaton Automotive. It did a $4 million gross volume of business last year.

The company was established in Dexter in 1955 and has been located there since. It is owned by Raymond Hatch and members of his family. The Hatches are buying the IPSCO plant "for a little under a million dollars," Fredette said.

Although IPSCO vacated the plant three years ago, it is in basically good condition, Fredette said, noting that Chelsea Milling Co. has been using it as a warehouse and has kept it maintained and heated.

"There has been some roof leakage in the office area with damage to ceilings and walls," he added, "and we will have to do some remodeling, but it's not a major problem."

Fredette credited Chelsea Village president Jack Merkel, administrator Frederick Weber, and William J. Bett of the Ann Arbor Trust Co. Chelsea branch as having been especially helpful in paving the way for the purchase.

"They were very helpful, very nice people to talk with," Fredette said.

The move from Dexter is scheduled to begin during the week of Dec. 5 and be completed by the end of the year, Fredette said. It involves transferring many large pieces of heavy machinery.

"We hope to have everything moved and be in full operation in Chelsea by the beginning of January," Fredette said.

"What it amounted to was that we found in Chelsea a good building, reasonably priced, that fits our needs, a nice community, and some very friendly and co-operative people to do business with," Fredette concluded.

"We are looking forward to the move." Fredette added that, because the move involves only 10 miles of distance, present Hatch Stamping employees will not be dislocated and said that was considered in choosing the Chelsea site.

"We have one or two people who live as far east as Romulus, and I understand they may be looking for housing in the Chelsea area," he said, "but I don't foresee any major relocation of employees."

Plant Move May Be Turning Point

"I hope and believe this may be a turning point in the recent economic history of Chelsea."

That was the reaction of a jubilant village president Jack Merkel to the announcement that Hatch Stamping Co. of Dexter has purchased the former IPSCO plant here and will begin moving into it next month.

"We've had nothing but bad news for several years—plant closings, lay-offs, lost jobs. We missed out earlier on a couple of apparent opportunities, and we really wanted this one to work out. It has, and I'm delighted."

Merkel credited William J. Bett, manager of the Chelsea branch of the Ann Arbor Trust Co. as being a prime mover in the negotiations which resulted in bringing Hatch Stamping to

Village Submits Plan To Upgrade Landfill To State Standards

A plan to bring the Chelsea sanitary landfill on Werkner Rd. east of M-52 into line with state requirements has been submitted to the Department of Natural Resources by the village.

The key proposal is to construct a new disposal cell, 5½ acres in size, and line it with a polyvinyl chloride plastic which is supposed to keep liquids from leaking downward into the ground-water table. Four feet of sand would be spread over the liner.

"We're going to have to move about 100,000 yards of dirt to create the hole," landfill operator Cecil Clouse told the village council last week.

Bids on that project will be sought when and if the DNR approves the plan.

The proposal calls for establishing a second, smaller "hole" for disposal of solid substances such as demolition debris and old household appliances, which do not generate liquid wastes.

Also designed into the plan is a small pond to collect the drainage from the lined disposal cell, where organic wastes will decompose into liquids that will have to be pumped, loaded and dumped in an approved site somewhere else.

The plan calls for the landfill entrance to be widened and graded to provide a spot for a fee-collecting station. Preliminary thinking is toward a portable shelter. The proposed entry area will be large enough to "stack" vehicles waiting to get into the landfill so they will not have to park on Werkner Rd.

The new cell is expected to serve for 4-6 years, and there is

United Way at 62% of Goal

Bob Porter is well pleased with this year's ambitious Chelsea United Way Campaign.

"The response has been outstanding in Chelsea," campaign chairperson Porter said. "People have really lived up to the challenge."

Officially the campaign is over. Last week, figures showed that $33,635, or 62 percent, of the $59,000 goal had been collected. But Porter said that some important contributions, from the local commercial and professional sectors, have not yet been received. Late contributions are not unusual, he said. He added that donations often trickle in during January and February.

Individual goals were set early in the campaign for various sectors such as factories, organizations, schools, commercial businesses and professionals.

"From the results that we have in, in every area, donations have been at or above our goal, Porter said. "If the other areas come up to our expectations we will meet our goal."

He said he was particularly pleased with a $5,771 contribution from Chelsea Milling Co. The donation is a 23 percent increase over last year, he said.

Porter said that sometime soon Chelsea United Way Campaign board members will make decisions on the allocation of funds raised through the drive.

The majority of funds raised through the campaign will benefit five Chelsea area agencies.

Hearing Set On Zoning Variance

A public hearing has been set for 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 6, in the village hall on a request by Donald Cole for a variance in the zoning ordinance so he can put in a parking lot immediately west of the Cole-Burghardt Funeral Chapel at 214 E. Middle St.

Cole recently had a house moved off the lot, which used to be 218 E. Middle, and had the basement excavation filled in. His purpose in the operation was to make a parking area next to the funeral home.

THANKSGIVING DINNER: With the coming holiday so near at hand, this turkey seems a bit leary of fondly gazing eyes and hungry smacking lips. However, this is Harry and he lives at the Frances Hoey farm on Island Lake Rd. Harry has been a member of the farm family for quite a while so it seems unlikely that he will be the center of Thanksgiving dinner although he may join as an unwanted curious guest.

Tighter Controls Offered Against False Insurance Claims

Legislation strengthening enforcement efforts against false medical insurance claims, which the sponsor estimated costs the state approximately $100 million a year in false Medicaid and Medicare claims alone, is being prepared for formal introduction.

Representative Jeffrey Padden (D-Wyandotte) said the bills will strengthen enforcement by specifying that medical bills—including computer-printed bills—would be prima facie evidence of intent to commit fraud and permitting the attorney general's office to get subpoenas to acquire documents used by health care professionals.

Attorney General Frank Kelley and William Smith, director of corporate and financial investigations for Blue Cross/Blue Shield of Michigan, also appeared with Padden to support the bills.

Padden said his estimate of $100 million lost in Medicaid and Medicare funding was "conservative."

There are no actual statistics on the extent of medical insurance fraud, but the crimes cannot be considered victimless, he added.

Ultimately every insurance subscriber pays to recoup the difference in the form of higher premiums and every taxpayer helps recover the cost of unlawfully submitted Medicaid expenditures," Padden said.

Both Kelley and Smith said law enforcement officials need help in pursuing fraudulent claims which come from "the whole gamut of every kind of health care professional" including physicians, chiropractors, osteopaths, pharmacists and testing laboratories.

Kelley said in past cases, professionals have been able to protect themselves by claiming that fraudulent claims were filed without their knowledge by billing clerks or other personnel.

Smith said some prosecutions have been successful using federal laws, such as the mail fraud act, but stronger state measures are needed to pursue fraudulent claims.

The two measures set a maximum penalty for fraudulent claims of four years in prison and fines of $50,000.

The maximum penalty is already prescribed in current Medicaid law, but the private insurance company fraud bill creates a new act.

The private insurance company bill also sets penalties for conspiracy to commit fraud at 10 years in prison and fines of $50,000.

Kelley said the sections of the legislation permitting the state to use bills, including computer tapes and computer printed bills, as prima facie evidence of fraud will help show that "in fact, there was intent to defraud," and prevent defendants from claiming they had no part in fraudulent action.

Padden insisted the two bills were not designed as a "witch hunt" or to go after health care professionals who make close calls in ordering medical examinations or tests.

The bills are designed to go after professionals who endanger patients by subjecting them to constant tests, such as x-rays, without cause, bill the state or insurance companies for tests that are never performed, or who actually pay patients to come in for an alleged examination and then file claims though nothing may be wrong with the patient, Padden explained.

Landfill Upgrading Plans

room for a second that would last about as long. Assuming the long-term plan is OK'd by the DNR, the landfill thus could be used for another 10-12 years.

Still to be resolved is the state requirement that the present fill area be closed and capped with two feet of clay at an estimated cost of $250,000. Village officials will meet with representatives of the four townships—Sylvan, Lima, Lyndon and Dexter—which use the landfill along with Chelsea to see if a cost-sharing agreement can be worked out. No money is presently available.

The Chelsea council landfill committee, composed of trustees Loren Keezer and Herman Radloff, proposed that the landfill be operated in the future on a self-financing "enterprise" basis in the same way that the electric, water, sewer and parking meter funds are managed.

Suggested prices for at-the-gate use of the landfill include $3 for cars, $7 for level-loaded pickup trucks with an added $2.50 per foot over a level load, $7 for station wagons and vans, $2.50 per cubic yard for larger vehicles, $7 per unit for appliances, $2-$4 for old tires depending on their size, $30 for junk cars and farm machines, and $2.50 per diameter-foot for stumps.

ON YOUR FEET

WHY REPEATED ANKLE SPRAIN?

A chronic sprain usually indicates that an acute sprain has been given inadequate attention. The ankle may sprain repeatedly because the ligaments have never healed completely. The muscle development of the foot may be poor, and therefore the foot becomes weakened. A person suffering from this condition walks around feeling as if his foot may give way on him at any moment. Unfortunately, it does.

To care for a chronic sprain, you should regularly perform any exercises that your foot doctor advises. Such exercises are designed to strengthen the ligaments of the foot. At the same time, since the initial sprain may have been caused by an imbalance, you may require a shoe that has been CORRECTED by the podiatrist. The corrective shoe should enable you to walk with a normal gait. This should minimize the chances of re-injuring the ankle.

Occasionally, however, the ligaments that run from side to side of the foot may have been stretched by repeated sprains. In this case, it may be necessary to shorten them through surgery.

Woman's Club Increases Allocation to Social Services

Chelsea Woman's Club has increased its donation to Chelsea Social Services $300 over last year's contribution.

The club, which donated $100 to the organization in 1982 voted at a Nov. 8 meeting to donate $400 this year. The increase was made possible by the funds raised through a recent Bake and Bargain Sale held by the club and because members voted to contribute extra money instead of having the usual Christmas gift exchange.

Barbara Branch, from Barbara's Needlearts also gave a counted cross stitch demonstration during the meeting. Club members made Christmas ornaments from kits which Branch brought to the meeting.

Gladys Barth and Shirley and Leah Smith hosted the meeting. The next Woman's Club meeting will be a Christmas party on Dec. 13 at the home of Joyce Vogel. The Contemporaries, a Chelsea High school singing group, will provide the entertainment.

Chiropractic research holds great promise
While the general public may not know of it, chiropractors are well aware of an intensive program of chiropractic research which has been going on at the University of Colorado. Headed by Dr. C. H. Suh, one of the world's most respected specialists on spinal biomechanics, the program has some very ambitious goals. The results to date, even at this relatively early stage of the research, are exciting.
Dr. Suh and his associates defined for themselves the size of their task: finding out exactly why chiropractic works.
While Dr. Suh is studying the mechanics of the spine, other specialists on his research team are conducting investigations into spinal nerve roots.
One researcher who specializes in chemistry has found that when you compress a nerve (and that's what happens when a vertebra moves out of its proper position) the nerve will start to produce toxic substances, a poison in the body. This, they have found, is spread over a much larger area of the body than anyone had suspected.
Of course, chiropractors have been saying in broader terms this same thing for years. They have seen case after case where conditions of poor health, seemingly unrelated to the spine, are improved drastically by restoring one or more out-of-place vertebrae to their natural positions.

A VIEW from the CLOCK TOWER

Bill Mullendore

The notion of hiring the Ann Arbor architectural firm of Johnson, Johnson & Roy to submit a plan to revitalize Chelsea's downtown business district probably is a good one, even though it will cost $3,850.

I use the word "probably," because I have a hunch that the project could have been accomplished "in-house" locally for nothing if merchants had gotten together and done it. It may be, however, that a professional outside view is needed to get attention and action. Perhaps it's necessary that somebody be hired with a mandate to do something and given a financial inducement to do it.

Less than $4,000 is a small price to pay provided that some result comes out of the project other than still another study report to be filed and forgotten.

What Johnson, Johnson & Roy has been asked to do is look at existing reports and documents, draw some conclusions, and present them as recommendations for action. What happens after that will be up to the businessmen in the downtown business district.

Herewith some suggestions, for what they may be worth: First and foremost, find some way to get the through traffic off Main St., which is the route of M-52 through the village. The trucks and cars that go charging down Main St. in both directions because it is the shortest, most convenient way to connect between I-94 and I-96 add nothing to downtown business and, in fact, subtract from it.

The drivers of those vehicles don't stop to buy anything here, and they keep local shoppers off the street. My wife is intimidated by the Main St. traffic volume of 14,000 movements per day to the point where she simply will not drive downtown, and I am sure she is not alone. She prefers to shop in Ann Arbor, where she can use secondary streets to get to stores.

Having been raised in Detroit, having learned to drive in Lansing, and having driven in just about every major city in the United States, I figure I can drive anywhere. Chelsea's Main St. is as bad a traffic zoo as I have ever experienced. I stay off it as much as possible, for fear of hitting or getting hit. Since moving here in July we have had two fender-bender accidents, exactly two more than in our previous combined 40 years of driving. (Both were hit-runs, by the way. Our cars were parked at the curb and run into.)

I suggest that, as a beginning, a through truck route around Main St. be identified, laid out and enforced. Through cars should be encouraged to use it.

A through-traffic bypass around the village should be energetically sought from the Michigan Department of Transportation. I understand the concern that property along such a route could be subject to strip commercial development. That could be controlled through local zoning regulations, rigidly enforced.

Off-street parking west of Main St., to complement the municipal lot east of the street, would be nice, although I don't believe it is essential. It is not all that difficult to find a parking space on Main St. close to where you want to shop. The problem is to back-and-fill into it without holding up two blocks of traffic.

The Conrail tracks constitute a major roadblock that needs to be eradicated. Conrail runs a surprisingly large number of trains—passenger and freight—through Chelsea, and conducts switching and repair operations besides. Every time the gates come down, a major traffic snarl ensues. The irritation encourages drivers to run around the ends of the gates and beat whatever is coming down the track. Somebody is going to get killed someday. I guarantee it.

An overpass or underpass would solve the problem, and both Conrail and the Department of Transportation should be pressured to put one in.

The idea of improving the appearance of the downtown business district cosmetically is good and should be pursued. A start has been made along W. Middle St. with the reconstruction of the Rademacher & Musbach law offices and the Village Bakery. Several Merchants along Main St., led by Heydlauff's, have had their brick fronts refurbished with a chemical spray treatment.

Don Cooper To Give Lecture Saturday

Don Cooper and his brother built a home-made steamboat, apparently modeled after the fabled "African Queen," and steered it through the wild waters of Oregon, Washington and Idaho.

Their experiences will be narrated by Don Cooper beginning at 8 p.m. Saturday at Chelsea High school auditorium. The program is the second in the annual Chelsea Kiwanis Club travel and adventure series.

All-color motion pictures taken during three years of filming will accompany the lecture.

Besides being an outstanding lecturer and cameraman, Cooper is a natural-born humorist. Just about everything he says is funny because of his way of saying things. He is reminiscent of Will Rogers and W. C. Fields.

Cooper was born near De Borgia, a small logging town in Western Montana. From his mother, he inherited a love of nature and an insatiable wanderlust. From his father, he inherited sinus trouble and an odd-ball sense of humor. The wanderlust has gotten him into a lot of trouble; the sense of humor has enabled him to laugh at most of it.

Cooper claims his formal education has been so negligible that it is difficult to measure. His father believed that going to school never hurt anyone, "as long as it didn't interfere with his education." As a result, Don got much of his education on the end of a cross-cut saw.

Following army service in the Pacific, Cooper went to South America, where he logged in the jungles of Brazil, prospected for gold in Peru's Andes and panned for diamonds in Venezuela's Orinoco river. A definite trend soon developed in his Latin business adventures—they were all imbued with a startling lack of success. So, he abandoned the pretty señoritas of the south for the grizzled "sourdoughs" of the north.

One night in Sitka, Alaska, he loaned another logger $70 and took a beat-up second-hand camera as collateral. Cooper put the camera in his knapsack and carried it with him from camp to camp all over Alaska. Anytime anything interesting happened, he took pictures of it. Sometimes, he admits, he took pictures of it even when it wasn't interesting. "People attending my programs often comment on this," says Cooper.

In the summer of 1958, three Hollywood TV producers came to Alaska on a hunting trip. Their yacht got caught in a storm and they put into the bay where Don was working in a logging camp. They were storm-bound for four days, so one night Don showed them his films. As a result of this highly informal audition, Don was later featured on Jack Douglas' TV series, "Bold Journey." A nationwide audience gave its hearty approval, and Cooper was launched on a new career as a travel film lecturer.

Although known for his humor, Don is not a comedian, but rather a knowledgeable and articulate speaker with a very down-to-earth message. His approach to life's problems, however, is light-hearted. He feels that the world is anxious to laugh, that people are tired of a steady flow of grim news, and that most people have enough problems at home without getting more thrown at them on an occasional evening out.

"My mom," he remembers, "told me once that the pessimist and the optimist eventually end up at the same place, but the optimist has more fun on the trip." His blend of humor and message has proven highly successful. Don is a consistent repeater on the nation's top travel film circuits and a rising star in the straight lecture field.

Nuclear war is the ultimate environmental disaster, says the National Wildlife Federation. A major nuclear exchange would trigger firestorms that could plunge earth into two to three months of darkness, causing temperatures to drop 36 degrees Fahrenheit, stopping photosynthesis, thereby destroying much vegetation, including the delicate ocean food chain that begins with phytoplankton. The impact on the biosphere could lead to the ultimate extinction of the human species.

Those are all steps in the right direction, and one hopes there will be more.

Certainly the architectural integrity of the village should be maintained. There is a rich historic and cultural heritage here, and it merits being preserved. In that connection, when is somebody going to step forward and do something about the old New York Central depot, which is slowly going to rack and ruin? For an example of what can be done, look at the Dexter depot which gleams with fresh paint, intact windows and doors that open.

I'm not at all sure that Chelsea needs a "walking mall" along the lines of Ann Arbor's S. Main St., complete with trees and flower boxes. There is plenty of natural beauty here, more than can be found in most places. The key, as I see it, is to make Main St. a local street instead of a thoroughfare for through traffic.

Letters to the Editor

Editor's Note: The following letter has been sent to Gov. Blanchard, State Senator Pollack, State Representative Margaret O'Connor and Dept. Corrections Director Perry Johnson.

Dear Gov. Blanchard, I am a long-time resident of the Chelsea community.

I have family and friends who live around Cassidy Lake. I feel it's time to do something about this walk-in-walkout so-called prison.

The state authorities are acting irresponsible when it comes to Cassidy Lake.

It's like they found a quiet and out of the way community and dumped a very bad habit right in our laps.

Granted, Chelsea is a quiet and out of the way place. But that's no reason to do us the way they are.

People are afraid to do things they used to do.

I say fence it in now or close it down.

There's dangerous people in Cassidy Lake. Why should we put up with a problem the state made?

I feel push has come to shove. We should not have to live in fear of that place anymore.

Whenever they feel like it they walk away and run over the people of Chelsea.

Let's be heard in Lansing!

Bob Phillips.

Lyndon Township Officials Question Police Pistol Range

Lyndon township officials have raised a question about use of a portion of the Chelsea landfill as a police pistol range, citing objections from at least one neighboring property owner. The landfill is located in the township.

The village council decided last to seek a meeting with the Lyndon township board to discuss the matter and try to resolve it.

Chelsea police chief Robert Aeillo said his department holds 4-6 shoots at the range each year on Saturdays during the summer months, all under supervision of a qualified range officer. By informal agreement, no shooting is done on Sundays during church hours. The range is not open to the public.

"We are supposed to make and keep our officers competent in pistol marksmanship," Aeillo told the council, "and the shoots we hold at the landfill are for that purpose. The range is safe and is not a hazard to anybody. Obviously, there is a certain amount of noise created when we shoot."

Present township zoning laws apparently neither approve nor forbid shooting ranges.

Three Chelseaites Appearing At Black Sheep Theatre

It's not too late to see Chelseaites, Coralie Parkins, Todd Wurster, and Ric Foytik in "Bullshot Crummond" at the Black Sheep Theatre in Manchester. "Bullshot Crummond," a comic parody of B Class detective movies of the 1930's, opened last week at the Manchester theatre on Main St., but will continue to play on Friday and Saturday, Nov. 25-26 and Friday and Saturday, Dec. 2-3, and Friday and Saturday, Dec. 9-10 with curtain time at 8:15 p.m.

"Bullshot," features Tim Henning, director, in the title role as hero and Fran Foster, Ann Arbor, as Rosemary the breathy heroine. Together the two attempt to foil the arch-villains, Otto Von Bruno (Todd Wurster), and his cunning mistress, Lenya Von Bruno (Coralie Parkins), in their attempts to find the formula for manufacturing diamonds, thus conquering the world. Professor Fenton, Algie Longworth, a waiter, Marovitch, and Wolfgang Schmidt all played by the versatile Ric Foytik add hilarious complications to this main plot resulting in a fun and entertaining evening at the theatre.

Coralie Parkins, a Chelsea Area Player board member, studied acting at Northwestern University and the University of Wisconsin, starring in a number of dramatic and comedy roles there. She directed, acted, and co-produced numerous productions for Players de Noc Community Theatre, Escanaba, including, "The Odd Couple," Barefoot in the Park, "A Thousand Clowns," "The Fantasticks," "Mame," "My Fair Lady," and "The Music Man." Most recently she was seen in the Ann Arbor Civic Theatre's production of "The Philadelphia Story" earlier this month at the Michigan Theatre.

$1,850 Larceny Reported from Ambulance Office

Items worth a total of $1,850 were stolen from the Huron Valley Ambulance Co. dispatch office in the 500 block of S. Main St. immediately south of the Union 76 gas station last Friday morning, Chelsea police chief Robert Aello reported.

Aello said the two ambulance attendants on duty at the time were sent out on a run at 9 a.m. When they returned two hours later, they found a stereo reel-to-reel player ($1,200), a stereo sound mixer ($200) and a scuba tank and diving vest ($450) missing.

It is unclear at this stage of the investigation whether or not the door was locked, Aello said, adding there was no sign of forced entry.

Zoning Variance Hearing Slated

A belated check of the village zoning ordinance showed, however, that if he complies with the letter of the law on the required setback from the street, Cole will have room to park only one or two cars. He is asking for a variance from the setback rule so he can use the entire lot for parking purposes.

Legislation Could Help Gasohol Sales

Legislation pending in the Michigan Legislature that would require gasoline stations to list the ingredients added to their fuels could benefit gasohol sales, according to Robert E. Smith, Michigan Farm Bureau legislative counsel.

"Motorists who recognize ethanol is a fine additive and is helpful as an alternative fuel will know that it is there. And, if there's methanol in it, they'll also know that," Smith said.

He believes the legislation could help counteract some of the bad publicity gasohol has been getting from gasoline station advertisements that proclaim "no alcohol" is added to their fuels.

William Bauer of 522 Lane St. has rejected a proposal from the Chelsea council that he pay $250 a month for the right to salvage saleable materials from the village landfill.

President Merkel Sees Plant Move As Turning Point

 "Bill knows some people high up in Hatch Stamping, he also knows the realtor who was looking for a new site for the company. He arranged a meeting, we all got together, and this is the result."

"We knew that the company wanted to move and was considering several possibilities. We tried to convince them to come here, and I'm awfully pleased they made that decision."

"Fortunately, we had something to offer that meets their needs—a large vacant plant in good condition at a reasonable price, plus an attractive community and a village government which has come to see the need to encourage industry."

"I'm sorry in a way that we are gaining something at Dexter's expense, but the fact is that Hatch Stamping was determined to move out of Dexter because it couldn't expand there. They were going somewhere, and I'm happy that it has turned out to be Chelsea."

Merkel spoke against a background of local happenings during recent years which have caused a loss of more than 1,000 industrial jobs in the area. Most can be traced to the severe nation-wide economic recession which hit southeastern Michigan especially hard because of depressed automobile sales.

With recovery started and getting stronger, Chelsea has sought to take advantage. Establishment earlier this year of a new industrial park, which is yet to be developed, was one step. The zoning code is being looked at to determine if it may be too restrictive, and efforts are being made to upgrade sewer, water and solid waste disposal services.

There were a couple of early setbacks, one involving the IPSCO plant. Ryerson-Haynes Co. of Jackson had sought to occupy the plant but gave up the idea when its companion firm, Tregets Tool & Engineering Co., could not obtain rezoning to move into the vacant two-cycle fuel plant building on Old US-12.

Ryerson-Haynes stayed in Jackson, and Tregets moved there, while the village came up empty.

A few weeks ago a regional wholesale produce distributing firm inquired about locating a new plant in the Sibley Rd. industrial park but eventually decided on a Saline site instead.

"It hasn't been easy, but I think we're moving in the right direction," Merkel summed up. "The move into town by Hatch Stamping will give us a big lift and perhaps encourage some more good things to happen. I'm optimistic. Things are looking up."

Kozminskis Stand Mute On Slavery Charges

Mr. and Mrs. Ike Kozminski and their son, John, all stood mute on Nov. 17 when arraigned on charges of holding two farmhands in involuntary servitude (slavery). Pleas of not guilty were entered for them by Detroit federal magistrate Lynn Hooe.

A fourth person named in the federal indictment, Mike Assam, was to be arraigned on similar charges this week. Assam has been identified as a former worker for the Kozminskis on their Lima township farm. He is said to be living now on a farm near Grass Lake.

A pre-trial conference has been scheduled for Dec. 1. At that time a trial date may be set.

Meanwhile, all the defendants are free on personal bond.

The Kozminskis continued to decline to talk to news reporters on the advice of their attorneys.

TAXES and YOU

Timing could well be the most widely available tool to reduce your taxes. Almost all of us can benefit from this valuable and easy to use method of cutting taxes.

Since the full effect of final tax cut made by the Economic Recovery Tax Act of 1981 (ERTA) will not be reflected in the tax rates until 1984 the next few weeks provide an opportunity to use timing to reduce your taxes. In general a deduction will benefit you more in 1983 when rates are higher. By postponing income until 1984 you could take advantage of the lower rates.

Timing can also help when rates don't change. To find out if timing can help you call Gus Steger at

Council OKs Buying New 'Bucket' Truck

The village council has approved purchase of a new "aerial bucket" high-lift truck for $36,500 on the recommendation of public utilities superintendent Charles Hafner.

The vehicle will be purchased from Digger & Aerial Co. of Farmington, and will be paid for from the village electric fund.

Hafner said the truck that village crews are presently using is both worn-out and dangerous. Its metal bucket subjects occupants to the possibility of severe shock and possible electrocution when working among electrical wires.

The new machine will have a fiberglass bucket which is self-insulating against electric current and meets all safety standards.

Voting in favor of the purchase were trustees Loren Keezer, Richard Steele, Herman Radloff and Jeanene Riemenschneider. Joe Merkel was absent, and Jerry Satterthwaite was presiding in the absence of president Jack Merkel.

School Board OKs Purchase Of New Van

The Chelsea Board of Education voted to purchase a 16-passenger Dodge van for $13,707 from Village Motor Sales Inc., Monday.

The van will be used primarily for special education transportation, Assistant Superintendent Fred Mills said. In addition, it will be used to transport small groups, such as some athletic teams or the debate team, to various events.

The bid from Village Motor Sales Inc. was the lowest of three bids submitted to the board. Palmer Motor Sales submitted a bid of $13,761, and Chrysler Proving Ground submitted a bid for a 1983 van with 12,000 miles for $13,650.

In other business the board:—Accepted a fiberglass bandshell as a gift from the University of Michigan. The bandshell, which is placed behind a performing band or orchestra to direct sound toward the audience, was purchased approximately 20 years ago for about $7,000. It has never been used extensively by the university and has been in storage since Revelli Hall and the Power Center were built.

—Set Sunday, June 10, 1984 as the date for high school graduation. The ceremony will be held at 3 p.m. The Adult Education graduation ceremony will be held Thursday, June 14 at 8 p.m.

—Voted to meet only once during the months of December and January. In December the board will meet on the fifth and in January on the 16th.

Second Meeting Held on Idea To Revitalize Downtown Area

Members of the village council and the planning commission were specially invited to a meeting last night to hear a repeat presentation of the proposal to revitalize Chelsea's downtown business district.

The Ann Arbor landscape architecture firm of Johnson,

Johnson & Roy (JJR) was to present essentially the same pitch that it gave at a meeting of local businessmen on Nov. 1.

JJR has proposed a $3,850 contract to prepare a plan for redevelopment of Chelsea's business district, located primarily along Main St. Voluntary contributions to pay for the study and plan are being sought, and initial response has been "very good," according to Mark Heydlauff, chairman of the Chelsea Chamber of Commerce's downtown development committee.

Each downtown merchant is being asked to pay $100 toward the study. The goal is to raise at least $4,000, Heydlauff said. That would mean 40 business persons kicking in $100 each.

"Last night's meeting was primarily to let local government officials know about what we are trying to do," Heydlauff said. "If this project is to go ahead, it has to be a co-operative effort between private enterprise and government."

"The businessmen heard the proposal at the Nov. 1 meeting. Now we were hoping that village officials would come out and listen. Village president Jack Merkel has been very active in this project. We need more local government support."

Last night's meeting was held at the Ann Arbor Trust Co. whose manager, William J. Bott, is a former executive secretary of the Ann Arbor Chamber of Commerce and is still a prime mover in industrial and commercial development causes.

Heydlauff, Merkel and Bott have together spear-headed the move to get the downtown redevelopment plan off the ground.

Boys Varsity Cagers Begin Season Dec. 2

"They still have their 'football legs' but they are coming along," was the sum-up comment of Chelsea varsity basketball coach Paul Ash at the end of the first week of practice.

All but three of the 12 varsity cagers played football during the fall. As anybody who has played both games knows, it takes about two weeks to make the transition to basketball, which requires an entirely different set of athletic moves.

The Bulldogs will open their season at East Jackson on Friday, Dec. 2, and will make their first home appearance the following Tuesday against Pinckney.

Members of the varsity squad include seniors David Kiel and Marty Steinhauer, who are co-captains, Chuck Hager, Jerry Hammerschmidt, Glenn Prinzing and Jeff Martin. All are coming back from varsity roles last winter.

The six juniors are Eric Schaffner, David Steinhauer, Jason Pierson, Tony Hammerschmidt, John Harris and Keith Neibauer. Of those, only Schaffner played from the beginning on the varsity last season. David Steinhauer was brought up from the junior varsity squad to bolster the bench in district, tournament play, and had some game time.

An unusual characteristic of the squad is that there are two sets of brothers—the Steinhauers and the Hammerschmidts—among the 12 members. That is guaranteed to give sports writers fits as they try to sort out who did what and award proper reportorial credit to all.

Ash indicated that his starting front line of Marty Steinhauer and Hager on the wings and Kiel in the middle is pretty well set, but his first-string back-court duo is as yet undecided.

Schaffner, who showed spurts of excellence last season as a sophomore, probably has the inside track at one guard spot. Either David Steinhauer or Prinzing likely will get the nod at the other.

Among other things, Ash is looking for outside shooting ability that will keep defenders honest and prevent them from collapsing on Kiel, who at 6-6 and 230 pounds figures to be a dominant force inside at both ends of the floor.

"I'm sure we're going to see a lot of zone defenses designed to keep us from getting the ball in to Kiel. We will have to find ways to counter-act that, and I have some ideas that we'll work on."

The Bulldogs are the pre-season favorites to win the six-team Southeastern Conference, based largely on the fact that seven members of the squad which tied for first last year and was runner-up in the district tournament are back. Chelsea posted a fine 14-8 record last winter.

SEC Tourney Slated at End Of Cage Season

A new wrinkle has been added to the Southeastern Conference boys basketball competition—a season-ending tournament that will count one-third toward deciding the championship.

"With only six teams in the conference, the double round-robin during the regular season means that each school will play only 10 league games," Chelsea High school athletic director Ron Nemeth explained.

"The SEC tournament will fill out the schedule," Nemeth said. "Otherwise, we would have had to go looking for games against non-league opponents, and that isn't easy."

Tecumseh will host the SEC tournament starting Feb. 21 and continuing through March 2.

"We tried the conference tournament idea out during this fall's girls basketball season," Nemeth said, "and it worked very well. There were some surprises that shook up the final league standing. The competition was excellent."

The way the tournament format works, a team that finishes out-of-first place during the regular season could come back and take the league title by winning the tourney.

That same approach is used in some other sports such as cross country, track, wrestling and golf. It tends to break ties and produce a clear champion in conference play.

The basketball tournament could turn out to be a one-year wonder, however. With Pinckney joining the SEC next fall, the conference will expand to seven schools which means each will play 12 league games. Adding those two contests could leave no room on the schedule for an SEC showdown prior to the start of state tournament play.

Blue-Gold Basketball Tilt Tonight

The annual pre-season "Blue and Gold" basketball game will start at 5 p.m. today in the Chelsea High school gym, matching two squads selected as evenly as possible from among the 12 varsity players and some members of the JV squad.

The game was moved up from 7 p.m. so as not to conflict with a school dance scheduled later in the evening.

Admission is free. The game offers local basketball fans their first chance to get a look at the Bulldog varsity players, under new coach Paul Ash, as they prepare for the season which opens Dec. 2 at East Jackson.

Frosh JV Cagers Wallop Howell

Freshman members of the Chelsea junior varsity girls basketball squad walloped freshmen from Howell High school, 52-17, during a Nov. 10 game.

While the score doesn't count in the final tally for the junior varsity hoopsters, coach Paul Terpstra said the game was a good experience for team members.

"It's really good for the freshmen to get the playing time," he said.

Chelsea played well throughout the game, outscoring their opponents 20-0 in the third quarter.

"A good defense really helped score that many points," Terpstra said.

Trisha Mattoff had an excellent game, scoring 13 points. She was followed by Kris Zerkel, 10; Sallie Wilson, eight; Cindy Stirling, six; Mary Lazars, four; Kim Ferry, four and Karen Weber, four.

Sailors always refer to a ship as "she." The ancient Greeks started this by giving their ships female names in honor of the goddess Athena who was thought of as casting her protective eye over warships.

BASKETBALL PRACTICE: John Harris (left) and Jason Pierson, both newcomers to the Chelsea varsity basketball team, work out under the watchful eye of coach Paul Ash, who is also new at the varsity level.

Swimmers Third in Chelsea Invitational

The home team finished in third place during the Chelsea High School Swimming Invitational last week.

Chelsea swimmers scored 223 points, 29 points behind second place Novi. Milan won the event with 345 points. Lincoln was in fourth place with 198 points and Dexter finished last with 141 points.

"We did what we had to do but still came up short," Chelsea coach Von Acker said. "Everybody gave it their all and swam faster than they have all year."

"In all it was a very good meet for us," he added.

Chelsea swimmer Dawn Borders finished with two first place awards. She finished in first place in both the 50-yard freestyle, with a time of 26.19, and the 100-yard backstroke, with a time of 1:07.86. Both times qualify her for the state Class B swim meet in December.

Borders also led the four-member 400-yard freestyle relay team which finished in first place and qualified for the state meet.

Paula Colombo finished first in the 200-yard I.M. and 500-yard freestyle events. Her times were 2:25.61 in the I.M. event and 5:45.04 in the 500-yard freestyle. She was also a member of the 400-yard free relay team.

Susan Schmunk made state consideration times in the 50 and 100-yard freestyle events. If the 24 swimmers competing in those events at the state meet do not make the cut, swimmers with consideration times will be allowed to compete. Schmunk finished in first place in the 100-yard freestyle with a time of 58.52 and in third place in the 50-yard freestyle with a time of 26.92. She was also a member of the 400-yard free relay team.

Laura Stephens was the final member of the relay team. She also finished in third place in the 200-yard freestyle, 2:18.28, and fourth in the 500-yard freestyle event, 6:16.45.

Swimmer Missy Young finished in fourth place in the 100-yard butterfly event with a time of 1:13.61. She finished in seventh place in the 200-yard I.M. with a time of 2:45.80.

Young was also a member of the 200-yard medley relay team which finished in seventh place.

Acker said Tammi Mullaly had an excellent meet, swimming her fastest time ever, 1:09.01 in the 100-yard freestyle, and finishing in 11th place. She was also part of the seventh place 200-yard medley relay team.

Becca Lee finished sixth in both the 200-yard I.M. and the 500-yard freestyle events. She swam the 200 I.M. in 2:42.26 and the 500 free in 6:21.78. Lee was also a member of the 200-yard medley relay team.

JEFF LANTIS

DAVID WOJCICKI

Lantis Leads Hillsdale In Pass Receptions

Chelsea's Jeff Lantis and David Wojcicki played on the Hillsdale College football team which compiled an 8-2 season record despite unexpected losses to Saginaw Valley and Grand Valley.

Lantis, a sophomore, was the leading pass receiver on the Hillsdale team. He caught 31 tosses for 438 yards and scored three touchdowns.

Used sparingly as a freshman defensive back, Wojcicki had one pass interception with a three-yard return. He saw considerable action on the junior varsity.

Girl Cagers Lose to Northwest in Tourney

The Chelsea girls basketball team closed-out its season last Thursday with a 59-53 loss to Jackson Northwest in tournament action.

The loss came directly on the heels of last Tuesday's 59-56 win over the same team.

"Evidently they learned a little more about us than we did about them," coach Jim Winter said.

The first contest with Northwest was "pretty close most of the way," he said.

Jackson led 10-8 at the end of the first quarter due to Chelsea's unexceptional offense, Winter said. Chelsea still trailed, 28-21, at the end of the first half, but the squad rallied to score 38 points during the second half.

Winter said exceptional free throw shooting, the team shot 21 of 25 attempts, won the game for Chelsea.

Leading scorers were Beth Unterbrink, with 25 points, and Samantha Collinsworth, with 16 points.

JoAnn Tobin had 10 rebounds, while Unterbrink had seven.

Hoping for a second victory, the team started well against Northwest in the tournament contest, Winter said.

"We grabbed the lead, played good defense and had good execution on offense. Then we stopped."

From then on Chelsea trailed, giving up 15, 16 and 18 points in the first three quarters. The team was down by 15 points going into the fourth quarter.

"The kids hung in there and kept scrapping, but you can't get that far behind with a good team," Winter said.

Kristi Headrick led scoring with 20 points, Unterbrink had 14 points, 10 assists and five steals while Collinsworth had nine points.

"We were a little disappointed," Winter said. "We knew it would be hard to play the same team two times in a row."

The team ended its season with a 8-13 over-all record.

Hopes High for Boys Swim Team

Chelsea boys swimming coach Larry Reed is cautiously optimistic about the upcoming season.

Even with 20 returning swimmers, a number of returning all-state swimmers and a long record of good swimming seasons, Reed says this year's competition could be tough.

"We're a team that has a lot of potential," he says. "But potential is a word that means that you're not there yet but you could be. Potential doesn't score any points."

However, Reed said that his team should end up with a good season record.

Last year the boys swim team finished the season with an impressive 11-2 record. It was the most losses the team had in five years, Reed said. The team went on to place seventh at the state meet. They have placed in the top 10 in state competition for the last four years.

The team hasn't been beaten at home since December 1979, a record that Reed is worried might be challenged this year when the swimmers host Ann Arbor Huron High school. Although Chelsea has been victorious over the team two of the last three years, he thinks the rivals may have a good chance of upsetting Chelsea this year.

Chelsea will face a number of tough rivals this season including Bridgman, which finished third in class B competition last season, Milan, Okemos and Adrian, also top ranked teams.

Reed is hoping that a good state of returning all-state swimmers will give Chelsea the edge in close competitions.

John Hoffman, a senior, will be returning for his fourth year. Hoffman was named all-state in the backstroke last season. Also returning will be: Ted Merkel, senior, all-state in the breast stroke; John Drew, senior, a former all-state swimmer in the sprint freestyle; Don Skiff, junior, an all-state swimmer in the 100 and 200-yard freestyle and Kraig Leach, a senior, named all-state last year in diving competition.

Merkel, along with senior Darin Fowler and senior Kevin Colombo are tri-captains of the swimming team this season.

The 28-member team began practicing Nov. 14, the first meet will be Dec. 8 with Cherry Hill High school.

While Reed hopes for a winning season, he said there are things that are more important.

"It's not really important how many we win or lose, but how fast we swim."

Girls JV Cagers Drop Last Game

It was a disappointing end to a pretty good season for the Chelsea junior varsity girls basketball team, as they dropped their final game to Jackson Northwest, 34-28, last Tuesday.

The game was close, almost until the end, coach Paul Terpstra said. At the conclusion of third quarter play the two teams were tied, 20-20.

But poor shooting from the floor, the team made only eight of 40 attempts, combined with 26 errors and only 10 steals gave Northwest a big advantage, Terpstra said. The team was assured of a win when it outscored Chelsea, 14-8, in the fourth quarter.

The Chelsea squad did shoot well from the foul line, making 12 of 17, or 71 percent, of its attempts.

Jenny Cattell was high scorer with 11 points. She was followed by Kris Zerkel, six; Michelle Easton and Kris Mattoff, four, and Laura Anderson, three.

The game with Northwest wrapped-up the junior varsity season. The team finished 9-8 over-all and 5-5 in the South-eastern Conference.

Very early in their histories both Sumneria and Babyonia had initiated money systems using precious metals for coinage.

OUT IN THE OPEN

By BILL MULLENDORE

The most successful southern Michigan deer hunter I have ever known had brought down his buck 11 times in 12 deer seasons. He hunts on land that he owns northwest of Lansing. Before writing this column, I called him and asked how he had fared the past two seasons. His record is now 13 of 14. He shot an eight-pointer at 7:30 a.m. a week ago Tuesday.

A biologist by profession, he has made a practical science out of hunting deer, and he has mastered it.

Three years ago I asked him his "secrets" and put them into a magazine article. Here, condensed, is what he told me:

"I've studied deer by observing them, and I've learned a lot about them. They are remarkable animals. They can see better, hear better, smell better, run faster, jump higher than I can. They are superior to me in almost all ways. When I narrowed things down, I figured I had just two advantages—I could shoot and I could think. Deer can't do either. I've put those edges to work."

"Deer aren't smart. They are extremely wary but really not very bright. They are creatures of habit. They do the same things in the same places in the same ways day after day. Once you learn a particular deer's habit patterns, you can almost set your watch by them. Their territories are surprisingly small. They seldom move more than half a mile from where they were born."

"When I took up deer hunting with a slug-loaded shotgun, I experimented with guns, barrels, ammunition and optical sights until I found a combination that works for me. I can put a series of shots into a one-foot circle at 100 yards, and that is good enough to hit the heart-lung area of a buck almost every time. You don't get a lot of chances to shoot at a deer, and I don't want to miss when the opportunity comes. All but two of my bucks have been one-shot kills."

"I don't go hunting deer. I go hunting for a deer. There's a big difference, and if there is a secret to my success, that's it.

"I start seriously scouting my hunting territory in September, when deer are beginning to develop their fall habits, which are different from those of summer. I keep looking until I locate the biggest buck around. I try to find at least an eight-pointer, but in some years have had to settle for six. Sometimes there just isn't a really big buck on my land, but there are invariably at least a couple of legal size."

"Once I've spotted the deer, he becomes 'my' buck. I spend a lot of time watching him, tracing his movements, learning his habits. I find out where he eats and where he sleeps, and the paths he uses to get from one place to the other. When the rut starts in early November, I locate his scrapes, because I know he's going to visit them every day to discover if a doe has found his sign."

"You have to be careful during this observation process. If you pester a deer too much or push him too closely, he'll change his habits or maybe even move out. I use binoculars a lot and stay at long range, upwind as much as possible. I don't want to spook him, just watch him."

"When opening morning comes, I am almost sure of where 'my' buck is going to be during the first hour of daylight, and position myself where I can intercept him and get an open shot at 100 yards or less, preferably less. Most of my shots have been at under 50 yards, which is sure-fire range, but I've made the longer ones when I had to."

"The system isn't infallible—nothing is—but it works almost all the time. The one year that I didn't get 'my' buck, a hunter on a neighboring farm shot him less than 200 yards from where I was sitting and waiting. The deer was coming toward me and I'm sure would have crossed within range. Before I could locate another buck and learn his habits, the season ended."

"A couple of other years I've missed connecting on opening day because somebody else startled my buck before it could get to me and caused it to take a different path. In both instances I went back the next day and scored. After opening day the competition really drops off, and you have things pretty much to yourself."

"I'm fortunate to own my land (160 acres) and to know my neighbors well. Not everybody can do that, but I think it's possible to build a relationship with a landowner if you work at it, so that you can hunt the way I do."

"My system takes a lot of time, but it's time well spent if you like to be outdoors during the fall and if you want the satisfaction of being a successful deer hunter. I think anybody who is willing to spend the time and effort can make it work."

There are other ways to hunt deer in southern Michigan, of course, but this man has developed one that works exceptionally well.

Animal Near Munith Verified As Coyote

An animal verified as a coyote was trapped recently in the Munith area by Tim Corwin of Munith. A local fur buyer confirmed the identification. The young male coyote weighed 23 pounds.

While coyotes have been reported in the Washtenaw-Jackson-Livingston area during the past several years, Corwin's catch was the first positive proof that the small wild dogs apparently have established themselves hereabouts.

Originally western animals, coyotes have moved steadily eastward and have long been resident in northern Michigan.

Christmas Baking Workshop Offered

Baking is an important part of Christmas tradition in most households, and usually centers around making highly processed treats that deplete instead of nourish the body. Chelsea Community Education is offering a three-hour workshop called "Christmas Bakeshop" that will show how to substitute whole grain flours and other nutritious ingredients in baked goods. The workshop will be held Saturday, Dec. 3, from 9 a.m. to noon in the home economics room at Chelsea High School.

Teresa Freed, editor of "The Foodletter," will show participants how to improve the nutritional value of their favorite baked goods by substituting high-nutrient ingredients for those empty-calorie foods such as sugar and white flour.

You may register for the workshop by calling the Chelsea Community Education office at 475-9830. The fee is $7 per person and recipes will be included.

Former Chelsea Residents Giving Thanks in Special Way Tomorrow

"We were down on our luck not too long ago, and that is why we want to help some others who may be having tough times."

That is how Mrs. Andy (Rosemarie) Brown explained why she and her husband plan to provide free Thanksgiving dinners for the elderly and needy at the restaurant they opened in the village of Hudson in Lenawee county southwest of Adrian a few weeks ago.

The Browns had lived on Winters Rd. west of Chelsea for 35 years. He was employed at the Rockwell plant until it closed down and he lost his job. She worked at the Pump 'N' Pantry store in town.

Among other accomplishments, they graduated eight children from Chelsea High school during the time they lived here.

"My husband didn't get a pension when the Rockwell plant closed down," Mrs. Brown said. "We needed money and he needed something to do. He's 59 and I'm 52. We're too young to sit around in retirement even if we could afford it."

The Browns originally came from the Hudson area and were married there, so it was perhaps natural to go back to a familiar area and look around.

They spotted an old restaurant building that had been abandoned for 2½ years, and decided to take the plunge, buy it, reopen it, run it and start a new life. As Mrs. Brown put it, "Columbus took a chance, so why shouldn't we?"

"Neither one of us knew a thing about the restaurant business, which maybe was good or we might not have had the courage," Mrs. Brown said. "The building was in bad shape, and we had to do all the repair and remodeling work ourselves. The hours are long, 5 a.m. to 9 p.m., and there are a lot of headaches."

"But we're in business and we're doing well so far. The people here have been wonderful to us, and that has helped. Now we want to do something to repay them."

And so tomorrow the Browns' Foxfire family restaurant will be open to all comers for a free Thanksgiving dinner—turkey, ham and all the fixings.

The meal is intended for senior citizens and other persons who may be in need, but no questions will be asked at the door. "We'll have a box out for people to give donations if they want to," Mrs. Brown said. "Our kitchen is kind of small and we can cram in only 75 diners at a time, but we'll manage it some way."

"It's our way of giving thanks to a community that has been awfully good to us."

Orville and Pat Tompkins Vacation in Mexico

Tompkinses Attend Convention in Mexico

Chelsea residents Orville and Pat Tompkins attended the fourth International Convention of Tidy Car associate dealers in Acapulco, Mexico, Nov. 6-10. They left Chelsea on Nov. 2 for a pre-convention tour/vacation in Mexico city with sight seeing trips to the Shrine of Guadalupe, Aztec Pyramids, Cuernavaca (the City of Eternal Spring) and an overnight stay in Taxco, the silver mining city with its jewelry and the most beautiful church in Mexico. No modern buildings are allowed in Taxco to preserve its 17th century atmosphere and architecture. The Mexican Memorial Day Festival (similar to Halloween) was being celebrated day and night with sirens, bells, donkeys, roosters and fireworks. The bus trip from Taxco to Acapulco brought the tour members from an elevation of 6,000 feet to sea-level over mountainous terrain which provided beautiful, breathtaking views.

The Tidy Car convention in Acapulco was well attended by dealers from all 50 states, most Canadian provinces and a few foreign countries. Tidy Car Inc. has its international headquarters, laboratory and manufacturing facility in Toronto, Ontario, and has close to 2,000 franchised dealers world-wide. Of the 820 dealers in North America, 21, including the Tompkinses are in the top "Gold" category.

The Tompkinses started their Tidy Car business in 1979, working on a mobile basis and out of their garage at their home on M-52 in Chelsea. In 1980 they opened their shop on Michigan at U.S.-23, just south of Arborland in Pittsfield township for a grand opening. They still serve their customers in the Chelsea area.

A special "thank-you" was expressed by Mrs. Tompkins to all the customers in the Chelsea area who helped them get started and continue to purchase their services. "You've helped us to prove that with hard work, quality service, determination and faith the American free enterprise system continues to offer the greatest opportunity in the world."

School Business Officials Name New Officers

Assistant superintendents of schools, business managers, and other central office administrators and supervisors, met Oct. 26 at the Washtenaw Intermediate School District Regional Center facilities at 1819 S. Wagner Rd., Ann Arbor.

There are 18 districts in the two counties (Livingston and Washtenaw), and 13 were represented by 20 members. The Association is one of 13 recognized Michigan School Business Officials' Regional Groups. (MSBO is the recognized state affiliate of the American School Business Officials.)

Officers elected for the coming year are: president, David Mills, assistant superintendent, Dexter Community Schools; vice-president, G. Richard McCloskey, assistant superintendent, Pinckney Community Schools; secretary, John E. Shupe, director, administration/instruction, Livingston Intermediate School District, Howell; treasurer, Lawrence Ochalek, purchasing agent, Ann Arbor Public Schools; past president, James M. Koster, director of business services, Howell Public Schools.

Statement of purpose for the local school business officials includes the following objectives:

1. To meet throughout the school year for in-service activities and to improve the efficiency, performance, and ethical conduct of school business officials.

2. To improve education, and to promote the professional growth of the members.

3. To develop leadership at the local, regional, and state levels by supporting the MSBO programs.

4. To co-operate with other educational administrative groups in planning and conducting workshops and seminars involving responsibilities of school business management.

The regular business session of the last meeting included reports and results of surveys both at the local and state levels. Fred Mills, Chelsea schools; Lawrence Ochalek, Ann Arbor; and Richard McCloskey, Pinckney schools, reported on the activities and programs at the ASBO level. Claude Elmore, Washtenaw Intermediate School District, on behalf of William Wade, Ann Arbor schools, presented information regarding the activities and work of MSBO.

The program consisted of reports and presentations by staff members of WISD Paul Linebaugh, director of administrative and transportation services, presented information concerning the co-ordination of special education bus routes and schedules. He reviewed some of the changes at the state level such as identifying all special education students that are transported and other factors that could affect reimbursement. He noted that the informational booklet for supervisors, is being updated and will be available in November.

John Dietz, assistant superintendent for business operations, reported on the WISD administrative organizational plan, that will be put into operation during January, 1984. The reorganizational plan, that will be put into operation during January, 1984. The reorganizational plan is necessary because of retirements of administrative personnel and reassignments to other staff members.

Claude Elmore who has been secretary of this group for several years, presented a departing viewpoint on the importance of "middle management" personnel. He stressed the need to plan well by taking a close look at the challenges facing educators during the next decade.

Comments by members and the newly elected officers, indicates that the organization will continue to be a support group, by helping to administer the policies of the several boards of education in the two-county area.

The next meeting of the association will be early in December, upon notice from the secretary, John Shupe, LIDS.

Council Runs Low On Voters

The Chelsea village council almost ran out of a voting quorum at its Nov. 15 meeting.

The council consists of six trustees plus village president Jack Merkel.

Jack Merkel and trustee Joe Merkel were absent at the beginning of the meeting. Trustee Jerry Satterthwaite, who is president pro-tem, took over the chair to conduct the session. By council rules, the presiding officer votes only to break ties or to make a quorum of the four affirmative votes needed to do official business.

At the start trustees Loren Keezer, Richard Steele, Herman Radloff and Jeanene Riemen-schneider were on hand, and they cast the necessary votes to approve several items on the agenda.

Radloff left early, which meant only four members were present, including Satterthwaite who was running the meeting. He duly recorded his "yes" vote on several routine matters including an early motion to adjourn. Fortunately, nobody disagreed on anything.

Fire Department Needs Furnace, Council Informed

The Chelsea fire station needs a new furnace, the village council was advised last week by trustee Richard Steele who is chairman of the council's fire department committee.

The old one, which is one of three in the building, "is just plain gone and has to be replaced," Steele told the council. He reported having received estimates ranging from $975 to $1,250 for purchase and installation of a replacement.

A problem is that the natural gas heating unit is hung 15 feet off the floor of the building.

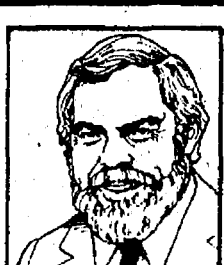

Asked if fire department members could install the furnace and thus perhaps cut its cost, fire chief Paul Hankerd said they probably could if given some help in elevating it into place.

The council took the matter under advisement.

MEMORIAM
In loving memory of Frank Reed who passed away 12 years ago, Nov. 23, 1971. This day comes with sad regrets. Die-hard fishermen may be interested to know that perch are biting well on local lakes, taking minnows fished 3-4 feet down in water up to 10 feet deep. Fishing effort is all but non-existent except by the few anglers who have learned that late fall is an excellent time to make good catches.

Table Tennis Tournney Reported 'Successful'

Twenty people from around Michigan and surrounding states participated in a tournament held recently by the Chelsea Table Tennis Club.

Gerald Scharphorn, president of the local club, said the event was a success and brought in over $300.

He added that the turnout was good for a table tennis event.

"There aren't enough events, so people have to come from further away to participate," he said.

The only competition which did not have a large number of entrants was the 16 and under event, Scharphorn said. Only two persons participated in that competition. Janine Schroeder of Southfield, who is ranked fourth in the nation in under 13 table tennis competition, won the event, defeating Colleen Scharphorn of Chelsea.

A Flint man, using only the initials H. B., won first place in 16 and over competition, Scharphorn said. Jim Takas of Oregon, O., placed second.

In the novice division Tom Carver, of Westland, finished in first place. Harvey Newell of Ann Arbor won the second place award.

Dale Nofzinger of Adrian took first place in the advanced competition. Takas again placed second.

Guenter Schroeder of Southfield won the open class event. Nofzinger took second place.

In doubles competition, H. B. and Nofzinger finished first while Terrey and Harold Durfee took second place.

There was a three-way tie in round robin competition between Nofzinger, Schroeder and H. B.

Proceeds from the event will go toward buying "a nice trophy for next year," as well as a much needed competition table.

Schroeder, who owns a business specializing in table tennis equipment, donated four tables for the Chelsea club to use in the recent tournament.

Scharphorn said the Chelsea club hopes to have two table tennis tournaments every year, in the fall and in the spring.

Deer Harvest Down So Far As Weather Hurts Hunters

The deer kill is down in the Chelsea area so far this season, probably reflecting poor hunting conditions during the early archery season and the first several days of the firearms hunt.

Only 10 animals were brought into Gene Shoemaker's Jiffy Market on firearm opening day a week ago Tuesday. That is about one-third the normal number.

Shoemaker is the leading processor of deer in the local area. He handles about 300 in a typical season.

"So far, they have been coming in very slowly," Shoemaker said.

"I've seen some nice bucks but not very many of them. I'm surprised, because I know there are a lot of deer around here. I see them all the time."

The Jackson district office of the Department of Natural Resources confirmed Shoemaker's observation.

"The archery kill was way down," a spokesman said, "and the gun season has started slowly. I think you can blame the weather, which is what makes or breaks a deer hunting season."

A late leaf-fall hampered archers by reducing visibility in the woods. It was rainy and cold during the first three days of the gun season, conditions which discouraged both deer and hunters. Deer don't move much, and hunters go home early after getting wet.

"If we get some decent hunting weather, we could still have a good deer season," the DNR spokesman said. "One thing is for sure. The deer are out there. The herd is probably the largest ever in this district."

Shoemaker had some interesting footnotes to add.

"I'm seeing a different 'breed' of deer this fall," he said. "They are shorter in length, but blockier. They're built more like steers, with bigger shoulders and hindquarters. They butcher out to more meat."

"I've seen this change happening over the years, but it's especially noticeable this fall. When a deer is brought in, I can look at it and tell you where it came from. If it's long and rangy, it's a northern deer. If it's short and stocky, it came from around here. They are two different types."

Northern deer, he added, have more fat under the skin than their southern Michigan kin. "Those animals up north have to put on a lot of fat to get through the winter. Down here a deer doesn't have to worry about getting enough to eat. At this time of year the northern deer definitely carry more fat."

That is contrary to the conventional wisdom which says that southern deer are fatter because they eat well around the calendar. "They are bigger-bodied," Shoemaker says, "but they aren't as fat. I trim a lot more fat off a northern deer than I do from one shot down here."

Visiting Pets Visit Methodist Home

Buttons came dressed for the occasion.

Sporting a bright orange bow, the eight-year-old dog was led around the circle from one elderly person to the next, calmly allowing gnarled hands to pat his head and caress his freshly-scrubbed coat, and twirling on his hind legs when offered a doggie treat.

Daiquiri the hamster was also center stage, wheeling around the floor in his plastic exercise wheel.

"That is absolutely the cutest thing I have ever seen," one woman exclaimed about the hamster.

Buttons and Daiquiri visited the Chelsea United Methodist Home Saturday as part of the Visiting Pets program, which is run jointly by the Washtenaw Academy of Veterinary Medicine and the Ann Arbor Dog Training Club.

The purpose of the program is to bring animals into contact with patients in various county nursing homes, said Dr. Debra Mainville, a veterinarian at the Dexter Animal Clinic.

Mainville, who has run the Visiting Pets program for the last year, said the program has many benefits.

"Some people in nursing homes have no family or their family doesn't visit them frequently. They really enjoy seeing something living that is small and cute and sometimes they begin talking about the pets they once had."

There are also physical benefits for older adults when they have contact with animals," Mainville said.

"When you talk to a pet your heart rate automatically goes down. When you talk to another human being, your heart rate goes up."

Mainville said a number of people and their pets are active in the program. Animals are recommended by county veterinarians and are screened for temperament before visiting nursing homes, she said.

While many dogs and cats of various breeds are frequent participants in the program, rabbits, and on occasion baby goats have also entertained nursing home residents.

"We do try to get a variety for people, Mainville said.

The program has been very successful. Visiting Pets now makes trips to seven nursing homes in Chelsea, Ann Arbor, Whitmore Lake, Ypsilanti, Saline and Dexter.

Mainville said that participants ensure that animals which go on the same trip are compatible.

"I don't think we've ever had a complaint," she said.

In addition to the benefits the Visiting Pets program provides to nursing home patients, there are also positive aspects for the people and animals who participate in the visits, Mainville said.

"It makes us feel good too."

Jennice and Jamie Hoffman of Chelsea would agree.

The two sisters brought Buttons and Daiquiri to the Chelsea United Methodist Home and put the animals through their paces for the audience.

Jennice, who worked for three years for the Dexter Animal Clinic, has been involved for some
