CEA Group To Discuss Grievance

Members of a Chelsea Education Association (CEA) committee are scheduled to meet this week to discuss whether to take a grievance into arbitration.

The grievance was filed by the CEA after a written reprimand was placed in the file of a teacher when he failed to attend a recent Open House at the high school.

The CEA contends that teachers are not required by their contract to attend such after school hours events, said Cathy Vicek, president of the organization.

Following denial of the CEA grievance by high school principal John Williams and Chelsea superintendent Ray Van Meer, the Board of Education heard the grievance in an executive session during a regular meeting Monday, Jan. 16.

The board directed the administration to present an "alternative solution" in writing to the CEA.

Van Meer said that the board offered to remove the reprimand from the teacher's file if the CEA would acknowledge that contract wording which says teachers are "expected" to attend such functions means, in its "literal dictionary definition," that they are required to participate.

He said that in the past excused absences have been granted to teachers who must miss an open house because of a college class or prior commitment.

"The CEA rejected the letter after lengthy discussion," Vicek said. "What it all boils down to is that it is not contracted time."

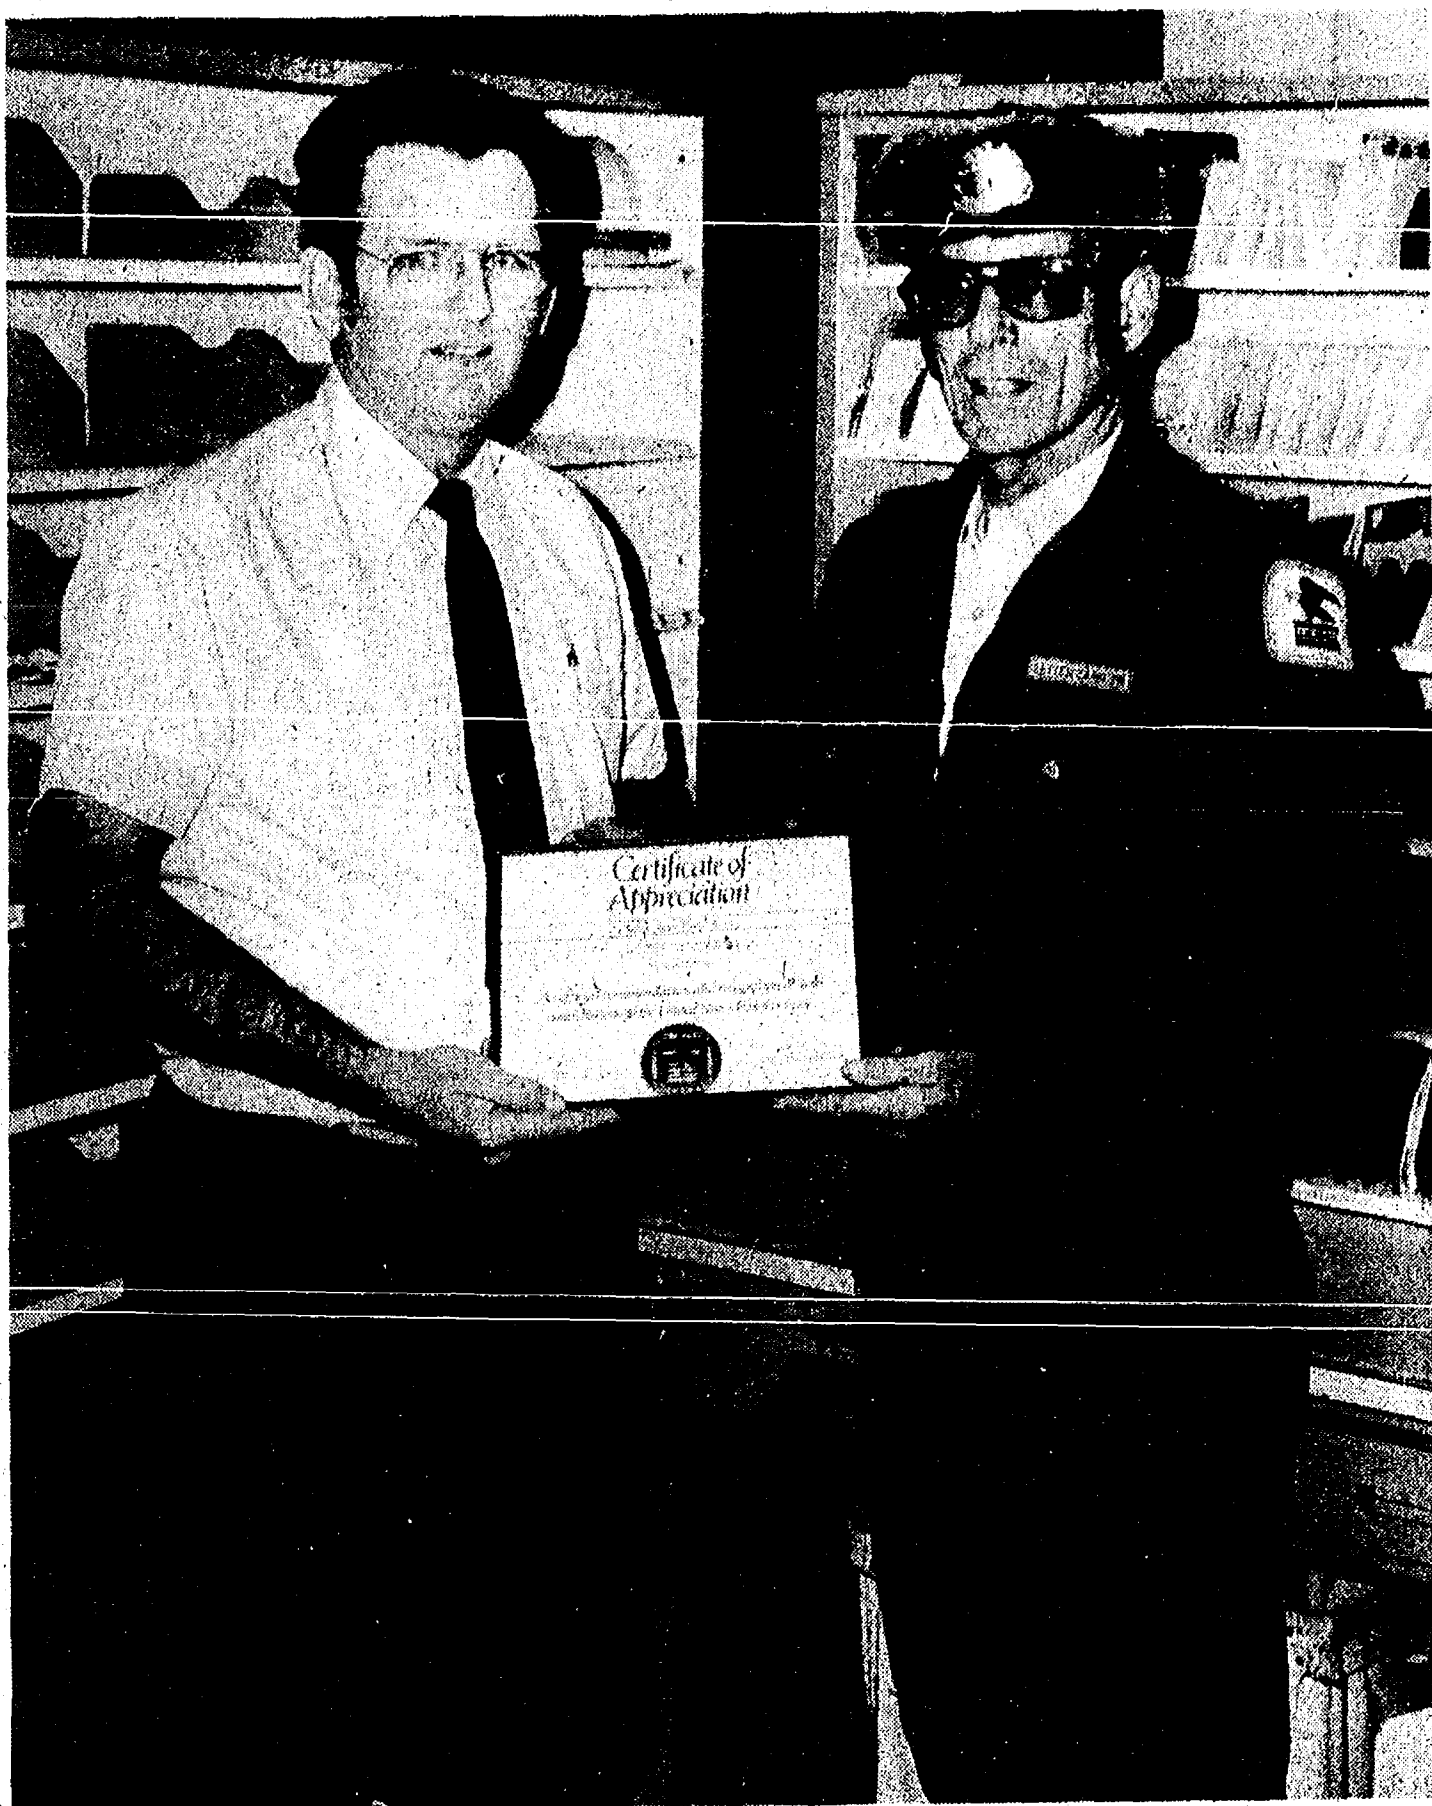

She added that the majority of teachers "voluntarily" attend such events.

After the grievance committee makes a recommendation on whether to take the issue into arbitration, the matter will be discussed by the CEA executive council, Vicek said. "That group will vote to support or deny the committee recommendation."

Cribbage Tournament Scheduled For Tonight

There will be a cribbage tournament tonight at the Chelsea VFW Hall. Registration will begin at 6:30 p.m.

The tournament is open to the public.

HE DOESN'T GET SICK: Paul Phillips (right), a mail carrier for the Chelsea post office, of unused sick leave during his 29 years in the postal service. Williams for accumulating more than 2,500 hours

Mail Carrier Paul Phillips Cited for Using No Sick Leave

Paul Phillips, 50, of Stockbridge, a Chelsea mail carrier since 1968, has received an award for accumulating more than 2,500 hours of unused sick leave since he entered the U. S. Postal Service 29 years ago.

"I just keep going," Phillips said. "There have been some days when I haven't felt very good, but I went out and worked anyway. I don't think I'm unusually healthy."

Phillips walks a route for about two hours in the morning on the southwest side of the village, then spends the rest of his day picking up mail from drop boxes while driving a Jeep "mailster."

"I remember when we had three Jeeps here," Phillips said. "Now we are down to one, and that makes a difference in the way we pick up and deliver mail."

Phillips calls this winter "the coldest that I can remember" but adds that he has seen worse days in the past. "We haven't had much wind, and wind is what makes it really uncomfortable out there when you are carrying mail."

Phillips hasn't used any sick leave since he began working in the Chelsea post office. "I look at it as a kind of insurance policy, some thing to be saved up," he said.

Under federal regulations, he can apply his 2,500-plus hours of sick leave toward his retirement. They add up to some 65 weeks of "extra" duty which will be added to his years of service in computing his annuity.

Phillips can retire at age 55 but says he doesn't plan to. "I enjoy working, and I especially enjoy working in Chelsea," he said. "This is a fine community. There are a lot of nice people here. I don't want to quit serving them."

He has a wife, Betty, and two daughters, Paula and Joni, in Stockbridge High School. Paula, a senior, was homecoming queen last fall. Joni is a freshman.

"I like what I'm doing," Phillips said, "and I intend to go on doing it."

Red Hot Lovers' Will Be Offered

After many weeks of rehearsal, the Chelsea Area Players will present their pre-Valentine's Day production of the Neil Simon play "Last of the Red Hot Lovers," this weekend.

The three-act comedy will be performed at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday and at 1 p.m. Sunday at the St. Louis School For Exceptional Boys. A champagne and dessert hour will be held before the two evening performances.

The cast of "Last of the Red Hot Lovers" features Andy Lindstrom as the fumbling Barney Cashman, an Ann Arbor resident with a bachelor's degree in voice and drama, Lindstrom has been involved in theatre for more than 30 years. He has appeared in "Guys and Dolls" and "Charlie's Aunt" for Ann Arbor Civic Theatre and most recently portrayed Herr Schultz in "Cabaret."

Loren Keezer Is Candidate for Village President

Loren Keezer has announced his candidacy for village president and will run against Jerry Satterthwaite in the March 12 election.

Keezer, 42, is finishing out his second term on the village council and served most of one term as village clerk before coming on to the council. A lifelong Chelsea resident, he lives at 139 Clardale Ct. with his wife, Nancy and their two children. He is employed by Chelsea Milling Co.

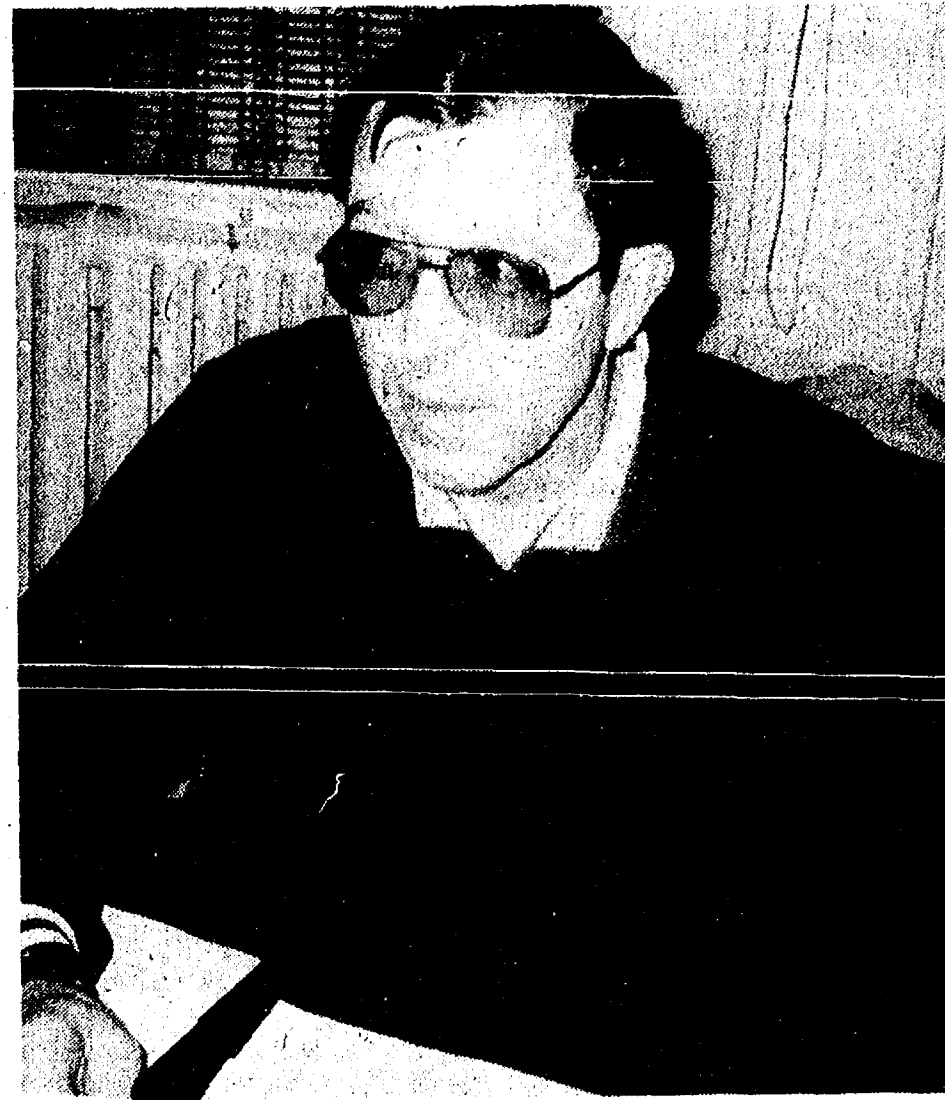

"I waited a long time before deciding to run and finally made up my mind because I honestly believe I am the best qualified person for the position," Keezer said.

"I have experience. I have served on just about all the council committees. I know the village, its government departments and its employees well."

"I'm not making any promises, because the village president really doesn't have much power or authority. It wasn't until just lately that the president even had a vote on the council. About all he can do is express his opinions on issues and try to be a leader through persuasion."

Keezer did make it clear that he is unhappy with the way the current investigation into the police department's handling of traffic fines has been conducted.

"I raised the issue in the first place by questioning charges to a credit card the police department uses. I've been shut out ever since. I still don't know that there is anything wrong, but it bothers me that I have to read the paper to find out what is going on. It's been a closed door."

Keezer is also dissatisfied with what amounted to hand-picking of Satterthwaite by retiring president Jack Merkel to be the new village president. "I think there were others who should have been talked to," Keezer said.

"I'm not going to campaign in the ordinary sense of the word. I don't think that is appropriate in a village election here. I'm announcing my candidacy, putting my record and experience on the line, and asking the voters to decide who is best qualified."

Keezer's decision to run for president means there will be at least two new persons on the (Continued on page two)

Village Securing Special Audit Of Parking Fund

The council room at the Chelsea village hall was filled nearly to capacity a week ago Tuesday night, and most of the people in the audience were looking for news about the investigation into handling of traffic fines.

Village attorney Peter Flintoft made a brief statement reporting that the state police investigation is continuing and that, until it is completed, nothing is going to be said.

"I think it is best that we not talk about this matter until we know what we are talking about," Flintoft said, "and I have so advised village officials. When the facts come out, whatever they are, we will share them with the public."

Flintoft did disclose that the Ann Arbor accounting firm of Iccerman, Johnson & Hoffman has been hired by the village to make a special audit of the village parking meter fund.

"When the audit is completed, we will send the report to the state police," Flintoft said, "and it will become part of their investigation."

Trustee Joe Merkel who, as chairman of the council's police department committee holds the title of village police commissioner, told a newsmen that the investigation report will be made public as soon as it is received and evaluated.

"We certainly won't try to sit on it and take the chance of having it leak out," Merkel emphasized. "We want to get this cleared up just as quickly as possible, and we want people to know what is going on. I realize there are lots of rumors floating around town. Let me emphasize that, at this point, they are just that—rumors. We have questions. We are waiting for answers, and we'll share them as soon as we get them."

As police commissioner, Merkel is nominally in charge of the police department while chief (Continued on page four)

WILLIAM J. BRENNER

William J. Brenner Chelsea's New Assistant Postmaster

William J. Brenner, 27, of Detroit is Chelsea's new assistant to postmaster Larry Williams. His formal title is "superintendent of postal operations," but he describes himself as "Larry's right-hand man, here to do whatever he wants."

A native of Detroit, Brenner has been in the postal service since 1976 as a Detroit city mail carrier and has had three years of supervisory training. He was selected for the Chelsea post by Williams after several candidates were interviewed.

"This is a big chance for me, and I jumped at it," Brenner said. "I'm looking forward to living and working out here. I'm an avid hunter and fisherman, among other things, and this area has a lot to offer."

Brenner is commuting between

Detroit and Chelsea temporarily but plans to move here as soon as he can find suitable housing for himself, his wife Wendy and their daughter Gretchen, 5.

"I hope people here will stop in and introduce themselves and say hello," Brenner said. "I like people and want to meet as many as possible. I believe in service and want to get to know the people this post office serves."

Quick Action Urged

For Education Proposals

Superintendent of Public Instruction Phillip Runkel is urging the state Legislature to take action on several proposals to improve education, including one of the more controversial and expensive items which calls for a longer school year.

The call came as the State Board of Education unanimously adopted 13 major recommendations in a "Blueprint for Action" report, which it asked to be implemented over the next four years.

The total cost is expected to be in the hundreds of millions of dollars but Runkel said the price tag was not the immediate consideration.

"Money is important, but what is more important is the investment in our future. We have the resources if the state sets its priorities, and education ought to be one of its key priorities, he said.

Runkel noted the first cost item is a proposal for model programs for gifted and talented students at about $10 million and another $10 million item for computer and vocational education equipment.

The state's top education administrator said his staff is still developing a cost estimate for increasing the school year over four years to 200 days with 190 days devoted to instruction, up from the 180-day requirement.

He noted, however, if teacher salaries were adjusted for the extra 20 days, the additional cost would be over $200 million based on 1981-82 statistics which showed mean 78,447 teaching positions at an average salary of $24,304 for a total payroll of about $1.9 billion. Public hearings are expected to be held by the board on the report, which officials described as one of the most significant education documents in the century, to help local districts understand the recommendations and gather reactions.

State Board President Gumecindo Salas said the board intends to co-operate closely with districts to help them implement the recommendations, which he said should not be considered etched in stone, but subject to modification.

Major recommendations on new high school graduation requirements—only a semester of civics is now required at all districts—will be monitored and if not voluntarily implemented by 1988, the board will seek authority to set those requirements in a state-wide standard.

The graduation requirements include four years of communications skills, two years of mathematics, two years of sciences, two years of either foreign language, fine or performing arts or vocational education programs, one year of physical education or health and half year of computer education.

For those who are college-bound, students should be encouraged to take another year of mathematics, another year of science and pursue the two-year language option.

Other recommendations include:

—colleges and universities should require entering students to have two years of foreign language.

—the Legislature and governor should provide funds to retrain teachers and administrators in science, math, communication skills and computer technology

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

The finest legal brains in this country are trying to decide if silence is constitutional. As a listener, I stand foursquare in favor of it. Furthermore, I am for a constitutional guarantee of silence on grounds that the other fellow's right to freedom of speech ends where my right not to listen begins.

I see by the papers that the U. S. Supreme Court has been asked to review a Alabama Law that allows a period of silence in public schools. The piece went on to say 22 other states have laws that do the same thing. I am alarmed but not surprised that we have come to such a sorry pass in this country that we make laws so folks will know they ain't got to make noise all the time. I heard a radio announcer say 25 year ago that the thing he feared most in his work was "dead air." What made that fellow sick was silence, and I had no idea at the time that his ailment would turn into a national epidemic.

Everybody is afraid of quiet. When people are together in a room and there is a sudden quiet, they start looking at one another like they're afraid they will vanish. Then all of em will start talking at once. It don't matter what they talk about, nobody listens to anything in particular, they are just calmed by the noise.

Use to, we got the same comfort from our barber. As long as he had a ear in front of him he talked in it. He didn't expect the ear to talk back, and we didn't hear what he said. He just kept the air alive.

I mentioned this moment of silence case during the session at the country store Saturday night. The fellers didn't say anything for a few seconds, then Clem Webster allowed that the court ought not to stop with the schools. Clem was in favor of approving a hour of silence right after supper fer ever wife in America, and he was strong fer at least five silent minutes in ever hour fer ever politician. This quiet period would give listeners of wives and politicians time to decide whether anything needed to be said about what they had said. Clem figured this five minute rule would do away with equal time fer politicians, because one would realize the other was just keeping the air from dying.

General speaking, the fellers was fer less noise and less of everything else out of Washington. Ed Doolittle noted that the Department of Agriculture ought to of kept quiet about too much milk. He said it come up with a plan to pay farmers not to produce milk, then pay em more to send some of their cows to slaughter. This will cut down on milk fer sure, Ed said, like limited nuclear war you would reduce unemployment, but now meat producers are crying about what this glut on the beef market will do to the price of hamburger.

Personal, I don't see no way USDA can suit half the farmers half the time. When you ease one you squeeze another. On the plus side, I ain't heard any noise this winter from farmers that took Payment in Kind last year fer dried up fields that wouldn't of produced anything anyhow.

Yours truly,

Uncle Lew.

Satterthwaite's council term has another year to go and he can resume his seat if he is defeated in the race for president. If he is elected president his trustee post will be filled by appointment.

ON YOUR FEET

TREATING HAMMER TOES

You may have a hammer toe condition if some of your toes overlap, underlap, or are contracted in some way, causing you pain when you walk, especially when wearing shoes. This condition can often be treated successfully in a surgical procedure performed by your podiatrist. If the condition is considered minor, it may be performed in your podiatrist's office. Or he may decide that the operation can best be performed in a hospital. Care will be taken that enough time is allowed for healing, before you resume your normal activities.

For good post-operative results, your feet will have to be properly supported without incurring any restriction of joint motion. Sometimes post-operative treatment will also include physiotherapy, exercises, and podiatric padding and strapping. This is done to assist the healing process and to rehabilitate the affected muscles and joints. These procedures can also help prevent future problems. When your toes are completely healed, you will probably be able to wear shoes of your choice—free of the pain the hammer toes condition has caused.

Meat Substitute Workshop Set For Next Tuesday

"What, No Meat?" is the name of a workshop being offered on Tuesday, Jan. 31 through Chelsea Community Education.

Delicious and nutritious meat-meal dishes can be prepared very economically without using meat, and are usually much lower in sodium and saturated fats.

Cutting down on sodium and fats is recommended as an important way to help prevent high blood pressure and heart disease. Healthful grains, beans, nuts, and seeds can be mixed and matched to provide high quality protein that is equal to that found in meats.

Workshop participants will learn how to use these basic foods and will sample recipes that put them to delicious use. Theresa Freed, editor of "The Foodletter," will show you how to apply basic protein-combining techniques to your own favorite recipes.

You may register for the workshop by calling the Chelsea Community Education offices at 475-9830. The fee of $7 per person includes copies of the recipes.

Auxiliary Hears Committee Reports

Members of the Chelsea Ladies Auxiliary, Veterans of Foreign Wars, heard several reports during their Jan. 16 meeting.

Lucy Platt, cancer chairperson, is planning a public program about cancer, to be presented in March. Cancer insurance totaling $405.90 was allotted for all auxiliary members during the January meeting.

Platt also reported on two Christmas parties held for veterans in Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti.

Eight VFW post and auxiliary members plan to attend the sixth district conference in Monroe on Feb. 5.

Americanism chairperson Eulahlee Packard told members that a flag will be presented soon to South Elementary school.

Auxiliary members are collecting pennies for the Political Action Committee of the Department of Michigan. A bill is currently in the house to permanently reinstate May 30 as Memorial Day.

The next auxiliary meeting will be held Feb. 13 at 7:30 p.m. in the VFW Hall.

Former Chelseaite Ghost-Writes Book

Sandra Picklesimer Aldrich, formerly of Chelsea, is the ghost-writer of a book titled "Sheltered by the King" recently published by Zondervan Corp. of Grand Rapids.

Mrs. Aldrich, 1963 graduate of Chelsea High school, now lives in Canton, a suburb of Detroit. She earned bachelor's and master's degrees at Eastern Michigan University.

"Sheltered by the King" is a short biography detailing the life of Marta Gabre-Tsadick, an Ethiopian woman who was forced to flee her country following a Communist takeover.

Mrs. Gabre-Tsadick was a personal friend of long-time Ethiopian emperor Haile Selassie and was the first woman elected to the Senate of that country. The book focuses on her flight out of Ethiopia with her husband and children after the Selassie government was overturned.

Mrs. Aldrich, who is presently working on a second book, is the author of 17 articles and short stories which have appeared in 17 publications.

Women who maintain their own families are considerably more likely to work or look for work today than in the past; but their historical pattern of marginal earnings and high unemployment persists, keeping the economic status of their families well below that of the majority of American families, according to an article published in the Department of Labor's Monthly Labor Review.

POLICE COMMITTEE MEMBERS: Village trustees Joe Merkel (left) and Herman Radloff comprise the Chelsea council's police department committee. As chairman of the committee, Merkel holds the title of police commissioner and is in charge of the department while an investigation continues into how traffic fines have been handled.

Council Waits for Audit

Robert F. Aeillo is on a vacation during the investigation.

"I'm keeping in close touch," he said, "but I'm sharing the responsibility with Herman Radloff (the other member of the council's police department committee) and president Jack Merkel. (The two Merckels are cousins.) We're working on this together."

Sgt. Lenard McDougall is handling routine department operations in Aeillo's absence.

In a related matter, the council voted unanimously to postpone until Feb. 7 the award of a contract for the annual village audit.

The village has received five bids ranging from $4,700 to $8,000 and normally would award the contract to the low bidder—Campbell, Kusterer & Walraven of Bay City—which did the job last year.

"In view of what is happening, I think it is especially important that we get the kind of audit we need," president Jack Merkel said. "It's possible we may not

A VIEW from the CLOCK TOWER

Bill Mullendore

Twice in the past three weeks I have been taken to task and harshly criticized for stories that I wrote and were published in The Standard. After 37 years of working at this craft called journalism, I have learned to expect that. What I haven't learned is to ignore the flak, put on a thick skin of cynicism, and go on about my professional business. I am sensitive, and I worry when somebody accuses me of having done something that was somehow "wrong."

In both instances the criticism seemed to stem from a conviction that, even though the stories were accurate, they should not have been written and printed because they might upset some people. I don't doubt that both stories did. When it comes to "bad news," people are bound to be unhappy about reading it, especially those who are closest to the happening and may be adversely affected by it.

Also in both instances I was told in no uncertain terms that "This is Chelsea," the implication being that it is somehow different and special from any other community and that nothing bad can possibly happen here. If something bad does happen, the rationale seems to run, it shouldn't be put in the paper for fear that it might damage the village image.

All I can say to that is, nonsense.

As I have found from working at The Standard for 16 months and living in Chelsea for six, this is indeed a very nice town, better than most. But, let me assure you, it isn't perfect. Some bad news happens here and, as a responsible professional journalist, I intend to report it when it does.

This is my first experience of living and working in a small town, and I must say that it is "different" from what I am used to. What makes it different is that everybody knows—or thinks he or she knows—everything that is going on. If The Standard put into print one-tenth of the rumors that I hear around town, all of us at the paper would go to jail, and deservedly so. Sorting out speculation from fact is possibly the most important part of my job. Believe me, it isn't always easy.

I will continue to track down and print facts, and reject the rumors. I may make a mistake once in awhile, but it won't be for lack of trying to find out the truth, which is what newsmen are supposed to do.

Why don't we print more "good" news? The answer is as simple as it may be surprising. We don't hear about most of the acts of kindness and selflessness, good citizenship and service that are performed every day. We can't possibly call every home and business place in town every week and ask, "Did you do something good lately?"

I welcome good news. It is a lot more rewarding to write than bad news.

One of my tasks at The Standard is to call the police dispatcher every time the village siren sounds, and find out what is going on. By agreement, I wait two minutes until all the radio traffic has been cleared and the emergency vehicles sent on their way. I cringe during those two minutes because I know that, whatever has happened, it isn't going to be good and that I may be on my way to cover a fire, a traffic accident or some other tragedy.

After all this time I still walk over to the side of the road and vomit after covering the scene of a gruesome accident. I would not have made a good medical practitioner.

Another factor I've found from working in a small community is that the relationships are much more personal. I know and like most of the people whose names I put in the paper, and that makes it all the more difficult when the story is not good news.

Sports are a special problem. A sports writer is not supposed to be partisan, but I am not ashamed to admit that I am. When you get to know the coaches and the athletes on a first-name basis, you can't help rooting for them and wanting badly for them to win. It hurts to have to write the stories of the losses and do an honest job of reporting why they happened.

I wish every Chelsea athletic team would go undefeated forever, or at least for as long as I work here.

I wish likewise that there were never any accidents, never any business closures, never any deaths, never any investigations of possible mishandling of village funds, never any bad news of any kind. Unfortunately, that isn't the way the world works, in Chelsea or anywhere else.

The role of a newspaper is to report what is going on, the mix of good and bad that is the grist of life. I chose this profession deliberately and am glad I did, but there are some things about it—and particularly the necessity to report bad news—that I wish I didn't have to do. That part of the job is no fun at all.

Q. I have come to the conclusion that I would like to own some gold. Would you please tell me the different ways an individual could invest in gold. I have a friend who says there is a big question as to whether gold is an investment for most people.

A. There are four principle ways an individual can invest in gold: shares in a gold mining company, coins, bullion, and futures. A fifth way is in jewelry or artifacts. However, that means there is an added cost of workmanship on the buy side, and more difficulty in finding a buyer on the sale side.

Holding shares in a gold mine has an additional risk, in that profitability depends not only on the price of gold, but on the quality of the management running the organization, which determines how profitable the organization may be.

Gold coins have been a traditional, and perhaps the most common, way of owning gold. Coins typically sell for a premium over their intrinsic gold content.

Gold bullion is available in the 20- and 50-gram wafers originated in Europe to the 1,000-ounce gold bars used by banks. Some organizations are now offering certificates in a holding of bullion. A recent incident, wherein the management issued certificates for bullion that wasn't in the vaults, shows one of the risks of that type of ownership.

The futures market is subject to wide price fluctuations, and usually great leverage is employed. This means risk is substantial. This type of ownership is popular with those who like to speculate on the price of gold.

A great many people who are interested in owning gold express the desire to have it in their possession. This exposes the owner to the risk of theft, and can create a problem when you want to sell. While bullion will be marked as to its fineness and weight, and coins have a stated value, the problem of counterfeiting and other alterations is ever present. This means that when you want to sell, the fineness and weight will likely have to be certified.

Like any investment, gold is not likely to be profitable unless its price goes up. Gold sold for a little above $800 an ounce in 1978, dropped to $300 an ounce in mid-1982, rose to $500 in early 1983, and recently has been in the $370-$380 range.

The price of gold is up about 2½ times more than the Index of Producer Prices since 1968. Some people use this fact to suggest that gold is presently overpriced, and may not advance much for a number of years. The price of gold, however, is subject to very emotional factors, and can move greatly in a very short interval.

★ Seat Belts Save Lives and Money . . .

Seat belts have long been promoted as the best method of reducing serious injuries and deaths in auto crashes. That remains true. But a special report in the October issue of Michigan Medicine, the journal of the Michigan State Medical Society, illustrates additional, convincing reasons for buckling up.

An article by Michigan Medicine editor, Judith Marr, presents a new perspective on the benefits of seat belts. Marr and Robert Burton, M.D., chairman of the Michigan Coalition for Safety Belt Usage, spent time recently at the GM Proving Grounds and at the state capital learning first-hand the value of seat belts and why mandatory belt usage legislation is being considered.

Having viewed films of simulated car accidents, Marr and Burton visited R. A. "Doc" Whitworth, manager of Traffic Safety for General Motors. He explained that many accidents may be avoided if the driver is able to maintain control of the car. And to prove the point, he drove through a series of evasive maneuvers and skid control exercises that left his passengers' heads spinning.

Failed recoveries, including loss of control resulting from sudden swerves and stops or slippery pavement, are the leading cause of accidents. Controlling the car in these conditions, according to the Whitworth, can depend upon the use of seat belts.

"We advocate the use of seat belts," Whitworth stressed, "because the driver does a better job with the vehicle. The belt keeps you behind the wheel," a position enabling appropriate reaction to these emergencies.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor,
I'm a proud Chelsea Jaycee. Our members are young men willing to commit time and effort to the community. We have been active in Chelsea for 30 years. However, we are in danger of extinction.

Our membership has been declining for the past several years. Regulations of the U. S. and Michigan Jaycees require a minimum of 20 members. Right now, we do not qualify. We are threatened with loss of our charter and use of the name "Jaycees."

More important, we need more members to be able to continue the many projects that benefit the people of Chelsea. These include the Easter Egg Hunt, Burns Awareness, Red Cross Blood Drive, the CATS Bus, Punt-Pass-Kick, and finger-printing of grade school children to aid in identification if lost or missing. We earn the money to fund these community projects from the fair bingo, selling popcorn, summer softball tournaments, and a fall color run.

We are determined to survive. We need your help. If you want to help your community, meet and work with community leaders, meet and work with other young families, please join us. Please contact us to learn how to join. Our president is Harold Allen, 475-8038. Our other officers are Tim Merkel (475-3272), Bill Herrick (475-9713), John Rosen-treter (475-9634). My telephone number is 475-1747.

Ann Arbor Trust and Citizens Bank of Saline have joined to become Citizens Trust.

It's more like a marriage than a merger.

On December 31, 1983, our two respected local and independent banks merged, creating a financial institution called Citizens Trust. While consolidation was a legal step, it also assumed the character of a marriage, a true partnership of community banks.

For example, both banks have merged as equals—with equal rights and responsibilities. Neither bank took over the other; this was not a holding company situation.

New Strengths and Services.

An important aspect of this new relationship is the ability of Citizens Trust to offer you new strengths and services, including significantly larger lending limits.

Existing services will be enhanced, and new services added to bring our customers the most modern, efficient and friendly banking.

More Offices.

Thanks to the merger, we now have seven offices to serve you: two in Ann Arbor, one each in Brighton and Chelsea, and three in Saline and surrounding townships. An eighth office will open this spring in the Plymouth Park development near Green Road on the north side of Ann Arbor.

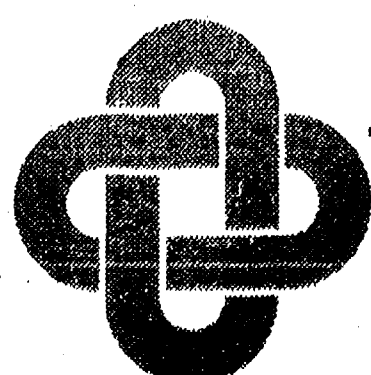

Automatic teller machines are available at all these offices for your added convenience.

Familiar Faces.

One thing that won't change in this new relationship is the people involved. You'll still be able to do business with the same bank employees and managers who have served you in the past.

These people will be available to answer any questions you may have about the merger. Just call or stop by any of our offices listed below. And share in our excitement. We're looking forward to many happy years together.

Ann Arbor Trust and Citizens Bank of Saline have tied the knot.

Chelsea Duo Finds Life On Road Is Hard Work

Life on the road is about 10 percent glamour and 90 percent hard work, Jeff Boyer and Jim Fitzsimmons of Chelsea found out while traveling with their magic act last fall.

They are back in town but not for long, planning to leave again in March.

Boyer and Fitzsimmons travelled nationally with the Amazing Conklins magic show, putting on an act that they call "Houdini's Metamorphosis," a substitution of people carried on through a clear plexi-glass screen.

Their road tour was filled with flat tires, broken mufflers and other breakdowns in the two trucks and trailers that they hauled.

"We learned mainly that, if something goes wrong, you have to find a way to keep going," Boyer said. "You have to keep the trucks running."

Another problem was staying healthy with an irregular schedule of meals at fast-food restaurants, Fitzsimmons said. "We're glad to get back in Chelsea for some good home cooking."

Boyer and Fitzsimmons will hit the road in March, touring again with the Amazing Conklins. "We figure this is our best opportunity to get to the top," Boyer said, "and we are going to stay with it. It's a life's dream for us."

Between now and March the team will present magic shows in southeastern Michigan schools and work to refine their act.

Sylvan Town Hall has been selected by the Chelsea Sesquicentennial committee as the official headquarters for the community's 150th birthday party this summer.

The headquarters will contain a general store, which will sell T-shirts, hats and other souvenir items throughout the five day celebration. A schedule of events will be posted in the building and a phone will be available for anyone needing information about Sesquicentennial events.

A section of the hall will be available for groups interested in having bake sales or displays.

The schedule of events for the first three days of the celebration has also been tentatively scheduled.

There will also be a kick-off parade, a farmers market, ethnic food and dancing as well as a giant birthday cake (made with Jiffy Mix) and ice cream. The day will culminate with a dance at the fairgrounds featuring the "Saline Big Band."

Sunday, July 1, has been designated "Interfaith Day." Choirs from many area churches will perform in the afternoon at the high school football field. The senior citizen Kitchen Band and other local entertainers will also perform.

"Youth Day" will be held Monday, July 2. Plans call for a "Youth Marathon," a parade for children and their pets, hot air balloon rides and a high school dance.

There will be a Sesquicentennial booth located in the Heritage Craft Room at the upcoming South Elementary school Fun Fair, Feb. 4. The committee will be selling T-shirts, hats and other items during the Fun Fair.

Five Below-Zero Days Followed By Warm Spell

Record cold temperatures late last week gave way yesterday to what came close to being a January thaw, in terms of this winter anyway.

There were five successive days of below-zero temperatures last week, climaxed by Saturday morning's reading of minus 19, a record for the date and just a couple of degrees less than the all-time low. The mercury never pushed above zero during the day, reaching a "high" of four below.

A warming trend set in Sunday and continued during the early part of the week. Some rain, of all things, fell Monday evening, and yesterday's early morning temperature was above freezing.

The "warm" spell provided a welcome break in what has been going into the books as a record winter for sustained cold. There have so far been 16 days of below-zero readings since Dec. 1.

Local residents apparently have learned to cope well with the cold. No major emergencies were reported. Cars that wouldn't turn over under the frigid conditions made up the major problem.

Church Withdraws Proposal To Buy Fuel Plant Site

The Fellowship Baptist church has withdrawn its offer to buy two lots on Old US-12, where the former Riemenschneider two-cycle fuel plant is located.

The Rev. Larry Mattis, pastor of the church, notified real estate agent and part-owner Sharon Roberts that "because of the many delays our board made a decision to withdraw our offer on the property."

The church and Ms. Roberts had asked the village council for something in writing on the cost of extending a sewer line to the property, which is at the extreme west edge of the village limits.

"Lack of knowledge about the sewer has made it a discouraging project for all that were behind it," the Rev. Mr. Mattis said.

Ms. Roberts, who is a one-third owner of the property, was sharply critical of village officials. "They just kept delaying and wouldn't tell us anything. We couldn't get any information."

"This property should have been sold at least twice. Tregets wanted it, and couldn't get any co-operation from the village. The Fellowship Baptist church wanted it, and couldn't get any co-operation either. Two projects that would have been good for Chelsea have been lost because of delays and uncertainty."

The property has been vacant for several years. The cinder-block building on the two lots fronting on Old US-12 once housed the fuel plant. The building is slowly crumbling. There are two other lots adjacent to the building.

Tregets Tool & Engineering Co. tried to buy the tract in the fall of 1982 but was turned down by the village on a request to have it rezoned for light industrial use. Tregets then moved its operations to Jackson.

The Fellowship Baptist church wanted to buy two of the four lots and remodel the old fuel plant into a house of worship, but its offer got hung up over who would pay what for sewers.

The cost of extending a sewer line to the four lots is guessed at somewhere between $12,000 and $16,000, but village officials have not sought any engineering estimates on the project.

Ms. Roberts appeared before the council on Dec. 8 and asked for "something in writing" that she could take to the affected property owners, including herself, in order to get consent agreements signed to pay the cost of the sewer.

The council came back with a counter-proposal that the owners sign what amounts to a blank check and agree in advance to pay whatever the sewer cost might turn out to be.

"We just couldn't accept that," Ms. Roberts said. "We needed to know some dollar figures, and the village wouldn't supply them. It looks to me like they (the village) would rather have the property sit there and continue to deteriorate."

"We've tried twice now to get it sold and put to good use. We've had two firm offers that would have been good for Chelsea, and the village has blocked them both. At this point I don't know what to try next."

The Fellowship Baptist church conducts its services at the Chelsea Rebekah Hall and apparently will continue to do so. Tregets is long gone to Jackson.

Home Meal Work Needs Volunteers

The Chelsea Home Meal Service is once again looking for volunteer drivers to work on Tuesdays, spokesperson Mary Ann Merkel said.

"We need someone who will volunteer to work for about an hour every other Tuesday," Mrs. Merkel said. "Tuesdays seem to be our most difficult days to find drivers."

Drivers pick up the packaged meals at 11 a.m. at the Chelsea United Methodist Home, and deliver them to clients who all live within the village. There is no country driving involved.

The meals are packaged in light-weight insulated containers and weigh a pound or less. No heavy lifting is required.

The service which is supported by the Chelsea United Way, can use substitute drivers for any day, Mrs. Merkel said.

Interested persons are asked to call Joyce Manley at 475-2795.

Chelsea Fire Department Has 315 Runs

The Chelsea fire department finished out 1983 with a total of 315 runs for the year, one more than in 1982, thanks to a busy December.

The department's monthly report to the village council showed 33 runs logged last December as compared to 17 a year ago. Eleven calls were answered in the village of Chelsea, five each in Sylvan, Dexter and Lima townships and four in Lyndon.

Rescue runs accounted for 16 of the 33 December calls. There were only three building fires and none resulted in major damage, a remarkable statistic considering the extreme cold weather which tends to produce home fires from over-heated furnaces and stoves.

The first strike in which women participated occurred in Pawtucket, R.I., in 1824, according to "Labor Firsts in America," a publication of the U. S. Department of Labor.

Chelsea Man Named 'Pilot of the Year'

Phrases like "happy as a lark" pepper a conversation with John Miller.

That's not surprising, since he loves flying and views his job as a professional pilot as a joy.

"Most people," he says smiling, "have to work for a living."

Because of his dedication to his profession Miller, of Chelsea, was recently named one of two "Pilots of the Year" by the Michigan Aviation News.

A pilot for the Ford Motor Co., Miller also operates a 24-acre peach farm on McKinley Rd., where he lives with his wife Janis, and daughter Julie, 9. In addition, he co-owns a 150-acre fruit farm on the west side of the state with his brother.

A native of Coloma, a western Michigan town of about 2,000, Miller attended U. of M. before transferring to Western Michigan University where he earned a bachelor's degree in aviation engineering in 1964. He later received a master's degree in business, with emphasis in finance, from Eastern Michigan University.

After college Miller spent four years in the Air Force where he worked in the B-58 "Hustler" program.

His first job when he returned to Michigan was as a co-pilot with the fledgling Air Michigan Airlines. As part of the first flight crew for the airlines he was promoted to captain within weeks.

Miller had been with Air Michigan for about 10 months when he received a call from Ford. He has been flying for the automotive company ever since.

The majority of Miller's time at work is spent flying shuttles between Ford plants. He regularly flies to Louisville, Cincinnati, Cleveland and New Mexico. His schedule is hectic, rarely allowing time for sightseeing. He often has just enough time to check into a hotel to sleep for a few hours before flying to a different part of the country.

"I have time to see the airports, that's all," he said.

When he is not working for the automotive company Miller commutes between his farms with his Cessna 172.

In addition, he is also a member of the Air Force Reserves and is extremely active as an accident prevention counselor for the FAA Accident Prevention Program. His participation in that program is one of the things which led to the "Pilot of the Year" award.

The accident prevention program was devised to encourage general aviation pilots (such as owners of private planes) to get periodic re-training. Last year Miller led nine accident prevention meetings which were attended by 346 pilots, conducted 14 proficiency flight checks and provided safety counseling for 122 people.

Miller has high praise for the program.

"To date there has never been a pilot in the Detroit area, who has earned pilot proficiency wings, who has been in an accident."

The first workers' compensation agreement was between Captain Kidd, the pirate, and his crew, according to "Labor Firsts in America," a publication of the U. S. Department of Labor. It said: "If any man should lose a leg or arm in ye said service, he should have six hundred pieces of eight, or six able slaves."

Chelsea Cagers Try To Regroup After Milan Loss

There was a long team meeting following last Friday night's dreary bus trip back from Milan after the Chelsea varsity basketball team had been all but blown off the floor by the Big Reds, 70-49.

"I think we may have gotten some things straightened out," Bulldog coach Paul Ash said. "There were some good, constructive suggestions from the players. I believe they understand that they have to play hard and execute if they are going to win. We don't have the raw talent to be winners by just showing up and going through motions."

Poor shooting was the immediate cause of the Bulldog's loss to Milan in a game that was supposed to have matched up the two best teams in the Southeastern Conference.

Chelsea shot only 31 percent from the field, and that figure is deceiving. Through the first three quarters when it mattered, the figure was more like 25. A 21-point fourth quarter made the final statistic a little more respectable, but it didn't mean much because by that time the game was far out of reach. Besides, Milan hit for 24 over the same eight minutes as the Bulldog defense broke down.

Chelsea was beaten soundly in every technical phase of the game and was out-hustled as well. The Bulldogs were half a step slow at both ends of the court against a Milan team which is quick but not that quick.

Truth is, Milan did not play all that well and was ready to be beaten by an aggressive team that took it to them. Chelsea didn't.

Milan did some good things. A zone defense that collapsed on 6-6 Bulldog center David Kiel allowed the small Big Reds to neutralize him. Kiel eventually fouled out after scoring only five points and pulling down half a dozen rebounds, far below his season averages.

Big Red guards Ron Dingman, Jr., and Derek Edwards lived up to their advance billing. Dingman, an excellent shot, scored 18 points and made several pinpoint passes to open men inside. Edwards, who looks like an eighth-grader out there at 5-8 and 125 pounds, put in eight points, had four assists and dribbled the Bulldogs dizzy.

"What it amounts to is that Milan has two point guards," Ash commented, "and that kind of a combination is tough to handle. Both are very good, very quick, and they play extremely well together."

For the Bulldogs, the one bright spot was the play of senior forward Marty Steinhauer who scored 17 points, hustled and scrapped all the way, and kept his team in contention for awhile. He couldn't do it all by himself and didn't get a whole lot of help.

Chelsea was down only 16-12 at the end of the first quarter and would have been in front but for an astonishing number of missed lay-ups. At one point the Bulldogs had four successive shots from underneath the basket, and blew them all.

Chelsea managed only eight points in the second period while Milan put up 16 to take a 32-20 half-time margin, and the game was over for all intents and purposes. The Bulldogs never made a run at the lead after the intermission and gradually fell farther behind.

The third quarter yielded only eight Chelsea points while Milan was canning 16, and that poor production killed any comeback hopes.

"You have to put the ball in the basket to win," Ash said, "and we just didn't do it. We got the good, inside shots that we wanted. We never shot from outside 15 feet, and we had all kinds of lay-ups that we missed."

"We're not a sharp-shooting team, which is why we try to work inside. If we don't make those inside shots, we can't win. It's that simple. As a coach, I don't quite know what to do. I can't go out there and lay the ball in for them."

The Bulldogs will try to regroup and salvage something from a season which began with bright promise but is threatening to disappear into cross.

They played Pinckney at home last Monday night in a make-up game that was postponed from Dec. 6 because of a snowstorm, and will take on Saline here on Friday.

Hawks def. Bucks, 24-8.
78'ers def. Celtics, 36-20.

ABA (9-10)
78'ers and Lakers tied, 30-30.
Celtics def. Pistons, 36-30.
Bulls drew a bye.

NBA (11-12)
Knicks def. 78'ers, 28-16.
Bullets def. Pistons, 30-12.
Mark Eder, Colten White, Jeremy Stephens, Garrett Kern, Ed Waller, Ben Hurst, Christ Haugen, Dennis Hardy, Alex Hammerschmidt, Steve Martin, Kyle Plank, Chad Raymond, Jude Qulter, Rex Nye, Mike Loftis, Chris Wilson, Chad Starkey, and Rob Stoffer were among the high scorers.

VARSITY WRESTLERS: Bob Torres, Ron Bogdanski and Doug Harden (left to right) are members of the rapidly improving Chelsea High school wrestling squad which has been coming on strong the past few weeks. The Bulldogs defeated Lincoln in a dual meet last week and went on to place seventh in the Rochester-Adams Invitational in a 23-field of mostly Class A schools.

Varsity Wrestlers Trounce Lincoln

Chelsea's varsity wrestlers lost just two matches last Thursday night as they thumped Lincoln, 57-12, in a dual meet. Seven Bulldogs scored pins.

"It was a good meet for us," Chelsea coach Kerry Kargel said. "Lincoln is not really strong, but they are building a good program. They have a lot of kids out, and a lot of enthusiasm."

Kargel was pleased by the steady improvement shown by his young squad. "Our veterans are continuing to wrestle well, while our less experienced boys are coming along. We're getting better every week."

Results of the Lincoln meet:

Doug Harden (98 pounds) won by pin in 2:28.

Pete Hanna (105) won major decision, 14-4.

Bob Torres (112) won major decision, 11-1.

Ron Bogdanski (119) won by pin in 1:18.

Jeff Morgan (126) won by pin in 2:31.

Andy Fenton (132) lost by pin.

Tom Nemeth (138) won 5-3 decision.

Eric Stofflet (145) won by pin in 5:28.

Rick Cook (155) won by pin in 4:31.

Steve Wingrove (167) won by pin in 2:33.

Mark Porath (185) lost by disqualification.

Dave Shoemaker (198) won by pin in 4:50.

Jeff Larson (heavyweight) won by forfeit.

Beach Wrestlers Score 66-22 Win

Beach Middle school wrestling coach Pat Clarke has about 50 boys on his squad, and that is a problem because most junior high teams don't have half that many.

Clarke was happy that last week's opponent, Dundee, wrestled all of its entrants twice, thus letting more Chelsea grapplers into the competition. "I'm very grateful," he said. "It was a nice thing for them to do."

The Beach boys won the meet, 62-22.

"Fifty kids are a bunch to handle and coach well," Clarke said, "and I couldn't do it without the volunteer help of Bill Wescott and Rich Bareis. They come out at least one night a week and assist with the individual instruction that young wrestlers need."

"We're coming along gradually," Clarke said of his 3-8 squad, "but we still have a distance to go. We have numbers, but it's hard to tell yet if we have outstanding wrestlers."

Results:

Eric Worthing (68) pounds won by pin in 1:28.

Dave Babble (75) won by pin in 1:07.

Rick Finch (82) lost by decision.

Randy Dale (89) won by pin in 1:09.

Ken Wright (96) won by pin in 2:34.

Robert Kornel (103) won 15-0 superior decision.

Shawn Brown (110) won by pin in 1:14.

Joe Kosegi (117) won 10-5 decision.

Rob Finch (124) won by pin in 2:40.

Jerrold Fletcher (131) won by pin in 4:46.

Lee Underhille (138) lost by fall.

Tom Bennett (147) lost by fall.

Todd Thurkow (157) lost by fall.

Tony Flintoft (169) won by pin in 1:08.

Randy Ferry (heavyweight) won by pin in 1:24.

Other pins were scored by Jeff Kielwasser (:52) and Todd Gallagher (2:55), and Jay Marentay won a 7-0 decision.

Bulldogs Rebound To Beat Northwest

Chelsea's varsity basketball team came on strong in the second half of a week ago Tuesday to defeat a good Jackson Northwest team, 74-62, and end a two-game losing streak.

Down 30-28 after a sluggish first half, the Bulldogs pulled into a 44-41 tie late in the third quarter, then put on the pressure and outscored the Mounties, 17-4, over the next several minutes to take a 13-point lead.

Northwest didn't quit and cut the margin to seven before Chelsea point guard Eric Schaffner took personal charge with two steals that converted into lay-up baskets and sealed the victory.

"It was the first good half of basketball that we have played since the Lincoln game," a pleased coach Paul Ash said. "The boys got their confidence back, and it showed. They were beginning to doubt themselves after the losses to Mason and Tecumseh, and they were hesitant to force the action in the first half."

"We hit the boards hard in the second half and got some easy buckets on fast breaks and steals. That got us going, and we were able to control the tempo the rest of the way. I think it was a turnaround, and I feel a lot better." Senior co-captains Marty Steinhauer and David Kiel led the way with an important boost from Schaffner who played by far his best game of the season.

Steinhauer pumped in 23 points, his season high, and Kiel contributed 20. Schaffner had 18, played excellent defense and directed the attack well from the point.

The trio accounted for almost all of Chelsea's scoring. Keith Neibauer had six points, David Steinhauer five and Jeff Martin two.

The Bulldogs have been inconsistent from the free throw line all season long and had another relatively poor night, hitting eight of 17 attempts. Thanks to good shooting from the floor, the foul line failures didn't matter.

The victory raised the Bulldogs' season record to 5-2 and, perhaps more important, got them untracked for the showdown game at Milan last Friday night. Milan was idle last Tuesday and so had a full week to prepare.

Lincoln was the only other Southeastern Conference team to see action last Tuesday, defeating Ann Arbor Gabriel Richard, 85-73.

Michigan To Import Chinese Pheasants

The Department of Natural Resources has received word that its request to China for wild pheasants has been approved.

The DNR's long-range hope of revitalizing Michigan's slumping pheasant populations were given a big boost with the offer of 200 wild-trapped ringnecks from the government of Sichuan province of central China.

"We view this offer as a positive step in strengthening diplomatic ties between the two governments," notes Pete Squibb, who heads the DNR's farmland wildlife unit.

"This also marks the first time in nearly 100 years that truly wild ringnecks have been available to North America," Squibb adds.

Freshman Cagers Get Behind Early, Lose to Adrian

Chelsea's freshman cagers dropped a 46-33 game to Adrian last week, their fourth game in a row away from home. They are 2-5 on the season.

"We started out slowly and got behind and then played a good second half," coach Ted Hendricks said, "but we were too far behind to come back against a very good Adrian team." The half-time score was 28-17.

Mark Bareis had an outstanding game with seven points, 17 rebounds, four assists and four blocked shots. Matt Steinhauer had nine points and six rebounds. Greg Halst put in six.

"We're a better team than our record shows," Hendricks said, "but we have to lick the problem of slow starts. Three of our losses have been by a combined total of 10 points, and we could have won them all if we had just started out a little better."

Varsity Spikers Score Eighth-Graders Lose to Dexter, Then Beat Milan

The happiness in Cathy Vleck's voice was palpable last Friday. Her excitement is understandable. On Thursday her varsity spikers won their first game of the season, triumphing over Lincoln High School, 15-9; 9-15, 15-12.

"Good solid teamwork" led the lady Bulldogs to the win, Vleck said. Leading server was senior Debbie Morris who scored an impressive 17 points. Morris was instrumental in saving the third match by serving 11 straight points to rescue the team, which had been trailing, 12-4.

Also having good scoring nights were junior Cathy Basso, with five points, sophomore Kris Mattoff and junior Kim Harden, each with four points. Trisha Mattoff made her freshman debut and did "really well" Vleck said. Mattoff was brought up from the JV team primarily because of her setting ability. She scored three points during the matches, but Vleck sees even better things in the future.

"She has a lot of volleyball talent. She moves well and that's important for a setter."

The win over Lincoln will mean a lot to the morale of the team and hopefully spark more victories, Vleck said.

"Lincoln has a weak record but has been playing some pretty tough teams," she said. "They didn't look that poor to me."

The Bulldogs are now 1-2 in league competition and 1-7 overall.

The team was scheduled to host Western High school last night, will travel to Tecumseh tomorrow night and will play Gabriel Richard at home Monday night.

Chelsea's eighth-grade basketball team lost and won last week. The loss was to Dexter, 37-30, and the victory was earned over Milan, 48-43, in overtime.

"We couldn't put the ball in the basket when we needed to," coach Jim Tallman said of the Dexter game. "We did everything else pretty well."

Greg Boughton led Chelsea with 10 points, John Cattell had six, Tim Anderson five and Matt Monroe three.

Anderson put in six of his game-high 17 points in overtime to lead the team to victory over Milan. Clay Hurd scored 12, Monroe 10 and Cattell 6.

"It was a close game all the way," Tallman said. "Nobody was ever in front by more than six. We played aggressive defense, and that kept us in the game. Anderson played extremely well in the overtime to make the difference."

Grass Lake Girl Wins Honorable Mention In Writing Contest

Jane Irwin, 9, of Grass Lake recently received honorable mention in the "Cricket League" international story competition sponsored by "Cricket" Magazine.

She received the award for a story revolving around the diary entries of a young girl in the 1800s who was traveling to Michigan with her family to settle on a farm in Sharon Hollow. Her name appears in the February issue of the children's magazine.

COOKIE KICK-OFF: Lillie Worden, assistant chairperson for the 1984 Chelsea Girl Scout Cookie sale attended the recent Huron Valley "cookie contest" which marked the beginning of the annual event. Council Approves Soliciting Bids On Landfill Work

Bids will be taken Feb. 1 on two separate contracts to upgrade Chelsea's sanitary landfill and bring it into compliance with state standards, the village council decided unanimously on Jan. 17.

One of the projects will involve opening up a new burial cell of 4½ acres to an average depth of 11 feet. Washtenaw Engineering Co., village consultants, estimates that will cost upwards of $180,000 and take 4-6 weeks to accomplish.

The second will be to install a polyvinyl chloride plastic liner in the new burial cell. That is anticipated to cost about $80,000 and take 2-5 days to complete if the weather is right. A temperature of 60 degrees is considered ideal.

Not yet addressed is the problem of capping the presently used pit with a required two feet of clay, which will cost an estimated $250,000.

About 130,000 cubic yards of dirt will have to be moved during the process of constructing the new pit, which is expected to have a useful life of 4-6 years depending on the volume of material dumped into it.

"Your new compactor really helps," Lee Fahrner of Washtenaw Engineering told the council. "It crushes the waste down to about one-fifth the bulk that is brought in."

The two authorized construction jobs will be bid on the basis that they must be finished by Sept. 1. They must also be done by "working around" the present landfill operation, so there will be no shutdown.

The plastic liner will be installed to comply with state requirements that no liquids be allowed to drain down into the water table. Any leachates (liquids) must be drained, collected, and disposed of in some as yet undesignated site designed for the purpose.

The landfill, located east off Werkner Rd. northeast of the village, serves Sylvan, Lima, Lyndon and Dexter townships besides Chelsea and is considered a major solid waste disposal facility.

Michigan's Department of Natural Resources has ordered that it be brought up to the standards of Act 641—the Solid Waste Management Act—or shut down after its present useful life expires Sept. 1.

The key problem is contamination of ground water. None has been found yet in several monitoring wells that have been drilled around the landfill, but there is state concern that it could happen as liquid wastes from present operations seep deeper into the ground.

Tax Help Available For Local Seniors

Once again Chelsea Kiwanis Club members are volunteering to prepare property tax rebate forms for local senior citizens.

Members of the club will be at the Chelsea Senior Citizen Center, at North Elementary school, Tuesday, Jan. 31 and Tuesday, Feb. 7 at 1 p.m. to fill out rebate forms.

"Any senior citizen who would like information or wonders whether they are eligible for a property tax rebate is welcome," said Kiwanis member Charles Cameron. "We would be glad to talk with them."

Seniors should bring last year's tax statement and a copy of their property tax rebate return with them, he said.

Chamber President Sets Goals

Chelsea Area Chamber of Commerce president, William Rademacher has announced that during the next few months the Chelsea Chamber will begin looking at concerns, action plans and goals for 1984.

They are: (1) The role of the chamber relative to the sesquicentennial plan for the Chelsea community in the summer of 1984.

(2) Planning relative to the role which the Chamber might or should play in the upcoming local and national elections.

(3) Implementation of, and continued support of, plans involving the downtown business district.

(4) Continued effort to identify the areas in which the Chamber might identify and promote the particular attributes of Chelsea relative to business and industrial development.

(5) Establishment of an office or other more viable presence for the Chelsea Chamber of Commerce.

(6) Maintenance and expansion of Chamber membership.

Commenting on the above, Rademacher said, "A great deal has been accomplished in the last few years by the Chelsea Area Chamber of Commerce. Those accomplishments provide an excellent foundation not only to establish these 1984 concerns, action plans and goals, but also to enable us to hopefully achieve them. We have an excellent board of directors who are dedicated to making our Chamber viable and progressive, and have 83 members who provide a great source of strength."

Public Hearing Slated On Church Rezoning

A public hearing has been set for 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 7, in the village hall on a request for rezoning of 2½ acres of Land on Freer Rd. so that the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints (Mormon) can build a church there.

Pastor Thomas Schulte told the village council a week ago Tuesday that he has received permission and a financial commitment from national church authorities to buy the land and build a 3,000-square-foot, one-story church. He did not disclose the amount of money involved.

The congregation presently consists of about 25 families from the Chelsea and Manchester areas, the Rev. Mr. Schulte said. Services are now held in the Chelsea Rebekah Hall.

The land in question is located on the east side of Freer Rd. immediately south of the new addition to Oak Grove Cemetery. It is zoned agricultural, and a change to residential is required for a church to be built.

The Rev. Mr. Schulte said construction of the church would begin early this spring if the rezoning is approved.
