Site Plan Approval Sought For Professional Building

The village planning commission will consider a site plan for a proposed medical, dental and professional office building on lots at 513 and 521 S. Main St. when it meets at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, March 13, in the village hall.

The property is on the east side of Main St. between the Union 76 gas station and the north entrance to Chelsea Community Hospital and is owned by Dr. Charles F. Krausse who has offices at 116 Park St. Dr. Krausse lives at 8345 Jackson Rd., Ann Arbor.

William P. Farrand of the Ann Arbor architectural firm of Farrand Vroom & Associates, which prepared the site plan, said details of the project, including a timetable, are still tentative.

"There really isn't much I can tell you at this point except that the plan calls for a one-story building of about 7,100 square feet with three or four suites of offices," Farrand said.

He declined to estimate costs or predict when construction might start. "Except for the blueprint for the site, we have done no sketches or drawings," Farrand said. "Once the site plan is approved, we will get into that phase of the project."

The two lots have a combined area of about 35,000 square feet and are presently occupied by two older houses which would either be moved or razed, Farrand said.

Charles Winans, II, assistant village administrator, said the land was rezoned for offices in 1978 at Dr. Krausse's request, but nothing more has happened until now.

The planning commission can give final approval to the plan without sending it on to the village council, because no rezoning request is involved. However, Winans pointed out, any resident who lives within 300 feet of the site may request a public hearing on the proposal, which would delay approval by a month or more.

"I don't know of anyone who objects to the idea of having a professional office building there," Winans said. "All the comments I have heard have been favorable, but you never know."

Candidates for President Alike in Backgrounds, Views

There are more similarities than differences between the two men—Loren Keezer and Jerry Satterthwaite—who are running for village president (mayor) in next Monday's election.

Both are 42 years old, life-long area residents, presently members of the village council. Both say they would not have run if president Jack Merkel had sought re-election, and both are committed to continuing projects and programs that Merkel began.

Neither is campaigning hard. The two men are personally friendly and respect each other. Each says village government would be in good hands if the other were elected. This reporter cannot remember any matter before the council during the past 18 months on which they didn't vote the same way.

They are not in it for the money. The president gets $300 a year plus $15 for each of the 25 or so council meetings held annually that he attends. Both say they are running because they love the community and want to continue serving it as elected officials.

Both acknowledge that the office of village president carries very little legal clout beyond what they presently exercise as members of the council, but both see possibilities to lead through persuasion and guidance.

Neither would comment on the current situation in the police department, holding to a policy of silence adopted by village officials when an investigation into alleged mishandling of funds began early last January.

Keezer, 42, lives at 139 Clardale Ct., is married and the father of two children attending the Chelsea public schools. He is employed in the receiving department of Chelsea Milling Co.

A lifelong village resident, he is a graduate of Chelsea High school and attended Michigan State University for two years. He is a U.S. Navy veteran, attends the Congregational church and is a member of Inverness Country Club.

Keezer has served four years on the village council and, before that, almost two years as village clerk.

"Basically, I'm running on my record of past service in village government," Keezer said. "I think I'm qualified to be president on the basis of my experience. I'm not campaigning, just putting my credentials out (Continued on page seven)

President, Three Trustees Will Be Chosen Monday In Annual Village Election

Chelsea voters will go to the polls next Monday to elect a new village president (mayor) and three members of the board of trustees (council).

Balloting will take place in the Sylvan Township Hall, 112 W. Middle St. Voting hours are 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. Anyone in line at closing time will be allowed to vote.

Village clerk Evelyn Rosentreter said there are 2,310 persons registered to vote in the village election. A separate registration from that required for state and national elections is necessary.

Mrs. Rosentreter declined to make a prediction on the size of the voter turn-out but said she hoped it would be higher than in recent past elections.

Last year, when four candidates ran for three council seats, only 193 ballots were cast. In 1982, when the village presidency was open, the voter total was 350. There was no contest for the office, however.

"I think the fact that there is a contest for president may bring out some more people," Mrs. Rosentreter said, "but I wouldn't want to guess how many."

Loren Keezer and Jerry J. Satterthwaite, who are both presently on the council, are the candidates for president to succeed Jack Merkel, who decided not to seek re-election after serving one two-year term in the past.

Keezer's council term is expiring, while Satterthwaite's has another year to run. If Satterthwaite wins, his council seat will become vacant and will be filled by appointment. If he loses, he can serve his remaining year on the council.

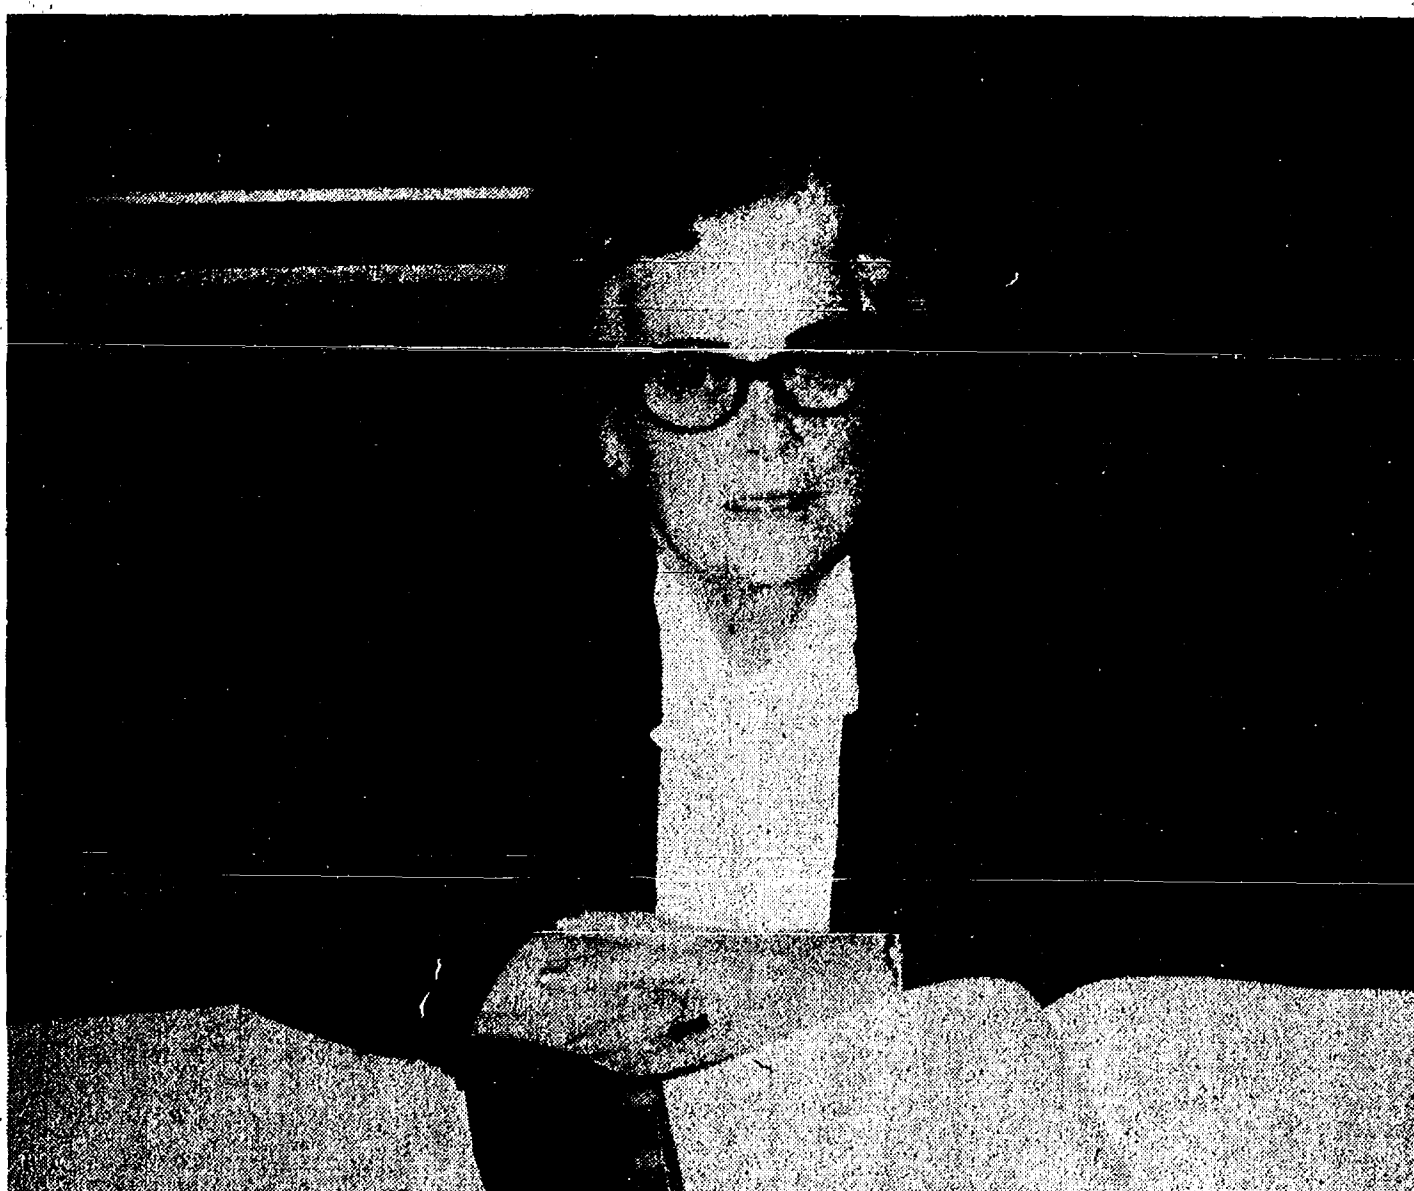

The five candidates for the three open positions on the council are, in alphabetical order, Keith L. Boylan, James K. Finch, Emmett M. Harker, Fred Harris and Joseph M. Merkel.

Merkel is an incumbent. The other four are newcomers, although Boylan served two terms on the council beginning in 1970.

Also to be elected Monday are a village treasurer, assessor and two members of the McKune Memorial Library board of trustees.

Incumbents Mary M. Harris and Charles B. Winans, II, are unopposed for the positions of treasurer and assessor, respectively. Incumbent E. Anne Belser is seeking one of the library board posts, but no one filed a nominating petition for the other. If there are any write-in votes for the second seat, the person with the largest number will be elected.

If there are no write-ins, a special election would have to be called to fill the vacancy, Mrs. Rosentreter said. Mrs. Lyle D. Christwell is retiring from the board.

VILLAGE CLERK Evelyn Rosentreter is in charge of Monday's election at which Chelsea voters will elect a village president and three members of the board of trustees (council). Mrs. Rosentreter's name is not on the ballot this year. She was re-elected for a two-year term a year ago.

Five Candidates Seeking Three Village Trustee Posts

Three persons will be elected next Monday from among five candidates for seats on the Chelsea Village Board of Trustees (council).

Here is a rundown on the candidates, including their backgrounds and statements of opinion. All were asked the same questions. They are listed here in alphabetical order, and they will appear on the ballot that way.

Village trustees are paid $15 for each of the 25 or so council meetings scheduled during the year that they attend. There is no other financial compensation.

Keith Boylan, 62, lives at 245 Park St., is married and the father of five children. A native of Ann Arbor and a graduate of Ann Arbor High school, he has been a Chelsea resident for 35 years. He is an Army veteran, a member of St. Mary's Catholic church, the Knights of Columbus and the American Legion. A printer by trade, he retired from the Ann Arbor News last year, and presently works as a part-time meter officer for the Chelsea police department.

Boylan served two terms on the village council beginning in 1970 and did not seek election a third time.

"Now that I'm retired and have the time, I've renewed my interest in village government," Boylan said, "and that's why I'm running for the council. I think everybody should get involved, and that's what I'm doing."

"During the 10 years since I was last on the council, there hasn't been much change in the village, not nearly enough. I see a lot of apathy. We need to get more public involvement, a more positive approach so there can be some progress."

"I'm not in favor of growth just for the sake of growth. There has to be some purpose to it, some advantage to be gained. I wonder about the industrial park. It's going to cost a lot of money to develop."

"With the tax write-offs that are being granted to new enterprises, I think there is a question whether the village can afford them. Are we going to get our money back?"

"If the decision is that the village should grow, it must expand its boundaries. There isn't much room for growth within the present village limits."

"Older residents with fixed incomes have problems with rising costs for village services—water, sewer, electric, trash collection. I'm concerned about that. There are a lot of senior citizens in Chelsea, and their interests should be represented on the council."

James K. Finch, 42, of 533 Chandler St. is employed in the brake test and development laboratory at Chrysler Proving Grounds. A resident of Chelsea for 21 years, he is married and has three children attending the Chelsea schools.

He was born in Clare and graduated from high school there. An Army veteran, he is a member of the First United Methodist church, the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars. He served on the Washtenaw County Council of Veterans for three years.

Finch started the Chelsea Recreation Wrestling Club and is currently its assistant coach. He has been and remains active in coaching kids' baseball from T-ball through the Pony League.

"This is my first try at election to public office," Finch said. "I've always sought to be active in some way in the community where I live, because I believe that is everyone's responsibility."

"Chelsea has received a lot of negative publicity in the past few months with the problem in the police department and the Kozminski trial. We need to turn things around, make some good things happen, create a positive image. I hope to help do that."

"I don't have any axes to grind, but I do think the news media have been a little bit unfair."

"I think our first priority has to be to get our empty factories full. We need jobs for the people who are here right now and unemployed. The industrial park is a nice idea, but our primary aim should be to get people back to work in existing plants."

Errmet M. (Matt) Harker, 27, lives at 745 Flanders St. He is single. An electronics technician, he has been laid off from Chrysler Proving Grounds for the past four years and is working at part-time jobs.

A lifelong village resident, Harker is a graduate of Chelsea High school and completed a two-year course at the United Electronics Institute. He is a volunteer fireman and a certified emergency medical technician.

"I've been thinking about running for the council for a long time," Harker said, "but realized I needed to mature a bit and get some insight into how village government works. I've attended at least 75 percent of the council meetings during the past four years, and feel I'm ready now."

"I believe it's time young people got involved in village government. I've watched business and industry leave Chelsea. I've watched our young people move out of town to find opportunities (Continued on page five)

MARRY ME: Nothing subtle in this proposal. Dave Brown, from Ypsilanti, advertised his wish to marry Anita Roderick, 19, a 1983 graduate of Chelsea High, on Fancy Fried Chicken's marquee. By the way, Roderick accepted.

Pre-Festival Concert Set By Choirs

"There's Music in the Air," or certainly, if not now, there will be music in the air on the evening of March 13, at 7:30 p.m. in the High School Auditorium.

On that date the choirs and small choral groups of the Chelsea senior and junior high will present a concert consisting of the music they have prepared for their festival competitions.

Solo and ensemble groups have already had their district competition and several groups are busy preparing for the state competition on April 7.

The three choirs on the program, the High School SATB Choir, the High School SSA Girl's Choir, and the Chelsea School Choir are in the final stages of getting ready for their district competition on March 15-16.

Groups and individuals participating other than choirs include: the Contemporaries, the Madri-Guys, Gayla Bauer, Carrie Parkins, Connie Bollinger, Laurie Heller, Sue Nye and Marie Bullock.

The public is invited to attend this concert at no charge.

Siren Blasts To Remind Voters

The village siren will be sounded for 30 seconds at noon and 6 o'clock next Monday as a reminder for people to get out and vote in the municipal election.

"I want to see a big turn-out of voters," said retiring village president Jack Merkel, "and this may be a way to help. It's an idea, and I hope it works. I'm not backing any candidates. All the people running are worthy. What I want to see is a crowd at the Sylvan Township Hall."

"We have more than 2,300 registered voters in the village, and I hope every single one of them goes to the polls. I'm sure that every candidate in the election feels the same way. It's important that the election produce an expression of opinion from a majority of the people in Chelsea. I can tell you from experience that it's not easy to decide a course to follow when a small minority of voters comes out."

"The village is at a cross-roads and can go in several different directions. This is an extremely important election."

"That's why we're going to sound the siren, and hope that people will be reminded of their civic duty to go out and vote."

All members of the council concurred with Merkel that sounding the sirens is a good idea, and voted for it.

"I hope people don't get the idea that we are having a tornado alert or an air raid or something," Merkel said. "Fire chief Bud Harker tells me that we need to run the sirens for at least 30 seconds to make sure they are heard all over town, and that's what we are going to do."

"It's a joint effort endorsed by all village officials. We're not favoring anybody in the election. All we're trying to do is get people to vote."

HOW CAN I HELP A CHILD AFTER DEATH OF A LOVED ONE?

Reading books or pamphlets which describe how others have adjusted to death can often provide insights and understanding.

Studying these books will help you to help the child and will suggest ways to communicate with the child effectively. Some of the basic books on this subject which we recommend are:

Learning to Say Goodbye by Eda LeShan
Telling a Child About Death by Edgan N. Jackson
Explaining Death to Children by Earl A. Grollman
Helping your Children Understand Death by Anna W. M. Wolf
Death, Grief, Mourning, The Funeral and the Child by William Lamers

Consult the local library for these. Discuss it with your clergyman. Or call us. If you have any special concerns about children and death, please do call on us so we can share our professional understanding with you.

Sanctions May Be Imposed Over Welfare Error Rates
Michigan's error rate in aid to families with dependent children (AFDC) payments and food stamp programs is on the rise at a time when federal standards are dropping, with the result being that the state faces a threat of up to $45 million in federal sanctions for the past two years.

And while Department of Social Services officials said they have instituted some programs to reduce errors, a major source of errors is the heavy workload for caseworkers, a situation which they said will not be helped much by Governor James Blanchard's tight budget proposal for fiscal year 1984-85.

Although threatened once before, sanctions have never been imposed against Michigan for welfare payment errors.

Food stamp program errors also exceed federal guidelines, but are a lesser problem, while the Medicaid program is below standards.

Federal officials have not yet notified the state sanctions would be imposed, but Clyde Downing, regional family assistance administrator in Chicago for the U. S. Department of Health and Human Services, said a decision regarding the 1981-82 year is "not too far away."

However, he said that even though the error rate exceeds federal standards, a waiver could be offered, for such reasons as making a good faith effort.

James Ellis, director of the DSS Office of Quality Assurance, said the state could be hit with a $15 million sanction for 1981-82 and probably a sanction in the range of $30 million for 1982-83, just for the AFDC program.

The federal target error rate—the percentage of funds made for overpaid or ineligible payments—was 5.7 percent in 1982-83, while the state registered an 8.8 percent error rate in the first six months of the year. The figures for the second six months are not yet official, but Ellis said they are "up substantially."

"We are absolutely going the wrong way," Ellis said, noting the federal target rate drops to 4 percent in 1983-84. He said the state hit its lowest error rate for AFDC payments in 1980-81 at 7.1 percent when former DSS Director John Dempsey made accuracy the number one priority. At that time, the federal standard was 7.3 percent.

Harold Gazan, director of the department's Special Services Administration, said department workers have been reduced by 15 percent over the past four years while caseloads have increased 52 percent. He said errors due to staff mistakes, as opposed to errors because of errant information from clients, relate more to overwork than to anything else.

Ellis said in recent reviewing periods, staff errors have accounted for about half, or more than half, of the payment mistakes and added that's the first time that's ever happened. Historically, he said, staff mistakes account for only about one third of the errors.

Other factors, he noted, include policy changes and the complexity of the program itself.

Downing said he recognized the difficulty of meeting the error rate standard, and said Michigan is "very serious about trying to reduce errors."

He said members of Congress are raising questions about imposing sanctions based on target error rates, but that question is not resolved.

And while the state programs to reduce errors offer some hope for the future, he said in the interim, "Michigan may have a problem" with sanctions.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

As the political temperature climbs it gets harder to tell the politicians from the preachers, according to Bug Hookum. He allowed during the session at the country store Saturday night that them that's in and want to stay in, and them that's out and want in don't see eye to eye on much, but ever blessed one is saying the Federal Government has got to be born agin to be saved.

Just last week, Bug allowed, he read where Sen. Ted Kennedy stood foursquare for saving Medicare, and rebirth was the word he used as the only salvation for it. If memory serves, Bug went on, Medicare got saved just last October. If it has backslid already, he said, we got to wonder about them Washington evangelists, especial Kennedy that was in the amen corner at last fall's Medicare revival.

The fellers was general agreed with Bug that political campaigns are turning into camp meetings sooner than usual. Republican Ed Doolittle was quick to say this was because the Democrats are having trouble pinning much on President Reagan, so they're blaming the system. Ed claimed it was like he heard a lawyer say onct. If you ain't got facts on your side, argue the law. If you ain't got law with you, argue the facts. If you ain't got neither one, yell like crazy.

Natural, Democrat Clem Webster was solid disagreed. He said the fact is the new Reagan budget runs $180 billion in the red, and law ought to do somepun about it. Clem had saw where the same President that proposed this budget has come up with his own President's Private Sector Survey on Cost Control that has found ways to cut cost of Government $400 billion over the next three year. What Reagan had done, is outflank the Congress, cause he knows it's a election year over there to.

Fer instant, Clem went on, the President's survey don't mention that everything in the store is on the Pentegon's $284 billion shopping list, but it claims that only 312 of the 4,000 military bases in this country are needed. What member of any party in Congress is going to stand still fer closing a base in his district, Clem wanted to know. Besides, the honorables will say, you're just talking $5 billion a year to keep up these bases, and when you think of their buying power and civilian jobs you're really talking about a good investment.

Bug broke in to say this kind of thinking needs to repent. If we're going to keep military bases fer nothing more than make work, Bug said, we might as well do what some are suggesting and bring back the CCC and all them intitials from the New Deal. The fact is, he went on, until we bring income in line with outgo we're going to have some mighty jittery business people worrying about interest rates, and these same people are just gitting over a epidemic of dry heaves.

As fer giving rebirth to Government services, Bug wondered how many times Social Security has been saved. Now he has saw where the Treasury Department is overhauling the tax code agin.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

Village Lacks Budget, But It's Not Problem

Chelsea's new fiscal year began last Thursday, March 1, and the village government lacks a budget, but it's no big problem according to administrator Frederick Weber.

"The council can authorize payment of accumulated bills, including payrolls and operating costs, at its bi-weekly meetings," Weber said. "That will get us by until the new budget is adopted."

One reason for the delay is to give the new president and trustees who will be elected March 12 a chance to participate in the budget-making process.

Meanwhile, at a special meeting a week ago Tuesday, council approved several transfers of funds within last year's budget to bring it into line with actual expenditures. However, the projected spending total for the fiscal year—$1,008,500—remains the same.

Weber said he anticipated there will be a small surplus when the books are closed on the fiscal year. "It won't be a lot," he added. "My guess right now is about $12,000. Our revenues and expenditures for the year have been running very close to what we figured a year ago."

They have two daughters, Mrs. Gerald (Leah) Herrick of Chelsea, and Mrs. Loretta Pannone of Bradenton, Fla.

They also have three grandchildren, Bryan and Jerry Herrick of Chelsea and both seniors at Michigan State University, East Lansing, and Erik Pannone of Bradenton, Fla.

Leap Year Babies Mark 20th Birthday

John Wellnitz and Ruth Wenk can only celebrate their real birthdays every four years. As fate would have it, Wellnitz and Wenk not only had their first real birthdays in four years on Wednesday, Feb. 29, they were also born on the very same day.

They were both born Feb. 29, 1964, which makes them 80. This most recent Feb. 29 birthday represents their 20th anniversary—not 20 years old.

Both Wellnitz and Wenk are undaunted by the fact that they can only celebrate their real birthdays every four years.

Wellnitz generally celebrates on March 1. According to most official institutions—the secretary of state, for example—he has to celebrate that day. Even Bill Knapp's, which offers a birthday special, tells him his birthday is March 1.

However, Wenk celebrates her birthday on Feb. 28. So much for consistency.

Wenk says she wished her birthday fell on a day that didn't occur every four years. But she says she's learned to live with it.

Three School Board Posts To Be Vacant

The Board of Education expressed its appreciation Monday night to Dr. Michael Smith and his wife, Clara. For the past two years the Smiths have donated all first-aid supplies at North school and they helped provide medical kits and ice-bags at the school.

The board also expressed its appreciation to the Rev. John Morris, who served as the high school's band's "master of ceremonies" at the microphone during the football games for eight years.

The board announced that the annual school election will be held Monday, June 11. Ann Feeney's and Lloyd Grau's four-year terms will be expiring June 30. The unexpired two-year term of former board member, Dr. Daniel Snyder, who was replaced by the appointment of Joseph Redding, will also be open.

Petitions for offices must be filed by 4 p.m., April 9. Board of Education candidates may withdraw only by filing written notice of withdrawal, signed by the candidate, by 4 p.m., Thursday, April 12.

The board approved the administration's recommendation that Frederick Mills be election administrator for the June 11 election. The board also approved the administration's five-year millage review plan.

Superintendent Ray Van Meer reported to the board that the field of candidates for the principal position at Beach Middle school has been reduced to four, which include two members from the Chelsea School District and two from other districts.

The four candidates are Sam Vogel, assistant principal at Chelsea High school, Bill Wescott, a teacher at Beach, Donald Bradley, principal at Carlton Airport School District, and Darcio Stielstra, Perry Middle school principal.

All the candidates will be interviewed by the interview committee, which is made up of the superintendent, two district administrators, one board member, one teacher from Beach and one parent who has a child attending Beach.

Van Meer also informed the board that the administration is also in the process of reducing the field of applicants for the principalship vacancy at North school.

Van Meer said the administration's criteria for the principal vacancies include an ability to develop curriculum, exhibit "exemplary leadership," and demonstrate that he understands, and is sensitive to, the needs of both students and parents.

Hospital Offers Course in Dealing With Aging Parents

Chelsea Community Hospital Social Services Department is sponsoring a six-session course entitled "As Parents Grow Older." The purpose of the course is to assist adult children in coping with their aging parents.

The group will meet on Tuesday evenings beginning April 3, through May 8, from 7 to 9 p.m. at Chelsea Community Hospital. There will be a $20 registration fee. Enrollment will be limited. For registration or more information call 475-1311, ext. 262.

As advances in medical technology have lengthened life expectancy, middle-aged children have assumed increasing responsibility in caring for their aging parents. Some of these "adult children" are still in the process of rearing their own families. Others find their retirement plans changed because of the needs of their elderly parents.

For many, the demands of providing more attention and assistance to parents can create a great deal of stress.

Discussion topics will include: Understanding Psychological Aspects of Aging, Coping with Chronic Illness, Communication with Parents, Making Decisions About Living Arrangements, Using Community Resources and Dealing with Feelings about Aging and Aging Relations.

Group participants will be encouraged to discuss experiences and share solutions to common problems.

Cong. Pursell Will Address Area Nurses

Congressman Carl Pursell will be the featured speaker at a Saturday morning session entitled, "Politics in Nursing: Legislative Update '84." This meeting, which will be held in the dining room of Chelsea Community Hospital on Saturday, March 10, from 10-12 noon, is sponsored by the Nurses Political Action Committee, 2nd District.

Congressman Pursell will be speaking on the topic of federal funding for nursing. His address will be followed by an update from nurse panelists involved in legislative activity at the state level aimed at achieving third party reimbursement for nursing services.

All nurses and community members are welcome to attend.

"Standardized Testing in the Chelsea Schools" will be the topic of the March meeting of the Association for Creative and Academically Talented Students. Mrs. Sally Burchfiel will explain which tests are given in each grade, the reasons for doing so, and how to interpret the results.

The meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. in the Large Group Instruction Room at Beach Middle school on Thursday, March 8. Everyone is welcome.

Elsie Paul
Enjoys First
Airplane Ride
Elsie Paul got a belated Christmas gift Saturday. It wasn't earrings, a new set of China, nor a fur coat. It was an airplane ride—her first ever.

Paul, 82, of 152 E. Summit, was taken out to the airport near Manchester—unaware, of course, that she was bound for the friendly skies—by her grandchildren, Mary and George Sweeney. The trip wasn't just a joy ride, though. It was also a kind of warm-up for a commercial jet trip she's planning later this month. She's flying to Denver to visit two grandsons and a cousin she hasn't seen in 40 years.

Paul said the trip in the skies was "a complete surprise." One which she enjoyed.
With the precision of a flight navigator, Paul described the terrain that was some 1,000 feet below her, most of it lakes, as looking "like soap suds."

Although the Skyhawk aircraft in which she was traveling was speeding through the sky at 105 mph, Paul said that it seemed they were moving slower than that. "I couldn't get over that part (the speed). It just didn't seem like we were going that fast. It was a beautiful sight," she said.

Paul said her stomach got a "little woozy," but she recovered quickly.

BookCrafters Receives Tax Relief OK

BookCrafters, Inc., has been granted an Industrial Development Exemption Certificate in connection with new equipment the firm intends to install in its Buchanan St. plant.

The certificate, which must receive final approval from the state Treasury Department, entitled BookCrafters to a 50 percent property tax abatement on the new equipment over the next 12 years.

The company is located in an Industrial Development District (IDD), one of five established so far in the village as incentive to industrial growth. Location in an IDD entitles the occupant to apply for tax relief on improvements to facilities.

The village council approved the BookCrafters exemption following a Feb. 28 public hearing at which no one showed up to comment on the proposal. All council members were present, and the vote was unanimous.

Village Council Briefs

The village council has approved a request from the Ann Arbor YMCA to solicit funds in Chelsea, April 13-28.

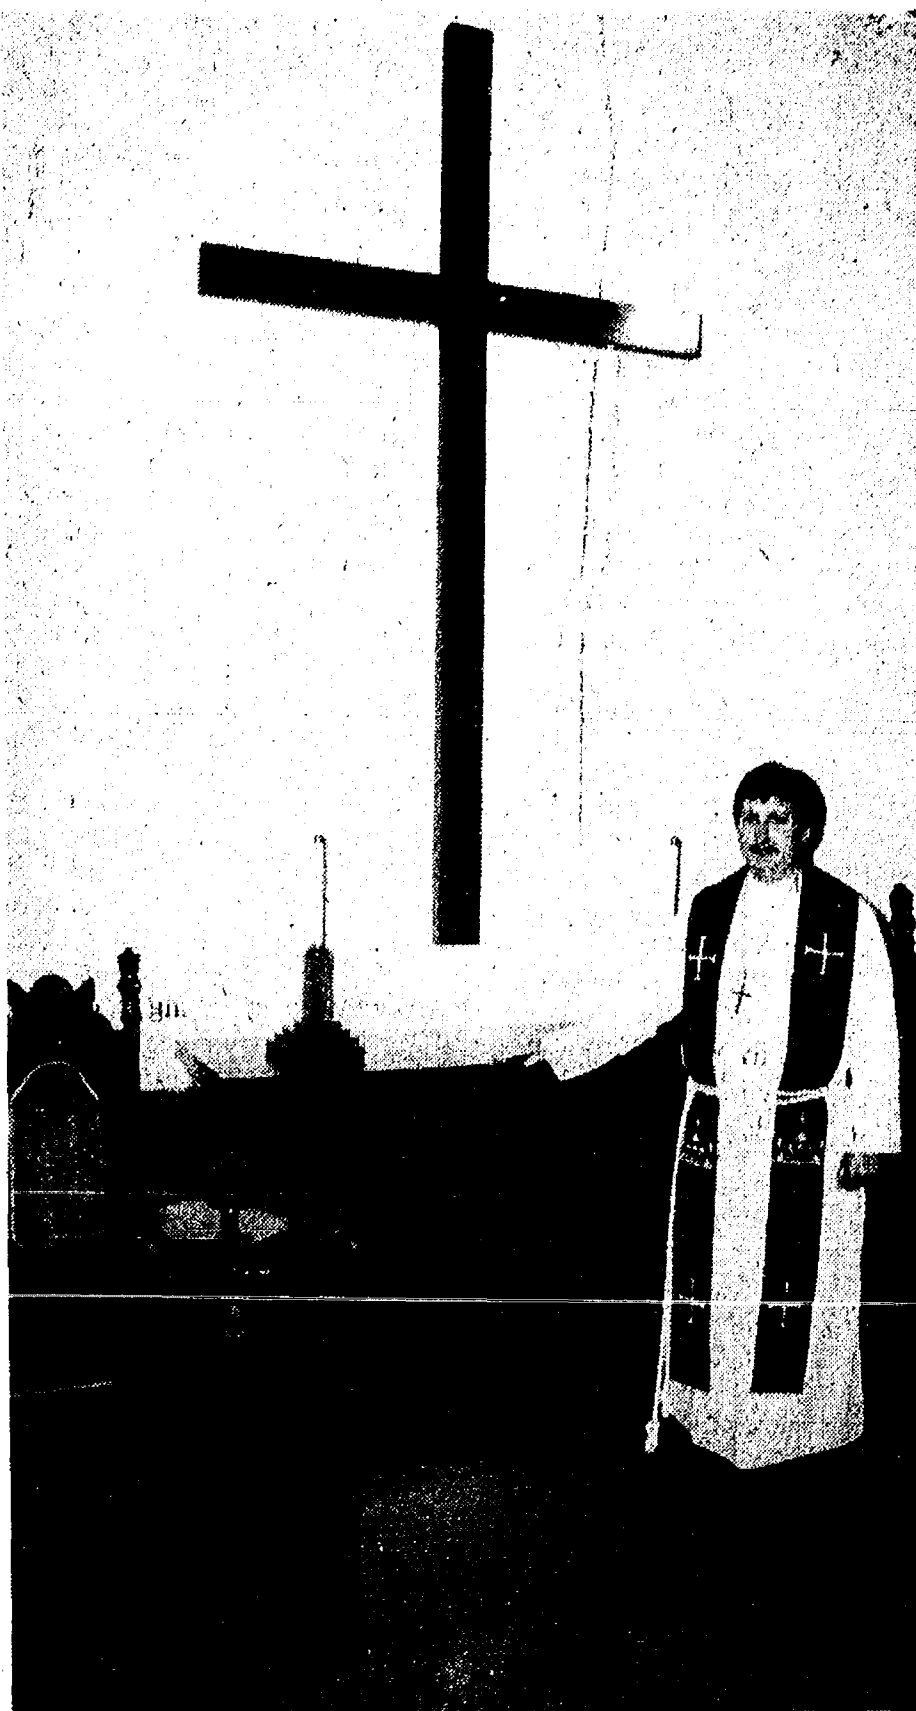

The council agreed to participate in Mayor Exchange Day, an annual feature of Michigan Week, again this year. It probably will be held May 21. Chelsea's partner in the exchange is not yet known.

Terry Ellenwood has been given a full-time job at the village landfill. He has been working there part time.

The village will rent a vacant two-story house on the Sibley Rd. industrial park site for $300 a month plus a $300 damage deposit, the council decided. Administrator said "many parties" have expressed interest in the rental.

Referred to the police department so details can be worked out was a request from the Chelsea Sequicentennial committee to hold a parade later this year. Council indicated the request will be approved but wants some more specifics before acting.

DISPLAYS NEW CROSS: The Rev. David Strobe, pastor of North Lake Methodist church, stands by the new altar cross which will be dedicated on Sunday, March 11. The historic church has been extensively refurbished in preparation for the event.

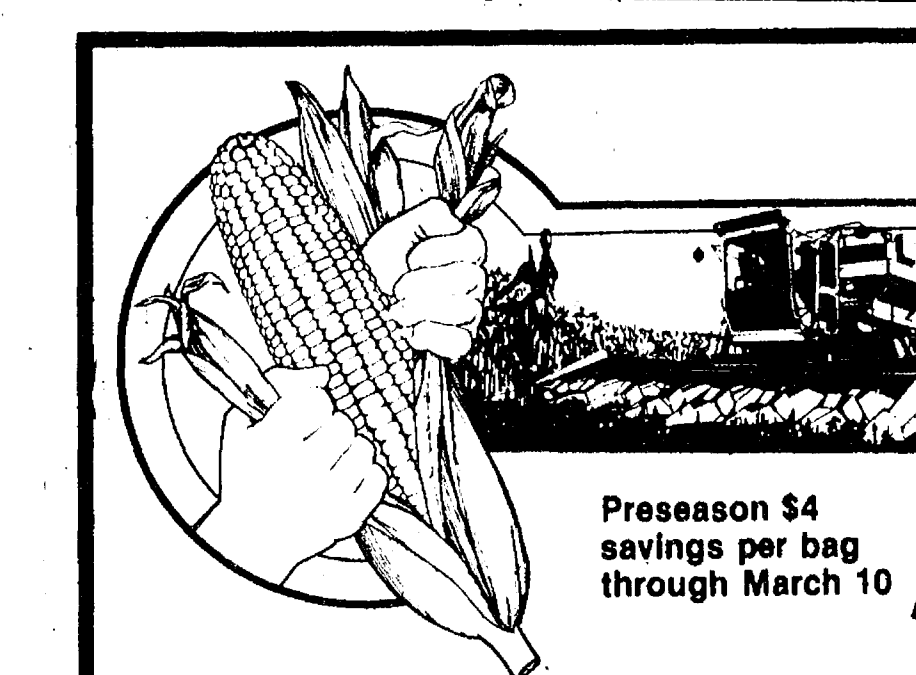

North Lake Church Will Dedicate Cross

North Lake United Methodist church at 1411 North Territorial Rd. will begin the Lenten season by dedicating a new altar cross during the 10:15 worship service on March 11. A special fellowship hour will follow the worship service to celebrate the new cross.

The cross is eight feet tall and hangs over the altar. Its purchase was made possible by gifts and memorials given to the church's Memorial Fund.

The Rev. David Strobe says that "the new cross will become the focal point of the congregation at worship. It is entirely appropriate that we dedicate our new cross on the first Sunday in Lent, as the purpose of Lent is to help Christians focus on the meaning and power of the Cross."

North Lake United Methodist church was founded in 1836, and built in 1865, and is a registered Michigan Historical Site. During the past year, under the supervision of the trustees, and through the generous help of the members, the church has undergone a "face-lift" to make it a more fitting home for the new cross. Stained glass windows have been repaired, the church has been re-

LOOK AT MOISTURE, YIELDS AND LODGING TEST RESULTS.
Then look at the $4 SAVINGS per bag.

In 21 out of 32 field tests, our PSX 93 and 105 ranked lower than average in moisture. In 19 out of 32 tests, they ranked higher than average in bushels per acre. And in 24 out of 32 tests, they had less stalk lodging than the average. Seven tests noted significantly better than average yields and in some cases, there was zero lodging. These are the results of the 1983 Michigan Agricultural Experiment Station corn trials.

As you can see, our Premium Single Cross Hybrids are far better than average performers. We've sold more seed corn so far this season than any previous period. That's why you should come in soon while selection and savings are best.

EVELYN ROSENTERER,
Village Clerk

A VIEW from the CLOCK TOWER

Bill Mullendore

Pleas to citizens to exercise their right to vote are old-hat, and they obviously don't do a lot of good, judging by recent past history. Voter turn-outs for elections of all kinds—national, state, local, school—have been going down, not up.

So it is with a certain sense of futility that I use this space to urge all voters registered in the village to vote in next Monday's election to choose a new president (mayor) and three members of the village council. However, let me try.

Yes, I know there are also a treasurer, an assessor, and two members of the library board to be elected, but candidates for those offices are unopposed. In fact, nobody filed for one of the library board seats, and that post presumably will be filled by write-in votes.

There are 2,310 persons registered to vote in Monday's election. It would be a shining example of democracy in action—and a lesson for other communities large and small to emulate—if substantially all of them actually voted.

That is too much to hope for, but certainly something better—a whole lot better—than the total of 193 ballots cast a year ago ought to be a realistic goal. If there is as much community pride around here as I hear local residents claim exists, surely substantially more than eight percent of the electorate will show up at the polls.

Some increase over that sorry showing a year ago can be expected simply because there is a contested race for village president. That office wasn't on the ballot in 1983. It is up for decision only in even-numbered years.

Both Loren Keezer and Jerry Satterthwaite, the candidates for mayor, are well known in the village. While their differences aren't profound, there are some. The same can be said for the five council candidates.

My experience in living here suggests that everybody in town knows just about everybody else, so lack of knowledge of the people who are running can't be used as an excuse for not voting.

Elsewhere in this edition there appears some information about the candidates, their backgrounds and opinions on local affairs and issues. This is presented as impartially as possible. Aspirants for each office were asked the same set of questions, then given an opportunity to comment on anything else they cared to. Answers were edited to the extent necessary to give everybody approximately equal space, but the hope is that the "sense" of the responses was preserved.

The information is not complete, of course, but it should be enough to allow voters who don't know the candidates personally to make judgments.

Village clerk Evelyn Rosentreter tells me that 350 persons voted two years ago, the last time the president's position was on the ballot. The election wasn't exactly comparable to next Monday's because there was no contest for mayor in 1982.

Mrs. Rosentreter says she hopes the fact that there is a contest this time will bring out "a few more" voters. I hope she is wrong, and that there will not be merely a few more but a lot more. So, I'm sure, does she.

As a closing note, don't think your individual vote isn't important and therefore doesn't matter. In the June 13 school election a 2-1/2 mill tax increase was approved by a margin of 76 votes out of 2,108 cast, an extremely close decision on a vitally important issue that affected both educational quality and people's pocket-books.

If you think that was close, consider that in the village election a year ago one of the council seats was decided by a single vote. You can't get any closer than that and have an elected winner. (Ties are broken by a blind drawing.)

There's an old saying: If you don't vote, don't complain. If you want your voice to be heard in village government, go to the Sylvan Township Hall between 7 a.m. and 8 p.m. next Monday. Voting is a "right" in the sense that you have a choice whether to exercise it or not. Good citizens should regard it as a duty.

Five Candidates Seeking Three Village Trustee Posts

elsewhere. I think it's time we did something to stop those trends.

"We have to get industry back into town. We have to upgrade our sewer system. Those are the two top priorities that I see. There are a lot of other, smaller problems that need to be addressed, but those are the two big ones.

"I see myself as a representative of people whose jobs have left town, and I want to bring those jobs back here. We need to work with the industries that are already here, and then try to expand. If Chelsea doesn't start to grow pretty soon, it's going to die. We've been stagnant and losing ground for far too long."

"I also see myself as a representative of young people, and I think the council needs that viewpoint."

Fred Harris, 64, lives at 415 S. Main St. and is retired from Xerox Corp. in Ann Arbor. He has operated a "fix-it" shop at his home but is phasing out of the business. He and his wife, Mary, have four children. Mrs. Harris is village treasurer and is unopposed for re-election next Monday.

Harris has lived all his life in the Chelsea area and was educated in rural schools. He is a member of the Methodist church and the Chelsea Rod and Gun Club, and is an active volunteer worker at Chelsea Community Hospital.

"I was asked by a few people if I was interested in running for the council," Harris said, "and decided that I was. I've never been involved in village government before, but I have the time and the interest, and decided to be a candidate.

"I think the biggest problem at all levels of government, from the village right on up to the federal government, is taxes. They are far too high and keep on increasing without any improvement in services. That trend has to be stopped somewhere, and local government is the place to start.

"We can't afford to lose any more industry from Chelsea. Whenever a business moves out, the tax burden increases on those that are left, and residential property owners also have to pick up the slack.

"We have to get something going and make Chelsea an attractive place for business and industry. As far as I can see, we've been losing ground in recent years, and that has to turn around. Otherwise, we're just digging ourselves into a deeper hole on taxes."

Joseph M. Merkel, 37, of 743 Taylor St. is the only incumbent among the five candidates for the council. Married and the father of three children, he owns and operates the Wolverine Bar on Old US-12 west of S. Main St.

Merkel is a graduate of Owosso High school and served in the U. S. Army. He is a member of St. Mary's Catholic church, the Knights of Columbus, the Chelsea Rod and Gun Club, the Community Fair Board, the Chamber of Commerce and the American Legion.

He is finishing up his second two-year term as a village trustee.

"I'm running again because I think there is a lot of work yet to be done, work that I've helped get started and want to see finished," Merkel said. "The sewage treatment plant, the landfill, the industrial park are examples.

"We've gotten some things moving, and we need some follow-through. I've been in village government for four years now, and I think I've learned enough to know how to help make things happen. Experience is important.

"I ran for trustee four years ago because I thought it was important to have a representative of local business on the council. I still believe so.

"These past couple of months on the council haven't been easy because of my assignment as chairman of the police department committee and therefore the title of police commissioner in temporary charge of the department while the chief is on leave. I didn't ask for it, but I'm going to do it and do it right.

"I've been criticized—all of us have—but I honestly believe we have conducted the investigation in the right way by following the correct legal procedures. I don't know what else we could have done without violating the law.

"I'm not campaigning. It's up to the voters to decide whether I've done a good job or not."

The top three vote-getters will serve on the village board of trustees for the next two years.

The bagpipe, regarded as the national instrument of Scotland, was used by the ancient Romans.

Cole-Burghardt Begins Another Year With OGR

The International Order of the Golden Rule has announced that Cole-Burghardt Funeral Chapel in Chelsea is beginning its sixth year with OGR.

Cole-Burghardt Funeral Chapel has again successfully maintained the high standards of conduct which OGR imposes over its membership. As was stated by their executive director, Dale L. Rollings, "Membership in the Order is an earned membership. It is limited to those firms that are approved by their community, their peers, other OGR members and the OGR Board of Directors."

Not only does the Order screen its members prior to acceptance, but from then on it screens them throughout the year by contacting the families which they have served. The Order also requires each member to attend continuing education conferences which are held on a regularly scheduled basis by the International Order of the Golden Rule. These are but two requirements placed on OGR members, which form the foundation of what you can expect of an OGR member.

Cole-Burghardt Funeral Chapel continues to merit its association with the International Order of the Golden Rule.

B. Visel Accepts Post With Michigan Power

Barry Visel left his position as City Planning and Community Development Director for the City of Three Rivers on Feb. 1 to accept a position with Michigan Power Co. as Economic Development Consultant. Visel took over in Three Rivers in May of 1980 after working with Gove & Associates in Kalamazoo.

"I've been looking for an opportunity in this area to get into economic development," he said. Recently, Visel turned down a position with the Mason County Economic Development Corp., near Ludington. He said he likes the area and his family can keep their home in Schoolcraft.

He described the new position as keeping business in the Michigan Power service area, trying to expand existing businesses and attract new firms. Part of his job will entail working with the city of Three Rivers, he added.

His duties at the city included administering a $1.2 million Housing and Urban Development (HUD) block grant over a three-year period, lending staff support to the Downtown Development Authority, the Zoning Board of Appeals and the Planning Commission, writing policies and grant applications.

Visel worked actively in promoting the wastewater treatment plant bond issue and the recent street bond issue, as well as writing a new zoning ordinance, subdivision control ordinance and a flood zone ordinance.

"I think he will be missed," city manager Gary Word said, adding it is fortunate Visel will remain in the area, working in a position that will benefit the city.

Visel is a graduate of Chelsea High school and Western Michigan University. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Visel.

He will be on his mission for 18 months.

"I didn't know there were people who had never heard of Jesus Christ or the Bible," he said. "It's a neat experience to live in a different culture. Although the Fijians speak English, they are very hard to understand. However, they are a very warm and friendly people."

there so people can decide. I believe I have an edge in experience, and I'm counting on that.

"I know what has been accomplished during the past few years. The village has made progress, and I want to see it continue. The results may not show yet, but some important ground-work has been laid. The industrial park is the most important example. We have to get it off the ground.

"Chelsea has to grow. During the past 10 years this town has gone from an industrial to a bedroom community, and that trend has to be reversed. We have to attract new business and industry. That won't be easy, because there is a lot of competition, but we have to try.

"We must solve the problems in our sewer system—expand the treatment plant's capacity and bring it up to state and federal standards. That probably is our first priority because the village can't grow a whole lot—commercially or residentially—until we have the capacity to handle more sewage and treat it properly.

"I want to motivate growth and development, but I'm not kidding myself that I can go out and work any miracles. The village president really doesn't have much authority. Until very recently, he couldn't even vote on issues before the council.

"I do see an opportunity as president to exercise leadership by speaking out on issues and trying to persuade the council to my way of thinking. I think that's the president's job—to lead by persuasion.

"One other thing I see is that we are going to have at least two new trustees on the council and could have as many as four, depending on how the election results come out. The first problem the newcomers will have to face is adopting a budget. Believe me, that isn't easy. It takes at least a year to begin to understand the budget. With all my experience, I'm still learning, but I believe I know enough to provide some guidance."

Satterthwaite, 42, lives at 415 McKinley St., is divorced and has three grown daughters. He operates the J & M Oil Co. as a distributor of fuel oil and gasoline for the Union Oil Co.

"He has lived in the Chelsea area all of his life and has been a resident of the village for the past 35 years. A graduate of Chelsea High school, he attends the Congregational church.

Satterthwaite is half-way through his second two-year term as a trustee on the village council. Should he win in his run for president, he will vacate his council seat and it will be filled by appointment. Should he lose, he will serve on the council for another year.

"A lot of things have been started under Jack Merkel's leadership, and I want to see them carried out," Satterthwaite said. "That's why I'm running for mayor. If Jack hadn't decided to retire, I wouldn't be in the race.

"I honestly believed when I announced for mayor that I was giving up my seat on the council, that I couldn't have it both ways. I'm happy that the laws allow me to go on serving in the village government whatever happens in the elections. That was a pleasant surprise.

"Chelsea faces a lot of challenges. We have major concerns with our sewage treatment plant, our sewer system and our sanitary landfill. Those have to be our top priorities, because Chelsea can't grow without them.

"As far as growth is concerned, I think the first thing we have to do is make sure that we don't shrink any more. We must do everything we can to keep what we have left of our industrial base, and try to build from there.

"I'm committed to the industrial park, and I want to help get it off the ground. It would be nice to see some of the empty buildings around town re-occupied and, as a matter of fact, I'm in the process of doing just that with my own business.

"Sure, I realize that the president can't do much of anything all by himself, and that's why I'm not going out and making a bunch of promises that I couldn't possibly deliver on without the help of a lot of other people, including the council.

"I do think the president can provide some leadership, and therefore maybe have more influence than a trustee, and that's why I'm running. I want to see some things get done.

"I believe my experience on the council is valuable. It has given me an understanding of what goes on, how village government works. It's been very worthwhile from that standpoint.

"I haven't campaigned. I think most people in town know me. I have no qualms about running, and I'm confident, but I'm not begging to be elected. However the election turns out, the village will survive."

Both candidates expressed hope for a large election-day turnout of voters.

"I think it would be just great if a couple of thousand people got our sesquicentennial celebration off to a super start by voting next Monday," Keezer said. "If they all vote against me, fine. I'd rather have that happen than be elected by a handful of voters."

Satterthwaite said much the same thing in different words. "I hope for a big turnout," he said. "I would be a lot more comfortable as president if I knew that a solid majority of the people had elected me. And I wouldn't mind losing if a solid majority voted against me. The important thing is that a lot of people vote, not just a few."

Both men would like to win, but the loser won't be devastated.

Some Taxpayers Must Report State Refunds

Some taxpayers may need to report 1982 State and local income tax refunds on their Federal tax return, according to the Internal Revenue Service.

This reporting requirement applies to taxpayers who itemized deductions the previous year on Schedule A of Form 1040 and claimed the state and local taxes as an itemized deduction, thus providing a Federal income tax savings.

Refunds, credits, or offsets for a tax paid in a year when the taxpayer did not claim the taxes as an itemized deduction do not have to be reported.

As part of their increased enforcement efforts IRS expects to match all data from State and local governments in this information reporting program.

The IRS provides worksheets in the tax package and in Publication 525 to help figure the amount or part of the refund, credit, or offset that must be included as income. The worksheet in Publication 525 is most appropriate for Michigan taxpayers. Publication 525, "Taxable and Nontaxable Income," explains the requirements and is available free from the IRS. There is a handy order form in the tax package that may be used to get it.

Students Seek Opportunities To Do Work

Members of the Chelsea High school special education class are looking for work.

Several vocational programs are already being run—a custodial program at the high school, a housecleaning program, work in the school cafeteria, and work for area dairy farmers. Some jobs are paid and some are strictly job training and experience.

Each year the class earns money to attend camp, Special Olympics and other special activities. The class has grown so much this year that there is room for one more house. The cleaning is done each month and consists of general cleaning for a price ranging from $25-$35, depending on the size of the house. The class already works for six area families. Work is guaranteed, well done and expertly supervised.

The class has also done yard work in the past each spring and would again be interested in this. If anyone has such a situation available, please contact Nancy Cooper at the high school.

Young Farmers Meet In Leader Conference

Doug and Robin Welshans and Jerry and Sue Huehl of Chelsea attended the Michigan Farm Bureau Young Farmers Leader Conference at the Lansing Sheraton Inn Feb. 29-March 2.

The 200 young farmers who attended the conference participated in workshops designed to sharpen their business and personal skills. The workshops covered farm partnerships, estate planning, marketing alternatives, young farmers' role in Farm Bureau, and an agricultural outlook for 1984 and beyond.

Conference participants also had the opportunity for interaction with state legislators during a "legislative assembly." A panel of Michigan senators and representatives discussed current legislation of interest to the agricultural community and answered questions from the young farmers.

Michigan Farm Bureau young farmer title-winners for 1983 addressed the conference. They were discussion meet winner Paul Jeffs of Big Rapids, Outstanding Young Farm Woman Lauri Isley of Palmyra, and Distinguished Young Farmer Glenn Preston of Quincy.

Doug and Robin operate a 12-acre farm specializing in hogs. Jerry and Sue operate a 330-acre farm specializing in dairy.

Celebration Committee Heads Named

Many persons are participating in the preparations for the upcoming 150th Birthday Celebration of Chelsea. A few have taken on specific committee positions, as announced by Joseph Merkel, III.

Marcy Stump discovered well over a year ago that Chelsea was in line to celebrate its 150th birthday. She began with a very small committee that now has grown to be almost 50.

Joseph Merkel, III, was named chairman several months ago. Marcy is second in command and is also taking the responsibility for the Lost Arts for two days during the celebration which will be available to the public at the fairgrounds.

Marcy has also been the main promoter of the Sesquicentennial quilt which will be raffled on July 4. Twelve women in the Community worked on this quilt during the summer to have it available for display at the 1983 Chelsea fair. Their signatures appear on the underside of this one-of-a-kind Sesqui Quilt. Tickets are available at local area merchants.

Marcy Stump, along with many others, has devoted untold hours to the success of this celebration. Everyone is urged to participate. This is your party!

Royal Rooters Report Misplaced Chickens

Rumor has it that certain members of the Royal Rural Rooster Rooters misplaced a couple of chickens last week (we think we saw them roosting on John Klink's front porch), and the next time those chickens were seen, they had been coated with

The Brothers of the Brush and Belles sign-up meeting, held Feb. 29, was a great success. The meeting was well attended by representatives from all area of Chelsea, and everyone had a good time.

The nose egg race was the highlight of the meeting. The contestants for the Belles started off, and Debbie Honbaum of the Inverness Snowflakes Belles chapter was the winner, by a nose. Cindy Bradbury of the Royal Rural Rooster Rooters was a close second, followed by Ruth Leach of the Party Timers.

The Brothers race was won by Mark Staphis of the Royal Rural Rooster Rooters, followed by Doug Beaumont of the Treated Studs, and in third place was Doug Hansen of the Outhouse Gang.

Approximately 15 chapters of the Brothers and Belles have already been formed, and all are making plans for their activities together. In the works are plans for attending one of the first Tiger ball games of the year. The area leaders are meeting regularly, and the next meeting for the leaders is to be held Wednesday, March 21, at 8 p.m. at the Wolverine. All area leaders and anyone interested in becoming one are urged to attend this meeting.

If anyone is interested in forming a Brothers or Belles chapter, kits for groups are available at Springer Insurance Agency, 115 Park St. The individual kits, at $2 each, are also available for Brothers of the Brush through John Yelsik at Chelsea Hardware, and for the Belles through Loydell Keezer at the Chelsea Bakery, Mon.-Fri., 8 to 12 noon. Included in the kits are a litter bag, a bumper sticker, certificate and button. Also available for those who can't grow a beard (either for reason of work or causes of nature) are Clean Shavers kits, which also include the litter bag, bumper sticker, certificate and button, at a cost of $5. Junior Belles and Brother kits include all of the above, and may be picked up at Springer Agency for $2.

If you are interested in forming a chapter in your area, please contact the following area leaders:

Brothers of the Brush—Merritt Honbaum, North Lake; Dave Scriven, North Lake; Matt Hintzen, North Lake; Reuben Lesser, south; Ken McCalla, south; Gary Koch, south; Don Laier, south; John Klink, Waterloo; Archie Bradbury, east; Jerry Kenny, village; Merle Leach, village; and John Yelsik, village.

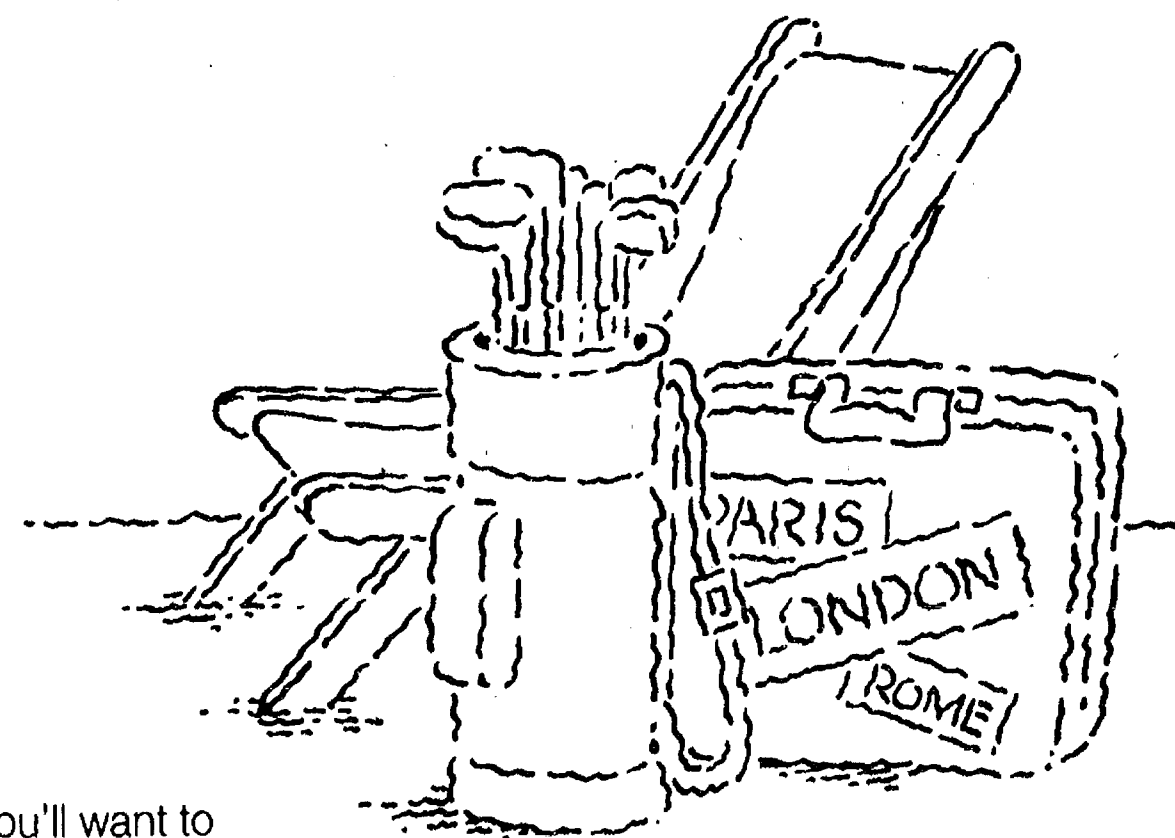

Belles—Margaret Olson, North Lake; Judy Olsen, North Lake; Karen Koch, south; Penny Laier, south; Lynn Klink, Waterloo; and Cindy Bradbury, east.

The west area is still in need of area leaders, and if anyone is interested, they should contact Merritt Honbaum at 475-7448 or Dave Scriven at 475-2414. All of you west of town—if you don't get active, you'll miss the fun!

Three Are Finalists for National Merit Scholarships

Three Chelsea High school students have been selected as finalists for National Merit Scholarships. The field of 13,500 finalists, which will be reduced to 1,800 winners later this month or in early April, represent the top one-half of one percent of the nation's high school seniors.

Besides the honor and sense of accomplishment that is attached to such an award, winners bring home a cash prize of $1,000.

The three finalists are Kurt Eisenbeiser, Kevin Colombo and Gretchen Vogel.

Eisenbeiser, 17, plans to attend the University of Michigan's school of engineering in the fall, where he will receive an honorary freshman engineering scholarship, which pays for one year's tuition.

Eisenbeiser, who eventually wants to be an electrical engineer, is a member of the varsity golf and tennis teams, and he's also vice-president of the National Honor Society and a member of the student council.

Vogel, 17, is undecided as to which university she'll attend in the fall. She is choosing among Michigan State University, Michigan Technological Institute, and the General Motors Institute.

Vogel, who has always wanted to be an engineer for NASA, is a member of the science club and the National Honor Society, and teaches third, fourth and fifth grades at the First Congregational church Sunday school.

Colombo, 18, plans to enter the University of Michigan this fall as a pre-med student. He describes himself as an active outdoors enthusiast.

Colombo is a member of the National Honor Society, as well as a four-year member of the varsity swim team, which he's captain of this year, and he was the past treasurer of his class for two years.

Cynthia Bareis Earns CMU Degree

Cynthia Bareis was graduated from Central Michigan University at the completion of the fall semester, which ended in December. Bareis, of Chelsea, was awarded her Bachelor of Science degree in Education.

Beach School Team Wins In Quiz Bowl Competition

Beach school won the Southeastern Conference Quiz Bowl championship on Feb. 24, in a meet held at the Beach cafeterium, featuring competition among Chelsea, Dexter, Lincoln and Saline Middle schools.

Chelsea's team consisted of Jordan Gray, captain, Sharon Colombo, Tony Flintoft, Camille Passow and Scott Marentay. Scott was an alternate who played in Andrea Worthing's place, because Andrea was ill. Chelsea won the traveling trophy for the first time since the three-year competition began. The trophy will rest in the Beach trophy case until it goes up for grabs again in the 1985 competition.

To win the double elimination tournament, Beach had a record of 4-1, and finished ahead of Dexter's Wylie school, which finished at 3-2.

The conference championship meet culminated four weeks of competition held in each of the schools. Beach started with eight teams in each grade. A tournament was held in each grade, with a grade champion emerging.

The three grade champions then held a tournament to produce a school winner. The school winner competed in the conference championship.

The Quiz Bowl Competition is modeled after television's College Bowl, and was developed by Southeastern Conference principals to provide an activity giving recognition and competition to academically talented students.

Questions used in the competition were produced by the faculties of the competing schools.

Pete Hanna Captures State Wrestling Title In 98-Pound Division

Pete Hanna became the fourth wrestler in Chelsea High school history to win a state title as he came out on top in the 98-pound weight division in the Michigan Class B meet at Big Rapids last weekend.

"Pete just plain did an outstanding job," said his coach, Kerry Kargel, who is one of the other three Bulldog wrestlers who have won state championships over the years.

"He was confident, he was conditioned, and he was ready to win. He prepared himself very well. He's only a sophomore. There is no telling what he can do over the next two years. He will move up a weight class or two next season. He has the potential to be a great wrestler."

Jeff Morgan, Chelsea's only other entrant in the state meet, was fifth in the 126-pound class.

"Jeff wrestled very well," Kargel said. "He's a small 126-pounder who gave away weight in just about every match. He lost his first match in overtime in the state finals and had to win his next three to earn a place, and he did.

"Jeff is a senior who has qualified for the state meet three times in three years. Over three seasons his match record has been 136-28. He has been a very consistent wrestler who has really produced for us.

"Any time a boy places fifth among the top 16 Class B wrestlers in the state in his weight division, he has accomplished a lot. When you get to the state tournament level, you are up against some very good opposition."

Hanna won his first match, 7-2, in the state tourney and "was in control all the way," according to Kargel. He dominated his next pair-up, 11-2, and went on to win a 9-2 decision in his third outing.

In the final match against Todd Darling of Hartland, Hanna got "caught in a cradle," a hold that is often decisive, but managed an escape and came on to win, 9-4.

"I was worried about that cradle hold," Kargel said, "because it's not easy to get out of. Pete escaped and went on to dominate the match. He just plain did a super job."

Hanna was 41-4 on the season and has a two-year career record of 73-16.

Standard staff member Steve Worley, a former wrestler for Ann Arbor High school, confirmed Kargel's appraisal. "If somebody gets you into a cradle hold, you have to be good to break it without being pinned in the process. You're going to lose four or five points at best. I didn't see the match, but I'd have to say that Hanna did awfully well to come on and win."

Chelsea Cagers Lose District Tournament Tilt to Lumen Christi

Last Monday's first-round district tournament basketball match-up between Chelsea and Jackson Lumen Christi was about as evenly contested as a game can get for three periods. The lead changed hands eight times, and the biggest margin was Chelsea's four points at half-time.

Alas for Bulldog hopes of upsetting the heavily favored visitors, the Titans went on a tear during the first five minutes of the fourth quarter, outscoring the home team 11-2 to take a 10-point lead which they ably protected down the stretch for a 63-52 victory.

Lumen Christi thus joined the other tourney favorite, Brooklyn Columbia Central, in the winner's circle. Brooklyn defeated Tecumseh, 60-46, in the evening's opening game.

A couple of very questionable officiating calls helped Lumen Christi put on its winning spurt, but two spectacular slam-dunks by 6-7 center Keven Golden ignited not only the sizeable contingent of Titan fans in the Chelsea gym but his teammates as well.

Golden, who is reported to be heading for DePaul University on a basketball scholarship, broke things open with his slams on successive trips up-court.

Down by 10 with three minutes to go, the Bulldogs cut the margin to seven twice, but could get no closer against the tight 2-3 zone defense put up by Lumen Christi.

The score by quarters tells the story of the game's first three periods.

Lumen Christi led, 16-13, at the end of the first eight minutes, but Chelsea came back to take a 28-22 half-time lead in a game of defense that can only be described as ferocious. Both teams were taking it to each other, and the officials were letting them have at it.

A Titan player jabbed fingers into a Bulldog player's eyes. The most outrageous deliberate foul that this reporter has seen all season—one that should have sent the Lumen Christi player to the bench—wasn't even whistled. It was that kind of ball game.

Lumen Christi coach Mike Ramker repeatedly broke the rules by walking out onto the court while play was going on. He wasn't called for what should have been automatic technical fouls. Instead, the referees chose to warn the Chelsea bench against standing up after Bulldog baskets. It was a strangely officiated contest.

Give credit to Chelsea coach Paul Ash. He conducted himself within the rules. He never once went out on the floor except during time-outs.

The third quarter wound up at 39-38 in favor of Lumen Christi, and it was still anybody's ball game. Then came the Titan spurt, and it was all over for the Chelsea boys who had played their hearts out.

It certainly wasn't the fault of senior co-captains David Kiel and Marty Steinhauer that the Bulldogs lost. Both played perhaps their finest games of the season in a losing cause.

Kiel was superb against the tall, tough and talented Lumen Christi big men. He more than held his own while a succession of tall trees tried to stop him. Kiel had 18 points and 13 rebounds.

Marty Steinhauer put in 16 points and, as he has done all season, scrapped and hustled all over the court, despite the sore knees that have handicapped him all winter. He is some kind of a competitor.

Senior Chuck Hager likewise rose to the occasion. Working at both forward and guard, he canned eight points and played hard-nosed defense, his best performance of the year.

Junior point guard Eric Schattner contributed the Bulldogs' other eight points despite limited playing time as Ash chose to go with freshman Todd Starkey who handled the ball well but didn't break into the scoring column.

Both the Bulldog players and Ash were distraught after the game. Ash delayed his post-game press conference for several minutes until he could compose himself.

"I never saw a group of kids play any harder," Ash finally said. "I'm proud of what they did. They are heart-broken because they didn't win. As far as I'm concerned those two bad calls early in the fourth quarter turned the game around. If they had been called right, we would have been in it to the end, and we might have pulled it out. It was a bad way to lose a ball game."

"Lumen Christi took advantage, and those two dunks by Golden set them on fire. He's a fine player, but he wasn't as good as Kiel out there tonight. David played one whale of a basketball game, and so did Marty. It's just plain too bad that those two boys did so well and yet we lost."

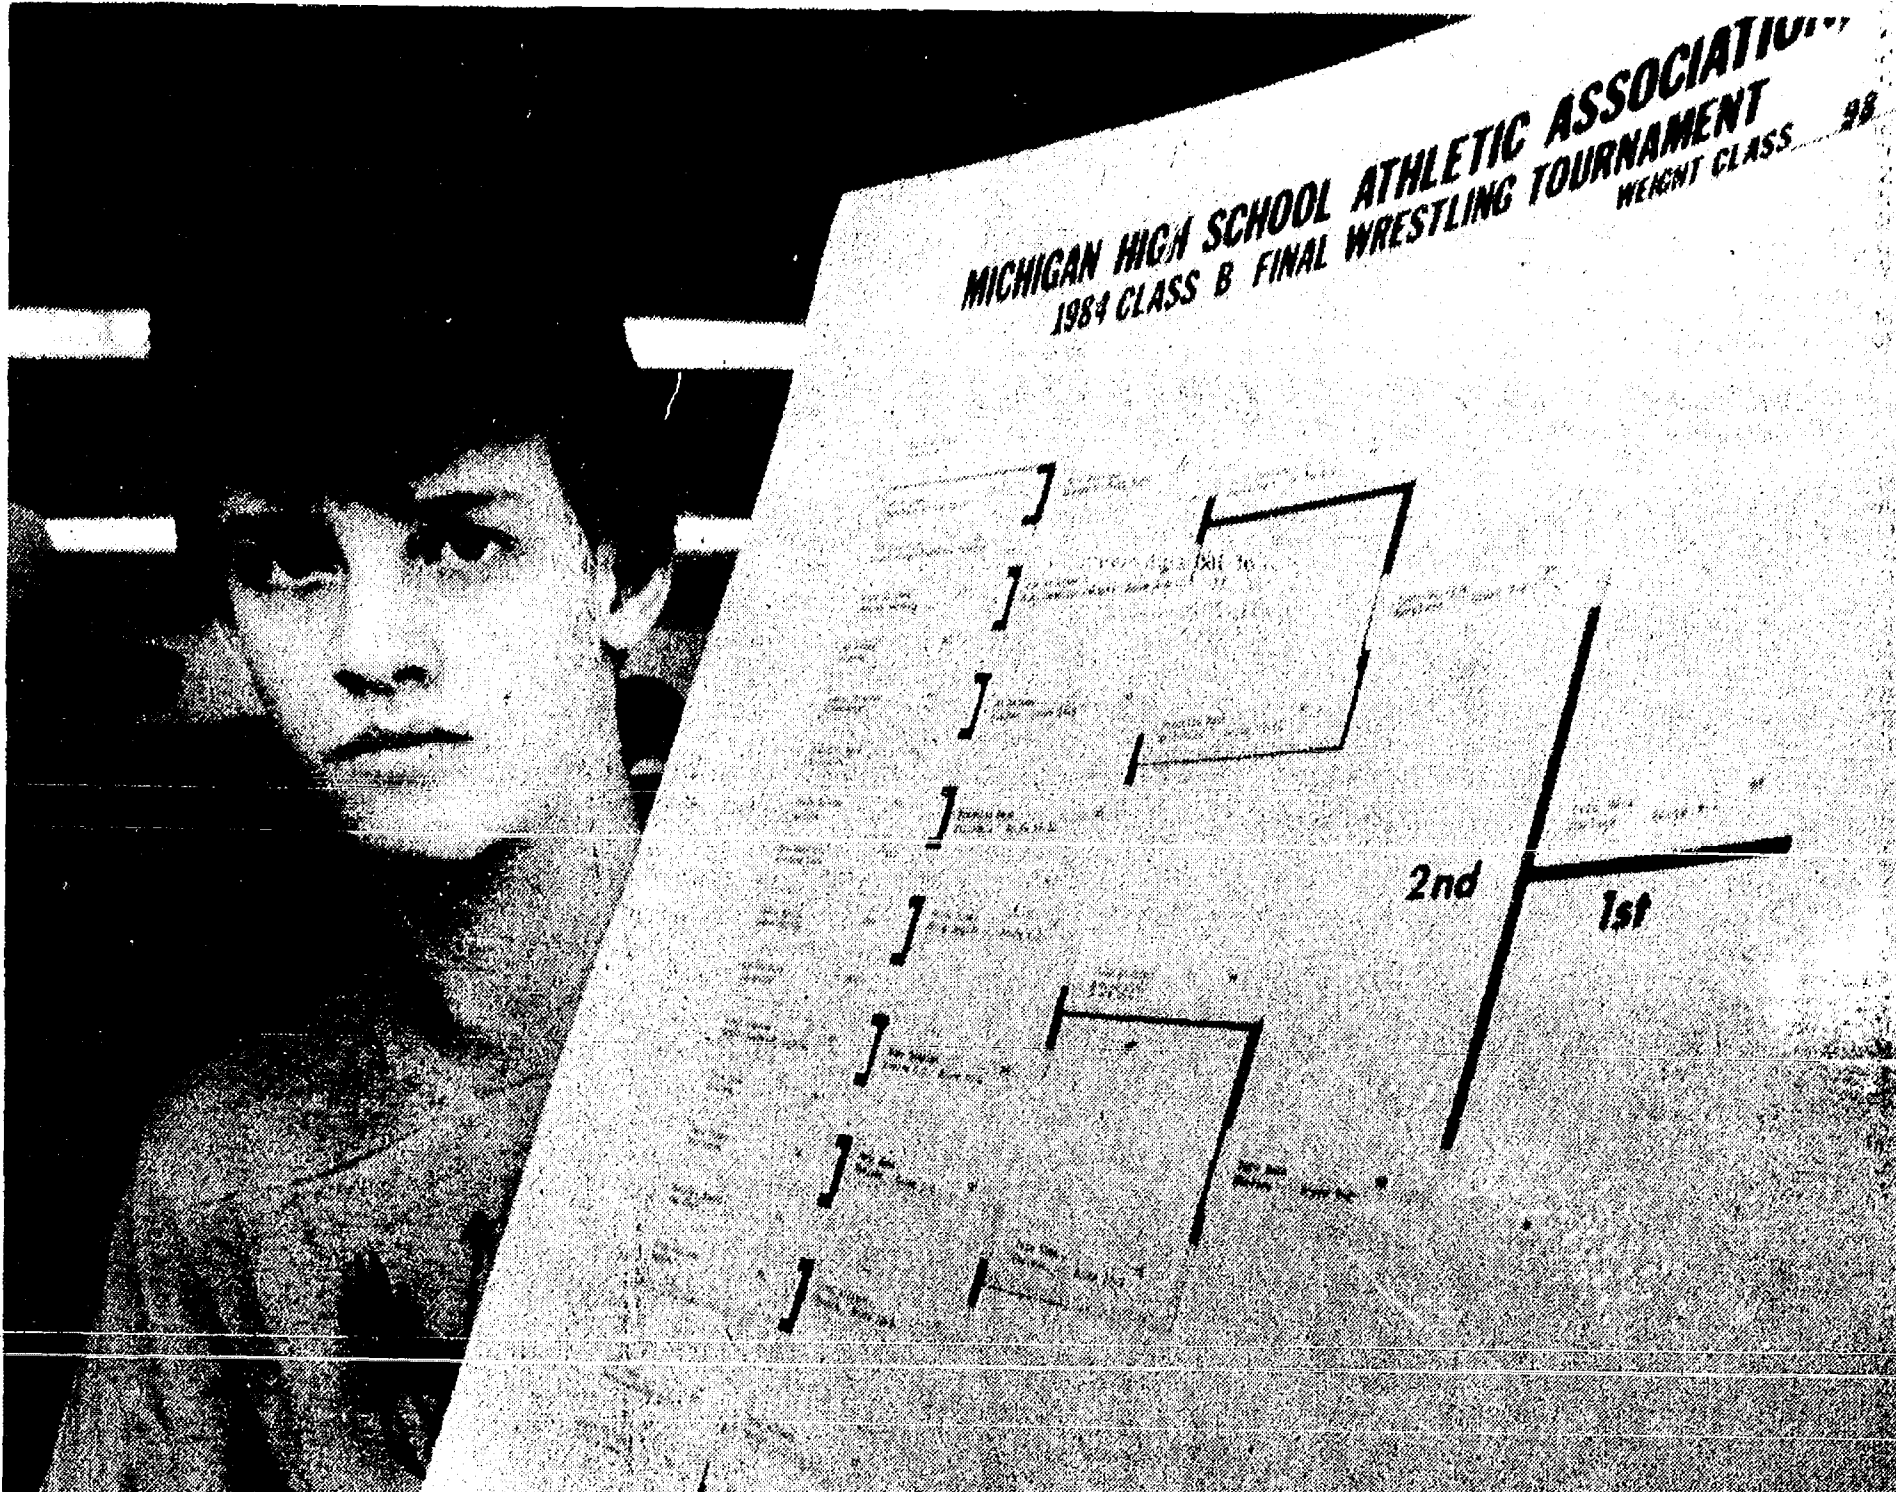

"Let me tell you something. Our kids are crying in the locker room. They believed they could win. I believed they could win. It's terribly disappointing."

Ash went on to add that his Bulldog team which went 9-12 on the season, including the tournament loss to Lumen Christi, probably was too "two dimensional."

"We probably relied too heavily on Kiel and Marty Steinhauer, and asked them to carry too much of the load. We didn't get enough scoring from the other positions. Opposing teams were able to double-cover David and Marty, like Lumen Christi did tonight, and shut us down in close situations."

"Lumen Christi changed from a full-court pressure defense to a zone in the second half, and we couldn't hit from outside to break it. We lost a lot of close games this season because of that."

Ash, who is a non-faculty coach, said he hopes to come

STATE CHAMPION: Chelsea's Pete Hanna displays the scoreboard which shows he won the state Class B wrestling championship in the 98-pound class at Big Rapids last weekend. Pete is the fourth Bulldog wrestler in the school's history to win a state title and, as a sophomore, has some more great things to look forward to.

FIFTH BEST IN STATE: Chelsea's Jeff Morgan lost his first match in overtime at last weekend's state Class B championship wrestling meet, then came on strong through the loser's bracket to earn a hard-won fifth place.

SEC ROUND-UP:

Milan Hangs on Despite 74-72 Loss

Milan didn't exactly back into the Southeastern Conference championship, but the Big Reds' crown lost a lot of luster last Friday night as they were up-ended by second-place Lincoln, 74-72, on Tecumseh's neutral court.

In the other game on the season-ending SEC program, Saline defeated Dexter, 45-41, and so gained a tie for third place in the regular conference standings, even though Dexter won one more regular season game.

The Milan-Lincoln game was played strictly for pride, and it turned out that Lincoln had just a shade more. Milan had the opportunity to win the conference title by either eight points or two, according to the complicated scoring system, and settled for the two.

The Big Reds had their chances to win and pulled out to a 49-43 lead mid-way through the third period. The Railsplitters can score a lot of points in a hurry when they put their minds to it, and they proceeded to put up 14 in a row to take a 57-49 lead. Lincoln tried to coast home, only to see Milan come back and tie the score at 72 with a minute to play.

Railsplitter center Joey Ross put in the winning basket with four seconds left by grabbing an offensive rebound and stuffing the ball into the hoop.

In the consolation game won by Saline, it was a question of which team was going to loosen up and start putting the ball through the hoop.

The first quarter ended with Dexter ahead, 6-4, but Saline outscored the Dreadnaughts, 16-6, during the second period. Dexter tried hard but never was able to get back into the game after that 12-point first half.

Bulldog Cagers Finally Win on Road

Chelsea's varsity basketball team defeated Saline at Saline on Dec. 9. It wasn't until last Wednesday night that the Bulldogs won their second game of the season on the road, defeating Dearborn, 69-54, with a strong second-half comeback.

"Our inability to play well—and especially to shoot well—away from home is the main reason why our season record is 8-11," coach Paul Ash said. "We were 6-2 at home, 2-9 in other people's gyms."

"The fact that our schedule was 'loaded' with away games didn't help, but you have to be able to at least split your road games if you are going to wind up with a good record. We didn't come close to doing that."

Ash was pleased with his team's effort at Dearborn. Behind, 33-30, at the half, the Bulldogs put things together during the intermission and proceeded to dominate the next 16 minutes, out-scoring their Class A foes, 39-21.

"It got to be a real physical contest out there," Ash said, "and the officials decided to call it loosely. It was kind of like foot-ball, and our starting lineup includes four good football players. I think we can beat any team that wants to match muscles with us."

Key to the Bulldog victory was center David Kiel, who broke out of a recent slump by scoring 24 points and dominating the inside. "We were able to get the ball to him, and he used his strength to put it in the basket," Ash said of his 6-7 center who has won a football scholarship to Michigan State University.

"David is tremendously strong. People try to bump him, and they bounce off. Unfortunately, some officials call a foul on him when all he's done is stand there and take a hit. They see somebody down on the floor and Kiel on his feet, and decide Dave must have knocked the guy down."

"Having played as a 'big man', I know the problem. Officials tend to favor the smaller player when it comes to judgment calls."

Kiel wasn't the whole show against Dearborn. Junior guard David Steinhauer put on a free-throw shooting clinic by sinking 11 of 14 attempts and added two field goals for 15 points. Brother Marty Steinhauer kept up his consistent scoring pace with 14 counters.

Ash called the victory especially important as the Bulldogs headed into their opening district tournament game against favored Jackson Lumen Cristl.

"Beating a Class A school on their home court was a big confidence builder for us," Ash said, "and that excellent second half when we came from behind and buried Dearborn meant a lot. It may have been the best half we've played all season anywhere, and it definitely was the best we've played away from home."

We're underdogs against Lumen Cristl. They are 12-7 on the season, and they are a lot bigger than we are. They can start a front line averaging 6-7 if they want to, and that's awfully tall for a Class B high school basketball team. Most small-college teams aren't that big.

"We'll take it to them. Despite the problems we've had this season, our kids have never given up and quit trying. Our effort has been excellent. It has come down to shooting. When we shoot well, we win. When we don't, we lose."

OUT IN THE OPEN

By BILL MULLENDORE

March is a month that tantalizes and tries the soul of the outdoorsman.

There are just enough nice days in March to make you want to get outdoors and do something. There are a lot of bad days, too. March weather is maddening, characterized by sudden and extreme changes. About the time a warm, sunny spell encourages you to plan some sort of excursion a couple of days hence, it turns cold and snowy. If you want to bring on a blizzard, decide on Wednesday that you are going to do something outside on the coming Saturday.

The fact is that there just isn't much of anything to do out there.

For instance, there is nothing you can legally hunt in southern Michigan unless you fancy starlings and English sparrows as quarry. Even the crow season is closed. The hunting closures make good conservation sense because March marks the beginning of the spring breeding season, but that's little solace to the person who would like to be afield with a gun.

If the hunting urge absolutely overwhelms you, you can drive across the Mackinac Bridge into the Upper Peninsula, where the snowshoe hare season stays open through March 31.

Of course, you can shoot at targets, but be careful where you do it. The law prohibits carrying a firearm in "any area frequented by wild birds or animals," and that's just about everywhere outdoors.

The fisherman's lot in March is not much better. There are things you can fish for, but it helps if you don't mind not catching anything because it's almost a sure thing that you won't.

There is no closed season on the popular species of panfish—bluegills, sunfish, perch, crappies, rock bass—and they may readily be caught as long as there is safe ice. Good ice sometimes lasts into March, but in most years it doesn't.

The latest date I can recall fishing through the ice in these parts is March 8, and it wasn't really safe. There was about six inches of the stuff, but it was so honey-combed and rotten that I could poke through it with one stroke of a spud. I stayed in water less than five feet deep, figuring my six-foot height gave me some margin of safety, but it was foolhardy to be out there at all.

What made me take the risk is that the fishing on the last ice of the season can be just as good as on the first ice, in some cases better. The start of thawing raises the oxygen level in the water and energizes the fish to feed more vigorously.

Before I learned better, I figured that once the ice goes out and you can put a boat in the water, you should be able to anchor in the same places where the fish had been biting under the ice, and keep on catching them. It's a nice theory, but it doesn't work or at least it never has for me. Why it doesn't work, I don't know, but suspect the amount of light getting into the water has something to do with it. Whether the fish go someplace else, change their feeding habits or just plain get ornery, I can't say, but I've sure never had any luck fishing in open water in March.

(If anybody has had a contrary experience, I would like to hear about it, because I still believe fishing offers a potential opportunity to break the March monotony.)

As for other outdoor pastimes in March—

There usually isn't enough snow for the sports that require it and, if you do get enough, it melts before you can get organized to take advantage of it. Downhill skiing at resorts with snow-making equipment are exceptions in some years.

Canoeing is iffy. Again, conditions vary widely from year to year. Normally placid rivers like the Huron can become raging torrents in early spring if there has been a heavy accumulation of snow followed by a fast thaw and runoff. A dunking that would be merely a nuisance in July can be a deadly hazard in March.

The best bet probably is just to take a walk and look for early signs of spring. There are birds to see and identify, and a few hardy specimens of plant life. You can be gratified by the discovery of a jack-in-the-pulpit, skunk cabbage or wild leek—not especially attractive to the eye but uplifting to the spirit.

March is also a good time for getting gear into shape for use later in the spring and summer, chores that all too often get put off until the last minute. If your tackle box needs sorting out, your waders leak, your reel is rusty, your rod has a missing guide, your lures need polishing and touching up—now is the time to find it out and do something about it. Some maintenance work now can save you a lot of grief later on.

Junior Varsity Basketball Team Loses Last Game, Finishes at 7-11

Chelsea's junior varsity basketball team led Dearborn by 13 points going into the fourth quarter last Wednesday night but eventually lost in overtime, 54-49.

"It was a very disappointing defeat," JV coach Marlin Wilson said. "They got hot and we went cold, and they outscored us 22-9 during the final eight minutes of regulation time."

"We missed some easy shots from the field and some free throws, while everything they put up was going in. All we needed was to score a couple of points during the last two minutes, but we couldn't get the ball to go down."

With the score tied at 47 at the end of 32 minutes, Dearborn proceeded to win in overtime by sinking seven of nine free throw attempts while Chelsea was making a single field goal. Dearborn had never led in the game until the overtime.

"There was some strange officiating during the fourth quarter and the overtime," Wilson said, "but I honestly can't use it as an excuse. We had the game in hand and gave it away with poor shooting. We should have won regardless of the calls."

Three boys accounted for all of Chelsea's scoring. Ken Martin had 22 points, Dan Bellus 19 and Kevin Maynard 8. John Jedele didn't score but had six blocked shots and a bunch of rebounds.

The game closed out the junior varsity team's season with a 7-11 won-lost record.

"I think that statistic is a little bit deceiving," Wilson commented. "We lost only two games by more than 10 points. All the other defeats were close, games we could have won."

"Our main problem all season long was lack of size. We didn't have a boy over six feet tall, and gave away height to every team we played. That meant we had to play a style of basketball which emphasizes patience, sure ball-handling, and working for the high-percentage shot. It's not easy to learn and adapt to."

"Unless a couple of boys do a lot of growing before December, next winter's varsity will be conceding height to every opponent. I think our JV's who will move up to the varsity have learned something about the kind of ball they are going to have to play against teams that are bigger. I've stressed that all season long, and the kids have applied themselves to adjusting. They have responded real well."

Wilson, who is a non-faculty coach, said he didn't know if he would be back next year but added that he would like to be.

"It's been a tremendous experience," he said. "I've enjoyed it enough that I'm seriously considering going back to school to get a master's degree in education and a license to teach. I've found out that I love coaching."

and I understand why school administrators prefer faculty coaches. There are definite advantages in having a coach who is teaching full-time. You can build stronger relationships with your players, other students, other coaches and faculty members, administrators, parents and fans, everybody."

Wilson lives in Hamburg and operates his own printing sales company. He has a college degree in business administration. "At age 37 I'm not too old to change directions in my career," he said. "This year has taught me some things. We'll see what happens."

Taxpayers Taking Income Credit Must File Return

Taxpayers eligible for the Earned Income Credit (EIC) must file a federal income tax return to claim it, the Internal Revenue says.

To be eligible for the EIC, taxpayers must have earned income of less than $10,000 and they must have one or more children living with them for the entire year.

The credit can be as much as $500 annually and is based on a percentage of the taxpayer's earned income. Taxpayers who qualify must file a Form 1040A or Form 1040 even if they're not otherwise required to file an income tax return. Those who file as single or married filing separately are not eligible for the credit.

More information on the EIC can be found in free IRS Publication 598, "Earned Income Credit."

NEW POLICE CAR: This is Chelsea's new police patrol car, a 1982 Dodge Diplomat bought from the Chrysler Proving Grounds with only 7,000 miles on it. The picture was taken from the right-hand side of the vehicle, because the police department had only one insignia in stock to put on it.

Police Department Gets New Car

The Chelsea police department has one new patrol car and another on order.

Originally, it had been planned to replace only one of the department's two cars this year, but that changed when the vehicle not scheduled for replacement was wrecked in a Feb. 4 accident.

The village received a $4,500 insurance settlement on the damaged car, and applied it to the purchase of a 1982 Dodge Diplomat which was part of the Chrysler Proving Ground fleet. The car has 7,000 miles on it and is therefore technically used, but is new for all practical purposes. It cost $8,045 and was delivered last Thursday.

"What it amounts to is that, with the insurance settlement, we got the car for $3,545," administrator Frederick Weber said. "I think it was a real good deal for the village. The car is barely broken in."

On order from Village Motor

Sales is a 1984 Plymouth Gran Fury priced at $8,747 with the trade-in allowance for the old patrol car which has logged well over 100,000 miles. Delivery is expected later this month.

Arrival of the car from the proving grounds allowed the village to return a vehicle loaned to the village by the Washtenaw sheriff's department.

"We're grateful to the sheriff. The loan made it possible for us to have two cars available for service at all times," Weber said.
