VILLAGE RESIDENTS VOTE: The voting pace was fairly brisk at the Sylvan Township Hall yesterday morning as Chelsea voters went to the polls to choose a new village president and three members of the board of trustees in contested elections.

Satterthwaite, Merkel, Finch, Harris Win In Village Election

Jerry J. Satterthwaite was chosen as Chelsea village president in Monday's election. He defeated Loren Keezer by 30 votes, 209 to 179.

Elected as trustees were incumbent Joseph M. Merkel and newcomers James K. Finch and Fred Harris. Keith L. Boylan and Emmett M. Hankerd were unsuccessful in their bids for the council.

Incumbents Mary M. Harris and Charles B. Winans, II, were re-elected as village treasurer and village assessor, respectively, without opposition.

E. Anne Belser was re-elected unopposed to the McKune Memorial Library board of trustees.

There were no candidates on the ballot for a second vacancy on the library board. Village clerk Evelyn Rosentreter said there were "several" write-in votes cast for various persons, which means that somebody eventually will be declared elected.

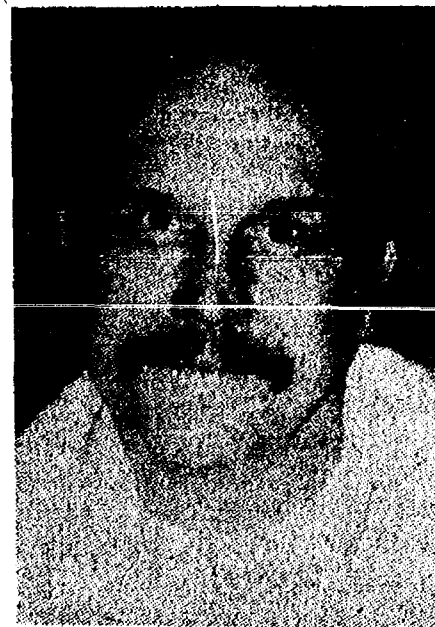

However, she added, the names and vote totals cannot be announced until after the official canvass of the election, which will not be completed until next week.

Write-in votes have to be tallied separately and certified as valid by the board of canvassers.

A disappointingly small total of 401 ballots was cast despite efforts by village officials and the candidates to encourage a large turnout among Chelsea's 2,310 registered voters.

Only 17.4 percent of those eligible to vote took advantage of their right to do so.

The total might have been a bit bigger but for a snowstorm which began about 6 p.m. and possibly discouraged some people from driving or walking downtown to the Sylvan Township Hall during the evening hours.

JERRY J. SATTERTHWAITE

This reporter and his wife cast the 350th and 351st ballots shortly after 6 o'clock. There obviously wasn't much activity after that.

Ten punch-card voting machines were set up in the Sylvan hall to meet a state law requirement that one machine be provided for each 200 registered voters.

"Actually, we were one short according to the letter of the law," said Mrs. Rosentreter who was in charge of the election. "I received official permission to use 10 instead of 11 or 12. We really needed about three. We weren't busy at any time."

Voting was done on punch cards. Voters poked holes in a computer card next to the names of the candidates they favored.

The cards were taken to Ann Arbor and fed through a computer which counted the holes.

The recorded vote totals, which are subject to official canvass, were:

VILLAGE PRESIDENT

Satterthwaite 209
Keezer 179

VILLAGE TRUSTEE

(First three elected)

Merkel 298
Harris 239
Finch 227
Boylan 171
Hankerd 122

TREASURER

Harris 367

ASSESSOR

LIBRARY TRUSTEE

Belser 332

All of the newly elected officials will be sworn in at next Tuesday's village council meeting, and they will take office immediately.

At that time Jack Merkel, who did not seek re-election, will step down as village president and Satterthwaite will take his place. Keezer and Jeanene Riemenschneider, who likewise did not run for re-election as trustee, will give up their offices to Finch and Harris. Joe Merkel will resume his former seat on the council.

Satterthwaite's term on the council has another year to go, and it will become vacant the moment he takes the oath as president. The unexpired term will be filled by appointment which the council is collectively empowered to make.

High School Symphony Band Rated Tops at District Meet

This is a very musical group with impressive technical capabilities" are the words of Royden Swaffield in describing the Chelsea High school symphony band as he judged them this past Friday after a standing ovation from the audience.

The Chelsea High school freshman band and symphony band were awarded straight first division-superior ratings by all four adjudicators at the District 12 Michigan School Band and Orchestra Association's Band and Orchestra Festival held in Ida.

The bands prepared three selections to perform for three adjudicators. Then, the groups performed two selections they have never seen for a fourth adjudicator. Each adjudicator awards a rating from I-superior to V-poor. Both bands were given I ratings by all four judges.

This marks the ninth consecutive year the symphony band has received all I ratings at district and state festivals.

Adjudicator comments for the freshman band included, "This is a fine, well trained little band."

"A very well taught group." Adjudicator accolades were also sounded for William Gourley, conductor of the bands. "You are very fortunate to have a conductor who plays literature like this and demands that you attempt true musicality as well as notes. He is a fine conductor!"

Council OK's Variance For Professional Building

The village council, wearing its other hat as the zoning board of appeals, has approved a variance so that a parking lot can be constructed behind a proposed new professional office building at 515 S. Main St.

The variance, which involves allowing parking spaces to be put closer to the side lot boundary lines than village ordinances permit, was approved unanimously by the council.

William P. Farrand of the firm of Farrand Vroom & Associates, Ann Arbor architects, told the council that the site plan calls for a 42-space parking lot behind the building, which will house medical and dental offices.

The building is scheduled to be constructed on two lots, now identified as 513 and 521 S. Main St., presently occupied by two older homes. The lots are owned by Dr. Charles F. Krausse. The houses will be either moved or razed, Farrand said.

He added that a tentative timetable calls for starting work early this summer on the proposed 7,100-square-foot building which will include several suites of professional offices.

Farrand said the 42 parking spaces will be needed for users of the building, including employees and visitors. Otherwise, he said, there could be a problem of spill-over onto the streets.

The village planning commission was to meet last night to consider the site plan for the project. When and if that is approved, all legal requirements will have been met.

Armed Robbery at Woodshed Ends in Arrest of Gunman

One man is in custody and another is under investigation in connection with an armed robbery at the Woodshed Eatery, 113 S. Main St., last Sunday afternoon.

Sgt. Lenard McDougall, who is temporarily in charge of the Chelsea police department, recounted the incident this way:

Two men came into the Woodshed about 5:35 p.m. Sunday, ordered drinks and sat down. Shortly afterward, one of them approached a waitress, pulled a pistol and demanded the contents of the cash drawer and her car keys.

She gave him an undisclosed amount of money but refused the keys, McDougall said.

The robber then moved toward the front door of the restaurant, stopped at a table and attempted to take a customer hostage. The accosted man threw a glass of beer on his assailant, who then fired a shot into the ceiling and fled out the front door.

Outside, the robber flagged down a car with two male occupants. He forced the driver over to the passenger's side, McDougall said, and the man who had been sitting in the passenger seat jumped out.

The robber drove the car north on Main St. and turned right onto E. Middle. Meanwhile, one of the 17 persons in the restaurant at the time of the hold-up had gone out, run to the police station and given the alarm.

As the get-away car turned onto E. Middle, Sgt. McDougall drove up in a police patrol car. The driver of the fleeing vehicle jumped out, and McDougall arrested him after a short foot chase between houses.

The suspect was identified as James F. Zatek, 32, of Allen Park. He was arraigned in district court on two counts of armed robbery.

A second man was later nabbed by sheriff's deputies at the Pump 'N' Pantry on S. Main St. but has not been charged. His possible complicity in the hold-up is still under investigation, and his name was not disclosed.

Sgt. McDougall expressed gratitude for the co-operation of local citizens. "Without their assistance, these men could have gotten away and, more important, somebody could have been hurt or killed," he said. "I'm very happy that everything turned out the way it did."

Council Sets Budget Meet For April 3

A public hearing on the proposed Chelsea village government general fund budget for 1984-85 has been set for 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, April 3, in the village hall.

When finally adopted by the village council, the budget will be retroactive to March 1, when Chelsea's new fiscal year officially began.

Meanwhile, the village is operating on an interim basis through bi-weekly motions by the council to pay bills as they come due.

Another public hearing, on the federal revenue sharing portion of the budget, was scheduled for next Tuesday, March 20, also at 7:30 p.m. in the village hall. The amount of money involved is not large. Revenue sharing funds have decreased sharply in recent years.

The law requires that the two hearings be separated by at least two weeks.

Council Approves New Rate Schedule for Landfill Use

A new schedule of rates for users of the Chelsea sanitary landfill on Werkner Rd. east of M-52 will go into effect April 1, the village council decided unanimously a week ago Tuesday night.

The fees will apply to all persons, including village residents, who take materials to the landfill for disposal. Residents will continue to receive twice-a-week pick-up of up to two containers of household trash for a monthly charge of $3.

The landfill will be open to all comers, not just residents of the village and four surrounding townships—Sylvan, Lima, Lyndon and Dexter—as at present.

The rate schedule is intended to generate revenue to make the landfill operation self-supporting. In that connection the council passed a resolution to establish a special Landfill Fund into which the collected fees will be deposited. Operating costs will be paid from the fund.

Trustees Herman Radloff and Loren Keezer, who make up the council's landfill committee, said they hope the revenues will be sufficient to meet costs, but only time and experience will tell for sure.

In another related action, the council awarded two contracts totalling $214,151.25 for construction of a new burial cell and leachate basin at the landfill. The cell now in use will be filled and capped with clay.

The new cell must be built to bring the landfill into compliance with state regulations under the Solid Waste Management Act. Otherwise, the facility would have to be shut down.

The burial cell will be lined with polyvinyl chloride (PVC), a plastic material, to prevent liquids from seeping into the soil and perhaps eventually into the groundwater table.

Instead, the liquids will be collected in an adjacent clay-lined leachate basin, for later pump-out and disposal elsewhere.

Joseph Chie of Milan, lowest of four bidders, received the earth-moving contract for $177,701.25. Other bidders were Klink Excavating, B & V Construction and E. W. Garlick.

Staff Industries of Detroit got the contract for installing the PVC liner for $36,450. Gaston Containment Systems of Kansas and Wright & Kohl Construction Co. of Texas also submitted bids.

The low bids were accepted on recommendation of Lee Fahrner of Washtenaw Engineering Co., village consulting engineers for public works.

Fahrner noted that the $214,000 total cost is well under the preliminary engineering estimate of $250,000 to do the job.

The new user fee schedule is, among other things, intended to reimburse the village for the cost of constructing the new cell, which has a projected life of five years. There is room in the landfill site for a second cell, which could serve disposal needs for another five years.

By that time, it is hoped, alternative technology for handling solid wastes will have been developed, Radloff told the council.

The "gate prices" to be charged at the landfill beginning April 1 are:

Van Meer To Head Civic Foundation

Raymond E. Van Meer, Chelsea schools superintendent, was elected president of the Civic Foundation of Chelsea at the Foundation's annual meeting Feb. 27. Van Meer succeeds George Palmer, who was the foundation's first president.

Other officers elected were: William Nuffer, vice-president; Jerry Ashby, treasurer; and Marilyn Chasteen, secretary.

New directors elected were: Jerry Ashby, Barbara Brown, Charles Cameron, Marilyn Chasteen, and Dave McAllister.

RAYMOND E. VAN MEER

THAT'S WHERE IT WILL BE: Cecil Clouse, operator of the Chelsea sanitary landfill, points toward the place where a new burial cell will be constructed. The village council last week awarded contracts for the new cell, and also approved a drive-in rate schedule of fees to pay for the project which is mandated by state law.

At the board of education meeting this week, superintendent Ray Van Meer reported that the Michigan Assessment Test showed Chelsea students scored much higher in reading and math than the state average.

Although they only expected to finish in the top 20, Chelsea swimmers surprised themselves by finishing 10th in last weekend's Michigan High School State Championship, at Grand Rapids Junior College.

The Chelsea Symphony Band reached its $20,000 goal, as the band's Mexican Festival fundraising drive ended this week. The band has scheduled a tour to Mexico where it will perform five concerts in early May.

Chelsea's Aquatic club completed a perfect season, with a 10-0 record, as they beat both Belleville and Plymouth this week.

14 Years Ago . . .

Thursday, March 19, 1970—

With a cast of more than 100 students, including an orchestra of 24 performers, Chelsea High school students are presenting Rodgers and Hammerstein's musical extravaganza, "Carousel" tonight. The show will run through the weekend.

Because a 12-year-old in New York City is taking heroin, or other drugs, doesn't mean the same can't happen here: The Chelsea Kiwanis Club, alerted to widespread drug usage by junior and senior high students across the nation, announced it is sponsoring a candid discussion on drug use by Dr. Richard Yarvis, a nationally recognized expert on the subject, Monday night at Chelsea High school.

At a regular session of the Chelsea Village Council this week, the council approved to transfer $20,000 from the Electric and Water Department to the general fund.

24 Years Ago . . .

Thursday, March 17, 1960—

Voters went to the polls Monday—the highest voter turnout in recent years, as 783 votes were cast—and re-elected Donald Alber to a fourth consecutive term as village president.

For the past two weeks a friendly racoon has been making himself at home on Mrs. Homer Stofor's front porch, on North Territorial Rd. Because the racoon is so friendly, Mrs. Stofor believes he has been someone's pet.

Members of various committees and division heads of Chelsea's Old Time Minstrel and Vaudeville Extravaganza met this week and announced that proceeds from the show will go to repair the cornice at McKune Memorial Library, the Fire Hall Building Fund, and for improvements on Pierce Park.

34 Years Ago . . .

Thursday, March 16, 1950—

As part of its improvement program, the Chelsea Electric Light and Water Department has begun installing a new heavy-duty main switch in its new facility on Van Buren St. Also, four new cables, capable of delivering electricity throughout the area, are to be installed in the near future, which is part of the improvement plan.

To the surprise of many observers in the community, voters rejected an advisory ballot in Monday's election that seeks to raise money for improvements to Pierce Memorial Park. Only 118 voters, or 10 percent of registered voters, turned out for the election. Because of the low turnout, village council members do not have a clear idea how the rest of the community feels on this matter.

FUNERAL HOMEWHAT IS "WIDOW'S WALK"?

Old and historic homes built along the seacoasts often have a fence-like railing on the roof which is called a "widow's walk."

This "widow's walk" provided a lookout point for those awaiting the return of loved ones from the sea. In early America, many families were dependent on the shipping business for their livelihood. Many lives were lost at sea. Many ships were to depart, never to return again. "Watching from the widow's walk" became a common experience for countless wives and sweethearts in the early history of our country.

The expression, "widow's walk," has been used to entitle a booklet by Jane Woods Shoemaker. A widow can receive comfort and constructive ideas to help her adjust to her new way of life by reading this warm and moving experience of another widow.

Your problems are our concerns. Please feel free to call on us about them.

Agreement Near on Berlin-Farro Cleanup

Officials from the state and federal governments, along with representatives of waste generators at the Berlin and Farro toxic waste dump at Swartz Creek, tried but were unsuccessful in reaching agreement on the generators paying for the next stage of cleanup at the site.

The regional administrator for the federal Environmental Protection Agency, in Lansing recently for a seminar on toxic cleanups, said he hoped negotiations would be completed soon.

After meetings with Chief Assistant Attorney General Stanley Steinborn, and Stewart Freeman, chief assistant attorney general in charge of environmental protection, and Valdas Adamkus, EPA administrator for region five, a spokesman said negotiations would continue and were nearing completion.

Adamkus said if an agreement is reached it would involve close to $10 million the EPA has already budgeted for the next stage of cleanup at the suburban Flint site.

An agreement could mean the first waste from the site could be hauled out in about two weeks.

Adamkus said the different sides were "almost on the brink" of an agreement but that some issues remained to be resolved.

The agreement would require the waste generators, which include General Motors Corp. and Ford Motor Corp., to pay for the next stage of the cleanup, he said, but among the issues unresolved was reimbursement to the state and federal governments for amounts they already had spent on the cleanup of the area.

In September, 1983, after one stage of the cleanup had already been undertaken by the state, it was estimated the state had spent some $4.1 million on Berlin and Farro.

Greg Vanderlaan, chief of EPA's remedial response section, estimated Michigan had spent between $5 million and $5.5 million on the cleanup, while the federal government had spent so far about $1.75 million.

Vanderlaan said if an agreement is reached, then the funds budgeted for the Berlin and Farro—$9.6 million—would go for planning and cleanup at other sites in the region.

First consideration would be given to toxic contamination sites in Michigan already listed as priority cleanup sites, he said.

With the money for Berlin and Farro, the EPA is planning to spend some $18.2 million in "superfund" monies on 16 sites in the state during the 1983-84 fiscal year.

President Reagan has called for a supplemental appropriation of $50 million for the superfund and it should be approved.

A total of $22.6 million would be spent on some 20 sites in Michigan.

There are 44 total sites in Michigan now listed for cleanup on the superfund priority list, and Vanderlaan said that could be increased to 52 when the list is re-evaluated in May.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

According to this item Clem Webster had on the agenda at the country store Saturday night, Russia is making plans to put colonies on the Moon and Mars before the end of this century. This has got to come as good news for a lot of people. The Russian people feel the more Russians that can get out of Russia the better, the American people flatter the fewer Russians around to make trouble the better, and the Chinese people say this world ain't big enough for them and the Russians.

The fellers took a strong interest in Clem's report. Bug Hookum noted that weather has got to figure in this plan. No weather at all is better than what the Russians have got, and on the moon that's what they'll get. Another angle Bug sees is that this can't be a move by the Kremlin to send political prisoners to Mars instead of Siberia, no matter how hard it would be to escape up there, because then prisoners would have a better place to live than Moscow factory workers. What Russia probably will do, Bug allowed, is hold drawings like we do with state lotteries to decide who gets to go.

Zeke Grubb was agreed with Bug that we've got to take this news serious. Right now, Zeke said, somebody in Washington must be working on a plan to ship wheat to the colonies. Natural, we got to be first with the most hamburger and fried chicken stands to serve the weary travelers along the main space routes, Zeke said.

Practical speaking, broke in Clem Webster, the General Services Administration can make Russia a real deal on buildings for the colonies. Clem had saw recent where the U. S. Pavilion at the 1982 World's Fair had been sold to the highest bidder. It cost $12 million to put up and went for $1, Clem said, and now nobody in Knoxville can figure what to do with it. If Russia would give us what we got in it, Clem went on, we'd be glad to take care of shipping costs.

Serious, Clem declared, we got to think of what Russia's plans will do in the arms race that is a race to the finish if there ever was one. In the next defense budget we'll probably see billions for bases on Jupiter and Venus and other outposts so we can keep an eye on their arms buildup. When the Russians start laying claims to the planets, Clem said we got to be ready to defend the rights of self determination of anybody or anything that might be up there.

Before we jump in the saddle, and gallop off in all directions, Ed Doolittle said, we ought to remind ourselves folks don't allus think the way we think they think. For instant, Ed had saw where folks in Edgemont, S. D. don't think like anybody else about nuclear waste. Everybody else wants rid of it and they want it. They say they got plenty of land to handle a million cubic feet, and they need the 300 jobs a burying ground this size would mean to the town of 1,500.

Personal, I'm with Ed. I saw where one 1,000-year-old Viking sock found in England cost $1,200 to clean, which puts a hole new light on taking in wash, a job nobody wants.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.School Board April Meetings Are Rescheduled

April meeting dates for the Chelsea Board of Education have been scheduled for Monday, April 9, and Monday, April 23. This change was effected because of the schools' "spring break" occurring the first week in April.

Board meetings commence at 8 p.m. and are held in the Board Room of the Administration Building at the high school.

Bats are the only major predators of night-flying insects, and they're good at it too, say naturalists. A single gray bat may consume 3,000 or more insects during a night's feeding; and a single cave of free-tailed bats in Texas may eat 500,000 pounds of small insects nightly.

Barbara Boylan, Steven Lewis Married in St. Mary's Church

Barbara Lee Boylan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Keith L. Boylan of Chelsea, was married on Feb. 4 in St. Mary's Catholic church, Chelsea, to Steven David Lewis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Lewis of Waterford.

The Rev. Dr. Timothy Dombrowski, chaplain at St.

Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor, officiated.

Mary Frances Boylan of Chelsea, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Janet Boylan Hudkins of Virginia Beach, Va., sister of the bride, and Jane M. Lewis of East Lansing, sister of the bridegroom. James Morin of Allen, Tex., was best man. Groomsmen were John Plummer and William LaForge, both of Ann Arbor. Ushers were James K. Boylan of Kokomo, Ind., brothers of the bride, and Thomas A. Lewis of Waterford, brother of the bridegroom.

The bride wore a traditional gown of white silk taffeta with a long-line fitted bodice outlined with seed pearl trim. The dress had a scoop neckline and long sleeves with points at the wrist which were outlined with self ruffle and seed pearls. The full-gathered skirt ended in a chapel train.

The three-tier chapel veil was held in place by a halo of hand-fashioned taffeta roses which the bride designed. She carried a bouquet of three orchids surrounded with pink roses, white fuschia, baby's breath and ivy.

The maid of honor wore a floor-length dusty rose taffeta dress with deep-V neckline outlined with self ruffle, and puffed sleeves. The bridesmaids were attired in the same fashion. All of their bouquets were white fuschia, rose statice and ivy.

A reception was held at the Knights of Columbus Hall in Dexter. The couple honeymooned in Jamaica, and are living on Rush Lake Rd., Pinckney.

Mr. Lewis is employed at CAE, Hamburg. Mrs. Lewis works at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Ann Arbor.

Maxine Kushmaul Elected ABWA Woman of the Year

At the February meeting of the American Business Women's Association, Chelsea Charter Chapter elected Maxine Kushmaul as 1984 Woman of the Year. Maxine has been a member of ABWA since 1979 and has served as corresponding secretary, vice-president and currently is the treasurer for the group.

Other business recorded at the February meeting was that of making plans for the upcoming May 19 Fashion Show, the enrollment event which will be held on Saturday, March 10 and the group's involvement in the Chelsea Sesquicentennial activities.

K. of C. Auxillary Reports Business of March Meeting

Chelsea Knights of Columbus Auxillary considered several items of business during their March 8 meeting at the K. of C. hall.

It was reported that the Knights completed repair work on the hall refrigerator, and the auxillary noted to pay that expense.

The group decided against having an Easter egg hunt for St. Mary's Catholic church parish children.

The auxillary voted to form a chapter of the Belles for Chelsea's sesquicentennial celebration with Ellie Unterbrink in charge of organizing it.

The May membership pot-luck will be rescheduled because the mother-daughter banquet is scheduled for the same evening. The auxillary will hold its regular meeting after the banquet.

A committee to select the recipients of college scholarships was selected. It includes Nadine Koch, Patti Schick, and Joyce Manley. High school seniors who are sons or daughters of Knights are asked to fill out the scholarship forms.

Father David Phillip Dupius, St. Mary's church pastor, asked the auxillary to obtain a replacement for the U. S. flag on the church grounds. Hazel Dvorak would like to donate her late husband's flag for that purpose.

Lorraine Herrst announced that a trip to the race track is being planned for May.

Closing prayer was led by Sister Pat. Refreshments were served by Eileen Gondek and Sister Pat.

Landfill Rates

Cars, $3.
Station wagons and vans, minimum charge $3, interior contents up to $7.

Pick-up trucks, $7 for a load level with top of box, $2.50 for each foot over level load.

Packers, dump and stake trucks and trailers, $2.50 per measured cubic yard of material to be dumped.

Appliances of "white goods" (refrigerators, washer, dryers, water heaters, etc.), $7 per unit.
Tires (each), $2 car, $3 truck, $4 tractor.
Junk cars, $30.
Farm equipment per unit, $30.
Stumps per foot of diameter, $2.50.

Radloff and Keezer said the rates are "very similar" to those charged at other landfills in the area, including Ann Arbor's.

Even the village public works trucks whose crews periodically pick up tree trimmings, leaves and other waste materials as a convenience to residents will be charged at those rates. So will the contract haulers who make the twice-weekly household trash collection.

"That may seem strange," Radloff commented, "but it's the way we have to go to make the landfill self-supporting. Everybody, including the village, is going to have to pay something."

Trustees Radloff, Keezer, Richard Steele, Joe Merkel, Jerry Satterthwaite and Jeanene Riemenschneider all voted in favor of the package of landfill proposals. They weren't enthusiastic but indicated they had no other real choice.

New Pastor Serving First Assembly of God Church

There is no mistaking Phil Farnsworth's enthusiasm toward work, the community, and life in general.

Farnsworth, 36, brings that enthusiasm to both the ministry at the First Assembly of God church, to which he became Pastor in January, and to his new home, Chelsea.

Naturally, for someone with Farnsworth's ebullience one comes to expect an active mind that can only be satisfied by cultivating many interests. Indeed, he combines his boyish energy to serve his church and community with a certain business acumen.

As Farnsworth speaks, the meaning of his words belie the loud, almost forceful manner in which they're spoken. He chooses his words carefully, aware of subtlety and precision in language, especially as it relates to defining his role as a religious leader.

Farnsworth goes to some effort to make the distinction between, for instance, the names of Reverend and Pastor—he prefers being called a Pastor. The name Reverend, he says, doesn't have the same personal intimacy that he would like to encourage between himself and his congregation.

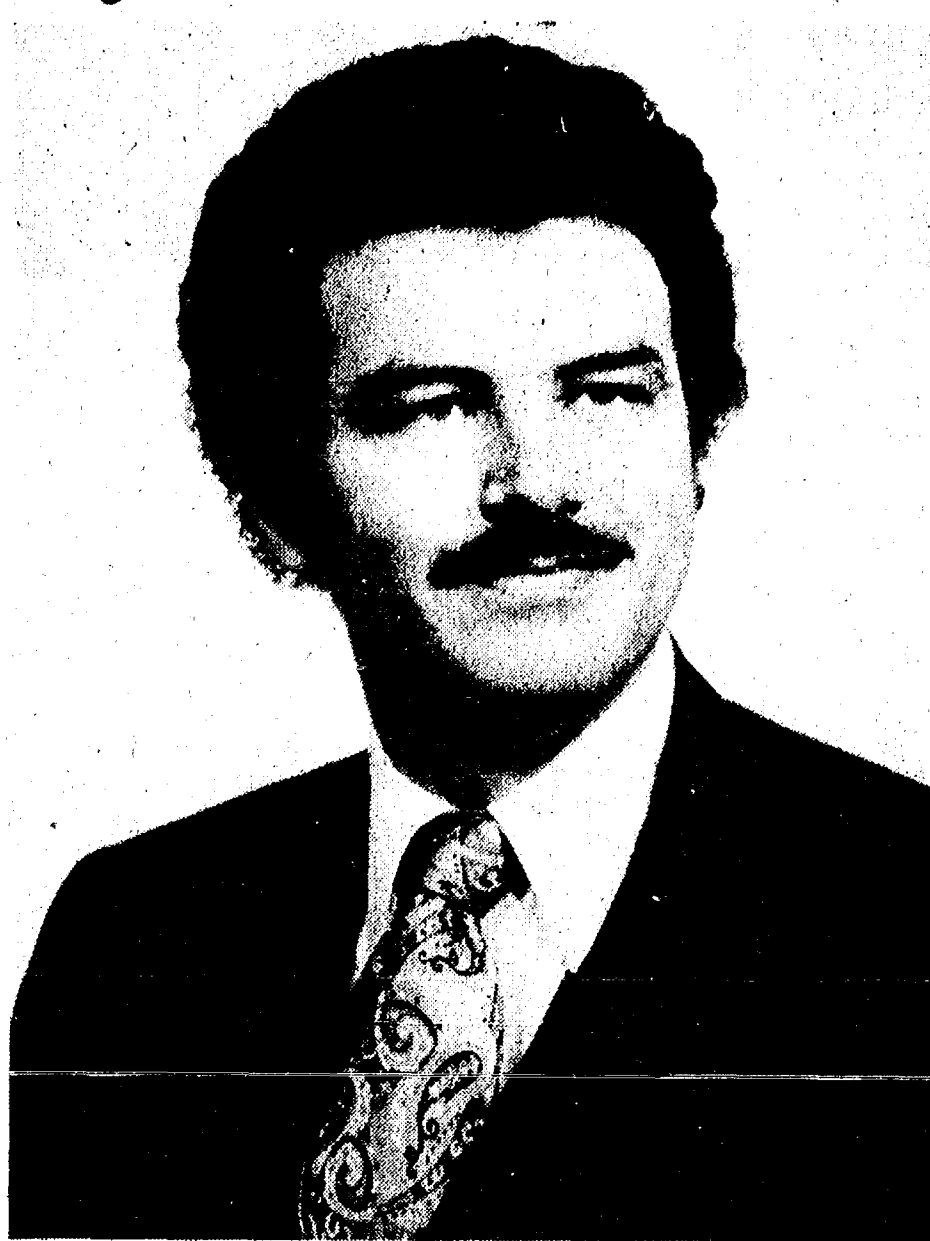

However, in the name Pastor, Farnsworth says, "is (meant) one who is involved with his people and his people are involved with him."

No stranger to small town life, Farnsworth was born in Caro, and has lived in other rural areas in Illinois, Iowa and Michigan. In fact, he says, tongue in cheek, that he's lived in towns even smaller than Chelsea.

Farnsworth finally settled his family, wife Donna, 27, and son, Nathan, 9, a fourth grader at North school, into their Chelsea home about three weeks ago. The Farnsworths are expecting a baby in July.

Already, Farnsworth is expressing pleasure about living in Chelsea and leading a new congregation. "I'm happy about Chelsea, because of the attitude of the people here," he says. "They are excited about the church being here."

In talking about his goals he hopes to accomplish, Farnsworth says, with characteristic intensity that's devoid of self-consciousness, that he wants to create "a family oriented ministry." This means, he adds, that the spiritual, physical and emotional needs—in all, the complete individual—will be addressed through his leadership, beginning with the young members.

REV. PHIL FARNSWORTH

Specifically, one of those goals, Farnsworth says, is for his church to be "viable in setting a mood in the community . . . that is, providing something for the young people."

Even though Farnsworth seems like he's about to be overcome by his own enthusiasm, he says, realistically, that it will take him about two years to really begin to be effective in the community.

A graduate of Olivet Nazarene College, in Kankakee, Ill., with a degree in business administration, Farnsworth is now working on completing his master of arts degree in education, at Trinity Theological Seminary, in Newburgh, Ind.

UCC Churches Share Mid-Week Lenten Services

First Congregational and St. Paul United Churches of Christ in Chelsea will again exchange churches for two mid-week Lenten services, a custom for the past three years.

On Wednesday, March 21, 7:30 p.m., the service will be held at First Congregational UCC, 121 E. Middle St., with Pastor Erwin Koch speaking. The following Wednesday, March 28, the service will be held at St. Paul church, 14600 Old US-12, with Interim Pastor Kenyon Edwards speaking.

After both services, a Coffee/Fellowship Hour will be held. The community is cordially invited.

Tyndale College Chorale Coming to Immanuel Church

The William Tyndale College Chorale will be in concert at Immanuel Bible church, 145 E. Summit St. Saturday, March 17, at 7 p.m.

The 35-voice choir, under the direction of Mark White, performs a finely balanced repertoire of sacred music including classical, traditional, spirituals and contemporary gospel. Also featured in their concerts is the Tyndale Singers, a seven-member team, which travels on behalf of the college year-round to churches, schools, camps and various other events.

The Chorale presents its musical ministry throughout the metropolitan Detroit area, many states and Canada.

William Tyndale College is a four-year, accredited, co-educational college of biblical, liberal arts and professional studies. The campus is located in Farmington Hills.

Dear Members, Friends and Future Members:

The Chelsea Area Historical Society is on the move to a goal which we've dreamed of for the future from the first meeting we ever had . . . year 1975.

News is good concerning the acquiring of the Chelsea Depot for a Historical Museum. The celebration this year of the Chelsea Sesquicentennial in June 1984 is also appropriate timing for this future project.

What do we need as we open our membership drive? We need members: new ones, and renewal of our past and present members.

We owe Lynda Longe a tribute for the pursuit of her tireless efforts to secure the depot for our use. Well done, Lynda. Thank you from all of the Society.

This is a good way for people who have moved into the area to get acquainted and to learn more of their new-found Chelsea.

We welcome visitors at all of our meetings, hoping we can have the best response ever in this 1984 drive. The regular meetings are the second Monday at 7:30 p.m. each month at the McKune Memorial Library unless indicated in The Chelsea Standard. Don't wait . . . Join us today.

Sincerely,
Hazel M. Dittmar

A VIEW from the CLOCK TOWER

Bill Mullendore

As I expected before interviewing the candidates in last Monday's village election, I found many more similarities than differences among them. Their backgrounds are varied, of course, but their perceptions of issues and problems generally are not. All were genuinely concerned about Chelsea's future, and wanted to help make it brighter and better.

(Bear in mind that this View from the Clock Tower column was written before the election, and thus without knowing who won.)

The impression I got from the interviews was that all candidates were qualified to serve in the positions they were seeking, and that village government would be in good hands in any outcome of the voting. As a news reporter who is also a Chelsea resident, I felt pretty good about the future of this town.

All the candidates expressed earnest, sincere willingness to take on civic duties that will occupy a lot of their time with very little tangible reward in terms of hard cash. Village electoral posts don't begin to pay off in money.

As one of the candidates for village president told it, "I figure I have been getting about 15 cents an hour for the time I've put in serving on the council. If I'm elected president, the rate might go up to 20 cents."

That was an exaggeration, but not by much. Serving in village government, like serving on a board of education, is largely a labor of love and dedication. It's something you have to want to do because you believe in the importance of doing it.

In no way am I suggesting that the people who volunteer to take on the chores of local government should be paid enough to make the jobs attractive from the standpoint of making money. The next-to-last thing Chelsea needs is a bunch of highly paid elected officials.

The very last thing the village needs is career politicians whose principal interest is perpetuating themselves in office as a way of earning a living, and I use the word "earning" with a considerable dose of skepticism.

The United States Congress and the Michigan Legislature stand out as horrible examples of what can happen when politicians become enamored with an inflated sense of their own importance and decide they should work at their elected jobs full time at high salaries.

Congress can't deal with the problem of out-of-control budget deficits, because its members can't face the realities of cutting costs. To do so would jeopardize their chances for re-election and thus their juicy monetary rewards—salaries, expense accounts, the other perks of office which add up to a lot. The best way to insure re-election is to keep the federal money flowing to constituents and don't do anything that might offend anybody, like reducing or cutting off the cash. Never mind that the U. S. Treasury is essentially broke and is maintaining itself with money borrowed at exorbitant interest rates. Any private enterprise in a similar situation would either declare bankruptcy or go out of business.

The fact that the president of the United States not only condones but contributes to the financially irresponsible operation makes it even worse. He, too, wants to stay in office, and never mind the costs.

I worked in Lansing as a state capitol news reporter during the transition year of 1963-64 when the Legislature made up its collective mind that what Michigan really needed was a full-time lawmaking body whose members would be paid big bucks. They passed the necessary enabling acts, and their successors have made raising their own salaries and expense allowances a first order of business at every session since.

I'm old enough to remember when Michigan had a part-time Legislature which met for about three months out of the year, did its necessary work, and adjourned. I am open to argument on the issue, but my firm belief is that the state was better governed back then than it is today. Certainly the costs were a whole lot less.

That brings me back, in a kind of round-about way, to my initial point, which is simply that the kind of government we have in Chelsea is the best kind. People volunteer to serve by putting their names on the ballot. They don't make a big deal out of doing it. They don't spend bags of money trying to get elected. They don't go out and make speeches promising miracles that can't possibly be achieved.

What they do is submit their names and credentials for voter approval, and assure they will do their best if elected. They are honest, sincere people who want to serve their fellow citizens and aren't out there for the sake of trying to make a dollar.

I am grateful to both the winners and losers in last Monday's election. To the former, whoever they turn out to be, congratulations. To the latter, condolences, and thanks for trying. We citizens salute all of you for having recognized the necessity for responsible leadership, and making yourselves available for us to choose from.

Prearranging The Funeral... A Very Special Expression of Love

DONALD A. COLE
Director

Just like buying life insurance and making a will, prearranging the funeral is expressing love for your family in a very special way. It's doing something now that will mean so much later. Those left behind will know that everything is being done exactly as you wanted it. And that's truly a blessing.

Visit Cole-Burghardt Chelsea Funeral Chapel this week for complete information on prearranging the funeral. No charge, or obligation, of course.

Steve Gonser To Present Program On Egypt in Kiwanis Series Finale

Steve Gonser will present the final program in this year's travel and adventure series sponsored by the Chelsea Kiwanis Club. He will lecture and show films on "Egypt" at 8 p.m. Saturday in the high school auditorium.

Gonser has traveled extensively throughout the United States and several foreign countries in a quest for knowledge and adventure. He has captured on film the vitality of people at work and play, as well as the inspiring beauty of nature.

He was born and raised in Marion, Ind., and still makes it his home. After earning an undergraduate degree from Marion College, he received his master of arts degree in education from Ball State University in Muncie, Ind. He taught in the public schools for 10 years before entering the film lecture field.

Gonser's film on Egypt includes some of the following pictorial experiences:

Cruise the Nile River in a traditional sailing boat. Enjoy the river scenery of fertile fields and date orchards. The Nile is Egypt's lifeline.

In Alexandria, stroll the beaches, explore the harbor and El Morse Mosque, Mantajah Palace, Pompey's Pillar and the Alexandrian lighthouse. See a local soccer game in progress.

On the Sinai Peninsula, Bedouins gather at an oasis. In the Monastery of St. Catherine, priceless art treasures are displayed. In Cairo visit market and mosque, university and museum, and fabulous Pyramid of Giza.

Luxor is famous for the temples of Luxor, Karnak, the camel market, and the Colosseus of Memnon. Close by, the Valley of the Kings is the final resting place of King Tutankamen or King "Tut."

Meet a typical Egyptian family. Learn about life in Egypt up close and personal. Walk the bazaars, alleyways, tiny shops and along the banks of an ancient river with knowledgeable guide.

Parenting Skills Seminars Slated at Chelsea Hospital

While her mother went to walk the dog, four-year-old Lisa took a pair of scissors to her mother's wool skirt and began cutting it up to make doll clothes. When Lisa's mother returned to find her skirt looking more like the scraps on the floor of a tailor shop than a wearable garment, she flew into a rage.

Meanwhile, Lisa left a trail of tears as she marched to her bedroom to serve time for her apparent misdeed.

Dr. Mary Westhoff, a Chelsea pediatrician, is giving a series of four seminars later this month for parents of toddler and preschoolers who are trying to understand their children's needs and how to respond to problematic situations like the one Lisa and her mother experienced.

Dr. Westhoff, formerly chief resident in the Pediatric Program at the University of Michigan who has been in private practice in Chelsea for little over a year, will attempt to make parents sensitive to various aspects of parenting during these crucial years—ages 2 to 5.

Each seminar will highlight a different area which may prove troublesome or confusing to the average parent.

The first week will discuss the child's need for independence, the desire to take initiative, and, above all, the child's need to feel safe.

The second week will address different approaches to discipline, and to emphasize that discipline is an integral part of

North Lake Co-Op Pre-School Seeks More Members

North Lake Co-operative Pre-school will be starting a new type of program for the coming 1984-85 school year. Though still basically a co-operative, one-third of the membership will be open for non-participating families.

A full participating co-op member assists two to three times per month in the classroom, attends an orientation meeting in August, attends two general membership meetings per year, fulfills a job assignment, attends one-half of all scheduled field trips, and supports fund-raising efforts. This membership option offers the lowest tuition rate.

A non-participating member attends an orientation meeting in August and supports fund raisers. These members pay a higher rate to enable the pre-school to hire teacher assistants to fill the classroom assisting slots in order to maintain present co-op programs.

As in the past, a co-op parent may opt to hire a current member or board-approved non-member to work their assigned classroom assist days and field trip days.

The three-year-old sessions are Tuesday and Thursday mornings from 9 to 11:30. Enrollment in additional morning or afternoon classes is available on an individual basis at the discretion of the teacher.

Four-year-old sessions are available Monday, Wednesday and Friday mornings from 9 to 11:30, and Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday through Friday from 12:30-3. Any combination of morning and/or afternoon sessions may be elected.

Registration has begun for the fall. New members will be able to enroll, beginning April 1. Class observations for prospective members has begun.

For more information, interested parties should contact Nanette Cooper, 475-3229.

Cub Scout Pack Holds Blue & Gold Banquet

North school's Cub Scout Pack 435 held its annual Blue and Gold banquet Feb. 28, at Beach school, which was attended by 238 guests.

The evening's theme was jungle tales, as the table favors consisted of stick-trees with pipe cleaner monkeys. Dorothy Hafner baked and decorated a cake with the design of a hut on stilts. Hafner's son, Joey, is a Webelo.

The opening ceremonies were conducted by Den 12, and the benediction was given by the Rev. David Truran, of First United Methodist church.

The guest of honor for the festivities was Bill Baker, district camping promotion director, whose great-nephew, Vincent Stahl, is a member of Den 11. Special guests also included Tomi Vaillencourt, assistant district commissioner of the Boy Scouts, and his wife, Phyllis. Pack 435's sponsor, VFW 4076, was represented by Ken and Lucy Platt.

After a pot-luck dinner, a movie on the legendary Paul Bunyan was shown.

Bud Guest To Speak At County Ag Banquet

The 1984 Washtenaw County Agricultural Banquet, sponsored by the Washtenaw Dairy-Livestock Council will be held Thursday, March 29 at 7 p.m. at Chelsea High School.

The dinner serving line will open at 6:45 p.m. for those early arrivals. The dinner will feature two meats and all the trimmings. Providing dinner music will be two of the RFD Boys.

After dinner, the group will convene in the auditorium for the program. This year's featured speaker will be Edgar A. Guest, Jr., better known as "Bud." For 36 years, the warm, friendly down-home voice of Bud Guest was heard throughout the mid-west over the NBC affiliate radio station WJR in Detroit. His program, "On the Sunny Side of the Street," has brightened the morning of thousands of listeners as they did chores, drove to work, or enjoyed that second cup of coffee after getting the rest of the family out of the house.

Bud has also been generating laughter among banquet audiences for more than two decades and his popularity continues to grow each year. He has delighted audiences from Toronto to Chicago to Albuquerque to Atlanta, as well as those in virtually every city, village and hamlet throughout Michigan, Ohio, Indiana and Ontario, Canada. Hearing him has been described by many as a warm, wonderful, inspiring experience.

The night will be topped off with the awarding of the many door prizes donated by the agribusinesses in Washtenaw county.

Tickets are available from the following Dairy-Livestock Council members:

Chelsea Area—Ralph McCalla, Reuben Lesser, Jr., Lloyd Grau, Loren Heller.

YOUR BACK & YOUR HEALTH

DR. W. ATKINSON
DIRECTOR

Shoes may be clue to health problems

When a vertebra is pulled out of position, it can easily interfere with the function of the nerves which branch out from between the vertebrae. The nerves, of course, are the communications lines between the body organs and the brain. Nerve interference can result in an interference with the function of an organ.

If this situation goes on uncorrected, another condition can develop. The body produces a signal that warns of the presence of the original trouble, the vertebra being out of place and the resulting difficulties. The warning can show up as something quite different, such as fatigue, sleeplessness or susceptibility to various types of illness.

You wouldn't want your children's back problems to go on unaided and perhaps turn into something else equally unpleasant or maybe worse. Here's one test you can use. Look at the heels of your child's shoes. If one is appreciably more worn than the other, especially toward the outside, you are looking at one of the more common indicators of back or posture problems. The recommended next step is to schedule a chiropractic examination for your child. Your chiropractor, because he is specifically trained for this, can quickly tell you the degree of the problem and what corrective measures should be taken.

Three Winners Named In Essay Contest

Three students from Beach Middle school, Chelsea, have been named local winners in the 15th annual America & Me Essay Contest, sponsored by Farm Bureau Insurance Group.

The three, who earned the first, second- and third-place awards for their school, are Kristi Jachalke, first; Peter Young, second; and Kristina Steffenson, third.

All three received award certificates for their achievement.

Kristi's first-place essay now advances to the state level competition, from which the top 10 essays in Michigan will be selected.

The top 10 state-wide winners, who will be announced in March, will receive plaques and U.S. savings bonds ranging in value from $200 to $1,000, totaling $4,000 in prizes for the top 10 essayists. In addition, the top 10 winners will be honored at a banquet in Lansing and a meeting with Michigan's top governmental leaders.

A team of finalist judges that includes Gov. James Blanchard and Lt. Gov. Martha Griffiths will determine the top state-wide winners.

Several thousand 8th grade students from nearly 500 Michigan schools participated in the 1983-84 America & Me Essay Contest, which was conducted with the help of Farm Bureau Insurance agents across the state.

The topic of the 1983-84 contest was "Why America Needs Me."

Started in 1968 and open to all Michigan 8th grade students, the contest encourages Michigan youngsters to explore their roles in America's future.

As sponsor of the contest, Farm Bureau Insurance Group has earned 11 national awards from the Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge.

Gospel Entertainers Coming To Free Methodist Church

Laughing and crying are not often heard together. When they are, it is usually because something very special has happened. J. C. Commonwealth presents a very special program.

You may well ask who is J. C. Commonwealth. Well, they are a group of Christians who seek to spread the Gospel through drama. They present a fast-paced, entertaining, often hilarious program full of life and spiced with piercing moments of spiritual truth. The group is currently engaged in a 10-week tour which will bring them to Chelsea.

During the last five years, J. C. Commonwealth has performed before thousands of people in churches, camps, coffeehouses, high schools, and colleges with a program that speaks to all ages and denominations. The material used by J. C. Commonwealth is all original. The writer and director of the group, James Mulholland, has compiled over six hours of material broken down into short skits. These skits deal with many different issues, problems, and situations faced by the modern Christian. In writing the material, Mulholland draws on Bible stories and parables, current issues, and personal experience.

Mulholland uses ordinary characters in the sketches so that the audience will be able to relate to them. The person on stage that you are laughing at could be just like your next-door neighbor, or even like yourself. J. C. Commonwealth uses these skits in an effort to encourage the audience to take a closer look at themselves and their surroundings. They will cause you to laugh, to cry, and to experience a special time.

The spring touring group consists of group manager, F. Shelby Buntin, from Nashville, Tenn.; John Thompson, Neoga, Ill.; Jay Flisk, Quincy, Ill.; Paula Harmon, Columbus, Ind. They are all students or graduates of Greenville College in Greenville, Ill., with whom J. C. Commonwealth is associated.

J. C. Commonwealth will be performing at the Chelsea Free Methodist church, located at 7665 Werkner Rd., Chelsea on Sunday, March 18, at 6 p.m. The public is invited to share in this unique and vibrant ministry.

Democrats Will Choose Convention Delegates

On Saturday, March 17, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., Democrats in Michigan will join their counterparts in Iowa, New Hampshire, Maine, and some other states in going to the polls to determine the make-up of Michigan's delegation to the Democratic National Convention which this summer will decide who runs for President.

For the first time in eight years, Michigan Democrats can have a voice in the presidential nomination by simply going to a polling station and casting a ballot.

Though referred to as "caucuses," the ballot stations throughout the county require of the voter no more than is usually involved in voting in any election. To participate, a Democrat needs to appear at his or her polling site some time between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m., sign a ledger, and fill out and cast a ballot for one of the presidential candidates.

"It is not necessary to be a party member, or to pay dues, or to demonstrate party loyalty, or to have always voted Democratic, or to be on any Democratic 'list,' in order to vote," say Democratic Party leaders in Washtenaw county. Voters must only be willing to sign a statement saying they are Democrats. This would include almost anyone who would ordinarily expect to vote in a Democratic Primary election.

To vote March 17 it is necessary to be a registered voter in the precinct assigned to the polling station at which you vote. Persons under 18 who will be eligible to be registered by Nov. 6, 1984 (Presidential election day), may still vote March 17 even though they are not now registered.

The results of the March 17 balloting will determine the proportion of the Michigan delegation which will be pledged to each of the presidential candidates at the national convention. In addition the local results will determine the number of delegates for each presidential candidate to be elected from each congressional district.

No actual delegates will be chosen March 17. The election of delegates will take place in congressional district conventions throughout the state April 14.

Washtenaw county coordinator for the presidential preference voting is Sheila Cumberworth. Further information may be obtained by calling her at 761-4151.

Washtenaw county polling sites in this area are as follows. Saline city and township, Bridgewater, Freedom, Lodi: UAW Local 892, 211 Monroe, Saline.

Milan city, Augusta, York townships: Lincoln Consolidated High school, 7425 Willis Rd. Dexter, Lima, Scio, Webster townships: Scio Township Hall, 827 N. Zeeb Rd.

Lyndon, Manchester, Sharon, Sylvan townships: UAW Local 437, 218 S. Main St., Chelsea.

Snake venom is not only being used to aid people bit by snakes, it's becoming a valuable substance to make new drugs, scientists report. Viper venom, for instance, is being used to make anti-coagulants that can dissolve blood clots.

Waterloo 'Sheriff' Arrested By Wild Woolly Townsmen

Thursday, March 8, at the Waterloo Townhall, a meeting of the Waterloo Lillies and Sod-busters was rudely interrupted by an appearance of the Wild Woolly Townsmen or drinkers or stinkers, or whatever they go by.

As may be expected, these ruffians shoved their way into the peaceful meeting and arrested the newly appointed sheriff, John Klink.

It goes without saying that retaliation will be swift and sure, as soon as the new sheriff forms a posse and frees himself of the handcuffs.

State Licensed Lottery To Benefit Sesquicentennial

Chelsea Jaycees are sponsoring a raffle to benefit the Sesquicentennial Celebration which will be held this summer. This lottery is licensed by the State of Michigan. The tickets are for sale at several local merchants and through any committee member. Ticket stubs and monies are to be returned to Gloria Mitchell at 124 Park St. or Nadine Koch at the Citizens Trust. If you wish more tickets call Gloria Mitchell at 475-3488. All tickets sold or unsold need to be returned to the above mentioned women by March 27.

★ Self Fulfillment Through Achievement ...

As professional educators we try to instill in the students the idea that by achieving one gains in psychic income. Many of life's most fulfilling experiences result from personal achievement. The exhilaration derived from achieving a worthwhile goal is seldom matched by any other human experience.

The "joy of excelling" is a driving force behind success in school, business, sports, human relationships, and living our daily lives.

Achievement in life results from successes, stages of personal growth for the individual. Personal growth is the building instinct embedded in our subconscious minds. The desire for growth, both mentally and emotionally, has only to surface and be experienced for its momentum to begin to start. When this desire to achieve is unleashed, a life-long thirst for greater and greater satisfaction occurs.

Cumulative personal growth represents humanity's highest form of self fulfillment. Mental appetite for self fulfillment, on the other hand, grows stronger as it is satisfied. As we succeed in growing, our desire for more personal growth accelerates.

Each of us should perform a personal audit of our growth. If we see ourselves far along toward that life we hope to attain, our sense of self satisfaction is fulfilling.

What is the ultimate objective of all this effort toward self fulfillment through achievement? Why bother to pay the price required in sacrifice of leisure time and the self-discipline to excel in our professional and personal lives? The answer lies in the significant contribution each of us can make toward the improvement of the organizations we represent, the industry we serve, the economic system we support, the generations of which we are a part in the world in which we live. It is not the fast tempo of modern life that kills, but the boredom and lack of strong interests and a failure to grow that destroy. Those who continue to share in the joy of excelling are fortunate.

Area Students Earn Degrees At Mich. State

Michigan State University has announced its list of degree candidates who were to be graduated at the completion of the winter semester, which ends March 16.

The following are the names and degrees of area residents.

Karla J. Hutchins, of Dexter, with a bachelor of science in animal husbandry; Brian E. Schultz, of Pinckney, bachelor of science in mechanical engineering, with honors; Martin P. Allen, of Gregory, bachelor of science in physical science; Malinda Hudkins, of Manchester, master of arts in health and physical education; Michael Vandeven, of Manchester, bachelor of arts in social science; David Lebow, of Pinckney, bachelor of science in computer science; Steven Makowski, of Pinckney, bachelor of science in electrical engineering; Michael Mulcrone, of Pinckney, bachelor of science in civil engineering; and Teresa Novak, of Pinckney, bachelor of science in animal husbandry.

Commencement exercises were held March 10, at Michigan State University Auditorium, in East Lansing.

School Board Notes

Present at a regular meeting of the Chelsea Board of Education on Monday, March 5, were: Schumann, Heller, Dils, Grau, Feeney, Comeau, Redding, Superintendent Van Meer, Assistant Superintendent Mills, Principals Williams, Conklin, Assistant Principal Vogel, guests.

Meeting called to order at 8 p.m. by President Dale Schumann.

Board approved the minutes of the Feb. 20 meeting.

President Schumann presented certificates of appreciation to Dr. and Mrs. Michael Smith, North school parents, and to the Rev. John Morris. Dr. and Mrs. Smith have, for the past two years, donated all first-aid supplies to North school. They have also supplied the school with medical kits and ice bags. The Rev. Morris, an ardent supporter of the district's music programs, was recognized for his eight years of service as the high school band's "master of ceremonies" at the microphone during the football games.

Assistant Superintendent Mills reviewed with the board the June 11 annual school election. Two four-year terms—those of Ann Feeney and Lloyd Grau—will expire June 30. A candidate will also be voted upon for a two-year term—the unexpired term of former board member Dr. Daniel Snyder, who was replaced by the appointment of Joseph Redding. Petitions must be filed by 4 p.m., April 9. Board of Education candidates may withdraw only by filing written notice of withdrawal, signed by the candidate, by 4 p.m., Thursday, April 12.

It was reported that petitions have been taken over by board members Feeney, Grau and Redding. Ann Feeney will be a candidate for the two-year term; Lloyd Grau and Joseph Redding will be candidates for the two four-year terms.

The board approved the appointment of Frederick A. Mills as election administrator for the June 11 annual school election.

The board adopted the five-year maintenance millage review plan, subject to annual review.

The Board Finance Committee reported that a meeting will be held March 13 to review the 1984-85 budget.

Superintendent Van Meer updated the board on the progress achieved toward Board of Education 1983-84 goals.

Superintendent Van Meer presented to the board a legislative update. The big legislative issue being discussed in Lansing is the potential rollback of the income tax. The first rollback was effective Jan. 1, 1984, with the second rollback scheduled for Jan. 1, 1985. Currently, because of the reshuffling of the Senate due to change in power in the Senate effected by recall and subsequent elections, legislators are attempting to accelerate the rollback. The Governor has indicated that if legislators pass a rollback prior to Oct. 1, he will immediately issue executive orders which will have an effect on the Michigan public school systems.

Superintendent Van Meer reported on progress of the Committee for Educational Excellence, a recently established committee set up for the purpose of improving the quality of education.

Superintendent Van Meer updated the board on the matter of Beach and North School principalship candidates. Two candidates from outside the system have been invited to interview with the interview committee and the Board of Education on March 19.

Teachers Peg Moore and Marie Crouch were in attendance and informed the board that the North School students in grades K-5 had been participating in a Young Author Program, and that on the morning of March 29 an Ann Arbor author will be at North school to meet with the students and present awards.

The board recessed to executive session to hear a personnel matter at 8:45 p.m. The board convened in public session at 11 p.m.

Meeting adjourned at 11:31 p.m.

Chelsea Charms Compete In Contest at Carleton

Fourteen Chelsea Charms went to Carleton March 3 to compete in a Twirling Unlimited open contest.

Tracey Wales, 9, won top honors in modelling. This first-place award made a total of five first places in beginner modelling which moves Tracey into the advanced model category. She is the first Chelsea girl to compete in advanced modelling.

Chrissy Dunlap, 10, took second place in modelling. Other Charms placing in model were Kori White, Winston Howard, Danielle Clark and Amy Weir.

In the military strut category, the Charms topped most of the age groups with first-place wins by Winston Howard, Kristen Clark, Heather Wynn, and Chrissy Dunlap. Second place honors went to Danielle Clark, Tracey Wales, Josie Krzeczowski, Christine Burg and Kate Neal.

Heather Wynn took first place in beginner basic strut, while Tracey Wales captured the win in advanced basic strut. Second-place awards went to Nikke Schultz, Kim Cundiff and Amy Weir.

The intermediate solo title went to Amy Weir. Placing high in beginner solos were Kate Neal, Josie Krzeczowski, Tracey Wales, Kim Cundiff, Winston Howard, Danielle Clark and Kristen Clark. Kori White placed high in both advanced solo and fancy strut.

Bulldog Swimmers Finish 12th in State

Bulldog swimmers broke 13 varsity records over two days of competition and gained another all-state performer in the process this past week-end at Eastern Michigan University.

The team had six swimmers and two divers participating in the meet. Seven Bulldogs ended up medalling.

Mark Westhoven exceeded all expectations by coming within nine points of getting a medal in diving. Kraig Leach had some difficulty in diving on Friday in the preliminaries but dove much better in the semi-finals and finals on Saturday to finish fifth and be voted all-state for the second year in succession.

The Southeastern Conference has only three schools with swimming but proved to be the toughest conference in the state with Milan finishing first with 143 points, Chelsea 12th with 41 points and Lincoln 25th with five points. More than 100 schools have Class B-C-D swimming and some 60 were represented at the state.

Chelsea began its record-breaking week-end with a 200-yard medley relay time of 1:42.41. The old record, 1:42.6, was set in 1981. During that relay performance Ted Merkel broke his own school record in the 50-yard breaststroke with a 28.15 split (old record 28.78), and Steve Ramsey demolished the 50-yard freestyle split record with a 21.65 (old record 22.4). In the finals, all four swimmers had lifetime bests and Merkel and Ramsey rebroke their records resulting in a collective new record of 1:41.37. Splits were as follows: Craig Miller 27.16, Merkel 27.95 (record), Brent Bauer 24.62, and Ramsey 21.64 (record). The result was the fifth fastest time in the meet and the 10th fastest time in the history of the state meet.

Chelsea had three lifetime bests and two varsity records in its next event, the 50-yard freestyle. Don Skiff went a lifetime best 22.97 but it was not fast enough to place. Steve Ramsey, who was seeded 31st coming into the event, broke the varsity record with a time of 22.28 and qualified ninth. In the finals he broke another record with a time of 22.27, finishing eighth.

In the 100-yard freestyle Don Skiff swam Chelsea's third fastest 100-yard freestyle ever with a lifetime best 50.91. Once again that did not qualify for the finals.

In the 100-yard backstroke Craig Miller swam his second fastest 100-yard backstroke ever with a 1:00.24. It did not place.

The 100-yard breaststroke was next and Ted Merkel was seeded 16th but qualified 12th with a varsity record 1:03.97. In the finals, Merkel moved up to 9th place with another varsity record 1:03.77.

In the meet's final event, the 400-yard freestyle relay, Chelsea once again broke a varsity record with four lifetime best swimmers, resulting in a ninth place qualifying position and another varsity record. The relay was seeded 16th coming into the meet, Bauer led off with a time of 51.08 (previous best 52.7), Ramsey 50.62 (previous best 53.9), Skiff 50.24 (previous best 50.6) and Jeff Nemeth 50.02 (freshman record) (previous best 52.44). The overall time 3:21.95 broke another

SEC ROUND-UP:

Saline Bows in Final, Others Lose Early

Last week wasn't a good one in district tournament basketball for Southeastern Conference teams.

Among the six SEC schools, only Saline managed to beat anybody. The Hornets made a courageous showing before bowing to the inevitable in losing to super-talented Willow Run, the top-ranked Class B team in the state.

Chelsea, Dexter, Lincoln, Milan and Tecumseh all lost their opening tournament games.

Chelsea and Dexter both were knocked out by Jackson Lumen Christi, the eventual winner in the district tournament played at Chelsea. The Titans from the Jackson parochial school were just plain too big to handle. Opponents wore themselves out trying.

With three 6-7 front-liners, including one who is considered good enough to play at DePaul University, Lumen Christi was able to control the tempo during the late stages of games.

Tecumseh found Columbia Central too tough and lost by 14.

Lincoln had the misfortune to draw Willow Run in its first-round game in the southeast district tournament played at Milan. The Railsplitters are quick and shoot well, but proved no match for the Flyers, who breezed to a 91-62 victory.

The shocker of the districts was Saline's 49-45 victory over Milan on the latter's home court. The Big Reds, who had clinched the SEC championship, ended their season on a couple of sour notes, three-year-old record. In the finals Bauer improved to a 50.83, Ramsey 49.36 (his seventh school record in two days), Skiff 50.49 and Nemeth anchored in 50.46. The result was Chelsea's 13th varsity record of the meet, 3:21.15.

Chelsea had 18 points on seeds entering the meet and was about 20th in the standings. After Friday's preliminaries they had 32 points and were 15th over-all.

On Saturday they improved to their final 41 points and 12th in the state.

Chelsea finished its season with eight wins and three losses in dual meets, three invitational firsts and one second.

losing the final game of the league tournament and then dropping the district opener.

The latter loss was disappointing enough to Milan's veteran coach, Ron Dingman, that he didn't deny rumors he may quit coaching. Other sources around the league suggested that Dingman will get over the hurt and continue.

Saline's win over Milan and a subsequent 54-43 victory over Carleton Airport further established the notion around the SEC that the Hornets will be the team to beat next year.

Actually, Saline played very well against Willow Run before bowing, 74-51. The Hornets played the Flyers dead even for nine minutes before Willow Run ran off 12 straight points and coasted home. The Flyers' 74-point total was about 20 under their season average, which suggests that Saline plays good defense.

Saline's varsity includes no seniors. All members of the squad that was 8-14 on the season will be back next year. The young, inexperienced Hornets lost their first seven games, then improved rapidly and posted an 8-7 record the rest of the way.

Saline's junior varsity team was 17-2 on the season. That caused one rival SEC coach, who asked to remain anonymous, to suggest that the toughest decisions Hornet coach Ken Sippell will have to make next season are picking his varsity squad and deciding on a starting lineup.

IT FEELS LIKE HOME: A woman at Chelsea United Methodist Retirement Home's new ward for severe dementia patients, waters flowers. The new ward highlights individual care in a home-like environment.

MANUAL DEXTERITY is developed by a woman in the new program to treat dementia at the Chelsea Methodist Retirement Home. Baking cakes and crocheting are just some of the activities residents with severe dementia take part in.

Conrail Raises Lease Fees For Village Utility Easements

Conrail is jacking up the fees it charges the village of Chelsea for easements which permit utility crossings under the railroad right-of-way through town. Annual cost of the six easements for which the village now pays a total of $88 a year will go to $600 annually under the "take it or leave it" terms being dictated by Consolidated Rail Corp. (Conrail) from its headquarters in Philadelphia.

Present fees range from $5 to $25 a year per easement. Conrail will charge a minimum fee of $100 each from now on, an increase of $22.

As part of its demand, Conrail wants the village to pay an additional $258.32 in "rent" to settle accounts through the rest of 1984. The difference between that amount and the $522 in added annual payments is that the present leases will expire at various times during the year, and the higher fees cannot be charged until they run out.

Conrail did offer the village an option. It can buy out each lease permanently with a one-time payment of $2,000, or $12,000 in all.

A letter to the village council from C. E. Wogan, Conrail general manager for contracts, defended the steep increases by saying that the railroad has a "continuing mandate to become cost effective in all areas" and that "we therefore find it necessary to increase these charges to recover our out-of-pocket costs."

President Jack Merkel and members of the village council were not at all happy with either the tone or content of the Conrail letter but reluctantly agreed informally that there is little they can do but pay the higher bill.

"They've got us by the throat," one trustee said. "We either pay or they can cut off some of our sewer and water lines where they go under the railroad tracks. We have to maintain those services."

It was suggested that, in the future, the village may be less tolerant of long traffic stoppages created by Conrail trains which block N. Main St. for as long as 20 minutes at a time. A law prohibits blocking a crossing for more than five minutes, but it is seldom enforced.

"If they want to get tough we can, too," a council member said. "We might collect enough in fines to pay the $600 a year, and then some."

Council took no action, pending further study of the matter by its public works committee composed of trustees Herman Radloff and Jerry Satterthwaite. The committee will look into the

Methodist Home Pioneering Program To Treat Dementia

Mary was telling how she had gone out earlier in the morning to retrieve the newspaper and then read it all. It was an accomplishment.

Meanwhile, Joan, who stood next to Mary, stared down at the floor saying in a faint whisper, "paper, paper," while another woman stroked her arm.

Larry was sitting in a chair peacefully reading a magazine, although he didn't know the name of the magazine nor did he seem to understand what he was reading.

People like Mary, Joan and Larry had a hard time going to the bathroom or finding their way to the kitchen.

All of these people (not their real names) suffer from some form of dementia, which afflicts the elderly. In November, the Chelsea United Methodist Retirement Home, along with the Institute of Gerontology at the University of Michigan, started a research program aimed at giving these patients more individual attention and a home-like atmosphere in which to live.

Dementia victims have a number of symptoms including disorientation, memory loss, a tendency to wander and they have difficulty understanding the meaning of objects. Dementia—also associated with Alzheimer's disease—is an irreversible neurological disease which results in decreased mental functioning.

The program includes 11 residents from the home, who, according to surveys submitted to staff employees and after tests by the medical staff, were considered to have the lowest level of mental functioning.

Before Larry came into the program he was afraid to leave his room because he'd never know where he was. Everything seemed foreign and strange to him. Every time he would leave his room he would become scared.

Now, Larry participates in activities and performs certain functions such as helping set the table, folding his own towels and going to the bathroom on his own. Above all, though, Larry now feels more secure.

The 11 who were chosen to participate in the program, said Catherine Durkin, administrator at the Chelsea United Methodist Retirement Home, have a special living area in which remodeling was done to suit the needs of these patients. The money was provided by church organizations and private individuals, Durkin added.

In all, the floor for severe dementia patients is a self-contained living area with its own kitchen, living and dining rooms and individual bedrooms.

Ostensibly, the ward looks like any other residential living area. But there are differences.

For instance, the bathrooms are color contrasted so patients will be able to discern between the toilet and the floor. The women's bathroom walls are yellow and the toilets are a sharp blue. Above the door to the bathroom in the hall is an orange paper canopy so patients will be able to identify where the bathroom is.

The kitchen cupboards are labeled so patients will know where, for instance, to find a knife or a dish.

Durkin explained that the goals of this program are essentially to enhance these patients' quality of life. Specifically, Durkin said, it is to see whether these patients can increase self-initiated activities and learn to interact with others.

Thus far, Durkin is optimistic about how the program has progressed.

Cindy (not her real name) was living at home for three days unaware that her husband had died. She was brought to the United Methodist Retirement Home where she spoke only one or two words and wandered aimlessly through the halls. Sometimes, Cindy would talk about her childhood in West Virginia.

Now, Durkin said, Cindy is social and talks in sentences and performs certain kitchen duties.

The reason for patients like Cindy and Larry's improvement, Durkin said, is because these patients are in a smaller, special environment, with an adequate staff and structured activities.

Unlike the other residents at the United Methodist Retirement Home, dementia patients receive highly individualized attention. There is, for instance, a nursing attendant on the floor all the time.

The key to the program's success, Durkin said, is individual attention and the home-like atmosphere.

A typical day for these 11 patients begins with waking up and making their own breakfast—in some cases, individuals may need the assistance of the nursing attendant. Going to the bathroom, making the bed are all done by each patient unless he or she needs assistance.

The day is dotted with various activities, which are provided by the staff or volunteers from the community. Some of the activities include exercise classes, dancing or just watching television.

Durkin said that some of the patients are former school teachers who take particular pleasure in reading stories and discussing them.

Although these patients receive more individual care than the average resident at the home, Durkin said the whole retirement home community has been made sensitive to the dementia patients' needs. In fact, all the staff, including everyone from housekeepers to nurses, has been trained to work with dementia patients.

The University of Michigan's Institute of Gerontology is studying the Chelsea United Methodist Retirement Home as a model for other hospitals to use. All aspects of the program are being documented and the information will be used by other institutions that want to start a similar project, Durkin said.

Durkin walks through the new ward and is warmly greeted. On a bulletin board are sheets of paper with everyone's name, listing his or her accomplishments. One slip of paper reads, "Cindy dried breakfast dishes and picked up the newspaper on the first floor."

As she departs from the ward, Durkin smiles. "This is a golden opportunity to be able to provide the appropriate environment and staff for people with dementia," she says.

Baseball Coach Sees 'Challenging' Season

"It's going to be a challenging season both for the team and for me as a coach."

That is how Chelsea High school baseball coach Wayne Welton sums up the outlook for the upcoming campaign which will open April 14 with a game against Pinckney.

"We lost several fine players through graduation, and they are not going to be easy to replace," Welton said. "We are going to be young and short on experience. We have to rebuild our pitching staff."

"There are problems, but I believe we have the potential to solve them and have another good season. I'm confident, and I want the boys to feel the same way."

The Bulldogs were 15-10 last year and finished in a tie for third in the Southeastern Conference. Highlight of the season was a second-place finish in the Ann Arbor tournament, which Chelsea might have won but for just plain running out of pitchers in the final game.

Welton will build this year's team around a nucleus of seven seniors—Jay Marshall, Marty Steinhauer, Ron Dunn, Rick Boham, Chuck Hager, Chris Gallas and David Bushway.

Marshall and Steinhauer are both outfielders who can also pitch, and will. Dunn is an outfielder who can double up as a designated hitter. Boham was an infielder last year but will be converted into a catcher. Hager plays first base. Gallas and Bushway are infielders.

Pitching is a very big part of baseball, especially in high school, and the graduation of last year's two top starters—Doug Pagliarini and Ken Nadeau—left a couple of big holes to fill.

Marshall and Steinhauer both saw a limited mound duty last year, and neither was especially effective, but Welton anticipates both will be improved this spring. Steinhauer is the only left-hander among prospective hurlers.

Sophomore Mark Mull, who was brought up to the varsity from the freshman team late last year, will almost certainly do some pitching and will play at shortstop when he isn't.

Welton is also looking at sophomores Chuck Downer and Dan Bellus as pitching prospects.

"We're in a kind of unusual situation in that we have two seniors and three sophomores as potential pitchers," Welton noted. "We don't have anybody from the junior class. That's bad in one way, good in another. The good side is that the sophomores who prove they can pitch will be with us for a long time."

Boham faces the challenge of replacing Rodney Robeson, a second-team all-state selection as a catcher last year and perhaps the best high school defensive receiver this reporter has ever seen in action.

"Rick is a lot like Rodney, small for a catcher but quick," Welton said. "He understands the game and knows how to handle pitchers. He can do the job back there."

First base right now belongs to Hager, but Keith Niebauer will contest him for the starting spot. "Chuck (Hager) is big and has good defensive skills," Welton said. "We need to get more out of his bat. A first baseman has to hit."

Bushway and sophomore Rob Beckwith will fight it out to determine who plays second base. Mull will be the shortstop when he isn't pitching, with Bushway his likely back-up. Third base candidates are Gallas and Downer. Gallas played there last season, and did well.

Steinhauer and Marshall are fixtures in the outfield when they aren't pitching, and Dunn probably will take over in right field for the graduated Mike Niebauer, a formidable hitter with men on base who also played fine defense. Dunn has a big pair of shoes to fill. His .300 batting average and good outfielding last season suggest he can do it.

"We have a lot of outfielders," Welton commented, "more than we can accommodate on what I see as a 15-man varsity squad. Nine of the 18 boys contending for positions are outfielders, and they obviously can't all play. That's where our squad cuts will have to be made."

Lumen Christi Wins District Tourney For Second Time

Jackson Lumen Christi won its second successive district basketball championship by defeating Brooklyn Columbia Central, 63-53, in the Chelsea High school gym last Saturday night despite a 30-point effort by Brooklyn's Charles Richardson.

As they had in their earlier tournament games in which they beat Chelsea and Dexter, the Titans used their superior size and balanced scoring to full advantage to wear down their scrappy but smaller foes. They beat everybody by about 10 points.

The game was played before a crowd of 1,800 most of whom travelled considerable distances from the home towns of the two schools to witness the contest.

Chelsea athletic director Ron Nemeth was pleased with attendance during the week-long tournament and said the school district "made some money" in its role as host.

"We had the gym set up to seat 2,200 persons for the tournament games," he said. "We never quite filled the place to capacity, but we had good crowds for every game. After I add up all the receipts and expenses, I'm sure Welton plans to take 17 boys on the team's annual spring trip to Florida which will start March 30 with return to Chelsea scheduled April 8. Two of them will eventually drop down to the junior varsity team.

"It's real important that we have a good practice week in Florida and that we get off on the right foot with some early wins when we start our schedule," Welton said. "If we can do that, we could be good. The best way an inexperienced team can gain confidence is to play and win, and that's what we need to do."

The baseball team has been working out in the high school gym and is looking forward to getting outside as soon as the weather warms up enough to allow it.

"There were a few days back there in February when we might have been able to practice outside, but we hadn't really gotten started," Welton said. "It's been far too cold ever since."

Welton added that he expects to continue coaching the same type of aggressive baseball that he has in the past, with emphasis on running the bases. "We won't have exceptional speed, but we'll have enough so we can try to make things happen by forcing our opponents to throw the ball on steals and stretched hits."

"I'm going to find that we came out pretty well financially."

Lumen Christi should savor its district title while it can. The Titans advanced to a regional tournament whose entrants included Willow Run and Oak Park, the first and second-ranked Class B teams in the state.

Columbia Central had brought a 17-2 regular season record into the district tournament, but its schedule was suspect because it had included several Class C teams. Lumen Christi was 12-7 going into the tourney. They were the only two schools with winning records among the six teams entered.

In this instance the tournament results closely followed the form charts, with Lumen Christi and Columbia Central meeting in the final game.

Complete results of the district tournament:

First Round
Dexter, bye.
Jackson Northwest, bye.
Brooklyn Columbia Central 60, Tecumseh 46.
Jackson Lumen Christi 63, Chelsea 62.

Second Round
Brooklyn Columbia Central 63, Jackson Northwest 59.
Jackson Lumen Christi 56, Dexter 46.

Final
Jackson Lumen Christi 63, Brooklyn Columbia Central 53.

THIS IS WHAT YOU LOOK FOR: There was snow in the background, but the high school baseball hopefuls were working out nevertheless. Coach Wayne Welton shows Ray Spencer how a pitcher grips the ball to throw a curve. Fortunately, Spencer didn't swing the bat, or Chelsea might have been looking for a new baseball coach.

Marty Steinhauer, David Kiel Picked for All-SEC Squad

Chelsea's Marty Steinhauer and David Kiel have been selected by Southeastern conference coaches to the all-league second team.

First team selections included Ron Dingman, Jr., of Milan, Daryl Dittmer of Dexter, Jim Goff of Saline, and Rod Turrentine and Quinn Chambers of Lincoln.

Named to the second team besides Steinhauer and Kiel were Steve Belmore of Milan, and Bob Foster and Tim VanAtta of Tecumseh.

Bulldog coach Paul Ash said he was "very disappointed" that Steinhauer was not picked among the top five.

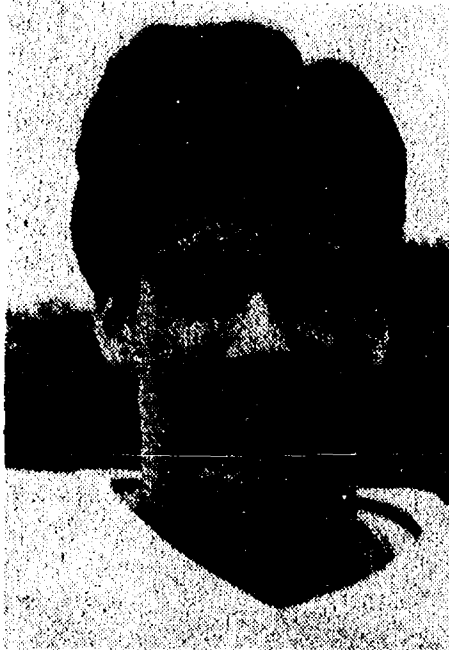

"Marty played consistently fine basketball all season long. He didn't have a bad game. He worked hard and was tremendously competitive. If he had a fault it was that he sometimes tried to play outside his physical limits. He is not a super-star player, but he makes the absolute most out of the skills he has, and he gives every bit of himself every minute he's out there."

"Give me three or four boys like Marty, and I guarantee you that I would look awfully good as a coach."

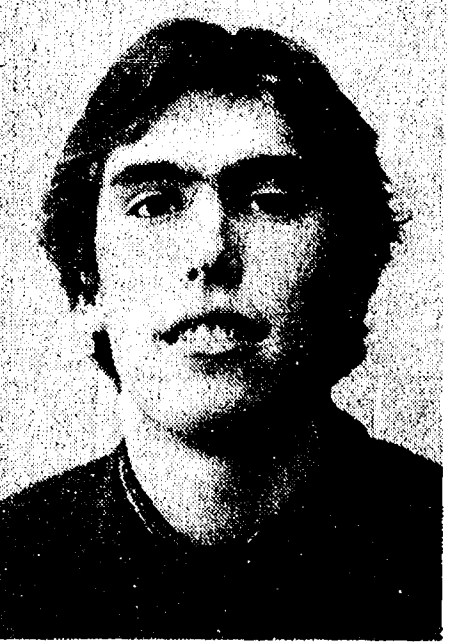

And, I'll tell you something else about Marty. With those knees of his, a lot of boys wouldn't even have tried to play. He showed me courage.

Ash characterized Kiel's season as "a little bit inconsistent" but quickly added that he understood why.

"David was under an awful lot of pressure while he was being recruited for a football scholarship by several major universities, and it definitely hurt his concentration on basketball. He had to miss several practices while he visited college campuses.

Basketball Coach Gets Assist from Wife and Scores

It was a disappointing season in some ways for Chelsea's first-year varsity basketball coach, Paul Ash, but it ended on a personal high note.

His first child, a daughter who has been named Sarah, was born last Wednesday, just two days after the Bulldogs completed their season.

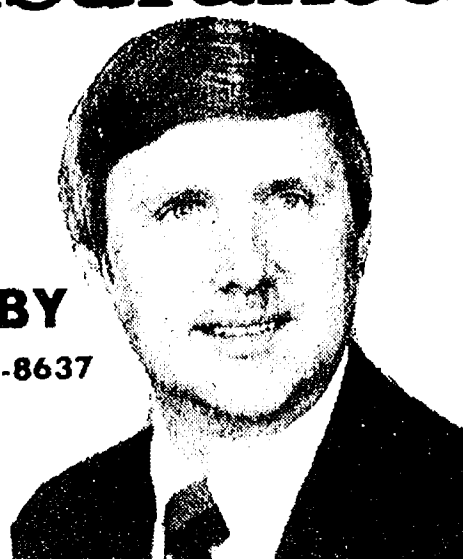

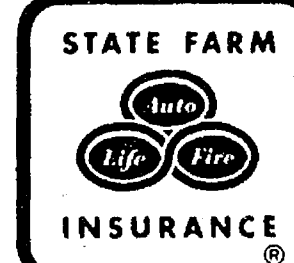

"My wife came to the game on Monday night, and I was frankly a little bit worried that our baby might be born right there in the gym."

"Everything worked out. Mother and daughter are doing fine. Father is still a little bit shaken up, but he'll recover."

A COUPLE OF STARKEYS—Todd Starkey (right) played on the varsity basketball team this past season as a freshman, a rare achievement. His younger brother, Chad Starkey, was a stand-out in Biddy Basketball. Chad receives a lot of coaching help from Todd, who spends "all the time I can spare" working with his brother and all the other Biddy Basketball players.

Hope College Loses Twice in Regional Division II Tourney

Hope College's hopes for a Division III NCAA national basketball championship went up in smoke at the regional tournament held in Greencastle, Ind. After compiling a 22-0 regular-season record to become the only four-year college in the nation to go undefeated, Hope lost its opening tournament game to Heidelberg College, 73-69, and then was beaten, 83-77 by Capital University in overtime in its second outing.

Hope was held well under its 85 points per game scoring average in both contests. Chelsea's Jef Dils, who played as Hope's first player off the bench throughout the season, appeared in all 24 games and wound up with 94 points, a 3.9 average.

SPORTS NOTES

BY BILL MULLENDORE

Following is an exchange of letters between Amy Unterbrink, the former Chelsea High school softball pitcher who has gone on to great things at Indiana University, and myself. Because Amy made her letter public by addressing it "To the Editor," I am answering her in the same way.

Cold Weather, Snow Persist During March

February went down as the warmest hearabouts in history since weather records have been kept. March so far is making a bid to become the coldest.

Following a week of extreme cold with night-time temperatures getting down into the single digits, three inches of snow fell beginning Monday evening and continuing into early yesterday morning.

The good news is that a warming trend is supposed to set in toward the end of this week, with day-time temperatures rising into the 40's.

That isn't exactly spring weather, but it's closer than what has been experienced locally of late.

Spring begins officially on March 21, the date of the vernal equinox when the hours of daylight and darkness exactly match as measured by times of sunrise and sunset.

Meanwhile, crocuses, daffodils, early tulips and other spring flowers which were encouraged to come up during the warm weeks of February are sitting in the snow and marking time.

Migratory birds that were pushed northward by the warm February weather are having a tough time coping with the cold and snow, and are flocking to feeders in an effort to survive the renewal of winter.

Vehicle, Equipment Fund Established by Council

Chelsea Village Council has voted to set up a special Vehicle and Equipment Fund as a way of establishing a source of income to replace cars, trucks and other motorized equipment.

Under the system, village government departments will, in effect, "rent" vehicles at per-mile rates which will be set according to operating, maintenance and replacement costs.

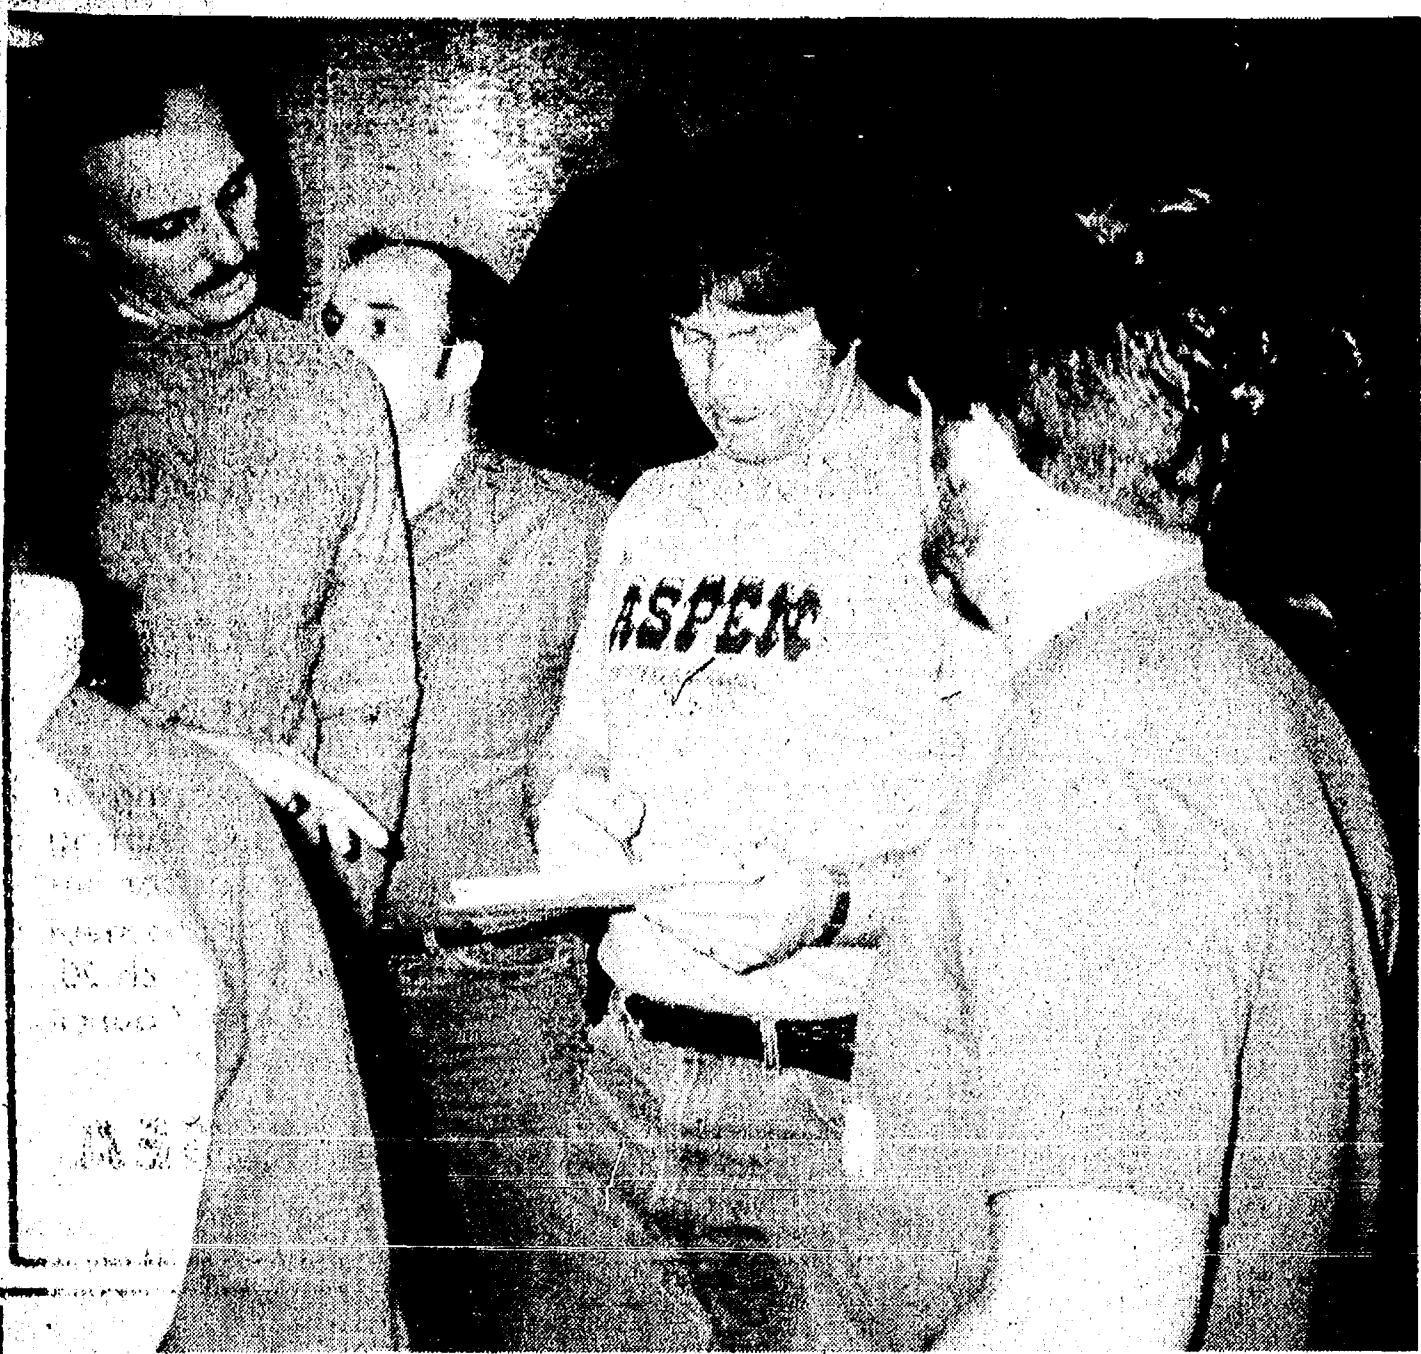

Rates charged will be in line with those charged by the Michigan Department of Transportation for motorized equipment used in state government.

All village vehicles except those in the fire department will be subject to the schedule of "rents." Fire equipment was exempted because other local government units besides the village contribute to the cost of buying.

Basically, the new fund is an internal accounting device under which money will be transferred from departmental budgets into the central fund. No additional expenditures of money are proposed.

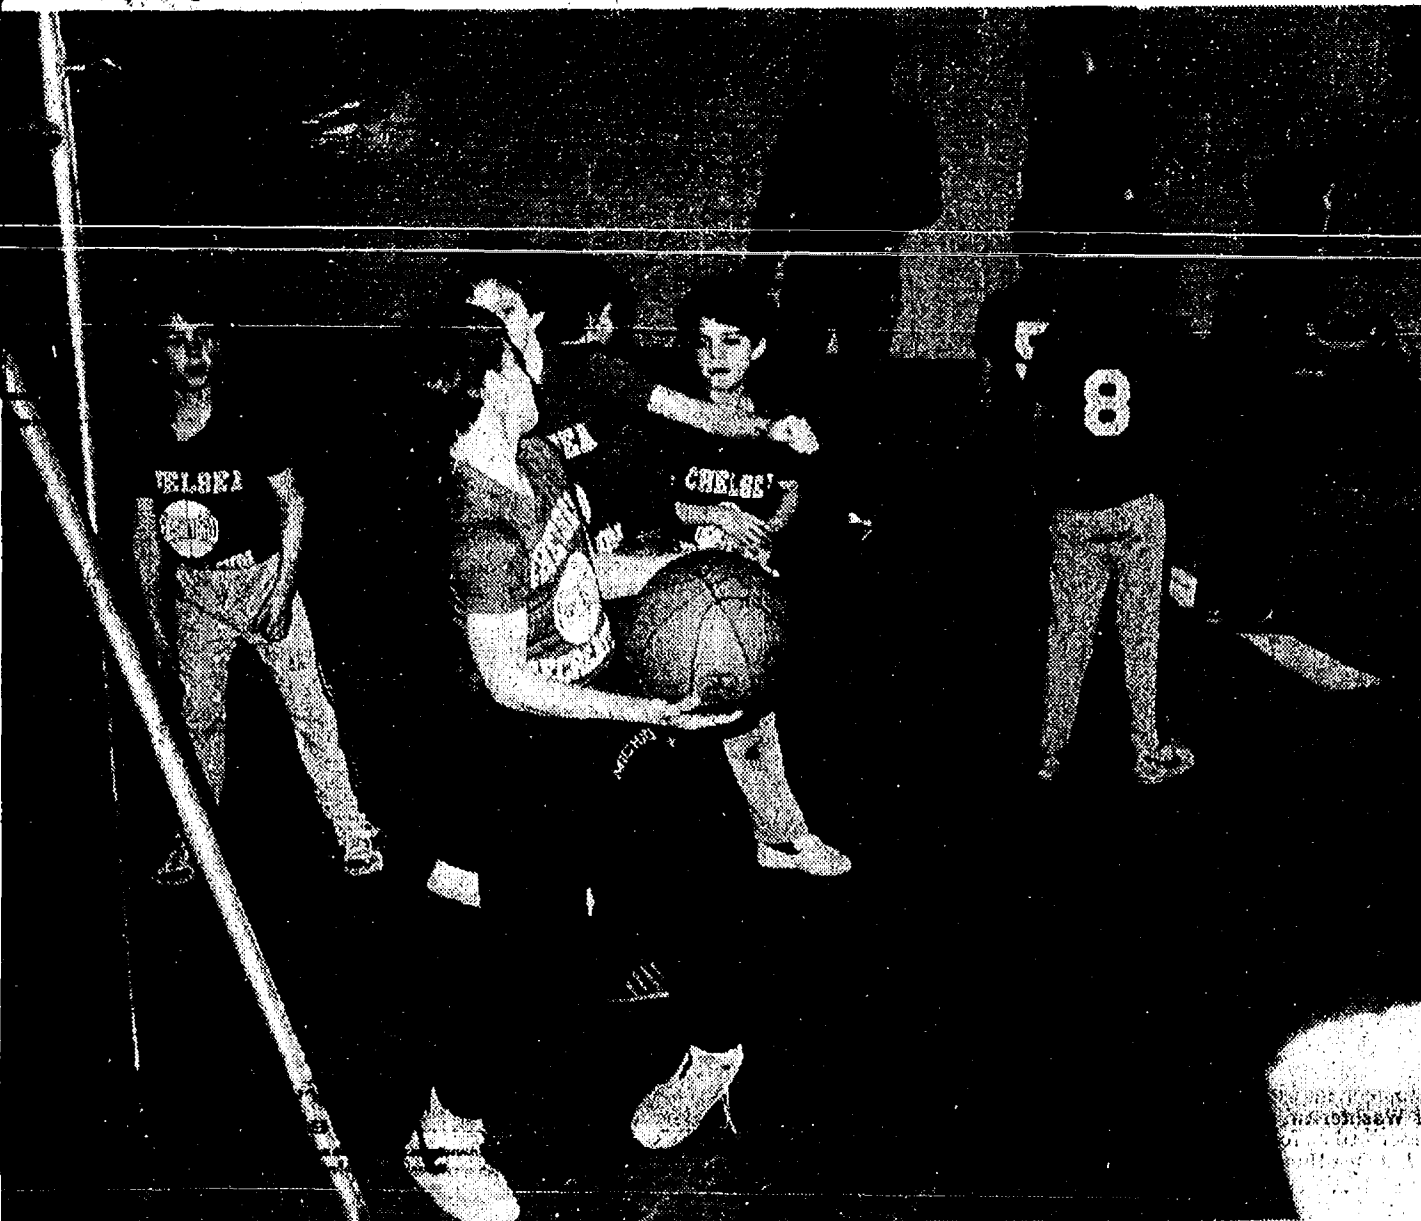

The idea is that, when it comes time to replace a vehicle, enough

Biddy Basketballers Conclude Their Season

The Beach Middle school gym was a beehive of activity last Saturday morning, crowded by about 150 Biddy Basketball players, coaches, officials and parents for the concluding

"special events day" of the grade schooler's cage season.

The players competed in five individual events, including bounce-passing, free throw shooting, dribbling, lay-up shots and outside shots.

Winners, in order of placing, were:

NBA

WBA

ABA

DR. MIKE KLINKMAN

Playground First Aid To Be Discussed

A first aid class focusing on injuries incurred by school children will be held at the University of Michigan Family Practice Center at Chelsea on Wednesday, March 21. This session is specifically designed to discuss the kinds of injuries young children commonly incur. Items to be included will be discussion on head injuries, broken bones, sprains and twists. Other more common everyday injuries such as bloody noses, scrapes, bumps and bruises will also be discussed. A question and answer period will follow.

This session will be taught by Dr. Mike Klinkman, a family physician at the Family Practice Center. Dr. Klinkman stated that, "Often the person giving first aid in these situations is worried about doing something 'wrong'; this makes it harder to remember some basic 'right' things to do." Dr. Klinkman will talk about the basic things to do, and explain some things that might mean more serious problems and should be referred to a doctor.

All the information is aimed at taking some of the "worry" out of first aid.

Dr. Klinkman has designed this session to be especially useful for playground supervisors, teachers, daycare workers, babysitters and parents. This session will be held in the classroom at the Family Practice Center, 775 S. Main St., in Chelsea from 7 to 9 p.m.

Pre-registration is requested. There is a $2 fee payable at the door. Call 764-8010 to register for the class.

OUT IN THE OPEN

By BILL MULLENDORE

Last week when I was reflecting on the frustrations of March for outdoor people, the thought occurred that this might be a good time to suggest an indoor activity which offers a lot of potential rewards, including financial. This and next week's column will be devoted to "doing it yourself" by making your own outdoor gear.

You probably can't start this month, because it takes some time to order and receive necessary equipment and materials, but you might at least think about it as something to do in the future during the dull seasons when there isn't much going on out there.

The fact is that the outdoorsman who is a little bit handy and has the time and inclination can make much of the equipment requisite to his pursuits. As just some examples, he can tie flies, hand-load ammunition, build fishing rods, assemble artificial lures, sew garments, backpacks, sleeping bags and other cloth items, and even make firearms. (That last suggestion needs some explanations and qualifiers, which will be given next week.)

There are many reasons to take up the hobby of building your own outdoor gear. It's fun if you enjoy working with your hands and have the skills to turn out products that are well made and useful. It's a way to spend time fruitfully during seasons when your active sports interests are closed.

Making something, testing it and finding out that it works is a source of pleasure and pride. Exercising one's imagination can be fun, too. If you yearn for a bass plug painted hot pink with deep purple polka-dots, you probably can't buy one, but you can create one to suit your fancy. Some of those crazy concoctions actually catch fish. My favorite example is the Royal Coachman trout fly—a mixture of red, green, white, orange and black materials. It resembles nothing in nature, yet is the most successful trout fly pattern ever devised. By experimenting, you just might come up with something as good or better.

The most compelling reason for "making your own" is that you can save money, and I don't mean just nickels and dimes. Depending on what you do outdoors, and how much you do it, you can "earn" hundreds of dollars, even thousands, enough to make the difference between being able to afford the best of gear or not.

The reason is that many of the things we outdoorsmen buy and use are "labor intensive." They require a lot of skilled hand-work to make, and the cost of hiring that labor is not cheap. The manufacturer passes that cost up through the chain of business, and you wind up paying it—and then some—when you buy at retail prices.

It's much like the difference between painting your house yourself or hiring somebody to do it for you. In the first instance you pay for the paint, brushes, ladders and allied materials and equipment. In the other you pay to buy or rent those, plus the labor involved, and the add-on makes a deep dent in the pocketbook. If you know how to paint and have the time to do it, you can save a bundle.

If you haven't done much shopping for outdoor equipment in recent years, and are at the point where you need to do some, be prepared to be surprised, even shocked, when you go to the store and look at the price tags. The high-quality top-of-the-line stuff that we all covet has gone up, up, up in cost.

Part of the reason is inflation, but not all by any means. There have been major technological improvements in sporting equipment of all kinds. The new products are a lot better, but the advances have to be bought at a price. Graphite and boron fishing rods, for instance, are vastly improved over fiberglass sticks and much more fun to use. They are also vastly higher in cost.

For many of us, the only way to obtain a fishing rod made of graphite or boron at an affordable price is to buy it in kit form and do the assembly work ourselves. You can save at least half of the retail charge if you shop around for the right kit, and you can have fun while doing it.

That assumes, of course, that you are capable of doing the job yourself. It takes considerable time, a lot of patience and a certain amount of intelligence and hand skill.

If you were born with 10 thumbs, have never been able to drive a nail straight, and botched every "home handyman" task you ever undertook, never learned how to read and follow directions, and particularly if you are an impatient sort, you probably shouldn't try to build a fishing rod. It's not all that easy.

If no one in your household has some skill and experience with a needle, thread and sewing machine, you probably should not attempt to learn by trying to make a fancy jacket from a kit of pre-cut parts. The kits are costly enough to buy that you can't afford to ruin them by fouling up the finishing work.

Kits to make most anything are available from a variety of sources. A good place to start looking for do-it-yourself outdoor equipment kits is in the advertising pages of outdoor magazines. You will probably have to send for catalogues and, in some instances, pay a modest price for them. It's worth a few bucks just to collect a variety of catalogues and find out what is available. They will help you decide whether you want to get into the activity or not.

More next week.

AREA DEATHS

William McDonald

Sterling Heights
William Joseph McDonald, 78, of 11845 Ina Drive, Apt. 54N, Sterling Heights, died March 9 at the home of his son and daughter-in-law, William P. and Viola Harvey of Chelsea.

He was born March 6, 1906, in Canada, the son of Daniel and Anne (Kerr) McDonald, and was married to F. L. V. Harvey in Detroit on Sept. 22, 1934. She survives.

Mr. McDonald was retired from the Chrysler Corp. engineering division purchasing department. He was a member of St. Blaise Catholic church of Sterling Heights, and of the Chelsea Knights of Columbus.

Surviving besides his wife, son and daughter-in-law are three sisters, Sister Mary Agnita of Toronto, and Cristina and Margaret of Montreal; four grandchildren, William M. Harvey, Jr., Michael D. Harvey, JoAnne (Harvey) Rathburn and Carol Ann Harvey, and two great-grandchildren, Ashley Harvey and Burton Rathburn.

Mr. McDonald was preceded in death by 11 brothers and sisters.

Funeral services were held Monday, March 12, at St. Mary's Catholic church in Chelsea, with the Rev. Fr. David Philip Dupuis officiating, assisted by deacon Richard Cesarz. Burial was in Mr. Olivet cemetery, Chelsea.

Arrangements were made by the Cole-Burghardt Funeral Chapel of Chelsea.

Herbert E. Schenk

Freedom Township
Herbert E. Schenk, 82, formerly of 10955 Waters Rd., Freedom township, died Monday, March 12, at the Saline Evangelical Home.

He was born Sept. 18, 1901 in Freedom township, the son of Albert and Lydia (Heller) Schenk. On Feb. 28, 1924 in Freedom township he married Esther M. Eschelbach, she preceded him in death on Sept. 27, 1976.

Mr. Schenk was a life-long resident of Freedom township, a life member of Zion Lutheran church, and served several terms on Rogers Corners school board as treasurer.

He is survived by one son, Albert Schenk, of Freedom township; one daughter, Mrs. Roy (Grace) Bradley of Ann Arbor, one sister, Irma Grau, of Chelsea; and six grandchildren. He was preceded in death by one grandson.

Funeral services will be held Thursday, March 15 at 1:30 p.m. from Zion Lutheran church with the Rev. John R. Morris, pastor of Zion Lutheran church officiating.

Friends may call at the Staffan-Mitchell Funeral Home Wednesday until 9 p.m. and Thursday until 11 a.m., and from noon until time of the service at the church.

Memorial contributions may be made to Zion Lutheran church building fund or Saline Evangelical Home.

Erwin H. Burg

Ypsilanti (Chelsea Woman's Father)
Erwin H. Burg, 58, of Ypsilanti died March 6 at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Ann Arbor.

He was born Nov. 11, 1925, the son of Henry and Emma (Koster) Burg. He retired from the University of Michigan in 1983.

Survivors include his widow, Lois, of Ypsilanti; two daughters, Ruth Knowlton and Marie Burg, both of Ypsilanti; four sons, Craig Burg of Chelsea (and daughter-in-law Donna Bolanowski Burg), David in the U. S. Navy, and Paul and Roger Burg of Ypsilanti; six grandchildren; a sister, Charlotte Reurink of Shelbyville, and several nieces and nephews.

Cremation took place at Mr. Burg's request.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Ypsilanti or Cheboygan chapters of the Salvation Army.

Bessie Breingan

Former Chelsea Resident Dies in Washington

Bessie M. Breingan, 74, died Saturday, March 10, at Bethesda Manor Nursing Home, Encinitas, Wash. She was born Aug. 25, 1909 in Onida township, Ontario, Canada, the daughter of Charles and Etna Kett.

She was preceded in death by her husband, Peter James Breingan.

She is survived by three daughters, Dorothy Boughton of Chelsea, Margaret Messner of Encinitas, Wash., Mary Henderson of Lafayette, Calif.; and eight grandchildren.

A grave-side service will be held at Cadillac Memorial Cemetery in Fraser, at an as yet undetermined date.

Memorials may be sent to the Alzheimers Center at the Chelsea Methodist Retirement Home.

QUICK CHANGE: Tricky the Clown, also known as Erik Gaken, paid a visit to pre-schoolers at South school and demonstrated how he transforms himself into a clown by using makeup, facial attachments and a costume. Watching Gaken get into his clown role are Joshua Powers, Jessica Williams, Tyler Gorton, Erin Longe and Michelle McDonald.

Dexter's Pioneer Craft Fair Will Feature 60 Area Artisans

Take a nostalgic walk through the past—come to the Dexter Area Historical Society's 11th annual Pioneer Craft Fair on Saturday, March 17 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Dexter High school gym.

When so much in our lives seems over-mechanized and impersonal, the beautiful old hand crafts take on a special meaning. At the Craft Fair you can see 60 artisans recreating crafts which are fun for us, but which were a means of survival for our ancestors.

Many of the artists have returned to demonstrate such arts as spinning, weaving, soap and candle making, quilting, Hawaiian applique, knitting, smoking, doll cradles, and theorem (stenciling on velvet.) Always popular with children (of all ages) are dolls—corn husk, antique and soft sculptured babies, teddy bears, and Bisque dolls.

There will be silver and tin-smithing, and punched tin demonstrations. For the painters there will be folk art, animals and dummy boards (so called because they are mute figures). Some of these are life size and one was known to have been painted as a British soldier and put in a window to scare American Revolutionary soldiers.

New to the fair this year are John and Dorothy Hyde, and sons Greg and Larry who are known as the Clarkston Carvers. They carve wood duck decoys with old fashioned tools, a rarely used draw knife, and bow sanders they make themselves.

Philemon Frisbie from Vestaburg has taught classes at Greenwood Village in Victorian Hair Weaving—a craft which dates back to 1876 or earlier and was done to preserve a lock of a loved one's hair.

Beverly Tippet comes from Fenton to demonstrate Pierced Lamp Shades—a 100-year-old craft which created intricate light patterns to give the effect of candlelight.

Steven Veresch from Plymouth will demonstrate the art of violin and viola making, using the traditional woods, maple and spruce, and done by bending the sides and carving the top, back and neck.

Among the many talented local artisans demonstrating in the fair are Bill and Trudy Potter. Bill will demonstrate on his potter's wheel, but this year Trudy will be making antique dolls. Sue Sherrill will also be making antique dolls, a change from her beautiful miniature furniture and china. Bernard Crawford is a silver-smith, and Hal Horton carves waterfowl and song birds from natural wood. Chuck and Rose Van Aken will be demonstrating woven Nantucket baskets with scrimshaw decorations on the bases. Chuck does the scrimshaw and Rose makes the baskets.

Marge Hanning will be weaving lovely doll cradles, which will hold some of the antique baby dolls made by Sue Sherrill and merits of paying the demanded $600 a year, which could be increased in the future by unilateral decision of the railroad, or settling the matter once and for all by buying up the leases for $12,000.

At $600 per year, assuming the price doesn't go up, the village could pay rent for 20 years while spending a total of $12,000. A judgment that has to be made is whether the railroad will be there that long.
