Beach Academic Games Team Scores Well in State Meet

Beach School's academic games team competed March 22-26 at Eastern Michigan University in the Michigan League of Academic Games state tournament.

Nineteen students from Chelsea joined nearly 1,000 from 68 schools in southern Michigan playing games in English, Mathematics and social studies. The students were divided into elementary, middle and senior divisions with seven state championships possible in each division.

Chelsea students competed in the middle and elementary divisions, playing four games in competition: "On Words," "Equations," "World Card" and "Mr. Presidents." They had been preparing for these games all year with practices two and three times a week after school.

This year's team was highly successful, earning nine team trophies and 15 individual ones for a total of 24. The two sixth grade teams playing in the elementary division won the state championship. In "World Card" they took first and second places easily with Heather Keane and Tiffany Browning scoring higher than most of the other schools' teams' total scores.

In "On Words" Chelsea's "Coneheads" took the state championship with the "Brainwaves," only one point behind for second place.

In "Equations" the Coneheads tied for first and lost the State Championship by just four points. The Brainwaves were close behind in third place. The teams also got a third and an honorable mention in "Mr. Presidents."

Mrs. Betty Cox, team sponsor and mathematics department chairman at Beach school, was excited about the students' success, and praised their attitude, participation, and effort.

"Last year's team also won the 'On Words' state championship and returned with four team trophies and five individual ones," Mrs. Cox said, and so we hoped we could do as well this year. I felt that this year's team was special, but when they just kept winning and winning and winning, even I was amazed by their ability."

Railroad Depot Lease By History Society Close to Agreement

Chelsea Area Historical Society is close to signing a 10-year lease with Amtrak for occupancy of the old depot on the south side of the Conrail tracks a short distance east of the N. Main St. crossing.

"I have a proposed contract from Amtrak, and it looks good," said Lynda Longe, historical society vice-president who has been working for a long time on the project.

"I am having it reviewed by an attorney and a couple of other people before we sign it. I expect we will conclude the agreement within the next couple of weeks."

Under the proposed terms the Historical Society would lease the old depot for 10 years for what

Mrs. Longe called a "nominal" monthly rental fee. The society had sought a longer-term lease, but Amtrak balked.

"They (Amtrak) are looking at the possibility of a rail transportation comeback and want to reserve the right to repossess the building if that should happen," she said.

The proposed agreement provides that, should Amtrak take back the depot, it will repay all costs of improvements made during the period of the lease.

As it stands, the building is deteriorating and will rot away unless steps are taken to repair and maintain it. It looks pretty good from the outside, but the inside needs a lot of work.

"We are going to need some money—$30,000 to $40,000—to handle the project," Mrs. Longe said, "and we don't presently have it. Amtrak wants guarantees that we will insure the building adequately, fence it, fix it up and maintain it."

"We have promises of volunteer labor for things like painting and electrical work, but we are also going to need to raise some money. If the lease is signed, we will conduct a fund solicitation of some sort."

Mrs. Longe added that the Historical Society's proposal to lease the depot has the full backing of the Chelsea Chamber of Commerce.

"The plan for use of the building is that it would become a place for offices and meetings of the Historical Society, the Chamber of Commerce and other civic organizations, and would also provide space for historical displays," Mrs. Longe said.

"We propose to do some landscaping in keeping with the revitalization plan for the downtown business district."

"The whole project would take at least six months to complete, but we would aim to have the outside looking good in time for the July sesquicentennial celebration."

According to Sam Johnson, owner of the Gambles store, the depot would have fallen down back during the 1970's if some railroad buffs and other interested local citizens had not volunteered to replace the roof and paint the exterior. Johnson used the building for storage until 1981.

Conrail conducted some railroad maintenance operations from the building until March of 1983, when it asked that village water and electric services be shut off. The depot has been empty and idle since.

On behalf of the Historical Society, Mrs. Longe began inquiring about the building in 1982 and was stalled off for a long time by a dispute over whether Conrail or Amtrak actually owned it. It turned out that, while Conrail owns the railroad right-of-way, Amtrak owns the depot. Amtrak got the building in 1976 when the Penn Central railroad went bankrupt.

Knights of Columbus Set Tootsie Roll Drive

The Chelsea Knights of Columbus Council 3092 will join K. of C. groups throughout Michigan in an annual Tootsie Roll sale April 13-15 to benefit mentally retarded children and adults.

Joe Wesolowski and Larry Kranich are co-chairmen of the local drive. Solicitors selling Tootsie Rolls for whatever the buyer wishes to donate will be stationed at local business places during the three-day event.

Money raised is given to various non-profit agencies and organizations which provide care and to mentally retarded persons.

Change in Screening Called Top Priority Of Cassidy Council

"Our first priority is to change the screening policy and procedures so that the right type of prisoner is sent to the school," Mary Beth Dettling, chairperson of the Cassidy Lake Technical School Liaison Council, declared following the group's March 27 meeting.

"We are very concerned about the number of escapes, including the five that occurred late last month. One of our goals is to try to help prevent those escapes by working for better security at Cassidy Lake, and some important progress has been made."

"Full-time staffing has been established in the building where new inmates are admitted and housed for 30 days. A security person will be there around the clock. A new guard position has been added. Those measures are real pluses."

"A long-term study shows that most of the men who walk away are persons who have been at Cassidy Lake for less than 30 days. Obviously, security efforts need to be concentrated on those new inmates."

"Even more important is that procedures and laws be changed so that only non-assaultive criminals are sent to Cassidy Lake. Present state law and Department of Corrections policy permit persons convicted of assaultive crimes to be sent to Cassidy Lake after routine prison-system screening. We believe that has to be changed."

Ms. Dettling said that key state legislators and top officials of the Corrections Department will be invited to attend and speak at the council's next meeting on Tuesday, May 29.

County undersheriff Ron Schebl and Walter Zeeb were appointed as a two-member committee of the liaison council to arrange the program.

"It remains to be seen whether the legislators and Lansing officials will respond to our concerns," Ms. Dettling said, "but we are inviting them in an effort to establish better communication."

"We know that the local community has major concerns about assaultive-type prisoners who escape, because of what they might do afterward. The council shares those concerns and is addressing them as our top priority. We think the best way to solve the problem is to change the screening system so that assaultive persons aren't sent to Cassidy Lake."

Of the five men who walked away from Cassidy Lake during the span of March 24-27, one definitely had been convicted of an assaultive crime, felonious assault.

Two others had been sentenced on charges of illegal possession of a firearm and carrying a concealed weapon, respectively. The official records do not show whether either had used the weapon in an assaultive way.

Judge Upholds Kozminski Convictions; Appeal Next

To no one's surprise, federal district judge Charles W. Joiner declined to over-rule himself and allowed the convictions of Ike, Margarethe and John Kozminski on involuntary servitude charges to stand.

Judge Joiner issued his decision a week ago Tuesday on petitions by the Kozminskis' attorneys asking that he overturn jury verdicts on the basis that they were contrary to the weight of evidence.

The defense attorneys claimed, among other things, that Judge Joiner allowed inadmissible testimony at the trial and that he gave improper instructions to the jury.

Had he granted the requests to set aside the verdicts and order a new trial, Judge Joiner would have had to admit that he conducted the original trial wrongly. Judges rarely acknowledge that kind of error.

Ike and Margarethe Kozminski, who are husband and wife, were found guilty of holding two men in involuntary servitude (slavery) on their south Lima

The other two escapees had been imprisoned for auto theft and larceny from a vehicle, both non-assaultive crimes in the sense that they apparently involved no threats of violence towards another person.

One of the four men who escaped from the prison on the evening of March 24 stole a car in Chelsea. He was arrested in Detroit less than 48 hours later, and the car was recovered.

Following the five walk-offs, Ron Olmsted who is chairman of the "Fence It Or Close It" committee formed last summer to demand tighter security at Cassidy Lake, said that he was concerned but not surprised. "We intend to keep pushing until something is done," Olmsted said of his group which numbers more than 1,300 (Continued on page two) township dairy farm. They were also convicted of conspiring to violate the two men's civil rights.

Their son, John Kozminski, was acquitted on the slavery charges but found guilty of conspiracy.

A fourth defendant, Michael Asam, a former Kozminski employee, was found not guilty on all counts.

The Kozminskis have indicated they will appeal their convictions to the U.S. Court of Appeals in Cincinnati. The appeal would delay the effective date of sentences which Judge Joiner is scheduled to impose on April 11.

Mr. and Mrs. Kozminski face maximum penalties of 20 years in prison and a $20,000 fine each. John Kozminski could be sentenced to 10 years and $10,000.

The three were convicted on charges that they held two farmhands, Robert Fulmer and Louis Mollitoris, in "slavery" by forcing them to work against their will. The two men have since been removed from the farm and are living in a foster home.

Thursday, April 7, 1960—

The village council has adopted a new ordinance under which residents will pay for water and sewer service based on actual usage, rather than a per-household flat rate as in the past.

The new system is touted as being more equitable in that all users will pay their fair shares of service costs. The new rates are intended to make the sewage disposal plant self-supporting, which it has not been for many years.

In other action, the council adopted a village budget of $165,294. Tax rates will remain the same, except for a new special levy of three mills to pay for additions to the sewage plant.

Carol Reddeman of Chelsea was one of the top winners in the 4-H Dress Revue held last week in Ann Arbor, and will represent Washtenaw county in the state 4-H show in July.

Anderson's department store in downtown Chelsea was robbed of $250 in cash by thieves who broke in through a back door and pried open the safe.

Toxic Site Cleanup Given*$9.5 Million Allocation

In recommendations recently sent to the Legislature, Governor James Blanchard is targeting $9.5 million to take care of immediate health problems at 108 toxic waste sites and another $10.7 million for long-term evaluation of problems at 27 sites.

The cleanup recommendations, which include $750,000 as a contingency for immediate action at newly-discovered sites, cover about half the sites given preliminary environmental/health risk rankings last fall.

The program, operated separately from the U.S. Superfund activities to clean up hazardous sites, was authorized by the 1982 Environmental Response Act.

The total number of sites covered by the $21 million to be spent during this and next fiscal years is 117, with some in line both for immediate action long-term evaluation.

The immediate action to address health hazards includes providing alternative water supplies at 79 sites, fencing or otherwise limiting access to 21 sites and removing some exposed hazardous materials at 13 sites.

The 108 sites slated for immediate action include every one which state officials determined posed health risks.

Battle Creek's Verona area, involving chemical contamination to municipal and residential wells for 40,000 persons, tops the list for action, with the governor's recommendations calling for $154,000 for immediate activities such as providing alternative water and $269,000 for environmental studies.

The Steven's landfill in Monroe county, which was the highest-ranked site in the preliminary list released last fall, is the second-ranked site now, but still with one of the highest recommended spending levels of any site—$1.4 million.

Immediate actions would include $385,000 for fencing and surface removal of wastes and $995,000 for geologic investigations, evaluation of site characteristics, environmental studies and a feasibility study.

The largest amount recommended for any one site is the $2.8 million for residential wells at Niles contaminated with TCE and other organics.

The bulk of funds, $1.7 million, would go for alternative water supplied with the rest for further studies on how to deal with the contamination.

The ranking of state sites targeted for cleanup, places emphasis on the current condition of the waste sites, risks to human health, an assessment of all environmental contamination rather than just hazardous waste as under the Superfund, and its assessment of danger of direct contact or risk of explosion and fire.

Thus the highest ranked state site receiving Superfund money, Berlin and Farro's chemical dump in Genesee county, is 16th on the state list for action, with $600,000 recommended for removing soils contaminated with C-56.

Low Level Radioactive Waste Commission Formed

The Midwest Low Level Radioactive Waste Commission was formally constituted. The commission, which includes Michigan, is a first step towards a formal interstate compact that will help develop a regional plan for safe and efficient management of low-level radioactive waste generated in the area.

The commission became formally constituted when Missouri became the fifth state to join.

Other current members are Indiana, Iowa, Minnesota. There are 11 other states eligible to join the commission which have until July 1 to take advantage of automatic eligibility into the organization.

The commission cannot become an interstate compact until approval is granted by Congress. Michigan's authority to joining the commission stems from a 1982 law.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

With another TV college basketball season behind em, the fellers at the country store Saturday night was of a mind that folks in this country ought to think on what U.S. Education Secretary Terrel Bell said recent.

Bell was lamenting that America is "dumbing down" textbooks. He said school books are wrote fer the bottom of the class, and upwards of 80 percent of the students know what's in the books before they open em. He called fer educators and school administrators to work with textbook publishers to put a little wheat in all the chaff.

Ed was strong fer Bell, but he don't see much chanct fer his suggestion. Ed said he has studied the situation up one side and down the other and he is of a mind that schools ain't throwed the baby out with the bath water, they have drowned him in it. We got so many gimmicks going in education til we have lost sight of what education is about, was Ed's words. Everybody is convinced that computers will run the world, Ed said, so all we got to do is learn children to run computers. Ed had saw recent where a 22-state group pushing fer excellence in education material had fell apart because the states can't agree on what excellence is.

General speaking, the fellers sided with Ed. Bug Hookum reported where a U.S. Court of Appeals spent time trying to decide if soda pop and candy can be sold in schools, and whuther the U.S. Department of Agriculture can hold back surplus food to schools that don't go along with its idea of what's good fer kids to eat. Meanwhile, Bug went on, state legislatures are spinning their wheels trying to pass laws to make their college football teams play one another even if they don't want to.

We have been looking so hard at what we can buy fer school children, Bug declared, that we have lost sight of what we can do fer em. And parents are as much to blame as educators, Bug went on. When they will hold a boy back in school so he can git bigger and play football longer we have ferget educating the children and started using em, was his words. A few weeks back, Bug went on, he saw where some college presidents were complaining about the ratings of college basketball on television. They were worried that to many games at the time would spread the fans to thin and cut down the money the networks pay fer showing the games.

Clem Webster said he knowed full well that you can't do much without money, but folks in education are convinced if you got enough money you don't need to do anything. Fer sure, Clem went on, college have took all pretend about amateur out of their big-money sports. He had saw where a Nebraska state senator was the latest to come up a way to face the truth. He wants colleges to hire their players the same way the Yankees and the 76ers hire theirs. Pay em like employees and if they can work some classes in their workday, fine. If they can't, they can save their money fer college like everybody else.

Yours truly,

persons who signed "fence it or close it" petitions.

"We aren't going to sit around while others hope the problem will somehow go away if nobody talks about it," Olmsted said.

Olmsted added that the peak season for escapes from Cassidy Lake will come on with the warm weather. In all, 48 men walked away from the unfenced, minimum security institution in 1983, most of them during the

HAVE FUNERALS CHANGED?

The name of the local newspaper in Tombstone, Arizona, is "The Tombstone Epitaph." The town's famous graveyard, Boot Hill, is a widely known tourist attraction and an American history lesson all in one. Tombstone has purposely secured its niche in western America by clinging to elements of its historic past.

While times and cultures do change, some traditional observances have never altered significantly. Such is the case in the observation of the traditional full-service funeral.

Progress of civilization has brought about improved techniques and products, but the basic reasons for conducting traditional funeral services have remained the same. Dignity, respect and love for the individual; loyalty to high ideals; expressions of tender sympathy are timeless, universal qualities among advanced societies.

We are experienced and professional funeral directors. As such, you may confidently put into our care all the responsibilities of preparation and conducting of a traditional full-service funeral.

Contemporaries Entertain Woman's Club of Chelsea

The Contemporaries, a Chelsea High school singing group conducted by June Warren, entertained 17 members and seven visitors at the March 27 meeting of the Woman's Club of Chelsea held at McKune Memorial Library.

Child Study Club Hears Program On Stained Glass

The March 27 meeting of Chelsea Child Study Club was entitled "Through Rose-Colored Glass" and met at the home of Wyn Schuman. Guests for the evening were Helen Thomas and Judy Smith.

During the brief business meeting Judy Smith was inducted into membership.

Finance Committee announced a garage sale would be held on Saturday, April 14 at the home of Kay Redding.

Honors Tea chairman, JoAnn Richardson, reported on its success and thanked all who helped with it.

Two club members, Wynn Schuman and Betty Cox, were applauded for honors they had received professionally.

Fred Mills demonstrated the procedure involved in creating stained glass accessories. He gave information on kinds of glass, prices of glass, tools needed to create items and pattern usage. After his enjoyable informative presentation a silent auction was held on four items he donated. Proceeds will go to the Chelsea Scholarship Fund.

Serving refreshments was Camie Noah.

Next meeting will be at 8 p.m. on Tuesday, April 10 at the home of June Flanigan with speaker being Ron Nemeth on "High School Athletics." Guests are welcome.

Reception Honors Cooch-Burke Wedding

A reception was held Saturday, March 17 for Scott and Paula (Cooch) Burke at the home of Scott's mother, Gretchen Burke in Dexter. The reception celebrated the occasion of Scott and Paula's marriage March 5, in Ann Arbor.

The recent bridegroom is the son of George Burke of Ann Arbor and Gretchen Burke of Dexter. Paula's parents are Larry Cooch of Ann Arbor and Karen Wenk Cooch, also of Ann Arbor.

34 Years Ago . . .

Local voters balloted in favor of building a new county courthouse in Ann Arbor, but the proposal was swamped by no votes elsewhere in the county, especially in the Ypsilanti area. The county-wide vote total showed a 2-1 margin against the project.

Twelve octogenarians—persons age 80 and over—were honored at a banquet sponsored by the Chelsea Kiwanis Club.

Persons, apparently youngsters, are jeopardizing village police and fire services by dialing telephone calls to the departments, then leaving the receiver off the hook, causing a busy signal. Responses to at least three emergency calls were delayed, officials said, because the callers could not get through.

The program of light music with a springtime theme included the two selections the group will sing when they enter the state completion in Flint in April.

Membership chairman Lila Pawlowski introduced and welcomed guests for the evening and also presented a yellow rose to new member Marie Kettinger.

A tour of the library and the Heritage Room conducted by JoAnn Walter followed a brief business meeting.

Assisting president Myra Colvin, vice-president Lucille Finkbeiner and Mrs. Pawlowski as hostesses for the special visitation night were Gladys Barth, Marian Koch, Leah Smith and Marge Travis.

Workshop Offered On Problems Of Step-Families

Step-families are formed when a divorced or widowed parent with children marries a person with or without children. One parent is the "natural" or legal parent and their spouse is not biologically related to their children. In a workshop April 10 from 7 to 9 p.m., sponsored by Washtenaw County Co-operative Extension Service, Ann Knisel, Lenawee county extension home economist, will explore: (1) how step-families differ from nuclear families; (2) how step-family members can clarify roles and identify feelings and (3) how step-parents can utilize appropriate child management techniques conducive to a healthy, happy, growth-producing environment.

Class will be held in the Co-operative Extension Service meeting room, 4133 Washtenaw, Ann Arbor (enter off Hogback Rd., building with the red square symbol).

Call 973-9510 to pre-register for this free workshop.

Home Meal Work Needs Volunteers

The Chelsea Home Meal Service is still looking for volunteer drivers to work on Tuesdays, spokesperson Mary Ann Merkel said.

Drivers pick up the packaged meals at 11 a.m. at the Chelsea United Methodist Home, and deliver them to clients who all live within the village. There is no country driving involved.

The meals are packaged in light-weight insulated containers and weigh a pound or less. No heavy lifting is required.

The service, which is supported by the Chelsea United Way, can use substitute drivers for any day, Mrs. Merkel said.

Interested persons are asked to call Joyce Manley at 475-2795 or Ann Feeney at 475-1443.

Nancy Morgan Wins Trip to Nashville

FOOTPRINTS OF LENT

Lord Jesus Christ, My crucified Savior, Son of the Most Blessed Virgin Mary, open Thine ear and listen to me as Thou did listen to Thy Eternal Father on Mount Tabor. Jesus, open Thine eyes and look down upon me, as Thou didst look down from the tree of the Cross, upon Thy sorrowing and afflicted Mother.

A child of Mary, Millie

THE CALLING SERVICE THAT'S BEST FOR YOU? JUST PUT YOUR FINGER ON IT.

That's right. You can still put your finger on the calling service you need or want just as easily as before, even though many changes have taken place in the communications industry. Michigan Bell continues to make a wide range of calling services and plans available to you.

A glance at the service options listed below will help you determine if you now have the service and calling plans that best fit your individual needs and budget. As always, reliable Michigan Bell telephone service comes with whatever option you select.

Local Service Options:

Measured Service*—allows up to 50 local calls per month for a small monthly charge. Calls above that limit would be billed to you on a per call basis. If you place few local calls per day, Measured Service could be the most economical choice for you.

Flat Rate Service—gives you unlimited local calls for a single monthly charge. Frequent telephone users may benefit from this service.

*Not available in all areas.

Long Distance Options:

Circle Calling—gives you a 30% discount on direct-dialed long distance calls placed within a 30-mile radius within your LATA+ except calls placed from 8 a.m. to noon Monday through Friday. The discount applies even when regular long distance discounts are in effect.

Budget Toll Dialing—provides a 30% discount on long distance calls anywhere within your LATA between 10 p.m. and 8 a.m. Sunday evening through Friday morning and from 5 p.m. Friday through 5 p.m. Sunday. Like Circle Calling, the Budget Toll Dialing discount applies even when regular long distance discounts are in effect.

+LATA is a new term that describes a Michigan Bell calling service area. It stands for Local Access and Transport Area.

Custom Calling Services:

Call Waiting—when you're on the phone, the Call Waiting signal alerts you someone else is calling. You can alternate conversation between both parties.

Call Forwarding—lets you program your phone so that incoming calls are automatically forwarded to any other telephone you desire.

Speed Calling—allows you to program your phone to dial up to eight or 30 frequently called numbers with simple one- or two-digit entries.

Three-Way Calling—lets you add a third party to a two-party conversation, instead of making separate calls.

(Custom Calling Services are not currently available in all calling areas.)

Dialing Options:

Through Michigan Bell, you have a choice of Rotary Service or Touch-Tone Service.

Rotary Service is pulse dialing. With this service, you need a pulse dialing phone with either a rotary dial or a push-button dial.

Touch-Tone Service is tone dialing. It is the most modern form of dialing. With Touch-Tone Service, you can use either tone dialing or pulse dialing telephones. However, to get the benefits of Touch-Tone Service (such as fast, accurate dialing), be sure to use a push-button phone made for tone dialing, which you can also use to access certain long distance and at-home banking services.

A VIEW from the CLOCK TOWER

Bill Mullendore

This has nothing to do with local affairs and so is a departure from the usual weekly View from the Clock Tower, but the fact is that I've been reading a lot about cholesterol lately and want to share some of my thoughts. They may have some meaning in a community where many older people live.

Time magazine carried a cover story on cholesterol a few weeks ago, and the Ann Arbor News recently devoted a couple of Sunday pages to a detailed in-depth presentation on the subject.

After reading both I came to the conclusion that I am lucky to be alive at the age 57 and can figure on dropping dead any minute now. My mother and dad, who will both be 83 later this year and are in robust health, have defied all the odds by living so long. As for my two grandfathers, who each died at 89 of ailments totally unrelated to cholesterol, they had to be medical miracles.

We all have one thing in common. We ate two eggs for breakfast every day, and the three of us yet living still do. We also eat, or did eat, bacon, sausage, butter and a bunch of other things which contain amounts of cholesterol that should have killed us, according to the reports of the medical researchers.

When I talked to Dad about this, he made it plain that he intends to go right on eating bacon or sausage, eggs and buttered toast for breakfast every morning, and so does Mother. So do I. We will all die of something eventually, but history to date suggests that the cause won't be cholesterol.

I'm not quarreling specifically with those scientists who contend that cholesterol is potentially dangerous. It no doubt is. So are a lot of other things that we eat, drink, breathe and do every day. You can fall and break your neck getting out of bed. You take your life in your hands every time you drive or ride in an automobile. Nothing we do in life is totally without risk.

What bothers me is that I'm reading and hearing far too much about these hazards, to the point where I have to wonder if anything at all is even relatively safe.

A couple of months ago there were scare stories about packaged baking mixes manufactured by, among others, Chelsea Milling Co. If you believed what you read, you might be endangering your life because some of the products contained trace amounts of a chemical called ethylene dibromide (EDB) which has been found to cause cancer in laboratory animals if eaten in large enough quantities.

It so happens that my wife uses a lot of Chelsea Milling's Jiffy Mixes in our kitchen. They are inexpensive and they are very good. She has gone right on buying them, and neither of us expects to die from an overdose of Jiffy Mix. The last time I looked, there were eight Jiffy Mix boxes in the cupboard. We will consume those, and buy more.

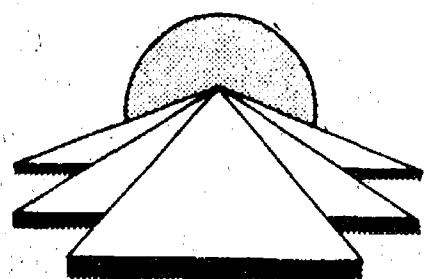

There are dozens of other chemicals that have been warned against. Most of them are said to be carcinogenic (cancer-causing). If you tried to avoid all of them, you would perish from hunger or thirst, or suffocate from lack of air.

A scientist-friend whom I much respect once tried to put the problem in some kind of perspective by telling me:

"Look, if you force-feed a rat or a monkey enough of anything, I don't care what, you can kill it, and it very likely will develop some tumors during the process of dying. Common table salt (sodium chloride) is a deadly poison in large doses. So is every other chemical we know about, and so are a surprising number of natural foods, maybe all of them. A bushel of anything eaten as fast as you choke it down, might kill you. It sure would make you sick."

"I'm not saying we shouldn't be concerned about these things, but we shouldn't worry ourselves to death about them either. You can kill yourself by worrying too much, and a lot of people have."

"You're not going to live forever, and you might as well accept that fact. Be sensible, but don't panic. Don't over-eat, over-drink or over-do anything, and you will probably live a long time."

Today's Investor

By Thomas E. O'Hara
Chairman, Board of Trustees
National Assoc. of Investment Clubs
& Editor, Better Investing Magazine

Q. I read the report where you recommended readers buy Continental Illinois Corporation. I can't imagine how you could possibly make a recommendation like that. That bank has just lost a tremendous amount of money in the Penn Square Bank fiasco, and it has billions of dollars in foreign loans which everybody knows is in great difficulty. I wish you would explain how you have the nerve to recommend investment in a situation like that.

A. We recommend Continental Illinois as an undervalued stock. By an undervalued stock, we mean one that has had considerable difficulty, where the price is down by a sizeable amount from past highs, and where it appears a recovery in earnings and an increase in price is likely in the next 12 to 18 months. The loss with the Penn Square Bank, that you mentioned, is about $485 million. However, it is important to recognize that that loss has been written off and is now a matter of the past. The company does have about $10 billion of foreign loans, and about $2 billion of those are in countries where the country as a whole is having a solvency problem. However, most of these loans are to the private sector, and the percentage that are not paying interest is not large. A year ago when the world economy was in bad shape, there was much concern about what would happen in a lot of countries. Now that the world economy is on an up-turn, that concern is much less.

Let's look first at the price of the stock. Before the Penn Square problem, the stock sold as high as $42 1/4. When news of the loss came out, the stock dropped down to $15 1/8. Recently, it has been selling in the $21-$22 area. A lot of the problem has been recognized in that price decline.

When you look at the company itself, there seems to be hope that it has passed the worst and is beginning to increase earnings. From record earnings per share of $8.58 in 1981, there was a drop to $1.96 in 1982. Standard & Poor's estimates the company will earn $2.75 a share for 1983, and that a further recovery will occur this year. The company operates the seventh largest bank in the country, and in recent years has had an excellent record of growth. Its growth and earnings records (except for the Penn Square problem) have compared very favorably with other large, good quality banks.

As of Sept. 30, 1983, the company had $2 billion of loans that were not paying interest. That was 6.5% out of the total of $32.4 billion. The company has a loss reserve of 1.2% of loans and leases outstanding. With the much improved economy, it is expected that the amount of non-interest paying loans will decline.

Since its losses in Penn Square, the company has made a number of people changes, and has instituted a number of procedures which it hopes will help reduce future loan losses.

During its period of trial, the company has continued its dividend of $2 a share. With earnings improving at a good rate, it would seem likely that that dividend will be continued.

While you can't guarantee anything in the stock market, it looks to me like this company has started a good recovery from a heavy blow, and qualifies being called an undervalued stock.

Parts Peddler Installs New Computer System

Parts Peddler Auto Supply, Inc., has installed a complete new computer system, which has the capabilities of on-the-counter invoicing, inventory control and automatic re-ordering on a daily refill basis.

The system will allow each Parts Peddler store to read inventories in their other stores at any time. It will also allow around-the-clock inquiries into the main warehouses in Bay City, Lansing and Flint.

This system increases sourcing of hard to find parts for daily delivery. Each Parts Peddler store receives daily morning delivery from the main warehouses.

Another feature of the computer system is expansion of inventories, which has already been done. The Main St. store in Chelsea has been completely re-inventoried with up-to-date parts in most lines. New counters and sales gondolas have been added.

Pricing has been re-adjusted to allow Parts Peddler stores to compete with larger discount parts stores.

Entering the computer age is a new concept in the auto parts business in the Washtenaw county area.

Dick Kolander, owner of Parts Peddler, invites you to come in and take a look at the new system.

Center Offers Free Program On Vaccines

Smallpox and polio are once-dreaded diseases that have been all but vanquished by vaccines. Vaccines against infectious disease have played a major role in reducing deaths and illnesses at an early age.

"Recently, many questions have been coming into the center about immunizations," said Dr. Thomas Hupy, a family practice physician at the University of Michigan Family Practice Center. "Many of the questions have to do with the measles outbreak and changes in intervals between various re-immunizations. These questions brought to light the fact that many people do not understand when the various vaccinations should be given."

Because of this interest, Dr. Hupy and Gail Finch, R.N., are sponsoring an informational session on immunizations to help people understand the recommended vaccines and how to establish a schedule for them. They will also talk about the importance of keeping family records.

The session will be offered on Thursday, April 12, 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. in the classroom at the Family Practice Center, 775 S. Main St.

Area Students Recognized At U. of M. Honors Conclave

Several area residents were among the 3,371 University of Michigan students recognized at the school's annual Honors Convocation last Sunday.

Most received Class Honors, recognizing an undergraduate grade-point average of 3.5 for at least two terms. Others were named James B. Angell Scholars for maintaining a 4.0 record for two or more terms. Also, 225 members of the freshman class received the William J. Branstrom prize for being ranked in the top five percent of their class.

Some students earned more than one award.

Honorees from the area included:

Julie Ann Botsford, 19500 Sibley Rd., Chelsea, Angell Scholar, Class Honor; Lisa S. Hurd, 16360 Roe Rd., Chelsea, Class Honor; Jeffrey J. Kiel, 6000 Stofer Rd., Chelsea, Class Honor; Daniel R. ## William J. Mokenzie Participates in NATO Training Exercise

Navy Fireman Apprentice William J. Mokenzie, son of Charles A. and Mary Brooks of 625 W. Middle St., Chelsea, recently participated in NATO exercises "United Effort" and "Teamwork '84."

He is a crewmember aboard the USS Spartanburg County, homeported in Norfolk, Va.

"United Effort" was designed to improve unit readiness in all areas, including anti-surface, anti-air, anti-submarine warfare and convoy protection. Forty-four U. S., British and Canadian ships participated, and practiced exercising their capabilities in various tactical situations.

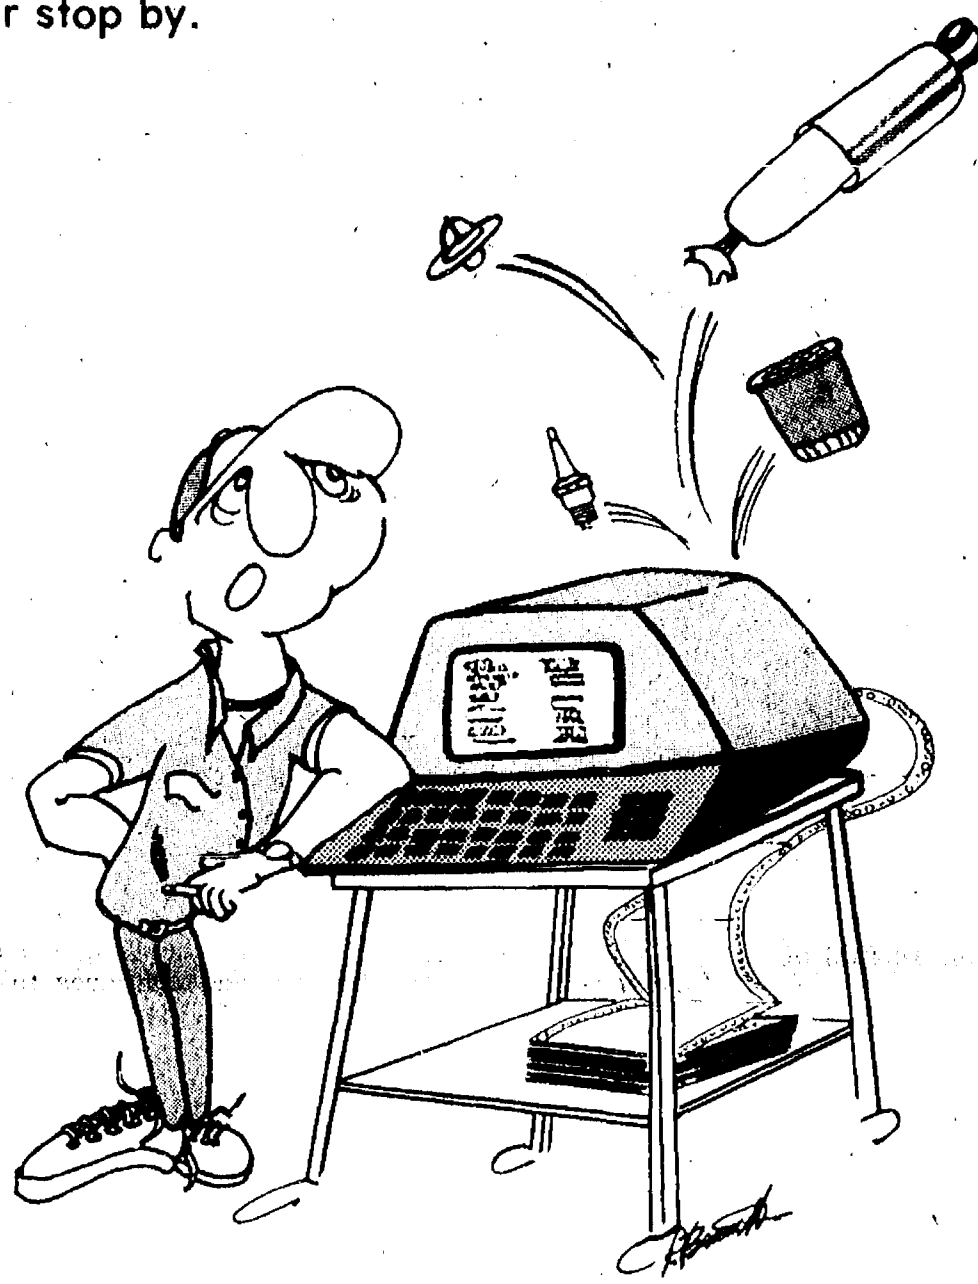

The exercise began in the Western Atlantic, and concluded in the Northern Atlantic when the participants joined other ships from NATO nations and France, for exercise "Teamwork '84."

"Teamwork '84" was designed to test plans for the military reinforcement of Northern Europe. It involved more than 150 ships and 300 aircraft, including more than 30 U. S. Navy ships, in battle maneuvers in the North Sea, Norwegian Sea, and the North Atlantic. The exercise included a combined amphibious assault conducted by U. S. Marines, British Royal Marines and Dutch Royal Marines in support of Norwegian forces operating in the arctic climate of northern Norway.

Exhibitors Wanted For Lost Arts Display

In today's busy lifestyle, if we are going to construct something with lumber, we buy pre-cut wood and manufactured nails.

Years ago, each and every nail that was used for a project was hand-made—the metal heated and snipped and pounded into just one single nail.

To wash our hands and face, we just unwrap a new bar of soap we purchased from the area supermarket. And years ago, that soap had to be made at home—boiled for hours; a concoction of lye and ashes and cooking grease, etc.

We tend to take for granted, many of our everyday jobs or routines that our ancestors worked ed for hours, or even days, to achieve.

Examples of what we are talking about here will be on exhibit during the Sesquicentennial celebration on July 3 and 4, at the Lost Arts Exhibit.

The Merchants building at the Fairgrounds will be the gathering place for many craftsmen and knowledgeable people who will demonstrate, display and/or sell their wares.

John Wooden from Ypsilanti will demonstrate on a small weaving loom, how rugs, placemats, etc., are made. He will have many of his beautiful rugs for sale. The Hyde family from Clarkston, who have won numerous ribbons and awards for their work, will show us how duck decoys are hand-carved. Audrey Waite; the only known scissor silhouette cutter in the lower Michigan area, will be on hand to demonstrate her talent.

These are just a few examples of what we will see at this exhibit. We still have plenty of room for more displays and we are encouraging any persons in the area who have a special talent or display to join us during the festival.

We are looking for such things as candle making, tatting, soap making, forging, whittling, spinning, any type of old carpenter tools, farm implements, etc.

If you would like to demonstrate or display your craft, please contact Marcy Stump at 475-3429 for more information. Those people who wish to sell their wares, as well as demonstrate, or encouraged to do so.

EULOGY

Honoring Mr. Ray Zor

Delivered at the gravesite

Saturday, March 31, 1984

By Charles S. Cameron

Brothers of the Brush, Belles, Brethern, Sistern, Ladies and Gentlemen:

We have gathered together here for these temporary last rites for our good friend and bloody brother, Ray Zor. As Ralph Waldo Emerson once said, "We do not come here to praise Caesar, but to bury him," so we too have come to chuck old Ray in a box. He, who in his prime has laid so many stiffs away, now is so ingloriously stuffed as a stiff by our staff into a box. We pause to weep.

As you all know, Ray Zor was a blood letter. It was a profession he followed daily with a faithfulness that was frightening. In the dim, foggy hours of the morning he worked at his job through thick and thin. And in true democratic fashion, he did not discriminate between white or black, or red or yellow—he pulled them all out by their roots.

He has been cursed, hurled to the floor, libeled with infamous comment. He has been used on toenails, callouses, linoleum, package twine and even on an occasional leg or two. But being a true competitor, he worked best under pressure and when things were really lathered up, he was at his best.

He was really a sharp fellow at times and at other times he could really pull for you... and how he could pull. He could start on your face and pull deep into your stomach. This we shall truly miss. As the Japanese say "with his death we shall lose more and more face."

On this day of infamy and remorse, we feel the hand of prophecy laid heavily on our chin and we feel compelled to make these predictions:

First: We predict that it shall be increasingly hard to tell who descended from whom—men from monkeys or monkeys from men.

Second: We predict fraternal organizations will increase and marriages will decrease and if this is allowed to continue, two separate races of mankind shall perish together.

Third: We predict that the sale of fingernail clippers will decline and that they shall be replaced by a spasmodic scratching of the face.

Fourth: We predict that among the younger specie, the front seats of the car will now wear out more evenly as girls on dates will tend more and more to sit in the places assigned to them.

We predict also that a gentle caress on the back of the hand will replace the kiss, and because of this we predict that infectious diseases like athletes hands will greatly increase.

Likewise, we predict that name tags will become more and more popular as means of identification.

We also predict that our language shall change and such phrases as "he has an honest face" will become "he has an honest beard," and other phrases such as "show one's face at the meeting" will drop entirely from our vocabulary.

But let us not despair entirely, for the death of Ray Zor shall receive one blessing to those who have despaired of growing hair on top of the face. They can now attempt to grow it on the bottom part of the face.

All this we see in the dark days ahead because Ray Zor is dead.

So we mourn his death. What automation could not do—what the heat of the day or the opposition of his wily competitors could not do—the bland indifference of Chelsea's stubble-minded men have done. They have sent him to his untimely death.

Mr. Ray Zor is survived by his widow, Prudence Lather; his sons Schick, Gillette, Norelco and Remington; his daughters Daisy and Flicker; and one cousin Mr. Ray Zor Blade.

I wish to express my gratitude to Justice of the Peace, Chandler Rogers, deceased, who delivered this eulogy 25 years ago during Chelsea's 125th birthday celebration.

Earth to earth, ashes to ashes, and rust to rust.

Book pages are called "leaves," it is said, because before the invention of paper one of the substances used for writing on was the leaves of certain plants.

Sesqui Committee Working Diligently

One of the founding members of the Sesquicentennial Committee is Sis Kanten. Sis is in charge of revenue for the Sesquicentennial, and will be running the country store in the headquarters at Sylvan Town Hall, starting the second week-end in June.

The store will be selling all kinds of articles having to do with the celebration, including hats, t-shirts, ties, derby and Lincoln hats for men, and other mementoes of the celebration.

Anyone wanting a place in the store for displays and/or sales should contact Sis at 475-7427. Sis teaches 2nd grade in the Dexter school District, and has been active in the past in village government.

Sis is the wife of Wynn Kanten, who is the head of "Scat," the band well known throughout Chelsea for the best music around. Daughter Kellie is 12 years old, and attends Chelsea schools. Sis has worked long and hard on our Sesquicentennial, and certainly deserves a vote of thanks from all of us.

Lynda Longe is the official secretary of the Sesquicentennial Committee, among many of her other duties. Lynda has been a part of the celebration from the beginning, and has practically single handedly worked with Am-track for the acquisition of the Chelsea depot for the Chamber of Commerce and the Historical Society.

Lynda holds the office of vice-president in the Historical Society, is the director for girls softball, and is the inter-troop chairman of the Girl Scouts.

Lynda is the mother of six girls (you wouldn't believe it when you meet her!), and works part-time as a dispatcher at the Chelsea Police Department. Lynda's energy and enthusiasm have been a real asset to the Sesquicentennial, and we all appreciate her hard work.

Ray Zor Buried Saturday In Elaborate Ceremony

A 21-gun salute was fired by the American Legion, and Chelsea's sesquicentennial celebration began with the ceremonial burial of Mr. "Ray Zor" last Saturday at the McKune Memorial Library.

In honor of this event, a parade was held to celebrate Ray Zor's passing. Many of the Chelsea Belles and Brothers of the Brush chapters participated in the parade. Members of the Outhouse Gang, and the Treated Studs, were pallbearers for Mr. Ray Zor. The Petticoat Junction Belles, represented Mr. Ray Zor's grieving family.

At the burial at the library, John Mitchell of Staffan-Mitchell Funeral Home presided.

Charles Cameron gave the eulogy, which was in keeping with the event. John Keusch then drew the winning tickets for the lottery.

The weather was wonderful, and a large crowd was present for this momentous occasion. Now that Mr. Ray Zor has departed, we should be seeing plenty of facial hair around town and country! Belles and Brothers kits are still available at Springer's Insurance on Park St., as are Clean Shaver buttons.

The Sesquicentennial Committee would like to extend their thanks to the Fire Department and John and Gloria Mitchell for a job well done.

A new film designed to improve the labor relations skills necessary to resolve employee grievances has been produced by the U. S. Department of Labor. "Grievance Handling," is designed to educate an inexperienced audience with the techniques of handling employee grievances in the context of a collective bargaining agreement.

RECALLS THE PAST: Rolly W. Spaulding, who served as general chairman of the Chelsea 125th Anniversary Celebration, was the picture of old times as he made appropriate comments during the funeral ceremonies for Ray Zor.

Chelsea Girls First In Relay Event At Invitational

Chelsea girls track team participated in the Siena Heights indoor invitational last Saturday and had several strong performances, including a first place in the 1,600-meter relay.

Individually, Amy Wolfgang made it to the semi-finals of the 55-meter hurdles in a strong field which included last year's state champion and third-place finishers. Kim Collins ran well in the 1,600 to finish in the middle of the field.

The 800-meter relay team of sophomores Christie Favers and Laura Damm and freshmen Edie Harook and Chris Girard ran a solid race, finishing second in their heat, and had the 10th best time in the 24-team field.

In the 3,200 meter relay, a team of Sallie Wilson, Mary Ann Richardson, Rachel Schmell and Chris Newman ran well early and held off a late challenge to finish third in 11:22.

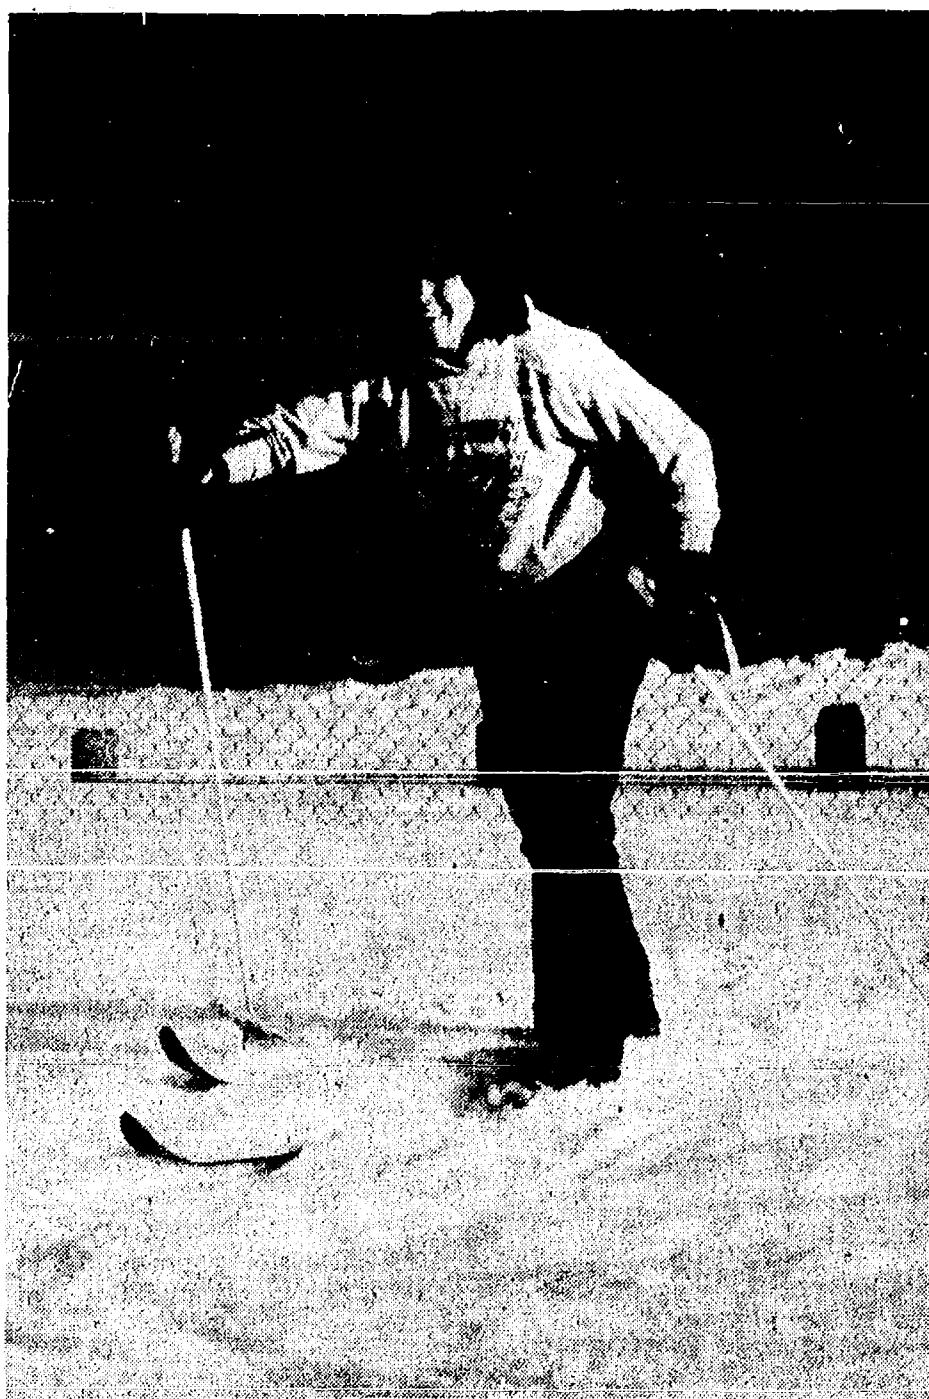

The 1,600 relay was the day's final event. Chelsea's team of Wendy Wolfgang, Stephanie Roberts, Laura Damm and Amy Wolfgang ran away with the first heat with a 4:25 clocking, then had to wait through three more heats to see if the time would hold for first place. It did, by more than six seconds over Flint Bentley's 4:31.6. "We used the meet to experiment a little, and gain some experience for younger runners who may fill key positions as the season progresses. We learned a lot in this meet," said coach Bill Bainton.

Amy Unterbrink Posts 5-3 Mark In Early Season

Chelsea's Amy Unterbrink came away from a week-long spring series in Oklahoma with a 5-3 record while pitching for the Indiana University women's softball team.

Unterbrink, a sophomore, hurled 59 1/3 innings, striking out 61 batters and walking nine. Her earned-run average was .589. All five of her victories were shut-outs. Indiana was shut out in each of her three losses.

People of the United States spend only 12.7% of their disposable income for food consumed at home, the lowest figure for any nation. USDA's Foreign Ag Service reports that Canadian and Dutch citizens come the closest to the U.S.

MARY BACON of Pinckney, competes in the cross country race during the ROTC Field Day held recently at Northern Michigan University. The event was sponsored by the Department of Military Science for students taking ROTC classes at Northern, and included winter sports competitions, a picnic and bonfire. Bacon, a sophomore majoring in biochemistry, is the daughter of David and Barbara Bacon, 12005 Jerusalem Rd., Chelsea.

Boys Track Team Winless in Relays

The Chelsea boys track season got off to an inauspicious start as the team failed to score a point at the Huron Relays held in Ypsilanti's Bowen field house.

"The competition was very tough, and we just weren't prepared for it, coach Bill Wehrwein said. "The timing of the meet couldn't have been worse from our standpoint.

"Several of the boys we wanted to run couldn't participate because of spring vacation and college entrance examination commitments. If we had had everybody there, I think we could have scored in at least a couple of events."

The good news is that the squad has been augmented to 30 boys with the turn-out of several who came in late. "We're stronger than we were a couple of weeks ago," Wehrwein said. "We won't be world-beaters, but I think we can be competitive."

Wehrwein sees Lincoln and Saline as the teams to beat in the Southeastern Conference.

"Lincoln has an outstanding group of sprinters and hurdlers, and Saline is very strong in the middle and long distances," Wehrwein said. "Realistically, I would have to say at this point that we can't match either team. I honestly don't know much about Milan, Dexter and Tecumseh."

Right now Wehrwein is wondering where his team will run its first dual meet, scheduled here on April 12. The Chelsea track isn't ready for competition, and very likely will not be.

Finishing work on the new track remains to be done, and contractors say they must have five days of guaranteed dry weather to do it.

"They are watching the weather forecasts and will come in whenever it looks like the time is right," Wehrwein said. "We'll probably get 24 hours notice or less. The weather at this time of year is unpredictable, to say the least."

The April 12 meet is slated against Jackson Lumen Christi and could be shifted there if Chelsea's track isn't ready, Wehrwein said.

Softball Leagues Now Organizing

Men's softball leagues are now forming for the Interstate Park. Much interest has been shown for the new leagues. There are now only three openings left for the eight team Tuesday-Thursday men's double-header league. There are still several openings for the Monday and Wednesday men's league.

Interstate Park hopes to have a church and/or co-ed league depending on the interest expressed. The church and co-ed league games will be played on Friday evenings.

Interstate park would like to have all men's teams interested in playing signed up by April 20 and the church or co-ed leagues by May 1.

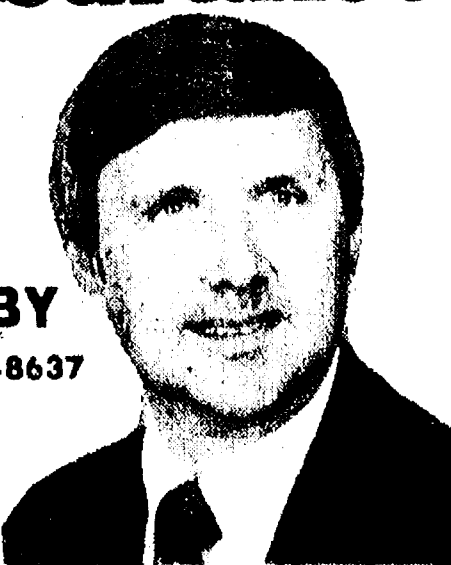

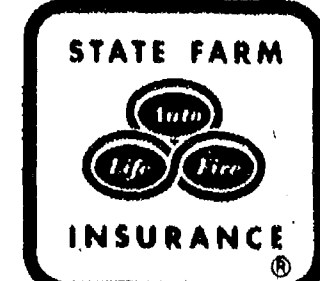

There will be a meeting for the men's leagues April 12 at 7 p.m. in the basement of the Mark IV lounge.

More details will be furnished at a later date for the church and/or co-ed league.

Ken Bauer Recognized For State-Record Gar

Ken Bauer of 991 S. Lima Center Rd. speared a long-nosed gar in Jackson county's Portage River on the night of May 11, 1982. It was 52 1/2 inches long and weighed 15 pounds, a Michigan record for the species.

Last week he received from the Department of Natural Resources a replica of his trophy. The original mount will be hung in the Lansing office of the DNR's fisheries division.

"I've seen some bigger ones," Bauer said as he accepted the beautifully done reproduction of his fish, which would have cost about $250 to have made privately.

"A couple of times I've sighted gars in the same general area that were several inches longer, but I couldn't get within spearing distance. Somebody will break my record, maybe me. It could happen this spring. The larger fish are out there."

Gars, commonly called garpike even though they are unrelated to the pike family of fishes, are long, slim fish built along the lines of a heavy-bodied snake. About one-fifth of their length is a snout, or bill, filled with needle-sharp teeth. Those teeth can cut the heaviest fishing line, including metal lines.

Thus, gars are seldom caught by conventional hook-and-line methods of angling. They are most commonly speared, and are occasionally taken on a "noose" rig which captures the fish something like a lasso catches a calf.

Gars feed on smaller fish. Gars are sluggish and spend most of the time lying like logs on or near the top of the water. When something edible swims close, a hungry gar makes a swift sideways move and grabs the prey in its long, lethal bill. Anything caught in that deadly trap of teeth is done for.

Gars are not generally considered to be good table food, although there are reports they can be made fit to eat by smoking the filleted flesh. They are full of bones. The unspawned eggs of female gars are poisonous and should not be eaten.

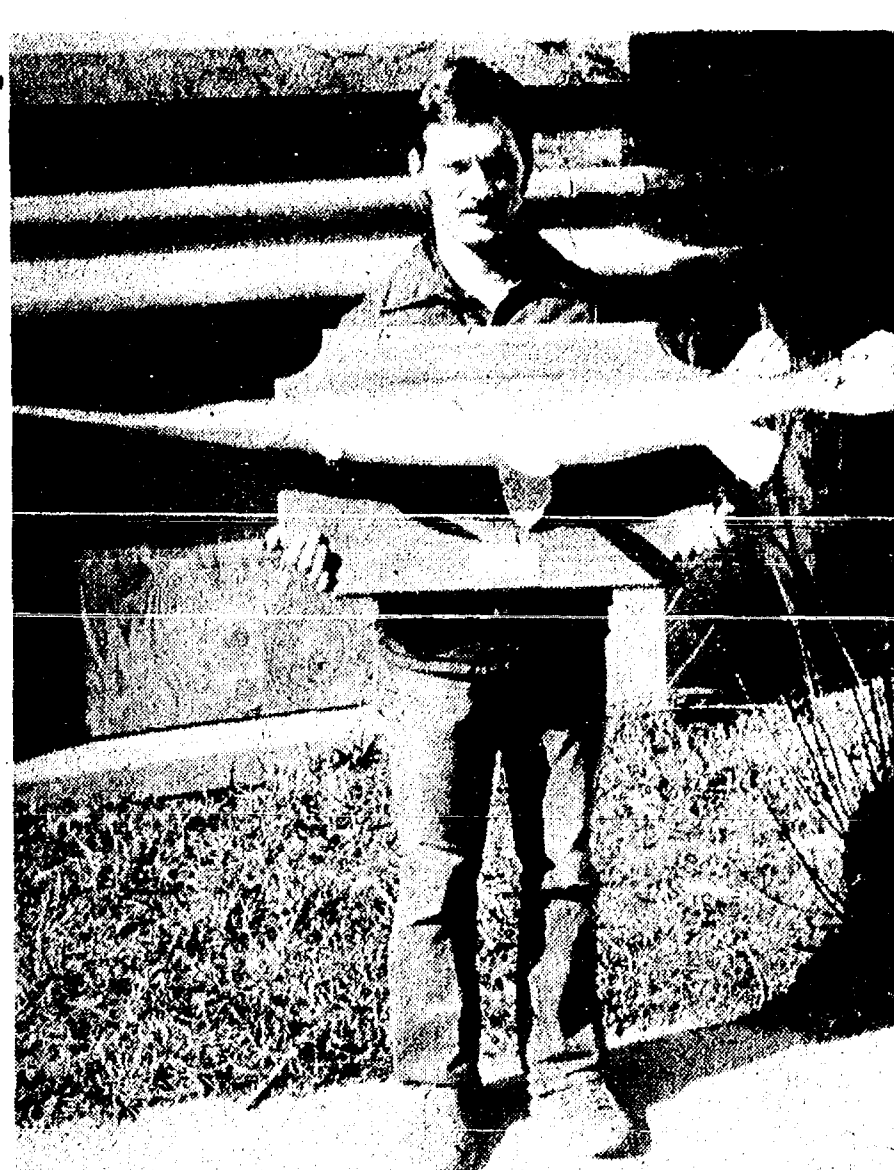

Gars have air-breathing lungs, testifying to their heritage as being among the oldest living types of fishes. They normally breathe through their gills, as other fish do, but can also inhale air above water.

Bauer's big gar will stand as the state record until somebody takes a larger one by any legal method. Local waters contain a large population of these little, noticed but interesting fish. The Huron River and its chains of lakes are loaded with gars.

Ken Dodge, DNR district fish biologist stationed in Jackson, congratulated Bauer on his state-record catch and again urged local fishermen to participate in the state Master Angler program.

Entries received last year totalled 793, and 766 shoulder patches were awarded. A total of 162 fishermen received certificates for placing among the top five in the species category they entered. Eight new state records were certified.

Further information may be secured from the Fisheries Division, Department of Natural Resources, Box 30028, Lansing 48909. Forms and assistance are also available from DNR district and regional offices.

Forty-five different species of fish are eligible for entry. They range from lake sturgeon (current state record 193 pounds) to pumpkinseed sunfish (current state record one pound).

Dwelling) of the Zoning Ordinance to determine if a detached barn

Hospital Speech Pathologists Help Brain-Damaged Patients

When a person suffering from a right hemisphere brain-injury looks at a clock, he only sees the numbers one through six, or just the right side. If that same person wants to go back and re-read a favorite novel, he finds the writing fragmented—it will be the same book he once read, but he can only read the right side of the text.

Only recently, though, have speech pathologists begun working with these patients. Two Chelsea Community Hospital speech pathologists realized no literature existed that addressed the specific therapeutic needs of these patients.

This spring, Kathleen Anderson, director of speech pathology at Chelsea Community Hospital, and Pam Crowe Miller, staff speech pathologist also at Chelsea Community Hospital, will publish a series of five workbooks designed to help right brain-injured adults retrieve everyday skills lost through a head injury or stroke. The workbooks, entitled "Recovery from Right Brain Damage," will address the various areas in which right brain-injured patients experience deficiencies. These patients usually experience impaired functioning in three areas: visual perception, organization of thoughts, and fragmented memory.

After working with these patients and reviewing all the available literature, Anderson said, she and Miller decided more specific programs were needed that would focus attention on right brain-injured handicaps. "It was difficult to assimilate other available materials to the needs of these types of patients," Anderson added.

When a patient suffering from impaired visual perception reads, for instance, his eye will go immediately to the right side of the page and miss the beginning of every line. The workbooks consist of a series of exercises that are designed to help train the patient focus on the ignored side of the page.

separate dwelling units permitted in a Two-Family Residential (RS-3) District must be in one building; now,

BE IT RESOLVED, AND IT IS HEREIN RESOLVED, that this Zoning Board of Appeals finds that the Zoning Ordinance does not permit two dwelling units, each in separate structures, in the Two-Family Residential (RS-3) District, and that the permitted two dwelling units must be in one building.

Motion by Radloff, supported by Harris, to adopt the above resolution as read. Roll call: Ayes all. Motion carried. Resolution adopted.

Motion by Radloff, supported by Merkel, to hold a hearing on April 17, 1984 on Application for Appeal No. 84-02, to build a 3-unit apartment at 625 W. Middle Street, appeal is made for a variance from Zoning Ordinance. Roll call: Ayes all. Motion carried.

Motion by Merkel, supported by Steele, to adjourn. Roll call: Ayes all. Motion carried. Meeting adjourned.

Anderson cautions, though, that despite whatever therapies are available to right brain-injured patients, they are still living with an organic brain deficiency. The goal, then, Anderson added, is to improve the quality of life for these patients and help them attain a degree of self-sufficiency. "These books are trying to help them adapt to their handicap," she added.

The books begin with simple exercises and gradually proceed to more difficult problems. Success of the workbooks, Anderson said, depends on the patients' commitment and the hard work of the speech pathologist.

Despite not having any statistical information to measure the success of the workbooks, Miller said that she can see patients slowly improving. Miller and Anderson began taking patients through the workbooks last summer.

An additional feature of the books, Anderson said, is they may be used outside the clinical setting by a spouse or friend, for instance.

Although they are beginning a new area in the treatment of right brain-injured adults, Anderson expressed enthusiasm and confidence that the program will succeed. "The thing that's exciting to us is people are now starting to work with these patients in these particular areas, and 'we will be able to provide some of the materials,' she said."

TAKE NOTICE that the Sylvan Township Planning Commission will hold a Public hearing on Monday, April 30, 1984, at 7:30 in the evening at the Sylvan Township Hall, 112 West Middle Street, Chelsea, Michigan 48118 for the purpose of hearing public comment on the following amendment to the Sylvan Township Zoning Ordinance.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO SYLVAN TOWNSHIP ZONING ORDINANCE

SYLVAN TOWNSHIP PRIVATE SITES DEDICATED TO COMMON USE (P-5 DISTRICT)

SECTION —

A. INTENT.

The P-5 District is established for all private riparian sites which are dedicated to common use. Private riparian sites are: lands held in common by a subdivision, association or any similar agency; or held in common by virtue of the terms of a plat of record; or provided for common use under deed restrictions of record for riparian access or riparian use of a body of water.

The intent of this section is, in support of the general intent of this Ordinance, to provide for necessary lands and uses required by the needs of Township residents and visitors.

B. PERMITTED PRINCIPAL USES AND STRUCTURES.

All lands in a P-5 zone shall be maintained and used for common purposes, such as:

1. Recreational sites, including bathing beaches, playgrounds, boat launching sites, and other recreational areas, adjoining a body of water.
3. Trails, bicycle paths, walk ways, and access routes, which adjoin a body of water.

C. PERMITTED ACCESSORY USES AND STRUCTURES.

1. All structures, facilities, and uses customarily incidental to the permitted Principal Uses.

D. AREA AND BULK REQUIREMENTS.

P-5 Sites Dedicated to Common Use shall conform in all respects to the area and bulk requirements of the adjacent Districts which they are intended to serve.

E. GENERAL REQUIREMENTS.

1. Limitation of Uses.

The specific uses assigned for common utilization under the terms of sub-section B are to be limited to areas zoned P-5. PRIVATE SITES DEDICATED TO COMMON USE. No residential agricultural or commercial zoned lot can be used for these common purposes.

2. Riparian Access for Non-riparian Lots.

If a riparian lot or parcel is zoned P-5, giving access for common uses by non-riparian lots or parcels, the following conditions shall apply:

- a. The deed to such lot or parcel shall specify the non-riparian lots or parcels which shall have rights to its use.

- b. Such riparian lot or parcel shall have a minimum frontage of one hundred and fifty (150) feet, a minimum area of thirty thousand (30,000) square feet, and its design shall be subject to Site Plan Review. Frontage shall be measured by a straight line which intersects each side lot line of the water's edge.

- c. Not less than thirty (30) feet of riparian frontage shall be provided for each non-riparian lot or parcel so served.

- d. A non-riparian lot or parcel which is occupied by more than one dwelling unit (duplex or Multiple Residence) shall require the provision of thirty (30) feet of riparian frontage for each dwelling unit occupying said lot or parcels.

- e. Not more than one boat mooring for each dwelling unit served may be placed upon the riparian lot.

- f. The non-riparian lot which is served by the riparian lot, shall conform to the regulations of its zoning district.

- g. If five (5) or more households or dwelling units have the beneficial use of a riparian lot or parcel shall be improved with a bath and laundry facility and served by a central water and sewer system or a well and septic system in accordance with the Ordinances and Regulations of the Washtenaw County Health Department.

All interested parties will be heard at said meeting. The Petition and supporting papers are on file in the office of the Sylvan Township Clerk, Mary Harris, 415 South Main Street, Chelsea, Michigan 48118 during regular business hours by appointment.

UP, UP AND AWAY: North school pupils release their message-carrying balloons as they take part in a national writing pals contest.

Finders of the balloons are asked to answer the messages.

North School Students Join in Balloon Race

North school joined the "great balloon race," last Tuesday.

Students launched helium-filled balloons as part of a nation-wide writing pals balloon contest sponsored by Weekly Reader.

A message attached to each balloon explained the project and asked the finder to return it to North school.

Weekly Reader will present a $500 prize to the school that has a message travel the farthest distance.

Each pupil will write a pen-pal letter in answer to each message card returned. Mrs. Clark's fifth grade class is keeping track of the balloons on a U. S. map.

The program is designed to motivate children to write and become familiar with students in other parts of the country.

County Roads Said In Excellent Shape

Western Washtenaw county's gravel roads are in "excellent" condition for this time of year, according to Fletcher Desautels, chief engineer for the county Road Commission.

"We have been very lucky with the weather so far," Desautels said, "and it looks like we will come out of this spring in very good shape, without a major break-up. If we get two more weeks of reasonably decent weather, we'll have it made."

Almost all back roads in west Washtenaw have been graded and gravelled, and some have been treated with a dust-laying sprinkling of brine, Desautels said.

"Mother Nature has been good to us up to this point," he added. "The very deep frost we had during this past unusually cold winter has been coming out of the ground gradually, and we haven't had a mud problem."

"The frost was as deep as five feet in some places, and that is about as much as we ever get around here. It hasn't completely thawed yet, but it's coming. The only thing that could hurt us now would be a really big downpour of rain, three or four inches in a few hours. If that doesn't happen, we are in great shape."

"The next two weeks will tell the story for sure, but right now we are optimistic. Our spring work has gone very well. We're ahead of schedule, and the roads are in excellent condition."

Spring Break Begins Well Ahead of Easter

Chelsea school district students went on vacation for nine days starting at the end of classes last Friday afternoon.

School will resume on Monday, April 9.

The vacation period is unusual in that it began three weeks ahead of Easter Sunday, which will be observed on April 22. Spring vacation and Easter week normally coincide.

Easter is late in coming this year, but it can be even later. The date can vary by more than a month, from March 23 to April 25.

That is because church authorities centuries ago decided that Easter, which originally was a European pagan festival to herald the beginning of the spring planting season, should be celebrated on the first Sunday after the first full moon following March 21.

How phases of the moon, spring planting rite, and Christ's resurrection all got mixed together is a long and complicated story, and much of it is obscure.

For the record, Easter will be on April 7 next year. It will fall on March 23, the earliest possible date, in 2008. The next time it will happen as late as it is this year

Bicyclist Loses Balance, Breaks Merkel's Window

A bicyclist lost his balance and fell against a window on the S. Main St. side of Merkel's Furniture and Carpet Store at about 5 p.m. last Saturday.

The large display window was broken, but the cyclist was unhurt. The window has been replaced, a Merkel's spokesman said, adding that "We are very happy there was no injury."

Contrary to some reports around town, the incident was unconnected with the Ray Zor burial parade which took place earlier in the day.
