Council Gives Downtown Plan Support

Support for the downtown revitalization plan being developed by the Chelsea Chamber of Commerce was cautiously expressed by the village council at its June 5 meeting.

The motion as passed approved the concept of the plan but avoided endorsement of any of its suggested specifics, such as routing some of the truck traffic off Main St.

Council members had earlier been given a special briefing on the plan as it has been developed thus far by the Ann Arbor firm of Johnson, Johnson & Roy.

The plan is basically intended to make the downtown business district more attractive to shoppers. It includes ideas for landscaping, more parking, rear access to some stores, and less traffic congestion on Main St.

Two More Escape from Cassidy Lake

Two prisoners escaped from Cassidy Lake Technical School last Friday. One is back in custody, and the other is still at large.

Doug Bower, 19, serving a sentence for receiving stolen property (third offense) and Daniel S. Franc, 19, convicted of burglary, armed robbery and illegal possession of a firearm walked away some time Friday evening.

Bower was caught by Coldwater police and is being held in the Branch county jail.

Franc is from Kalamazoo county.

Their escapes brought to 24 the number of prisoners who have walked away from Cassidy Lake so far this year.

Funds Ok'd For Landfill, Industry Park

Payment of $63,911.48 to Joseph Chie Co., Milan, for work done during May on construction of the new burial cell at the Chelsea landfill has been authorized by the village council.

Also approved was payment of $4,775.62 to Washtenaw Engineering Co. for its services in connection with landfill project.

The money will come out of the special landfill revolving fund, which is supposed to be self-supporting from fees collected for use of the disposal facility.

The council likewise authorized payments from the industrial park fund of $5,787.31 to Ayres, Lewis, Norris & May for engineering services and $221.26 to Contractors Publishing Co. for bid advertising.

School Board Adopts New '84-85 Budget

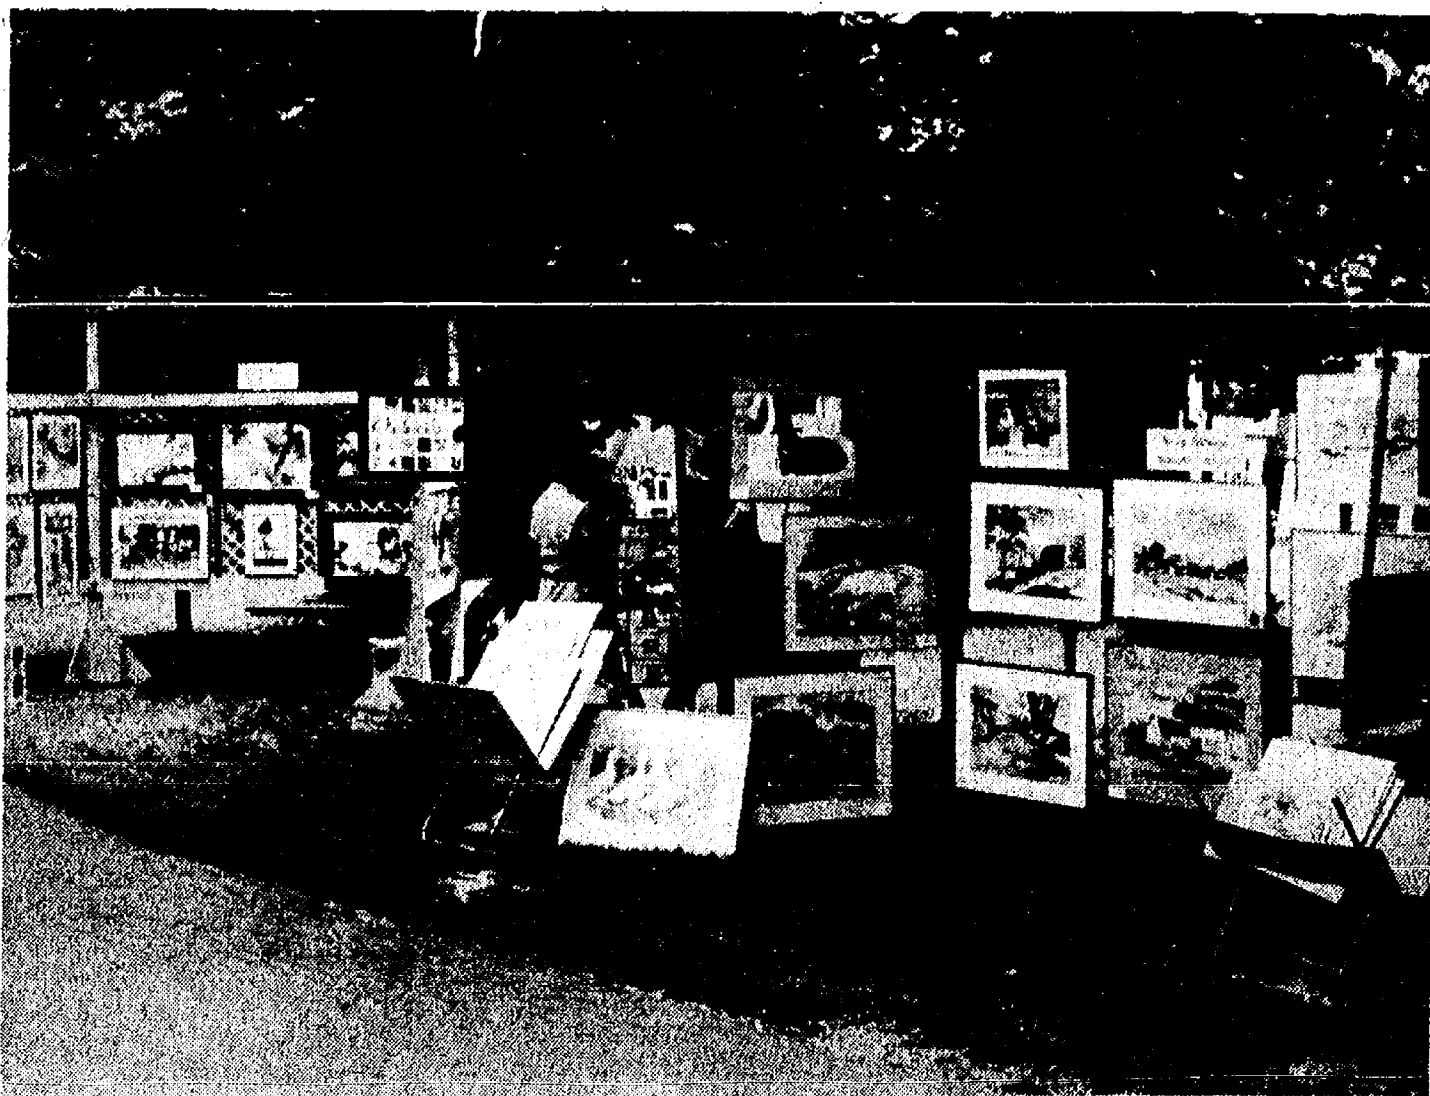

The Chelsea Board of Education approved a resolution to adopt the Chelsea School District 1984-85 budget, with revenues of $7,427,883, and expenditures of $7,486,355, at its monthly meeting on June 11.

The board also approved two unpaid leaves of absence for area teachers. Patti Rogers, South school art teacher, is expecting twins this fall and was granted a leave from Aug. 28, 1984 to June 21, 1985.

Jonathan Andrews, Chelsea High English teacher, was also granted an unpaid leave of absence. Andrews will be interning at the University of Michigan Psychiatric Hospital's Adolescent Unit from Aug. 28, 1984 to Jan. 21, 1985, or one semester.

Kindergarten Registration Now Underway

Parents who have not registered their children for kindergarten may do so at South school until Wednesday, June 20. A child must be five years old before Dec. 1, 1984 to be eligible for school enrollment. Please bring a birth certificate with you. After June 20, parents will need to call the school office before coming in.

MIXED MEDIUM: A wide variety of art was on display at the Chelsea and Painters' 11th annual art show last weekend. Fifteen area artists displayed watercolors, acrylics, drawings and collages at the show. Entertainment was provided by a mime troupe and folk singer.

Council Reverses By Backing Away From Tax Increase

The village council has, in effect, reversed its adoption of a general fund budget for 1984-85 by declining to approve the tax increase needed to finance it.

At its June 5 meeting the council passed a motion to maintain the present tax rate—9.42 mills on assessed valuation, 8.75 on state equalized—and even that wasn't unanimous. Trustees Richard Steele and Fred Harris voted no.

Trustees Joe Merkel, Stephanie Kanten, Herman Radloff and Jim Finch voted yes, and the motion passed.

President Jerry Satterthwaite then asked for a motion on a resolution to increase the tax rate by .9 mill. The trustees sat in silence, and Satterthwaite eventually declared the proposal defeated for lack of action of any kind.

What it all boils down to is that revenues will be about $45,000 short of the amount needed to balance the $998,300 general fund budget which the council approved unanimously on April 17.

Asked what that means, village administrator Frederick Weber said, "I think it means we go back to the drawing board and develop a new budget. It might seem simple to take $45,000 out of a $998,300 budget, but it isn't."

"That budget is very, very tight. There is no fat in it. There is no place you can carve out a $45,000 chunk, or even several large chunks that add up to $45,000. It's going to mean trimming and shaving here and there, a review of everything."

Later discussion indicated that one or more part-time village employees may have to be laid off in order to make ends meet.

Board members appeared to be intimidated by the forceful comments of former village president Charles Ritter, who spoke out loud and long against a tax increase. Ritter was one of two persons who appeared at a public hearing called to consider the proposed tax hike. The hearing was part of the council meeting.

"I think this shows that Ritter is still mayor even though he doesn't hold the office," said one long-time observer of village government who asked not to be identified by name. "He sure changed some minds on that issue."

Among the trustees, only Steele spoke for the record on the tax increase, declaring that he opposes

Aello Trial Opens In Circuit Court

Trial of former Chelsea police chief Robert Aello on a charge of embezzling more than $50 in public funds began Monday in Washtenaw circuit court before Judge William F. Ager, Jr.

A jury was selected, opening attorneys' arguments made, and some prosecution testimony taken during the first day of the trial, which was expected to continue for at least a couple more days.

Aello was charged with embezzlement last Feb. 10 following a month-long investigation into how traffic fine receipts were being handled in the police department.

The probe was conducted by the state police and included a special audit by the Ann Arbor firm of Iccerman, Johnson & Hoffman. The audit showed an alleged shortage of $464 for the 1983 calendar year.

Aello was placed on paid leave of absence when the investigation began on Jan. 6. He surrendered voluntarily to state police when the embezzlement charge was filed Feb. 10.

He was bound over to circuit court following a preliminary examination held in district court on Feb. 23, and stood mute at his circuit court arraignment on March 13. A plea of not guilty was entered in his behalf, and a trial ordered by Judge Ager.

Former village president Jack Merkel relieved Aello of his police department duties on March 16. Sgt. Lenard McDougall has served as acting police chief in the interim.

Aello has been free on personal bond pending a final court decision in the case.

Council Renews Tax System Pact

The Chelsea village council has renewed its agreement with Washtenaw county under which the county prepares the assessment roll and does the billing for tax payments. The cost was $661 last year and is expected to be about the same this year.

Ground Broken for 110-Bed Addition To Methodist Home

Ground was broken yesterday for a 110-bed addition to the Chelsea United Methodist Retirement Home at the west end of Middle St.

The new facility, which will house nursing-care patients, is expected to be completed some time next year. It is the first phase of a $7.6 million expansion program at the home.

The second phase will be interior remodeling of existing homes for the aged. It will begin when phase one is completed.

The Methodist Home houses two types of persons—those who are self-maintaining and require no special hospital services, and those in need of nursing-home care. Residents frequently pass from one to the other as they grow older.

The home has a severe shortage of nursing-care beds, and the new building is intended to correct that deficiency.

An advanced gifts campaign aimed at raising $5.5 million toward the cost of the expansion program is under way, and about $3 million has been contributed so far. An $850,000 "challenge grant" from the Kresge Foundation remains to be matched.

$465,000 Contract Awarded for Work On Industrial Park

A low bid of $465,695.55 by E. W. Garlick Co. of Ann Arbor has been accepted for major construction in Chelsea's industrial park on Sibley Rd. north of the Dana Corp. plant.

The contract was awarded at a special village council meeting held on June 8. It covers roads, streets, water and sewer lines.

"The work will take care of 75 percent of our utility needs in the industrial park," village administrator Frederick Weber said. "It will take us a long way toward full development of the park."

Weber said the village still has high hopes of obtaining a $220,000 grant from the Michigan Department of Commerce to help pay for the project. "I think we will get it," he said. "It's a matter of time and paper work in Lansing."

The remaining $245,000 will be paid from a combination of sources—the village capital improvement fund, a contribution from the public works department, and a loan from the electric fund—Weber said.

"We also hope to have some money coming in from BookCrafters, which has offered to buy $67,300 worth of property in the park and taken a $30,000 option on some more."

"The sales agreement with BookCrafters is contingent on completion of the utilities so that the first phase of a proposed 120,000 square-foot fulfillment house can be completed this fall.

"Eventually, the industrial park development will pay for itself, but we have to get the services there first, and that requires we spend some money up front," Weber said.

He added that an eight-inch water main to be installed between M-52 and Werkner Rd. as part of the development work will provide a back-up source of water for both the industrial park and Dana Corp. "We'll have a circular system that will just about guarantee against failure," he said.

Incumbents Re-Elected to School Board

All three incumbents were re-elected by landslide margins in Monday's Chelsea school board election. Winners were Ann E. Feeney, Lloyd A. Grau and Joseph M. Redding.

Feeney defeated Raymond G. Coulter, 464 to 69, in a contest for the two years remaining in an unexpired four-year term. She presently holds the seat.

Grau and Redding polled identical totals of 398 votes to win full four-term terms. Ronald J.

Montagne was third in the three-man race with 177 votes.

In all, 548 votes were cast in a light turn-out among school district electors. There were 14 blank ballots in the two-year race and two in the four-year contest. There was one spoiled ballot in each.

There were no other issues, such as millage, involved in the election, and the results suggested that those who bothered to vote were happy with the present makeup and policies of the board.

Sewage Plant Moves to First On List of Village Priorities

Priorities in Chelsea's Long-range economic development plan have been changed, and upgrading of the wastewater treatment system moved into first place.

That is a switch from last year, when establishment of the industrial park was ranked first. Improvements to the water delivery system remain third.

The village council approved the changes last week.

"I think the rearrangement of the top two priorities recognizes the fact that we have made important progress on the industrial park, and we really haven't gotten anywhere on the sewage treatment problem," village administrator Frederick Weber said.

Chelsea has a $4.5 million engineering plan to bring its wastewater treatment up to prescribed state standards by 1988, and is hoping for a state or federal grant to help finance the project.

"I think we have maybe a 50-50 chance of obtaining a grant this year and getting something started," Weber said. "I can't be more optimistic than that."

Meanwhile, the Department of Natural Resources has placed the village under a strict order not to increase the amount of waste

He was found guilty of coming up with a better product at a better price and pronounced not fit to mix with the rest of society.

Zeke had a clipping that told how everbody was beating a path to some feller's door over there to buy his music records. He had built recording equipment that could turn out copies a heap better than the ones made by state-run studios. His success spoilt him quick, Zeke reported. As soon as the Government found out about his operation they shut him down, locked him up and probable took his stuff to the state studio and started turning out state records for the glory of the people.

Nothing has been heard from the feller in Russia. Zeke went on, but chances are RCA or somebody is negotiating to swap a spy fer him so they can give

Study Says Midland Plant Not Feasible

A study released recently by Attorney General Frank Kelley contends it is not economically feasible for Consumers Power Co. to complete its Midland nuclear plant.

The study by Energy Systems Research Group of Boston said it would cost ratepayers $24.3 billion over the 40-year life of the plant ($2.6 billion in current valued dollars), in excess of costs to simply abandon the project and result in a loss of 8,170 jobs in the first five years of its operation.

The release of the report came a day before a coalition including Kelley, which has called for abandonment of the plant, was to resume negotiations with Consumers officials.

Kelley said the report does not close the door to negotiations, but it makes it very difficult for him to support a plan that would include completion of at least part of the project.

"It is becoming quite obvious that completion is less and less a possibility," he said. Kelley said the "ball is in their (Consumers) court" on the next step, since all decisions regarding construction of the plant has been theirs.

Consumers officials have proposed a plan to complete only Unit 2 at an expected cost of $4.1 billion, but charge only $3.5 billion to ratepayers, and abandon Unit 1. The $3.5 billion is about what has been invested to date in the project.

Tom Holliday, spokesman for the utility, said the study results were about as expected since the group has concluded in several other studies for anti-nuclear projects that they were uneconomical.

"If it had been objective or had been from a more objective source, it could have been used as part of an agreement for a proposal we believe is a reasonable way to cover the costs of the project," Holliday said.

He said abandoning the project would save ratepayers money in the first 10 years, but over the next 15-20 years, the costs of completion versus abandonment are about the same.

Holliday said that because the utility will need to find the power somehow it would have to try to purchase it if it were available.

Richard Rosen, head of the research team that conducted the study, said the utility could obtain needed power from Detroit Edison and other midwestern utilities which are expected to have excess generating capacity.

In the late 1900's, he conceded, Consumers might have to build a coal-fired electric plant if Midland is not built and other utilities cannot supply needed power.

He said the cost cap offered by Consumers is worth less than $600 million.

Abandonment would save ratepayers $24.3 billion even after compensating Consumers for its investment. The completion costs include construction, operation and maintenance costs, replacement power when the plant is not producing electricity, nuclear fuel, disposal of spent fuel and decommissioning costs.

Deflated back to current dollars, he said the cost to ratepayers would be $2.6 billion.

Admitting that his group usually recommends against completion of nuclear projects, Rosen said, "The economics of Midland is among the poorest of any nuclear power plant in the country. In any case it looks to us like the units are totally uneconomical and the investment should not be continued at this point."

Roger Fischer, director of the staff of the Public Service Commission, said the coalition fully supports abandonment of the project, but does continue to look at other options offered by the utility.

Hearing various reports from adjacent counties on the size of berries, Walter Schrader, Sr., of Wilkinson St., decided to see how his Robinson variety of strawberries compared with some of these alleged "record breakers."

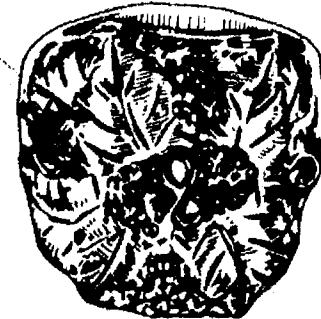

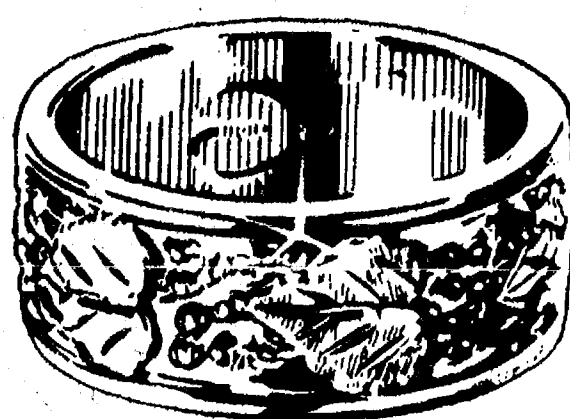

Carefully piling the berries into a quart basket, he found that 19 berries, picked from his patch, filled the box to capacity.

Mr. and Mrs. Kevin P. Cowan

Theresa Ottoman Marries Kevin Cowan June 2

Theresa Ottoman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Ottoman, 1235 Waterloo Rd., Chelsea, was wed to Kevin P. Cowan of Grosse Ile, on June 2 at St. Mary's Catholic church, Chelsea. The Rev. Fr. Philip Dupois officiated.

The bride chose to wear a gown of schiffli embroidered lace on a sweetheart neckline. A pearl trim and re-embroidered lace trim accented the basque waist, which led to a full circular skirt with a scalloped hemline and chapel train.

The bride's maid of honor was Marjorie Horn of Traverse City. Bridesmaids were Ann Cowan of Chicago and Susan Ottoman, sister of the bride, from Ann Arbor.

The bridegroom's best man was Robert Muscott of Livonia, while Tim Gallagher of Palatine, Ill., Craig Horn of Saginaw, Marc Fricks of Marquette and Dave Martin of Reed City served as groomsmen.

The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. James Cowan of Grosse Ile.

A reception was held following the ceremony at the Holiday Inn, West Bank, Ann Arbor.

Following a three-week honeymoon trip to Great Britain and Ireland, the newlyweds are residing in Palatine, Ill.

Mrs. Cowan graduated from Chelsea High school in 1976 and Northwestern College in 1983 with an associate of science degree in nursing.

Mr. Cowan graduated from Grosse Ile High school in 1975 and graduated from the University of Michigan with a bachelor of science degree in mechanical engineering.

Cattell-Heydlauff Engagement Told

Linda Cattell of Chelsea has announced the engagement of her daughter, Tracy, to Matthew Heydlauff, also of Chelsea. Matthew is the son of George Heydlauff of Chelsea. The couple are both graduates of Chelsea High school. Ms. Cattell graduated in 1980 while Heydlauff graduated in 1977. Ms. Cattell recently graduated cum laude from Albion College and a bachelor of arts degree in Spanish and public policy. She is currently employed by General Motors, Allison Gas Turbine Division in Indianapolis where she is a production supervisor. Heydlauff is a 1983 graduate of Eastern Michigan University with a bachelor of science degree in industrial technology and construction design. He is employed at Heydlauff's, Inc. The couple has planned a June 22, 1985 wedding.

POWELL-CARUSO: The engagement of Anita Powell to Philip Caruso was announced by the bride elect's parents, Fred and Marilyn Powell. Ms. Powell is a 1981 graduate of Chelsea and is now attending Ferris State College where she is majoring in automotive and heavy equipment technology. Her fiancé graduated in 1979 from Churchill High school in Livonia and at the present time is employed at Hines Park Lincoln-Mercury in Livonia. No wedding date has been set at this time.

Cobblestone Farm Needs Volunteers

Cobblestone Farm, an authentic 1844-1860 historical farm homestead, located at 2781 Packard Rd., Ann Arbor, is now open for its second season of regularly scheduled programming. Tours of the farmhouse are available weekends and holidays, May through October, from 12 noon to 5 p.m.

Volunteers are needed to serve as guides at the farm. Training sessions for beginning guides provide information on the architecture, history and furnishing of the house. Workshops are held every two months for further instruction on aspects of early American life.

Interested persons may call the Farm Office (313) 994-2928.

Homemakers Club Sponsors Mother, Daughter Banquet

Chelsea Homemakers Club had a mother-daughter banquet at Zion Lutheran church. Each member brought salads to pass.

Theme of the evening was "Turn Around and Your Two." Laurie Heller sang while Nancy Heller played the piano. Then the daughters who were 4-H members modeled the clothes they had made.

The banquet committee was Jean Satterthwaite, Kay Heller, Arlene Grau, Elsie Heller, Sharon Roehm and Kay Poljan.

Red Cross Offers Babysitting Course

The Red Cross will offer a training course this summer for babysitters. The seven-week course will be held Tuesdays, beginning June 19 and ending July 31. Young people age 11 or older may take the course, at a cost of $5.50 per student.

Participants in the course will learn the skills and functions of a responsible babysitter, including how to prevent accidents, provide first aid and handle emergencies. Students will also learn how to supervise and play with children of different ages, from diapering, dressing and feeding infants and children, to selecting safe and appropriate toys and games.

For information on what time and where the course will be held, and to reserve a place in the class, call the Red Cross at 971-5300.

First Aid Course Slated at Family Practice Center

Have you heard the statement that paste made from meat tenderizer can relieve the pain of bee sting and wondered if it was fact or fiction?

This question along with many others will be answered at the upcoming Summer First Aid class to be presented at the University of Michigan's Family Practice Center at Chelsea. This session will be presented on Monday, June 18, from 7 to 9 p.m.

"I am always surprised at the number of fallacies many people hold as truths in treating summer injuries and health problems," states Linda Warren, a nurse at the Family Practice Center. "Because of the need for accurate information, we have developed a special session on summer first aid for the community. There are some simple answers and cures, like relieving the bee sting pain with a meat tenderizer paste," Mrs. Warren continues, "But the important thing about first aid is to be prepared to deal with the situation before it happens."

The course will deal directly with the types of injuries and health problems that specifically arise during the summer. These include the more common problems encountered in summer outings—from insects and animal bites, burns and sunburns, to the ill effects of heat.

The session will be held in the classroom at the Family Practice Center. There is a $2 registration fee payable at the door. Pre-registration is requested by calling 764-8010.

Health-O-Rama Termed Successful

Chelsea Community Hospital was the site of this year's Chelsea Health-O-Rama on Saturday, April 14.

This is a seven-county-wide program of free health screenings sponsored in southeastern Michigan by United Health Organizations, WXYZ-TV Channel 7, and Blue Cross/Blue Shield of Michigan. In Washtenaw County, Washtenaw United Way along with health related agencies and hospitals provide Health-O-Rama.

In all, 379 people were screened for height, weight, blood pressure, vision, glaucoma, hearing, plus an optional blood chemistry. In addition, health educators, nurses and physicians were available to provide information and health counseling.

"This was our most successful year to date," said Ann Davis, RN, "we hope to continue this success and reach more people who need these free health screenings in the future." Davis was this year's co-ordinator for the Chelsea Health-O-Rama.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Rentschler

Glenn Rentschlers Will Be Honored on 55th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Rentschler of Waterloo Village will soon be celebrating something very few people ever get to do. On Tuesday, June 19 they will have been married 55 years.

The couple lived about five miles apart from each other and met at a party, probably an ice cream social, recalled Mrs. Rentschler. In 1929 they were married in the Salem Grove Methodist church near Waterloo Village, where they have been members ever since. The pair has a combined church membership of 83 years between them, another feat few of us will ever accomplish.

Today, the Rentschlers remain active members of church. She has been especially visible in the choir, Woman's Society of Christian Service and Ladies Aid to name just a few. He is on the Pastor-Parish Relation Committee and has been church treasurer for three and one-half years.

Mrs. Rentschler said their secret for remaining happily married for so many years is "loving and sharing, and a deep concern for others as well."

Salem Grove church will be honoring the Rentschlers at a dinner at the church on Sunday, June 10 following church services.

Plan Ahead To Make Visit With Grandparents Enjoyable

Sending your kids to visit their grandparents may be part of your summer plans, but to ensure a happy time for everyone involved, make sure all the parties involved discuss and agree on the plans in advance.

Jeanne Brown, MSU extension specialist in family and child development, notes that planning ahead can make the difference between a pleasant and an unpleasant visit.

The length of the visit should be discussed in advance, Brown says. Though many families like to decide on a specific length of visit for the children, other prefer to keep schedules flexible. Keeping the end date of the visit indefinite makes it easy to lengthen or shorten the visit according to the children's and grandparents' wishes. A good rule of thumb to follow, however, is to end the visit while everyone is still having a good time, so children will look forward to returning to their grandparents' home for future visits, Brown adds.

The rules that the child will follow while staying in the grandparents' home also need to be brought out in the open. Every home is unique, and parents and grandparents may have different ways of running their households, Brown says. Make sure children are aware that the rules may be different in Grandma's house, and give children an opportunity to ask questions if they don't understand the rules.

Grandparents who wish to plan special activities while the child is there can do themselves and the child a favor by pacing the activities throughout the visit, Brown says.

"There's no reason to wear yourself and the child out by thinking you have to do something special every day," Brown says. "Balance special activities with quiet activities throughout the visit."

Special activities might include card games, board games, reading books together, looking at family photo albums or putting together a new photo album during the child's visit, or grandparent and child each doing their "own thing."

Grandparents should have in mind some indoor activities for rainy days, too. These might include going to that museum you've planned to visit, going to a library, baking cookies, visiting a nearby shopping mall or going to a specially selected movie.

Regardless of the activities that will take place during the visit, try to keep the child's daily routine of mealtimes and bedtime as close to normal as possible. This can help add to the success of the visit, Brown adds.

If grandparents will be staying with children at the parents' house while the parents are away, parents should be sure to provide them with necessary supplies (groceries, etc.), a list of important people and their phone numbers to contact if necessary—such as doctor, plumber, dentist, even next-door neighbor—and an itinerary of the parents' trip, along with phone numbers where they may be reached in case of emergency. Parents should also leave a written authorization for grandparents in case emergency medical treatment is necessary for children.

A list of things the child like to do or places he or she likes to go around the neighborhood (such as library, park or swimming pool), may help grandparents become familiar with the child's normal activities.

Siena Heights Lists

Dean's List Honorees

Siena Heights College in Adrian released its dean's list for the winter and spring semester of 1983-84. Three Chelsea students and one Manchester student are cited on the list.

Senior Mary F. Boylan, 245 Park, Donald R. Schrotenboer, 163 Orchard St., and Michelle L. Weber, 175 Orchard, Chelsea, were among the current honorees on the list. Weber had the added honor of earning a perfect 4.0 average during the current semester.

Laurie V. Watson, 14811 Buss Rd. in Manchester was another of the students comprising the dean's list.

Senior Crafts Workshop Offered

There's something crafty about a June 20 workshop for seniors. Why? Because it's the Senior Crafts Workshop, sponsored by the Washtenaw County Parks and Recreation Commission (WCPARC). Representatives from Busy Hands craft store of Ypsilanti will teach participants four new craft projects.

The workshop and a lunch will be held on Wednesday, June 20, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Participants will meet in the East Classroom of the Washtenaw County Recreation Center, located at the corner of Hogback Rd. and Washtenaw Ave., Ann Arbor. There they will make stenciled greeting cards, a strawberry placemat, a rocking chair, and vegetable and fruit magnets.

Lunch will be provided by CSA Senior Nutrition Program for a donation. Cost of the workshop is $6.50 and includes all project materials. Participants are asked to register no later than June 6 by calling WCPARC at (313) 973-2575.

One of summer's worst pests is lurking in this room.

Hot,

When summer temperatures soar, a perennial pest moves into your home for the season. Hot summer air.

Fortunately, there's the heat pump—the air conditioning system that gets rid of hot summer air and helps you save money.

Because the heat pump is a dual-purpose system, it's better than central air conditioning. The heat pump moves heat out of your house in summer, so you stay cool, and into your house during cold weather, so you save on fuel.

And you'll save on energy costs the year 'round.

Call Detroit Edison for a list of qualified heat pump dealers. It's a smart way to take the heat off your home—and your budget.

A VIEW from the CLOCK TOWER

Bill Mullendore

It is evident that truck traffic on Main St. is emerging as a central issue in discussions of the Chelsea downtown development plan, and people are already taking sides even though the plan is still in the very early talking stages.

Before the rhetoric gets shrill and positions become set in concrete, it is suggested here that facts be gathered and judgments made on the basis of what is actually known rather than on what different persons are guessing at on the basis of biased personal judgments.

I don't have any facts, and don't know how to get any at this point. Nor do I have the capacity to find them out for myself. There is a distressing lack of data compiled by objective sources who have no axes to grind.

My 37 years of experience in the news business tell me that, in the absence of solid information, imagination runs riot. You can say just about anything if you aren't pinned down to provable facts.

For example, a statement was made at last week's village council meeting that "90 percent" of the truck traffic in Chelsea is generated by Chelsea Milling Co. I am sure that is wrong, but I can't prove it.

Chelsea Milling's shipping and receiving operations do indeed involve many truck movements. Exactly how many could be rather easily found out, I suspect. One phone call to the right person in the company probably would do the trick.

However, I don't believe anybody is suggesting that trucking associated with Chelsea Milling or any other local industry or business be curtailed or impeded. The village economy is in enough trouble without putting up any new regulatory barriers.

The concern about trucks is—or should be—over those that roll non-stop through town, on their way from somewhere to somewhere else. They not only don't contribute a dime to the local economy, they have a negative impact by congesting Main St. traffic, getting in the way of people who want to park and shop downtown.

My impression is that there is a heavy volume of through truck traffic, but I can't begin to guess at the numbers. The only way to find out for sure would be to make a count. Someday soon, just to confirm my suspicions, I'm going to stand for an hour at the corner of Main and Middle Sts., keep a tally of trucks that go by, and try to make educated guesses as to whether they have business in town or are just passing through. You can tell a lot by reading the labels on the trucks.

Such a brief eyeball survey would not prove anything by itself, but it might suggest some things that need to be looked at more closely.

Village administrator Frederick Weber raised a good question at last week's council meeting when he wondered out loud why two double-bottom trucks went through town at 11 o'clock one recent night with their contents labelled as hazardous wastes. That definitely is traffic Chelsea doesn't need. An accident in the downtown area could have very serious results.

Some other questions that need answers:

Is M-52 (Main St.) being used as a convenient north-south connecting route between I-96 and I-94? If so, is M-52 built to standards to handle the loads of large numbers of heavy trucks? What is the impact of those trucks on Main St.? How soon will the pavement crumble under the burden and have to be rebuilt? That will create a real mess when it happens because Main St. will have to be closed and all traffic detoured.

Are at least some trucks using M-52 to dodge the state weight stations on the freeways, as has been suggested? If so, those trucks presumably are overloaded, further hastening ruination of the pavement.

Are there possible alternative routes around Chelsea for through trucks? A look at the map suggests there aren't, but that there might be opportunities to establish one or more without directing the vehicles over residential streets, which nobody wants.

There are no doubt many more questions. All I'm suggesting is that some answers be obtained before any of us goes off half-cocked.

FATHER AND SON HONORS: George Prinzing and his son Glenn, a graduating senior at Chelsea High, both got a surprise last Wednesday at Senior Class Night. A surprise scholarship was started in the senior Prinzing's name, by faculty, administration, office personnel, kitchen and maintenance staff and students, citing his many years of dedicated service to the school. The other surprise came when the scholarship recipient was announced. Glenn Prinzing got to share the honors with his father as he received the award for this year.

Tax Workshops Slated For Small Business

New and prospective owners of small businesses have an opportunity to learn more about how to deal with federal tax responsibilities at free tax information workshops now being scheduled.

An Internal Revenue Service workshop for small business owners will be held on Thursday, June 21, in Ann Arbor at the Briarwood Mall Community Room, from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m., the IRS announced today.

Persons interested may register by calling IRS toll free at 1-800-424-1040, extension 3674. Ask for the taxpayer education coordinator.

The program includes discussion on federal income tax

Man Accused of Making False Burglary Report

Nicholas Puscas of 6975 Hashley Rd. has been arrested on charges of making a false report to police and obtaining money under false pretenses in connection with an alleged March 27 burglary at his home.

"I don't believe the burglary ever happened," detective Paul Wade of the sheriff's department said. "One of the items that Puscas reported stolen, a pistol, had been recovered by Detroit police eight months earlier in a drug raid. We have reason to believe that other items said to have been stolen had actually been previously sold."

Puscas claimed a $2,400 loss in the reported burglary, and was reimbursed by an insurance company which is seeking to recover the payment.

withholding requirements and other federal employment taxes; proper record-keeping; filing requirements for various federal business tax returns; and features of the IRS assistance program available to small business persons.

Workshops for small business owners are conducted by the IRS as part of a year-round program of assistance for small business taxpayers. They are supplemented by other services, including tax counseling and publications covering a wide variety of tax-related topics, IRS says.

Frame, Holiday Win Cleary Awards

Lisa Frame of Chelsea and Kimberly Ann Holiday of Pinckney, recent graduates of Cleary College in Ypsilanti, have won The Silkworth Award for being two year program graduates with the highest grade point averages. The award is named after former Cleary president Donald M. Silkworth.

Frame is a graduate of the data processing program, and Holiday of the accounting program.

Each winner received a certificate of merit and a $100 bond.

Mothers Against Drunk Drivers Will Meet

our system in recent years, and nothing will wipe them out quicker than a big dose of money.

They may have paper sacks in Russia, Clem went on, but fer sure they ain't got any like the one he took some seed home in the other day. It had this stamped on the bottom. "A quality product by Samuel Walker and Crew 12." Now that, Clem said, is the kind of pride that built this country, and if that is corny, hooray for corn.

Personal, I'm proud of all the Samuel Walkers in this country. I want to believe the company that says "the quality goes in before the name goes on," because that means America to me.

Area Students Earn Degrees At MSU

Seventeen area students were among the approximate 5,000 recent graduates of Michigan State University in East Lansing.

Kent W. Bollinger, Douglas S. Bowen, Douglas M. Clark, Bryan L. Herrick, Jeryl L. Herrick, Michael J. Killelea and Brian T. Terhune, all of Chelsea graduated at the separate commencement exercises held on June 2-9.

Dexter students Pamela M. Brown, Ross E. Davenport and Daniel C. Stivers were among the list of seniors who earned their diplomas.

Michael A. Vandeven and Jean A. Wahl of Manchester graduated from MSU also. Wahl had the special honor of graduating with honors.

Four Pinckney students, Mary H. Burg, John E. Heslip, Elizabeth A. McCrory and Larry Owen and one Whitmore Lake student, Tracy A. Webb made up the final list of area graduates.

Found Badge

May Belong to Some Keystone Kop

The day after the hayride a person was walking along the road and lo and behold she found a star-shaped badge.

This badge found in the Fletcher Rd. vicinity says "Bar-20-Ranch, Hopalong Cassidy," and looks like something that would belong to those guys in blue who call themselves the Keystone Kops.

The person who has possession of the badge at this point and her cronies feel the badge should be given back to the person it belongs to—but not until he proves worthy of it.

To find out more about the missing badge the searching person can contact a member of the Supreme Council Publicity Committee, who will act as mediator.

STEVE WHITESALL

S. Whitesall Selected In 2 Extracurricular Leadership Programs

Steve Whitesall is a very busy young man these days. The Chelsea High school 10th grader has recently been chosen to participate in two very prestigious programs designed to further his academic and leadership abilities.

The first extracurricular activity Whitesall became involved in was to become a member of the junior board of directors of the Huron Valley Humane Society. Whitesall, who plans on attending veterinary school in the future, heard about the program through Chelsea High's counseling office, and immediately applied for a position on the board.

The junior board is specially designed for people too young to become actual members of the board, but who have a special interest in the humane treatment of animals, and who also possess enough leadership potential to be able to implement goals as the board deems necessary. According to Chelsea High counselor Chris Dimanin, Whitesall has both these qualities.

Whitesall was selected to the board, which meets on a quarterly basis to discuss fund raising activities, general humane society goals, and to act as an advisory council.

The second activity Whitesall has been selected to participate in is the Purdue Academic Leadership Seminar or PAL. This program is a two-week session at Purdue University in W. Lafayette, Ind. for students demonstrating exceptional leadership ability and over-all academic excellence. Whitesall applied to the program with recommendations from Chelsea High school teachers, and was accepted.

The purpose of the two-week session is to provide better communication between secondary and post secondary institutions by involving high school students in a college atmosphere of both personal enrichment and recreational activities. Students will attend lab sessions, leadership training seminars and after-dinner seminars, all of which will be hosted by actual Purdue professors and distinguished members of the Purdue community.

After participating in these two programs, Whitesall should be congratulated for jobs well done. He should also be exhausted, but knowing Steve he'll be back next school year with twice as many aspirations and twice as many activities to attend.

Brewery Boys, B-Team Slug It Out in Softball

The sun was shining, the day was warm, the pond was sparkling, the ale was flowing, and the enthusiasm was top notch. Such was the setting for the softball game between the Brewery Boys and the B-Team on Sunday, June 3 at "Doll's Field."

It was an exciting game with the B-Team winning, amid much playful banter from both teams, with a final score of 14-7. Afterwards, both chapter chairmen and their members posed together for a portrait that tells a story all its own.

All in all, it was a great time for both chapter members and the fans that were there to cheer them on.

Final comment made by The Brewery Boys, great sports that they are, was... "Oh well, we'll get 'em the next time."

Commemorative Book Being Sold

If you haven't purchased a Sesquicentennial Commemorative Book yet, you must be locked in a closet somewhere. Two weeks ago various youth groups began selling the book for $3. These groups, including Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, Chelsea Chords, FFA, 4-H, Spanish Club and the Art Club, will earn half the proceeds of each sale.

Last week some of the Chelsea merchants—Heydlauff's, Woodshed, State Farm Insurance, Dayspring Gifts, Chelsea Cleaners, Chelsea Office Supply, Chelsea Hardware, Chelsea Lumber Co., Chelsea Drug—joined in on the sale of the books. These businesses, along with the four area banks and the Gift Shop at the Chelsea Community Hospital are also selling copies of the reprinted book from the 125th Anniversary of Chelsea. The cost is $3.

So, come on out of that closet! Buy yourself a Commemorative Book and buy one for a friend. For further information concerning book sales, call Marcia Quilter in the afternoons or evenings at 475-9523.

Box Social Scheduled For July 3

Royal Rural Roosters along with the Mill Creek Moonshiners are having an old-fashioned box social. All Brothers of the Brush and Belles are urged to attend.

The box social will take place on Ladies Day and Agriculture Day, Tuesday, July 3, starting at 6 p.m. to 7:30 p.m., or until all boxes are sold.

The box social will take place at the new covered arena at the fairgrounds.

Ladies should bring a box and a man to bid. Decorate your box to be auctioned off that evening. Cover the outside of the box with any eye-catching decorations. The box must contain enough lunch for the man who bids the highest and the lady who made the box.

Ladies, you must put your name in the box. On the outside of the box, put the name of your chapter. The men can then bid on someone's box within their chapter if they wish. The couple will eat in the bleacher area. The drink can be brought in a separate container as it will be inconvenient to get in the box. Remember Ladies: Put your name IN the box. A prize will be given to the chapter with the most boxes sold.

We suggest the lady pack her food in a small cooler or styrofoam container to hold her decorated box or basket. Remember it could be very hot. Bring a tablecloth to eat on.

We urge all ages to attend. The children should bring a box or sack lunch for themselves.

The Mill Creek Moonshiners and Royal Rural Roosters Chapters will decide on one or more designated civic organizations in the Chelsea area for the proceeds to go to.

Remember Ladies: your name inside the box, chapter name on outside of box.

Come and join in the fun at the old-fashioned box social. RSVP by chapter by June 20 to: Hopkins, 475-7908; Wolfgang, 475-7941; Heller, 475-2967; Plumb, 475-2193; or Grau, 475-8415.

Challenges

Petite Prairie Belles Plan Obstacle Course

The Petite Prairie Belles have challenged the Prairie Belles to a Mother-Daughter obstacle course on Friday, June 15, at 7:30 p.m. The event will take place at 13000 Sager Rd.

The obstacle course will be a time controlled event that will point out neatness, agility, and steady nerves (watch out moms). Points will be awarded for good things and points will be taken away for not so good things.

If one were to ask any of the Petite Prairie Belles about the odds against them winning they would all tell you that there is no doubt in any of their minds, that they are going to win by a landslide. With confidence like that, how can they not be the champions. It will be an interesting evening.

Softball Game Wanted

The Basement Savers would like to challenge any Brush group to a softball game some evening soon. Call Dave Longworth at 475-7328 if interested.

Road Rally Planned

The Musketeers and the DLB's invite all chapters to participate in a Road Rally on June 23. All the stops will be Chelsea historical sites. Call Debbie or Elita Borders, Jr., at 475-9528 to enter by June 16.

We will meet at the boat that doesn't float in the village of Chelsea.

Challenge Issued By Junior Brushes

The Little Mooners, a junior brush group, would like to challenge any other interested junior brushes to a triathlon on Saturday, June 16 at Van Riper's Pond. Interested parties may call 475-7114 for more information.

Shipshewana Caravan Planned for June 20

What's a Shipshewana, you ask? It's not a what, but a where.

Shipshewana is an Amish settlement where one would see things such as horse-drawn buggies, horse-drawn farm equipment, farms painted solid white (with no electricity running to them), and adults and children dressed in a reserved style of dress; all of which symbolize the Amish way of life.

Shipshewana is also the place where a weekly auction and flea market is held. The auction has something to offer for everyone; from antiques to zoot suits, and is so big that they have from six to 10 auctioneers working at the same time. The flea market is bigger than one could imagine and offers a large variety of items including tools, knick-knacks, antiques, collectibles, plants, produce. What ever you're looking for, you'll probably find there.

If you get hungry while in the area, there is a restaurant on the auction grounds and a couple of other restaurants in the town, but for the ultimate meal, the place to go is Das Dutchman Essenhaus; an Amish style restaurant that is about five miles past Shipshewana.

Das Dutchman Essenhaus offers a regular restaurant and a family style restaurant. If you tell the hostess upon arrival that you want family style, you may eat as much as you want for one price. An adult may feast on roast beef, chicken, mashed potatoes, gravy, salad, vegetable, cornbread stuffing, bread, dessert, and beverage for about $7.

A trip from Chelsea to Shipshewana is planned for Wednesday, June 20, by way of a car caravan. Anyone interested in going is to meet at the field next to the Fairgrounds. The caravan will be leaving at 7:30 a.m. No definite return time has been set.

Going to the auction and flea market at Shipshewana is an experience that everyone seems to enjoy. (So much that most of us never need to have our arms twisted to go back again.) It's truly a fantastic adventure and will be a fun thing to do as a group as part of our Sesquicentennial festivities.

Kitchen Band Will Perform

Chelsea's own Senior Citizen Kitchen Band will be performing on Interfaith Day, Sunday, July 1, at the high school from 1:45 to 2:15 p.m.

The band was organized Jan. 29, 1983. Mary Parsons is director; Mildred Fish is assistant director; and Marion Rutledge is piano player. In 1927, Marion played for the silent movies at the Princess Theatre, when movies cost 5¢. Marion has received her life membership card from Local 387 American Federation of Musicians in Jackson. The Kitchen Band is scheduled to perform at the Strawberry Festival, Friday, June 16, 4 p.m. at Pioneer High school (corner of W. Stadium and Main), Ann Arbor.

Members of the band are Mary Malott, Jim Shadoan, Anna Laban, Mary Elizabeth Yoder, Jenny Walz, Louise Altenberndt, Esther Schneider, Mary Herrst, Elaine Bush, Thelma Elsemann, Don Parsons, Frank Pototzki, and Hank Williams.

Instruments consist of a piano, kazoos, washboards, washboiler, washtub, tambourines, old train whistle, sleigh bells and whistles.

The program on Sunday will consist of some of these good old time songs: "Alexander's Rag Time Band," "Just Because," "Spanish Eyes," "Alley Cat," "There's a Tavern in the Town," "I'm a Yankee Doodle Dandy," "It's a Grand Old Flag," "Battle Hymn of the Republic," "Take Me Out to the Ball Game," "Anchors Aweigh," and "God Bless America."

July 3 Will Be Full of Activities

Ladies! Tuesday, July 3, is your day. Get your Sesquicentennial dress and button, and come to town! The merchants are having special sale just for you.

Look for the different luncheon specials at our local restaurants. The Chelsea chapter of American Business Women's Association will be strolling around selling carnations downtown, and they will be present at the dance the evening.

Stop at Agriculture Day at the fairgrounds where lots of events will be going on. Hot German Pretzels are being sold by the Homemakers group from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m.

Don't forget to stop by the Chelsea Methodist church in the education room for 11 a.m. till 6 p.m. and see the quilts and sample a dessert (small donations for dessert), being sponsored by the Lima Homemakers Extension group.

There will also be a color analysis consultant present for those women interested in finding out what colors suit them best.

There will still be time in the day for a tour of our local industries: Chelsea Milling, 9-12; Dana, 9-3; Chrysler Proving Grounds, 9-3; and BookCrafters, 9-3.

At 6 p.m., the Royal Rural Rooster Roosters along with the Mill Creek Moonshiners are hosting a box social at the fairgrounds for all chapters of the Belles and Brothers. During dinner, an "old style" fashion show will be presented by the Chelsea Charrms.

The Modern Mothers will be adding an extra touch by selling popcorn, coffee and their newly published cookbook.

The day's events will culminate in a barn dance starting at 9 p.m. at the fairgrounds.

So Ladies, let's all plan to attend this fun-filled day that has been planned especially for you!

Women Win in Trivial Pursuit Game

The Musketeers and the DLB's thank the Prairie Belles and the Mill Creek Moonshiners for an enjoyable evening of Trivial Pursuit. It was close, but close only counts in horseshoes! In the final event, the women challenged the men. Of course the women triumphed!

Keystone Kops Hit In Gangland Raid

Friday, June 1, several local drinking establishments were hit in gangland style raids by two groups complete with machine guns (squirt guns), Fedoras, fringe and feathers. The Gang, made up of the Mopar Minute Men (Mugs and Molls) blew into town specifically looking for the Keystone Kops.

Two of the unfortunate officers, Ron Kiel and Donny Bollinger, were caught at Seitz's and thoroughly riddled with machine gun fire. Reuben Lesser, Scott Otto and Rich Bollinger were surrounded at the Woodshed, stood up against the wall and blasted with water. All officers involved have vowed revenge.

The gang then proceeded to the Wolverine where one of the molls caught Joe Merkel without his button and fined him at gunpoint.

After shooting up the Wolverine they went to Stivers and shot the bar up before retreating to places unknown.

Bar patrons, damp and innocent bystanders are demanding justice. They are left to wonder where this gang came from and when they will strike again.

Last Week To Buy Sesqui Brunch Tickets

This is the final week to buy Sesqui brunch tickets for the event which will be held at the Chelsea High school cafeteria from 9 a.m. to noon on Sunday, July 1.

Tickets may be purchased this week only for $2 at the Senior Center, through Brush and Belle groups, and through John and Gloria Mitchell.

The Rest of The Story!

Bull Bunkies! Says Ricardo's Rowdy's! This is an official rebuttle of what Paul Harvey would say, "Is the rest of the story."

We challenged the Waterloo Lillies to drinking your weight in ounces. They accepted the challenge, and the date was set. Until at a secret meeting the Waterloo Lillies took to the scales, and according to Parly Pro, they voted unanimously that the scales malfunctioned. So they boarded their 4-ton van and went to the truck scales in which they exceeded the road limit weight by 4 of a ton.

After paying some heavy fines they located Lisa at a ball game and (No. 1) wanted US to drink their weight in suds (which is impossible). (No. 2) They cancelled that date because their anchor women went to a family wedding at the Detroit Zoo.

So Lisa phoned Kris and changed the challenge to volleyball to protect her team from over-drinking their weight in suds, and to uphold our reputation of being the good, fine folks everyone knows we are.

And now you know the rest of the story!

Sewer Plant...

(Continued from page one) water which flows into the sewage treatment plant. For every new gallon put into the system, an old gallon has to be removed.

A plan to take out 33,000 gallons of infiltrated water from storm sewers has been approved, and work will be done this summer.

When completed, the construction will allow BookCrafters to construct its fulfillment house in the industrial park and also permit a couple of proposed new residential building projects.

"We're buying a little bit of time," Weber said, "and that's all we're doing. Until we get the new treatment plant in place, the village can't grow much."

The water problem is primarily on the south side of the village, where pressures are low in existing homes and businesses, and new facilities are needed to provide capacity for growth.

Recreation Council Sponsoring Sesqui Fund Raiser

A Honda ATV 125 three wheeler is the first prize in the Recreation Council's sesquicentennial sale on July 4. Also being offered are a cash prize of $100 and dinner for two at the Woodshed Eatery.

A donation of $2 is being asked and tickets are available at the Community Education Office, Chelsea State Bank, Palmer Ford, the Dana Field, and from league directors and Recreation Council members.

Proceeds will be used for activities sponsored by the Recreation Council as well as field maintenance and the updating of equipment.

Heritage Crafts Displays Slated on Agriculture Day

Many quality crafts and displays will be present at the Heritage Crafts & Displays Exhibit in the Merchants Building Tuesday and Wednesday, July 3-4.

Pioneer crafts such as rug weaving, scrimshaw, china painting, woodcarving, basketry, herbs, stenciling and blacksmithing will be demonstrated and sold.

Displays such as high wheel bicycles, antique farm implements, and the Washtenaw County traveling What's It Show will be set up for the interest of the public. The Chelsea Historical Society is planning a special display also.

Live entertainment is planned for parts of both days.

Hours of the exhibit are 11 a.m. to 8 p.m.

it because he does not believe it is needed. Steele had made the motion on April 17 to adopt the budget as proposed.

The other board members said nothing but expressed their views by failing to take any action.

Old Fashion Barn Dance Continues

The Old Fashion Barn Dance which was previously held at the Charles and Pat Trinkle Farm for the past 10 years will be continued and the tradition carried on. This year St. Louis School for Exceptional Boys will be sponsoring this event to be held at the Chelsea Fairgrounds on July 3, in conjunction with Chelsea's Sesquicentennial celebration.

The Old Fashion Barn Dance began with Dexter's Sesquicentennial celebration some years ago with the proceeds going toward mentally retarded children, special olympics, and High Point. It started with just a small group of people and has grown to one of the major, yearly events of this area. It seems appropriate that St. Louis School, of our local community, continues to carry on this function and coordinate it with the Chelsea Sesquicentennial. The Trinkles, and members of their committees, have been very helpful in assisting the St. Louis School Committee in carrying on this tradition.

Waterloo Caravan Set for Saturday

When you picture in your mind a day of fun, does it include athletic events such as a log roll or an innertube race or maybe something a little more on the crazy side like "an anything without a motor that floats" race?

Maybe you think of food, well then a wiener roast would fit right in.

And of course, you'll want to bring the kids and what a better way to amuse than games just for kids.

Sound like fun? Well, these are just a few of the activities that are planned for Saturday, June 16, when Chelsea caravans to Waterloo.

Sesqui 500 Trike Race Committee Seeks Trophy Queen

The "Bushwacker" Chapter seeks female participants to win the honor of presenting trophies to winning trikers, at the "Sesqui 500" race. Contestants will be judged on poise and personality and sesquicentennial attire dress. Anyone, interested should appear at the Chelsea State Branch Bank at the corner of M-52 and Old US-12 June 23, at 1:30 p.m.

Any questions can be answered by contacting D. Joseph at 475-3565 days before 3 p.m.

You say you've never been to Waterloo? Well, it's hard to believe but if indeed you haven't, now is a great time to go because we understand that there are even going to be tours of downtown Waterloo itself. Are you excited yet? Well listen to this, they even planned an evening of old-fashioned dancing in a corn crib as the grand finale.

So come on Chelsea, gather up your Sesquicentennial spirit along with Mom, the kids, your hot dogs, buns and munchies, (the bonfire will be provided) and let's go show Waterloo what we're made of.

The caravan leaves the fairgrounds at 4 p.m. See you there!

Tiddly Wink Tournney Is Huge Success

The dance floor of the Wolverine Lounge was the setting for the tiddly wink tournament sponsored by the Prairie Belles on Wednesday, June 6.

The Belles had invited the Salmagundy Girls, the Wolverine Wildcats and the Royal Rural Rooster Rooters to games of tiddly winks that were not quite the normal kind of tiddly winks.

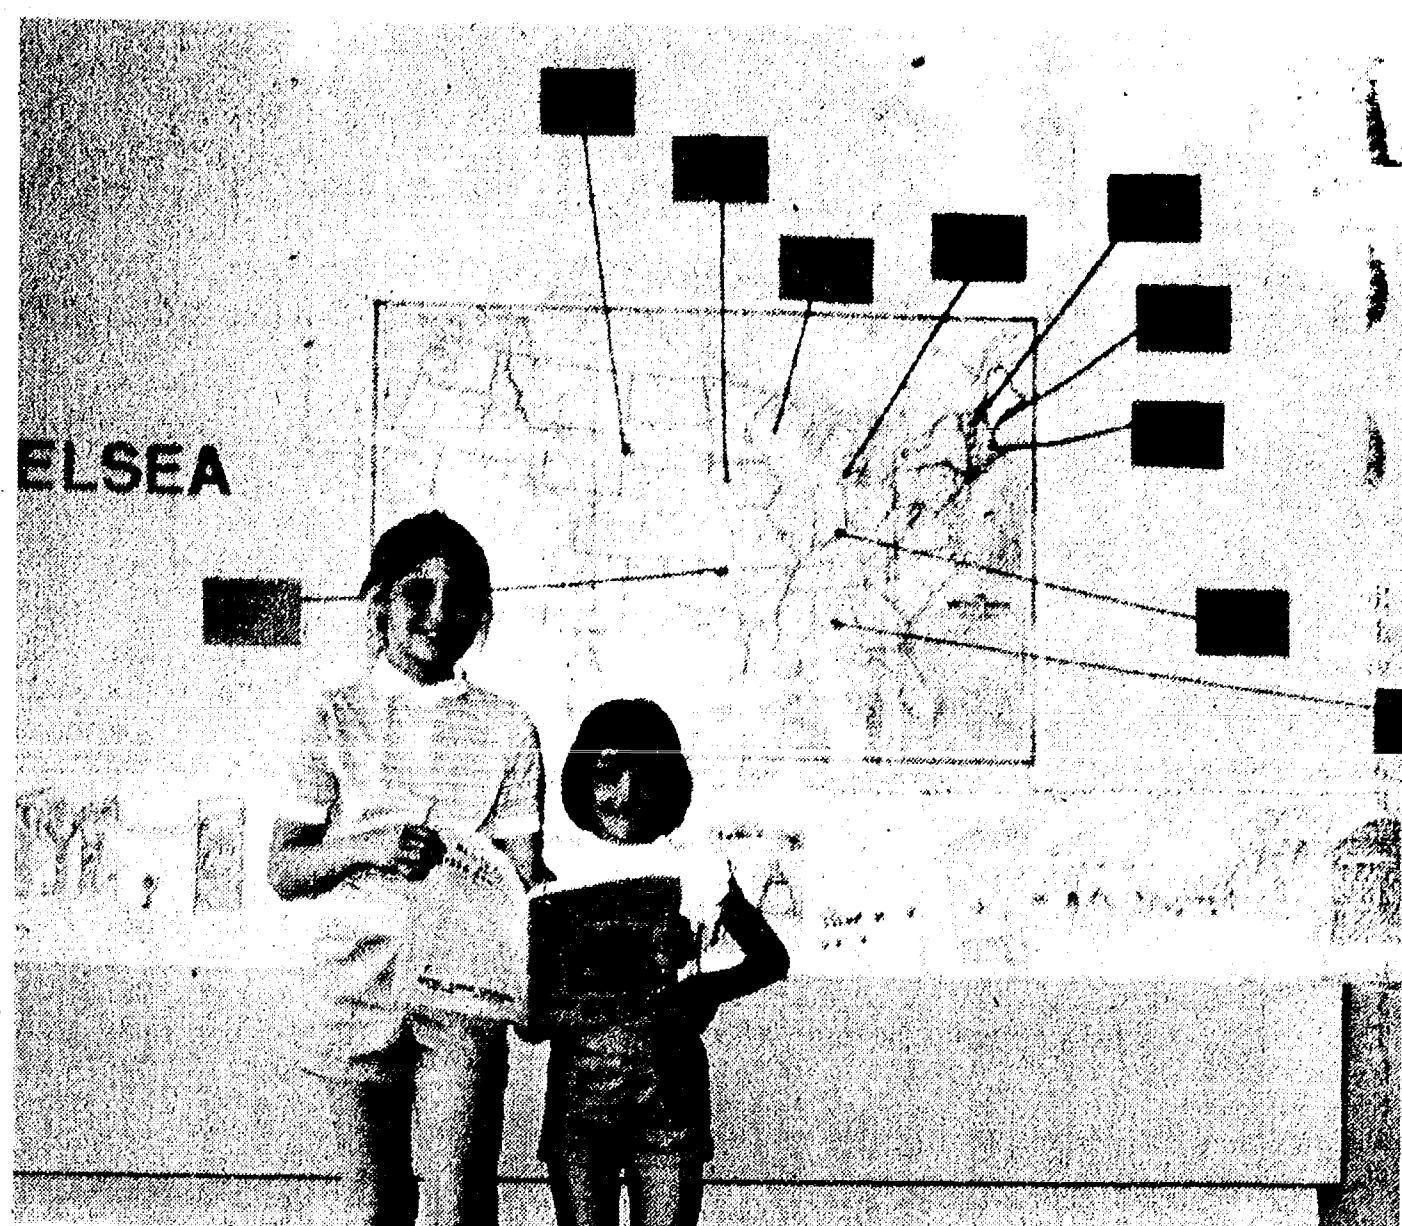

The eliminating rounds started with 32 players from the four groups and worked through semi-final standings until there was one winner. Those making it into the second round were Pat Sober, Judy Merkel, Betty Hopkins, Juliet Grenable, Cindy Bradbury, Penny Laler, Betty Robbins and Bev Bollinger. The third round eliminated a few more ladies leaving Pat Sober, Juliet Grenable, Penny Laler, and Betty Robbins.

When the fourth round started, tension also started to mount. With only two ladies left, the tournament was down to the wire. Pat Sober, who is a Royal Rural Rooster Rooter, cautiously snapped her last 10 tiddly winks with her score totalling 355 points. Betty Robbins, a Prairie Belle, who until this night had never played tiddly winks; snapped her tiddly winks one at a time with her score mounting, until her last tiddly wink landed—making her the winner with a final score of 375 points. Betty was awarded a tiddly wink trophy to help her remember her championship.

All in all, it was an enjoyable evening, with all the ladies being good sports about the extra-curricular activities they had to do if their tiddly winks landed in particular areas on the board. By the end of the evening we all knew what the most favorite animal sound was, who could do the hula, and who Pat Sober's favorite singer was.

Only about three percent of the earth's water is fresh. About three fourths of the fresh water is frozen in glaciers and ice caps.

CHELSEA TIMELINE: Jane Irwin, fourth grader, and Corrie Schoenberg, right, South school first grader, worked jointly researching Chelsea's history for the timeline they designed. First they wrote to all of the Chelseas in the United States: Alabama, Iowa, Maine, Massachusetts, Oklahoma, South Dakota, Vermont, and Wisconsin, telling them about Chelsea, Mich., and requesting some information on their Chelsea. The girls then used the information they gathered and made the timeline of Chelsea's history which they presented to the other children at South school. The timeline is displayed in the Sylvester Wojcik Media Center. This project was made possible under the direction of Mrs. Laurel McDonald, media specialist, with help Miss Suzanne DeVries, Mrs. Marie Crouch and Mrs. Denise Schiller.

Timeline Students Get Two Chelsea Replies

South school students Jane Irwin and Corrie Schoenberg received a reply from two of the Chelseas they have contacted for their timeline which they designed detailing Chelsea's history.

Mary Frances Baitlett of Chelsea, Me. wrote a very nice letter and sent a book describing her town. Chelsea, Me. has a population of 2,514 and was incorporated in 1850.

JoAnn Mallett, finance officer in Chelsea, S.D., wrote that her town has no mayor, but is governed by a board of trustees since this town only has a population of 40. The town has a Catholic church, a grain elevator, service station and bar. She also welcomes anyone from Chelsea, Mich. to come for some of the best pheasant hunting in the U. S. in the fall.

The letters Jane and Corrie wrote to Chelsea, Ala. and Chelsea, Ind. were returned to us "Address Unknown-Unable To Deliver" but we are still waiting to hear from the rest of the Chelseas.

Prairie Belles Win Decathlon By Default

The Prairie Belles had been challenged by the Ladies of the Knight to a 10-event non-athletic decathlon that was supposed to take place on Saturday, June 8.

Since none of the Ladies of the Knight showed up; the Prairie Belles feel they won by default on the part of the Knights group.

Beer Tent Requests Cause Discussion On Village Council

There was a lot of talk and a little bit of action about beer tents during last week's meeting of the village council.

The discussion was precipitated by requests from the American Legion and the Chelsea Firemen's Association for permission to operate beer tents in connection with the June 30-July 4 sesquicentennial celebration.

The Legion's request to set up a beer tent on the fairgrounds July 3 and 4 was routinely granted. The firemen asked to be allowed to dispense beer somewhere in the downtown area on June 29-30, and that provoked considerable comment.

The last time a beer tent was permitted in the downtown district was during the 1976 U. S. Bicentennial celebration, and it caused trouble to say the least.

"It got out of control," said Sgt. Lenard McDougall, acting chief of the Chelsea police department. "We had all of our regular officers and all of our auxiliaries out, and we couldn't handle it.

"There were drunks all over the area, under-age adolescents were drinking, people were urinating in the streets and on private property. It was a bad situation."

McDougall made it plain that he personally doesn't want any more downtown beer tents, no matter who is in charge of them. "I think that any beer tents should be out at the fairgrounds," he said. "They can be controlled there. I'm not sure they can be controlled downtown."

Also brought up was the question of liability and insurance. Village administrator Frederick Weber noted that the members of the Firemen's Association are also part-time village employees.

"I don't think you can separate the two," Weber said. "If the firemen sponsor the beer tent, then the village is also sponsoring it. We have to be very careful to protect ourselves or we could get into a lot of trouble.

Noted as well was the fact that, once the door is opened, any civic organization will have a reasonable right to ask permission to operate a beer tent downtown.

"I think there may be at least four groups interested," village president Jerry Satterthwaite said, and trustee Joe Merkel who heads the police committee confirmed that appraisal. "If we allow one, we would have a hard time justifying denials to anybody else," Merkel said.

In the end the council passed a carefully hedged motion to approve the Firemen's Association request. The action was needed to allow time for a temporary beer sales license to be applied for, processed and issued.

The motion specified that details such as location, hours, supervision and sanitation facilities would be left up to McDougall to determine.

"I'll follow the council's decision, which is to give tentative approval to the beer tent," McDougall said, "but I'm going to be very conservative about the rules I propose."

I-94 Slated For Repairs This Year

The 23 miles of I-94 from the Washtenaw-Jackson county line east to US-23 are scheduled to be repaved this year, according to the state Department of Transportation.

The project will be paid for from the sale of a $50 million revenue bond issue at what state treasurer Robert A. Bowman called "a very favorable" interest rate of 10.21 percent.

Of the $50 million bond issue, 80 percent will be loaned to local governments for city and county street and road construction projects. The remaining $10 million will be spent on state highways.

Also scheduled for major repair is the 16-mile stretch of US-23 from I-94 north of the county line.

Softball Team Wins Regional, Advances To State Tournament

It's on to Midland and the final four in the hunt for the state Class B championship this weekend for the Chelsea girls softball team which won last Saturday's regional tournament at Dexter with two impressive victories.

The Bulldogs defeated Dearborn Divine Child, 6-2, in a first-round game, then came back after half an hour's rest to whip Allen Park, 5-2, for the regional title.

Both were good teams with good pitchers.

Beth Unterbrink had one of those days that an athlete dreams about. She pitched and won the opening game, scattering five hits (three of them cheapies) and allowing no earned runs. She slugged two triples and a single, drove in three runs and scored two.

Unterbrink started in right field in the final game, had a base hit and came in to pitch in relief with the score a precarious 3-2 at the top of the sixth. She fanned five of the six batters she faced, climaxing her day by striking out the side in the last inning. She was throwing bullets at the end.

"Beth is a fine pitcher," Chelsea coach Charlie Waller said, "the best I've coached during my two years with the varsity. She is an outstanding natural athlete, and she works hard."

"You're going to ask me to compare her with her sister, Amy (who pitched Chelsea to a state championship in 1982 and earned an athletic scholarship to Indiana University), and I'm going to be very careful."

"Amy was a better pitcher at the end of her senior year than Beth (a junior) is right now, but Beth has another year to go on and improve. She is very good and getting better."

"Beth definitely is the better hitter, and Amy wasn't bad."

The Bulldogs gave their fans scares in both of last Saturday's games at Dexter, jumping off to early leads and letting them all but get away before rallying in the late innings to widen their winning margins.

"I guess you would have to say we didn't have a killer instinct," Waller said. "Both games were closer than they should have been. We should have put them away earlier, but we didn't. That worries me a little bit going into the state tournament."

Against Dearborn Divine Child, Chelsea scored single runs in the first, fourth and fifth innings to take a 3-0 edge, and had opportunities to put across a lot more, twice getting only one run out of bases-loaded, nobody-out situations.

The Bulldog defense, which played superbly early in the game, came apart in the bottom of the fifth and gave up two runs on three errors and what was charitably scored as a base hit.

SHE HAD A GREAT DAY: Beth Unterbrink poses proudly with Chelsea softball coach Charlie Waller, holding the regional championship trophy won by the Bulldogs at Dexter last Saturday. Unterbrink had a great day, pitching and winning the first game and coming on for a save in the second. She also collected four hits, including two triples, drove in three runs and scored two.

That made it 3-2 and a tight ball game.

Chelsea finally wrapped it up in the top of the seventh as Joyce Robards walked and stole second, and Anne Weber walked. Both runners moved up on a passed ball, and came home on Unterbrink's base hit. Unterbrink later scored on a wild pitch.

Against Allen Park, which had won its way into the final game by defeating Jackson Northwest, 8-2, the Bulldogs got three first-inning runs on a walk, three hits, two errors and some excellent base-running.

Allen Park came back to tally single runs in the second and third off Bulldog pitcher Kelly Hawker, who allowed just one hit during the five innings she worked, and it was another 3-2 ball game. Mishandled bunts allowed both Allen Park runs to score.

Laura Anderson led off the Chelsea sixth with a triple and slid home on a perfectly executed delayed squeeze bunt by Chandy Hurd. Tina Paddock, the heroine of the district tournament final game, put the frosting on the cake with a home run in the seventh.

Waller said he decided to bring in Unterbrink to pitch the last two innings because "the plate umpire was calling an awfully small strike zone and Beth has a little better control than Kelly. We didn't want to put anybody on base with walks, and I was confident Beth could come in and throw hard strikes down the middle."

That she did, making her coach look like a genius. Her last dozen pitches had the Allen Park hitters futilely waving their bats as the ball socked into Robards' mitt.

"Don't take any credit away from Kelly," a jubilant Waller added. "She pitched very well, and she probably could have finished. Beth was pumped up and ready, and I decided she was a sure bet to lock up the game and the championship."

Practice this week in preparation for the state tournament will focus on hitting. The Bulldogs did not hit the ball consistently in either the district or regional tournaments, collecting only 10 total hits in last Saturday's two games. Unterbrink had four of the 10.

"We won on our pitching and our defense," Waller said. "We need to hit better, through the rest of the line-up, and we can do it. That's what we'll work on."

The semi-final game will RESTING IN THE SHADE: It was blistering hot at Dexter last Saturday afternoon, and the Chelsea girls welcomed a breather in the shade between games of the regional tournament. They rested for half an hour after winning the opening game, then came on to take the final.

Chelsea To Play At 5:30 Friday In State Tourney

Chelsea will play Grand Rapids Northview at 5:30 Friday afternoon at Emerson Field in Midland in the preliminary game of the state championship softball tournament.

Chelsea is 33-3 on the season, Northview 26-2. The season records come out very close to even, with Northview having a bit the better winning percentage, .929 to .917.

"I suspect they are the best of the other three teams in the tournament," Bulldog athletic director Ron Nemeth said, "but we really don't know much about them."

The other two Class B teams battling for the title are St. Joseph (24-5) and Mt. Morris (32-8). Chelsea split a double-header with St. Joseph on May 19, and coach Charlie Waller predicted that "we may see them again in the finals."

The Chelsea team will headquarter at Bay City because no overnight accommodations are available at Midland, a fact that Bulldog fans who plan to attend be played at Midland on Friday, with the championship tilt set for Saturday.

"I honestly didn't think at the beginning of the season that we would get this far," Waller commented after winning the regional. "I was starting one senior, five juniors and three sophomores. I knew we had talent, but I was afraid we didn't have enough experience."

"The girls have matured and played extremely well. We're 33-3 now, and I think we have a good chance to be state champions. The girls believe in themselves. They don't lose easily."

Three Chelsea Players On All-Region Team

Three Chelsea High baseball players—Chris Gallas, Jay Marshall and Marty Steinhauer—have been named to the Michigan High School Baseball Association's all-region team.

"The selections are an honor to the boys, the team and the school," varsity baseball coach Wayne Welton said.

Gallas played third base for the Southeastern Conference co-champion Bulldogs, batted .418 and set a school season record with 36 hits. He was selected as the team's most valuable player.

Marshall posted a 6-1 pitching record and a 2.02 earned run average. His lone mound loss wasn't his fault. When not pitching, Marshall played in the outfield and handled everything that came his way.

Steinhauer hit .321 and alternated between left and center field, depending on who was pitching. He also did a bit of pitching himself. He was an outstanding defensive outfielder with good range, sure hands and a strong throwing arm.

All three are seniors.

Blind in One Eye, Ron Dunn Plays Outstanding Baseball

By Bill Mullendore
This is a "Now it can be told" story about a young man named Ron Dunn who has completed two fine seasons of Chelsea varsity baseball despite a blind left eye. I wanted to write it last year but was asked not to by coach Wayne Welton, who worried that opposing teams might try to take advantage of his handicap. "He has enough pressures on him without getting a lot of publicity about his vision problem," Welton said then. "Let's wait until he finishes his senior season."

That season is over, and Dunn completed it with excellence. He played regularly in right field, making just one error, batted in the lead-off spot, hit for an average of .368, drove in 17 runs and scored 28 as the Bulldogs won a Southeastern Conference co-championship and went down to the wire before losing a heartbreaker in the district tournament.

Dunn was named to the all-SEC second team and should have made the first team, according to Welton. "He was the best lead-off hitter in the league, and one of the two best I've coached during my years at Chelsea."

"He got on base in half of his at-bats, which is what you want a lead-off hitter to do. You could count on him making contact with the ball and hitting it somewhere. He had a good eye for the strike zone, didn't swing at bad pitches, and drew a lot of walks. He had good speed on the bases and was a smart runner. He stole 18 bases in 19 tries."

"And don't forget that he made some great plays in the outfield, several outstanding catches including a couple of balls I didn't think he could possibly get."

If you have ever tried to hit or catch a baseball using two good eyes, you know how challenging it is. Two eyes, working together, provide the all-important third dimension of depth perception that tells you where the ball is.

Try shutting one eye and focusing on some object, any object, and judging how close or far away it is. This reporter, who has battled vision problems all of his life, was temporarily blinded in one eye for several weeks a couple of years ago and couldn't drive a car, much less catch a ball.

Dunn is a victim of Coat's Disease, a degenerative disease of the eye retina which is believed to have its origin in heredity. There is no treatment or cure.

His left eye went totally blind at age six. Fortunately, his right eye has not been affected, although he has to live with the possibility that it might be sometime in the future.

"I started playing baseball when I was a little kid," Dunn said, "and it's the only game I have ever wanted to play. When I lost my left eye, I had to make some adjustments."

Among the changes that Dunn, a natural right-hander, had to make was learning how to bat left-handed. "I found out that I couldn't see the ball when trying to hit from the right side," he recalled. Hitting right-handed, you have to see the ball with your left eye. Bating left, I can use my right eye to pick up the pitch."

"I hit a lot of balls to the opposite field (left) and maybe that's an accommodation. Maybe I do have to swing a little bit late. I started out this season trying to pull to right, and I put up a bunch of pop flies. I went back to my old stance and swing, just trying to make solid contact. I don't care where the ball goes as long as it's a hit."

As for fielding, Dunn says it was a matter of practicing and learning, judging where the ball is and making the catch. "It took some time, but I finally worked it out."

Dunn played baseball through the junior, freshman and junior varsity levels, and did well. When he reported for the varsity in the spring of 1983, Welton had his doubts.

"I honestly didn't think Ron could play on the varsity level," Welton recalled, "but I decided to give him a chance because he was so determined to make the team. That just may have been the best coaching decision I've ever made."

Welton had a set outfield in 1983, and there was no open spot

RON DUNN overcame the handicap of blindness in his left eye to play outstanding baseball for Chelsea High school and win all-league honors during this past season. He patrolled right field, batted .368 and was, according to coach Wayne Welton, "one of the two best lead-off hitters I've had."

for Dunn. He was used as a designated hitter, pinch-runner and utility player. He batted an even .300.

This spring Welton had no doubts. He assigned Dunn to be the regular right-fielder, filling a big hole left by the graduation of all-leaguer Mike Niebauer. Dunn took charge of the position and played it with distinction.

Dunn hopes to go on in baseball, but he has taken on another tough challenge by deciding to enroll at Bowling Green University in the Mid-America Conference. The MAC plays a mighty good brand of ball.

"If I didn't know Ron, I would say he can't play at that level," Welton commented. "I suppose there have been other one-eyed players in the history of the college game, but I don't know of any."

"Having known and coached Ron, I sure wouldn't want to bet that he won't make it. He is a very dedicated, determined boy. He can hit, run and throw, and he's smart. He might do it. I hope he gets the chance to try."

So do I. Good luck, Ron Dunn. You have played over a handicap that I know quite a lot about, and you have done it very, very well.

Six Teams Competing in Women's Loop

Teams entered in the Chelsea Women's Recreational Softball League include Chelsea State Bank, BookCrafters, Tower Mart-Chelsea Pharmacy, Jiffy Mix, Chelsea Big Boy and Palmer Ford.

Game results reported to date include:

Palmer Ford 20, Big Boy 11; Tower Mart-Chelsea Pharmacy 10, Jiffy Mix 9 (eight innings); Chelsea State Bank 1, BookCrafters 0.

Youth Basketball Camp Slated By Parks Commission

Boys and girls in grades 6 through 8 can learn the ways of the court—basketball court, that is—at a skill and drill camp beginning June 26.

The camp, sponsored by the Washtenaw County Parks and Recreation Commission (WCPARC), is designed for youths to learn and practice basketball skills and participate in group tournaments, games, and individual skill contests. Dribbling, passing, and shooting techniques will be covered as well as defense strategy.

The camp, which will be held on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 10:30 a.m. to 12 noon, runs from June 26 to Aug. 2. It will take place at the Washtenaw County Recreation Center, located at the corner of Washtenaw Ave. and Hogback Rd., near Ann Arbor.

Participants are asked to register for the camp by June 15. Fee is $15.

SPORTS NOTES

BY BILL MULLENDORE

Bill Russell was just pure and simple the best basketball player I've ever seen, and he may have been the best at his game in any sport. He dominated the National Basketball Association through 13 seasons, and I think I can guarantee that neither Earvin Johnson nor Larry Bird, good as they are, is going to come close to matching that record. Nor is anybody else likely to.

Russell, a 6-11 center, led San Francisco University to back-to-back national collegiate basketball championships, and then was signed by the Boston Celtics. The Celtics, who had never won anything important up to then, proceeded to 11 NBA championships during the 13 years that Russell was their man in the middle.

His performance was the more remarkable because during all those years Russell was matched up against the redoubtable Wilt Chamberlain, who perhaps was the second-best center ever to play basketball. Chamberlain was three inches taller and maybe 70 pounds heavier, but he yielded to Russell when the going got tough. The personal score between the two was 11-2 in favor of Russell when a title was on the line.

When Russell established position under the boards, and took command of the territory, Chamberlain conceded and moved out to the high post. He wasn't about to mix it up with Russell, and neither was anybody else.

Besides being big, Russell was a superb athlete. He was the quickest big man I've ever seen. His hands and arms were like striking rattlesnakes, lashing out to grab rebounds and bat down shots. I suspect he could have been a heavyweight champion boxer. He could jump a good three feet from a flat-footed stance, and if you think that is easy, try it sometime. You won't get much more than 18 inches off the ground. He had enough speed to out-race his guards down the floor if he had to, and he sometimes did.

Russell was the all-time master of the long outlet pass, an on-the-money heave to a man streaking down-court on a break. He would grab the rebound off the defensive board, cup it in his huge left hand (he is left-handed) and wing it away to hit Bob Cousy, Bill Sharman or Tom Heinsohn in full stride on their way into the basket for a lay-up. It's one of the prettiest plays in all of sports, and one of the most difficult to do right. It has to be executed perfectly or not at all.

An "ordinary" game for Russell was 25-30 rebounds, 8-10 blocked shots and a dozen assists on those astonishing outlet passes. Half of those numbers are considered excellent for NBA centers before and since.

Russell intimidated opponents, forcing them into changing their normal playing patterns. There was no sense trying to take the ball inside when he was set up underneath the defensive board, because he was going to either intercept the ball or knock down the shot. Made to shoot from outside, opponents arced the ball high to get it over him, which meant they weren't putting up their natural shots.

Russell drew a couple of goal-tending calls in most games, but he had a great sense of the tiny difference between a legitimate block and an illegal swat. And when the ball did go up and wasn't blocked, it had better go through the hoop. If it hit the board or the rim and bounced off, the ball belonged to him. Taking a rebound away from Russell was a feat to brag about.

Like all mortal athletes, Russell wasn't perfect. He had a weakness. He was a poor shot. Those same hands that served him so well in every other phase of the game lacked the "touch" to put the ball in the basket consistently from anywhere outside arm-reaching distance. He was a lousy shooter from the foul line, averaging less than 50 percent.

In that sense Russell was lucky to play on the team that he did. The Celtics of those days had a bunch of excellent gunners, and Russell didn't need to worry about scoring. His job was to play defense, block shots, get rebounds, and ignite the Celtic fast break if he could. If the break opportunity wasn't there, he passed the ball off to Cousy, raced down to the other end of the court and got in position for an offensive rebound. He grabbed a lot of those, usually passing them back out for second shots, but now and then stuffing one in himself if he had a clear path to the basket.

Obviously, the Celtics of the Russell era didn't win every game they played. They had their off-nights in a long and grueling 80-game regular season schedule plus the play-offs. Russell played some poor games, but not very many. Day in and day out, he was consistently excellent.

There have been some other outstanding centers in basketball—Chamberlain, George Mikan, Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, Bill Walton (who might have approached Russell had his career not been cut short by injuries), Bob Lanier and some others. Ralph Sampson may turn out to be the next one.

Somehow I doubt that anybody is ever going to dominate the game of basketball the way Russell did during his three years in college and 13 years as a pro. On that basis he gets my vote as one of the two greatest athletes I have ever seen play in any sport. The other is Jack Nicklaus, and I'll write about him next week.

JULIE LANTIS

Julie Lantis Running for Olympic Spot

PLACES IN STATE MEET: Amy Wolfgang shows the hurdling form that earned her fifth place in the state class B girls met, running the 300-meter lows. Amy was only the second girl in the history of Chelsea girls track to earn points in the state competition.

Chelsea Girl Qualifies For National Tournament

Colleen Scharphorn, 11-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Scharphorn of 1655 N. Fletcher Rd., has qualified for a national table tennis tournament Aug. 16-19 in Jacksonville, Fla.

"I think we are going to go down there," her father said. "We're making the arrangements."

Colleen, 11, won the 11-and-under girls division in the state

Junior Olympic meet held recently in Lansing, and was third in the open division in which she competed with older girls.

"She is getting to be very good," said Scharphorn, who is a tournament-class table tennis player. "In about two more years she'll be able to skunk me. It will be interesting to see how she does at the national level in her age group."

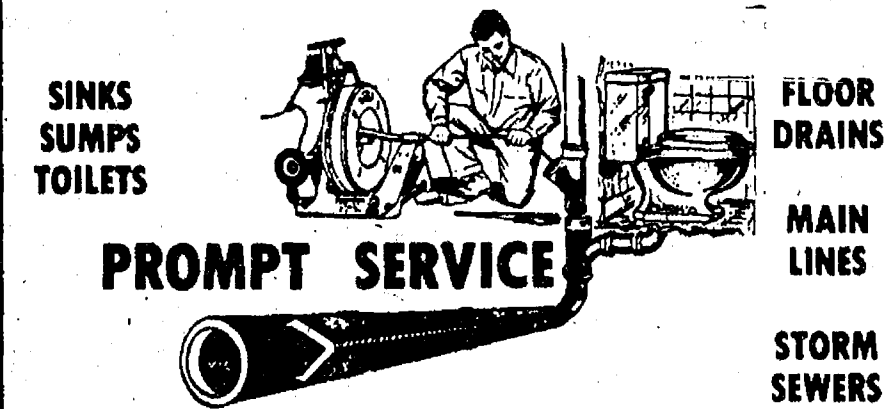

Julie Lantis, daughter of Lois and Woodie Lantis of Grass Lake, is seeking a spot on the U.S. Olympic team in the 1,500-meter run.

To make it, she will have to shave at least seven seconds off her best previous time of 4:17.50, and that will take some doing.

Lantis will also try to qualify in the 3,000-meter run. She is a student at the University of Illinois.

The Olympic trials are scheduled June 16-24 in Los Angeles. Lantis says that the big difference in high-level track has nothing to do with feet but with elbows. "I've had to learn to take elbows and give them back, to fight and shove. I don't like it, because it breaks my concentration, but that's the way it is. I've had to learn to be vicious."

How To Adopt Wild Horse or Burro

If you're someone who loves animals, and you also have a fair amount of land, you meet the basic requirements to adopt a wild horse or burro. The U.S. Department of the Interior has a program to find homes for excess wild horses and burros that have been rounded up on public lands in the west.

To tell you what kinds of horses and burros are available for adoption, what it costs, what facilities you must provide for the animal, and how to apply for the program, the Bureau of Land Management of the U.S. Department of the Interior has a free booklet called How to Adopt a Wild Horse or Burro. For your copy, write to the Consumer Information Center, Dept. 583M, Pueblo, Colo. 81009.

You can adopt one of these animals as a pet, or you can train them for farm work. For example, burros have been reported to be excellent at guarding sheep. However, most ranchers recommend using only one burro per pasture—otherwise the two burros visit instead of working the herd!

When the animals first come to you, they will be "wild." Although they're not used to people, with kindness, patience, and gentleness they can be tamed and trained just like their domestic counterparts.

Adoption fees range from $125 to $215 for a horse and $75 to $140 for a burro, depending on the adoption center location. The fee partially reimburses the government's costs of placing an animal in private maintenance (feeding, veterinary services, etc.).

If the animal you get is carrying a foal or has a foal under the age of six months the foal is yours at no extra charge.

Once you apply and are approved, you are responsible for the cost of transporting the animal to your home from the adoption center, and for all costs involved in its future upkeep.

The pickup centers are located in Kingman, Ariz.; Ridgecrest and Susanville, Calif.; Denver and Maybell, Colo.; Homedale and Salmon, Ida.; Pryor Mountains, Mont.; Valley, Neb.; Palomino Valley, Nev.; Burns and Eugene, Ore.; Lewisberry, Pa.; Cross Plains, Tenn.; Collinsville, Tex.; Delta and Faust, U.; and Rock Springs, Wyo.

You may adopt up to four animals a year under this program. The animals remain the property of the federal government for one year, after which adopters can receive the title if the animals have been treated humanely.

You can learn more about getting a horse or burro by sending for How to Adopt a Wild Horse or Burro (free). At the same time, you will also receive a free copy of the Consumer Information Catalog.

OUT IN THE OPEN

By BILL MULLENDORE

An item in a national news magazine last week caught my attention. It said that recreational vehicle sales are once again soaring, and that record numbers of RV's will take to the highways and campgrounds this summer.

That fitted in with a story I wrote before the Memorial Day weekend, reporting that all camping spaces in the Waterloo Recreation Area had filled up earlier than ever before. It looks like this will be a banner year for camping.

I frankly don't know a whole lot about RV's, never having owned one. Our family camping needs have been met through the years with tent gear, which is cheap and easy to use if you do it right.

An RV can be anything from a tent-trailer costing $2,000 on up to a 30-foot deluxe motor home which can represent an investment of $100,000 or more, depending on how much luxury you want and can afford. The idea that you can spend more for an on-wheels camping vehicle than a good-sized new house costs is kind of mind-boggling.

RV sales are booming following a long period of depression touched off by the 1973 Arab oil embargo and the consequent four-fold jump in gasoline prices. More than half the manufacturers in the industry went out of business. The survivors are recovering well.

I remember pulling into a gas station several years ago and watching in fascination as the driver of a motor home pumped an even 50 gallons into his tank. I asked him how far that much would take him and was shocked by his answer: "Maybe 200 miles, depending on headwinds."

Regular gas was selling for $1.30 a gallon at the time, and a little bit of arithmetic told me it was costing him more than 30 cents a mile in gasoline alone just to move the vehicle down the road.

A couple of things have served to help revive the RV industry. One is that people have gotten used to the idea of paying $1.20 a gallon or more for motor fuel. Another is that manufacturers have gotten busy and developed much more fuel-efficient vehicles. Some of the newer motor homes on the market will travel 20 miles or more on a gallon at 50 miles per hour.

The general economic recovery has helped, too, of course.

The big push in RV's is reported to be in sales of motor homes, which kind of surprises me. Were I to decide to buy an RV, which I might someday as a "toy" to play with during retirement, it would be a travel trailer that I could pull with a smaller vehicle and unhook once I got to my destination. The notion of having to move my whole "house" every time I need a loaf of bread or want to go sight-seeing doesn't appeal.

(Yes, I know you can strap bicycles or trailbikes onto a motor home, or even tow a small car behind, and use it to run errands or go see something. That doesn't appeal either.)

What does impress me is the variety of recreational vehicles on the market, something to suit every taste and just about every pocketbook. A look around the Lloyd Bridges lot on Chelsea's S. Main St. serves to give a pretty good overview of what is available. Bridges doesn't handle all makes by any means, but does have examples of most every type and size.

Many other area dealers offer a similar broad picture.

When and if I come around to the point of thinking seriously about buying an RV, I will test several types by renting them for a few days or a week and trying them out. The rental prices aren't cheap, but they are a whole lot less than the cost of investing in something wrong and then regretting it.

Not least of the considerations is driveability. I've pulled enough trailers to know that the experience is a whole lot different from driving a car. Just learning to back a boat trailer down a launching ramp can be an unnerving experience until you have practiced the maneuver a few times and gotten it through your head that you have to turn the steering wheel opposite from the way you want to go, and that any kind of a sharp turn, forward or backward, is a no-no.

I'm told that driving a motor home is similar to driving a truck.

None of that is meant to be discouraging, but simply to suggest that it would be wise to find out what you are diving into before you take the plunge.

Winners Announced in Track Meet For Young Chelsea Boys and Girls

The Hershey Foundation Chelsea track meet for 9-14-year-old boys and girls was held last Thursday.

All first-place winners will compete in a state meet at Michigan State University, East Lansing, on July 6. In addition, the first four finishers in the 100-meter dash in each age group will form relay teams and run in the meet.

The bus carrying all the Chelsea qualifiers will leave from South school at 7:15 a.m. Friday, July 6, boys track coach Bill Wehrwein said. "We may have a few boys and girls with chances to 'place in the state meet," he added, "but it's hard to tell because we don't know what the competition will be."

The team will practice on Tuesday and Wednesday mornings beginning at 9 a.m. on the high school track, and will also participate in the Thursday "Fun Runs" at Ann Arbor Pioneer High school which begins at 6:30 p.m.

Results of the Chelsea meet follow:

160 People Audition For 'Annie' Cast

Chelsea Area Players broke local records last week-end, by having 160 people audition for their upcoming production of "Annie." Says Director Foreman, "If this is any indication of the numbers we'll have coming to see the show, people better get their tickets early." Producer Mary Jane Tiedgen confirms this by saying, "sell-out audiences are expected."

Of the 160 auditioners, 59 were chosen for the final cast. They are as follows: Lori Wetzel, Kelly Cross, Tammy Browning, Charlotte Carr, Julie Honig, Joanie Marsh, Erin Boeve, Allison Brown, Carrie Fintoft, Stacie Moorer, Wendy Bell, Michelle McClear, Rebecca Boeve, Joe Diederich, Ruth Kenny, Brian Myers, Hazel Hermosillo, Norma Graflund, Jerri Coles, Peggy Welch, Phoebe Strong, Kari

The Chelsea Area Players expressed their appreciation to everyone for auditioning.

Shirley Burgoyne Seeking Probate Judge Nomination

Ann Arbor attorney Shirley J. Burgoyne will be a candidate for Probate Judge for Washtenaw county at the primary to be held on Aug. 7.

Burgoyne, 51, is a 1956 graduate of the University of Michigan Law School. She is the chairperson of the Codification Committee of the Family Law Council of the State Bar of Michigan. Her activities in the state bar have included six years as an elected member of the Family Law Section Council, membership in the Probate and Trust Law Section since 1959 and in the Family Law Section since its creation in 1974.

She is the author of the article "Child Custody and the Rule of Common Sense" published in 1976 in the Family Law Reporter, a publication of the Bureau of National Affairs.

She has been an associate member of the National Council of Juvenile and Family Court Judges since 1969. She is also a member of the American Bar Association, the American Judicature Society, the Women Lawyers Association of Michigan, the Washtenaw County Bar Association, the American and Michigan Trial Lawyers Association, and is currently the elected treasurer of the Washtenaw Trial Lawyers Association. She has also served as a vice-chairperson of the American Bar Association's committee on law and mental health.

Probate judges handle estates, mental health, adoption, child abuse and delinquency. Since the responsibilities in Washtenaw county have been divided, the judge to be elected this year will be primarily responsible for the juvenile division of the court located on Platt Rd., in Ann Arbor.

"As a juvenile judge," Burgoyne stated, "I would administer the court and its courtroom to accomplish the task of understanding the child and the family with caring concern and invoking the authority of the court to encourage new growth in the individuals involved while keeping in mind that the goal of helping the individuals must be accomplished without compromising our society's need to protect our community from crime and anti-social behavior."

"In my 28 years of legal experience, I believe that I have developed the skills needed in law to be a juvenile judge and that I also have those skills especially necessary in the juvenile court to communicate effectively with experts in mental health, social work, school administration, and law enforcement," Burgoyne concluded.

She is a resident of Ann Arbor and the mother of three adult children.

BASIC H Concentrate Soil Conditioner:

- Permits more uniform water penetration, thereby reducing dry spots
- Promotes maximum water utilization by reducing runoff and loss by evaporation
- Helps increase the rate at which water penetrates soils
- Makes water wetter, overcoming water repellency
- Assists drainage in areas where standing water might otherwise accumulate
- Will benefit in all growing areas from lawns, golf courses, to small or large agricultural areas.

Results in Agriculture experiments showed Water Infiltration improved up to 300%

Potato Yield Increased 1,777 pounds/acre

Group's Goal To Educate Chelsea About Drugs

Two Chelsea youths who were once enrolled in substance abuse programs will speak to those interested about their drug problems and how they resolved them at the monthly meeting of the Chelsea Citizens' Against Drug Abuse (CCADA) on Thursday, June 14 at 7:30 p.m. in the Chelsea High school library.

According to CCADA member Marlene Allen, the two youths are living proof of the drug problem that exists within the village of Chelsea, and anyone who doubts this fact should plan on attending this very special meeting.

Currently, eight families comprise CCADA, and six of these have relatives with substance abuse problems. "These are people of our community dealing with real drug problems," Allen stated.

CCADA was initiated last September, and after a slow start the group is finally beginning to reach some of its potential according to Allen. The group is presently filing with the state of Michigan for a tax exemption, and from there will file to become a non-profit organization.

The group has two primary goals they work towards. One is to educate the community about substance abuse, which includes both drugs and alcohol, and two is to act as a support group for families who have a relative with a drug problem or may be currently enrolled in a substance abuse program.

"Our group is there as a support group for those who know of relatives with drug problems, but we are also here to try and educate people before a problem develops," Allen said.

Because of its accessibility and low price, alcohol is the number one substance which young adults indulge in. However, a new and even more dangerous combination is beginning to distinguish itself among young substance abusers. "Today's kids are no longer just single drug users. Now they're drinking and smoking marijuana or popping pills as well," Allen stated.

The group's immediate goals are to make themselves visible to the community while teaching awareness to individuals. A brochure was recently distributed to various merchants in the village to orientate the village about the group. They plan to schedule professional speakers as soon as possible, and will also begin speaking at other organizations' meetings in the fall. For further information about CCADA contact Marlene Allen at 426-2673.

Card of Thanks 17

CARD OF THANKS Expressing many thanks to the Chelsea Lions Club for their help in obtaining my glasses. J. Allen.

THANK YOU

We wish to thank Chief Hankerd and the rest of the men on the Chelsea Fire Dept. for their immediate response to our call for help for our fire last Friday afternoon. Through their efforts in pinpointing the source of the fire and prompt action, the damage was only minimal. Without all their help, it could have been a major loss to us. Thanks again. John Brooks Heather and Michael.

THANK YOU

I would like to express my special appreciation to the Chelsea School Board, Chelsea Administration, school secretaries, Beach School staff and the many North Lake and Chelsea area people for all their expressions of kindness. I was deeply touched. Sylvia Gilbert.

THANK YOU

The families of Jack Gilbert and Mary Dearing Gilbert DeKarse would like to thank all of our friends, neighbors and relatives for their kind words and deeds during this difficult time. Jack and Mary will be dearly missed but your support helped ease the pain. Sylvia Gilbert and family. Don and Eleanor Reynolds and family.

CARD OF THANKS

I would like to thank all my relatives and friends for all their prayers, visits, flowers and cards which I received while I was in the hospital and since my return home. All your kindnesses were greatly appreciated. I also wish to express a special appreciation to Dr. Krause and to the members of the staff of the Chelsea Community Hospital who assisted me. Rudella (Dell) Hepburn.

THANKS TO BOOKCRAFTERS

The publicity committee for the Supreme Council of the Sesquicentennial would like to express their sincere thanks to Phil Knight and BookCrafters for their generous donation of poster-board to be used to enhance the publicity surrounding the chapter events. Your donation is a great show of your Sesquicentennial spirit. Thanks for your support!

THANK YOU

The VFW Poppy Program wishes to thank everyone for their donations, time, or both. Our top sellers were Marien Johnson and Tom Collingsworth. VFW Poppy Committee.

THANK YOU

On May 19, the Chelsea Lions Club hosted its first annual SENIOR'S Prom, for Chelsea Area Senior Citizens. This was perhaps our most gratifying project. I want to express my sincere appreciation to the many people who helped to make this event so successful. Most noteworthy are Jackie Rogers for her guidance, encouragement and preparation of snacks; Lion Fred Mills for coordinating our use of the community school facilities and assisting Jackie; Lion Dave Scriven and the Lion wives for the outstanding decorations; Lion Don Kvarnberg for stepping in at the last minute to serve as our photographer; Sandy and Walt Zeeb for the donation of the beautiful centerpiece; and of course all those terrific "dancing" Lion escorts for the senior ladies.

We plan to make the SENIOR'S Prom an annual event and look forward to the continued support of our friends and neighbors in the community. Lion Tom Dnoch, Chairman SENIOR'S Prom Committee

Adult Ed. Classes Schedule Graduation

Graduation ceremonies for the Chelsea Education Department's adult education classes are scheduled for Thursday, June 14 at 8 p.m. in the Chelsea High school auditorium.

Graduating this year are: Tom Case, Bonnie Connell, Sandy Fletcher, Lance Fletcher, David Gonyon, Sue Harris, Craig Hinz, Michelle Huggins, Steve Marriott, Don Marshall, Pam Noble, John Parisho, Eric Pichlik, Robert Reed, Jennie Robbins, Laurie Smith, Kathy York and Lloyd Eddy.

Community Education director Jaclynn Rogers said this year's class size is smaller than last year's record number of 30, and the students on the whole are younger.

The population of the American colonies in 1610 was 350.

Rehabilitation of Prisoners Subject of San Quentin Film

First Assembly of God of Chelsea will be showing a motion picture release of International Prison Ministry entitled, "Changed Lives in San Quentin."

Actually filmed inside the prison, this documentary features the stories of four notorious criminals. Interviews conducted by Art Linkletter and the director of IPM, Chaplain Ray, focus on rehabilitation as a result of conversion to Christianity.

From inside the gas chamber Jerry Graham says, "I came very close to ending it all right here." In stark contrast to his life of crime, he now directs a ranch for abused children. James Williams served time in San Quentin after a gun battle with police. Now he's employed by a criminal justice organization teaching men "the way to go out," as he puts it.

Another changed life is George Meyer, Al Copone's favorite driver. Now 74, he counsels teenagers about the evils of drug abuse. And Jack Burbridge, once an enforcer for organized crime, is now a preacher. The film concludes with a look inside the gas chamber.

The film is free to the public and will be shown at the First Assembly of God, 14900 Old US-12, Chelsea on Sunday night, June 17, at 8 p.m.

Telecommunicating in 1984

NOW YOUR TELECOMMUNICATIONS SERVICES COME FROM A NEW FAMILY OF COMPANIES.

As a Michigan Bell customer, you have been affected by recent changes in the telecommunications industry.

However—with few exceptions—the services previously available directly from Michigan Bell are still available to you... either from Michigan Bell or from one of our new Ameritech companies.

When federal action led to the reorganization of AT&T, Michigan Bell separated from AT&T and joined Ameritech, a new holding company headquartered in Chicago. Besides Michigan Bell, Ameritech's large family of companies includes a host of subsidiaries you may not have heard about, as well as the former Bell telephone companies in Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Wisconsin.

How we and these other Ameritech companies may be of service in meeting your telecommunications needs is described in the following.

Basic Telecommunications Services: Residence and Business.

MICHIGAN BELL provides basic telecommunications services including dial tone, flat rate, or measured service, white pages telephone listings, line repair services, and disabled customer services. You can also get optional network services like Touch-Tone and Custom Calling services from Michigan Bell, and business network services such as Centrex and network transmission services for voice, data, and image. And we provide public telephone service as well as long distance service within Michigan Bell's service areas, including optional long distance calling plans.

Equipment: Business.

MICHIGAN BELL COMMUNICATIONS, INC., serves as Michigan Bell's sales arm for business network services, including Centrex. It provides complete business communications systems, offering products and equipment from a wide variety of telecommunications suppliers, including terminal equipment for The Centrex Universe.

Equipment: Residence and Small Business.

The new CONSUMER PRODUCTS DIVISION of MICHIGAN BELL COMMUNICATIONS, INC., provides telephone equipment for residence and small business customers, with ordering by phone and delivery to your home or business.

Directory Advertising.

Michigan Bell Yellow Pages advertising is now handled by AMERITECH PUBLISHING, INC., the publisher and provider of Michigan Bell Yellow Pages directory advertising, including Neighborhood, Specialty, Business-to-Business, and Travelers' Directories.

Mobile Communications Services.

MICHIGAN BELL offers tone and digital display radio paging in metro Detroit, Lansing, and Grand Rapids through our Bellboy Service™ agent... A Beeper Company.

Michigan Bell also provides Improved Mobile Telephone Service (IMTS) in most major Michigan cities.

Facts down the line.

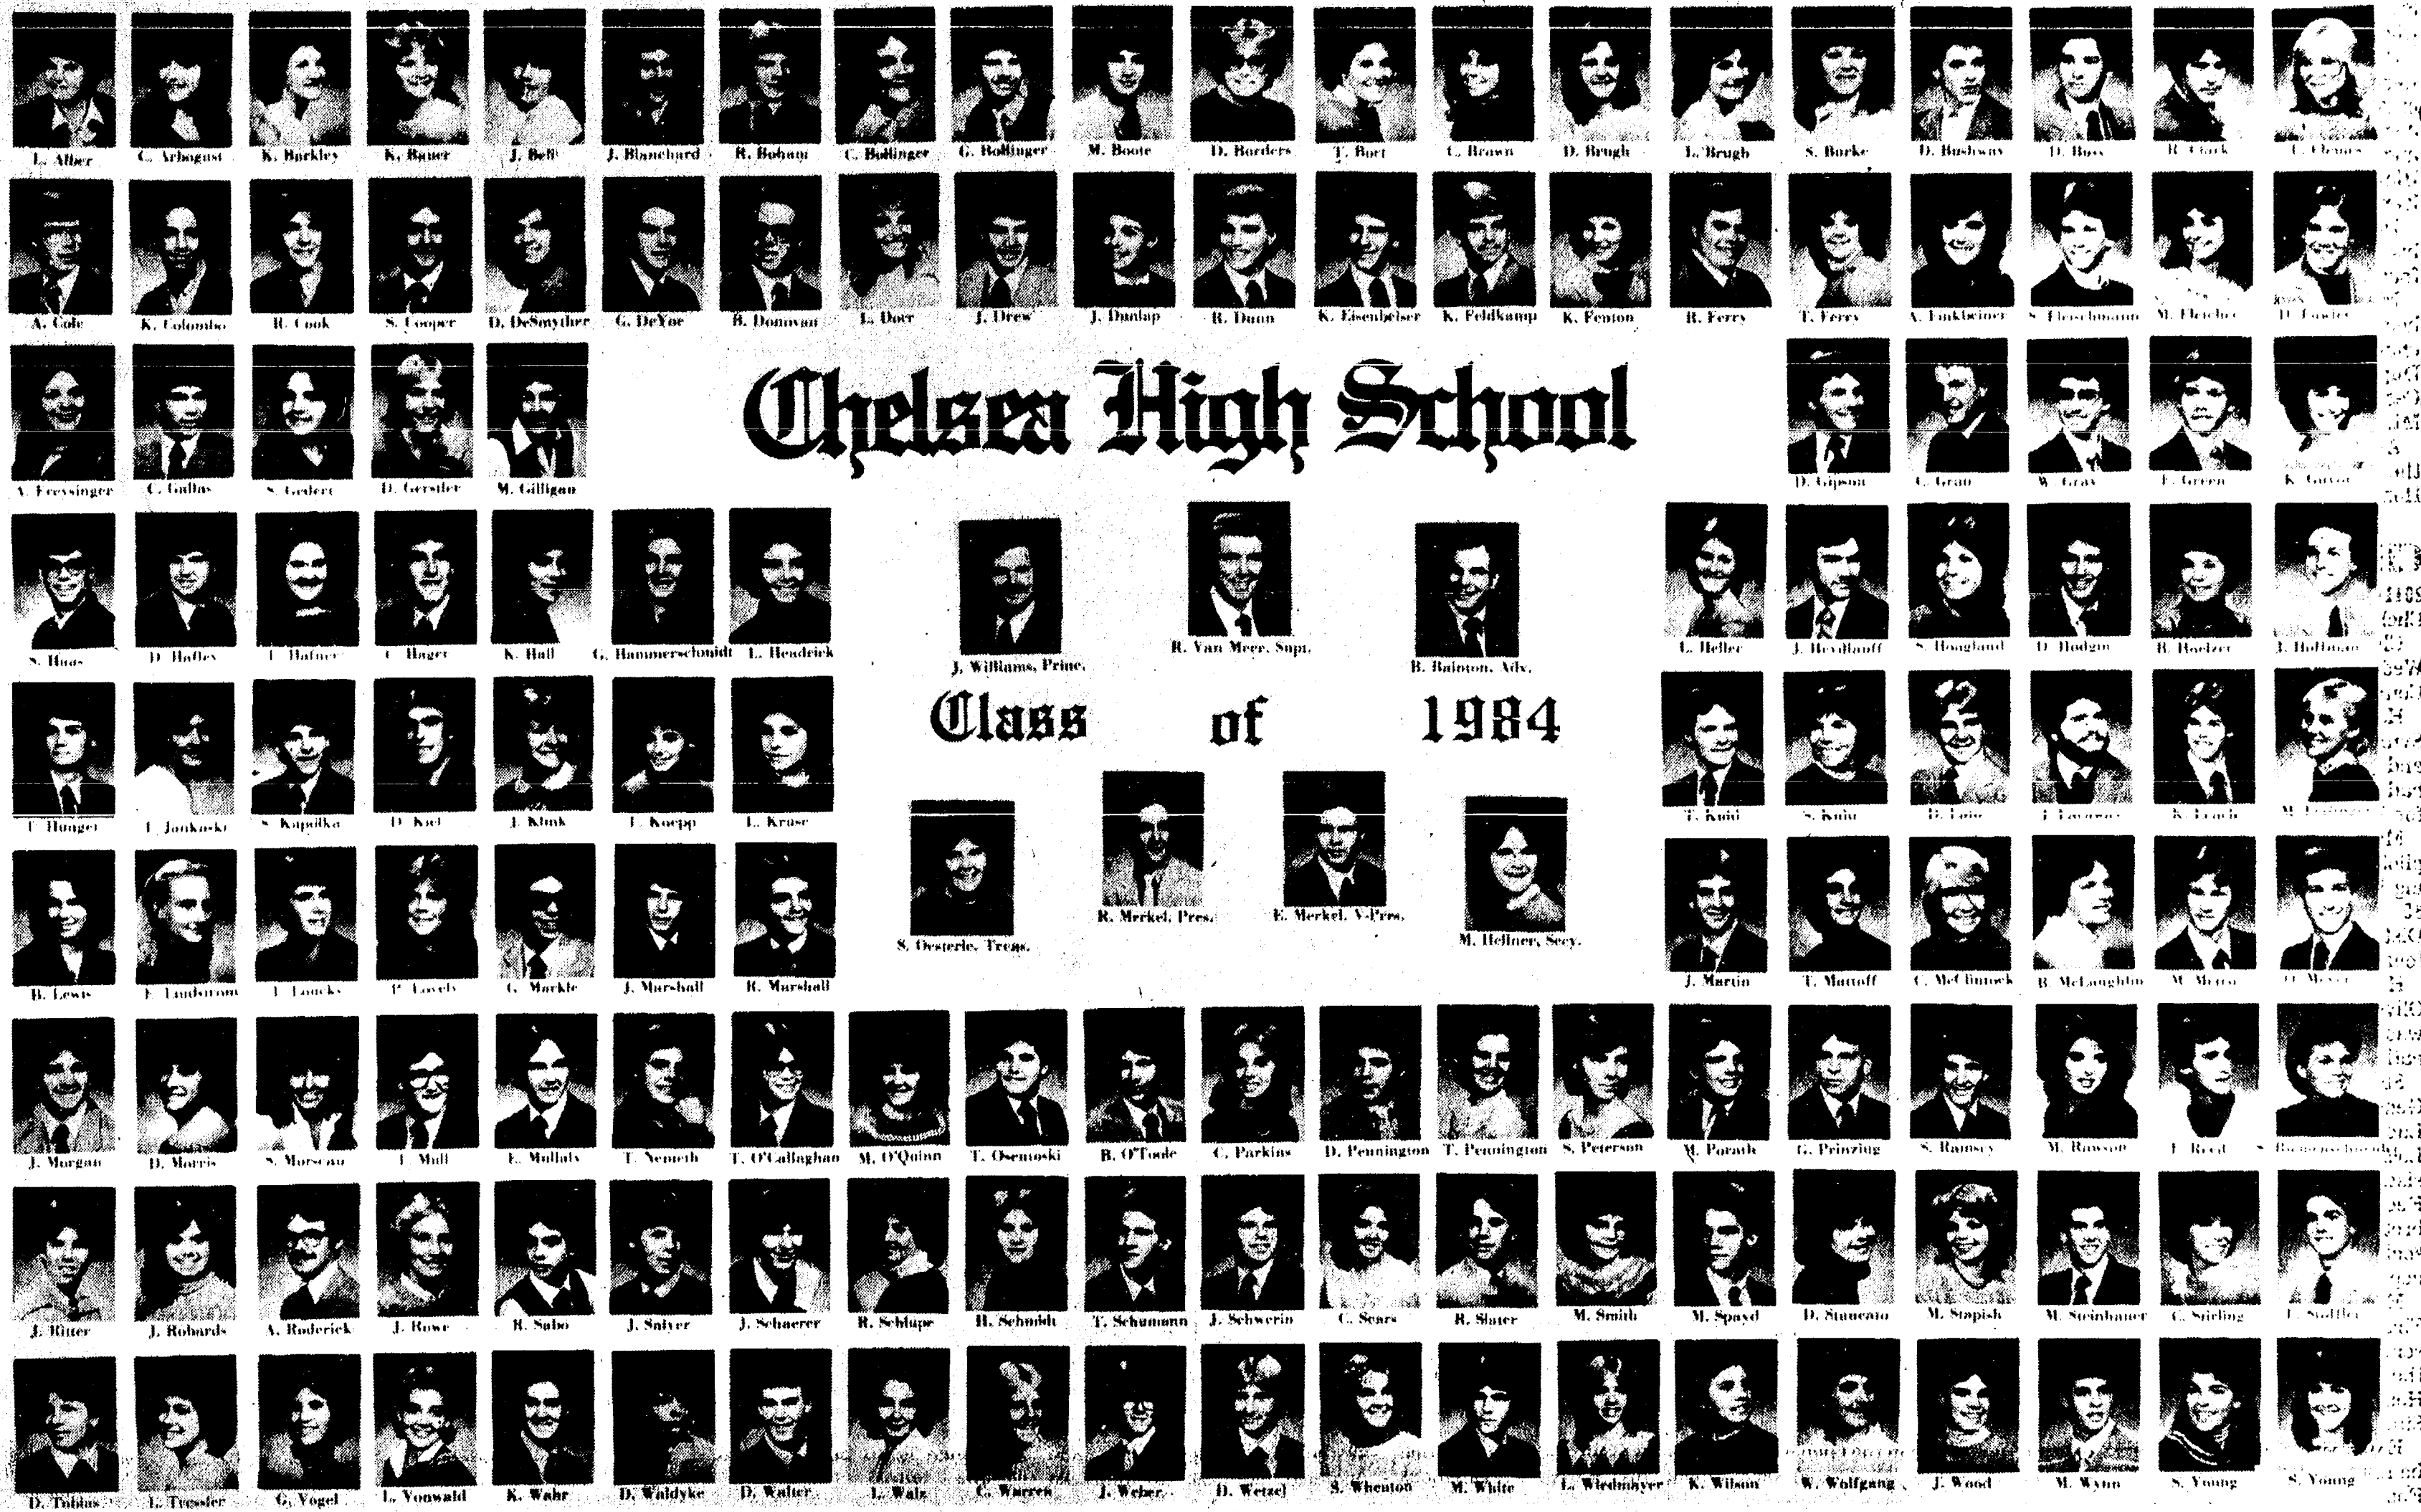

We suggest that you watch for further informational messages in your newspapers and in your monthly telephone bills. Because your telephone business office is busily engaged in normal day-to-day telephone service matters, we are providing this toll-free number as a source for answers to the questions you may have about your changing telephone company. 1 800 555-5000.

John M. Blaznek
20925 Waterloo Rd.
Chelsea

John M. Blaznek, 80, died June 7 at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor. He was born Sept. 29, 1903, in Detroit, the son of Joseph and Julia Blaznek.

A resident at 20925 Waterloo Rd. since 1949, Mr. Blaznek was a retired farmer and a member of St. Mary's Catholic church of Chelsea.

Surviving are two sons, Leonard of Chelsea and John F. of Ann Arbor; a daughter, Mrs. Jerry (Patricia) Platt of Chelsea, and two grandchildren, Susan Blaznek of Ann Arbor and John Kenneth Platt of Chelsea.

He was preceded in death by his wife, Eleanor Kozlowski, and four brothers.

Mass of the Resurrection was held June 9 at St. Mary's Catholic church with the Rev. Fr. Philip Dupuis and deacon Richard Cesarz officiating. Burial was in Mt. Olivet Cemetery.

Arrangements were made by the Staffan-Mitchell Funeral Home.

Clifford E. Bolton
21111 Old US-12
Chelsea

Clifford E. Bolton, 68, died Wednesday, June 6, at Chelsea Community Hospital.

He was born Oct. 25, 1915, in Symsonia, Ky., the son of Irvy and Ola (Sullivan) Bolton, and had been a resident of Michigan for 48 years.

Mr. Bolton served as a bomber pilot in the Eighth Air Force during World War II and completed 35 missions, earning the Distinguished Flying Cross with four Oak Leaf clusters.

He was a member of Masonic Olive Lodge No. 156, F&AM, and was retired from Rockwell International.

Survivors include his widow Geneva; two daughters, Jennifer Lubbinge of Grand Rapids and Lois Bolton of Grass Lake; a sister, Mrs. Dwight (Louise) Feezor of Lincoln Park; a brother, Murrell Bolton of Symsonia, Ky.; and several nieces and nephews.

Masonic services were held Thursday, June 7, and funeral services on Friday, June 8, from the Staffan-Mitchell Funeral Home with the Rev. James Stacey officiating.

Expressions of sympathy may be made to the Michigan Cancer Foundation.

The Committee for Industrial Organization, later known as the Congress of Industrial Organizations (CIO), was formed on Nov. 9, 1935 by several AFL international unions and officials to foster industrial unionism.

She was preceded in death by one brother, LeRoy, and one sister, Beatrice Haselschwerdt.

Funeral services were held Monday, June 11 at St. Paul United Church of Christ with the Rev. Erwin R. Koch officiating. Burial was in Oak Grove Cemetery, Chelsea. Arrangements were made by Staffan-Mitchell Funeral Home, Chelsea.

Expressions of sympathy may be made to the children's section of the McKune Library, Chelsea.

Civic Foundation Makes Grant to Parents Anonymous

The Civic Foundation of Chelsea has made a $1,320 grant to Parents Anonymous of Chelsea.

The grant, approved at a special Board of Trustees meeting on June 5, will be used to purchase special toys for children treated in the program and for the printing of a brochure which will provide information about the Parents Anonymous Program. Parents Anonymous is a sub-group of Faith in Action.

Parents Anonymous works with both parents and children. It provides a program to help abusive parents change their behavior and works to help children of such parents to escape from the cycle of abuse. The program is available to both abusive parents and those who feel they are potentially abusive. All phases of the program are anonymous and confidential. Persons interested in the program should call Pediatrician Dr. Mary Westhoff's office, 475-9175, leave their telephone number, and they will be called back.

Ray Van Meer, president of the Civic Foundation of Chelsea said about the grant, "The Civic Foundation of Chelsea is very pleased to make a grant which will produce so much good in our community. None of us likes the amount of child abuse which our community apparently has. Parents Anonymous is working actively to do something about it. This is the kind of a program which the Civic Foundation wants to support."

The grant to Parents Anonymous is the third grant made by the Civic Foundation of Chelsea. The other two grants were $8,000 to start Lifeline, a personal emergency response system that helps elderly and disabled persons to maintain their independence by living at home; and $3,000 to the Parent to Parent Program that gives family support, focusing on child development, parenting skills, parent-child relationships, and the use of community resources.

Persons interested in supporting the work of the Civic Foundation of Chelsea may write to Post Office Box 45, Chelsea 48118, or contact Ray Van Meer, president at 475-9131; Bill Nuffer, vice-president at 475-9145; or Ron Olmsted at 475-9414.

Dr. G. Riethmiller Dies May 29 in Charlotte Hospital

Dr. M. Gorton Riethmiller, 77, died Tuesday, May 29, at a Charlotte hospital. He was born May 11, 1907, in Waterloo township, Jackson county, son of Milton A. and Sarah E. (Gorton) Riethmiller.

He began his education in a one-room school in Waterloo, graduated from Chelsea High School, obtained his B.A. from Olivet College, M.A. from Wayne State University and did graduate study at Columbia University, University of Chicago and University of Colorado. Honorary degrees were conferred on him by Hillsdale College and Olivet College.

He began his educational career as a teacher in the Highland Park public schools and advanced to Deputy Superintendent. He later became president of Olivet College and was president-emeritus. Other activities included ombudsman to the Michigan Department of Education and consultant, Mid-American Consulting Associates.

Appointments by Govs. Williams, Swainson, Romney and Milliken included chairman of the Junior College Development Commission, member of the Michigan Higher Education Assistance Authority, president of the State Board of Education, Governor's Commission on Higher Education.

He was past president of the Michigan Academy of Science, Arts & Letters, president of the Eaton Rapids Chamber of Commerce, a long-time member of Kiwanis International and a Past Lt. Governor, and was the chairman of the Downtown Development Authority, Eaton Rapids, and held numerous other appointments and memberships.

He was the author of a number of publications including his latest book, "Upon This Hill: My Affair With Olivet," published in 1982.

The chemical that gives the skunk his dreaded smell is called ethanethiol; this substance is so pungent that one ten-trillionth of an ounce can be detected by the human nose.

Summer Reading Game Starting At McKune Library

The Summer Reading Game at McKune Memorial Library will start June 13. The theme this year is the 1984 Summer Olympic Games.

There are five "events" in the game. To complete one event and win a bronze medal bookmark, read any three books of your choice.

To win a silver medal bookmark, complete three events (nine books.) To win a gold medal bookmark complete all five events (15 books.)

Despite the athletic theme, books read do not have to be about sports. All titles and subjects are open.
