

Sesqui Celebration Starts Saturday

Many Events Slated In Five-Day Program

CHELSEA CHILDREN'S WORKSHOP: The young cast of "Depot Destruction" acts out a lively scene from the play, which will be presented on Senior Citizens and Interfaith Day as part of Chelsea's Sesquicentennial celebration. The play will be performed on July 1 at 7:30 p.m. in the Chelsea High school auditorium. The cast of "Depot Destruction" in the front row, left to right are: Casey

The grand celebration commemorating Chelsea's 150th birthday will heighten next week as the village's five-day birthday party begins in earnest on June 30 and continues daily through July 4.

Saturday, June 30 has been designated as Heritage and Homecoming Day to honor Chelsea's past.

The day will begin at 8 a.m., when horse and buggy transportation to all events will commence and registration for the day's events will be taken at Sylvan Town Hall.

Saturday's biggest event will undoubtedly be the Sesquicentennial Parade, which is slated to begin at 1 p.m. An ice cream social and giant birthday cake celebration will be held in the parking lot of Palmer Ford before the parade at 12:30 p.m. for those who would like to indulge their sweet tooth.

The burial of a time capsule filled with mementoes of Chelsea history will be buried in the village at 3 p.m., while a water bucket brigade demonstration by the fire department will be the main event at 5 p.m.

The day's activities will just be a prelude for what's to come in the evening. A dance will be held on the fairgrounds beginning at 8 p.m. Dancers will sway to the big band beat as they listen to the Saline Big Band.

Sunday the first of July has been designated as Senior Citizens Day and Interfaith Day, and activities scheduled for the day will follow in a similar vein.

A senior citizen brunch and quilt show will begin at 8:30 a.m. and last until noon. A Civil War Muzzle Loaders shoot and demonstration will be held at noon, and at 1 p.m. combined Chelsea churches will hold a sesquicentennial church service.

Three bands, the Senior Citizens Kitchen Band, First of Michigan Fife and Drum Corps, and Max Plank's Civic Band will all be on hand to create and recreate music of our past and present.

The day will wind down with a Children's Theatre Workshop performance at 7:30 p.m. in the Chelsea High school auditorium.

Youth Day will take place on Monday, July 2. Numerous youth activities will take place during this action-filled day. A youth marathon will begin the day at 8:30 a.m., followed by a children and their pets parade.

Should you happen to see beds flying down the street at a fast pace, you won't be alone. A bed race is slated for 10 a.m.

Three contests involving food will be available to young adults as well. A cracker whistling contest will take place at 2 p.m., a bubble-blowing contest follows at 3, and a Jell-O-eating contest will be staged at 6 p.m.

Other special events scheduled for the day include a water balloon toss, frog race, hot air balloon rides, and a magic show presented by Chelsea's own Fitzsimmons and Boyer.

Themes for Tuesday, July 3 are industry, agriculture and ladies day. Industry tours of various village plants will be conducted from 9 a.m. through 3 p.m. Included on the tour route are Chelsea Milling, Dana Corp., Chrysler Proving Grounds and BookCrafters.

Many agricultural displays will be available for public viewing as well. Steam engines, picket fence-making, butter-making, cream separating and wheat threshing are among the demonstrations scheduled. Several contests will also be held, such as a tractor belting contest, and tractor backing-up contest.

Ladies day is the final theme that will be apparent throughout the day's festivities. The Chelsea Charms will hold a fashion show, and a box social, husband calling contest and heritage and crafts displays are just a few of the scheduled events.

Another dance will be held at 8 p.m. on Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the fairgrounds. This time it will be a hay-kicking, hoe-downing barn dance.

Besides the celebration of Chelsea's Sesquicentennial, the fourth of July will also celebrate our nation's birthday with fireworks which will begin at dusk. Other planned events will be the ever popular tug-of-war between the Brothers of the Brush. They'll tug the rope over Lett's Creek, so watch out for wet people.

A chicken barbecue will also be held at the fairgrounds, as well as an antique tractor pull, heritage and crafts displays, and a water ball fight sponsored by the fire department.

For a more detailed listing of sesquicentennial activities, see a complete listing of scheduled events elsewhere in this issue of The Standard.

These four days will be a grand celebration of Chelsea's past, so make it a priority to attend some of these scheduled activities and show your pride in all our village has accomplished in its 150-year existence.

Theatre Workshop for Children Will Present 3 Original Plays

The Theatre Workshop for Children will present three original plays relating to Chelsea's history on July 1 at 7:30 p.m. in the Chelsea High school auditorium.

Tickets for the three-play evening are 75 cents and may be purchased from workshop participants or at the door on performance night.

"Depot Destruction," written and directed by Brian Myers, is entertaining for the whole family. Yes, the Chelsea train depot did destruct around 1879. Come and join in the fun when you hear and see what happened.

Also plan on staying to see another masterfully written play by Mike Smith and Eric Kruger, "Sesquicentennial Zone: The Play." They will also direct the large cast, which includes veteran performers such as Amy Henderson, Bill Coelius, Chris Walters, Todd Redding, Julian Vorus, Carter Gordon, Rob Read and many others.

The third and final play is a fictional drama about "Jiffy Mixes." Written and directed by Phil Powers, it stars Leslie Read, Kim McDaniels, Julie Stacey, Mike Thompson, Chris Young, Jason Overdorf, Robert Coelius, Joey Wolf, Brant Snyder, Kate Dillworth, Sarah Gegenheimer, Steve Miller and Charity Strong.

In this melodrama the audience is very active in cheering for the good guy and booing the villain, and the viewing audience should feel free to do so as well, however, please refrain from throwing peanuts and popcorn at the actors.

The 60 children performing in the three plays are in second through ninth grades. Besides play rehearsals, the children have been studying different aspects of theatre and having a good time. The Theatre Workshop for Children is directed by Joy Stacey and sponsored by the Chelsea Players.

Council Reverses Again, Approves Tax Rate Boost

Chelsea property-owners will pay an extra .9 mill (90 cents per $1,000 of valuation assessed for tax purposes) to cover village government operations for 1984-85.

The village council did another flip-flop at its June 19 meeting, finally approving the tax hike needed to balance this year's general fund budget of $998,300.

The council had adopted the budget on April 17, but at its June 5 meeting declined to approve the tax rate required to raise the necessary money, leaving a potential $45,000 shortage in revenue.

Asked what failure to approve the increase would mean, village administrator Frederick Weber said, "I think you are looking at laying off at least two people, abandoning brush pick-up and sidewalk repairs, and cutting way down on building maintenance."

"A lot of things would have to go," president Jerry Satterthwaite added. "You can't provide services if you don't have the dollars. We ought to look very carefully before deciding to cut services."

The four trustees present voted for the tax hike, on a motion made by Joe Merkel and supported by Stephanie Kanten. Richard Steele and Jim Finch also voted yes. Herman Radioff and Fred Harris were absent.

Steele, who had spoken out against the tax hike at the June 5 meeting, voted reluctantly for it. "I thought we were looking at maybe half a mill at most, not nine-tenths of a mill," he said.

"but I understand the need now that I've studied the figures."

There was no comment by other board members present.

The increase will bring the village property tax rate to 10.32 mills ($10.32 per $1,000 of taxable valuation which is half of assessed valuation). For an owner with property assessed at $60,000, village taxes will be $309.60, up from $282.60 last year, an increase of $27.

Property owners will also pay county and township taxes, which are levied against a different base (half of state equalized valuation). They will go up by about 3.4 percent over last year.

Weber emphasized that, in the case of village taxes, the higher rate is a way of staying even. "Our budget is tight and it provides for no new programs or services," he said. "We're just trying to keep what we have and meet rising costs."

Ten Community Leaders Picked for Sesqui Honors

Ten Chelsea area citizens have been selected as "most representative" of the community and will be honored during this weekend's Sesquicentennial celebration.

Walter and Helen May Leonard, owners and publishers of The Chelsea Standard since 1947, will be feted on Heritage and Homecoming Day Saturday.

Erwin and Ethel Haist, who recently celebrated their 53rd wedding anniversary, will be the guests of John and Gloria Mitchell on Senior Citizens and Interfaith Day Sunday. Mr. Haist will be 80 on July 1.

Walter and Sandy Zeeb, owners of Chelsea Greenhouse, were chosen for Youth Day on Monday. They have worked on the Chelsea Community Fair, Cassidy Lake Liaison Council and many other organizations.

Agriculture and Industry Day next Tuesday will be represented by Lloyd and Arlene Grau, and Robert and Elsie Heller, all of whom have been involved in

Time Capsule Will Be Buried on June 30

The Sesquicentennial time capsule will be on display Saturday from noon to 3 p.m. at McKune Memorial Library.

Area residents are invited to place small items of interest, such as business cards, family histories and pictures. The committee will be placing copies of newspapers including The Chelsea Standard, and a Sesquicentennial Book.

Following the parade, the capsule will be sealed and buried, to be opened at the 200th anniversary celebration of the village.

If you need information or have questions, please call John Mitchell at 475-1444.

Fred Harris Resigns As Village Trustee In Surprise Move

Fred Harris has resigned unexpectedly from the Chelsea board of trustees almost exactly three months after he was elected to the office on March 12.

In a letter to village president Jerry Satterthwaite dated June 11, 1984, Harris wrote:

"I, Fred Harris, do hereby tender my resignation as trustee of the village of Chelsea, effective immediately."

"It is my opinion that the village council will run more smoothly without me."

Harris told a reporter for The Standard that his decision to resign is "absolutely final" and that he would have nothing more to say about it.

"I have no further comment and will not have any in the future," he asserted. "I have resigned for the reason stated in my letter, and that's it."

Harris, 64, lives at 415 S. Main St. and is retired from Xerox Corp. in Ann Arbor. He operates a "fix-it" shop at his home. His wife, Mary Harris, is village treasurer.

Harris polled 239 votes in the March 12 election, second only to incumbent Joe Merkel, to win one of three open seats on the board. In the absence of amplifying comment by Harris, there was speculation that his move was triggered by either dissatisfaction over the new village budget or the handling of police chief Robert Aello's case, or both, and that he was in conflict with president Jerry Satterthwaite and some other members of the council.

His letter of resignation, although dated June 11, was not brought before the June 19 council meeting, and Satterthwaite acknowledged that "we tried to persuade him to change his mind."

Harris did not attend the June 19 meeting. Two weeks earlier, on June 5, he had voted against a motion to extend the present village property tax rate for another year, and had no comment on a proposed .9 mill increase which died for lack of action.

A majority of the council approved the existing rate on June 5, and on June 19 reluctantly voted the increase.

Harris has not spoken publicly on the Aello issue which at this point involves whether the former police chief, who has been found not guilty on an embezzlement charge, should be re-instated.

The council is collectively empowered to appoint a successor to serve the balance of Harris' two-Chelsea's Central Fibre Products plant closed its doors for good at the end of the working day, Friday, June 27. With a twist of ironic humor, Fibre Products employees paraded down Main St. Friday afternoon in a mock funeral cortege, with a flower-bedecked casket symbolizing the demise of the 60-year-old local industry. A "wake" was then held at the Wolverine Tavern.

Ballot Proposal Approved*On Land Trust Fund

The Legislature has taken final action to place on the November general election ballot a proposal asking Michigan voters whether the state's land acquisition trust fund should be given constitutional protection.

The proposal, if approved by the voters, would create a Natural Resources Trust Fund, which would be a successor to the current Kammer Recreational Land Acquisition Trust Fund which was created by statute in 1976.

The resolution, approved by the Legislature to place the question before the voters, would provide constitutional protections of the fund created from royalties and other money received by the state under leases permitting the extraction of minerals, coals, oil, gas and other non-renewable resources from state-owned lands.

The proposal places a $200 million cap on the principal in the fund but authorizes the Legislature by a three-fourths vote to increase that cap as future Legislatures may see fit.

The current fund has been the depository for royalties since its inception, but the fund has been "raided" by acts of the Legislature to meet past and present budgetary needs.

The ballot proposal would remove the fund as a source to be used for other purposes besides acquisition of land or making improvements to such land to be held in trust for future generations as a result of expending non-renewable resources.

Treasury Reports*Property Tax Hikes Slowing
The smallest percentage increase and smallest dollar increase in property tax revenues since 1940 and 1950, respectively, occurred in 1983, according to a recent report by the Department of Treasury's Taxation and Economic Policy Office.

Property tax collections for 1983 increased only .3 percent, or $15 million, over those of 1982.

The report, entitled "Property Taxes in Michigan: Rates, Revenue and Relief," noted the average 1983 property tax rate was 52.77 mills, up from 52.71 mills in 1982, but under the prevailing millage rates from 1976 to 1981 during which the millage rate peaked at 52.89 mills.

The total 1983 state equalized valuation was reported at $100.2 billion, an increase of 1.9 percent over 1982.

The 1983 SEV of residential property increased by 1.8 percent over the previous year.

In the area of property tax credits for 1982, the latest year for which data is complete, more than 1.5 million state residents received property tax credits.

The $856.4 million in credits was 19.2 percent of the total residential and agricultural property taxes for the year in Michigan.

The report further showed the fastest growing segment of Michigan's property tax relief program is the credit approved under the Farmland Preservation Act.

Total farmland preservation credits have increased by 50 percent or more each year since the beginning of the program when it was enacted in 1974.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:*DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

We have come a long way from a visit to the doctor when the first thing you done was stick out your tongue. Here lately you got to give your insurance policy number before you give your name. From what Bug Hookum was saying during the session at the country store Saturday night, the next first thing we'll have to do is take the lawsuit test.

Bug had this clipping where all the doctors in Detroit is buying Physician's Alert. This is a computer service that lets a doctor know if you got the suing disease and might suffer a relapse. They crank your name or number in the computer to find out if you've ever sued anybody for personal injury before, and especial if you've ever sued for malpractice. The Physician's Alert people say they done a study and found that a full third of patients that sued their doctor during a three-month period last year had sued doctors before.

What this is bound to mean, Bug told the fellers, is that the sicker you are the least chance you got of getting help. If you fail the lawsuit test you're dead, Bug went on, and if you pass and you're a tough case the doctor still is going to shy away from you fer fear of a stink that will draw lawyers. All the doctor is doing, Bug allowed, is prescribing strong medicine fer desperate times. Bug had saw where doctors rates were up 10 percent across the country last year, but doctors income still was down three percent, and the doctor's union still is calling fer a freeze on fees.

The problem is, Bug reported, people weren't working and lost their group medical plans and them that was so bad off they had to go to the doctor run up the risk of treatment backfire. Lawsuits went up, and the average doctor's income fer the last six months of the year went down from $54,200 to only $52,600.

Actual, Zeke Grubb said, what we need is Patients Alert that will tell them if the doctor is apt to do the wrong thing. It may be true that doctors bury their mistakes, Zeke went on, but somebody is bound to make a record of em. Zeke said he would lay odds that a doctor with a history of making mistakes is more likely to make another one than his patient is to sue him.

Practical speaking, Ed Doolittle said, lawyers would rather we'd set up a civil rights test because there's a heap more money in it fer them. Lawyers hired by the Government to perfect rights guaranteed by the Government win no matter who loses.

Ed had saw where lawyers paid by taxpayers to defend somebody's civil rights get a average of $200 a hour. In one California case, lawyers were paid $250,000 to handle a case involving a $35,000 claim, which they lost. Florida lawyers won $70,000 fer their civil rights client, but they cost the paying public $300,000. In Massachusetts, a lawyer that teaches at Harvard on the side is asking fer $300,000 fer getting a license back fer some feller that had been denied his civil right to sell booze.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.WEATHER*For the Record . . .

Jennifer Roeske, Robert Rizzo Exchange Vows in Pinckney

Jennifer S. Roeske of Ann Arbor was wed to Robert J. Triffo of Canton on June 23 in the Trinity Lutheran church in Pinckney. The Rev. William Trosten officiated.

Approximately 200 guests attended the afternoon ceremony. Vocalist Dave Richards sang "The Wedding Song."

The bride chose a white chiffon wedding gown with fitted bodice, high neckline, and a chapel train. She wore a veil and carried a bouquet of white roses, light blue carnations, baby's breath and stephanotis with a tint of lilac.

Maid of honor for the ceremony was Julie Bancroft, 8870 Gross Rd., Dexter. She wore a light blue chiffon dress and carried a bouquet of blue carnations, baby's breath and stephanotis.

Lynette Becker, Amy Roeske and Noreen Roeske, all sisters of the bride, were bridesmaids. They wore dresses and carried flowers in the same styles as the maid of honor. A flower girl wore a lilac colored dress and carried a basket of lilac-colored flowers.

Michael Triffo, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man at the ceremonies, while Dave Gillies, Don Fader and Jon Roeske, friends of the bridegroom and brother of the bride, served as ushers.

A reception was held at the American Legion Hall in Pinckney. Following a seven-day honeymoon trip to Jamaica, the couple will reside in South Lyon.

Hospital Offers Free Blood Pressure Tests

Chelsea Community Hospital will celebrate the Chelsea Sesquicentennial by providing blood pressure screening and health education at Longworth's on N. Main St. on Saturday, June 30 from 9 a.m. to 12 noon and Tuesday, July 3 from 4 p.m. to 7 p.m., hospital nurses will evaluate consumer blood pressures and provide counseling. A nutritionist will provide information related to diets, health nutrition, and hypertension. There is no fee for this service.

The Hospital's Auxiliary has secured antiques from various community members to display at this location to reflect a historical perspective of health care. To accentuate our progress, information will be available about the hospital's technologically advanced services provided through its Emergency Services and Intensive Care Unit. A new piece of equipment, an external pacer, S. Merkel Cited On Georgetown Dean's List will be displayed with information describing its use for patients at the hospital who have cardiac problems. Also, specific information about services for patients provided by the Emergency Services and Intensive Care Unit will be available.

Sara Merkel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Merkel of Chelsea, is listed on the Georgetown University first honor's dean's list for achieving a 4.0 grade point average during the spring, 1984 semester. This is the highest possible grade average one can achieve at the university.

Merkel is a 1980 graduate of Chelsea High school, and has completed three years of study in arts and sciences at Georgetown.

Hospital staff invite community residents to visit Longworth's to participate in free screening and health information. They can uniquely share in Chelsea's celebration by comparing a glimpse into the past through antique medical equipment with current health care sophistication.

Names Sought For New Streets In Industrial Park

Wanted: Names for the streets that will be constructed in Chelsea's new Sibley Rd. industrial park.

Two streets are drawn into the first phase of the industrial park development plan. They are tentatively labelled West Industrial Park Dr. and East Industrial Park Dr.

"I think we should be able to come up with some better names than those," village president Jerry Satterthwaite said. "We're not starting a contest or offering any prizes, but we would welcome suggestions."

Ideas should be sent to Satterthwaite at the village offices, 104 E. Middle St.

JOHN H. STOFFER, a Chelsea native son who has lived all his life here, is sporting a "new look" these days with a Detroit Tiger cap emblazoned with Chelsea buttons. The display includes a 1959 Brothers of the Brush button from the 125th celebration, a Sesquicentennial Brothers button. John is now retired after 35 years with the Washtenaw County Road Commission and is enjoying the current Sesqui festivities with his many friends.

Driver Escapes Uninjured In Fletcher Rd. Rail Crash

It isn't often that the driver of a car hit by a fast-moving railroad train lives to tell about it, much less walk away unhurt from the accident, but that is exactly what happened to James M. Wilson, 25, of 12100 Trinkle Rd. early Monday afternoon.

Wilson's 1973 Oldsmobile was struck in the rear at the Conrail crossing on Fletcher Rd., which is not guarded by either gates or warning signals. A fatal accident occurred at the crossing last Jan. 6, and there have been numerous other mishaps there over the years.

Wilson told sheriff's deputy Larry Thayer that he was driving north on Fletcher Rd. and was "on top of the tracks" before he saw and heard the approaching Amtrak passenger train which was headed west at about 50 miles an hour.

"He said he tried to get across the tracks ahead of the train, and he almost made it. His car was hit in the rear end and knocked almost to Dexter-Chelsea Rd. on the north side of the tracks."

"I would have to say that he is lucky to be alive, let alone uninjured. What saved him was that he had almost cleared the crossing before his car was hit. The car didn't roll over, and that helped him, too."

"It's a very dangerous blind crossing, especially for drivers going north on Fletcher, and steps should be taken to guard it. I guarantee you that there will be more accidents until something is done."

"The strange thing is that most of the accidents involve local people who are familiar with the crossing and its hazards. I suppose they get a little bit careless."

Train engineer John J. Kotlow, 57, of Jackson, said he saw the auto on the tracks but had no chance to stop in time to avoid hitting it.

Schneider Rd. Home Burns, Loss $100,000

Carelessness is suspected in a fire which destroyed a Freedom township home and contents valued at more than $100,000 last Sunday afternoon.

The residence at 4211 Schneider Rd. north of Pleasant Lake Rd. is owned by the James Pilon family.

Manchester assistant fire chief Gail Koebe said the wood-sided house was ignited when strong winds blew a backyard fire lit by a group of teenagers toward the dwelling.

"Considering the direction and strength of the wind, the fire in the yard was just too close to the house for safety," Koebe said. By the time we got the alarm and made the 11-mile run, the fire in the house had a big start, and we couldn't save much."

The Manchester department emptied its water tankers and pumped out the Pilon swimming pool. Chelsea firemen brought additional water to the scene.

Rail Crossing Closed In Wake of Accident

The Fletcher Rd. crossing of the Conrail tracks has been closed by order of the Washtenaw County Road Commission, effective Friday.

The road commission's action was taken in the wake of the latest car-train collision at the crossing, in which fortunately no one was hurt.

"We will block the crossing from both directions," said Ronald Wuerth, a road commission engineer, "and we will keep it blocked until Conrail installs gates and warning signals."

Wuerth said Conrail has been under order since April to do something to make the crossing safer. "They haven't done anything, and now it's up to them. I'm sure we'll get some complaints, but I hope they are directed to the right party."

What the closure means is that Fletcher Rd. from Trinkle Rd. north to Dexter-Chelsea Rd. is no longer a through route and will be open only to local traffic.

Motorists will not be permitted to cross the tracks in either direction—north on Fletcher or south by a turn off Dexter-Chelsea Rd. onto Fletcher.

Tax Boost

"We plugged in a contingency fund of $50,000, and we've already obligated $15,000 of that. I hope we can come out a little better than we did last year, when we wound up with a $12,000 balance."

That is too close for comfort on a million-dollar general fund operation.

"I would be a lot happier if I could project a $50,000 end-of-the-year balance and right now I can't, even with the tax increase. It looks like we will barely break even if everything goes right. It's squeaky."

Fred Harris

year term, which will expire in March of 1986.

"I am not going to push for any action until we have the police department situation cleared up," Satterthwaite said. "I don't think it would be fair to any newcomer to have to come in and deal with that issue right away. The rest of the council may decide differently, but I would prefer to wait until we have that problem resolved."

Harris' resignation leaves Richard Steele, Joe Merkel, Stephanie Kanten, Herman Radloff and Jim Finch as trustees, along with Satterthwaite as president. That raises the possibility of tie votes on controversial issues.

Diane Moller Named To Albion Academic Honorary Society

Diane Moller, sophomore and economics and French major at Albion College in Albion, has been named to the list of Albion Fellows, the college's highest academic honorary.

Moller had to attain a 3.7 grade point average on a 4.0 scale for three successive semesters on campus before being considered for the honor. She also had to take at least three units in graded courses and successfully complete four units each semester to be able to make the honorary's list.

Moller is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William G. Moller of 14148 Hay Rake Hollow in Chelsea.

Area Students Named To WMU Dean's List

Western Michigan University recently released its dean's list for the winter semester of the 1983-84 academic year, and three Chelsea students and one Manchester student help comprise it.

Susan M. Prinzing, 421 Chandler St., Theresa Lynn Merkel, 142 Van Buren, and Amy Ruth Poljan of 13875 McKinley, all of Chelsea, compiled at least a 3.5 grade point average in 14 or more hours of graded class work to receive this honor.

Manchester resident Michael G. Stimson, 18742 Pleasant Lake Rd., also received this honor.

A VIEW from the CLOCK TOWER

Bill Mullendore

On Feb. 22 I wrote from my Clock Tower observation post:

"If (police chief Robert) Aeillo is acquitted of the embezzlement charge, he should be returned to duty. If he is convicted, he should be fired. It's that simple."

I stand by that paragraph but have to admit that the issue isn't quite so simple as I thought back then. There are some complications which came out in the circuit court trial which resulted in Aeillo's acquittal.

Aeillo's defense was kind of sorry in that it was based on an admission he couldn't administer a parking fine account and make the books balance without juggling numbers. That is a dangerous game for any public official to play, and especially for a police officer sworn to uphold the law.

I have believed all along that Bob Aeillo is honest, and is not a thief. I don't think he ever deliberately stole a cent. The problem is that he tried to cover up the shortages that continually confronted him, instead of going to his superiors and saying, "Look, I'm running behind and I don't know why. Help me out."

An impartial audit of the 1983 parking fine records turned up shortage of $464 plus 66 tickets that were just plain lost somewhere in the system. That isn't a whole lot of money but, again quoting from my Feb. 22 piece, "The fact is that the loss of as much as a dime in public funds should be tracked down, no matter what it costs."

I am not an accountant, but two members of my family are. I suspect I could talk on the telephone for five minutes to either my daughter or son-in-law and devise a fool-proof system to receive and account for traffic fines.

Unintentionally, I tested the present system a few weeks ago, having parked over-long downtown while having my eyeglasses repaired. Meter officer Keith Boylan properly gave me what passes for a parking ticket in Chelsea. It's a little brown envelope with instructions on the back telling you to put in a dollar and bring it into the police station, which I did.

I handed the envelope to the person on duty. It wasn't opened in my presence to find out if there was any money inside. It wasn't logged or validated while I watched, nor was I offered a receipt. (Next time I'll write a check, to have something for my personal records.)

I have no reason to think that the money wasn't properly accounted for, but the fact is that the dollar bill could have gone almost anywhere—including several persons' pockets. It's an incredibly sloppy system, one that should have been cleaned up and straightened out long ago.

Aeillo has to bear at least part of the blame for letting this slovenly way of handling public money go on during his five years as police chief.

I agree with his declaration that responsibility for money—any money—should be transferred out of the police department. There are people in the village hall who have the knowledge, experience and equipment to do the job right.

Aeillo should be returned to duty as police chief if that is what he wants, and he should be paid back wages for the time since March 16 that he has been suspended without pay. He has been accused, tried and declared not guilty, and that should be the end of that.

Aeillo's interim status is uncertain thanks to an ambiguous letter hand-delivered to him by former village president Jack Merkel on March 14. The letter said two very different things in a single sentence, the kind of niff-naw that lawyers can spend years arguing about.

That sentence included the word "suspension," which, according to my dictionary, means "a temporary withdrawal from the exercise of office, powers and prerogatives." The key word is "temporary." The implication is that a suspension doesn't last forever.

The same sentence also stated that Aeillo was being "relieved of all further duties as a police officer." That's a fancy way of saying, "You're fired."

Rather than quibble over words, I suggest that Aeillo be reinstated and a responsible system for keeping track of traffic fines be established outside the police department.

Finally, I disagree strongly with some Aeillo supporters who want to make police department records clerk Judy Tobias a scapegoat. Tobias may have pointed her finger at the wrong person, but she at least had the gumption to bring to attention and airing a serious problem of public fund mishandling, something her boss didn't do.

It would be a shame if she were fired, demoted or otherwise penalized for doing what any conscientious public servant should do: blow the whistle when you see something wrong. If Tobias is to be faulted for anything, it is for waiting too long.

Sun, Heat Tips for Sesqui Celebrants

By Linda Warren, R.N.

While we can never be sure of what the weather will bring, it is always good to be prepared with information on how to beat the sun and heat in the summertime. This is particularly true if you plan to be participating in or attending the Sesquicentennial events over the next several days. Large crowds and much sunshine is anticipated.

Sun—One of the effects of the sun that nearly everybody experiences is that of overexposure. Too much sun leads to sunburn which causes redness and pain. In the more severe cases tissue injury can cause swelling, blistering, fever, and headache. Be cautious and don't over-extend your stay in the sun.

In addition to being painful a sunburn can also cause premature aging of the skin. The big thing on the market this year is the sun lotion which contains PABA to screen out the harmful ultraviolet rays. The higher the number on the sun lotion or cream, the greater the filtering capacity. Thus, a number 15 sun protection factor (SPF) will give you the highest protection.

Suntan lotion should be applied before going out in the sun. If you are swimming or exercising it should be applied intermittently thereafter. One should remember that the sun and water absorb the ultraviolet rays making people tan or burn faster when they are on the beach or fishing.

Recently it has been shown that too much ultraviolet radiation from the sun is the leading cause of skin cancer. People with blue or green eyes, blonde or red hair, fair skin and freckles, are especially vulnerable and should take extra care.

So avoid the prolonged exposure to the direct rays of the sun. Use a sun screen lotion. Wear a hat for protection. You should build up your tolerance to the sun over a period of several days.

Heat Exhaustion—Occurs when one has been in the heat too long. The signs and symptoms are fatigue; profuse sweating; dizziness; pale, cold, and clammy skin; thready pulse with a normal temperature. Vomiting is possible.

The treatment is to move the person to a cooler area, loosen clothing, rest lying down, apply cool wet cloths. The victim should be set near a fan or air conditioned room. Give the person water or Gatorade.

Heat Stroke—Is a life threatening situation... medical care is urgent. The signs and symptoms of heat stroke; weakness, dizziness, nausea, excessive sweating, sharp rise in temperature (106° or higher), strong rapid pulse, delirium or coma. Although the victim may have been sweating earlier the skin is hot, red, and dry after the sweating mechanism is blocked.

The mortality rate is high with heat stroke so cool the person quickly with wet towels, place in a tub of cool (not cold) water, or pour water directly on the victim. Be careful not to over-chill. When temperature reaches 102 you can stop. Most victims are the aged, debilitated, malnourished, diabetic, and people with heart disease. Do not give the person coffee, tea, or alcohol.

One of the key differences between heat exhaustion and stroke is that with heat exhaustion victims have cold, clammy skin and their temperature is normal. Heat stroke victims have red, hot, dry skin with a highly elevated body temperature.

LINDA WARREN, R.N.
U-M Family Practice Center

Remember to try to be comfortable by wearing loose, light-colored clothes on hot sunny days. The body can lose large amounts of water and salt in extremely hot weather through sweating. Be aware of this and drink enough water so that you can sweat properly. Remember to drink before you are thirsty. By the time you experience thirst your body has already lost a significant amount of fluid.

First aid stations will be set up throughout the Sesquicentennial celebration. Medical care will be available through the Family Practice Center at Chelsea. The Center regularly has doctors available for emergency care around the clock for their patients.

Driver Killed in Two-Car Crash In Lima Township

Edward W. Curtis, 30, of 3661 Rentz Rd. Freedom township, was killed early in the morning of June 16 in a two-car crash at Scio Church and Fletcher Rds. in Lima township.

Sheriff's deputies said Curtis was the driver of a car northbound on Fletcher Rd. which ran through a stop sign. His car was hit broad-side by a vehicle driven by Rachelle V. Hera, 27, of Manchester, which was going west on Scio Church Rd.

Both cars were demolished. Curtis was taken to University Hospital in Ann Arbor, where he was pronounced dead. Hera and a passenger were treated for minor injuries at Chelsea Community Hospital. Both were using seatbelts at the time of the collision. Curtis was not, deputies said.

No arrests were made.

Fire Department 52 Alarms Ahead Of Last Year

The Chelsea fire department has made 177 runs through May of 1984, 52 more than a year ago at this time.

The department logged 27 calls last May, two fewer than in May of 1983.

Only two alarms were sounded in the village of Chelsea. Eight came from Lima township, seven from Sylvan and six from Lyndon. Dexter and Waterloo townships each registered two.

Rescue runs, traffic accidents and grass fires accounted for 21 of the 27 calls. There were no building fires.

Jeanette Spencer Earns Master's at Michigan State

Jeanette (Bauer) Spencer, daughter of Donald and Lella Bauer, 13000 Scio Church Rd., received a master's degree in Business Administration, with a major in materials and logistics, June 9, from Michigan State University in Lansing. ## Council OK's Pet Parade On July 2

The Chelsea Education Association has been granted permission to hold a pet parade on Monday, July 2, in connection with the village Sesquicentennial celebration.

The village council approved the request, submitted by Robert Bullock, CEA president, at its June 19 meeting.

Participating children and their pets will assemble between 9 and 9:30 a.m. at the village parking lot east of the fire hall. Led by a fire truck, they will parade onto Middle St. and Grant St. to the South school playground, reaching there at about 10 a.m.

Dexter Man Cited For Contribution To 4-H Foundation

Washtenaw county 4-H participants will benefit from a contribution recently made to the Michigan 4-H Foundation by William Clark of Dexter.

Sara Aldridge, Extension 4-H Youth Agent, reports that private sector contributors provide essential resources for maintaining high quality 4-H educational programs.

According to Aldridge, the Michigan 4-H Foundation focuses most resources on the essential training of the state's 30,000 volunteer 4-H leaders who guide nearly 250,000 youth members.

In addition, contributions support innovative programs, grants to county programs, and various special projects.

Clark is a member of the State 4-H Youth Council and a 4-H volunteer leader of the Echinotic Equestrians 4-H group here in Washtenaw county.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

Everybody who pays taxes into the State of Michigan should be concerned with the way our elected officials squander our money. Following are some of the items that have been put into the budget by our legislators.

$30,000 to mail out anti-choking posters to restaurants.

$100,000 to find out how many horses in Michigan.

$9,000,000 to promote the say "Yes to Michigan" campaign.

$1,000,000 to draw plans for the Detroit subway.

$6,000,000 to abortion clinics every year.

$5,000,000 for venereal disease treatment.

$5,000,000 to get overseas business.

$50,000 to study swimmer's itch.

$42,000,000 to subsidize Wayne County Court.

$70,000 per year to pass resolutions and pay tribute to someone they feel is outstanding.

$150,000 to repair sidewalks at Northern University.

$8,000 for stickers to mothers who put their children in car seats.

$3,000,000 this year to subsidize dental students.

This is just a small sampling of the wastefulness in Lansing.

Let's let them know that we are tired of government getting involved in areas that is costing us so much and which they have no business in.

If your senator or representative are one of the big spenders vote them out of office and put somebody in their place who will protect the money they take from us.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Louise Rickert.

Waterloo Lilies Brave Crowd To Rescue Foe

There were a few tense moments, Saturday, June 16, in Waterloo when Rick (The Mouth) Foytik jumped into the Waterloo Mill pond and was rescued by the Waterloo Lilies.

It all began when Foytik signed for the inner-tube challenge. The Lilies, knowing there was no way the Mouth had a chance of surviving that audacious challenge, begged him not to go through with it. There was no way Mouth could be dissuaded, however much the Lilies pleaded. It was apparent to the Lilies that Foytik was in trouble the moment he hit the water. He sank like a rock straight to the bottom. Although the crowd was against it, the Lilies, none of them encumbered by casts or slings on any of their limbs, and svelte and graceful to boot, valiantly rescued Foytik by throwing him a flotation device and hauling his waterlogged self out.

Fortunately, mouth-to-mouth resuscitation was not necessary, for no one would volunteer.

Gasp, Mr. Foytik was heard to utter, "I always knew the Waterloo Lilies were the best. I'll be forever grateful. I hope they'll forgive me for the vicious, outrageous lies I have spread about those wonderful women."

Then in a move that had everyone questioning his mental stability, Mouth Foytik and one of his cronies, grabbed up the poorest excuse you have ever seen for a boat and entered the boat race. The last thing anyone saw of them looked like a re-enactment of the sinking of the Titanic. More than one observer sighted a very large shark fin in the mill pond shortly after the Foytik boat sank. Although it was rumored that Foytik was seen later at the dance, this cannot be confirmed. If anyone has seen Rick Foytik, please contact the Waterloo Lilies.

Shipsheewanna Trip Enjoyed By Party of 60

Approximately 60 people gathered at the Fairgrounds on Wednesday, June 20, for the caravan to Shipsheewanna, Ind. The weather was pleasant, excitement was in the air, and everyone was ready for a fun day when the caravan pulled out of Chelsea at approximately 7:45 a.m., led by Merritt Honbaum and his family.

The ride down to Shipsheewanna was long, but pleasant and when the caravan reached the auction grounds everybody split up and went their own way. Some people stayed at the auction all day, some browsed through the flea market for hours, and some left the auction grounds and went on tours of the cheese factories, specialty shops, and the town of Shipsheewanna itself.

At 4 p.m. 40 of the people involved in the caravan met at the Das Dutchman Essenhaus, a local Amish restaurant, for a fantastic dinner. Everyone had worked up quite an appetite during the day and was ready for a feast, which is exactly what one could call the dinner.

After an enjoyable meal, and a bit of conversation and relaxation, the group split up again. Some people headed for home and others stayed around the Shipsheewanna area and did some more touring.

All in all, it was a fun day for everyone who went on the caravan.

CELEBRATING CHELSEA'S BIRTHDAY: The first of Michigan Fife and Drum Corps will perform their old-fashioned musical magic for Chelsea audiences on Sunday, July 1 at 2:15 p.m. and again at 4 p.m. at Chelsea High school. The band is renowned throughout the United States as a truly realistic historical interpretation band from 100 years past with their uniforms and haunting concerts, and will be on hand to help the village celebrate its 150 years of existence.

Huge Crowd Parties In Waterloo Village

The field next to the Fairgrounds started filling up with cars, trucks, buses, picnic tables, and whatever a little before 4 p.m. on Saturday, June 16. When everyone was assembled, the caravan to Waterloo began, escorted by the Keystone Kops and the people from Waterloo. Traffic at intersections was controlled by the Brotherhood of the Biker Trash.

Once the caravan arrived at Waterloo, a shuttle service was provided to and from the parking areas by Don Beerman and a friend with their Belgian horses and wagons.

Festivities began immediately, starting with the log roll, an inner-tube boxing match and then the boat race; all events that took place in the water, while a crowd of people stood along the shore and cheered them on. The water games were announced by Dave Rord.

Food and drinks were available at Waterloo and many people brought their own hot dogs and picnics. Picnic tables and a large bar-b-que grill was provided for the convenience of the guests at Waterloo.

At 2 p.m. the children's games began, supervised by Jill Seitz and Lana Payton. Some of the games played were water balloon toss, egg toss, and cracker whistling contests. Prizes were awarded to the winners.

At 3 p.m. the Eclipse Band started playing their music in the corn crib. Immediately, everyone picked up their gear (including the picnic tables) and moved into the corn crib, which was decorated with colored lights. The music played, people danced, and the enthusiasm grew and grew (as did the crowd of people).

The Sesquicentennial spirit was alive and bubbling all day long with everyone there having a terrific time. The caravan to Waterloo was a perfect addition to our Sesquicentennial festivities.

A big round of applause needs to go out to the people from Waterloo who organized and ran the activities of the day. A better time could not have been had by anyone that day, and all who were there owe Waterloo a big thank-you. Memories of the caravan to Waterloo will last a long time. Thank you Waterloo.

Children's Sesqui Photo Contest Winners Announced

Receiving top honors in the newborn to one-year category was Melinda Jean Newhouse, daughter of Paul and Linda Newhouse. Taking second place in the same category was Cala Anne Hale, daughter of A. J. and Teri Hale.

In the one to three-year old contest first place winner was David Stone, son of Larry and Ruth Stone, while second place winner was Melinda Lee Haas, daughter of Lynn and Tim Haas.

Mary Kathryn Lisznyai, daughter of Pam and Mike Lisznyai, was first place winner in the three to five-year old category, with Justin Michael Schanz, son of Mike and Annette Schanz, runner-up in the contest.

Girl Scouts Offer Games for Children

Chelsea area Cadettes, Junior and Brownie Girl Scouts will be conducting games of chance and skill for the children in the area up through the second grade. They will be at South school, directly after the parade (which will end at South school) and there will be activities such as a fishing pond, races, treasure hunts and ball tossing games. The children will have a chance to win a small prize and be awarded a ribbon for participating.

Sesqui Quilt Award To Be Made July 4

All children entering the contest will receive certificates specially designed for them in honor of the sesquicentennial contest.

Winners and their families will be riding the Baker's Dozen Plus float in the June 30 Sesquicentennial Parade.

All profits from the contest will be donated to the Chelsea Historical Society toward the renovation of the railroad depot building which will be the society's future home.

The Sesquicentennial Quilt raffle, which is sponsored by the Sesquicentennial committee to aid in the expense of the celebration; will come to an end on July 4.

The quilt was made by 15 local women during a quilting bee last year. It has the Sesquicentennial logo applied on it in the blue and ivory colors that have become the Sesquicentennial theme colors. Each lady who worked on the quilt, signed it on the back and the date the last stitch was put in place is also noted on the quilt. In years to come, this quilt will be of historic value.

The quilt is the first prize of the raffle, with a week-end in Toronto as the second prize and a $100 gift certificate as the third prize. All proceeds of this quilt raffle will help fund our Sesquicentennial celebration.

There are still tickets available. Many people will be selling them during the celebration week at most of the major events and at the Heritage Crafts Exhibit at the fairgrounds on July 3-4. Tickets cost $1 each.

The quilt will be awarded on July 4 at 5 p.m. at the fairgrounds.

Methodist Women Plan Flea Market

Quadathon Challenge Made for Wednesday

The field between St. Mary's and St. Paul's will be the site of the Crazy Quazee Quadathon at 7:30 p.m. on Wednesday, June 27.

The crazy contest, which is being sponsored by the Charming Belles; will certainly prove to be a test of endurance and stamina for all of those involved.

The Charming Belles have challenged the Belles of the Knight, the Ding-A-Ling-Belles, Chelsea Chatters and Swiss Miss to the Quadathon.

Inter-Faith Day Offers Varied Program for Sesqui Crowds

One Win, One Loss for Party Tymers

Friday, June 1, the Party Tymers accepted the challenge of the Belles of the Knights and the Knights of the Night to a euchre game. A very enjoyable evening was had by all, with refreshments at hand. When all games were tallied the Party Tymers won by total points although not taking all prizes. Both our Party Tymers belle and beau won the most lone hands. Thanks for a fun evening Belles of the Knights and Knights of the Night.

On Sunday, June 3, the Woodshed Squatters and Setters accepted the challenge of the Party Tymers to a Scavenger Hunt. Starting at the high school parking lot at 1:30, each group received from the committee a list of items to hunt with instructions to finish on or before 3:30 at the Cavanaugh Lake Park. When George Sweeny blew the starting whistle, you would have thought we had just entered a demolition derby, with everyone scattering everywhere, off to hunt such items as a razor strap, railroad spikes, shaving cup and brush, 1976 license plates, 1959 centennial schedule, 1/2 doz. hard boiled eggs and horse manure, before the time deadline for the first check point at 2:25 inside the gate of Oak Grove Cemetery. Continuing on to hunt a cloth diaper and pins, black and white shoe laces, Ohio State flag, U. of M. blanket or flag, then to fetch the official envelope at 125 E. Summit St. One by one couples arrived at the Cavanaugh Lake Park rushing to beat the time limit for check in, only to discover no score would be tabulated without your official team ribbon found in a jug IN Cavanaugh Lake. Could we let two hours of hunting be uncounted, defeated by Cavanaugh Lake? Never! That meant in the water to retrieve the ribbons. Generally it was the Belles that achieved this task however, brave beaus Don Bauer and Lorenz Wackenhut unclothed, down to shorts, to fetch their team ribbons. After all scores were tabulated the Party Tymers had to concede to the Woodshed Squatters and Setters. "Well done Woodshed Squatters and Setters." As losers the Party Tymers were responsible for making the fire and roasting hot dogs for the winners; after which a pot-luck picnic was enjoyed by all.

Thanks to Tom and Opal McNamara, Mary and George Sweeny and Dorothy and Art Paul for planning a real challenge and a fun-filled afternoon.

—As reported by your Town Crier.

many memories of concerts in the park on Sunday afternoons.

Spaulding Committee Chooses Designs for Christmas Cards

Members of the Spaulding for Children Christmas Card Committee are looking ahead to the next holiday season by selecting designs for new Christmas cards. These cards will be sold to raise money to support Spaulding for Children's work, finding adoptive families for older and handicapped Michigan children. Designs by local artists were chosen this year: two by Marge Daniels and one by Willie Eder, both of Chelsea, and one by Lyn Fell of Ann Arbor, who works at Chelsea Community Hospital.

Cards will be offered for sale to businesses during the summer, and to individuals in the fall. Information about the cards and order forms may be obtained by calling Spaulding at 475-8693.

WINTER DREAMING: Members of the Spaulding for Children Christmas Card Committee talked about winter and all it brings in the middle of June as they selected designs for Christmas cards which their group will sell to raise money to support Spaulding for Children's work. The organization helps locate adoptive families for older and handicapped Michigan children. ## Bed Race Scheduled For July 2

Chelsea's Sesquicentennial Youth Day will include many exciting activities, but probably the most fun to watch and participate in will be the bed race scheduled for July 2 at 10 a.m.

Vehicles used in the race must be of a flat surface with a mattress. Beds can be either twin or full-size. Each vehicle must have no more or less than four wheels, and can be no larger than six inches. They may be swivel or standard wheels. No brakes are allowed on the bed. People pushing the bed are also responsible for stopping it.

All beds entering the race must first be deemed safe by judges. This pre-race event will take place on June 30 from 12 to 12:30 p.m. at the School House Apartments on East and Harrison streets near the complex's outhouse. Any bed judged unsafe by officials will have to make the necessary changes and again be judged safe before they can participate in the race.

Each bed race team must consist of at least four people. If a team has more than four people, the extra numbers must remain on the bed with no part of their body hanging off the bed at any time between the start and finish line and turning area.

The bed must be pushed directly. No ropes or devices of any kind may be used to push or pull the bed. All loose decorations must be removed prior to the race. One bed may be used by several teams if desired.

On July 2 all team members and their beds must be at Chelsea High school administration parking lot by 9:30 a.m. The race will commence at 10 a.m.

Three winner categories will be picked in the race. An all female team, all male team, and coed team will all receive honors for winning the race, so come out and test your bed pushing skills or just watch the antics on July 2.

Any further questions can be answered by calling John or Claudette Baker at 475-7061.

Western Michigan University recently released its dean's list for the winter semester of the 1983-84 academic year, and three Chelsea students and one Manchester student help comprise it.

Susan M. Prinzing, 421 Chandler St., Theresa Lynn Merkel, 142 Van Buren, and Amy Ruth Poljan of 13875 McKinley, all of Chelsea, compiled at least a 3.5 grade point average in 14 or more hours of graded class work to receive this honor.

Manchester resident Michael G. Stimson, 18742 Pleasant Lake Rd., also received this honor.

Salmagundy Girls Help Brewery Belles

Several weeks ago, the Brewery Belles misplaced their flag while at a softball game. Knowing how much this flag meant to the Brewery Belles; the entire Salmagundy Girls chapter kept a constant look-out for the flag. The flag was finally found and returned to the Brewery Belles during the week-end of the Waterloo Caravan.

The Brewery Belles were all so happy that their flag was found, and the Salmagundy Girls were glad that they were able to find and return the flag. Everything was fine and everyone was satisfied, and then lo and behold—the Brewery Belles flag disappeared again. Once more the Salmagundy Girls came to the rescue. The flag was found a second time and now the Brewery Belles can smile again, thanks to their friends, the Salmagundy Girls.

Michigan Born Joe Hale Producing $25 Million Film

THE WHITE HOUSE
WASHINGTON
June 15, 1984

To the Citizens of Chelsea:

I am pleased to send warm greetings to all those gathered to celebrate the 150th anniversary of Chelsea.

The spirit which has built and sustained your community reflects the energy which has forged America into a land of wonder. As a community held by fellowship and goodwill, Chelsea has become "home" to many who love it dearly. Further, it stands as an example of the blessings of liberty and freedom to those around the world.

My hearty congratulations on this proud, historic occasion and my best wishes in the years to come.

Ronald Reagan

It's not often that anyone can say they have a relative that lives in Hollywood, let alone a relative who had made a name for himself in the fast-paced and never predictable film business, but that's what Gertrude O'Dell of 125 E. Summit St. in Chelsea can say since her Chelsea native nephew Joe Hale is producing a $25 million dollar animated movie for Disney Studios.

The movie is called The Black Cauldron, an animated sword and sorcery epic, and Hale has been the driving force behind the movie since it was conceived.

The movie is due out in late spring of 1985, and no one is quite sure the "dungeons and dragons" plot will still be as popular then as it was several years ago, but Hale is willing to take that chance because so much time, effort and new creativity has been installed into the production.

According to the Michigan-born Hale, who graduated from Chelsea High school and who's only college education involved taking a few art classes at a college in Saginaw, the film has more special effects than anything Disney Studios has ever thought of. The viewing audiences will hopefully appreciate this creative touch, although viewed "rough cuts" of the movie have already been praised.

The story revolves around an assistant pigkeeper named Taran who battles the evil Horned King to win control of the Black Cauldron, a pot that can give its owner power enough to rule the entire universe. Although the film bears a Disney name, it is not for the very young, as horrifying animated ogres, witches, dragons and so on keep one on their toes. Hale describes the creatures as "scary, but really just good clean fright."

Over 20 animators worked on Hale's film to get it to the pre-final-cut stage it is presently at. Many innovations were tried, such as using different size film so animations would take on extra depth and texture.

Hale's other film credits include working on Mary Poppins, The Black Hole, Sleeping Beauty and The Fox and The Hound.

Council Withholds Comment on Aeillo's Acquittal and Status

There was no discussion at the June 19 village council meeting on the future status of former police chief Robert Aeillo who had been found innocent the day before on a charge of embezzling money from parking fines.

"We will have no comment," president Jerry Satterthwaite emphasized in answer to a question raised from the audience.

"We learned the news about the trial outcome less than 24 hours ago, and we are going to take some time before saying or deciding anything."

Aeillo did not attend the meeting.

Aeillo's situation is uncertain, partly because of an ambiguous letter hand-delivered to him on March 14 by former village president Jack Merkel. The letter informed Aeillo that he was under "suspension" effective March 16 and also that he was being relieved of further duties as a Chelsea police officer.

Whether the intent was to suspend Aeillo until his court case was decided or to fire him remains to be determined. The letter suggested both courses but did not pin down either.

Satterthwaite did say that Aeillo's lawyer, Steven M. Jentzen of Ypsilanti, and village attorney Peter Flintoft would meet to discuss the situation.

In the background is the possibility of a civil lawsuit against the village and-or some of its officials and employees.

Satterthwaite also said, in response to a question from the floor, that a special audit of 1983 parking fine receipts cost the village $6,600 in fees charged by the Ann Arbor firm of Iceerman, Johnson & Hoffman.

The audit turned up a shortage of $474 and 66 unaccounted-for tickets, according to testimony given at Aeillo's trial.

Satterthwaite likewise gave a terse "no comment" answer to a question asking, "What are you going to do about Judy Tobias?" She is the clerk in the police department who triggered the investigation which led to Aeillo's arrest.

The next village council meeting is scheduled for Tuesday, July 3. Meanwhile, Sgt. Lenard McDougall continues as acting police chief.

Students Win Scholarships

Rahn Rosentreter New High School Basketball Coach

Rahn Rosentreter of Burr Oak in St. Joseph county has signed a contract as head basketball coach and social science teacher at Chelsea High school, superintendent Ray Van Meer has announced.

Rosentreter's appointment was confirmed at last Monday's meeting of the Board of Education.

"I'm very pleased," Van Meer said. "Rosentreter comes to us with excellent credentials as a fine basketball coach and a strong social science teacher, and that is exactly the combination we were looking for."

Rosentreter—no relation to the local family of the same name—is 28 years old and a graduate of Adrian College. He is working on his master's degree at Michigan State University.

Rosentreter will take George Prinzing's social science teaching position on the faculty. Prinzing retired at the end of this school year.

Rosentreter will take over for interim head basketball coach Paul Ash who had a disappointing season last winter with a team that was expected to be strong but went nowhere, finishing last in the Southeastern Conference.

Rosentreter has served three years as head coach at Class D Burr Oak, raising a small school into competitive rank in a tough conference, Van Meer said. Burr Oak was 16-7 last year. He had previously coached a year each of freshman and junior varsity ball.

"His record shows that he knows how to build a program," Van Meer said of Rosentreter. "His teams are well coached, well disciplined, and they play tough defense. He relates and communicates well with students and athletes."

"Looking ahead, that's what we are going to need for the next couple of years in basketball. We're going to be in a rebuilding phase following graduation of an outstanding group of seniors, and Rosentreter has shown at Burr Oak he can do that."

Still uncertain is who will coach the junior varsity and freshman cage squads, assignments of Marlin Wilson and Ted Hendricks, respectively, last year.

"Rosentreter definitely will have a voice in those selections," Van Meer said. "We'll wait until he has had a chance to get his feet on the ground and look our situation over. He will be in charge of the basketball program and should have a lot to say about who his key assistants will be."

Rosentreter's appointment followed re-advertisement for the job after two other top candidates turned down the position for personal reasons.

"I think we came out better in the long run," Van Meer said. "We found the man who fills all of our requirements."

Van Meer is a former successful coach who knows a good one when he sees one.

NEW SOD LAID: Re-sodding of the center section of Niehaus Field was completed Monday, another step in the upgrading of Chelsea High school's athletic plant. A color picture would have shown that the track around the gridiron is now an eye-dazzling red.

Athletic Plant Reconstruction Nearly Done, More Needed

Some new numbers have been plugged into the total cost figure for upgrading Chelsea High school's outdoor athletic plant.

Contracts totalling about $211,000 were awarded last year for reconstruction of the football field and track, and the work is finally being completed after a series of delays extending into this spring.

Four new tennis courts, replacing two old ones, are being built at a cost of $39,500, and replacement sod has been put down on the football field at a price of $2,000. A new mowing machine will be purchased for about $2,000. The cost of re-grassing the baseball diamond hasn't been estimated yet, but it will not be large, perhaps in the range of $1,000.

When everything is added up, the total will be well under the $261,000 originally projected, assistant superintendent of schools Fred Mills said.

"It will be nice to have it all finished and over with," Mills said. "It has taken far longer than we anticipated when we started. We've run into all kinds of problems with bad weather, contractors' delays and vandalism damage. I can now see the day not far ahead when we can say that it's done."

Mills quickly added that there is more to do in bringing high school athletic facilities completely up to snuff, and more

Grandma's Navy Bean Soup Wins Contest

A recipe contest that was sponsored by the Michigan Bean Commission and AAA, in response to a description of the famed Senate Bean Soup as "friendly, but bland," has been won by Roseleen Gable of Muskegon. Her recipe for "Grandma's Navy Bean Soup," was judged the best of more than 1,200 other entries in the contest.

Runners-up in the contest were Mary Vecellio of Norway; Diana Beittler, Flat Rock; Reid A. Cook, Dearborn, and Patricia Anderson, Big Rapids.

The bean soup served daily in both the U.S. Senate and House dining room is made from Michigan navy beans and although "Grandma's Navy Bean Soup" may not replace the recipe currently used, Roseleen Gable will win a trip to Washington, D.C. to prepare her soup for Michigan's congressional delegation.

Interfaith Day Program OK'd for Football Field

An Interfaith Day program celebrating Chelsea's "religious heritage" will be held on the high school football field as scheduled on Sunday, July 1, assistant superintendent Fred Mills said.

The question came up because the center of the field was re-sodded last week, and it's "lifty" whether the new sod will be ready to walk on by July 1.

"I guess I would have to say that I'd rather the football field not be used that soon," Mills said, "but we made a commitment a year ago and we will stick with it."

The commitment was made before the mid-field sod was torn up by trespassers who came in and played an unauthorized game of touch football, requiring money is going to be needed somewhere down the road.

"Our gym should be modernized with better lighting and better bleachers," he said. "We need more seating capacity on the football field, and we definitely should replace the grandstand on the visitors' (east) side of the field before it collapses and some people get hurt. We need a new pressbox. The one we have is inadequate."

"I'm confident we will get the support we need to meet our goal of making Chelsea's high school athletic facilities among the best in the state. We're making good progress and have come a long way."

H. Thomas Scores Ace At Inverness

Helen Thomas of 304 Washington St. holed out her tee shot on the 132-yard fifth hole at Inverness Country Club last Thursday evening.

Mrs. Thomas used a five-wood to score her second hole-in-one in three years. She aced the 150-yard seventh hole at Inverness two seasons ago, also hitting a five-wood.

Al and Esther Lentz witnessed Mrs. Thomas' latest accomplishment.

Summer Tennis Leagues Forming

Anyone interested in playing summer tennis should sign up for a specific tennis league at the Recreation office by June 30. Leagues are starting a little late this year because of construction of new courts at the high school. With luck the players will be able to use them part of the summer. Leagues will be formed by the number of entrants registered.

Please register at the Recreation office and pay the $2 entry fee at that time. An entry fee is necessary to pay for the first and second place trophies in each division. If a league does not get at least eight entrants it will not be started. Leagues possible are women's, men's, mixed, and junior boys and girls, both singles and doubles.

Council Approves Schuyler Appointment

Appointment of Ron Schuyler to the Chelsea Recreation Council was approved by the village board of June 19. Approval is also required by the board of education for the appointment to be confirmed.

Outboard Motors Stolen at North Lake

Five outboard motors with a total value estimated at $7,000 were reported stolen from a North Lake residence last weekend.

Gallas Receives All-Region Award, Others Honored

Chris Gallas was a first-team choice on the all-region baseball squad announced last Saturday by the Ann Arbor News, which does the selecting.

Ron Dunn, Jay Marshall and David Bushway were picked for the second team. Marty Steinhauer and Rick Boham earned honorable mentions.

Third-baseman Gallas, batted .419 and played good defense on a Bulldog team which won a piece of the Southeastern Conference championship, far higher than it was expected to finish when the season opened.

"Chris worked hard to improve himself," coach Wayne Welton said. "He didn't play much last year, but he spent a lot of time this spring learning how to hit and play in the infield. It was good to see a boy make that effort and have it pay off."

Dunn, who is blind in one eye, hit .368, drew 19 walks, stole 19 bases in 20 tries, and scored 27 runs. From his lead-off position he got on base in half of his at-bats. In right field he made only one error while covering a lot of ground with his good speed, and made runners respect his strong throwing arm.

Dunn should have been named to the first team.

So should Marshall, another of the vastly improved players that Welton brought along this year in an outstanding job of coaching. Marshall learned how to pitch and posted a 6-1 record with a 2.02 earned run average. The one game he lost, in the district tournament final, wasn't his fault as the defense broke down behind him.

Bushway won the "most improved player" award on the Chelsea team, becoming an outstanding second baseman despite a lack of quickness. He has good hands and a strong arm, and pivots well on the double-play. Not a power hitter, he got his share of safeties by poking the ball into the holes.

Catcher Boham did an excellent job behind the plate and hit well besides. Steinhauer was all over the place defensively in centerfield. He did not bat for a high average but contributed some timely hits.

Welton should have been named all-region "coach of the year" but wasn't. The honor went to Wes Gall of Manchester, who likewise did a good job of bringing out the best in the talent he had to work with. A co-share of the honor would have done justice to both.

Weekend Baseball Team Loses

The Chelsea week-end baseball team suffered through a long afternoon in Ann Arbor last Sunday dropping two games to Ann Arbor Citizens Trust, 10-2 and 18-3. Both games were called after five innings by the mercy rule.

In the first game Chelsea fell behind 3-0, and never could catch up. Chelsea scored their two runs thanks to a single to Dan Bellus and a walk to Mike Ball with the bases loaded. That made the score 3-2, but Citizens Trust scored seven runs in the next three innings to put the game away.

Brian Farley was the starting pitcher for Chelsea, and Ball and Jeff Larson followed him to the mound. Chelsea could only manage the one single by Bellus, while Citizens Trust had seven hits including three home runs and a double.

The second game was like the first. Citizens Trust scored in every inning on 12 hits, highlighted by three home runs and three doubles. Chelsea did hit the ball better in the nightcap, stroking six hits, the big one a three-run homer by Bellus in the third. Steve Wingrove had three singles. Rob Murrell and Brian Farley also singled. Kevin Walz started on the hill for Chelsea. He was followed by Ball, Jeff Larson, Brian Robeson and Bellus.

Chelsea's pitchers had a rough time, but their defense didn't help them out as 10 errors were committed during the double-header.

"Anytime you give a team five or six outs an inning, you're in trouble, especially if they are a good hitting club. We just didn't play defense," said Coach Akel Marshall.

Chelsea's week-end team now owns a 0-4 record with their next action on Sunday, July 1 at 1 p.m. at Chelsea High school against Wendy's of Brighton in a double-header.

Chelsea Baseball Team Drops Pair of Games

Chelsea's week-day baseball team lost its first game of the season, 8-7, to Packard Dairy Queen on July 19. It was a heart-breaking defeat as Chelsea had the lead, but three critical errors allowed Packard to win the game.

Chelsea took a 3-0 lead in the top of the second, only to see Packard rally in the bottom of the third to lead, 4-3. Two errors by Chelsea allowed the inning to keep going.

"If we make the plays they score only one run," said coach Akel Marshall.

Chelsea overcame that and tied the score, 4-4, in the fifth, and in the sixth went ahead, 5-4.

In the bottom of the sixth Packard scored four runs on only one hit, thanks to three walks and Chelsea's third error.

Chelsea didn't give up and scored two runs in the top of the seventh and had the tying run on third when the Packard catcher caught a foul pop-up to end the game.

Dave Bellus pitched for Chelsea and deserved a win. He gave up only four hits and struck out four, but walked six batters. Mike Ball came in to get the last out in the sixth.

Dave Boote and Brian Farley paced the hitting attack for Chelsea with two singles each. Ray Spencer, Charlie Koenn, and Rob Murrell each chipped in a single, and Keith Neibauer stroked a double as Chelsea collected eight hits in the contest.

On June 21 Chelsea played a very talented Wendy's Brighton team.

After falling behind, 2-0, Chelsea evened the score in the second on singles by Koenn and Boote. Wendy's scored two in the third, two in the fourth and one in the fifth to lead, 7-2, as Chelsea came to bat in their half of the sixth.

Chelsea scored three runs on only one hit; a double by Evan Roberts, as Wendy's chipped in two walks and an error.

In the bottom of the seventh, Jeff Larson led off with a single but Chelsea could do no more damage and lost, 7-5. Chelsea had five hits.

Kevin Walz started on the mound for Chelsea. He was relieved by Ball in the fourth. Ball pitched through the sixth. Evan Roberts pitched the seventh and held Wendy's scoreless. Catcher Spencer gunned down two base stealers making two great throws.

SPORTS NOTES

BY BILL MULLENDORF

Sports writers called him "Crazy Legs," a nickname he hated. His friends called him Roy, and I am proud to have been one of those. He was Elroy Hirsch, the finest all-around athlete I have been privileged to know and watch in action.

Hirsch came to the University of Michigan from Wisconsin in 1945 as a member of a Marine Corps officer training contingent. World War II was raging, with the outcome still in doubt, and young men were being prepared for military service as fast as the federal government could find ways to do it.

Hirsch and his fellow trainees hadn't been sent to Ann Arbor to play games. They carried a full load of classes and then some, marched and drilled, lived under the tough discipline that Marine sergeants are famous for. Athletics were something that had to be squeezed in around the deadly serious business of getting ready to lead platoons into battle.

Despite all that, Hirsch earned letters in football, basketball, baseball and track, and starred in all four sports. I suspect he could have been a stand-out in hockey, golf, tennis, swimming or any other athletic endeavor. I know he shot a mean game of pool, because I lost to him more than once.

Hirsch had muscles on top of muscles on top of muscles. Stripped in the locker room, he looked like an advertisement for a body-building program. At 6-3 and 190 pounds with enormous strength for his size, he was a perfect physical specimen, and he had a smart head on his shoulders. He likewise had a "small boy" streak in his makeup. He loved to play games, any kind of games, and he played them all with excellence.

Hirsch "ran funny," and that's how he acquired the "Crazy Legs" label. He threw his feet out to the sides at the end of stiff-legged strides that looked impossibly awkward. But, oh my, how he could cover ground.

He was practicing basketball one afternoon in old Yost field house, and the track team was also working out, doing time trials in the 40-yard dash. When the basketball session ended, Hirsch walked over to track coach Ken Doherty and asked if he could have a turn. "Sure, go ahead," Doherty agreed.

Running in tennis shoes on a cinder track, Hirsch sped 40 yards. An astonished timer at the finish line looked at his stopwatch and couldn't believe what he read. Hirsch had equalled the world record for the distance.

"It must be a mistake," somebody said. "I'll do it again," Hirsch offered. For the second sprint there were two watches, and both caught him in the same record-matching time.

Baseball coach Ray Fisher had the nucleus of a good team but needed some more depth, and the wily old Vermont school teacher recognized an outstanding athlete when he saw one. He approached Hirsch and asked him if he had ever played any baseball.

"Just on the playgrounds when I was a kid," Hirsch replied. "I don't know much about the game, but I'd like to try."

Under Fisher's expert teaching Hirsch developed into one of the Big Ten's two best pitchers that season. He didn't lose a game. He threw the way he ran, kind of funny-looking. He didn't bend his elbow, and the result was a windmill motion that I can best describe as an overhand version of an underhand softball pitch.

He had just one pitch, a fastball, but he threw it hard and where he wanted to. When he wasn't pitching, he played in the outfield, caught everything that came his way and batted better than .400. He hit some tremendous long balls, and with his sprinter's speed was a terror on the basepaths. If he got to first, opponents might as well wave him around to third, because he was going to steal his way there regardless.

On one memorable spring day Michigan had a baseball double-header scheduled with the Big Ten championship on the line. The conference track meet was being held on Ferry Field that same afternoon, and the Wolverines needed every point they could get to squeeze out a victory.

Hirsch pitched a shutout in the opening ball game, dashed into the locker room, changed into his track uniform, took one broad jump which was good for third place, changed uniforms again and drove in the winning runs with a triple in the title-clinching second game. Michigan won the track meet by two points. Hirsch's three points made the difference.

That just may have been the best one-day performance by any athlete that I have ever witnessed.

At 6-3 Hirsch was the shortest basketball center in the Big Ten, but he more than made up for his lack of height with amazing jumping ability and a style of play under the boards that was intimidating, to say the least. Not until Ron Kramer came along did I ever see a short center muscle his way around with such devastating effect. When he went up for a rebound in a crowd, bodies flew all over the place. There would be two or three players down on the floor, and Hirsch would be standing there with the ball. People hit him and bounced off.

Football was Hirsch's best sport, and after completing his military service he went on to an all-pro career as a flanker with the Los Angeles Rams. His specialty was catching the long touchdown pass. At least once a game he would turn on his speed, out-run whoever was unlucky enough to be assigned to cover him in the secondary, and grab a long heave from quarterback Norm Van Brocklin. Once he had the ball, there was no use chasing him. He was long gone.

There have been other great all-around athletes. My 82-year-old dad says Bennie Oosterbaan was as good as any who have ever lived, and I suspect he may be right. Oosterbaan likewise starred in four sports at the U. of M. and, it is said, could have excelled as a pro in football, basketball or baseball had he chosen to do so. He decided to be a coach instead.

People around Detroit whose knowledge of sports I respect tell me that Gordie Howe, the greatest hockey player of all time, could have done equally well at any other game. The fact that he played respectable hockey past the age of 50 makes him an athletic marvel.

I watched Howe on the ice rink many times, but never saw him play any other game. I was around at practices when Oosterbaan was coaching basketball and football, and looked on in awe as he performed such feats as sinking 25 straight free throws and hauling in footballs one-handed while showing his players "how to do it." (Bennie's big shortcoming as a coach was that he never quite understood that what was so easy for him was impossible for ordinary mortals.)

However, of the athletes I have actually seen perform in a variety of sports, Elroy Hirsch was the best all-around. He could do it all.

Big Snapping Turtle Invades The Standard's Parking Lot

It isn't every day that a large snapping turtle wanders into The Standard's parking lot, but one did last week.

The reptile, which weighed somewhere between 15 and 20 pounds, was first spotted by the children of an advertising customer. They came into the office to report in excited voices, "There's a big turtle outside!"

Sure enough, there was. By the time a reporter and photographer got out to look, the animal had backed itself into a patch of grass against the south wall of the next door Chelsea Industries building, and was defying all comers and lookers.

Pictures were taken, and reporter Bill Mullendore, who has dealt with snapping turtles before, volunteered to handle the situation. He picked up the turtle by the rear edge of the upper shell, put it into his car trunk, drove to a nearby pond, again grabbed it cautiously, and released it.

"I've killed and butchered several snapping turtles, but didn't have the heart to slaughter one that had come to visit us," Mullendore said. "The meat is good, but it's a messy job to get it ready for the table. Turtles die hard, bleed a lot, and defy you to separate them from their shells. If you do it, you have meat that tastes a lot like chicken. It's much easier to buy chicken, and may be cheaper in the long run."

"Snappers have long necks, and they are very quick. Pick one up by the tail as some books advise, and you run a good risk of being bitten. It has never happened to me, and I don't ever want it to. A turtle the size of this one could take a finger off or gouge a big chunk of flesh out of some part of your anatomy. A large snapper is nothing to fool around with if you don't know what you're doing."

"You handle a snapping turtle the same way porcupines mate—very, very carefully." An educated guess is that The Standard's visitor was a female turtle looking for a place to lay her eggs, and that she had come a long way from the nearest water (Letts Creek and the Veterans Park ponds) in search of a suitable site.

SNAPPING TURTLE PAYS A VISIT: This big snapping turtle, weighing an estimated 15-20 pounds, crawled into The Standard's parking lot last Thursday. It was captured and released. The quarter on the turtle's back suggests a scale of size.

Egg-laden female turtles dig holes in sandy soil, deposit the eggs, cover them up, and let nature take its course. The eggs incubate under the sun-warmed sand, and the hatchlings dig their way out and head for water which they locate by instinct. Only a few make it. Predators and other hazards claim most.

A female snapper the size of the one that visited The Standard probably was carrying 30-40 eggs, which are about half the size of a golf ball. The eggs have leathery shells. Trying to cook them "done" is an exercise in futility. The white lacks the coagulating substance that chicken eggs have and will never "harden," no matter how long they are boiled or fried.

Michigan Trout Stream Restoration Announced

A coalition of private and public conservation organizations has announced an ambitious new Michigan trout stream restoration project and a $50,000 commitment to start it. Purpose of the project is to establish a multi-year program to clean up some of the high-quality trout streams in Michigan. Organizations participating include the Michigan Wildlife Habitat Foundation, Trout Unlimited, Department of Natural Resources, and the governor's office.

Dan Robbins, president of the Michigan Wildlife Habitat Foundation, announced the pledge of $50,000 from foundation funds to start the program in 1985. "We view this commitment as seed money to insure the success of one of the most innovative natural resource programs in our state's history," said Robbins. "Using the resources of the public and private sectors, we can make the capital improvements necessary to restore some of our quality trout waters."

"Trout Unlimited will be an equal partner in the project," said Dick Buss, Michigan Council chairman. "In the past we have been able to raise money and volunteers. With the new coalition we have all the ingredients necessary to accomplish these projects," he said. "We will find so much work to do that a major effort will be in deciding where to use our resources so that they will have the most impact."

In describing the trout stream restoration project, John Scott, DNR fisheries chief, pointed to the necessity of involving the private sector in more natural resource programs. "Many of our cold-water streams are choked by sediment which limits the natural reproduction of trout and the recreational potential of the stream," said Scott. "The department does not have the resources to do the job alone, and we are elated that the private sector can help."

A planning group made up of all the organizations will be established to screen project proposals and develop priorities. The DNR will provide planning and technical assistance, while Trout Unlimited will provide fundraising and volunteer support. The Michigan Wildlife Habitat Foundation, in addition to providing the seed money, will coordinate the physical work on the streams and raise funds. It is expected that several streams will be targeted for restoration work.

The coalition of habitat interests was formed after a successful demonstration project last year on the Sturgeon River in the northern lower peninsula. Work on the Sturgeon consisted of stream bank stabilization and construction of sediment traps every mile to cleanse the stream.

Gov. Blanchard has promised to work with legislative leaders and the DNR to find additional funds for the restoration project.

In my life, those are large amounts of money, big enough to make me think very carefully before writing a check. I would force myself to come up with honest answers to the questions of exactly how much I intended to use the RV. How many days a year? Where? For what?

Not only is the purchase price expensive, but so also are maintenance, operating and storage costs. (In most zoned residential areas you can't park an RV on your property. You have to put the thing somewhere—and pay for the privilege—when you aren't using it.) Also to be considered are fuel and other operating costs.

It just could be that you would pay less for motel accommodations, restaurant meals and other travel costs than the price of owning an RV. A recreational vehicle

OUT IN THE OPEN

By BILL MULLENDORE

Following a recent column on the new boom in recreational vehicle sales, a friend stopped me on the street and asked, "If you were going to buy an RV today, what would you buy?"

He went on to add that he was shopping around and getting ready to purchase something for use on a month-long vacation trip later this summer.

Good question. In the first place, I wouldn't buy an RV "today." As mentioned before, I would try out several types by renting them, to make sure that I finally selected the right one to fit my wants and needs, just as I would test-drive several makes and models of new cars before deciding which one to buy.

The investment required is large enough that I would want to be very sure that my choice was right for me, before I put my money on the line. We're talking about pretty big bucks, whether for an automobile or an RV. You're probably going to put out at least $10,000 for a new car these days, and a modest recreational vehicle can easily run twice that much or more.

Most campgrounds have bathroom facilities, and most campers use them when possible to avoid the need to empty waste storage tanks into dumping stations, but it's nice to have your own available when and if you need them.

At least one bed should be long enough to accommodate my 6-1 frame without my having to bend at the knees, and there should be a couple of comfortable things to sit sitting idle is an expensive object eating up money. Even if you can find a place to park it free, it's depreciating in value all the time it isn't being used.

If I weren't going to use an RV at least 60 days a year for several years, I wouldn't buy one, because the financial picture would not make sense to me.

If I passed the 60-day test, I would not choose a tent-trailer. It costs about four times more than the $500 worth of tent-camping gear that I keep in the basement and can load up in half an hour, and doesn't offer that many extra advantages.

I wouldn't buy a pick-up camper. They just plain don't have enough space, and give me claustrophobia.

I would not buy a motor home, for reasons explained earlier. They are just plain too big and clumsy to suit me. I wouldn't buy a big travel trailer because I don't like the notion of driving the equivalent of a semi-truck.

If forced to make a choice right now, I would look at travel trailers in the 20-24 foot range. Anything longer would be too big. Anything shorter probably wouldn't have the conveniences I want, including total self-containment and a full bathroom (toilet, shower, lavatory).

It's marvelous how manufacturers can pack a lot of the amenities into small spaces, but my impression from the trailers I've looked at is that, when you get under 20 feet, something has to be sacrificed and it's usually the bathroom.

Most campgrounds have bathroom facilities, and most campers use them when possible to avoid the need to empty waste storage tanks into dumping stations, but it's nice to have your own available when and if you need them.

At least one bed should be long enough to accommodate my 6-1 frame without my having to bend at the knees, and there should be a couple of comfortable things to sit on. The kitchen (galley) should include a three-burner stove and oven, and a refrigerator big enough to store 3-4 days worth of food and drink, which is not a lot really.

There should be adequate cupboard and drawer space for dishes, utensils, canned goods and dry foods, and closets and drawers big enough to hold a week's supply of clothes for two.

It would be nice to ask that the vehicle be maintenance-free, but nothing is. The next best thing is that the maintenance be easy, with all plugs, valves, inlets, outlets, and the like convenient to get at with ordinary tools. There should be no need for Z-shaped hex wrenches. (I have an appliance which calls for exactly that to get inside it. The manufacturer might at least have provided one. It's not a tool that most people have around the house. I had to special-order one.)

That all may seem like a tall order, but I think the trailer could be bought for somewhere in the $20-25,000 range, complete with air conditioning and some other luxury features.

Your imagination in the RV of your dreams can go on up from there to a $100,000-or-more castle on wheels.

Medical Advances

Will Be Shown at U-M

Family Practice Center

In 1833 while the first settlers in Chelsea were preparing for the formation of a government, many medical advances were taking place in European countries. During this year France imported 42 million leeches to be used in bloodletting—one of the popular methods of treating illness at the time. Many of the medical techniques employed during the early days of Chelsea's existence are now regarded as having been worse than the ailments they were meant to relieve.

The Family Practice Center will be participating in the Sesquicentennial celebration by hosting an open house which will review changes in medicine during the past 150 years. A committee of employees from the Center have spent the spring researching information to develop this historic exhibit.

"The committee is fascinated with the information it has brought together concerning this period," states Peggy Alford Campbell, co-ordinator of the group. "This segment of time from 1834 is full of untold procedures, new techniques and inventions," continues Campbell. "It really makes one realize how far we have come when you look at the fact that surgery was done without anesthesia prior to 1850. Patients were sedated with alcohol and strapped to the table. A surgeon had to be strong and quick."

The tour and displays will highlight the advances which have taken place by dividing the time into three eras beginning with 1834, 1884 and 1934. Finally, some of the old techniques will be contrasted with 1984 procedures and participants will get a glimpse of where medicine is heading in the future.

The exhibit will be located at the University of Michigan Family Practice Center, 775 S. Main St., Chelsea and will be open from 9 to 5 on Saturday, June 30. The shuttle bus transporting people from the parking area to town will make a stop at the Center to pick up and drop people off enroute.

Alumni Band

Concert Set

Invited to Sesqui Fun

All groups have been invited to all groups to help bring in out-of-town people for the Sesquicentennial week and sign in at the Sesquicentennial Headquarters, General Store, making sure to include the name of the person and the chapter from whom the letter was sent.

A running tally will be kept for each chapter throughout the week with a final count being totaled after 1 p.m. on July 4.

The winning chapter will be announced at 5 p.m. at the Fairgrounds and will be honored with box seats and an aerial display in their honor at the fireworks. The person in the winning chapter who has the most letters brought back to town will receive complimentary dinners for two.

The following is an example of the form letter you should send. Dear (fill in name and address):

We are having a Sesquicentennial Celebration (150 years) in Chelsea this year, with our big celebration time being June 30-July 4. All kinds of special activities are planned and we would like you to be included in the fun. Please join us sometime between June 30 and July 4.

By coming to town and bringing this letter along, you will not only have a good time, but you'll be helping our Brothers of the Brush or Chelsea Belles chapter win honorary seats at the fireworks on July 4.

To help us win, please do the following:

1. Come to Chelsea any time during the celebration—June 30, thru July 4.

2. Take this letter to the Sesquicentennial Headquarters/General Store (112 W. Middle St.) and sign your name, address, my name and my chapter name, which is (fill in your chapter name) in the Tally Book.

3. Deadline for bringing these letters in is 1 p.m. on July 4.

4. If our chapter has the most letters brought back into town, we will be honored at the fireworks on July 4, and I might win a free dinner for two. Hope to see you there.

Manchester 'Cat' Still at Large Despite Efforts To Capture It

By Bill Mullendore

The Manchester black panther, leopard or whatever has dropped out of the news. Ann Arbor News reporters and editors finally got tired of chasing a will-of-a-wisp and let the story die.

This reporter, who knows something about wildlife, is convinced that there was some unusual animal out there, possibly a big black cat of some sort. It could also have been a large black dog with a long tail.

The reported sightings were believable as far as they went. There is not doubt that police officers and others saw some unusual animal roaming east of Manchester village.

Early estimates that the black beast, whatever it is or was, weighed 150 pounds or more were later scaled down to 80. It definitely is not a wild animal native to this part of Michigan, or to any other part of North America for that matter.

The creature could be an escaped or deliberately turned-loose exotic pet. There is an unconfirmed but credible report that such an animal is missing from the Howell area.

Big cats—lions, tigers, leopards, panthers, cougars, cheetahs—may be fun to own for awhile, but they eat a lot, cost money to keep, and can't be relied on as pets. They tend to turn mean as they mature. A vicious big cat is not something you want to have around the house or even penned up in the back yard.

What is surprising is that, throughout the three weeks of sightings and hunts for the Manchester cat, there were no reports of livestock losses. A large cat would kill in order to eat, and domestic animals—especially sheep and calves—would be its logical targets. They are plentiful in the area, and simple for a quick-footed cat to catch. Predatory animals are opportunists. They take whatever is easiest to get.

The suggestion that the animal has been living on wild rabbits and squirrels is doubtful. Big cats need big chunks of meat. A rabbit or squirrel would barely make a mouthful, and neither is easy for a cat of any size to catch.

A leopard or panther would starve to death hunting rabbits and squirrels 24 hours a day, expending more energy in the chase than the food value derived from infrequent successes in capture.

In the absence of any solid information, there are several guesses as to what happened to the animal, whatever it may be.

One is that the creature moved somewhere else to escape the pressure of attempts to capture it alive and has truly "gone wild." If so, it will eventually show up in another area.

Another is that the animal was shot by someone who decided not to report the kill for fear of getting in trouble. Night-time sounds which could have been gun-fire have been reported from the area.

Still another is that the whole thing has been an elaborate hoax and that there never was a real animal out there. That is highly unlikely, considering that several of the sightings were made by Manchester police chief William Zsenyuk. Any police officer caught in such an outrageous lie could expect to be fired and perhaps prosecuted.

Meanwhile, other law enforcement officers who asked not to be identified by name were critical of the operation aimed at taking the animal alive rather than destroying it.

"Whatever it is, it doesn't belong out there," one said. "It's possibly dangerous, and it should be killed. A scope-sighted big game rifle in the hands of the right shooter could have solved the problem several times. We would know what the animal is, we would have eliminated a source of worry, and we would have saved a lot of time and expense."

If the beast is indeed a big cat, it is unlikely that it could survive through a Michigan winter. That, however, is a good many months away.

Council Turns Down Request To Build Fence

Village planner Carl V. Schmult recommended that a request from Randall Seitz, 610 Taylor St., to build a four-foot fence on his corner lot property be denied, and the council backed him up on June 19.

Seitz had proposed to construct the fence along Lincoln St. and place it outside the 20-foot setback required by the village zoning ordinance.

"The lot is a corner lot . . . and frontage on Lincoln St. must be treated as a front yard in terms of setback requirements," Schmult said in a memorandum which the council accepted.

"Since the front yard setback in the RS-2 district is 20 feet, the fence must be located at least 20 feet from the Lincoln St. right-of-way line."

Schmult suggested that Seitz may want to apply to the council for a variance from the zoning ordinance. "We would consider that, provided you submit a request," village president Jerry Satterthwaite told Seitz. "We have to go by the established rules and procedures. If we didn't, the zoning ordinance wouldn't mean anything."

Boyer & Fitzsimmons

Tune Up Magic Show

Home after performing in Canada, Boyer & Fitzsimmons are now hard at work in preparing for their hour-long magic show for the Chelsea Sesquicentennial on Monday, July 2 at Chelsea High school. The show, which starts at 5 p.m., features magical entertainment designed especially for Chelsea's Sesquicentennial. "While we were in 'The Great White North,'" Boyer said, "Jim and I planned our new routines especially designed for Chelsea's 150th year celebration.

Boyer & Fitzsimmons had quit their full-time jobs last September when they left on the road to travel performing their outstanding magic. The magic duo have been performing with The Amazing Conklins, James Hetzer's Intercontinental Circus, Magic Fantasyland, and Scott's Continental Circus of Canada. Fitzsimmons states "We are looking forward to this show since we have put so much time and effort into planning and building for it." Fitzsimmons continues, "We want to show everyone in Chelsea what we have accomplished in the last 10 years."

Everyone is certainly invited to witness the progressing entertainment of Chelsea's Boyer & Fitzsimmons. "We are very thankful to the people of Chelsea who have supported us all these years," adds Boyer.

Obstacle Course Race Won By Prairie Belles

The Prairie Belles are proud to announce that they have redeemed their reputations by beating the Petite Prairie Belles by a score of 46-2 in the obstacle course race. "We may not have had speed, grace, or style; but we're steady of hand and sure of foot," they stated.

Thanks to the contestants: The Prairie Belles—Georgia Myers, Karen Koch, Wanda Koenigter, Sharon Roehm, Dot Van Riper, Dorothy Moore, Lynda Koch, Clara Smith, and Carol Smith. The Petite Prairie Belles—Julie Koch, Jennifer Koch, Michelle Smith, Kristi Smith, Angela Myers, Sheryl Myers, Amy Koenigter, Tracy Roehm, Amanda Nimke.

Thanks also to the fair and impartial judges—Art Moore, Jerry Myers, Micky Lauer, Mike and Mary Solomon (Swanton, O.) and Eric Lauer; especially the Soloman's who were driving by and decided it looked like fun—it was!

Ode to a Chelsea Belle

And now, the end is near
We've had a fun, exciting year
Some things, I cannot tell
Because I am a Lady Belle.

It all began in March—the last day when three Belle groups met for play in the park with eggs, bags, and balloons. Some Belles dressed in jeans, others in pantaloons.

From that day, the fun rival started. Between the ladies who were officially chartered Activities such as log cutting, races, and softball games. Sometimes we were ladies, sometimes we were dames.

Some events were fun and amusing. While others were tough and quite abusing. The cuts and bruises are worth it all. The last few months have been a ball.

We've laughed and giggled and had some fun. And now it seems we're almost done. But wait—does it really have to end?

The year 2009 is just 'round the bend. We could do this again when we're one seventy five. But why wait that long for the fun to arrive.

Let's continue this spirit; that would be swell.

—The spirit and pride of a Chelsea Belle.

The Meaning of 'Chelsea'

What's in a name? If you ask the average person on the street if they know the meaning of the name "Chelsea," you'll usually get some response about a town in England—a suburb of London. Others may tell you that Elisha Congdon came from Chelsea Landing, Conn., and he persuaded Darius Pierce to change the name of the settlement named Kedron to "Chelsea."

Still no one seems to know what the name Chelsea really means. From the humble beginnings of Davidson Station, Gunntown, Kedron and Pierceville, our present community of Chelsea emerged and developed over the last 150 years.

You can read about all of these details in the anniversary books that have been printed for our celebrations, but the real meaning of "Chelsea" has much more to do with our notions of a certain quality of life and some of our hopes and dreams for our families than it does with being the name of some other place. Chelsea was always a special place to the Taylor family, the Congdons, the Beckwiths and the Pierces and this thought is evident in their words both written and spoken.

In a little book written in 1942 about the Taylor family who emigrated here from Yorkshire, England in the early 19th century, we find some added insight into the name "Chelsea." The meaning comes from the two words "chel" and "sea," and means a "cup-shaped or hollowed-out landing place by the sea. It speaks of a special place that is unique among places to live. It is a place of rest, tranquility, protection, beauty and a great place to live and raise a family.

Even today, to hear newcomers to our "Chelsea" talk about this place where we have chosen to live, they speak of Chelsea as the kind of place just mentioned.

Even in an early advertisement of the Lewis Spring and Axle Co. they urged people to come to Chelsea because there was more time for recreation, life was convenient and free, work hours were fair, you could save money, rents were cheaper, yards were larger, the air was cleaner, the necessities cost less, living was healthier, the social life was attractive, vegetables and foods were pure, every field and water sport was available, the best movies were shown, many lodges and national societies were here and families would like it better and would be happier.

Whether or not all this was true or ever has been makes little difference. We live with our idealism especially at a sesquicentennial time and that's good. Perhaps in all the fun, frivolity, and celebration we will gain an even larger perspective of ourselves and our "Chelsea" to make it an even better place to live for the next 25 years when we celebrate all over again. Happy birthday Chelsea! Jim Stacey.

Painting of Downtown Displayed at Hospital

Chelsea Community Hospital is currently displaying a painting depicting downtown Chelsea in both the past and present, a commemorative piece of art which was commissioned by the Gelman Sciences, Inc. company of Ann Arbor.

The painting is the work of artist Milt Kemnitz, and was commissioned in part to help the company celebrate its 25th anniversary and also to help Chelsea celebrate its 150 birthday. Charles Gelman, president and chairman of Gelman Sciences, presented the painting to Chelsea Community Hospital President Willard H. Johnson, where it will remain on display through July, 1984.

Gelman Sciences began operations in downtown Chelsea in 1959 in what is now known as Gambles hardware store. Since its humble beginnings, the firm has grown to employ 495 people at its site on Wagner Rd. in Ann Arbor and operates manufacturing plants in six foreign countries.

Kitchen Band Playing at Wolverine

Chelsea Senior Kitchen Band will play at Wolverine Bar at 8 p.m. Thursday, June 28.

In 1957, A. Phillip Randolph, president of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, became the first black vice-president of the AFL-CIO.

Local Residents Cited At Red Cross Banquet

About 100 people were on hand for the American Red Cross 67th annual Washtenaw county chapter volunteer and membership recognition banquet and annual meeting held June 6 at Chelsea Community Hospital.

Guest speaker for the ceremonies was James Krueger, vice-president for the American Red Cross. He presented a highly prestigious Red Cross award to a local resident.

Lizabeth Ann Galeski of Chelsea was recognized for placing second in the nation in the recently held Red Cross National Youth First Aid Competition.

Manchester resident Donald Steele was cited with a National Certificate of Merit, the highest award given by the Red Cross, by both Krueger and Manchester Police Chief William Zsenyuk. The award recognizes a person who saves or sustains a life by using skills and knowledge learned in a volunteer program offered by the Red Cross in first aid, small craft or water safety. Steele and Brooklyn resident Sue Wyman were jointly cited for their selfless and humane actions when they administered CPR (cardio-pulmonary resuscitation) to a cardiac arrest victim which saved his life.

An outstanding leadership award was presented to outgoing American Red Cross board member Arlene Howe of Chelsea, and also to outgoing blood services chairman Glen McDowell of the village for their many hours of dedicated leadership.

One of the outstanding volunteer achievement awards went to yet another Chelsea resident, David McAllister, who was recognized for the hours of service he and two others provided to completely revise the chapter's personnel policies and procedures.

Volunteer service awards went in part to Ed Horning of Dexter and Dave Philp of Manchester.

Before the banquet the chapter elected officers for the 1984-85 year, as well as new board members.

Ask your chapter chairman for more details.

Red Cross Elects Board, Officers

The annual meeting of the Washtenaw County Chapter American Red Cross was held Wednesday evening, June 6, at the Chelsea Community Hospital. During the business meeting, the chapter membership elected officers for the 1984/85 year, and new board members.

Daniel Harsh of Dexter will serve as chairman of the Washtenaw County Red Cross for the coming year. Harsh has been second vice-chair for the past year. He will replace Donald Thiel of Ann Arbor, who has served as chairman of the past two years. The position of first vice-chair will be held by Cliff Sheldon of Ann Arbor, who has served as chairman for the past two years. The position of first vice-chair will be held by Cliff Sheldon of Ann Arbor. Sheldon served as treasurer during the 1983/84 fiscal year. David McAllister of Chelsea will fill the role of second vice-chair and David Prohaska, also of Chelsea, will perform the duties of treasurer. Nancy Schwind of Ann Arbor will serve as secretary to the board.

Six new board members were elected to fill vacancies on the board. They are Charles Blackwell, John Sedlander, and James Smith of Ann Arbor, John Hochrein of Dexter, Jerry Wright of Saline, and William Zsenyuk of Manchester.

DEPOT REPAINTING BEGUN: Volunteers have begun the task of repainting the old Chelsea railroad depot, which badly needs it. Bob and Alice Guerin, Scott Otto and Reuben Lesser, Jr. By yesterday, the job had been about half completed. The depot is being coated light tan with brown trim, a change from the traditional light green and dark green. The project is part of the Sesquicentennial celebration.

Court Ruling Keeps Western Washtenaw In O'Connor District

The primary election will be held as scheduled on Aug. 7, and Rep. Margaret O'Connor's district will continue to include west Washtenaw county.

That much emerged from a confusing situation created by a Michigan Supreme Court decision last week which tossed out a new legislative districting plan scheduled to take effect this year and restored the old one.

The high court ruled in a rare unanimous 7-0 decision that the new plan was constitutional because the Legislature approved it illegally, and ordered that the 1982 House and Senate district boundaries remain in effect.

That means, among other things, that west Washtenaw will stay in the 52nd House district now represented by Mrs. O'Connor. Under the now defunct new plan, the area would have gone into the 23rd district represented by Philip E. Hoffman of Jackson.

Hoffman has been making local appearances in anticipation of having to solicit votes here.

Last week's court order initially gave candidates in the primary until July 10 to submit nominating petitions or $100 filing fees for the 1982 districts in which they will actually run. Previous filings for the proposed new districts were invalidated.

When county clerks pointed out that the July 10 date set up an impossible timetable for meeting deadlines and getting ballots printed on time for Aug. 7, the court backed up the filing date to June 27.

Micki Crawford, Washtenaw county director of elections, said Mrs. O'Connor has paid the $100 filing fee and thus qualified herself to run in the 52nd district. "She was the first one in," Ms. Crawford said.

"It's going to be close, but we have been assured by our printers that they can get the ballots ready for Aug. 7," Crawford added. "We buy our machine ballots from Doubleday & Co. in Kalamazoo, and our punch-card and absentee ballots from Stewart & Jackson of Flint."

"I have proofs on my desk right now of the ballots we were going to use before the court changed everything. I'll throw those away and start over. It's a real scramble, but we'll make it."

West Washtenaw will continue to be in the 18th State Senate district now represented by Lana Pollack, and would have been in either case. Pollack is seeking reelection.

Manchester Teacher of Year Named

Manchester Community Schools have recognized Susan Davis, a German teacher, at Manchester High school, as Teacher of the Year.

Davis was nominated by her building principal, Bill Bushaw, and was recognized at a recent meeting of the Manchester Board of Education.

In his letter of nomination Bushaw noted that Davis is not only an excellent classroom teacher who motivates her students to perform at the highest level possible, she also possesses clear instructional goals, is aware of individual needs and is actively involved in establishing programs outside of the classroom. During the past year, Davis provided leadership in the Manchester schools in establishing a student exchange program with a German high school. Manchester High school was one of 200 high schools in the United States allowed to participate. As part of the program which saw a group of German students visit and live in the Manchester community for three weeks during April, Davis will lead a group of local students to Germany.

Superintendent of Schools Gene Thompson commented, "Susan Davis exemplifies the excellence found in many Manchester teachers. The selection process is always difficult. Nevertheless we are pleased to recognize a Teacher of the Year. Mrs. Davis possesses limitless energy and is an exceptionally creative teacher. Her students benefit from both of these characteristics. We consider ourselves to be extremely fortunate to have her in the Manchester schools."

Davis will be nominated to the Michigan Department of Education Teacher of the Year Program as the Manchester representative. She received an award noting her recognition.
