

Sesqui Festival Gets Great Start

Big Parade Begins Event-Filled Program As Village Celebrates

FIRST PLACE FLOAT: This float entered by the Chelsea Area Historical Society won first prize in the float judging in Saturday's Sesquicentennial parade. Constructed by Glen Wiseman and Walter Haab, it featured detailed replicas of the village clock tower and railroad depot.

When the village of Chelsea decides to celebrate, they sure do it right, as displayed during the last three days of non-stop activities commemorating Chelsea's 150th birthday.

The four day Sesquicentennial celebration started off at a fast, exciting rate last Saturday when approximately 10 to 15,000 people crammed Main St. to view one of the "best and biggest" parades ever witnessed in the village according to viewers. The parade lasted almost two hours, and several hundred people participated in it.

Horse and buggy rides down village streets brought the year 1834 to mind, while a time capsule buried near McKune Memorial Library saved a little bit of our present for future generations.

A giant birthday cake was served in the showroom of Palmer Ford on Saturday as well, while an old-fashioned ice cream social cooled off those who had been out in the hot sun too long.

After several other events, the first day's celebration headed into evening with a dance held at the fairgrounds. The Saline Big Band got everyone into the dancing mood with their foot-tapping music.

Sunday, July 1 was designated as Senior Citizens and Interfaith Day, and in keeping with this theme the day began with individual church worship. An exciting dune buggy race was then held at the fairgrounds.

The First of Michigan Fife and Drum Corps was on hand as well to give citizens a taste of music 150 years ago.

Three plays were presented Sunday evening by the Children's Theatre Workshop. Many area students participated in this event, which had the audience laughing along with their antics.

Monday was like a dream come true for children as it was celebrated as Youth Day. A variety of activities were planned with children in mind.

A youth marathon started off the day as 8:30 a.m., and was followed by a children and their pets parade.

From here, events became even more exciting, as a bed race took place on a side street in town. Numerous beds whizzed by cheering bystanders and a good time was apparently had by all.

Many contests were held for kids on Monday, not the least of which included a softball hitting contest, frog race, bubble-blowing contest, Jell-O-eating contest, and water balloon toss.

For a nominal fee anyone who desired could get a really good look at the village by taking a hot air balloon ride courtesy of Aloft Unlimited.

A high school youth dance sponsored by the Chelsea Jaycees rounded out the full day's events.

Tuesday, July 3rd's activities will be many and varied as the day has been designated as Industry and Agriculture and Ladies Day.

Among the events most people will not want to miss are tours of local industries such as Chelsea Milling, Dana Corp., the Chrysler Proving Grounds and Book-Crafters. These tours will be conducted from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m.

Numerous agricultural displays and exhibits will be shown at the fairgrounds as well. Among these are a tractor belting contest, a butter-making demonstration, a wheat threshing demonstration, and a picket fence making display.

Ladies Day will be celebrated with a fashion show, a box social, a husband calling contest, a heritage and crafts display at the fairgrounds, and numerous merchant sales.

The fourth of July will take on a special meaning for Chelsea residents this year, as they celebrate not only the last official day of Chelsea's Sesquicentennial events, but our nation's birthday as well.

The day will begin with some good clean fun as the Brothers of the Brush participate in a tug-of-war at Lett's Creek.

A chicken barbecue will be featured all day at the fairgrounds, and an antique tractor pull will also take place there.

A water ball fight put on by the fire department will be held at the same place, and the four-day celebration will come to a stunning conclusion with a fireworks display at dusk.

Historical Society Float Tops in Parade Entries

The Chelsea Historical Society's float carrying scale models of the village clock tower and the railroad depot won first place in the competition among entries in last Saturday's Sesquicentennial parade.

Judges were Ann Sarich of Dearborn, Carol Bufton of Dexter (a recent immigrant from England) and William Morrison of Brighton. They were deliberately chosen from out of town to assure neutrality in their selections.

In a series of close calls, decided by fractions of points on the combined score-sheets, the Mill Creek Moonshiners' float was picked second, Chelsea Woodshed third and North Lake Queen fourth.

Earning honorable mentions were Chelsea Lumber Co., Village Bakery, Foxy Farmers and Lacy Lady Lakers.

In all, 20 floats were entered in the parade.

"All showed imagination and ingenuity," Morrison said after the judging panel had completed its hour-long look prior to the parade. "We were only supposed to give four prizes, but we felt there were enough other fine floats to merit four honorable mentions. Actually, we could have given everybody a prize.

"A lot of effort went into the entries, and there wasn't a bad one in the group. It was a very difficult contest to judge, but we enjoyed doing it. Some people might argue with our selections, but we had to make choices. In most instances they were very, very narrow.

"For instance, we had to break a five-way tie for second place when we added up our total scoring. You can't get much closer than that. The first-place winner ranked only a point higher than the five that tied for second in our first evaluation."

Depot Painting Project Sidetracked, Promising Early Start Fading

A well meant idea went wrong, and as a result Chelsea's railroad depot is standing there in a garish mixture of colors—light and dark green and two shades of tan.

The building has been about half re-painted, and local contractor Charles Shiver has been asked to clean up the mess. He may or may not do the job, but in any case won't have it done before the July 4 climax to the village Sesquicentennial celebration.

"If I do it, I'm going to do it right," Shiver said. "That means a lot of preparatory work, a good oil base undercoat and a final coat of high quality paint. It will cost quite a bit of money.

"There is no sense going in and slapping on a coat of latex paint, like the volunteers started to do. All that accomplished was to make the job harder in the long run."

"The idea was to complete the painting by July 4," said Merritt Honbaum who co-ordinated activities for the Brothers of the Brush and Chelsea Belles chapters.

"We had poor participation. Very few people came out for the painting sessions, and that is disappointing. When we found out that we had two different colors of tan paint, the whole project just kind of died."

The plan was to repaint the building in light tan with contrasting brown trim, a departure from the traditional colors of light and dark green. The change bothered some people, including members of the Chelsea Area Historical Society who felt the old colors should be preserved.

"It's going to look bad from an historical perspective if it's done in tan and brown, no matter how well it's finished," a spokesman for the historical society said. "That building is supposed to be

MICHIGAN MIRROR

By Warren M. Hoyt, Secretary, Michigan Press Association

Group Formed To Oppose Voter's Choice Proposal Formation of what is expected to be the primary opposition to the Voter's Choice ballot question was recently unveiled with co-ordinators claiming the tax cut proposal would cause chaos and harm economic development. The group, calling themselves Promote Michigan Committee, recently filed its organizational statement and Sister Monica Kostielney of the Michigan Catholic Conference and president of the group, said the goal was to raise "hundreds of thousands of dollars" to defeat the proposal.

She said the group is composed of "business, labor, educational, religious, and civic organizations who will work together, maybe even in harmony, to promote the economic development of the state."

Organizations already part of the group include retail and merchants associations, the AFL-CIO, Michigan Association of School Boards, Michigan Education Association and Ford Motor Co. Kostielney said the group was "still in embryonic stage" and hoped several other organizations, like the Chamber of Commerce and the Michigan Manufacturers Association, would also support the effort. Larry Meyer of the Michigan Retailers Association said he was supporting the group in part because of a concern that the Voter's Choice type of proposal would lead to a shift to increased business taxes.

And Hugh Masterson of Ford said the proposal may jeopardize 1982 increases in business unemployment taxes, which are required to pay off a federal debt.

The amendment requires approval by voters or 80 percent majority of the Legislature of increased taxes, fees, charges, and assessments since 1981.

Kostielney said opponents to the proposal are not denying the right of the public to have a say on taxes, but would be arguing against undoing what the public, through its representatives, have already put in place.

Paul Masseron of the AFL-CIO said the group's campaign would focus on promoting the state's recovery and "make the case for the chaos that would ensue, and the difficulty it would make in attracting jobs. The recovery is quite fragile and what we need is stability."

Officials said they do not have a budget yet, nor have the participating groups pledged specific contribution levels.

Governor James Blanchard has said it would take perhaps $2 million to defeat the proposal, but members of the group said $1 million may be a more realistic figure.

Kostielney said she did not know what Blanchard's role would be in the campaign, and his office was not a party to the formation of the group.

Whether the governor, who proposed last year's 38 percent income tax increase, would be used in the anti-amendment campaign is a political judgment which has not been reached, she said.

Proponents of the amendment say they have collected over 335,000 petition signatures with a goal of over 400,000. To qualify for the ballot, they must collect 304,001 valid signatures.

Welfare caseloads in May declined for both Aid to Families with Dependent Children and General Assistance.

The ADC caseload declined by 2,873 to 241,110. GA dropped by 2,117 cases to a total of 153,400.

May was the second month in a row that the caseloads for both ADC and GA declined.

Department of Social Services Director Agnes Mansour said the declines were in line with the department's projections. She attributed the decline to a seasonal improvement in employment, an over-all improvement in the economy, and a reduction in seasonal heating allowances which closed some cases.

School Board OKs Truth in Taxation Hearing

Chelsea School Board of Education held what was termed by Superintendent Van Meer as a "light" meeting on June 25.

One of the first things the board did on Monday night was to give special recognition to the Chelsea Girls' softball team, who became state semi-finalists this season. Head coach Charles Waller, assistant coach Bill Wescott, and Chelsea resident and volunteer assistant Art Cobb were the representatives on hand to accept board congratulations on a fine softball season.

Three items of action were voted on and adopted at the Monday meeting. Board members approved a decision to hold a truth-in-taxation hearing on Monday, Aug. 6, to approve the board-proposed operating levy of 35.62 mills for 1984-85. This resolution also included an authorization for the board secretary to advertise the hearing in The Chelsea Standard as required by law.

Adopted resolution number two will allow the use of high school textbooks for calculus, U. S. government, geography, computer science and world history. The books had already been approved by the Central Curriculum Committee.

The final proposal acted on by the board was to approve Ron Schuyler as a member of the Chelsea Recreation Council. Special Education Director Henry DeYoung gave a special report compiled by Chelsea teachers and himself concerning the amount of time various subjects are taught to Chelsea children in grades 1-7.

The specific amount of classroom time subjects such as math, reading, spelling, language arts, social studies, music and physical education were given last year was reported. Math and reading received a particularly high emphasis by teachers, and although Van Meer says, the board will study the report, and possibly recommend changes in each subject's time allotment, the heavy emphasis in reading and math will not fluctuate.

The Chelsea Board of Education will meet again on July 2 at its usual meeting time and place. This will be the board's only meeting for the month of July.

Sidewalk Repair Started at Manchester High School Grounds

The sidewalk at Manchester High school is currently being replaced by the local concrete company owned by John Schable. The sidewalk which had deteriorated badly in recent years is part of the effort to improve the facilities of the Manchester Community Schools.

In August, 1983, the voters of the Manchester Community Schools approved a special maintenance millage of 1.5 mills to be used for such projects.

The sidewalk project along with chimney work at Klager Elementary to be performed by the Schable Co., will cost approximately $4,000.

Kevin Colombo Awarded Palmer Memorial Scholarship

The Chelsea Community Hospital Auxiliary Scholarship Committee has announced that Kevin Colombo of Chelsea has been awarded the Dr. A. A. Palmer memorial scholarship.

The $500 scholarship is awarded to a Chelsea High school graduate who will pursue a career in medicine, primarily family practice. This is the 14th presentation of the scholarship, which was set up by the original group of physicians at Chelsea Medical Center as a memorial to the late Dr. A. A. Palmer, a Chelsea physician for many years.

Determination of a scholarship recipient is based on academic achievement, a motivation to pursue a career in medicine, and involvement in extracurricular activities. After an interview with the Auxiliary's Scholarship Committee, which included Jean Mann, Donna Lane, Gail Olson and Madeline Vallier, Colombo was chosen as winner of the award.

Colombo graduated cum laude from Chelsea High, and was a member of the National Honor Society, a National Merit Finalist, and class treasurer for two years. He was also a member of the varsity swim team for four years, and served as captain during his senior year.

Employed at the University of Michigan's Family Practice Center, Colombo also serves as a volunteer at Foote Memorial Hospital in Jackson.

Colombo will be entering the pre-med program at the University of Michigan in September, and plans to study chemistry and biology. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Colombo of Cavanaugh Lake Rd.

The first monies for this scholarship were raised by donations from local physicians and businessmen. Since 1973 the scholarship has been made possible by the Chelsea Painters, a group of about 18 artists who sell their works at an annual art fair held the first week-end in June at Chelsea Community Hospital.

Laura Anderson Finds Resolve To Become a Cop Unshaken By Student Trooper Academy

Laura Anderson says she's always wanted to be a cop, and last week her dream came one step closer to becoming reality as she attended the Student Trooper Academy in East Lansing.

Anderson, who will be a senior at Chelsea High next fall, was chosen by high school counselors to join a group of 59 other students from throughout Michigan to attend the week-long event, which began on Sunday, June 17 and ended on Friday, June 22. She was sponsored by the Chelsea American Legion Post No. 31.

The program is specifically designed for highly motivated young people who are seriously interested in law enforcement as a potential career to experience first-hand what it means to be a police officer.

The training program took place in the same building real troopers get trained in, and according to Anderson, classes are very similar to real police training.

Routines of the program included a mixture of military training, with students required to make sharp turns and corners in the academy's hallways, march in time, and pass a daily inspection before they attended classes.

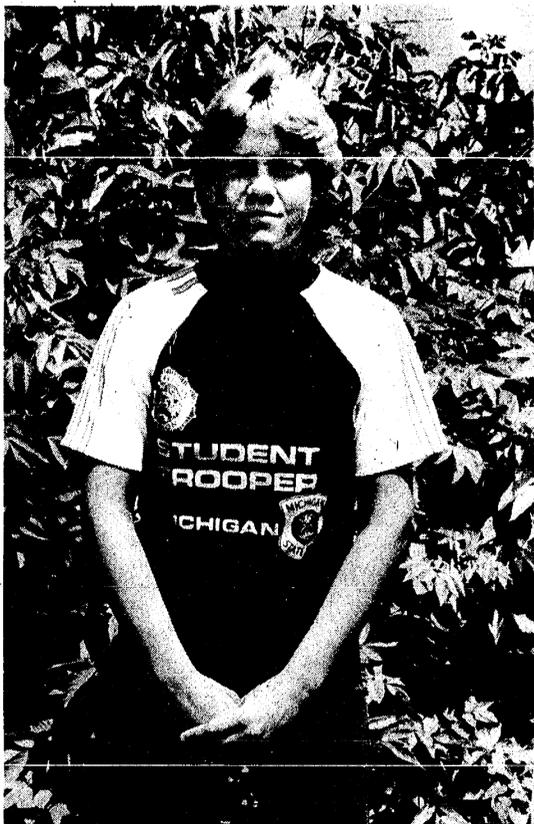

Would-be troopers were kept on a tight schedule during their stay, with the day beginning at an eye-opening 5:45 a.m. and concluding with lights-out at 10 p.m. Anderson said there was no free time at all between classes and activities, and everyone had to keep on their toes in order to be able to finish the program with any degree of success.

Students attended classes ranging in topic from search and seizure, criminal law, canine program, firearms, first aid to narcotics.

Although Anderson has had a tough taste of what the real state trooper academy is like, she said the week-long program has "only strengthened her desire to become a police officer."

Until she reaches age 21, the minimum age to be able to participate in the state trooper academy, Anderson plans to pursue a law enforcement curriculum at Michigan State University when she graduates next summer from Chelsea High.

From there she says she will attend a police academy, and from there who knows? Maybe she'll turn up in a few years as the first female police chief in the village of Chelsea.

Manchester Elementary School Principal Quits

Manchester Elementary school principal Janice Hammond has submitted her resignation to the Manchester Board of Education to be effective June 30. Hammond indicated in her resignation that she had accepted a position as an elementary principal with the Birmingham public schools.

In her letter to the board Hammond expressed her appreciation for the support she had received as an administrator, noted her pride in the development of programs such as Special Education Team Rooms, and the all-student spring play, and indicated the difficulty of making such a decision along with her regret at leaving the family atmosphere of the Manchester schools.

Hammond has been elementary principal in the Manchester schools since 1981.

Superintendent of schools Gene Thompson commented, "The loss of Janice Hammond as part of our administrative team definitely hurts. During her three years here her limitless energy, optimism, creativity, and administrative talents have contributed greatly. She is literally a public relations goldmine. The fact that she was Birmingham's first choice out of 250 candidates tells the high degree she is held in our profession. The Birmingham superintendent told me he was looking for the best elementary principal in Michigan. I told him that was exactly who he had just hired."

Summer Jobs Available for Area Youths

Looking for a job where you can work in the great outdoors? If you have reached your 18th birthday, and are not yet 21, you're in luck.

The Michigan Job Corps has openings in the Chelsea and Dexter areas this summer.

Applicants, male or female, may apply to the Michigan Employment Security Commission office in the Maple Village Plaza, Ann Arbor, from 8:30 to 4:30, Monday through Friday. Mrs. Robinson, employment service supervisor, says the youthful applicants should fill out a small card application, no long or involved written document.

Any young person now working more than 20 hours per week is ineligible for the program, funded by the State of Michigan, and not to be confused with the federal program. Governor Blanchard has indicated his approval of the program's operation, and urges the youth to take advantage of this opportunity to gain working experience and earn money at the same time.

Job orders are currently on file for the Chelsea area, while not a single Chelsea young person has applied for the program.

Only a few young people from Dexter have applied this summer.

Although the program deadline was to have passed, the program has extended their deadline through July 16, Mrs. Robinson advises. Young people who will be 18 during July, even if after the 16th, should apply on, or soon after, their birthday, if they are interested.

Most of these positions are working outdoors, and of an interesting and pleasant nature. Dexter, Chelsea and Manchester young people are sought to work in their home areas, preferably.

In addition to filling the small card application, the applicant must list a phone number through which they may be contacted. After an employer and applicant are matched, the young person will then be asked to furnish proof of age by the employer, such as driver's license or birth certificate.

Depot Paint Job Runs Off Track

green, and it's a shame to paint it any other color."

Honbaum acknowledged that permission had not been obtained from Conrail, which owns the depot, to do any painting at all.

"Some people just decided to go ahead and do it," he said. "Conrail would not give permission because of insurance problems. They (Conrail) are not insured against the possibility that somebody might fall off a scaffold and get hurt."

"I think a few individuals recalled that the depot was painted as part of the 1976 American bicentennial celebration, and figured it could be done again. It wasn't that simple."

Meanwhile, the depot's future remains in doubt.

The historical society has backed away from an earlier proposal to acquire the building as a site for a meeting-place and museum, because of the costs and liabilities involved.

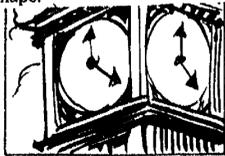

Conrail has balked on terms of a suggested lease and insists that it will not rent the building for more than 10 years, during which at least $30,000, and probably more would have to be spent to make it usable.

"I don't believe we can raise that amount of money under those conditions," a spokesman for the historical society said.

"We would be better off obtaining an old house in the village in which we could display our museum pieces and set up a room for our meetings, and I think that is what we will try to do."

"The depot could be used as a community center, with meeting space available to all local organizations that might want to use it, and the Chamber of Commerce is looking at that approach. It would take some kind of public co-operation to which people could donate money tax-free."

"If something isn't done soon, we might as well let the building collapse and cart it away. We're running out of time. It's in bad shape."

Big Ben in London is not the clock and not the tower, but the bell that strikes the hour. It weighs 13 tons and was named for Sir Benjamin Hall, commissioner of works when it was installed.

A VIEW from the CLOCK TOWER

Bill Mullendore

Fred Harris' resignation from the village board of trustees just three months after he was elected is disappointing. His decision to quit leaves the council without a badly needed member who can speak and act from the perspective of senior citizenship.

Chelsea is an "old" town, in more ways than one. The Sesquicentennial celebration commemorates 150 years of history, a heritage which has been properly recognized. More important in terms of contemporary times is that Chelsea's population includes a high fraction of older folks, and they by no means are all residents of the United Methodist Retirement Home.

I am impressed by the fact that, even though I observed my 58th birthday last week, I am younger than many people I see walking along the streets, working in their yards, and doing volunteer duty in a variety of important civic tasks.

This large group of Chelsea residents deserves a strong voice on the village board, and Fred Harris seemed well qualified to provide it. At 64 he is retired from Xerox Corp., owns a home on Main St. and presumably is sensitive to the rising rates of local taxes and service charges which are especially hurtful to senior citizens living on fixed incomes.

It's too late now for Harris to withdraw his letter of resignation, which became "official" when village clerk Evelyn Rosentreter forwarded it to the county clerk as the law requires she do. Mrs. Rosentreter acted on the good counsel of president Jerry Satchwaite, who advised her not to jeopardize her own position by holding back the letter.

Unfortunately, Harris refused to talk about his reasons for quitting the council. His written declaration that "the council will run more smoothly without me" raises more questions than it answers. I tried to talk to him twice, and finally got the phone slammed in my ear for persisting. That is one of the hazards of newspaper reporting, unpleasant but expectable.

Someday, I hope, Harris will be willing to reveal what went on behind the scenes which caused him to resign a position he had fought. I can make an educated guess and come close to being right, but won't. I'd rather hear the sure truth from him, and am willing to wait.

Harris' resignation leaves a trustee vacancy which the rest of the council will fill by appointment. The logical choice would appear to be Keith Boylan, who ran a respectable fourth among five contestants for three trustee posts in the March 12 election.

Like Harris, Boylan is a senior citizen (62), retired (former center at the Ann Arbor News) and a Chelsea property owner (245 Park St.). He is also a former village trustee, and so has some badly needed experience.

Boylan has a problem in that he is a village employee—a part-time parking meter officer working for the police department—and that looks to me like an impossible conflict of interest. I don't see how he could possibly discuss, much less vote on, matters involving the village budget and personnel while wearing hats as employee and trustee. He certainly could not participate in any decision involving the police department.

I say that from the perspective of having known Keith for a long time both professionally and personally. He worked at the Ann Arbor News when I did, and he is an old friend of my wife's family. I don't for a second doubt his honesty and integrity. I just think he would be in a compromising situation which eventually would get him into trouble as a trustee.

Avoidance of even the appearance of evil is essential to restoring public confidence in government and its officials, which has been so sadly eroded in recent years.

Whether Boylan would agree to quit his village job in return for a seat on the council is a question I haven't asked him. Somebody with authority to offer the appointment should do the asking.

If Boylan is not available, then someone with similar credentials—especially senior citizenship—should be sought for the post.

Trapped Truckers Rescued After Two-Hour Effort

Chelsea firemen assisted in rescuing two truckers who were pinned in their overturned tractor cab for nearly two hours early Friday morning on east-bound 194 just across the Jackson county line in Grass Lake township.

Neither driver Jerry Farmer nor passenger Mark Thornton, both of New Orleans, La., was seriously injured.

State police from the Jackson post, sheriff's deputies from Jackson and Washtenaw counties, and firemen from Grass Lake, Leoni and Chelsea joined in the rescue.

"The vehicle was an unattached semi-hauler that went out of control and rolled, coming to rest on its roof," Washtenaw sheriff's department Sgt. Don Wenk said.

"It took a combination of cutting with the "jaws of life" and lifting with wreckers to get the two men out. They were conscious and talking all the time. All they had was bruises, so far as we know."

Farmer was flown by helicopter to University Hospital in Ann Arbor. Thornton was taken by ambulance to Chelsea Community Hospital. Both were treated and released.

Dana Doing Better; Full Work Month Slated for July

Things are looking up at Dana Corp., but not quite as far up as Chelsea plant manager Donald Blair would like.

"We're doing about 50 percent better than we were a year ago at this time last year in terms of production volume, but we had projected a 100 percent improvement," Blair said. "Our business hasn't come back as fast as we thought it would, and that's disappointing."

Blair said he expects the Dana plant will work a full month in July after shutting down for a week each in May and June.

basis, depending on the orders we get.

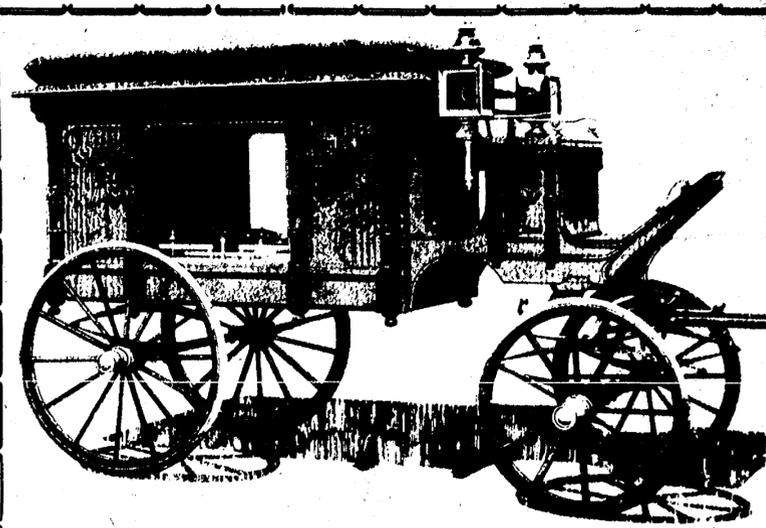

"I can tell you that we are going out trying to stir up new business, and we are doing it aggressively. We don't like shutting down and laying off our employees for even a day. We want to be busy."

"We're much stronger than we were a year ago, but we still have a way to go and we're working on getting there."

The parking lot in front of the plant was repaved during the week's shutdown in June.

"I can't project beyond July at this point," he added. "We are scheduling on a month-to-month

He was recently graduated with honors from the Air Force Academy prep school in Colorado Springs, Colo., where he was a member of the cross country team. McDaniels is a 1983 graduate of Hudsonville High school, where he received recognition as the outstanding chemistry student in his graduating class by the Western Michigan Chapter of the American Chemical Society, and received the Bausch and Lomb Honorary science award. SCHOLARSHIP AWARDED: Mickey Quackenbush (left) and Judy Moisan (second from left) were co-chairpersons of the Chelsea chapter of the American Business Women Association which awarded scholarships to four area

Business Women's Association Awards Scholarships to Four

For nearly 35 years the American Business Women Association has been building a tradition based on its continuing efforts to provide opportunities for education advancement to women.

Members of the ABWA recognized that education and skilled training are crucial in today's technological society. Last year more than 2,000 local chapters awarded over $2 million in scholarships.

The Chelsea Charter Chapter has announced that four area women received scholarships on June 26 at the regular dinner meeting. President Cindy Bear and co-chairman Judy Moisan and Mickey Quackenbush presented $250 awards to:

Rebecca L. Schlupe of 13380 Old US-12, a recent graduate of Chelsea High school, where she carried a 3.69 grade average. She was involved in band, cheerleading, National Honor Society and student government. She also found time to work part time as a secretary at Heydlauff's and at the U. of M. Family Practice Center. Rebecca has enrolled in the honors program in accounting and business management at Eastern Michigan University.

Marie Sullivan of 19880 Lehman Rd., Manchester, is a recent graduate of Chelsea High school, where she carried a 3.43 grade average. In high school, Marie was involved in numerous activities including marching band, concert band, Spanish club, National Honor Society, 4-H club, choir and appeared in the school musical and community summer musical. Marie will be attending Michigan State University, majoring in computer science.

Cheryl A. Allen of 13223 Noah Ct., Gregory, is a senior at Eastern Michigan University majoring in interior design with a grade average of 3.82. She works part time at the Foxy Lady Hair Salon and is a wife and mother of two children. Her outside activities include Cub Scouts and Girl Scouts. At Eastern Cheryl is a member of the American Society of Interior Designers and has served as class representative. She is on the dean's list and has been invited to attend honors night ceremonies two years in succession.

Debra Bouillon of 3340 Hudson, Dexter, is the mother of two boys. She is currently enrolled in the nursing program at Eastern Michigan University as a sophomore. Debra was employed at Chelsea hospital as a nurses aide, and currently is working part-time so she may attend school full-time. Debra is carrying a 3.94 grade average. She is working on her second degree, her first was in history education.

Each application received was reviewed and given points based on the applicant's financial need, scholastic achievement, grades, references, previous education, training and accomplishments, and efforts in seeking their careers.

The Chelsea chapter is six years old and during the past six years has awarded more than $6,000 in local scholarships. The group is made up of professional working women.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor,
This letter is to all the citizens of Chelsea and the surrounding area. To all of our many friends and relatives, we wish to thank you for your support which can be attested to by the hundreds of telephone calls, cards, letters and visits which we received during the past six months. It was your support which made our ordeal bearable.

Bob and Norene Aeillo and family.

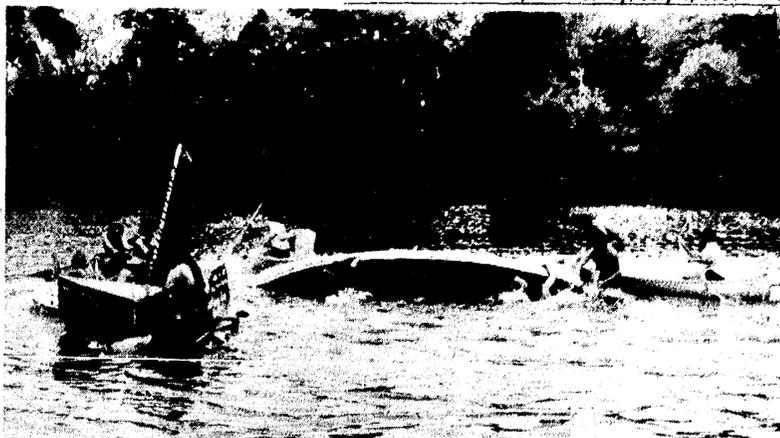

To the Editor,
According to the May 10 issue of the New York Times an assistant professor at Catholic University in New York left his office window open when he went away for a long week-end. When he returned he found that two doves were flying in and out of the window and had built a nest in the "IN" basket on his desk.

Two days later there were two eggs in the nest. Then one bird was occupying the nest while the other hovered around all day. The professor thinks this is by far the most interesting item that has ever arrived in his IN basket. He and the birds were anxiously awaiting the blessed event.

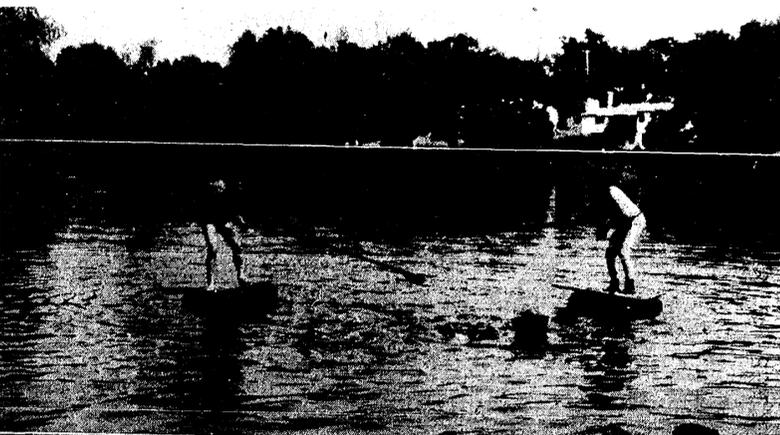

Of course we have our own resident doves at the Methodist Retirement Home. Our doves chose a vine entangled spot on a ledge just above the third floor on the southeast corner of the building where the nest is visible from the windows opposite the south elevator on either the second or third floor.

The doves' nest was found because we could hear the coo, coos someplace outside the building and we wondered where they were coming from. At the present time the patient mama dove is sitting on her second batch of eggs. Before the first fledglings left we had watched the papa dove drop bugs, worms, and other edibles into the nest. We could see the baby heads sticking out with their mouths open. Finally we saw two of them balancing on the ledge outside of the nest, a very precarious situation. A day later these first babies had disappeared.

At the present time the mama dove is still there, sitting immobile, like a small clay figurine, on her second clutch of eggs. Evidently the bird union does not provide or demand an interim vacation for mama doves between hatchings. Mother nature should take care of that.

IN THE DRINK: A canoe full of unlucky Waterloo Pond racers got more than they bargained for as their canoe overturned with some help from another group of canoers. The unfortunate bunch got wet only moments after the race began.

TUBE JOUSTING: John Klink, Jr., left, battles Reuben Lesser, Jr. valiantly with a gloved pole as he tries to win the Waterloo inner-tube jousting event June 16. Unfortunately, neither man won first prize, in fact, both probably ended up in the drink for all their hard work.

Petal Pushers Win in Trivial Pursuit Challenge

On Friday, June 22, the In-Verness Inn was the site of the first and only Trivial Pursuit Challenge of North Lake. The Lacy Lady Lakers and Lovers were hosts for this gathering of intellect-u-als, at the tavern near the greens, in a truly mind-bending experience where the brains and crevices of the mind were explored for bits and pieces of trivia.

The challenge was accepted by the Ding-A-Ling Belles, the Musketeer Brush, and the Petal Pushers Belles groups. It was a little slow getting started, but once underway, squeals of delight, sighs of sorrow, and screams of frustration could be heard from various tables as teams of players from each group fought heads in an intense question and answer session trying to accumulate more pieces of pie than their opponents.

In the end, the Petal Pushers proved more adept (or was it luck?) and went home with the prize money.

John Gary Joins Sagebrush Gang

During the reception following the recent John Gary benefit concert for the Chelsea Community Hospital, Bill Aldrich, chairman of Chapter 31, Sagebrush Gang, Brothers of the Brush, "recruited" John into the chapter. Bill felt John's adornments (moustache and chin whiskers) and his contribution to the community qualified him for membership. By the measure of applause those in attendance at the concert enjoyed John's performance.

Softball Game Postponed

Because of conflicting circumstances, the softball game which was to take place on Sunday, July 8, between the Millcreek Moonshiners, the Brewery Boys and the Wild Woolly Town Tamers has had to be postponed. The chairman of these groups will be informed when a new date is set.

Brush Chapters Get Together for Softball Tourney

Doll's Field was once again the site of an exciting day of softball June 10.

Brothers of the Brush chapters participating were the B-Team, Ricardo's Rednecks, the Brewery Boys, the Waterloo Sodbusters and the Fall Guys.

The opening game ended with the Sodbusters shaving the Rednecks, 17-15. Next, the Brewery Boys held off John Beeman and his B-Team 14-12.

The Fall Guys then took the stage and out-chugged the Brewery Boys, 21-1 and plowed the Sodbusters, 8-0, to win first place.

Charming Belles Lose Challenge

The Charming Belles challenged the Belles of the Knights, the Ding-a-Ling Belles, the Chelsea Chatters and the Swiss Miss Belles to a Quazee Quadathon Wednesday, June 27. The events were an old-fashioned skillet toss, inertube stacking, a marsh-mallow toss and a water balloon toss.

The Charming Belles easily took the skillet toss, with Angie Wynn throwing the skillet 67 ft. 4 in., beating all other groups by 20 feet. Sad to say though the Belles of the Knights (just barely) won the rest of the events.

In the inertube stacking event the Belles of the Knight stacked 11 tubes in five minutes, the Ding-a-Lings 10, the Charming Belles 9 and the Chatters and Swiss Miss combined to stack 5.

The other events passed smoothly (if messily) and found the Belles of the Knights on top (although the Charming Belles were not far behind).

The Belles of the Knights received prizes of wooden nickles for finishing first.

Bowling Tourney Sponsored By Prairie Belles

Chelsea Lanes was the site of a bowling tournament sponsored by the Prairie Belles on Thursday, June 21. Thirty ladies bowled in the tournament, including representatives from the Swiss Miss, Ladies of the Flush, and the Prairie Belles.

Three out-of-the-ordinary games were played by each participant and scores were totaled for each person to determine a winner. The first game, everyone had to bowl with the opposite hand they were accustomed to; the second game requested that the bowler use whatever ball returned to the rack first; and the third game was a 9-pin tap.

All in all, it was a fun evening for all who participated. Sally Nicola became the winner of the event by having the highest series. Her prize for such athletic ability was a set of chocolate-brown colored miniature bowling balls. Jean Satterthwaite, the Belle who had the lowest series won a prize for her efforts too. The gift she received was a shoe box that she can use for the Box Social on Ladies Day.

CHS Class of '54 Gets Together for 30th-Year Reunion

The Class of '54 of Chelsea High school gathered Saturday evening, June 23, for their 30th-year class reunion. Fifty classmates and spouses, plus Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cameron and Mr. and Mrs. Alan Conklin attended the party at The Golden Nugget Restaurant in the Irish Hills.

Hosts for the evening were Cynthia (Paul) Bear and Doug Kolb.

A book, compiled of all classmates addresses, etc., plus family information, was distributed to all those present.

Classmates came from Dexter, Somerset, Ann Arbor, Rochester, Gregory, Plymouth; California and Florida; and Chelsea.

The group will meet again in another five years. Chairpersons will be George Gilligan and Duane Satterthwaite.

Recreation Council Plans Benefit

The Chelsea Recreation Department is sponsoring a benefit during the village's sesquicentennial celebration, and one lucky person will ride home on the grand prize, a new Honda 125 ATV three wheel motorcycle.

Winners will be chosen at Palmer Ford at 4 p.m. on July 4. The second-place winner will receive $100, while third place will take home a $30 gift certificate good for anything at the Chelsea Woodshed Eatery.

Tickets may be purchased for $2 at Palmer Ford, the community education office in Chelsea High school, or from any recreation council member.

Proceeds from the sale will benefit the Chelsea Youth Recreation program.

The Job Training Partnership Act (JTPA), administered by the U.S. Department of Labor, contains a new job training program for dislocated workers, according to the department's fiscal 1983 annual report.

J. Hutzel, Sweet Adelines Competing for International Title

Former Chelsea resident Janet R. Hutzel, now a resident of Boynton Beach, Fla., is a member of a prize-winning singing team which will compete for an international title in November of 1985.

Hutzel is an active member of the Royal Palm Chapter of Sweet Adelines. She has been a member for four years, and during this time has seen the group go from obscurity to winning a Region 9 (State of Florida) title. If this isn't enough excitement, the group now has the chance to win the international title at the 1985 competition in Kansas City, Mo.

Hutzel said the Sweet Adelines has set their goal on being in the top five groups in the competition.

School Board Notes

Present at a regular meeting of the Chelsea Board of Education Monday, June 25 were Schumann, Heller, Dils, Grau, Feeny, Comeau, Redding, Superintendent Van Meer, Assistant Superintendent Mills, Principals Williams, Conklin, Wojcicki, Special Education Director DeYoung, Athletic Director Nemeth, guests.

Meeting called to order at 8 p.m. by President Dale Schumann.

Board approved the minutes of the June 11 meeting.

President Schumann presented certificates of achievement to Bill Wescott, Art Cobb and Charles Waller and commended them for their efforts which led to the Chelsea girls' softball team reaching state semi-finalist status.

Superintendent Van Meer was presented a certificate of achievement, forwarded by Board President Elvira Vogel, Washtenaw Intermediate School District, for successfully completing a management training program to enhance executive skills. Van Meer was one of 40 superintendents in the State of Michigan who had been invited to participate in the program.

The board approved adoption of high school textbooks for calculus, U.S. government, geography, computer science and world history. The books were previously approved by the Central Curriculum Committee.

The board adopted a resolution to hold a truth-in-taxation hearing on Monday, Aug. 6, to approve the board-proposed operating levy of 35.62 mills for 1984-85, and to authorize the Board Secretary to advertise such hearing in The Chelsea Standard as required by law.

The board approved the appointment of Rahn Rosentreter as history teacher and head basketball coach. Rosentreter was head coach for three years at Burr Oak.

The board approved the appointment of Ron Schuyler to the Chelsea Recreation Council, to replace Hal Pennington.

Trustee Ann Feeny expressed her pleasure in taking part, with Trustee Joseph Redding, in the adult education graduation exercises.

Athletic Director Nemeth indicated that the JV basketball and freshman basketball coach positions will be posted, and he will be working with head basketball coach Rosentreter to fill those positions. Nemeth also reported that the track will be open for use on Monday, July 2.

Meeting adjourned at 9:07 p.m.

Something About The Cast of 'Annie'

The 65 people putting together the Chelsea Area Player's summer production of "Annie" are a varied group indeed.

The cast numbers 61. Among those 61 is newcomer Lori Wetzel, with the title role of Annie. At 11 years old, she impressed the entire staff as "one of the most talented and charming little girls we've ever met." Director Foreman agrees. "She'll create an immediate bond with the audience and they'll be rooting for her throughout the whole show." Also portraying orphans are 10 girls from all over the area, two from Ypsilanti, two from Ann Arbor and six of Chelsea's own. The Chelsea Area Players report that people came from as far as Belleville and Jackson to audition for this production.

Heading up the adult cast as Oliver (Daddy) Warbucks, is a gentleman from Ann Arbor who Chelsea audiences will remember with glee for his portrayals of Lazar Wolff in "Fiddler on the Roof" and Mayor Schinn in "Music Man." Tom Schill is the man with no hair, a billion dollars and a great big heart, who saves Annie from the doom of the orphanage.

The doom of the orphanage is represented in the role of Miss Agatha Hannigan, portrayed by Michelle McClear. Audiences will remember Miss McClear for her portrayal of Myrtle Mae in CAP's 1978 production of "Harvey," but most recently for her skills as a stage director. Last winter she directed two successful local productions, "Last of the Red-Hot Lovers" for CAP, and "I Ought To Be in Pictures" for the Blacksheep Theatre in Manchester.

Aiding and abetting Miss Hannigan in her evil ways are Rooster and his girl, Lily. These parts are played by Joe Diederich and Ruth Kenny. Diederich is one of the area's most popular actors. He has played everything from Emil de Beque in "South Pacific" to Fred Graham, the lead in last summer's "Kiss Me, Kate." Ruth Kenny is equally comfortable playing character parts (Bloody Mary in "South Pacific" and Lily in "Annie") or the tougher, more involving dramatic leads, such as Lilli Vanessi, also in last summer's "Kiss Me Kate." Audiences will enjoy the teaming up of these two again, but in very different roles.

Other principals include Rebecca Boeve, a newcomer to the Chelsea stage; in the role of Grace Farrell, Warbuck's secretary, and Tom Mull, another local favorite, who will be portraying President Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

As for the staff, five local persons and one Ann Arborite are pooling their talents to present a production not soon forgotten.

Among those, director Douglas Foreman, who served the same position for last summer's "Kiss Me, Kate" and last winter's "Pippin," is working toward a quick-tempo, entertaining two hour production.

Choreographer Peg Skelton, who served the same position for "Bells Are Ringing" in 1979, has the tremendous task of designing dances for 61 people. Local residents will know Peg as the owner-manager of the Body-Glow Exercise Studio.

From theatre workshop to technical director to Broadway is the likely story for the man designing the lights and sets for this show, Phil Powers. Designing for such a huge production is an immense challenge, yet one which Powers is winning through training, talent and strong "theatre sense."

Other staff members include Ann Arbor's Debbi Schmalz, music director; Chelsea's Sherry Lawton, rehearsal pianist; and Mary Jane Tiedgeon, producer. All three have extensive pay-production backgrounds.

EXCELLENT CONCERT: The First of Michigan Fife and Drum Corps put on what most people deemed an "excellent" concert last Sunday at the Chelsea High school football field. The group put on a dazzling show that included a rendition of "The Star Spangled Ban-

Key Club Sponsoring Benefit Dance

The 1984-85 Chelsea High school Key Club is holding a benefit dance on Friday, July 13. One half of all proceeds taken in from the dance will be given to a chapter of the National Burn Institute in Ann Arbor.

All Chelsea High school students are invited to attend, including upcoming freshman and alumni. The dance will begin at 8 p.m. and last through 11 p.m.

Key Club is a high school organization which is sponsored and advised by the Chelsea Kiwanis Club. It is a public service group and they have worked in the past to raise money for the burn center. It is the Key Club's year-long project to help support the National Burn Institute.

Crop Outlook Hangs In Balance, Depending On Needed Rainfall

It's not a disaster yet, but west Washtenaw county farmers definitely need rain, a lot of it.

"Growers are hurting, no doubt about it," said Bill Casello of the Washtenaw County Agricultural Extension Service. "Our rainfall during June was about half of normal. It was enough to keep crops alive, but not enough to keep them coming along the way they should do."

"Precipitation is down about 20 percent for the year to date over the county as a whole," Casello said, "but there are variations. We've had a lot of local rain showers."

"It rains hard someplace, and not a drop falls a mile away. You almost have to check farmer by farmer to be sure what is happening. I just can't describe a general pattern because the rain has been so spotty."

"Some growers have had adequate moisture, and others not nearly enough. Many with irrigation facilities have been using them. Irrigation saved the strawberry crop for several growers who didn't get enough rain. It's going to help some people who raise other small fruits, such as raspberries, and some orchardists."

"Right now I'd guess that the local apple crop will be off about 20 percent, and the cherry outlook isn't good. We won't have many peaches grown locally. The unusually severe winter and cold spring hurt them badly. You can figure on getting a good peach crop in Washtenaw county about one out of every four years, and this hasn't been one of the good years."

Casello was cautiously optimistic about field crops.

"Wheat is short but has headed out and looks fairly good. Most corn will be 'knee-high by the Fourth of July' like it's supposed to be, but it definitely needs rain to keep it growing strong.

"Soybeans are just coming out of the ground and beginning to grow. They need rain, too."

"A couple of inches of rain during the next two weeks could make the difference between a good crop year and a poor one. We're not yet into a drought, but we're getting uncomfortably close."

Baseball Team Beats Top Club, Then Loses

Chelsea's week-day baseball team split a pair of games last week in league action. The two games were the first different as Chelsea won the total but dropped the second.

On June 26 Chelsea took on the No. 1 team in the league, Stein and Goetz, which had brought an undefeated record into the game. Chelsea outscored them, 11-10. It wasn't a game for the pitchers. Dan Bellus picked up his second win of the year although he gave up nine hits. He stuck in and got the outs when they counted.

Chelsea scored in every inning but the sixth, with the fifth being the best one as they scored five runs. Ten Chelsea batters struck out, but the Bulldogs used seven hits, 10 walks, and three errors to put the game in the victory column.

Evan Roberts sparked the Bulldogs with three hits (a single, a double, and a home run). He scored three runs and had four RBI's. Also getting singles were Dave Boote, Jim Toon, Dan Bellus, and Ray Spencer.

"We got up on them early and even though we had a couple of bad innings we hung in there," coach Akel Marshall said. "It was a big win for us because everyone says Stein & Goetz is the team to beat."

But on June 28 it was a different story. Chelsea took on Pinckney, which hadn't won a game all season. They caught Chelsea a little flat and took home a 3-2 victory.

It was a heart-breaking defeat for Chelsea, but they just couldn't get their bats going against Pinckney's pitcher. Pinckney scored two runs in the first on one hit. Chelsea tied it in the third on a single by Bellus and a bases-loaded walk to Brian Farley.

In the bottom of the seventh Pinckney loaded the bases with no outs. The next hitter hit a grounder to third, and a bad throw to home allowed the winning run to score.

Kevin Walz pitched a very good game for Chelsea allowing four hits and striking out four. Mike Ball relieved in the seventh but couldn't prevent the loss.

Besides Bellus' single getting hits were Boote, a double; Jim Toon a single; and Charlie Koenn, a single.

Rod & Gun Club To Hear District Fisheries Biologist

Members of the Chelsea Rod & Gun Club will see and hear what the Department of Natural Resources is doing to maintain the fish population of waters in the Chelsea area.

They will be addressed at 8 p.m. Tuesday by Ken Dodge, DNR district fisheries biologist.

His talk and slide show presentation will include an update on fish stocking in Washtenaw and southern Livingston counties.

Dodge, who works out of the DNR district headquarters in Jackson, will also reveal fish survey results and describe fish management activities performed by DNR fisheries division specialists.

Visitors in the company of club members are welcome.

One million hard core unemployed persons are to be trained each year under the Job Training Partnership Act (JTPA), according to the 71st annual report of the U.S. Department of Labor.

SPORTS NOTES

BY BILL MULLENDORE

Congratulations to the Chelsea softball team, which went all the way to the final game in the state Class B tournament before losing a 2-0 heart-breaker to Mt. Morris.

The Bulldog girls have no reason to be ashamed, and every reason to feel proud of finishing as one of the two best teams in the state. They perpetuated a remarkable record of Chelsea excellence in softball.

Bet on Chelsea to win big in softball every season, and you won't lose any money. Bet on them to be awfully good next spring, and you've got a sure winner.

This year's team was supposed to be a year away from greatness. It was made up of sophomore and junior players plus just one starting senior, catcher Joyce Robards. All coach Charlie Waller has to do next year is find a replacement for Robards behind the plate—which won't be easy because she was a stand-out—and he will have a ready-set lineup that will match with any Class B school. He has a fine group of athletes coming up from the junior varsity to add strength and depth.

If Chelsea isn't ranked No. 1 in the state at the beginning of the 1985 season, the people who do the rating will have their heads in the sand. Being rated first puts pressure on, but I think this group of girls can handle it. They are remarkably relaxed, poised and confident.

As Waller observed several weeks ago, the one-loss-and-you're-out format of the state tournament doesn't prove much. One misplay can knock a team out of contention for the title, and that's what happened to Chelsea against Mt. Morris. An infielder slipped and fell while picking up a bunted ball that otherwise would have been a routine out, opening the door to a couple of runs. Otherwise, the two teams might be playing yet.

More impressive to me is Chelsea's season record of 34-4, the best posted by any Class B team in the state. Any team in any sport that wins 90 percent of its contests over a long season doesn't need to apologize. It has earned the right to be called great. I had a lot of fun watching and reporting on the Bulldog girls. They played excellent ball and, as Chelsea athletes of my experience invariably have been, are very fine young people.

As this was written, the Detroit Tigers had lost a game to the New York Yankees a couple of days before, and still managed to extend their lead in the American League East division to a formidable nine games as runner-up Toronto dropped both ends of a double-header.

It takes some luck to be a winner in sports, but winners have a way of making their own luck by putting pressure on opponents who are fighting from behind.

In that sense even a loyal Tiger fan has to feel a little bit sorry for the Toronto Blue Jays, who have played good enough ball to lead three of the four Major League divisions. To be winning at a better than .600 clip and yet be all but hopelessly out of the race before mid-season has to be frustrating. Toronto is a very good baseball team, perhaps the second-best among the 26 in the Majors. Detroit is better.

The Tigers know all about that. Last year, for instance, they had the second-best winning percentage among all teams and didn't make the play-offs because Baltimore topped their record.

The significance of the Tigers' unbelievable early-season start—they were a fantastic 31-5 at one point—shows in what has been happening lately. The Tigers cushioned themselves against the inevitable reality that they eventually were going to lose some games, which they have.

Detroit hasn't exactly knocked the socks off its American League East rivals in recent rounds of games against Toronto, Baltimore, Milwaukee, Boston, Milwaukee, New York and Cleveland. What the Tigers did do in those intra-division games was win a few more than they lost, and come out of it with their big early lead not only intact but lengthened a bit.

Detroit can play .500 ball the rest of the way and be virtually assured of finishing first in the American League East. It can play .600 ball, and run away and hide. The race could be over by the All-Star game break.

Barring an unlikely complete collapse, the Tigers are in. They have done it by charging hard out of the starting gate and leaving everybody in their dust.

There is nothing like an early lead. Ask Chelsea baseball coach Wayne Wilton, whose team that wasn't supposed to go anywhere won its first four Southeastern Conference games this spring. "I looked at our record and our schedule and said, hey, we can win this thing (the conference title) even though we're not supposed to. We've got a big jump."

The Bulldogs were co-champs of the SEC, splitting 3-3 in their last six league games. That's what getting out ahead can do.

Boat Thefts Reported

Deputies at the Dexter office as well as the Scio and Chelsea offices, of the Washtenaw County Sheriff Department are aware it's summer, with boat-snatching complaints.

According to Sgt. Harley Rider of the Dexter office at 18½-ft. Sea Nymph boat and motor, valued at $7,000, was reported missing shortly before 3 a.m. on Monday, June 23, at North Lake. On Liberty Rd., that same date, a 25 h.p. Evinrude outboard motor was reported missing, in Scio township; estimated value $2,500.

A pair of breaking and entering reports were investigated, one on Tuesday, June 26, shortly after noon, on Territorial Rd. in Webster township, and another at the Dexter Party Store where the automatic alarm was tripped at 4:39 a.m. Wednesday, June 27. Owner Bob Schefer said entrance was gained by intruders cutting the padlock securing the front door grating, then cutting the plexiglas panel with a torch, apparently to crawl through. Missing items included pocket books and some magazines. Schefer explained these were NOT x-rated publications, as reported in another newspaper, however, as he does not carry x-rated publications in his store. Also missing were approximately 30 cartons of cigarettes and three cases of beer.

OUT IN THE OPEN

By BILL MULLENDORE

It had been a long time, far too long. The little seven-foot flyrod that has served me faithfully for more than 20 years seemed an awkward object as I picked it up and prepared to cast.

My wife and I were out on a small private lake in Indiana's Brown county, and I was seeking to re-discover the delights of the sport I love more than any other—fly fishing for anything that will take an artificial lure on top of the water.

The conditions were not auspicious. It was high noon on a bright day with a strong southwest breeze, not exactly what a fly fisherman would order for the occasion. It was a case of do it then or not at all during an all too brief holiday that had been swallowed up in family affairs.

While Vivian struggled to keep the clumsy, wind-blown flatboat within casting distance of the weedy shoreline, I tried to recall the skills I had neglected for more than a year. The rod felt strange, almost an alien object.

My first efforts were pathetic. Badly executed casts sent line slopping limply on the water, fly curling back on the leader and missing its target by 10 feet. A couple of times the whole works came down around my ears. It was downright embarrassing, especially because I knew there were several relatives watching the performance from shore.

"Let's get into quieter water where you can control the boat and I can figure out how to get my timing back," I said to Vivian. "This is just plain awful."

She tugged on the oars while I

Late Planting Agreement Offered For Insurance

"Farmers unable to plant by the final planting date because of adverse weather conditions may sign a 20-day Late Planting Agreement, which permits insurance coverage, but provides for a lower guarantee due to the late planting," said Barbara Cranson, district director for the Federal Crop Insurance Corp. (FCIC).

Farmers must sign the Late Planting Agreement within 10 days following the final planting date in their area.

"The FCIC has expanded the terms of the Late Planting Agreement to include adverse weather conditions. Previously, late planting was allowed only because of excessive moisture," Cranson said.

A local crop insurance agent is ready to assist farmers with their insurance needs.

changed lures and tied on a rubber spider with crawly legs, an easy-to-cast creation that has proven deadly on bluegills over the decades. We came to a small bay sheltered from the wind, and I began to cast again.

Reflexes returned, just like that. Where I had been flailing away to no purpose, I was suddenly laying out 40 feet of straight line and leader, dropping the spider within inches of where I wanted it to go.

Improvement was rewarded. Spat! A bluegill charged and hit the spider. I struck, way too late. A few casts later, another spot and another miss as I was far too fast and took the lure away from the fish. Another reflex to re-learn.

Timing the rise of a fish taking a fly on the surface is a skill learned the hard way, by long trial and error. There is a split tenth of a second when the hook must be set if a connection is going to be made. Too soon or too late, and you come up empty.

I laid down the rod and lectured myself. "Look, you know how to do this. You've done it thousands of times. Concentrate and get with it."

Back to casting, rod and line handling more smoothly every time. Reaching 50 feet now without forcing. Wrist, arm and shoulder feel right. Spat! A raise of the rod tip and a feel of something solid. Fast to a fish at last.

This first catch in 13 months was nothing spectacular, a bluegill of maybe seven inches, but I looked at it almost reverently for several seconds before removing the hook from its lower lip and letting it go back to grow bigger.

"I think we're in business," I said to Vivian, who had done an excellent job of figuring out the vagaries of the flatboat and was expertly keeping me in casting range.

An hour later I had landed about 15 bluegills, including four nine-inch half-pounders, and two bass. One of the bass measured 15 inches and provided all kinds of excitement on the 2½-ounce rod.

There were some more misses, of course, but the ratio of fish hooked to rises induced got steadily better.

Back at the dock after completing the circuit of the little lake, it occurred to me that I felt a whole lot better than I had in a long time—since the last time I went fishing, to be exact.

It was comforting to know that I really hadn't forgotten how to do something that I had spent more than 40 years learning how to do quite well. The skills and reflexes were still there, just rusty, like a hook that has lain long in the tackle box without being used. Once sharpened and polished, an old fishing hook can be made almost as good as new, and so can an old fisherman.

I won't wait so long the next time.

This series of stories by Paula Blanchard, Michigan's First Lady, spotlights the finest products of Michigan's farms, forests and factories—the products proudly stamped "Made in Michigan." Some are as familiar as the Ford in your driveway or the jar of Gerber's baby food on your kitchen shelf. Others are less well-known, but equally interesting. This week's story: "Upping Mother Nature."

By Paula Blanchard
I was telling my young son Jay about a marvelous Michigan company that manufactures diamonds, emeralds, rubies and other gemstones. "Oh, Mom," he said in a tone that only a doubting 13-year-old can invoke, "you've gotta be kidding. You have to mine those things; you can't just make them."

Jay is right, of course. Diamonds and other such precious stones are "made" in the earth after centuries of incubation. That's the reason they are so precious, and expensive. Nonetheless, the ICT Corp. of Shelby, has one-upped Mother Nature with its Shelby Gemstones. The company's manufactured stones are every bit as beautiful, durable and useful as anything ever dug out of the earth. And they are a comparison shopper's delight; the Shelby stones generally cost only about two percent of what you would pay for a similar natural stone.

Baseball Team Wins By Forfeit, Then Loses

Chelsea's week-end baseball team was scheduled to play a double-header last Sunday, against Wendy's of Brighton, but Wendy's did not have enough players for the game so Chelsea won it, 7-0, by forfeit.

Chelsea had a bad inning in the field in the third. Wendy's sent 12 men to the plate and scored seven runs on two singles, seven walks, and one Chelsea error. Chelsea went down quietly in the fourth and fifth, losing by the mercy rule, their fifth loss of the season against one win.

The needed players did show up for the second game, and it was played. Chelsea took an early lead in its half of the first on a triple by Ray Spencer and a passed ball.

Todd Starkey started on the mound for Chelsea. He didn't pitch that badly, but some plays on defense weren't made that should have been. He struck out five before Even Roberts pitched him in the third. Roberts pitched well. Rob Murrell singled and had Chelsea's only other hit.

Chelsea scored two in the third on one hit—a single by Mike Ball. Three Wendy's errors helped Chelsea out.

Chelsea's next games will be this Saturday, at 1 p.m. at Huron High school, a double-header against Packard Dairy Queen.

Bishop Povish Celebrates Special Latin Mass for Chelsea Catholics

"In nomine patris et filii et spiritus sancti." Those opening words of the traditional Latin mass of the Roman Catholic Church brought back many memories to older members of St. Mary's church as they were intoned Sunday morning by the Rev. Fr. Kenneth Povish, bishop of the Lansing diocese.

Bishop Povish celebrated the mass in Latin as it was done during most of the 140 years that St. Mary's parish has existed, explaining as he went along so that younger persons in the congregation would understand what he was doing and why.

Afterward, he told a Standard reporter who is a Catholic old enough to remember the form and language of the Latin liturgy, "I hadn't done that (the Latin mass) in a long time, but it seemed appropriate for Chelsea's Sesquicentennial celebration. I was pleased to have been invited, and I wanted to contribute something to the village people's recognition of their history."

Not until Vatican Council II did the church allow its services to be held in "vernacular" languages. Until that time, all parts of the mass except the sermon and the Bible reading were in Latin.

"I have to admit that many of us mutilated the Latin in order to get the mass completed in an hour," Bishop Povish said. "We stood there facing the rear altar with our backs to the congregation and mumbled. Most people didn't really understand what was going on. They either tried to follow an English translation in their missals (prayer books) or said the rosary."

"The new way is much better, but I wanted to show what the old way was like even though I would never wish to go back to it on a regular basis. The Latin mass is a tradition which should be celebrated on special occasions like this one. After all, it was the prescribed form of Catholic worship for more than 1,800 years."

Bishop Povish' enunciation of the Latin liturgy was impeccable, so far as this reporter who was struggling to recall his four years of high school education in the language could tell. So were the responses from the congregation as unfamiliar words last uttered 20 years ago returned to mind.

There was something of a sense of relief as the bishop intoned his final "Ite missa est" (the mass is ended) and those in the church responded with "Deo gratias" (thanks be to God).

A reception for Bishop Povish was held on the church lawn following the service.

BISHOP COMES TO CHELSEA: The Rev. Fr. Kenneth Povish, bishop of the Lansing diocese, celebrated a special Sesquicentennial mass in traditional Latin last Sunday at St. Mary's Catholic church of Chelsea.

Manchester Plans Farewell Party for Departing Principal

The Manchester Board of Education and the Klager PTO are jointly planning a farewell party for Klager principal Janice Hammond who has resigned to accept a new position with the Birmingham Public Schools.

An ice-cream, punch and cookies farewell is planned for Janice Hammond on Sunday, July 8 from 1 until 4 p.m. at Klager Elementary. All students and their parents are invited to attend to say goodbye to Dr. Hammond. PTO president Nancy Bjhl-meyer is currently contacting PTO members to arrange for cookies and other snacks. Superintendent of Schools Gene Thompson has indicated that he is arranging for ice cream and cones and is only worried about having enough ice cream scoops.

Dr. Hammond stated, "I am looking forward to the opportunity to see everyone one last time. I feel like I am leaving home and am excited and sad all at the same time. I'm afraid I am going to need a great deal of Kleenex before the party is over. I hope that everyone can attend."

Farmer-Owned Reserve Grains Remain in Release

All corn and oats in the farmer-owned grain reserves will remain in release status through June 30, according to Everett Rank, administrator of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.
 Rank said the decision on the reserve commodities was made following a review today by USDA's Commodity Credit Corp. of average market prices, as reported by USDA's Marketing Service, adjusted to reflect the market price received by farmers.
 On June 1, the adjusted price for corn was $3.41 per bushel, 26 cents above the release level of $3.15 for Reserve IV corn and 16 cents above the release level of $3.25 for Reserve V corn. The adjusted price for oats was $1.93, 28 cents above the release level.
 Daily markets reviewed by CCC for corn are Kansas City, Minneapolis, Omaha, and St. Louis. The daily market reviewed for oats is Minneapolis.
 For Reserve IV and V corn loans, storage payments stopped and interest resumed on May 1. Storage payments stopped and interest resumed on Feb. 1 for oats.

Michael Stimpson Seeks Re-Election as Treasurer

Michael A. Stimpson, Washtenaw county treasurer, is seeking re-election to that office.

Stimpson, said "I think county residents who know how much the county's financial position has improved since I became treasurer will want to see the same policies continue. Since I took office, I have implemented computerized cash management, resulting in an increase of over $2.1 million in return on investment to a new high of over $4.5 million, even though interest rates over the same period have dropped to less than half their original value.

"Computerization of the tax roll is on schedule and will be on line for the next tax notices. We have arranged for Oakland county, where we obtain our computer services, to modify their program so that Washtenaw county taxpayers will continue to get the same breakdown as in the past of how their tax dollars are being used.

"Good money management has given Washtenaw county $2.5 million more in operating funds than it ever had before, which is substantially more than it could have raised by utilizing its last available ¼ mill of taxing authority. I am confident that, with this record, Washtenaw county will continue to improve its financial standing, and receive the same rating that previously has been given to Macomb county which has a surplus of $102 million, and Oakland county which has a surplus of $50 million.

"At the same time I have continued to invest in new equipment and automated procedures to insure that county residents get prompt, courteous and complete service from the treasurer's office, and I am personally available to any who have questions or suggestions on its policies."

"I am seeking re-election in order to continue meeting the increasing demands of the county and this office, to complete the transition to modern methods of operation, and to implement the money management policies that are allowing the county to provide needed services to its residents with fewer tax dollars."

Stimpson, 36, is a 1970 graduate of Eastern Michigan University with continuing studies in business administration. Beginning in 1973 he had nearly eight years of experience in the county budget office and was appointed senior budget officer before successfully running for the county treasurer's office in 1980.

Stimpson is married, has three children. He is a member of the board of the Salvation Army and of the Washtenaw County Cancer Society. He serves on the Michigan Treasurers Association Legislative Committee. He is a member of the First United Methodist church of Chelsea, past member of the Jaycees and past president of the Breakfast Optimists Club as well as past member of the Public/Private Resource Committee for Washtenaw county.

NOTICE OF A PUBLIC HEARING ON INCREASING PROPERTY TAXES

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that on August 6, 1984, at 8:00 o'clock p.m. at the Board of Education Room, E. Washington Street, Chelsea, Michigan, the Board of Education of the Chelsea School District will hold a public hearing on the levying in 1984 of an additional proposed millage rate of 0.9368 mills for operating purposes pursuant to Act 5, Public Acts of Michigan, 1982.

The Board of Education has the complete authority to establish that 35.62 mills be levied in 1984 from within its present authorized millage rate.

The maximum additional proposed millage rate would increase revenues for operating purposes from ad valorem property tax levies in 1983 otherwise permitted by Act 5, Public Acts of Michigan, 1982, by 2.7010 percent (2.7010%).

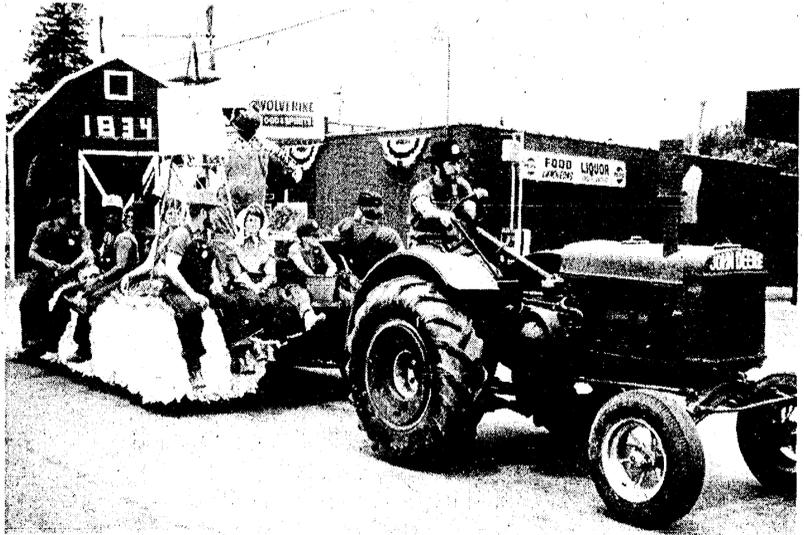

In accordance with Act 5, the Base Tax Rate Fraction (BTRF), as calculated by the County Equalization Office, for 1984 is 0.9737. This BTRF would allow the Board of Education to levy up to 34.6832 mills (35.72 x 0.9737) of the authorized 35.62 mills without holding a hearing. The 0.9368 mills difference represents a 2.7010% increase in income for operating purposes for the 1984 tax levy.

The purpose of the hearing is to receive testimony and discuss the levy of an additional millage rate. Not less than seven (7) days following the public hearing, the Board of Education may approve all or any portion of the proposed additional millage rate.

This notice is given by order of the Board of Education.

AREA DEATHS

Gladys M. Miller

405 Wilkinson St. Chelsea
Gladys M. Miller, 66, died Thursday, June 29, at Chelsea Community Hospital. She was born March 9, 1918 at North Lake, the daughter of John and Jennie (Davis) Hinchey, and was married to Howard A. Miller on Sept. 19, 1960. He survives.

Mrs. Miller was a lifelong resident of Chelsea.
Surviving besides her husband are a stepson, Glenn Miller of Dexter; a stepdaughter, Rebecca Mshar of Pottstown, Pa.; nine grandchildren and four great-grandchildren; a sister, Mary Weinmann of Chelsea, a nephew and grand-nephew.

Private family graveside services were held on Saturday, June 30, at Oak Grove Cemetery with the Rev. Dr. David Turan of the First United Methodist church of Chelsea officiating. Arrangements were made by the Staffan-Mitchell Funeral Home. Expressions of sympathy may be made to the Washtenaw County Humane Society.

Mr. Hafley was a Goodyear retiree with 32 years of service there, and a World War II navy veteran.

Ann Arbor Firm Wants In on Sewage Plant

Now that the village of Chelsea may be getting close to building a new wastewater treatment plant, the Ann Arbor engineering firm of McNamee, Porter & Seeley would like a piece of the action.

John Holland, a representative of the company, appeared at the June 19 Chelsea council meeting and made a pitch to take over as consultants on the project. His arguing point was the McNamee, Porter & Seeley has designed the first "oxidation ditch" sewage treatment plant in Michigan, a facility scheduled to begin operating next year at Lapeer.

Chelsea's proposed new $4.5 waste treatment plant has been designed by consulting engineers Finkbeiner, Pettis & Strout of Toledo, O. Its central feature is an oxidation ditch system.

Under state order, Chelsea must have the new plant under contract in 1986 and in operation by the summer of 1988.

"I see no reason why we would consider changing consulting engineers at this point," village administrator Frederick Weber said. "Finkbeiner, Pettis & Strout has done a very good job for us. I'm surprised that McNamee, Porter & Seeley even approached us. They must be scratching for business."

"The decision is up to the council but I certainly won't recommend any change."

Johnson (right), accepted a presentation of a commemorative painting commissioned by the Gelman Sciences, Inc. company from Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gelman (left), owners and founders of Gelman Sciences. The painting depicts downtown Chelsea in both the past and present. The artist, Mill Kemnitz, was commissioned to do the work as part of the company's 25th anniversary celebration. Gelman Sciences, Inc. began operations in downtown Chelsea in 1959. At that time it was known as the Gelman Instrument Company, and occupied what is now Gambles. Since that time, the firm has grown to employ 495 people at its site on Wagner Rd. in Ann Arbor and operates manufacturing plants in six foreign countries. The painting will be on loan to the hospital through July, 1984.

Boy Scout Troop Plans Summer Trip

Taking part in the third big summer project for Boy Scout Troop 448, 16 boys, along with three scout leaders and their wives, will be making a summer trek to Niagara Falls, N. Y. Aug. 2, with a stop planned Aug. 3 at Cooperstown, N. Y., to see the Baseball Hall of Fame and the home of James Fennimore Cooper.

The fourth and fifth nights of the trip will be spent in Burlington, Vt., where the group plans to spend some time touring the Shelburne Museum, where many of the early items relating to the history of this country may be found. Another tourist attraction there is Lake Champlain.

The group plans to have a lot of fun, but also to learn and enjoy a lot, at the same time. They will return to Dexter, Aug. 12.

Scoutmaster Jack Brigham explained that Palmer Ford of Chelsea has provided one of the vehicles for the troop's summer trips every year, and they are again assisting by providing a vehicle which will carry part of this year's summer tour group, with many thanks by the boys and leaders. A total of three vehicles will make the trip east.

One Helluva Ride Slated Saturday

The Ann Arbor Bicycle Touring Society invites you to take part in its 8th annual One Helluva Ride! This year should be the biggest ever with more than 1,200 fun-loving riders expected.

The Saturday, July 7, One Helluva Ride is reputed to be Michigan's hottest bicycle ride through Hell, on routes of either 50 kilometers, 100 kilometers or 100 miles. Riders may register and leave Wylie school in Dexter from 6:30 a.m. to 12 noon.

The registration fee is lower than ever this year to entice more riders from the entire U. S. and Canada. The name of the ride is an attraction as well as the 11-color embroidered patch awaiting registrants who complete their ride by signing in upon returning to Wylie school.

The fee of $8 for all includes a buffet-style lunch for riders on all routes, also fruit and beverages served at two stops. Iced watermelon and cold drinks will be waiting at the end of the ride. Each rider will receive a colorful detailed map showing routes, toilets, water and food stops.

A mechanic will be available at Wylie school to aid with emergency bicycle repairs, but riders should have their own pump, patch kit, extra tube and on-the-road tools with them. Sag wagons will bring in riders with problems. ARROW, a ham radio relay league will provide communication between key points.

At no extra charge for those who are enrolled in both One Helluva Ride and the "River Raisin Tour" the "Hell Raisin Connection" is offered. This ride begins in Dexter and ends at the Monroe Community College which is the starting point of the River Raisin Tour. There will be a sag wagon provided and refreshments at the end of the ride.

Ann Arbor Bicycle Touring Society promotes recreational bicycling by scheduling from 7 to 10 rides a week in April through November. Most rides are from 25 to 100 miles and are completed in one day. All rides are graded in order to accommodate the varied experience and endurance levels of its members who range in age from pre-schoolers to over 60. There are occasional week-end trips, special theme rides and picnic rides. For club members as well as non-members, AABTS encourages lawful bicycle for pleasure, exercise and transportation.

"Did you know that you're in a LATA?"

MICHIGAN LATAs

1. Upper Peninsula LATA.
2. Grand Rapids LATA.
3. Saginaw LATA.
4. Lansing LATA.
5. Detroit LATA.

All about LATAs, long distance calling, and Michigan Bell discounts.

LATA is a telephone term that's new to all of us.
Explaining that LATA stands for Local Access Transport Area doesn't help much, but LATAs are really very simple. They're telephone service areas. There are five LATAs in which Michigan Bell provides telephone service.

LATAs and long distance calling.
If you look at the map, you will see the five Michigan LATAs, including the LATA you are in. Now here's how LATAs work: When you place a long distance call from one LATA to another telephone number within the same LATA, Michigan Bell can carry the call for you over its own network. When you place a call from one LATA to another LATA, either in Michigan or another state, it will be handled by the long distance company that provides that service to you (not Michigan Bell).

For example, if you call from Detroit to Flint (two cities within the same LATA), Michigan Bell will still be able to handle the call as in the past. But if you call from Detroit to Traverse City (from a city in one LATA to a city in a different LATA), a long distance company other than Michigan Bell will carry the call. As you may know, there are now a number of different companies you may choose from to provide your long distance service.

Your long distance bill(s).
When you receive your Michigan Bell telephone bill, you'll find a page that lists your long distance calls handled by Michigan Bell. You may also find another page that lists long distance calls handled by other companies. This is because Michigan Bell may provide billing services for other long distance companies. Or you may receive a separate long distance bill directly from the company you've selected to handle your long distance calls.

Long distance discount periods.
Michigan Bell continues to offer discounts on direct-dialed long distance calls within each of the five LATAs. We suggest you save the chart below as a reminder of the times when you save 30% to 50% off the Day Full Rate.

NOTE: When you begin a call during one rate period, your call will be charged at that rate; however, should that call pass into a different rate period, your charges will change to the rate of the new period. For example, a weekday call that begins 10 minutes before 5 p.m. and ends 10 minutes after 5 p.m. will be billed at the full rate for the first 10 minutes and will be billed at the 30% discount rate for the last 10 minutes.

Save up to 50% on direct-dialed long distance calls. Schedule for direct-dialed long distance calls within Michigan LATAs.

	Mon.	Tue.	Wed.	Thu.	Fri.	Sat.	Sun.
8 am	DAY FULL RATE							8 am
5 pm	EVENING DISCOUNT PERIOD 30% DISCOUNT*							5 pm
11 pm	NIGHT AND WEEKEND DISCOUNT PERIOD 50% DISCOUNT						EVENING DISCOUNT 30% DISCOUNT	11 pm
8 am							8 am

*During the Evening Discount Period, you pay 30% less than the Day Full Rate Charge for direct-dialed calls within each of the Michigan LATAs.
During the Night and Weekend Discount Periods, you pay 50% less than the Day Full Rate Charge for direct-dialed calls within each of the Michigan LATAs.

More long distance discounts.
If you make a lot of direct-dialed long distance calls within 30 miles of your calling center and within your LATA, you may be interested in Circle Calling Service. By subscribing to this service, you get additional discount calling periods during which you can save 30% over the long distance rates in effect at the time of your call. The discount applies even when regular long distance discounts are in effect. No installer visit is necessary for Circle Calling.

We suggest you take a close look at the various Michigan Bell services available to you. At Michigan Bell, we're always ready to help in the selection of the service that's right for you.

Facts down the line. We suggest that you watch for further informational messages in your newspapers and in your monthly telephone bills. Because your telephone business office is busily engaged in normal day-to-day telephone service matters, we are providing this toll-free number as a source for answers to the questions you may have about your changing telephone company.

Faith in Action Provides Help for People in Need

Where do you go when you have problems that you can't seem to solve by yourself? Chelsea's own Faith In Action may be able to help.

Faith In Action is a non-profit community organization which provides a variety of services to people in need, regardless of race, religion or age.

Services include food, clothing, financial assistance, crisis intervention and information and/or referral. Transportation and furniture are also provided when available.

Special programs featured by Faith In Action for family intervention and support include the Parent To Parent program and Parents Anonymous. The organization's newest program, which was initiated on May 9 is the Chelsea Free Health Clinic. This is a non-emergency medical care service provided one-half day a week.

Food for the Faith In Action program has been largely donated; however, in the last few months it has been purchased from several sources due to a decrease in donations. New sources of pre-packaged, high protein dinners are now being explored. Food is provided based on need, each family's individual situation and size. Restrictions are placed on those few who are "regulars."

Clothing is also donated for the most part by community residents. Because of a lack of storage space, torn and dirty clothing is discarded. It would be greatly appreciated if donated clothing is clean and in good condition. Garage sale leftovers are discouraged, and donors should be aware that children's clothing is the first to be used.

Eighty percent of all financial donations go back into the community, providing assistance with heat, utilities, prescriptions, car gas and other basic necessities as may arise.

Faith In Action also offers information, referral and advocacy for services they are not able to provide. It also offers a friendly atmosphere for those who simply need someone to talk to.

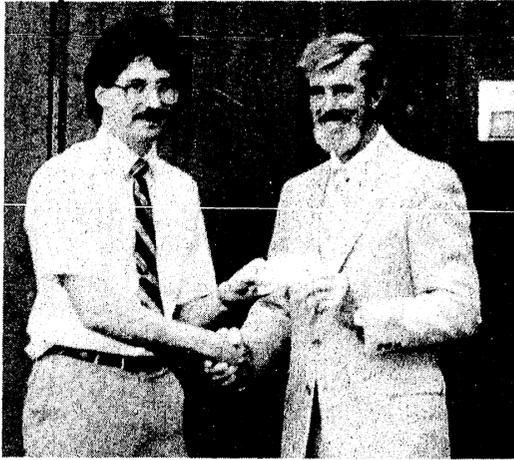

The Parent to Parent program is an in-home support group where volunteer home visitors provide support and education around parenting skills, child development, parent-child relationships and use of community resources. These are usually families experiencing anxiety and stress, which interferes with their family life, or young parents who need emotional support and education in child-rearing.

The Parents Anonymous program provides support in a group setting to parents who have or feel they have the potential to abuse their children.

The Chelsea Free Health Clinic

KIWANIS HELPING HAND: JoAnn Carruthers, left, a Faith In Action worker, accepts a check in the amount of $500 from vice-president of the Chelsea Kiwanis Club Raymond Van Meer for the village's Faith In Action program. The organization has helped over 600 people make ends meet financially and has counseled many of them as well since it began almost two years ago. The Kiwanis Club has been a main contributor to Faith In Action since its initiation.

PROGRAM DONATION: Ken Arney, founder of Faith In Action's Parents Anonymous program, accepts a check from new Chelsea Civic Foundation President Raymond Van Meer in the amount of $1,320. Arney, who is director of social services at Chelsea Community Hospital, directs the Parents Anonymous program at Faith In Action as well. The program is designed especially for persons who are child abusers, or who may have the potential to become one. It is a support program to help adults overcome this serious problem. The Chelsea Kiwanis Club also donated $500 to the vital Parents Anonymous program.

provides non-emergency medical treatment to those who cannot afford to go to a doctor. Volunteer nursing staff and physicians are available by appointment only, through Faith In Action.

In the 16 months Faith In Action has been operating as an incorporated community organization, 136 different families have received services totalling 622 adults and children. There are many more in the community who need help, and Faith In Action is there for these people.

Support has been widespread from individuals to community groups. This support is needed to keep Faith In Action going and it is greatly appreciated. Many of the people receiving aid also help provide support to others by volunteering time and transportation.

Faith In Action especially recognizes the Chelsea Kiwanis Club and Chelsea Civic Foundation for their donations. They have been very generous in the past, and it is hoped their support will continue through the years.

Q. My first stock purchase was Sears Roebuck. I bought it just a few months ago and paid $44 for it. It has been very disappointing. Just a few days ago, I saw in the paper that it was selling for $29 1/2. It is now at $31, but that is a long way from what I paid for it. Sears has always seemed like a good company to me. I like to shop in its stores, and I thought its stock would be good. What should I do with the stock?

A. I can't give you a good reason why the price of Sears stock is down. At 44, it was a little high in proportion to a year ago earnings, but in relation to 1983 earnings, it seemed fairly priced. We do have a weak stock market at the moment, and a lot of good stocks are down in price, but my belief is that Sears' price will come back, and you will do well with your investment.

Sears has four major segments and a fifth that could become very large and profitable. Sears' biggest division is its retail business. Several years ago, that division ran into trouble. It lost its lead in retail sales to Kmart, and earnings in that unit fell sharply. However, the management went to work on the problem, and in the last two years, has shown remarkable progress in rebuilding the profitability of the retail side. It is expected that there will be further improvement in that part of the business.

Allstate, the insurance part of the business is one of the best managed and profitable concerns in the insurance business, and seems to set new records for sales and earnings each year. Coldwell Baker, the real estate part of the business is much smaller, but the company is well managed and profitable. Real estate has been depressed, but the business is back on the up-trend, and should not be a drag on the company. The Dean Witter part of the business is strong in the securities industry, and should not be a problem. The new international trading company is just getting underway, but with Sears' backing, should have an excellent opportunity of being successful.

While the price of Sears' stock has been coming down, earnings per share have been going up. I never worry about a stock when that is happening. The company has announced that it earned $3.80 a share in 1983 compared with $2.46 in 1982. The price earnings ratio is 8, which is just about as low a ratio to earnings as the stock ever sells.

Sears is heavily owned by institutions, and stocks with a high institutional ownership tend to be more volatile than those with a higher individual ownership. We just did a study of stocks in several portfolios and found that the stocks that were heavily owned by institutions were down almost twice as much in the last six months as were the stocks more heavily owned by individuals. That probably is one of the reasons Sears' stock price is down.

My own reaction at this price for Sears would be to add to my holdings.
