

NOBODY HURT: William G. Souther of Jackson was driving this van which was forced off the road as fleeing convict Ronald Garrett tried to escape north on M-52 in a stolen car. Souther was unhurt even though the van rolled down a steep bank and was badly damaged.

New Police Chief Has An Exciting First Day

Len McDougall isn't reneging on his promise to be a working police chief despite a first day in his new job that was exciting to say the least.

Chief McDougall left the police station at about 11:15 a.m. to begin a patrol. As he waited to turn north from E. Middle onto Main St. he saw a car make a pass to the right of another vehicle and cut back in sharply.

McDougall took off in pursuit, flagged down the vehicle a short distance north of the railroad tracks and got out to talk to the driver. At that point, the car took off at high speed.

McDougall ran back to his patrol car and followed. The chase reached speeds approaching 100 miles per hour as the fleeing 1977 Buick sedan approached the North Territorial Rd. intersection. It veered across the center line, forcing an oncoming 1983 Ford van off the right side of the road. The van rolled down a steep bank.

The Buick went back to the right side, then spun across M-52 and hit a guard rail near the Roepke Rd. intersection. The driver jumped out and fled into the woods.

All of that took less than 10 minutes.

More than five hours later a sheriff's deputy finally caught up with Ronald Garrett, 22, of Detroit, who had escaped from Camp Waterloo some time after 7 o'clock that morning.

The chase involved two tracking dogs, two helicopters and about 20 law enforcement officers before it ended with Garrett's capture.

McDougall directed the effort from his temporary "command post"—his patrol car parked on M-52 near Roepke—using his hand-held radio to direct the efforts of the village police, sheriff's deputies, conservation officers, and others summoned to the scene.

As pieced together, the story went something like this:

Garrett, who was serving 18-30 months for auto theft—escaped from Camp Waterloo on Maute Rd. sometime after 7 a.m. He walked to the Crooked Lake public access site, where he stole the Buick sedan, which is registered to Delores Cox of Jackson, and then drove into Chelsea.

He came into town on W. Middle St. and then made a left turn onto Main, where McDougall spotted him. The chase began.

After leaving the wrecked Buick, Garrett ran through the wooded, swampy area in the vicinity of Green Lake. Former Chelsea policeman Pete Graves, who now works for the Huron-Clinton Metroparks, was called in with his tracking dog, Jake, and followed the trail for a considerable distance before wearing out.

"It was awfully hot out there," Graves said, "and the dog finally couldn't go any farther. We found a prison shirt that Garrett had thrown away, but by that time (Continued on page eight)

Athel (Mac) Fulks Appointed Member Of Village Council

Athel E. (Mac) Fulks has been appointed a village trustee to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Fred Harris.

Fulks, 62, of 405 S. Madison St., served on the board of trustees in 1967-70 and was village president in 1970-74. He is retired from the University of Michigan plant department in Ann Arbor.

His appointment, which will run through March of 1988, was approved unanimously by the six other members of the village council, on recommendation of president Jerry Satterthwaite.

Harris resigned as a trustee on June 11, three months after he had been elected to the post, giving no other reason than that he felt "the village council will run more smoothly without me."

Fulks said he will approach his trusteeship cautiously at first, with a wait-and-see, listen-and-learn attitude.

"Frankly, I haven't kept current on all the issues and problems since I've been out of village government," Fulks said. "I've got some catching up to do. I want to evaluate everything before I do any talking."

"A member of the council shouldn't act on anything until he has thought the matter through and can live with his decision."

"I'm retired and have the time to serve. I wouldn't have accepted the appointment if I weren't retired. From my experience I know how much time the job takes. You have to spend a lot of time going out and looking at things and talking to people. You get a lot of phone calls. You don't make any money, but you have the satisfaction of serving the community. I believe that, if I'm going to live here, I should be a part of things."

Fulks and his wife, Janet, have a married daughter, Kathy Trudell, and two grandsons living in Royal Oak.

Other members of the council, besides president Satterthwaite, are Richard Steele, Joe Merkel, Stephanie Kanten, Herman Radloff and Jim Finch.

Burned Car Mystery Turns Into Apparent Murder Case

The mystery of the burning car with a missing driver has developed into an apparent case of murder with the discovery of the body of a Lansing man who was the owner of the car.

Arthur Dining, 57, of 1418 Christofore Dr., Lansing, was found dead by Livingston county sheriff's officers near Cedar Lake Rd. in Putnam township.

Two young men—Stephen C. Nelson, 20, of Pinckney, and Betram L. Coverdill, 22, of Gregory—are in custody and have been arraigned on open murder charges.

Other suspects are being sought. Livingston sheriff's detective Mike Smith said. Smith declined to give any further information until the investigation is further along.

"I'll just say there are many things we don't know yet," Smith said. "It appears to be a case of murder, but we aren't sure of the motive or the exact cause of death."

What is known is that Dining's 1977 Oldsmobile sedan was found burning on a two-track trail on state land off Bowdish Rd. in Lyndon township on the morning of Aug. 2. Firemen from Unadilla township and Chelsea responded, but the car was too far gone to save.

Both firemen and Washtenaw sheriff's deputies searched the immediate area but could find no driver or anyone else to admit ownership of the vehicle.

A check of the car's registration showed that it was owned by Dining. Attempts to contact him at the Lansing address were unsuccessful.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Dining had reported to Livingston authorities that her husband was missing from their summer home at 1125 Sunset Dr., Gregory. He had left during the evening of Aug. 1 to buy groceries, she said, and told her he intended to stop and have a beer at a Gregory tavern. When he had not returned home by the next morning, Mrs. Dining called police.

The burned-up car and the missing-person reports were matched together over the police teletype network, and sheriff's (Continued on page four)

Grass Lake Man Killed In Accident

Ivan F. (Bud) Hadley, 34, of 2923 Burkhardt Rd., Grass Lake, was killed last Saturday when a front-end loader he was driving on Clear Lake Rd. rolled over and crushed him.

Police investigators said the piece of heavy equipment went off the road and into a ditch, and then rolled. It is speculated that the loader may have been forced to the side by an oncoming car.

Hadley was employed by Klink Excavating Co. and was at work at the time of the accident.

Livestock Sweepstakes Contest Slated

Chelsea Community Fair is adding another event to its list. New to the livestock department will be added a "Livestock Showmanship Sweepstakes."

Participants will be the first-place winners of the senior showmanship for the individual livestock species, which will include: beef, dairy, sheep, swine, goat, and horse.

Each participant will show his or her own animal and be judged on showmanship abilities, and will then rotate to the next, until (Continued on page four)

McDougall Appointed New Police Chief By Village Council

Lenard McDougall, a 15-year veteran of the Chelsea police department, was appointed police chief by unanimous vote of the board of trustees a week ago Tuesday night.

McDougall, 40, lives at 1200 Wilkinson St. He succeeds Robert Aello, who resigned July 10 following an investigation into accounting of traffic fine funds.

Aello was acquitted on an embezzlement charge which grew out of the probe.

McDougall was born May 17, 1944, in Willow Run, and attended Ypsilanti High school. He served four years in the U.S. Marine Corps in various areas of the Pacific and in Europe.

He joined the Washtenaw sheriff's department in 1966 as a uniformed deputy, and the following year won a "Policeman of the Month" award from the Detroit News for his work in helping to rescue a couple in danger of drowning in Ford Lake.

McDougall joined the Chelsea police department in 1969 as a patrolman and was promoted to sergeant in 1973.

He and his wife, Mary Helen, have two sons and a daughter.

McDougall was appointed acting police chief last March. He has been in command of the department, for all practical purposes, since January when Aello was given a paid leave of absence.

"I intend to be a working police chief and put in a regular eight-hour shift including patrol duty," McDougall said. "In a small department (six full-time officers including the chief, plus dispatchers and auxiliaries) like ours I think the chief has to take his regular turn on patrol."

McDougall has taken steps to keep a closer watch on parking fine receipts which come into the department.

"We're writing everything down, we're issuing receipts, and I'm confident we're accounting for all the money. The system seems to be working real well."

The new police chief received authorization from the village council to bring his department back to full strength by hiring a new patrolman who will, in effect, be McDougall's replacement.

The department has been a man short for several months.

PORTRAIT PROTECTION: The portrait of General Dwight E. Beach is now permanently placed in the entrance corridor of the Beach Middle school, protected by an oak and Plexiglas case especially built by James K. Daniels. Darcy Stielstra, new principal of the school (left) exhibits the painting and case to Mr. and Mrs. Max Heppburn, co-presidents of the Chelsea Historical Society.

Portrait of Gen. Dwight Beach Mounted in Protective Frame

With the opening of the fall term at the Dwight E. Beach Middle school, students will enjoy the presence of a portrait of the four star general after whom the school was named. The colorful painting of the general is prominently placed on the west wall of the main corridor. Its protective case, made of white oak with a window of Plexiglas, was custom built as a gift to the school by James K. Daniels.

Harold A. Jones, a director of the Chelsea Historical Society and a notable historian of the community, had regretted the absence of such a portrait ever since 1968 when the school was dedicated. At a meeting of the Historical Society early this year, Jones suggested that Chelsea's Sesquicentennial was indeed an appropriate occasion to correct the 16-year oversight. Members at the meeting agreed.

On behalf of the Historical Society, Jones visited General

Beach in hope that a suitable picture—even a black and white photograph—might be available. As a result of this meeting, the Beach family donated the painting of the general done by Korean artist Oh Sang Yong of Seoul while Beach was Commander-in-chief of the U.S. Army in the Pacific.

Formal presentation of the portrait was made at a student assembly May 15.

Chelsea Village Council effectively quashed plans for a proposed new village shopping center Tuesday by deciding unanimously that existing sewer lines could not handle the additional load.

Based on a report received from village engineers Finkbeiner, Pettis and Strout of Toledo, council concluded that the center, planned for 25 acres behind Schumm's restaurant, would place too great a load on the sewer line that runs down South Main St., Lincoln St. and Grant St.

The letter went on to say that after certain maintenance work was done on the Chelsea sewer lines to prevent run-off water from entering the lines, perhaps the minimum could be raised. The engineers are not sure, however, how much this repair work would permit additional usage.

14 Years Ago . . .

Thursday, Aug. 13, 1970—

It all started Friday night when Virginia Risner, 118 W. Middle St., on her way downtown cut through Heydlauff's parking lot outside the Frigid Products building. As she passed the repair shop window, she noticed a light "like a night light" in the window. Suddenly, it flared up and flames became noticeable, a window blew out from the heat and smoke started pouring out of the window and Mrs. Risner knew there was a fire going on in the Frigid Products building.

She ran into Seitz's Tavern and notified people in there of the fire. Russ Moore had just arrived at the tavern. At Mrs. Risner's request, he put in a call to the fire department. He then got a group of fellows from the tavern together and they went over to the back of Frigid Products, and began to move the large bottles of gas that were sitting on the back loading dock to keep them from blowing up from the heat. They also moved the Heydlauff trucks away from the building, down next to the Jiffy Mix grain storage tanks to protect them.

Echo I, the 10-story aluminum coated balloon launched into space Friday and now circling the earth every two hours at a height of 1,000 miles, was seen by a number of people in this area as it passed overhead from east to west a few minutes after 11 p.m. Monday.

Among those who saw the satellite at 11:05 p.m. were Cynthia Hepburn and her mother Mrs. Mary Hepburn.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Blanchard, while on their vacation, put Chelsea "on the air" Saturday night when they were in the studio audience for the television broadcast of "Jubilee, U.S.A." The program originated at Springfield, Mo., in the heart of the Ozarks and was broadcast over channel 7 at 10 p.m.

As is customary on the program, guests in the studio audience are invited to bring with them signs stating the name of their home town and are given an opportunity to display the signs when the television cameras show the audience.

Many Chelsea area people called The Standard office saying they had seen the program but did not recognize the Chelsea visitors who displayed the big "Chelsea, Michigan" sign.

WHAT IS A FUNERAL TRUST FUND?

It is an interest-bearing fund set aside at a bank or S & L for use specifically to pay for funeral and burial expenses for one or more members of your family. It is an investment, too, since it earns interest and acts as a hedge against continued inflation.

As the fund grows, with its interest accumulating, it may even provide MORE than the amount you have pre-arranged to pay for funeral expenses. This depends on factors such as the rate of interest paid, items and services to be covered, and how great was the inflationary effect during the duration of the funding.

Most states have laws governing the pre-financing of funerals and burial expenses. We are experienced in handling these matters, having conducted many such arrangements. We can advise and assist you in setting up a Funeral Trust Fund for you and your family. You might want to stop by and discuss this in further detail.

Consumers Ask $7 Billion For Failed Midland Project
Consumers Power Co. has asked the Public Service Commission to let it collect $7 billion over the next 15 years from its customers to recover the $3.5 billion it has sunk into the failed Midland nuclear power plant.

The request, which would raise customer rates by about 30 percent, asks the PSC to approve the request as soon as possible because of the utility's "precarious financial situation." It asks customers to pay $471.6 million for each of the next 15 years.

Attorney General Frank Kelley and Michigan Citizens Lobby Director Joseph Tuchinsky quickly denounced the request and said they would oppose the request before the PSC, and the courts if necessary.

Both were part of a coalition which offered to support a $2 billion recovery over 25 years if Consumers abandoned the Midland project.

The company said the rate request, filed as an amendment to a pending electric rate hike request, includes $3.2 billion in construction costs, $288 million in nuclear fuel costs and taxes and enough to pay interest on the money it borrowed to build the plant and for a rate of return of 6.5 percent for preferred stock shares.

It does not include $460 million which the company is seeking in a lawsuit from Dow Chemical Co. as a termination charge when Dow cancelled its contract to purchase generated steam.

And, utility spokesman Bob Wischmeyer said, the filing does not include costs associated with the shutdown of construction and maintenance and surveillance of the site.

Those costs are being calculated and a later filing will be made, he said.

Despite the characterization by officials that the utility's financial condition is precarious, its board of directors approved continued dividend payments for preferred stockholders and for the next quarter, approved a 10-cents-per-share dividend on common stock.

That is down from 35 cents paid in the last quarter and 63 cents paid before that.

Wischmeyer said he expects the proceedings before the PSC to take at least a year because of the opposition by Kelley and others and said reopening negotiations to reach a settlement on costs to pass on to ratepayers, "is out of our hands."

He said the utility would want all parties, including the large industrial customers, to participate in such negotiations.

Tuchinsky said he would be interested in negotiations only if the utility agreed to accept the $2 billion offer with minor modifications, and does not treat the rate filing as an opening figure.

He said the $7 billion the company is seeking to recover would not be seen as a good faith effort to reach agreement with the coalition.

Tuchinsky said he supported the $2 billion as a way to ensure the survivability of the utility, but if the company wants more, customers may be better off if it went bankrupt.

Kelley said, "Consumers Power is not entitled to any part of the money it voluntarily chose to invest in its effort to build an uneeded electric generating facility in Midland. Nor should its customers have to pay anything if Consumers Power decides to mothball and preserve the unfinished plant in the hopes it can someday revive this white elephant."

The utility previously ordered the 16-year-old project halted after negotiations between it and some members of the coalition on how much could be recovered from customers if at least one generating unit were completed. The latest cost estimate to complete that unit was $5.7 billion.

Fairgrounds. No motorized vehicles are allowed.

Immediately following the parade, children between the ages of 3 and 5 can compete to see who's the fastest tricyclist during the children's tricycle race. The first three winners in each age group will receive a ribbon and all children who participate will get a free ride ticket.

While the rest of the family is preparing for the Demolition Derby, children ages 4 to 10 can take part in the Kid's Days Events in the Main Arena, also following the parade. The events include a penny toss for ages 4 and 5, an egg toss for ages 6 and 7, an obstacle course for ages 8 through 10 and sack races for ages 5 through 10.

Ribbons will be awarded to all first, second and third place winners as well as free ride tickets.

The proportion of blacks experiencing some unemployment in 1983—29.1 percent—was down from 33.4 percent in 1982 and 30.5 percent in 1981, the Bureau of Labor Statistics reported.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

One story I allus liked about William Falkner was his reason for quitting a post office job. He said he didn't want to go through life at the beck and call of everybody that had three cent to buy a stamp. I have come to the place where I feel that way about having a telephone in the house.

Just recently, I saw where some feller had wrote Dear Abby to complain that his son that lived a mile away would take the phone of the hook for hours at a time. The feller said this kept him from checking on his boy and his family when he wanted to, and that he had give his son a good dressing down about his selfishness.

I was glad to see Dear Abby come down foursquare on the side of the son, and I stand solid for Dear Abby. Like she said, a telephone is for the use of the person that owns it or rents it, and it is not to put the owner or renter at the beck and call of ever so-and-so that can talk. I clipped out that Dear Abby answer and stuck it on the hall wall at the telephone so the old lady can see it. She is ferverer yelling at me from the kitchen to answer the thing, and I just as reglar keep on reading until it quits or she gits to it. The way I figger it, I ain't so much being ornery as I am exercising my rights.

I got to thinking about my telephone habits Saturday night at the country store when the talk swung around to the gadgits being hazardous to your health. Bug Hookum's report was a new one on me. He said he had saw separate warnings about cordless phones and car phones. The cordless ones folks use around homes and office have loud, sharp rings that can get you deaf, Bug said, and the ones you use when you're driving can get you dead. A doctor warned about the ringing he said is in the mid-frequency range that can hurt ears. A insurance company official pointed out that statics prove that folks who talk on the phone while driving are more apt to run into somepun or somebody.

Clem Webster did not view this situation with much alarm. Practical speaking, Clem said, he couldn't think of a thing you can't hurt yourself with if you try hard enough. Fer ever case of risk using a telephone, Clem declared, there must be 500 where the phone got help or alerted somebody to a danger. What if your neighbor was trying to tell you he saw smoke in the hay loft over the cowshed, Clem ask, and you wouldn't answer the ring.

Actual, broke in Zeke Grubb, you never can tell what the ring brings, and that's why we can't help answering. Fer sure, tho, we can outsmart ourselves with gadgits. Zeke said we thought we done somepun with child proof medicine bottles, and now we got old folks claiming the bottles is a hazard to old folks health cause they can't git the cap off the pills when they need em.

It might be, Zeke went on, that we need to back off in places, like we did with the phone where the talkers could see one another. It turned out they didn't want to. And I already have saw where science had give up on a cigaret that puts itself out, so smokers are just going to have to be more careful in bed.

Yours truly,
 Uncle Lew.

Thunderstorm Temporarily Eases Drouth

An evening thunderstorm a week ago today dropped three-quarters of an inch of rain on west Washtenaw county, giving some relief to the drouth which has persisted since the first of June.

Crop fields and lawns perked up temporarily then quickly died back as no more rain fell during the next six days. The moisture deficiency for the period beginning June 1 rose close to four inches.

Home-owners trying to keep their lawns and gardens green and growing are advised to run their hoses early and late in the day, and at night. Mid-day sprinkling is a waste of water, which evaporates about as fast as it comes out of the nozzle when the sun is bright and hot.

This reporter's back-yard bird-bath vaporizes water at the rate of about two inches per day. You can't replace it that fast with a sprinkler.

Water put down during the dark hours will soak into the ground before the sun can suck it up.

The persons who were jobless at some time in 1983 represented 19.6 percent of all persons who worked or looked for work during the year. This proportion was well below the 22.0 percent of 1982 and about the same as the 1981 rate of 19.5 percent, the Bureau of Labor Statistics of the U.S. Department of Labor reported.

IF YOU'RE LOOKING for that odd something-or-other, Bertie might have it at Bertie's Bargains. Bertie opened last October at the VFW Hall and is open one weekend each month. Disaster Simulation Held in Washtenaw County Aug. 9.

A tornado hit the High Point Center, Wagner Rd., on Aug. 9, injured about 70 people and killed 20 more. But fear not, it was all part of a disaster simulation to test the Prehospital Disaster Plan Standard Operating Procedure.

"We have an emergency exercise drill which serves several purposes. Hospitals have to do testing once a year to maintain accreditation. It's a test of our abilities in a medical-type emergency if we get into a red alert situation with multiple accidents," said Dave Prohaska, Consumer Representative on the Emergency Medical Services Commission.

"It helps us in making sure we're prepared to meet all needs in all aspects of the disaster system. It enables us to revise the system as needed," said Mary Lou Sweeton, Emergency Services nursing supervisor.

The drill went very well, said Sweeton, although it will be some weeks before the entire system will be properly evaluated and recommendations made.

Chelsea Community Hospital was among five Washtenaw county hospitals which participated in the drill. Each hospital was responsible for recruiting volunteer victims. Chelsea Hospital recruited about 12. There were about 90 volunteers in all.

Volunteers got injury description cards and were made up or "moulaged" to match the description. For instance, chicken bones were used to look like broken bones. Theatrical students made up the victims. The Red Cross also puts out a moulage kit.

On site, the "victims" were "triaged" or prioritized according to which injuries needed medical attention first. About 70 volunteers were taken to the hospitals, since 20 were "killed" and didn't need transporting. Volunteers did not necessarily return to the hospitals they were recruited from. The Chelsea Hospital treated 10 victims.

"Preparations were made but not where we're standing in the sidelines waiting for it to happen," said Prohaska. "We try to do things in as realistic a time as possible. We want things to happen as they normally happen."

To evaluate how the system works, the hospitals and Emergency Medical Services had observers critique the operation. The volunteers also gave input on how they felt they were treated. Prohaska was also an observer.

The High Point facility was chosen for the simulation because "you need space to work in—not downtown Main St. or an area where you have a group of people," said Prohaska.

In past years, a train wreck was simulated in Ann Arbor's Gallup Park and an accident in the University of Michigan Stadium.

Burg Family Gathers for 16th Annual Reunion

The descendants of the J. Louis family met on Aug. 5 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Doll to celebrate their 16th annual Burg reunion.

Present for this occasion were the only two living daughters of Mr. Burg, Margaret Burg Nitoski of Highland Park and Wilhelmina Burg Lonsway of Adrian.

Other guests numbering close to 90 came from all over Michigan, as well as Ohio, Illinois, Maryland, Florida, Texas and California.

A pot-luck buffet was enjoyed by all, as well as swimming, volleyball, Bocci ball and just plain visiting.

Highlighting the afternoon activities was the annual Bocci ball tournament. Adapting their own rules to the game, Tom Gulrey of Berkley and Ted Emerich of Florida emerged as champions.

Today, Labor Day, 1950, the factory whistles blow, an echo of the World War II years. The factory fires are kindled and men, once more go forth to make missiles of death.

Other songbirds may flee when people move in, but the American robin seems to thrive amid civilization, say wildlife experts. It has adapted so well to humanity's imposition on the land that there are more robins in North America today than during colonial times.

William Collinses Observe 50th Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. William J. Collins of Chandler St., were honored at an evening buffet reception on Aug. 11 at St. Mary's Parish Hall on the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary.

The event was hosted by their children, David Collins of Youngstown O., Mr. and Mrs. Robert Merkel, and Mr. and Mrs. James Collins of Chelsea.

Mr. and Mrs. Collins are both graduates of Northern Michigan University in Marquette. They were married Aug. 15, 1934, in Lake Linden and lived in Cooks, and Iron Mountain before moving to the lower peninsula where Mr. Collins was principal of Stockbridge High school from 1938 until 1942. The couple moved to Chelsea from Stockbridge in 1946 where Mr. Collins was employed by Chelsea Products and the Dana Corp. until retiring in 1969. He presently is employed part-time at Merkel Brothers. Mrs. Collins taught in Chelsea schools for several years as a substitute and taught fourth grade at St. Mary's school from 1960 till 1963. She later worked in the diet kitchen at Chelsea Hospital.

The couple is active in Chelsea Senior Citizens and are members of St. Mary's church where he is an usher. She enjoys sewing, traveling and creative writing. They have nine grandchildren.

Products on Parade

This series of stories by Paula Blanchard, Michigan's First Lady, spotlights the manifest products of Michigan's farms, forests and factories—the products proudly stamped "Made in Michigan." Some are familiar. Others are less-known. But all are important to Michigan's economy. This week's story: "The Bostons' Tea Party."

By Paula Blanchard

In my role as Michigan products reporter, I rang up the Michigan Department of Commerce office in Detroit and asked if anyone there was a sailor. "We've got a fellow who wears Topsiders summer and winter," the secretary said. "You must mean him."

Sure enough she had found me a sailor. "Say mate," I said, trying to sound properly salty (which can be a neat trick if you're from land-locked Pleasant Ridge.) "What's the name of the little company in Mt. Clemens that makes the great sails?"

"Well, there are a couple," he said. "But if you want the little company that makes great sails that are used for racing and cruising by sailors all over the world, that would be Boston."

As I learned later, Mr. Topsiders was right (starboard?).

Sails and sailing—it's all in the family for the Bostons of Mt. Clemens. The family has been making state-of-the-art sails for boats since the 1930's, doing business as Boston Sails, Inc. The main loft is in Mt. Clemens. There are others in Holland, Sarnia, Ontario, and Newburn, N. C.

Howard Boston, patriarch of the clan and founder of the company, was a racing sailor—a regular Barnacle Oldfield. He liked to go fast on the water, even when it was frozen. He began making his own sails because they made his boats go faster than any sails he could buy.

His sons, Charles (Skip) and William (Spike), proved to be chips off the old block and buckle. They raced sailboats and iceboats and mastered the sailmaker's lofts.

Howard's wife, Lolly, has always been part of the company, ashore and afloat. She calls her sailboat, all 39 feet of it, Boston "Tea Party." Her car, a Mercury sedan, also is easy to spot. The license plate reads "T Party."

Last year a "J-20" sailboat powered by Boston sails won the world's speed championship in Sweden. Nice going Skip, Spike, Lolly, Sue, Nancy, Julie, Kay and the other artisans who design and make Boston sails.

Keep making it in Michigan!

Approval Given for Fence Variance

Randall Seitz has been granted a zoning variance so he may construct a fence on property he owns at the corner of Lincoln and Taylor Sts.

The ordinance calls for a 20-foot setback from the street. Seitz was given permission to move it four feet closer, to 16 feet, in order to keep the fence off his neighbor's property.

A VIEW from the CLOCK TOWER

Bill Mullendorfe

The two key vacancies in village government have been filled, and I think it's time we all settled back and let "business as usual" resume its course.

The appointments of Mac Fulk to the village council and Len McDougall as police chief both strike me as being good ones. Both men have the experience and the know-how to serve well in their posts.

I met Fulk for the first time on the morning after he was appointed as a village trustee, and was impressed. What I liked most about him was that he was frank to admit he doesn't have any instant answers, and has some catching up to do.

Fulk's experience in village government includes several years as a trustee and as village president, but it ended back during the early 1970's. He told me he hasn't kept close track of local government affairs during the past decade and needs to do some homework before he speaks out.

That kind of candor is refreshing, because you don't often hear it from a holder of or candidate for political office. I think Fulk will make a good trustee, and am looking forward to talking to him again after he has done his homework.

The facts that Fulk is retired, has the time to do the job right, is well known in town and can represent the interests of older citizens because he is one are all pluses in his favor. It is a good appointment.

I still think the village should have gone through the process of advertising the opening for a new police chief, taking applications and interviewing candidates, but that is water under the bridge.

I suspect the result would have been the same, and that McDougall would have won the job. He impresses me as a good professional policeman, and his record is spotless. He and I have had some differences over the police department's news information release policy during his months as acting chief, but we have been able to sit down and talk them out.

There is always going to be a certain amount of friction between police officials and news reporters. Now that McDougall has been confirmed as chief—and serving in an "acting" capacity in an administrative or supervisory job is uncomfortable at best—I believe he will do well.

McDougall has taken strong steps to clean up the police department's sloppy system of accounting for traffic fines, and they appear to be working. Earlier, I had suggested in this column that the responsibility should be transferred out of the department, and I hereby withdraw that. If the job can be done right by the police—and it appears that it can—let it stay there. The village employees who would otherwise have to take on the task already have enough to do.

The uncertain situation in the police department has existed for far too long—almost exactly seven months—and it's good to see it finally settled. Now people know who they are working for and what the chain of command is, and can go about their duties without having to wonder what's going to happen next.

Those two key appointments fill a couple of big holes in the village government organization chart. It will take awhile for the dust to settle, but at least there is a good prospect that it will, and fairly soon.

Along that line of thought, I support the sentiments of former village president Jack Merkel who called the idea of a recall initiative and referendum aimed at certain officials now in office "outrageous." I agree that those who are thinking about the idea should think again and forget it. Perhaps the best news is that there hasn't been any.

Let's give the people elected and appointed to office a chance to show what they can do, now that they are dealing from a full deck.

PURCHASE RESTAURANT: Joanne Randall and Brian Palmer have purchased the Sir Pizza restaurant in Chelsea from Mr. and Mrs. Robert Murphy, and took over its operation last Saturday. The new owners formerly worked at the Briarwood Hilton Inn in Ann Arbor.

Sir Pizza Restaurant Sold, New Owners Plan Changes

The Sir Pizza restaurant at 500 N. Main St. has been purchased by Brian Palmer and Joanne Randall, who took over the operation last Saturday.

Former owner Robert Murphy will go to work as a salesman for the Jim Bradley Pontiac-Cadillac-GMC dealership at 3500 Jackson Rd. His wife, Juanita, who has assisted in running the restaurant, said she plans "to retire and be just a housewife and mother for awhile."

The Murphys, who live on Stoffer Rd., are looking for a home in the village of Chelsea, Bob Murphy said. "We don't want to leave the community, and want to become more a part of it," he added.

The Murphys have owned and operated Sir Pizza for the past 3½ years.

Palmer has been executive chef at the Hilton Hotel in Ann Arbor's Briarwood Mall. Ms. Randall has been his chief assistant. She presently lives in Stockbridge and he in Ann Arbor.

"We will make some changes at Sir Pizza," Palmer said. "I'm a 'cook from scratch' chef, and I want to try some things that will be new to Chelsea. Besides the regular Sir Pizza menu, we'll offer Italian cuisine, and some nightly Mexican and Greek food specials. I think there is an opportunity here for ethnic foods."

Palmer added that he plans to open the restaurant for breakfast service, beginning at 6 a.m., on about Sept. 1.

"I'm excited about the possibilities. We are going to offer some different items and find out what local people want in the way of dining-out food," Palmer said. "We'll continue the tradition of good service and moderate prices, add some variety to the menu, and see what happens."

Marijuana Production High in Michigan

Nearly all the highest quality marijuana in the world is cultivated domestically here in the United States. Michigan has become an increasingly popular state for growing and harvesting marijuana. With high grade marijuana selling for as much as $100 per pound, the profits from this illegal activity can range into millions of dollars.

Other states have recognized this problem and are putting pressure on the violators by locating the marijuana plots, making arrests, and vigorously prosecuting those who have been apprehended.

Ag. Secretary To Speak On Farm Bill in Lansing

John R. Block, Secretary of Agriculture, United States Department of Agriculture, will be speaking on the 1985 Farm Bill at a Michigan Agriculture/Business Council breakfast on Aug. 30, in Lansing.

The Council anticipates that more than 1,000 farmers and agri-businessmen from across the state will attend to hear Secretary Block address this key topic. A press conference with the Secretary will follow.

The 1985 Farm Bill will be a top priority item in Congress next year. This legislation will be of major interest to all farmers and agri-businessmen since it will establish the government's farm policy and, therefore, the direction U.S. Agriculture will take over the next several years.

Secretary Block summarized its importance when he stated, "We now have an opportunity to make some changes that could affect the industry not for just the next four years, but for many years to come. We must write a farm bill that will recognize agriculture as the global industry that it is one that will recognize the importance of exports to our economic vitality; and one that will be designed to keep U.S. Agriculture competitive in international trade."

The Michigan Agriculture/Business Council is a newly formed organization of agri-businessmen and farmers, founded to present a unified voice for all of Michigan agriculture to both the public and the legislators. Robert E. Rushton, Council President, states, "The Michigan Agriculture/Business Council is an opportunity for every individual, organization, and business to take an equal part in speaking up for an industry which has a $15 billion share in Michigan's economy." Rushton added, "Not many folks realize the importance of our total industry to Michigan—but we plan to change that!"

Tickets for the breakfast are $12 and may be reserved by contacting D.N. Lynn, Grower Service Corp., 16713 Industrial Parkway, Lansing 48906 (Phone: 517-323-2125).

Lawrence Gorton Will Chair St. Jude Local Bike-A-Thon

The Central Regional Office of St. Jude Children's Research Hospital announced today that Lawrence Gorton has agreed to chair the St. Jude Children's Research Hospital Bike-a-Thon in Chelsea.

St. Jude Children's Research Hospital was founded by entertainer Danny Thomas. The institution opened its doors to the public in 1962 to combat catastrophic diseases which afflict our children. St. Jude Hospital is non-sectarian, non-discriminatory, and provides total medical care to over 4,200 patients.

At St. Jude, scientists and physicians are working side by side seeking not only a better means to treatment, but also the causes, cures and prevention of these terrible killers.

All findings and information gained at the hospital are shared freely with doctors and hospitals all over the world. Thanks to St. Jude's, children who have leukemia, Hodgkin's disease, sickle cell anemia, and other child killing diseases now have a better chance to live.

The Bike-a-Thon program is dedicated to "Jaime." Jaime is from Ohio and was diagnosed with leukemia in May of 1983, and began treatment at St. Jude Children's Research Hospital. Today, her cancer is in remission and she is doing quite well. Jaime is a living example of the progress and success of the research, patient care, and educational programs of this internationally recognized hospital.

Gorton hopes the citizens of Chelsea will support the Bike-a-Thon this fall to help provide the funds that are needed to preserve the world's greatest asset . . . "Our Children."

Annual Pig Roast Held Sunday By Rod & Gun Club

The annual pig roast of the Chelsea Rod and Gun Club, held Sunday for the sixth time, was a four-hour affair starting at 1 p.m. The slow roasting of the pigs began 13 hours earlier.

A team of 10 men started the charcoal fires in three outdoor ovens at the south end of the clubhouse at 12:30 a.m. At that time they began roasting two large pigs. The third oven was fired up for a lamb which began turning on its spit shortly after dawn.

The cooking crew, headed by Reuben Lesser, Jr., slept in the clubhouse during the night, with individuals arousing at intervals to baste the meat and replenish the coals.

During the daylight hours of the morning, potatoes, salads, desserts and other dishes were readied for serving about 250 guests.

According to president and chief conservation officer Fred Klink, proceeds from the affair will be used by the Chelsea Rod and Gun Club in its expanding programs of tree raising, hunter safety education and community conservation information.

LAUNCH NEW BUSINESS: Greg Gerber and Larry Breza have opened a new business, Kinetico Water Conditioning, in the S. Main St. building which houses Chelsea Lanes and the Mark IV Lounge.

Water Conditioning Firm Opens Business Here

A new business, Kinetico Water Conditioning, has opened in Chelsea at 1178 S. Main St. in the building occupied principally by Chelsea Lanes and Mark IV Lounge.

Owner-operators are Larry Breza and Greg Gerber.

The firm "will handle anything having to do with water," Breza said, including water softeners, hot water heaters, swimming pool chemicals, saunas, jacuzzis and spas, pump and well repair, and around-the-clock plumbing service.

"I think there is a real need out here for the kinds of service and equipment we will offer," Breza added. "Chelsea's water is very 'bad' in the sense that it tests at about 27 grains of hardness and contains considerable iron besides. It has to be treated in the home to be fit for use."

Gerber formerly owned a health food store in East Lansing before joining the Kinetico firm.

Breza is a former employee of Lloyd Bridges Travel Sales and Rockwell International in Chelsea. He has most recently been working for Kinetico in Livingston county.

Kinetico markets a non-electric water softening system which is not controlled by a timing device. It regenerates upon "demand" as determined by the amount of water flowing through the system. It uses less than half as much salt as other softeners, Breza claims.

Police Start Marijuana Hot Line

If you spot, or hear about, a stand of marijuana growing in the area, there is a Toll Free number you may use to report the fact, without getting a lot of personal involvement for yourself. HEMP, a program designed and planned to Help Eliminate Marijuana Planting, thereby destroying the plant at its source, is currently underway.

In the Dexter and Chelsea area, the HEMP hot-line to call is 1-800-235-HEMP to report any growing marijuana.

Marijuana is an annual plant, sown from seed. It is green to brown in color, and grows to a height of two to 20 feet, at maturity.

According to HEMP officials, research indicates that marijuana is more than a harmless drug, since acute intoxication with marijuana interferes with many aspects of mental health functions.

The drug, apparently, can have serious side effects on perception, and skilled performance. Young people in their formative years are particularly vulnerable to marijuana's behavioral and psychological effects.

Michigan has become an increasingly popular state in which to grow and harvest some of the highest quality marijuana, according to officials of the HEMP program. With high grade marijuana selling for as much as $1,000 per pound, the profits from the illegally sold plant can range into millions of dollars.

Michigan State Police personnel, along with officials from both the Washtenaw and Livingston County Sheriff's Departments, urge citizen assistance in helping to locate Michigan grown marijuana.

The law enforcement community wants to increase the risk of raising illegal crops of marijuana, but they need help from the citizenry to do so.

Board secretary Dils indicated that he was pleased with the attendance policy in effect at the high school.

Trustee Grau inquired about possible problems relative to students with Community Fair commitments. Superintendent Van Meer indicated that the staff had been briefed last spring, and will be briefed extensively on opening day, to the effect that students who have Fair commitments will be excused from school if parents provide a written excuse indicating their participation in the Fair. There will be no penalties assessed to students missing school because of Fair commitments.

Beach school principal Stielstra reported that he was pleased that his staff had given of their time to meet with him prior to the opening of school.

DONNA DOTSON (center) demonstrates the puppets that will be used in the BABES program. The program will help teach information about alcohol and drug abuse as well as healthy living

Kresge House To Present Child Drug Abuse Program

Children in the community will have the opportunity to learn about health attitudes through BABES, Beginning Alcohol and Addictions Basic Education Studies. The six session series will run every Thursday from Sept. 6 to Oct. 11 at the Kresge House at 7 p.m.

The program will teach healthy living attitudes, and information on alcohol and drug abuse, to children ages 4 to 9 through puppet shows and stories.

"The reason this was developed was most research indicates most children develop their health attitudes from ages 4 to 6 and so it makes sense to design a program that appeals to kids from 4 to 6 because in junior high they've already formed their attitudes about health. It makes sense to target children at a younger age so they can make wiser choices," said Donna Dotson, Kresge House manager.

"I went out to North and South school and presented a section on drugs and alcohol and it was amazing how knowledgeable kids were about drugs in the home. So they're not ignorant and unaware at all," said Dotson.

The program has seven puppets which represent different characters and societal attitudes. Buttons and Bows McKitty are brother and sister kittens. They portray the emotions that real children experience.

"Buttons' and Bows' parents may be alcoholics or other drug dependent persons. Because of this, Buttons and Bows also reflect the same feelings that children of drug dependent parents have voiced," says BABES literature.

Myth Mary is a squirrel puppet who repeats everything she hears no matter how misguided, such as "alcoholics are bad people" and other myths. Early Bird sounds the warning for self-defeating behavior and wrong decisions.

Recovering Reggie is a dog who is a recovering cross-addicted alcoholic. "Through him the children learn about such things as peer pressure—he started drinking and using other drugs because everyone else was—and that asking for help of any kind is 'smart and brave,' and it is not always wise to try to do it all yourself."

Donovan Dignity is the wise owl who corrects Myth Mary's misinformation but never causes her to lose her dignity or puts her down.

"One of the beauties of the program is it gives a lot of information and is not judgmental. Even Myth Mary is not portrayed as a negative character just misinformed," said Dotson.

Rhonda Rabbit, the last puppet, is used for an optional seventh session. She is the child of two cross-addicted alcoholic parents and suffers from child abuse and incest. The other children help Rhonda learn how to look for help.

The first session deals with self esteem and feelings. Children sing songs such as "I Am Special" and "Retreat Is Not Defeat and Failure Is Not Final."

"We'll talk about Recovering Reggie and how he thought he was a bad dog because he got angry. We talk about how we can change feelings," said Dotson.

The second session discusses asking for help. "Kids are taught that making mistakes is part of learning and it's OK to ask for help. One problem is that Recovering Reggie didn't know that it was OK to ask for help," said Dotson.

Decision making and peer pressure is the subject of the third session. Buttons and Bows return home to find their mother has made cupcakes but left a note that she didn't want them to eat any until after dinner. Myth Mary pressures Buttons and Bows into eating the cupcakes, by saying their mother probably doesn't even know how many cupcakes she baked.

When Buttons' and Bows' mother returns, she is angry to find they've eaten the cupcakes and sends them to bed without dinner. The kitten puppets blame Myth Mary but Donovan Dignity tells them that they chose to eat the cupcakes and puts the responsibility on them.

Session four is titled "Let's Play Party" and provides information about drugs and alcohol. It tries to teach children how to cope with alcoholic parents who may blame the child for their addiction.

Session five is on coping skills or "figuring out what you have the power to change so you don't feel guilty over what you can't change and what happens when people don't keep promises," said Dotson.

The last session reviews everything learned in the first five and the children receive diplomas and dignity pins.

The need for the BABES program developed because six percent of a large group of children in one study showed signs of alcoholism by ages 7 to 11, and families list substance abuse as one of the top two problems facing them, says BABES literature.

"We call this a drug and alcohol program and maybe people think we're going to get into scare tactics but we're starting with healthy attitudes. We're dealing with where it begins and that's prevention," said Dotson.

Dotson attended a summer institute at Mercy College to learn how to present the program. Betsy Beckerman of Chelsea Community Hospital will also present the series.

Maxine Willis taught the program at Mercy College. Willis works for the National Council of Alcoholism. She listened to children tell stories to develop the program.

The Retired Seniors Volunteer Program is providing the BABES series at Kresge House.

"The reason we have this is the Michigan Legislature authorized money to train seniors. The Lions Club provided 10 free kits so we can present the program free of charge for years," said Dotson.

The BABES program was also used by Headstart outside Washtenaw county to help children of low-income families.

BABES is in the process of developing older versions of its puppet characters in order to perform situations which are relevant to junior high and high school students.

Bats are legally protected in all European countries as well as in Russia. In fact, thousands of bat "houses" have been placed in national forests throughout Europe, especially in England.

Q. I think I made a bad investment and am wondering what you think. In November, 1983, with the advice of my long-time broker, I bought 350 shares of preferred stock in Public Service of New Hampshire. Cost of $25 a share, a total of $8,837. The broker says he had no knowledge of what was happening, as it happened so fast. I am really sick about this but, others who have also invested say stick with it, the stock will get back to where it was and more.

The company is not paying dividends now until late 1986. By that time I will be about $3,500 behind in dividends. Some say preferred stock has to be made up, others say no. Do you know or have any information on this?

I have no choice but to hang in there as it is at a low price now. Do I have anything to hope for or have I lost?

A. Public Service Co. of New Hampshire is one of the electric utilities that has gotten into trouble trying to get a nuclear generating plant into operation.

I can only guess at what might happen to your investment. You, of course, have two alternatives, one is to continue to hold the stock, the other is to sell it and put your money in another investment.

While the company now is in default a lot of work is being done to solve its problems and get it back in a sound position. The company is operating profitably but faces a demand for more cash than it has. Two problems have to be worked out. One is the cash problem of the company itself. The other is how to find the money to complete the Seabrook Plant and get it into successful operation.

You are in a better position as a "Preferred" stockholder than is the "Common" stockholder.

Your dividend is cumulative which means if the company is restored to health you will be paid the back checks before the common holder is paid anything. It seems a time period of years will be required to work out this situation.

If you sell the stock now, you will have a much reduced amount to invest. To recoup your funds you would have to invest in a company that will appreciate enough to recover your loss. Finding a company that would do that well is something no one could promise you.

My guess is you might stay with your investment. A recovery is not sure and will not take place overnight, but you might do as well staying with your present investment as trying to recoup someplace else.

The median duration of unemployment also dropped during the month—from 8.7 to 7.2 weeks—while the mean duration was little changed at 18.6 weeks, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics of the U.S. Labor Department.

New Police Chief Has An Exciting First Day

Jake was done in, and so was I." Garrett had run north and entered a home on South Lake Rd., occupied by Jeff Mason. There, he made several telephone calls to friends, seeking help to make good his escape. After the unarmed Garrett left, Mason called police.

That gave the searchers a fresh scent. Sheriff's deputy Robert Marsh and his tracking dog, Baron, made the arrest a short time later while helicopters from the Washtenaw sheriff's and Detroit police departments buzzed overhead.

"I'll say one thing for him (Garrett)," McDougall said. "He was determined to get away. He didn't really have a chance. We had all the roads covered, and there was no place he could go once we began closing in and tightening the net."

The driver of the Ford van which was forced off the road—William G. Soutar, 54, of Brighton—was uninjured despite having his vehicle badly damaged in the roll-over.

"That's the best news about the whole incident," McDougall said. "Nobody got hurt or killed, and it could easily have happened."

"The funny thing is, if Garrett had turned right instead of left onto Main St., I wouldn't have noticed him. I was looking north. If he'd gone south on Main, he probably could have made it onto I-94 and into Detroit before we got the stolen car report. I think maybe he was lost."

The car was not reported stolen until after noon, when Mrs. Cox's husband returned to the Crooked Lake access site from a fishing trip and found it missing. The car had been locked, and there were no keys inside.

"Garrett is a convicted car thief, and that tells you something," Mc Dougall said. "Those older cars, especially, are pretty easy to get into and start if you know how, and Garrett did."

As for his own role in the incident, McDougall said it was all in a day's work, even the first day's work of a new police chief.

"I don't like high-speed chases," he commented. "No policeman does. There are risks involved in police work and that's one of them."

One final note from McDougall:

"Don't believe what you read in the Ann Arbor News about my taking the next day off. I was in the office at noon, right when I was scheduled to be."

WHERE CAR CHASE ENDED: The stolen car driven by Ronald Garrett spun out and crashed into a guard rail on M-52 near Roepke Rd. after being pursued by Chelsea police chief Lenard

McDougall at speeds approaching 100 miles per hour. Garrett got out of the car and ran, and was captured five hours later.

Judge Fink Scores Highest in Bar Poll

The Chelsea Standard

Section 2

Chelsea, Michigan, Wednesday, August 1, 1984

Pages 9-16

Judge Karl V. Fink scored the highest in three categories in a Washtenaw County Bar Association poll. The association has conducted a poll of its membership on the candidates for contested judicial elections since 1974.

A total of 115 ballots were returned to the association from 440 mailed. Bar members were asked to rate 15 judicial candidates on a scale of one to 10 in three categories: judicial temperament, knowledge of the law, and preparation and efficiency.

In the first category, judicial temperament, Judge Fink averaged a score of 8.8. The second highest score was 7.7 given to Washtenaw County Circuit Court Judge Edward Deake.

Judge Fink rated an average score of 8.3 in the category on knowledge of law. The second highest score was 7.6 given to probate judge candidate Judith James Wood.

Judge Fink again scored well above the other candidates on the category involving preparation and efficiency. He averaged a score of 8.5. The second highest score was 7.6 given to 14th District candidate John B. Collins.

Judge Fink is a Washtenaw county native who graduated from Ypsilanti High school. He attended the University of Michigan business school, and served in the army, before attending the U-M law school. He was admitted to the bar in 1966.

Judge Fink practiced law with his father in Ypsilanti before entering the prosecuting attorney's office. He spent five years with the prosecutor's office and became senior assistant. He left the prosecutor's office in 1972.

Between 1972 and his election to the 14th District court in 1978, Judge Fink had a private law practice. The judge took the bench in January 1979.

According to Judge Fink, the role of the court is primarily to settle disputes. However, people have different expectations of what that role should be.

"When society has a problem it cannot solve any other way, it says go to court. When they say courts should do something, then everything else has failed. An example, now there is a great deal of justifiable concern about drunk driving. We agree courts are part of a way to deal with the problem, but we only get them after they have the problem. It's not a way to solve it. It's a response to something that's already there," said Judge Fink.

"Another example is there's a lot of criticism of the disparity of sentencing. There are several reasons. The legislature provided for great variation in sentencing. Very few laws have a specified sentence because it's believed that circumstances should affect how a sentence is imposed. The public is not happy and we're now seeing an effort to narrow the gap and require uniformity or something close to uniformity," said Judge Fink.

In sentencing, the court performs four main functions. The first is punishment. The second is to incapacitate the offender from committing the crime. The third function is to deter crime and the fourth is rehabilitation.

"If you attempt to do one thing, you may not do the others. The sentence that rehabilitates may not be the greatest deterrent to keep others from committing the same offense," said Judge Fink.

"The most common sentence is punishment and deterrence. Probably the main reason for attaching criminal penalties is to tell people 'don't do this.' Take speeding for instance, one doesn't want people to speed for safety reasons. We want them to know there will be a punishment so they won't do it," said Judge Fink.

In regards to drunk driving, the sentence is designed to punish, rehabilitate and also deter others from committing the crime.

In general, the judicial system works fairly well, says Judge Fink. Anyone accused of a crime has a right to a speedy trial and in general, the district courts operate the way they should.

"The biggest problem in the judicial system is the lack of resources to do the work. In our district, the judges are each responsible for their own case loads and we keep as current as we can even though it's significantly higher than average," he said.

The average caseload is 11,000 cases per judge.

Chelsea cases do not tend to involve as much serious crime as other locations, says Judge Fink. However, Chelsea has more cases regarding horses and violations of the conservation laws.

Judge Fink has resided in Webster township for 10 years. Four of his children attend the Dexter schools and a fifth will enter the University of Michigan as a freshman in the fall.

Operation HEMP Seeks Citizen Co-operation

Michigan State Police report that 88 citizen calls to a newly established OPERATION HEMP hotline have resulted in the removal of more than 10,000 cultivated marijuana plants in the state.

OPERATION HEMP—Help Eliminate Marijuana Plantings—was announced at a Detroit press conference, July 24, by Michigan State Police Director Col. Gerald L. Hough and an official of the U. S. Drug Enforcement Administration. The statewide campaign against marijuana planting in Michigan is federally funded and is being coordinated by the Michigan State Police. It is designed to encourage state and local eradication of domestically cultivated marijuana through the cooperative efforts of law enforcement agencies and the public.

Among the non-governmental agencies providing support for the program is the 82,000 member Michigan Farm Bureau. The

A toll free hotline (1-800-235-HEMP) has been established and Michigan State Police personnel will be on duty daily from 8 a.m. to midnight. All information will be kept confidential.

Changes Forthcoming in Chelsea District Court

Eleven Chelsea and Manchester attorneys have banded together to do something about restoring and improving the Chelsea 14th District Court. The attorneys have incorporated as the Historic 14th District Court Restoration Commission.

The Articles of Incorporation went into effect July 16. The organization's purpose, they say, is "to promote the improvement and restoration of the 14th

District Court Building . . . to raise funds by public solicitation for such purpose, retain architects, workmen, take title to real estate and personal property, and to do such other and further things as shall be necessary to accomplish the purposes of the corporation.

Attorneys from Chelsea are John Keusch, David McLaughlin, William Rademacher, Randy Masbach, Peter Flintoft, Harold

Jones, and Robert Ponte. Manchester attorneys are James Hendley, James Datsko, Mark Gisting and Susan Gisting.

Although a final decision on what should be done about the Chelsea court has not been made, several changes are forthcoming, according to Judge Karl Fink.

"We're in the process of getting the court hooked into the county computers. What we plan to do is to have access from every court location for every file in the court," said Judge Fink.

The computers will enable persons to pay tickets in any 14th district court without having to go where the ticket was issued. The computers would also ease storage problems and free up space to be used for other activities.

"We also anticipate people would be able to file cases at one location knowing the case would be heard someplace else," said Fink.

The courts also intend to centralize the processing of traffic tickets. A magistrate will take over responsibility for the tickets so judges may attend to other matters.

Some changes Judge Fink would like to see include improvements in services.

For instance, the Chelsea court does not have room to sequester a jury and therefore jury trials must be held 25 miles away. Police officers are then tied up in court in another city when they could remain on-call during trials and still perform police work in Chelsea. This is one problem the new commission would address.

A public address system to page persons for the court is another item Judge Fink would like to add. The Court also needs lobby space to hold people and more conference rooms.

"You're either waiting in the courtroom or on the street. We only have one conference room and that's not sufficient for attorneys to meet with clients," said Judge Fink.

There has been some concern that the Washtenaw County Board of Commissioners might try to close the Chelsea branch. The board provides funding for the courts although the courts are a separate branch of government and do not work for the board.

"I am told that the Board of Commissioners does not plan to close this court. The only ques-

Chelsea High Grid Season Outlook Has Many Ifs and Hopes

The prospects for any athletic team going into its season are always "lffy," and the outlook for this fall's Chelsea High school football team is more so than most.

Coach Gene LaFave had about as many questions as the reporter who interviewed him last week about the Bulldogs' grid prospects.

"All I can tell you for sure is that we'll have 35-40 kids coming out, and about 30-32 will stick through the practice program," LaFave said. "We have a solid group of athletes who are capable of coming together and playing very well."

"What we don't have at this point are any stand-outs, boys who are sure to be all-stars. We don't have any Dave Kiels, Jay Marshalls or Chris Gallases. We have a lot of boys who are about equal, and they will sort themselves out during practice and the early games. I can't identify more than half a dozen boys who are assured of being starters, and maybe only three who will play both ways on offense and defense."

"We'll have moderately good depth, maybe more than we had last year when we were badly hurt by injuries and couldn't fill the gaps. You don't like to think about injuries, but you know they are going to be a problem to some extent. We had more than our share last year. Maybe things will even up for us this fall. I sure hope so."

Chelsea's schedule is demanding, to say the least, especially the early part of it. The Bulldogs open away from home on Sept. 7 against always-tough Novi, and then play consecutive home games against Saline and Milan.

Saline went to the state finals last year, and Milan is invariably strong.

"We'll know after those first three games how good we are," LaFave said. "If we come out of them in good shape, we'll be a good football team. Don't write us off. I think we may surprise some people."

Among the few "set" positions prior to the start of practice is quarterback, where junior Dan Bellus will get the starting assignment. Bellus has about five quarters of varsity experience, gained late last season when Marty Steinhauer was injured.

"Dan has the skills to be a fine quarterback," LaFave said. "He passes well, can run the option and is quick enough to scramble if he has to. He will have some good receivers to throw to. We'll be putting the ball in the air a lot, probably more than in recent years."

Top candidates to catch Bellus' passes include Mark Mull, Todd Starkey and Dave Steinhauer, all of whom saw action last fall. Starkey is a sophomore with little experience. Mull and Steinhauer are veterans.

"What we have to do, and it's probably our biggest challenge, is build an offensive line to give Bellus the time and opportunity to stand back there and throw," LaFave said. "We're starting just about from scratch, and how well we do during the season will depend a lot on what kind of an offensive line we put together."

LaFave is also looking for a work-horse running back who can carry the ball 20-25 times a game and pick up the hard yards.

He has dependable Scott Miller returning at right half, but doesn't want to shift him to the left side, which is the key spot in the Bulldog running game.

"Scott is a good runner and an excellent blocker, and he's a natural at right half," LaFave said. "I don't want to move him."

At least half a dozen candidates are being considered for the left-half position, including transfer student Matt Harshberger from Taylor. "I guess you would have to say it's wide open at this point," LaFave said.

Rob Beckwith was expected to fill the position, but has moved to California. "Rob would have been very good," LaFave said, "but he's gone, and that's all you can say. He had the potential to be a fine football player for us, and I'm sorry we lost him."

LaFave expects to put together a solid defensive unit and is looking for it to keep his team in contention, especially during the early games while the inexperienced offense develops.

"I suspect we'll have to play a lot of tough defense, and we have some good candidates. I'm looking for a strong safety, a middle linebacker and an outside linebacker, and I think I'll find them. We've got some good kids coming along."

FOOTBALL PRACTICE BEGINS: Mercifully, it was cool and cloudy on the Chelsea High football practice field Monday as drills opened, because the coaches lost no time getting the 35 candidates to work in pads and helmets. At top, assistant coach Wayne Welton instructs the backs. Below, head coach Gene LaFave gives some pointers to the linemen.

DNR Issues Muck, Peat Fire Warning

Hot, dry weather has created a muck and peat fire hazard in lowland areas, the Department of Natural Resources warns.

Swamps where there is normally water are drying up. The drought index is over 400, with 200 considered the danger point.

While a fire emergency has not yet been declared, users of both public and private lands are cautioned to be extremely careful with smoking materials and other possible sources of wild fires which could easily get out of control under the conditions.

7 Area Students Attend Blue Lake Fine Arts Camp

Seven area students participated in Blue Lake Fine Arts Camp's third summer session from July 24 to Aug. 5.

Orchestra majors from Chelsea were Jennifer Shaff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Shaff; and Kathryn Jorgenson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Jorgenson. Alison Chasteen from Chelsea majored in band. She is the daughter of Marilyn Chasteen.

The son of Chelsea's Mr. and Mrs. D. Nagel, Robert M. Gimney, was a choir major. Two Gregory students majored in jazz: Thomas C. Bennett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Bennett; and Scott A. Baker, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Baker. Jeffrey Mason, son of Chelsea's Jerry Mason, also majored in jazz.

The students were treated to a 12-hour jazz festival featuring the Bill Barrett Trio, Toshiko Akiyoshi/Lew Tabakin, and Patty Richards as part of the camp's Highlights series concerts.

The camp is located 15 miles north of Muskegon in the Manistee National Forest and hosts 8,000 students each year.

New Bleachers To Be Erected At Niehaus Field

New bleachers will be installed on the east (visitors) side of Chelsea High school's Niehaus Field before the start of this fall's home football season.

Athletic director Ron Nemeth said the bleachers are being bought from Standard Steel Co. of Three Rivers at a cost of $9,300. They will accommodate 400 persons in 10 elevated rows of 40 seats each. The "boards" will be aluminum, something new for Chelsea.

The old bleachers were removed following the 1982 season, after they were condemned as dangerous. Last year the softball bleachers from Dana Field in Veterans Park were borrowed as a stop-gap.

Erection of the new bleachers will represent one more step in reconstruction of the school district's athletic facilities. The gridiron and surrounding track at Niehaus Field are completed, and will be among the best in the state.

Managers Sought For Football Team

Student football managers are needed at Chelsea High school this fall. Interested students should contact coaches Gene LaFave or Wayne Welton at the school or at home.

In ancient Greece, women counted their age from the date on which they were married, not the day they were born.

SOFTENING IT UP: Summer football practice in preparation for the fall season is bruising at best, but the Chelsea High school coaching staff was trying to make things a little easier by soaking the practice field prior to Monday's opening of drills. "It was just like concrete out there," one coach said as he supervised the sprinkling. The ground had been baked hard by recent hot, dry weather.

SPORTS NOTES

BY BILL MULLENDORE

Watching the Olympic games on television is a humbling experience if you think you know something about sports. You learn in a hurry that you don't know nearly as much as you should to understand what is happening.

Take basketball, for example. I know a little bit about the game, having played, watched and reported it for more than 40 years.

The rules and court markings of international basketball are just enough different from those of the traditional American game to make the Olympic version strange. The wonder is that U. S. teams manage to adjust and play as well as they do after only a few weeks of practice under international rules.

I'm not a fan of Indiana's Bobby Knight, who is easy to dislike and goes out of his way to make himself obnoxious, but I commend him for the job he did in getting his team ready in a few weeks to play Olympic basketball. Believe me, it's a "new" game to learn.

After watching several Olympiads, I still don't understand what makes one gymnast or one equestrian (horseback rider) or one fencer better than another. The rules of Greco-Roman wrestling bewilder me, as does the scoring of Olympic boxing.

The problem is that you don't see many of these games performed other than every four years during the Olympics, and it's easy to forget whatever you might have learned about them.

The "expert" commentary by former participants in the sports helps—some more than others—but it still doesn't fill you in completely. Just because you know how to do something well doesn't necessarily mean that you can explain it to somebody else.

Races—track, swimming, and the like—are fairly easy to comprehend. Somebody finishes first, and you see it happen. This man or woman broke a tape or touched a line ahead of everybody else, and won a gold medal.

Some things are just plain not easy to learn. I've been watching swimming meets for more than 40 years and still don't understand how diving is scored. Points are awarded on a combined basis of "degree of difficulty" and "execution."

If a diver does a belly-flop into the water, or stumbles coming off the board, I can conclude that some points will be lost. Other-wise—and the same is true with gymnastics—the Olympic contestants are all so marvelously good that it's impossible for me to separate them. I don't envy the judges who have to make the decisions based on tenths and hundredths of points.

The judged events are the hardest to understand. I've done a bit of boxing, but would not have been any good at all under the Olympic rules, which include a 20-points-per-round scoring system. Under the American rules you earn points for landing hard punches and get a bonus for knock-downs. Under the Olympic rules the boxer with the faster jabbing hand is going to win, even though his blows barely connect.

Those nit-picking comments aside, the Olympic Games are a marvelous spectacle if you have the slightest bit of interest in sports.

Television is an entertainment medium. It does a lousy job with news, in the opinion of this old-fashioned pencil-and-paper journalist. TV can't handle on-the-spot, breaking news because it takes too long to get the people and the equipment there to record what is going on.

What television can do, marvelously well, is portray a pre-scheduled and staged event, like the Olympics, an athletic contest of any kind, a political convention, or anything else of the sort so long as the cameras can be set up ahead of time and the commentators (entertainers) thoroughly briefed about what is going to happen.

ABC's coverage of the Los Angeles Olympics has been outstanding. It's been fun to watch and, as I said at the start, it's been humbling. Once again I realize how much I don't know.

PLAYERS WITHOUT A COURT: Chelsea High's new tennis courts weren't finished yet, but that didn't stop coach Terry Schreiner (pointing her finger) from opening girls tennis practice Monday morning. Coach Schreiner put the girls through a vigorous series of exercises and drills. The courts are expected to be completed later this week.

WORKING ON THE COURTS: Brothers Clarence and Mike Steele of the New Hudson Fence Co. finish putting up the fences around the new tennis courts at Chelsea High school. Final work on the surfaces and marking of lines remains to be done.

New Tennis Courts . . .

at the high school and two at North school is nearly done. They, too, will be as good as any around.

OUT IN THE OPEN

By BILL MULLENDORE

Last week I wrote about the rewards which can be won by going fishing in the middle of the days of summer. This is a sort of postscript to point out that the mid-day hours are not my favorites for fishing or anything else.

I'm a "morning" person. I get up early, almost always before 6 o'clock, and do my most and best work before noon. If I could arrange a personal schedule to suit myself, it would include a two-hour sleep after lunch, which is "dead time" so far as personal productivity is concerned. I can't write a decent simple sentence between noon and 2 p.m., and never have been able to. I come alive again about 2 o'clock, and last until around 10, which is my bed-time. I miss most of the late-evening newscasts.

Everybody has his or her built-in biological time clock. There are "morning" people and "night" people, and some who are in-between.

That is a kind of lengthy and indirect introduction to the subject of early-morning fishing.

If you believe what the experts say, and I do, early morning is the best time to go fishing during the hot weeks of summer. Fish of all species are sensitive to the temperature of the water they dwell in.

All kinds of fish—bass, bluegills, pike, trout—have a "comfort zone" of temperatures that they prefer and seek out. Those zones vary by species. Trout, for example, will die in water warm enough to satisfy largemouth bass.

Especially during a hot and dry summer like this one, water temperatures tend to get too high for the happiness of all fish. They can survive, but they don't like the living conditions. They sulk and go off their feed. Still, they have to eat to survive, and they are most likely to do it during the early hours of the day when the water is as cool as it's ever going to be during the next 24 hours.

I like to be out in the open at dawn. It's a fun time to be up and around and to observe the beginning of a new day. The calls and movements of birds and animals are by themselves enough to make the experience memorable. Every morning is different.

The opportunity to watch the sun rise on a clear morning is reason enough to be out there to see it. It happens over and over again, but to me it's an always new and magical phenomenon that I will never tire of witnessing.

The dawning of a new day can be even more fascinating when there is some cloud cover, depending on how thick or thin it is. The sun shining through a layer of cirrus clouds makes you put down your fishing rod and reach for a camera loaded with color film.

One nice thing about early morning fishing is that the water is usually dead calm. A light breeze often springs up shortly after daylight, putting a ripple on the water. I like to fish under those conditions. It's easy to handle a boat and tackle if you are alone, and I usually am at that time of day. Most of my fishing friends are not early risers.

Whether I actually catch more fish during those first couple of hours of daylight than at other times is a question that I can't answer because I haven't kept track of the score. I don't fish very hard in the early morning, because there are so many distractions.

When a deer comes down to the water's edge to drink, I quit fishing and watch. When I see a muskrat or a mink, I lay the rod down and sit still. Birds of all kinds are on the move and calling during those early hours, and they fascinate me. A marsh hawk flying over its territory is a sight too seldom seen to go unobserved. Even red-winged blackbirds are fun, common as they are.

Oh yes, the fish. On most mornings there is some kind of activity in the shallows starting about the time the sky turns gray and there is light enough to see. There are spots and pops by panfish, and an occasional splish of a bass on the prowl. I go after those signs and make contact often enough that I usually collect a decent stringer.

If I don't, it has still been time well spent. It's great to wake up with the world of nature, and there's no better place to do it than being on a lake.

Take along a camera and a pair of binoculars, as well as your fishing gear, and I guarantee you will have a good time even if the fish aren't biting.

Despite their fierce reputation, moray eels, the large-toothed predators, do not attack divers unless provoked, say wildlife experts. Their lethal bite is usually reserved for fish and other prey.

THEIR HOME IS DRYING UP: These two mallard ducks looked discouraged as they surveyed the pond which has been their home. By the middle of last week the pond was all but gone, with only a bit of very shallow water left in the center.

MALLARDS ON THE WING: Photographer Randy Gladstone snapped his camera at just the right instant to catch this flock of mallard ducks rising off a local pond. Mallards, like other puddle ducks, jump off the water, then spread and flap their wings. The white under-wings of both sexes help to identify the species.

European red spider mites are heavy on apples this year. Particularly when there was no spring oil application, two spotted spider mites are being seen sometimes on the same leaf.
Bronzing is the effect, and the long range effect is still debatable, but the consensus seems to indicate a reduction in fruiting the following year.

Total auto theft claim costs this year are expected to more than double compared with 1980 for the Automobile Club of Michigan. To help stem the theft problem, the Auto Club has opened an auto theft investigative unit.

Auto Theft Unit To Curb Auto Club Loss Claims

Faced with a 25 percent increase in auto theft claims for the first five months of 1984, the Automobile Club of Michigan has become one of the first insurers in the state to develop and implement an auto theft investigative unit.

"Car theft has emerged as a problem of epidemic proportions," said Len Bach, Auto Club Field Claim Operations director. "As a result of auto thefts, our payments have risen from $27.2 million in 1980 to a projected $65 million this year. "We started this unit to protect our members and policyholders from the increased costs associated with car theft," Bach said.

Purpose of the new unit is to control the spiraling costs associated with auto thefts. Last year, the Auto Club processed 14,605 theft claims, a 60 percent increase since 1980.

The unit, which includes 14 special claims representatives and two investigators, will investigate theft, fraud and auto arson. All employees of the unit are experienced in auto theft investigation and some are former police and fire department investigators.

Auto theft claims reported by insureds in Metropolitan Detroit will be processed by the unit in addition to some claims involving thefts throughout the remainder of the state.

"For Auto Club policyholders, the procedures for reporting thefts will remain intact. Insureds should continue to report thefts to their local branches," added Bach.

The theft unit is located in the Auto Club's former East Dearborn office, 5261 Oakman Blvd. Its telephone number is 336-2515. The facility will not take payments or offer any other member services.

Last year, the Auto Club unveiled its multi-faceted ACTION (Arrest Car Thieves In Our Neighborhood) program offering rewards up to $10,000 to tipsters to stem the tide of car thefts and to help law enforcement agencies identify "chop shop" operations.

The ACTION program also includes the etching of VIN's on auto glass. Motorists also are urged to engrave the VIN on saleable metal parts such as doors and trunk lids.

Bach said those measures, coupled with two anti-theft bills pending in the Michigan Senate, could help reduce the company's skyrocketing loss payments and lessen the hardship auto thefts cause for policyholders.

Creditors are notified that copies of all claims against the Deceased must be presented, personally or by mail, to both the Personal Representative and to the Court on or before August 15, 1984. Notice is further given that the estate will then be assigned to entitled persons appearing of record.

A Bit on Barbecuing

If you want to play a terrific trick on your taste buds, just create the following picture in your mind: Juicy hamburgers and steaks broiling on a red-hot charcoal or gas grill, plenty of soda and iced tea to go around, oodles and oodles of cole slaw and potato salad...and, of course, a big, refreshing watermelon to top it all off.

Can't you just taste all those goodies? There's nothing like a summer barbecue, especially when the food is delicious, the weather is marvelous and there are plenty of family members and friends to join in the fun.

It's a sad fact, though, that many such fun-filled activities are ruined every summer by barbecuers who didn't know or ignored some very basic fire safety rules and were burned—literally and figuratively—in the process.

So here are some tips to remember—before, during and after barbecuing:

• Select a good location for barbecuing. Don't place a grill too close to walls or other objects or underneath overhanging tree branches or lawn umbrellas.

• Make sure you allow for proper ventilation, especially if you are cooking indoors on a hibachi. Burning charcoal produces toxic gases that can be lethal in excessive doses.

• When using a charcoal grill, only use special charcoal lighting fluid—not another type of flammable liquid—to soak the briquettes. Once the lighting fluid has been absorbed, stand well back when lighting the charcoal.

Never, under any circumstances, add additional lighting fluid once the coals are burning. The heat can ignite the lighting fluid and follow the spray right up to the can, causing it to explode in your hands.

• Be particularly careful when using gas, or electric grills. Make sure that you read instructions carefully before lighting the grill. It is also advisable that you pay special attention to the gas line hookup and to the handling of the gas tank. Finally, check that parts of the gas and electrical lines are kept away from the heat, because the wires could melt or burn and present a major fire hazard or a gas leak.

• The cooking process also requires some special attention to details. For example, be certain that all children and pets are kept away from barbecue grills, because children may unknowingly touch the burning-hot grill and dogs or cats can knock over a grill and be burned severely by the coals.

Other tips include: using the proper utensils (long-handled tongs, forks and spatulas) and being sure not to leave food on the grill unattended, even for a moment.

Once the barbecue is over, be sure to snuff out the fire or turn off the heat properly. With a charcoal grill, allow plenty of time for the coals to cool off before even attempting to water them down and dump them. Once the coals have cooled sufficiently, drench them thoroughly with water, stir the soaked ashes and smother them with dirt or sand. Be sure the coals are completely cooled down before leaving the barbecue area.

With a gas grill, turn off the gas valve and store the gas tank in a cool, dry place. With electric grills, be sure to unplug them. And if using extension cords, be sure to use outdoor-rated grades only.

And every time you have a barbecue, follow all of these rules to ensure an enjoyable and safe outing.

George Merkel Will Ask for Recount In Primary Loss

County Commissioner George A. Merkel of Chelsea will "definitely ask for a recount" if his apparent seven-vote loss in last week's Republican primary is confirmed by the official canvass.

Complete, unofficial returns from the 10-township west Washtenaw District 1 showed Merkel losing to Ellis J. Pratt of Manchester, 1,064 to 1,057.

"If I lost, I lost, and I can accept that although I can't say I'm happy about it," Merkel said, "but it's close enough that I want to be sure of the result. There were some strange things about the voting and the returns in a couple of townships that I want to see confirmed."

Merkel acknowledged that "I probably didn't campaign as hard as I should have" against Pratt, who is the manager of Spear & Associates real estate office in Manchester and is a newcomer to politics.

"I've always been low key in my approach to politics and particularly to campaigning," Merkel commented. "I've never believed in plastering neighborhoods with signs or going out and begging people to vote for me."

"I had a close call two years ago in the primary which he won by 20 votes, and maybe should have known better than to take the same approach this time. When you are looking at seven votes out of more than 2,000, it's an awfully small number. I could have taken a couple of car loads of people to the polls, and won."

"What bothers me as much as anything is that we had about a 13 percent turn-out of eligible voters, and that's very poor. It makes you wonder how interested people are about who represents them."

Merkel, 55, has been a county commissioner since 1977 and was

★ World-wide Impact of Ag Policies

The United States and European Economic Community are the two biggest agricultural traders in the world. Recently an American Farm Bureau Federation trade mission went to the EEC to support our negotiators in ironing out differences.

The problems stem in part from Europe's Common Agricultural Policy (CAP) which heavily subsidizes agricultural production. In times of surplus or recession when buyers are limited by their means, it is pretty difficult to justify increasing production, unless, of course, you're paid to do it.

European farmers are more than happy to oblige their governments. Yields of wheat and barley are twice that of the United States. The land is rich and farmers spray and fertilize more than we do. The American farmers on the trade mission saw big crops in the fields this summer awaiting dry weather for harvest.

While the U.S. stores its surpluses and also pays farmers to idle land, farmers in Europe are paid to keep producing and the surpluses are subsidized onto the world market. Our policies lend strength to prices and assist farmers through periods of difficulty. European policies drive down world prices, produce abnormal surpluses and take away markets from other producers.

It would be of little concern to us what the Europeans do except their farm policies are not isolated from the world market. We pay for them, too.

seeking his fifth two-year term. He lives at 142 Van Buren St. He owns the Sylvan Hotel, and also operates a building and grounds maintenance business.

Pratt, 60, is making his first try for public office. He was a farmer in Sharon township before he went into the real estate business.

Assuming the primary results stand up, Pratt is assured of winning in the November general election. No Democrat entered the race in the heavily Republican district which includes most of rural west and south Washtenaw county.

Pratt based his campaign primarily on a pledge to "vote Republican" on the nine-member county board, which presently consists of seven Democrats and two Republicans and probably will continue to have that same partisan make-up.

As one of the two minority members, Merkel has joined various groupings of Democrats in the old-fashioned political process known as horse-trading, providing his vote in return for promises of future consideration for the interests of his district.

"If Martin Straub (the other Republican on the board) and I always voted along party lines, we'd lose every decision, 7-2," Merkel noted. "In the situation we're in, we have to be flexible. I don't apologize for my voting record on the board. I've had to be realistic and practical in order to do anything for my district."

Diplodia tip blight of pine causes a dieback of branches in older trees, with new growth generally stunted. Look for small black fruiting bodies at the base of affected needles. Pruning helps prevent spread.

North School Principal Will Instruct 400 Students

William Wescott taught at Beach Middle school for 9½ years before becoming a principal at North school. However, the switch to administration won't be too different from teaching, he says.

"I think that as an administrator, first of all you're an instructional leader. Instead of having 30 kids, I'll have 400 and I'm going to watch their academic growth. I'm going to be excited to be part of their development," he said.

The first real task of administration is to hire good help. Wescott is in the process of hiring a first grade teacher. In hiring, he looks for a self-starter who can work well with students and who is academically very well prepared. Teachers should have good classroom management skills such as good organization, solid lesson planning and a plan that fits the school's educational goals through daily lessons.

"The educational goal of every teacher is to get the maximum performance out of every individual child at their level. I want all children to reach their fullest potential," said Wescott.

"Individual attention is extremely important. To be able to recognize students by their names, to be able to make learning fun—people with those qualities make outstanding teachers," he said.

Before making a hiring decision, Wescott thoroughly checks out a teacher's references and past experience. This could include talking to school custodians, administrators, parents of a teacher's students, and anyone involved in the schools.

"It's been my experience that custodians and secretaries are extremely key people. They know what's going on," said Wescott. "Although they are usually in agreement with other school staff," said Wescott.

The role of the principal said Wescott, is to make sure all students receive a solid education. The principal should know the students in his school, watch their progress daily, and visit classrooms.

"They should work, eat and play with the kids. My goal as a new principal is to be highly visible and work closely with staff and kids to meet educational needs and goals," he said.

"The principal I think should be somebody that is a part of a lot of different aspects of the community and someone who has a stake in the community. My family and myself have made a commitment to the community and will continue to support this town," he said.

As part of this commitment, Wescott was on the board of directors of the United Way and is a member of the Chelsea Lions Club. He is a member of the First United Methodist church where he teaches Sunday school. He also used to coach middle school football and girls softball.

On the subject of curriculum, Wescott feels a successful curriculum must be well-rounded and start with reading as a foundation.

"Everyone wants to start with reading as a key for academic success and I believe in that. I want to emphasize the joy and skill of reading," he said.

Wescott's own joy in reading is summarized by the book "Charlotte's Web," his favorite and oft-quoted children's book. He estimates he has read "Charlotte's Web" at least 30 times.

"That to me sums up why I want to be part of kids' lives. I want to make kids' lives brighter. To me, there's nothing else," he said.

Wescott uses a system of discipline which he calls "reality therapy." While traditionally the principal has been viewed as a disciplinarian, Wescott does not consider himself one. Instead he prefers to sit down with the student and make a plan to manage behavior.

"I would rather not use the word punishment. I would like to use the word consequences. The whole key is making kids realize their behavior is unacceptable and they themselves must want to change their behavior. While this process is going, you need to build communication between yourself and the child," he said.

WILLIAM WESCOTT

For instance, if a student has been throwing paper on the playground, a solution would be to make the student pick up paper for a few minutes after school. It is important that the consequence be directly related to the behavior and that the student agree on the consequence, said Wescott.

"I will communicate with kids two basic rules: One, school is a safe place and you must not hurt anyone. Two, you must be helpful and co-operative. I think if kids follow and use those two rules in terms of looking at their behavior, we're going to have a nice environment for education to take place," said Wescott.

One of Wescott's goals for the school is opening communication between the senior citizen program and the rest of the school. Other changes will come from the staff.

"I want change to come from within and I want the staff to make necessary changes along with my leadership. I'd like the school to run as it is for a while," said Wescott.

Wescott was born and raised in Ypsilanti. His father was an associate professor at Eastern Michigan University and his mother is a registered nurse.

He graduated from Ypsilanti High school in 1970 and attended Central Michigan University. He received his BS in elementary education in 1975. He student taught kindergarten and sixth grade before joining the Beach staff.

At Beach, he taught sixth grade science and block—reading, English and geography. During his time teaching, he earned a masters in educational leadership from Eastern Michigan University.

In 1975, he married his wife Sue, a dental hygienist. Sue graduated from the University of Michigan dental school in 1975. The couple have three children: Timothy, Casey and Betty.

The Wescotts moved to Chelsea upon getting married.

"We have been excited to be a part of this community. We have the same values: a sense of strong family and meaningful education. People have always supported the schools here and that's important to us as a family," Wescott said.

Parents, Teachers Fix Up North Elementary Offices

When the North School office area needed renovation, a group of parents and teachers put on their work clothes, got paint brushes and wallpaper paste, and went to work.

The group from Parents/Teachers of North School (PTN) fixed up an office, sickroom and supply area for the school. A new ceiling and carpeting were put in. Rooms were painted and wallpapered. Woodwork was smoothed and varnished. Supplies were organized into one central location instead of in several places throughout the building.

"We have a very active PTN and that was one of the projects they undertook," said William Wescott, principal of North school.

Funding for the renovations came from a combination of sources. Members from the PTN donated money as well as using school maintenance funds.

Parents who donated their labor were: Dick McCalla, Ray Kyte, John and Patsy Cabaniss, Gary Koch, Jason Koch, Karen Koch, Sybil Booth, Clara Smith, Carol Smith, Christia Fischer, Charlene DeWitt, Janet Rossi, Sue Wescott, Don Proctor and Sherri Plank. Teachers who contributed were Marcia Quilter, Berta Stein, Bernice Packard, Sue Walton, Barb Locks, Sally Proctor, and Sally Schluppe.

Changes in District Court

tion is what the level of services will be," said Judge Fink.

The board has hired a consultant to answer that question and make recommendations. The court will not be closed because the law requires the court to sit in any town with a population of more than 3,000 people.

"The position of judges is that we should comply with the law and also that before the district courts were set up we had justices of the peace and local courts. It wouldn't be considered an improvement to take away local courts and centralize things. That's why it was believed that this was important to write in the statute," said Judge Fink.

Contracts OK'd For Repair Work On Fire Station

Contracts totalling $23,810 for repairs to the Chelsea fire hall were awarded by the village council on Aug. 7.

Gundrum Roofing Co. of Ann Arbor was hired to put a new roof on the building, located at 200 W. Middle St. Gundrum's bid was the highest of three submitted, but was accepted on the recommendation of trustees Richard Steele and Joe Merkel, who make up the council's fire department committee.

School Bus Runs Will Be 4 Hours Later on First Day

All Chelsea School District buses will begin picking up students on Monday, Aug. 28. For the first day only, Aug. 28, buses will run four hours later than normal to accommodate the half-day school session.

For example, buses that leave the bus garage normally at 8:05 will leave at 12:05 for that one day only.

Parents and students should note this schedule for opening day, according to Ralph Brier, bus transportation supervisor. The district operates 25 buses and all will be on this schedule.

"I'm convinced they will do the best job," Steele said, and Merkel concurred in that appraisal. The council agreed unanimously.

The present roof leaks and also loses a lot of heat. Gundrum offered a 10-year guarantee for its roof installation, and an R-20 insulation rating.

D. P. Anderiese Co. of Gregory was given a $4,050 contract to repair the front over-hang of the fire hall, which has been badly damaged by a combination of water leakage and carpenter ants.

The Anderiese bid was the lowest of three submitted.

Work on both contracts is supposed to be finished before winter.

Block Party Delayed

A Summit St. block party previously approved by the village council for Aug. 5 has been postponed to Aug. 19. The council went along with the date change.

DAV Drive OK'd

The Disabled American Veterans (DAV) have received permission to conduct a forget-me-not drive in Chelsea Sept. 27-29.

SOME OF THE OLDEST members of the Cavanaugh Lake club attended the festivities celebrating the club's 100th anniversary on Aug. 12. Jim Weiss (left) is a relative newcomer having joined the community in 1978, but Lois Palmer (center) came to Cavanaugh Lake in 1932. Harold Jones (right) has been a member of the community on and off for nearly 80 years. He arrived in 1905.

Cavanaugh Lake Families Celebrate Club's 100th Year

The Cavanaugh Lake Club held their annual picnic Sunday, Aug. 12 to mark the Club's 100th anniversary. The yearly festivity is a tradition of the club. Club members cooked 140 half chickens Manchester style, and the rest was potluck.

Although the community currently consists of 18 families which comprise about 60 people, attendance numbered over 100 since past residents of the community were also invited.

Some long-time families of the lake are the Schaibles and the Danielses who have resided there over 50 years. Paul Schaible is an officer of the Chelsea State Bank and Bob Daniels, who with his brother Jim, own Chelsea Lumber Co.

The Palmer family has lived at the lake since 1884. Some current members include Lois Palmer and George and Donna Palmer. Harold Jones has resided at the lake on and off since 1905. Jones left in 1909 but returned in 1955. William and Zeta Stewart and her late husband, William, are also long-time residents.

George Elliott has owned a residence since 1949. Marian Elliott's family has lived there since 1907.

The Cavanaugh Lake Club was founded May 12, 1884. At that time, said resident Elliott, they divided the Cavanaugh Lake grounds into 26 plots of about 30 feet wide each. Now the land is divided into 20 lots which hold 18 residences.

The original purpose of the club was to control who became a property owner. Those who wished to buy property on the lake had to be approved as a club member first.

"In the beginning, it was put together to maintain the grounds.

We used to have our own ice house. Now, it's more or less something of a convenience for the owners. The only thing we maintain is the road up the hill and we do have our own street lights," said Elliott.

Property owners were not allowed to build line fences that ran down to the lake. "Any member of the club had free and non-restricted use of the club grounds. In that sense, it was like the condos. Condo residents have free and non-restricted use of the condominium grounds," said Elliott.

An island in the lake was once the scene of a dance pavilion at the turn of the century. Sometime, after 1909, however, the island sunk. Cavanaugh Lake used to drain into another lake and when that was dammed up, the lake's water level rose and submerged the island.

Jones recalls the days before indoor plumbing.

Schoenberg Defeats Sweeny in Sylvan Vote

In a mild upset, Don Schoenberg defeated incumbent George Sweeny in the Republican primary contest for Sylvan township supervisor.

Schoenberg is assured of election to the post in November, because no Democrat filed for the office.

Other results of contested township races:

Dexter township—James Drollet won a three-way race to be the Republican candidate for supervisor, defeating Ray Dhue and Carl J. Lesser.

Freedom township—Eugene J. Mann won over John R. Taddino in the Republican supervisor contest.

Lyndon township—Incumbent Janis K. Knieper defeated Annette Pacheko to become the Republican nominee for treasurer. Francis D. Grohner and M. Jean Dunn were the winners in the three-way Democratic

"The one thing I remember is the pump. We had no running water and everybody got everything from one pump," said Jones.

Before autos, visitors to the lake traveled by the Inter-Urban, an electric streetcar that ran from Detroit to Kalamazoo. The Inter-Urban stopped on the line at Sylvan Center. From Sylvan Center, a Mr. Chandler picked up visitors with his horse and wagon and carted them to the lake.

Those who came from Chelsea simply took a horse and buggy to get to the lake.

Legend has it that the lake got its name from a couple of drunken Irishmen who traveled on the lake in winter. The Irishmen broke through the ice and drowned. The legend says they were named Kavanagh.

"If you want to print a legend," said Jones, "You've got one right there."

Incumbent Orson Beeman was the loser.

Scio township—Richard DeLong swamped incumbent Robert J. Jones in the Republican race for supervisor by a margin of 652 to 191.

Police Cite More Traffic, Parking Violations in July

A crackdown on traffic and parking violations is indicated in the Chelsea police department's monthly report for July.

Although most categories of police activity were down from the previous month, traffic tickets issued went up to 58 from 32, traffic stops to 153 from 105, and parking tickets to 71 from 62.

Total police radio runs for July were 282, down from 310 in June.

School Opening Set for Aug. 28

Chelsea School District faculty will report for duty at 8 a.m. on Tuesday, Aug. 28. Students will report at 12:30 p.m. for a half-day session on that date, and will have full-day sessions on Wednesday, Aug. 29 and Thursday, Aug. 30. School then will be in recess for the long Labor Day week-end, and will resume on Tuesday, Sept. 4.

The opening of school coincides this year with the opening of the Chelsea Community Fair. Students will be excused without penalty for fair commitments when requested by parent or guardian.

The early starting date for the 1984-85 school year was the result of the negotiation process.

Typically, school has started in Chelsea the day after Labor Day. The second year of the contract, which is this year, called for the early opening with the idea that students would not be penalized, and that the early start would be evaluated to check its acceptability with district residents.

The Chelsea Education Association and the administration will review the community reaction, attendance, and productivity for the early start of school. Two calendars have been proposed for the 1985-86 school year—one with an early start, and the other with an after-Labor-Day start. Based on the reaction of the community, one of those calendars will be adopted.

Andrew Ford Receives WCC Faculty Award

Andrew Ford of Chelsea was one of four Washtenaw Community College staff members to receive a Faculty Recognition Award this year. This is the third year the awards have been presented.

The award recognizes "those who are outstanding teachers," said John Hurd, vice-president for instruction and student services. Hurd is also from Chelsea.

A committee of faculty and administrators chose the winners from nominations by faculty, staff and students. The 1984 winners are cited for "excellence in performance," said Hurd. The award provides a scholarship for one full year's tuition to a worthy student in the winner's name.

Andrew Ford teaches industrial drafting and psychology at the college as a charter member of the faculty. Ford spent 12½ years in the College's administration as director of the technical and industrial division and interim dean of occupation studies. A former school teacher, he then returned to instruction in 1978.

"From my 28-year perspective in public education," said Ford, "I'd say the faculty here is extremely good. I'm flattered to receive the award because I respect the entire faculty and this institution. WCC is a teaching and learning institution. We're an extension of the people of Washtenaw county—the people are the most valuable resources we have. They're why we exist."

Money Transferred To Landfill Fund

The village board has approved a transfer of $46,934.10 from the electric fund to the landfill fund to help pay for construction work being done at the landfill. The money is to be repaid the electric fund with 11 percent interest from landfill receipts.
