Pre-School Program Being Offered

The Parent Readiness Education Project (PREP) will be available for parents and their pre-schoolers again this year in the Chelsea School District.

The program entails one morning per week of classroom activities and individually assigned home activities for the remainder of the week. It is designed to make a smoother and more rewarding kindergarten year for the child in the future.

PREP teachers, Linda Hiatt and Susan Lovejoy, have sent letters to all the parents of children born between Dec. 2, 1979 and Dec. 1, 1980. If you have not received a letter please call the PREP office at 475-9131, ext. 60, to make an appointment. Screening will take place in the PREP room located at North Elementary school on Sept. 26, 27, Oct. 2, 3 and 4. At this time the PREP staff will meet individually with each child to assess the child's learning strengths and weaknesses. The information will be shared with the parents at that time.

This free service is offered to parents to learn more about their child's readiness for school activities.

First Frost Strikes Here On Schedule

The weather has been freaky so far in 1984, but one event occurred right on schedule—the season's first frost.

The average date for early frost in this area is Sept. 17 and, sure enough, last Monday morning there were patches of white showing in low spots where cold concentrates.

It wasn't a killing frost and did little damage, but it was enough to remind that fall is coming on.

Meanwhile, the area continued to get the rain that was badly needed two months ago but is of little use now. Once it finally started to rain, it seemingly couldn't stop. Another two inches or so came down this past week.

Beach School Open House To Be Held

Parents of Beach Middle school students will get the chance to take a mini run-through of their children's class schedules at an open house, Oct. 8 from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. The program will begin in the school cafeteria with comments by principal Darcio Stielstra and president of the board of education, Dale Schumann.

Throughout the evening, parents will meet with board representatives, administrators and teaching staff. They will visit their children's classrooms on a capsule schedule with 10 minutes in each class, and thus "have the opportunity to hear each teacher talk about their program, plans and goals for the school year," said Stielstra.

After "school" is over, a reception will be held in the cafeteria with representatives from the Athletic Boosters Club, the Music Boosters Club, the Chelsea Aquatic Club, the sixth grade camp program, and the academic games program.

A LOT OF EARTH has been moved on the north side of Sibley Rd. in connection with extending utility services to Chelsea's new industrial park. Some big holes and trenches have been dug, pipes put in, and the openings in the ground re-filled. There is much more yet to be done.

Three Escape At Waterloo: Two Caught

Three escapes were reported from Camp Waterloo during the past week. Chelsea police captured two of the walk-aways, and the third was still at large as of noon yesterday.

Michael N. Clayton, 22, serving 2-4 years for entering without breaking was picked up by Chelsea patrolman Richard Walter on I-94 near the Kalmbach Rd. exit on Tuesday, Sept. 11, the same day he escaped.

Officer Mike Foster arrested Clifford C. Drake, 23, doing 2-4 years for a drug offense, on Old US-12 at Kernwood Dr. on Wednesday, Sept. 12. Drake also was caught on the same day that he escaped.

Still at large when The Standard went to press was Larry Bryant, 35, who was found missing at 8 a.m. last Monday morning. He was serving 4-6 years for larceny.

Cash, Five Guns, Other Items Stolen In Manchester Twp.

Numerous items including five guns and more than $500 in money were reported stolen from a home at 14158 Austin Rd., Manchester township, last Monday.

Also taken were a hunting bow, a tape player, a Walkman radio, a color television set, a transistor radio and a lock box, sheriff's officers said.

First of Four Expected Sets of Twins Born Here

Whether it's something in the water or the air around here, or just coincidence, twin births are suddenly becoming almost epidemic in the Chelsea area.

Of at least four local women who have been verified by doctors as carrying twins, Mrs. Charlie (Teresa) Hashley of 15 Chestnut St. became the first to deliver when she gave birth to daughters Karen Louise and Carla Ann on Sept. 9.

Both Mrs. Hashley and the infant girls are doing fine. It was her first pregnancy, and she admits to having been "a little shaken up when I first learned about two months ago that I was going to have twins. It's not something you really expect, when you decide to become parents.

"It's going to be a lot of work, but I'm really happy," she added. "We have two healthy babies, and that is what's important."

Three other Chelsea area mothers-to-be are expecting twins before the end of November. Their names will not be revealed until the births occur.

About four out of every 100 pregnancies result in twins, according to medical statistics. Multiple births used to come as a surprise to doctors and parents alike. Modern medical techniques now make it possible to detect them in advance during the later months of pregnancy.

Manchester Woman Wins Car in Drawing

Jane Van Doren of 14171 Bethel Church Rd., Manchester, won the new Dodge Omni automobile offered as first prize in the St. Mary's Catholic church fall festival raffle.

More than 18,000 tickets were purchased at $1 each, insuring that the festival would make a profit, said chairperson Shirley Bruck.

"We had bad weather the first two days (last Friday and Saturday) but Sunday was nice, and a lot of people came out," she added. "The festival was a success, and we are happy about it."

Mrs. Van Doren was not present for last Sunday's drawing on the car but was notified by telephone that she had won and came later to claim her prize.

Other winners in the raffle were:

2. (side of beef) Marilyn Cobb, 615 N. Main St., Chelsea.
3. (color TV) Rena Walworth, 227 Harrison St., Chelsea.
4. (microwave oven) Nancy Duncan, Huron River Dr., Dexter.
5. (swivel rocking chair) Martha Miller, 2277 N. Steinbach Rd., Dexter.
- 6-10. (head-set portable radios) William Harvey, 13410 Old US-12, Chelsea; Al Zangara, 600 S. Freer Rd., Chelsea; June Warren, 133 E. Summit St., Chelsea; Carline Brown, Stockbridge, and Diane Schaffer, Dearborn.

Two Persons Injured in Crash On Old US-12

Two persons were injured in a one-car accident early Sunday morning at Old US-12 near Freer Rd.

Sheriff's deputies said an east-bound car driven by John E. Tolonen, 30, of Brighton skidded off Old US-12 and hit a tree at about 2:50 a.m. Sunday.

Tolonen and his passenger, Tina Marie Didonato, 22, of Ann Arbor, were taken to Chelsea Community Hospital with serious injuries.

Waterloo Nature Center Will Close For Lack of Funds

The Waterloo Nature Center on Bush Rd. will be closed indefinitely at the end of this month. Interpretive programs for school groups and members of the Waterloo Natural History Association will continue to be provided on a limited basis.

"We struggled for 3½ years to keep the center going but couldn't get the necessary financial support," nature center spokesperson Carol Strahler said. "It was a hand-to-mouth operation, and we finally had to give it up."

The association took over the center after the Department of Natural Resources was forced to abandon it for lack of money and staff. The association is a volunteer group and depends on membership fees and donations for subsistence.

"If we had been able to find one large donor to provide a financial base, I think we could have made it," Mrs. Strahler said.

"Our plan was to employ a director full-time and have him or her work at soliciting funds. We were never able to do that because we never had the 'seed money'. Our part-time directors were so involved in programming at the center that they didn't have time to make personal contacts for donations.

"I think there are interested people out there, but we haven't been able to get in touch with them."

George Rob, park manager of the Waterloo Recreation Area, said the DNR will take back the nature center building, and then close it.

"We can't do anything else," Rob said. "When I came here in 1978, I had a staff of 13 full-time persons. Now I have five, and I may lose some more. We're so busy between Memorial Day and Labor Day that we just go from one crisis to another, handling people problems. Our maintenance is bad, and the area is beginning to look pretty trashy. It's a shame, and we know it."

"We'll try to provide some surveillance on the nature center building, to prevent vandalism, but there is no way we can keep it open and operating. We can't keep our campgrounds, hiking trails and public access roads in decent condition, let alone run a nature center."

"I'm hoping to re-open the center, and it's a high priority. Realistically, though, I think we are looking at least two years down the road. Until we get some money for staffing, maintenance and equipment, we're pretty helpless."

Rob added that he hoped to scratch enough money to maintain a minimal amount of heat in the nature center building, to protect the exhibits. "I've put that request in to Lansing," he said, "and I'm waiting for an answer."

Meanwhile, the Waterloo Natural History Association is looking in other directions, seeking to become a volunteer support group for all environmental and outdoor education functions of the park.

In a letter to members WNHA president Ray Steinbach said, in part:

"As many of you know, the staff, volunteers and the board of directors have worked long and hard to make Waterloo Nature Center a success. Funds collected from membership and program fees, donations and special events have enabled the nature center to continue operating over the past 3½ years."

"Professional fund-raisers have worked with the WNHA in an attempt to raise additional funds, primarily through grants and corporate donations. Unfortunately... no new patrons have been found."

"As a result of our marginal financial position... the board of directors has made several decisions as to the future direction of the WNHA."

"The WNHA will broaden its base of operations to encompass the entire Waterloo Recreation Area (WRA). The nature center building itself will be closed. However, interpretive programs will still be provided either on nature center trails or in other locations throughout the WRA."

Among other things, the association is looking for naturalists to present programs to school groups. A minimum fee of $25 per program is promised.

"I realize that many of you will be disappointed that the nature center is closing," Steinbach concluded. "Don't dwell on that sad fact, but look to the past as a time of achievement. Because of your support, tens of thousands of people have increased their environmental awareness..."

Events Planned For Homecoming

Homecoming week began Monday, Sept. 17 at Chelsea High school. Several fun events are planned for the week.

Every day of homecoming week is a different kind of dress-up day. Last Monday was clash day. Students wore whatever looked really bad mixed together. Tuesday was military day of mash day. Both these themes were new this year.

Down on the Farm is the fashion for Wednesday, Sept. 19. Thursday will be gang or mafia day and Friday is the traditional blue and gold day for the school colors.

Students weren't the only ones dressing up. Teachers and administrators joined in the fun.

"If I don't have to attend a serious meeting that day, I participate too," said principal John Williams. "I think it's good for kids to see teachers dressed up. It shows the teachers are involved. It isn't just a kid's week, it's a school week."

Because homecoming came a few weeks early this year, fewer after-school events could be planned. There wasn't time to organize teams for powder pull football. The bed and tricycle races also had to be sacrificed. However, there will still be enough many activities to satisfy most students.

Each class will decorate the hallways around the fishbowl on Friday, Sept. 21 from 7:30-8:30 a.m. The corridors will be judged on a point system. The class which accumulates the most points throughout the week will receive the honorary Pep Week Award.

Class will be abbreviated Friday afternoon so students can attend the pep rally. Classes have the opportunity to win more points if their candidates win the Sexy Legs contest. Boy students will stand behind a screen while the school applauds their legs. The pair of legs that garners the most applause wins.

Classes can also compete to see who can build a pyramid using 10 people for building blocks. The pyramid which goes up the fastest and stays up for a few seconds before collapsing wins this event.

CEMETERY GATES LIGHT UP: The lights have been re-installed on the gates at the entrance to Oak Grove Cemetery on Madison St. at the foot of E. Middle, and they are burning brightly. Installation of the lights completed a project begun more than a year ago. Master mason Paul Henes of Dexter restored the gate stones to their original luster, and village crews put up the lights. The completed project is a thing of beauty.

JEFF BOYER (second from left) pulled rabbits and doves out of thin air to entertain Fair officials and volunteers at the annual Fair dinner, Saturday, Sept. 15. Mary Ann Guenther, fair secretary, is examining the dove. William Stoffer, fair board president, (second from right) looks a little puzzled. Jim Fitzsimmons assisted Boyer with the magic show.

State Program To Reduce Adult IlliteracyA state plan relying heavily on 3,000 volunteer tutors to help reduce illiteracy among adults by 50 percent over five years was announced yesterday by State Superintendent of Public Instruction Phillip Runkel.The Department of Education estimates about 800,000 adults have less than a ninth grade education and are considered
"functionally illiterate."Details of the plan, are being worked out by a co-ordinating committee, but Runkel said a key would be a partnership between public and private agencies.Ronald Gillum of the department's Adult Extended Learning Services Division, said in several instances, adult education programs would be held at sites provided by private employers.Gillum said the program is aimed at getting "to those individuals who for whatever reason won't go back to school."He said the system would be big enough to touch all those classified illiterates.In 1982-83, about 80,000 persons—half of them on public assistance—attended adult basic education programs, and Gillum said the 85,000 to 70,000 expected this year could go higher with the encouragement of a new national advertising campaign to be launched later in the year.He said he expects the program will have direct benefits on the economy, noting 4,000 of those in adult education programs in 1982-83 obtained jobs and 3,000 left the welfare rolls.

Youth Corps

"Project Stepping Stone" Private employers recently took part in Project Stepping Stone, a week-long event at the state's 29 community colleges.The project is aimed at helping Youth Corps workers make the transition from a temporary summer job to permanent work,according to an announcement by Governor James Blanchard.The private employers participated in job fairs where Youth Corps workers learned about businesses, filled out applications for jobs and had interviews.In addition to the job fairs, each Project Stepping Stone site held workshops focusing on identifi-fying job resources, preparing resumes, preparing for interviews and building self-esteem.In 1983, more than 10,000 Youth Corps workers took part in a similar project.In another effort to place people in jobs, the Governor announced the Michigan Employment Security Commission (MESC) will commit its employment services resources to finding jobs in the private sector for 20 percent of the 7,000 Project Self-Reliance participants, persons involved in the state's new welfare reform program.A. R. Jazowski, acting director of the MESC said the agency's state-wide network of job service offices will be fully participating in the effort to find permanent jobs for the people referred to the MESC from the project.The program, which began in April as an experiment to find better ways to help welfare recipients find employment and get off welfare, offers volunteers the opportunity to trade their public assistance checks for temporary minimum wage jobs in the community and the hope of a permanent job in the private sector.Blanchard said that in addition to MESC's commitment to find jobs for 1,400 program participants, his office and staff of Project Self-Reliance will be contacting the business community and the community at large to help in placing persons.He said the goal of the program is to help all 7,000 individuals in the private sector, enabling them to become free from dependence on welfare and to achieve economic independence.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

Clem Webster allowed early in the session at the country store Saturday night that he never ceases to be amazed at what folks keep, and after surviving the day he was even more baffled at what they get rid of. Clem said his old lady's sister and her husband was moving to a smaller place where they didn't have to take care of the yard and the upkeep.That was good news at their age, Clem said, but the bad news was that they don't have room for all the nick nacks and what not they have collected down their trail of tears together, so natural they had a yard sale. Not only did they have a sale, Clem reported, but their neighbors on both sides brung over everything out of their attics, basements and garages.Clem said his old lady had him take some of her needlework pillows, some odd dishes, her old pressure canner that has a bad gauge and a few dresses she final admitted she's outgrown to the sale. Gitting rid of that was fine, but what was not so fine was that she went along and bought more stuff that she'll never use than she got rid of.General speaking, Clem went on, that was what everybody done.
They don't call em swap meets for nothing, he said, because folks make the rounds of yard sales, and when they ain't got no more room in their houses they have yard sales.The fellers picked up on Clem's report. Bug Hoolum took note that he had saw some weeks back where the Infernal Revenue was looking fer ways to git a piece of the yard sale, swap meet and flea market action. The IRS figgers it is losing millions in off the books sales, Bug said, and that means the serious sellers and buyers that will be sellers is coming out way ahead.These sales actual cater to the collectors, Bug explained. He said you watch the early birds at the yard sales go fer one or two items. If they don't find em they move on til they do. It might be baseball cards, comic books or match covers, but whatever it is sombdy is waiting to pay good money fer it, Bug said.Zeke Grubb was agreed with Bug. Zeke said the big flea markets is as clost to black market as we can get. He had went to one that filled a closed drive-in movie parking lot, and he saw long tables under two big tents filled with computers and other kind of electronic gear.
Either computers already have gone the way of the crank Victrola, Zeke declared, or we got anew tax free way to trade what has come to be the working tool of America's business.Practical speaking, Ed Doolittle said, computers go out of date like everthing else, only sooner.
He had saw where big hospitals use computers to keep their accounts and store medical information and they are having to junk their systems ever three or four years to keep up with the changes in bookkeeping changes and patient treatment.Personal, I figger anteeek hospital computers are nothing more than a message that the state of the medical art has come to depend on the state of the computer art.Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.Red Cross

European red spider mites are heavy on apples this year. Particularly when there was no spring oil application, two spotted spider mites are being seen sometimes on the same leaf. Bronzing is the effect, and the long range effect is still debatable, but the consensus seems to indicate a reduction in fruiting the following year.

Zion Lutheran Holds Card Shower for Mrs. Hieber

Mrs. Ottilie Hieber, mother of Lorena Wenk of Chelsea, celebrated her 90th birthday Sept. 8. To remember the occasion, members of Chelsea's Zion Lutheran church held a "card shower."

Hieber received about 70 birthday cards from the parish and more are still coming, said Wenk. Originally from Bridgewater, Hieber lives in the Saline Evangelical home.

"The family wishes to thank everyone who remembered her on her birthday. It made it more of a pleasant day for her. It made her day to get mail. It always does for people in those homes," said Wenk.

"I was pleased to think so many people from our church remembered her. What impressed me was there were a lot of religious cards. They would say 'A Blessed Birthday.' All very serious and sincere," said Wenk.

Hieber was married 66 years ago to Robert Hieber, a contractor who died in 1963. She has three children, Lorena, Elton Hieber and Irwin Hieber; 11 grandchildren and 18 great-grandchildren.

After a stroke in 1966 when she lost the use of her right arm, Hieber learned to embroider and sew with her left hand. She lives at the Saline home with her sister-in-law and cousin, and has resided there since 1976.

Wenk has been a resident of Chelsea for 40 years.

A VIEW from the CLOCK TOWER

Bill Mullendore

I touched a nerve in this column last week when I wrote about the problems I had trying to get some help in making The Standard's telephones work. Nothing else that I have written during the two years that I have worked here has provoked so much spontaneous response.

Local house-holders and business people have called me at home and at work, and have walked up to me on the street to express their thanks for saying something that needed to be said. I didn't get a single negative comment.

That's all very flattering, and I appreciate the words of praise, but that isn't the point.

What is important is that there obviously is a problem, and I'm not the only one who has tried to deal with it, with results that can most charitably be described as mixed. Yes, you can eventually get your out-of-order phone service fixed. No, it won't be easy. You will waste a lot of time, get angry and start shouting as frustration mounts. If you shout long and loud enough, you eventually will get a response. Somebody will come around and fix the phone.

That isn't the way the system should work.

Maybe we were all spoiled by the near perfection of the old Michigan Bell Telephone Co., by far the most competent public utility that I have ever dealt with. Ma Bell had a policy which put subscriber service first and foremost among the company's objectives. The idea was that, if you kept your customers happy, they would gladly pay their monthly bills and be grateful for the opportunity to write a surprisingly small check every 30 days.

Now we are dealing with a vague corporate image called Ameritech, which I understand is based in Chicago. It might as well be in Timbuktu or Nepal. If you don't believe that, try calling an Ameritech number and asking about something. You will get some courteous conversation—and no real answers. Eventually, your inquiry will filter down to the local level, and it will be responded to by the person you should have been able to call in the first place, the local representative who can do something for you.

Have you looked at your phone bill lately? They ought to send it to you bound in a book form. It used to be that you got an envelope containing two pieces of paper—a computer card telling you what you owe, and a print-out of long-distance toll charges—plus a return envelope to use for mailing your payment. All very simple. It took about two minutes to look over the statement of charges, write a check, put it in the return envelope, stick a stamp on it, and place it in the mail.

Now you can spend half an hour puzzling over the assortment of documents you receive, and still not understand what they are charging you for or why. Eventually, you accept the total figure, which is a lot larger than it was before the Bell system was broken up last Jan. 1, pay it, and have the uneasy feeling that you are somehow being robbed without realizing it.

That is supposed to be progress. If it is, I'm all for an immediate turn-around and a backward march to the simple, inexpensive good old days.

There are well-founded rumors floating around that Ameritech wants to discontinue its local area calling system and will shortly seek permission from the Michigan Public Service Commission to do so.

Presently, if you live in Chelsea, you can dial numbers in the Ann Arbor, Dexter and Manchester exchanges toll-free. Ameritech wants to end that and impose charges for all such "long distance" calls.

If the 10 miles between Chelsea and Dexter, the 12 miles between Chelsea and Manchester, or the 16 miles between Chelsea and Ann Arbor are "long distances," then my concept of distance is badly out of whack. Long distance to me is somewhere beyond a point that you can drive to in less than half an hour.

It's time that people in a position to do something about it—up to and including the president of the United States—realized that a terrible mess has been made in breaking up the Bell system, and did something to rectify it. The way things are going, they will only get worse.

DR. RUSS LARSEN (standing right) and Dr. Eunice Jordan (standing left) supervise 17 Chelsea teachers during an inservice on writing. Nine of those teachers are pictured here. Seated left to right are: Alice Leith, Barbara Brown, Mary Baker, Cynthia Mortensen, Paul Terpstra, Helen Fox St. Louis, Marie Crouch, Phil Jones, and David Knisely. Teachers represented all four schools.

Students Should Check Their Immunizations

School is open for most students K-12 in Washtenaw county, and their parents have been checking their immunization records and making sure they are all up-to-date.

College students should also be checking their records before enrolling. Many colleges and universities require proof of immunization against certain diseases, such as measles and rubella (German measles). In the past few years college campuses have been the site of a number of outbreaks of measles. So far this year in Michigan there have been more than 400 cases of measles. While only some of these have been college students, a significant number were high school students.

Even if a college does not require immunization records, all students born in 1957 or later should check their records to be certain they received measles vaccine in 1967 or later and on or after their first birthday or that they had measles disease and it was diagnosed by a physician. Measles can be a serious disease and complications can occur, especially in adults. In addition, missing classes due to illness can keep students from performing their best and may cost extra tuition money if a student drops out mid-term.

Students entering college should also be sure they are protected against rubella (German measles). This is a less serious disease for most age groups but can be devastating for unborn babies of pregnant women who have the disease. If students received rubella vaccine in July, 1969, or later and received it on or after their first birthday, they are protected. Some students think they've had the disease, and it may have even been diagnosed by a physician; but the only way to be certain someone has had the disease is to have a blood test to determine whether there are antibodies to the rubella virus. Even though young women should be concerned about their rubella immunization status before they ever become pregnant, young men should also be protected to prevent spread of the disease.

College students have several options for obtaining immunizations:

- 1) Private physician or clinic;
- 2) Washtenaw County Health Department has recently revised its immunization clinic policies to include Washtenaw county residents who are college students. Clinics are held on Wednesdays, 1:30-4:30 p.m. as follows:
Sept. 12—555 Towner, Ypsilanti
Sept. 19—2355 West Stadium, Ann Arbor
Sept. 26—555 Towner, Ypsilanti
Oct. 3—4101 Washtenaw (off Hogback).
- 3) University of Michigan students may contact the U. of M. Health Service at 763-1418.
- 4) Eastern Michigan University students may contact Snow Health Center at 487-1122.

Pinckney Youth Completes Marine Basic Training

Marine Pfc. Fred E. Karsten, Jr., son of Fredrick E. Karsten, Sr., of 721 E. Main, Pinckney, has completed recruit training at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot, San Diego, Calif.

During the 11-week training cycle, he learned the basics of battlefield survival. He was introduced to the typical daily routine that he will experience during his enlistment and studied the personal and professional standards traditionally exhibited by Marines.

He participated in an active physical conditioning program and gained proficiency in a variety of military skills, including first aid, rifle marksmanship and close order drill. Teamwork and self-discipline were emphasized throughout the training cycle.

Employee benefits, such as paid leave, health insurance, and retirement programs, have been increasing their share of compensation in the post-World War II era; currently they make up at least 25 percent of the wage and benefit package. Of these benefits, major medical insurance plans have registered among the largest gains. Such plans, geared toward catastrophic illness or injury, now cover 175 million people, up from 100,000 some 30 years earlier, according to "Our Changing Economy: A BLS Centennial Chartbook."

Draft Horse Visits Beach Middle School

A draft horse had the starring role in Beach Middle school's speech and drama class, Sept. 18. The class was engaged in presenting demonstration speeches, which show how to do something. Student Craig McCalla decided to focus his speech on how to show a draft horse. His father Howard McCalla obligingly brought the necessary prop to school.

which is composed of eighth grade students. She advised them to bring umbrellas if it rained since that segment of that class was held outdoors for obvious reasons.

Abraham Lincoln snored.

Alumni Band Meets Friday

Chelsea Alumni Band will meet by 5 p.m. the day of the homecoming game, Friday, Sept. 21 in the band room. Instruments will be provided for those who need them. Former majorettes and flag girls are still needed and encouraged to come. Present college students are especially welcome.

The band will perform at halftime during the homecoming game. Band members should wear shirts and buttons from this year's sesquicentennial, or if these are not available, dark slacks and a light shirt.

There will be a get-together after the game. A short meeting will be held before rehearsal to hear ideas on activities for the get-together.

Prizes will be awarded to the oldest alumni and the one who came the greatest distance.

Cost to participate is $1 to cover the admittance fee to the game.

Those interested should contact Mrs. Granger, 475-9520 or if she cannot be reached, should show up at the band room at Chelsea High school for practice.

St. Mary's Pastor, Nun Ride Balloon

For the Rev. Fr. Philip Dupuis and Sister Pat Weigang, it was an experience of a lifetime, a sort of early ascension.

Both went up in a hot-air balloon last Sunday evening as the climax to the St. Mary's Catholic church fall festival, and both described the ride in ethereal terms.

"It was absolutely magnificent," said the woman who is known as "Sister Pat" to all Catholics and many other people in the community.

"I would go again right now if somebody offered me the chance. It was wonderful. We saw all of Ann Arbor and got a glimpse of the Detroit skyline, and we looked all over the local countryside.

"We were watching for deer and didn't see any, but we did see a fox running across a field."

Father Dupuis called it "a real nice ride, a lot of fun."

"I've flown in small airplanes before, but they go too fast for you to be able to really see things. This was like sitting on a platform and looking down on the earth. It was a great experience, one I'll never forget."

The balloon, piloted by Graham Parsons of Britannia Balloons, Ann Arbor, ascended at 6:15 p.m. Sunday from the St. Mary's church grounds and came down about an hour later off Fletcher Rd. near Pleasant Lake after having drifted approximately eight miles southeast.

Also on the trip was Michael Roskowski of 5501 Conway Rd., who had one of the two winning tickets among 280 purchased for the balloon raffle.

It was intended all along that Fr. Dupuis would take the balloon ride as a birthday present from his parishioners. "I think everybody in the parish knew about it beforehand except me," he said. "It came as a real surprise."

For sister Pat, the trip was a matter of luck. Her name and Roskowski's were drawn in the raffle. If the drawing was somehow weighed in her favor, nobody in charge would admit it.

"She had bought one ticket, and her nephew from Detroit had bought 10 more in her name," said Micki Herrst of Grass Lake who was one of the persons in charge of the event. "Her name was drawn, and I'm awfully happy that it was."

That wasn't the only "minor miracle" of the event. Last Sunday was the first day in three weeks the weather was good for ballooning, according to Parsons.

"We prayed all week that the weather would allow the balloon to go up, and it did," Mrs. Herrst said. "You can believe whatever you want to, but I think our prayers were answered."

Seniors Share Lunch With North School Staff

Although the Senior Citizens Center has been located in North Elementary school for several years, there hasn't been very much interaction between the two. This year, the center decided to do something about it.

They began by inviting the school's parent-teacher group to a senior rummage sale. Then, the seniors sent flowers to all the North staff members on the first day of school.

Last week, five North staff persons found handwritten luncheon invitations in their mail boxes. Seniors had decided to invite staff to lunch during the months of their birthdays. The first of these luncheons was held Sept. 14.

Those staff members, who have September birthdays, were third grade teacher Peggy Moore, second grade teacher Sue Walton, gym teacher Bill Wehrwein and custodians Sarah Joseph and Terry Eder.

In exchange, the school gives seniors a home for their center. School personnel have also made an effort to park further away from the building so seniors can have the closer parking spaces.

"I would like the seniors at any time they need help, to make this their home. We definitely want communication flowing between the seniors and the teachers and the kids. This is the first time since I've been here, that we've opened communications. We're all in this together. This is going to be a way to share," said principal William Wescott.

Beach Academic Games Club Still Open to New Members

The Academic Games Club at Beach Middle school has already begun practice for the upcoming year but there's still room for new members. The club meets every Monday and Thursday after school to practice. Math teacher Betty Cox directs the club.

The club is part of the Michigan League of Academic Games, a group of 75 schools, which meet to compete playing various games. The 75 schools are divided into five regions, therefore, Chelsea only competes with 15 other schools. Most of these schools are from Detroit, although other schools include Lansing and South Lyon. Chelsea has been a member of the league for five years.

University of Michigan professor Layman Allan and his brother Robert created the games. "Equations," a math game, is played with dice bearing numbers and signs. "Onwards" and "Linguistics" are both English games. "Mr. Presidents" and "Ameri-world Card" involve social studies and have a question and answer format.

Competitions are held one Saturday per month until February. Sometime in the near future, Chelsea will hold a competition here. 250-300 students are expected to attend. In March, the Chelsea club will compete at a six-day state tournament. Last year, the club won two state championships and nine awards. Interest in the club has increased since last year. This year, 37 members have signed up as opposed to 25 last year. Some are expected to drop out because of conflicts with the after-school practice which is mandatory.

"We did really well at the state tournament last year. I think that's why I have the 37 this year. They're excited about repeating their performance," said Cox.

A national tournament is held in Atlanta, Ga. but so far, the Chelsea team has not entered that competition.

Cox has taught math at the high school for 15 years. She became interested in the league when she took some students to a math competition and observed a match of "Equations."

"I thought it would be great and the kids thought it would be great too," said Cox.

U-M Family Practice Center Welcomes New Physicians

The Family Practice Center at Chelsea is welcoming its 1984 class of family practice residents. "The seven physicians are graduates of medical schools across the country," states Dr. James Peggs, director of the Family Practice Center. "They have selected Chelsea as the site for their training which will take place at the Family Practice Center over the next three years," he continues.

In addition to learning the specifics of family practice, these physicians will be gaining more experience in other medical specialties through rotations at University Hospitals, St. Joseph Mercy Hospital and by working with area physicians.

"During their residency program," Dr. Peggs adds, "the physicians will learn the unique attitudes and skills that will qualify them to provide continuing, comprehensive, health maintenance and medical care to the family." They will practice the philosophy of family medicine by caring for members of the entire family regardless of sex, age or type of problem.

Dr. Peggs notes that family physicians treat 90-95% of all illnesses that present in the office. They also serve as the patient's or family's advocate in all health-related matters, including the appropriate use of consultants and community resources.

As part of their orientation to the program, the residents spend time getting acquainted with the Center, Hospital and community. "Special sessions are scheduled to introduce them to the community and social service agencies," states Dr. Peggs. "Every attempt is made to introduce them to the people and activities they should know in the Chelsea community."

The physicians come from the following medical schools: Ann Eyster, University of Michigan; John Hallfrisch, University of Michigan; Christine Jerpak, University of Minnesota; Paul Lentz, University of Miami; Dennis Lockrey, Loyola-Stritch; Lynn Swan, University of Michigan; Peter Zenti, University of Michigan.

Staff physicians and residents work in a mutually complementary fashion. The residents are new graduates from medical school and they have the most recent information on new technology and medical advance. The staff physicians in turn provide them with a wealth of experience. This combination provides patients with experience and up to date technology.

The physicians are all looking forward to the next three years at the Family Practice Center and being a part of the Chelsea community.

The Chelsea plant of the Federal Screw Works on Monday of this week made its first pension payment to a retired worker under the plan included in the new wage contract, negotiated recently between the company and its UAW-CIO employees. John M. Oesterle, 70 years old, an employee of the local plant since Oct. 30, 1916, is the first worker to become eligible for the full pension. He has been on leave of absence the past year because of a heart ailment.

Residents and businessmen in the recently-created fire district in the downtown area are being notified on printed forms of a modification of the rules pertaining to the burning of rubbish and waste paper in the district. Small businesses and apartment dwellers in the downtown section complaining of the hardship caused them by the ruling that prohibited the burning of rubbish, etc., in the area, induced council members and fire officials to agree to some modification for the present. Detailed rules for burning refuse in the fire district are printed elsewhere in this issue of The Standard.

Chief restrictions are the time for such fires (between 6 a.m. and noon), and the fact that the fires must be kept within metal containers covered with 1/2-inch mesh screen and placed 15 feet or farther from buildings.

Monday, Sept. 25, Washtenaw county's quota of 290 men will go to Detroit for pre-induction physicals. The group leaving Ann Arbor, will also include a number of University students and others transferred here from other selective service boards.

THIS FORLORN LOOKING train station may become the site of a community activities center if efforts by the Chamber of Commerce and Chelsea Area Historical Society to purchase the building are successful. Amtrak, who owns the depot, has refused to sell it, although it is of little use to them and has fallen into disrepair as can be seen from the two-tone paint job.

Congressman Pursell Asked To Help Get Train Depot For Historical Society

William Connelly of the Chamber of Commerce has begun to work on his strategy to recapture the train depot for the Chelsea Historical Society and the community.

Connelly had suggested putting pressure on Amtrak through elected representatives. He invited congressman Carl Pursell to attend a Kiwanis Club meeting on Sept. 17 and hear suggestions.

According to Connelly, Pursell is on the House Appropriations Committee which gives Amtrak over half its funding. The 1984 federal budget for Amtrak was $682 million. In 1985, the system is budgeted to receive $724 million.

"That's about $3.15 for every man, woman and child in the United States. There are about 10,000 people in the greater Chelsea area. We're paying about $31,000 per year to support Amtrak and we're getting nothing. No passenger service, nothing," he said.

Connelly proposes to ask Pursell to use his influence to intervene with Amtrak on the community's behalf.

"Here's a station worth nothing to them on land we gave them and we want them to convey the land and the station for $1 to the village of Chelsea. As part of our bargain, we will agree that if they want to restore passenger service, we'll see that they have ample facilities," said Connelly.

The depot is actually owned by Amtrak and not Conrail, said Connelly. Conrail purchased the building on Sept. 21, 1978 and then sold it to Amtrak Oct. 23, 1978.

"A representative of the historical Society did approach Amtrak and asked if we could buy the railroad station and they said they won't sell," said Connelly.

The Chamber of Commerce is interested in the depot as a civic center as well as a museum. Community groups may eventually use the building as a meeting place, although getting a meeting place is not what the Chamber of Commerce is looking for.

"We're not hard up for meeting places. That's not the motive here. The motive is we have a cherished historical building and we want to preserve it," said Connelly.

The Chelsea Area Historical Society has been working on getting the building for a long time in order to house a museum and their meetings.

"The interest on our part was having a meeting place on the ground floor. We're looking for one where it's easier for the older people to get to and enjoy the meetings, and to have a museum for our stuff which is stored in our houses," said Max Hepburn, Society president.

"If there's anyone in Chelsea who would like to give us one of their old houses, we'll take that," said Hepburn.

Because an attempt to lease the building has proven unsuccessful, Historical Society member and attorney William Rademacher is investigating the purchase of the building. Chelsea service groups have been invited to join "Save the Depot" a non-profit organization, which would act as a liaison in negotiating the

Red Cross Nurses Ratify Contract

Red Cross nurses have voted overwhelmingly in favor of ratification of a new contract, reports local Red Cross spokesperson Julie Prohaska. The vote, taken Sept. 9, formally ended the strike by members of District 1199 M of the Michigan Health Care Association against Red Cross Southeastern Michigan Blood Services, headquartered in Detroit.

Both the nursing staff and Blood Services administration report that the new contract assures donor safety and comfort.

Prohaska stressed the need for people to donate blood. Supplies of blood remain low as elective surgeries postponed during the strike are being rescheduled.

The Red Cross will be holding a blood drive in Dexter on Monday, Sept. 24. The drive will be held at St. Andrew's United Church of Christ, 7610 Ann Arbor Rd., from 1 p.m. to 7 p.m.

Donors may also give blood at the local Red Cross chapter, located at 2729 Packard Rd., in Ann Arbor. Regular donor hours at the chapter are 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Mondays and Thursdays, noon to 6 p.m. on Tuesdays and the third and fourth Fridays of each month, and 1 p.m. to 7 p.m. on all other Fridays. Anyone between the ages of 17 and 65, who is in good health and weighs at least 110 pounds may donate.

Saline Impressive In 20-0 Triumph Over Tough Bulldogs

Saline proved to be too much for the out-manned and smaller Chelsea Bulldogs to handle here last Friday night, as the visiting Hornets earned an impressive 20-0 victory in the rain.

Saline jumped out to a 14-0 first-quarter lead and put the game away with a third-quarter touchdown that killed any Chelsea hopes for a comeback.

The Hornets are big, and they used their size and strength to excellent advantage under conditions which made straight-ahead power football the way to play. Rain fell intermittently throughout the contest.

Saline running backs Chris Evans and John Barth both weigh 200 pounds. Neither is especially quick or fast, but both have the power to break tackles and run over people, and that's what they did.

Danny Wallace executes the option play about as well as you will ever see any high school quarterback do it. His split-second pitch-outs gave the Bulldog defense fits. Wallace can also throw the ball accurately when the crunching Hornet ground game stalls.

Saline's offensive and defensive lines both average better than 200 pounds across the front, and the backs in the defensive secondary are big, mobile and react fast.

In sum, the Hornets have excellent personnel and must be given a good chance to go to the state play-offs as they did last year.

Chelsea played well and doesn't have to apologize for its showing. The game could well have turned into a rout, and it's to the Bulldogs' credit that it didn't.

Saline scored on its first two possessions in the opening quarter, and that was the ball game for all intents and purposes.

The Hornets took the opening kick-off and went 64 yards in nine plays, the last one a perfectly executed pass into the far corner of the end zone from Wallace to Steve Jordan.

The next time Saline got the ball, it marched 54 yards in five plays, with Barth going over from the 23 with the help of devastating blocking. Four of his teammates were out in front as he crossed the goal line. Jon Fosdick kicked both extra points.

The rest of the contest was played on fairly even terms, which is a plaudit to the Bulldogs who fought back gallantly although over-matched in size and strength. Out-weighted by about 20 pounds per man, they scrapped, scratched and managed to keep the final score respectable.

Saline's last touchdown came off a break, a fumble recovery on Chelsea's 28 in the third quarter. The Hornets ground out the distance, with Barth getting the last yard.

Both Evans and Barth gained more than 100 yards apiece during the game, an impressive one-two backfield punch.

Chelsea's best scoring opportunity occurred in the second quarter when sophomore flanker Todd Starkey caught a Dan Bellus pass and headed for the end zone. He was foot-tripped from behind, a foul that cost Saline 15 yards but prevented a touchdown.

The pass completion and the penalty put the ball on the Hornet six, where the Bulldogs lost it on a fumble.

Chelsea got down inside the Saline 10 late in the game, but coughed up the ball on another turnover—an interception of a pass that caromed off the fingers of a Bulldog receiver into the hands of an alert Hornet defender.

Chelsea could not establish any kind of a running game, gaining just 40 yards on the ground. Halfbacks Scott Miller and Steve Wingrove had no room to run against the big and quick Hornet line.

Bellus completed six passes, four of them to Starkey, but was intercepted four times. With its line shutting down the run, Saline's defense was able to play its secondary deep and wait for the pass.

"Saline was definitely the better team out there tonight," a disappointed Chelsea coach Gene LaFave said after the game. "They dominated us and deserved to win. They are a very good football team, and they are going to be tough for anybody to beat."

"The conditions favored Saline. Their size, strength and power helped them on a wet field. We couldn't do some of the things we planned to do because of the rain and the slippery ball. We basically have to rely on passing, ball-handling and finesse on offense, and the weather took some things away from us."

"I'd like to play them again on a dry field with all of our kids healthy. I'm not saying we would win for sure, but we would give them a better game."

The word "healthy" is becoming a key to Chelsea's hopes for the rest of the season. The Bulldogs haven't suffered a lot of injuries in total, but the hurts have concentrated in two key positions—split end and strong safety. The top three players at each spot are all out of action, a big problem on a squad that didn't have a great deal of depth to start.

"When we get those boys back, we'll be a much better football team," LaFave promised. "None of the injuries is really serious, but they are the kind that take time to heal."

Meanwhile, LaFave will be looking for ways to move the ball on the ground. Chelsea has gained exactly 100 yards by rushing in its first two games, and that isn't enough to sustain the kind of balanced offense a winning team must have.

"We just haven't had the blocking up front to give our ball carriers a decent chance to find holes and run," LaFave said. "We've got to do that. We can't throw on every down."

LaFave praised captain David Steinhauer, Starkey, Dave Boote and Mark E. Bentley for their play against Saline. "I'll have to look at the films before I can judge other individual performances," he added. "Obviously, when you lose like we did, you don't have a lot of stand-outs."

"Still, I think we played respectable football against a very good opponent under adverse conditions."

The Bulldogs, now 1-1 on the season and 0-1 in the Southeastern Conference, will have a chance to come back in a home game against Milan Friday night. Kick-off time is 7:30 p.m.

Milan is likewise 1-1 and 0-1, having beaten Carleton Airport and lost to Pinckney.

Chelsea Hasn't Scored In Six Saline Games

None of Chelsea's football teams—varsity, junior varsity or freshman—has scored a point against Saline in two years, and that is beginning to bug some people, including the Bulldog coaching staff.

The combined score for the six games played during the past two seasons is Saline 128, Chelsea 0.

The 1983 total was 72-0. This fall's was 56-0, a 16-point "improvement" which didn't make anybody happy.

"Saline has a fine football program and so do we," one Chelsea assistant coach commented. "We're not all that far behind them. I don't believe in hexes or jinxes, but I'm beginning to wonder. I think maybe it's gotten to be a mental thing with our kids. They get awfully up-tight when they play Saline."

"I'll tell you one thing. When we play Saline next year, I'm going to find some way to score if we don't do anything else. Maybe that will break the spell."

For the record, here are the scores:

1983—Saline varsity 18, Chelsea 0; Saline JV's 40, Chelsea 0; Saline freshmen 14, Chelsea 0.

1984—Saline varsity 20, Chelsea 0; Saline JV's 14, Chelsea 0; Saline freshmen 22, Chelsea 0.

It's a record of whitewash that Bulldog coaches want badly to erase.

About all that can be said at this point is, wait until next year.

Other songbirds may flee when people move in, but the American robin seems to thrive amid civilization, say wildlife experts.

CHELSEA RUNNERS were squelched all evening by Saline's defense, but Bulldog halfback Scott Miller did find a little bit of running room on this play and took advantage of it, leaving two would-be tacklers in his wake.

HE GOT THE JOB DONE: Robin Raymond sat through the rain at the Chelsea-Saline football game last Friday night and operated a makeshift scoreboard powered by a gasoline generator. The regular board, in the background, doesn't work and apparently isn't going to.

Improvised Scoreboard Serves Well in Pinch

The permanent scoreboard at Chelsea's Niehaus Field doesn't work and, according to athletic director Ron Nemeth, probably isn't going to.

"We tried all week to get it going, but we couldn't do it," Nemeth said just before last Friday's Chelsea-Saline football game. "I think it's shot, finished, done for. We need a new one."

An improvised scoreboard powered by a gasoline generator was used to keep track of the time and the score in Friday's game.

It was mounted on a scaffold and operated by Robin Raymond, Chelsea math teacher and former basketball coach.

"I guess this is all right to do once," Raymond said as he held up an umbrella to protect himself against the rain, "but I won't volunteer to do it again. We're going to have to get something else, the sooner the better."

Actually, the hastily installed

Boy Harriers Finish Third

Chelsea's boys cross country team continued to improve as they placed third with 107 points at the 14-team Huron Invitational last Saturday.

Class A Monroe won the meet with 29 points.

Tim Bowdish led the Bulldog's effort with a fine third place finish at 16:45. Senior Co-Captain Jared Bradley also had a fine day, finishing 12th at 17:22.

Other Bulldog placers were: 29th, John Cattell (18:06); 30th, Bob Torres (18:10); 33rd, Allan Kuhl (18:23); 38th, Jason Crefield (18:43); and 42nd, Jeff Wheaton (18:50).

In junior varsity competition the top placers were: 15th, Kyle Kemmish (19:26); 18th, Lee Riemenschneider (19:32); 22nd, Tucker Lee (19:37); and 32nd, Pete Hanna (19:58).

Bulldog Golfers Dumped By Saline, Then Come Back To Beat Milan in League Play

Chelsea's varsity golf team had a bad day on Saline's home Brookside course last Tuesday, and the result was a 161-168 loss to the Hornets.

The Bulldogs came back on Thursday to beat Milan, 150-164, over the Hickory Hills course which is "home" to the Big Reds.

The split left Chelsea with a 2-1 record in the Southeastern Conference and in the position of chasing Saline which has moved out front in the league title chase.

Coach Ken Larson's team had a chance yesterday to catch up when they matched with Saline and Dexter in a double-dual meet at Inverness Country Club, the season's first outing for the Bulldogs on their home course.

"We just plain played poorly against Saline," Larson said. "Two of the boys shot well, but everybody else had an off day. We had a total of 42 penalty strokes, which is kind of unbelievable over a course that is wide open. We sprayed the ball all over."

Doug Otto carded a 37 and Mike Carignan 38. The Bulldogs' next two best scores were Eric Schaffner's 46 and Jon Lane's 47.

The Bulldog JV's likewise lost their match to Saline, 178-181. Chelsea scores included Rob Murrell 43, John Mitchell 45, Greg Boughton 46 and Tom Roth 47.

Stung by the unexpected loss to Saline, the Bulldogs came back with some solid golf under miserable conditions to beat Milan. The match was played under a constant steady rain.

Carignan led the way with a fine 35. Schaffner recorded 38, Brian Ackley 38, and Harris and Otto 39 each.

The Chelsea JV's also won, 181-216. Scores posted were Roth 40, Murrell 44, Matt Doan 48 and Rob Langbehn 49.

Even though it dropped his favored team into a catch-up position, Larson was able to rationalize the loss to Saline.

"I still think we have the best golf team in the league and that we can win the championship," he said, "but we're not unbeatable. Saline proved that, and I think our boys learned a lesson from it. They have to go out there and concentrate on every stroke. If they do that, we'll be all right."

OUT IN THE OPEN

By BILL MULLENDRE

As expected, I received considerable comment on my recent series of Out in the Open columns on the issue of gun control. Also as expected, I got no compliments and was called several nasty names, most of them unprintable.

One idiot who called me at home late at night set some kind of a record for a succession of expletive-deleted four-letter words. I think I know almost every dirty word in the language, but must say this man has a real knack for stringing them together. It would take about six lines of type to print them all, even if I wanted to and could do it without violating the law against publishing obscene material.

What was interesting was that nobody was willing to discuss the issue quietly and sensibly. Every reaction came at the level of a shout, and my suggestions to "let's calm down and talk about this" were received with even louder shouts.

You can't have a reasonable dialogue that way, and I suggest that is a big part of the problem. Reasonable people, equally well informed, rarely disagree. That implies willingness to listen and talk, not yell non-stop.

Beyond that, I'm not going to respond to the rhetoric. I can shout loud and write nasty, but that isn't going to help solve the problem.

Look, we are going to have some new gun control laws, and they are long overdue. The stone wall of opposition will not hold up much longer. There are too many people out there who are sick, tired and fed up with gun misuse, and they eventually are going to get some attention.

What scares me is that the reaction may be extreme, and that the laws enacted will be unnecessarily punitive, restrictive and unenforceable. It's time responsible gun owners agreed to sit down and talk. If they don't, they are going to have something shoved down their throats that they won't want to live with.

The argument that no gun regulation law will work is fallacious. Show me any law that works perfectly and is never violated. What is needed is a set of laws which work better than those we now have, and that seems to be a modest objective given the sorry record of the recent past.

Some way has to be found to keep guns out of the hands of criminals and crazies, and to punish severely those who handle guns irresponsibly. The system has to work so that law-abiding citizens can continue to own and use guns for fun and sport.

I'm convinced that, as part of the process, we must abandon the idea of possessing guns for purposes of self-defense.

What seems to get lost in all the hot-headed arguing is the fact that a gun—any gun—is a dangerous and deadly weapon. Guns were invented for the purpose of killing. I can rationalize killing as part of the act of hunting, but I sure can't accept the idea of gunning down a fellow human being except as an absolute last resort.

Guns are not toys, even though they are used for recreational purposes. I've had a lot of fun with guns over the years, but have never forgotten for a moment that what I was holding in my hands had the potential to kill whatever I aimed at.

I'm proud of my record. I never had an accident with a gun, never shot at anything that I didn't intend to after first carefully determining the target. Gun ownership has been a source of pride and pleasure. As a boy I learned to shoot reasonably well, and used that knowledge over the years to enjoy many thousands of hours in hunting fields and on target ranges. That's what guns are for in our present-day society.

If we could somehow put the subject of guns into that sort of perspective, and legislate accordingly, we could solve or at least ease some of the current problems of gun abuse.

I think that's possible, but the shouting has to die down before it can be done.

Girls Tennis Team Loses Two Close Matches

The girls tennis team lost two very tough matches this week to Columbia Central, 3-4, and Pinckney, 3-4. Seven of the matches went to three sets.

"We just don't know how to win the close ones yet," said coach Terri Schreiner. "We have seldom gone to three sets in the past and have to learn how to be more aggressive and go after the necessary points to win."

Both matches this week were very close and went down to the wire before achieving a win.

"We fought hard but not hard enough. We should win both of these matches next time with a little more determination," said Schreiner.

Melanie Dills, who played first singles, won over Pinckney's Gail Evans, 6-2, 6-4 but lost to Columbia's Jenny Owens, 6-1, 6-2. Melanie is 3-1 in the season at this point. Chris DeFant played second singles. She lost a tough three setter to Pinckney's Gail Evans, 6-2, 2-6, 6-3. She lost to Dana Applegate of Columbia, 6-1, 6-2.

Jackie Boosey also lost a tough three setter to Pinckney's Janie Hulman, 4-6, 4-6, 6-0 and to Columbia's Shelly Lindeman, 6-2, 6-1. Angie Miller playing fourth singles won over Pinckney's Alanna Rebecca, 6-0, 6-3. Jenny Pichlik played four against Columbia and lost 6-1, 6-4 to Tracy Kerr.

Chelsea's first doubles team of Dawn Olson and Carol Nix won both of their matches this week. They beat Cindy Neistochal and Megan Moburg of Columbia, 4-6, 6-3, 6-3 and Kristin Schenden and Karen Doten of Pinckney, 5-7, 6-4, 6-4.

Second doubles, Karen Killebrew and Anne Acree, won over Columbia's Stacey Urley and Missy Moburg, 2-6, 6-4, 7-5 but lost to Pinckney's Angie Fowler and Rhonie Hendy, 6-3, 7-5.

Deana Slusher and Laura Nix played third dubs. They beat Columbia's team of Kim Walters and Angie DuBois, 0-6, 6-4, 6-3, but lost to Pinckney's Kim Tuff and Michelle Makara, 6-4, 4-6, 6-1. "There were a lot of tough close matches this week which could have gone either way. We have to learn how to win the ones that are really right down to the wire," said Schreiner.

The team's season record is 1-3. The next games will be held Sept. 19 at Riverview and Sept. 26 at Jackson against Columbia Central.

Girls Varsity Basketball Team Plays Two Close Games

Chelsea girls varsity basketball team won a close game against Howell Sept. 11 but nearly lost in the last five minutes of the fourth quarter. The final score was 50-45.

The team played well but lost another close game against Monroe St. Mary's, 48-44 on Sept. 13.

The Sept. 11 game began with Howell leading by a point, 14-13, in the first quarter. Chelsea turned the scoring around 14-7 in the second quarter for a half of 27-21. Chelsea continued to do well in the third quarter, 11-4.

"Except for about three minutes in the fourth quarter, I was pretty pleased. We were ahead 48-33 with about five minutes left in the fourth quarter and we just hit a real bad spell. We didn't score for four and a half minutes and Howell went crazy and kept scoring. We finally hit a couple free-throws with a couple seconds left," said coach Jim Winters.

Kim Weber made the last two free-throws, but Howell still led the last quarter, 20-12.

Howell outscored Chelsea on the field goals by 6 points. They shot 19 out of 56 or 34% while Chelsea shot 16 out of 61 or 26%.

Chelsea, however, outscored Howell on free throws by 11 points. The team succeeded in 18 out of 34 attempts or 53% while Howell only made 7 out of 12.

Chelsea was outrebounded 37-30.

Beth Unterbrink was leading scorer with 17 points, 11 rebounds and five steals. Kim Weber scored 14 points and also made five steals. Joann Tobin stole six times.

Except for Chelsea losing, the Monroe St. Mary's game was almost ideal.

"This was a real nice game. I'm about as pleased as you can be with losing. Both teams matched up real well size wise. There was a bunch of good players on both teams. It was the way I like to see basketball go. The referees were good. People were interested in the game and were loud. If we could have made half of our free throws, it would have been nice," Winters said.

Chelsea took the first quarter, 11-7, and the last quarter, 12-8. Monroe St. Mary's led in the second and third quarters, 15-12 and 18-9, respectively. Half-time score was in Chelsea's favor, 22-22.

The team shot their best field goal record so far at 37%. They made 19 out of 51 field goals. They made 6 out of 22 free throws (27%). The team also outrebounded Monroe St. Mary's 36-32.

Chelsea's goals are to make 50% of their free throws and if they had done this, they would have won the game, said Winters.

"We gave up too many points in the third quarter and we're not supposed to do that. We were ahead in the third quarter, 32-30, and then St. Mary's scored 10 straight points so they were ahead by 8," he said.

"We cut it back down to 2. In the fourth, they went up by 8 again. It was 46-38. We cut it back down to 2, 46-44. We had a couple shots to tie, we missed it and they scored a couple times. If we had made half of our free throws, we would have been ahead by one point," said Winters.

The team's shooting has improved, however, and their intensity was good, he said.

Tobin led scoring with 14 points and 8 rebounds. Unterbrink scored 10 points. Kristi Headrick had 9 rebounds.

The team's season record is 2-2. They will play Ann Arbor's Gabriel Richard on Sept. 20 at 5:30 p.m. in a home game.

JV Gridders Lose at Saline, 14-0, Search for Some Scoring Punch

Chelsea's junior varsity football team lost to the Saline JV's, 14-0, at Saline last Thursday night in a game in which the Bulldogs were physically out-matched.

"They are a lot bigger than we are, and they wore us down," coach Jim Ticknor said. "Our kids never quit trying, and I'm pleased with the effort they made. What it comes down to is that they were beaten by a bigger and better team."

The contest was played in rain on a wet field with a slippery ball, which hurt Chelsea's chances.

"At this point we are basically a passing team on offense," Ticknor said. "Matt Bohlender is developing into a fine quarterback, and we have some good receivers. Because of the weather, we couldn't use them effectively."

"Unfortunately, we don't have much of a running game yet, and that hurt."

Establishing a running game will depend on how fast five injured offensive linemen can recover and get back into action, Ticknor said.

"It's strange, but it almost always happens that, when you get a bunch of injuries, you get them at just a couple of positions. In our case, we've been badly hurt at offensive tackle and guard, where we didn't have a whole lot of depth to start with."

"When we get the injured boys back, our blocking on the line will improve and we'll do better running the ball. That will help our passing game, because opponents won't be able to sit back and wait for us to throw."

Still, it could have been a 0-0 game but for a couple of Chelsea mistakes.

Saline scored its first touchdown on a fourth-down play in the second quarter that should have been stopped but wasn't because of two missed tackles.

The Hornets got into the end zone again in the third period on a 37-yard runback of an intercepted pass.

The Bulldogs threatened only once, driving to the Saline 20 in the fourth quarter before losing the ball on downs.

Ticknor was pleased with the play of junior Rob England at tackle. He's big—6-2 and 230 pounds—and is learning the techniques to take advantage of his size.

"We have to find ways to put points on the board," Ticknor summed up. "We've scored only six points in two games, and it's tough to win that way. The defense has played well, but the offense has a long way to go."

Girl Runners Close Gap On Top-Rated Lumen Christi

Chelsea's girls cross country team defeated Jackson Northwest, 15-48, while losing to two-time state champions Lumen Christi, 18-41.

Junior Amy Wolfgang led the Bulldogs with a first place against Northwest (third over-all) in a fine time of 21:20 on the soggy, rain-swept Jackson course.

The Bulldogs kept their fine grouping with only 16 seconds separating the top runners.

"We accomplished what we wanted to in establishing a front-runner," coach Pat Clarke said.

"The two girls who beat Amy were both top 10 state finishers last year, and she stayed with them for quite a while. We are continuing to close the gap on the Lumen Christi pack as they are only about 10 seconds ahead of us at this point."

Places and times against Northwest were: 1, Amy

Wolfgang, 21:20; 2, Kim Collins, 21:44; 3, Kasey Anderson, 21:46; 4, Melanie Flanigan, 21:49; 5, Mary Ann Richardson, 21:49; 7, Robin Mock, 21:55; 8, Laura Damm, 22:00; 9, Kim Allen, 22:05; 12, Jennifer Rossi, 23:08; 13, Alisha Dorow, 23:19; 14, Ann Brosnan, 23:28; 15, Wendy Hunn, 23:28; 16, Anna Muncer, 23:33; 17, Susan Jaques, 23:36; 20, Shanda Friday, 24:07; 21, Debbie Tift, 24:07; 22, Cathy Burkel, 24:50.

Girl Cagers Defeat Howell

Chelsea girls junior varsity basketball team won a game against Howell, 50-23, but lost their first game of the season against Monroe St. Mary's, 54-35.

The Howell game took place Tuesday, Sept. 11. The first half proceeded fairly evenly with a tied first quarter of 10-10. Howell edged to the lead in the second quarter 10-5 for a halftime of 20-15 in Howell's favor.

Chelsea played more aggressively in the second half, reports coach Paul Terpstra. The third quarter ended 21-6 in Chelsea's favor. The team also won the last quarter 9-2.

Chelsea shot 19 out of 75 field goals or 25%. The team's goal, said Terpstra, is to shoot at least 30%. They made 12 out of 21 (57%) free throws, however. Although Howell outrebounded

Chelsea 44-42, Chelsea captured 26 steals.

Cris Zerkel led the scoring with 15 points and 15 rebounds followed by Trish Mattoff with 13 and Kim Ferry with 9.

Chelsea did not play up to snuff in the second game against Monroe St. Mary's. "They played very well and they have a good team. We didn't play as well as we're capable of," said Terpstra.

St. Mary's won all but the last quarter. They led 14-5 in the first quarter, 12-10 in the second, and 18-6 in the third. Chelsea took the last quarter, 14-10.

"Our kids never gave up. They hustled throughout the game. We just have to cut down our mistakes and shoot a little better," said Terpstra.

Chelsea turned the ball over to St. Mary's 36 times.

Chelsea made 25% of their field goals or 16 out of 64. St. Mary's, on the other hand, shot 25 out of 47 or 52%. Chelsea succeeded in making 3 out of 14 free throws or 22%.

Zerkel again led the scoring with 10 points. Leah Enderle and Ferry contributed 8 points each. Zerkel was also the leading rebounder, once again. She rebounded 11 times. Ferry rebounded 7.

The season record, so far, stands at 3-1. The next game will be played here, Sept. 20 against Ann Arbor's Gabriel Richard at 5:30 p.m.

Girls JV Tennis Team Maintains Winning Streak

Chelsea junior varsity girls tennis team has continued a season winning streak by defeating Columbia Central, 4-1, and Pinckney, 3-2. Their season record so far is 4-0.

Kelly Stump and Arlene Tai won both their matches this week. The defeated Pinckney, 10-2. They played the only doubles match against Columbia and won 10-4. Their season record so far is 3-1.

In Pinckney, doubles Minta Van Reesma and Ada Tai lost 7-10 to their opponents. Alison Thornton and Kim Hamrick lost 9-11. Meredith Johnson and Kristin Muncer beat Pinckney, 10-1.

Jenny Pichlik won her singles match over Pinckney, 10-1. Angie Miller defeated the only Columbia Central singles player, 6-1, 6-0.

The team will play matches

Boy Harriers Win Over Jackson Team

The Chelsea varsity boys cross country team swamped Jackson Northwest, 15-50, last Thursday. In the same meet the boys lost to state-ranked Lumen Christi, 20-41.

Junior Tim Bowdish ran an outstanding race, passing two Lumen Christi runners over the last 300 meters to win in a course-record time of 16:43.

His time broke a four-year old course mark of 16:47 held by former Bulldog all-stater Mark Brosnan.

"Tim ran a very smart race, showing a lot of heart at the finish," Clarke said. "I was very pleased with his performance. Our team showed great improvement, especially seniors Jared Bradley, Allan Kuhl, sophomore Jason Creffield, and freshman John Cattell. We'll continue to improve as the season progresses."

Bulldog places and times against Northwest were as follows: 1, Tim Bowdish, 16:43; 2, Jared Bradley, 17:28; 3, John Cattell, 18:05; 4, Allan Kuhl, 18:20; 5, Jason Creffield, 18:32; 6, Bob Torres, 18:33; 7, Jeff Wheaton, 19:13; 8, Kyle Kemmish, 19:14; 12, Lee Riemenschneider 19:33.

Girls Tennis Game Against Williamston Rained Out

Girls varsity and junior varsity tennis games against Williamston were rained out on Sept. 13. The game has been tentatively rescheduled for the week of Sept. 27. That date will depend, however, on the availability of transportation to Williamston for the team.

Hunting and Fishing Day Celebration Set Sept. 22

National Hunting and Fishing Day will be observed in Chelsea on Saturday, Sept. 22 and will be celebrated under the auspices of the Chelsea Rod and Gun Club.

The day's activities will be centered on the premises of Longworth Plating Service at Jackson and Main Sts., close to the railroad depot.

Dan Allen, taxidermist, will present an antler display. Fellow taxidermists Jim and Joel Krichbaum will have a showing of game fish as well as game birds, animals and deerskin products. A gun collector will have more than 50 firearms on exhibition.

Craig Wales, DNR conservation officer, will be on hand to meet visitors and answer questions about conservation laws, privileges and practices. The affair will last from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. and will be under the direction of Walt (Bud) Schrader and Tony Wisniewski, both 1984 members of the Rod and Gun Club board.

One of the highlights of the Hunting and Fishing Day observance will be presentation of certificates to youths who have completed the club's 1984 program in hunter safety.

According to Schrader and Wisniewski, hunters and fishermen pay $500 million per year for conservation—three times as much as the amount contributed by other taxpayers. They pay an additional $200 million a year to improve fish and wildlife habitat on private lands. As a direct result of their conservation efforts, a number of treasured kinds of wildlife are no longer on the endangered species list. They include the wood duck, the wild turkey and elk.

Boating Safety Course Offered By Coast Guard

A 10-week series of classes for both power boaters and sailors will begin Monday, Sept. 24, at 7:30 p.m., and run successive Monday evenings through Nov. 26.

The Ann Arbor Flotilla 17-03 of the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary will offer "Boating Skills and Seamanship" for sailboaters, in co-operation with the Ann Arbor Community Education Program. The classes will meet in Pioneer

High school, Stadium and Main Sts., Ann Arbor.

Advanced registration is not required, and there is no registration fee, but a $16 materials fee, payable the first class, covering textbooks and instructional materials, will be charged individual registrants.

Topics to be covered in the courses include: the safe way to boating enjoyment, boat handling, trailering, legal requirements, rules of the road, aids to navigation, piloting, marlinespike (knots and splices) and radio telephony.

A certificate will be awarded to students successfully completing either course, both of which have been approved by the National Association of State Boating Law Administrators, and the U.S. Coast Guard.

THANK YOU
On behalf of the Chelsea Athletic Boosters we would like to thank all the parents who helped work at the Fair gates. Without all of your co-operation we couldn't have done it. Again we say thanks.

CARD OF THANKS
We would like to thank all of our relatives, neighbors, and friends for their many acts of kindness and expressions of sympathy shown to us during the recent death of our wife, mother, and grandmother. Also thanks to Pastor Morris for his many prayers and comforting words, and to John and Gloria Mitchell for all their thoughtfulness and concern. May God's blessings be with all of you.

THOMAS MULL
Thomas Mull, the son of Betty Kay Mull of Elm St., is continuing his long theater record by winning a part in "The Fantasticks," at Northern Michigan University. The only freshman or sophomore in the cast, Mull will play Hucklebee, a horticulturist with gout. The play will run Sept. 19-22 as part of the university's Forest Roberts Theatre season.

Mull delivered one of the graduation speeches at his 1984 Chelsea High school graduation. During his four years in high school, he acted parts in every high school musical, four Chelsea Players' musicals and two high school stage and drama club plays. He directed "My Sister Eileen."

Mull had the male lead in the school production of "Me and Juliet." He also appeared in "West Side Story," "Wizard of Oz," and "Pippin." Chelsea Players productions included "Kiss Me Kate," "Annie," and "The King and I." He also appeared in the drama club presentation of "The Mouse That Roared."

Besides his acting accomplishments, Mull was president of both the high school choir and orchestra. He was a state finalist in forensics for three years. Mull also plays cello and piano.

At NMU, Mull is majoring in theatre and minoring in journalism. He hopes to become a professional actor.

"Ever since he was a preschooler and heard the 'Mary Poppins' soundtrack, he's just always had a real love for music and literature," said Mrs. Mull. "His music and his stage and drama are the most important things in his life."

Marla Rubinstein
Hired as School Psychologist

Marla Rubinstein has been hired to replace Steve Taylor as school psychologist in the Chelsea schools. Rubinstein will work half-time at Beach Middle school, Chelsea High school and Manchester High school. Taylor left to accept a full-time position in Garden City.

Rubinstein comes to Chelsea with an extensive background in developmental psychology. Rubinstein graduated from the University of Michigan with a bachelors in developmental psychology in 1975. She obtained her masters in psychology in 1979 and an education specialist degree from the school of psychology in 1982. She is currently working on her PhD in educational psychology.

For the last six years, Rubinstein has been employed by the University of Michigan at Dearborn. She was the assistant director of a federal project called Intervention by Prescription (IBP) through the U. S. Office of Education.

Dr. Virginia Rezmierski directed the project. She was once the special education director at the Chelsea schools.

"Dr. Rezmierski worked in this district and IBP training was done here last year, and so the district was aware of the IBP model. I was attracted to working here because the district had an interest in working with kids," said Rubinstein.

The purpose of IBP is to study emotional stress in school age children and construct a means to deal with stress according to the child's developmental level.

"We try to match the intervention that we assign to the developmental level. We developed a systematic way for teachers to look at stress," said Rubinstein.

IBP focuses on child management in four major areas: Impulse management or the child's ability to control his impulses; affective domain or the child's emotions and what's important to him; social understanding or the ability of the child to take the perspective of others; and conflict management or on what basis do children make decisions when they get into conflict.

For instance, if a child fails to control his impulse to stand up, IBP training would help a teacher determine if it is appropriate to physically remove the child from the room or just say "Hey John, sit down," explained Rubinstein.

In 1983, Rubinstein directed a teacher-training project which developed materials and trained teachers around child development.

"We tried to disseminate pertinent information about key developmental points. For instance, kids who are at the egocentric stage and can't look at other people's point of view, we talk about what conflict resolution looks at. We tried to sensitize teachers to all key levels of development," said Rubinstein.

Rubinstein's main role in the Chelsea schools will be to evaluate children who are referred to special education and if special education is necessary, to come up with a plan.

"I'm also working on problem-solving with regular teachers," said Rubinstein.

An example of problems Rubinstein would help deal with is a sixth grader who is getting into fights in the halls because he is having difficulty making the transition to seventh grade.

"Rather than suspending the child, we come up with a behavior plan. We do intervention to remediate the problem so it doesn't escalate. We try to

Compact Tractor Pull Attendance Up This Year

Attendance at the Compact Tractor Pulling contest was slightly up this year. Last year, 31 contestants participated. This year that figure was 38. Event superintendent Janet Schulze said the number of participants depended on who had to work that day.

Many of the same faces returned this year that have competed in previous years. Two new faces were Marcus Bristle of Manchester and Kevin Kern of Chelsea, said Schulze. Kern placed sixth out of 15 in the percentage pull.

Ten tractors competed in the lightweight, 5-9 h.p. division (700-900 lbs.) This number is up one from last year. Tim Buck of Milan led with first place. He pulled 33 1/2" on an International Harvester Cub Cadet. Jeff Butts of Saline took second with a John Deere and pulled 42". Jeff Bristle of Manchester drove a Magna Track 33 1/2" and won third place. In fourth, Gary Ferry of Chelsea pulled 28 1/2" with a Springfield. David Feldkamp of Ann Arbor came in fifth on a Cub Cadet with 23 1/2". Last place went to Paul Hörning of Chelsea who pulled a John Deere 20 1/2".

The inch measurements were not available for the medium class (10-11 h.p., 901-1,100 lbs.). The number of contestants rose from five last year to eight this year. Roger Roehm of Clinton won first place with a Simplicity. David Diuble of Ann Arbor drove to second with an Allis-Chalmers. John Stachnik of Manchester came in third with a John Deere. Fourth place was awarded to Hal Holcomb of Milan on a Cub Cadet. Mike Diuble of Ann Arbor earned fifth on a Simplicity. Randy Uhr of Manchester took sixth, also on a Simplicity.

Only five contestants competed in the heavy class (12 h.p. and up, 1,101-1,300 lbs.). This class had the same number of contestants as last year and was the only one not to show an increase. Inch measurements were also not available for this class.

Gary Scripser of Pinckney led in first place on a Wheel Horse. Timothy Schulze of Dexter made second place with a Simplicity. Scott Diuble of Ann Arbor followed on an Allis-Chalmers. David Feldkamp, of Ann Arbor earned fourth on a Wheel Horse. Mike Marlon of Saline came in fifth driving a Simplicity.

The percentage pull had three more contestants over last year for a total of 15 this year. Kevin Kern in sixth place was the only winner not to place in the other categories. He pulled 273% on a Simplicity. Roger Roehm won first place, pulling 325%. Gary Ferry pulled 301%. In third place, Jeff Butts pulled 295%. David Feldkamp took fourth pulling 293%. Gary Scripser pulled 293% in fifth place.

Some people have thought that seeing a wolf before the wolf saw them would render them speechless.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor,
In response to Mr. Mullendore's Aug. 29 outdoor column, I might point out that if one wishes to address the violence in our society by becoming a pacifist, that is an individual decision; however, in the interest of responsible journalism, credibility should be included along with credentials.

Untruths should not be used to support a position. Whether guns are "too easy" to get, or not, is an opinion; however, it has not been possible to "buy them through the mail" (except muzzleloaders) since the 1968 Gun Control Act was passed, and fully automatic weapons have been illegal for civilians since the 1920's.

I am sure that it is possible to take a legal gun and make it illegal, to serve a purpose, but since I have never heard of anything being un-invented we may as well accept the fact that the knowledge how to make guns is with us forever.

The problem is WHY the mentally unstable choose to take other lives, not what they do it with. It already is against the law for them to buy guns.

Writing more laws won't cause the problem to go away any more than did drug abuse stop by passing a law against it. Laws and rules must be enforced to be effective.

Keith Schuelke.

Dear Editor:

Have you noticed that retail stores are carrying increasing quantities of products from various Communist countries such as China and Romania? We send Communists sophisticated computers, microchip technology, precision ball bearings, and nuclear technology, which are used to increase the deadliness of their missiles. They send us vodka, baskets, folding chairs, and even cut glass from which to drink the vodka.

Living under brutal conditions, workers in Communist countries are virtually slaves, being paid as little as 25 cents a day. Their cheap products compete with those of American labor and add to the number of unemployed in our country. Local store owners and managers are often unaware of this.

Does it make sense to aid Communist regimes with technology, credits, and loans guaranteed with our tax dollars, when, as a result, we will have to spend even more billions to defend ourselves against a better equipped Communist war machine? I think it is time we stop selling them anything.

Major Wildlife Project Dedication Set Sept. 26

The largest private-sector wildlife project in Michigan history is nearing completion and scheduled for dedication on Wednesday, Sept. 26. The Milli-Ander wetland restoration is a 230-acre area on the Maple River, 30 miles north of Lansing. The project was named to commemorate the conservation achievements of former Gov. William Milliken and former State Rep. Tom Anderson.

Almost two years were needed to plan and complete the project, which involved the construction of 7,000 feet of dike and four rock spillways "in adverse soil" and water conditions. Hundreds of hours of work were volunteered by groups such as the Michigan Duck Hunters Association and Michigan Audubon Society to clear dikes, build temporary bridges, and install wood duck, mallard and osprey nesting structures. Rocks and cover spillways were placed by hand, in most cases, so as not to puncture the soil stabilization material used to protect the dike. A Michigan Youth Corps crew did final grooming and construction handwork during the summer, making the project a more joint effort.

Almost $50,000 has been raised for the Milli-Ander Project from individuals and conservation organizations throughout Michigan. Major grants to the wetland restoration were made by the Michigan Duck Hunters Association, Gannett Foundation, Southern Michigan Trappers' Association, National Campers and Hikers Association, Michigan Audubon Society and Stroh Brewery.

Gov. Milliken and Rep. Anderson were recognized by the conservation community in December, 1982, upon retiring from the state legislative process. They served 22 and 18 years, respectively, distinguishing themselves as conservation leaders. The Environmental Protection Act, Inland Lakes and Streams Act, Natural Rivers Act, Shorelands Protection and Management Act, Sand Dune Protection Act, Wilderness and Natural Areas Act, Endangered Species Act, Farmland and Open Space Preservation Act and Wetlands Protection Act were among environmental protection measures fostered by these two men.

The dedication ceremony will be at 1 p.m., Wednesday, Sept. 26, at the parking lot off Crosswell Rd. (west of US-27 and north of the Maple River), and is open to the public. Guided walking and canoe tours will provide a chance to see the new marsh and its wildlife. The Milli-Ander site will be part of the largest marsh complex in mid-Michigan and will be a mecca for birds of all kinds, particularly wading birds and waterfowl. Bird watching and duck hunting are expected to be important uses of the new marsh.

Fall Is for Planting Trees, Shrubs, Lawns, Bulbs

Homeowners are discovering a new gardening season: autumn. Professional gardeners and landscapers have always valued fall for planting trees and shrubs, seeding lawns and setting out spring-flowering bulbs such as tulips and daffodils.

The resurgence of home gardening has made the average gardener more ambitious than ever. People who once grew only petunias and geraniums now have vegetable gardens, fruit trees, shrub borders and even greenhouses. In spring, the traditional planting season, gardeners may be too busy to accomplish all their gardening goals. And during the dog days of summer, everyone wants to relax in the garden, not work in it.

Autumn, on the other hand, is perfect for gardening. The typically cool temperatures reduce stress on gardens and gardeners alike. Soil conditions could not be better. The earth becomes easy to work—neither dry and dusty as in summer, nor muddy as in spring. Young roots of newly planted trees, shrubs, and sprouted grass start establishing themselves before frost hardens the ground, giving these plants a headstart over those planted in spring.

Autumn is the one and only time to plant spring-flowering bulbs. They require a few months of in-ground refrigeration to perform their spring magic. In early fall, garden centers start offering bulbs that flower in all colors, sizes and shapes. Some bulbs bravely sprout in late winter. Late bloomers delay their appearances almost until summer. Countless other bulbs burst into bloom during the weeks in between.

Colorful crocuses are famous for breaking through frozen earth or melting snow. Snowdrops, winter aconite and glory-of-the-snow may unfurl even earlier. Soon thereafter, daffodils pop up everywhere, and hyacinths spread their sweet perfume.

By mid-spring tulips are in their glory. Particularly beautiful are sturdy, full-blossomed Triumph tulips and tall, regal Darwin hybrids. The "Queens of Spring" continue to reign in the form of late-season Lily-flowered tulips, with their elegantly tapered, curved petals, and flamboyantly-feathered Parrot tulips. Finishing touches to the blooming season are provided by Dutch irises and magnificent globe-shaped flowers of ornamental onions, called alliums.

Most bulb plants prefer sunshine, but because they flower before shade trees are fully in leaf, bulbs will brighten almost any garden spot. Plant them in flower beds, shrub borders and along walkways. Or create naturalistic clusters of bulbs in lawns and around tree bases. For "naturalizing," daffodils and crocuses work extremely well.

While browsing for bulbs at the garden center, you will probably notice a full selection of trees and shrubs ready for planting. By no means are they spring and summer leftovers. Nurserymen prepare containerized and balled-and-burlapped trees and shrubs for autumn because, as pro-

Fall is the one and only time to set out spring-flowering bulbs. Gardeners are learning that autumn is also a fine season for planting trees and shrubs, as well as repairing and seeding lawns. Check with your local garden center for the bulbs, plants and seeds that grow best in your area.

professionals, they know the time is right to transplant woody plants into the landscape. Heat and drought make life difficult for new trees and shrubs. If set in the ground in fall, the plants have two periods of cool weather growth: autumn and spring—to prepare for their first summer.

Established trees that were neglected during spring and summer can be pruned in fall for shape. Where drastic pruning is required, spring bleeders such as maples, birches, beeches and walnuts are best tended to in autumn. Be sure to use a gardener's tools rather than a carpenter's, which are not designed for cutting living tissues.

Garden centers have the necessary equipment: hand-held pruning shears for narrow branches, long-handled lopping shears for overhead pruning, a crescent-shaped pruning saw for thick branches, and a hooked pruning knife for smoothing wound edges. Protective tree wound paint is also available at garden centers.

If attempts at summer lawn reseeding have failed, chances are you could not keep the seed beds sufficiently moist under the scorching sun.

Grass seeds and sprouts prefer the warm days and cool nights typical of autumn.

It is essential to choose appropriate grass seed for your particular property and climate. Consult with your local garden center to determine the grass strain or mixture that is best for you.

Autumn is a season of marvelous transition. Leaves are changing color, summer flowers have transformed into bright berries, and the last vegetables are ready for harvest. Because fall is also the season for planting, it is a great time to be a gardener.

County Vets Council Picks New Officers

Washtenaw County Council of Veterans elected new officers at their regular monthly meeting held Aug. 20 at the Saline American Legion Post No. 332.

Installed for the 1984/1985 term are: commander, Alice R. Bennett; senior vice-commander, Clarence Holmberg; junior vice-commander, Gregg Weaver; treasurer, Larry Hooper; chaplain, Carl Sallsbury.

Mike DuRussel and Aubrey McCartney were elected to serve two-year terms on the executive committee joining Don Smith and Tom Kentes. Dallas Turley was re-appointed to the position of adjutant by Commander Bennett.

The unanimous election of Alice Bennett marks the first time in the 34-year history of the Washtenaw County Council of Veterans that the top position has been held by a female veteran. Commander Bennett, who served with the Marines during World War II, has held several of the Council's elected offices as well as serving her home post in Saline. After serving as post adjutant for five years she became the first female post commander when she was elected to that position in 1981, serving two terms. In addition to her responsibilities as commander of the Council, Bennett is currently the finance officer for the American Legion Second District, which is another first for a female veteran.

Following installation ceremonies, Commander Bennett's first order of business was to recommend that the Council sponsor a "Meet the Candidates" night. Tentatively scheduled for early October at the Saline American Legion Post Home, the event would be open to the public. Details for the program are to be worked out by the Council and will be properly publicized next month.

purchase. Chelsea Kiwanis Club, Lions Club, Chamber of Commerce, Jaycees and Woman's Club are among those invited to participate.

The initial contract submitted by Conrail would have given the Historical Society a 10-year lease. "It was not felt we could suggest to the community to put in community funds for that short a contract," said Rademacher.

While the Society would prefer to purchase the building, a favorable long-term lease would not be ruled out.

"As a last resort in order to save it as a community facility, we would consider a long-term lease. It would have to be under an arrangement that everyone felt was secure and beneficial to do it. The bottom line is getting the station for the community and getting it upgraded," said Rademacher.

Livery Dedication Slated Next Sunday

The public is invited to attend the formal dedication ceremony of the new Gallup Park Livery at 3 p.m. on Sunday, Sept. 23. The Livery, constructed as part of the 1983-88 City Park Millage Program, is located adjacent to the entrance of Gallup Park.

The dedication will feature musical entertainment by the Washtenaw Community "Jazz Band" and several 1984 Olympic Medalists from Michigan, ballons, refreshments and exhibitions by windsurfers, model sailboats and "Freedom on the River."

For further information regarding the dedication ceremony, please call 994-2780.

McCALLA FAMILY HONORED: Known to many in the Washtenaw area is the McCalla family. They have shown livestock at the Michigan State Fair since 1921. Honored with a plaque for their fine co-operating over the many years are left to right, Bill McCalla, Ralph, Frank and Ellen. The award was presented at the agricultural luncheon.

LLOYD BRAUN of Ann Arbor, well known auctioneer of this area, was one of 10 in the second annual auctioneers contest held at the Michigan State Fair. Lloyd helped sell 33 of the youth steers and is standing behind one owned by Chris West of Perry after he sold it.

Large Mushroom Crop in Prospect

Look for an excellent crop of wild mushrooms this fall, especially if it keeps on raining as it has since the start of September.

An outburst of early September rain following a dry summer has brought mushrooms popping up all over the place.

Meadow mushrooms (species of Agaricus) and several kinds of boletes have been observed in recent days, and there will be more if the weather continues wet. Shaggy manes (coprinus comatus) should show up almost any day.

Unfortunately, some poisonous kinds will also fruit, including species of Amanita. Collectors should leave alone any mushroom that is all-white on top and underneath, and also any that has a large yellow, reddish or orange top with "warts" on it.

Wild mushroom gatherers should buy and use a good guidebook which positively identifies edible kinds. The best available is "A Mushroom Hunters Field Guide" by Dr. Alexander Smith and Nancy Smith Weber.

Question Raised on Cost Of Putting Up Banners

A public hearing has been set for Tuesday, Sept. 18, at 7:30 p.m. in the village hall on a request by Chelsea United Way to put a promotional banner across Main St. during the month of October.

Such requests are routinely approved following the formality of a public hearing, at which nobody ever shows up.

At the Sept. 4 village board meeting, trustee Herman Radloff did raise the question of how much it costs to erect one of the banners.

Public works superintendent Bud Hafner said the job usually takes about an hour's time for a high-lift truck and two or three men. It requires about the same to get the banner down.

"I think we ought to look into the possibility of charging for this service," Radloff said. "Obviously, it's costing us money."

None of the other trustees present ventured to take on the touchy question of making non-profit charitable organizations pay for putting up banners, and the issue died right there.

Dragonflies are the speediest insects, reports wildlife experts. Some dart by at over 50 miles per hour.

secretary. Receiving the check on behalf of the historical society is Angela Smith, treasurer. The money was raised in a children's photo contest staged by the Baker's Dozen during the Sesquicentennial celebration.

Historical Society Receives Funds from Sesqui Belles

Because the sesquicentennial was a historical event, the Baker's Dozen Belle Group decided to donate the money they raised to a historical organization. Ginny Boyer presented the Chelsea Area Historical Society with a check for $325 at the Society's Sept. 10 meeting.

The funds were raised from the Belles' baby photo contest during the sesquicentennial. The Belles also donated their album with contestants' pictures for the Society's records. The money will be placed in the Society's general funds. The Society also considered putting together a post-sesquicentennial celebration book which would include pictures of the various activities.

William Connelly reported that the Chamber of Commerce would help coordinate efforts to acquire, rehabilitate and operate the train depot, a long-time Historical Society project. The Society wishes to acquire the building to house its museum and meeting place.

The Historical Society's next meeting is scheduled for Monday, Oct. 8 at the fire station.

Horses Shot In Incident On Harr Rd.

One horse is dead and three others wounded following a shooting incident on Harr Rd. in Waterloo township last Saturday.

Owners of the horses are Walter and Sharie Harr of 15892 Gorton Rd. The animals were being boarded by Mrs. Joyce Harr of 14596 Harr Rd.

They escaped from the barn yard where they were confined, and walked down the road and were apparently shot by a neighbor.

One horse, a mare, was killed by a slug from a shotgun. Three others were hit with bird shot. They were treated by a veterinarian and will recover, Joyce Harr said.

The incident is under investigation by troopers from the Jackson state police post.

School Board Recognizes CHS Student, Beach Teacher

Chelsea Board of Education awarded recognition to one teacher and one student at its Sept. 17 meeting. The individuals will receive a certificate presented by board president Dale Schumann and general recognition by the board.

Beach Middle school teacher Alice Steinbach worked on developing a state test for science in conjunction with the state Board of Education.

"Alice is an outstanding teacher and she has worked on many curriculum committees and made presentations for state workshops in science conventions. She's very active in her science organizations. We wanted to take the time to recognize another of her efforts," said superintendent Ray Van Meer.

Steinbach has worked in the Chelsea schools since 1965.

Chelsea High school senior Kelly Hawker received recognition for a pencil collage she drew of raccoons. The collage won an honorable mention in the 1984 Congressional Arts Competition. It will hang in congressman Carl Pursell's Ann Arbor office for a year.

Hawker is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Hawker of Helm Rd.

Yearbook Signing Party To Take Place Sept. 19

Students who purchased yearbooks for the 1983-84 school year or would like to do so are invited to a yearbook signing party, Sept. 19, 6 to 8 p.m., in the Chelsea High school cafeteria. Students should bring their receipts to pick up their book. Extra copies will be for sale, also.

If you miss the party on Wednesday, you can still get your yearbook at the football game Friday night, Sept. 21. Those who cannot make either time, can stop in and see yearbook advisor Phil Jones at the high school.

The theme of last year's book was "Jigsaw" and features color photos on the cover. Mary Hellner was last year's editor. She is currently a freshman at Michigan State University.

After your visit with the Emergency Service, a nurse will call your home within 48 hours to make sure you are doing well and to answer any questions you may have.

The hospital participates in a county-wide Advanced Life Support System, which assures the patient co-operation and communication when receiving emergency care. A physician and/or nurse will accompany the patient if a transfer should become necessary to maintain the same level of emergency care.

When hospitalization is not necessary, the staff assists the patients and family in finding community agencies and services to ensure further assistance, should you need it.
