CHELSEA, MICHIGAN, WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 7, 1984

VOTERS COME OUT EARLY: It was cold out there, but that didn't stop voters from lining up outside the Sylvan township hall on

W. Middle St. yesterday morning. Early voting was heavy, suggesting a large turn-out before the day was over.

Local Turn-Out Of Voters High In Early Hours

Despite near-freezing temperatures, Chelsea area voters turned out in heavy numbers early to cast their ballots on candidates and issues in yesterday's election.

Voters were lined up outside the doors of both the Sylvan and Lima township halls when the polls opened at 7 a.m. The thermometer registered a chilly 34 degrees at the time. Warmer, sunny weather developed later in the day.

Election workers at both places reported a steady flow of voters during the first hour of balloting with people standing in line and waiting.

Each of Sylvan township's precincts had more than 200 absentee ballots cast, and Lima had 135 supporting predictions that the local voter turn-out would be heavy.

By 7:30 a.m., each Sylvan precinct had recorded more than 60 in-person votes, and there was a line-up of about 50 outside the door with more inside.

Shortly before 8 a.m., Lima had 130 in-person ballots cast.

Election officials said the voting was going smoothly, with no problems other than keeping up with the flow. Both townships use punch-card machines.

Both were expected to record their traditional heavily Republican majorities.

Halloween Fairly Quiet In Chelsea

Chelsea police reported a generally quiet Halloween and the so-called "Devil's night" before it.

"We had some reports of toilet-papering and egg-throwing, but no major incidents of vandalism," chief Lenard McDougall said.

"We have evidence on the teepee and egg cases, and some people may be surprised when we come around and start asking questions. We're going to follow up."

"My impression is that the people in Chelsea want this kind of thing stopped, and we intend to stop it."

McDougall credited the auxiliary police and members of the Chelsea Radio Club for keeping Halloween a relatively safe and sane observance.

"We were able to put a lot of men out on the streets. We didn't prevent everything, but I think we did a pretty good job. A few people caused problems, and we are going after them."

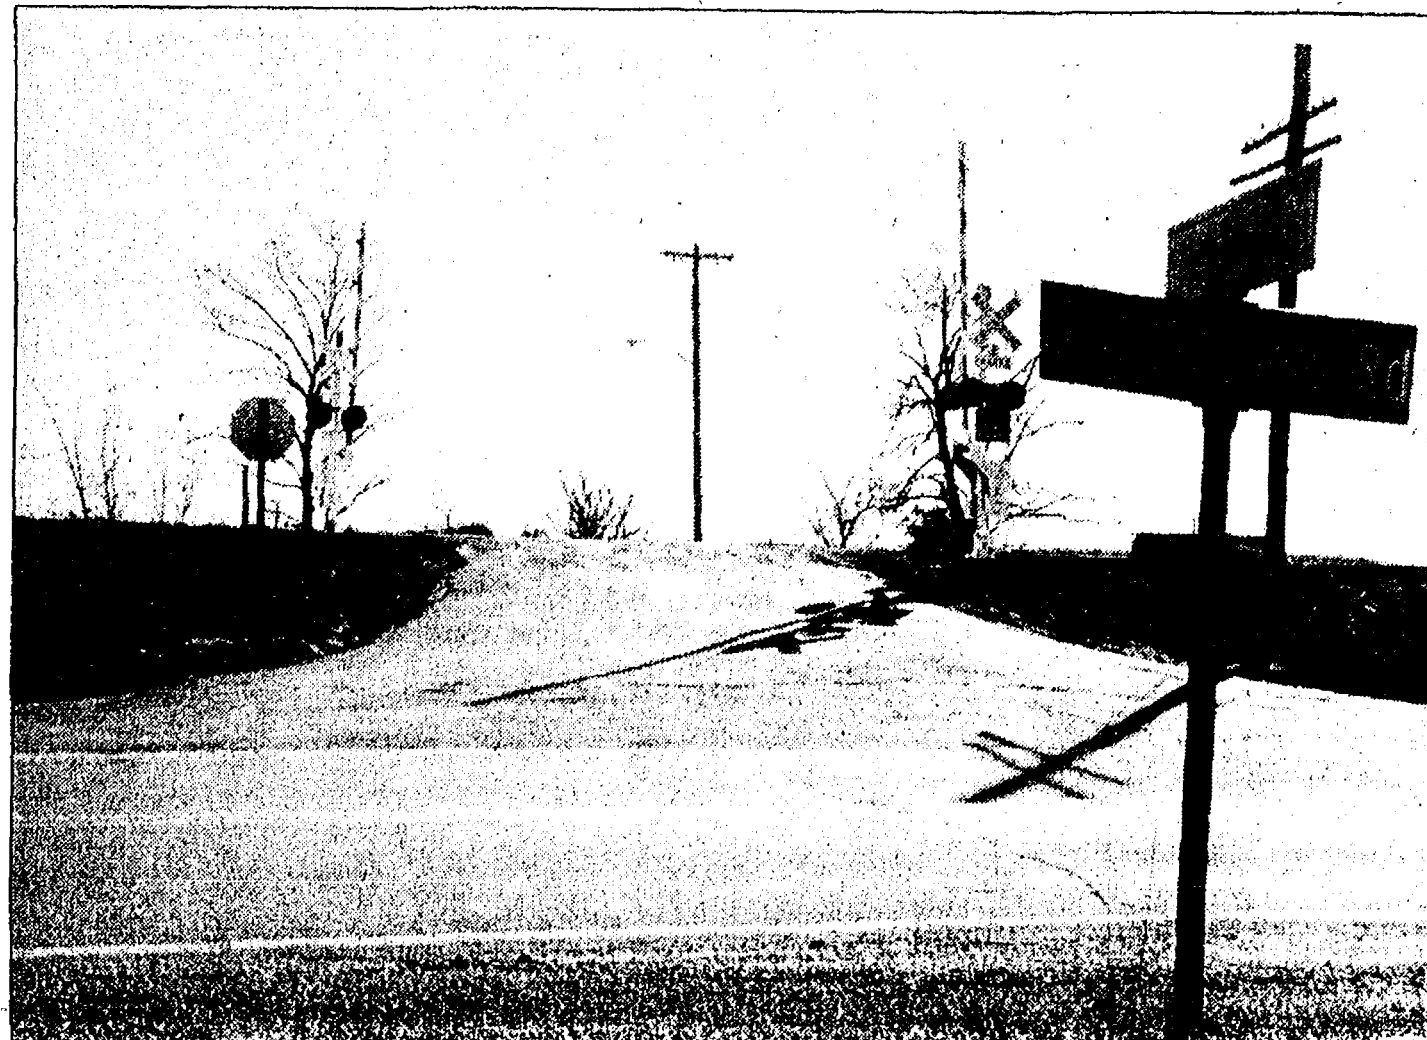

"By and large, it was a pretty good Halloween. We didn't have any fires or other reports of major damage. We'll come down harder next year."

Hatch Plant Noise Said Legally OK

Sound meter readings taken in the vicinity of the Hatch Stamping Co. plant are within legal limits, police chief Lenard McDougall has informed the village council.

"The highest reading we got was 70 decibels," McDougall said. "Most of them were within the range of 45 to 60." Ninety decibels is considered the threshold level of disturbing noise.

IT'S OPEN AGAIN: The Fletcher Rd. crossing at Dexter-Chelsea Rd. is once more open to traffic following installation of warning signals and closing gates by Conrail. The Washtenaw County Road Commission had barricaded the crossing after two accidents earlier this year.

ing gates by Conrail. The Washtenaw County Road Commission had barricaded the crossing after two accidents earlier this year.

Fletcher Rd. Rail Crossing Re-Opened To Motor Traffic

The Fletcher Rd. crossing over the Conrail tracks has been reopened to motor vehicle traffic following construction of signals and gates.

"We took down the barriers last Thursday," said Herman Koenn of Chelsea who is a member of the Washtenaw County Road Commission. "I'm pleased that a very dangerous problem has been solved."

The closing followed a fatal accident last January and a near-miss on June 25 in which the driver escaped injury even though his station wagon was mangled by a freight train.

After the June 25 mishap, the Road Commission closed Fletcher Rd. on both sides of the tracks, making it impossible to get to or from Chelsea-Dexter Rd.

Under order from the Road Commission since last April to do something about the situation, Conrail agreed last month to install warning signals and gates.

The work was completed more than two weeks ahead of the scheduled Nov. 16 date.

"The railroad has done its job, and the road commission has co-operated," Koenn said. "We black-topped the north (Fletcher Rd.) side of the crossing and improved the grade on the south side."

"It's still a bad crossing in some ways because of the up-hill grade in both directions, but it's a lot better than it was. With the gates and signals operating, there is no reason why any driver paying attention should get into trouble there."

"When the red warning lights are flashing and the gates are down or coming down, don't try to beat the train that is on the way."

"I feel that a bad safety hazard has been corrected. We got some criticism for closing the intersection and inconveniencing some people, but I'm convinced we were right. Conrail and our Road Commission employees have co-operated to take care of the problem. I just hope the public will co-operate, too, by heeding the signals and gates. There is no reason why we should ever have another accident at that crossing."

Village, Lyndon Officials Ponder Pistol Range

Officials of Chelsea and Lyndon township will jointly pursue a way to make the police department's pistol range at the village landfill legal.

Although owned by the village, the landfill property east off Werkner Rd. is in the township and therefore subject to township zoning. Lyndon's zoning laws do not include provisions for a shooting range.

"We would like to get the range legalized," Chelsea police chief Lenard McDougall said. "We have to qualify our officers as marksmen in order to meet state requirements and they have to have a place to practice."

"The range at the landfill is very safe and, because of its location, doesn't cause much noise. We try to shoot at times when we will cause the least disturbance to people living in the vicinity. The range is for police personnel only. We don't let the public in."

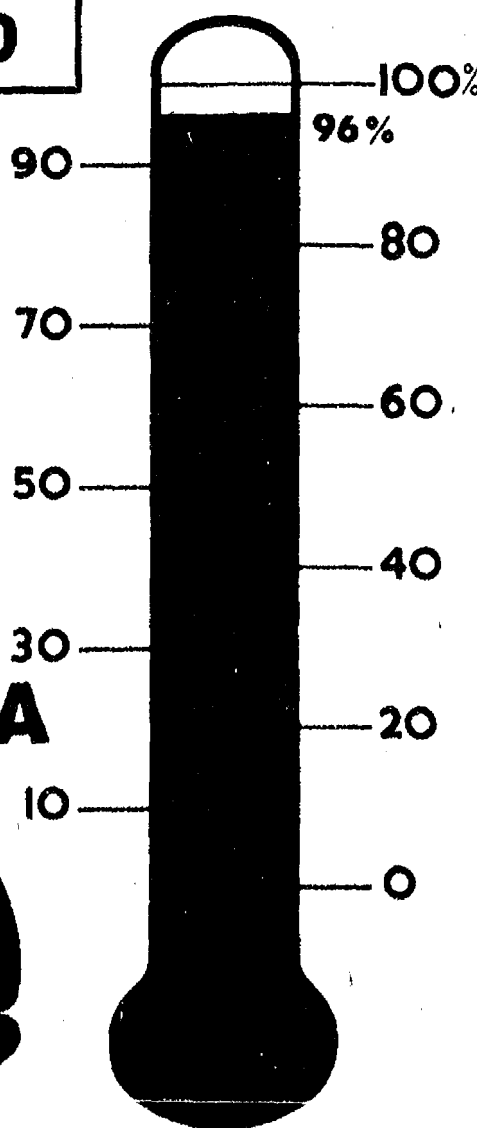

McDougall said the department formerly used the Chelsea Rod and Gun Club range on Lingane Rd. but had conflicts with club members who wanted to practice at the same times.

Village administrator Frederick Weber advised that an amendment to the Lyndon zoning code is needed to make the landfill range a legal use of the property. He was directed to explore the possibility with township officials, and report back.

United Way

Chelsea United Way ended its campaign last Wednesday, Oct. 31, with 96% of its $65,000 goal accomplished. United Way has pledges for about $62,400.

"This is the first year, we've tried individual campaigns in the schools. I feel this is a good start for the schools even though they didn't reach their goals," said Tanner.

Final pledges had not yet been tallied for the commercial, industrial or residential phases of the campaign. The industrial phase, however, is expected to meet or exceed its $25,000 goal.

4 Years Ago . . .

Thursday, Nov. 13, 1980—

Chelsea High school girls basketball team continued their winning ways twice last week as they rolled up two convincing victories at the hands of Milan's Big Reds and Dexter's Dreads. The wins clinched at least a Southeastern Conference championship tie for the lady Bulldogs.

On Tuesday, Nov. 4, the lady Bulldogs tangled with Milan at home in a showdown for first place. Going into the game, Chelsea was holding first place in the league with Milan following closely behind in second. Nonetheless, the lady Bulldogs came to the game to win and captured a sound 53-43 victory.

Following a series of convincing victories, the Chelsea High school girls basketball fell at the hands of the Saline Hornets Tuesday night. The game marked the final home game of the season for the lady Bulldogs. Two, it was Parents Night. Both events added to the disappointment of the 42-26 defeat.

Last week, the girls swim team increased their dual meet record to 10-2 with victories over Albion and Erie-Mason High schools.

Chelsea's 1980 United Way goal has been set at $42,100 and Chelsea is responding slowly but surely to the plea for financial donations. With the campaign officially over for a number of days, donations of any amount are still being received with open arms. As of early this week, nearly 65 percent of the 1980-81 goal had been collected from the Chelsea area merchants, businesses and residents.

Study Shows Small Businesses Fair Well in Michigan

A study conducted by the Independent Business Research Office of Michigan at the University of Michigan indicates small businesses bear a disproportionately high share of the costs under the state's unemployment insurance system.

However, the study concluded that contrary to popular belief by small business owners themselves, they do not pay an unfair share of the state's Single Business Tax (SBT) or workers' compensation costs.

Sue Wolfram of the research office associated with the U-M Graduate School of Business Administration, said workers' compensation costs are spread relatively even among small and large firms, while small businesses actually pay a lower SBT rate than their larger counterparts.

The study was requested by the Small Business Association of Michigan.

Participating in the study were economists from the University of Michigan and the W. E. Upjohn Institute for Employment Research.

The report concluded that unemployment insurance costs do vary systematically by size of the firm in the state.

The larger the firm, as measured by total payroll, the lower the incidence of the tax.

Relative to the single business tax rate, the study indicated that small firms normally pay an effective tax rate which is "considerably lower" than that paid by larger firms.

It said that on the average, smaller firms (those with a SBT liability less than $5,000) pay tax equal to .9 percent of their value-added and larger firms pay 1.5 percent.

Sixty-six percent of the firms filing SBT returns fall into the small firm category, according to the study.

The report noted that the very smallest firms (payrolls of less than $78,000—or about four employees at the state average wage) do incur higher workers' compensation costs than larger firms.

This was attributed to fixed costs inherent in marketing of workers' comp insurance and the greater frequency (about three times) of assigned risk as any other group.

The study noted the larger firms (over 100 employees at state average wage) paid an estimated average of 2.07 percent of payroll while small firms paid an estimated 2.19 percent.

The date does not include self-insured firms, and it is expected that their inclusion would have lowered the percentage paid by larger firms, thus widening the gap further.

"As a matter of policy, the tax rate levied on small business is significantly lower than that levied on others. Thus, over the range of firm sizes from 1 to 50 employees, the SBT has the effect of offsetting some of the cost advantages of larger scale production," the study concluded.

Winter Energy Supply Sufficient

Terry Black, director of the Energy Administration, Department of Commerce, reported that energy supplies should be ample to meet the heating needs of Michigan residents this winter.

In releasing a semi-annual report on state energy supplies, demand and prices, Black said inventories and production of natural gas and heating oil are at near normal levels and energy supplies should remain adequate even if the coming winter is colder than normal.

The report was jointly prepared by the Energy Administration and the Public Service Commission.

Conclusions of the report include that electricity sales through June, 1985, are projected to be about the same as sales of the previous year; the Michigan demand for motor fuel during 1984 is expected to decline approximately 3 percent for 1983 with the trend to continue into 1985; new coal-fired power plants brought on-line or about to be brought on-line will add a total of about 2,400 megawatts of new generating capacity to the Detroit Edison system and world petroleum supplies have been relatively unaffected by the on-going Iran/Iraq conflict and crude oil prices are expected to remain near current levels.

The sound measurements were made after a householder living close to Hatch Stamping, which is located at 570 Cleveland St., complained of loud machinery noise at night.

The police department borrowed a sound meter from the Chrysler Proving Ground to take the readings.

In a related action the council authorized McDougall to purchase a sound meter for the department's permanent use.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

I see by the papers where a photographer in Pittsburgh is making a mint turning out make believe worlds for full grown people. He lets his customers dress up and act out what they wish they were, and they pay him dear for a few minutes of escape from reality they can take home with them and relive when the urge comes on. Some become nuns, some movie stars and ball players, some secretaries drive trucks in their unreal worlds.

Some of these folks don't like their real world, some don't understand their place in the world and some of them wouldn't like it even if they could understand it. I see by the papers there's a lot of this going around, and not just adults are catching it. We got a outbreak in Houston, where children that have everything this world has to offer are taking themselves out of it. We got older children in college asking for suicide pills they can take in case the world blows up. Folks want the world to stop so they can get off. When it don't stop some of em jump.

I was thinking of that Pittsburgh photographer Saturday night during the session at the country store when Zeke Grubb started reading from his Farmer's Almanac. He got my attention quick because he had saw where Ray Geiger, the almanac editor that's as old as some of us, had come out four-square for hugging, and he was going around the country promoting hugs as a remedy for the stress and strain of this fast world everybody is trying to keep up with. Zeke said Ray had done some research on his idea, and he had found anybody can hug anybody, no special equipment or training needed. I mentioned the Pittsburgh photographer's prescription for stress and strain, and I said I would take Ray's medicine ever time.

It turned out some of the fellers had been doing some research on their own. Clem Webster noted that one of the column writers declared recent we ought to stop printing books until we read the books we got. The trouble is, the feller wrote, the more books we print the less time we can give to any of em, so many of the really good ones get lost in the shuffle. Clem said the column writer was not serious, but his idea goes along with the stop the world school of thought. Furthermore, Clem said, if we could add computers, football leagues, TV shows and a few other modern maladies to that stop order we might slow the world down enough until some of us could get off without gitting hurt.

Clem Webster was disagreed. We can't slow down or we'll get run over, he said, and we need to remember that stress and strain is in the person, not the situation. For instant, Clem went on, he had saw recent where scientists have found what they call new evidence that worlds and solar systems like ours are being formed around stars like our sun.

This news is comforting to some and frightening to some, Clem said, and how we feel about other worlds says something about the way we look at ours and what we're doing in it. The trick in this world, he said, is to disturb the comfortable and comfort the disturbed, and to know why. Yours truly, Uncle Lew.

Chicken Nuggets Popularity Pleases Poultry Producers

The continued popularity of chicken nuggets at fast-food chains is good news to poultry producers. Chicken McNuggets make McDonald's the second largest user of poultry meat, still outranked by Kentucky Fried Chicken. The Colonel has followed the success of McNugget by offering "Kentucky Nuggets" and a similar product is available at Church's Fried Chicken.

According to American Farm Bureau Federation commodity specialist Hugh Johnson, three million broilers become McNuggets every week. That gives poultry producers something to crow about!

WCC Plans Fashion Show of First Ladies Inaugural Gowns

Inaugural gowns of America's First Ladies will be a part of a special fund-raising fashion show at Washtenaw Community College Saturday, Jan. 12. The show will feature music, narration and modeling by women in the community of the authentic facsimile gowns.

Mrs. Dawn Procassini and Mrs. Mariliss Myran are honorary chairs of the event which will take place in the College's Student Center Building.

The public is invited to this show and to an additional display on Sunday, Jan. 13. Ticket sales will be announced. All proceeds will go to Washtenaw Community College's scholarship fund.

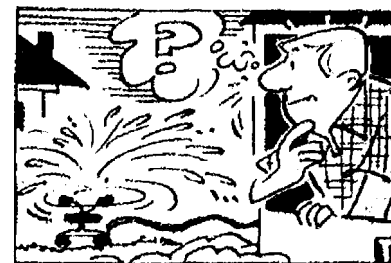

Owned by Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Deere of Birmingham, the First Ladies' gown collection is made up of detail-perfect replicas of the originals (cloth for the Nancy Reagan gown was cut from the same bolt as the actual gown), and were created by four Michigan designers from research done at the Smithsonian Institute in Washington, D.C. Spanning U.S. presidencies from the Washington era to the Reagan administration, the dresses represent changing historical and political as well as fashion trends. Live narration giving historical contexts and design details accompanies the presentation, along with period music.

After the Jan. 12 show, refreshments typical of the era the gowns represent will be served.

The events are sponsored by the Office of College Advancement.

WHAT EFFECT DOES PRE-PLANNING HAVE ON SURVIVORS?

Generally, there are strong benefits to your survivors!

Consider the impact of pre-planning on your survivors: will they understand you want your own wishes carried out and not theirs? That you may wish to economize in your choice of service, casket, etc., instead of putting the choice in their hands when they are under great stress and shock?

Will they understand that you want a certain specific order of service? A particular portion of scripture read? Your favorite music? Your designation of minister? And, of course, that you insist on paying for it yourself, sparing them the emotional and financial burdens?

Many of those for whom we have pre-planned funerals have solved these difficult considerations. They have involved their families in the decision-making process. You, too, may wish to invite members of your immediate family to discuss pre-planning with you and with one of our professional funeral counselors.

Once having made your funeral arrangements, your sense of security and accomplishment may be comforting and valuable to you and your loved ones.

School Board Continues County DSS Work Program

Chelsea Board of Education voted to continue its agreement with the Washtenaw County Department of Social Services Community Work Experience Program (CWEP) at its Nov. 5 meeting.

The state of Michigan and Washtenaw county social services department requires able-bodied people receiving general assistance to work for a non-profit institution. The amount of hours is determined by the monthly general assistance payment divided by minimum wage.

The school has agreed to provide work and log the hours for each person. Chelsea schools currently have four people performing supplemental custodial work such as washing windows or special projects. The amount of hours they must log ranges from 65 to 128 per month. Participants generally last from between one and six months.

New Brownie Troop Formed

Three former brownies, whose daughters had reached scouting age, decided to co-lead a new brownie troop.

Jan Dohner, Mary Fite and Kathy Buss were once brownies themselves and will co-lead the new troop 144. So far, 15 girls have joined, for an already full troop.

Investiture of the new troop will be held at South school on Nov. 12. There will be a little ceremony for the girls, and refreshments for the parents.

The troop will meet every Monday.

"We plan on doing Christmas things but right now we're just getting the girls to be brownies," said Fite.

Heart Transplant Protests Concern Michigan Farmers

Protests by groups regarding the transplant of a baboon's heart into a baby girl indicate that the animal rights movement is still alive—and that concerns farmers, according to Robert Craig, manager of commodity activities and research for the Michigan Farm Bureau.

"We're very concerned about the attacks and criticism being heaped on the medical center for saving this little girl's life," said Craig. "It shows that the animal rights movement is still very much alive and well."

"We've had a number of indications that here in Michigan the animal rights advocates are going to be introducing a bill next year in the state legislature. Bills will probably also be introduced in Congress and they all deal with research, animal rights and animal care. Agriculture will be one of their targets. This Baby Fae situation illustrates how important it is that research be conducted to save lives and benefit mankind."

Craig said he thought farmers should "really pin down" candidates for the state legislature and congress on their positions on animal care before going to the polls.

Baseline Lake Levels To Be Lowered

Homeowners in the Portage and Baseline Lakes area were cautioned today to prepare for the coming winter. "The lake level at Portage Lake will be lowered approximately one foot starting Nov. 11, and completed by Nov. 18," stated James E. Murray, Washtenaw County Drain Commissioner. The lowering of the lake level coincides with the closing of the boat launch facilities.

Each winter, the lake level is lowered to reduce frost and ice damage on the dam and erosion around the lake.

For additional information, please contact Chester Pankowski, senior drain inspector, at 994-2525.

Board Nominates Four Incumbents To Liability Pool

The Chelsea village board has voted to nominate four incumbents as directors of the Municipal Liability and Property Pool, a self-insuring agency affiliated with the Michigan Municipal League.

They are George S. Freeman, mayor of Grosse Pointe Woods; Herbert L. Freye, city administrator of Norton Shores; Richard Huebler, city administrator of Allen Park, and Donald P. Zienke, city manager of Portage.

The pool provides insurance to the village, which is otherwise uninsured by any commercial company.

Governor Asks Disaster Area Aid for Farmers

Gov. Blanchard has requested that 27 Michigan counties be declared disaster areas because of the extensive crop damage caused by the cold, wet spring and hot, dry summer. The governor's request goes to USDA Secretary John Block for approval. If approved, about 26,400 farmers who have suffered financial losses totalling $210 million may be eligible for financial assistance in the form of low interest loans.

Counties included in the disaster area declaration request are: Allegan, Barry, Bay, Berrien, Branch, Calhoun, Cass, Clare, Eaton, Gladwin, Hillsdale, Ingham, Ionia, Isabella, Jackson, Kalamazoo, Kent, Livingston, Macomb, Mecosta, Midland, Oakland, Ottawa, St. Joseph, Van Buren, Washtenaw and Wayne.

A VIEW from the CLOCK TOWER

Bill Mullendore

This is the time of year when most of us, including me, go through an annual self-defeating exercise—raking leaves.

We do it, I guess, because we think we are supposed to, and also because everybody else does it. Your lawn has to be as leaf-free as your neighbor's, or you are some sort of outcast, a social pariah.

And so we all go out and scratch and scrape and sweep until we have the leaves either piled up in the street or packed into plastic bags.

What we are doing, of course, is destroying free fertilizer, and we pay dearly in the spring to replace what we had hauled off to the landfill in the fall. Chemical fertilizers that you buy to make your grass green up and grow aren't cheap.

Nature provides fertilizer for nothing. All you have to do is let the leaves lie on the ground, where they will rot during the winter and release nitrogen, phosphorus and potash come spring. It's simple, easy and, above all, cheap. In fact, it doesn't cost anything at all.

If you must go out and rake as part of your autumn ritual, spread the fallen leaves evenly around your yard. Wind and rain will do this chore for you, if you are patient, but you can hurry up the process by raking if you have no better way of obtaining exercise.

It makes sense to sweep leaves off walks and driveways. Pavements don't need to be fertilized. They aren't going to grow.

If the sight of leaves on your lawn is intolerable, construct a compost pile, gather the leaves and put them in it. If you manage the pile right, you will have a heap of natural fertilizer come spring. All it takes to make a compost pile is some kind of an enclosure, which can be contained by snow fence, chicken wire or some other fine-meshed material.

Employees of the village of Chelsea spend about three weeks every fall running around picking up leaves that residents have put out on the curb. They use a front-end loader and several dump trucks. It is not only a waste of time, manpower, equipment and tax money, it is counter-productive.

The service is good and is provided because people expect it. The gathered leaves are hauled to the landfill, which really doesn't need to be fertilized. Organic wastes of any kind—and that includes leaves—add to the problem of operating a landfill and extending its useful life.

Fallen leaves are there because they are supposed to be there as part of nature's recycling process, which works if you will let it. Otherwise, every piece of vegetation on earth would have died long ago. What is taken up out of the ground, and used, is given back ready to be used again.

That is what ecology is all about.

When you pick up leaves, you are interrupting the cycle and asking for a whole lot of time and money to try to correct the mistake you made by not letting nature take its course.

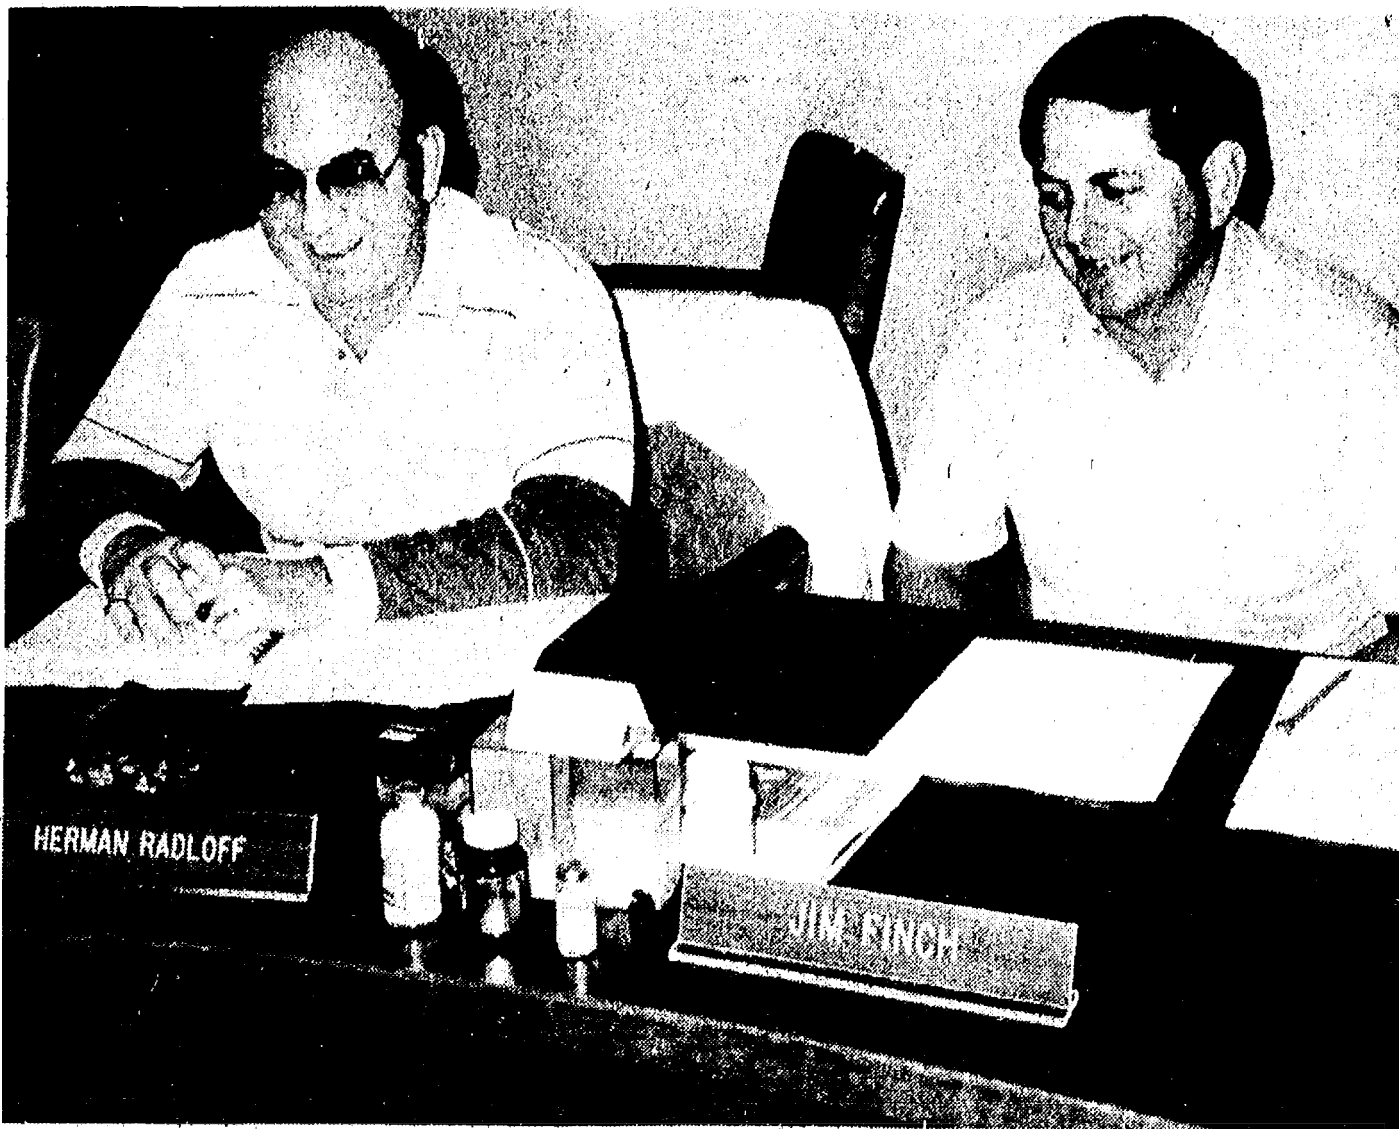

Chemical fertilizers are, by definition, pollutants. They are man-made foreign substances which don't belong in the "real" world. They cause all kinds of problems in sewage plants and other waste treatment facilities. Along with a whole lot of other chemical products we use in our everyday lives, artificial fertilizers contribute mightily to water pollution that we spend billions of dollars to clean up.

Leaves, grass clippings and other natural organics would do it all for nothing, if we would just leave well enough alone.

Yes, I rake leaves, although not as many as I used to. I try to keep my front yard reasonably clean, in order not to be socially embarrassed. In the back yard, which is mostly out of sight of anybody else, I let the leaves sit and do their thing, which is to fertilize next spring's grass, trees and shrubs. Growth in back is lusher than in front. The organic material does a much better job than the fertilizer I buy at about 25 cents a pound.

Chelsea is a beautiful town, and much of its beauty derives from its vegetation. Few communities have a more attractive vista of trees. Chelsea fortunately did not fall into the trap many years ago of single-species tree planting, and so was not devastated by Dutch elm disease as so many communities were.

I cringe when I see leaves being raked up and put into the street for pick-up, because it means to me that we are interfering with the normal, natural order of things. Sooner or later, we will pay a price, and we are in fact already paying one. We are hauling to the dump the very stuff upon which the renewal of life depends.

CHelsea TRUSTEES Herman Radloff and Jim Finch look at some samples of illegal drugs marketed through so-called "head shops." They smile for the camera, but agreed the problem is no laughing matter as the council took under consideration a model ordinance to ban such business from Chelsea.

Village Board Urged To Ban 'Head Shops' from Chelsea

The Livingston and Washtenaw Narcotics Enforcement Team (LAWNET) has recommended that Chelsea adopt an ordinance banning so-called "head shops" in the village.

Head shops sell drug paraphernalia and in some instances deal in drugs, both legal and illegal, State Police Lt. Herman Neuman and Roy Vernier told the village board.

"You don't have a 'head shop' here in Chelsea, and I suggest you should enact an ordinance to keep any from coming in," Lt. Vernier told Chelsea trustees. He offered a "model" law which was referred to village attorney Peter Flintoft for review.

The two state police officers described LAWNET as an undercover team which works in cooperation with local law enforcement officials to ferret out drug problems.

A major concern, Vernier said, is the sale of "look-alike drugs" which are legally available under prescription. Those substances often contain large overdoses of harmful chemicals.

"We've found cases where legally prescribed pills containing caffeine were consumed in amounts equal to 1,000 cups of coffee," Lt. Vernier said. "That can kill, and it has."

"A related problem is that drug dealers make up pills and capsules which look like legal medicines, but aren't. You can't tell them apart unless you analyze the contents in a laboratory."

"Persons who buy this stuff don't know what they are getting. Those capsules could have almost anything in them. They look like prescription drugs, but they aren't. You're risking your life when you swallow one."

Lt. Vernier described enforcement as "very difficult once you let a 'head shop' come into the community."

"They become semi-legal outlets for drugs because they start as legitimate businesses under the law," he explained. "The best way to handle the problem on the local level is to keep it from starting, by passing an ordinance banning head shops. That's what I recommend you do."

Chelsea police chief Lenard McDougall, who arranged for the state police team to appear, indicated he strongly supports enactment of an appropriate ordinance to prohibit head shops in the village.

Doctor Added to Staff at Family Practice Center

University of Michigan Hospitals Family Practice Center at Chelsea has announced the addition of Dr. Thomas Schwenk to its facility. Dr. Schwenk joined the staff in September. In addition to caring for patients at the center, Dr. Schwenk will be serving as director of graduate and postgraduate education.

Dr. Schwenk is originally from Kalamazoo, and graduated from the University of Michigan Medical School in 1975. He did his residency and fellowship training at the University of Utah and went on to become a faculty member at that institution. As a faculty member he served as chairman of the division of family practice and worked on the development of family practice in the University Medical Center.

During this time in Utah, Dr. Schwenk maintained a private practice in the town of Park City, U., which is about the same size as Chelsea. As a private physician he organized and directed the local ambulance service and worked on a number of health-related community activities.

Dr. Schwenk has national editorial experience and is currently serving as a reviewer for Family Medicine and for the Journal of Family Practice.

THOMAS SCHWENK, M.D.

Dr. Schwenk and his wife, Jane, have two children, age 1 and 5 years.

Board of Education Accepts Gift from Mr. and Mrs. Check

At its Nov. 5 meeting, the Chelsea Board of Education accepted a gift from Mr. and Mrs. John Check. The Checks donated a universal gym weight machine used for body building to the athletic department. The gift is worth approximately $1,800.

Chelsea Schools Accounts Given OK by CPA Firm

Chelsea schools accounting procedures were given a clean bill by certified public accountants Curtis, Bailey, Exelby and Sposito. The firm performed a financial audit showing the schools had complied with nearly all federal accounting provisions established by the Office of Management and Budget.

The audit covered the year ending June 30, 1984.

The district failed to meet one provision of the National School Lunch program. The district is required to check income information for at least three percent of households applying for free and reduced price lunches.

Assistant superintendent Fred Mills said he did not do this last year because he did not agree with the provision. He has fulfilled the requirement this year, however.

"The federal government gives you guidelines and then turns you into a policing agency. I don't agree with that. I did it this year, but I still don't think I have to be in the policing business," said Mills.

Mills sent forms out asking for income verification such as pay stubs to fill the requirement.

Blood Donor Battle Set Between U-M, OSU

It's time again for the annual Blood Donor Battle, between the University of Michigan and Ohio State University. This marks the third year of the contest to see which school can recruit and collect more blood for the American Red Cross. This year's contest will run from Nov. 5 through Nov. 16, the evening before the U. of M. vs. OSU football game.

Once again, Alpha Phi Omega, a service organization on the Michigan campus, has challenged students, friends and alumni of the two schools to make a blood donation during the 12-day period preceding the "big game." Supporters can donate blood at any community blood drive in Washtenaw county or at the American Red Cross donor center at 2729 Packard Rd., Ann Arbor. At the time of the donation, donors must specify for which school they wish their donation to be credited.

Winner of the contest will be announced during half-time ceremonies at the Michigan/Ohio State football game, to be held in Columbus this year. Representatives from the winning school will receive the special travelling "blood drop" trophy. In 1983, the University of Michigan won the competition for the second year in succession by donating 6,826 units of blood compared to Ohio State's 6,175.

An APO spokesperson said the group was confident that Michigan fans would lie down and be counted. "They're going to lie down to make their blood donation for Michigan," she said. "But we know that we're not just going to win the trophy for Michigan, we're going to help save lives in the process."

Blood may be donated by anyone in good health between the ages of 17 and 65, who weighs at least 110 pounds, said Neal Fry, Washtenaw county regional representative for the American Red Cross Blood Services. Blood may be donated every eight weeks, and up to five times a year, reminds Fry.

For an appointment to give blood during the Blood Battle, call the American Red Cross at 971-5300.

Almost all workers are covered by unemployment insurance; while each state specifies the amount of weekly and total payments and the manner in which they are calculated, the usual result is that the jobless worker receives about 50 percent of the average weekly wage formerly received, according to "A Working Woman's Guide to Her Job Rights," published by the Woman's Bureau of the U.S. Department of Labor.

Chelsea Lanes Sponsors Nine in Tournament

Chelsea Lanes sponsored nine adult bowlers and five youth bowlers in the Greater Detroit Open at Satellite Lanes in Dearborn yesterday.

The area bowlers were qualified by bowling in a tournament held at Chelsea Lanes. There were five divisions for adults, producing five winners. The remaining four bowlers were picked at random from all remaining entrants, by Chelsea's Police Chief Lenard McDougall.

Youth bowlers had three qualifying divisions producing three winners. The other two winners were selected at random, again by McDougall.

Adult bowlers are Dennis Helfrich, Roy Whitlock, Darlene Vargo, Vicky Wurster, Marilyn Stafford, Melva Britles, Ginny Brier, Garnell Creason, and Colleen Thompson.

Youth bowlers are Denise Spaulding, Rob Lyeria, Eddie Greenleaf, Dennis Clark and Shawn Cooper.

In Dearborn each amateur bowled with one of 180 pro bowlers on the PBA tour. The adult bowlers were shooting for trophies, cash prizes and tickets for the televised finals on Saturday. The youth bowlers shot for trophies and autographed Detroit Tiger baseballs.

All 14 had already received a pass for three days to watch the pro bowlers qualify, a Tiger baseball cap and a paid entry into the pro-am tournament.

Beach Students Nominate Most Popular Books

While voters across the America went to the polls on Tuesday, students at Beach Middle school had a different kind of election.

To commemorate National Book Week, students voted on their favorite books. The titles will be compiled by grade with the most popular book and its runners-up. A list from each class will be distributed through Beach classrooms.

The results will be ready at the beginning of National Book Week on Monday, Nov. 12.

Sue Beard, media specialist, is directing the election. She has also compiled an anthology of children's books in conjunction with seventh grade block teachers. Sixteen books are highlighted in the anthology, which will be sent home to parents.

Also for National Book Week, Beach principal Darcio Stielstra recommends parents attend a talk by Jim Trelease, author of the "Read-Aloud Handbook."

"A lot of educators will go hear him but his talk is as meaningful if not more so for parents," said Stielstra.

Trelease will speak on how to sell the love of reading and what should be read to your child. He will appear at Parkside Junior High school in Jackson on Wednesday, Nov. 14 at 7 p.m.

• Republicans Win In Chelsea High Mock Election

Any political candidate would love to have victories as decisive as those won by Republicans in the mock election at Chelsea High School.

Juniors and seniors voted on real punch-card voting machines on Oct. 29. The machines were borrowed from Lima township, precinct 1. Lima township clerk Arlene Bareis, Washtenaw county clerk, Robert Harrison, and Mickie Crawford, who is in charge of the election for the county, greatly helped students with the exercise, said Jim Bechtelheimer, government teacher at the high school.

The mock election gives the county a chance to run through the system before it is used by voters. Students voted in their U. S. history and government classes, which are only available to juniors and seniors.

Ronald Reagan won the presidential election by an overwhelming majority. He won 241 out of 342 votes, 70.4%. Walter Mondale only earned 19.8%.

Republicans won all the major offices. Jack Lousma was favored over Carl Levin for senator. Lousma had 58% of the vote. Levin had 33%. Representative Carl Pursell overwhelmed Mike McCauley with 68% to McCauley's 23%. For state representative, Margaret O'Connor garnered 71%. Her contender, Earl Stevenson only got 28%.

Republicans won all the statewide education offices and every county office.

Chelsea students voted for state supreme court justices Thomas Giles Kavanagh, James H. Brickley and Patricia J. Boyle to remain on the bench. Richard Conlin defeated Judith Wood for Washtenaw county probate court judge with 61% of the vote.

Richard W. Bailey, James R. Lang, and James W. Anderson, Jr., were elected Washtenaw Community College trustees.

Slightly over half the students voted in favor of proposal A, to allow the legislature to approve or disapprove administrative rules. The proposal passed with 51% of the vote.

Sixty-seven percent voted yes on proposal B, to set up a Michigan Natural Resources Trust Fund. Proposal C, to roll back property taxes to 1981 levels, was defeated by 72%.

Students passed Washtenaw county proposal 1, to renew the increase in the tax limitation for parks and recreation, by 55.6%.

Although Republicans won by an overwhelming majority, students tested as moderately liberal on an opinion survey, said Bechtelheimer. The survey is provided by the state board of education based on 1982 issues.

Dangerous Mushroom Abundant This Fall

Wet and fairly warm weather during the early fall has produced a bumper crop of wild mushrooms. There are dozens of species that you don't see in most years.

Unfortunately, one of the infrequent species that has suddenly become abundant is Galerina autumnalis, which is deadly poisonous and may be mistaken for some other species that are edible and widely gathered at this time of year.

Two persons, including one in South Lyon, have died in Michigan this fall from eating G. autumnalis (which has no common name) and several others have been made severely ill.

This reporter went into the woods behind his Chelsea back yard and spotted the species growing all over the place. It could have been gathered by the bushel. He destroyed all he found, but undoubtedly did not get them all.

G. autumnalis is a kind of nondescript brownish mushroom that grows on wood. It has thin stems which quickly rot from the base. Once you have seen it, you would never mistake it for anything edible.

Fruiting at the same time are the so-called "honey mushroom" (Armillaria mellea) and "brick cap" (nematoloma sublateritium) which are edible and choice. Both species are commonly labelled as "stump mushrooms" or "stumpers."

Neither the honey mushroom nor the brick cap grows on wood. They come up in clusters around old stumps. Both are lighter in color and generally larger than G. autumnalis, and have thicker stems.

The safest rule to follow is, simply, don't pick any wild mushroom at this time of year which is growing on wood and is tan to medium brown in color.

G. autumnalis contains a chemical called amantinin which is both deceptive and deadly. It's the same stuff that makes most species of Amanita mushrooms lethal.

Persons who eat mushrooms containing amantinin typically suffer vomiting and diarrhea for a few hours later, then the episode is all over, then get very ill and sometimes die a couple of days later. The poison destroys the liver.

There is an antidote, thioctic acid, which is available only in New Mexico and must be flown into Michigan to treat victims of amantinin poisoning. The drug works most of the time if administered within 48 hours after the cause of illness is discovered. One problem is that few doctors see enough cases of amantinin poisoning to diagnose it quickly and accurately, and put in a call for the antidote.

No Diversion Planned For Dairy Farmers

Secretary of Agriculture John Block says the Reagan administration has no intention of seeking an extension to this year's dairy diversion program. The USDA paid diversion program will expire March 31, 1985. It began Jan. 1, 1984 and provided dairy farmers with government payments for reducing milk production from 5% to 30%.

KEY CLUB DONATIONS: The Chelsea High school club has donated $150 to the National Institute of Burn Medicine. Receiving the check (right) is John Boshoven of the burn institute. Key Club treasurer Chris Herter is at left.

Key Club Sponsoring Burn Institute Work

The Chelsea Key Club has organized rapidly this fall. New enrollment projections are good, and activities are starting to materialize.

Recently the Key Club, which is sponsored by the Chelsea Kiwanis Club, made a $150 donation to the National Institute for Burn Medicine. The money was raised through the sponsorship of a summer high school dance. John Boshoven presented a program to the Key Club on hot water burns. His greatest point of emphasis was that most burns resulting from hot tap water are the result of water heaters being turned on too high.

In another Key Club activity, the students assisted in the sale of flowers for the high school Sweetest Day celebration.

The students are planning a clean-up day the high school football field as a service project.

The Key Club is a student organization sponsored by the Chelsea Kiwanis Club and is a service group. The Club has an international theme for program emphasis. Manhours for Man-kind is their two-year theme. Also, Key Club has adopted the Burn Institute as their organization to assist financially.

Chelsea officers are: Sue Nye, president; Pam Mullaly, vice-president; Jennifer Bell, secretary; Chris Herter, treasurer, and Jeff Nemeth, state lieutenant governor.

Two Chelsea Students To Be in Who's Who

Mary F. Boylan and Michelle L. Hellner have been selected for the 1985 edition of "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges."

They were among 31 Siena Heights College students chosen as national outstanding campus leaders. Campus nominating committees and editors of the annual directory included these students based on academic achievement, service to the community, leadership in extra curricular activities, and potential for continued success.

Mary F. Boylan is the daughter of Agnes and Keith Boylan of Park St. She is a member of the Sigma Kappa Alpha honors society, and the college governance and general education committees.

Last year, Boylan received the Thomas Emmet Scholar Athlete Award. This year, she is co-captain of the girl's basketball team. She participated in the Studio Angelico foreign study program in Italy, was a house leader of her dormitory, and has been in the student senate for two years as an executive assistant.

She also was a delegate to a Leadership Voter Registration Conference at Harvard University last year.

A 1981 Chelsea High school graduate, she is studying for her fine arts and business degrees.

Michelle L. Hellner is the daughter of Dorothy and Leo Hellner of S. Lima Center. She was a class officer, and a policy chairperson in the state senate. She worked with college Republicans and was honored as a Sage scholar by Siena college. She tutored last year.

Hellner graduated from Chelsea High school in 1981 and is majoring in business.

FALL CHORE: Sweeping leaves in her yard at 153 Van Buren St. is Mrs. Curtis Farley. Leaves raked to the curb are picked up by village crews and trucks and hauled off to the landfill.

OVERHEAD SIGNS PUT UP: On recommendation of Chelsea police chief Lenard McDougall, signs prohibiting left turns off Main St. at the Middle and Park intersections between 3 and 6 p.m. have been put up under the traffic light. McDougall was concerned that motorists wouldn't see the signs put up earlier on the sides of the street. A state Department of Transportation crew hung the overhead signs.

Nine Chelsea Students Win Academic Letters

Five seniors and four juniors were the first to win the new academic varsity letters for their outstanding academic performance last year.

The letter program was started as a means of recognizing students with strong academic performances. They resemble athletic letters, a large "C", but feature the lamp of knowledge.

To earn a letter, students must earn a B plus or better grade in every class in every marking period for one year for a total of 24 marking periods.

The five seniors who won letters are Marcia Keezer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Keezer; Jason Pierson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Pierson; Joseph Simon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Simon; Joshua Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Smith; and Kelly Thayer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Gray.

Juniors who earned letters are

Kimberly Collins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Collins; Cindy Kvarnberg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Kvarnberg; Jill Schaffner, daughter of Jon and Ann Schaffner; and Jennifer Swearingen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Glass.

The winners were announced at the high school open house on Oct. 22. They received their letters at that time.

Legion, VFW Will March in Veterans Day Parade

Members of Chelsea's American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars posts will participate in the Veterans Day (Armistice Day) parade on Sunday, Nov. 11, in Ann Arbor.

Both plan to have color guards in the line of march.

The parade will step off at 2 p.m. It is being co-ordinated by the Washtenaw County Council of Veterans.

"It will be the first veterans parade in Ann Arbor in several years," said Keith Boylan, adjutant of Chelsea American Legion Post 31. "We're hoping the parade can be held this year without interference from University students."

VFW Post 4076 of Chelsea will have a contingent in the parade, quartermaster Fremont Boyer said. "We will have some men there, I don't know how many. Several of our members, including me, have hunting trips planned."

Armistice Day commemorates the official end of World War I on Nov. 11, 1918. It has since been expanded to honor the veterans of all of America's wars.

A free handbook listing more than 700 vocational schools by location and occupation, plus 98 careers is available from NATTS. For a free copy, write NATTS, Dept. PK4, 2251 Wisconsin Ave., NW, Washington, DC 20007.

Girl Cross Country Fourth in Class B State Competition

The Chelsea girls cross country team finished a strong fourth in the state Class B meet at Linden last Saturday.

"We achieved our final goal, which was to be among the top five in the state," coach Pat Clarke said. The girls have worked hard for this all year, and I'm very proud of them. They ran well as a team."

Jackson Lumen Christi, the perennial power, won the meet with 84 points, followed by Gladwin 125, Grand Rapids Christian 134, and Chelsea 169. Hillsdale was fifth at 201.

The Bulldogs were led by junior Amy Wolfgang who placed 25th at 20:35. She was followed by senior Mary Ann Richardson in 26th at 20:36.

Sophomore Melanie Flanigan ran her best race of the year to finish 32nd at 20:47. Two freshmen, Kasey Anderson and Kim Allen, finished the Bulldogs' scoring in 42nd and 44th places, respectively, at 21:03 and 21:04.

Other Bulldog placers who ran very well were junior Kim Collins 45th (21:04) and freshman Jennifer Rossi 77th (21:42).

In the boys individual race junior Tim Bowdish finished 64th at 17:40, despite having had a touch of the flu all week.

Grand Rapids Catholic Central won the team title, followed by Okemos and Lumen Christi.

COMING AROUND THE TURN: Running up front as this picture of the Chelsea girls cross country team was taken were Kim Collins (ahead), Melanie Flanigan, Mary Ann Richardson and Kasey Anderson. Not pictured among the Bulldog girls who finished fourth in the state as a team were Amy Wolfgang, Kim Allen and Jennifer Rossi. It's just about impossible to get all members of a cross country team in action in one picture. Each runner sets her own pace as they string out over the three-mile course.

Wescott Leaving Softball

Bill Wescott, who was instrumental in establishing Chelsea's highly successful girls softball program, has confirmed that he will step down as a coach.

Wescott was appointed principal of North school last spring, and there is an unofficial "rule" that administrators cannot also be athletic coaches, although there is no language in the teachers union contract to prevent it.

"I understand the rule, and I accept it," Wescott said. "Administration is a full-time job. There is no time left over for coaching, much as I would like to go on doing it. I'll miss it."

Wescott served as varsity softball coach from 1977 to 1980, building up the program which led to a state championship in 1982. He voluntarily gave way to Charlie Waller, who took over as head coach, but continued to serve as assistant coach in charge of the junior varsity through last season. He is given a lot of credit for developing the young players who, year after year, make Chelsea a state softball power. The Bulldogs were state Class B runners-up last year, missing the championship by two runs.

"The truth is that I didn't know much about softball when I started coaching it," Wescott said.

"I had never played the game except on the sandlots. I had to read some books, talk to some people, and learn a lot in a hurry. The girls and I have learned together. I was lucky. We have had some exceptional talent and dedication that would make any coach look good."

Wescott was a sixth grade

English and geography teacher at Beach Middle school before he was named to be principal at North.

Pat Clarke is expected to follow Wescott as assistant softball coach, although his appointment has not yet been formally announced. Clarke coaches the girls and boys cross country teams, assists in wrestling, and was formerly boys track coach. He teaches at South school.

Wescott is the second Chelsea coach to announce his resignation in recent days. Ken Larson, who led the golf team to two consecutive "top 10" state finishes and assisted Wayne Welton as baseball coach, has also been promoted out of coaching. A former math teacher, he is now assistant principal at the high school, an administrative position.

Orchestras Selling Holiday Fruitcakes

Members of the Chelsea Junior High and High School Orchestra will be taking orders for fruitcakes from Nov. 9-18. You may also order by calling 475-8415, 475-7014. The fruitcake sales are the only fund-raiser the orchestra has. Proceeds are used for Blue Lake Music Camp, guest performers and the Music Camp Scholarship Fund.

STARS OF Chelsea girls varsity basketball team get ready to start practice. The team is first in the league and has a good chance of going on to the state championships. From left to right are Beth Unterbrink, Joann Tobin, Jennifer Cattell, Kristi Headrick, and Anne Weber.

Chelsea Girls Varsity Cagers Defeat Lincoln

Chelsea girls varsity basketball team won a decisive victory over Lincoln, 62-30, on Tuesday, Oct. 30.

Chelsea out-scored Lincoln in all four quarters, 17-7, 9-6, 20-6 and 16-11.

"It was a real pretty game for us. We played real well. Lincoln's dangerous if you let them run. They just run and gun. We didn't want to let them do that. We wanted them to run a set offense," said coach Jim Winter.

"Offensively, we wanted to put them in foul trouble. They play real aggressive defense and we wanted to turn that in to fouls. My girls did a beautiful job of doing both of those things," said Winter.

Lincoln had 21 fouls and three of their starters fouled out. Twelve approaches a high number of fouls in an average game.

Chelsea shot a record 80% from the foul line or 20 out of 25. Jennifer Cattell made 10 out of 11 of those free throws. Lincoln only made two out of 11 free throws.

From the floor, Chelsea shot 21 out of 46 for 46%. Lincoln only managed 14 out of 55. Chelsea out-rebounded Lincoln, 35-30.

"As a team we had 16 assists which shows we were passing the ball real well," said Winter.

Kristi Headrick won 17 points and 11 rebounds. Cattell earned 16 points. Joann Tobin had 12. Beth Unterbrink made six assists, seven rebounds and 11 points.

Chelsea's Doug Otto is an all-state golfer, and Mike Carignan received an honorable mention among the Bulldog links team which finished in a second-place tie this fall in the Southeastern Conference and came in seventh in the state Class B tournament.

Otto earned the all-state honor with a sparkling average of 37.6 strokes per nine holes. Carignan was a hair under 40.

"Both of these boys played very well," said retiring golf coach Ken Larson. "I'm very proud of both of them. They are the only players I ever coached who averaged under 40 strokes per round during a season."

For their part, both Otto and Carignan praised Larson and gave him a lot of credit for their success.

"Mr. Larson has built up the golf program here, and he is going to be missed," Otto said. "I just hope they get a good coach in here to replace him and keep things going. He has been an inspiration to us."

Carignan echoed those sentiments. "He helped me, he helped all of us," Mike said.

Both senior boys are seeking college golf scholarships, and Larson believes they both have a shot.

"I think Doug could play as a

"We had good balance. Four people in double figures is good. We were back on our game this week," said Winter.

The Lincoln game was Chelsea's ninth straight win. The team stands 8-0 in the league and 12-3 over-all.

The next game will be played at home against Tecumseh on Friday, Nov. 9. On Saturday, Nov. 10, Chelsea will be featured against Dexter at the Silverdome at 1 p.m. They will play at Pinckney on Tuesday, Nov. 13.

Doug Otto Named All-State Golfer, Carignan Also Honored

freshman at some college," Larson said. "Mike might have to wait a year, work hard, and get his average down a couple of strokes. He has the ability to do that. They are both excellent high school golfers. Doug is a little farther ahead right now, but Mike is good and improving."

Both boys are good students, which helps a lot when scholarships are awarded.

Larson is leaving as golf coach after having been named assistant high school principal, an administrative position which precludes his continuing as a coach.

DOUG OTTO (left) was selected for the Class B all-state golf team, and Mike Carignan earned honorable mention. They placed the Bulldogs to a seventh-place finish in the state tournament.

Bulldog girls were state champs in 1982 and runner-ups in 1984. Ginny Wheaton of the Boosters is in the center. Bottom photo shows Wheaton and coach Ken Larson with a banner emblematic of the Chelsea golf team's 1983 second-place finish.

Athletic Boosters Will Pay $5,030 For Improvements

The Chelsea Athletic Booster Club has agreed to underwrite $5,030 worth of costs for future improvements to the school system's sports facilities.

A new power volleyball standard will be bought to replace the equipment presently used at Beach school.

New bleachers will be purchased for the high school baseball and softball fields, and repairs will be made to two sections of five-row portable bleachers now in use.

The Boosters Club will also assist in renovating the timing pads used at the Beach pool, and will provide funds for a new trophy case at the high school.

The Boosters presented banners to coaches Charles Waller and Ken Larson in behalf of their teams' state tournament achievements. Waller's girls softball teams were state Class B champions in 1982 and runners-up last spring. Larson's 1983 golf team came in second in the state class B tournament.

To earn the honor of having a banner placed on the south wall of the high school gym, a team must finish first or second in state competition.

Fran Koepele was recognized for her work in preparing the banners.

Eighth Grade Cagers End Season

Chelsea eighth grade girls basketball team fell to Dexter, 28-23. The team's final game put their record at 5-5.

Heather Neibauer scored 10 of the 23 points and Kelly Scott scored eight. Neibauer also had eight rebounds and Scott had three steals. Lisa Unterbrink caught three rebounds. Candi Collin and Laura Unterbrink each made two steals.

The girls worked hard this season. Team members were Scott, Maria Kattula, Kim Easton, Jennifer Harms, Anna Harden, Lisa and Laura Unterbrink, Jennie Ghent, Christy Petty, Collin, Heather Schauer, Heather Neibauer, Jeannie Hiem, Lisa Taylor, Shannon Losey and Kim Ritter.

SEC ROUND-UP:

Saline Loses Bid To Make Play-Offs

Saline's faint hopes for a place in the state Class B football play-offs went down the tube last Friday night as the Hornets were upset by Riverview, 7-0.

Dexter ended an otherwise dismal season on a bright note by defeating Stockbridge, 12-8, the Dreadnaughts' only victory of the fall.

Milan was the only other South-eastern Conference team to post a win, beating Monroe Jefferson, 16-14, with a fine defensive effort.

Chelsea lost to Class A Lansing Everett, 48-14. Pinckney fell to tough Hartland, 20-8, and Tecumseh dropped a close contest to Mason, 20-16.

Saline needed a win over Riverview to have any chance at all to make the play-offs, and didn't get it. Four pass interceptions by Riverview—including one that set up the game's only touchdown early in the fourth quarter—snuffed out the Hornets.

Riverview keyed on Saline running back John Barth, who had gained more than 1,000 yards in eight games, and the strategy paid off. Barth was held to 37 yards.

Dexter generated just enough offense to take a 12-0 half-time lead over Stockbridge, then hung on for the win. Halfback Darren Hieber gained 134 yards and scored both Dreadnaught touchdowns.

Everett simply had too much speed for Chelsea, rushing out to a 28-0 first-quarter lead. Everett had previously beaten East Lansing, which trounced Ann Arbor Pioneer. Pioneer is going to the state play-offs, which suggests that Everett has a pretty good football team.

Milan came up with several big defensive plays to win over Monroe Jefferson. The biggest was an interception of a Monroe two-point conversion pass attempt which, if completed, would have created a tie.

Pinckney gave Hartland a battle, taking an early lead by returning the opening kickoff for a touchdown, but eventually fell to what Chelsea coach Gene LaFave called "the best team we faced all season."

Tecumseh played Mason tough but couldn't come up with a key play on a promising final drive that ended at the Mason 26.

Lincoln was walloped, 54-7, by Dearborn Heights Robichaud, putting a disappointing end to an otherwise good season. The Railsplitters' 6-3 record was their best in 10 years.

STANDINGS (FINAL)

Lincoln	4-2	6-3
Tecumseh	4-2	6-3

Chelsea Girls Swim Team Wins Meet Against Monroe

Chelsea girls swim team evened its record this week with two wins over Monroe and Willow Run. The season record is now 6-6 with two meets left against Jackson High school and Riverview.

The team accomplished these feats despite the loss of three girls who were out sick.

"The reason we were able to win without those girls was the hard work that many of our new swimmers have put in resulting in a much greater team depth than we had earlier in the year," said coach Larry Reed.

The team defeated Monroe, 91-81, in a see-saw victory.

Chelsea got out in front, 8-6, as a result of the combined victory of Paula Colombo, Kelly Kuzon, Becca Lee and Missy Young in the medley relay.

In the 200 freestyle, the watches timed Susan Schmunk as the fastest but she lost the race on a judge's decision and the team only maintained its two point lead. Paula Colombo won the 200 individual medley with a state qualifying time of 2:24.4 but Monroe got second, third and fourth despite a seven second drop and lifetime best swim by Karen Grau.

Chelsea got third and fourth in the 50 freestyle. The difference between first and fourth was three-tenths of a second. Cathy Hoffman swam a lifetime best, 28.9, despite finishing third.

In diving, Chelsea had two lifetime best performances with Deanna Zangara finishing second with 148 points and Robyn Hafner finishing third with 125 points. Jennifer Schweiger scored a big point for the team and finished fifth. The team was losing by six points.

After the next event, the team was behind 10 points. Lee, Young and Tami Harris (who had a lifetime best) finished third, fourth and sixth, respectively.

In the 100 freestyle, Hoffman and Sharon Colombo had lifetime bests and combined with Dawn Thorne to sweep the event with first, second and third. The meet was tied.

Schmunk swam a lifetime best in the 500 freestyle, just missing state qualifying, but finished second. Team depth paid off as Lee finished third and Anne Albrecht fourth, giving the team a two-point lead.

Paula Colombo won first place in the backstroke. Grau finished fourth. Thorne came from behind in a critical race to gain fifth place.

Chelsea won the 100 breaststroke because of a state-qualifying effort of Kuzon. Kenyan Vosters won fourth place by 6/100ths of a second. Harris finished sixth.

The meet came down to the freestyle relay which would determine the winning team. Chelsea's relay of Hoffman, Young, Sharon Colombo and Schmunk combined to win in a time of 4:16.5. The second Chelsea relay came from behind to earn third place. This relay was made up of Hafner, Grau, Thorne and Vosters.

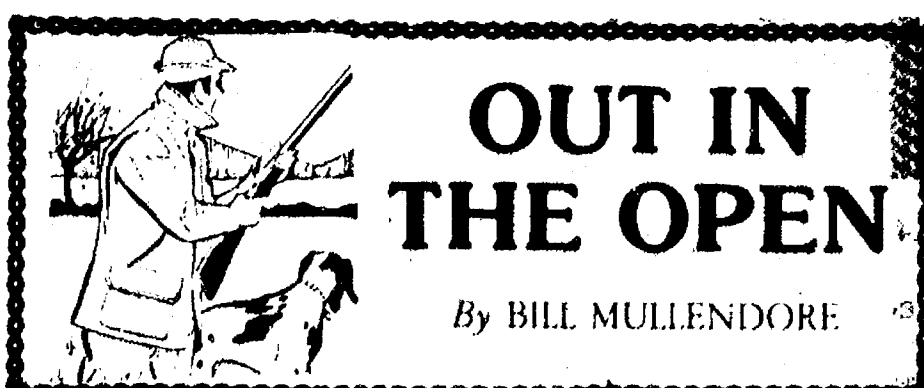

The team's next meet is Nov. 9 at Riverview.

CHS Yearbook Going on Sale

The 1985 Chelsea High school yearbook will be on sale Nov. 12-16. Parents are urged to remind their students of this.

The 1985 yearbook will feature a senior section with full color senior pictures, and a full color cover.

Yearbooks will be sold for $15 and $1.50 for personalization.

The secret of learning to shoot is to find a good teacher and follow his instruction.

Ideally, you will find your tutor before you buy a gun, and take him with you to the shop where you propose to purchase a rifle or shotgun. He will be able to determine if the gun fits you or can perhaps be modified to do so.

If some stock modifications or other changes are needed, go to a qualified gunsmith to have them done. Good gunsmithing doesn't come cheap, but it's a small investment considering that a firearm given reasonable care will last a shooting lifetime. The cost amortized over the years is very small.

It's not a do-it-yourself task or a job to be handed over to a friend who has some tools in his basement and likes to tinker around.

Once the gun fits, take it and your teacher out and fire some practice shots. The first few should be shot from a bench-rest to find out if the weapon shoots where it is supposed to if properly aimed or pointed. Rifles can usually be made to hit the target by adjusting the sights. Some shotguns just plain won't center a pattern when they come out of the factory. I've seen a couple that were as much as two feet off. If that happens, take the gun back where you bought it and demand a replacement. Reputable manufacturers and dealers honor their products.

After you know that the gun will hit what you are trying to hit if you do your part right, shoot some practice rounds with your instructor looking on. (It helps to do this in some private place where you won't be embarrassed by your early misses because other people are watching.)

If he's any good, your teacher will tell you what you are doing wrong. Pay attention. Try to correct every fault he mentions. Bad habits are formed by repeating the same mistake over and over until they become "grooved" into your shooting style. It took me many years to correct a flaw that I developed early in my shotgunning life. I wasn't getting my cheek down on the stock, with the result that I was shooting underneath everything.

That was the result of trying to teach myself to shoot, which is indeed learning the hard way.

When you get your form more or less pat, it's a matter of practice. And more practice. And still more. Spend a lot of time out on the firing range and burn up a lot of ammunition. It's expensive, but it's the price you have to pay if you want to learn to shoot decently.

Ask your instructor to come out and observe every now and then, especially if you run into a spell of bad shooting. Chances are you have unconsciously fallen into an error that you won't recognize but which can be corrected if somebody watches and tells you what you are doing wrong.

At some point you will reach a plateau of competence, after which no added amount of practice improves your score. Be philosophical and accept that as your personal standard of performance. You almost certainly will not get any better, no matter how hard you try. Your individual reflexes and hand-eye co-ordination will eventually determine your limits.

Fortunately, most of us can achieve a level of competence at which we can hit something often enough to make hunting interesting and worthwhile. It is that optimistic expectation which makes hunting an enjoyable experience. Very few of us will ever win any shooting prizes, but we will bring home some game now and then if we get enough chances to shoot.

By all means keep up the practice, especially during the weeks before opening day each year. Unless you are one of those rare "instinctive" shooters, you can't expect to take off the rack a gun that you haven't shot for many months and go out and hit anything with it right off the bat. Your first few shots will be misses.

It's remarkable how rusty your shooting reflexes can get when they go unpracticed for awhile. It's also gratifying that they come back quickly with a little re-learning.

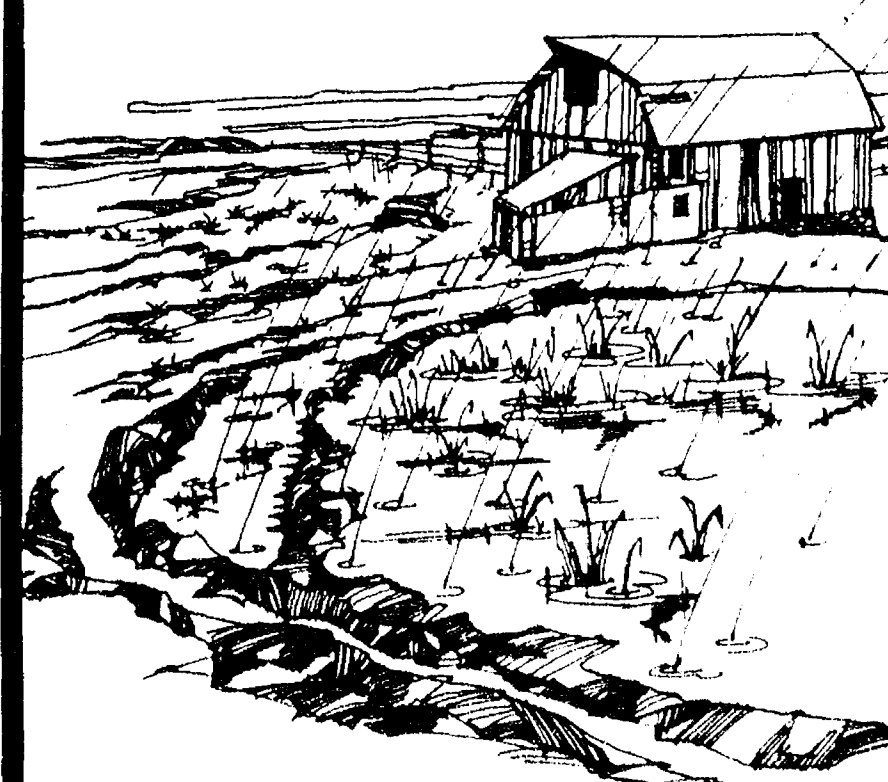

Our final tip: Relax and be calm if you possibly can. The best field shooting I have ever done was accomplished when there was an abundance of opportunities. When you don't worry that a miss might mean blowing your only chance of the day, you probably won't miss.

Years ago in South Dakota I killed 17 pheasants with 17 shells, by far the best string I ever ran on game. The birds were unbelievably abundant, and I knew that if I missed one, I would quickly have another to shoot at.

On the other hand, my most scandalous misses came on slow duck hunting days when nothing much was moving. When a flight finally did come along and swing in over the decoys, I blew holes in the air simply because I had the unsteady feeling that I didn't dare miss if I hoped to put something in the bag.

Tightening up will get you into trouble in almost any situation involving physical skills, and shooting is no exception.

SAVE TIME NEXT SPRING. APPLY YOUR N-P-K THIS FALL!

Here's a way to avoid problems with weather delays next spring... a way to reduce your spring workload so you'll have a better chance of getting corn planted on time.

Total fall fertilization saves time in the spring. Yes, now you can apply nitrogen in the fall if you use Stabilized Nitrogen. And you won't have to worry about nitrogen loss. Unlike regular nitrogen, Stabilized Nitrogen is not lost to fall or spring rains.

This means nitrogen will be available along with P and K next spring and through the growing season for a healthier and better producing corn crop!

So, see us now about all your fertilizer needs. We'll soil test, make fertilizer recommendations and custom apply... or you can apply it yourself.

Get a head start on next year's corn. Apply your fertilizer this fall.

Gregory Area Youth Completes Marine Recruit Training

Marine Pfc. Timothy J. Hoard, son of Cathrine N. and Allan L. Hoard, Sr., of 19251 Doyle Rd., Gregory, has completed recruit training at Marine Corps Recruit Depot, San Diego, Calif. During the 11-week training cycle, Hoard was taught the basics of battlefield survival. He was introduced to the typical daily routine that he will experience during his enlistment and studied the personal and professional standards traditionally exhibited by Marines. He participated in an active physical conditioning program and gained proficiency in a variety of military skills, including first aid, rifle marksmanship and close order drill. Teamwork and self-discipline were emphasized throughout the training cycle. A 1984 graduate of Stockbridge High school, he joined the Marine Corps in June 1984.

The Rev. John Gibbon Installed as Pastor of Congregational Church

The Rev. Erwin Koch of St. Paul UCC of Chelsea presented the sermon for the service.

James Nicola, commentator of First Congregational presented the Rev. Gibbon to the congregation and conference representatives for installation.

Association representatives conducting the installation were the Rev. Herman Haller, associate conference minister and Ms. Carolyn Sunburn associate representative.

Reader for the service was Mrs. Cynthia Beauchamp. Liturgist was J. Glenn Culler. Mrs. Roberta Cobb served as organist.

Deacons and ushers were Mrs. Gertrude Kern and Elita Borders, Gary Bentley, and Sylvester Wojcik.

Immediately following the service a light luncheon was served in the church Fellowship Hall by the Fellowship Committee.

R. Proctor Is Semi-Finalist In Senate Youth Competition

Chelsea High's Richard Proctor and Dexter High senior Mark Lee were semi-finalists in the United States Senate Youth Competition. They and several other students from Washtenaw county were invited to a brief gathering over regrestment on Monday afternoon, Oct. 15, at the IDR room, Washtenaw Intermediate school district.

The two youths received official invitations to the event from Marjorie M. Mastie, consultant, measurements and guidance, WISD.

The panel of judges, who selected the entrant from Washtenaw county to participate in the state finals of the competition, had asked students selected from each of the high schools to meet with them in order to personally convey their congratulations.

Students were advised their poise, manner of expression, attire, and social skills would be perceived as indicators of their leadership and their readiness to interact in Washington with national leaders.

The United States Senate Youth Program for each year over the past 20, has allowed two high school juniors or seniors from each of the 50 states to participate in a unique learning experience funded by the Hearst Foundation.

Liam B. Lavery, a senior at Saline High school, was selected to represent the young people of Washtenaw county in state-level competition for the United States Senate Youth Program.

Paul Franklin, a senior at Whitmore Lake High school, was designated first runner-up and alternate to the state competition.

The program awards, to two student leaders from each state, a $2,000 college scholarship and a week-long, all-expenses-paid trip to Washington, D. C., to work with their U. S. Senators.

Liam, the son of William and Barbara Lavery of 1551 Bishop Rd., Saline, is senior class president, an all-A student ranked number one in his class, a varsity athlete and captain of both track and cross country teams, and was student council president in his junior year. He writes a by-lined weekly column for The Saline Reporter and has received a number of prestigious awards for his academic excellence and leadership in the school and community.

The distinguished panel which reviewed the applicants from 12 high schools in selecting Liam included: George D. Goodman, executive director of Michigan Municipal League; Cynthia Hudgins, district co-ordinator for U. S. Representative Carl Pursell; C. Philip Kearney, professor of education, the University of Michigan; and Elvira Vogel, trustee of the board of education, Washtenaw Intermediate School District.

SPRUCED UP JUST BEFORE yesterday's election was the front of the Sylvan Township Hall on W. Middle St. Downtown buildings are being sprayed with a chemical which removes old stains and gives them a new look, bringing out the original colors of the brick and stone.

Tom Mull In NMU Stage Production

Mull is the son of Betty Mull, of 333 Elm, Chelsea.

ERIC SMITH stands outside his classroom at North school near the bird feeder and shrubs he installed. Take Pride in Your Schools committee recognized Smith, a teacher, for his improvements to the school.

NORTH SCHOOL HALLWAYS need not be barren and empty spaces. Teacher Eric Smith often fills the hall near his room with the work of his students. Take Pride in Your Schools committee recognized Smith for his work to improve the school.

Eric Smith Recognized For Taking Pride in Schools

Take Pride in Your Schools committee has nominated North school teacher Eric Smith for appreciation and school board recognition. Smith teaches the fourth grade.

Smith was chosen because he has worked to improve the school building, and is known for having a nice classroom, said William Wescott, North principal and committee member.

Six years ago, when teacher Peggy Moore, built a redwood fence, Smith helped install shrubs and a bird feeder. Students are able to watch birds at the feeder during the winter time.

Smith takes pride in the hallway near his classroom. He tries to put as much of his student's work on the bulletin board as possible, whether the work is artistic or academic.

"I always have a lot of things in the hall. It's important to me that it looks nice. It adds a little spice to the school," he said.

When Smith trimmed his lilac bushes one year, he planted some around the school. Another way Smith takes pride in the school is to attend all extra-curricular festivities to support students.

In 1970, Smith graduated with a bachelors from Eastern Michigan University.

"After I got out of school, I was looking for a job. The only thing I could find was as a school bus driver in Ann Arbor and I got interested in elementary kids and went back to school," said Smith.

In 1972, he earned his masters from Eastern in early elementary education.

Smith's first and only teaching job has been at North school. He began working there 11 years ago. He has taught third, fourth and fifth grades.

"My main philosophy is I am a pretty humanistic type of person. I'm more impressed if I can teach kids how to get along with each other than if I see someone getting A's and B's," he said.

Students learn to get along by sticking to rules set at the beginning of the year. These rules include not disrupting each other when someone's trying to speak, working quietly and trying to set a business-like atmosphere in the classroom.

Besides teaching, Smith performs professionally as a musician in a group called Puzzles. The group plays rock and roll or country music. They mostly perform at weddings. Smith plays guitar, piano and sings.

Beach School Yearbook Goes on Sale Nov. 28

Beach Middle school yearbook staff is currently making posters to advertise for their big 1984-85 yearbook sale on Nov. 28.

The posters will be hung around the school. Information envelopes will be sent home on Monday, Nov. 28. Yearbooks may be ordered on Nov. 28 by turning $7 in the first hour classes. The staff intends to print 450 copies.

The book will be financed through the sale. Staff has settled on Walsworth Publishing Co. to print the books. Sam Lyndon of Dexter was the company representative.

Deadline for the year book is the first week of March. The book should be ready by the first week in June.

The name of the yearbook is "Chelsea Bullpups." It will feature student artwork, and candid photos of sports events, concerts, teachers and students as well as class pictures. Students will take several of the photos themselves.

Leading the yearbook staff this year is media specialist Sue Beard and media specialist aide JoAnn Richardson.

"The position was available this year and being in media, we've done work in photography. We decided we would try it out this year to see if we would enjoy it and make sure we'd have a yearbook this year," said Beard.

Students applied to work on the yearbook staff at the beginning of the year. The staff meets every Wednesday, before school, at 8 a.m.

Eighth grade students working on the staff are Cheryl Blough, Kelly Dale, Don Gerstler, Mike Thompson, and Angelic Ruggirello. Seventh grade staff is Tammy Browning, Amy Carpenter, Stephanie Bowers, Melissa Johnson, Todd Redding, Joe Beaudoin, Debby Evison, Barb Scriven, and Cory Tremper.

From the sixth grade, staff members are Mercedes Hammer, Lissa Hamrick, Chris Houk, Bridget Love, Amy Koenigter, Jane Pacheco, Colleen Scharphorn, Frank White and Jennifer McEarchern.

Chelsea High Plans SADD Assembly for Juniors, Seniors

Students Against Drunk Driving (SADD) will give an assembly for Chelsea High school 11th and 12th grade students on Thursday, Nov. 8.

SADD will talk about and promote their Ann Arbor-based chapter.

"I would like to see something like that get started here. We've been fortunate in the past year with drunk driving but it's a real potential problem," said principal John Williams.

Chapter advisor, Don Henson, will also speak. He is a driver's education instructor in Ann Arbor, but lives in the Chelsea school district.

Besides speakers, the assembly will feature the film, "Kevin's Story." Kevin, a man in his early 20's, tells his own true story, with the help of re-enactments.

At the end of his senior year in high school, Kevin had drinks with friends. When he drove home, he crossed the center-line and hit an on-coming car, killing his girlfriend. Instead of sentencing him to prison, the judge assigned him to go to schools and tell his story.

Last year, the film was shown to seniors on the last day of school and had such an impact, "you could hear a pin drop" in the auditorium, said Williams.

Also last year, the high school enlisted William Gay, defense tackle for the Detroit Lions, to speak against drugs and alcohol.

North School Plans Teddy Bear Day

Teddy bears will be honored guests on Teddy Bear Day in the North school media center on Friday, Nov. 9.

North school kindergarten classes may bring their teddy bears to school. Parties for the bears will be held in the media center for the morning kindergartens from 9:30-10 a.m. and 10:30-11 a.m., and for the afternoon kindergarten from 1:30-2 p.m.

Media specialist, Barbara Locks, has been telling bear stories to the kindergartners all year. On teddy bear day, children will bring in their bears and eat graham crackers, because bears like honey. Children will read stories to their bear and talk about them.

Locks plans to have students sing songs like "The Bear Went Over The Mountain." They may possibly do the "Teddy Bear Dance."

Teddy bears were chosen "because we have a lot of bear stories and they're very popular. Children can empathize with bears as opposed to a child in a story," said Locks.

Bears are honored in the classrooms at South school, said Locks, but North school teachers have allowed Locks to handle the bears.

Huron Farm Supply Store Reports B & E

An early morning call, Monday, Oct. 29, from Huron Farm Supply on Dexter-Chelsea Rd. notified deputies at the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department Dexter station a break-in had occurred sometime over the previous week-end. Deputy Marvin Davis said three John Deere chain saws, with reported values of $417, $297, and $338, two 20" push mowers, a $351 weed eater, a pair of half-inch drive ratchets, a set of end wrenches, bolt cutters valued at $60, a typewriter, and a 3 h.p. John Deere (model-320) snow blower, estimated value $600, were among the missing items.

Entry to the establishment was apparently gained through a west side window on the building. After entering that window, the intruders broke an office window, later leaving through the front door. The report was filed at 8:39 a.m. Monday, Oct. 29.

Also taken in the break-in were a box of stamps and some cash, the report stated.

Anyone having information that might lead to the apprehension of those responsible for the break-in, or to the recovery of the stolen items, is asked to notify deputies at the WCSD Dexter station.

CATHY CROUCH-GRIMSTON, stands beside her dream come true. On Nov. 9 and 10, she will have a grand opening for Her Favorite Things, her ladies specialty shop in Kerrytown, Ann Arbor. She is the daughter of Marie and Duane Crouch of Cavanaugh Lake Rd.

Dream Comes True For Chelsea Girl

A dream that was generated in Chelsea has been realized by Cathy Crouch-Grimston, a 1974 Chelsea High school graduate.

Twelve years ago when Cathy enrolled in the workstudy program as a junior, she was placed in Grove's dime store as a clerk. She worked afternoons and summers and fell in love with the retail business. As she arranged the counters, waited on customers and unpacked new merchandise, she began to think about owning her own store.

On Nov. 9 and 10 Cathy will have a Grand Opening for that store, Her Favorite Things in Kerrytown, Ann Arbor.

After graduation from high school, Cathy attended Patricia Stevens College in Milwaukee, Wis., a private college devoted to the study of fashion merchandising.

Cathy's first stop on her journey toward her dream was with Goodyear's department store in Ann Arbor. She was hired as a buyer of lingerie. During her three years at Goodyear's she became buyer (often traveling to New York) for the Penny Jar Department and successfully guided the new department to earn a profit.

From Goodyear's, she moved to Kempf's Ladies Store in Saline where she was buyer and manager.

During the time that she worked for Goodyear's and Kempf's, she continued to nurture the dream of her own store. The dream began to take shape—the store would be a ladies specialty shop.

After her employment with Kempf's, Cathy became manager of the jewelry and photo departments at Meijers Thrifty Acres.

Twelve years after the first exciting day at Groves in Chelsea, Cathy realized her dream, sole owner of Her Favorite Things, a ladies' store specializing in lingerie, sleepwear, blouses, sweaters, purses and belts.

Cathy has strong ties with Chelsea. She has many friends here and her parents, Marie and Duane Crouch live on Cavanaugh Lake Rd.

Cathy's advice to other Chelsea graduates? "Don't stop dreaming. They really do come true."

Mary Poljan Serves As Student Trustee

Several Albion College students were appointed as representatives to various college boards including Mary Poljan of Chelsea. Poljan will serve as a student representative to the board of trustees.

Poljan is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Poljan. She is a senior at the college.

The Student Senate voted to appoint the students to the alumni board, petitions board, educational policy committee and board of trustees.

Representatives applied for the positions and will serve for one year.

WORK CONTINUES on the BookCrafters fulfillment house building in the Sibley Rd. industrial park. The building is pretty much completed, as is a road into the plant. Yet to be built are service drives and a parking lot. Rain delayed the project this past week. Loads of gravel were dumped to establish a base for the parking lot, and water was pumped out of puddles so asphalt may be laid.

Chelsea School Board Votes Against Winter Guard Contest

Chelsea Board of Education voted not to approve the Winter Guard competition at their Nov. 5 meeting.

Superintendent Ray Van Meer recommended the competition not be approved because of "limited practice facilities, limited transportation possibilities and numerous Sunday performance schedules."

A school board policy is to avoid scheduling school activities on Sundays "to allow youngsters to go to church and be with their families," said Van Meer.

The Winter Guard competition is an out-growth of the flag program, but is a separate specialty group. Participants compete with other schools doing flag routines.

Upon graduation from Chelsea High school, Allan is scheduled for enlistment in the Regular Air Force on July 19, 1985. Upon completion of the Air Force's six-week basic military training course at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Tex., Allan will begin technical training as a Law Enforcement Specialist.

While attending these courses he will be earning credits toward an Associates Degree through the Community College of the Air Force.

Three Area Men Said Involved in Pot Ring

Three Chelsea area men are named in the latest series of indictments handed down by a federal grand jury in Detroit which is investigating a major marijuana sales ring operating out of Ann Arbor.

They are Arthur M. Armstrong, 34, of 1555 Shore View Dr., Sylvan township, owner of a record shop in Ann Arbor.

Gregory P. Gerber, 30, no street address given but identified in the indictment as a resident of Chelsea, and a former commission salesman for a Chelsea area business.

David K. Querfeld, 37, formerly of 2623 North Territorial Rd., Webster township, who is now reported to be living in California.

Armstrong and Gerber are each accused of buying more than 1,000 pounds of marijuana from Ann Arbor brothers Ned and Fred Shures for resale. Querfeld is charged with operating a "stash house" for some of the more than 200,000 pounds of pot that the Shure brothers are said to have handled between 1974 and 1982 for distribution throughout southern Michigan.

Both of the Shures have pleaded guilty to federal charges, as have 12 others arrested in an earlier series of indictments handed down after a two-year grand jury investigation.

The latest round of seven indictments—including the three Chelsea area persons—brings to 21 the number of persons so far named in the probe.
