Civic Foundation Donates $4,949 To Medical Project

The fourth grant of the two-year-old Civic Foundation of Chelsea, presented in a ceremony Friday at the Chelsea United Methodist Retirement Home, will help support a significant Chelsea-based project but may eventually have national impact.

A check for $4,949 presented by foundation president Raymond Van Meer will make it possible to develop training materials so that many more Alzheimer's disease victims and their families can benefit from the pioneering program established at the Methodist Home.

According to Dorothy Coons, director of the local project, there is a nation-wide need for staff training so that other long-term care facilities can learn the techniques now being successfully used by the staff at the Methodist Home. Mrs. Coons, Beth Spencer and Anne Robinson, all staff members from the University of Michigan Institute of Gerontology who have worked with the Chelsea project the past year, will be responsible for the development of the training materials.

Presentation of the Foundation check took place in Wesley Hall, the special wing where a home-like environment has been created for residents who are victims of Alzheimer's disease or other forms of dementia. Catherine Durkin, administrator of the home, and many members of the staff have participated in testing ways to provide a supportive living situation which enables these residents to remain as active and independent as possible.

Alzheimer's disease is an age-related ailment characterized by loss of memory. It is caused by apparently irreversible deterioration of brain cells. First identified in 1907, Alzheimer's disease has become increasingly important as the population of elderly persons grows.

Average life expectancy for persons born today is 71 for males, 78 for females. All are potential victims of Alzheimer's disease. The cause has not been determined, and there is no known cure. Patients require a high level of care which stresses living in a comfortable, secure environment and taking advantage of those memory functions which remain unimpaired.

The gift to the Alzheimer's disease project was the fourth made by the Civic Foundation of Chelsea since its organization in September, 1982, according to Carol Kvarnberg, a foundation officer. Previous grants went to support Lifeline, a safety system for elderly residents of the Chelsea area, and two endeavors sponsored by the Faith in Action group to protect children by strengthening parenthood practices.

The Civic Foundation is a non-profit organization established to receive and distribute money in support of worthwhile community-oriented activities in the Chelsea area.

New Ordinance Will Ban 'Head Shops' In Chelsea Village

An ordinance to ban so-called "head shops" in Chelsea has been unanimously approved by the village board and will become effective as soon as legal publication requirements are fulfilled.

Ordinance No. 92 specifically prohibits sale of "drug paraphernalia" in the village. So far as is known, none is being legally sold now, and the new law is intended to keep it that way.

All seven members of the village board voted for the ordinance, after it was recommended to them by a state police drug detective team last month. The officers had suggested to the board that it is much easier from a legal standpoint to hold a "head shop" out of town than try to cope with it after it comes in.

The new ordinance, which is a model law recommended by the state police, bans a long list of instruments, objects and procedures which can be employed in the production and use of illegal drugs such as marijuana, hashish and cocaine.

Besides selling drug paraphernalia, head shops commonly market illegal, look-alike drugs made up to resemble legal prescription drugs. There is no telling what the unlawful pills and capsules may contain. A common ingredient is caffeine in amounts hundreds of times stronger than a cup of coffee or a bottle or can of a cola soft drink.

"That amount of caffeine will give you a 'high'," Lt. Roy Vernier of the state police said. "It also may kill you. It's definitely dangerous."

Lt. Vernier suggested that the best way to handle the problem was to stop it before it can start, and that is what the new ordinance is designed to do.

Bay City Firm Awarded Village Audit

The Bay City accounting firm of Campbell, Kusterer & Walraven has been retained to perform the annual village audit next spring after the books are closed on the fiscal year at the end of February.

The village board accepted the firm's $5,200 proposed fee and decided not to seek competitive bids.

"They have done the job for us the last two years, and I have no complaints at all about their work," village administrator Frederick Weber said. "In both of those years their bids were well below others submitted, and I see no reason to go through the bidding process again this year. We're not required to do it."

The council agreed and awarded the contract.

The $5,200 price is $500 more than last year's charge. The increase reflects the fact that there are two new special funds—in industrial park and sanitary landfill—in the village's bookkeeping system. Both must be audited.

Improvements Okayed For Fire Department

An appropriation of up to $13,000 has been approved by the village board for improvements and equipment in the Chelsea fire department.

The money will buy four insulated doors at a cost of $4,200 and make a start on upgrading the department's radio equipment. A base station, in-coder and two portable units will be bought.

"We need to spend about $30,000 altogether to modernize the radio system," Richard Steele, chairman of the board's fire department committee, said. "I know we don't have the money to do it all this year, but I recommend we take the first step."

Steele said the department's radio system is obsolete and that some of its components are broken down beyond repair.

The insulated doors are a follow-up to a new roof on the fire hall which is intended, among other things, to reduce the cost of heating the building. "The doors will pay for themselves and then some," Steele said.

Village administrator Frederick Weber told the board that a maximum of $13,000 could be squeezed out of this year's fire department budget for the improvements, and all trustees agreed to approve spending that amount.

Rosemary Harook New Zoning Inspector

Rosemary Harook has been appointed as Chelsea's zoning inspector, succeeding Carl Sanderson who resigned last month because of ill health.

The part-time position pays $6 per hour for time worked. Mrs. Harook's appointment carries the usual "probationary" period of six months for all village jobs.

"I'll be active, I promise you that," said Mrs. Harook who regularly attends village board meetings as a private citizen and frequently asks questions and speaks her mind. "I'm interested and concerned about a lot of things. As a village employee, my viewpoint will be different, but I will continue to express myself."

The zoning inspector may be reached at the village offices, 104 E. Middle St., phone 475-1771.

The zoning inspector's duties are, basically, to enforce the village zoning ordinance, a long and complicated document which fills a two-inch thick book. The ordinance, No. 79 prescribes land uses and procedures for all property in the village.

Chelsea Loses Bid To Delay Opening Of New Landfill Cell

The Washtenaw County Health Department has denied a request that Chelsea be allowed to delay until next spring use of the new burial cell at the village sanitary landfill on Werkner Rd.

In a letter to Washtenaw Engineering Co., village consultants on the landfill, assistant county public health engineer David Plueddemann wrote: "Your request must be denied despite the technical simplification benefits expected if such a variance were granted."

"As you know, Sept. 1, 1984, was the deadline for compliance with Act 641 (the state solid waste management law). Compliance with the deadline was the reason the work (on the Chelsea landfill) proceeded as it did. The DNR (Department of Natural Resources) is bound by the requirements of the act and, unfortunately, is not in a position to grant variances at this time."

Later in his letter Plueddemann stated, "Washtenaw Engineering had asked that use of the recently completed landfill cell be delayed until May 1, 1985, citing three reasons:

(1) It would be better to start the operation during warm, dry weather when liquids leaking out of the cell can be expected to evaporate as fast as they collect. Little or no evaporation is anticipated during the winter months. Starting up in the spring would provide some experience as to the volume of leakage and what must be done to handle it.

(2) A spring start-up would fit better into a timetable for future construction work at the landfill.

(3) The cell presently being used is not full and will have to be filled with something to bring it up to grade. The most readily available and cheapest source of fill is refuse that would be dumped between now and May 1. Plueddemann acknowledged the truth of all that and then denied the request, saying he had consulted with the DNR whose personnel stood firm in insisting that the new cell go into operation immediately.

He did say that some minor variances may be granted next spring if necessary to complete construction.

Chelsea is one of a few Michigan municipalities which have complied with the deadline set forth in Act 641. Dozens of others have failed, and the DNR has taken no enforcement action against them. The Upper Peninsula is in revolt against the rules, and cities and villages up there plan to go to court to assert their right to operate open dumps.

Cecil Clouse, chief operator of the Chelsea landfill, said he could comply with the state/county edict, adding that a spring start "would make things a whole lot easier and probably better in the long run."

There are several landfills in Washtenaw county which do not meet the requirements of Act 641. So far, there has been no announcement by the Health Department of plans to crack down on them.

Council Meeting Reset for Jan. 2

Because the first Tuesday in January falls on New Year's Day, the village council has postponed its scheduled meeting to Wednesday, Jan. 2. It will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the village hall.

Christmas Concert Set for Dec. 17

Musicians from Chelsea High school and Beach Middle school will present a combined Christmas concert at 7:30 p.m. Monday, Dec. 17, in the high school gym. The event will be open to the public without charge.

Orchestras, bands, choirs and ensembles of both schools will perform. About 350 students will take part.

Selections will include LeRoy Anderson's "Bugler's Holiday" and Bach's "Brandenburg Concerto," along with traditional holiday songs.

The concert will close with the "Hallelujah Chorus" and a Christmas sing-along, climaxed by a visit from a special guest from the North Pole.

Performing groups will include the high school concert band and orchestra, eighth grade band, seventh grade band, Beach school orchestra and choir, and various smaller vocal groups including the Contemporaries and the Madrigals.

Driver Charged In Fatal Accident West of Chelsea

Michael R. Platt, 27, of Grass Lake has been charged with involuntary manslaughter in connection with a Nov. 9 traffic accident on Old US-12 west of Wilkinson St. following an investigation by the county sheriff's department.

Robert W. Bentley, 26, of Munith, a passenger in a car driven by Platt, was killed in the mishap. The vehicle went off the road and hit a series of trees. (Continued on page seven)

Thursday, Dec. 18, 1980—

By early next year, Chelsea area residents will be viewing a new television station, WRHT, Channel 31, based in Ann Arbor and offering both network programming and subscription telecasts.

State budget cuts are hitting a variety of facets of the Michigan resident's way of life. First, social services and education; second, state police and sheriff's departments. Now, state recreation areas.

The Nature Center at Waterloo Recreation Area has been eliminated, effective Jan. 3 when all operations will be ceased. Lack of state funds and the program's operation in the red are deemed the chief reasons for Nature Center termination.

Free throws were the name of the game Friday night as the Bulldogs sunk 29 in 39 attempts at the line, for an amazing 74 percent average. Contributing 16 of these free throws was senior captain Jeff Dils. In 20 attempts, Dils shot 80 percent from the line and 73 percent from the floor (8 for 11), to tally an excellent offensive night with 32 points.

A public hearing of the Sharon Township Zoning Board was held Tuesday evening, Dec. 15, to decide whether the Michigan Livestock Exchange should be granted permission to build and operate a livestock auction similar to the one which they had planned to build in Sylvan township earlier this fall.

Group Calls for Financing, Immediate Construction of Prisons

A coalition of law enforcement and judicial groups have demanded the Legislature and Governor James Blanchard provide more funding yet this year for prison construction to thwart a growing public safety crisis.

At a recent Lansing press conference, representatives of the coalition said the general public had lost confidence in the ability of the state to provide protection, and the public would be willing to forego an accelerated income tax rollback in favor of new prison construction.

The coalition spokesperson, representing the Michigan Association of Chiefs of Police, the Michigan Corrections Association, the Michigan Judges Association, the Michigan Sheriff's Association and the Prosecuting Attorneys Association of Michigan, urged the state to earmark a portion of its 1983-84 general fund budget surplus towards prison construction as the "best option" for immediate action.

State budget officials, however, have already declared the $268 million surplus has been allocated to the September tax rollback and the budget stabilization fund payment.

Dale David, of the Sheriff's Association, said the executive office supported the goals of the coalition but had told it there was no budget surplus to provide financing for new prisons.

But, David said, "I think the Legislature has some input into that."

Republican legislative leaders have called for using available surpluses for an accelerated tax rollback, and House Speaker Gary Owen (D-Ypsilanti) said he would also support that, but does not expect a surplus to exist.

Blanchard responded by praising the support of the coalition for new prison construction, but urged members to go to the Joint Capital Outlay subcommittee of the Appropriations committees to urge swift action on converting the old Detroit House of Corrections into a state prison.

The statement by Blanchard also called for the group to explain to the public the need for additional prisons.

While the coalition favored prison funding through the budget surplus as alternatives, it also supported creation of a corrections construction finance authority similar to the state housing development authority, or a proposal similar to 1980's unsuccessful Proposal E, which would have raised the income tax specifically for new prison construction.

Davis said that had Proposal E passed, the state might not now be in a crisis.

Earlier this year, Senate Majority Leader John Engler said the possibility of forming a corrections authority, which would issue bonds for prison construction, was being studied.

The group said the state also had to modify the current emergency overcrowding act to limit the number of prisoners released, and urged action on sentencing guidelines to help standardize prison sentences.

Engler said he supported the group's goals, although he said they lacked specific suggestions. The coalition representatives said the public was growing restless waiting for state action to provide adequate prison facilities.

James Shonkwiler of the Prosecuting Attorneys Association warned that the state was "running the risk of taking the law into their own hands because they don't have confidence" that the state can protect them.

W. Robert Huff, Ypsilanti police chief and president of the police chiefs association, said the public should replace those legislators who refuse to act quickly on prison construction, although he said he would not endorse recalls.

Davis said the group was willing to play on the public's emotions by using the recent murders of an East Lansing police officer and Meridian township woman to convince legislators of the need for quick action on prison construction.

One of the two persons charged with those murders was a parole violator and the other had escaped from a half-way house at the time of the killings.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

It has been said by people not even as smart as Bug Hookum that nobody wants to die but everybody wants to go to heaven. Bug come up with a twist on that during the session at the country store Saturday night. Bug said everybody wants to be rich and live rich, but nobody wants anybody to know they're rich.

That old excuse about rich folks being unhappy is sour grapes by folks that want to be rich and ain't, Bug declared. Folks enjoy being rich, Bug told the fellers, but they don't like the way folks that ain't rich talk about them that are. Fer instant, Bug went on, politicians, even the rich ones, try to turn everybody agin the rich. They know there are more that ain't than are, and everybody's vote counts the same. It's allus been that way. The Good Book says the meek shall inherit the earth, which means whoever has got it is going to lose it. If that ain't enuff, Bug said, the Bible goes on to say how a rich man might have the earth now, but his chances of inheriting heaven are as good as a camel gitting through the eye of a needle.

As far as he knows back in history, Bug went on, nobody has looked on the good side of rich. Whenever some folks start gitting ahead of the game, Bug said, there goes up a hew and cry about spreading the wealth. Up to last week, Bug said the 'oldest anybody had come to speaking high of rich folks was when the former California congressman Hiyakawa explained in the oil scare 10 year ago that it would be a good thing if gasoline went to $5 a gallon. That way, he said, only the rich could ride. The way it is now everybody rides and there ain't no point in being rich if you got to live like everybody else, was his view.

Bug saw this business magazine piece in the barbershop that says wealth is success and success is what America is all about. That means ever red blooded American ought to be proud of successful Americans and that means being poor is downright unamerican, was the way Bug saw it.

Ed Doolittle was full agreed with Bug. Ed had read of a new book called "The Good News is the Bad News is Wrong." The book is about looking on the bright side, and about how not much of that is done. Fer instant, we need of see that ever cloud has a silver lining, and not see they ain't enuff clouds to go around.

General speaking, went on Ed, we can turn everything to this angle. The feller that wrote the book says don't see the folks in the city slums, see them that got out of the slums and lived happy ever after in the suburbs. Don't see illegal immergrunts, he wrote, see a fresh labor supply to do America's work.

The fellers didn't know what to make of Bug's report. Personal, I think the rich ain't alone in gitting a bad press. Think of the chicken and the lemon. A coward is chickenhearted, a weak husband is henpecked, chicken feed is next to nothing. But think where we'd be without the chicken and the egg, whichever come first. Same with the lemon. It ain't no lemon.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.Simplicity*It's Simple:

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Gross

Harold Grosses Observe 45th Wedding Anniversary

Celebrating their 45th wedding anniversary, Sunday, Dec. 9, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Gross of N. Parker Rd. were honored Saturday evening by their sons and daughters, and some of the grandchildren, as the couple was taken first to the Timothy Gross residence on Walsh Rd. where other members of the family joined the honored couple. Then the whole group continued on to Hamburg where together they enjoyed a German smorgasbord at the Edelweiss.

Son Tim and his wife, Nancy, have two daughters, Jennifer and Jessica. Harold Gross, Jr., and his wife, Donna, who make their home on Trinkle Rd., are parents of Harold, III (Butchie), and Becky. The couple's daughter, Deb, baked a special double-tiered cake with colorful decorations, including a holiday motif, for the occasion. Although the cake was taken along to the smorgasbord, everyone was just too full to manage a taste of cake, so the cake returned with the group, uncut, and was served when Hazel and Harold shared it with other members of Dexter's St. Andrew's United Church of Christ at the coffee hour which followed church services, Sunday morning.

Deb and her husband, Mark Stapish, are parents of Melissa and Benjamin. They live on Jackson Rd.

The family of Lawton and Virginia Gross of North Territorial Rd. includes Sonny and Carrie. Kathy and Lee Hirth of Dearborn have a son, Jerry. He and his wife, Kris make their home on S. Wagner Rd.

There are some Knickerbockers among the children too, as this was Hazel Gross' second marriage. Sandy and Robert Knickerbocker are parents of Robert and Brian Knickerbocker, and have a daughter, Cindy, married to Steven Little. Cindy and Steve reside in Dexter, as does Lewis Knickerbocker.

One daughter, Beverly Hirth, died two years ago, but Hazel and Harold admit they are most fortunate to have so much of their family within easy visiting distance, and say the whole family has a great time when they get together. After the German smorgasbord, the group enjoyed dancing to the music of the band before returning to Dexter.

The couple chose Delta, O., as the city in which to be married, and honor attendants at the ceremony were Mrs. Adolph Gross of Dexter and Mrs. Bert Buzzart of Delta.

Survey Shows Less Than Half Can Now Afford College Without Financial Assistance

A survey conducted by the Michigan Association of Governing Boards (MAGB) and the Governor's Commission on the Future of Higher Education shows that 56 percent of Michigan's residents believe that fewer than one-half of the state's families can afford to send a student to a public college or university in the state without financial aid.

Commission chairman, James Robinson, said survey results suggest some of the possible future policies relevant to higher education in Michigan.

The survey was conducted by Frank Magid Associates, Inc., Iowa, and was made possible through a $21,000 grant to the Michigan Association of Governing Boards from the Kellogg Foundation.

MAGB chairperson, Mildred Jeffrey, said her association had stressed for several years the critical need to know how the public perceives Michigan colleges and universities.

"We believe the survey was helpful to the Commission in formulating its report," she said. "Certainly it will be invaluable to trustees in finding ways to increase public understanding of the need to provide support in meeting the educational challenges of the rest of this century."

The Robinson Commission will submit the final report—Putting Our Minds Together—to the Governor on Thursday, Dec. 13. "Many of the final report's key recommendations will address the public opinions and attitudes revealed by the survey. Further, the long range implications of the poll will be considered by the governing boards of all the institutions," Robinson said.

In addition, survey results showed that a majority of residents say colleges and universities should have more control in making policy and only one in 10 say state government should have more control.

The survey also pointed out that an overwhelming number (seven in 10), residents feel the state has about the right number of public colleges and universities to meet current needs.

"These two survey results suggest that the Commission's mid-year report was on target in saying that a 'superboard' governing body is inappropriate and that colleges and universities should not be closed at this time." He said the final report will not recommend closings at this time or establishing a superboard. "There is no need for such dramatic measures," Robinson said. "However, the final report does set standards for evaluating institutions for future closure should that become necessary."

"The survey also showed some interesting attitudes and opinions regarding financial aid," Robinson said. He said nearly all (96 percent) of those surveyed said that more financial aid should be available to members of lower-income households ($20,000 a year or less).

"Eight in 10 residents believe that financial aid should be extended to middle-income families with incomes of $20,000 to $50,000," Robinson said.

One-third of those interviewed said someone in their household had applied for financial aid at some time with a significant number saying that someone in their household was unable to attend college solely for financial reasons.

An even larger number of Michigan residents say that someone in their household has been forced to withdraw from college or take fewer courses because of financial reasons.

"Generally, a significant number of Michigan residents perceive that students trying to obtain financial aid in order to attend public colleges and universities in Michigan have at least some difficulty in doing so.

In addition, the survey showed that three-quarters of Michigan adults want increased access for handicapped, women and minorities.

Other funding-related survey questions pointed out that two-thirds of the state's adult sur-port increased spending to repair and maintain buildings, to permit more research on college campuses, and to allow colleges and universities to hold tuitions stable.

However, Robinson said, the survey was clear in pointing out that residents don't support the construction of new buildings on college campuses.

Eighty-three percent of Michigan's residents gave positive ratings to the over-all quality of the state's public colleges and universities.

"It's good news that Michigan residents have not yet perceived any decline in the quality of Michigan's public higher education system during the past 10 years," Robinson said.

"These results suggest that we are at a pivotal point in preserving the quality of higher education in Michigan. The commissioners have agreed that the system is at risk and that action must be taken soon to preserve quality," the Chairman said.

Robinson said that Governor Blanchard's commitment to involve universities with the state's economic development is in line with the attitudes of state residents; with eight of 10 saying that colleges, community colleges and universities have a significant role in strengthening the state's economy.

"This underlines our commitment to a high quality system that is necessary to attract new businesses to the state and keep existing ones, Robinson said.

In addition, the survey showed one-quarter of Michigan residents feel that the cost of attending Michigan public colleges and universities is higher than it is in other states.

Other findings include:

—Six in 10 of the respondents said quality of faculty is good.

—Three in 10 of the respondents said we should raise taxes to avoid increased tuition.

—Forty-three percent say remedial instruction for college students should be provided through adult education.

—Nine in 10 rate the preparation of students for careers or jobs as a very important function.

—Eight in 10 rate the providing of academic instruction as very important.

—Six out of 10 say conducting research to solve social and economic problems is very important.

The survey involved 500 randomly selected Michigan residents age 18 and over. All telephone interviews were conducted Oct. 4-13 and lasted approximately 27 minutes.

Robinson said that the survey, when linked with the final report, will provide the impetus for setting directions and goals for our colleges and universities through the end of the century.

"We must remember that as testimony to Michigan's colleges and universities, 87 percent of all respondents said that if money were no object, they would still want their own children to attend a public college or university in Michigan. That is quite a tribute."

Nearly three-fifths of all children under age 18 had mothers in the labor force in March 1984; 48 percent of all children under age 6 had working mothers, according to "20 Facts on Women Workers," published by the Women's Bureau of the U. S. Department of Labor.

Steven E. Ferris Gets Two-Year Drug Sentence

Steven E. Ferris, 33, of 13013 McKinley Rd. has been sentenced to a two-year federal prison term after pleading guilty to charges of distributing illegal drugs and falsifying federal income tax returns.

The sentence was imposed by U.S. District Judge Charles W. Joiner in Ann Arbor as part of a crackdown on a drug ring headed by the Shure brothers of Ann Arbor.

Ferris pleaded guilty to charges of conspiracy to distribute marijuana and a technical count of income tax fraud. Ferris reported his income from marijuana sales but did not disclose its sources.

Ferris is one of 18 persons who have so far been arrested and sentenced in connection with the Shure brothers' marijuana ring.

State United Way Honoring Chairmen Of Local Drives

United Way campaign chairpersons from 110 United Ways in Michigan were to be honored today at the 1984 campaign achievement celebration at Kellogg Center at Michigan State University. Scott Tanner is the 1984 campaign chairperson for Chelsea United Way.

United Way volunteers have succeeded in raising $101,888,881 thus far this year, representing 6.56% more than the amount raised state-wide last year. The final campaign report will be released at the achievement celebration.

The event is hosted by corporations throughout Michigan. A multi-media presentation featuring local Campaign chairpersons and Barry Manilow, entitled "One Voice," will be shown.

Twenty-four state and national health and human service agencies receive money allocated through the United Way of Michigan.

San Franciscans have voted to prohibit construction of any high-rise building that would cast "significant" shadows over public parks, says the National Wildlife Federation.

GREETING SANTA on his first visit to Chelsea for the current Christmas season was village president Jerry Satterthwaite. Several hundred eager youngsters waited patiently for a chance to visit St. Nick and tell him their Christmas wishes. Cider and donuts for children and their parents were provided by Chelsea Merchants Association and the Lions Club. In the absence of snow, Donald Beeman provided a wagon and team to transport Santa's sleigh into town.

Three Burglaries Solved in Arrest Of 16-Year-Old

Three burglaries in Dexter township have been cleared with the arrest of a 16-year-old juvenile who has been cited to probate court, sheriff's department detective Paul Wade said.

"We are investigating the possibility that this boy has been involved in other cases that we have open," Wade said. "Several other unsolved burglaries were committed in the area in which he lives."

Wade said the arrest resulted from investigation of a Nov. 11 break-in at a home on W. Huron River Dr. The suspect admitted the crime and led officers to stolen property which was recovered and returned to its owner. He later confessed to two other thefts, Wade said.

"We may find out that there is more," he added. "It is also possible that he had some help and that other persons were involved."

A VIEW from the CLOCK TOWER

Bill Mullendore

As a former resident of Chelsea who kept an interest in municipal problems for both professional and personal reasons, my least favorable memory is that of the village waste treatment plant.

Never before in my life have I seen anything so badly kicked around with such unfortunate consequences.

If Chelsea ever wants to grow, it has to build a new sewage plant, period. That has been clear ever since I came to work at The Standard more than two years ago. What is disheartening is that nothing important has been done to break the bottleneck.

I suggest it is time that village officials get off the dime and do something, or at least try to do something. Simply applying for federal or state grants and hoping that lightning will strike is not my idea of doing something.

Chelsea has contracted with a professional engineering firm and come up with a set of plans that, at last report, will cost an estimated $4.5 million to carry out. The guessed-at price for the proposed new plant keeps going up. It increases at the rate of about $15,000 per month. Inflation is still with us, despite assurances from Washington to the contrary. The rate of rise has slowed down, but it hasn't stopped. You can figure that, for every year Chelsea delays, the cost of the inevitable new sewage plant will go up by at least a quarter-million dollars, which is not small change.

I worked for the Department of Natural Resources for more than 17 years and still have some information sources there. What those sources tell me is that Chelsea has shown no real initiative to take care of its waste treatment problem and is therefore unlikely to move higher on the priority list for a grant.

"Just coming up with a set of engineering plans isn't enough," one source told me. "Anybody can do that. What we need to see is a total financing scheme that will guarantee the local contribution to be matched against the grant. At that point we get interested and move the locality up toward the top of the list of applicants for grants. We know then that they are serious and mean business, and we try to help."

"Frankly, Chelsea has waited too long. There was a time when a 90 percent grant could have been obtained. It went down to 75, and now it's down to 55. It won't go up, I guarantee you, and it could go down. This is one of the programs that the Reagan administration is looking at for further cuts."

The village has retained a Detroit legal firm, which specializes in municipal bonding, but has done nothing beyond that except to acknowledge a letter from the lawyers suggesting what the financing options might be.

Building a new sewage plant is going to cost money—big money—and the price will increase every day. Meanwhile, the losses to the village for having delayed continue to climb.

I've been waiting more than two years for a residential building permit to be issued in Chelsea. It hasn't happened yet, and it isn't likely to. The village can't allow a new hook-up to its antiquated, overloaded sanitary sewer system unless an equal amount of gallage is taken out.

By patching leaks which allow storm water to infiltrate into the sanitary sewers, the village has bought breathing space to allow initial development of the Sibley Rd. industrial park and the addition to the United Methodist Retirement Home. It has been suggested that some more patch-work might permit construction of a couple of proposed housing clusters.

The patching process is a losing strategy controlled by the law of diminishing returns. It costs more and more to accomplish less and less.

Meanwhile, a water pollution problem continues to exist, and will until a new wastewater treatment plant is built. Letts Creek is a pretty, clear little stream from its headwaters down to the village sewage plant. From there on it's a mess. I've waded enough of the creek, above and below the plant, to know what I'm writing about.

Operators of the plant do the best they can to handle the volume of waste with inadequate treatment methods. Their problems are complicated by intermittent overloads which make it necessary to discharge untreated sewage in order to keep from being flooded out.

The village is under state order to do something no later than 1988, which means that construction would probably have to start in 1986. That time frame is too long. Strong positive action needs to be taken now. It will take more than filing applications for grants and updating plans which get more expensive every day.

Holiday Safety Tips from Sheriff's Dept.

The holidays are a special time of the year, but they're also a time when people are especially vulnerable to burglary, theft and other crimes. Take some tips from me, McGruff, the Crime Dog, and make your holidays happy.

Have A Safe Shopping Spree
—Walk and park only in well lighted areas. Walk confidently and be aware of people around you.

—Always lock your car doors after entering or leaving your car.

—Have your car keys in hand so you don't have to linger before entering your car. Check the back seat and under the car before you get in.

—Never leave your children alone at home, in a car, or in any public place.

—Teach your children if they get separated from you in a shopping mall, they should go to a cashier and say they are lost.

—Pay with check or credit cards when you can. And don't "flash" your cash.

—Don't leave packages on the car seat. Lock them out of sight in the trunk.

Protect Your Home
—Don't display gifts where they may be seen from a window or doorway.

—Be extra cautious about locking doors and windows when you leave the house, even for a few minutes.

—Teach your children not to play with tree lights or electric connections.

—Immediately after the holidays, mark new gifts with your license number or other I.D.

—Use only fire resistant ornaments on your tree and make sure lights are in good working order. Place the tree in wet sand to keep it green.

—Never burn gift wrappings in your fireplace.

—If you go away, get an automatic timer for your lights and radio. Turn down the bell on your phone. Have a neighbor watch over the house, shovel snow, pick up the mail and park in the driveway from time to time.

Analyst Predicts Drop for Short Term Interest Rate

Illinois Farm Bureau AgriVisor market analyst Jim Gill has predicted that short-term interest rates will trend lower over the next 30 days and that the prime rate may drop a full percentage point by the end of 1984.

According to Bob Craig, Michigan Farm Bureau agricultural economist, Gill's predictions are based on several different factors, including a slowing down in the Gross National Product (GNP).

"The Federal Reserve has been lowering the federal funds rate and some of the major banks, including the Morgan Guarantee Trust Co., have dropped their prime lending rate. The Chicago futures market interest rates have been falling," Craig said. "We've also seen a decline in the treasury bill futures yield and the treasury bond yield."

"The other thing we're seeing is that the growth of our Gross National Product has slowed somewhat and normally this facilitates lower interest rates. On the other hand, when we do receive lower interest rates, that should facilitate more growth, so it tends to be a stabilizing factor.

"The final point is that some nations who have borrowed heavily from the International Monetary Fund, which would come mainly from American banks, have stopped paying even their interest rates until interest rates are lowered," Craig explained.

Craig said that even though the prediction is for a drop in short term interest rates and not long term loans, it will be welcome news for Michigan farmers.

New Christmas Stamps Issued

As people start sending their 1984 holiday greetings to family and friends, as well as business acquaintances, they will in many cases be affixing the colorful Christmas stamps of which two are new for the year.

Records in the United States Post Office indicate that two 1984 special Christmas stamps were issued Oct. 30 of this year.

The traditional stamp credits typographer and art director Bradbury Thompson and features the Madonna and Child painted by 15th century Italian artist, Fra Filippo Lippi, whose original painting hangs in the National Gallery of Art, Washington, D.C., where the first day ceremony was held.

The contemporary stamp, which appears as a crayoned Santa, was designed by a third grader, eight-year-old Danny La Bocchetta of Jamaica, N. Y. He was one of the winners of the first nation-wide student stamp design project sponsored by the U. S. Postal Service, during 1982. From among a half million designs submitted, two winners were selected, with eight semi-finalists and 33 honorable mentions. The stamp with Danny's Christmas design was first issued in his home city, Jamaica.

The second winner of the 1982 student contest was Molly LaRue, who was a senior at Shaker Heights Senior High school in Shaker Heights, O., when she submitted her Family Unity stamp design, now in wide use. First day ceremony for the Family Unity stamp was held in the auditorium of the school from which she graduated. Molly is now an art therapy student on the campus of Ohio Wesleyan University, Delaware, O.

Ann Arbor Symphony Offers Free Concert

Ann Arbor Symphony Orchestra will continue its 56th season of free concerts on Sunday, Dec. 16, at 3:30 p.m. in Hill Auditorium on the University of Michigan Campus, Ann Arbor.

Featured soloist will be Erich Graf, principal flutist with the Utah Symphony. He returns with impressive credentials to his hometown of Ann Arbor, where he previously performed with the orchestra as a winner of the youth soloist competition while in high school. He will play "Poem, for Flute and Orchestra" by Griffes and Mozart's "Concerto in D Major for Flute and Orchestra." In addition, Edward Szabo will conduct the symphony orchestra in Overture to "Poet and Peasant" by Suppe and "Symphony No. 2" ("Little Russian") by Tchaikovsky. There is no admission charge for this concert. Doors to the auditorium will open at 3 p.m.

Concerts of the Ann Arbor Symphony Orchestra are made possible by funding from the Music Performance Trust Funds of the recording industries, the J. L. Hudson Co. and its Briarwood department store, the Harry A. and Margaret D. Towles Foundation, The Campus Inn, the Michigan Council for the Arts, and local individuals, families and businesses.

Stage & Drama Class Presents Play Thursday

The Chelsea High school Stage and Drama Class will present "Our Town" Thursday, Dec. 13. This is it! The CHS Stage and Drama Class has been working hard to present this year's production of "Our Town."

At first the class was somewhat hesitant about presenting a play with such a dramatic theme as "Our Town" to the Chelsea public. But the past two weeks of rehearsals have proven that this classic of Thornton Wilder's will be a great show for all.

"Chelsea residents can look forward to seeing some of our best student actors," producer-director Bill Coelius reports. This year's stage manager, Chris Herter, comments, "The class has progressed remarkably! You can count on a great show!"

The class is looking forward to their public performance Thursday, Dec. 13. Tickets are now available at the Chelsea Pharmacy or through cast members. Cost is $2.50 for the 7:30 p.m. performance at the high school auditorium. Tickets are general admission and will also be available at the door.

Consultant Asks 3,000 To Study Village Computers

Olive Lodge Installs New Officers

The Chelsea Standard

Section 2

Chelsea, Michigan, Wednesday, December 12, 1984

Pages 9-20

Consultant Robert Seltzer of Ann Arbor has proposed that Chelsea's village government pay him about $3,000 to study its computer system and make recommendations to modernize it.

The village board put the proposal aside temporarily and asked administrator Frederick Weber to seek some more suggestions.

Seltzer's opening sentence in his written proposal may have given the trustees as far off as it did a Standard reporter. The sentence reads: "Ultimately, the system must be upgraded to a final configuration of six work stations with a multi-user, multi-tasking operating system including password protection at the database level."

Seltzer, of 1131 Olivia St., Ann Arbor, offered to provide recommendations on both "hardware" (computer equipment) and "software" (computer programs) at a fee of $50 per hour for an estimated 60 hours of work.

The system he suggests would take care of village utility (electric, water and sewer) accounts and billing, payrolls, general accounts, and various police department records. It promises a word-processing system which would be "user friendly."

Seltzer added that the computer system he proposes should in the future also be able to handle voter registration, public works department employee time cards, the fire department payroll, and inventories of both capital assets and supplies.

Weber told the trustees that the equipment the village is presently using is obsolete, often breaks down, and is difficult to repair because parts are hard to find. It was bought 14 years ago.

"One problem is that anything you purchase today may be outmoded in a couple of years," Weber added. "Computer technology is moving ahead that fast. It's very difficult to know what to do."

After brief discussion, during which it came out that Seltzer is a "self-starter" in the sense that no village government representative had asked for consultation bids, the trustees decided to get some other opinions before doing anything.

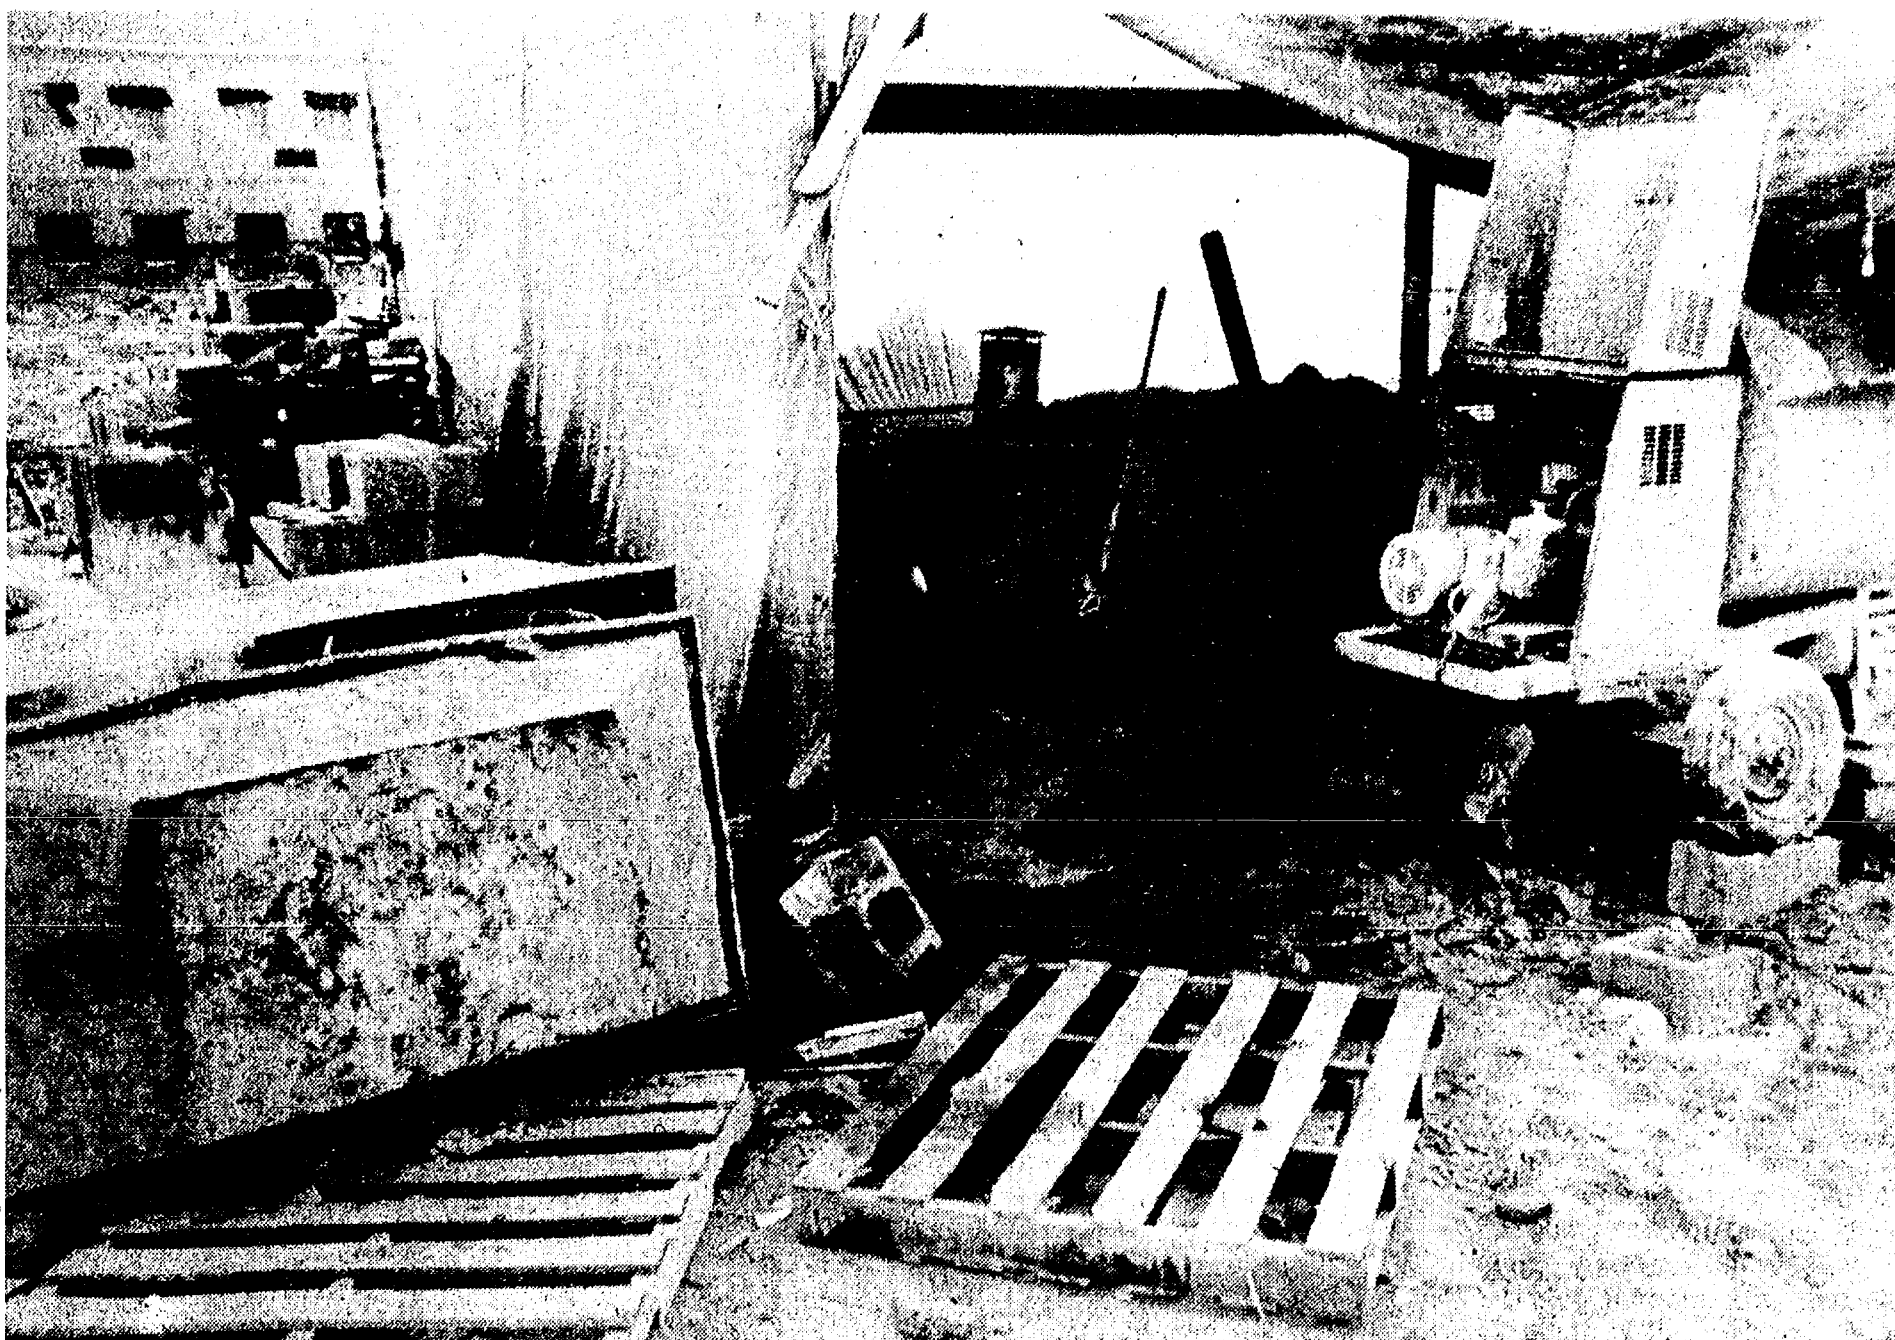

Olive Lodge 156 F&AM of Chelsea, installed officers for 1985, at a special open installation at the Masonic Temple, on Friday, Dec. 7.

Installing officers were: Installing grand master, Leslie J. Doerr, p.m.; district deputy instructor of District No. 7, of the Grand Lodge of Michigan, Free and Accepted Masons; grand installing marshal, Donald J. Dancer, p.m.; grand installing secretary, Fred Schneider, p.m.; grand installing chaplain, John Gall, p.m.

Officers installed were: Worshipful master, Walter E. Cozzens, p.m.; senior warden, William Scott Morgan; junior warden, Charles L. Stoner, p.m.; treasurer, Donald J. Dancer, p.m.; secretary, James Tift; chaplain, Leslie J. Doerr, p.m.; senior deacon, James Nicola, p.m.; junior deacon, James Branham, p.m.; marshal, William D. Smith, p.m.; tiler, James A. Kaercher; senior steward, Arthur Stoll, p.m.; junior steward, James McLaughlin, p.m.

Before installation members and guests enjoyed a pot-luck dinner. Assisting were the Masonic wives.

Pinckney Are Youth Completes Army Surveyor Course

Pvt. Darin W. Lickfeldt, son of David W. and Judy Ann Lickfeldt of 20475 Barton Rd., Pinckney, has completed the field-artillery surveyor course at Fort Sill, Okla.

During the course, students were taught mathematics, map reading and the operation of survey equipment.

Village Board Balks At Signing Lease On Railroad Depot

The village board has balked at approving a proposed 30-year lease on the Amtrak railroad depot pending clarification of the terms, leaving the old building still hanging in limbo.

"I'm just plain not willing to vote for any lease until we have read all the fine print and know exactly what the village's legal responsibilities are," trustee Mac Fulks said. "If we are liable for anything, I'm against it."

The rest of the board went along with him.

The lease agreement is a 50-page document drawn up by attorney William J. Rademacher in consultation with Amtrak officials. Dudley Holmes, Jr., and Will Connelly played major roles in the negotiations.

Connelly, who was present at the Dec. 4 meeting of the village board, described the terms of the lease as "the best we can possibly get."

"This has been worked on for a long time," Connelly told the board. "We found out that the village board has to be a party to the lease because it is the only local legal entity that can be guaranteed to be in existence during the 30-year term of the agreement. The Historical Society doesn't qualify because it could disband at any time. It can't take on a long-term legal obligation."

"If the village refuses to assume the responsibility, the depot will be lost."

Connelly said the proposal calls for no expenditure of public funds beyond the $1 a year leasing fee, "and I think we might find a way to pay that back."

"What we are talking about is setting up a special village fund and soliciting private donations that would be paid into it. Money for restoration and maintenance of the depot would be appropriated out of the fund."

"It's going to take a lot of money to rehabilitate the building, inside and out, and we're not asking that tax dollars be used. The plan is to convert the depot into a civic center and historical museum, operate and maintain it, and do it all with donated funds. We're not asking the village to do anything other than be a party to the lease."

Fulks said after the meeting, at which no action was taken and the issue was unofficially tabled, that he isn't opposed to the depot lease in principle but wants to be sure the village isn't taking on some unexpected obligation.

"I think it's better to wait until we have read all the fine print, had a thorough review by the village attorney (Peter Flintoft) and know exactly what we are signing," Fulks said. "A couple of more weeks won't make any real difference."

Citizens Trust is giving you an additional reason to start planning for your future.

When you open an Individual Retirement Account (IRA) with us now, we'll add a two percent cash bonus to your contribution—so a $2,000 contribution will get you $40 additional interest up front.

This cash bonus is added to first quarter interest earnings on an eighteen month (or longer) fixed or variable rate IRA. It's a great incentive for you to make one of the most effective long-term investments toward your non-working years. All your deposits and the interest they earn are tax-deferred until you retire. And that tax-free compounding really adds up over time.

Any working person can contribute up to $2,000 each year to an IRA (up to $2,250 for single-income married couples). You can begin withdrawing funds as early as age 59½, and as an additional bonus, you have your choice of several high-earning plans at Citizens Trust.

This offer expires April 15, 1985, so act now and we'll add to your future security with our special cash bonus. Because Citizens Trust is interested in you—not just today, but tomorrow as well.

Maturities of 18 months or more. A maximum of $5,000 in contributions per depositor is eligible. The minimum initial contribution is $100 for variable rate accounts or $1,000 for fixed rate, unless spousal account. Withdrawal prior to age 59½ incurs substantial tax penalty except for death or disability. Early withdrawal from any certificate of deposit incurs substantial interest penalty.

Chelsea Struggles But Wins Opening Basketball Contest

Opening games are rarely classics, and last Friday's contest between Chelsea and Brooklyn Columbia Central certainly wasn't. Both teams played bad basketball as Chelsea struggled to a 54-51 victory.

The good news for Chelsea fans is that the Bulldogs pulled it out after being tied midway through the fourth quarter. They showed some character down the stretch with the game up for grabs.

The win was the first for Rahn Rosentreter as Chelsea's new varsity cage coach, and he was happy but subdued as he accepted congratulations from well-wishers after the game.

Maybe the best play of the evening was made by softball coach Charlie Waller, who heads Chelsea's most successful sports program, when he told Rosentreter:

"You're perfect so far. You haven't lost a game. My teams have lost a few, so you're ahead of me."

The victory over Columbia Central didn't come easy. The visiting Golden Eagles obviously have lost a lot from the team that was 17-2 last year and narrowly dropped the final game of the district tournament.

The Bulldogs scored the first points and were ahead, 27-19, at the half. They should have had the game put away, but played a bad third quarter and allowed Brooklyn to come back.

A mid-court "Hail Mary" shot by reserve Bulldog guard Ray Spencer at the third-quarter buzzer established a two-point lead and may have been the decisive play of the game. The 40-foot heave touched nothing but net. Spencer could try 100 times and not hit that shot again.

After the visitors tied the game at 43-all with 5½ minutes remaining, the Bulldogs took command, making some key baskets and free throws, creating some turnovers and drawing some deliberate fouls.

David Steinhauer's steal and break-away layup with less than four minutes to go put the Bulldogs ahead to stay.

Although a winner, Rosentreter didn't talk like one in a post-game interview. His unhappiness suggests that the Bulldogs will put in some tough practice sessions during the next days.

"We played very poorly, and you can print that," Rosentreter said. "We were just plain lucky that Columbia Central didn't play very well either, and that's how we managed to win. I'm happy about winning, but I know we have a lot of work to do if we're going to be competitive in league play. I honestly think we are a better team than we showed tonight. If we're not, we're in trouble."

Rosentreter had the Bulldogs playing a run-and-gun game against the Golden Eagles, bringing the ball up-court in a hurry and looking for a quick shot.

"We did a pretty good job of moving the ball, but we didn't do much with it when we got into shooting range. We forced some poor, low-percentage shots. Our shooting was pretty bad, and that was disappointing because we have some players who can shoot well. Our shot selection was bad."

On defense, Chelsea played a 2-3 zone most of the way, sometimes modifying it to a 2-1-2. "Whatever we did, we didn't play well on defense," Rosentreter said. "We simply weren't strong. We let Brooklyn get inside on us, and were fortunate they missed a lot of easy."

The coach was also unhappy about his team's rebounding performance, even though the Bulldogs held their own on the boards against the bigger Golden Eagles. "We didn't box out and get position, and we have to do that if we are going to beat taller teams."

It wasn't all bad, and Rosentreter mentioned a few good things which show promise for the future.

One was the play of sophomore Mark Barels, a surprise starter, who put in 12 points and played a fine floor game at both forward and center.

"Mark showed exceptional poise," Rosentreter said. "He didn't look like a sophomore out there."

Spencer and Ken Martin came off the bench to contribute some key plays and that, in Rosentreter's view, is what won the game.

"When you analyze it, we won because we got more from our bench than Brooklyn did, and Spencer and Martin were the keys."

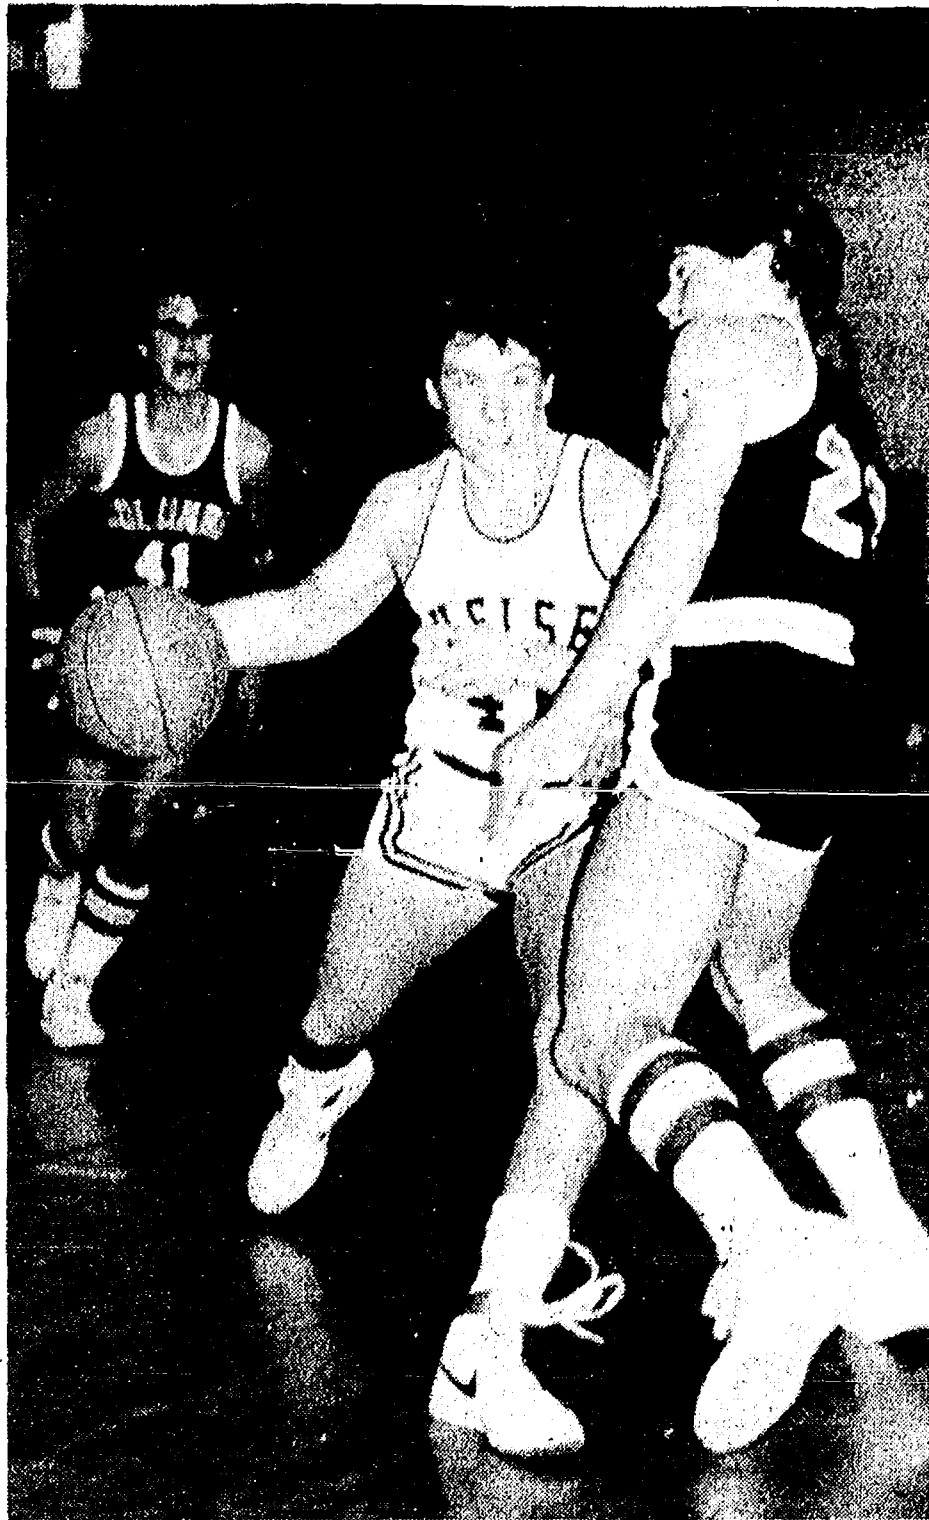

Finally and most important was the spirited play of Steinhauer, a natural guard who has been moved to the front line out of necessity. He scored a game-high 16 points and repeatedly came through in the clutch.

"You can see why he's a captain and a leader," Rosentreter commented. "He's a fine athlete, and he takes charge out there when the going gets tough. When you need a big play, he probably will make it."

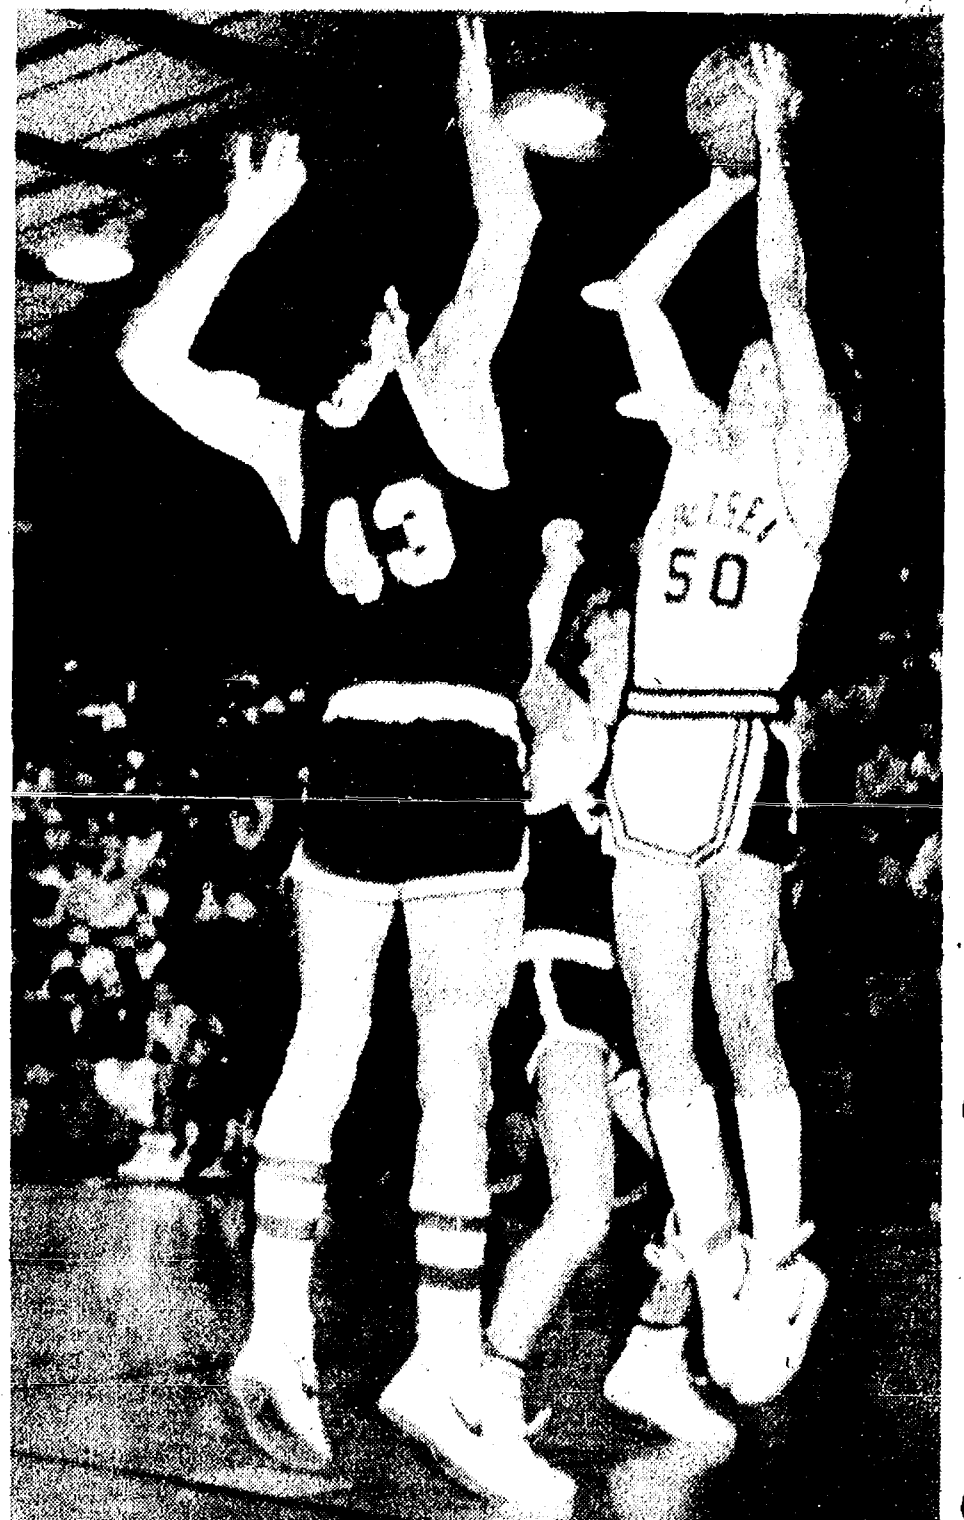

Eric Schaffner scored eight points for the Bulldogs before fouling out early. Keith Niebauer also got into foul trouble and sat out most of the second half.

Todd Starkey had one of those games that basketball players have bad dreams about. A good shot, he couldn't find the hoop and wound up with just one field goal in 12 tries.

"He may have been a little too

ACTION IN OPENER: Chelsea won its opening basketball game against Brooklyn Columbia Central, 54-51, but the victory didn't come easily. At left, David Steinhauer tries to drive around a

SEC OUTLOOK:

Saline Heavily Favored in Loop

It isn't often that a basketball team which was 8-14 a year ago and finished in a distant third-place tie in its league race becomes the heavy favorite to win the loop title the following season.

However, that is the prediction for Saline's varsity cagers going into this winter's Southeastern Conference championship chase.

The Hornets return all 11 members of a squad which started poorly last year because of inexperience but came on strong at the end and kept getting better with every game.

Coach Ken Sippell gambled last year and assembled a group of sophomores and juniors who had no varsity experience. The early results were awful as the Hornets lost their first seven games. They learned, improved and could match up with any SEC opponent at season's end.

Those 11 boys are all back, a year older and presumably better, with experience under their belts. Saline, in fact, has been mentioned as a possible team to rank near the top in Michigan Class B competition.

Milan and Lincoln are considered the strongest challengers to Saline's SEC title hopes, and Tecumseh is given an outside chance. Chelsea, Dexter and Pinckney are all struggling through rebuilding years.

Defending conference champion Milan is considered to have a shot mostly because of its longstanding, traditionally excellent basketball program headed by veteran coach Ron Dingman.

Dingman can be expected to get the most from whatever talent he has to work with. His biggest problem is to replace his son, Ron, Jr., an all-state selection at guard last year.

Lincoln graduated four starters from last year's second-place

SEC team, but is given a chance to contend because the fifth one, 6-9 center Joey Ross, is back.

Ross, a junior, is still growing and has added some weight and strength. He will be by far the tallest player in the conference, and could become a dominant figure simply because of his size. Other SEC centers will be conceding him at least five inches of height.

Tecumseh is returning seven veterans, including three starters, from a team which at times played very well last year. The Indians were inconsistent, and that proved to be their downfall.

Tecumseh has the advantage of a home court which is very difficult for visiting teams to adjust to.

Chelsea has a new coach and apparently is in a transition year. The Bulldogs lack size and don't have a lot of experience. Of Chelsea's 13 varsity squad members, eight are natural guards.

Dexter is in much the same boat—small and inexperienced. The Dreadnaughts may have the league's best pair of starting guards in Dan Schlaff and Eric Meistrup, and coach Jim McCormack teaches the toughest defense in the loop. Dexter can be counted on to spring an upset or two somewhere along the way.

Pinckney is coming into SEC competition for the first time after suffering through a disastrous 2-19 season last year as a member of the Kensington Valley Conference. The Pirates, like Chelsea, have a new coach who is hoping to turn things around.

League play begins Friday night. Each team will have played two non-conference games by then.

Dexter Defeats Chelsea 8th-Grade Cagers, 40-34

Chelsea's eighth-grade basketball team lost to Dexter, 40-34, in its opening game, but coach Jim Tallman wasn't all that unhappy about the result.

"We got way behind early and then came back to tie the game in the fourth quarter. Dexter put up a zone defense, and we couldn't penetrate it because we hadn't practiced against it."

"Frankly, I don't like to see zone defenses at this level of basketball. I think it's important that the boys learn how to play one-on-one. The zone should come later in the program."

The eighth-graders were down, 14-4, at the end of the first quarter but closed the gap to 19-16 at half-time. It was 28-26 after three periods. Dexter went on from there to win with the help of the zone.

Junior Morseau led Chelsea with 14 points, and John Collins had 11. Other scorers were Loren Keezer (4), Jeff Marshall (3) and Dave White (2).

White, David Adams and Mark Larson played well on defense, Tallman said.

tight," Rosentreter said of Starkey, a sophomore assigned to the key position of point guard. "He can do a lot better, and I'm sure he will."

Chelsea was to play at Onsted last night before opening its league season at Saline on Friday.

The early schedule is brutal, with five of the Bulldogs' first seven games to be played away from home. After meeting odds-on SEC favorite Saline, Chelsea will tackle Milan there on Dec. 18 and Lincoln here on Dec. 21. Saline, Milan and Lincoln are rated as the top three teams in the conference.

Seventh-Grade Basketball Team Wins First Two

The Beach Middle school seventh-grade basketball team won its first two games of the season last week, defeating Dexter 27-24 and Tecumseh 34-21.

The Dexter game was a tough one as the Chelsea boys had to come from behind in the last quarter after trailing all the way.

"We put on a press and outscored them 11-2 in the fourth period," coach Ron Laczko said. Chad Starkey led the team with 10 points. Rob Stoffer had 7, Chad Raymond 5, Kyle Plank 3 and Brandon Murrel 2.

Laczko was especially happy about the victory over Tecumseh "because all 18 kids got a chance to play, and they all contributed."

Starkey was again the leading scorer with 12, followed by Brent Wales (6), Plank (4), Stoffer (4), Phil Eassa (4), and Raymond and John Rigg two each.

"It's a little early to tell yet, but I think we have some boys who will come along well in the basketball program," Laczko said.

JV Cagers Romp To 54-16 Triumph

It's hard to find fault with a team that wins its opening game by a score of 54-16, and Chelsea junior varsity basketball coach Ted Hendricks was very happy with the result.

"I have a good ball club and am very pleased with it," Hendricks said after watching his team demolish the Brooklyn Columbia Central JV's last Friday night.

"Brooklyn isn't a bad team. Once we got out in front, we put the pressure on and dominated. I like what I saw."

The contest was close for the first couple of minutes, but once the Bulldogs got in front, 6-4, it became a run-away.

"We played well on offense and obviously did some pretty good things on defense," Hendricks noted. "We shot 44 percent from the field, and we did a good job of rebounding. If I have a complaint it is that we were only 14 out of 27 from the foul line. That's something we will have to work on."

Jeff Harvey led the JV's with 14 points, followed by Matt Steinhauer with 12. Jeff Stacey had six, as did Greg Haist and Bill Sober coming off the bench. Stacey, Jon Lane and Matt

Bohlender each collected four or more rebounds.

"What impressed me was that, when we went to the bench, we continued to execute well," Hendricks said. "There wasn't any letdown. I also liked the fact that we committed only 12 fouls during the game. When you get as far ahead as we were, it's easy to get slack and start fouling. We didn't."

Besides those mentioned, the JV squad includes Drew Hubal, Mike Westhoven, Pat Cheng, Steve Petty and Brian Coy. All 12 boys are sophomores.

Hendricks, who coached the Chelsea freshmen to a 10-6 record last year, was making his debut as junior varsity coach. He is working with pretty much the same bunch of boys he had last year.

Fifty years ago, there were 6.7 million farms in the U.S. The average size farm was 152 acres. There were 12 million farmers and farmworkers, each of whom, on the average, produced enough food and fiber for 10 people. Today, there are 2.4 million farms. The average size farm is 432 acres, and there are 3.5 million farmers and farmworkers.

Chelsea Freshmen Drop Behind, Lose Opener, 57-41

Chelsea's freshman basketball team lost its opening game, 57-41, to Class A Adrian last Thursday, spoiling the debut of new coach Dave Quilter.

The Bulldog frosh got off to an ice-cold start, falling behind, 16-2, at the end of the first quarter. The rest of the game was played on near-even terms, but the early deficit was too much to overcome.

Co-captains Clay Hurd and Tim Anderson performed well on offense, Quilter said, and John Catell and Scot Gietzen provided some able support off the bench.

STEVE FRASER, who won a gold medal in Greco-Roman wrestling at the summer Olympic Games in Los Angeles, gives some pointers to entrants in the Chelsea Invitational Meet. Fraser is an employee of the Washtenaw sheriff's department. Fourth from left is Chelsea High school wrestler Pete Hanna. Others are unidentified.

Wrestlers Defeat Lumen Christi, Are Fourth in Invitational

Chelsea's varsity wrestling team opened its season in fine fashion by defeating Jackson Lumen Christi in a dual meet, 42-25, last Thursday, then finished fourth in its own invitational two days later.

The invitational was won by Dexter, which Chelsea wrestling coach Kerry Kargel described as "a very strong team, even better than I expected and I knew they were good."

Lake Fenton was second and Rochester Adams third.

In the Lumen Christi dual meet, most Bulldog wrestlers either scored pins or were pinned in a hurry. Eight of the 13 individual matches ended in falls, six in less than two minutes.

Individual results:
98 pounds—Brian Kidd won by pin in 1:05.

105—Randy Dale lost by pin.

112—Pete Hanna won by pin in 1:45.

119—Bob Torres won by pin in 2:15.

126—Ron Bogdanski drew, 5-5.

135—Allan Kuhl won by pin in :49.

138—Jim Boritzki lost 16-7 decision.

145—Marck Edick lost 11-6 decision.

155—Dave Dotson won 10-2 decision.

167—Steve Wingrove won by pin in :18.

185—Curtis Heard lost 12-2 decision.

198—Dave Shoemaker won by pin in 4:41.

Heavyweight—Allan Fromm lost by pin.

Chelsea placers in the invitational meet were:

Hanna (112) and Wingrove (167) both won first places in Saturday's invitational. Other Chelsea placers included:

Torres (119), second; Bogdanski (126), fourth; Dotson (155), fourth; Heard (185), third; and Shoemaker (198) second.

Kargel was pleased with the performance of Heard, who came back to win a third place in the invitational after being badly outwrestled in the Lumen Christi meet. "He's a very strong boy who still has some things to learn about techniques, but he's picking it up and coming along."

Hanna, Torres, Wingrove and Shoemaker wrestled well in both meets, Kargel commented.

"I'll tell you right now that I'm concerned about Dexter," he added. "They have a very good team for both dual and invitational meets. We have some catching up to do if we are going to challenge them."

Ducks Unlimited Makes Gift to Wildlife Group

Michigan Wildlife Habitat Foundation has announced the grant of $94,500 from Ducks Unlimited, an international waterfowl conservation organization.

The grant is the first ever from DU to a Michigan organization and represents a continued concern for the wetlands of Michigan and the U.S.

The monies will be used to restore some of the 70% of Michigan's wetlands destroyed in the last 100 years.

Foundation President, Dan Robbins of Jackson, said "The Michigan Wildlife Habitat Foundation was organized to restore, improve and develop wildlife habitats in Michigan. This generous grant from DU will be spent on wetlands improvements, which is our number-one priority."

Ducks Unlimited has been working for 47 years to preserve the Canadian wetlands, where two of every three ducks in North America are hatched. The organization recently started work in the United States to preserve important breeding grounds and wintering areas. Through new programs, Ducks Unlimited hopes to augment existing American wetlands programs.

The Michigan Wildlife Habitat

Foundation is a tax-exempt citizens' group established to help people help wildlife. By providing the technical assistance, fund-raising support and project supervision, the Foundation has been successful at involving citizens in wildlife habitat projects. The Milli-Ander Wetland Restoration, the largest private-sector wildlife project in Michigan history, was just completed by the Foundation.

For information about wildlife investments or membership, contact the Foundation at 2325 S. Cedar, Lansing 48910, (517) 484-9600.

Post Cereal Seals Sought By Dec. 18

Tuesday, Dec. 18, is the deadline for bringing in "proof of purchase" seals for Post cereals so that the Chelsea schools can obtain needed new equipment for its athletic program.

"We have about 400 collected so far," elementary school physical education teacher and boys track coach Bill Wehrwein said. "The more seals that come in, the more equipment we can get."

The Post company is giving up the premium program, and will cease issuing the coupons on Dec. 18.

"We have obtained several important items of equipment under this program," Wehrwein said, "and the 400 seals we have in hand will get us more. I'm asking everybody to bring in more seals by Dec. 18. It's a good, inexpensive way to upgrade our equipment and improve our physical education program. The kids in Chelsea are the ones who will benefit."

Audubon Society Bird Count Slated Sunday, Dec. 23

It's nearly the time for the National Audubon Society's Christmas bird count, reminds Charles Steinbach of Dexter-Chelsea Rd.

The date set for this year's count is Sunday, Dec. 23, Steinbach says. It is traditionally held in a midnight-to-midnight period on the Sunday preceding Christmas Day.

During this period, an actual count of species and numbers of birds in Washtenaw county will be undertaken.

Anyone interested in birds, or bird watching, is invited to participate in the count.

Steinbach will share more information about the annual Christmas bird count activities in the Dec. 19 issue of The Dexter Leader. Area residents who have question about the count may phone him at 426-4363.

OUT IN THE OPEN

By BILL MULLENDORE

Cold weather is coming on, which means it's time to remind once again of the safety precautions which need to be taken by persons going out in the open at this time of year.

I write about this subject every late fall, and can't help repeating myself, but the matter is important enough to bear some repetition. Every winter people die because they fail to heed fundamental safety precautions on coping with cold weather.

The advice to dress in layers, and to carry some extra clothing along, is so basic as to seem scarcely worth mentioning. Yet it's surprising how many people ignore that elementary principle.

Several layers of clothes provide more warmth for their weight than one heavy thickness, and they have the advantage that one or more can be taken off if the weather warms up as it often does in the middle of the day.

Before setting out in the early morning, check the weather forecast. If a change for the worse is predicted, put some extra clothes into a light back-pack or fanny-pack and carry them with you. The best of cold-weather gear is of no use at all if it's hanging in a closet at home. Take it with you so you will have it if you need it.

Accurate weather forecasts are available from a variety of sources. Never go outdoors for an extended period until you have found out what the conditions for the next few hours are likely to be. That is especially true if you will be venturing more than a few hundred yards away from a warm shelter.

By a warm shelter, I mean at the very least a motor vehicle with a heater that works. Better yet is a cabin, cottage or house with a furnace that functions. Even better is a combination of the two.

"Hypothermia" is a relatively recent word in our language. I never heard or read it until about 10 years ago, but I learned what it means long before that. Hypothermia defines a condition of being not only uncomfortably but dangerously cold. Your body temperature drops well below the normal 98.6 degrees. You feel kind of numb all over, and you lose sensation in your fingers and feet to the point of wondering if they are still connected to the rest of you. If you don't take urgent steps right away, they may not be much longer. Amputation is routine treatment for frozen extremities.

There are two early warning symptoms of hypothermia, and they should be heeded. The first is a sudden, urgent need to urinate. That is the body's mechanism to warn that it is getting too cold for comfort. Liquids chill faster than solids, and the kidneys begin working in high gear to eliminate fluids and so maintain warmth.

Heed that warning, if it comes, and don't go running around looking for privacy. Empty your bladder right there, right now even if you have onlookers. The last thing you need is wet pants, and you will have them within a few minutes if you delay.

Then, get moving before the next and much more dangerous symptom of hypothermia—drowsiness—sets in. You may feel an overwhelming urge to lie down and rest for a few minutes, just a little nap. If you succumb to that urge, it will be the beginning of eternal sleep unless somebody comes along and finds you before you die.

No matter how tired and drowsy you feel, keep moving until you come to a warm shelter. If it's a motor vehicle, get inside, start the engine, turn the heater on full and sit there until you thaw out. Don't try to drive while you are cold. Your hands, feet and brain won't co-ordinate, and you may wind up in an even worse predicament such as running off the road into a snowbank.

Implicit in this advice is that you should never start a winter trip out in the open without a full tank of gasoline, and should never park the vehicle without a gas supply that will last for a couple of hours with an idling engine.

Once you reach a permanent shelter, turn up the heat source to the maximum and get into bed. The best warmer-up that I know of is an electric blanket. The next best is another human body, one that hasn't been chilled.

If all of that seems grim, I can only say that I have twice been dangerously cold to the point where I might have died had I not done something right. The actions taken worked, or I wouldn't be writing this.

I enjoy being out in the open during the winter, but have learned to respect the weather and be prepared to handle it. Wearing and carrying along the right clothing will take care of almost all contingencies. Knowing what to do in the rare instance of an emergency is just plain survival sense.

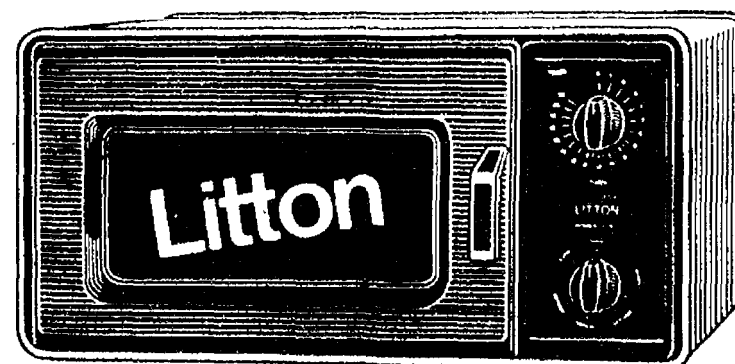

A final suggestion: When driving in winter, carry in your car a set of emergency clothing. Modern automobiles are reliable, but they aren't 100 percent fail-safe. There is always the possibility of an engine or tire failure that will leave you stranded a long way from help or shelter, or of skidding into a spot that you can't drive out of.

In the trunk of my car are hooded parka, overalls, boot liners, boots and mittens—all made to protect against below-zero cold. I've never experienced a road emergency which required putting them on, and hope I never do, but it's comforting to know they are there if needed.

EDUCATION RESEARCH

Prepared by the National Association of Secondary School Principals (NASSP), Reston, Va.

Bridges Need To Be Built Between School and Home

"A wall between the school and home" is one of the biggest roadblocks to improved education, according to the late George Gallup, Sr.

"There has always been a wall between the school and home," said the nationally recognized pollster in an interview published in the National Association of Secondary School Principals' (NASSP) monthly journal.

"One of the first things that we discovered when we started polling on educational matters is that parents are eager for help," he indicated. "They want the schools to tell them what they should do to help their children perform better in school."

The creator of the annual Gallup Poll on the Public's Attitude Toward Public Schools calls developing liaisons with parents the one part of education that has been neglected.

"When we talk to parents, we find they would like to attend classes once a week or every other week to learn how to deal with problems that are common to all families with school age children such as drug and alcohol abuse, how to motivate students to study, and how to improve their study habits," he reported.

Gallup suggests that schools of education train their students how to work with parents.

"If teachers would visit the homes of some students, that could have an important effect on the dropout rate."

Gallup outlined three other steps which he thought would improve schools, one of which dealt with the frequently-cited topic of homework.

"Students don't have enough work to do," he said. "Parents and many students feel the same way—that not enough homework is assigned."

He also suggested that more attention be given to learning how to learn. A week before school begins, students should be taught how to study, according to Gallup.

"We have made the error of believing that everyone knows how to study, everyone knows how to organize his or her work and thoughts," Gallup commented. "This simply isn't true. Many bright young people get poor grades because they have never learned how to organize their thinking or how to study and learn. All high school students should have a course in speed reading. This would be a tremendous help to them the rest of their lives."

The veteran pollster also recommended that young people need more instruction about career selection.

"One of the sad facts of life is that many people get into fields in which they cannot compete successfully or find they dislike," he said. "The whole area of career selection has been neglected in our society, and I am certain that the schools should do more about this."

THANK YOU

Thank you to all the patrons of the Chelsea Sopsra Car Wash for your patience and understanding. 6 weeks ago our hot water heater started leaking, necessitating replacement. We made a decision to replace the hot water heater with a much more sophisticated boiler system. The new boiler will provide hot water at a constant temperature regardless of the amount used. We feel this new system will benefit everyone for years to come. We are back in normal operation, and again, our thanks for your patience.

Management,
Chelsea Sopsra Car Wash.

Cancer Prevention Tips Offered in Free Booklet

Cancer is not contagious and you don't get it from a bruise or a bump. You may increase your risk, however, if you eat a lot of foods that are high in fats and low in fiber, smoke, regularly spend several hours in the sun, or work with or near certain chemicals, metals, dusts and fibers.

The U.S. Department of Health and Human Services has released a new booklet that separates the facts from the myths about cancer, the most curable of all chronic diseases. This booklet will help you evaluate your likelihood of contracting cancer, and it also suggests ways to alter your lifestyle to help reduce your risk of getting cancer. For your free copy of "Cancer Prevention: Good News, Better News, Best News," send your name and address to the Consumer Information Center, Dept. 615M, Pueblo, Colo.

Since scientific studies suggest that dietary fat and obesity increase the risk of developing certain cancers, you can start to reduce your own risk by following a well-balanced diet. Eat plenty of foods with high fiber content including whole grain breads and cereals, salads and fruits, and beans, peas, and seeds. Make sure that fruits and vegetables that are high in vitamins A and C are a part of your daily diet. These include such fruits as oranges, grapefruits, nectarines, strawberries, and cantaloupes and vegetables such as cabbage, cauliflower, broccoli and other leafy green and yellow or orange varieties. Trim fat from meats and skin from poultry before cooking. And always try to broil, roast or bake your meats and fish to cut down on fats. If you add exercise to this basic diet plan, you'll also keep physically fit and take care of the overweight while you decrease your cancer risk.

Smoking causes 30 percent of all cancer deaths. But it's not just cigarette smoking that is hazardous. You increase your cancer risk even if you only smoke cigars or pipes, or use snuff or chewing tobacco. Switching to a low-tar, low-nicotine cigarette may reduce your risk somewhat, but the best advice remains don't smoke at all.

What about too much sun. Repeated exposure to sunlight, particularly the ultraviolet rays so strong between 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. in the summer months, has been linked to skin cancer. So it's prudent to wear lightweight, protective clothing and a hat if you work outside and use a sunscreen at the beach. This is particularly true if you have light skin. While a sunburn may last for only a few days, the possible skin damage from over-exposure is never fully repaired.

There are other known cancer risk factors you should try to reduce, such as overuse of alcohol and on-the-job exposure to such materials as asbestos. While job-related risk factors may be among the most difficult for you to control, you can protect yourself by wearing recommended safety clothing and equipment. And you can discuss with your doctor other risk factors such as how many x-rays you have had and the size of doses of estrogen prescribed for menopause symptoms.

Remember, not everyone gets cancer, and every year, more and more people with cancer are being cured. In fact, nearly half of all cancer patients can now be cured by modern treatment methods. You CAN do something to protect yourself. Start by getting the facts. Order your free copy of "Cancer Prevention: Good News, Better News, Best News." At the same time, you will also receive a copy of the free Consumer Information Catalog. Published quarterly by the Consumer Information Center of the U.S. General Services Administration, the Catalog lists more than 200 other free and moderately priced federal brochures of use to consumers.

ORDINANCE NO. 92AN ORDINANCE TO REGULATE DRUG PARAPHERNALIA, TO PROHIBIT CERTAIN PRACTICES AND PROVIDE PENALTIES FOR VIOLATION THEREOF*The Village of Chelsea Ordains:

An Ordinance to regulate the use and possession of drug paraphernalia and to prohibit certain uses and possession without a license, and to provide penalties for violation of the Ordinance:

SECTION 1: DEFINITIONS: As used in Sections 2, 3, 4 and 6, "Drug Paraphernalia" means any equipment, product, material, or combination of equipment, products, or materials, which is used, intended for use, or designed for use, in planting, propagating, cultivating, growing, harvesting, manufacturing, compounding, converting, producing, processing, preparing, testing, analyzing, packaging, storing, containing, concealing, injecting, ingesting, inhaling, or otherwise introducing into the human body a controlled substance, including, but not limited to the following:

(A) An isomerization device used, intended for use, or designed for use in increasing the potency of any species of plant which plant is a controlled substance.

(B) Testing equipment used, intended for use, or designed for use in identifying, or in analyzing the strength, effectiveness, or purity of a controlled substance.

(C) Weight scale or balance used, intended for use, or designed for use in weighing or measuring controlled substances.

(D) A diluent or adulterant, such as quinine hydrochloride, mannitol, mannite, dextrose, and lactose, used, intended for use, or designed for use with a controlled substance.

(E) A separation gin or sifter used, intended for use, or designed for use in removing twigs and seeds from, or in otherwise cleaning or refining marijuana.

(F) A blender, bowl, container, spoon, or mixing device used, intended for use, or designed for use in compounding a controlled substance.

(G) A capsule, balloon, envelope, or other container used, intended for use, or designed for use in packaging a controlled substance.

(H) A container or other object used, intended for use, or designed for use in storing or concealing a controlled substance.

(I) A hypodermic syringe, needle, or other object used, intended for use, or designed for use in injecting a controlled substance into the human body.

(J) An object used, intended for use, or designed for use in ingesting, inhaling, or otherwise introducing marijuana, cocaine, hashish, or hashish oil into the human body, including any of the following:

(1) A metal, wooden, acrylic, glass, stone, plastic, or ceramic pipe.

(2) A water pipe.

(3) A carburetion tube or device.

(4) A smoking or carburetion mask.

(5) A roach clip, being an object used to hold burning material, such as a marijuana cigarette, that has become too small or too short to be held in the hand.

(6) A miniature cocaine spoon or cocaine vial.

(7) A chamber pipe.

(8) A carburetor pipe.

(9) An electric pipe.

(10) An air-driven pipe.

(11) A chillum.

(12) A bong.

(13) An ice pipe or chiller.

(K) A kit used, intended for use, or designed for use in planting, propagating, cultivating, growing, or harvesting of any species of plant which is a controlled substance or from which a controlled substance can be derived.

(L) A kit used, intended for use, or designed for use in manufacturing, compounding, converting, producing, processing, or preparing controlled substances.

SECTION 2: DETERMINATION OF DRUG PARAPHERNALIA: In determining whether an object is "drug paraphernalia," all of the following shall be considered:

(A) Statements by an owner or by anyone in control of the object concerning the use of the object.

(B) Prior convictions, if any, of an owner, or of anyone in control of the object, under any state, municipal or federal law relating to any controlled substance.

(C) The proximity of the object to a controlled substance.

(D) The existence of any residue of a controlled substance on the object.

(E) Direct or circumstantial evidence of the intent of an owner, or of anyone in control of the object, to deliver the object to a person whom he or she knows intends to use the object in violation of this Ordinance.

(F) Instructions, oral or written, provided with the object concerning the use of the object.

(G) Descriptive materials accompanying the object which explain or depict the use of the object.

(H) National and local advertising concerning the use of the object.

(I) The manner in which the object is displayed for sale.

(J) The existence and scope of legitimate uses for the object.

(K) Expert testimony concerning the use or uses of the object.

(L) Proximity of object in time and space to a direct violation of this Ordinance.

(M) Direct or circumstantial evidence of the ratio of sales of the object or objects to the total sales of the business enterprise.

(N) Any licenses for the use or possession of controlled substances.

SECTION 3: PROHIBITIONS:

(A) A person shall not use, or possess with intent to use, drug paraphernalia to plant, propagate, cultivate, grow, harvest, manufacture, compound, convert, produce, process, prepare, test, analyze, pack, repack, store, contain, conceal, inject, ingest, inhale, or otherwise introduce into the human body a controlled substance.

(B) A person shall not sell, deliver, possess with intent to sell or deliver, or manufacture with intent to sell or deliver, drug paraphernalia, knowing that the drug paraphernalia will be used to plant, propagate, cultivate, grow, harvest, manufacture, compound, convert, produce, process, prepare, test, analyze, pack, repack, store, contain, conceal, inject, ingest, inhale, or otherwise introduce into the human body a controlled substance.

(C) A person shall not place in any newspaper, magazine, handbill, or other publication, any advertisement, knowing that the purpose of the advertisement, in whole or part, is to promote the sale of objects designed or intended for use as drug paraphernalia.

SECTION 4: PENALTIES:

(A) Except as provided in subsection (B) of this Section, a person who violates Section 3 (A), (B), or (C) is guilty of a misdemeanor, punishable by imprisonment for not more than 90 days, or a fine of not more than $500.00, or both.

(B) If a person is convicted of a second or subsequent offense under Section 3, the sentence imposed shall provide for a mandatory minimum sentence of 90 days. For purposes of this section, an offense is considered a second or subsequent offense if, prior to the second or subsequent offense, the defendant has at any time been convicted, under Section 3 or under any similar statute of the United States or any state or any municipal or township ordinance for use, possession with intent to use, delivery, possession with intent to deliver or manufacture with intent to deliver drug paraphernalia.

SECTION 5: LICENSES: Section 1 through 4 shall not apply to the use, possession, sale, or offer of sale of drug paraphernalia by a person licensed by the United States of America and/or the State of Michigan, or by a patient acting pursuant to the directions of such licensed person in the course of professional treatment.

SECTION 6: FORFEITURES: Any drug paraphernalia used in violation of this Ordinance shall be seized and forfeited to the municipality.

SECTION 7: SEVERABILITY: If any provision of this act or application thereof to any person or circumstance is held invalid, the invalidity does not affect other provisions or applications of the Ordinance which can be given effect without the invalid provisions or application, and to this end the provisions of this Ordinance are severable.

SECTION 8: EFFECTIVE DATE: This Ordinance is effective thirty (30) days after adoption and publication.

Dated: December 4, 1984.

The world's largest bee, spotted in 1859, has been rediscovered in Indonesia by University of Georgia student reports International Wildlife magazine. The bee, which grows to the size of a small hummingbird, "blundered into me," says entomologist Adam Messer, who has since located seven colonies of the bees on the islands.

Sylvan Township Treasurer will be at Sylvan Township Hall, 112 W. Middle St., Chelsea, to collect

Snow Clearing Budgeted at $41 Million

The bad news is that winter driving conditions have already hit Michigan roads from the Ohio border to the shores of Lake Superior.

The good news is that the Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) is primed and ready for winter and had budgeted $41.2 million to keep the highways clear of ice and snow.

That figure is just slightly higher than the $40,981,375 spent by MDOT for winter maintenance operations last year on the 9,500-mile state highway system.

An additional $6.5 million contingency fund for the counties and cities that maintain state highways in their respective areas has been allocated for severe winter weather if costs exceed the budget.

The department directly maintains state highways in 21 counties and contracts the work out to road commissions in 62 counties and 154 cities.

Winter maintenance forces operate out of 35 state-owned garages, 187 county-owned garages and 150 owned by cities.

State highway maintenance workers have completed a series of meetings for review of winter maintenance techniques and procedures, including salt usage and plowing.

This winter the department will maintain its "bare pavement" policy on heavily-traveled highways that average at least 3,200 vehicles per day. They will receive continuing maintenance services until the pavement surface is generally bare of ice and snow.

Lesser-traveled highways will receive maintenance services until the center portion of the road is clear or until the pavement is passable yet snow covered.

Last year, approximately 40 percent of the department's maintenance budget was spent for winter activities.

A major state-wide storm takes a hefty chunk out of the budget: $830,000 per day for weekday storms, and approximately $1 million for weekend or holiday storms because workers must be paid at overtime rates.

New I-69 Freeway Ready for Opening

Forty brand new miles of I-69 Freeway.

That's what the Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) will open to traffic Friday, Dec. 14 from Lapeer to just west of Port Huron.

It is the longest stretch of highway to be opened at one time by the department in 20 years, and the third longest ever.

"I doubt that we will see a project of this magnitude opened again during this century," said State Transportation Director James P. Pitz. "We are concentrating our efforts now on preservation of the existing highway system, rather than on expansion. This new freeway closes a major gap in our freeway network."

Ribbon-cutting ceremonies marking the freeway opening will take place at both Lapeer and Port Huron.

They will begin at 10 a.m. on the new freeway near M-24 at Lapeer, with Lapeer officials sponsoring the event. They will be joined by delegations from Port Huron, Inlay City and Capac.

Following the ribbon-cutting at Lapeer, a caravan will travel down the eastbound lanes of the new freeway to the east terminus at Wadham, where the second ceremony will take place.

Lt. Governor Martha Griffiths will take part in the ceremony there, along with Port Huron, local and state officials.

MDOT workers will begin removing barricades on the westbound lanes as soon as the ribbon-cutting is completed.

The new 40-mile section of I-69 replaces M-21—a two-lane highway marked by a high accident rate and frequently difficult driving conditions. It has been patrolled by State Police in recent years under a special stepped-up law enforcement program to reduce accidents.

New I-69 follows a route entirely south of existing M-21.

Not only does it link Port Huron and Lapeer, but it also connects the urban areas of Flint and Lansing, and I-94, the Indiana Toll Road (I-80/I-90), Indianapolis and I-45 to the international crossing site at Port Huron to Canada.

When the uncompleted portion of I-69 from Charlotte to Lansing and Perry is opened, motorists can travel all the way from Chicago to Ontario using I-94 and I-69. Ontario's 402 freeway runs from Sarnia to a connection with 401 at London.

Cost of the new 40 miles is approximately $109 million, with federal funds paying 90 percent and state funds the remainder.

There are nine prime contractors on the section, which includes 45 bridges and nine interchanges.

The first contract was awarded in 1978.

The colorful Christmas Seals bearing Christmas symbols are traditionally used to demonstrate support of the work of the American Lung Association. The seals decorate holiday cards, letters, packages and gifts. There are also matching Christmas Seal gift tags.

Chalk Art Evangelist Appearing at Local Church

Chelsea Christian Fellowship, 337 Wilkinson St. invites the public to enjoy the gospel presented in art by a chalk art evangelist on Sunday, Dec. 16. Presentations will be given at the 11 a.m. and 6 p.m. services.

This is a rescheduled visit from the original Nov. 24 date when the Rev. White was unable to appear. The Rev. White, an ordained minister and natural artist, has been ministering for more than 20 years as a pastor, evangelist and illustrating artist. His experience in art consists of wood sculpture, oils, watercolors, air brush painting and chalk art evangelism. His air brush work has won many first-place awards at national shows.

The Rev. White illustrates the gospel beautifully in bright and pastel colors before the audience. He also uses special techniques such as background music, special sound effects, colored lighting and gives his drawings a dimensional effect by using ultraviolet lighting. Mrs. White also assists in most of these presentations with fresh thoughts, spiritual truths and enthusiasm.

They are a very unique team, using their talents to expound the gospel and see other families spiritual understanding enriched. They have ministered in many states in children's crusades, family revivals and in many summer camp programs.

THE GAME OF CHELSEA is played on this board in much the same manner as the ever popular game of Monopoly. It involves throwing dice, buying and selling properties, paying penalties, and trying to gain control of everything on the board.

Want To Own Chelsea? Buy This Board Game

For a $10 investment you can "own" 30 businesses in the Chelsea area, provided you own a board game called Chelsea Wheeler-Dealer which is available at several local outlets.

It's all in fun, of course. Chelsea Wheeler-Dealer is patterned closely after Monopoly, the most popular board game ever devised (although Trivial Pursuit is coming on strong).

Two to six persons can play the game. Each gets an initial outlay of cash, in-turn chances to throw dice and, depending on their fortunes with the dice, opportunities to buy, sell or trade business opportunities.

Depending on where their playing tokens land on the board, players may have to pay taxes or rent, or even declare bankruptcy.

The game was developed by the Chelsea Area Jaycees as a fund-raising project, in conjunction with an Allen Park firm which had marketed local versions of the game in several other cities including Jackson and Ypsilanti. Businesses whose firm names appear on the game board paid for the privilege, the amount depending on location around the rectangular playing surface.

The game is so close to Monopoly that it seems like a patent infringement but apparently isn't. It may be bought for $10 from Ricardo's, Day-spring Gifts, Chelsea Office Supply, Chelsea Cleaners, and possibly other places.

Profits from sales will be used to help finance the many community activities of the Chelsea Jaycees.

The man who stole the Mona Lisa from the Louvre Museum in Paris convinced his jury that he had done it as an act of patriotism—to return it to Italy—and was sentenced to just over one year in prison.

DOING THEIR OWN THING

By Fred Coulter, Evangelist

The humanist philosophy looks at mankind as the supreme judge of what is right or wrong. This philosophy is expressed in the phrase, "Doing their own thing." Some may believe this is a new concept, but it is not. Over 3,000 years ago people set out to do the same thing when "every man did that which was right in his own eyes" [Judges 21:25].

If man is supreme, he has no need to look to God. However, the Bible clearly teaches that man is not supreme. Many look to themselves as the authority in religious matters. The Bible teaches that today all authority and power rests not in mankind but in Jesus Christ [Matthew 28:28]. Paul said, "And whatsoever giving thanks to God and the Father by Him" [Colossians 3:17]. Again Paul said, "Wherefore if ye be dead with Christ from the rudiments of the world, why, as though living in the world are ye subject to ordinances, (touch not; taste not; handle not; which all are to perish with the using) after the commandments and doctrines of men? Which things have indeed a show of wisdom in will worship, and humility, and neglecting of the body" [Colossians 2:20-23]. Jesus said of the Pharisees, "Howbeit in vain do they worship Me, teaching for doctrines the commandments of men... Full well ye reject the commandment of God, that ye may keep your own tradition" [Matthew 7:7, 9].

Ask yourself, "Are all of my religious practices, teachings, and beliefs based on the authority of the New Testament?" or am I trying to do my own thing?

County Commissioners Take Care Of Selves with Hefty Pay Boost

Members of the Washtenaw County Board of Commissioners were in a holiday spirit of gift-giving when they met last week, and their most generous gifts were made to themselves.

By a 6-2 vote with one member absent, the board voted itself a whopping 34 percent pay raise effective Jan. 1. The two dissenters were the board's only Republican members, George Merkel of Chelsea and Martin Straub of Dexter.

Merkel won't profit from the salary increase because he was defeated for re-election in last August's Republican primary and will step down at the end of this year. Ellis Pratt of Manchester will succeed him.

Straub, who will remain on the board, called the increase "an act of bad faith, bad judgment and really bad taste."

The base pay for what is supposed to be a part-time job involving two half-day meetings a week was jacked up from $7,600 to $10,200 a year. In addition, commissioners will continue to collect per diem pay of $25 for each meeting actually attended plus 22 cents a mile for travel to and from them. On average, that adds more than $2,000 annually to their take.

"This isn't supposed to be a full-time job," Straub argued unsuccessfully. "It is public service, an avocation (hobby) not a vocation (employment)."

The commission majority, all Democrats, justified their action by claiming that commissioners in other Michigan counties of comparable size are paid even more.

While they were at it, the board majority shared the wealth by granting hefty raises ranging from 7 to 21 percent for all other elected county officials. Prosecutor William F. Delhey led that gift list with a boost to $58,031 from $47,923. Four others received smaller but still generous increases.

County administrator David G. Hunscher will be paid $64,101 in 1985, up from $55,300, and also had his retirement program pot sweetened. His position is appointive.

The cost of government is going up at a far faster rate than the incomes of the people who pay for it. Personal real income rose by less than three percent this past year after adjustments for inflation.

USDA Reports Status of Farmer-Owned Reserves

Corn may not be removed, without penalty from the farmer-owned grain reserve while oats will remain in release status through February, according to a U. S. Department of Agriculture official.

Earl Doletzky, chairperson of USDA's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service of Washtenaw county, said the decision on the reserve commodities was made following a review by USDA's Commodity Credit Corp. of its average market prices Feb. 1, as reported by USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service, adjusted to reflect the market price received by farmers.

The national average adjusted price of $3.12 per bushel for corn on Feb. 1 was three cents below its reserve IV release level and 13 cents under the release level for reserve V. Doletzky said storage payments for corn will be earned in all states beginning Feb. 1. For corn which has been in the reserve at least one year interest accrual will stop, he said.

On Feb. 1 the national average adjusted price for oats was $1.74 per bushel, nine cents above the commodity's reserve release level. Storage payments for oats stopped on that date.

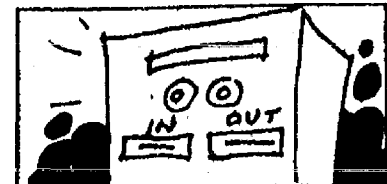

There are approximately 428 million bushels of corn in reserve IV, about 779 million bushels of corn in reserve V and an estimated 4.7 million bushels of oats in the reserve.

Births

Twin daughters, Erin Michelle and Sarah Louise, Nov. 27, at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Ann Arbor, to Jeffrey and Karen Layher of 2551 Struthers Rd., Grass Lake. Maternal grandparents are Shirley Trinkle and Charles Ewers, and the late Erwin G. Trinkle. Paternal grandparents are Duane and Shirley Layher.

A daughter, Jaclyn Suzanne Kincer, Nov. 30 at U. of M. Women's Hospital, Ann Arbor, to Kathy Carpenter of 209 Buchanan St.

A daughter, Stacy Lynn, Sunday, Dec. 2, to Michael and Sherry Nadeau of Ypsilanti. Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Moore of Chelsea and paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Nadeau of Chelsea.

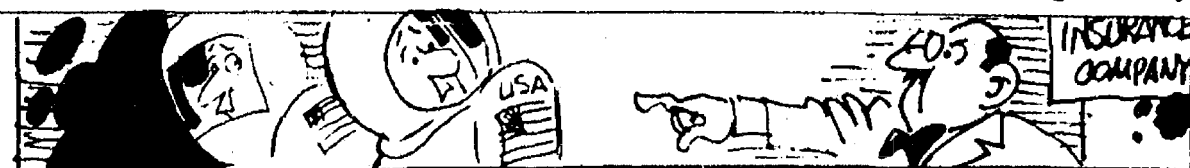

The Analytical Engine, conceived by Charles Babbage about 1822, was the first computer designed to receive instructions from punched cards, make calculations with the aid of a memory bank and print out solutions to problems. It was never completed.

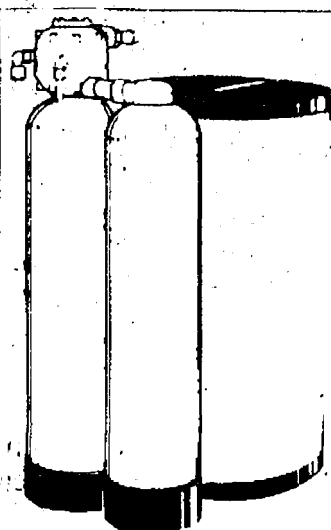

COLLISION: Traffic accidents involving personal injuries are rare in Chelsea, and this one barely qualified. Roger W. Steffens, 39, of 1000 Sylvan Rd., sustained minor bumps and bruises when his car (pictured) was hit in the right front by a vehicle driven by Robert H. Priebe, 84, of Southfield. Steffens was treated at Chelsea Community Hospital and released. Priebe was unhurt. Village police said the Steffens car was south-bound on Main St. when the Priebe vehicle, entered the intersection off Lincoln St. Priebe was cited for failure to yield the right-of-way.

Astronauts are considered the worst insurance risks.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor,

The Girl Scouting year is well under way—troops in Chelsea and Dexter have been organized and the girls are busy making plans for their year's activities and events.

In addition Girl Scouts are constantly looking for adult volunteers to serve as program consultants, media representatives, committee members, event directors, board members and troop services directors. The time requirements for these jobs vary. Some positions are short-term, once a year, others periodic, or on a regular basis.

Volunteers are the central force in bringing Girl Scouting to girls. A large number of volunteers start because their daughter needs a troop leader. But, many adults continue long after their daughters have moved out of the program. These adults discover creative outlets for their talents and skills, develop lasting friendships and acquire valuable training and job skills. But, most of all they have fun through their Girl Scout activities.

For information on the volunteer opportunities available call me at the Girl Scout office, (313) 483-2370. Don't miss this opportunity to have fun while helping girls grow and mature.

Diane Sheffrey,
Field Director,
Huron Valley
Girl Scout Council.

Dear Editor,

I'm concerned about the subject of runaways. With 2 million children running away each year, parents and children alike should deal with problems before blowing up all at once.

There should be classes given once to each grade level in school, giving information on what could happen to runaways, and numbers they can call. This way runaways, or potential ones, wouldn't have to worry about being caught or embarrassed by telling a counselor or going to a meeting.

This should be brought up with the school board, because I feel it's important to know.

Kathleen Holmes,
Beach school 8th grader.

South School Receives Video Cassette Outfit

The South School Parent-Teachers organization has purchased a video cassette system for use at the school. The outfit consists of a portable VCR tape recorder, camera and 19-inch monitoring screen, plus assorted accessories.

"It's going to be a very valuable piece of equipment," South school principal Robert Benedict said. "The children started using it the first day, and they found it both valuable and fun."

First use was to record presentations by pupils, who can then literally look at themselves and make their own judgments as to how well they did.

"Some of the kids were very critical of their own appearance and delivery, and decided they could do better."

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor,

I say "Amen" to the letter from Mick Lantis about the old tree that may be sacrificed for "progress."

I am so sick and tired of having our trees cut down to make the roads wider. Yes, the roadmen need width, but not what they take. Old and young trees are cut down unnecessarily. Ivey Rd. cleaned out of its beautiful trees and now they are starting on Bush Rd.

Why must these trees be cut? To wipe out these years of growth is beyond me. Yes, it makes me angry to have the trees cut this way. Angry and sad.

Let the old tree in Manchester stand. Must it be removed? Is there no other way? Make a way, please. You can do it!

Billie Schneider.

UNICEF Cards Now Available

UNICEF Christmas cards, which provide funding for projects aiding hungry and needy children around the world, are now on sale at Ulrich's and Peaceable Kingdom in Ann Arbor and The Grand Trunk Ltd. in Ypsilanti. Cards, postcards and calendars are also available from Phoebe Vance, 971-4870.

Recent news accounts of famine and disease in the developing world make UNICEF greetings especially meaningful this year. The cards provide aid to the neediest children in Africa, Asia and Latin America. The proceeds from just one package can provide vaccines to immunize 12 children against the triple threat of diphtheria, whooping cough or tetanus or enough high dose Vitamin A capsules to protect 65 youngsters from nutritionally-caused blindness for one year. A single UNICEF card provides funds for a vial of penicillin to treat a child's infection.

Worldwide sales of UNICEF cards and calendars in 1982-83 brought a net profit of $81.1 million. The money was spent on vital services for children and mothers—health care, clean water supply, improved nutrition, education and social services. These projects are underway in 114 countries around the world.

UNICEF cards began in 1949 when a seven-year-old girl made a painting in thanks for the help UNICEF gave to her war-ravaged village in Czechoslovakia. Her design became the first UNICEF card. Since then, more than 2,300 artists from over 100 countries have contributed their works to UNICEF.

Half Moon Crime Spree Investigated

A series of five incidents involving burglary, larceny from automobiles and malicious destruction of property is under investigation by the sheriff's department.

All occurred on Lakeview Dr. off Hankerd Rd. near Half Moon Lake in Dexter township. The crimes were reported within the space of little more than an hour last Sunday.

In each instance the automobiles and buildings burglarized were spray-painted with swastika symbols. Three cars and two garages were broken into.

The total loot included two stereo tape decks, tools, a muzzle-loading rifle and assorted hunting equipment.

"It's pretty obvious that all five crimes were committed by the same person or persons," detective Paul Wade said. "We have some leads but have made no arrests as yet."

MSU Fruit School Will Begin on Jan. 28

Some of the nation's most authoritative researchers will provide orchard management guidelines during the Michigan State University Fruit School Jan. 28-Feb. 1.

The five-day session will be held at the MSU Kellogg Biological Station's Gull Lake Conference Center, near Battle Creek. The registration fee is $210 per person, and attendance is limited to 110. The cost includes class materials, housing and meals.

"The featured speakers are foremost in their understanding about orchard water and nutrient requirements," says Ronald L. Perry, school co-ordinator and MSU Extension horticulture specialist.

One of the speakers, Warren Stiles, of Cornell University, is a widely known authority in applied and fundamental aspects of fruit tree nutrition. The other is Edward Proebsting, Washington State University, a prominent researcher on orchard water management.

Perry says the school is open to anyone associated with orchard production and management, including field representatives for packers, shippers, processors, nursery and chemical company representatives.

"Previous level of education and experience are not considered in accepting enrollees," Perry says. "We ask only that participants be involved in commercial tree fruit production, directly or in a supportive role."

Details of the school may be obtained by writing to Ronald L. Perry, Department of Horticulture, MSU, East Lansing, 48824, or by calling him at (517) 353-6789.

Transportation maintenance officials urge motorists to drive with caution this winter and to stay a good distance from snowplows and other maintenance equipment on the highways.
