'Cinderella' Rehearsals Underway

Rehearsals have begun for the 1985 Chelsea High school spring musical, "Cinderella." Fifty-five cast members are working hard in anticipation of the February performances. Director Doug Beaumont has high hopes for the production, which although it is in only the second week of rehearsal, shows great promise.

This musical fantasy has an exciting score, written by the incomparable Rodgers and Hammerstein. The music director, June Warren, is working closely with the young cast, with the excellent assistance of accompianist Jill Flintoft. Pit orchestra rehearsals will be led by conductor Andy Nielson.

Technical director and designer Bart Bauer is returning to the Chelsea stage. This production is complex due to the nature of the set involved. Extensions of the stage have been constructed and students involved in the show are spending busy Saturdays in the high school auditorium.

The student director, who is responsible for much of the planning and organization of the show, is junior Heather L. Grenier.

Tickets for "Cinderella" will be available soon. Watch The Standard for more details concerning production and ticket information. Performances of "Cinderella" are Feb. 21, 22, and 23 at 8 p.m. in the Chelsea High school auditorium.

Board OK's Front-Yard Fence Bid

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Schiller of Madison St. have been granted a variance from the village zoning ordinance which will allow them to fence their front yard.

The Schiller residence is located on the northeast corner of Madison St. and Mayer Dr. and is subject to trespass by students going to and from Beach Middle school.

The property is already fenced as far as the Madison St. sidewalk on both sides. Front fences are prohibited by the zon-

Acting as the zoning board of appeals, the village council voted 5-1 to approve a variance to allow a front fence, determining that the "Chelsea School District has created conditions that cause peculiar and exceptional difficulties."

Interviewing clowns, ventriloquists, and comedy acts may sound like an off-beat way to spend a few days but that's exactly what officers of the Fair Committee and several members of the Board of Directors were doing from Jan. 10-12 at the Hyatt Regency in Dearborn.

Although winter is just really getting into full swing, the immense work involved in planning a successful fair, make it neccessary to begin work now. Fair Committee secretary

Mary Ann Guenther explained that the Michigan Fair Association is divided into six zones, by geographical location. Chelsea is in Zone 2 with 15 other community fairs. Part of the business at the convention was to elect representatives from each zone to attend meetings later in the year. A Genessee county manager will represent fairs in

Surcharge Considered As Means Of Financing Prisons

Governor James J. Blanchard is expected to call for a prison construction program backed by surcharges on criminal convictions, officials confirmed

The extent of a revenue bond program has not yet been decided. Treasurer Robert Bowman said, adding recommendations will be forwarded to the Governor by the end of January.

Bowman said conversations with the Governor indicate he wants to "do what he can" towards building new prisons backed by criminal's surcharges, with the state general fund supplementing construction pro-

While he said he has been considering such a proposal "for some time," Bowman said it is based on a Kentucky program which levies a $10 fee on those convicted of misdemeanors in district courts.

The $3.5 million a year expected in fees will pay for $32.3 million in bonds for jail projects.

Bowman said because of Michigan's greater size, the size of the program could obviously be larger.

Bowman added, "we are contemplating the entire universe" of criminal offenses in devising a plan, but are not including civil offenses at this point.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

Newspapers in this country would be hard put to come up with a better New Year resolution than to come to the aid of one John Dunn of Cross Plains, Wis. He was charged a couple of weeks back with assalt in a Madison library. The piece I saw said John kept asking two wimmen gossiping in the library to be quiet. They wouldn't git their mouths out of high gear so he bopped one of em lightly on the head with a book to git her attention. She didn't take kindly to being interrupted and called the law. I stand foursquare fer him. If a man can't read and can't find peace and quiet in a building set aside fer them exact purposes, it's past time readers took up John Dunn's cause.

And where would newspapers be without readers? They got trouble enuff from television, they don't need the grief they can git from telawoman. Fer sure, the papers have as hard a time gitting attention as Dunn did. I have allus been more than a reader, I have been a writer in the margins. Lately I can't remember what all my margin notes mean, but I figger I still learn a heap more than I could setting and listening to somebody else read. I'm sticking with the papers, and I'm bothered enuff by one woman around the house, never mind hen parties in

I don't know what position the Madison library took, but it ought to put a gold star on Dunn's card fer enforcing the rules. I saw a while back where the library in Ann Arbor, Mich. is trying to help readers by coming up with new rules aimed at keeping out sleepers and stinkers. Natural, the Civil Liberties Union is crying about the right to sleep and stink anywhere in this free country, but I'm ready to testify fer the defense, and fer the same reasons I listed in the Wisconsin grubby bookworm that brings in a moldy sleeping bag ought to look fer another place to read. The fact is, the library wants a tool to use in looking after folks that are in the library to do what libraries are fer. A sleeping person is a quiet person, so I wouldn't come down to hard on that point. And I grant you the range of body odor is a judgment call, but I'm fer letting the library make it.

As fer my reading, I put high regard on the printed word, and I never have been one of them vacuum cleaners that swoosh along like they're breaking the speed limit with ever paragraph. I like to stop and smell the roses and maybe that's another reason listening to other folks tell me what's going on goes agin the grain. They don't ever seem to be going at the right pace fer me.

Final, I want to say this fer the papers after studying em up one side and down the other and reading em inside out fer all these years. They try to be a mirror fer us and they hold the mirror up to the light where we can see ourselves warts and all. And when I see an ad mixed with the news I recall what a country editor told me onct. He said all my readers are my friends, and my advertisers are my special

Woman's Club Begins Year With 3 New Members

Woman's Club of Chelsea started the New Year off at the home of Betty Oesterle with a recipe samples and sale potluck. Carol DeFant, Marie Kettinger and Myra Colvin were hostesses for the evening.

Two more new members were inducted into the club by membership chairman, Lila Pawlowski. Welcomed as new members were Lucile Van Riper and Linda Newhouse.

Many interesting evenings are planned for this growing club, the next one being a talk by Donald Cole regarding pre-arrangements which will take place Feb. 12. Feb. 14 the Woman's Club will share the celebration of Valentine's Day with residents of the Chelsea Methodist Retirement

If you would like to become a part of this club and meet women of all ages, please contact Lila Pawlowski, 475-2857, or write to the Woman's Club, 221 S. Main St.

Christian Scientists Hold Satellite Videoconference

For the first time Christian Scientists on four continents gathered simultaneously for a satellite-transmitted videoconference. Chelsea-area Christian Scientists congregated in Detroit, Dec. 8.

In announcing the meeting only two months ago, church directors referred to the urgent needs facing humanity and the necessity for specifically facing and bring-ing healing to these challenges. "To live for all mankind," the meeting's theme, was taken from the writings of Mary Baker Eddy who founded the denomination in

It was 9 a.m. in Honolulu, Hawaii, and 10 p.m. in Nairobi, Kenya, as church members from some 3,000 congregations gathered simultaneously in churches and convention centers in 140 cities. The denomination's historic Mother Church in Boston, Mass., was the focal point for the meeting-its 19th century stained glass windows depicting Biblical scenes providing an interesting contrast to the space-age satellite receiver parked outside.

In introducing the videoconference, Harvey W. Wood. from the church's five-member board of directors, explained: "This meeting is about lives . . . It's about the Christ speaking to human consciousness through individuals who are living truth. It's about hearts speaking to hearts." He also spoke of the "spiritual urgency . . . to address the needs of our fellow man at the deepest possible levels."

A panel of reporters from The Christian Science Monitor joined the meeting via satellite from the Old Royal Observatory in Greenwich, England. In keeping with the Monitor's 75-year tradition of in-depth coverage of social, economic, political and cultural affairs, the panel discussed a broad range of pressing challenges-from the nuclear arms race to what one panel member termed "the saturation point of materialism in some of the western world." The very urgency of today's problems, said veteran European reporter Elizabeth Pond, "reminds us that our personal lives aren't here somewhere and world problems out there somewhere else."

In Boston, the panel was joined by Monitor editor Katherine W. Fanning and Allison W. Phinney. Jr., editor of the monthly Christian Science Journal and other church publications.

Christian Scientists in Australia and New Zealand heard the program the following day. And Asian church members were sent videotapes at the close of the meeting.

'WHAT'S IN A NAME''

By Fred Coulter, evangelist

The discussion of scriptural names for the body of Christ is usually handled by those in denominations with the exclamation, "What's in a name?" However, if these individuals' husbands or wives wanted to go by a different name than their married name, these individuals would readily tell you there was much in a name. We live by words. We use them to describe. The descriptive names of most denominations would teach nothing about Christ to an alien sinner who had never heard about Jesus Christ. Having the proper descriptive name on something is very important. If I have two bottles in my bathroom and one is marked sulfuric acid and the other tooth powder, it matters a great deal which name I choose. The name alone on a church building does not mean that that body is the true body of Christ, however, the absence of a scriptural name on that building or in description of that group does show that it is not interested in following the New Testament pattern that Jesus laid down.

Paul writes, "And whatsoever ye do in word or deed, do all in the name of the Lord Jesus, giving thanks to God and the Father by Him [Colossians 3:17]. Refer said. "Neither is there salvation in any other: for there is none other name under heaven given among men, whereby we must be saved" [Acts 4:12]. Reconizing that the church belongs to Christ compelled Paul to close his Roman letter by saying, "The churches of Christ salute you" (Romans 16:16). Does the name of your denomination bring honor and glory to Jesus Christ?

Wide Variety of Birds Spotted on Count Day

Washtenaw Audubon Society Christmas Bird Count, conducted each year on the Sunday preceding Christmas Day brought a wide variety of birds spotted, and a large number of some of the birds as well.

In Washtenaw county, five party hours were recorded in the 1984 Christmas Bird Count, with 50 hours recorded in automobiles. Miles on foot listed this year totaled six, while 90 miles of automobile travel were recorded.

Providing the paper with the results of the county-wide count, Charles Steinbach said there were a particularly large number of bluebirds observed this year. Area No. 2, includes the north half of Scio township, the southeast corner of Dexter township and the northeast corner of Lima township. In Area No. 2, seven individuals saw 32 varieties of birds this year, and throughout Washtenaw county, 64 varieties of birds were observed on Sunday, Dec. 23, the day designated as Christmas Bird

Observers for Area No. 2 in the 1984 count included Charles Steinbach, William Stoffer and Peter Lundy from the Dexter area, Joan Doman and Meroe Stanley from Ann Arbor, Darlene Friedman from Novi, and Donald Brooks from Grass Lake. Peter is the 11-year-old son of the Richard Lundys. He volunteered to participate in the Christmas Bird Count day.

Count after reading about the event in The Dexter Leader. Steinbach, who headed the Area No. 2 count, said he was very pleased to have Peter join the observers this year. Both Stoffer and Brooks have worked with Steinbach in the Area No. 2 count in past years, and the three observers from Ann Arbor and Novi, themselves all veteran bird count participants as well, were transferred to Steinbach's group, he explained, because he had only a small number of people this year to assist in the count.

Usually, no bluebirds are observed in the Christmas count, but five were spotted along Wylie Rd. south of the railroad tracks, near the little creek, not far from the old Hugh Bradbury farm. Bluebirds, Steinbach explained. are usually in the tamarack swamps at this time of year. The five observed in Area No. 2 were the only ones seen in the county on the 1984 count day.

These are the species of birds spotted during the week ending Sunday, Dec. 23, the official Christmas Bird Count Day, throughout Washtenaw county, by Washtenaw Audubon Society members: great blue heron 4, Canada goose 972, mute swan 3, mallard 1,237, black duck 24, wood duck 1, scaup 2, common goldeneye 43, common merganser 2, sharp-shinned hawk 1, Cooper's hawk 3, redtailed hawk 38, kestrel 24, ruffed grouse 3, bobwhite 1, ring-necked pheasant 16, killdeer 1, herring gull 675, ring-billed gull 146, rock dove (common pigeon) 874,

Kipp Bertke Granted Air Force ROTC Scholarship

Kipp Bertke, a Michigan State University sophomore from Chelsea, has been awarded a three-year Air Force ROTC scholarship.

Bertke's scholarship covers tuition, lab fees, books and room and board. He also receives an additional $100 each month for expenses.

The scholarship is awarded on the basis of cadets' academic achievement, curriculum, involvement in extracurricular activities, a personal interview and performance on an Air Force officer qualifying test. Of the 180 Air Force ROTC cadets at MSU, 34 have received scholarships this year.

Bertke, an astrophysics major, is a member of the Gold Talon drill team and the Arnold Air Society. He is the son of Mr. and Mr. Robert Bertke, 5700 Stofer Rd., and a 1983 graduate of Chelsea High school.

New 4-H Club Being Organized

A new 4-H club is being organized and will hold the initial meeting on Saturday, Jan. 26 at 3 p.m., at 16640 Kilmer Rd.

4-H is open to any child between 7 and high school graduation. 4-H is an opportunity for friendship, leadership, and fun.

Projects range from crafts, pets, bikes, to livestock, cattle, pigs and each member will have a chance to pick his own interests.

The administrative leader, Ruth Broesamle, has previously been a leader with a wide range of interests.

You may call Ruth at 475-9803 after 6 p.m. If at all possible parents should plan to attend the first meeting with their child.

Area Students Earn Academic Honors

Full-time students from Chelsea, and surrounding communities, maintaining a cumulative grade point average of 3.50 or better through the 1984 Fall quarter at the Michigan Technical Institute, 611 Church St., Ann Arbor, are being honored this week.

Honor students from this area and their field of study are: Colleen Lewis, 10137 Boyce Rd., Chelsea, travel and tourism; and Kenneth Miller, Jr., 8105 Eisman Rd., Manchester; computer/data processing.

The more education a woman has the greater the likelihood she will seek paid employment; among women 25 to 64 years of age with 4 or more years of college in March 1984, 78 percent were in the labor force, according to "20 Facts on Women Workers," published by the Women's Bureau of the U.S. Department of Labor.

a note of thanks to our customers. The New Year's Eve ice and snowstorm ripped across Michigan, the ice devastating trees and snapping power

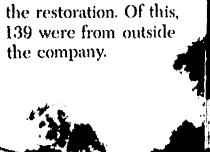

The storm knocked out electric power for about 275,000 customers of Consumers Power Company. That's more than 20% of our electric system.

In the wake of the third major storm to hit our system within a year, company crewmen worked day and night repairing the damage and restoring service. And they couldn't do it alone. Utility companies from Ohio and Indiana sent repair crews here to help. In all, 289 line crews and 131 tree-trimming crews were involved in the restoration. Of this, 139 were from outside the company.

Bill Mullendore

By the time this appears in print, Devon Thomas will be in South Africa, where she will spend a year as a foreign exchange student. I interviewed Devon and wrote a story about her in last week's edition of The Standard.

The day after the interview, Devon's mother telephoned me. She was worried. "I'm proud of what my daughter is doing," she said, "but I'm concerned that there may be reprisals against her and the rest of the family. We have already had some threats, and I'm concerned that a story in the paper might cause trouble for us."

The mother—whose last name is not Thomas and is not listed in the phone book—was talking against the background of mounting protests against the South African government's policy of apartheid (separation of races). In recent weeks several U.S. congressmen and the mayor of Detroit, among others, have been arrested for illegal picketing of the South African embassy in Washington. They have invited arrest in order to call attention to what they perceive to be injustice (and also to get publicity for themselves as political champions of racial equality.)

Upshot of my conversation with Devon's mother was that we agreed to let the story run without references to family names or addresses, and that was done.

The incident made me think. I sympathize with the mother's fears, because I'm afraid there could be some basis for them.

In no way do I defend or condone South Africa's apartheid policies. From what I know of them, I think they are just plain awful, but I need to know a lot more before making a final judgment. I also think there are better ways to pressure for change than committing blatantly illegal acts.

Devon Thomas is not making a political statement by accepting an opportunity to spend a year learning in South Africa. I asked her specifically about that, and her answer was excellent for a 16-year-old girl heading into the biggest adventure of her life.

She suggested that maybe the positions presented in the news media are extreme, that she has an open mind, and that she is inand iterested to find out what the real situation is.

I hope she decides on journalism as a career. There is a lot to be said in favor of getting the facts before jumping to conclusions. and Devon indicated that she wants to look, listen and learn. Too many modern journalists don't. Their minds are made up before they ever get to the story.

The idea that a Chelsea High school junior shouldn't accept the chance to spend a year in South Africa is preposterous, the more so because there apparently are people so narrow-minded as to

I don't agree with, much less support political philosophies of Soviet Russia, the People's Republic of China, Vietnam, Cambodia, Iran, Iraq, Syria, Lebanon or, for that matter, England, France and Israel. Yet, if anybody offered me the opportunity to go to any of -those places, I would pack my bags in a hurry and be on my way. Given the chance, I might learn something. Ann Arbor News editorial writer Don Faber recently visited

Russia. I know Don well enough to be absolutely sure that he isn't a Communist and that he wasn't brain-washed into becoming a believer during his tour of the Soviet Union. He came home to -write several articles which gave me a little different perception of Russia than I had before. He suggested that Soviet citizens are human beings, just like we are, and that they share the every-day concerns we have. His writing helped me get some perspectives. The view you

-obtain from reading the official government pronouncements on both sides, which threaten mutual nuclear oblivion almost any day now, is not only devastatingly gloomy but downright misleading. The people in both countries want to live. Put to a genuine popular vote on both sides, the nuclear arms race would end the day after the election, with all weapons dumped rinto some very deep holes and buried forever.

That may seem to be far afield from the matter of a young Chelsea girl going to South Africa, but it isn't. You learn by doing, and by going, and Devon Thomas has positioned herself to do a lot ... of learning during the next 12 months.

She told me that she intends to keep in touch with menus back home by writing letters. I can't honestly call her a friend on She told me that she intends to keep in touch with friends the basis of one 15-minute interview, but I would be pleased indeed to hear from her and put her letters into print.

MUCC Receives Grant for Acid Rain Watch Programs

John Eichinger, president of ty of rain and snow falling at the Michigan United Conservaseveral reporting stations across Michigan, and the compilation of tion Clubs, today announced that the organization has been granted $21,200 by the Charles Stewart Mott Foundation for expanding its "Acid Rain Watch" program. Acid precipitation is rain, snow, fog, or dry deposits containing significant amounts of nitric and sulfuric acids. The acids are formed when sulfur dioxide or nitrogen oxide emissions from man-made sources mix with moisture in the atmosphere.

Many scientists believe that persistent acid rain damages fish, lakes, streams, crops, trees, and soils. Acid precipitation often falls hundreds of miles from where it is created.

MUCC's Acid Rain Watch is a service designed to better inform the citizens of Michigan about the effects of acid rain in their state. Included as elements of the program are weekly reports to

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor.

Lately I have been deeply saddened by the dumping of unwanted pets out in the country where we live. Over the last few years I can't count the numbers of kittens, hunting dogs, pupples and cats my neighbors and I have had to take to the Humane Socie-

Last week was the last straw.

My husband and I are runners so we come upon more than most people. Last Thursday we found a beautiful coon hound so emaciated he could hardly stand.

It was obvious he had been abandoned for a long time. We found a name and phone on his collar and called the people who were from

Ypsilanti. The response outraged me. They had given it away to someone they couldn't remember and told us to just take the collar

Maybe people just need to be educated. Cats and dogs cannot live without food, water, and shelter, especially in a Michigan winter. If you don't want your pet, take it to the Humane Society-it costs you nothing and at least the animal then has a chance of finding a home and if not a home, a humane death.

Starvation is not a humane death.

pily. We kept the dog a few days and a wonderful neighbor found a family in Chelsea to adopt him.

However, he is very sick and only time and loving care will tell whether or not he will make it.

Those of us who live in the country should not be responsible for pets people no longer care about. They are living creatures and require a responsible adult to provide for them. Think before you get one and especially before you come to our home and dump

Editor, The Chelsea Standard:

I take issue with one of the paragraphs that appeared in the front page article of the January 9 issue of The Chelsea Standard covering the tragic New Year's Eve traffic accident that occurred on the M-52/I-94 overpass.

The paragraph reads, "Both drivers were wearing seatbelts. McDougall said. Belts are effective in head-on collisions but provide little or no protection from the side and may, in fact, contribute to injuries." As written, it implies that Chief McDougall made the entire statement. That is incorrect. The portion of the paragraph concerning the effectiveness of seat belts was made by the Sheriff's Department Deputy (lieutenant) investigating the accident, according to your reporter. Chief McDougall confirmed this to me in a telephone conversation, and added that he supports wearing seat belts.

The deputy from the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department has performed a grave disservice to the public through his inappropriate and apparently uninformed comments which have the effect of discouraging the wearing of seat belts.

Far more often than not, seat belts help to restrain and protect occupants by (1) preventing them from being tossed around inside a venicle following a side or head-on collision, especially a rollover accident, and (2) keeping arms, legs, heads, and torsos inside the vehicle thereby offering substantially more protection than with those same limbs or torsos flying around outside the vehicle as it careens off of other objects or rolls over on top of whatever part of you is sticking out a window.

I serve as a consumer representative on the Washtenaw County Emergency Medical Services Commission. The EMS Commission is comprised of other consumer members as well as representatives from public safety, county government, and health services. We are concerned with the public health and safety. Among other things, we strive to educate the residents of our county about the importance of wearing seat belts. Now, all of a sudden, here comes a public safety officer being quoted on page one advocating something contrary to what our commission represents. This destroys a lot of the good image and progress for which we have so diligently struggled. It certainly is not in the public interest.

While seat belts may or may not have been contributory in this particular accident, they DO prevent far more fatalities than they cause, and they certainly DO prevent or reduce serious injuries to a very large extent. Buckle up. It's the humane way to put our ambulance drivers out of work, and it helps assure that you'll be around to read next week's Standard.

the Washtenaw County Health Department to take appropriate action to correct conditions at a residential property located at SUE South St.

In a letter to the health agency, village administrator Fredrick A Weber wrote, in part:

We have had several complaints regarding the condition of the property. The neighbors have reported rats and raccoons living in the house.

We all feel that the house is deteriorating rapidly and is dangerous to the health and safewife the area residents.

The house is owned by Kermit Sparp, and is presently uninhabited, although electric service is still connected to the house. Mr. Sharp is still living in the area, but I am unable to tell you where.

I respectfully request that the Washtenaw County Health rtment inspect the property bring this property into complance with the county health

Health Department sanitarian David Dean addressed a letter to Sharp which stated that the South St. house had been inspected according to the village's request and said, in part:

I'It was found that the premises had an abundance of brush and overgrown vegetation well suited to support rodent and raccoon life. Although no rodents or raccoons were seen at the time of the visit, conditions appeared favorable for their harborage. 'Our point in issuing this letter

Near Record Sales Reported in 1984 for Farm Commodities

Farmers sold more than $144 billion worth of commodites in 1984, rivalling the record $144.8 billion sold in 1982. Cattle and calves, with sales valued at $29.5 billion, led the list of commodites compiled by American Farm Bureau Federation commodity specialists. Dairy was second in sales at $17.8 billion, followed by corn and soybeans, both with sales of $12.5 billion.

Farmers sold $10 billion worth of hogs, $5 billion of broilers, $4.1 billion of cotton, $3.6 billion of eggs, $3.4 billion of tobacco and $2 billion of sorghum. Other billion dollar commodites were turkeys, barley, rice, sugar, peanuts, oranges, grapes, potatoes, tomatoes and apples.

American Farm Bureau President Robert Delano said that because of slow domestic population growth, U.S. farmers rely heavily on export trade to sell their production.

Japan is U.S. agriculture's best customer, purchasing almost $7 billion of farm products in 1984. Next is the Soviet Union with $2.5 billion, followed by The Netherlands with $2.2 billion, Mexico with $2 billion and Canada with $1.9 billion.

Farm Bureau economists predict a continuation of the world economic recovery and also predict the current strong U.S. dollar will weaken by as much as 15% next year, encouraging foreign buyers to increase purchases.

Farm Computers Seminar Scheduled

"Computers on the Farm: Strategy for Survival" is the topic of an introductory seminar being sponsored by Complete Computer Center on Wednesday, Jan. 30, for managers and owners of farm businesses. It will be held from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., at the Washtenaw County Farm Bureau office on Ann Arbor-Saline Rd. Ann Arbor. Registration is $5 per person which includes lunch.

Reservations and further information may be obtained by calling David Prohaska, Business Systems Advisor, at Complete Computer Center, 994-6344, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily.

Guest speakers at the seminar include Wes Exelby, partner in the accounting firm of Curtis, Bailey, Exelby and Sposito, who will talk on farm accounting, financial record keeping, and financial planning. Keith Talladay, Milan area farmer, will present information on using the personal computer as a new tool for improving crop and livestock farm management, and how it can be used effectively in the decision-making process. Talladay will also describe how farm computers may be used to receive market advice using ordinary telephone service.

According to Prohaska, "Many farmers are looking seriously at survival for the first time in their lives. For many of them, 1985 will be the turning point. For some, it's too late to change course. Others will slip blissfully from bad to worse without realizing it. But the farmers who turn their businesses around will share one commitment-financial awareness."

He continued, "Any other industry would be proud to have the farmers' performance record. The result of increased yields at lower cost logically would be higher profits for any business. But because the farmer is not able to create demand and because he is at the mercy of government and international policies, the same economic rules others play by just don't apply.

Since national policy and international marketing are things he can't do much about, the farmer, his accountants, and lenders are? concentrating on the things he can-like using newly computerized farm accounting and operating management software." He concluded that, "Many of those who have ignored the advice of their bankers and federal lenders for years will be brought up short in the next fiscal cycle."

Simple Home Repairs Inside

If you have a floor tile that is coming loose, you can repair it easily. For any part that is still sticking to the floor, warm it gently with an iron on top of an old towel. The heat will soften the glue and may even make the glue tacky enough to restick the entire tile. If not, remove it, using an old spatula or putty knife. Then put down more mastic (a tile glue available at most hardware stores) following the directions on the can, replace the tile, and roll it hard with a rolling pin to make it stick firmly. You can learn to fix faucets, replace broken glass, rewire a lamp, and do a number of other repairs using the illustrated instructions in the U.S. Department of Agriculture booklet Simple Home Repairs Inside. Copies are $3.25 from the Consumer Information Center, Dept. 192M, Pueblo, Colo.

At the same time you order Simple Home Repairs Inside, you will also receive a free copy of the Consumer Information Catalog.

Rodney Satterthwaite Finalist In Scholarship Competition

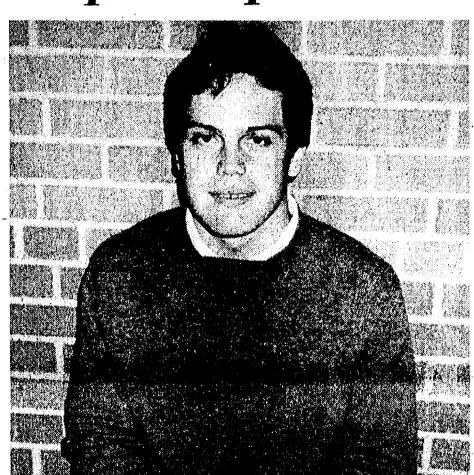

Rodney N. Satterthwaite, 18, a Chelsea High school senior, is one of a select group of international finalists invited to compete for Michigan State University Distinguished Alumni Scholarships.

The son of Ron and Jean Satterthwaite of 10505 Scio Church Rd., he will spend Friday and Saturday, Feb. 8-9, on the MSU campus at East Lansing taking tests, visiting university facilities and meeting with faculty members.

Among several applicants from Chelsea, Rod was the only one invited into the final round of competition. At stake is a variety of scholarships and stipends for which the testing will be tough.

"I know it's not going to be easy," said Satterthwaite, who is a near straight-A student and a fine football player besides. "Maybe my football experience will help me. I'm accustomed to competing."

Rod said his chief academic strength is English, adding that he has "done pretty well" in the social and physical sciences, mathemetics and all other aspects of the college preparatory curriculum.

"I think his biggest strength in this competition is that he doesn't have any weaknesses," CHS guidance counsellor Chris Dimanin said. "He will pass the tests with high scores in every

"Rod is an excellent all-around student, a fine athlete, and an exceptional young man as a person. No matter how he comes out in this competition—and I believe he will do very well-we are proud of him. It is a high honor to be invited to compete. There will be students from every state and several foreign countries."

Satterthwaite has already been accepted for entrance by both MSU and the University of Michigan, an achievement in itself. Most students have to wait until spring to find out whether their applications were approved.

Rod admits to some uncertainty as to his future course in terms of a career beyond college. "I'm still thinking and looking at possibilities," he said. "I like English and the humanities. I probably will enroll in liberal arts, explore several fields, and then make up my mind on where to concentrate. I have a lot to learn yet before making that decision. I'm young, and have some time to decide.'

An intelligent statement from an 18-year-old young man who has his eyes and mind squarely fixed on the future.

Chelsea Wins Battle Of Defenses, Beats Dexter in Tough Tilt

If tough defensive basketball is your dish, you could have feasted on last Friday night's Chelsea-Dexter game, won 41-36 by the Bulldogs in their home pressure defense which largely negated each other's efforts on offense.

In the end the outcome was decided at the foul line. Chelsea sank 21 of 29 free throw tries while Dexter was making 6 of 10. That 15-point differential more than made up for the Dreadnaughts' 30-20 scoring advantage from the field.

It was a strange game in some ways and a good one to boot. What was lacking on offense was more than made up by intensity on defense. As might be expected in a clash between traditional rivals, both teams came to play.

Chelsea took only 22 shots from the floor, about one-third of the normal number for a high school team. The Bulldogs hit on 10 of them for a fancy 45 percent average.

Dexter put up nearly twice as many attempts-42-and made good on 15 for a not-bad 36 percent considering that most of the Dreadnaught shots were taken from the 15-20 foot range.

Neither team could work the ball inside for easy, high percentage shots. Chelsea elected to hold the ball and draw fouls, while Dexter chose to try to bomb from the perimeter.

In this particular game the Bulldog strategy proved the better. Had Dexter been able to hit from outside with any consistenoyo the result might have been adifferental person sam deal paid

Scout Team Gets Credit In Big Win

"How about mentioning some boys whose names aren't in the box score and won't get any recognition otherwise?" asked Chelsea basketball coach Rahn Rosentreter after last Friday night's victory over Dexter.

"We couldn't have won without their contributions."

Rosentreter was talking about five second-string varsity players who "impersonated" the Dexter team during practices for the game. "They did an excellent job. Our starters knew what to look for."

Members of the quintet who played the roles of the Dreadnaughts' first five were Todd Doering, Mike Merkel, Tony Hammerschmidt, Ray Spencer and Jason Pierson.

"We had scouted Dexter pretty thoroughly, and we figured we could win if we could anticipate their pattern of play and adjust to it, especially on defense," Rosentreter said.

"Our 'scouting team' was outstanding, and it should be given important credit for the factor was that Dreadnaught star guards Dan Schlaff and Eric Meilstrup both got into early foul trouble and had to sit out long stretches on the bench. When they did get back into the game, Both teams played aggressive they were forced to play timidly to keep from fouling out.

Despite limited playing time because of their foul problems. Meilstrup led all Dexter scorers with 12 points and Schlaff contributed 10. Mike Arbour also had 10 for the Dreadnaughts.

Dave Steinhauer paced Chelsea with 12 points, followed by Ken Martin with 10. Eric Schaffner had nine.

The unsung hero was senior center Keith Neibauer who played perhaps his best game ever in a Bulldog uniform. He didn't score from the field but shot 6 of 8 from the line and pulled down nine rebounds to lead both teams. He did all that while playing hurt with a braced knee and a severe hip bruise.

Neibauer, Martin, Steinhauer and Schäffner all contributed pressure packed free throws late in the game when it looked like Dexter might rally and win.

The two teams traded baskets early before Chelsea edged to a 10-6 first-quarter lead. Dexter dominated the second period and came back to trail by a point, 17-16, at the close of a furious first half which ended with a combined *score about half of what one team normally would expect to register.

Chelsea played its best ball in the third period, registering 14 points to Dexter's eight, and went up, 31-24, to apparently take charge. The Bulldogs proceeded to fritter most of that lead away by putting in just four points during the first 6½ minutes of the fourth quarter, and Dexter again crept back into contention.

Down by three at 35-32 with 90 seconds left on the clock, the Dreadnaughts had their chances but blew them by taking a couple of bad shots. Meanwhile, Chelsea made good at the line as Dexter was forced to foul to get the ball.

"We won it with our defense, no doubt about it," said Bulldog coach Rahn Rosentreter. "Dexter is supposed to be the best defensive team in the league, and we figured we had to play very tough defense ourselves if we were going to win.

"We used basically a sagging man-to-man defense which put pressure on their guards while keeping the inside lanes closed. Dexter used about the same thing against us.

"The patterns of both teams were very similar. We attacked their guard strength, and we were successful in holding them down. The foul situation certainly helped."

While Dexter partisans had ideas of their own about the officiating, which definitely favored Chelsea in terms of the number of fouls called, Rosentreter had his view.

"Our driving offensive style is intended to draw fouls," he said. "On defense, we try to avoid the dumb fouls, the hacking and reaching-in calls that really hurt vou."

Dexter didn't go to the line once in the first half and didn't get into the free throw parade after intermission until Chelsea had taken what proved to be a gamewinning edge in charity tosses.

The capacity crowd in the Chelsea gym made a lot of noise, and Rosentreter expressed gratitude for the loud sounds from the Bulldog side. "I was impressed with our fan support," he commented. "The students especially were inspirational."

Dexter coach Jim McCormack wasn't happy about the lop-sided margin of officials' whistles against his team but declined to use it as an excuse other than to say, "I didn't think there was that much difference in the way the teams played on defense."

The Dreadnaughts didn't deserve to win, McCormack said, 'because we didn't go to the boards where we should have been in control.

"Chelsea is the smallest team we've played all season, and our kids apparently figured they didn't need to work for rebounds. We had the height advantage, but Chelsea took it away from us with aggressive play w rneath. That was the real differ ace.

"We played two bad games last week, lost them both and now have to face the problem of coming back to prove ourselves. We had played some pretty good ball earlier in the season, and we're capable of doing it again. I'm not counting us out of the league race, but we've got to get back on track. Last week was kind of a disaster.''

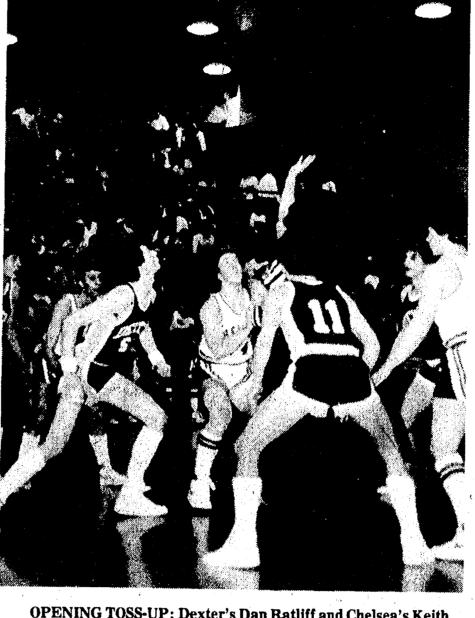

The victory raised Chelsea to 5-3 on the season, 2-2 in the Southeastern Conference. The loss dropped Dexter out of a tie for the SEC lead. The Dreadnaughts are 6-3 over-all and 3-1 in the league.

Chelsea was at home against Jackson Northwest last night and will play at Tecumseh Friday. Dexter was off last night and then had away games at Saline and Jackson County Western on Friday and Saturday.

ning, 88 to 84. The meet was an uphili battle for the Bulldogs who lost the first three events. The medley relay found Chelsea finishing second, third, and fifth. The "A" relay was composed of Craig Miller, Ted Lewis, Jeff Mason, and Mike Carignan. The "B" relay was Kevin Brock, Mike Coffman, Brent Bauer, and Mark Westhoven. The "C" relay was Darren Girard, Howard Merkel, Lloyd Brown and Lee Riemenschneider.

The 200 free was next and the eight-length race resulted in a race decided by 100ths of a second as Jeff Nemeth finished second to the state's current number one 200 freestyler. Nemeth's time was a personal best and a state qualifying time.

In the same event Scott Pryor dropped his time over four seconds to finish a very important third, and Paul Robbins swam his best 200 free ever and finished sixth. The 200 I. M. proved to be a severe problem for the Bulldogs as the visitors finished first and second. Dan Degener earned a third for Chelsea, and Mike Coff-and Ted Lewis swam an excellent race that resulted in a fifth. In the 50 free Chelsea won its first race as Don Skiff swam the fastest non-state meet 50 in Chelsea history but the team still was on the skids as they had counted on finishing first, second and fifth and got a third and fifth from Brent Bauer and Mike Carignan. ing by four points.

The good fortune continued as Scott Pryor, Brent Bauer and Kevin Brock combined to finish a better than expected first, second, and sixth. Pryor's time made the third Bulldog flyer to qualify for state. Brock also had a great three-second improvement in his all important swim.

The next event matched the current two fastest Class "B" freestylers in the state. Both swimmers improved their best times and Don Skiff also broke his own varsity record but lost in a very close race. Mike Carignan needed a lifetime best to get third the pool is decided early and becomes less than exciting but Jeff Nemeth and John Adent from Bridgman combined for an exciting 500 yard freestyle race that went down the very end with Jeff Nemeth winning with a 15-second drop and a state qualifying swim. Paul Robbins came from way behind to record a best time, finishing third, and Dan Degener swam a very intelligent race, finishing fourth.

Bridgman won the 100 backstroke but Craig Miller swam a very gutty race, finishing second and Darren Girard and Lee Riemenschneider had best times finishing fifth and sixth.

The 100 breaststroke was another tightly contested race with Mike Coffman finishing second and qualifying for state with Chelsea's fastest ever dual meet time. Finishing fourth and fifth with lifetime bests were freshmen Ted Lewis and Howard Merkel.

The stage was now set for the meet's exciting climax. Whichever team would win the freestyle relay would win the

Jeff Nemeth led off the Chelsea relay and gave the team a lead, Dan Degener swam second and maintained the lead. Scott Pryor who dropped his 100 free time in this event three seconds, swam third and increased the lead and Don Skiff did not allow anyone to come close and Chelsea had earned a very exciting four-point win. Finishing fourth with all-bestever splits were Jeff Mason, Lloyd Brown, Paul Robbins, and Kevin Brock. Finishing fifth in the same event was the relay of Darren Girard, Lee Riemenschneider, Howard Merkel, and Tyler Lewis.

Swimmers of the meet were: Scott Pryor, Jeff Nemeth, and Mike Coffman. Scott Pryor who dropped four seconds in his 200 free, two seconds in his 100 fly (state qualifying effort), and imlast relay. Jeff Nemeth earned his honors with two wins and a state qualifying swim in the area. breaststroke.

Swimmers Defeat Adrian For 4th Win

Bulldog swimmers improved their season record to four wins and no losses with a 108-64 win over the Maples of Adrian High school on Tuesday, Jan. 8. Adrian is the third class A team the CHS splashers have humbled as they totally dominated the meet, winning 10 of the 11 events.

The meet started with Chelsea winning the medley relay in the state qualifying time of 1:46.99. The relay was composed of junior Craig Miller, senior Mike Coffman, junior Scott Pryor, and sophomore Jeff Nemeth. Finishing fourth in the same event was the team of freshmen: Matt Doan, Ted Lewis, Kevin Brock, and junior Mark Westhoven. Chelsea now led by two points and continued to increase its margin throughout the meet.

The 200 freestyle was won by Brent Bauer who swam a lifetime best 1:56.7, Dan Degener finished third and Paul Robbins fourth with best times.

The 200 individual medley resulted in two more lifetime bests by Jeff Nemeth and Scott Prvor who finished first, second and Ted Lewis was fifth. In the 50 freestyle Don Skiff won in a state qualifying time. Mike Carrignan finished fourth in his best time of the season.

The diving resulted in Mark Westhoven, Tyler Lewis, Eric Bell and John Piatt also scoring lifetime highs. Westhoven was first, Lewis third, and Bell fourth.

The 100-yard butterfly found Don Skiff winning with a time faster than the state qualifying standard. Scott Pryor finished third and Kevin Brock fourth. Brent Bauer made a state consideration time in winning the 100 free and Mike Carignan tied a lifetime best.

Jeff Mason finished fifth with a season best time in the 100 free. The 500 free was won by Dan Degener, Paul Robbins was third and Darren Girard fourth. The next event was the 100 backstroke and Jeff Nemeth won with a near state time. Finishing second was Matt Doan and Lloyd

Brown was fourth. In the breaststroke Chelsea lost its only race by a tenth of a second but Mike Coffman finished second with a lifetime best. Ted Lewis finished third and Howard Merkel fifth in the breaststroke. The last relay was the last CHS win. The relay of Mike Carignan, Dan Degener, Brent Bauer and Don Skiff won. Finishing fourth was the relay of Matt Doan, Kevin Brock, Paul Robbins and Jeff Mason.

The win extended the team's two year unbeaten string to 10. Swimmers of the Meet were: junior, Dan Degener for a 10-second drop in the 500 free, Mark Westhoven, Tyler Lewis, Eric Bell and John Piatt for all earning lifetime best scores in the one meter diving.

BY BILL MULLENDORE

Watching up the college football offered on television New Year's Day was both eye-blurring and eye-opening.

It was a great day for the West Coast as PAC-10 teams made a clean sweep with three victories in as many tries. Washington, Southern California and UCLA all won games they entered as underdogs.

Baston College and Nebraska were also winners, of course, but the total record of the day added to this observer's growing impression that the balance of college football power is slowly but surely shifting

If you wish, you can throw into the hopper the fact that Brigham Young University was declared the national champion in the post-season polls. BYU is located in Utah which, though not sunny California by a long shot, is nonetheless a western state.

BYU is a special case because of its affiliation with the Mormon church, and probably can't be used as an example to prove anything except that player dedication backed by outstanding coaching can accomplish a lot. That the school manages to come up with one of the best two or three quarterbacks in the country year after year makes you wonder if divine guidance is at work in its recruiting program.

Six Big 10 schools competed in bowl games, and five of them lost. The sole winner was lowa. That doesn't tell you anything for sure, but it does suggest that just maybe there weren't six first-rank teams in the conference. Purdue, Michigan and Michigan State probably didn't deserve to go to bowls, and Illinois perhaps didn't either.

What impressed me most during all the hours of Jan. 1 football watching was the Southern Cal team that defeated Ohio State. If ever a team was prepared and ready to play, Southern Cal was. The Trojans had to stop Buckeye tailback Keith Byars and, oh my, how they did the job.

Byars broke for a 50-yard gain on his first carry, and that may have been the biggest mistake of his life. He carried the ball 22 more times for a total of 59 yards, and he took a fearful pounding. He must have been one solid bruise when it was all over.

Byars is a fine running back, perhaps indeed the best in the land as he is touted to be, but the ball carrier never lived who could go anywhere against the kind of gang-tackling Byars faced on New Year's Day. He was swarmed on by as many as 10 defenders every time he touched the ball. (The San Francisco 49'ers did a similar number on the Chicago Bears' Walter Payton in a professional playoff game a few days later.)

I think there is a reason for the increasing West Coast dominance of college football, and it can be summed up in one word: weather.

Suppose you are a high school senior, a true blue-chip college prospect who can call his own shot and go to any school of his choice on a full football scholarship? Other things equal, where will you go?

Chances are, you will select some place where the climate is salubrious and the beaches populated with pretty girls year-around. Athletic choices quite often come down to such mundane considerations as those.

There are exceptions, of course, and it's a good thing because otherwise the warm-weather schools would corral even more of the top athletes than they already do.

There will always be athletes like Anthony Carter, who had lived in south Florida all his life and decided to come to Michigan because he wanted to experience snow. There will be serious students who pick particular schools to further their academic ambitions. There will be players attracted by an individual coach and his program,

So why aren't Florida and Arizona dominar Long with the West

Well, there are some pretty knowledgeable people who argue that the best college football team around this past season was Florida State. Because of recruiting violations, the school was ineligible to play in a bowl or appear on television. Arizona's two major universities have also been in hot water for breaking the recruiting rules. Miami had one of the better teams in the country.

I'll be surprised if the gravitation toward the Sun Belt doesn't continue. Fortunately, there are so many fine athletes around these days that a few schools can't possibly corner them all.

Wrestlers Get Back On Victory Road By Beating Lincoln

Chelsea's varsity wrestling team got back on the winning track last Thursday night with a 39-30 dual meet victory over Lincoln, but it didn't come easily.

The Bulldogs won only two of the first eight matches and were down 30-12, before coming back to win the final five weight classes, including a default in the heavyweight division that made the difference in the final score.

"We're hurting a little bit in the lighter weights this year because of inexperience. Some of the boys are getting burned because they haven't wrestled before this year in varsity competition. They will learn from their mistakes, and they will improve. We should get better as the season goes along."

Relying on strength in the upper divisions is a departure from recent past seasons, in which Chelsea dominated the lower weight classes in most meets but didn't win many matches at 155 and over.

"There definitely has been a change in our team balance, Kargel said. "Part of it is simply that some of our kids have gotten older and bigger, and are wrestling heavier. What we're aiming for, of course, is strength everywhere, and we're getting there."

Kargel, who is a good sport, was a bit disappointed that the meet was decided when Lincoln was forced to default in the heavyweight division, the final match, because of an injury. "I think we would have won the match, but it's too bad the boys couldn't wrestle and decide the outcome on the mat."

Kargel planned to divide his squad for last Saturday's two invitational meets, sending some to the Ann Arbor Invitational at Huron High school and others to a tournament at Jackson North-

"That way we can give the maximum number of boys a chance to wrestle," he noted. "We may not fave full lineups in both tournaments, and we honestly don't have a chance to win either one, but we'll get some good experience which is what we need."

The win put the JV's at 6-2 for the season. They were to play Jackson Northwest here last night before travelling to Tecumseh on Friday for what Hendricks called "maybe our most important game of the

THE OPEN

By BILL MULLENDORE

A brief news item in the daily papers a couple of weeks ago brought me up short. It stated that, as of that date in late December, the Department of Natural Resources had just 141 conservation officers on active duty.

That is more than 100 under the so-called normal complement of 250. It is 130 under the all-time high of 271 reached during the 1970's.

Those numbers tell a story that is not easy to understand unless you have some background knowledge of what they mean. I'm writing from experience of nearly 40 years as a Michigan outdoor writer and more than 17 years as a DNR employee.

Let's start with some basics. There are 83 counties in Michigan. Spread 141 conservation officers over them, and you come up with an average of less than two per county.

The CO's are responsible for all of the state's outdoor recreation and environmental protection laws. Their assignments cover a broad range indéed—game, fish, boats, harbors, snowmobiles, trails, landfills, toxic waste dumps, smokestacks, lakes, rivers, contaminated wells. It's a much longer list, but that sampling may be enough to convey a general idea.

Time was when conservation officers were primarily game and fish cops. They rode herd on hunters and fishermen. It wasn't easy, but they performed at a level which at least made would-be violators think twice before committing a deliberate act of poaching They figured they caught maybe 15 percent of the people who violated. That isn't a high rate, but it's enough to make you consider the odds on getting caught, especially if you keep on doing it. Thr v the dice often enough, and eventually they are going to come up snake-eves.

Chances are the arrest rate today is somewhere below five percent. I have never deliberately broken a conservation law in my life, and don't intend to start now, but I must say that the 20-1 or better odds against getting caught are attractive.

As the ranks of conservation officers have thinned, their duties and responsibilities have increased by quantum jumps. The spate of new enviromental protection laws enacted starting in 1970 has multiplied their enforcement obligations. CO's are no longer game and fish cops. They are officers assigned to protect all outdoors, including every threat and insult to it. Theoretically at least, if you have dirty smoke coming? out of your chimney, a CO is supposed to investigate and deal something about it.

The reduction in the ranks of conservation officers is easily explained. It resulted from Michigan's economic recession and state government's inear bankruptcy. Among steps taken to bring the books into balance is a policy which decrees that employees who leave state service for any reason—retirement, resigna tion, death—cannot ; be replaced. To hasten that a process of attrition, rules were enacted to make early retirement attractive. (1 was one who took advantage of 9hat option.)

Result has been a drastic reduction in the ranks, and it has hit across the board, no just among conservation of ficers. For example, the JDNR division I used to head once included 32 people. It nows has six and is no longer a division as such.

Taxpayers are cheering. 'J Undoubtedly, there was some fat to be trimmed, but the reductions in force have long since cut into muscle and bone When fewer and fewer people are asked to do more a and more work, a morale problem eventually develops, and there is a rush to get off the sinking In recent weeks I have attended a couple of retirement parties for old friends in the DNR, and also a holiday gathering of former fellow workers. The impression lagot was one of near despair. They were not happy gatherings, as they should have been.

Person after person told me that they were just playing out the string, waiting for the day they could qualify rifor minimum retirement and syget out of a bad situations understand how they feel

Michigan's economy's is recovering. The top news story on the day I wrote this proclaimed that the unemployment rate is the lowest in title

I'm not suggesting that state government employment should promptly be restored to former levels in all of its func tions. I do believe there is an urgent need to put more conservation officers in the field.

Saline Stays Atop Conference Scramble

A pattern is emerging in the Southeastern Conference basketball race. While the rest of the league beats each other up, Saline keeps cruising along. The result could be a run-away championship for the Hornets who, so far, look to be in a class by themselves.

Saline improved its league mark to 5-0 with an impressive 75-62 victory over Lincoln on the latter's home floor last Friday night. The state-ranked Hornets are a perfect 8-0 on the season.

Lincoln, which had been expected to challenge Saline in the league, dropped to 2-2 in the SEC and 4-3 over-all. The Railsplitters suffered an horrendous 106-69 loss to Inkster earlier in the week. It is rare indeed for anybody to score more than 100 points in a 32-minute high school basketball game.

Dexter had a bad week, losing a Tuesday game to Stockbridge and then getting handed its first SEC defeat, a 41-36 upset at the hands of Chelsea in a savage defensive struggle. The latter loss dropped the Dreadnaughts out of a share of the conference

It was a good week for Chelsea, which beat both Fowlerville and Dexter. The Bulldogs' two wins boosted their season record to 5-3 (2-2 in the league). Milan showed signs that it is emerging from early-season doldrums with wins over Class A South Lyon and SEC rival Tecumseh. The Big Reds are 2-3 in the league.

Tecumseh lost to both Blissfield and Milan.

Pinckney split a pair of nonconference games, defeating Manchester and losing to Howell. The Pirates have yet to win in the Savoring his team's win over Dexter, Chelsea coach Rahn Rosentreter put it this way in summing up the conference results to date:

"Right now Saline looks like the heavy favorite. They are undefeated and out in front. I suspect they will have a bad night somewhere down the road. They're very good, but they are not unbeatable. If they lose a game, there could still be a race for first place. I'm not conceding anything at this stage, and I don't think other conference coaches are either.'

Results of action on Tuesday, Feb. 8:

Chelsea 52, Fowlerville 47. Blissfield 66, Tecumseh 56. Inkster 106, Lincoln 69. Pinckney 56, Manchester 53. Saline 59, Adrian 37. Milan 61, South Lyon 47. Stockbridge 55, Dexter 40.

Last Friday night's outcomes: Saline 75, Lincoln 62. Chelsea 41, Dexter 36. Milan 54, Tecumseh 43. Howell 72, Pinckney 42.

win and I'll take it, "Rosentreter said of the Fowlerville contest. "We played poorly, and we lucked out. They didn't play very well either."

What concerned the coach most was his team's continuing failure to put the ball in the basket. The Bulldogs connected on just 20 of 63 shots, all taken from inside 15 feet. They hit 12 of 23 from the

"We have to be a highpercentage shooting team in order to win," Rosentreter said. "We're getting the shots we want, but they aren't dropping. We're missing five-foot jumpers and even some layups."

"When you look at the shot charts of our last two games (Adrian and Fowlerville), you can see that we didn't put up a shot outside 15 feet, and most of them were inside 10 feet. The ball isn't going in for us, and that has to change. Our shooting from the foul line is just plain terrible."

Chelsea never trailed in its win at Fowlerville, but the game was close all the way.

"They never got ahead of us, but we never got very far ahead of them, "Rosentreter said. "It was close all the way, and it shouldn't have been.

"We played pretty good defense and stayed even on the boards, and that's why we won, but we sure didn't play the overall caliber of ball that we are capable of playing.

"Actually, we performed about like we did against Adrian, and that's what bothers me. We lost to Adrian and beat Fowlerville. The difference is that Adrian is a Class A school and Fowlerville is Class C.

"What I'm seeing is a postholiday letdown, and I sure hope it ends when we play Dexter or we'll get blown off the floor,"

Against Fowlerville, Mark Barels led the Bulldogs with 14 points. Ken Martin put in 12, Dave Steinhauer eight, Eric Schaffner seven and Keith Neibauer five.

Eighth Grade Cagers Lose To Dexter

Chelsea's eighth grade basketball team dropped a 52-24 decision to their Dexter counterparts last Thursday, and the budding Dreadnaughts impressed Bulldog coach Jim Tallman.

"We didn't play very well. especially on offense, and were never really in the game," Tallman said, "but let me tell you. Dexter has some potentially fine basketball players coming along. They dominated us."

The score by quarters-12-3, 30-13, 46-17, 52-24-tells the story of the game.

"We couldn't put the ball in the basket," Tallman said, echoing a refrain of other Chelsea cage coaches since the holiday break. "I'm beginning to wonder if all our kids at all levels caught some kind of a disease that causes poor shooting."

Junior Morseau had nine of Chelsea's 24 points. Nobody else scored more than four.

"Fortunately, we played decent defense, even though the score may not show it. If we hadn't the result would have been a lot worse, and it was bad enough as it was.'

JV Cagers Trounce Fowlerville, 56-21

A 56-21 victory over a badly outmatched opponent doesn't mean a whole lot, and Chelsea junior varsity basketball coach Ted Hendricks was the first to admit as much after his team defeated Fowlerville.

"I guess the best thing you can say about the game is that I was able to give everybody a lot of playing time," Hendricks said. "Our starters were in for less than 14 minutes.

"It was one-sided enough, but it could have been a real blow-out. We were ahead 12-0 at the end of the first quarter, and they didn't crippled by injuries and other misfortune and simply couldn't put a representative team on the floor.

Greg Haist had 12 points and six rebounds in a performance that pleased Hendricks, because Haist did it coming off the bench. Jeff Harvey canned 11 points and pulled down seven caroms. Todd Starkey was 9 and 3. Jon Lane scored eight.

"We played good defense and dominated the boards," Hendricks noted. "That's the good news. The bad news is that we shot very poorly, especially from the foul line where we were 12 of 36. That is just plain terrible, the worst I can remember."

The win lifted the JV's record to 5-2 going into last Friday's game against Dexter

More and more Americans find farming a satisfying sideline, says the recent issue of National Wildlife magazine. Within four years, between 1978 and 1982, the number of small farms increased 17 percent. Of these 637,000 U.S. farmers with fewer than 50 acres, 80 percent of them derive most of their income from outside employment. Ice Safety Measures May Save Someone's Life

This is the time of year when anyone who ventures out on the ice should be thinking about ice safety, stresses Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Law Enforcement personnel.

Early winter freezes and thaws make ice unsafe for any type of traffic, particularly in December and January, and as temperatures rise, in March and April. "In 1983 alone," says Frank Opolka, chief of DNR's Law Enforcement Division, "12 Michigan residents lost their lives in ice accidents; in 1984, DNR reports show six fatal ice accidents occurred in Michigan."

What constitutes a safe depth of ice is difficult to state. While three inches of ice on a farm pond may hold a person with little danger, that same three inches on a moving stream or a lake with springs, stumps and currents, could be very dangerous. On the great lakes, one step from three-foot thick ice may lead the next step to nothing more than skim ice.

The following measures are suggested to reduce the risk of ice accidents: 1) Do not drive on ice.

2) Test the ice continually with an ice spud or similarly heavy bar or staff, especially for ice skating and ice fishing.

3) Stay away from stream mouths and lake inlets and 4) Be suspicious of gray or dark spots in the ice, these may be soft areas. Note: ice deteriorates along shoreline and around pilings and docks first.

5) Rescue gear should be available. A ladder is a good tool and at least 50 feet of good line, a tree limb or even an article of clothing can save.

6) If you work on ice, two large spikes carried on the body can be used as a hand hold on the ice when crawling from a hold.

Those who can avoid ice travel, should do so says Opolka, particularly snowmobilers, crosscountry skiers and snowshoers who can enjoy these sports on solid ground. In 1982, four snowmobilers traveling on a lake and unfamiliar with the conditions, crashed through the ice and drowned.

If travel over ice is una avoidable, as in ice fishing or is work-related, some of the factors that should be weighed are: type of ice, recent weather, a person's own knowledge of conditions and area, and the body of water you are crossing. What do you do when you go through the ice? Opolka offers these suggestions:

1) Turn on your back and kick to work your way out of the hole; your clothes will offer some flota-

2) Get out of the ice in the direction you walked on. 3) Do not stand, rather, roll away from the hole until you feel you can safely stand. 4) Work fast, you have just minutes before the cold water. will affect your reasoning. 5) Your clothes will soon freeze; walk to safety quickly. If you are going to your car, remove your keys before they freeze in your pocket. What do you do when assisting someone who has fallen through the ice? Stay on solid ground; avoid getting on the ice if possible. If a person must assist from the ice, they should lay flat and spread their weight as much as possible. A person removed from cold water may appear to be beyond help, but still may be successfully resuscitated. Start cardiopulmonary resuscitation

(CPR) and transport immediately to a hospital. Ice sports are very much a part of Michigan's winter recreational scene, says Opolka, and stresses not to be afraid of the ice, but instead, respect it by taking the proper precautions for a safer, more enjoyable winter.

★ Pacemakers Save. Thousands of Lives

Your heart is an amazing muscle. About the size of your clenched fist, it pumps nearly five quarts of blood through your body every minute—or 75 gallons an hour-or 1,800 gallons a day. To do so, it beats as many as 100,000 times a day-or 60 to 70 times every minute. It does this steadily and rhythmically sending blood rich in oxygen and nourishment to all your body cells.

Your heart is equipped with its own natural pacemaker located in its upper chamber or atrium. This is called the sinus node and it produces steady electrical impulses which travel to a midway junction and then continue down through the lower part of the heart, or ventricle, causing the heart to contract or beat.

But sometimes the heart's natural rhythm is interrupted or becomes irregular. The natural pacemaker may send out impulses too slowly or they may be blocked through the heart resulting in heart block. If left untreated, this condition can cause shortness of breath, fainting, and occasionally even death. But fortunately such rhythm disturbances are treatable with an artificial pacemaker which restores a steady flow of electrical impulses.

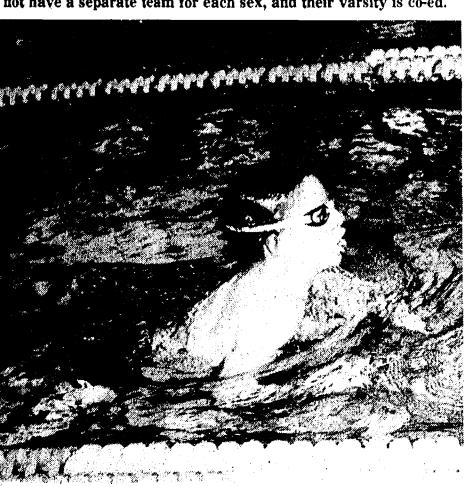

Since the late 1950's when pacemakers were first implanted successfully, about a million people have benefited from this remarkable invention. Today, the pacemaker is smaller, lighter, more streamlined than ever. This is a result of space-age electronics, sleek lightweight metals, and new longer lasting miniature batteries.

The pacemaker is only a little bigger than a 50-cent piece. It has a pulse generator which works like a minicomputer and sends out tiny electric impulses. These reach the heart through an insulated wire threaded through a vein. Contact with the heart is at a metal electrode through which the impulses stimulate the surrounding heart tissue. Today, most of the pacemakers are called "demand" pacemakers. When the heart beats properly, the pacemaker does nothing but "listen," but when it detects a missed beat, it immediately sends out electrical pulses to restore a normal pulse rate.

The pacemaker is implanted under the skin, usually in the upper chest. Its batteries last from five to seven years, at which time the entire unit is replaced. Those people with pacemakers usually return to normal activities.

WOMAN SWIMMER from Bridgman begins takeoff in relay race. Because of a shortage of women swimmers, Bridgman does not have a separate team for each sex, and their varsity is co-ed.

DARREN GIRARD of Chelsea swam a breast stroke lap against competitors from Waverly and Bridgman. During the school winter vacation Darren, along with his teammates, each swam 80 miles of practice laps in 10 days.

TYLER LEWIS of Chelsea performed a 11/2 inward somersault in the tuck position. Chelsea divers won their events in each of the Friday and Saturday meets.

Today's Investor

By Thomas E. O'Hara Chairman, Board of Trustees National Assoc. of Investment Clubs & Editor, Better Investing Magazine

Q. Friends tell me that the best way to make money in the stock market is to plan ahead five years or so. That sounds great, but I can't believe that anyone gean figure out what will happen to a company and especially its stock five years in the future. Have you seen any evidence that anyone does this successfully?

A. You are hitting close to home when you ask me that question because I believe that is the best way to make investment decisions. At the National Association of Investors, that is exactly the time frame we recommend our members use in making their investment deci-

I can give you some evidence that the idea works. For more Sthan 34 years the Association's magazine has been selecting a stock each month which it names as its "stock to study." The objective is to select a stock which seems to have the potential to double in value in the coming five iyears. Those stocks are selected by the same guidelines NAIC suggests that all of its members use in judging the potential of any stock they consider for purchase. NAIC and every member of the committee which picks those stocks knows that not one of those stocks is likely to be worth exactly twice as much five years in the future. But it you take the average performance of the 12 stocks selected each year, the igoal is usually attained—if not in five years, during the next boom period in the market. In measuring this performance, we compare the prices of all 12 stocks when they were first suggested for study with their prices five years later, including dividends received in the intervening This year marked the 28th time that Better Investing reported on the performance of the 12 stocks selected five years earlier. In 12 of those periods the actual performance met or exceeded that goal. In each of the last four years selections have very substantially exceeded the doubling goal. In 19 of the 28 years the astocks selected have outperformed the Dow-Jones industrial averages for the same was the to be said and the period of time.

But as good as this record may seem, it's the averages that are important. The 12 stocks checked this year were selected in 1979. As a group the 12 are ahead by 146%. But of the 12, four are selling for less than they did in 1979. Of the eight others, two are selling three times their 1979 price. Some of them have sold at even higher prices in the intervening time. For instance five years ago this month Better Investing suggested H. B. Fuller Co. for study. It was then selling at 5%. It is selling for 14 as I write this, but it has sold as high as 20½ in the last

Yes, it is possible to pick stocks and reasonably guess what they, as a group, could do for you in the next five years.

Mr. O'Hara welcomes your Equestions and comments, but will answer only through this column. Readers who send in questions on a general investment subject or on a corporation with broad inevestors' interest, and whose questions are used, will receive a complimentary one year's subscription to the investment magazine Better Investing. We would be pleased to send an illustration of Better Investing magazine or information about investment clubs to any reader requesting it. Please send your request to: Today's Investor, P.O. SMALLY OWN HMO

Move over Detroit! Move over Flint! Washtenaw County has its own Health Maintenance Organization—the McAuley Health Plan.

Hundreds of local physicians have joined hands with area hospitals to create, a unique medical care program. Physicians you know and trust with established practices in our community. Hospitals like St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Mercywood Hospital, Chelsea Community Hospital, and Saline Community Hospital. People who know about health care ... and about our community.

McAuley Health Plan offers comprehensive benefits and an emphasis on preventive health services. Participating employers will soon offer the McAuley Health Plan as an alternative to other types of health insurance. They know that HMO's make sense for all of us.

And now we have our own.

Abortions

Jan. 22, 1985

'These children, over tenfold the number of Americans lost in all our Nation's wars, will never laugh, sing, never experience the joy of human love; nor will they strive to heal the sick, or feed the poor, or make peace among nations. Abortion has denied them the first and most basic of human rights, and we are infinitely poorer for their loss." Presidential proclamation of Jan. 22, 1984 as "National Sanctity of Human Life Day."

MIND POLLUTION

By Fred Coulter, evangelist

There are all kinds of pollution in this world, but the most damaging is mind pollution: filling the mind with filth. It is a tragedy that some of the most upstanding individuals of our land are engaged in purveying the filth of pornography in their places of business. Some of the grocery stores, convenience stores, and drug stores of this land are influencing the minds of people with magazines and books that deal with nudity and suggested sexual relations and deviant sexual behavior. One has to question the strength of the moral fiber in one who would make a profit from selling magazines which display nudity, suggested sexual relations, and almost without exception debase women into mere objects of lewdness.

What can we do to combat this evil? First, teach the word of God in all of its truth and power. Let people know of the spiritual consequences of this evil. Paul explicitly names sexual perversions as "works of the flesh" and says plainly, "they which do such things shall not inherit the kingdom of God" [Galatians 5:19-21].

In addition to our teaching the gospel which "is the power of God unto salvation" [Romans 1:16], we need to implement the decision of the Burger Supreme Court that local juries can decide what offends community standards. Christians need to stand up and be counted in cleaning up their communities. Let the businesses which sell magazines displaying nudity know that you are unhappy with their practice. These places exist because they serve the needs of their customers. Let them know you don't need filthy magazines. We can speak out against this evil from the pulpits of the land until the last preacher collapses from lack of breath, but until we move collectively to remove this blight upon our land it will continue to manifest its hideous head.

Christianity is not a passive religion, but an active, aggressive one. Paul says, "I have fought a good fight" [2 Timothy 4:7]. Paul's day of fighting has passed, BUT OURS HAS NOT PASSED!

Covenant Church Will Observe Anniversary

On Sunday, Jan. 20, at 10:30 a.m. Covenant church at 50 N. Freer Rd., will observe the fifth anniversary of its founding with special services followed by a fellowship pot-luck dinner. The Rev. Dr. Richard Schiemann, pastor of Trinity Reformed United Church of Christ, Pittsburgh, Pa., will preach the anniversary service. Dr. Schlemann is former professor of religion at Catawaba College, North Carolina.

Founded in January of 1980, Covenant church numbers some 120 baptized members who meet in remodeled facilities purchased from Douglas and Janet Stevens. known as the Pearson property. The congregation, although not affiliated with a denomination, is a continuing congregation of the Evangelical and Reformed, Congregational Christian heritage, tracing its roots to Lutheran, Calvinistic and Congregational ties. The Rev. Dr. R. J. Ratzlaff is the founding pastor of the Members and friends of Covenant church are invited to share in this day of celebration.

Members of the governing council of Covenant church are Larry Wiedmayer, president; John Hand, vice-president: Glenadine Maistre, financial secretary; Rebecca Reineck, secretary; Douglas Warren, treasurer; Betty Koch, council member, and the pastor.

Foster Homes Needed For Neglected Children

Reported cases of child abuse and neglect have increased dramatically in Washtenaw county over the past two years. This has resulted in a corresponding increase in the number of children who must be placed in out-of-home care. The Department of Social Services is in need of more family foster homes to provide care for these children and to work with the agency regarding their return home.

Children who come into care are all ages and come from all racial and ethnic groups. Especially needed are families who are willing to care for children ages 10-17, groups of brothers and sisters, emotionally impaired children, pregnant teens, sexually abused children, and black children of all ages.

Foster parents work with the Department as members of a team. They need to be able to provide love, security, and patient understanding for children who are suffering the traumatic effects of being separated from their families.

Foster parents arrange for the child's medical and dental care, work with schools, and plan recreational activities. They also provide transportation for visits with biological families and, when appropriate, work directly with the child's family in the interest of reuniting the child with his or her family.

Six orientation classes are offered to help prepare families for the foster care experience. The next series starts Jan. 23, from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. at the Department of Social Services, 2350 W. Stadium Blvd., Ann Arbor.

If you would like to attend or know more about the program, please call Pat Ruby at 994-1694.

PRE-GAME HANDSHAKE: Coaches Jim McCormack of Dexter, left, and Rahn Rosentreter of Chelsea, who like and respect each other, shake hands before last Friday's basketball game between their schools. To the credit of both, there was no bleating from the bench during an exceptionally tough, tense contest in which officiating calls were an important factor.

YOU DON'T KNOW ABOUT RELEASED TIME

BIBLE CLASSES? Well, let me tell you . . .

RBM Ministries, Inc., is a non-denominational organization teaching non-sectarian Released Time Bible Classes to the students enrolled in the elementary public schools.

Michigan law provides that pupils may be released during school hours to attend such activities. However, school officials are not permitted to release students for this purpose during school hours unless they have written permission from the parents.

There will be seven class sessions during the school year. Transportation is provided by RBM Ministries.

CHELSEA COMMUNITY - NORTH & SOUTH ELEMENTARIES

According to a Boston University scientist, there's mounting evidence that toxic waste dumps cause illness among people living nearby, reports the National Wildlife Federation. Dr. David Ozonoff found an increased incidence of nausea, fatigue, respiratory problems and headaches among residents living near a once highly toxic dump site two years after its chemical wastes had been removed.

If you think you stay cooped up all winter, put yourself in the claws of a pregnant polar bear. In late October or November, after eating heavily to form a solid layer of blubber, an expectant polar bear digs a den in a thick snowbank and crawls in, says International Wildlife magazine. Not until six months later, by early April, will she dig out with her

Great Lakes Salmon Show Little Contamination

Great Lakes salmon analyzed in October and November 1984 for polychlorinated biphenyl (PCB) are all below the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) action level of five parts per million (ppm) which was in effect prior to Aug. 23, according to Dr. Paul E. Kindinger, director, Michigan Department of Agriculture. In addition, DDT, dieldrin and chlordane levels are below current FDA action levels.

On Aug. 24, FDA lowered the PCB action level to two ppm. Of 56 salmon analyzed, only one was over the new action level. MDA's Laboratory Division analyzed samples of 20 coho, weighing from 31/2 to 10 pounds, and 36 chinook weighing nine to 23 pounds. The 20 coho were analyzed with skin on. The 36 chinook were all analyzed with skin off; however, 12 of them were also analyzed with skin on.

Previous testing has shown organic chemicals like PCB tend to accumulate in fatty deposits under the skin and along the belly and dorsal area of the fish. Samples of skinless fillets show dramaticaly reduced levels of PCB, DDT, dieldrin and chlordane. The 12 chinook samples were trimmed of all belly tissue and all dark meat along the lateral line.

Total pesticide and chemical residue in skinless fillets of chinook were cut approximately in half compared to those with skin on. The fish samples were collected and the harvesting weir operated by DNR.

Charged by law with protecting the purity and wholesomeness of the public food supply, MDA has monitored Great Lakes fish for various pollutants continuously since 1971, Kindinger said.

The FDA action levels are five ppm for DDT, two ppm for PCB, three-tenths of one ppm for dieldrin and chlordane.

Feb. 1 Is Deadline For Turkey Hunters that there are no areas

One of the earliest hints that spring lies somewhere ahead on the calendar is the DNR's annual announcement of the deadline for wild turkey hunting applications.

Forms are available from license dealers. They must be filled out and put in the mail with a postmark no later than Feb. 1. A deposit covering the cost of a turkey license must accompany the application.

For most hunters the amount is $7.25, which is in addition to the $7.25 cost of a small game hunting license.

Turkey licenses are issued on an area quota basis by specific season dates. Five-day hunts are scheduled in late April and early May. Hunters may apply for only one hunt in one season. A Cornelius John Crowley, III, 26, Michigan Turkey Hunting Guide available from all license agents tells all the details.

For most areas and dates, applications exceed license quotas, and drawings must be held. Successful applicants will be notified by March 15. Unsuccessfuls will get a refund through the mail. Local sportsmen should note county sheriff's department in charge of Station 4 at Whitoperations for all but the four easternmost townships—Salem, Superior, Ypsilanti and Augusta. Basically, his command covers everything west of Munger and Dixboro Rds., 16 townships in all. It includes all of what is commonly known as west Washtenaw bureau. county, the eight western ; townships.

If that gets to be confusing, it's because it is. As Sgt. Charles J. M. Anderson, who is a member of sheriff Ronald J. Schebil's staff at the department's headquarters on Hogback Rd. beexplained it:

"We are organized into three districts, east, central and western. The central and western districts have some overlap in their command structure.

"The central district consists of Webster, Northfield, Scio, Ann Arbor, Lodi, Pittsfield and York townships.

"The western district includes Lyndon, Dexter, Sylvan, Lima, Sharon. Freedom, Manchester and Bridgewater.

"Complicating the picture is that we provide police service under contract to the village of Dexter. Chelsea and Manchester both have their own village police departments."

Lt. Ptaszek's command includes both the western and central districts. He works out of Station 7, the so-called Scio station at 827 N. Zeeb Rd. His authority extends over Station 5, located in a corner of the Chelsea School District bus garage on Old US-12 west of Freer Rd., and Station 3

Sgt. Anderson supervises the four detectives who work in the west and central districts. His office is in Ann Arbor. He also heads the department's fire investigation bureau. Lt. Carl Rin-na, Ann Arbor, is chief of detectives, Sgt. Anderson's boss.

The uniformed and detective divisions are separate in that they have different chains of command. They come together at the top, in sheriff Schebil's office.

"The structure may seem more complicated than it really is," Sgt. Anderson said. "It functions well. The overlap of command responsibilities in the western and central districts makes the organization confusing to anyone who is not familiar with the system."

Icy Freeway Blamed In Semi-Truck Crash

A tractor-trailer hit ice on I-94. near the rest stop, just east of Baker Rd., Monday morning, Jan. 7, causing it to jackknife and slam into the ditch. Dexter firemen received a call on the mishap at 4:20 a.m.

The tremendous impact of the vehicle colliding with the ditch resulted in a fracture of the fifth wheel, causing the tractor to release the trailer at the scene, explained Jim Kennedy of Dexter Welding Shop. Kennedy said it was the first time he ever witnessed a fifth wheel splitting on impact.

Carrier Service Company's general manager, who arrived from Milwaukee, Wis., to assess the accident situation, confirmed he had never observed such a thing before, either.

The trailer carried 44,000 lbs. of fiberboard to be used by book binderies. The fiberboard was packaged in bundles, on pallets, and the bundles were snapped as the giant vehicle hit the ditch.

The trailer also was split on both sides, so that the fiberboard load had to be unloaded by hand, rebundled and transferred to another trailer. The work took two full days in the bitter cold weather, but by 8 p.m Tuesday, Jan. 8, Kennedy and his crew had completed the task of re-locating the fiberboard bundles in the second trailer, and had righted the battered trailer, pulling it in to the Dexter Welding Shop yard on Dexter-Chelsea Rd. The tractor was towed in shortly after the accident, Monday, Kennedy said.

Kennedy said late last week that Carrier Service Company's

Legislation Could Cut Health Care Costs

A legislative package, the final bill signed by Governor Blanchard last week, could eventually help bring down the health care costs of farmers, according to Robert E. Smith, senior legislative counsel for the Michigan Farm Bureau.

The measure allows the formation of Prudent Purchaser Agreements (PPAs), permitting groups to organize and bargain with a health care provider in exchange for agreeing to give its business only to that provider.

"As far as rural people and farmers are concerned, it will probably take two or three years before we find out how PPAs work with larger groups and then smaller groups throughout the state," Smith said.

'Educating Rita' Opens Thursday at True Grist Theatre.

With the "Main Stage" closed for the winter months, the True Grist Dinner Theatre, a nonprofit organization in Homer, is proud to announce the area premier of "Educating Rita," by Willy Russell, on the Warehouse-Cabaret stage.

This comedy, which has been highly acclaimed and made into an award winning film, makes its appearance on the Warehouse stage under the direction of Charles Burr. Burr, a True Grist regular, adds another to a long list of plays directed.

In the roles of Rita and Frank are Laura M. Brown and Bobb James, respectively.

Brown, quickly becoming a familiar face at the Grist, will portray the 26-year-old hairdresser who is hungry to find some meaning to life, and to "know everything."

James, also a familiar face on the True Grist stage, remembered most recently as Gershwin George "Fascinating Rhythm," is cast as the aging tutor, Frank, whose "disillusioned outlook on life" drives him to seek refuge in the bottles of whisky he hides on his bookshelves.

With Frank as her tutor, Rita embarks on Open University courses and her education process begins. The effects are both amusing and serious as her fresh, intuitive approach becomes clouded and strifled. As Rita grapples with the problems of a formal education geared to the passing of exams, she breathes energy back into Frank, and renews his spirit.

Sometimes a humpback whale may carry over 1,000 pounds of passengers, says National Wildlife's Ranger Rick magazine. The commuters are thousands of tiny animals, like shelled acorn barnacles, gooseneck barnacles and lice.

Every year from October to January about 3,500 bald eagles cluster on the banks of Alaska's Chilkat River for a salmon feast, says National Wildlife magazine. The eagles fly from as far away as Washington state to join the dinner party that is not held anywhere else in the world.
