Snow Accumulates While Temperatures Gradually Rise

A little bit of snow fell every day during the past week, and it piled up to the point that about eight inches accumulated on the ground.

The good news was that temperatures moderated considerably from the previous week's below-zero readings, dipping into single above-zero digits only once.

Roads and streets were virtually clear of snow and ice yesterday for the first time in more than two weeks, a welcome relief to motorists who have had to battle bad driving conditions every day since mid-January.

There wasn't a really bad snowstorm during the week, nor a savagely cold day. It was pretty typical January weather in southeastern Michigan—chilly, snowy and cloudy. The sun shone for a few hours on Monday afternoon, a welcome sight.

Gas Prices Here Go Down To Match Nation-Wide Trend

In line with a nation-wide trend, gasoline prices in the Chelsea and Dexter areas are dropping. They have been falling by a half-cent to one cent per week during the past six weeks or so.

As of last Tuesday, the lowest posted price for self-serve regular gas in Chelsea was $1.079. Lowest price for unleaded was $1.149. The two prices were at different stations.

In Dexter, prices ranged 2-3 cents a gallon lower, closely comparable to those being charged in Ann Arbor.

In general, the farther west you go from Ann Arbor, the higher the price of gasoline, until you approach Jackson where it begins to drop back toward the Ann Arbor level. Chelsea is at the midpoint, but the price differential has narrowed from a 6-8 cent gap a couple of years ago to 3-4 cents currently.

Ann Arbor and Jackson, in turn, are several cents higher than Detroit, where regular is being sold at under $1 per gallon at some stations and unleaded a nickel or so higher.

It's a confusing pattern because individual stations compete in different ways for a share of the market.

Some stations maintain a 6-cent difference between regular and unleaded. Some keep the gap at 7-8 cents.

Further complicating the price picture is that many so-called

"name brand" stations (Amoco, Shell and Mobil, among others) are offering substantial discounts for payment in cash rather than by credit card.

Beach School Hosting Final Regional Meet

Beach school's 25-member Academic Games team will host the final regional competition of the year on Saturday, Feb. 2. Ten schools from Ann Arbor and Detroit will bring almost 200 students to Beach for three hours of stiff competition.

The current standings in Region A after five months of competition are: first place, Detroit's Nolan Middle school; second place, Ann Arbor's Clague Middle school; third place, Chelsea's Beach school.

The State Tournament among 75 schools and over 1,500 students will be held March 7-11 at Eastern Michigan University.

Competition is between five-member teams so Beach school will have five teams competing.

Last year's teams won six state trophies and nine individual ones, so the teams hope to do as well this year with the future prospect of sending a team or two to the National Tournament in Georgia in May.

such stations show the credit-card cost. By paying cash, you can save four cents or more per gallon off the advertised price.

Most so-called "independent" stations do not accept credit cards (or checks), and their listed prices are for cash only. The name-brand stations sometimes are selling for less if you have the money in your pocket. It pays to shop around.

Not all stations handle so-called "premium" unleaded, which has a two-point higher octane rating than normal unleaded, and few anymore offer leaded premium, which is required by a relatively few older big cars still on the road.

At many stations the price of gasoline has fallen below that for automobile (not truck) diesel fuel, which is in limited demand because diesel engines have not proven widely popular among car buyers although heralded as the wave of the future a few years ago.

Full-serve gasoline is also dropping in price, but remains 15-25 cents a gallon higher than self-serve, depending on where you buy it. Full service gets the gas pumped for you, and under-the-hood check and a windshield cleaning. It surged in popularity during the recent bitter weather when "pumping your own" was mighty cold work.

The drop in gas prices is attributed to several factors in-

Budget Surplus for PropertyTax Relief: Blanchard

Governor James Blanchard has made a proposal to provide "bonus" property tax relief checks by using most of the projected budget surplus—estimated at $70 million in his soon to be announced 1985-86 budget.

The proposal, however, drew immediate criticism from Republicans who called it inadequate and maintained their demand for an early cut of the income tax rate.

Blanchard responded saying he sees no reason to advance the scheduled return of the income tax rate to 4.6 percent and said he does not expect to get in a situation where he would have to consider vetoing that tax cut.

The $65 million proposed by the Governor in 1985-86 would add 10 percent to the property tax credit, which beginning this year will be mailed in a separate check along with income tax refunds.

The $644 million property tax credit program gives taxpayers an average credit of $400, meaning the average bonus would be $40.

Providing the additional credit would require legislative discipline to keep the 1985-86 budget at his proposed level and an improved economy would permit an even larger credit than is now proposed, Blanchard announced.

While the structure of the program limits the bonus to just one year, the Governor said, "that is not to say this is the end of the story. We would like to do more but we can only go one step at a time."

He said he wished he had thought of improving property tax credits last year when he instead offered to speed up the income tax cut.

Blanchard said he likes the targeted approach of the property tax credit to middle and lower persons.

Blanchard said he proposed the added property tax credits because that is the most unfair and most burdensome tax.

"This is the one Michigan tax that is way out of line," he said.

Arguing against further tampering with the 5.35 percent income tax rate, the Governor noted .25 percent will drop off at the end of the calendar year as accumulated debt is repaid and the rate is scheduled to drop to 4.6 percent Sept. 30, 1987.

Senate Majority Leader John Engler of Mt. Pleasant said advancing the 4.6 percent rate to a Jan. 1, 1986 date would cut taxes by about $1 billion compared to letting the rollback occur as scheduled.

He said he thinks the Governor's proposal is mostly for public relations and may indicate a softened position on an early income tax cut.

House Minority Leader Michael Busch of Saginaw said the four legislative leaders need to get together to work on tax relief and find out if the Governor's proposal is his opening or final position.

He said he prefers an income tax rollback because it would provide relief to all taxpayers.

State Treasurer Robert Bowman noted about half of the households in the state are eligible for the property tax credit program, which is based on the amount of property taxes in excess of 3.5 percent of household income. Last year, about 1.5 million households claimed the credit.

Senate Minority Leader William Faust of Westland praised the proposal as both a good political move and good for government. "The big political fight over the next six months will be Republican spending proposals at the same time as trying to cut taxes," Faust said.

He said Republicans cannot continue to argue for additional funds for education, waste disposal and business programs and demand tax cuts at the same time without returning the state to the deficit problems it incurred in the 1970's.

He dismissed criticism that the property tax credit bonus was inadequate, saying it would be whatever the surplus is.

"Politically, it is a beautiful program because we're dedicating the surplus to cutting property taxes," adding it would be well received by the public, which according to polls still views the property tax as the most inequitable tax.

Dana 'Bomb Threat' Proves To Be Hoax

The Dana Corp. plant was evacuated last Wednesday night following a telephoned bomb threat which proved to be a hoax. "A security guard at the plant received a call at about 7:15 p.m.," police chief Lenard McDougall said. "The guard notified his foreman, and the foreman called us."

"We went to the plant, searched it, and found nothing. The evacuation was ordered as a standard safety precaution. It lasted about an hour and a half while we made our search."

Asked if the village police department includes a bomb disposal expert in its ranks, McDougall said no. "Had we found anything at all suspicious, we would have gotten out and called for help."

"I don't want to make too much of this incident because it was obviously a prank," McDougall added, "and I don't want other people to get ideas of pulling similar foolish stunts. Believe me, it's serious when you go into a building with the knowledge that there just might be a bomb and that it could go off somewhere near you."

"We've had bomb scares in town before, and they have all turned out like this one. I don't want a real one ever to happen."

FUNERAL HOME

WHY HAVE I BEEN GETTING SO MUCH UNORDERED, UNWANTED MAIL?

After a funeral it is not uncommon for unscrupulous persons to attempt fleecing you and thus adding money to their own pockets. These dishonest, cold-hearted individuals may send unauthorized, unwanted collect packages or fraudulent bills through the mail.

The people attempting these hoaxes will try to indicate that these items had been ordered before the death occurred. Remember: collect packages do not have to be accepted; payment need not be made for items sent or billed without authorization. Statements and invoices should be checked carefully to be sure they are authentic.

If any questions arise, contact your attorney, the Better Business Bureau of the post office.

We just might be helpful in alerting you to other schemes we've heard of and which may be tried. Feel free to stop by or call us.

Weather Eases Up . . .

January of 1985 will go into the books as one of the worst-weather months in history in terms of low temperatures. It followed an unusually mild December which was an extension of autumn.

Long-range forecasts for February are for more-or-less average winter weather, which means more snow and cold during what is fortunately a short month (28 days).

Spring will arrive officially on March 21, the vernal equinox. On that day there will be equal hours of daylight and darkness as defined by sunrise and sunset. At the end of January, winter is about two-thirds finished according to the calendar.

Hours of daylight are getting longer at the rate of about two minutes per day since Dec. 21, the winter equinox marking the fewest hours of daylight during the year. Persons working a standard 8-5 day are beginning to see the light at each end as they drive to and from their jobs.

The lack of sunshine is normal. Southern Michigan is one of the few places in the world where there are typically fewer than 100 days of full, continuous sun in a year. Blame the Great Lakes for that. The lakes tend to moderate temperatures, but they also create clouds.

Modern Mothers Enjoy Program On Stained Glass

Stained glass was the topic of the Modern Mothers Jan. 22 meeting held at the home of Denise Long. Guest speaker Fred Mills explained and showed samples of the various types and colors of glass. Examples and pictures of crafts and windows he has done were also displayed. To demonstrate the technique and equipment used in his hobby, Mills made a glass angel.

A drawing for four stained glass angels donated by Mills was held. Winners were Judy Wahl, Debbie Arend, Liseli Bowers and Judy Steger.

Seventeen members and guest Terri Cole attended. Judy Wahl and Pat Whitesall were co-hostesses.

Modern Mothers next meeting will be a progressive Valentine dinner on Feb. 12.

Historic Society Women in Quilt Making Project

A number of members from the Chelsea Historical Society are lending time and sewing skills to a quilt-making project designed by the group to raise funds during Sidewalk Days this year.

The group of women have completed blocks in the Sky Rocket pattern and are working at hand-sewing them together. Still under discussion is the possibility of adding two narrow borders to the rust-colored quilt, expanding it to queen size.

Although experienced seamstresses, for most of the women this will be a first effort at quilt-making. One of the more experienced members commented that all had done "pretty well" on the challenging sharp points involved in the pattern.

Popular vote has carried for the more difficult and involved job of quilting the top rather than tying it, due to the prettier results expected. The group has not definitely committed itself to the enormous job of quilting, however, and continues to consider hiring the job out, although no arrangements have been made as yet.

ABWA Members Hear Address on Dealing With Stress

Nineteen members and one guest enjoyed a dinner meeting at Chelsea Community Hospital for their January meeting.

Guest speaker was Maggie Szymke, assistant director of medical surgical clinic. Coping with stress differs with each individual. She indicated that changes in the body leads to many physically debilitating reactions that are caused by stress. You can't avoid stress—it is always there. Pinpointing the cause of stress and learning to cope with it leads you to find ways to live with it. She listed many symptoms which are related to stress. These symptoms vary with each individual. Many times a person goes to the physician with symptoms which might be caused by stress. Physicians are now looking at the whole person to determine if the symptoms of the distress experienced by him or her might be due to stress.

If you regulate your environment you will be less stressful. How you think about stress is a whole area for study. Attitude of the mind has a great deal to do with how you handle an illness that might cause stress.

Avocation speaker was Grace McCalla, Society of Manufacturing Engineers marketing administrator. She is involved in helping to prepare brochures in the writing and art department and generating lists for mailings. Her earlier career as an English teacher is finding new avenues in her new career. She admits that she was a little apprehensive to take a job in the engineering field, but says her new career is exciting and challenging.

Showing of Inaugural Gowns Raises $6,000 For WCC Scholarships

More than $6,000 of scholarship money was generated by "First Ladies on Parade," a two-day benefit showing of exact replicas of the First Ladies' inaugural gowns at Washtenaw Community College, announces Gunder A. Myran, College president. This amount will provide the equivalent of one semester's tuition for 17 needy students, he comments.

More than 800 people attended "First Ladies on Parade" Jan. 12 and 13, according to staff of the Office of College Advancement, which organized the event. A capacity crowd saw the Saturday show, which featured live modeling by community women, music, narration, and a reception provided by the College's Food and Hospitality programs. The following day's display of the gowns on dress mannequins brought more than 400 people to the campus. Ben Koerber, president of the WCC Foundation, which oversees all private fundraising at the College, commented: "It's the first Foundation project—we're really pleased with this enthusiastic response from the community."

CHS Guidance Dept. Helps In Making Career Choice

At the beginning of each school year, high school juniors in Chelsea receive a handbook from the Guidance Department designed to aid parents and students with the career planning process.

Contents of the handbook are briefly explained and parents are requested to arrange an appointment with an assigned guidance counselor to discuss their child's academic and career plans. Advice is given regarding steps to complete the goal.

One very helpful inclusion in the handbook is a month-by-month calendar scheduling high school credit completion, financial aid and college application deadlines, college entry exams, job resumes and interviews.

An introduction to the handbook explains that careful planning can help students avoid spending miserable years in poorly selected careers. Individuals are encouraged to assess their own strengths, and weaknesses, establish long-term goals, and discipline themselves accordingly for success. Gathering information is stressed to be the key step in any decision-making process.

To ease some of the pressure that students may feel, when asked to make such long-range and life shaping goals, the Guidance Department offers additional help. A "job-shadowing" program has been organized with co-operation from community members and the Ann Arbor Rotary Club. After a student has narrowed career possibilities down by deciding his interests and capabilities, and expresses an interest in a specific job, arrangements are made, through the program, for the student to spend time working to find out if it is, after all, a vocation fitting his interests and abilities.

If a final career decision remains too difficult, students are encouraged to take heart. Susan Carter, guidance counselor, explained that of the high school graduates who enter college, and approximately 70% of Chelsea's will, 80% of those change their major before graduation.

$7 Million Renovation Planned at Detroit Zoo

Bids on a major renovation project at the Detroit Zoo in Royal Oak, estimated to cost $7 million, will be taken this fall, State Transportation Director James P. Pitz reports.

Pitz said the project was approved by the Detroit Zoo Commission last week, and now only requires approval by the Federal Highway Administration (FHWA), which is expected soon.

The work is being done in connection with the construction of I-496 (Walter Reuther) Freeway near the zoo.

The project also includes a 600-car, two-level parking deck to be used by both zoo patrons and Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority (SEMTA) riders. It includes a bus drop-off point on Woodward Ave. and a ground-level commuter parking area.

"This project is much more than a facelift," Pitz said. "The classic architecture and bright new entrance will give a real boost to the zoo's image."

"At the same time, the new parking facilities to be built will serve a dual use, providing needed space for peak week-end zoo traffic and convenient commuter parking during the week."

The project was prompted by construction of the final eight-mile link of I-496 Freeway through south Oakland county. Approximately one acre of zoo property and 11 acres of the adjacent Rackham Golf course are being taken for the new freeway.

In exchange, MDOT is giving the zoo nearly four acres of property east of the zoo, building noise barrier walls, the parking deck and the new zoo entrance. Five holes at the golf course are being reconstructed.

Design on the project is being done by Smith, Hinchman & Grylls Associates of Detroit.

Federal funds will pay 90 percent of the cost, and state and local funds the remainder. It will be scheduled for completion in 1985.

President Asked To Speed Up Farm Loan Processing

Robert Delano, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, has asked President Reagan to direct the Farmers Home Administration to speed up processing of farmer loan applications. The farm leader said more than 40,000 applications await consideration under the administration's debt restructuring program introduced last fall.

Delano also asked the president to modify his debt restructuring program by providing federal guarantees to commercial lenders that agree to write down interest rates of farm loans. Guarantees are now available if lenders write off 10% of the face value of a loan. So far, commercial lenders have been reluctant to write off principal, Delano said.

A VIEW from the CLOCK TOWER

Bill Mullendore

By the time this is published, Michigan may have a new law "mandating" that motorists wear seat belts. Advocates of the measure were confident they had enough votes in both houses of the Legislature to get it passed, and Gov. Blanchard had stated publicly that he will sign the bill into law when and if it reaches his desk.

The word "mandating" is deliberately enclosed in quotation marks because, as a matter of fact, the bill moving through the Legislature would do no such thing. It will be, at best, a watered-down permissive "law" which will tie the hands of the police agencies charged to enforce it.

In this column last week, I wrote that, "On balance, I think a law mandating buckling up is probably a good idea, and I support it..." and nothing has happened since to change my mind. I added that I have some arguments with the bill being moved through the Legislature, and will now get into those.

What those arguments boil down to is this:

If you are going to pass a law, for heaven's sake pass one that means something. The namby-pamby measure going through the legislative mill won't mean much of anything if enacted in its present form. So many "escape clauses" have been attached to it that enactment won't make a great deal of difference.

It's kind of a classic example of the way that a good idea can get badly mangled in the workings of the political process. The politicians will undoubtedly claim that they have "done something" and take credit for the "accomplishment." Actually, they won't have done much of anything at all.

The proposed law says you must wear a seat belt (more accurately described as a seat harness) if driving or riding in the front seat of a motor vehicle, and must be belted if sitting in the back seat. So far, so good. That much is simple, clear and positive.

The bill goes on to make violating the law a so-called "secondary offense." What that means, in plain language, is that you can't be cited for not wearing a harness unless you have already been arrested for something else.

A truly mandatory harness law would be easy to enforce. All a policeman (or anybody else) would have to do is keep his or her eyes open. The over-the-shoulder strap is visible through the side windows of any vehicle that I know to be running on the road legally, and it can be seen from a considerable distance. It's either in place or it's not.

What the proposed Michigan measure says is that a cop who observes a violation of the harness law can't pull you over unless he can find some other reason to do it. That opens up a whole lot of interesting possibilities, none of them attractive. Policemen have been known to abuse their authority.

The proposed fines—$10 to $25—aren't enough to deter anybody intent on violating a law requiring that harnesses be worn. The maximum fine amounts to about the cost of a tank of gasoline for a full-sized vehicle. It's an invitation to take a chance.

I can't get excited about the claim that a mandatory harness law would constitute some kind of an "invasion of privacy." Let's face it, those of us who own and drive motor vehicles have already had our "privacy" not only invaded but largely taken away.

We are required to obtain a legal title to our cars, vans and trucks, to register and insure them, pay annual taxes on them, and qualify for a license to drive them. Any "right of privacy" has long since been stripped by laws which have been upheld in the courts.

We are confronted by a myriad of regulations which we are supposed to obey in return for the privilege of driving. The Michigan traffic code is a thick book. An addition mandating harnesses won't make much difference in terms of so-called privacy invasion.

Maybe it was necessary to dilute the harness bill in order to get it through the Legislature, but what seems to be emerging is a "nothing" law. It will add to the concerns of both police and motorists, and achieve nothing important.

To repeat: If you are going to pass a law, for heaven's sake pass one that means something.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

In several recent editions of The Chelsea Standard there has been some question about the effectiveness of seat belts and the position of the Sheriff's Department on this issue. As sheriff of Washtenaw county I feel that it is important for me to clarify both of these questions.

First, the use of seat belts is one of the most effective things a vehicle occupant can do to decrease the chance of injury or death on the highway. A restrained occupant has a 25 times greater chance of surviving a serious traffic accident than an unrestrained occupant. In countries that have enacted mandatory seat belt laws, the reduction in fatalities has ranged from 12% in Switzerland to 45% in Sweden (the actual percentage apparently being related to the relative level of enforcement).

Secondly, the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department encourages all motor vehicle occupants to use seat belts and vigorously supports the proposed seat belt law currently before the legislature. Seat belt usage limits occupant impact against objects within the vehicle (steering wheel, windshield, other occupants) and also prevents the occupants being ejected from the passenger compartment, which is designed to provide protection.

Many of the fears concerning occupant restraints can be eliminated by a clearer understanding of the risks involved. The fear of vehicle fire, or submersion for example is unwarranted since less than one half of one percent of all accidents involve these factors. Additionally, if an unrestrained occupant strikes the steering wheel and windshield at 55 miles per hour, they may be unconscious or injured to the degree that they cannot help themselves in one of these unlikely situations.

I take pride in the Sheriff's Department efforts to increase traffic safety in Washtenaw county. In addition to strict enforcement of the drunk driving laws (about 50% of all fatalities are alcohol related), the department has received national recognition for its innovative Drunk Driving Prevention Program, instituted in 1983. Since then, deputies have talked to 15,000 throughout the county in an attempt to raise public awareness of the drunk driving problem and prevent drunk driving before it happens.

I am very concerned about the increase in traffic fatalities in Washtenaw county and I am personally committed to reducing them. Seat belt usage is an important part of creating safer roadways. The department supports the use of seat belts and is available to anyone who has questions or concerns about this issue or any other traffic related problem. Please contact myself or the Traffic Services Section (971-8400, extension 588) if we can be of any assistance.

Ronald J. Schebil
Washtenaw County Sheriff.

To the Editor,

The economy has improved because of federal policies not because of anything the state has done. Interest rates are down, inflation is down to four percent, and the Gross National Product is up to 6.8%.

The Governor spoke again of a zero increase in the budget, and implies that the budget has not increased since his term began, but the total budget for the past two years has increased from $10,650,283,354 (FY 83) to $12,363,305,821 (FY 85). There have been few attempts to cut spending by the Legislature nor by the Governor.

The one shot $65 million property tax relief plan proposed by the Governor will give a small rebate to a few people.

Why not give everyone tax relief by rolling back the income tax rate to 4.8?

Margaret O'Connor
52nd District Representative.

Dear Editor,

The Humane Society of Huron Valley wishes to thank Nancy Cooper for her heartbreaking and informative letter about abandoned animals that appeared Jan. 18, in this paper.

The sad fact is, domesticated pets—namely dogs and cats, cannot survive on their own. Over the centuries, through the process of domestication, man has tampered with their development to the point that they are dependent upon us for protection, nutrition, and companionship. Dogs, cats, and their young that are turned loose or abandoned are rarely taken in by someone able to provide them with a permanent and caring home. Most die of disease, starvation, or exposure. How sad that anyone could subject an animal to such an end.

People who abandon animals are either ignorant, uncaring, or truly believe that they are doing the right thing. Hopefully this information as well as Nancy Cooper's description of her experiences will educate these people as to the cruel nature of abandonment.

There is an alternative. The Humane Society of Huron Valley makes itself available free of charge to anyone who can no longer keep their pet. The shelter is open from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m., seven days a week to accept stray or unwanted animals. These pets receive shelter, food, water, medical care, affection, and as Nancy put it "the animal then has a chance of finding a home and if not a home, a humane death. Starvation is not a humane death."

But what if you, like Nancy, live in an area where pets are frequently dumped? There are a number of things you can do to help that animal:

1. Confine the pet in a protected area for safety and warmth.
2. Provide water and food if possible (milk seems to be a popular choice but should be avoided as it can cause diarrhea).
3. Bring the animal to the Humane Society as soon as possible. If transportation is a problem, your local police department can refer you to the appropriate animal control agency that will pick up stray dogs and take them to the shelter.
4. If you wish to adopt the animal or find a new home for it, call the Humane Society first and leave a description. Surprisingly, many pets that are assumed to be abandoned are in fact lost!

5. There are a few things to keep in mind while searching for the right home: A good home is one in which the animal is treated as a member of the family, where it is given plenty of love, vet care, proper nourishment, and responsible supervision. A good home will also see that the pet is spayed and neutered. The individual animal will be healthier, happier and will not be adding to the surplus of companion animals. It is this surplus that results in all forms of animal abuse, just one of which is abandonment.

In closing, those of us who work with homeless pets are very grateful and encouraged by the efforts of Nancy Cooper, The Chelsea Standard, and others like them. The animals could not be saved without you!

Leslie Coates

'Cinderella' Cast Has Wide Variety of Talents

The staff of the Chelsea High school musical, "Cinderella," had a barrage of qualifications and an assortment of talents. Feb. 21, 22, and 23 brings to the stage a labor of patience and dedication. The skills of these people brings together a 55-member cast, community businesses, and the people in our town to create some more Rodgers and Hammerstein "magic."

Doug Beaumont is making his directing debut in "Cinderella," although he has been active both on and off stage for both the Chelsea High school and Chelsea Area Players' productions. Doug taught Children's Theatre Workshop for over five years, and since age 13 has participated in over 35 musicals and plays, including leading roles in "Anything Goes" and "South Pacific."

Marcia Warren has been active in theatre for the past 10 years, acting in several musicals, the most recent of which was CAP production, "Kiss Me Kate." "Cinderella" is her first experience with the directing end of a play or musical. Marcia recently returned from Germany and is currently studying International Business at the University of Michigan. Although her career will require extensive travel, Marcia's interests in theatre will always be a part of her life.

June Warren is the musical director for "Cinderella," an experience which is a familiar one for her. June was the musical director for "The King and I," "Sweet Charity," "South Pacific," "Kiss Me Kate," and last year's musical, "Pippin." June has participated in Chelsea Area Players for over 10 years, and has been rehearsal pianist for many productions. She is the high school vocal music instructor, and is also the director of music at the Chelsea United Methodist church.

Mary Colie, choreographer, has studied ballet for over 16 years. She trained at the Ballenbeck School for the Dance in Albany, N. Y., and organizationally recognized for instruction in children's dance. Mary has performed in several productions, including "The King and I," "Gypsy," "Coppella," and a Commedia Dell'arte performance of "The Great Magician." In addition, Mary choreographed Jean Paul Sarte's adaptation of "The Trojan Woman," in association with Albany High school. Mary substitute teaches in the area and lives in Chelsea.

Bart Bauer is technical director and designer, and he has worked on over 100 shows with several groups, including the Chelsea Area Players, Jackson Community College, Ann Arbor Civic Theatre, Eastern Michigan University, the True Grist Theatre, and the Rosier Players. Bart has an associates degree in fine arts from the Michigan School of Arts at Jackson.

Andy Neilson, orchestra director, attended Tecumseh High school and is a recent graduate of Eastern Michigan University. Andy student taught at Chelsea last semester, and in 1982 was the musical director for the Ann Arbor Recreation's "Puss in Boots," and original script and score by Tom Simonds. Andy is currently seeking employment in the area, and lives with his wife, Mary in town.

Jill Flintoff, pianist, studied piano and choral music at the University of Michigan, receiving her bachelor degree in choral music education. Jill is a veteran of the Chelsea stage and pit orchestra, having participated in several musicals, including "Bye, Bye, Birdie," "The Sound of Music," "South Pacific," and "Pippin."

Heather Grenier, student director, has stage managed high school productions "Pippin," and "Our Town," as well as the Chelsea Area Players' "Annie." Heather will co-direct next year's stage and drama class show with Chris Herter. Heather was on stage for "Kiss Me Kate" and "Annie," and also directed skits for SEVA in 1982. She is a junior at CHS.

Margaret Lewis is currently studying arts management at Eastern Michigan University, where she is the publicist for the theatre department. She studied at Albion College in 1983 as a communications and theatre arts major. Margaret has participated in many musical and plays, CHS's "West Side Story," "Wizard of Oz," "Me and Juliet," and CAP's "My Fair Lady," "Annie," and the Black Sheep Theatre's "I Ought to Be in Pictures."

"Cinderella" will be performed on Feb. 21, 22 and 23 at 8 p.m. in the CHS auditorium. Tickets will be available at the Chelsea Pharmacy the first week in February.

school and completed plans for the sale of bonds to finance the purchase of a permanent site for the fair. The sale of bonds was to begin immediately, the bond issue amounting to $10,000.

At the Chelsea Agricultural Schools Board of Education meeting the bid of Palmer Motor Sales was accepted for the purchase of a station wagon. The board had asked for bids when it was decided to purchase the vehicle to provide transportation in certain areas in the district where it was difficult for school buses to travel.

The Chelsea Fire Department was called out to assist Manchester fire fighters in an attempt to save part of a stock of approximately 10,000 bushels of onions when a storage house on Esch Rd., near Pleasant Lake, was destroyed by fire.

Acute intoxication with marijuana interferes with many aspects of mental functioning and has serious acute effects on perception and skilled performance such as driving and other complex tasks involving judgment. Of special concern are the long-term developmental effects in children and adolescents, who are particularly vulnerable to the behavioral and psychological effects of marijuana. This 'amotivational syndrome', characterized by a pattern of energy loss, diminished school performance, harmed parental relationships, and other behavioral disruptions, has been associated with prolonged marijuana use by young persons."

'Mame' Chosen as Players Summer Show

At the January board meeting of the Chelsea Area Players, the board chose the musical "Mame" to present for their summer production. Dates of the production are July 17, 18 and 19. Tryouts will take place in May, with rehearsals beginning in early June.

The Players are hoping to continue the success they had with last year's presentation of "Annie." In other business, the board approved the giving of a scholarship to a graduating High school senior who is involved in theater or dramatic arts. Hopefully, this will become a yearly award. The Players will accept donations made to the scholarship fund.

In other business, the Players approved the yearly budget, discussed the restructuring of the organization and began talking about next winter's production.

The next board meeting will be Feb. 14, at 7:30 p.m. at Citizens Trust meeting room.

Chris Sullivan Selected As Outstanding Farmer

Chris Sullivan of 5210 Mast Rd., Dexter, has been selected by the Michigan Jaycees as the state's Outstanding Young Farmer.

He was the Dexter Jaycee's nominee and competed against other candidates from around the state. He will represent Michigan on the national level.

Chris and his wife, Kathy, farm in partnership with his brother, John Sullivan, north of Dexter. Their enterprise includes 300 cattle of which they are currently milking about 130 head, 360 acres of alfalfa and 300 acres of corn and about 30 acres of oats.

The Sullivans have been farming since the late 1960's when Chris graduated from Dexter High school. Many new buildings and other additions have been made to the original homestead since. Up-to-date techniques and good conservation practices are used.

The Outstanding Young Farmer program was started in 1954 by the U. S. Jaycees to recognize farmers who have shown themselves to be innovative, resourceful and efficient. The program was also designed to educate non-farm people about the scope, importance, and resources needed on today's American farm.

Some 2,000 Jaycee chapters submit entrants, making it one of the U. S. Jaycees' largest programs.

The national winner will be selected in early February and receive his/her award at the National Outstanding Young Farmer Awards Congress to be held in Great Falls, Mont., Feb. 21-24.

In 1910 Blanche Stuart Scott made the first solo, transcontinental auto trip by a female driver. Enroute she witnessed an airplane flying demonstration and later that year, she became the first female to fly solo. She was 19 years of age at the time.

Partial Hospitalization Program Now Offered

Chelsea Community Hospital has initiated a Partial Hospitalization Program which provides comprehensive treatment for individuals who need more intensive treatment than can be provided on an outpatient basis but who do not require 24-hour hospitalization. Patients may attend the 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. program up to five days a week, depending upon the recommendation of the treatment "team" which includes a psychiatrist, social worker, psychiatric nurse, and recreational therapist.

According to Virginia Koster, program director, when the indications are favorable, an intensive treatment schedule may be combined with a supportive home life. She stresses that family consultation, before and during treatment, is an integral part of the program.

With the addition of this new program, Chelsea Community Hospital now provides a full range of psychiatric services which includes an inpatient program for adults and outpatient treatment for children, adolescents and adults. Frank Colligan, M.D., clinical director of the hospital's psychiatric service points out that Chelsea Community Hospital's comprehensive psychiatric services make it possible to offer alternative treatment approaches to most effectively meet the individual needs of patients.

Referrals to the Partial Hospitalization Program may be made by physicians, mental health professionals, community mental health agencies, families, or initiated by patients themselves.

More information is available by calling Chelsea Community Hospital, 475-1311 ext. 380.

The program is covered by Blue Cross, Medicare, Medicaid, and other private insurance plans.

Farm Bureau Opposes IRS Requirement For Vehicle Daily Log Books

Farmers across the state will be urging Michigan's U. S. senators Donald Riegle and Carl Levin to support bills that would exempt and/or repeal Internal Revenue Service record-keeping requirements for business use of vehicles.

As a result of a 1984 law passed by Congress, the IRS will require records for 1985 to prove business deductions such as business use of a car, pick-up truck, vans or home computers by maintaining detailed daily logs. Farm Bureau will testify in opposition to the IRS requirements at a hearing on Feb. 3.

Two bills have been introduced in the U. S. Senate, one exempting farmers from the record-keeping requirements and the other repealing the requirements for all vehicles.

DEXTER BOY SCOUTS HONOR PALMER: Presenting a special plaque to George Palmer, owner of Palmer Ford, Inc., Chelsea, were members of Dexter boy Scout Troop 477, Saturday, Jan. 26, in recognition of Palmer's assistance to the troop in donating a vehicle for use on two summer trips. Two years ago, he provided a vehicle to transport scouts on their Canadian canoe trip, and last summer, he repeated the gesture

Gemini To Appear in Manchester

The Gemini, twin brothers Sandor and Laszlo Slomovits, will give a children's folk music concert at the Manchester High school auditorium on Sunday, Feb. 10 at 2:00 p.m.

The Ann Arbor brothers sing and play original and traditional folk music from many different parts of the world on nearly a dozen instruments—including guitars, fiddle, pennywhistle, ocarina and several percussion instruments. They involve the children in their music, and their concerts are educational and highly entertaining.

Sandor and Laszlo make their home in Ann Arbor, but have brought their uncannily-matched voices, a stage full of instruments and a natural ease with children to hundreds of schools, libraries, coffeehouses and concert halls throughout the United States. They have released four albums—two of them highly acclaimed children's records.

Gemini's Manchester concert is co-sponsored by Manchester Co-operative Preschool and the Manchester Parent-Teacher Organization. Tickets will be sold at the door, or they may be purchased in advance at the Manchester High school or Middle school office, from home room teachers at Klager Elementary school, or from members of Manchester Co-operative Preschool.

In 1697 Hannah Dustin's home in Haverhill, Mass. was raided by a group of marauding Indians who murdered her infant child, and held her captive at their campsite. She managed to free herself and two other captives and led them to safety after killing 10 of the savages. Hannah became America's first publicly rewarded heroine, but the reward of 25 pounds was reportedly paid to her husband.

Oil, Gas Prices Falling

cluding a world-wide glut of crude oil, large stockpiles of refined gasoline and decreased driving which normally occurs during the winter months. Simply put, supply is currently considerably greater than demand, a situation that drives prices down. The price of regular gasoline has slipped under a dollar in many states, and unleaded is expected to follow. Michigan prices will remain relatively higher because the state gas tax is tied for the top among the 50 states.

Manchester Bur Oak Won't Be Cut Down

The big bur oak on Austin Rd. west of Manchester has been granted a reprieve.

Scheduled to be cut down because it sits within three feet of the road shoulder, the tree will instead be guarded by warning markers in both directions.

That decision was made by the Washtenaw County Road Commission on Jan. 22 in response to local pressure to save the tree at any cost.

Advocates of the tree claim it is more than 300 years old. That is doubtful, but there is no proof either way. Nobody was around 300 years ago to see it start to grow. Any attempt to drill into the heart of the tree to determine its age would have killed it, or will. There are some recent scars which suggest that some well-meaning people may have done just that.

After considering eight options, ranging from removing the tree to re-routing Austin Rd. around it, the three-member road commission opted to try a system of reflective markers in both directions, intended to warn that there is a hazard ahead.

Whatever its age, the tree is big and solid enough that any vehicle colliding with it would come to a sudden and probably severely damaging stop.

Assistant engineer Karl Kleitsch, head of a newly created road commission safety department, recommended that the marking system be tried, and the commission accepted his suggestion.

"I would like to try this marking system," Kleitsch said. "It could have some benefit, and we could learn something. There are many other situations like this, and we need to get a little experience."

Many large trees, including several in the Manchester area, are growing even closer to the road edges than the big bur oak. The new safety department will be required to study and make recommendations on all of them.

Swimmers Remain Unbeaten With Big Win Over Riverview

Chelsea's boy swimmers improved their season record to 7-0 and extended their two-year winning streak to 13 by beating Riverview, 117 to 51.

Winners for Chelsea were: Craig Miller in the medley relay and 100 backstroke; Mike Coffman in the medley relay and freestyle relay; Brent Bauer in the medley relay and 100 breaststroke; Don Skiff in the medley relay, 100 butterfly and 50 freestyle; Jeff Nemeth 200 individual medley; Mark Westhoven in diving; Mike Carignan in the 100 freestyle and freestyle relay. Dan Degener and Scott Pryor were also on the winning freestyle relay.

Chelsea won 9 of 11 events and so dominated the meet that their "B" relays finished ahead of Riverview's "A."

The "B" medley relay team was composed of Jeff Nemeth, Howard Merkel, Kevin Brock and Mike Carignan. The "B" freestyle relay was made up of Jeff Mason, Kevin Brock, Lloyd Brown and Brad Doan.

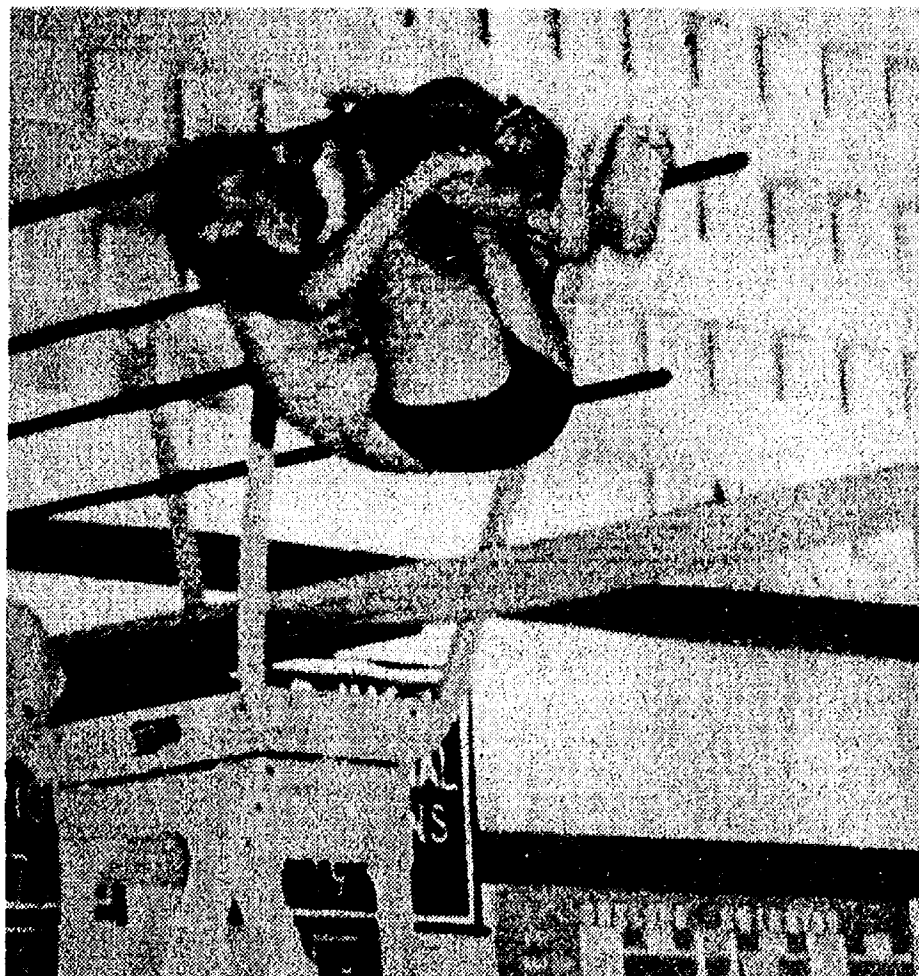

Chelsea was also 1, 2, 3 in diving and the butterfly. Completing the sweep in diving were Tyler Lewis and Eric Bell, while Jeff Nemeth and Mike Coffman finished second and third in the fly. Best times were turned in by Jeff Nemeth, Brent Bauer, Howard Merkel, Kevin Brock, Mike Coffman, Lloyd Brown, Mark Westhoven and John Platt.

The swimmers are preparing to meet Dexter tomorrow night and on Saturday will host the first of their three invitationals. Diving will be contested at 10 a.m. and swimming at 1 p.m.

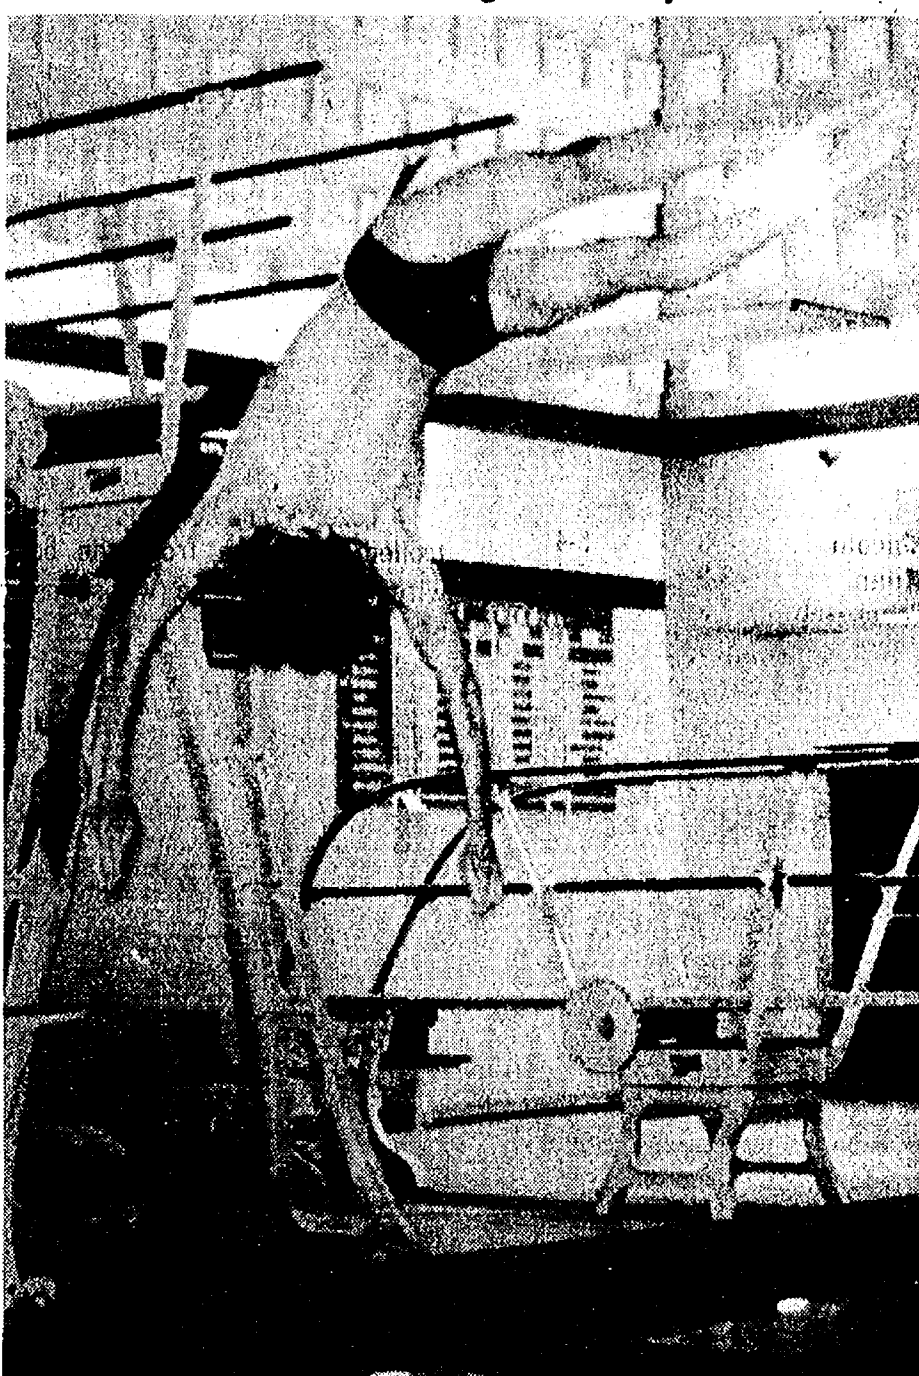

Ten CHS swimmers qualified to swim in last Saturday's Michigan Interscholastic Swimming Coaches Association's Championships. To qualify, a swimmer/diver had to have one of the top 24 performances in the state (regardless of class assignments) in their entered event.

The CHS medley relay composed of Craig Miller, Mike Coffman, Scott Pryor, and Mike Carignan finished 14th. Jeff Nemeth was seventh in the 200 free and 13th in the 500 free. Don Skiff was fifth in the 50 and third in the 100 free.

Brent Bauer was fifth in the butterfly and 13th in the 50 free. Tyler Lewis was 16th and Eric Bell was 20th in diving. Scott Pryor was 15th and Dan Degener 21st in the 500 free. Mike Coffman was 13th in the 100 breaststroke. Don Skiff, Brent Bauer, Scott Pryor and Jeff Nemeth combined to finish fifth in the 400 freestyle relay.

Eighth Grade Cagers End Season With Win

Chelsea's eighth grade basketball team ended its season on a high note with a come-from-behind 25-21 victory over Lincoln last week.

Down 15-9 after three periods, the Bulldogs rallied to score 16 points in the final quarter and earn the win, improving their final mark to 3-6 for the year.

"I was happy with the game," coach Jim Tallman said. "We've been stressing defense, and we played it well against Lincoln. We didn't score a lot of points, but we got enough to win. We stayed close enough to come back and earn the victory."

Junior Morseau led Chelsea with 14 points. Nobody else had more than three. Larry Nix and John Collins played especially well on defense, Tallman said.

"Naturally, I wish we could have had a better won-lost record," Tallman said, "but I'm not terribly disappointed. I think we accomplished what we set out to do. We gave all the boys a chance to play and learn from experience. We improved our

By Bill Mullendore
"It has been a super experience, and it has permanently affected my life. I'm dedicated now to a career in coaching, and I wasn't when I came here. My personal plans have changed. I'm going to be a coach."

That is how Ted Hendricks summed up his first year and a half of coaching basketball at Chelsea High School—last year in charge of the freshmen, this winter handling the junior varsity.

Hendricks at 21 is one of the youngest coaches in the state, not a whole lot older than the boys of 15 and 16 he is directing. "I've asked around, and I think there may be a freshman coach at Clinton who is younger than I am by a few months," Hendricks said.

"Being young doesn't bother me. I think it has helped me. I can relate to the kids. It wasn't long ago that I was their age, and I can remember what my concerns were back then."

Hendricks comes from a coaching background. His father, Doug Hendricks, has been in the business for 23 years, the last 14 of them in charge of the highly successful basketball program at Bridgman, a small town on the Lake Michigan shore south of Benton Harbor-St. Joseph.

Bridgman has been to the state quarter-finals twice under the elder Hendricks' coaching and year after year is listed in the state rankings.

Ted Hendricks played point guard at Bridgman under his dad's tutelage for three years, earning all-conference (Red Arrow) honors each season and achieving all-state mention twice.

"I'm very proud that I was credited with 523 assists (passes which lead directly to field goals) during my three years," Hendricks said. "I think that may still be some kind of a record, although I'm not sure. I wasn't a great scorer, and I learned to play the game unselfishly."

Hendricks also played four years of baseball and three years of golf in high school, and excelled in both sports.

From Bridgman, Hendricks enrolled at Alma college and saw a few minutes of playing time as a freshman, "not enough to really count," as he puts it.

"I guess you can honestly say

Out-of-State Snowmobile Operator Fee Discontinued

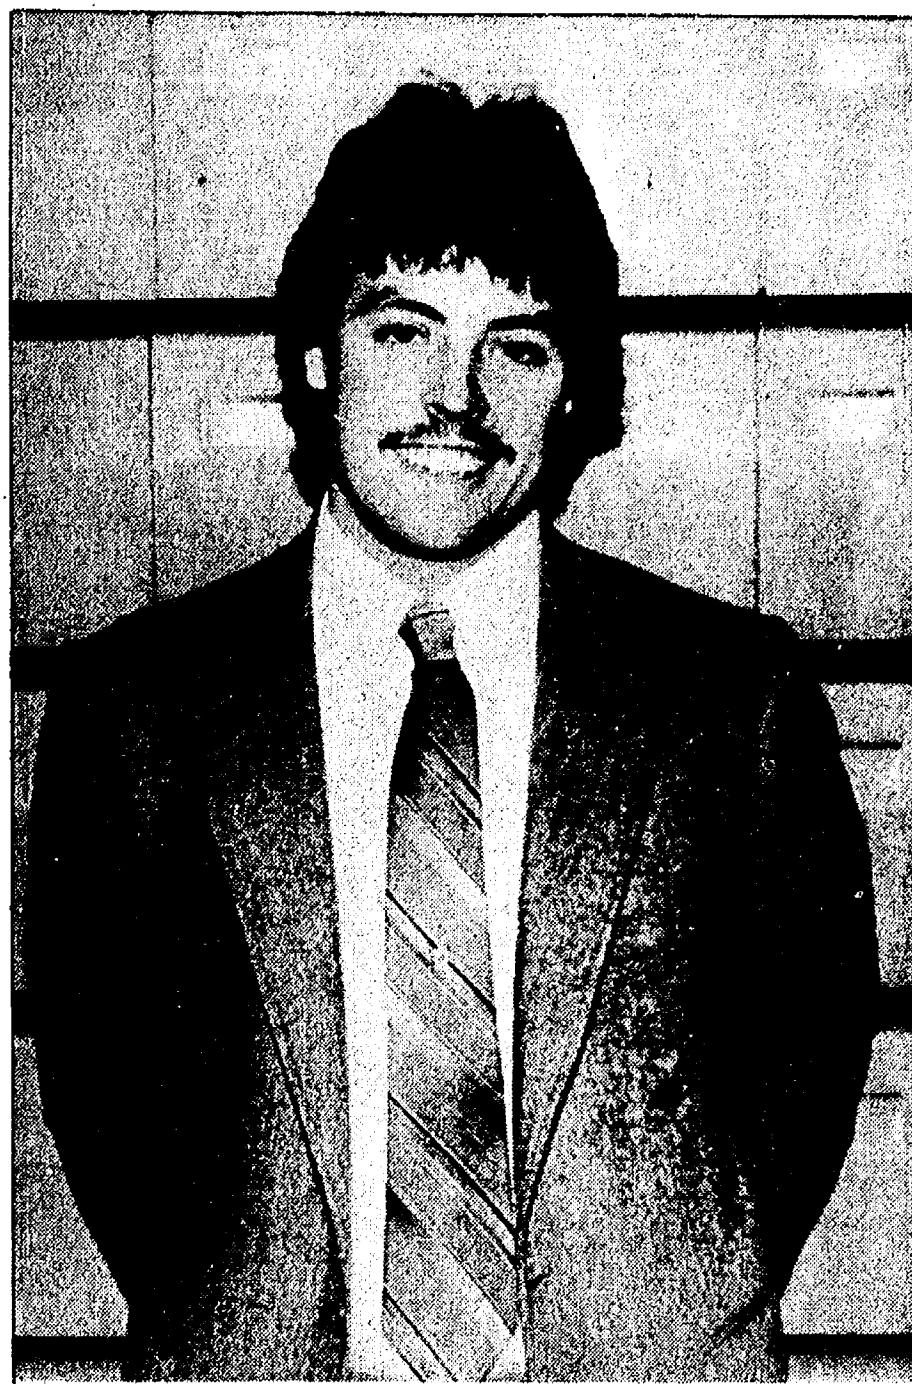

Secretary of State Richard Austin has announced that out-of-state snowmobilers will no longer be required to pay a $5 operating fee in Michigan.

Austin said a new law, effective Jan. 1, only requires that such snowmobilers be registered in their own state or Canadian province. Previously all out-of-state snowmobile operators had to purchase a $5 sticker for their vehicle.

Team Defense

"There are several boys on the squad who will develop into good high school basketball players. Junior Morseau obviously is one. He's strong and talented for his age, and he's a leader. The other boys looked to him for leadership, maybe too much."

"Several of the other boys will come along. At this (eighth grade) stage it's hard to predict who will do what, but I feel good about this group."

that I never played any college basketball," Hendricks added, and that is mighty unusual for a coach in the sport.

The reason Ted didn't go any further in basketball is that he met his future wife, Cheri, and got married after his first year at Alma.

"Cheri was a student at Eastern Michigan, and she was farther along in school than I was. We decided that I should transfer to EMU and live with her in Ypsilanti. We also decided that I would go to school and work, and not get involved in sports as a player. Aside from some softball umpiring, I didn't do anything in athletics until the opportunity to coach at Chelsea came along."

Ted had talked to his father about coaching, and the elder Hendricks tried to persuade him out of it. "When dad understood that I was serious about wanting to give it a try, he got behind me and has given me a lot of support and instruction."

In fact, Doug Hendricks was instrumental in getting his son his first coaching job.

"Dad found out last year that there was an opening for a freshman basketball coach at Chelsea and suggested that I apply for it," Ted recalls. "I did apply, and somewhat to my surprise, I got the job."

Hendricks tutored the Bulldog frosh to a 10-6 record last year, including an end-of-the-season six-game winning streak. That earned him a promotion to junior varsity coach and, as this was written, the JV's were flying high with a 7-2 record that would be 8-1 but for a last-second loss on a mid-court miracle shot.

"My experience here has been just plain super. I was lucky last year to get to coach an excellent group of freshmen, maybe not the most talented bunch in the world, but boys who were willing to listen, learn, work hard in practice and play hard in games. They accepted my philosophy that basketball is a team sport and that you win by working together and being unselfish."

"I have them all back this year as sophomores on the junior varsity. They're bigger, stronger and better, and they keep on working and improving. A beginning coach couldn't ask for a better way to start.

"This year I've had the privilege of serving as an assistant under (varsity coach) Rahn Rosentreter. Believe me, he is a fine coach. I respect him. He has taught me a lot already, and I learn something more from him every day."

"What makes it really great is that we are friends and work well together. That's important. Rahn is in charge, and I do my best to support him. So far, the results have been good."

Hendricks' immediate plans are to complete his EMU degree in business education in 1986, with a teaching certificate, and then look for a permanent position as a business teacher or basketball coach.

"I would like to return to Chelsea as a coach next season while I'm completing my senior year," he said, "and I will if they will let me come back." (That seems about as certain as anything in this world can be.)

"After graduation I'd like to get a job in the Chelsea school district. My wife and I love it out here. We think the community is great and would like to live in it."

"I realize there may not be an opening for a business teacher, but I sure hope there will be and that I can qualify for it. We'll move to Chelsea in a minute if we get the chance."

Meanwhile, Hendricks said, he has become "completely wrapped up" in coaching. "I didn't know for sure when I started, but now I do. I'm going to be a coach for the rest of my life."

Reminded that he has had a lot of coaching success so far and that there will be some inevitable lean years down the road, Hendricks said:

"Sure, I know that. You can't expect to win every game. To me, working with kids and being part of an upbeat, positive program are the two most important elements of coaching. Winning comes in third. It's important, but it's not everything."

"If you can develop and motivate your players to do their best, the victories will come. Attitude—a belief that you can win—contributes at least as much to winning as physical skills."

The suggestion from this reporter is that the Chelsea schools find or create an opening for a newly graduated business teacher-basketball coach named Ted Hendricks in the fall of 1986. He might be able to help out in baseball and golf, too.

WHERE'S THE BALL? Tim Anderson (44) and Greg Boughton went after a rebound, but it got away from both of them.

FRESHMAN CLAY HURD goes up for a shot against Jackson County Western, showing good position on the floor against defenders.

JOHN CATTELL drives toward the basket as Matt Monroe (32) comes in to help if needed.

OUT IN THE OPEN

By BILL MULLENDORE

This really should have been written last October, because the suggestions offered would have been of maximum usefulness back then. The recent extreme cold wave—the worst in local history since weather records have been kept—and forecasts of more of the same before this suddenly angry winter of 1984-85 ends prompt me to come on a little bit late.

This and the next column will be about keeping a motor vehicle going in cold weather. The subject strikes me as appropriate for "Out in the Open." A national survey conducted a few years ago showed that by far the most popular outdoor recreation activity is "driving for pleasure." It for out-ranks fishing, hunting, camping, skiing, hiking, snowmobiling and all other participant sports.

Beyond that, almost everybody has to drive to get to where he or she intends to do anything outdoors. Not many of us are lucky enough to have those opportunities available immediately beyond our back yards. We have to drive somewhere to do our thing.

We also have to drive to get back and forth to work, shop for food and other necessities, and socialize. Motor vehicles are essential to our lifestyles.

It follows that keeping your car running is important, whatever your interests may be. A breakdown or a failure is a nuisance at any time of the year, but especially so in cold weather, when it can be not only an inconvenience but downright dangerous.

The secret to worry-free motoring can be summed up in two words: preventive maintenance. Anticipate problems before they occur, and you can keep almost all of them from ever happening. Wait for something to go wrong, and it will, under the worst possible circumstances. Murphy's law is a fact of life.

On the bitterly cold morning of Saturday, Jan. 19, I was driving from Ann Arbor to Chelsea when my car stopped dead at the intersection of Jackson and Zeeb Rds. Turning the ignition key didn't produce so much as a grunt.

I popped the hood, looked underneath and spotted the trouble. The alternator belt was broken. There was no way I could fix it myself.

Fortunately, a Huron Valley Ambulance Co. vehicle and crew came along during the two minutes that I was pondering how to get the car out of the road, where it was a traffic hazard and in danger of being hit.

They pushed the car into a safe place and took me to a nearby service station where I found a tow truck and a mechanic who knew his stuff. He had the right replacement belt in stock and the wrenches required to install it.

The incident caused me to be 2½ hours late for work and cost me about 10 times the price of the alternator belt, which should have been replaced before it broke. It was my own stupid fault.

I had taken the car in for a pre-winter inspection. Having recently moved, I didn't know a mechanic personally and so entrusted the job to a stranger who was either incompetent or neglectful, or both. Had he looked at that belt, which was badly cracked, he would have noted that it needed to be replaced and would have told me so.

My mistake was not making a personal under-the-hood inspection. I could have found the oncoming problem had I taken the time and trouble. Belts and hoses about to go bad are easily spotted, even if you don't know a whole lot about cars and how they work.

So are corroded battery cable connections, low water levels in battery cells (except those that are sealed and self-contained), dirty air filters, low oil levels, inadequate anti-freeze protection, and batteries about to fail.

You can't check anti-freeze and battery levels unless you possess some special instruments, which most of us don't, but you can watch while the tests are being made, read the gauges, and draw your own conclusions about replacement requirements.

Take a good look at your tires. It's best to do this when the vehicle is up on a hoist, so you can turn the wheels and inspect them all the way around. If treads are badly worn or if the sidewalls show cracking, consider new tires, perhaps the all-weather type which give you almost all the advantages of snow tires without the annoying noise and rough ride of snow tires on dry pavement.

If something isn't working quite right—especially the ignition system or the automatic choke—October is the time to get it fixed. Any operating problem will be multiplied many-fold in severe cold weather, when your engine, drive train and ignition system need all the help they can get. A tune-up might be in order. It's expensive, but it can save you a lot of grief, and some higher costs later on.

By all means, have any "funny noises" checked out and traced to their source. Cars aren't supposed to make funny noises, and there are some things you can't predict, such as failure of an alternator, fuel pump, water pump, ignition coil, or starter.

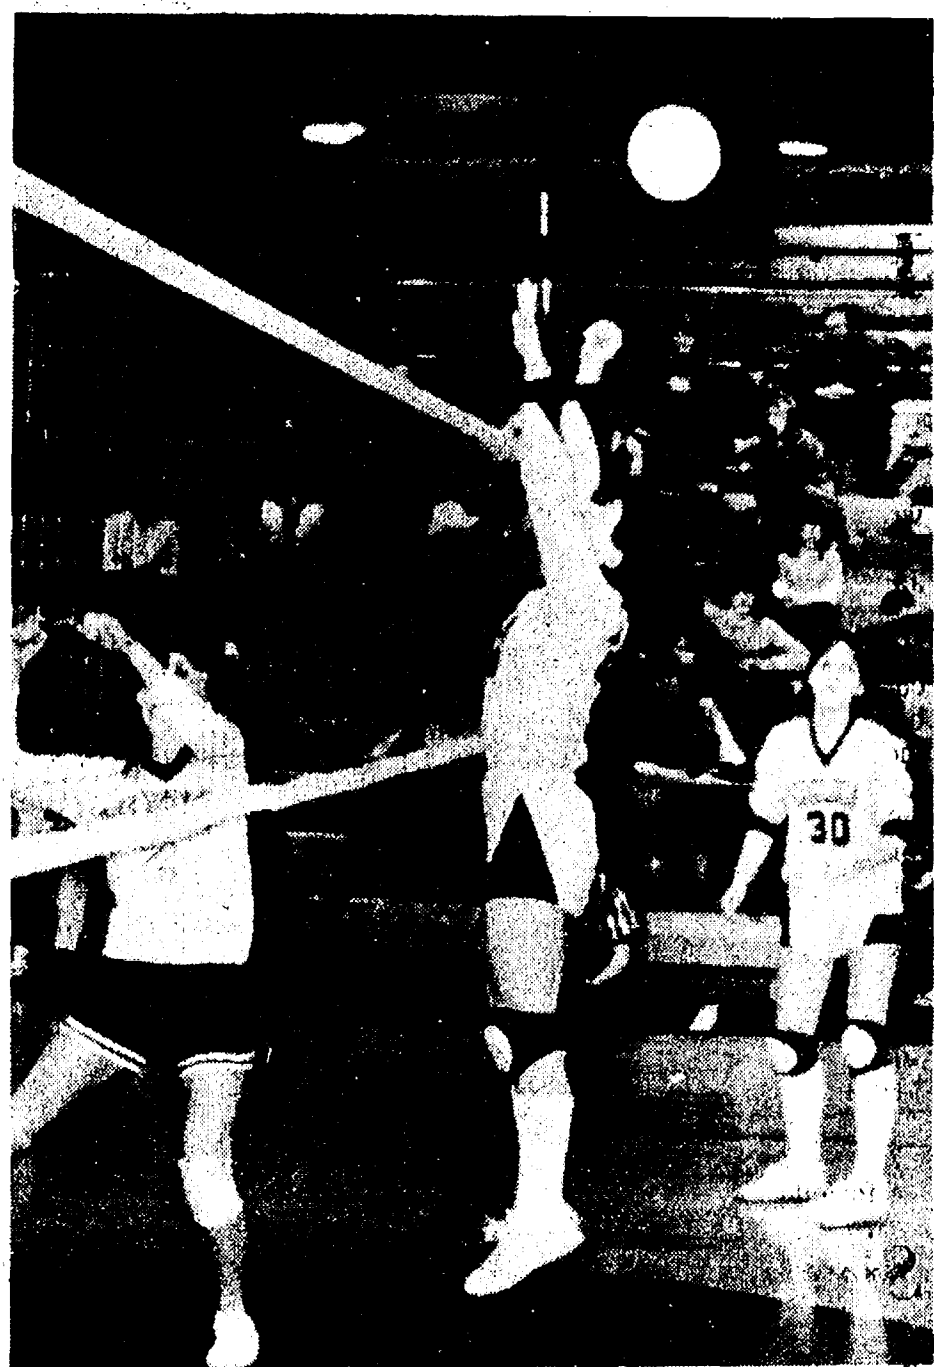

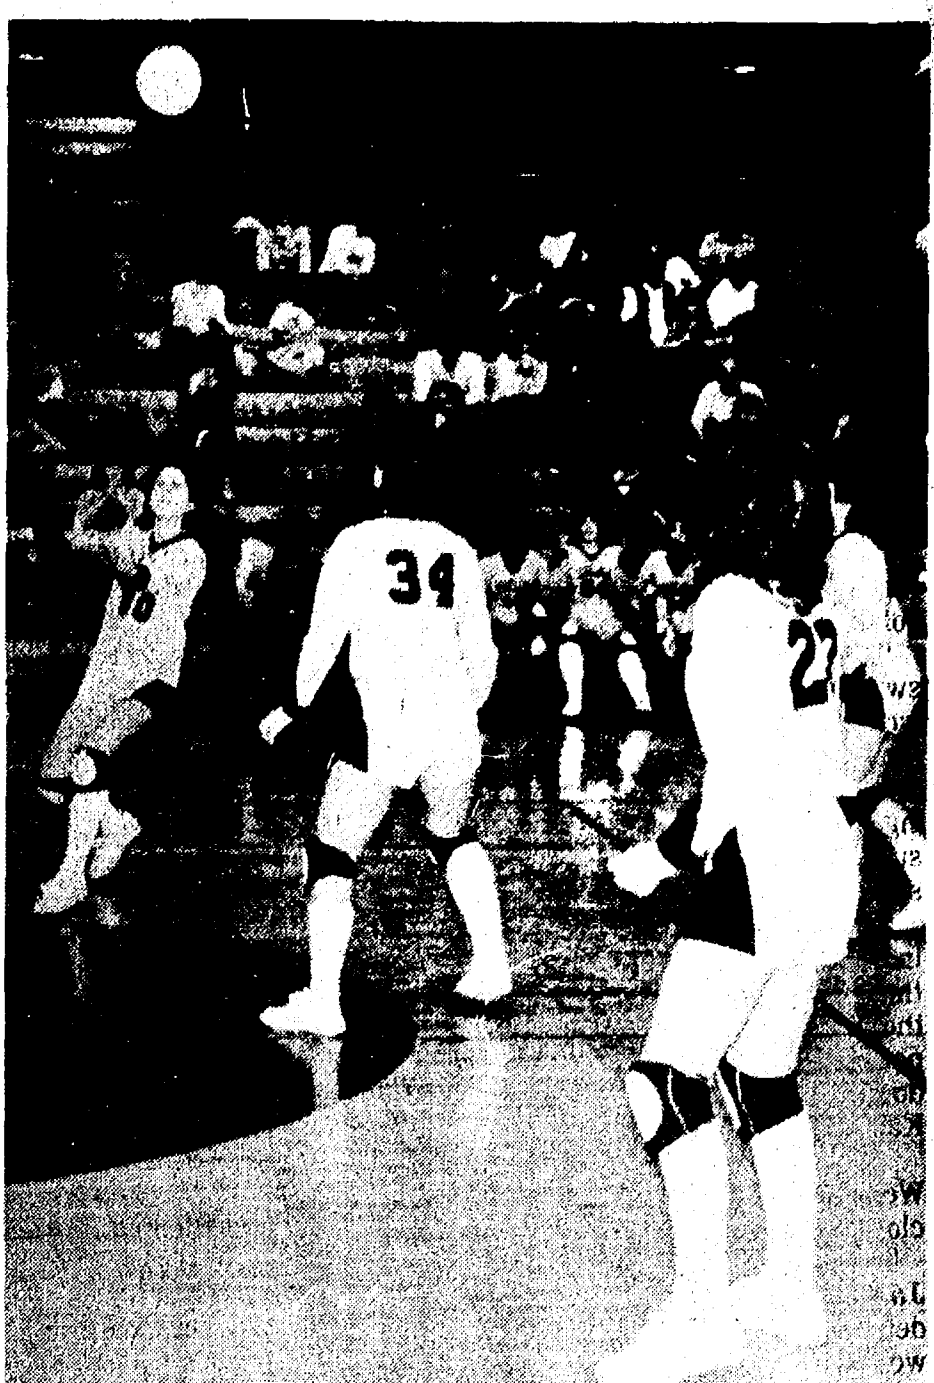

Those and other components either work or don't work, and there is no way to find out in advance if they are about to go bad. They quit, just like that. In my experience they can last for the life of the car or they can conk out within a year of purchase.

You can, at least sometimes, get away with operating a malfunctioning motor vehicle during warm weather. When it gets cold, really cold, the chickens come home to roost. Neglect of preventive maintenance will, at best, leave you unable to start and, at worst, strand you in a place where you would much rather not be, and might put you in real danger.

Todd Sprague 4th In Michigan Relays Shot Put Event

Todd Sprague, son of James and Marian Sprague, threw the 16-pound shot 53' 6" for fourth place in the Michigan Relays held at the U. of M. Track and Tennis Building Saturday, Jan. 19. The throw tied the all-time fourth best throw on record for Western Michigan University where Todd is on the track team.

Todd who was red-shirted last year because of transferring from Ferris State, has three years of eligibility left at WMU.

CHELSEA'S VOLLEYBALL team had a bad time in a match against Dexter, losing in straight sets, 15-1, 15-2. Players identifiable are Missy Connell (30), Jennifer Swaringen (34) and Kim Harden (22).

Volleyball Team Has Disappointing Streak

Chelsea High school's varsity volleyball team has been full of surprises this year. At the season tournament opener the team showed strength and promise topped by some incredible back row action which hadn't showed up in practice. A win against Lincoln displayed good serving skills, team cohesiveness and a few budding hitters, a pleasant surprise to coach, Cathy Vleck, who up until that time reported hitting as the team's weakest skill area.

Following losses to Western and Stockbridge, Chelsea faced Saline, Monday, Jan. 21. Some new, disappointing surprises began to show up. Saline is rated first in the state and Vleck feels the Chelsea team "played the reputation instead of the team." In spite of a poor performance she felt sure that the attitude problem would correct itself when Chelsea faced Dexter, a more evenly matched opponent.

Another surprise lay in store however. Of the game against Dexter Thursday, Jan. 24, Vleck said, "I was disappointed in the match against Saline, but at least the team played against them, but the team stood on the court while Dexter played."

Officiating was fair and there was good spectator turnout, but Chelsea played a game well below ability. "It's a head problem and I don't know where it's coming from," Vleck explained.

Extra practices are hoped to identify and correct the problem. The next match will be held Monday, Jan. 28 against Milan in Tecumseh with the JV team starting at 7:00 p.m.

Seventh Grade Basketball Team Loses to Lincoln

Chelsea's seventh grade basketball team ended its season with a loss to Lincoln, 30-20, but still wound up with a winning 5-4 record.

Chad Starkey was pretty much the entire offensive show for the Bulldogs as he scored 17 of his team's 20 points.

"We were in the game during the first half," coach Ron Lazzo said, "but we gradually dropped behind."

"I have really appreciated the opportunity to coach this excellent group of boys. They are fine kids, and they have done well."

"Unless I badly miss my guess, Chad Starkey is going to develop into a fine basketball player, and there are several other boys on the team who have good potential."

Frosh Cagers Win One, Lose One During Week

Chelsea's freshman basketball team divided a pair of games last week, losing to Saline, 46-37, and coming back to beat Jackson County Western, 40-32.

Coach Dave Quilter called the Saline contest "a funny game that we could have won if we had made a consistent effort. We were never really out of contention, but we were never close, either. It was not a good game for us."

Saline badly out-rebounded the Bulldogs, and that turned out to be the big difference, Quilter said. Matt Monroe, coming off the bench, led Chelsea with nine points. Clay Hurd had nine.

Against Western the Bulldogs played a poor first half and dropped behind, 22-16, then rallied from behind to win going away.

"We tried to play a full-court press defense the whole game and finally got it working late in third quarter," Quilter commented. "Western scored just 10 points in the half and didn't get a field goal in the fourth period."

"The good part is that we didn't give up, and came back. The bad part is that we once again didn't play a hard, consistent four quarters of basketball. Until the boys learn that they must do that in order to win, they are going to have trouble. We were a little bit lucky against Western. They

Bulldog Wrestlers Win One, Lose Two Dual Meets

We're about two matches away from being a real good team," Chelsea wrestling coach Kerry Kargel said after the Bulldogs lost two out of three dual meets last week. "We're not solid."

"We're close enough that a swing of 12 points in our favor would put us over the top. (A winning wrestler earns 3-6 points toward his team's score, depending on the type of victory—pin, superior decision, major decision, decision)."

"We have young boys wrestling in several weight classes, and they will eventually be good, but they don't yet have the experience to handle kids who have done a lot more wrestling," Kargel explained.

"We're not being blown out. We're competitive, but not quite close enough."

The Bulldog grapplers lost to Jackson Northwest, 40-21, defeated South Lyon, 40-27, and went down against Dexter, 40-20.

"Turn around the results of a couple of matches in each of those losing meets, and we would have won them both," Kargel pointed out.

Cross-Country Skiing Is Fast Growing Sport

Southeast Michigan is a leading area for America's fastest growing sport—cross-country skiing, according to Sid Baker, president of the Travel and Tourist Association of Southeast Michigan.

"There are hundreds of available properties throughout our 11-county area," said Baker. "You don't have to travel hundreds of miles to enjoy an exhilarating ski trip through picturesque terrain. You can do it right here near home."

In Southeast Michigan there are 31 State Parks, State Recreation Areas and Huron-Clinton Metroparks, most of which have cross-country trails. County and local park systems also have trails available. Oakland county, for example, has facilities for the sport in five of its parks, including Independence Oaks Park near Clarkston with eight miles of scenic wooded trails.

There are also many private enterprise ski areas such as Burroughs Farms near Brighton or Heaven's, near Proud Lake. Heaven's, for example, rents skis and equipment for use in the state recreation area.

Al Heavner, proprietor of Heaven's, says, "Many people bring a back pack and spend a day in the area, enjoying the beauty of skiing along the Huron River and visiting a local waterfall. It lets you escape from the pressures of life and it gives you the exercise we all need."

Most cross-country ski areas have courses designed for the beginner as well as the advanced skier. Many areas offer instruction.

Practitioners of the sport tell you it is easy to learn, relatively inexpensive and very healthy. It's also a good family recreation.

Although it's possible to ski on less, experts recommend at least four or five inches of snow on the ground for good skiing. At the organized ski areas, trails are conditioned and maintained with tracks created for the skier. Skiing without the benefit of tracks is more difficult and tiring. However, being the first to break in a trail can bring great satisfaction and a feeling of adventure.

According to Baker, there are excellent courses throughout the Southeast Michigan area which reaches from Jackson county east to Sanilac county and south to the Ohio border. For information on the many locations in the region, call the Travel and Tourist Association at (313) 585-8220. Baker also suggests calls to local parks, local parks departments, local governments and chambers of commerce. "If you're interested in a certain area," says Baker, "By all means, give the local government a call. They'll be happy to fill you in on the good spots plus places to have meals and places to stay if you plan an overnight trip."

There is local and state literature available free of charge at the Association's office at 64 Park St. in Troy 48099.

Bulldogs Fourth In Invitational Mat Tourney

Chelsea placed fourth in last Saturday's Athens Invitational wrestling meet, behind Battle Creek Lakeview, Jackson Northwest and Lawton.

Bulldog coach Kerry Kargel said he was pleased with his team's performance. "We did very well considering that we didn't take a full team to the meet," Kargel commented. "We had no entrants in a couple of weight classes."

Chelsea placed five wrestlers in final matches.

Pete Hanna at 119 and Dave Shoemaker at 198 won firsts. Hanna had four straight falls in the meet, and Shoemaker pinned three of four opponents. His foe in the final match had a 20-0 record going in.

Bob Torres (112), Ron Bogdanski (126) and Steve Wingrove (167) each earned seconds, losing close matches in the finals.

Mark Edick was sixth at 145.

"It was a good performance," Kargel said. "The boys showed a lot of heart. We're getting better. We have two more dual meets before we get into the conference and state meets. I think we are peaking and will do pretty well."

Patrick Killelea Studying in Austria

Patrick Killelea is spending the year in Austria through the Notre Dame foreign study program.

Over 30 sophomore students from Notre Dame University are spending the year studying at the University of Innsbruck, Notre Dame program.

The students left in the middle of August 1984 and are expected to return in June of this year. A good deal of free time makes it possible to travel throughout Europe while there.

When traveling through Germany Patrick was able to arrange a visit with Christiane Sommer, a former exchange student at Chelsea High School.

Moose Transplant Program Gets Underway in Upper Peninsula

Moose may once again roam in the Upper Peninsula in large numbers thanks to a two-year program between the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) and the Ontario Ministry of Natural Resources. In exchange for 150 wild turkeys, Canada is providing 30 moose for introduction into Michigan.

"Moose have lived in this state since post-glacial times," says DNR director Ronald O. Skoog. "Today, unfortunately, the moose population in the U.P. numbers only a widely scattered 20 to 40. This project will, we hope, turn that decline around."

The primary moose capture site is a 200-square-mile area of Algonquin Provincial Park in Ontario. The primary release site will be in a wooded area in Marquette county five miles north of Lake Michigan.

DNR wildlife specialists plan to capture 15 adult moose (four bulls, 11 cows) from Algonquin Park. A full-grown bull moose will weigh approximately half a ton or more. A cow will weigh 700-800 pounds. The moose are being captured using tranquilizing darts shot from a helicopter. They are then placed in a specially designed sling and carried back to the base station at the park headquarters by another, more powerful helicopter.

At the base station, vital information from each moose is recorded and a radio collar and ear tag attached. DNR and Canadian officials test each moose for serious diseases and treat them with antibiotics and anti-parasite drugs prior to departure to Michigan. The moose are hoisted into a specially constructed crate of plywood and angle iron, and transported on a flatbed truck. Trucks carrying two or more moose depart from the park late each afternoon, drive throughout the night some 600 miles, and arrive at the release site early the next morning. After being checked over by a U.S. veterinarian, the moose are released.

The moose are being released in the Michigan area of the U.P. because it provides good moose habitat, has a low deer population (to minimize the disease, brainworm, transmitted by deer and fatal to moose), and it is a relatively remote area, minimizing disturbance by people.

Ralph Bailey, retired DNR regional wildlife supervisor, nurtured the idea of reintroducing moose into the U.P. in the early 1970's. Thanks to his initial effort, working with Canadian wildlife biologists and moose experts across the North American continent, his idea has taken root.

The new regional wildlife supervisor, Bob Strong, is enthusiastic about the future of the project, commenting on such benefits as reviving a part of Michigan's heritage and enhancing tourism in the area.

The project began last winter when Ontario received 47 of Michigan's wild turkeys; the remaining 103 birds will be supplied over the next two years.

Sixth Grade Basketball Play Concludes After Six Weeks

The sixth grade after-school basketball program ended last week after six weeks of Tuesday and Thursday instruction and games.

Offensive skills were generally more intensely pursued than good defense. Hopefully they'll realize it's important to concentrate hard on both, teacher Ann Schaffner said.

The league was won by a team captained by Kerry Plank, with Jude Quilter, Mike Spears, Brett Salamin, Chris Bacon, and Joey Wolf.

Taking second place were Alex Hammerschmidt (captain), Tom White, Mark Folcik, Stanley Yates, Greg Garen, Mike Loftis and Vince Dunn.

In third place were Nick Houle (captain), Chris Haugen, Jeremy Mackinder, Justin White, Jason Jarvis, Adam Hodge, and Jeremy Stephens.

In fourth place were Tom Steele (captain), Garrett Kern, Brian Bell, Dan Tassinari, Matt Steinaway, and Nathan Correll.

Leading scorers for the season were Kerry Plank, Mike Loftis, Jude Quilter, Jeremy Stephens, Tom Steele, Vince Dunn, Alex Hammerschmidt, and Jason Jarvis.

The intramural director was Ann Schaffner, assisted by Cindy Bradbury and Jon Schaffner.

Card of Thanks 17

CARD OF THANKS

I want to give my heart-felt thanks to all my relatives and friends for their thoughtful kindness of masses, flowers and cards given to me while at St. Joseph and Chelsea Community Hospital. A special thanks to Father Dupuis and all the nurses, physical therapists and doctors. God bless each and every one. Alice McGinn.

THANK YOU

On Jan. 21st my young son lost his wallet on a street in Chelsea. He had a large sum of money in the wallet but no identification. A kind, caring and honest person found the wallet and turned it into the police department, money intact. That person is Carol Benedict and we thank you. S. S. and son.

New Vaccine Now Available for Feline Leukemia

1985 is starting off well for cat owners. Last week Norden Laboratories announced the licensing and marketing of a new feline vaccine for Feline Virus (FeLV).

"Leukocell" took over 10 years of research and testing before passing all the requirements for use. The company is mounting a major production effort to meet the anticipated demand.

Veterinarians in Washtenaw county are beginning to receive their first shipments and hope to start inoculation of cats soon. The vaccine is chemically inactivated for safety, and is expected to aid in the control of neoplastic, degenerative and other FeLV-associated diseases.

Feline Leukemia Virus is a virus which causes a wide variety of clinical diseases in cats, including certain types of tumors, one form of leukemia, and other diseases of the blood and lymph and bone marrow. It is contagious among cats but so far has not been shown to be transmissible to humans.

Some cats may be non-clinical carriers of the virus, passing it in their saliva, urine and nasal secretions, although not clinically ill themselves.

The vaccine will not cure an already infected or carrier cat, but will enable a healthy cat to build up an immunity to the virus.

Because of the presence of un-suspected carriers in the cat population, it is strongly suggested that cats be tested for the presence of the virus through a simple blood test before vaccination. If the test is negative, the cat will receive a series of three vaccinations—the first two, two to four weeks apart, and the third about three months later. After the initial series, the cat will receive a single yearly booster.

Clients with questions may contact their individual veterinarians, or a member of the Washtenaw Academy of Veterinary Medicine will be available on WPAG Radio to answer phoned-in questions from listeners from 11:15 to 11:45 a.m. on Thursday, Feb. 7.

In 1738 Elizabeth Timothy's husband was the publisher of the "South Carolina Gazette"—one of the first regularly published newspapers in the colonies. When he died in 1738, Elizabeth took over, and became the first American woman to publish a newspaper.

MR. HOEFT'S SEVENTH GRADE block students celebrated their Greek mythology unit by dressing as the gods and goddesses they studied. Students revealed facts about themselves and had classmates guess their Greek identity. Aphrodite, goddess of love and beauty, was a favorite among the girls. Hercules, hero of 12 labors; Apollo, god of the sun; and Aries, god of war were popular

Tree Seedling Sale Set By Soil Conservation District

Washtenaw County Soil Conservation District has announced its annual tree and shrub seedling sale for 1985. Orders for planting stock will be accepted until April 8, on a first-come, first-served basis. Seedlings will tentatively be distributed on Saturday, April 20, at the Washtenaw County Road Commission garage.

Planting stock available this spring includes: Austrian Pine, Red Pine, White Pine, Norway Spruce, White Spruce, Colorado Blue Spruce, Douglas Fir, Black Walnut, Tulip Poplar, Red Oak, White Oak, and White Ash.

Wildlife Packets, an assortment of 50 evergreen and hard-wood trees and shrubs for wildlife habitat plantings will also be offered.

Tree planting bars, a sturdy tool for the convenient and fast planting of tree and shrub seedlings by hand will also be available as a special item this year. Prices are reasonable for all the tree and shrub seedlings which are two years old and range in size from three to eight inches.

Purpose of the district's tree program is to assist landowners in obtaining planting stock at low cost for reforestation, windbreaks, erosion control and wildlife habitat improvement. Order forms containing information on the available species, site preferences, uses and prices may be obtained from the Soil Conservation District Office.

For more information on the tree program or to obtain an order form for tree and shrub seedlings, contact the Washtenaw County Soil Conservation District at 6101 Jackson Rd., Ann Arbor 48103-9598. Telephone: (313) 761-6721.

LONELINESS

By Fred Coulter, evangelist

Have you ever felt that no one cared about your personal welfare or happiness? It is hard to imagine a more intense, a more crippling loneliness than that produced in a person's life when there is no one to demonstrate love, concern and interest. Even those who have experienced loving relatives and genuine friends, know of a certain kind of loneliness. The person today who doesn't know God and has no personal, continuing relationship with Christ, will eventually experience a desperate loneliness.

The answer to loneliness is found in seeking God. David said, "As the hart panteth after the water brooks, so panteth my soul after Thee, O God. My soul thirsteth for God, for the living God" [Psalm 42:1, 2]. We must recognize that our rebellion against God is the root cause of our alienation and loneliness. God cares so much that He sent His only begotten Son to die on the cross for us. Peter says, "Casting all your care upon him; for He careth for you" [1 Peter 5:7]. God cares about your spiritual welfare. Do you care about your relationship with God?

School Board Notes

Stasa who requested and was granted a transfer to the learning disabilities classroom position vacated by Patrice Tchiblakian.

The board approved the renewal of the lease agreement with Dr. Mary Westhoff for office space at Beach school. The lease will run from Jan. 1, 1985, to Dec. 31, 1987.

The board approved the recommendation of the appointment of Geneva Bolton to the Village Recreation Council. Geneva has been active in the senior citizens programs.

The board acknowledged the appointment of Ann Feeney to serve on the Washtenaw County Special Election Scheduling Committee.

Assistant superintendent Mills reviewed the recent audit report.

Fred Mills updated the board on the WISD data processing. Recently three school districts (Ypsilanti, Lincoln Consolidated and Willow Run) left the data processing consortium to form their own consortium. Mills indicated that there probably will be a higher cost factor for the remaining seven county school districts, but he felt that Chelsea's needs are being served adequately and reasonably.

Principal Benedict reviewed with the board the reading text book selection process. He indicated that the committee had secured, for review, basal reading textbooks from all publishers. Teachers from North, South and Beach schools are on the committee. By the end of January they will be down to two textbooks; then, representatives from those two companies will make presentations to the elementary and Beach staff and a final selection will subsequently be made.

Superintendent Van Meer reported on the progress of the board goals.

Superintendent Van Meer informed the board that WJR was late in reporting the school cancellation on Monday, Jan. 21. School district officials called the LEIN (Law Enforcement Information Network), which notifies all radio stations, at 5:47 a.m. Somehow WJR did not carry the Chelsea closing until 7:30 a.m. Normally all radio stations have that information prior to 6:30 a.m.

Trustee Dills and Special Education director DeYoung were present to review and receive board input for the board survey going to the community.

Superintendent Van Meer indicated that the Chelsea schools and the Village of Chelsea are involved in an application for funding for telecommunications which would link the Chelsea, Dexter, Dundee, Clinton, Manchester, Milan and Saline schools. An application will be submitted for consideration for funding.

★ Tax Relief Is Just a 'Circuit Breaker' Away

It's that time of the year again when we all begin thinking of taxes. Sometime between now and April 15, most of the residents of the Chelsea School District will face the task of preparing their income tax statements for the IRS and the State of Michigan. While everyone has his/her own way of taking care of this yearly chore, a special portion of the State Income Tax Bill makes it a less expensive task.

As a result of the Homestead Tax Credit, commonly called the "circuit breaker," a citizen may qualify for a rebate of 60 percent on all property taxes which exceed 3.5 percent of a person's annual household income. In essence, the circuit breaker relates property taxes to one's ability to pay.

The following points about the circuit breaker should be noted:

—Everyone who pays property tax or rent is eligible.

—There are four separate forms for filing. Most residents will use MI-1040CR-4, while senior citizens use MI-1040-CR-1. Other forms are available for eligible veterans and the handicapped.

—After completing the proper form, taxpayers record the information on their regular state income tax form.

—$1,200 is the maximum rebate allowable.

To assist you in determining whether or not you qualify for a rebate on your property tax, we have provided the worksheet below. For senior citizens, defined as anyone 65 years old or older, the property tax relief provided by the circuit breaker provisions is much greater than the allowance granted to other taxpayers. In fact, no senior citizen must pay more than 3.5 percent of his/her income in property taxes, and some even less. There is a 100% rebate of all over 3.5%.

For example: Mr. and Mrs. Jones' household income amounted to $10,000 in 1980. They were billed $1,200 for property taxes. The credit is computed by multiplying their household income ($10,000) by 3.5% and then taking the difference between 3.5% of income and the amount of taxes paid. So, 3.5% X $10,000 (income) = $350; $1,200 (taxes) subtract $350 = $850 (direct cash rebate).

Any citizen who is a renter should substitute 17% of yearly rent for property taxes in the above computations. However, in all cases, the credit/refund cannot exceed $1,200. Any senior citizen making less than $6,000 per year gets an even greater rebate based on the following schedule:

Household Income	Percentage of Income Not Refundable
Not over $3,000	0%
$3,000 - $4,000	1.0%
$4,000 - $5,000	2.0%
$5,000 - $6,000	3.0%
Over $6,000	3.5%

The property tax rebate is phased out for those with a gross household income exceeding $65,000. With an income of $65,000.01, the rebate is reduced by 10% and is reduced an additional 10% for each $1,000 over $65,000 until it is completely eliminated at $75,000 gross household income.

The circuit breaker is true property tax relief. It brings money back to individual households and communities and greatly aids senior citizens and the handicapped. Many don't know about it and therefore don't take advantage of it.

	Example	Worksheet
1. Place total household income on this line.....	$26,000.00	$
2. Multiply by 3.5%.....	.035	.035
3. This is now 3.5% of your income.....	910.00
4. Place total property tax bill here.....	1,340.00
5. Enter 3.5% of income (line 3) and subtract.....	910.00
6. This is the amount that qualifies for a 60% rebate.....	430.00
7. Multiply line 6 by 60% (senior citizens 100%).....	.60	.60
8. This is the cash rebate you qualify for on your Michigan Income Tax Form.....	258.00	$

SHADES OF SUMMER: The temperature was about 10 below zero and the wind-chill much lower as these two employees of Gleason and Raus Co. of Pinckney installed air conditioning equipment on the roof of the addition to Kresge House at Chelsea Community Hospital. Judge Refuses Plea Bargain, Trial Is Set

A plea bargaining agreement in the case of a Pinckney man charged with complicity in the Aug. 1 murder of Arthur Dining has broken down, and the suspect will stand trial instead.

Dining, 57, of Lansing, was found brutally beaten to death beside Cedar Lake Rd. on Aug. 6, five days after his burning car was discovered on Bowditch Rd. south of Gregory.

An investigation turned up the facts that Dining had gone to a tavern in Gregory the evening of Aug. 1 and later left with several young men.

Livingston county sheriff's deputies arrested Steven C. Nelson, 20, of Pinckney and Bertram C. Coverdill, 22, of Stockbridge and charged them with open murder. Both pleaded guilty to charges of second-degree murder.

In an earlier court appearance Nelson testified that he and Coverdill had gone with Dining to a beer party, then beat him and stuffed him into the trunk of his own car before dumping his body and later burning the car. The incident began with a supposed homosexual overture, Nelson told Livingston circuit court judge Stanley Latrelle in December.

Nelson appeared for sentencing by Judge Latrelle on Jan. 24. The judge rejected a plea-bargain calling for Nelson to serve 10-15 years. The Livingston county probation department had recommended 20-25 years, and Judge Latrelle said he favored a harsher sentence.

The guilty plea was ordered withdrawn, and Latrelle set trial for Feb. 13.

Coverdill was scheduled to be sentenced this week by Circuit Judge Bert Hensick.

Nelson's attorney, Samuel Shank, had offered the defense that Nelson was "traumatized" by a homosexual rape while serving in the U. S. Navy and so reacted strongly to what he perceived to be a proposition.

Judge Latrelle stated there was nothing in the record to suggest that Dining was homosexual. "The facts show this to have been a brutal crime, and a defense has been raised aimed at escaping the consequences of it," he said in setting aside the guilty plea and scheduling a trial. Nelson is being held without bond in the Livingston county jail.

Special Olympics Winter Games Will Begin Feb. 5

Six-hundred mentally impaired athletes, with their nearly 300 coaches and volunteers will meet at Sugar Loaf Mountain, near Traverse City, for the state's annual Michigan Special Olympics Winter Games Feb. 5-8.

This is the fifth year that Sugar Loaf has hosted the Winter Olympics, part of an international program of physical fitness, sports training, and athletic competition for mentally impaired children and adults.

The athletes, under the close supervision of their coaches and trainers, will participate in alpine skiing, cross country skiing, ice skating, snowshoeing, and wheelchair events. There also are many social activities planned for the Olympians.

The Olympic games—both winter and summer—have served as a focus of demonstrated concern for the mentally impaired.

"Our program is only 15 years old," said Lois Arnold, games director. "In those 15 years the mentally retarded have come out into the mainstream of our lives. I think Special Olympics has done much for public education. We've tried to show that the mentally retarded are not people to be afraid of or people to be kept hidden. The mentally retarded are not to be pitied; they can learn, they can do. Their accomplishments are a cause for pride and joy."

The Olympic games give athletes plenty of opportunities for pride. All of them are coached, encouraged, surrounded by love. A hug or a pat on the back is guaranteed to each contestant.

The Olympians' coaches often are their special education classroom teachers. The games help forge a stronger bond, said Arnold.

"The teachers know the students in the classroom and see them and work with them day after day," she said. "But the special relationship they develop at the games is one-to-one and adds another dimension. It's wonderful to watch."

The games often give parents additional reasons for pride in their offspring.

"Sometimes they've never seen their children demonstrate these abilities. They have a chance to see their sons and daughters in a competitive environment; they can see them succeed," she said.

The Olympians will begin arriving at Sugar Loaf the evening of Feb. 5. The day of Feb. 6 will be spent in training and time trials.

Opening ceremonies for the games begin at 6:30 p.m. Feb. 6. The games begin in earnest the morning of Feb. 7. An 11 a.m. media open house will be followed by a media awards luncheon to recognize leaders in print and broadcast who have done much to publicize the event and the Special Olympics program. The games will close at 11:30 a.m. Feb. 8.

The games are open to the public and there is no charge.
